Election Predicting Risky

By JOSEPH & STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON — Predicting the outcome of this election is becoming even riskier than usual. For recently the whole course of the election changed, when the Republican high command suddenly and belatedly realized that the party was in desperately serious trouble. Since then, every Republican from the President on down has been engaged in a violent, almost convulsive effort to reverse the Democratic trend.

What makes the election so tricky is that there is some indication that this effort might succeed. Take for example, the case of New York state. Surveys polls there have shown W. Averell Harriman leading Republican Sen. Irving Ives in the crucial race for the governorship by a healthy 8 per cent margin. These polls, coming on top of the Maine and Alaska vote, were what really frightened the Republican high command and changed the nature of this election.

Shock to Ives

Understandably, the polls were a particularly nasty shock to Ives and his chief backer, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The New York state election had previously been a rather pallid affair. Now Ives and Dewey have made a series of bitter personal attacks on Harriman. These attacks are a part of a shrewd strategy carefully designed to overcome Harriman's lead. And even some Harriman men privately concede that the strategy might work.

The idea is simple enough. Registration in New York City, already complete, puts an absolute ceiling on the city vote. There is no such ceiling on the upstate vote. The polls suggest that Harriman should have a majority of 650,000 to 750,000 in the city. If the upstate vote is 3,000,000 or less, Ives, with a lead of about 18 per cent upstate, should have a major.

Stevenson Chides Ike on Red Issue

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson chided President Eisenhower last night for the use of the Communists-in-government issue by Vice President Nixon and other Republicans in the current campaign.

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate remarked that "a singular thing happened" at Eisenhower's press conference Wednesday in Washington, when the President said he did not know about Republicans' use of the "communism" issue.

"Surely this must be the first time in history that the President, the leader of his political party, doesn't even know, let alone influence, his party's campaign," Stevenson said. "Surely this must be the first time in history that the President and the vice president of the United States aren't on speaking terms."

Speaking before a crowd at the Trenton War Memorial Building, Stevenson said Eisenhower predicted last year that the campaign issue would be the record of the administration rather than Communists in government.

"But what happened?" Stevenson asked.

"In New York, Messrs. (Thomas E.) Dewey and (Irving M.) Ives charged Averell Harriman with larceny and corruption; in Illinois the Republicans are charging a great senator, Paul Douglas, who almost died fighting for his country at Okinawa, with Communist affiliations; in Wyoming and Colorado the Republicans publish ads suggesting that the Democratic candidates are Reds and are serving foreign governments."

Stevenson said the pattern was the same throughout the country. And he said the "President's favorite campaigner, the heir apparent, the chief of staff—the vice president of the United States, Mr. Nixon—is the leader of it all."

Stevenson's speech here, telecast in the metropolitan area, followed a day of campaigning in behalf of the Democratic nominee for U.S. senator from New Jersey, Rep. Charles R. Howell.

Asks Democratic Congress

Stevenson called for the election of a Democratic Congress next Tuesday as a means of checking the tendency of the last two years to separate the United States from our allies in world affairs, of restoring "the dignity of congressional investigation," and of strengthening "the atmosphere of individual freedom."

Traffic Deaths Down For 9th Straight Month

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic deaths in the United States, for the ninth straight month, showed a decrease in September, says the National Safety Council.

"Not since the early years of World War II when gasoline rationing went into effect, has there been an unbroken string of reductions for the first nine months of any year," the Council said yesterday in reporting 25,770 traffic deaths for the first nine months of 1954. This was a reduction of 6 per cent from the corresponding period of 1953.

Woman Planned Robbery, Two Suspects Claim

Minneapolis Detectives Push Inquiry

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Two men held here for the holdup of cafe manager Burdette Tucker, told Charles Wetherill, detective inspector, that the robbery and slugging was planned by Tucker's estranged wife and a young lover of the woman.

Wetherill said today Mrs. Annette Tucker, 30, refused to tell anything about her activities. She and five other persons were arrested in a police raid in St. Paul Thursday.

Wetherill planned to question the woman further today and to confront her with the story told by Bruce Towers, 32, Oakland, Calif., and James Birch, 28, a St. Paul transient. The two men have been held on an open charge since their recent arrest in connection with the slugging and robbery of Tucker, manager of Len's Broler here. Three men on Oct. 5 kidnapped Tucker and took $2,200 from him.

Wetherill said Towers and Birch told him Mrs. Tucker gave them the information to plan the holdup. Officers believed the third man in the robbery was Robert E. Sanford, 25, Minneapolis, who was in the same room as Mrs. Tucker when officers raided two St. Paul rooming houses.

The Tuckers had separated earlier this year and Tucker said he had started a divorce action. Police said Mrs. Tucker was "very mad" at her husband.

Detectives said the woman met Sanford after the separation and planned the holdup with him.

Arrests of the six persons in the St. Paul rooming house, three others in Minneapolis, and two more in St. Paul were made by police departments and sheriff's officers in Minneapolis and St. Paul late Wednesday and Thursday.

Detective Carl Pearson said the gang probably had committed 100 safe burglaries or other crimes in the past two years, most of them in the Twin Cities.

Wetherill said the gang was the toughest the Twin Cities has had in recent years.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Heiress Barbara Hutton arrived here yesterday and said she would spend a month of "absolute rest" on a plantation near Cuernavaca.

Nixon Predicts GOP Win in Coming Election

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Republican campaign rally last night: "I'm ready to make a prediction. We're going to win this election."

He said Democrats in "ever increasing numbers" are deciding to vote for a Republican-controlled Congress because they realize a Democratic Congress would stop the Eisenhower program "dead in its tracks."

"Just a few days ago you read in the papers of a hydrogen bomb being exploded in Russia and the dust fell out even here over the United States."

Referring to the Russian detonations, Nixon said also: "It happened sooner than it should have happened because some Americans were disloyal."

Discussing loyalty, Nixon said: "The greatest threat to peace in the world is the international Communist conspiracy. Look at the damage they did to America before this administration. Look at Alger Hiss."

3rd Hearing for Boy Who Pointed Gun at Teacher

WEST MONROE, La. (AP)—A third hearing was scheduled today for 10-year-old Joe Cooper who leveled a loaded shotgun at the principal and trustee officer of a rural school to save his dog from a gas chamber.

Judge Howell Heard, who raised nationwide protests by quickly committing the son of an impoverished widow to a reform school, said the hearing would be closed to the press and public in accordance with state law.

The judge declined to discuss reasons for the surprise hearing and did not indicate if it would mean a final disposal of the case.

But for Joe Cooper and his mother, Tippi, the court session meant another brief reunion after two weeks of separation. The sixth-grader was whisked off to the Louisiana Training Institute in nearby Monroe less than five hours after the incident at the Ransom School Oct. 6. Tippi has been spending his days in a pet hospital. Joe has gained three pounds at the Institute, an unwarmed reformatory. Tippi, also in modified captivity has been vaccinated, curried and combed through the generosity of West Monroe businessmen.

Tomah Woman Dies Of Bulbar Polio

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A Tomah woman died of bulbar polio just before her baby was to arrive. Doctors at La Crosse Hospital took the baby after the death Wednesday of the mother, Mrs. Don Burnsted, 24, but the boy lived only a few minutes. Mrs. Burnsted was admitted to the hospital earlier this week.

Ike Urges Supreme Effort by GOP

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower — sounding a "let's roll up our sleeves and go harder to work" theme — flies today to the aid of embattled Republican candidates in Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Delaware.

The President called on supporters last night to ring doorbells all over the nation in an 11th hour drive to get voters to the polls next Tuesday and elect another Republican-led Congress to "keep our government from political fiddling while the world burns."

Eisenhower spoke to a coast-to-coast television and radio audience and an approval-shouting 500 diners at a Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee rally in Washington.

If the Democrats recapture the legislative branch, Eisenhower said, the government—with the White House Republican for the next two years—will wind up "in a hopeless jam."

"Let's all of us—yes, and I—let's roll up our sleeves and go harder to work—for a stronger America, good government and the world at peace. Let's have another Republican-led Congress."

In his address last night the President called on the Eisenhower Citizens Committee to work up "the same enthusiasm and fervor with which we burned two years ago." He said that means "talking to your neighbors, using the telephone, ringing doorbells" to get out the vote.

The Chief Executive's address was perhaps his hardest hitting of the campaign in dealing with what he called the dangers of a politically divided government.

He said he was neither exaggerating nor accusing on this score, but that—and he listed both Republican and Democratic cases by way of illustration—"it is simply the way politics has often been played in Washington."

Half Inch of Snow at International Falls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesotans, especially those in the northern part of the state, got a good hint today of things to come in the form of snow and cold north winds.

Much of northern Minnesota had at least a trace of snow overnight, and International Falls measured a half inch on the ground this morning.

Temperatures around noon ranged from the high 20s in northern Minnesota to the low 30s in the southern part of the state.

Gusty northerly winds blew chilly Canadian air over wide areas in the eastern half of the nation too. It also was on the cool side in most of the northwest.

The cold air streaming southward from Canada indicated only moderate rises in temperature today. Mild weather, however, appeared in prospect again for Florida, parts of Georgia and in the far Southwest.

Light rain fell during the night in a belt from the Great Lakes southward to the eastern Gulf of Mexico and over the southeastern states.

2,500 Welcome President at Cleveland Field

Ohio First Stop On Swing Into Four States

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH
EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP)—President Eisenhower, striving to drum up votes for Republicans, told an industrial Detroit audience today his administration is solving the unemployment problem without war because "we have a government with a heart."

Police Inspector Arthur J. Heidt estimated a crowd of 50,000 persons jammed Cadillac Square in front of City Hall to hear Eisenhower declare:

"I am quite sure we do not want to pay for false prosperity in the blood of our sons on the battlefield."

In Detroit, administration critics have been pointing to joblessness in the opposition campaign to elect Democrats to Congress and state office.

"How did unemployed get jobs in 1949 or 50?" the President asked his audience.

"They either went to war or worked in a war plant. We have prosperity without that now."

Eisenhower called for re-election of Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Ferguson is being challenged hard by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

The President then left Detroit for Louisville.

Addressing a police-estimated crowd of 2,500 persons at Cleveland Hopkins municipal airport, the President said prosperity under the Democrats was based on war.

He promised that his administration will do everything possible to find jobs for those out of work, but said the solution under his leadership never will be based on a war economy.

"Let me assure you this," the President said, "as long as a single American is out of work, this government will seek a better solution" to unemployment.

Won't Go to War
"We won't go to war to get it."

The President flew to Cleveland from Washington on the first leg of a four-state tour to get out the vote for next Tuesday's election.

He came into Ohio to help GOP Rep. George Bender in his contest for a U. S. Senate seat against the Democratic incumbent, Sen. Thomas A. Burke, who was appointed to succeed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, a Republican.

Also at stake in Ohio are 23 house seats.

Police Inspector Patrick J. Lynch estimated the airport crowd at 2,500 persons.

That was a smaller estimate than the number presidential aides and Ohio Republican leaders had hoped would turn out.

The temperature was a chilly 41 degrees and rain fell earlier in the day. The sun was out when Eisenhower arrived.

In urging all citizens to go to the polls Tuesday, the President sounded the same theme he did in a Washington address Thursday night, when he declared:

"Let's roll up our sleeves, and go harder to work" for election of another Republican-led Congress.

Praises GOP Candidates
In Cleveland, the President said the American people, under his administration, have got the kind of government they wanted.

"We were tired of hearing the word Communist," he declared. "And every time it was mentioned, it was called a red herring."

He told his Cleveland audience that Republicans in the state have nominated "a great group" of GOP candidates.

Food Processing, Distributing Costs To Remain High

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department predicted Thursday costs of processing and distributing foods next year will continue to exceed the costs of the food raw materials.

But efforts of the food industry to increase its efficiency should reduce some of the marketing costs, the agency said.

The department said that out of each dollar spent for food in 1955, the farmer is expected to get 43 cents and processing and distributing agencies 57 cents. This is the same way this year's food dollar is being divided.

During the war period, the farm share rose to 52 cents. It has declined steadily since 1947.

The department said available information indicates that total net profits of firms manufacturing food and tobacco products were larger in the first half of 1954 than in the same period of 1953, while firms making textile products and apparel had sharply lower profits.

Average hourly earnings of employees in food marketing firms were said to have been a per cent higher in August of this year than a year earlier.

"Firms engaged in marketing farm products have made large investments in plant and equipment in recent years," the department said. "These investments have been made to expand output in response to the growth in population to produce new and better products and to improve efficiency."

Among the innovations cited are the collection of milk in tank trucks, bulk handling of flour and sugar, and the use of lighter and cheaper containers in which to market fruits and vegetables.

Echoes of Market Crash Still Heard

By ED CREAGH
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just 25 years ago today the bottom fell out of the New York Stock Exchange. The echoes of that spectacular crash still rumble around the world.

For the market crash of Oct. 29, 1929, heralded the greatest depression this country has ever known. It engulfed the United States in a worldwide economic morass that proved a breeding place for the seeds of World War II.

Here at home, the depression swept Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal into office.

Perhaps as important as any other effect, the crash and the depression did something to the American spirit.

They didn't, as they seemed for a time to threaten to do, make this a nation of pessimists. But they did, perhaps permanently, dampen a notion that Americans were destiny's toys—that this country was somehow exempt from the woes that were always besetting foreigners.

And of course that time of shaken values and bruised faith had this added lingering effect, among others: It led some Americans to a belief, rudely shattered for most in the years to come, that the Russians had come up with a system which worked better.

All told, that Oct. 29 was a memorable day. Maybe it should be observed each year. Not a day of rest, as a holiday would be, but one of deep if not prayerful meditation, which is hard work indeed.

Actually, the trouble didn't start Oct. 29. The market broke sharply as early as March of that year. It bounced back swiftly, however, and its very recovery served to discredit the few skeptics who kept asking how long this crazy spree of paper prosperity could continue.

On Sept. 3, 1929, The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks soared to an all-time peak: $157.70 a share.

By the middle of that month the average began to drop, however. By October it was skidding several dollars each day. Oct. 24 still known as "Black Thursday"—saw the skid become a headlong tumble. A wild rush to sell wiped out five billion dollars' in stock values in a single day.

The bottom finally fell out five days later—25 years ago today. The nation was a long time recovering. The Democrats say they saved it. The Republicans say it never was really saved, except by war booms, until they got back in office. The Democrats say conditions aren't too good right now, if you want their opinion. The Republicans say things were never better in time of peace.

One thing most experts agree on—the nation isn't likely to have another major depression.

What's to stop another 1929-type boom and bust? A number of things: Tighter reins on speculation. Sounder values of stocks. Above all, perhaps, a long period of sobriety on the part of the American people—a realization that another gambling—on-the-market spree might end up in the same kind of post-1929 hangover.

So most experts say. But not all. J. Kenneth Galbraith, the Harvard economist, asks himself in the current Harper's magazine if 1929 can happen again—and answers: "Of course." Never underestimate, says Galbraith, the ability of people to make fools of themselves when they think they see a chance to get rich.

Mine Union Official Charged With Denying Tie With Communists

DENVER (AP)—Maurice E. Travis, secretary-treasurer and former president of the 100,000-member International Union of Mine, Mill Smelter Workers (Ind.), was arrested here yesterday on charges of lying when he said he was not a Communist party member.

Travis was free today on $10,000 bond posted immediately on being taken before U. S. Commissioner Joseph Neff late yesterday afternoon.

The arrest, announced by the Justice Department in Washington while U. S. marshals were picking up Travis at union headquarters here, stemmed from a six-count indictment handed down yesterday by a 23-member Federal Grand Jury in Denver.

The jury met in secret sessions dating from Oct. 18 to hear evidence presented by U. S. Atty. Donald E. Kelley.

State Candidates Report Campaign Gifts, Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) reported campaign contributions of $2,201 and expenses of $1,999 in his bid for re-election. His Republican opponent, Minnesota State Treasurer Val Bjornson, lists contributions of $1,600 and expenses of $1,695.55.

Both were preliminary reports required to be filed with the Senate clerk before the Nov. 2 election. Final reports must be made not later than 30 days after the election. Candidates are not required to report their personal expenses for travel and such.

The largest contribution listed by Humphrey was $50. He reported $30 such gifts from individuals. He listed many $1 contributions.

The $1,600 reported by Bjornson was credited to the Bjornson for Senator Volunteer Committee.

Only three campaign reports had been officially filed with the clerk of the House by the various candidates for the nine Minnesota House seats. However, the clerk's office said others may have been received but not entered.

Rep. O'Hara (R) reported contributions of $50 and expenditures of $75.

Rep. H. Carl Andersen (R) reported contributions of $700 and expenditures of $617.77.

Rep. Hagen (R) listed contributions of $500 and expenditures of $1,664.37.

