Watkins Cites McCarthy Stand

Dulles' View Opposite From Sen. Knowland

Foreign Policy
Adequate for Needs,
Secretary Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today he believes Eisenhower administration foreign policy adequately covers present needs and he knows of no emergency requiring an extraordinary review.

He thus appeared at a news conference to place himself in opposition to the call voiced Monday by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) for a congressional review of policies to see whether a "basic change in direction" is needed.

Dulles also appeared to dispute Knowland's contention that an atomic stalemate between the United States and Russia could mean the weakening of the free world through "nibbling aggression."

Strengthens Selves
He told inquiring reporters that the free nations, largely under American leadership, have been continuously taking measures to strengthen themselves against Soviet measures and he would say that on the whole those measures have been quite successful.

A short time before, in an address which had some of the earmarks of a response to Knowland, President Eisenhower had said that better understanding between the peoples of the United States and Russia is the only way to a lasting and just peace.

Eisenhower, addressing the convention of land grant colleges and universities, said one of the problems of the world is lack of Russian understanding of America's motives, and lack of appreciation here of the Russians' culture and history.

Ahead of the statements by Eisenhower and his secretary of state, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) had said that Knowland, Senate Republican leader, was engaging in "dangerous talk" when he said "ultimate Communist victory" would result from "coexistence and atomic stalemate."

Two other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee—Senators H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Sparkman (D-Ala)—said they were puzzled over the point Knowland was trying to make. Knowland is the Senate Republican leader.

Full Inquiry Asked
Fulbright said it was "dangerous talk" to suggest that the United States could see no possibility of working out a peaceful solution of pressing world problems. He cautioned that this country could lose the cold war "by losing the allegiance of India and other nations through our emphasis on military power." He urged "a lot less talk and a lot more responsibility" in the foreign and military policy fields.

Knowland called for a congressional inquiry into "our foreign and defense policy to find out where it will take us and whether this clear and present danger which appears to me to exist is such that a basic change in the direction of our policy is warranted."

Devitt Named U.S. Judge in Minnesota

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Edward J. Devitt, judge of the Ramsey County (Minnesota) Probate Court, to be U.S. district judge for Minnesota.

Edward J. Devitt

Devitt, if confirmed by the Senate, would succeed Matthew M. Joyce, who has retired.

Devitt, 43, was born in St. Paul, served in the Navy during World War II, is a former member of the Minnesota Legislature and was a Republican member of Congress in 1947-48.

Vote Biggest For Off Year In Minnesota

More Ballots Cast
For Governor
Than U.S. Senator

By JACK B. MACKAY
ST. PAUL (AP)—In the biggest off-year election vote in state history, U.S. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey topped Val Bjornson's total by 162,574 votes and Orville Freeman won by 78,234, official returns of the State Canvassing Board revealed today.

Significant, however, was the fact that Freeman's vote was only 35,094 under that of Humphrey. In contrast to previous elections, more ballots were cast in the governor's race than for United States senator.

The total vote cast was 1,168,101. This eclipsed by more than 100,000 the heavy vote recorded in the 1950 non-presidential election year. However, it was almost 300,000 votes less than the record hung up in 1952 when President Eisenhower was elected.

46 Counties for Freeman
Freeman, the new Democratic-Farmer-Labor governor, carried 46 counties as compared with 41 for the Republican incumbent, Gov. Anderson. Humphrey carried 61 counties and Bjornson, 26.

Karl F. Rolvaag, Rochester, the new lieutenant governor who will preside over the 1955 State Senate, edged his Republican opponent, P. Kenneth Peterson of Minneapolis, by 54,001 votes.

Mrs. Mike Holm, secretary of state, got the biggest vote of the defeated Republican candidates, topping that of Gov. Anderson, but was defeated by Joseph L. Donovan of Duluth by 37,205.

State Auditor Stafford King, the only Republican state official re-elected, won out over Clint Haroldson, Renville, DFL, by 19,961 votes.

Arthur Hansen, Ulen farmer, triumphed by 63,203 votes over Duane R. Lund, Staples, in the race for the seat vacated by Bjornson as state treasurer.

Miles Lord, Minneapolis attorney, chalked up a margin of 61,122 votes over Bernhard LeVander, St. Paul, former Republican state party chairman.

Big Peterson Lead
Hjalmar Peterson, Askov, who became governor when Floyd B. Olson died in 1936, won by the heavy margin of 119,442 votes over V. Victor Lundquist, Owatonna, for the Railroad and Warehouse Commission seat now held by Clifford Peterson. A DFL'er, Peterson was defeated in the primary election by the former governor who had the DFL party blessing.

Frank Larkin, Minneapolis, DFL, defeated Grace Kaercher Davis, veteran Republican clerk of the Supreme Court, by 86,406 votes.

Marines Test Landing Under Atomic Fire

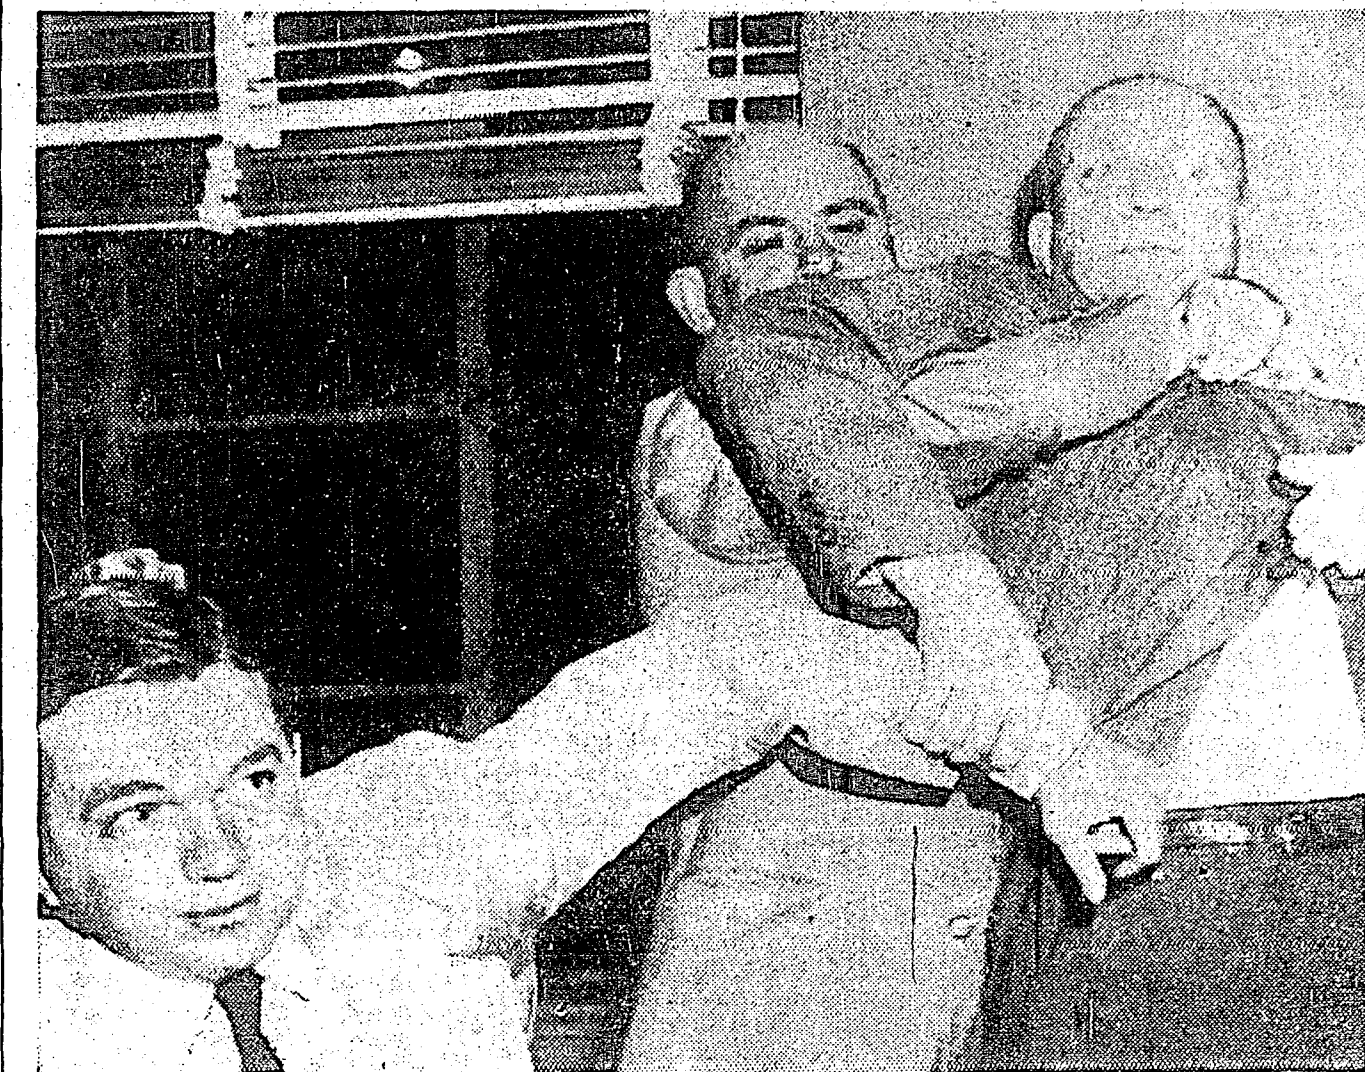

ONSLow BEACH, N.C. (AP)—A Marine force of 25,000 strong, deployed to fight with and against simulated atomic weapons, moved in from the high seas at dawn today to strike at an "enemy" holding a length of the Carolina coast here.

Wide dispersion and speed of movement predominated in the mock battle plans. The big fleet of hundreds of ships was scattered over hundreds of square miles as it approached the beachhead.

The landing craft and helicopters to put the Marine force ashore were assigned to leave transports much farther from the beach than in the amphibious attacks of World War II. To speed up the initial wave of assault, seaplanes were used, along with the helicopters, to put early elements of the attacking force ashore.

Two landing zones, each 1,000 yards long and separated by a 3,000-yard interval, were plotted. This also was with view to dispersion. The assumption was that tactical-size nuclear weapons (apparently of about 15-kiloton power) would be used in simulated form.

To clear the approaches for the landing force, underwater demolition teams of "frogmen" stole into the beach area last night to attach explosive charges to beach obstructions of the "Orange" enemy.

This Physical encounter came at the outset of a county school board wrangle at Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday night over the expulsion of three Central High School football stars. Principal H. G. Loy, who expelled the trio, is being restrained by

C. M. Webb, as Mr. Loy still clutches school board member Jeff Cate. A moment earlier the principal had swung at the board member. (UP Telephoto)

Parents Jailed In Death and Assault Counts

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The young parents of a family of five children were in jail today—the mother charged with murder in the rat poison death of a daughter and the father with assault and battery with intent to kill in the scalding and beating of a son.

Mrs. Eileen Bell, 28, is held without bond pending Grand Jury action. Also awaiting Grand Jury action, and unable to post $10,000 bonds, is her husband, William, 26, a Korean War veteran. Both pleaded innocent.

The five children range from five weeks to 6 1/2 years.

State Police Sgt. Matthew O'Brien said he entered the case last Wednesday night after a hospital reported the couple's 2-year-old daughter, Ruth Ann, had died of rat poison.

O'Brien said 3-year-old Robert Bell was being treated for serious scald wounds on his feet in the same hospital, reportedly suffered the day before his sister died.

The officer said Bell admitted holding the boy's feet in boiling water to chastise him for taking a piece of bread from the table and beating him while he hung from a door in a duffel bag.

Mrs. Bell was released after questioning but last night, O'Brien said, she broke down and admitted putting rat poison on bread, giving it to Robert and telling him to hand it to his little sister because "she's hungry."

O'Brien added that Mrs. Bell told him "Ruth Ann cried all the time," was crippled and that neither she nor her husband believed the youngster would live very long.

The officer said Mrs. Bell declared she acted on her own free will and her husband did not cooperate with her in planning to poison the child.

Two of the couple's children are under hospital treatment for malnutrition. The fifth is in a children's home.

Davenport Man Kills Wife, Self

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP)—While their two sons watched in horror, a man fatally shot his wife and killed himself here Monday night.

Police said William Edward Michael Jr. died instantly after shooting himself in the temple with a .32 caliber revolver. His wife, shot in the stomach and arm, died at a hospital about an hour later.

The couple's two sons, Bruce, 8, and Jeffrey, 6, witnessed the shooting, officers said. The older boy, they said, telephoned police and reported: "Daddy's shooting Mommy."

Crime Agent to Quit

DES MOINES (AP)—Delbert Murray, 68, an agent in the Iowa State Bureau of Criminal Investigation for 16 years, says he will retire next Jan. 1, because he is three years over the retirement age. He was Des Moines County sheriff and police chief at Burlington, Iowa before joining the bureau.

Asks Why Solon Didn't Appear For Committee

Recalls Senators
Wanted Data on Financial Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), noting Sen. McCarthy has accused him of being "cowardly," asked today why McCarthy didn't go before a Senate Elections Subcommittee which looked into his financial affairs in 1951-52.

Watkins told the Senate he did not believe there was another member of the body "who would have refused to appear" before a committee when his "integrity and honor" was involved.

But he said that McCarthy sent one "insulting" letter after another to the elections subcommittee from "the safety of his office." McCarthy did not, Watkins said, appear before the subcommittee where he would be under oath and subject to cross-examination.

Yet, Watkins said, the elections unit was considering serious matters—such as the question of whether thousands of dollars collected by McCarthy to fight Communism had been diverted to his own personal advantage.

Not Charging Cowardice
Watkins said he was not saying that McCarthy was "afraid," a coward that he didn't dare to appear before that committee because of legal matters that might grow out of it, but he asked: "Why didn't he go over and meet with the committee?"

More Sorrow Than Anger
Watkins said he supposed he should be indignant about McCarthy calling him "cowardly" and "stupid," but he said that "in many respects I feel more sorrowful than angry."

McCarthy's remarks, he said, revealed "an attitude that has characterized the senator from Wisconsin for some time."

But Watkins said that since McCarthy had opened up the question of cowardice and courage, the Senate might look at the record of McCarthy's failure to testify before the elections subcommittee and at the charges of "dishonesty" and "stealing" McCarthy hurled at it.

There was still talk among Republicans of trying to compromise or modify the censure resolution. Two GOP leaders said efforts to that end were under way. They talked of a possible test vote late this week or early next.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, said "two, three or four discussions are going on" about a compromise.

