WASHINGTON'S PATRIOTISM.

North Rintintin, as who reaped the benefits of Washington. It was obviously people land. To whom, then, was he patriotic? It was obviously people who were dictatorial. Washington was dictatorial. Washington revolted against that same dictatorial government. Well, the very same people who acknowledged that the government was a patent condemn as un-dictatorial South Rintininesse who revolted.

What would have happened if Washington had lived up to his principles and Spain, for example, to help put down the rebellion over there? That would have been trivial. The dictator of South Rintin, though, asked for help from OOSA and got it.

Thomas Jefferson, in the Declaration of Independence, wrote, "That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government..."

"The spirit of resistance to government is so valuable on certain occasions, that I wish it to be always kept alive," said Jefferson in a letter from Paris to Mrs. John Adams on Feb. 22, 1777. Are the words of these patriots to be either ridiculed or condemned? Wouldn't Jefferson say that OOSA denied the rights of the South Rintinians by suppressing their rebellion against a tyrant?

"It seems that, from the eyes of patriots themselves, patriotism is not rather loyalty to government. It would be nice if I could believe that OOSA had done the right thing by invading South Rintinians and Damphobia because then I would think that the cause is moral and good. When I feel that my country shows neither of these qualities, I don't pretend that I really does; I try to change its ways so I can say 'I love my country' without being dishonest.

If OOSA was wrong to go to South Rintin in the first place, it should not have been the last right thing: get out. If OOSA was right at first, somebody better refereed the fairy tale.

Gli’s must return certificate of attendance cards to collect

While many students at Winona State are giving thought to their final exams and plans for the coming summer, students attending under the G.I. Bill have one more worry to take care of—returning the certificate of attendance cards to the VA.

According to the Veterans Administration, all veterans attending WSC under the G.I. Bill must return their attendance cards at the end of the summer quarter to the VA. The cards must be returned in order to receive the benefits for which they are eligible. The benefits include payment for tuition, books, and other expenses.

The VA has the authority to fine veterans who fail to return their cards. The fine is $5 per card. The VA will also notify the G.I. Bill office at Winona State if a veteran fails to return their card. This information will be used to determine eligibility for future benefits.

Since final cards do not arrive until after the student has left the campus, the VA will remind students to return their cards by mail. The VA will also notify the G.I. Bill office at Winona State if a veteran fails to return their card. This information will be used to determine eligibility for future benefits.

The VA explained that VA payments are computerized and the computers are programmed to prepare the final checks only after the attendance cards are received.

The regents' offices at State were reminded by the VA to continue to make participation in the community college program available to all students.