Here Are Six Good Reasons Why You Should Cast Your Vote For "JIM" STOLTMAN ON NOVEMBER 2

1. He will not play politics by "not voting" on issues important to Winona, as our present Representative did on the "Garbage Bill."
2. He has never been afraid to take a stand, and, if elected will vote his convictions and will not be swayed by pressure groups.
3. He is energetic, ambitious, fair and cooperative. On the local level he has worked hard in behalf of all the people, not only in his official capacity when an Alderman, but he has long been active in Civic and Fraternal organizations.
4. He has been elected twice to public office; first as 4th Ward Alderman, and second as Alderman-at-Large. These six years of official service have given him an exceptional understanding of our city's problems.
5. He is not an officer of any political party nor is he dependent on any pressure group for financial assistance. By law this office is a non-partisan office and carries no party designation.
6. James V. Stoltman, if elected, will vote as his conscience dictates after due consideration, especially on controversial state-wide measures and on all proposed legislation that affects the City of Winona.

Prepare Students For 1975 to 2000, Teachers Advised

Winona teachers attending the 5th annual Business-Education Day banquet Thursday night were reminded that the real challenge facing them is preparing the students of today for the world of 1975 to 2000.

Fred A. Miller, educational director of the National Association of Manufacturers (Midwest division), was the principal speaker at the banquet attended by about 275 public, parochial and college instructors at the First Congregational Church parlors.

In the afternoon, the instructors were divided into groups and toured 24 Winona industrial plants and businesses, viewing operations and discussing business practices with management officials.

Miller noted that the high school seniors who are 18 years of age today will be 64 in the year 2000. "Since these kids will be living in the year 2000, the things you put into their minds today must not be just little packages they will easily forget."

He also cited the importance of the spread of Communism, which controlled 180,000,000 persons in 1945, and has now grown to 800,000,000. "In my personal opinion," he continued, "today's figure is closer to one and a quarter billion, which means that in nine years, it has come to cover half of the world's population. That is the thing these kids of yours will have to deal with in 1975."

"Although it is a controversial subject, it is factual and we must present these facts to youth in their cold significance because they, not you and I, will have to live with it."

The speaker also cited the progress made in the first half of the 20th century and urged that the schools "get basic scientific knowledge down into the grade level" contending that the students can't possibly absorb all of this material during high school. Miller said the books used in classrooms today are much the same as those he studied from and suggested a thorough revision of this material geared to the needs of the future.

Miller said one reason he left Michigan, where he taught and served as high school principal and superintendent for 12 years, was their football teams. He said one school had nine football fields, three of which were used by the marching band, which "should be given credit for physical education rather than music."

"When they begin to spend as much on physics and science laboratories and libraries as they do on athletics, then I'll be willing to admit they've got some pretty decent schools," Miller said.

His concern with the expansion of the labor force also was voiced by Miller in noting that the present force of 68 million is expected to be about 88 million in 1975. He said that the labor force would increase by a third while the population is increasing by a fourth. Miller said that industry is aware of the trend and that many large industries are spending huge sums of money in preparation for the future.

Unskilled Demand
The importance of preparation for the future was brought out as Miller said that while clerical, professional and skilled machine operators are expected to be increased substantially in the next 21 years, industry only will be able to absorb about 7 per cent more unskilled laborers.

"With only about 15 to 20 per cent of the high school students of today going on to college, it is highly possible that about 25 per cent will fail to prepare themselves for the future," he said. "This is the group that will have to compete for that seven per cent representing unskilled jobs."

Flurries in Air; Maybe 24 Tonight

After an absence of almost six months, snow made a brief return to Winona this morning. Only a trace fell and most of it was gone by mid-morning, but it signified the arrival of colder temperatures. The weatherman says the mercury will dip to the 24- or 26-degree mark tonight and probably won't get much over 40 Saturday afternoon. Thursday's high-low range was 55 and 33. The first snowfall of 1953 fell on Nov. 21, but like today's, it was only a trace. The last snow this year was a half-inch fall March 31.

Snows are expected to clear for the cold wave tonight, but will be partly cloudy Saturday.

Northwest Farm Position Sound, Survey Reports

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Northwest farmers currently are handling their third largest crop in history and ranchers are heavily supplied with livestock, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank said today in its monthly survey.

"This suggests a busy period ahead for processing, distributing, transporting and financing agencies," the report said.

Farmers also are maintaining a sound debt and credit position and are repaying loans as well and in some cases at a better rate than last year at this time.

"Two factors contribute to this sound position," the survey contended. "The spending and buying habits of farmers have become more conservative in the past year or two and the large volume of farm marketings has held up income despite lower prices."

"Even in areas where crop results were disappointing this year, livestock marketings have helped to maintain income. . . . Research economists pointed out that cash farm income during the first half of 1954 has matched that of the same 1953 period."

There was also a strengthening tone to employment in the district, the bank said. Although the general level of jobs is below a year ago, the fall upturn has been stronger than usual, it reported.

The bank also announced the appointment of Frederick J. Cramer as personnel officer to succeed Harold C. Core, a vice president who is retiring Nov. 1. Cramer, a native of Herman, Minn., joined the staff of the bank in 1941 and is a veteran of World War II.

Man Wanted at Theilman Found in Kellogg Shed

WABASHA, Minn. (Special)—Leonard Mitchell, who has been a fugitive in the hills of Wabasha County since Oct. 14 when he allegedly threatened the life of a Theilman couple, was found over to District Court here this morning after being captured by county and local officers at Kellogg late Thursday.

He pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon before Justice Henry Kronebusch, waived preliminary hearing and was placed under $2,000 bond. It is presumed that the trial will come up at the November term. He has been in the county jail here since being apprehended at 9:30 p.m. Thursday in a lumber yard shed in Kellogg. Residents of Kellogg claim he had been in town for two days and had slept in the shed Wednesday night.

Mitchell was sleeping when caught by Sheriff John Jacobs, Deputy William Harp and Jess Schouweiler, Kellogg policeman.

The 410 shotgun which he had at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallerich, Theilman, according to Sheriff Jacobs, was not found at the lumber yard and is being sought today.

An employee of the lumber company where he was found, Mitchell visited the Wallerichs late in the day Oct. 14 and, according to authorities, had been drinking. They said that after leaving the house he returned with the gun and said, "I have a ball in here for both of you." He then forced Mrs. Wallerich into his car and returned her unharmed about an hour later, authorities say.

The sheriff, together with Charles Gilbert, Wabasha chief of police; Marilyn Aiken, Lake City chief of police, and Willis Kruger, Wabasha game warden, had been hunting Mitchell ever since. Thoughts of his being armed somewhere in the surrounding hills kept Theilman on edge for two weeks.

County Dentists Hold Monthly Business Meet

About 20 Winona County dentists attended Thursday night's monthly meeting of the Winona County Dental Society at Hotel Winona.

Dr. D. T. Burt, Glen-Marie, president of the organization, presided, with dentists from La Crescent and St. Charles attending as special guests.

The program, under the direction of Dr. G. D. Sheridan, included a discussion of hydrocolloid techniques of making bridges and a motion picture and clinical demonstration of high speed dental engines.

Next meeting will be Nov. 18.

Chest Still 22 Per Cent Under Goal

Pledges and contributions to the Winona Community Chest drive have passed the $70,000 mark, but the total is still 22 per cent below the campaign goal, according to reports submitted at a report meeting today.

Chest officials noted, however, that there is still time to contribute in view of the fact that a cleanup meeting has been scheduled for next Thursday noon at Hotel Winona.

By that time, it is hoped that solicitation will also be completed. Several large concerns are not yet included in the report.

Heading the list of percentages is the advance gifts section with receipts totaling $50,793 or 85 per cent of the goal. The women's section has collected 84 per cent ($2,098) of its goal while the classified section has a total of $17,961 of the $30,000 goal, representing 60 per cent.

Husband Bids Wife Goodbye, Then Dies

CINCINNATI (AP)—Andrew E. Kelley, 64, ill for several years, awakened his wife, Charlotte, yesterday and told her he was going to die.

"I wanted to say goodbye to you first," he told her.

Then he clutched his rosary, murmured "God was good to me," turned his head and died, Mrs. Kelley said.

Architect Says Lake Area Very Attractive Site for Golf Course

Representatives of civic and city organizations were told Thursday night by one of the foremost golf architects in the United States that the proposed site for a golf course around the east end of Lake Winona is extremely attractive and one which could be comparable with that in the widely known resort city of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Robert Bruce Harris of Chicago, conferring with a committee of members of the City Council, Park-Recreation Board, Westfield Golf Club and the Association of Commerce, listed advantages of the lake site as follows:

• The lake shore and backdrop of Winona hills will make it an outstanding scenic course.

• From a strategic standpoint it has the possibility of three water holes or partial water holes.

• Its central location—almost in the heart of the city—will make it readily accessible.

• Located near new super-highway 61 along the south shore of Lake Winona, it would be attractive to tourists and out-of-town golfers, thus generating lucrative income to help pay for its maintenance. (Harris predicted that if a "real golf course" is developed, 50 per cent of the play will come from out-of-town.)

• The fact that it is not a hilly site is an asset in that any class of golfers could play it. Most hilly courses have physical handicaps.

• It is an excellent piece of property and a golf course located there would give visitors "a wonderful impression of Winona."

• Located in the heart of town, there would be an easy tie-in with the city water system, thus eliminating the cost of installing an expensive water pumping plant.

• Type of soil is such that it should provide excellent fairways and good greens. Peat loam is a requirement for the greens.

Owens Two Courses
Harris, former president of the American Society of Golf Course Architects and widely known also as a landscape engineer, owns two golf courses in Chicago and has laid out 125 courses in 23 states in the last 30 years. He recently completed the Bobby Jones Municipal Course at Sarasota, Fla., the municipal course at Mobile, Ala., and the Bismarck, N. D. Country Club and currently is designing the Benson Park course at Omaha and a course for the University of Florida at Gainesville.

Following his preliminary remarks, based on an afternoon tour of the site, he was asked: "You've said many favorable things about the site. Now tell us what's wrong with it."

His reply: "To tell you the truth, I can't think of any bad points. The really only weak point is that it would be only nine holes."

Under the proposal presented to the City Council a few weeks ago by C. A. Choate, president of Westfield Golf Club, the Westfield course would be sold for building lots and funds derived from its sale would be used for the proposed Lake Winona course.

Minimum $50,000
Minimum cost of constructing a good course in the area would be $50,000 not including a clubhouse, in the opinion of Harris.

In a long discussion at the City Hall last night, Harris said there was always the problem of settlement of ground but the fact that it has been worked over for the last five years should greatly reduce shrinkage. Use of heavy equipment to compact the soil was recommended. He doubted if there would be much room in the area for homesites but said preliminary layouts might show that some lots could be sold for this purpose.

He advocated construction of a driving range which he said could bring in considerable revenue — "sometimes more than the golf course itself." And he said lots around a golf course are usually the most desirable in town and construction of a course would increase the value of surrounding property.

The tentative plan laid out by Ben Knight of Largo, Fla., former Winona Country Club "pro," was described by Harris as "very credible. As far as he went it was very good but his plan was in a general way and went into no great detail."

In conclusion, Harris said, "I have no doubt such a golf course would not only be self-supporting, I think it would make a lot of money."

Alderman's Views
William S. L. Christensen, City Council representative on the committee said he saw four advantages to the proposal:

1. The revenue to be gained by the sale of the Westfield property. (Approximately $7 acres.)

2. Restoration of the now tax-free Westfield property to the city tax rolls.

3. If the proposed golf course is self-supporting, it would save taxpayers the cost of maintaining the area as a park by the Park-Recreation Board.

4. The asset to the city of drawing tourists.

Choate presided at the meeting. Others present were Christensen; City Engineer W. O. Cribbs; Dr. C. A. Rohrer and M. J. Bambenek representing the Park-Recreation Board; Kermit Halverson, manager of the Westfield Golf Club; Robert Selover, representing the Association of Commerce, and Pat Shortridge, Winona Country Club golf professional.

Verdict Favors Defendants in McMillen Cases

Verdicts for the defendants were returned by a District Court jury late Thursday afternoon in two personal injury cases brought as a result of a traffic accident near Dakota April 6.

The jury found in favor of Carlos Meyer and James Fennette, both of Prairie du Chien, Wis., the defendants in the suits brought by Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMillen, 1104 Gilmore Ave., who had sought to recover damages for injuries suffered when McMillen's car and a car owned by Meyer and driven by Fennette collided on Highway 61.

Although the verdicts were in favor of Meyer as a defendant in the McMillen actions, the Prairie du Chien man also was denied damages on his counterclaim brought against McMillen.

The jury began its deliberations at 12:25 p.m. Thursday and announced that it had reached a verdict at 4:25 p.m.

These were the last cases to be heard by a jury during the current term of District Court.

Meyer and Fennette were represented by Tom Skemp, La Crosse, and S. A. Sawyer of the firm of Sawyer, Sawyer & Darby, Winona, and the McMillens by C. Stanley McMahon and Robert W. Brehmer of the firm of George, Brehmer & McMahon. Judge Karl Finkelnburg presided.

Minnesota City Hunters Found

A brief search for two missing Minnesota City hunters was ended Thursday night when the pair was found safe in their stalled boat in the slough areas near Minnesota City.

Sought were Leo Cisewski, a Minnesota City garage operator, and his son, Leonard, a student at the Winona State Teachers College, who had gone duck hunting in the Minnesota City area at about 4 p.m. Thursday.

When they failed to return home by early evening relatives became alarmed and Sheriff George Fort was called.

Sheriff Fort went to Minnesota City to begin an investigation and was joined a short time later by Game Warden Ronald Shager. Shager and a Minnesota City resident, Merle Martin, took boats into the river areas where the Cisewskis were believed to have been hunting and at about 9:30 p.m. the missing hunters were found by Shager in their boat north of the Minnesota City Boat Club harbor.

The Cisewskis explained that their outboard motor stalled and they had only one small paddle in the large boat.

Martin towed the Cisewski boat to the harbor.

Plainview Resident Charged at Rochester After Admitting Thefts

ROCHESTER, Minn. —Henry Zieman Jr., 30, rural Plainview resident, has admitted a series of thefts here during the past several weeks.

Zieman was scheduled to be arraigned in municipal court Thursday afternoon.

He has admitted taking $28 from a cash drawer at the Modern Floor Covering Shop Oct. 16 and $40 from the till at the Reclaimed Freight Store Oct. 20.

Although Zieman admitted opening a cash drawer at the Rightway Radio & TV Shop Monday, he denied taking any money. He has also admitted other thefts although the police had no reports of them.

All the thefts occurred during business hours, police said. Zieman told them he opened tills and cash registers in the stores. Zieman has previously been convicted of larceny and police here are checking his status with the state parole office.

Uphill Battle For Republicans In Southwest

DENVER (U)—President Eisenhower's popularity and campaign effectiveness are matched against apparent economic discontent in what now looks like an uphill Republican battle for Senate and House seats in eight Southwestern and Rocky Mountain states.

Unless intensified appeals by Eisenhower for a Republican Congress change voter sentiment in the few days before the Nov. 2 election, Democrats could gain two Senate and four House seats in these states Eisenhower carried handily two years ago.

The eight states are Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Montana. All except Utah and Arizona are electing senators this year, with four Democratic and two GOP seats at stake.

Twelve Democratic and nine Republican House seats are being contested as are five governorships held by Republicans and one by a Democrat. Democrats now are reported leading in all but one of the governor contests.

Eisenhower evidently retains most of the strength he demonstrated in this area in 1952 when he swept all eight states by a margin of 520,000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Republicans everywhere in the area have been drumming the refrain that Eisenhower needs a Republican Congress to complete his program. They are defending that program vigorously, although they are beset by what even their concede is dissatisfaction among farmers.

Democrats on the whole have candidates with better known names than the Republicans, and many of the races are revolving around personalities and local issues.

Without openly forecasting an economic downturn, Democrats in all the states have been talking about what they claim is a somewhat lower level of business, employment and farm income this year than last. As one politician put it in talking to this reporter: "Everybody seems to be getting along pretty well but thinks he ought to be doing better."

But President Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor Mitchell this week asserted that 1954 has been "the most prosperous peacetime year in our history."

Although Republican candidates obviously can draw from a reservoir of good will toward the administration for the end of the shooting in Korea, powers does foreign policy seem to be a major issue. Candidates on both sides of the fence report they get no reaction to their mention of foreign affairs.

Generally, voters appear apathetic.

Art Lover-Playwright Blasts Rich Collections

NEW YORK—You may be an art-lover in Texas, or Ohio, or California, or Massachusetts, or Florida—so don't take this too seriously. Harry Kurnitz, the Broadway playwright, is an art-lover, too. But he hates "art-lovers." The kind you put in quotes.

He owns a Picasso . . . a remarkable Picasso. This Picasso has a message that even Picasso didn't get.

When timid friends ask Harry what his subject might be, Harry eruditely replies: "I've always felt it was Picasso's dental X-rays blown up."

"And about Grandma Moses!" Harry roared at me. "Does she paint those pictures or bake them in the oven? What's her parlor scene? She must knock off about 10 a day."

I've just recovered from an art appreciation walk with Kurnitz, whose new comedy, "Reeling Figure," spoofs Texas, California and Philadelphia art collectors.

As we loomed over $7,000 worth of Utrillo in a 57th St. gallery, a striped-pantied hombre said, "That's an early Utrillo."

"Like hell," chuckled Kurnitz later. "Anything he forgot to put a date on, they say is 'early' and it costs more."

Harry believes in art for Harry's sake. An ex-Philly copyreader, he bought his first picture on installments. He ridicules rich collectors who ask an art expert the price of "Oh . . . about 14 paintings."

