PARTIES ENOUGH

Hamilton was the great exponent of the Federalist party. Under him, Washington, Adams, and Madison, modern historians, call the party Federalists; yet, though not in the United States, dominated the government for most of the time. Hamilton's Federalists, however, the bureau of the United States, and the central revenue system, the United States, Vice President Adams in his district, the Federalists, in time of the War of 1812, were generally considered to be the conservative party, though not in the United States, dominated the government for most of the time. JUNIOR CLASS PICKS

A committee was formed to pick the officers of the junior class for the year. The committee consisted of seven members: Miss Mary Smith, Miss Alice Green, Miss Jane Brown, Miss Susan Jackson, Miss Mary Brown, Miss Susan White, and Miss Jane Brown. The committee met Thursday evening in Miss Smith's room and discussed the matter at length. After much discussion, the committee agreed on the following officers:

President: Miss Mary Smith
Vice-President: Miss Alice Green
Secretary: Miss Jane Brown
Treasurer: Miss Susan Jackson
Assistant Secretary: Miss Mary Brown
Assistant Treasurer: Miss Susan White
Assistant Secretary: Miss Jane Brown

Party Machinery Explained

The Federalists, who came to power in 1801, were the party of the American Revolution. They were the party of the states' rights and the protection of individual liberty. They were the party of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. They were the party of the Hamiltonian economy and the protection of the American merchant.

DEBT IN BREAD AND BUTTER

The Greenback party, which was formed in 1877, was the party of the farmers. They were the party of the free silver and the protection of the farmer. They were the party of the Populists and the protection of the laborer.

SHEPHERD HALL TO BE COMPLETED THIS WEEK

Shepherd Hall is to be completed this week. The work is almost finished. The students are expected to move into the new building at the beginning of the fall term.

FOOTPRINTS

There are footprints on the floor of each room. Some are broad, some are narrow, some are short, some are long, and some are shallow. They are the footprints of the students, teachers, and visitors who have passed through the building. The footprints of the students are the most frequent. They are the footprints of the students who have passed through the building.
