Students Plagued With Bomb Threats

A total of four bomb threats have been received at Winona State this year. Three have been in the last week.

Two of the last three were called to girls in Sheehan Hall. On each occasion the fire alarm was pulled, the building evacuated, the police called and the building searched.

The first thing, the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 23, the building was searched by volunteers. Due to a misunderstanding the police were not called immediately and did not get to Sheehan until 35 minutes. The girls in Sheehan are afraid, confused and disgusted. They are dissaproved with the way the searches have been carried out in the dorm. Some don't feel enough precautions are being taken.

Students on campus have different thoughts on the subject, depending on how close they have been to a threat. The girls in Sheehan are afraid, confused and disgusted. They are dissaproved with the way the searches have been carried out in the dorm. Some don't feel enough precautions are being taken.

Any one found responsible for making calls such as these will be turned over to the police and will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. In this case it would be thirty days in jail and a $100 fine. If this person is a student he will also be prosecuted under the disciplinary procedures and be expelled from school without the right to return at any time.

The third call last week was received by Sharon Munson, at the college switchboard. A calm female voice simply said, "There's a bomb in Hillen- steiner," and hung up. The St. Amundson, assistant to the college president, who called the police and had Gymdman evaluated.

Within 30 minutes a complete search had been conducted and classes were beginning.

Searches have been carried out by police, firemen, school engineers, and college personnel working together. The main concern has been, and will be, safety, according to Dr. Curtis Sierc, vice president of student affairs.

Editorials

Many students have expressed concern about the amount of security the administration has put in place to ensure the safety of the students in case of bomb threats.

The Winonan discussed the problem with all top administrators and agreed that, while it is not necessary to search every single dorm room, because of the right to privacy the administrators would rather it were not necessary to search individual rooms. The Winonan suggests that dorms which have not been occupied for over a year or so may not be able to close all doors without causing a disturbance to the students.

This is a situation in which it is extremely important for the students, college personnel and the community to work together. Students should report any concerns or reports through the proper channels. The revolution started to seem like a peace movement. It began against the draft and the war because hitting wrong is the earliest establishment in this country. We are not referring to the registrar's office but rather to that wonder that is, beyond any doubt, the absolute pinnacle of inefficiency. No, it would truly like to understand. Even the calls don't make sense to us. That is throwing fear into priority it gives to human beings.

The Weekend At WSC

This weekend at Winona State the President's Union Council (PUC) is opening its home. All members of the PUC will be present for the ceremony that occurs on Friday. The Student activities of last Friday's drop-add day, we should all be thankful that the system works as well as do dorms.

While in the data processing office on drop-add day, for an overly lengthy stay, we noticed several students come in with signed slips from instructors to have class cards cut. The usual response from the staff was, "I don't have time to cut a card today." If this comment did not deter the student and he insisted on having a card cut, he had to take his slip down to one of the deans to have it signed. Notice that the slip had already been signed by the instructor.

It would seem that the deans, who are paid somewhere in a low figure amount, have much better things to do with their time than sign slips, especially on the order of a mere secretory. This is doubly true when a proper signature is already on the slip.

Now everyone should know that the people in the data processing office do work hard, it is not easy to keep track of everything. In common, courtesy, even to that loyal student, the college student, too much to ask? William Shakespeare knew his stuff and all the "real" institution that does not deal with in a sharp tongue." Sharp tongues did abound on drop-add day.

One of the most difficult things is having to cut class cards and the lack of time. What cutting a card involved last Friday was to get up from the data processing office, go downstairs and then return to the already mentioned chair. Time totally involved: under one minute. Certainly the staff in data processing has other things to do, but when it's drop-add day, what can they expect but some additional, unassigned, unneeded help.

As a mention for the data processing staff we suggest the following be put up in large letters or the door: "Never do anything to help someone, or make something easier, especially for a college student. Above all never, but never, give a student a break or extend any courtesy.

Dorms Are Full — Almost

The dormitories this year are nearly full, with the exception of Richards Hall, which is closed for remodeling, and because of the extra students that will be having rooming assignments this year.

According to figures received from the data processing office, 380 girls live in Sheahan Hall, leaving only two vacancies. Girls in Conway have a few vacancies. Girls in Eau Claire have only 17 of the 236 beds are occupied. Men fill 235 of the 424 spots.

Prestign Hall houses 174 students. In the 424 section on fourth floor there are 14 girls and 22 men.

Winona State College President Robert DuFr sense and Student Senate President Tom Dunlap had the opportunity to question top government officials this weekend.

DuFr sense and Dunlap attended President to President Conference sponsored by Association of Student Governments.

Dr. DuFr sense felt that the fact that cabinet level officials would take time to speak to the group showed a concern for students and colleges that this administration is not noted for.

According to DuFr sense it was enough to make Dunlap want to send Dunlap because there were more small groups and a greater desire to have a greater voice in student affairs.

To DuFr sense it seemed a very different convention. He was very concerned with concepts of student government. Here he intends to work toward more students on college committees and more student voice in academic freedom and tenure. His general feeling concerning student involvement is reinforced.

DuFr sense and Dunlap were interested in the fact that students and school administrators can no longer remain apolitical. Education includes more than class attendance.

On a broader topic students wanted to know how the administration could be so impactive with violence on the campuses and patient with violence in Southeast Asia. Administrators wanted to know why students hadn’t seen the need for reform earlier.

Dunlap did not feel that because of this discussion they did not get the answer the effort was wasted.
Res. Hall Students Attend Regional Meeting; Discuss Pertinent Topics

On August 23, 1970, four Winona State students and their advisor left for Terre Haute, Indiana, for the second annual conference of the Great Lakes Association of College and University Residence Halls (GLACURH). GLACURH is one of six regions in NACURH which is the national organization. Almost every topic pertaining to residence halls were discussed at the conference. Topics included that relate directly to Winona State's residence halls included visitation, coed housing, vandalism, bomb threats, food service, judicial boards, educational and social programming, building innovations, Res. Hall handbooks, finances, chapel, and a few other topics.

Winona State has a visitation policy that it can be proud of. It has been copied by a number of other schools with varying degrees of success. Coed housing is being tried for the first time this year on the fourth floor of Pomeroy Hall. The Judicial structures of both men and women have been revised this year with a provision for an Inter-Hall Judicial Board.

This year is essentially a building year for the Residence Hall Officers. Members of the Board.

The newly elected officers for this year are: Joyce Paul, student director; Jan Wilson, intramural director; Becky Ring, extramural director; Carol Judd, secretary, and Joan Mayer, publicity chairman.

Twenty-seven volleyball teams are participating in WIEP's Intramural Volleyball program. The apparatus room and pool are also open for those interested. Qualified lifeguards are on duty. The apparatus room has people willing to instruct students on the gymnastic equipment. Those interested in any of these activities are welcome and Wednesday evening, 7 p.m.

For those interested in perfecting their skills and competing with other schools, the extramural volleyball and swim teams are available. Practice started Monday, Sept. 21, at 4:45 in Memorial Hall.