"Ummmmmm, the way things are, about two million," says the expert.

"Then the rich man goes round every day appreciating the signatures not the paintings—just the signatures," contends Kurnitz. Kurnitz got this picture because a Philly tycoon had 200 Renoirs and 200 Cezannes—all locked up.

"James Michener got in once by posing as an illiterate Pittsburgh steel worker," he said. "Most people couldn't get a peek."

Though Texas collectors got kidded most, Harry feels they like it.

Texas theater man Julius Gordon invested in his show—so Harry took out some of the Texas jokes. Then Gordon sent up words: "Hey, put those Texas jokes back in!"

"But they're not such art suckers," says Harry.

"I know a Hungarian art dealer who took some paintings down there to palm off. The Texans got him to swap the paintings for oil stock. Now he's very deep in oil . . . fact, he's a gas station attendant."

But the worst art showoffs, he feels, are in Hollywood, where two producers' kids got in a fight because one said, "Our Renoir's bigger than your Renoir."

Kurnitz has painted considerably himself.

"I've tucked all my pretties away in chintz and some day I hope to be discovered," he confided, tugging at an imaginary long white beard, "as 'Grandpa Kurnitz.'"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . . Joe Di Maggio's being sounded out about managing the new Philadelphia A's—and hasn't said no! . . . Soon after Ali Khan arrived at the Carlton House, Gene Tierney got a headache and couldn't go to a party. Reuning, maybe?

Rita and Dick plan to make films with Ingrid and Rossellini in Italy—and have a new scheme (via the courts) to get there . . . Robert Merrill, who'll sing for the Queen Mother at the Canadian Club at the Waldorf, will perform free. And his bride's not invited. Only ladies-in-waiting. (So she'll wait in the car.)

Actress Julie Harris' new husband, Manning Gurian, won her in a secret backstage romance. They married in London—but it started at the Empire here when he was company mgr. of her "I Am A Camera"—and blossomed when he

Trempealeau Co. Budget Proposal Heard by Board

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—A proposed budget for 1955 was set up by the Trempealeau County Board of Supervisors in session at the courthouse here Tuesday.

A hearing on the proposed expenditures for next year of $595,386.88 will be held in the courtroom at 11 a.m. Nov. 10. Revenue is anticipated at $29,400, leaving a proposed tax levy of $565,986.88. The proposed levy is $18,690.79 more than the $547,296.09 tax levy adopted at the annual board session in November 1953.

Proposals are:

General government	$6,339	$7,350
Protection	18,250	17,250
Health, sanitation	31,601	29,436
Highways, bridges	80,512	82,843
Education	77,695	72,575
Charities, corrections	131,590	147,928
Indebtedness	6,748	29,306
Unassigned	8,440	6,890
Outlay	27,221	27,247
Totals	$395,386	$547,006

Unemployment Compensation—One raise under general government was made necessary through a law passed by the state Legislature in regard to unemployment compensation to municipal employees. Heretofore the state has assessed the counties what it considered would be three per cent of their payrolls. As an example, Trempealeau County was assessed $2,616.70 for unemployment compensation in 1953.

During the first nine months of this year $20,410 was paid to the state for unemployment compensation, with $6,803 anticipated for the last three months. Therefore, Trempealeau County will apply for credit to the state for amounts paid over and above 2 per cent of its payroll.

Other raises in the proposed budget for general government are for the county clerk's office, from $6,200 to $6,700; district attorney's office from $3,700 to $4,000; county court from $10,000 to $11,000; law library from $750 to $900, and special accounting and auditing from $2,000 to $2,500. Assessment of taxes was lowered from $2,100 to $2,000 and elections from $3,500 to $1,500.

Under protection of persons and property, the amount for bounties was raised from $1,500 to $3,500. Clerk H. M. Johnson said that $2,531 had been paid in bounties during the first nine months of this year with an estimate of

Oilmen Consider Dynamiting to Halt Well Fire

MA-ME-O BEACH, Alta. (U)—Oilmen considered exploding a nitroglycerine charge beside an oil well fire here today in an effort to blow out raging 300-foot flames.

One man was killed and three were burned seriously when the fire broke out Tuesday. The fire destroyed the $250,000 drilling rig and is burning an estimated 10 million cubic feet of natural gas a day.

Two U.S. experts, Myron Kinley of Los Angeles, and L. Tighe of Houston, Tex., arrived Thursday and conferred with Texaco Exploration Ltd., officials at the site on the possibility of shooting the well. Texaco spokesmen said it would take four weeks to drill a relief well through which water could be pumped to flood the blazing well.

Punchcards Solve Forestry Problems For Paper Company

MILWAUKEE (U)—Punchcards are simplifying forestry management problems for the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co. (Mando) at International Falls, Minn., the annual meeting of the Society of American Foresters was told here.

F. T. Fredrickson, the firm's forestry supervisor, said the system is providing periodic and accurate inventories of both pulpwood and sawlogs. He explained it this way: Mando, with 260,000 acres of timberland, set aside permanent, one-seventh acre, circular plots about one mile apart. Each tree in the circle was carefully surveyed as to kind, size and age.

Each tree also was assigned an International Business Machines punched card with the data on the card updated as further surveys are made.

Quiet Holdup Man Robs St. Paul Druggist

ST. PAUL (U)—A holdup man so quiet a clerk didn't know what was going on robbed a St. Paul drugstore of an estimated $250 Thursday night.

Charles Heller was at a magazine rack in his store when a fellow dressed in hunting togs came up to him and commented about the weather. Before the druggist could reply, the intruder drew a pistol and ordered him into a back room.

There, the gunman took $200 from a safe and then ordered Heller to clean out a cash register of more than $50. As the holdup man went out a rear door, Heller went out front to find that Sam Base, 22, clerk at the soda fountain, had been unaware of the holdup.

Sheppard Jury Will Be Taken To Death Scene

CLEVELAND (A)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard was just two jurors away today from a visit to the rambling lakeshore house where his attractive and pregnant wife, Marilyn, was found beaten to death in her bed.

Between Sheppard and the trip to the residence he says was the home of a happy marriage were two alternate jurors, still to be picked.

A jury of seven men and five women was sworn in yesterday on the ninth day of his trial for the murder of his wife. The two alternates to be selected will substitute for any regular panel member who becomes ill or dies.

As yesterday's session closed, all but two members of the original venire of 75 had been exhausted. Trial Judge Edward Blythin ordered a special panel of 25 prospective jurors to report today.

Each side has two peremptory challenges it can use in dismissing the alternate jurors.

Once the alternates are picked, the jury will be taken to Sheppard's home on the shore of Lake Erie in suburban Bay Village, The defendant's chief defense attorney, William J. Corrigan, says Sheppard will accompany the group to the scene of the crime.

Corrigan said last night he expects to put the state's witnesses through rigorous cross-examination once the testimony in the trial gets under way.

Statler Chain Bought by Hilton Hotels

NEW YORK—The famed Statler hotel chain was purchased here Wednesday by Hilton Hotels Corporation, Chicago. The purchase was described as the biggest real estate transaction ever made. The price was placed at more than 111 million dollars.

Completion of the transaction involved the execution and delivery of more than 2,000 documents. The legal work was done by more than 75 attorneys from all parts of the country, including the Chicago law firm of Friedman, Zoline & Rosenfield, representing Hilton corporation.

Hilton Hotels in a swift move Aug. 3 took command of the Statler chain company by purchasing nearly 50 per cent of its stock. The "coup" preceded by three days a meeting of Statler stockholders at which they were to accept or reject a purchase offer made by William Zeckendorf on behalf of Webb & Knapp, Inc., New York City building and development company.

Purchase of the Statler chain made Conrad N. Hilton, president of Hilton Hotels, the king of world hotel operators. It brings under one management a total of 27 leading hotels in the United States and abroad containing 27,000 rooms.

He expects to put the state's witnesses through rigorous cross-examination once the testimony in the trial gets under way.

Democrats in Far West Show More Strength

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (A)—The big political question in Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada today is whether an apparent Democratic upsurge will win for the party significant gains at the polls next Tuesday.

Only the voters can decide this point, of course, but Republicans do not deny the Democrats are showing potential strength in this off-year election. There are too many signs of a Democratic swing in the far western country which went solidly for President Eisenhower in 1932.

As an indication, Democratic registration in California increased by 154,827 and the Republican by 66,837 since the June primary. Democrats lead nearly 3 to 2 in the total sign-up—3,268,831 to 2,415,249.

How deep does the seeming Democratic trend go? Does it carry enough momentum to crack through Eisenhower's admitted personal popularity?

Election of 3 U.S. senators and 42 representatives, as well as state officers in three of the states, hinges closely on the answer. Washington, with no race for the Senate or governor, will choose 7 representatives, California, 30; Oregon, 4; and Nevada, 1.

The GOP, making a stand on the Eisenhower line, hopes to retain the three Republican senators, one of them now a temporary appointee, and maybe better its 30-12 share of the House members from the four states.

Republicans declare they expect to throw back serious challenges against Sen. Guy Cordon (R-Ore) and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), who succeeded vice president Nixon in the Senate.

In Nevada, though, prospects appear to favor former State Atty. Gen. Alan Bible to defeat Republican Sen. Ernest S. Brown, named by the Republican governor to serve until next January. The two Reno lawyers plunged into an abbreviated campaign after the State Supreme Court ruled there must be an election for the two-year unexpired term of Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran, who died Sept. 28.

The critical test will come in California. Most election experts are picking Kuchel to win over Rep. Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles and Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to take Richard Graves in the slambang battle for the governorship. Independent polls indicate, however, that both Democratic candidates are moving up steadily.

There is sharp contention as well in California's 30 congressional districts, now represented by 19 Republicans and 11 Democrats. Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder of Los Angeles, state Democratic chairman, predicts her party will gain five House members. Nixon has said he looks for the GOP to increase its delegation by one.

The GOP message, as exemplified by Secretary of the Interior, McKay's political tour, is that the power partnership plan will help build new hydroelectric works; that the agricultural market is stable; that administration policies are good for the West.

Other points of conflict, confined to state matters, are far from being overlooked. In California, for instance, proposed state liquor control and demands to "do something" about the smog plaguing Los Angeles are major issues. A gambling expose has created a political furor in Nevada.

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

IT'S hard to find a town with more old-world charm than Fountain City. It was settled by Swiss and German pioneers around 1840, in large part because the river and steep hills were reminiscent of the Rhine and the Alps. The village took on many of the charming characteristics of both Alpine and Rhine towns. Pioneers built their houses into steep hillsides, and every back yard was a riot of flowers either in a steeply sloping hill garden or in terraces.

Into the hillside they built cool wine cellars or caves and vegetable storage cellars. Nest little rock walls kept the steep banks in place, and soon these were overgrown with lovely Alpine creeping plants and mosses brought from Europe. The old hill cemetery is carpeted with a sweet herb brought from Switzerland.

My great-grandparents came there from Switzerland. My grandmother married the young German newspaper publisher there; my Great-aunt Elisa married the young Swiss doctor of the village. My father was born there and learned to swim, canoe and fish with little Winnebago Indian boys of the nearby islands and sloughs. So I've always had a deep affection for the little town and loved visiting around the place, particularly with my lively little Great-aunt Elisa who knew everybody.

It always seemed singularly serene and untouched by the hustle-bustle of high-powered "progress." But you can't stop change and progress. New little modern one-story homes are springing up all over. There is agitation for a modern swimming pool. The crazy hill behind the town bristles with TV antenna. The ancient "Flatiron building" has been sold. The very old "Goldener Frosch" (Golden Frog) tavern is up for sale, and so is the old printing office built some 80 years ago by my Grandfather Leicht.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all the hillside gardens is the steeply terraced rock garden of Mr. and Mrs. John Mehringer who live in a big high old-fashioned house set right on the sidewalk on North Street—that highway street that leads straight up the hill to the cemetery.

John Mehringer, a retired farmer, started the garden some 30 years ago and has been working at it ever since, not only planting but making cement statuary and rock walls and pools. Mrs. Mehringer, a white-haired and smiling woman, showed me through it. You step off the large screen porch at the side onto a smooth lawn with beds of flowers. Chrysanthemum, petunias and creeping vines are all that are left now, but in summer there is a profusion of snaps, zinnias, pansies, daisies and countless other brilliant flowers.

There is an oval lily pool with a cement stork standing by it, his luminous feathers made of chips of colored bottle-glass. A path with stepping stones leads up the terraced hill, with two giant cactus on either side of the path. "We take these in the house for the winter," said Mrs. Mehringer. "They're so big they take up half a room so we keep them upstairs in a bedroom."

There are five beautiful steep terraces walled with interesting rocks gathered from the hills and valleys. The Mehringers also brought many stones back from the far west. On the middle terrace stands a windmill and also a well built of rocks.

On the top terraces are beautiful pear, cherry, apple and plum trees. To one side is a terraced vineyard, and beyond that is a large vegetable garden.

Said Mrs. Mehringer with real affection in her voice, "Ach, all these plants! Every year we dig them up and bring them in the house. They fill the house up. And every year I say 'This is the last year!' But we always do it again. It's going to freeze to-night. We'll have to bring in a lot tonight."

Accomplishments Under Eisenhower Leadership Reviewed

Workers earnings are now near the peak of last December and the worker's dollar goes further than it has for a long time. Most recent evidence of this latter statement is the retail food price index of the U. S. Department of Labor released Tuesday of this week. It shows a drop at Minneapolis of 1.1 per cent from August to September.

The Eisenhower Administration, it would seem, has successfully halted the declining purchasing power of the dollar and at the same time has stabilized prices.

There have been reductions in federal excise taxes on consumer goods and reductions in personal income taxes, thus giving the wage earner more money to spend and save after taxes.

The accomplishments of the first two years under Pres. Eisenhower's leadership should be reviewed with a national election just a few days away. This is what he has done:

1. Stopped fighting in Korea. Seized initiative for peace.
2. Cut personal income taxes 11 per cent, largest tax cut in history.
3. Brought peace-time economy and greatest prosperity in history.
4. Set up rigid program to wipe out Communist spies in government.
5. Restored honesty, integrity and efficiency to government.
6. Passed greatest road building and improvement program in history.
7. Took government out of competition with private industry. Returned Tidelands to the states.
8. Designed an agricultural program that would end high prices, reduce surpluses and promote good farm management.
9. Put in force a program of peaceful uses for atomic energy.
10. Approved St. Lawrence Seaway Project; created jobs, increased commerce.
11. Increased Social Security coverage to 10 million more people.
12. Halted inflation. Stabilized cost of living.
13. Created the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to benefit all Americans. Expanded hospital building and vocational rehabilitation.
14. Built up strong defenses against Communist aggression at less cost to taxpayer.
15. Ended segregation in armed forces, schools and government.
16. Enacted Housing Bill to provide better living for all Americans.
17. Established Small Business Administration to aid all small business enterprises.
18. Raised benefits for veterans, civil service and postal employees.
19. Provided improved postal service.
20. Reduced 1954 appropriations by 13 billion dollars.

As the campaign wears on, it becomes more and more evident that the Democrats' attacks on the Administration's farm policy, and on its "new" farm law, are largely political.

Certainly it is hard to criticize a flexible price support program on economic grounds. The high rigid supports were adopted in the first place, as most farmers will recall, to encourage higher production in war days when we and our allies could use all the food it was possible to produce.

The need for higher production is long past. Congress itself recognized that in 1949—under a Democratic administration—by writing flexible supports into law. But congressmen, understandably, lost their nerve and put off ordering the lower support levels into effect.

What makes the current criticism around the Midwest farm circuit sound especially silly is that the 90 per cent supports in the law still are in effect, except for dairy products. The new law takes effect for 1955 crops.

It is those high supports that stepped up production—of milk as well as the six basic crops—beyond what the market would absorb, and pushed prices down from their high mark of 1950-51.

If you are satisfied with the accomplishments of the Eisenhower Administration, then you owe it to yourself to vote for those candidates Tuesday who will support him during the next two years. If you don't like what has taken place since the Republican party came into power, then vote for those candidates who have announced they will oppose the President's program.

In any event, VOTE.

Dogs Linked With Affairs on Nation

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK — To me, whose association with dogs has been pleasant, it was exciting to note that a political issue could be made over them. Apparently the politicians have so little to talk about that they will seize on any bone, even one that a dog has long kept buried in the ground to put age on it. Dogs, centuries ago, discovered the virtues of antibiotics, which our learned scientists also discovered. Perhaps someday one of the prize-giving institutions will establish a memorial to the first dog that buried a bone.

Pres. Eisenhower once said that a major general ought to live in a dog house, but nothing happened when he said it. There was no mutiny in the infantry. No one called a strike or threatened retaliation. The labor unions were silent and even Walter Reuther did not leap into the dog-fight.

IT CAME ABOUT this way. It seems as how Gen. Roderick Allen built a kennel for some fine samoyeds he owns. The samoyed is a beautiful dog and he needs a long run. So the general built a 90 by 60 foot dog run adjacent to his quarters at Fort Dix, New Jersey — an Army post that is now famous as the place where Private Schine was photographed with Sec. of the Army Stevens which raised the issue of cropped pictures. (I think it was actually done at the Maguire Airbase, which is adjacent, but it does not really matter.)