Sen. Bridges (R-NE), Senate president pro tempore, said in a separate interview that he expects a compromise proposal to be presented "by some one who has not taken a position," adding that he would make a speech supporting it.

Neither Knowland nor Bridges gave any hint as to the nature of compromise proposals.

However, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) told reporters they might be "patterned after the suggestion of Sen. Case." He added: "It would be necessary for Sen. McCarthy to go along. He is the party of interest."

Seek Apology

Case (R-SD) has suggested the Senate might dispose of the controversy without censure if McCarthy would apologize for his statements about a 1951-52 Senate elections subcommittee—something McCarthy has said he doesn't intend to do.

Knowland and Dirksen said they knew of no efforts to get senators to sign or back any one compromise proposal at this time.

"I know of no actual counting of noses," Knowland said.

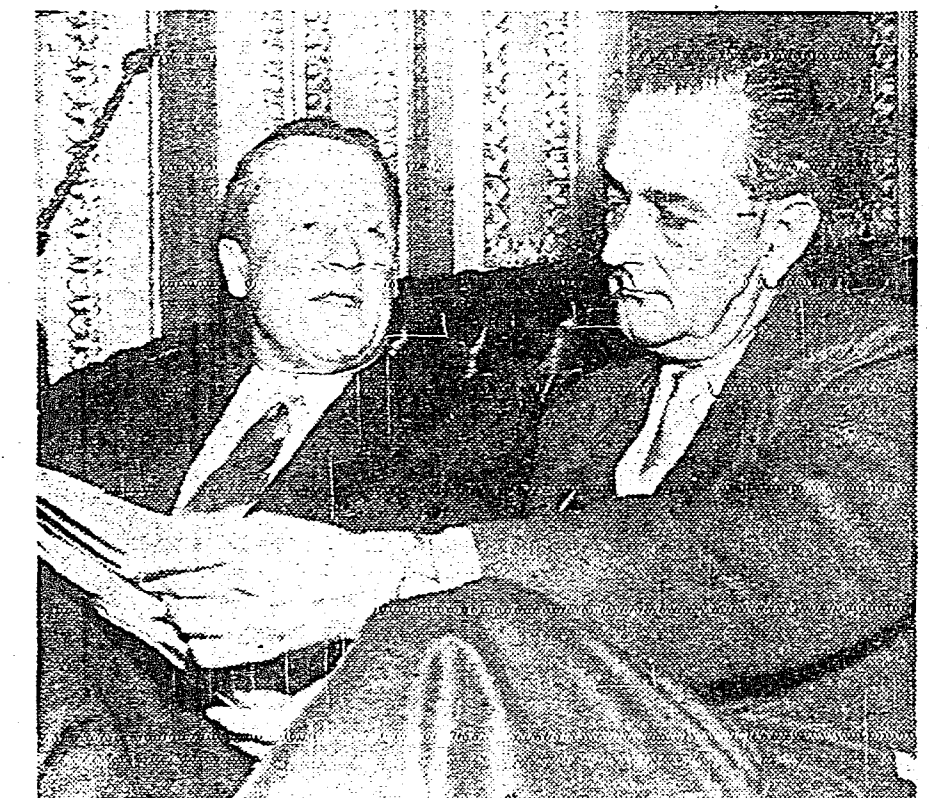

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), a McCarthy backer, said he intends to ask the Senate to kill the censure charges. Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) predicted Jenner will fail if he does.

McCarthy, saying "I still believe I will be censured," told newsmen he hopes the matter can be decided promptly.

He read a newspaper yesterday while one of the members of the special censure committee, Sen. Ervin (D-NC) accused him of "besmirching" his colleagues.

Ervin told the Senate that while he won't urge it, he believes McCarthy is subject to expulsion for his comment that the committee served as "the unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist party. "Foul and fantastic charges," he said if McCarthy made the statement while not believing it, he was guilty of "moral incapacity," and that if he did believe it, he

Abolition Asked Of Committee on Un-Americanism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) takes to the House Democratic leadership today his proposal that the House Un-American Activities Committee be abolished and its functions transferred to another group.

Walter, who is in line to replace Rep. Velde (R-Ill.) as chairman of the committee, told newsmen he would discuss with Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex.) his plan to shift to a House Judiciary subcommittee the work now done by the un-American activities group. Rayburn, now Democratic House leader, is due to resume the post of speaker when the Democrats organize the House in January.

"I think it is the most logical move we could make," said Walter, who has been critical of some of the committee's operations in the past two years.

Walter has argued that a more effective investigation of Communism and subversion could be carried on by a subcommittee responsible to the judiciary group, which deals with legislation in the security field.

He indicated he would push his idea only if assured of both Democratic and Republican support. A vote of the House would be necessary to change the committee's status.

Oldest Series F, G Bonds Maturing Now

Persons who purchased U.S. savings bonds in the series F and G category 12 years ago are being reminded that their bonds cease to draw interest after maturity.

Henry S. Kingman, Minneapolis, suggests that matured bonds be redeemed and the proceeds reinvested in the Treasury's new series H bond.

The first F and G bonds were sold in May of 1941 with a maturity date of 12 years from date of issue. They differ from the series E bond which continues to draw interest for another 10 years after first maturity.

The Series H bond bears 3 percent interest when held to a maturity date of nine years and eight months. This compares with 2½ percent yield on series F and G bonds.

KWNO to Join In U.S. Test of CONELRAD

Station KWNO will join over 30 other Minnesota radio stations early Wednesday morning in a national test exercise of the CONELRAD Plan for civil defense. The exercise will be held from 1:30 to 4:30 a.m.

CONELRAD is the official title of the plan for the CONTROL of Electronic-magnetic RADIATION. In the event of an enemy air attack, this plan is of importance to everyone and works as follows:

Enemy planes could easily follow a station's radio waves to its home city and then bomb and strafe it. The CONELRAD Plan enables stations to remain on the air in order to pass on official pertinent information to the people and yet prevents enemy planes from using the radio beams as guides.

Monitoring System Under the plan, key radio stations throughout the country are in direct telephone communication with state Civil Defense offices. These stations in turn are constantly monitored by other radio stations in the city and if there is an air raid alert, the Civil Defense office phones the key radio stations who in turn signal the alert to the other stations.

When this happens, all stations switch to a frequency of 1240 or 640 kilocycles. KWNO, for example, monitors WCCO in Minneapolis, and if WCCO gave the alert signal, KWNO-AM would switch from its regular frequency of 1230 kilocycles to either 1240 or 640 kilocycles. This would take only one minute. KWNO's FM operations would cease completely after first alerting several stations in Wisconsin which are constantly monitoring it.

While operating at one of these frequencies, KWNO-AM would broadcast 5 to 30 seconds at a time every 1 to 3 minutes, giving official information about the air raid. Enemy planes could not follow this signal into cities because all stations in Minnesota and Wisconsin would be on the same frequency. The people in and near Winona would hear only the instructions from KWNO because KWNO's signal would be the loudest in this area.

During a CONELRAD alert, all TV and FM stations go off the air. Tomorrow morning, instead of transmitting instructions, KWNO will broadcast bits of recorded music and information about the CONELRAD Plan. An engine will be on duty at the transmitter tower at the time, and one man will be at the KWNO studios.

Tests by Aircraft During the national test, U. S. Air Force aircraft equipped with special radio finder detection equipment will fly missions to determine if navigators can identify radio broadcasting stations.

KWNO has voluntarily modified some of its equipment, put up special receivers and antennae and bought special transmitter crystals in order to participate in the CONELRAD Plan.

Civil Defense officials emphasize that it is important for everyone to tune their radios to 1240 or 640 on their standard radio dials in event of an attack in order to receive instructions from Civil Defense headquarters. People in the Winona area are urged to mark their AM radio dials at the 1240 and 640 spots.

When the Erie canal was first built it was only four feet deep along much of its length.

Family Free From Trouble For 2 Weeks

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Things are looking up for the family of Kenneth R. Little—nothing bad has happened for the past two weeks. If you think you have troubles, consider the misfortunes which have hit the Lansing bank teller recently.

On July 15, acting as palbearer at the funeral of his uncle, Little felt something snap in his back. Driving home, he tried to stop his car and found he couldn't move his legs. He spent three weeks paralyzed in a Flint hospital. After he returned home, his wife Shirley drove their car into a tree. Their 5-month-old daughter was killed. Mrs. Little suffered torn shoulder ligaments and her teeth were knocked out.

In September, fire burned a barn on a neighbor's farm where Little stored his tractor. The tractor had to be rebuilt.

Oct. 27, attending a relative's birthday party at St. Johns, Little got word his home had burned down.

Council OK's Permit for Gas Station

Fire Didn't Destroy 50 Per Cent of It, Aldermen Decide

The city has decided that Hanson's Direct Gas station at 700 E. Sarnia St. was destroyed less than 50 per cent in a fire last week and, therefore, is eligible to secure a permit for rebuilding.

City Engineer W. O. Cribbs told the City Council Monday evening at City Hall that when he and Building Inspector George Rogge made an inspection of the station's building last week, they decided it was destroyed more than 50 per cent.

That would have made the owner, Sam Hanson, ineligible for a permit to rebuild. The station is a nonconforming use under the zoning ordinance; that is, this commercial operation was in existence in this residential zone prior to the passage of the zoning ordinance. As a consequence, it can continue to operate but cannot expand its structure and if it is more than 50 per cent destroyed by wind, fire or other cause, it cannot be rebuilt.

Another inspection. This week, said Engineer Cribbs, the building inspector made another examination and reported that the contractor designated to rebuild the structure, estimates the rebuilding cost at about $15,000, and that he estimated the cost of the structure, should total building be required, at $3,500 to $4,000. Consequently, said Cribbs, the building appears to be less than 50 per cent destroyed and, therefore, eligible to receive a permit.

However, he said there is a question of the percentage of the destruction and asked the Council to decide. Aldermen, who made no mention of inspecting the site, ordered Cribbs to issue the permit. But Hanson will be asked to remove trailers there illegally.

Second Ward Ald. William S. L. Christensen contended that the total value of the station, including tanks, pumps, etc., should be considered in determining the percentage of destruction. Cribbs replied that if this were done it is unlikely that a service station would ever be more than 50 per cent destroyed.

Maceman Street One objection to a commercial zone at Maceman street and the new route of Highway 61 was heard at a City Council hearing Monday evening.

Lauris Petersen, a resident of Clark & Johnson's Addition, site of the proposed rezoning, said that 16 new homes have been built in the addition in the last few years. He said that a commercial zone would tend to depreciate the property and discourage further residential building.

The petition for the rezoning by Nick Deones and Charles R. Allen did not state what use they intend to make of the property if it is rezoned.

Petersen suggested that they might be considering a gasoline station. "You don't get much tax out of an oil station," he commented, citing the tax revenue from new homes.

The Council noted that the two petitioners want to rezone adjacent property owned by two other individuals. Aldermen returned the petition to the signers with the advice that if the two other signatures are secured the petition will be reconsidered.

Clark's Lane House Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Spencer Sr., Clark's Lane, are asking permission to build a house in violation of the set-back restrictions in the zoning ordinance. Their house and part of their property is being taken for the new route of Highway 61 and they desire to build on the remainder of the lot, to the north of the present home.

Engineer Cribbs said that because of the shallowness of the remaining property, they want to build 10 feet closer to the street than is required. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wally, neighbors, have given written approval and Building Inspector Rogge has approved.

The Council scheduled a meeting for next Monday at 5 p.m. to consider the Spencer petition. Ernest Fabian, 212 W. Sarnia St., was given permission to violate lot line restrictions in construction of a garage. A neighbor and Building Inspector Rogge had given written approval.

Fumigator—Pfeiffer Nursery. The mayor was authorized to bill the Minnesota Department of Conservation for $5,000 toward the cost of improving the Lake Winona outlet ditch. This contribution from the state will be in accordance with legislation passed some years ago which set up this amount. The project was estimated to cost a total of $20,000 but actual costs have not yet been determined. It is just now being completed.

Authorized was the expenditure of $605 for the purchase of pipe to extend the storm sewer on Wilsie street near Lake Winona.

The mayor and city recorder were authorized to sign an agreement with the Colonial Amusement Co., owner of the Winona Theater, and the Hotel Winona Company for attachment of floodlights to their buildings and use of an alley between the two buildings in connection with the theater.

Farmers Told of Advances In Agricultural Research

Farmers of Winona, Trempealeau and Buffalo counties were given a scientist's view of the advances made in agriculture the last 50 years and some of the needs for future research at the Winona Lions Club farmers night at the Oaks Monday.

Prof. Robert E. Hodgson, head of the University of Minnesota experiment station at Waseca, said, "We have done a lot—there is a lot more to do."

"If anyone seeks adventure, thrills, excitement, join the research in agriculture," he continued. Among the biggest problems facing farm scientists, Hodgson claimed are: What is the long-time effect of fertilization upon soil? What role do soil organisms such as bacteria play in fertility? The mysteries of water management; crop and animal diseases; control of insects, weeds and breeding.

"I'm convinced the farmers of this country could double production," he said, "if it paid them to do it. Only 20 per cent of the nation's farmers are now producing 90 per cent of the crops."

The Red Wing Elsters provided entertainment with pantomimes of modern jazz recordings. Mayor Loyde E. Pfeiffer gave the address of welcome and S. A. "Jim" Sawyer, Winona County attorney-elect, was toastmaster.

Guests, who included county agents and agriculture instructors from the area, were introduced by Clarence Totman, chairman of the banquet committee. Lion President Robert Beadles presided. Zone chairman, the Rev. Glen Clark, Rochester, gave the invocation and Arnold Stenehjem led community singing. George Cutler was "tail twister." About 100 attended.

A possible need in livestock breeding, Hodgson claimed, is for more crosses and breeding for high production rather than pedigree and beauty.

"We're getting so we're more interested in pedigree and beauty in animals than in production. An animal's main purpose on a farm is to change rough feed into dollars and cents. Livestock must be productive and not just pretty or with a pedigree," he added.

Of 400 crossbred hogs recently shipped by the experiment station to a southern Minnesota meat packer, all but 5 rated No. 1 or better and 80 per cent were 1 plus. "It would be interesting to see this done with a purebred strain," Prof. Hodgson concluded.

Providing a sponsor can be secured the organization will be authorized to hold a "plank-down-a-dime" day during January.

Subject to the passage of an ordinance the Winona Cab Co. was given one additional—up to three—parking space on the west side of Walnut street, just off 3rd street. David Krause, one of the owners, had asked for two more.

Ending a 6-month probationary period, Building Inspector George Rogge was hired on a permanent basis at $390 a month.