So the kennel and run cost the United States $1,200 which is pretty high, but not for a samoyed, which is a beautiful dog out of Siberia. In fact, the samoyed is named after an aboriginal people who live in Siberia and are not physically beautiful, which raises a question: Why are the samoyed dogs beautiful and not samoyed people? Maybe the Soviet Academy of Sciences can explain all this to a panting world.

Anyhow, the President was holding a press conference and was talking about the lowering of Army morale in reply to a question asked him thereabout. The reporter for the New York Herald Tribune was hopeful that the President would say something to indicate that Army morale was down because Joe McCarthy investigated some parts of the military. The President ducked that question by answering it longishly, which is very smart, indeed. The longer the answer, the less clear the affirmative. For instance, he said:

"... When they were rightly criticized for the mistakes or errors or blunders of someone at the top of the services, they felt pretty low. When they were accused unjustly there was, he supposed, you might say, a mixture of anger, resentment, and rather a great deal of sadness."

THIS IS ALL SO NATURAL. Even as children, when we were caught with jam on our faces and we continued to swear that we had never, under any circumstances, gone to the jam pot, we were hurt at the skepticism of the elders who accepted obvious facts instead of spiritual reservations.

It was in this press conference that the President also said:

"There was a man, he saw in the papers, who built a dog house. Well, he ought to live in it. He meant he did it with federal funds. (laughter.)" (The pronouns are twisted because it is not permissible to report the President directly although the text comes from his own office.)

So the reporters, showing initiative and excitement, went all over the Pentagon to discover the major general who should have lived in a dog house and they found him. The general did not comment. His four samoyeds probably barked approval, because dogs like to have their master near them and what could be nearer than the same dog house.

I, being an anti-Communist, have never owned a samoyed, although I know two gentlemen of the breed who are very fine dogs and with whom I hold conversations occasionally. They do not remember their ancestral home, having been brought up in the environs of New York which is a very different place from the tundra in the Taimyr peninsula, up where the world ends. One of the samoyeds looks very interested but it seems that he prefers my keeshond to my conversations.

Eisenhower Is Not Slowing Down REA

To the Editor:

There has been much criticism of Pres. Eisenhower in relation to REA and because of this criticism I am sending you an article which appeared in the November issue of Farm Journal, page 8, under "Last Minute Report from Washington."

Regardless of which party we vote for I am sure that as Americans all of us believe in being fair, and we resent the false accusations so often circulated before our elections.

The following article (not taken from some political oratory but written by the editor of a reliable farm magazine) confirms the fact that the REA story is just another campaign hoax.

REA Expands Under GOP

Don't pay too much attention to election charges that the President is planning to slow down REA.

Actually this Administration has an excellent REA record. Every year the Budget Bureau circularizes all Federal agencies with a plea to please try to cut down on unnecessary spending. Truman gave the same kind of advice. It's routine.

But this year some Democrats took the Budget Office memo, and tried to make out that the Administration was plotting to emasculate REA. Here are the facts:

Ike has increased the REA program enormously. The backlog of $220 million in electric co-op loan applications, when Ike took over, has been cut to $80 million.

The number of new farms hooked up to REA lines in the year ending June 30 was 171,000, compared with 137,500 in Truman's last year. In the new REA telephone program, 100,000 subscribers were given service in the past year, against 25,000 the year before, and 2,000 in 1952.

Other criticism of Ike on REA is that he is cutting down on loans for REA generating and transmitting facilities. But 18 per cent of last year's REA loans were for these heavy capital investments.

In all these ways, the Administration has been pushing REA, not crippling it.

Blames Administration for Increase in Business Failures

To the Editor:

Two years ago the majority of voters cast their ballots for the great "change" of 1952. Many promises were made to induce the public to vote for this change in party control of our government. Now, the leaders of the administration are asking the voters to elect another Congress which will support the administration's program.

Before deciding to follow or not to follow this advice, every citizen should look at the record. Is the program worth supporting? How has the performance of this administration squared with the promises made to the voters two years ago?

Let's look at the issues affecting other groups. One of the first actions of the Republican administration and Congress was to abolish the RFC which for over 20 years had been helping small business with loans they could not get from banks. In its place they substituted the ill-timed "hard dollar" policy that caused the recession of 1954. During the first year of the GOP administration the rate of business failures rose 70 per cent. The total business failures of 1953 were 739 and 1,102 this year or a total of 1,841 failures in nearly two years of this administration. Most of these failures were among small businesses of less than $100,000.

What about the farmer? What is his price for the change of 1952? In putting this new farm philosophy into effect the GOP administration has not only brought about a farm slump, but it has broken nearly every pledge made to the farmer in 1952. The farm net income dropped $700 million in 1953 and this year 1954 farm net income is running more than $800 million behind that of the 1953 drop. Most serious of all, the GOP, through Ezra Benson, has tried to set the farmer against the consumer, by promising the consumer lower food prices if farm prices can be brought down. Actually, low farm prices do not necessarily mean lower food prices. It seems like the prophets of "Boom or Bust" versus the peddlers of "Gloom and Doom."

What about atomic patents? The taxpayers investment. Scientists from all over the world participated in the development of atomic energy patents. The U. S. government spent billions on the project. The benefits should go to everybody. Instead Congress voted to give away $12 billion of atomic energy patents to special monopolies. The same old power "scandal" as the Dixon-Yates.

I think those in charge are going out deliberately to destroy our public power as demonstrated by the Dixon-Yates contract which appears to be the beginning of an effort to build a wall around TVA and never let it expand again. Is this what they call progress? This act alone may go down in history as the one by which the 83rd Congress did the most to fasten the hands of monopoly around the nation's economic throat, enabling the often-crooked giant of private power to dictate how fast or how slow we may grow.

Wisconsin State Journal Changes Its Mind

To the Editor:

An old saying is: "A wise man will change his mind; a fool never does." Mayhap that's what the Wisconsin State Journal had in mind when recently set up a wall about Congress removing certain restrictions on the sale of oleo in an effort to defeat Congressman Lester Johnson for re-election in the Ninth District.

A year ago, when an election was not in sight, the Madison paper stamped approval on the repeal of the tax. Here is what it said in its issue of Feb. 27, 1953: "The Wisconsin Council of Agriculture and the Farm Bureau Federation, the state's two largest and most influential farm organizations, took a long step in the right direction this week. They went on record in favor of repealing the 15-cent-a-pound tax on oleomargarine."

"This has been a discriminating tax that has thoroughly irritated Wisconsin consumers because it arbitrarily added to the cost of food. And the tax has not achieved its objective, which was to drive margarine, butter's competitor, out of Wisconsin."

Wonder did the Journal get wise, or was its right-about-face due to its editorial writer getting a bad batch of oleo?

Bert A. Gipple

Prosperity for Common Man

To the Editor:

As a dairy farmer I am selfishly opposed to the oleo law which Carroll Syverson refers to, but he must remember that there are 48 states with varied interests and that we farmers have only one vote for a congressman to five votes from city consumers. Oleo legislation is only one minor factor in the milk situation and it is too long and complicated to discuss here. Suffice to say that since 1952 when OPS expired, we dairy farmers have lost $1 per hundred weight. Consumers would be paying at least two cents per quart less for milk if OPS regulations were still in effect.

Besides being told by the Republican party to produce something else, we are told to tighten our belts. Having a high investment in dairy equipment, should we retort for beef? Ask the beef men. Should I get out of the chicken business and get into turkeys? Ask either one. Should we plow up our many side hill haylands and raise corn? You know corn causes erosion and corn bins are full. Ask the Iowa corn farmers. What should we change to? My only hope now is to change to the Democrats.

I don't intend to imply that I approved of all Democratic measures, in fact for a long time I couldn't decide which party to support. At the end of two years of empty promises and free enterprise and off guard statements, the philosophy of this Administration shows clearly that for the common man prosperity is just around the corner, or further.

It is lamentable that Republican minds are so sterile that they are still using the 20-year-old Democratic farm program with the exception of the lowered parity. For dairy produce parity has been between 70 to 73 per cent, poultry 60 to 62 per cent.

In regard to tidelands oil, which the Supreme Court ruled belongs to the federal government as a security measure, the final voting in the 1954 Senate was 36 Republicans and 7 Democrats to return offshore oil to coastal states, the seven being from coastal states.

Read the Oct. 14 Daily News article on the 3 per cent risk-free contract for Dixon-Yates firm. Then recall Pres. Eisenhower's pledge to protect TVA, the federal power plant which supplies REA. In less than two years he calls REA creeping Socialism when actually REA is only serving the people who were refused by private power companies, through prohibitive rates, of course.

The one and most important issue of all, "Peace or War." It is being misused and abused more than anything we have discussed. The causes of war are far more deeply rooted than the propaganda that Mr. Syverson's party has displayed.

The riots in cities and small countries are caused by the misery and unbelievable conditions of its people. They can stand only so much misery and then they don't care. They think they may as well die fighting as to starve—and so they fight. The only difference between a riot and a war is that war is a bigger riot. Three-fourths of the people of the world are hungry, illiterate and miserable. These people hate us because of our spoiled surplus food.

May God forbid our playing politics with the blood of our sons.

Lot Politics Always Bo

To the Editor:

As election draws near, let each one of us remember that we are the government, and by attention of it or neglect, make it what it is. Democracy is endangered, not by failure to meet emergencies, but by indifference to the daily demands of citizenship. So let's all get out to vote on Election Day. But once we have voted, let's continue to keep up the daily demands of our precious citizenship by backing and supporting and suggesting to those we have entrusted the everyday working of our government. How else can they fulfill the pledges they have made to us and our country?

Do you know what you can do between elections? Keep a record of your representatives' votes. Local newspapers give a great deal of information in this regard. The minutes of boards of education are public records, district and town-ship board minutes are in custody of the secretary. Votes of individual members of city councils are recorded in the council journal. This is in the custody of the city clerk and is a public record. The minutes of the County Board carry the same information, and by going to the office of the county auditor may be seen. In Washington, the Congressional Record is printed at

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Hide-and-Seek on Condon Clearance Pure Politics

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The inside story of how Dr. Edward Condon, the scientist now with Corning Glass, was cleared for security on Tuesday, Oct. 19, but not cleared on Thursday, Oct. 21, is one of the most amazing in Washington.

It was pure politics, plus the long-distance intervention of Vice President Nixon and a phone call by Atty. Gen. Brownell that did it. Here is a play-by-play account of why the eminent scientist, who, according to Dr. Edward Teller, shortened development of the H-bomb by one year, found himself OK'd one day and out on his ear the next.

As part of the campaign to smear Averell Harriman, now running for governor of New York, the Eisenhower administration has been digging into the files of the Commerce Department to see what security cases he handled while Secretary of Commerce. And they were all set to spring three or four cases on Harriman.

One of the cases was that of Dr. Edward Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards under Harriman and who was pilloried by the House committee on un-American activities when Vice President Nixon was a member.

There was never any charge that Condon was a Communist but that his wife was indiscreet and that some of his friends were left of center.

Harriman, when secretary of commerce, refused to fire Condon, felt that he was unfairly treated, and flew here from Sun Valley, Idaho, to defend him.

Eventually, however, Condon got tired of being hammered over the head by congressional committees and resigned to take a job with private industry. Since scientists of his calibre are hard to find, he was snapped up by Corning Glass, a staunch Republican outfit, whose former president, Alanson B. Houghton, was appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James by Calvin Coolidge.

The father-in-law of Cong. Sterling Cole of New York, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, is also secretary of Corning Glass and has defended Condon even more than Averell Harriman.

Condon is Cleared. However, Republican National Committee strategy of making a big issue of the Condon case was seriously set back when it became known last week that the Defense Department's eastern regional security board cleared Dr. Condon.

The security board, of course, did not realize they were pin-pricking one of the carefully inflated balloons in the campaign. In fact, they acted last summer the end of each day on which Congress is in session, and may be most likely obtained at the public library, or one may be ordered free from a senator or congressman.

A letter will best serve your purpose when you wish to express yourself on an issue. Write when the issue is about to be discussed and voted upon, make it clear that you are for or against the measure or policy and give your reasons. Explain what action you wish your representatives to take. Ask for an answer explaining his stand and reasons for it. Don't wait until you want your representative to do something, compliment him when he makes a good speech or votes wisely. Don't be discouraged if you receive a form letter in reply, it is a good sign, for it usually means that the official is receiving a lot of mail on the subject.

Remember that this great country of ours needs two major political parties because they are part of the tools necessary to run our government successfully. They form a system of check and balance that keeps things straight. No one needs to feel ashamed of work and stick up for the party of his or her choice. At least both parties should only work for the good of our country. Naturally the difference of opinion, ideas, ideals, gives one the motive for choosing which team they wish to take sides on. But once one has taken sides, play fair. After all, America was founded on the belief that one could worship God as one saw fit, free enterprise and the premise that all men were born equal regardless of race, color or creed.

Let's keep it that way, by helping take part in the election. Let this great country live in the hands of any man who does his part in politics, for the good of his country, performs a useful and important function for all of us.

Remember, that no matter which team wins, we will all be good sports, and pitch right in and help to make their term successful for us all. By remembering what one can do between elections, to help keep it so.

Let's all try to be good Christians. Let politics always be a friendly fight. That makes for a healthy minded country, and keeps it clean.

Mrs. Ray Iverson

Watkins Buys Second Plane

The J. R. Watkins Co., has added a Beechcraft Bonanza to its Winona-based air fleet. The firm has owned a twin-engine DC-3 for some years.

The single engine plane is equipped with a tricycle landing gear and has a "butterfly" or "V" tail and rudder assembly. Normal cruising speed is 150 miles per hour, carrying a pilot and three passengers.

Chief Pilot J. L. Ollom said acquisition of the plane was prompted by increased air travel by company personnel in conducting sales meetings in every state of the union and in Canada. The log of the DC-3 showed over 500,000 passenger miles over the past year. Ollom and C. E. Hebbler are the firm's pilots.

The Bonanza's upholstered seats are adjustable and head rests are provided for extra comfort. Curtains are positioned on each of the four side windows. The front windshield is constructed to give unobstructed viewing for front-seat occupants.

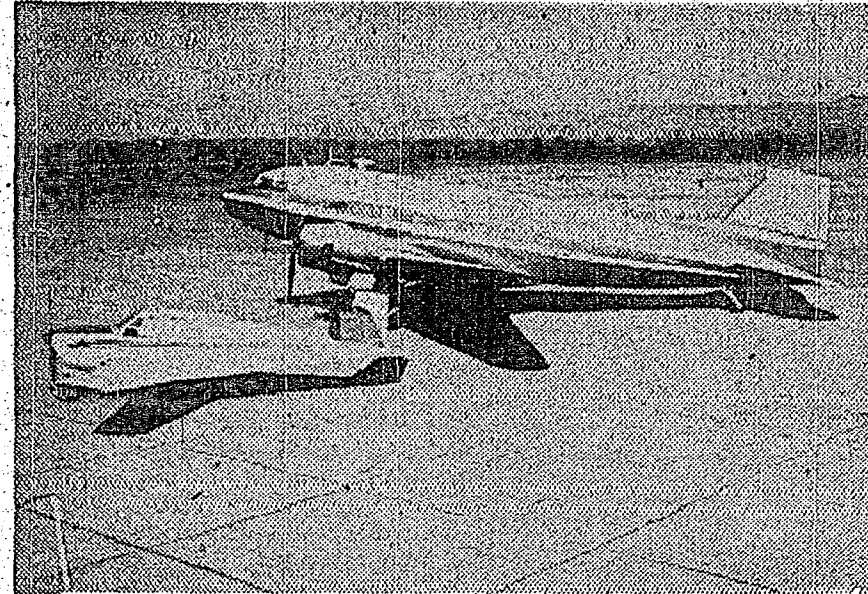

Further comfort features are cabin air conditioning and heating units controllable by the pilot. A roomy baggage compartment is located behind the passenger compartment. Safety features provided are a safety fire valve that will rid the cabin of smoke and fumes in case of fire; safety belts plus shoulder harnesses for all passengers and a pressure-type carburetor making injection of carburetor heat during landing, takeoff and radical maneuvers unnecessary.

The plane also boasts VHF radio equipment and modern OMNI navigation equipment. Normal operating gauges are combined in a panel that resembles an automobile dashboard and yoke type controls and ease of feather-touch prop and throttle give the pilot an "automobile ride" feeling.

Union Move Sends London Dock Strike Into 26th Day

By HAL COOPER
LONDON (AP)—A last minute union maneuver which knocked out a tentative truce plan sent Britain's crippling waterfront strike into its 26th day today.

The government apparently still had hopes of a back to work movement over the weekend, however. Waterfront observers said the government could hardly delay longer the use of troops to unload vital foodstuffs and other imports. Some 43,000 workers are idle in the work stoppages at the nation's main seaports.

The end of the walkout appeared imminent last night when dock employers in London agreed to an armistice on the main issue of whether dock workers should have the right to turn down overtime work. Overtime now is compulsory.

BISBEE, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. John Healy may be the nation's most successful woman lion hunter—and she just sits at home and plugs away.

sory. Employers maintain this is necessary because of the effect of tides on handling cargoes.

Under the truce formula the dockers would return to their jobs, pending negotiation of their grievances. While negotiations were going on, employers would refrain from disciplinary action against any workmen who refused overtime.

Leaders of the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union at first seemed inclined to accept the armistice proposal. But after a long huddle they came up with a demand that the same formula be extended to all ports outside London.

Big Turnout Expected for Pheasant Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One of the largest pheasant hunter turnouts in years is in store for southwestern Minnesota Saturday with nimrod interest high for the season's opener on prospects of good shooting and an increased bag.

Hotels and motels in most communities in the 30-county southwestern pheasant area are booked solid.

While some early bird hunters already were on the scene today, scouting hunting lands, the big influx comes tonight and Saturday morning, with bumper-to-bumper highway travel likely on some roads leading to the shooting grounds.

Eight days of pheasant hunting begin at noon Saturday and continue through Nov. 7. Daily hunting hours will be from noon to sunset.

The bag this year is three cock birds per day, eight in possession, Hans, as usual, are protected.

Seasons on Hungarian partridge and quail also open Saturday. The "hun" bag is 3 birds per day, 6 in possession. Shooting hours parallel those for pheasants. The quail bag is 10 birds per day, 15 in possession. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset.

Seasons on all upland game are statewide.

Nelson Opposition To Station Agent Change Expressed

DURAND, Wis. (Special)—Arguments for and against removal of the station agent at Nelson by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad were aired at the courthouse here Thursday.

A final decision will be made by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission within the next two months.

The railroad, which has asked that it be allowed to replace the full-time agent with a part-time custodian, was represented by a lawyer and auditor from the Chicago office and the superintendent from La Crosse. Nelson interests were represented by businessmen Ellis Scharr, William Voght and Linden McNellis; town board members Ben Larson, Roy Synstad, Chris Nenn and James Serum, and Ben Hermundson, a farmer.

Rail officials claim that the firm is losing money at the station under the present setup; townsmen are trying to keep the full-time service. After studying testimony, the commission will make its ruling. George Moline is the present station agent at Nelson.

Halloween Is Sunday, But When Do We Play 'Tricks or Treats' This Weekend

"Ware we coveyed mortals, on a night when goblins ride," (Twelfth Night)

Halloween, with all its traditional witches, hobgoblins and trenchant spirits rides its inky sky this weekend, with only vestiges of its ancient voodooisms left among our contemporary mores.

Liturgically, according to old man Webster, Halloween is the evening preceding Allhallows or All Saints Day—the evening of Oct. 31 (Sunday). He adds that in many countries it's a night devoted to merrymaking.

The two chief characteristics of ancient Halloween were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that this is the one night in the year during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad. History shows that the main celebrations of Halloween were purely Druidical and in some parts of Ireland Oct. 31 is still known as the "Vigil of Saman."

This is directly connected with the Druidic belief in the calling together of certain wicked souls on Halloween by Saman, lord of death. The custom of lighting Allhallows fires survived until recently in the highlands of Scotland and Wales.

In some countries, Halloween is known as "Beggars Night." In this country it's just plain old "tricks or treats."

"It will be correspondent to command and do no spiriting gently," (The Tempest)

Police Chief August Bingold said today that because many Winona children will be celebrating the eve on Saturday, instead of Sunday, local police will be patrolling heavily Saturday night. Bingold voiced the hope that Winonians will confine their fun to harmless mischief-making and maintain a proper decorum of law and order.

Sheriff George Fort, who will put nine special deputies and extra cars out on the official night—Sunday, asked this morning that parents and children cooperate in maintaining the county's trouble-free record of recent years.

"We're not going out with clubs," he said, "but we want to see that no serious harm is done."

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"Let people extend the hand of friendship and forgiveness to each other," Winston Churchill said in a recent London speech, "and walk forward together through the mysteries of life in freedom, justice and peace."

And there, in a few words was the secret of why, at least in my humble opinion, peaceful coexistence between the Reds and the free nations will never become a reality.

It is "the mysteries of life" in which we differ radically, and the road through these mysteries does not lead to the same destination, but splits into two units—one toward resurrection and a magnificent eternal future, the other only to the grave and oblivion.

Unless the "average man"—and I hate to use that term—has something to look forward to besides his daily toil, life has not much to offer.

It is the hope for an hereafter that supports most of us—Protestants, Catholics and Jews alike—and makes us travel through the many "mysteries of life" in equanimity and in the knowledge that some day the road will lead to a better life.

Few people, if any, can get much out of the chore of living just for its own sake. What then has the average Russian to be happy about, to look forward to, when not even the hope of a hereafter is permitted to him?

Surely the here on earth is nothing to be happy about for him; the constant living under the knout; the poverty; the complete lack of freedom; the awful climate in which he lives.

And after it is all over—what then? Nothing.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggly hopped through the back kitchen doorway of his hollow stump bungalow. He threw upon the kitchen table something that clattered, rattled and banged.

"Please make a pudding for me, Nurse Jane!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly to his muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Oh, goodness me, hum, zud and an egg beater turning somersets on a pancake!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "What kind of a pudding do you want, Mr. Longears?"

"I want a nut pudding, if you please, Nurse Jane," answered the rabbit gentleman. "Here are the nuts!" He pointed to the table.

"Where did you get them?" asked Nurse Jane.

"In the woods," replied Mr. Longears. "I went on a nutting party and I had an adventure."

"Did the bad chases you?" asked the muskrat lady.

"No, but I caught my paw in a hole in the ground. I couldn't get loose until Bosun came along and told me a story."

"I don't see how Bosun's story helped you get your paw loose," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"It was a story about a monkey who was too greedy. He put his paw into a hole and grabbed up so many nuts that he couldn't get his paw out. His paw was small when he thrust it into the hole, but his paw grew big when it was full of nuts."

"It was the same with me, Nurse Jane. After I let go of some of the nuts, I was able to draw out my paw. It taught me a lesson. But I brought the nuts here to you, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, and I wish you would make me a nut pudding."

"I can't do it," said the muskrat lady. "Why not?" Uncle Wiggly wanted to know.

"Because those nuts have hard shells on. If I put them in a pudding and you ate it, you would break your teeth."

"What must I do?" asked Uncle Wiggly. "I don't care for raw nuts, but I think I would like them in a pudding."

"I will make you a pudding," promised Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "if you will crack the nuts and pick out the soft meats. Throw the shells away, put the nut meats in a bowl. When I have finished sweeping and dusting the bungalow, I will make you a nut pudding."

"That's a date! Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggly. He sat in

Take our road in contrast. Life here on earth is just a preparation for better things to come.

It is the very mystery of the whole thing that makes it so interesting. It is the awareness that we have to be good and decent that makes us stay on the right road.

I wish that our pastors and priests and rabbis could do more in making the very young see the value of religion and imbue them with a faith that would keep them from going astray.

Unfortunately, however, religion does not seem to come to many people until they get very old, until they have almost reached the end of the road.

Then, suddenly they get scared. They realize all of a sudden that it's either up or down, but then it might be too late to turn back.

If this seems like a sermon, let it be. In talking to you, I am at the same time talking to myself.

How often do I really bother about religion? How much do I think of faith and about the goodness or badness of the things I do.

And how much do you? We travel through those "mysteries of life," as Churchill calls it, in freedom, that fortunately we still possess, and in peace, which fortunately we seem to be having at the moment. But in how much of "justice," of which he spoke, do we travel on the road?

Churchill himself is an old man. There are not many years left to him. He has journeyed through the "mysteries of life" as all of us have to journey through them.

But let us, who still have a way to go, be useful that we are on the right road.

How about another look at the map?

McCarthy Expects Vote of Censure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) predicted today the Senate will vote to censure him at its session beginning Nov. 8, because, he said, "very few" members will consider the evidence with an open mind.

"I don't have any thought at all that I'll get a majority of the votes," McCarthy told a reporter. It was the first time he had said this in so many words.

A special Senate committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), in a report made public Sept. 27, recommended that McCarthy "should be censured" on three specific counts. The Nov. 8 session was called to act on the report.

McCarthy said, "I am not going to defend myself before the Senate," but added he will speak at length on each censure count "to make a record so the American people will know what the Senate is doing."

Hunter Finds Home Best Place for Game

DETROIT (AP)—Glen Smith, 37, traveled nearly 150 miles and toted a heavy shotgun all day hunting pheasants the other day, but he didn't get one.

His wife Anna, 32, found one in the backyard of their home here yesterday. The bird had struck wire-mesh fence, crippling itself.

Clerical Error Prolongs His Prison Stay

CINCINNATI (AP)—An inmate at the Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus claimed today he's spent too much time in prison because of a clerical mistake. And prison officials think he may be right.

John D. Ingram, 55, convicted by a Hamilton County jury July 17, 1930, of a robbery which netted him 80 cents, wrote his troubles to the court clerk here.

"There appears to be some confusion and technical misunderstanding as to just what kind of sentence I got—definite or indefinite," he wrote.

As he remembers the trial, the judge sentenced him to 15 years. "I became a victim of circumstances because the clerk at the penitentiary made an unfortunate mistake and made it 15 to 25 years."

Court officials said Ingram was right—he was sent up for a 15 year term.

They plan to look into his record today, but they wonder why it took him more than nine years to figure he had

Anniversary To Be Marked By Elgin Church

ELGIN, Minn. (Special) — Trinity Lutheran Church here will observe its 60th anniversary in conjunction with a Reformation Day festival Sunday, with services at 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.

The Rev. Martin Weinholt, Rochester, will be guest speaker at morning worship services, while afternoon ceremonies will be led by the Rev. C. A. Aelfelt, Sauk Rapids, Minn., a pastor who once served the congregation here for 30 years.

Julius J. Polikowsky is the only remaining charter member of a corporate body founded Feb. 5, 1894. During its 60-year history, the congregation has worshipped in three church buildings. The first building was remodeled and is still serving the parish as a Christian day school. The second was struck by lightning and totally destroyed and the present edifice was dedicated Dec. 10, 1922.

Since its founding, the congregation has been served by five pastors. The present pastor, the Rev. Edward A. Lazar, came to Elgin in 1951 and the Christian day school has been in operation since 1917.

Records of the church show 818 baptisms, 724 confirmations, 277 marriages and 251 burials. Present membership totals 471 communicants and 128 children.

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special) — Kenneth Hultgren, Minneapolis, district lay leader for Methodist Men, was the featured speaker when the first fall meeting of the group was held at Plainview Methodist Church Wednesday.

In four years of the subject, "What is Really Important in Life?" he said, "this church and its work is important. Many people do not want to be impeded by ideals and standards of the church."

Citing the need for financial aid for the work of God, Hultgren continued, "Money for lunch lasts us five hours; money for a car five months; money for water power (dams) five generations; but money for the kingdom of God is for eternity."

Hultgren pointed up the need for Sunday School attendance in early life in order that delinquency may be avoided later, suggested more Christian exemplary living and voiced the hope that men would cease trying to disarrange God's plan for living.

Plainview Pastor, Wife Back From European Visit

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special) — A Plainview pastor and his wife have returned here after a two-month flyer through Europe and its capitals, complete with the Parisian grand tour and a look at the social and economic customs of war-scarred Europe.

The Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Schoewe left Winona July 11 and were among 2,000 persons who made the Atlantic crossing on the luxury liner Ile de France—a vessel only 100 feet shorter in overall length than the liner Queen Mary.

Landing in Le Havre, France, the pair proceeded to St. Nazaire, France, there visiting their son, Chaplain Theodore Schoewe Jr., and his family, who are stationed there. The two families toured France together, making educational stops at three ancient feudal castles, several other more contemporary chateaus and winding up in Paris, where they visited the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the Eiffel Tower and the Arc de Triumpe.

They saw ancient farms throughout the country, many of them similar to those found in Minnesota, with wheat, sugar beets and grapes, and the making of the more than 500 years old and all have their barn attached to the home, with hay crops stored in an overhead loft.

The two visited Switzerland and southern Germany, but were not allowed into Communist-controlled Germany, where Pastor Schoewe has relatives living at the present time.

They re-embarked on the Ile de France Sept. 28, weathered three days of zero visibility storms across the Atlantic and arrived in New York Oct. 4.

The Rev. Mr. Schoewe is pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church here.

Fillmore Circuit Meets Sunday at Central Lutheran

Central Lutheran Church of Winona will continue its program of dedication Sunday, when it plays host to the parishes of the Fillmore Circuit of the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the churches of Winona.

Two special services will be held Sunday, at 9 and 10:15 a. m., with Dr. Quanebeck speaking.

The fall conference of the Fillmore Circuit will get under way at 2:30 p. m., with the Rev. Overt Rust, Spring Grove, presiding. Combined choirs of Central Lutheran will sing the anthems.

Following afternoon sessions, the choral union will rehearse in the church under the direction of the Rev. R. S. Vordahl. At 8 p. m. the annual fall conference of the reformation will be held, with churches of the Winona Ministerial Association joining with the circuit parishes in the service.

The choral union will sing the anthems and Dr. Quanebeck will deliver the Reformation address, taking the place of the regular annual reformation service sponsored by the local association.

During the intermission between afternoon and evening programs, lunch will be served by the women of the church in Fellowship Hall.

World Traveler Galesville Speaker

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — Dr. Marcus Bach, recently returned from a tour of the world, will be a guest of Galesville Presbyterians Sunday, when he will speak at four separate meetings.

Styling the event a "Bach Festival," the Rev. H. A. Wisner, pastor, has announced the various meetings at which Bach will address members.

At a "gentlemen's breakfast" at 9 a. m., "Secrets Men Live By" will be the topic. "The Second Mile" will be Dr. Bach's theme for his talk at the morning worship service at 11 a. m. He will meet with young people of the church at a fellowship dinner at 5:30 p. m. and at 8 p. m. will be heard at a mass meeting in the church auditorium. His talk, commemorating Reformation Sunday, will be on "The Main from Nazareth."

Dr. Bach is known as an author, world traveler and lecturer. He is head of the school of religion at the University of Iowa and the author of six books on religion.

In his latest travels, Bach toured Europe, parts of the Holy Land and North Africa. At Lambarene in Africa he met and visited Dr. Albert Schweitzer, acclaimed as the world's greatest living authority in several fields, including religion, medicine and music.

U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl looks at a picture of himself and friends with a 42-pound muskie as he poses in his office in Washington. The former Minnesota governor, who says he'd rather fish than eat, caught the

Youngdahl Top Example for Son's Thesis

By KARL R. BAUMAN

WASHINGTON (Special) — "Christianity in Politics" is the title chosen for his master's thesis by William Youngdahl, who is going to be a Lutheran minister. His Exhibit A: Dad.

Young Bill's dad is U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, much in the news lately as a result of the legal hassle over his handling of the Owen Lattimore perjury case.

The judge, a six-footer, reads scriptural passages each day before he dons his black robes to take his place on the bench. And, likely as not, he already has addressed an early morning prayer meeting.

As for politics, this ruggedly handsome son of Scandinavian immigrants never lost a race in his native Minnesota and never failed to top the Republican ticket, whether running for municipal judge or governor.

When people, as they often do, refer to the judge as a deeply religious man, he makes no objection.

But he doesn't like to have it mentioned in print that he never takes a drink and doesn't smoke. His reason: People sometimes get the idea that such a man must be a bluenose or an old fogey.

Basically an animated, friendly man, Judge Youngdahl can be as impassive as Caesar's bust. As when U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover last week told him to his face the judge has "a fixed, personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore and against the government. So, Rover said, he should step aside and let another judge preside at the forthcoming trial of the controversial Far Eastern specialist.

Rover's affidavit, he said, was based upon the "virulent notion" that a federal judge "who adheres to the sacred constitutional presumption that a man is innocent until his guilt is established by due process of law has a 'bent of mind' that disables him from conducting a fair and impartial trial to which both the accused and the government are entitled."

Silver-haired at 58, Judge Youngdahl, silver-haired and sun-tanned at 58, keeps himself in physical condition by daily setting-up exercises and twice-weekly trips to the YMCA.

He also plays golf whenever he can find time for it, and fishes as often as he can.

Exhibit A of young Bill Youngdahl's "Christianity in Politics" is pleased by what he views as increased participation of churching people in political affairs. This he regards as a good, practical development.

The judge's father, John C. Youngdahl, came from Sweden as a boy and settled in Minneapolis. His mother also was born in Sweden, was reared in Norway.

John Youngdahl ran a grocery store for more than 40 years and fathered 10 children. As a boy, Luther delivered groceries and sold newspapers to help pay for his education, which was stressed in the Youngdahl household along with religion and hard work. All the 10 young Youngdahls went to college and eight of them got degrees. Most of the family turned to a humanitarian professions—preachers, teachers, and so on.

World War I interrupted the future judge's education. He went into the Army as private and came out as a lieutenant.

The war over, he went back to college, obtaining his law degree from the University of Minnesota in 1921. Since then, except for six years in private practice with former Judge M. C. Tift, he has been in public service—assistant city attorney of Minneapolis, municipal judge, circuit judge, judge of the State Supreme Court and finally, governor.

He resigned from the State Supreme Court to run for governor in 1948. He won and was re-elected in 1950 and 1952, the last time by 255,000 votes to become Minnesota's fifth three-term governor in half a century.