Payrolls were approved and distributed as follows: Third Ward Ald. Howard A. Baumann, $10.45, travel to Minneapolis for League of Minnesota Municipalities meeting; Robert B. Harris, Chicago, day's services as golf consultant, $3,003.51; ditch cleaning, $65; treatment plant, $474.49; engineering, $48.50; rent of polling places, $40, and election salaries, $1,537.40.

An ordinance was passed so that Council action will no longer be required on petitions for fuel oil tanks and other small home-type petroleum product tanks. Hereafter, the fire chief and the building inspector alone will have jurisdiction, except that the Council can revoke permission.

Two Boys in Wild Chase Face Juvenile Court

Arrested After Running Into Police Squad Car

Two teen-age boys were referred to juvenile authorities this morning on charges of car theft.

They are Robert Olson, 17, and Ronald Kanatzer, 13, both escapees from the Glen Lake School for Boys near Minneapolis who were taken into custody here Sunday by Sheriff George Fort. Both were arraigned in municipal court today.

The boys were arrested after they ran into a police squad car driven by Patrolman W. H. Wogan at West Sarnia and Main streets. Wogan had gone to the intersection to establish a roadblock to intercept the pair after they entered the city.

After the collision with the squad car Kanatzer was thrown out of his car but was not seriously injured. Neither Olson nor Wogan, who was in the squad car at the time of the crash, was injured.

Sheriff Fort, who was in pursuit of the stolen car, was overtaking the boys on Sarnia street when the crash occurred.

At the time they were driving a car stolen from its owner at Dakota state in the afternoon and Sheriff Fort said that subsequent questioning of the pair revealed that they had stolen three other cars en route from Glen Lake to Winona.

Sheriff Fort, who signed the complaint charging the pair with the theft of the Dakota car, said that he had contacted authorities in St. Paul regarding the arrest of the two boys.

Pepin Co. Board Adopts Budget DURAND, Wis.—A $201,791 budget was accepted by the Pepin County Board of Supervisors here Monday. The sum represents a decrease of $705 from the 1954 budget, according to Mrs. C. Dickelmann, county clerk.

Irwin Mattson, Stockton, who was a delegate from the county to the Wisconsin-Mississippi Memorial Highway Planning Commission meeting at St. Louis Oct. 6-7, gave a report. The supervisors expressed renewed interest in the highway and plan to petition the state Legislature next spring.

One of the features of the meeting, Mattson stated, was the presentation to the commission of a large colored photograph of Maiden Rock by the Stockholm Boosters Club. It was taken by Oscar Frycklund, Stockholm photographer.

Road Changes County Road X was turned back to the Town of Waterville and the Red Cedar road in the towns of Lima and Durand was accepted as part of the county trunk system.

There were no requests for increases in salary among county employees, and no increases were voted, George Gobels, Pepin; Harvey Yings, Arkansaw, and John P. Bauer, Town of Durand, were named to the county Civil Defense committee.

By recommendation of the state board of audit, less than $10,000 cash remaining in the county courthouse building fund will be invested in short-term government bonds. The sum of $60,000 of the fund is now invested in this fashion. Interest received from the investments will be converted into bonds at the auditor's request. The board voted unanimously for this investment.

A resolution from the Wisconsin County Towns Association permitting towns and counties to use public road equipment for jobs not exceeding $300 was approved. Clifford Olson, Frankfort, and John Weiss, Town of Lima, were re-elected to 3-year terms on the county school committee. Robert Schlosser was appointed county safe driving instructor without pay.

A new position created at the governor's request.

All highway committeemen were re-elected for 1-year terms. They are Arthur Thorne, Waubeek; Edwin Bowman, Town of Stockholm, and Ralph Blair, Durand. The county road department was limited by resolution from purchasing equipment costing more than $30,000.

Agriculture Report In their annual report, the Pepin County Agricultural Committee and Soil Conservation District Supervisors stated that soil conservation plans have been drawn for 60 per cent of the farms in the county and that more than 50 per cent of the farmers are active co-operators with the SCS. The group approach to solving local drainage problems is being used in the Lost Creek and Bogus Creek watersheds. Both areas plan to make use of the new federal watershed law which provides funds for construction of retention dams.

The board adjourned late Monday. It will reconvene in January or April. No definite date has been set, Mrs. Dickelmann said.

Gasoline Siphoned From Parked Trucks The siphoning of gasoline from Schurmer Transportation Co. trucks parked at the firm's terminal on East Mark street has been reported to police.

The company said that thefts of gasoline have been noted during the past two or three weeks.

Over 200 Building Lots in Westfield, City Council Told

Potentially there are over 200 building lots in Westfield golf course, City Engineer W. O. Cribbs told the City Council Monday evening at City Hall.

Of those, 143 would require no filling while 76 others would require 5 to 6 feet, he said. The low lots are along the west end.

He emphasized that this is based on a rough layout and that it does not represent a final report to the City Council which had requested a plan.

It was asked in connection with the efforts of a special committee to work out a feasible project for building a new municipal golf course on the east and north shores of Lake Winona and convert Westfield into building lots.

Cribbs' plan is based on 75-by-100-foot lots. He noted that Westfield is one of three sites being considered by the Board of Municipal Works as a new site for a municipal water supply.

Park-Recreation In other business aldermen heard a request from Robert Tillman and Charles Kulak, maintenance employees of the Park-Recreation Board, that maintenance employees be granted 11 holidays a year as other employees of the city are.

Specifically mentioned was last week's Veterans Day. They noted that Park-Recreation Board maintenance employees were told to stay on the job but the board's office itself in the City Hall was closed. Aldermen advised them that matters of working conditions are properly under the jurisdiction of the Park-Recreation Board. Tillman and Kulak said they have six holidays now.

At the request of Lighting Chairman R. K. Ellings, aldermen authorized installation of 15 mercury vapor lights, instead of 14, in the business area on West 5th street. With one exception, the lights will be attached to present poles.

William J. Miller, who has leased the former KWNO parking lot to the Piggly Wiggly store, appeared before the Council and stated that he was authorized by the store to inquire whether the city would be interested in renting the lot for municipal parking purposes.

He said that the 48-car lot, on which Piggly Wiggly spent $4,400 on development, is used almost exclusively by all-day parkers and that the store wants to convert it to some other use or make other arrangements. Miller said that the store desires to give the city first opportunity to rent it.

City Engineer W. O. Cribbs suggested that if the lot can be rented at a reasonable price, that an attendant be employed and that hourly parking charges be made: 5 cents an hour Monday through Thursday and 5 cents an hour for the first hour and 10 cents an hour thereafter, Friday and Saturday.

Red Owl, Too Second Ward Ald. William S. L. Christensen said that if Piggly Wiggly is paid by the city then a similar arrangement should be made with Red Owl Stores at its new location should it request it.

The traffic and safety committee, headed by Ald.-at-Large Gordon L. Weishorn, was instructed to make an investigation of the Piggly Wiggly proposal.

Miller said that about 22 persons have indicated a willingness to pay $10 a month for parking stalls. However, he added that Piggly Wiggly has no intention of going into the parking lot business.

First National Plans Drive-in, Customer Parking The First National Bank will convert the area to the west and north of its building into a parking lot and a drive-in window service, it was revealed as a result of a petition at the City Council meeting Monday evening.

The Council authorized a 30-foot driveway on Center street at the residence of George M. Robertson, president.

Robertson said today that it is hoped that construction will begin next week. However, no contract has yet been let.

The drive-in window would permit banking without the customer leaving the car.

Alley Improvement In other business the Council heard a report from City Engineer W. O. Cribbs that there has been a demonstration of how its policy on alley improvement works. Several years ago the aldermen decided that the city would pay the cost of excavating an alley if the abutting property owners would pay for the surfacing.

Recently Red Owl Stores and Marigold Dairies joined in such an arrangement to improve the alley between Lafayette and Walnut streets, Cribbs said.

The street department, in conjunction with the engineering department, was authorized to replace rip-rapping on the upstream side of the Prairie Island road. Stone has been washed away by water, particularly during high water stages. Cribbs said that it is proposed to use concrete removed during the East 3rd street re-ruining. If crushed stone would be purchased about $300 worth would be needed, he said.

Aldermen decided to ask the Minnesota Department of Highways to remove the east island on 4th street at the interstate bridge. Large semitrailers have difficulty in turning onto 4th street from the bridge, and consequently sometimes go down Winona street, which is not a truck route.

If that is accomplished, said Engineer Cribbs, the stop signs at 5th and Winona streets should be reversed, that is traffic on Winona street, not 5th street, should stop.

Parking at Schools Aldermen asked City Attorney Harold Streeter and Cribbs to check the parking ordinance to determine whether it could be changed so that parking would be permitted in school non-parking zones during non-school hours.

First Ward Ald. William F. Holden, in introducing this suggestion, said that signs could be erected instead of painting the curbs.

He also secured approval, subject to the passage of an ordinance, of a bus stop at Mechanic and West 5th streets, on the south side.

James Puck, assistant sewage plant operator, was authorized expenses to attend a meeting sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Health Thursday and Friday in Minneapolis.

Gasoline Siphoned From Parked Trucks The siphoning of gasoline from Schurmer Transportation Co. trucks parked at the firm's terminal on East Mark street has been reported to police.

The company said that thefts of gasoline have been noted during the past two or three weeks.

City Approves $17,000 More For Flood Plan

Engineers Request Additional Help On $1,421,000 Job

The Corps of Engineers has asked the city of Winona to contribute another $17,000 toward the $1,421,000 flood protection project here.

The aldermen Monday night said "O.K." and thereby ran the city's expected obligation to $37,000.

When the original report was made on the proposed flood protection project, the city's contributions were estimated to cost $20,000. Now that the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is reviewing the report in Washington, it has decided the city should contribute a little more.

A cost of a 24-inch culvert and flap gate through the Prairie Island road and alterations in the sanitary sewer at Olmstead and West 2nd streets; estimated cost, $5,200.

B. $11,800 in cash or its equivalent.

Engineers have pointed out that they are asking a small contribution from the city because it already has made expenditures toward completion of the project, including about $180,000 for the mile-long dike along Crooked Slough, which the Engineers would strengthen.

The Washington board officially will consider the report on the flood protection plan at 11 a.m. Nov. 29 in Washington.

It would provide a continuous levee along the bank of the Mississippi River for about 6.3 miles, from Minnesota City to a point near Huff and 2nd streets, improve the existing levee between the lower end of Lake Winona and the river, and build two pumping plants.

The improvement would provide protection from floods up to those occurring about once in 500 years, or about 130 per cent of the 1952 flood.

If the board approves the plan after the Nov. 29 hearing, the report will be submitted to Congress. Under ordinary circumstances, the project would be authorized the first year and the necessary funds appropriated the second year.

DeSoto, Dodge, Plymouth Cars Here Wednesday

Winona's Chrysler Corp. dealers will display 1955 Plymouth, Dodge and DeSoto automobiles in the city beginning Wednesday.

Warren Ulberg, co-owner of the Boller-Ulberg Motor Co., 107 Walnut St., said today that he will have two DeSotos and two Plymouths available for display and sales here. The firm will be open Wednesday evening until 9 o'clock.

At the same time, Cecil Baldwin of Seifert-Baldwin Motor Co., announced today that he would have an undesignated number of 1955 Plymouths and Dodges on display at the firm's showrooms at 121 W. 4th St.

Seifert-Baldwin will be open for new car showings Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings until 9 o'clock.

Longer and Lower
All Chrysler cars for 1955, attempting to present a sleeker look, are longer, lower and somewhat wider in most cases. Dodge has increased its over-all length in all models, with a jump of as much as 16 inches in some cases, while Plymouths are 10 inches longer throughout three series and 1.7 inches lower over-all.

Newest innovation in all Plymouth, Dodge and DeSoto cars is the placement of the gear selector on the dashboard, in all cars powered by an automatic transmission system. In optional standard-shift models, the gear lever remains on the steering column.

Tubeflex tires and wrap-around windshields, allowing 16 per cent more visibility, are standard equipment on all three makes. The Chrysler Airtemp heating and ventilation unit is now available on an optional basis at extra cost on all three makes.

Other optional equipment, available at extra cost, for all Plymouth, Dodge and DeSoto cars for 1955 includes: Power windows, power seats, power brakes, power steering and adjustable speed windshield wipers.

The Plymouth, Chrysler's low-priced car, is available in three series—Belvedere, Plaza and Savoy—with 12 models. Boller-Ulberg will have one model from two of the series—Belvedere and Plaza—on display at its showrooms here.

Plymouths will be available in three increased-horsepower engines including a 117-horsepower straight 6, 157-horsepower V-8 and 167-horsepower V-8. At optional extra cost, the 167-horsepower V-8 can have an additional "power package" installed, jumping its rate to 177-horsepower.

Plymouth innovations also include push-button door handles, electric windshield wipers and a center-placed glove compartment in the dashboard.

New DeSoto Models
DeSoto, showing the least change for 1955 of the three, will have eight models available in two series. The DeSoto Firelite series, with a maximum rating of 200 horsepower in a V-8 engine, will include a four-door sedan, Sportsman hardtop and convertible coupe.

The DeSoto Firedome series, with a V-8 engine generating 185-horsepower—increased 15 over 1954—includes the four-door sedan, Sportsman hardtop, convertible coupe, special coupe and a station wagon.

The Boller-Ulberg Motor Co. will display one model from both DeSoto series.

Other DeSoto options include a choice of 13 solid or 42 two-tone colors and a search-tuning radio. A 20-gallon fuel tank is standard equipment on all makes and models.

Dodge Changes
Dodge cars for 1955 employ use of Chrysler's second most radical change by displaying three-tone color combinations on all makes and models.

A two cubic-foot increase in trunk space, flared wheel openings and an increased wheelbase to 120 inches are marked innovations in Dodge cars.

The make will be available in three series—Crown Royal, Royal and Coronet—with 14 models. Engines available include a 6-cylinder 123-horsepower Coronet and three V-8 Red Ram engines, generating 175, 183 and 193 horsepower.

All three makes—Plymouth, Dodge and DeSoto—are available with either Powerflite automatic transmission including a four-barrel passing gear, or the standard shift transmission, with or without overdrive.

Rosy apples make a delicious dessert to serve after a pork roast. Cut peeled and cored apples into thirds and simmer in a sugar syrup tinted pink with red food coloring. Serve warm or chilled with whipped cream topped with toasted nuts.

More Women Join Barefoot Crusade

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Sometimes I have the gall to tell you how my Gorgeous Mother-in-Law and Beautiful Wife scamper barefooted around our little "Hillbilly Hall."

I get in trouble with them—but how much more trouble with them can I be in?

Then I got bolder and insulted the South by telling how a lady said she was "a barefoot hillbilly from Hickory, N. C."

"I didn't know whether to show up with my shoes on or off when I went home," she said.

At that, several Carolinians rared up.

The Greensboro, N. C., News editorialized about it. Quoting Longfellow—"Lives of great men all remind us . . . we can make our lives sublime . . . and departing leave behind us . . . footprints on the sands of time"—the editorial pointed out:

"The men who made the best footprints on those sands didn't wear shoes."

Soromon, David, Pericles, Plato and Socrates were mentioned as barefoot boys. "Twas pointed out that Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini just loved big heavy tramp-tramp-tramp shoes.

And now I come, perhaps too slowly, to a point.

A few weeks ago, Marilyn Monroe and director Billy Wilder went to Photographer Dick Avedon's studio here to pose for a "fashion shot" for Harper's Bazaar.

Marilly got into a white mink stole, a black dress, jewels, etc., for the picture. Wilder for the occasion was in a dinner jacket.

They surely did look elegant in the head-and-shoulders shot that was taken for the magazine.

Sneaking around the studio with my own camera, I got a picture of the rest of Miss Monroe. She was most Bostonian with her lifted chin and her furs up above, but down below . . . Marilly was without stockings, shoes, heels, and her big toe on the left foot was indeed very, very pretty, though this is not to reflect on the little toe.

We're gonna make barefootedness the fashion yet!

The Hollywood news that the Edmund Purdums busted up didn't surprise some of us who talked to Purdum here the other day. The tall, Gregory Peckish Britisher, very popular with the Hollywood sirens lately was asked whether he was happily married.

"Yes, am," he replied. "The only trouble is, my wife isn't."

Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy (who sub for Arthur Godfrey Monday when he vacations) want to pay a nice tribute to New Rochelle, where they have so many ulcer-bearing advertising men as neighbors. They propose to rename the town "Neuro-Shell."

Gov. Allan Shivers just made an important appointment. He named me an honorary Texan. Jack Carper, the Uvalde composer whose "If You Like Texas" has just been recorded by Dick Cole on Big D Records, swang—I mean swung—it for me.

Learn to Act First, Tip Of Sara Shane

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—If she had it to do over, Sara Shane would learn how to act first, then become a publicity "star."

Sara, who is much more glamorous than her adopted film name would indicate, became a Hollywood figure overnight. Maybe I should say half a figure. Anyway, one morning a movie trade paper featured a pinup pose of her on the waist up. An ad in the other trade paper showed her assets from the waist down. Put them both together, and you got a lovely gal.

It caused something of a sensation, which may be testimony on the low state of creative press agency in Hollywood. The stunt was hailed as the greatest severance play since Orson Welles sawed Rita Hayworth in half during his magic show. Sara had offered from several studios and signed with U-I because it offers the best training for young hopefuls.

Sara's career fizzled out after a year at U-I and she was dropped.

"Now I realize my mistake," she says. "I did the whole thing backwards. I should have gotten a firm foundation as an actress, and then gone after the publicity buildup. The stunt developed my name to the point where I should have been doing star roles. But I wasn't ready for them."

She has taken steps to remedy that situation. She has been having dramatic lessons five hours a day, six days a week for several months. Now she is up for good roles, and she feels she is ready for them.

If she does make the grade, it will be a tribute to her own native determination. She says she has yearned to act since she saw her first movie.

A honey blonde with a cover-girl face and warm blue eyes, she started modeling as a school girl in her home town of St. Louis, cutting classes if necessary. She went to New York and became a Powers girl. But the heat of summer was too much for her, and she decided to try her luck in California.

One Man Slain As Michigan Deer Season Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One man was shot to death Monday and several wounded as more than 350,000 deer hunters stalked prey without too much success in the first day of Michigan's buck season.

Killed was Army (Sparky) Hale of Flint, a well-known Michigan sportsman and insurance company president. State police said he was hunting in a swamp in the Pigeon River Forest, 20 miles north-east of Gaylord, and was hit by a shot fired by a companion, Alex McCourt of Pinconning.

Hale was struck in the chest when a deer was flushed by the hunting party and McCourt's shot missed. McCourt was taken to the Osage County Hospital with a nervous breakdown. Hale was president of the Sparky Insurance Co. of Flint.

A state conservation department spokesman said opening day estimates indicated slightly fewer hunters were roaming the woods than last year and although the first day kill might have been slightly better than 1953, it was poor.

Police said that despite early estimates, the traffic across the Straits of Mackinac for the five-day period ending midnight Sunday was 22,087 vehicles—only 29 more than crossed last year. However, the crush of traffic which at one time was lined up for 16 miles came all at once.

Department field men reported Upper and Lower Peninsula kills about the same as last year with hunting conditions poor. Temperatures were near freezing with no snow reported anywhere. The woods were dry and noisy.

St. Paul Man Killed

ST. PAUL (U)—Mike Maggi, 62, was killed near his home here Monday night to carry the Minnesota traffic toll to 550 compared with 569 a year ago. Robert Walbridge, 17, driver of the car that struck Maggi, said he did not see the aged man crossing the street. Walbridge was not held.

Early Cancers May Be More Easily Detected

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (U)—Human cancers can be made to shine with a bright red warning light for easy detection, a medical team announced today.

This may prove a great breakthrough against cancer.

It could lead to a pretty sure way of telling whether a person has cancer, whether it has spread in his body, where all the cancer is located. It might also create a new way of carrying radioactive atoms to cancers to destroy them. Chemical obtained from human blood is injected into a person's veins. This chemical, porphyrin, lodges in cancer tissue.

Then when body tissues are examined under ultraviolet or invisible black light, the porphyrin shines with a red light of danger as bright as a woman's lipstick.

So far this method has outlined entire cancers in a few human bodies, telling surgeons the extent of the cancer and complete removal. Doctors D. S. Rasmussen, Taxdal, Grant E. Ward and Frank H. J. Figue of Baltimore told the American College of Surgeons.

There is hope that the porphyrin can be combined with iodine so that it would show up under X-rays.

That would mean a person could have the injection, then be X-rayed or fluoroscoped to see if he has cancer, and where it is.

The porphyrin-iodine presumably would go to any place where there is cancer. The original cancer is removed, but its seeds already have spread elsewhere, take root and grow.

Another possibility is that radioactive atoms could be attached to porphyrin, and be carried to the sites of cancer to root them out with lethal radiation.

Rasmussen-Taxdal, now spending a year at the University of California Hospital, spoke for the medical team from the Johns Hopkins University and University of Maryland. Figue, head of the team, has long been interested in porphyrin.

Cadets Barred From Debates

WASHINGTON (U)—The Defense Department says cadets of the U.S. Military Academy and midshipmen of the Naval Academy are not permitted to participate in college debates on whether the United States should recognize Red China.

The department said the question "is a controversial subject and one concerning which national policy has been established."

The Defense Department policy became known after a West Point team withdrew from a scheduled debate with the Newark Colleges of Rutgers University. The Princeton University debate panel protested the ban.

Smogmen in London

Buying on Time Seems to Be Picking Up

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (U)—Buying on time is picking up a little. And the merchants and finance companies are counting on the postelection enthusiasm in stock market and industrial centers to seep through to the consumers. This could end the trend this year toward paying up old debts rather than hurrying to take on new ones.

Installment buying may pick up speed first in the auto and home appliance fields, where it's an old American custom. Merchants too are expecting installment buying of clothing and furniture to increase.

The way people feel about their own income and job prospects has more to do with the cycles in installment credit than anything else, finance company officials say.

About this time last year, people were worried, and the rate of on-the-cuff buying of cars began to slump. The low point was reached in January of this year, and repayments exceeded new credit extensions through April.

But, as Sidney Rolfe, economist for C.I.T. Finance Corp., explains it, by spring people had decided that the recession would not become a depression, and they began buying more cars on time. With the new models coming out, the finance companies are looking for a big spurt in business.

Today members of the American Finance Conference, a trade association of 380 independent automobile installment credit companies, are meeting here to compare the prospects in various sections of the nation. Like the car makers, they're hoping the outlook for wages and employment is bright enough to induce consumers to take on new auto monthly payments.

EQUIPMENT AT CANTON
CANTON, Minn. (Special)—A parachute and gondola containing three sacks, determined to be aerial observation equipment, was found near here Sunday by Charles Ward, Canton, and his son-in-law, Gene Williams, La Crosse. They notified authorities in Minneapolis and a truck was sent to pick up the equipment Monday. A 25-foot tree was cut down to retrieve the parachute. A balloon, believed to be part of the equipment, was found a week earlier near Burr Oak, Iowa.

U.S. Offers Material for Atomic Reactors

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U)—Western diplomats today hailed the dramatic U.S. offer of 220 pounds of fissionable material for atomic reactors around the world as the biggest step forward since President Eisenhower first broached his atoms-for-peace plan.

Delegates viewed the unprecedented offer, which would virtually double the number of reactors this side of the Iron Curtain, as a momentous step toward placing atomic discoveries at the service of man.

U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. made the announcement last night to the U.N.'s 60-nation Political Committee, which is debating the Eisenhower proposal.

Informed sources said the fissionable material offered—estimated to be enough to make at least one atomic bomb—would provide enough fuel to run 30 or 40 new reactors. France's atomic spokesman, Jules Moch, said there now are 32 reactors in existence outside Russia and her satellite nations.

Lodge had announced Nov. 5 that the United States stood ready to conclude bilateral agreements with other nations to furnish fissionable materials for atomic reactors. But few delegates here thought Washington would act so quickly.

In a terse aside to Russia's Andrei Vishinsky, who had charged that the United States had "narrowed down" the scope of Eisenhower's original plan, Lodge vowed hope that the U.S. offer would "once and for all remove from the mind of all any confusion as to how specific the United States atoms-for-peace proposition really is."

U.S. sources indicated the fissionable materials would be earmarked by the proposed international atomic agency to participating nations for building reactors for peaceful purposes.

Miss Parker said they plan to be married Thanksgiving Day in the Hollywood Methodist Church.

Marriage Expected

HOLLYWOOD (U)—The marriage of actress Mitzi Gaynor and Jack Beau, public relations executive, is expected this week.

Miss Gaynor's mother, Mrs. Pauline Gerber, said: "All we know is that Mitzi and Jack will be married some day this week. Mitzi won't tell us anything more."

Miss Gaynor was given a bridal shower last night at the home of actress Mala Powers.

Proxmire Warns GOP Must Heed Opposing Ballots

MILWAUKEE (U)—William Proxmire, the Democratic candidate for governor defeated in the general election this month, says the 1954 balloting is final notice "to the Republican party to give Wisconsin leadership that will fight for its farmers, workers and small businessmen."

Proxmire, speaking to Democratic ward gathering here Monday night, added that if the Republicans do not produce that kind of leadership "they must make way for a party that will."

Proxmire, defeated by Gov. Kohler by some 34,000 votes, said "any dairy farmer can give the reason for the difference in Kohler's victory margin in 1952 (400,000 votes) and the 1954 total."

He said it was because in Wisconsin and the nation "Republicans abandoned the dairy farmers to the cruel impact of the Benson (Agriculture Sec. Benson) program that brought a crushing drop in milk checks while costs remained as high as ever."

Ambulance Crashes, Patient Inside Dead

MILWAUKEE (U)—An ambulance carrying an elderly man involved in a car accident, en route to a hospital, collided Monday with another car at a busy intersection in suburban Shorewood.

Frank Colath, 82, was dead on arrival at the hospital, apparently from a heart attack suffered before the second accident. The ambulance was driven by Fireman Joseph Feldman, 60, who was able to continue his trip to the hospital.

Feldman, Patrolman Clarence Soboczek, 35, the ambulance attendant, and Katherine Brierton, driver of the car that collided with the ambulance, were not injured.

Countess Loses Crusade for Homeless Dogs

ISLE OF CAPRI, Italy (AP)—The Countess Maria Anusio has lost her crusade for the 162 homeless dogs of Capri. But when the wealthy countess moves the dogs from their nurse-tended refuge here, by police order, it will be done in style.

A private boat will take them to Naples. A special truck caravan will take them to Venice. There new quarters await them, in a fancy home for founding cats which the countess maintains at her villa.

The countess, member of a noble old Venice family and owner of the Villa di Sira, where Mussolini and Hitler met, began it all by collecting whatever stray dogs appeared on Capri. She built her dog refuge in fashionable Anacapri, surrounded by villas.

A neighbor, Giuseppe Duchesne, complained of baying and barking. "When we had guests," he said, "it was impossible sometimes to hear a conversation at the dinner table. We had to go into other rooms to be able to talk."

The countess usually appeared in Capri bars and restaurants followed by 10 to 20 of her strays. Once, when one of her best loved stray dogs died, she heaped the funeral room with flowers, sat in all-night vigil and received telegrams of condolence from friends all over Italy.

Another time she had a black and white mongrel carried to bur-

New Trial Held To William Heirens

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court has refused to reconsider its denial of a new trial for William C. Heirens, 26, slayer of 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan and two women in Chicago.

Heirens is serving three life sentences for the mutilation killings of the Degnan girl; Miss Florence Brown, 33, a former Wave; and Mrs. Josephine Ross, 43, a widow.

The court yesterday gave no reason for rejecting Heirens' plea for a new trial.

ial through the streets of Capri in a tiny coffin borne by two men. Some Capresi stood with hat in hand as the coffin passed. They thought it was the funeral of a child. So did 12 vacationing American sailors, who saluted.

The order for removal of the dogs came from Anacapri police, backed up by Capri police, and finally supported by an order from the district police prefecture in Naples.

Grim Winter Faces Hungary

VIENNA (AP)—Nine million Hungarians face a grim winter. There are long lineups for coal and wood and the government admits many will go without heat. There are lines for meat, butter and fat.

An indignant mother wrote a Budapest newspaper: "Winter coats for 2-year-olds are not to be bought anywhere."

The trouble in Hungary, diplomats here say, is a crisis in its "new look" policy of trying to provide consumer goods. To carry out this plan, the Communists are turning the country's entire economy upside down. They did it once before when they took over in 1949. Then, they set out to make central Europe's biggest granary into an industrial giant.

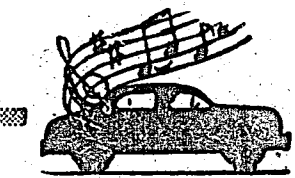

Now that's been all thrown overboard and they are going in reverse, all the way back to making Hungary an agricultural country with emphasis on consumer goods instead of on heavy iron and steel.

The result, the diplomats say, is that the entire economy doesn't know where it is going. Neither do the people.