When former President Truman offered him a federal judgeship here in 1951, Youngdahl resigned as governor to accept it. Youngdahl says he considered a return to the judicial field, his true love.

How did he get into the news now? Owen Lattimore was indicted for perjury. The case was assigned to Youngdahl.

The first count of the indictment alleged that Lattimore, who had once been a State Department consultant, swore falsely before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee when he said he had never been a Communist sympathizer or promoter of Red causes. That charge, Youngdahl said in throwing it out, was "nebulous" and "indefinite."

Said the judge: "In our proper concern for the internal and external threat of Communism and in pursuing our efforts to strike down this threat, we should endeavor to be consistent and not attempt to require a conformity of thought that has no relevance to a present danger to our security."

Soil and Water Loan Program Extended to Area

Western Practice Given All of U.S. By 83rd Congress

ALMA, Wis.—Jens Uhrenholdt and Ruth Brommer of the Farmers Home Administration office, Alma, were in Sparta last week attending a training meeting in connection with the new soil and water conservation loan program which will be administered by their agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Uhrenholdt reports that water facilities loans have been available in 17 western states for several years but the 83rd Congress expanded the program and soil and water conservation loans are now available in all states. "The basic objectives," said Uhrenholdt, "are to encourage and facilitate the improvement, protection and proper use of farm land by providing adequate financing for soil, conservation, water development and use, and many other related purposes. Farmers realize the importance of the proper use of soil and water but so often those who need to follow good farming practices are unable to lay aside enough of their income to offset the cost of the beneficial conservation practices which they would like to apply. We are hopeful that this new loan program will overcome the barrier to their progress and success."

"Any farm owner or operator who is without sufficient resources to pay for the proposed improvements and unable to obtain the necessary credit on reasonable terms and conditions from private or cooperative credit sources available in the area is eligible for a loan. Loans for most any purpose directly related to the conservation of soil and for water may be obtained. The borrower pays 4 1/2 per cent interest, with payments scheduled for the shortest period consistent with his ability to pay."

"As with our insured farm mortgage program," continued Uhrenholdt, "funds for soil and water loans can be advanced by private lenders and such loans will be insured by the government." The Farmers Home Administration will process and service the loans, make collections and the lender will get 3 1/2 per cent interest.

4-H Achievement Day Nov. 13 at Whitehall

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—Trempealeau County's annual 4-H achievement day program will be held Nov. 13, at the city hall here according to Ray Shanklin, county club agent.

IN GUERNSEY CLUB

LAMOLLE, Minn.—Earl H. Holtzworth, Lamolille, has been accepted for junior membership in the American Guernsey Cattle Club. He will receive a membership certificate and have the privilege of registering his Guernsey at member rate. Nearly 900 young people all over the United States have been accepted for junior membership in the AGCC since this program started in June. They must be individual owners of one or more purebred Guernseys, and at least one of the animals must be registered or become registered at the time the youngster's application for membership is processed.

Some other fall hints for homemakers:

Medium-sized eggs are expected to be the best buys this fall, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In general, unless there's less than eight cents spread between grade A large eggs and grade A mediums, the mediums are as good or a better buy.

To avoid finding silverfish in your summer cottons next spring, pack them away without starching them. A five per cent D.D. surface spray or residual spray in the closet, chest or clothes bag will also control them.

A little extra planning for efficiency in carrying out least-laid household tasks will save the homemaker time, energy and peace of mind. And there'll be more time for special interests, too.

Use some of those tomatoes that didn't quite ripen in green tomato relishes and pickled green tomatoes.

So you're always sure to have bread on hand for packing those school lunches, keep several different kinds of bread in the freezer.

Blue Concord, the most plentiful of the grape varieties, makes excellent jelly, jam or juice. Choose grapes with a slight green tinge for jelly, jam—they have more of the thickening agent, pectin.

Homemakers' Craft Institute At Winona YMCA Tuesday

By MRS. JOYCE RANDALL
LEWISTON, Minn.—Members of Winona County's 48 extension homemakers groups have been invited to attend a craft institute next week.

Four different types of crafts will be taught at the YMCA in Winona Tuesday. Identical sessions will be held from 10 to 12 a.m. and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Miss Ruth Nicnow, Rochester, will teach Swedish weaving (huck towel weaving). Textile painting will be taught by Mrs. Frederick Eidefeldt of Winona. Women who know just a little about textile painting as well as the newest beginners are invited to learn more.

There always seems to be women who want to know more about making rugs—particularly braided rugs. An expert in that field, Mrs. William Haase of Winona, will be very glad to help all those who are interested in rug making. We have many homemakers who are interested in cake decorating so they can trim cakes for special occasions. After seeing professional decorators do their work, the homemakers are discouraged because it seems so far out of their reach. To help homemakers see that they can do many simple, pretty things easily Mrs. Herbert Luehmann and Mrs. Lester Felsch, Norton Township and Mrs. B. J. Jereczek, Winona will teach this class.

On display will be a number of other items which can be made easily. Perhaps some idea for Christmas gifts could be gleaned from the display as well as the craft classes.

Members of the committee planning the craft institute are: Mrs. Lester Felsch, Bethany, chairman; Mrs. James Preston, Rollingstone; Mrs. John Ford, Winona R. 3; Mrs. Russell Erickson, Lamolille; and Mrs. George Mathis, Winona R. 1.

James Heike, also of Mondovi, won fourth place in the state senior contour plowing contest. These two contestants were sponsored by the Buffalo County Soil Conservation District Supervisors with the Jackson Implement Co. and the Mondovi Implement Co. cooperating.

Purpose of the organization is to promote soil conservation practices by cooperation and combined effort of all farmers in the area.

Housewife Helps Set Farm Prices, FB Officer Says

WABASHA, Minn.—"The American housewife votes every day whether she will raise or lower the price of farm products she decides to buy," the secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation declared at a Wabasha County membership "checkup" meeting and dinner here Monday night.

The occasion, attended by more than 200 county farmers and their wives, was a mid-dinner meeting to determine the extent of countywide coverage for the 1935 Farm Bureau membership work now under way in the county. Mrs. Clayton Pfeiffer, Mazonia farm wife and county Farm Bureau secretary, reported 317 family memberships tabulated in the county for the 1935 year, with a quota of 400 for the goal. Although most townships are still completing voluntary work, the Elgin unit reported a membership already topping last year with some 30 farm families signed and work still in progress.

Following the turkey dinner served by women of the Episcopal Church, J. Delbert Wells, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, spoke about the dangers of accepting false statements about farming that contain sufficient truth to be convincing. Among those prevalent, he said, was the thought that "farm prices are made in Washington." The farm leader stated that there are some 60 individual factors that combine to determine "price" and that they included such things as quality, varieties, location of supply, amount of supply and available demand. He pointed out the dangers of accepting the thought that prices should be made in Washington, contrary to all democratic concepts.

These concepts aim at strict local control of such factors, to keep the power of government in the hands of the people, he said. Elsewhere in his talk, Wells stated that another fallacy lay in the thought that price supports have been responsible for farm prosperity. "The fact of the matter is that the prosperity in 12 out of the last 14 years has been tied to war. We've tried the same farm support program for two years without a war, and we've had a most miserable time."

Corn Price Support Arrangements Made In Trempealeau Co.

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—Price support for the 1934 corn crop in Trempealeau County is $1.60 per bushel, Raymond A. Lam-berson, chairman of the Trempealeau County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced.

He explained that the figure is based on the national parity price of corn as of Sept. 15, which was $1.80 per bushel.

In Trempealeau, a commercial corn county, farmers may put their corn in approved storage and secure a loan on the stored corn at 90 per cent of parity. To be eligible for corn price support in commercial corn areas, farmers must be in compliance with the farm's corn acreage allotment. Ear or shelled corn must be grade No. 3 or better except that corn grading No. 4 because of test weight is also eligible for price support. The corn must be adequately stored and meet moisture requirements. Price support is carried through Commodity Credit Corporation loans and purchase agreements. These will be available to eligible growers through May 31, 1935, and will mature July 31, 1935.

State PTA Doubles Scholarships for Teacher Training

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers is acting to meet the teacher shortage by doubling its scholarship fund for high school graduates taking up education as a career.

The PTA board of managers, governing body, voted Friday in a post-convention session to extend scholarships yearly to 16 deserving students. Eight selected from the state's five PTA districts entered teacher training courses this fall. In return for scholarships, recipients agree to teach at least one year in Minnesota after completing schooling.

The board reported also that Minnesota is within $50 of meeting its $15,000 goal for construction of the new national PTA headquarters in Chicago. The $300,000 structure, now being built, is to be dedicated next spring.

The state meeting just closed set a new record with 1,845 delegates registered, compared with 1,687 in 1933, which also was a record. Duluth was picked for the 1935 convention, during the last week of October and with specific dates to be set later.

Mrs. J. M. Walgren, St. Paul, was elected president of the Minnesota PTA presidents committee, a group made up of the heads of state districts. Mrs. Franklin Meyer, Oak Park, is vice president, and Mrs. Edward Moore, Hollandale, secretary.

Fruit Growers Here Next Week

W. H. Alderman

Members of the Minnesota Fruit Growers' Association and the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society will hold their annual meeting at the Hotel Winona Thursday and Friday.

According to J. D. Winter, secretary of the Minnesota Fruit Growers' Association and associate professor of horticulture at the University of Minnesota, more than 100 fruit growers and horticulturists from Minnesota and Wisconsin are expected to attend the meeting. A demonstration of apple bagging is scheduled for the opening session Thursday morning. Thursday afternoon's program will be given over to discussions of various problems of insect and disease control in the orchard.

Promising new varieties of fruits, promotion of apple sales by grower organizations, the Minnesota orchard pest warning service and new orchard practices in Wisconsin are among subjects to be discussed Friday. Staff members of the University of Minnesota and University of Wisconsin will be speakers at the two-day session.

Featured speaker at the annual banquet Thursday evening will be W. H. Alderman, formerly head of the department of horticulture at the University of Minnesota. He will discuss his experiences in Greece, where he held a Fulbright appointment at the University of Salonika last year. In connection with the meeting, growers will exhibit new and old varieties of apples and other fruits.

Acreage Change Effects Explained

PRESTON, Minn.—"How do recent changes in regulations regarding acreage allotments affect my operations?" is a question frequently asked by Fillmore County farmers since the announcement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that total acreage allotments will not be necessary in 1935.

In general, compliance with all individual acreage allotments, or cross-compliance, is still a requirement for price support eligibility on any price-supported crops, explained County Agent Milton Hoberg. The principal change is in the use that can be made of acres diverted from allotment crops.

Previously, under the total acreage allotment provision, these acres could be used only for hay, pasture and a limited number of other specific crops. Now they have been freed for any use that a farmer desires, except that he must not exceed his 1932-33 average acreage of commercial vegetables, potatoes and dry beans if he wishes to obtain price supports on any of his crops.

Another change in the regulations affects small acreages of wheat. Up to 15 acres of wheat may be harvested without affecting eligibility for price support on other crops such as corn. Price support on wheat itself will be surrendered if the acreage harvested exceeds the farm acreage allotment, but there will be no marketing penalties up to 15 acres.

Although farmers now have much more latitude in the use of acres diverted from allotment crops, it is hoped, Hoberg said, that many of these acres will be used in such a way as to promote soil and moisture conservation. Financial assistance under the agricultural conservation program, carrying out such measures will be limited to farmers who observe all their crop acreage allotments, including those on wheat.

Andre Buys Store At Independence

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special)—Glen Sather, owner and operator of Sather's Store, has sold his business to William Andre, now of Eau Claire but a former Independence man.

In May 1949, A. S. Fenney, Eau Claire, established the meat and grocery store and operated it until September 1949 when Glen Sather came from La Crosse and purchased it.

Andre worked 6 1/2 years as a clerk at the Farmer's Store at Whitehall and 3 1/2 years as a clerk for Fenney and Sather. Since then he has been a wholesale salesman at Eau Claire for three years.

He takes possession Monday but will hold his grand opening at a later date. Miss Jeanette Pape will continue as clerk and Mrs. Theresa Longmeier, Mr. Andre's sister, will be parttime clerk.

Sather's future plans are indefinite.

St. Paul Red Takes Case to High Court

ST. PAUL, Minn. (U)—Samuel Horowitz, St. Paul Communist party organizer fighting extradition to Wisconsin, Thursday took his case to the state Supreme Court.

Horowitz, held in the city jail here, is wanted in Wisconsin for having a driver's license and car under an assumed name. A writ of habeas corpus for Horowitz was discharged in district court last week.

Attorneys will be given 60 days to file briefs with the Supreme Court. The court is then expected to set a date for a hearing.

Powell Given Year for Contempt

WASHINGTON (U)—Clyde L. Powell, ousted assistant federal housing commissioner, was sentenced today to serve a year in jail for criminal contempt of court.

The sentence was imposed by U. S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who ruled that Powell had "willfully, deliberately and contumaciously" disobeyed his order that Powell answer specific questions put to him by a federal grand jury.

The grand jury is investigating charges of bribery and misconduct in the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). Powell had charge of a multi-million-dollar mortgage program which has been under fire.

The ostrich, though unable to fly, is by no means helpless against its enemies. Its 12 ft. stride carries it along at a good forty miles an hour. This giant bird can sense danger from afar as it is over seven feet tall and has keen vision.

Read what the Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association have to say about Representative Daley in the September issue of their official publication: "The Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association does not attempt to favor or endorse any particular party in politics. It does, however, give recognition and support to men of any party who are helpful to the dairy industry and who are performing valuable service in behalf of agriculture in general, dairying in particular. Representative George P. Son of First Negro General Now One Too

Benjamin Davis Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It took Benjamin Oliver Davis Sr., a descendant of slaves, 41 years to become a brigadier general. His son, Benjamin Jr., made it Wednesday after 18 years.

"And that's as it should be," said the senior Davis, now retired. "If my boy couldn't do better than I did, I'd feel that I had failed as a father."

When the elder Davis became a brigadier Oct. 20, 1940, at the age of 63, he was the first Negro to become a U.S. Army general.

Now, 14 years and a week later, his son is the first Negro brigadier general in the Air Force.

"There are no other Negro generals, I am sorry to say," Davis told reporters. "Nor are there any admirals of my race. But these things are coming, what with the recent Supreme Court decision on segregation."

"The things that are coming are for the best of all concerned. For one of the biggest blots on America, especially since we have assumed world leadership, is so-called segregation."

Benjamin Jr., 41, stationed in Tokyo, is director of operations and training for the Far East Air Force. He was born here Dec. 18, 1912. He attended Western Reserve University and the University of Chicago before winning an appointment to West Point. Davis graduated 27th in his class at the military academy in 1936 and was commissioned in the Army infantry.

When his father became a brigadier general, young Capt. Davis served for a time as the general's aide. Then he transferred to the Air Corps.

He commanded the 99th Pursuit Squadron in North Africa in World War II, and later organized the 332nd Fighter Group and commanded it in the North African and Italian campaigns. He flew about 60 combat missions.

Advice on Health Rheumatic Fever Hard On Heart

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

One disease that damages the human heart more often than any other disorder is rheumatic fever. It is well recognized now that rheumatic fever starts from infections in the nose and throat with streptococcus germs.

Such streptococcal infections are common in youngsters and they are as serious as they are common. Not only may those who have these germs in the throat infect others, through contact, but they themselves are in danger of developing rheumatic fever.

In this disease, there is pain and swelling in the joints, anemia or lessening of coloring in the blood, fever, and, most serious of all, damage to the heart.

It has now been found that these infections can be prevented in those who have had an attack of rheumatic fever by taking daily doses of penicillin which can be administered by mouth.

For example, 59 youngsters were given this penicillin over periods ranging from three to 10 months. They took one tablet of the preparation supplying 200,000 units every day. Not one of them had a recurrence of rheumatic fever over this period of time. It was also found that the children had a general improvement in their health.

During the year prior to the administration of the penicillin, 21 of the children had been absent from school a total of 983 days. With the penicillin, the total lost time was only 193 days, a decrease of more than 80 per cent.

Of course, the penicillin should be given only under the direction of the physician. This method of preventing rheumatic fever appears to have great value.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
A.E.S.: A member of my family is afflicted with shaking palsy. What causes it?

Answer: The exact cause of this disorder is not known, but the most common cause is Parkinson's disease, which is due to some changes in the brain.

There are drugs which may help relieve the symptoms. Your physician can prescribe them.

city of less than 550,000 upstate — not good enough. But if the upstate vote is pushed well over 3,000,000, Ives' upstate lead may be enough to kill off Harriman. The bitter attacks on Harriman are thus designed, not so much to change the voters' minds, as to stir them up and get them interested in the election, thus showing the elastic upstate vote over the 3,000,000 mark.

GOP Pushes for Big Vote
At the same time, the Republicans are now using every possible other means to get out the upstate vote. And the Democrats admit privately that the Ives-Dewey strategy, however questionable in other ways, is politically effective.

Add that the polling experts are predicting a narrowing in the spread between Harriman and Ives, and it is clear why it is unsafe to predict any Democratic sweep. All over the country, in fact, the Republicans last ditch effort is beginning to worry the previously jubilant Democrats.