Production of all kinds seems to be standing still as the entire economy is being shifted, as retooling takes place, as workers are retrained and reassigned.

Thousands of persons have been thrown out of jobs recently in an effort to reduce bureaucracy. Many of these are without any form of relief, and others have been forced to take lower-paid jobs, causing discontent. A government effort to force those fired to go to work on farms or in mines appears to have failed.

CAR TIPS By Al Speltz

Combustion Chamber Deposits

I have mentioned before that an automobile engine must be "worked" to keep it in good condition. Thus, if your driving is done almost exclusively within city limits, and if you cannot schedule periodic fast runs on the highway, you must do the next best thing: use second gear (or low range, if automatic) for a few miles of city driving about once a week. DON'T DO THIS WITH A COLD ENGINE!

For both low and high compression engines, these periodic run-ups are necessary to keep piston rings free in grooves, to prevent excessive carbon deposits, to evaporate any water or gasoline present in the crankcase oil, and to prevent spark plug fouling.

Excessive carbon deposits in combustion chambers decrease the power outputs of both types of engines. Many explanations have been offered for this decrease. The best, probably, is that these deposits, when hot, lower the density of the intake charge. That is, a

515,000 Flee From Northern Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The head of the American aid mission here says more than 515,000 refugees have fled North Viet Nam since the Geneva conference awarded the area to the Communist-led Vietnam.

"The refugees continue to move south at a steady rate," Leland Barrows reported last night. "How many more hundreds of thousands have chosen freedom, but have been unable to get out, perhaps will never be known."

Under the progressive schedule set up by the Geneva conference, the Vietnamh is to take over the whole of North Viet Nam by May 1955.

hot "cylinder-full" of fuel-air mixture weighs less than does a cold one. And, the power developed varies as the WEIGHT of the intake charge.

Combustion chamber deposits increase the effective compression ratios — and the tendency to detonate — in both types of engines. However, a deposit thick enough to raise a 6-to-1 engine one number will raise an 8-to-1 more than one number. Changing from regular to premium gasoline will usually stop detonation in the low compression engine, but not in the high compression one if it needed premium from the start.

If hard driving fails to prevent excessive deposits in your high compression engine, you should suspect that the fuel mixture is too rich or that some or all of the cylinders are "pumping" oil. In any case, try first to eliminate the causes of the excessive deposits before you resort to the expensive operation of removing these deposits mechanically.

Three Killed in Chicago Crash

CHICAGO (AP)—The motorman and two passengers in a streetcar were killed and 35 other persons were injured, several seriously, in a collision yesterday of a trolley and a semitrailer truck at a South Side street intersection.

Police said the truck driver, Ernest Taylor, 46, was charged with drunken driving, reckless homicide and driving on the wrong side of the street.

Witnesses said the northbound truck, loaded with pianos, hit a concrete safety island. The trailer jackknifed across the path of the southbound trolley at 61st street and Western avenue. Some 50 passengers were in the street car.

The dead were Gusto Carlson, 64, a motorman for 38 years; James K. Ziegler, 46, a bus driver; and Arthur Duffin, 72.

Want to Drive to Alaska? Here Is Some Good Advice

Both pleasures and problems are in store for motorists driving from the United States to Alaska and drivers heading north should be well advised as to what they will probably encounter.

Many motorists are showing increased interest in trips over the Alaska Highway and those planning such a trip can learn much from a Winonan just returned from an Alcan adventure.

The Winona man, who has traveled in all parts of the country, reports that an Alaska journey is a "rare and thrilling experience in motorizing, revealing scenic vistas that are spectacular and almost incredible."

He said roads in western Canada and Alaska are being constantly improved, while accommodations and living conditions are being upgraded appreciably.

"However," he cautioned, "if a motorist feels he is going on a luxury excursion he will be sadly mistaken. There is still a certain amount of pioneering involved in making this trip. Anyone who expects to receive the comforts of home should not attempt the journey, as these conditions do not exist. In fact, I met a number of tourists turning back after completing only half their itinerary because of this mistaken idea."

"Overnight accommodations, from Edmonton north, are limited. In some cases, old barracks have been remodeled and log cabins added. In many of the small towns in the Yukon Territory and Alaska overnight establishments frequently have only a few rooms equipped with the luxury of a wash bowl or private bath."

"Motorists should study their itineraries carefully, planning to reach their daily destinations not later than 5:30 p.m., for otherwise they may not be able to obtain desirable accommodations. In Alaska, where many tours focus on Fairbanks, special note should be made that the university opens its dormitories as summer tourist accommodations."

The traveler said he found these care-care practices to be helpful: Using heavy duty tires and carrying two spares; covering the gasoline tank with an old inner tube; screening across the radiator to keep out insects; using caution in lowering windows and opening car doors to prevent mosquito entry; sealing the back of the trunk with scotch tape to keep out heavy dust. He found that, with the exception of the Steese Highway (north from Fairbanks), many new gas stations have been built at about 50-mile intervals.

"Probably the best time to make the trip," he said, "is during late June or July. This does not mean mosquitoes will be avoided, but they are less evident than in other months. Touring during this time affords the opportunity to see the colorful fireweed, which grows in profusion along the Alaska Highway and all the other highways in Alaska."

American Legion Takes Up Censorship Again

The American Legion of Minnesota is tinkering around with censorship. The Legion has a "program for regulation of comic books." Somebody is going to explain it to members.

Now at first glance it might seem a laudable thing that the Legion is going to regulate comic books—comic books being what they are. But on further reflection, the Legion should know that censorship is akin to playing God.

Even to consider the censorship of any of man's works is a weakening of the personal liberties of Americans. The Legion would be better advised to turn its attention to its own members. If it can persuade them to avoid buying comic books, then the enterprise will fail without necessity of censors.

The Legion avowedly supports the United States of America. To seek to censor any of man's projects circumscribes personal liberty. Anything that circumscribes personal liberty weakens the United States of America.

Every American should have the right to print or paint or draw what he chooses. The rest of us should have the right to read or to look. If what we see offends us then we have the right to reject the material offered. If we reject it, then it gets no further.

That's the way it ought to be. Each of us should have our own right of choice. Censorship by any name or any method, robs us of a right of choice.

That's why censorship is wrong.—Albert Lea, Minn., Tribune.

Senate Dignity Will Suffer at Hearing

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK—Nothing new will be established by the current McCarthy-Watkins debate; it is all old hat. The dignity of the Senate will suffer, of course, and the minds of our people will be diverted from important questions involving the life of the nation by a quarrel which has become strictly personal and raises no question of public morals.

Father Wilfrid Parsons, writing in America, the Jesuit magazine, last July, summed up the entire question in these words:

" . . . As long as Mr. McCarthy was directing his fire on the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, he was warmly encouraged, first by Senator Taft and later by other leaders. Hence his famous lecture, 'Twenty Years of Treason.' But when, beginning last December, he shifted his attention to the Republican administration and, during the late hearings, amended his title to 'Twenty-one Years of Treason,' he threw a deep scare into the Republican leaders. They obviously want none of this fall."

THEY WANT NONE OF this winter or next. It is the old question of whose ox is gored. No one in the Republican party objects to asking about Alger Hiss or Harry Dexter White or William Remington, to say nothing of a bookbinder in the government printing office, but when McCarthy sent Roy Cohn and David Schine to Germany to have a look at the situation there, he engaged the Eisenhower administration and has had no peace since. It is this investigation rather than "who promoted Peress?" which is at the heart of McCarthy's troubles.

In Germany, the McCarthy investigators found a basis for investigating the laxity of the High Commissioner's office in relation to Communism. As a result, Theodore Kagan, Acting Deputy Director of the Public Affairs Division of the Office of the U. S. High Commissioner in Germany, was brought to Washington where he testified and, in due course, quit government service. Since then, Joe McCarthy has had the enmity of two powerful men, John J. McCloy and Paul Hoffman. The Ford Foundation, in which both are great figures, contributed $15,000,000 to the Fund for the Republic which was established to investigate the operations of certain committees of Congress, namely, those which investigate Communists.

What the Fund for the Republic, which was first managed by Paul Hoffman and later by Clifford Case, has done with the $15,000,000 I do not know. I have seen no report; no accounting for the money; no statement of accomplishments.

McCarthy HAS BEEN INVESTIGATED five times, which is a goodly number for a senator. He survived four of the investigations. He is now faced by a censure vote of the Senate after the fifth investigation, namely, by the Watkins Committee which does not quarrel with him on any basic public questions but accuses him of bad manners, raucous conduct, improper and contemptuous language.

Joe McCarthy's defense is to give them more of the same and, as before, the country is dividing as between McCarthyites and anti-McCarthyites, with an increasingly large number of Americans losing respect for both groups and hoping that some day the Senate will get down to its proper work.

There is this to say on the other side: Every investigator of Communists and their affiliates, willingly, destroys the careers of many who are investigated. Communists, ex-Communists, spies, fellow-travelers and just plain dupes, have families and friends who often believe that they are abused and who become bitter over the investigations.

There are also many fine Americans, themselves in no manner involved in the Communist conspiracy, who know that their sons and daughters, nephews and nieces, and other kinsfolk are involved. They live in terror of exposure, which unjustly will reflect upon them, as though a father or an uncle is, in these days, in any way responsible for the conduct of an adult relative. I know that such cases have come up and have been discussed with more sympathy than is believable in view of the tough mien which McCarthy exhibits in public.

It was proposed to Joe McCarthy, to my certain knowledge, that all unpleasantness between himself and the White House would cease if he agreed to hold all sessions of his committee in camera, making public nothing that transpired, and sending the transcript to the White House for appropriate action. When he rejected that proposal, all White House doors were closed to him and the prolonged fight started in earnest.

Policy on Latin American Loans Arouses Resentment

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—While the U.S.A. is worrying about Joe McCarthy and while Washington is more deluged with pro-McCarthy church lobbyists than at any time in years, an all-important backstage debate is going on regarding Latin America which could advance the cause of Communism greatly.

In brief, Ambassador Mervin L. Bohan has resigned as U. S. ambassador to the Rio de Janeiro conference will be run by Wall Street, not for the good of Pan American cooperation.

The Rio de Janeiro economic conference, scheduled to open next week, was the bait held out by John Foster Dulles at the Caracas conference when he got our Latin friends to support the U.S.A. regarding Guatemala.

Great things would be accomplished at Rio, Dulles told the Latinos as an alibi for little happening at Caracas. Especially he held out the promise of big U. S. loans and economic aid.

But now Ambassador Bohan has resigned for the specific reason that no real economic aid or loans will be forthcoming.

What has happened, briefly, is this. For some time, Sec. of the Treasury Humphrey has argued that the United States should not advance money to Latin Americans but that they should borrow from the International Bank. This was one of the issues between Humphrey and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, Ike's brother, when the latter visited Latin America. And at that time Milton won. He kept the Export-Import Bank alive as a means of loaning money to Latin America.

However, brother Milton has gone back to Penn State College, while Sec. Humphrey remains on the job in Washington. In fact, he remains about the most powerful Cabinet member in Ike's official family. Furthermore, Humphrey will be the top U. S. delegate to the Rio economic conference. Dulles, who was planning to go, is now worn out and will not go.

Hardbitten Humphrey So Humphrey has put across the policy that loans will not be made by the Ex-Im bank unless Wall Street, operating through the International Bank, turns them down.

State Department advisers don't entirely like the Humphrey policy. But they are very discreet in their opposition. After all, Humphrey is the most powerful member of the Cabinet.

What they point out is that loaning money to Latin America is not a financial matter but a political one. In brief, we should not be loaning money to a semi-Communist country even if it's sound financially. On the other hand, we may want to loan money to a friendly country which needs help to throw off Communism.

The State Department, not Wall Street bankers, is qualified to make this decision; the diplomats argue. And they are vigorously against turning this vital instrument of national policy over to the bankers, either Wall Street or any other group of bankers.

Meanwhile Sec. Humphrey has proposed an "international finance corporation" which would undertake borderline loans to Latin America. However, Latin American finance ministers regard this as a nebulous promise for the future. They are definitely skeptical. At the same time, Latinos at the Rio conference are certain to remember how Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan went home with a gift of $105,000,000 while Iran is getting about $240,000,000, and Egypt will get close to $100,000,000.

So the Latinos remark—rather bitterly—that perhaps they need to wave the Red flag a little. If they adopt just a little Communism, argue some of the Latin diplomats,

German Sells Postcards at Massacre Site

By HAL BOYLE

MALMEDY, Belgium (AP)—Nearly 10 years after Adolf Hitler ripped the Allied western wall in the "Battle of the Bulge," a German war veteran now sells postcards at the site of the famous Malmedy massacre.

The scene is a junction of five roads about three miles south of here where on Dec. 17, 1944, breakthrough elements of the first SS Panzer Division surprised and captured lightly armed troops of an American field artillery observation battalion.

The Americans were disarmed and herded into a pasture a few feet from the road junction. As they stood there, defenseless, hands overhead in the accepted posture of prisoners, the Nazi storm troopers opened fire on them.

Scores fell. The Hitler elite tank men, blood-thirsty, drunk with Der Fuehrer's last impossible dream of victory against the West, stroled among the fallen. They kicked the bodies. Any that moved or showed signs of life they put a pistol to.

Only 15 escaped by playing dead. After the Nazi tanks rolled on south, they rose at a concerted whispered signal and ran for the trees. A single Nazi tank left to guard the crossroads machine gunned them as they fled.

A few moments later the survivors came into the outskirts of this town on an American patrol jeep, a town protected at that instant only by two trees topped across the road by a few brave stubborn engineers.

Jack Belden, then of Time Magazine, and I were the only newsmen who happened to be on this particular scene of the spreading, frightening battle of the Belgian Bulge. We got there not through insight, but because we woke up late that morning.

The other correspondents, who had arisen earlier, had taken round-about roads to where the Army reported the Germans were attacking. Having been through the battle of Kasserine Gap in Africa and knowing the speed of Nazi Panzers in attack, Belden and I looked at the map and drove from our headquarters in Spa to the nearest road network we figured the Germans would aim for—and they were there.

We got there just as the jeepload of surviving artillerymen came back into our lines. They were half-frozen, dazed, weeping with anger. At the first aid station, one boy sobbed out of his boot a bullet that had clipped off his toes.

"We didn't have a chance," he sobbed. "We didn't have a chance."

They didn't have a chance, and a revolted world soon knew the story.

Weeks later when the Nazi putsch had failed, and the broken Panzer legions were being pushed back into the fatherland, we found at the crossroads still being blasted by enemy artillery fire, the frozen, snow-covered bodies that confirmed the full horror of the storm troopers' needless cruelty.

What is there left on that spot today?

The snows are gone, the men

Knowland Doubts Peace Possible

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland's job as Senate Republican leader is to steer President Eisenhower's program through that chamber but at times he seems at cross-purposes with the man in the White House.

In the midst of yesterday's Senate debate on censuring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Knowland, a Californian, delivered a speech denouncing the idea that there could be "peaceful coexistence" with the Communist world.

This was contrary to what Eisenhower himself told a news conference last June 30 after a White House visit by Sir Winston Churchill, Britain's prime minister, and Sir Anthony Eden, the British foreign minister.

Eisenhower said the hope of the world lay in peaceful coexistence, but he declared this must not mean appeasement and must not mean the subordination of any nation to an outside power.

This was pretty good evidence that the President, although he hoped for coexistence, wasn't betting it would work.

Churchill had said much the same thing two days before when, at a June 28 news conference, he urged a "real good try" at peaceful coexistence. It might not solve all problems, he said, but things might get better.

The President and the Prime Minister made their statements more than a year after the Russians began talking of coexistence.

Knowland's expression yesterday of his views on coexistence wasn't all new. Last Aug. 1 he said coexistence with Russia is as impossible as coexisting in a cage of tigers.

Yesterday he said Russia is plugging "coexistence" to gain time to accumulate atomic power.

He said once there was such an atomic stalemate—perhaps between 1957 and 1960—Russia would begin nibbling away at small nations, with Communist victory the final result.

Although he doesn't like the coexistence theme, Knowland said he had no alternative. He said he doesn't want war of any kind.

He called for congressional investigations of the administration's foreign and defense policies. Yet only last March 17, while praising the administration's "new look" defense program, he said he thought it would be bad policy for Congress to debate that program. Nothing, he said, could please the Kremlin more than that.

Last July 1 he announced he would resign his Senate leadership and a fight to take the United States out of the United Nations, if Red China was seated in that world organization. Opposition to U.N. membership for Red China already was part of Eisenhower's policy.

are gone. A monument topped by an American flag remains in memory.

It is an odd monument. At one end is a small stone crypt holding a wooden carving of Christ. The rest of the monument is merely a field stone wall in which are 84 plaques, each bearing the rankless name of an American soldier.

Roadside Cafe Across the road is a small cafe where wayfarers pause to take a cup of coffee and get out of the chattering cold. The proprietor is Louis Bodarwe, who has a wife and a small daughter. Louis sells postcards of photos of the frozen American victims in the snow.

Like many young men in this frontier between Germany and Belgium, he says he was impressed into the Nazi army and forced to fight for them.

"They transferred us to the Russian front," he says. "I myself was wounded six times. Look!" He bends down to show a terrible scar under his tattered hair.

The cafe he runs was newly built. The old one was destroyed while he was away in Russia under German arms.

"My mother ran this cafe before me," says Bodarwe. "The day the Panzers came through here and killed the Americans she disappeared."

It is known that other civilians in a position to be witnesses to the atrocity were fired on or have vanished.

There is nothing for a visitor to say. Bodarwe has his scars, sells his coffee and his distressing souvenir photos.

Sometimes his daughter, Marie Claire, grave-eyed and not yet 5, brings flowers to the monument. On other days she merely plays lonely childhood games upon the stones and looks wonderingly at the tortured figure on the cross.

The name of the island of Jamaica derives from the Indian word "Xaymaca" meaning "the well-wooded land of springs and waterfalls."

GOP Ponders What to Do in McCarthy Case

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leaders have about concluded they have a political bear by the tail in the McCarthy case with very little chance of letting go without a mauling from one quarter or another.

On one hand GOP leaders have in Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) a vigorous exponent of saying what he thinks about anybody who crosses up what he conceives to be his mission of fanning Communism out of government.

On the other, there is determination among some Republican senators to chastise McCarthy for what they say are actions which tend to bring discredit on the Senate.

In the middle are Republican senators who say privately they think McCarthy may have gone to extremes at times in blasting those who don't agree with him, but who appear to believe that only rough and ready methods are effective in dealing with the Communist-in-government issue.

The result points to a split vote among Republicans, emphasizing a measure of disunity that might well carry over into the 1956 presidential campaign.

It is from the middle ground group that Republican leaders hope to draw strength for what, after a week of mostly futile conferences, can only be regarded as a waning effort to reach a compromise acceptable to a majority of the Senate.

McCarthy gives no evidence of wanting to compromise. He has said the Senate session would be a "lynching bee" and he would be censured for his conduct.

The effort of Republicans leaders—and this apparently takes in Vice President Nixon; Sen. Knowland of California, the floor leader; Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, the chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee; and Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, the president pro tem—is to find a compromise that McCarthy can be persuaded to accept.

There is a growing feeling among senators that McCarthy believes censure would give him additional political strength.

Nixon said in a post election interview that a boycott of the election by McCarthy's supporters among Republicans may have resulted in some GOP Senate and House losses.

Knowland seems to believe it would not be politically wise for a majority of Senate Republicans to join in chastising McCarthy, if that can be avoided.

U.S. Heating Up War for World Trade

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are heating up their war for world trade. Both industry and government are in on it, as competition gets sharper.

Many Americans complain bitterly that the resurgent Europe, built up with the aid of U.S. loans and grants, is pushing American businessmen out of some world markets.

Businessmen are seeking, and getting, government-backed underwriting of part of the risks of collecting payment for goods sold abroad. This is to meet European competition. Some other nations insure their businessmen's overseas trading.

Private banks here also are discussing a plan to join with federal agencies in providing credit to finance exports of capital goods.

More than 2,000 businessmen interested in importing, exporting, shipping or financing world trade are here today for a three-day meeting sponsored by the National Foreign Trade Council. They're discussing these and other problems facing Americans trying to do business abroad.

Other developments elsewhere:

The U.S. government once more—at the Geneva conference on the general agreement on tariffs and trade—is urging other nations to lower the barriers against American goods. It wants this done before lowering U.S. tariffs further.

Washington is also backing a plan for an international finance corporation to underwrite part of the risks of private investment in underdeveloped countries.

A week from now Americans will go to Rio de Janeiro for a 21-nation economic conference to discuss the currency and trade barriers that businessmen battle in the Western Hemisphere.

And in about seven weeks a new Congress will meet. Early in the session the President's plan for liberalization of American foreign trade probably will be laid before it and seems sure to touch off a big fight.

The rebound of European industry, while it has stiffened competition in world markets, also has produced prosperity among European consumers. And many American makers of consumer goods have been selling their products there this year, thus moderating the effects of the recession here.

Queen Mother Watches Movie 'Beau Brummell'

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II watched a Hollywood version of some of her less reputable ancestors' carryings-on last night. One London critic figured it must have been pretty embarrassing for the monarch, but she didn't seem to mind.

The occasion was the annual royal film performance, this year the British premier of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Beau Brummell."

Starring Stewart Granger and Elizabeth Taylor, it is based on the life of the famous Regency top. Its characters include Elizabeth's great-grandfather George III (played by Briton Robert Morley) and his dissolute son the Prince Regent (another British actor, Peter Ustinov).

Most critics for London's morning newspapers criticized the film as dull and historically inaccurate. Leonard Mosley of the Daily Express said it not only was boring but must have been a source of embarrassment to the Queen. He wrote:

"Fancy giving your patronage and attention to a film show in which you have to watch... 'I. One of your ancestors, George III, going mad in St. George's chapel at Windsor and playing a lunatic game of hide and seek along the corridors of the castle.

"2. The Prince of Wales (later George IV) bursting into tears because the Prime Minister of the day refuses to let him marry 'the woman I love'; and

"3. Scene after scene in which royalty is turned into a farce and monarchy is played for cheap laughs."

If all this hurt the Queen's feelings, she covered up nicely. Leaving the theater, she told an official of the Cinematograph Trade Benevolent Fund—which sponsored the show—that "it was a beautiful film and so well produced."

Eighteen British and U.S. film stars were on hand for the occasion, with the Americans including Jane Russell, Shelley Winters and Rudy Vallee. They were presented to the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret before the performance.

Miss Winters bobbled her curtsy to the Queen during the private reception, but later brought off a perfect one when introduced from the stage to the audience. The royal party giggled as Shelley remarked: "Now I do it right!"

Auto-Scraper Crash Kills 2

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. (AP)—An auto driven by a Wisconsin Highway Department engineer collided with a road scraper, killing two passengers in the auto Monday.

Killed were Charles Holmes, 62, and Lloyd Panter, 48, both of Wisconsin Rapids. Holmes was an employee of the Highway Department.

William J. Haselton, 64, the driver of the car, is in charge of the department's district office at Wisconsin Rapids. He was treated at Riverview Hospital here for face cuts.

Herb Pichler, 28, Butternut, the operator of the scraper, was treated for shock.

Wood County Traffic Officer David Sharkey said the auto struck the scraper as it was turning around on Highway 54, about four miles east of here. The scraper was working on a highway project.

Haselton said he was returning from Stevens Point where he had spoken before the Portage County board of supervisors.

Public Hunting Grounds

The purchase of the water area and shore line of First, Second, and Third Lake of the Trempealeau lake chain, as the Trempealeau Lakes Public Hunting Grounds, was completed Friday by the Wisconsin Conservation Commission. The commission approved an expenditure of $6,000 out of Wisconsin Pittman-Robertson funds for the purpose. The area contains 167 acres.

Bucks Only

We beg your pardon—is our face red—it is forked horn bucks only in the shotgun zone of Wisconsin, as over the whole State of Wisconsin. The any deer regulation in the shotgun zone was thrown out a year ago. We should have looked at the 1934 regulations.

At the same time, Nick Jensen, president of the Associated Conservation Clubs of Trempealeau County, announced that this association, composed of eight Trempealeau county sportsmen's groups, has acquired an additional 80 acres adjoining the state purchase, as a part of this public hunting and fishing grounds. The association paid $3,000 for this tract of agricultural land.

Pictured above is part of the shoreline of Third Lake, a popular fishing spot. The picture was made during the past summer. The lakes are within the boundaries of the river zone, since they are located between the two railroad tracks, and thus are open to Minnesota and Wisconsin fishermen on their own state resident licenses.

One of the first improvements to be made by the state, according to Nick, will be a modern all weather parkway road to the lakes, making them accessible most of the year. The present roads or trails are rather poor—muddy and rutty. The upland probably will be planted to trees.

At the same time, the commission approved the purchase of an additional 227 acres at $2,115 of the Tiffany Public Hunting grounds, that vast area of the Chippewa River bottomlands above Highway 35 between Nelson and Pepin. This purchase brings the acreage in this public hunting area to nearly 7,500 acres. There is still considerable acreage to be acquired before this vast bottomlands, north to Misha Mowka, is completed.

Dipnet Fishing
Three lakes along the Mississippi River have been designated by the Wisconsin Conservation Commission as "freeze out" waters. Under a special order of the commission, licensed fishermen may use dipnets to remove fish that would suffocate because of depletion of oxygen in the water. The order reads:

"The Commission has caused due investigations and studies have been made to secure information concerning the waters of the state which are subject to oxygen depletion and fish mortality through suffocation, and upon evidence presented has determined that the supply of fish and other conditions affecting such waters of the state is such that the present regulation should be modified.

"There shall be an open season in such waters for dip netting through the ice during the daylight hours from 7:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and hook and line fishing for all species of fish at such times when said waters are posted, and except as specifically provided the open season, bag limits, minimum length, and measurements and other regulations governing fish and fishing shall remain in effect.

"The open season shall be put into effect by the conservation director by posting a notice of such open season in the vicinity of the shore of the waters affected."

Wisconsin Board Will Take Over Welfare Duties

WEST BEND, Wis. (AP)—The Washington County Board, after hearing County Welfare Director Eugene Brumm refuse to resign, moved Monday to take over control of the welfare board which has supported Brumm.

Brumm, through his attorney, William Marth, told the supervisors he was not resigning in spite of its demands that he give up the post. Brumm said he would rely on a vote of confidence given him by the welfare board, his 23 years of service to the department and the decision of the judge who heard his divorce case.

The County Board sought his dismissal after testimony in Brumm's divorce case quoted the presiding judge as saying he had been "indiscreet" with a woman under the guardianship of the board.

Following the declaration of Brumm's stand 19 of the 28 supervisors sponsored a resolution calling for expansion of the welfare board from its present seven members to the legal limit of seven members. The present three-man membership does not include any supervisors and the resolution stipulated that the four new posts be filled by members of the county board.

The resolution was given a first reading Monday but a second is required before a vote can be taken.

The resolution noted that supervisors found it necessary "to be in more immediate association with the function and activity of the welfare board" and added that the increased membership would become effective upon passage of the resolution.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A disagreement over who'll be the manager is holding up a merger of Philadelphia's two deficit-ridden grand opera companies.

The Philadelphia Civic Grand Opera Company and the Philadelphia La Scala Company admitted the difficulty yesterday at a meeting of City Council's Recreation Committee.

Both companies have asked the committee for $50,000 to meet deficits and finance new performances. Humbert A. Pelosi, general manager of La Scala, said both sides are convinced that Philadelphia needs one good, solvent opera company.

"My friends told me I ought to be the new manager," said Pelosi. "I listened to them. I think maybe they were right."

However, Pelosi nodded at Anthony Terracciano and said, "Some thought he ought to be manager." Pelosi said there was some talk of one man managing one season and the other the next.

DES MOINES (AP)—If Karl Marx were alive today, a member of the British House of Commons says, he wouldn't be a Communist.

Alfred Edwards of London addressed a meeting of the Central Iowa Sales Executive Club here Monday. He said he formerly was a Socialist but now is a member of the Conservative party.

"Everything Marx demanded for workers has been conceded by capitalism," Edwards said. "Marx thought this could only be accomplished through bloody revolution. Yet the only place where workers still have shackles on in the world today is in Russia."

Mental Patient Caught, Admits State Holdups

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (U)—A hunted mental patient taken in custody here Monday afternoon told authorities he had staged weekend holdups in Minnesota because "God told me to do these things."

The man, John Winkler, missing from the St. Cloud Veterans' Hospital, had a shotgun in his car when taken into custody but offered no resistance. Deputy Sheriff Harvey Schorn said Winkler admitted holdups at Elmdale near Little Falls and at Redwood Falls. Authorities said the man told them:

"Yeh, I'm John Winkler. I wouldn't shoot anyone alive, but if God told me to shoot someone, I'd do it."

"God told me to kill myself this morning. I took the safety off the gun, held the gun up against myself and pulled the trigger—but the gun didn't go off. God must have changed his mind."

"God told me to run into a big monument as it was coming into Sioux Falls, but at the last minute God told me not to."