Yet there are also some curious and significant sidelights on the New York election, which seem clearly to favor the Democrats. At first, for example, it was thought that the below-normal New York City registration was a very bad sign for Harriman. Closer examination showed a curious pattern. Registration is normal or better in the Jewish and Negro districts, while it is down 12 per cent in the German districts, and a whopping 18 per cent to 20 per cent in the predominantly Irish districts.

Jewish and Negro voters are by and large far more dependably Democratic than voters in German and Irish districts. Thus this curious pattern is taken to mean that the drop in registration has hurt the Republicans just about as badly as the Democrats. And the further fact that there was a drop of about 8 per cent in registration in silk-stocking, Republican areas, seem to confirm this interpretation.

Sentiment in Suburbs
Another curious phenomenon is the sentiment in the suburbs, as reflected in the polls. The great exodus from the big cities to the vast suburban developments has been a tremendous asset to the Republicans. In 1952, for example, Eisenhower took the New York suburbs by an astonishing margin of nearly 400,000 votes. This year the polls show that the Republicans have suddenly lost ground in the suburbs.

The established commuting areas, where the Democratic immigrants from the city are absorbed into an overwhelmingly Republican community, remain heavily Republican. But the vast impersonal developments, which are less like ordinary suburbs than huge horizontal apartment houses, are rapidly going Democratic. Where the suburbs used to go Republican 2 to 1, the margin this year looks like being reduced to 3 to 2.

This shift alone should help Harriman immensely. Indeed, with Harriman so far ahead in the polls, there should be no worries in Harriman's camp. But there are. One of the shrewdest Harriman men said this about the election: "I think we'll win. But I think it will be close. We reached our high point about ten days ago, but now the Republicans are building. That's true not only here in New York, but everywhere. I can't wait for Nov. 2."

School Lighting Bids Received
The Board of Education met in special session Thursday to open bids for the installation of fluorescent lighting fixtures in selected classrooms in four public schools.

Two Winona firms bid on the project which carried the specification that proposals should be made for as many rooms as could be done for under $5,500.

The two bids were received from the Winona Electric Construction Co., $5,449, and the Kline Electric Shop, $5,475.

Board members noted that Kline appeared to have proposed several more fixtures than were covered in the Winona Electric Construction Co. bid.

The two proposals were held over for further study until another special meeting next Monday.

Superintendent of Grounds John Timmons was instructed to inspect the fixtures bid upon to determine whether they meet the specifications.

Educational TV Amendment Up For Vote Tuesday

MADISON (AP)—"Let the people decide."

In Wisconsin when the legislators want the people to decide an issue, it brings on a referendum like the one next Tuesday on educational television.

The 1953 Legislature, faced with a proposal to approve spending millions of dollars for such a system, concluded the bill was too big without advice from home and ordered the question put up to the voters.

Residents are asked in the referendum if they want their tax money used to set up a 12-station, non-commercial network that would be devoted entirely to educational broadcasting.

Finances, of course, play a major role in the whole situation. It is generally agreed it would cost 3½ million dollars to put the system in operation. Estimates on the annual cost of keeping it going range from $400,000 to $600,000.

It should be pointed out that the referendum is strictly an advisory expression and the Legislature is not bound to follow the outcome.

State voters will have another referendum to consider Tuesday, but it does not involve taxes, money and all that goes with the heated radio issue.

It involves a fundamental right, a liberalization of the election law and there hasn't been a peep about it.

If more people vote "yes" than "no" on this one it will mean persons who have resided in the state for less than one year will be able to vote for presidential and vice presidential electors.

Present law bars voting by anyone who has not lived in Wisconsin a year. In this one passes, newcomers could vote for presidential and vice presidential electors but not for any other candidates.

Under the proposed change, a new state resident would have to prove he was a qualified voter in the state from which he came.

Blast Kills 6 In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A sixth fireman died today from injuries suffered in the blast in the rear of a chemical plant Thursday killed three fire officials and two other firemen.

The latest victim was James Doyle, 32. He had suffered second and third degree burns of 40 per cent of his body.

Authorities probed the cause of the blast. City officials ordered flags at police and fire stations flown at half-mast for 30 days.

The freak explosion — there was no fire — did not damage the inside of the two story Charles W. Berg Laboratories plant. It shattered a tank minutes after the arrival of firemen summoned by a telephoned report of seeping ammonia fumes in the area.

The plant, which manufactures chemical and oil derivatives, was empty in the early morning hours when the blast occurred.

Fire Marshal Frank McNamee said internal pressure apparently caused the explosion. The tank had an escape vent at the top which he said, apparently was clogged.

John Judge of the Municipal Licenses Department said the chemical firm failed to obtain a license for the storage of chemicals despite two notices this year from his office.

The fire marshal's office theorizes the caller may have detected fumes escaping from the 15-foot tank in the rear which contained not ammonia but a highly volatile solvent used in treating textiles.

and behind their complaints there is always a weather-wise eye toward the skies. The big greenheads can come any morning now.

Steele doesn't think the wild rice crop, especially along the river, has much bearing on ducks. It is a very minor food crop here—rated very low in importance, and elsewhere has been replaced by grain in the fields. He reports that this year there is the best wild rice crop in 25 years along the upper river. Blackbirds, however, get most of it.

Boys Night
It will be Boys Night when the members of the Will Dig Chapter of the Isaac Walton League hold their November meeting at the Prairie Island cabin Thursday, Nov. 11. A program of interest to boys is being arranged. There will be lunch and entertainment.

Fathers are urged to bring their sons, grandsons or someone else's boy. It is part of the national league program of greater interest in the youth of America. It will be recalled that the league sponsored the national youth conference in Chicago last spring.

Lowiston Meeting
The Lewiston Sportsmen's Club and the Lewiston post of the American Legion will hold a repeat performance of their successful joint meeting Wednesday evening at the Legion clubrooms there. A venison dinner will be served at 7 p. m. and a full program is being arranged for the evening, according to Walt Stollwagen, president, and Bob Kuz, Legion commander.

Duck Weather
The wind came but no ducks. That's about the way the waterfowl hunters summed up the first real duck weather so far this fall, and there is a great big questionmark in the minds of many of them as to whether the ducks will come at all this fall.

Out in the Dakotas where the mallards always ride southward ahead of the diving ducks, the latter, flyway biologists tell us, have come but no big flight of mallards. The story from the duck hunting passes beyond the border certainly has not been encouraging.

Supt. Ray C. Steele of the Refuge, back from his 500-mile trip down the river with top Washington officials, reports no ducks and complaining hunters all the way to St. Louis. The ducks should be here and there now, they know, but most of them, like the Winona area hunters, have enjoyed no good hunting.

Badger Game Aides Fined $100 for Keeping Pheasants

WATERTOWN, Wis. (AP)—Maximum fines of $100 each and costs were levied against two conservation department employees by a justice of peace who said they had "violated their trust" in keeping two pheasants they were supposed to stock.

Justice of the Peace George Niemann, who presided at the jury trial in which George Amelung and Wesley Goetz were found guilty, delivered a sharp lecture before imposing sentence Thursday. He told the two men they had done great harm to the state and conservation movement.

Amelung and Goetz, aides of the game management division stationed at Horicon, still face a conservation department investigation which will determine whether they will keep their jobs. They will be

Return Bus Lines To Local Control, Governor Asks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Anderson, Republican bidding for re-election, today called for return of community bus lines to local control, while Sen. Humphrey, the top DFL candidate, was asking for an emergency state meeting to discuss what he termed "collapsed" poultry and dairy prices.

The two speeches were highlights as the host of candidates in Minnesota's general election Tuesday started counting their remaining campaign time in hours instead of days. There were 72 hours from midnight tonight until the Monday midnight deadline but many aspirants to office indicated they would forego Sunday talks, thus holding them to 48 hours of vote-seeking.

In an early morning radio talk, the governor said the regulation of buses "belongs close to the people who must pay for such transportation."

"That regulation should not rest with the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission," the governor said in his prepared text. "It should be returned to the local level, not only in the Twin Cities, but in such other cities as Albert Lea, St. Cloud, Duluth, Rochester, Brainerd, Winona and other cities having such service."

"Through the years, I have been a believer in the principle of home rule, leaving to local governments as much authority as they adequately can handle."

Anderson said also that it appeared bus fares should be cut instead of raised in the Twin Cities. He pointed out that the switch of the Twin City Rapid Transit Co. from streetcar to bus lines had cut the firm's investment from 32 million dollars to 14 millions.

"In view of this drastic reduction, it would appear bus fares should be reduced rather than increased," he referred to a recent company petition asking a straight 20-cent fare, plus 2 cents for transfers.

Humphrey made his conference suggestion in letters sent to the Minnesota Poultry, Butter & Egg Assn., Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, Minnesota State Farmers Union and the Minnesota Grange.

"With pullet eggs selling as low as 5 cents a dozen and Grade A at 17 and with another $200 million dollar decline in dairy come forecast for 1935, it is time emergency steps were taken," the senator said.

Humphrey went on in his letter that it was "a bread-and-butter problem vital to Minnesota's economy and not just a partisan matter." He said, regardless of who is elected, it was "time to bring state and federal officials together with farm organizations to develop a program they will press vigorously."

Val Bjornson, Humphrey's GOP opponent, said that in talking this week before three college groups he had found in the state's youth a basic loyalty to the American way, a belief in soundness of our free enterprise system and individual initiative.

"I also found that Americans are bound to continue what we have achieved recently in the way of decency, honesty and integrity in government, both at state and national levels under the Eisenhower administration," Bjornson concluded.

Little Girl Found Dead in Eerie Halloween Setting

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A little girl was found dead early this morning in an eerie Halloween setting in a cemetery two miles from her home in nearby Conemaugh. A member of a searching party, badly organized after the girl was reported missing by her parents, stumbled across the nude body. Her tattered Halloween costume was lying near her head. Near the body was an apple and a little bag of candy which she apparently had gathered in the traditional Halloween custom of "trick or treat."

Police identified the girl as six-year-old Karen Mauk. The cause of her death was not immediately determined. Deputy Cambria County Coroner Richard P. Wilkinson ordered an autopsy, but said there were "no visible marks" on Karen's body.

Police said they were working on several leads in the girl's death. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mauk, said Karen left home alone about 6:30 p.m. to join a cousin, Paul Lindenberg, about 8, to make the rounds of homes begging for Halloween favors.

The cousin returned home about 7 p.m. The girl's parents reported Karen missing about 8:30 p.m. Police searched the Conemaugh area for two hours without success, then the fire siren was sounded to summon firemen and volunteers to join in the search.

The body was discovered about 12:30 a.m. by Steve Steffish and Richard Barkley. It was taken to Johnstown Memorial Hospital for the autopsy later.

U.S. Asks Support For U.N. Forces

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States sought approval today for its six-point plan to bolster U. N. forces against aggression. Diplomats predicted the proposal would win strong support despite expected Soviet opposition.

U. S. Delegate Charles A. Mahoney prepared to go before the 60-nation Political Committee to present the plan, under which the U. N. would pay for supplies and equipment used in collective military action against any future aggressor.

U. S. sources said Mahoney would point out the close connection between disarmament and collective measures in the development of a safe, secure world. They said he would stress the need for fast participation by member states in any future collective action.

The U. S. plan was approved by the 14-nation Collective Measures Committee, whose annual report furnished the basis for today's debate.

The plan calls on U. N. members to contribute to the best of their ability—sending troops, supplies or money. It also urges the U. N. to support action taken by regional pacts such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Informants said the United States probably would support a move to continue the life of the Measures Committee, established under the Truman-Acheson "uniting for peace" program in 1950.

There was some question whether the Political Committee would be asked to extend the existence of the collective measures group for another year, or give it permanent status.

Delegates predicted—unless something unexpected develops—the security measures debate should wind up early next week. But there were rumors Russia might consider the debate a good occasion to come up with some proposal of her own.

Russia has refused to have any part in the Collective Measures Committee, arguing that the issue lay within the province of the Security Council rather than the Assembly.

Each center would handle about 200 observation posts. States involved are: Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona, Louisiana, Utah, Arkansas and Kansas—and parts of Tennessee and Florida.

Maj. M. C. Des Voignes, Nashville, state coordinator for the Ground Observer Corps, said each center would require about 1,000 volunteers. Each post will need at least 25—more if watch is kept on 24-hour basis.

Target date for starting operations and training is July 1.

Uncle Sam's Training An Asset

By HAL BOYLE
MORGANVILLE, N. J. (AP)—Parents, when a son is drafted for military service, sometimes complain: "I wouldn't want my boy to duck his duty to the country. But it does seem such a terrible waste of time, now that we are at peace. And he's so young. He'll be surrounded by all kinds of temptations. It's so easy for a kid his age to go wrong."

Whenever I hear a father or mother carry on like this, I feel like telling them the story of Steve Lavoie. His career is an example of how military service, far from hurting a kid, can help him get his feet on the ground and find a real goal in life.

$12 Million A Year
Steve, silver-haired but still tough-fisted at 53, operates a $12,000,000-a-year electronics firm.

This is Steve's saga. "It was a problem child in high school. Never in any big trouble, but always in some kind of mischief."

A heart-to-heart talk with a sympathetic teacher convinced Steve he was wasting his time. Although he was 16, he managed to enlist in the Navy by fibbing about his age. The Navy sent him to radio school, mustered him out with disability pay after two years because of an injury.

He talked Northeastern College into admitting him as a special student by promising to catch up on his high school work in the summer months.

Then, helped by his wife, Miriam, who earned $15 to $18 a week in a hardware store, he took a graduate degree at Union College, spent two more years at Harvard.

Losses $15 Job
In 1939 he was fired from his $15 a week job doing waterproofing. He went to Washington, D. C., where he got a $42 job as a WPA electrician.

He pioneered in developing airplane instrument landing systems and eventually went into business for himself, selling a high frequency wave meter he had invented. It caught on at once.

His Lavoie Laboratories mushroomed during the war. Steve now has 500 employees and three plants that turn out a number of devices used in the nation's radar defense network.

The U. S. Navy, which turned Steve from a problem kid into a man with a goal, now employs his inventions on its ships and planes. This isn't the end of Steve's saga, but it does point the moral—that the discipline a kid gets while serving Uncle Sam is an asset, not a handicap.

Russians Play Down Campaign For World Revolt

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

In advance of this year's anniversary of the Russian Revolution, theoreticians of the Soviet Communist party are going to great pains to point out a new course to their "brotherly Communist parties" abroad. They are telling them not to be in such an all-fired hurry for the revolution.

Recent articles have been illuminating on this score. One of the plainest appeared a week ago in Pravda, importantly played across the eight columns of the party newspaper's center fold. It contained a broad hint of what makes Soviet foreign policy tick today.

Moscow seems to be pulling the reins on the Communists abroad, fearing that any attempt now at a violent overthrow of an established government could lead to the world war the Kremlin seems to fear at this moment. The Kremlin has had to explain this patiently, in Communist talk, to the brethren abroad.

Thus the Communists abroad are not to stop their efforts to undermine and embarrass governments in capitalist countries, and are not to stop propagandizing in favor of Moscow and world Communism. But they are to proceed warily, and to avoid "adventurism," which in the Communist language, means setting out to accomplish something without assurance in advance of success.

The Communists abroad were told in the Pravda article, written by the influential editorialist A. Leontiev, that capitalism is dying anyway, that no force in the world can save it, that the world revolution sooner or later is inevitable, by country.

Leontiev began the article by saying that Marx and Engels, the prophets of world Communism, could not analyze the epoch of imperialism because they did not live in it. It remained, he said, for Lenin to do that and for Stalin to elaborate on the analysis.

Thus Lenin, and Stalin after him, came up with the realization that the simultaneous victory of the revolution in all or a majority of capitalist countries was not quite possible. Thus, said Leontiev, came the theory of "socialism in one country."

Fisherman's Daughter Hooks Marlon Brando

She was secretary to the doctor he consulted during his widely publicized failure to report for work in the film, "The Egyptian."

Kiwanis Club in Election; Railroad Activities Cited

Dr. W. O. Finkelnburg, 1932 Gilmore Ave., Thursday was elected president of the Winona Kiwanis Club for 1935 succeeding Harvey D. Jensen.

Dr. Finkelnburg, who has served as vice president of the club during the past year, was one of seven officers elected by the organization at its weekly luncheon meeting at the Hotel Winona.

Others are: Roy Evett, vice president; E. W. Miller, treasurer; John Borzyskowski, Earl Grant and Bud Ullrich, directors for two-year terms, and William Hull, a director for one year.

All of the new officers will be installed at the first January meeting of the club.

Palmquist Speaks
The principal speaker at Thursday's meeting was L. W. Palmquist, LaCrosse, a division superintendent of the Milwaukee Road.

He described the organization and operations of his division and the role of other railroads that serve the Winona area.

Palmquist explained that the Milwaukee Road operates on approximately 1,300 miles of tracks in the La Crosse and River Division of which Winona is a part, with about 73 open stations, some slightly larger and many smaller than Winona's.

During 1933, he said, the division handled 75,366,000 loaded freight car miles and 25,399,000 passenger car miles of traffic. Of the system's total of 85,781,000 passenger car miles during that year, he continued, the L&R division handled about 30 per cent of the total.