Winkler passed a 20-foot granite memorial monument as he drove into Sioux Falls.

James E. Ertos, Marshall, Minn., and his wife spotted Winkler's car as they approached Sioux Falls from the north on Highway 77. The license plates on Winkler's car talked with those that had been broadcast after the holdups.

When Winkler stopped at a motel on the edge of town and went in to register, Ertos went into a filling station across the street and phoned police. He stayed on the phone and kept police headquarters informed of Winkler's movements until officers arrived.

Police found a 12 gauge pump shotgun taken apart in the back seat of Winkler's car. Winkler also had a Cocker Spaniel with him, but could not account for where he got it.

Winkler said he spent Sunday night at a motel in Brookings, S.D. Match folders from a Brookings motel were found in his car.

Winkler had about $150 on his person, most of it in bills. He was taken to the county jail here for further questioning. George J. Matson, Redwood County Sheriff, said he would come here today to pick up Winkler.

Supreme Court Declines to Rule On Chippewa Dam

WASHINGTON (U)—The nation's Supreme Court has declined to rule on a license issued by the Federal Power Commission for construction of a dam on the east fork of the Chippewa River.

The court refused to rule Monday after Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Vernon Thomson had challenged validity of the license. The permit authorizes the Wisconsin Electric Light and Power Co. of Wisconsin to erect the structure in Sawyer County.

Thomson based his appeal on a contention by the FPC that the east fork of the river is a navigable stream and therefore under federal control. Thomson said there was no proof the river was usable for any commercial navigation or any commerce other than the driving of loose logs during spring high water. He added the license is an encroachment on state power to act for itself.

The state also claimed the river is smaller than any body of water the Supreme Court has ever held navigable and said the stream was practically unknown to many Wisconsin residents.

Private Slain in Attempted Escape

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (U)—Army authorities reported today that Pvt. Jack L. Hutson, 20, of Slater, Iowa, was shot and killed last Friday in an attempt to escape while being taken to the post stockade.

The authorities said Hutson had been arrested the day before after being absent without leave since Sept. 28. It was his third such absence since he joined the service last April, the Army spokesman said.

The guard who fired the shot was not identified. The spokesman said Hutson's record showed two convictions as a civilian in 1951—for larceny and peace disturbance. Hutson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Hutson, of Slater; his mother, Mrs. Dwight A. Hutson of Ames, Iowa, and his father of Wichita, Kan.

Benson Denies Politics Rules Farm Prices

WASHINGTON (U)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today urged educators to help "blow away the smokescreen" that farm income depends on federal policies and that farm prices are "made by bureaucrats."

Rather, he said, income and prices depend more on production and marketing methods farmers use.

Benson made these points in an address prepared for a meeting of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities. He said: "I challenge you to tell farmers the truth—that becoming a top farmer doesn't depend on what Washington does for him, but on what they do for themselves by adopting improved methods with the help of land grant colleges and the extension service."

"Top farm income is about 98 per cent perspiration—and about 2 per cent government loan or payment."

Benson said he was not asking the educational institutions to become politically involved, "but surely you can present information factually and you can explain, objectively, the consequences of various courses of action in farm policies."

Benson said some land grant colleges are doing an outstanding job "along these lines." He did not name them.

The secretary told the meeting agriculture is fundamentally sound and has no problems that "reasonable men, using adequate resources, cannot solve."

BLAIR, Wis. (Special)—A ball-length gown of white satin and lace designed with fitted lace bodice, long sleeves, Peter Pan collar and triple net skirt, was worn by Miss Joan C. Flaaten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flaaten, Blair, when she became the bride of Norman A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arndt Johnson, Black River Falls, a week ago Saturday at the First Lutheran Church.

The Rev. K. M. Urberg performed the double-ring ceremony at 2 p.m. before an altar decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums and lighted candles. Mrs. Lawrence Jordahl, Ettrick, played the nuptial music, and accompanied Austin Underdahl who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's circular net and lace veil fell from a sequin-trimmed Juliet cap. She carried an orchid with white streamers and white rosebuds on a white Bible. Her jewelry, gift of the bridegroom, consisted of heart-shaped rhinestone earrings.

The bridal attendants, Miss Donna Flaaten and Mrs. Arthur Hanke, Milwaukee, sisters of the bride, wore identical strapless gowns, Miss Flaaten in shrimp-colored lace over satin and Mrs. Hanke in emerald green lace over satin.

The gowns were made with bolero jackets of lace, and the attendants wore headresses to match. Their colonial bouquets were of bronze-colored chrysanthemums. The bride presented her attendants with pearl earrings and necklaces.

Parents' Support Needed for This Country's School System, PTA Told

Speaking on the assigned subject, "What Can Parents Do to Help the Schools," Superintendent of Schools Harvey D. Jensen Monday evening outlined an 11-point program in a talk at the Lincoln School PTA meeting in the school gymnasium.

In citing the need for active support from the parents for the American school system, Mr. Jensen said:

"We have criticism of our schools today from various quarters. There are those who criticize because they have an axe to grind, there are subversive forces who seize upon the times to criticize education because they know that our schools constitute our first line of defense and are definitely necessary to maintain our democracy and our system of free enterprise, and there are those who criticize from a point of view of constructive criticism because they know the extra big job that schools have to do today."

"Constructive criticism is good and the various aspects of it should be weighed carefully to determine what is best for the pupils."

"With over half of the world pointing toward and against the form of government that we have in this country, we must realize that our citizens of tomorrow must be better prepared than ever for our democratic way of life in a 'jetonic' age," he said. "Personally I feel that we must recognize the signs today and that we are on the eve of a great forward surge to lift the quality of American education in the whole process whereby the United States becomes of age. As one goes back in American history one does not see an even advance in education. There have been periods of staying in one plane and then a sudden forward surge. Some of the signs that have shown themselves in the past prior to such a forward movement and which we now see about us are:

"1. A general feeling that certain types of education are inadequate to the times.
"2. The presence of educational reformers or statesmen.
"3. Widespread citizens' movement.
"4. The taking up of the cause by political leadership. Witness the proposal for a national White House Conference following State Conventions on educational welfare.
"5. The active interest of the press.
"6. An advancing economy which can support an educational advance."

"In Winona we can do more for the gifted or able students, for those with less ability in making the learning tasks fit that ability."

Mr. Jensen then gave his 11-point program for parent cooperation:

1. Cooperate with the principal and the teachers. If your child is dissatisfied find out the specific reason before criticizing the teacher. Hear both sides before making up your mind as to what is wrong. Do not take your problem to someone else first. Go directly to your principal or teacher.

2. Parents' attitudes toward school and teacher are carried over to the child. The teacher should not be criticized in front of the child any more than the parents should be criticized by the teacher in front of the child. The psychological reaction of the child is bad in both instances.

3. See that pupils are in regular attendance and on time. Illness should, as a rule, be the only reason for non-attendance. (Compulsory school law)

4. Instill in your child a feeling of responsibility. This is a trait that must be worked upon and developed by all community teaching agencies and parents where they as teachers can help.

Keep Posted
5. Keep posted on what the school is doing.

6. Parents can help the schools by helping the child in choosing correct reading materials and seeing the right movies.

7. Develop the best mental and physical health environment that you possibly can. Arrange for the child to have a physical examination, eyes checked, teeth checked, wholesome food and regular meals, and plenty of sleep. A wholesome attitude is important. Give your child the idea that it is a privilege to go to school. The child who does not like school is the exception and not the rule. Parents are needed who can say a firm "no" when the youngster oversteps. All of these things carry over into school to help the teacher who has many pupils. Mrs. Ross Daniel, chairman of the Mental Health Committee of the women's auxiliary to the American Medical Association, states "Neglect, misunderstanding, and indifference on the part of parents during early formative years may be the cause of mental illness in childhood."

8. Visit your schools whether you have a problem or not. It means much to a child that daddy or mother come to visit.

9. You often wonder if you should help the pupil with his homework. Personally, I think it would be a good thing if a teacher would send home a list of spelling words at the beginning of a spelling unit to let the parents know what the child has to learn. I do not believe that the parent should do the child's work, but should show an interest, listen well with patience, and help if there is a mistake. Reading good literature or poetry aloud is good, and seeing that good musical programs are arranged. The teacher may work day after day to have correct word pronunciation, but at home we may be careless and the child gets to feel that maybe it isn't too important to pronounce correctly.

10. Watch the size of classes. When classes become too large the effectiveness of classroom instruction is reduced. Normal progress is reduced as shown by skill and knowledge tests, but even more so with the more complex aspects of personality adjustment, problem solving, and health.

11. You can help by being familiar with legislation, and using your influence for good legislation that affects schools and in turn affects the children. I am speaking of local legislation as well as on a state level.

Reports on Survey
Mr. Jensen also cited a PTA survey on what parents and teachers expected in each other. "The parents said they wanted the teachers to 'Respect our children and love them; give the backward a break and the talented a chance to develop their talents to the fullest; don't play favorites; harbor no prejudice; be fair. Laugh a bit more. Be human and warm, and do be careful of your appearance.'"

"The teachers said 'Parents should have more good times with their children, picnics, trips, home games. Parents should not be afraid to be honest with the teacher regarding the child and his behavior at home. Do not expect us always to do what you have failed to do. Do not blame us if your child has a bad temper or likes to fight with other children. We will do what we can.'"

"Always believe that a good teacher would rather give high marks than low ones. We try to be fair but if a child is poor in arithmetic or reading we must grade him accordingly. Give children more home responsibilities so that they learn how to tackle a job and finish it. Slovenly habits of work at home are carried over into school performance."

"Parents think that patience is by far the most worthwhile quality a teacher can have. A sense of humor is second. Third is an understanding and genuine love of children. Fairness and kindness tie for fourth place. In fifth place comes teaching skill, knowledge and training."

"The five qualities that teachers named as most important in parents were: First, fairness to the children and to the school. Second, firmness in dealing with children at home. Third, patience. Fourth, cheerfulness, and fifth, ability to cooperate."

In the regular business session at which President J. W. McVey presided it was announced that the annual Christmas party would be held at the school at 7 p.m. Dec. 15.

McCARTHY

was guilty of "mental incapacity." McCarthy commented to newsmen:

"If I had said that about him (Ervin), I would be censured for it."

McCarthy said a switch in position yesterday by Sen. Case (R-S.D.) "is a very important development and may change the picture."

Case did not discuss in his statement the first of two counts—that McCarthy treated with contempt an elections subcommittee which looked into his finances in 1951-52. Case previously said McCarthy could purge himself on this charge by apologizing to those involved. McCarthy has said he won't retract.

Other members of the Watkins group stood behind their charges. Case said he changed his mind about the Zwicker count because of "positive evidence" that the Army staff let Maj. Irving Peress "slip out of their grasp" although they knew McCarthy had demanded a court-martial for Peress.

Peress, an Army dentist, had invoked the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination when he was questioned by McCarthy's Senate Investigations Subcommittee about alleged Communist connections. McCarthy wrote Secretary of the Army Stevens Feb. 1 asking for a court-martial for Peress. The next day Peress was given an honorable discharge at Camp Kilmer, N.J., then commanded by Zwicker.

Case made public a letter in which Stevens said McCarthy's Feb. 1 letter was received that same day by John G. Adams, Army Department counselor, and that Adams told the "responsible Army staff" about it.

"After review of the letter, it was concluded that there was no additional evidence to require modification of the prior determination in the Peress case, and that the best interests of the United States would be served by his prompt separation (from the service)," Stevens said.

McCarthy questioned Zwicker Feb. 18 and the Watkins committee's charge grew out of his alleged "abuse" of Zwicker at a one-man hearing.

Case wrote Watkins this week "far toward explaining" McCarthy's conduct. Zwicker, he said, was under wraps, was unable to pinpoint the persons responsible for giving more consideration to a request from a false-swearing Communist seeking to flee from the Army's jurisdiction than to a suggestion from the chairman of a Senate investigating committee that "court-martial proceedings be immediately instituted." He said he didn't blame Zwicker.

However, Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, said Case's letter "put a new light" on the Zwicker charge, and Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) urged administration officials to clear up the matter further.

Ervin said McCarthy was setting himself up as "the symbol of resistance to Communist subversion" and arguing that since he was such a symbol "every senator who disapproves of my disorderly behavior" is doing the work of the Communist party.

He said, "The issue before the American people is simply this: Does the Senate of the United States have enough manhood to stand up to Sen. McCarthy?"

"Sen. McCarthy's besmirches throughout the length and breadth of this land all senators who dare

Other States Invite Frank Lloyd Wright

MADISON, Wis. (S)—With other states reportedly offering Frank Lloyd Wright concessions and a home for his architectural school the possibility has come to light that the 1955 Wisconsin Legislature may be asked to consider his problem.

One lawmaker, the Milwaukee Sentinel reported Monday, may ask the Legislature to determine the status of the Wright institution. The Legislature, who would not permit his name to be used, said he was conferring with other lawmakers to see what action might be possible.

The State Supreme Court ruled last week that Wright's foundation, Taliesin, near Spring Green, is not an educational institution and is not entitled to the property tax exemptions of a school. The court said the foundation primarily carries out Wright's architectural business and only incidentally an educational institution.

The unidentified lawmaker said "at first sight it appears that the legal definition of an educational institution might be broadened to take in the peculiar circumstances of the Wright foundation."

The lawmaker made his statement following a report by Wright, now in Philadelphia, that two governors had offered him inducements to locate in their states.

After the court ruling last week Wright said he was leaving Wisconsin because "authorities place money before merit."

The 85-year-old Wright said the governors of Illinois and New York had offered him concessions if he would locate the foundation's summer quarters in their state.

He added, "the spirit of art has gone down in Wisconsin, and grown old." There is "no spirit of youth there . . . all money."

He added that no definite decision on relocation has been made, oppose him or express disapproval of the conduct of his senatorial office," he said. "As a result, every senator sits in this chamber under . . . this threat that his reputation will be besmirched throughout this country if he does anything to incur Sen. McCarthy's easily provoked wrath."

Jenner contended in a speech earlier that the Watkins committee report "comes close to asking the Senate to punish a public official (McCarthy) who has defied" a Communist conspiracy.

Jenner said the Communists were trying to "infiltrate" Congress, were "working day and night to worm their way into the highest councils of the Republican party" and had made heavy inroads into Democratic ranks when that party was in power.

Member of Both Teams, He's Seen Every Gopher-Badger Game Since '01

By STAFF WRITER
DURAND, Wis.—E. S. Pattison, Western Wisconsin's No. 1 football fan, is going to miss the Wisconsin-Minnesota game at Madison Saturday.