Tax Situation
Palmquist said that the Milwaukee Road, as well as other railroads, in the state of Minnesota "contributes a considerable amount of tax revenue to your state taxing bodies which is used at the discretion of the state governing bodies and materially reduces local taxes to carry on state activities of all descriptions."

"Minnesota has a state gross earnings tax for railroads and 5 per cent of all income of all railroads is taken out of earnings regardless of any profitable or unprofitable operation of an individual road," he continued. "In 1930 state income was paid into the state in gross earnings taxes."

"During 1933," he said, "the Milwaukee Road itself paid in $1,640,542 in gross earnings tax. Other taxes, including operating property tax, non-operating property tax and miscellaneous taxes brought our total tax bill to $1,670,451."

81 Acres in City
Returning to the Winona operation he explained that the Milwaukee Road owns approximately 81 acres of land within the city limits and has 41 employees residing in the city with a payroll of $163,418. "Due to geographical conditions

Warriors, St. Mary's Clash Saturday Night

SPORTS Sidelight BY RALPH REEVE

Another week of football forecasting is upon us. Once again the panel members don't agree on every game, but we are unanimous in choosing Winona State over St. Mary's, Winona High over Northfield and Cotter as the underdog against Rochester Lourdes.

Other unanimous selections include Ohio State over Northwestern, Oklahoma over Colorado, UCLA over California, Arkansas over Texas A & M, Army over Virginia, Notre Dame over Navy and Miami over Fordham.

But there is a little disagreement on the West Virginia-Pitt., Wisconsin-Iowa, Purdue-Illinois, Indiana-Michigan and Michigan State-Minnesota games.

Well, we'll know more Saturday. Bob Eggleston sez: "This is the weekend of 'ifs' for a lot of football teams. If Wisconsin and Minnesota can bounce back from stunning defeats last week they are a good pair. I think they can."

"I also think the Illinois front wall is about due to give Caroline a little blocking, at least enough to overcome Dawson & Co. from Lafayette. If they can't, well, that's football!" Gilbert has no comments this week... our selections

Hawk Bees Finish Slate Undefeated

LA CROSSE, Wis. — The Winona High B squad defeated La Crosse Central 13-6 here Thursday afternoon to wrap up an unbeaten season on seven victories and no losses.

Winona scored late in the first quarter when Jim Larson went over from the three-yard line. Allyn Burt scored the extra point on an end sweep.

Winona moved into scoring territory again in the second period but a pass on Central's 14-yard line was intercepted and returned for a touchdown. The try for point was stopped and the junior Winhawks held a 7-6 halftime edge.

In the third period Larson scored from midfield but a Winona clipping penalty nullified the touchdown.

The Hawks continued to move, however, and soon after the fourth period opened Larson plunged two yards for Winona's second touchdown and a 13-6 final score.

Late in the quarter Winona marched from its own 40-yard line to Central's five, but time ran out to end the threat.

Winona's B team won two victories over both Central and La Crosse Logan, and also defeated Red Wing, Rochester and Lake City.

$270,000 Race Set for Camden

By JOHN CHANDLER

CAMDEN, N.J. — Horsemen today must spend money to make money, and about 12 owners are expected to plank down one-half of the necessary $2,000 that will give them a shot at some $158,000 in the racing world's richest gallop.

The objective is the $100,000-added Garden State Stakes over the mile and one-sixteenth distance tomorrow, and the total jackpot may hit around $270,000.

The horse liked most is Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan, one of the classiest juvenile colts of the season. Given the best chance of beating Summer Tan is the Cain Boy Stable entry of Flying Fury and Racing Fool.

Other names expected to be dropped into the entry box include Woody Stephens' Brother Tex, the Fine Oak Farm's Roman Patrol, the Rokeby Stable entry of Cup Man and Golden Land, Mrs. E. E. Pershall Bell's Simmy, C. V. Whitney's Pyrenees, the Duntreath Farm's Fleet Path, Tallman Wisner and Jack Welch's Money Leather, James Patton's Riches, the Darby Dan Farm's Windsor King and Mrs. Louise West's Bayside.

When Phil Cavaretta of the White Sox played in his 2,000th major league game on Aug. 15 he became the 53rd player in the history of the big leagues to take part in that many contests.

Local College Series Tied Up

The Winona State Warriors and St. Mary's Redmen resume their city college football rivalry Saturday night at Maxwell Field with the series deadlocked at six victories apiece and one tie.

The Warriors are favored in the 1934 renewal of the series on the strength of a season that has included only one loss, that a 6-0 defeat last Saturday at St. Cloud.

The winless Redmen once again are underdogs, but the spirit and hustle manufactured on Terrace Heights, plus a 15-pound per man weight advantage in the line, could be factors in a St. Mary's upset.

Coch Gene Brodthagen's Warriors have been outweighed in every game this season and the St. Mary's clash will be no exception. Winona State will average 170 to 172 pounds per man in the line and 171 in the backfield.

187-Pound Average The Redmen will field a forward wall averaging 187 pounds and a backfield with a 169-pound average.

The game, with Winona State the "home" team will start at 8 p.m. Winona State starters include the following:

Ends — Bill Christopherson and Tuney Burkard, both 175 pounds; tackles — Arnold Boese, 180, and Ken Habeeck, 193; guards — Russ Schmidt, 155, and Merle Peterson, 142; center — either Bill Ziebell, 185, or Dave Mertes, 170.

Redmen Starters Ends — Tom Judge, 175, and Bud Lang, 190; tackles — Dick Tobin, 215, and Bill Brannen, 185; guards — Keith Inman, 180, and Tim Kavanaugh, 180; center — Ron Ciskowski, 185.

Bulger switched Ricklick from quarterback to right halfback in the Duluth Branch game last week and was satisfied with his work at that position.

With Jerry Cavanaugh starting at quarterback for St. Mary's, the game will be featured by some interesting rivalries. Cavanaugh, and Winona State quarterback Jerry Seeman were high school teammates at Plainview in 1932.

Opponents Now In addition, Keith Inman of St. Mary's and Dave Mertes of Winona State, played together on last season's Winona High grid squad.

Bulger announced that substitute guard Bud Lauer suffered a broken collarbone in practice this week, further depleting the ranks of the Redmen via the injury route.

The Warriors will be in fairly good shape for the game. Co-captain Arnold Boese will play with a cast encasing a broken hand, and halfback Dick Larson is expected to be ready after taking practice easy this week with a 50% back.

Fullback Don Segermark's injured knee has responded to treatment and he's expected to be in good shape for the game. Both coaches feel their players will be "up" for the game, but Brodthagen was disturbed during practice this week by the defensive work of his first team which couldn't stop the second team running St. Mary's plays.

Series Tied Up The city college grid series, after last year's victory by Winona State, is now tied up at six victories and six defeats apiece, with one game ending in a tie.

The series has been marked by low-scoring games. In nine of the 13 games, the losing team failed to score a point. Highest score in the series was St. Mary's 25-0 victory in 1930.

Most touchdowns scored in one game during the series was in 1932 when St. Mary's won 19-12.

The series started in 1936 with Winona State winning three of the first four games. The 1937 game produced the only tie, 6-6, of the rivalry.

Longest winning streak in the series is held by St. Mary's. The Redmen blanked Winona State in four consecutive games from 1940 through 1946. No games were played during the 1943-44-45 seasons. Other years in which the teams didn't play were 1947 and 1951.

St. Mary's leads in points scored in the set with 119 to Winona State's 84.

STAR IN ANY SPORT

Alvin Dark Versatile Athlete

By SYD KRONISH AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer Army coach Red Blaik looked on the playing field and pointed to a trim figure wearing No. 45 on his Louisiana State University uniform. Said Blaik: "That boy is a great all-around athlete. He'd go well in pro football."

The player, although drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles, decided to play baseball instead. Today Alvin Dark is recognized as one of the finest shortstops in the majors. Captain of the world champion New York Giants he proved to be the solid man and clutch performer during the season as well as the Series.

Says Manager Leo Durocher: "Dark is the cement that holds the ball club together. I wouldn't trade him for any shortstop in baseball."

Leo admired Dark's ability so much that he insisted on his purchase together with Eddie Stanky from the Braves after the 1949 season.

Dark's first full year in the big leagues was 1948. He batted .322, helped the Braves to a pennant and was named the league's "rookie of the year."

The amazing Dark, however, probably would have fared just as well on the gridiron—or in almost any sport for that matter.

At L.S.U. he was one of the nation's top triple threat backs. In one game against Mississippi he punted 73 yards to get his team out of a "back-to-the-goal-line" situation. In this game he scored two touchdowns, one on a 70-yard run, to help win it.

Dark also was a high-scoring forward on the Bayou Tigers' basketball squad, a top notch swimmer, broad jumper and high jumper. Al was second in the 100-yard dash in the Southern AAU championships.

Dark's favorite sport, outside of baseball, is golf. He has won the baseball players' championship.

Back home in Louisiana he shared the local course record with the club pro. Both had a 66 on a par 72 layout.

But Alvin has shown further proof of his versatility while playing for the Giants.

During the 1953 season when the New Yorkers were finishing 35 games behind the pennant winning Dodgers, Dark played second base, third, right and left field in addition to his usual shortstop position. On the last day of the season against the Pirates he even pitched one inning.

But likeable Al takes his accomplishments in stride. When he signed a new two-year contract he became the highest salaried player in Giant history.

This prompted one wag to remark: "Maybe they'll make him sing the national anthem on opening day."

Don't bet that he couldn't do a good job at that, too.

YOU NAME IT . . . And chances are that whatever sport you name, Alvin Dark could be a star. He's shown at the left as a triple-threat halfback during college days at Louisiana State University. On the right Dark appears in a hitting pose as captain and shortstop of the world champion New York Giants.

10,500 More Seats Planned For Braves

By CHRIS EDMONDS MILWAUKEE (AP) — First steps towards a third straight National League attendance record for the Milwaukee Braves were taken Thursday with proposals for adding 10,500 seats to County Stadium.

Action on the plan, which would increase the county-owned stadium's seating capacity from its present 43,110 to between 51,600 and 53,000, will be taken next week by the Milwaukee County Board.

The discrepancy is due to the number of bleacher seats which would be sacrificed by the installation of more permanent grandstand chairs.

The Braves rocked the baseball world a year ago in their first season out of Boston by setting a league attendance record of 1,836,397. Last season the stadium capacity was boosted by about

PREP PALS NOW FOES . . . Jerry Cavanaugh, left, and Jerry Seeman played on the same high school team at Plainview in 1932. The shoe is on the other foot now as the one-time teammates will be rivals in the St. Mary's-Winona State game Saturday night at Maxwell Field. Cavanaugh is a halfback for the St. Mary's Redmen, while Seeman calls signals for the Winona State Warriors. (Daily News sports photo)

Speedy Spartans Test for Gophers

By JIM KLOBUCHAR MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The riddle of the Big Ten season this year is how long will it take Michigan State's storied pony backfield to start galloping.

The ponies so far have been neatly stabled in four Spartan reverses but return Saturday to the scene of some of their fanciest strutting of 1933.

It was in Michigan State's 21-0 victory last year that reserves like Gerry Planutis, John Matsock and Earl Morrall joined speedy LeRoy Bolden in a general hatchet job on the Minnesota line.

All are back, plus smoothies like Bert Zagers and Clarence Peaks. Minnesota hasn't met backfield talent in volume like that all season.

Michigan State's four defeats are deceptive, otherwise there is no explaining their favorite's role in the Gopher homecoming Saturday before a sellout crowd of 62,500.

Their defeats were by Wisconsin, Iowa, Notre Dame and Purdue, powers when they met Michigan State and still regarded as such. But State has yet to function at top efficiency.

One of the reasons is an injury hex that has befallen Bolden, possibly the best running back in the conference last year. Bolden has been laid up by leg, hip and ankle injuries at various times. A couple of weeks ago he ran into a goal post.

His latest misery, a pulled ankle tendon, has almost healed. Even so, he may not start.

The Spartans probably will open with Morrall at quarterback, Matsock and Zagers at the halves and Planutis at fullback. Morrall has hit on 27 passes in 72 tries, most of them to end Jim Hinesy, who has caught 24 passes to date.

Michigan State, observing Michigan's single wing success against the Gophers last Saturday, is expected to shelve most of its T plays in favor of the single wing.

Its line is considerably smaller than Minnesota's but has a clear edge in speed.

While Michigan State has pretty well recovered from its injuries, the Gophers are badly situated. The most delicate problem is at guard, where only Bob Hagemelster and Mike Falls are in perfect condition.

Fullbacks John Baumgartner and Ken Yackel both are hampered and Frank Bachman may have to go it alone most of the way. Coach Murray Warmath is standing firm on the lineup changes he made earlier this week, which means starting berths for quarterback Dale Quist, end Tom Juhl, tackle Chuck Kubek, center Dean Maas, another casualty, and end Frans Koeneke.

Gustavus Holds Lead Among Small Colleges

NEW YORK (AP) — Gustavus Adolphus today retained its dwindling lead in total team defense among the nation's small college football teams.

In six games, the Gusties have yielded an average of 108 yards, compared with the 108.2 average of Alfred. Gustavus led by a wide margin last week before surrendering 20 points to St. Thomas.

South Dakota State ranks third in team offense behind Emporia College and Kent State, South Dakota State is averaging 412.8 yards in six games.

DENNIS THE MENACE

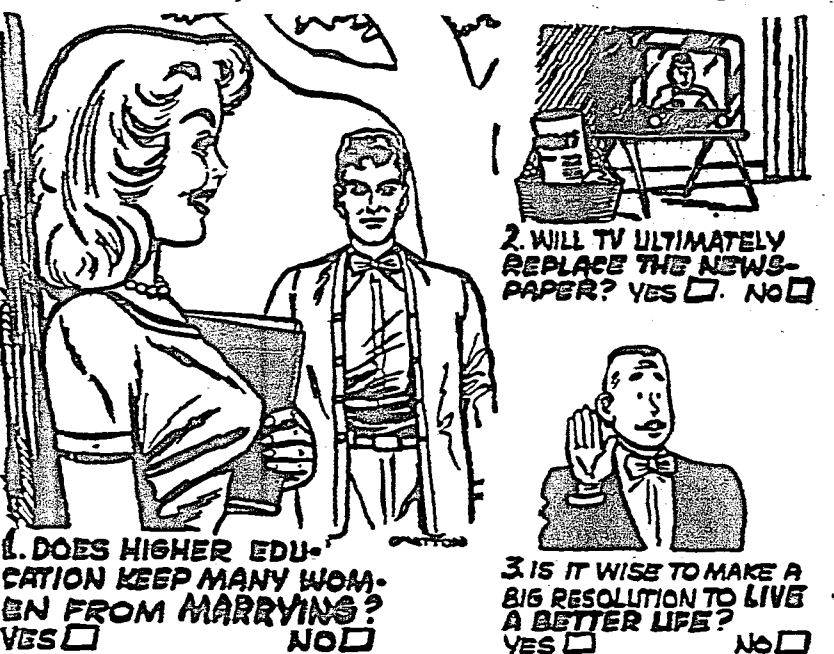

LAFF-A-DAY

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D.Sc.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, partly because they become too serious to interest men or to be interested in them. Partly because it takes their most attractive years to achieve Ph. D.'s and scholarly honors. They neglect the gaieties of life, especially association with men. Still, many women become great scholars and rear a husband and children.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. At a recent meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers Association three publishers out of four reported increased circulation despite TV. Some publishers own TV stations and reported TV had helped circulation. Nothing will ever replace the good old friendly family newspaper. Surely people will never quit reading "Let's Explore Your Mind."

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Doubtful. It covers too much territory. It's a grand thing to resolve to reform this or that bad habit, but to reform all bad habits at once is too big a job. The best methods I know of are those by the late Dr. Knight Dunlap. They are fully described in my non-profit booklet, "Master Your Bad Habits," 15c (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THE GRAB BAG

THE ANSWER, QUICK!

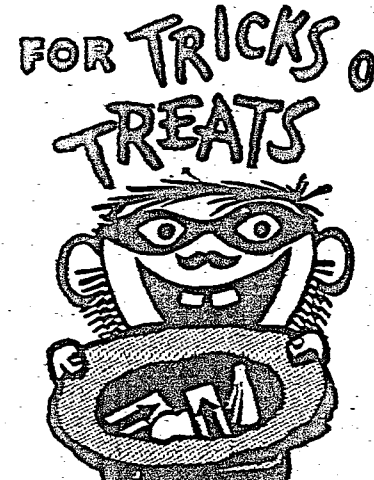

1. What is the capital city of Switzerland?
2. Geoffrey Crayon was the pseudonym of a famous early American author; what was his name?

3. What famous poem and by whom began, "Ay, tear her tattered ensign down, long has it waved on high?"
4. What was the first story published about Sherlock Holmes?
5. The Battle of Lookout Mountain is also known as what?

HOW'D YOU MAKE OUT?

1. Bern.
2. Washington Irving in his "The Sketch Book of Geoffrey Crayon, Gent."
3. "Old Ironsides," by Oliver Wendell Holmes.
4. A Study in Scarlet.
5. The Battle Above the Clouds.