Nothing very startling in that statement, you say, but it takes

KING FOOTBALL FAN . . . E. S. Pattison, 76-year-old Durand attorney, is shown reviewing the memories from 53 years of watching Wisconsin-Minnesota football games. Pattison will miss Saturday's game at Madison and it will be the first since 1901 since he was absent from a Gopher-Badger grid tilt. A member of both Wisconsin and Minnesota football teams back in the early days of the rivalry, he's planning to listen to Saturday's game over the radio. (Beaton photo) on considerable significance when you learn that this will be the first Wisconsin-Minnesota game Ed Pattison has missed since 1901. Because he now needs a couple of canes to get around following a fall a few months ago, the 76-year-old Durand attorney, banker and real estate owner has decided to pass up this year's annual grid classic at Madison.

But he will be glued to his radio, don't you forget it, and during the lulls, if any, he'll review in his mind's eye 53 years of being a devoted fan as well as a participant in the nation's most exciting sport.

Ed Pattison has the unusual background of having been a member of both the Wisconsin and Minnesota teams and was on the Badger squad with such greats as Pat O'Day, Bob Zuppke and Eddie Cochams.

It was in the days when Coach Phil King's "flying wedge" was a phenomenal new play and fans were singing, "Phil King's eleven comes a-marching on the field" or "Larson, Skow and Cochams and Archie Curtis too. With such an aggregation we won't do much to you!"

Handicapped because he weighed only 155 pounds, Pattison nevertheless hadn't been on the Wisconsin campus more than a few hours back there in 1901 as a freshman when he was racing across old Camp Randall field in grid gear.

Although he had to earn his own way through school by cutting grass and waiting on table, Ed managed to get in three seasons with the Badger varsity. His roommate at that time, who also was paying his own way, was Dan Hoan, later to become mayor of Milwaukee for 27 years.

Ed then remained out of college for a couple of years, returning to his home in Durand, and in 1905 entered the University of Minnnesota Law School from which he was graduated in 1908. While at Minneapolis he again got the urge to play for two years on the Gopher squad under the tutelage of Dr. Harry L. Williams. Quarterback on the first string those years was Sig Harris.

The veteran attorney likes to sit in his office here and talk about his early years at Wisconsin. Forgetting all about his canes he'll suddenly spring out of his big leather "judge chair" and demonstrate the Phil King "roll-off" play that upset heavily favored Minnesota 18 to 0 back there in 1901. The play, Ed confides, was devised the night before the game and explained to only a few key members of the squad.

"And if any of you say a word about this to anybody, I'll never want to see you within 100 miles of Madison again," was King's admonishment when the secret session was over.

Pattison didn't see Pat O'Day's record shattering drop kick Nov. 15, 1898, when Wisconsin was playing Chicago—but he has seen Pat make some almost as long.

"That Chicago kick," said Pattison, "was for 62 net yards but the ball actually traveled about 82 yards because Pat booted it from ten yards behind his own line and it went at least ten yards into the end zone."

"Pat had the most unusual way of kicking. He would suddenly bounce the ball off the ground and then kick it with his instep—not his toe. He could kick almost as far with his left foot and I've seen him stand in midfield and place a drop kick over the uprights at each end of the field."

Pattison recalls another anecdote about O'Day. Night before a big game, Pat bet a considerable sum of money that he could score within the first six minutes of play. Day of the game it was raining hard—but cashing in on his famous kick, O'Day, an Australian, had his score before the game was three minutes old.

Bob Zuppke, like Pattison, never earned a letter although a squad member three years.

"The players came big in those days," Pattison recalls, "and Bob and I were just too small to get into many games."

Zuppke, who lived in La Crosse, later became the great University of Illinois coach and his best known protege was of course, Red Grange.

As to this year's Badgers, says Pattison: "I think they have as good a team now as they've ever had." About coaches:

"Phil King was the greatest. I always liked Harry Stuhldreher but Ivy Williamson really is making a great record."

E. S. Pattison never married. For years he lived at Prindall Inn—Durand's first building—now Pattison's Inn. The story about how the establishment got its new name is interesting.

After 25 years in the same room in the hotel, Pattison was asked by the new management to change his room. He refused and the manager insisted so what happened? Ed Pattison turned right around and bought the place. He has lived there since and a few years ago built an addition for his office.

Pattison is the eldest of a well-known Wisconsin family. Brother C. D. is Buffalo County judge at Alma; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Zeuss is on the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley; Brother F. J., a retired auctioneer, lives at Durand; Brother Tom, Madison, is a former Wisconsin Highway Commissioner and Brother H. A., retired Minneapolis merchant, lives at Buffalo City.

Coach Blisters Grid Booster Club Members

Claims Criticism Destroyed Morale Of Team Players

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Members of the Townsies, downtown booster club for the University of Arizona football team, remained silent today after head coach Warren Woodson told them off at their weekly luncheon Monday.

Woodson told the businessmen to mind their own business and quit interfering with his team.

"You may not like it," he said, "but you are going to hear the truth. Let's see if you can take it. I think you have killed our quarterbacks here in Tucson."

The coach went into details and at the end of his blistering talk members of the organization gave him a standing ovation that lasted for several minutes. They took it.

Only comment made by any member was the suggestion by Gus Wieden, a Townsies for 30 years, that the group should stand as part of the Arizona song that says, "Stand as a symbol of our love for you."

Wieden asked that the club keep off controversial subjects.

Enlarging on the subject of quarterbacks Woodson said: "I know you have crucified Bleakley (quarterback Barry Bleakley) right here. You've torn him to pieces. He knows how you feel about him. He doesn't think he has a friend."

"This upsets the quarterbacks and the team. . . this sort of propaganda hurts us change to organize."

Woodson said, "instead of causing disorganization."

"I know more about football than anyone here, and I'm smart-r about football than you. Stay out of my business so I can do better."

"I don't tell you how to run your business. I don't interfere with you. I ask that you give us the privilege of coaching our quarterbacks. You have them in such a condition they are afraid they are going to make a mistake almost every time they call a play."

Johnson Steps Up Remodeling Of Stadium

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Arnold Johnson today stepped up his giant-sized task of readying a major league baseball club and stadium for the new Kansas City Athletics by season opening next April.

Heavy construction equipment moved into old Blues Stadium. The remodeling is being handled by a company organized specifically to handle this one rush-order job.

Johnson, who only last week acquired the Athletics from the Connie Mack family, yesterday named Parke Carroll, general manager of the Kansas City Blues since 1951, as a vice president and business manager of the club for three years.

"We hope to have our field manager selected by tomorrow," Johnson said.

Speculation here is that the skipper will be Lou Boudreau, recently named as manager of the Boston Red Sox.

Johnson would neither confirm nor deny it.

"Several men are under consideration," he said. "No, Eddie Joost isn't out of the picture." Joost managed the A's at Philadelphia last season.

'New Look' Lakers

An era in sports ended with the retirement of George Mikan from an active playing role with the Minneapolis Lakers, world professional basketball champions six of the last seven years.

Mikan's career as a basketball player is legend and the fame he helped bring to Minneapolis and Minnesota through the Lakers is another story.

Mikan is now vice president and general manager of the Lakers, and now the Minneapolis pro cagers are embarking on a new era—the post-Mikan era.

Will the Lakers continue to dominate pro basketball without Mikan? Will his replacement, Clyde Lovellette, fill the gap? And a big question in the minds of some fans—will Mikan come out of retirement and play again?

Some of the answers to those queries were given Saturday night in Minneapolis when the Lakers organization sponsored a get-acquainted dinner for members of the Minnesota State Sports Editors Association.

Attending the fete were sports scribes of statewide dailies, Ben Berger, president of the Lakers; Mikan, Coach Johnny Kundla and members of the 1954-55 Laker cast.

Whether or not the Lakers continue to pace the way in pro basketball remains to be seen. Partial answer is that, after watching them beat Syracuse 99-92 Sunday afternoon, one can only say that they still look great and will be a force to be reckoned with.

Lovellette played only 16 minutes in the Syracuse game, crippled by a knee injury, but he scored 16 points in that time and gives every indication of being good. My guess is that now Lovellette is the top man and no longer plays in Mikan's shadow, he will come into his own as a pro cage great.

Will Mikan return? Although we thought once that he might, we now have our doubts. Kundla has been working on new patterns with the Lakers. Their game was built around Mikan for seven years and now they are learning to play without him.

The chances of Mikan's returning grow slimmer with each game. For every game that he watches on the sidelines, it would take him just that much longer to get back in shape and regain his touch.

The pros have incorporated two new rules in their game this season which are designed to cut down fouling and enhance spectator appeal.

A team is now allowed six fouls per quarter in which free throws are governed by the previous rules. For every foul a team makes after the sixth one, the fouled player is awarded an extra free throw. No longer can a team sacrifice a "bodyguard" against an opponent's star player.

The second rule is the "24-second" gimmick. A team must shoot within 24 seconds after it takes the ball out of bounds or it loses possession. This rule eliminates stalling and speeds the game up.

Cage Chitchat

Ben Berger, president of the Lakers, illustrated the fame of the team when he told of an experience in Europe recently. He dined in a Hungarian restaurant of Munich, Germany, the night the Lakers played the College All-Stars.

Leaving the restaurant, he got into a cab and said that just as he opened the door, the score was announced on the cabbie's radio . . .

Lefty Ringhofer, colorful Owatonna newspaperman, provided the Lakers and scribes alike with some chuckles at the dinner.

The first came when Jim Holstein, Laker guard, was prodded by teammates to make a speech. "Tell us about your baseball pitching," someone said.

Holstein said he pitched last season for Springfield in the Western Minny. Ringhofer, aware that the Western Minny had folded, arose to his feet and solemnly waved for silence.

"Would you like to come to Owatonna?" quoth Lefty.

"$700 a month," Holstein replied.

"Too much!" Ringhofer mumbled. . . $285?"

"That's about right," Holstein revealed, the too, had been joking. He was signed by the Milwaukee Braves and reported to Jacksonville, Fla., for assignment next spring.

According to Vern Mikkelsen, Fort Wayne fans are really rabid. "The only time they laugh, it seems," Mikan said, "is when someone on another team is injured!"

But they got a chuckle last year when Minneapolis played there. The game was in the first quarter and the teams were fighting it out, tooth and nail.

hat on and wearing a stormcoat with the collar turned up. Kundla's tardiness was caused by missing connections at Milwaukee. The Lakers had boarded a train at Milwaukee, the players in one car and Kundla in the car ahead.

Unknown to Kundla, a messenger came on the train and informed the players that a plane was waiting at the airport to take them to Fort Wayne. But no one informed Kundla and he rode the train to Milwaukee, holding 10 extra tickets in his paw . . . The Fort Wayne team, which has its own airplane, had sent the plane to Milwaukee to pick up the Lakers.

A post-script to the story concerns the game itself. The night before the Lakers had been soundly trounced and Kundla planned to shake up the starting lineup.

The players decided to go with the same unit, however, and when Kundla arrived at the game, Minneapolis was leading Fort Wayne by a comfortable margin . . .

Minnesota Moves to 10th in Grid Poll, Ohio State 1st

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Trouble with sitting one out is that some folks might get the idea you're a wallflower. That's what happened to the unbeaten Bruins of UCLA in The Associated Press college football poll this week as the unbeaten Buckeyes of Ohio State took over the No. 1 spot by a seven-point count.

UCLA held first place last week with an overpowering vote total, but was idle last Saturday while Ohio State, edging closer to the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl, mauled Purdue 28-6.

The Bruins, with an 8-0 record identical to that of the Bucks, still managed to edge Ohio State in first place votes, 92-87, but on the usual basis of 10 points for first, 9 for second, etc., OSU polled 2,010 points to UCLA's 2,003.

All of which means this Saturday's contests probably will decide the running battle between Ohio State and UCLA — each having held the No. 1 position twice this season.

Both teams complete their regular season schedules — UCLA against Southern California in a game that could give the Bruins the Pacific Coast Conference championship, and Ohio State against Michigan, with the Bucks needing at least a tie to win the Big Ten crown and the Rose Bowl trip outright.

Oklahoma, the only other major unbeaten team (also 8-0), wound up in third place for the third straight week after beating Missouri, but Notre Dame, picked as the preseason champion, moved up a notch to fourth after whipping North Carolina. The Irish replaced Arkansas, which was knocked down to ninth after losing its first game of the season to Southern Methodist.

Army, once-beaten like Notre Dame, also moved up one to fifth. Mississippi rose to sixth. Navy and Southern Cal were deadlocked at seventh.

Minnesota jumped from 13th to 10th after defeating Iowa. The Hawkeyes, ninth a week ago, settled at No. 19.

The leading teams with first-place votes in parentheses are:

1. Ohio State (87) . . . 2,010
2. UCLA (92) . . . 2,003
3. Oklahoma (28) . . . 1,761
4. Notre Dame (2) . . . 1,222
5. Army (7-1) . . . 1,187
6. Mississippi (7) . . . 671
7. Navy (tie) . . . 670
8. Southern Cal . . . 670
9. Arkansas (5) . . . 533
10. Minnesota . . . 271

11. Southern Methodist . . . 270
 12. Michigan . . . 244
 13. Maryland . . . 151
 14. West Virginia . . . 101
 15. Virginia Tech . . . 81
 16. Miami (Fla.) . . . 71

Pro Football Teams Now Play for Keeps

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The pro football teams play for keeps all the time, but the Los Angeles Rams and the Chicago Cardinals have a vendetta unmatched for ferocity in the National Football League.

The feud has existed since Jumbo Joe Stydahar resigned as Ram coach two years ago and was succeeded by his assistant, Hampton Pool. Stydahar has not spoken to Pool since and his Cardinals beat the Rams out of a chance for the NFL title by tying them last year, 24-24.

The Rams' 28-17 victory over the Cardinals here Sunday turned into a rough tug-of-war in which Ram Tank Younger, one of the league's leading ground gainers, suffered a wrenching knee that will keep him out of football for a year. His teammate, Skeet Quinlan, another leader among the rushers, suffered a rib injury, Ram lineman Tom Dahms was sidelined by a thigh injury.

Bill Lange, Chicago lineman, and Lamar McHan, Stydahar's quarterback, were seriously hurt, Lange having a twisted knee and McHan an injury to a neck vertebra.

Los Angeles writers called the game a disgrace.

The Rams also have had their troubles with the San Francisco 49ers. These California teams always play a bruising game and when they tied in Los Angeles last Oct. 3 owner Tony Morabito of the 49ers accused the Rams of playing dirty football.

There were several injuries in that game. Morabito promised his team would return the compliment in their rematch at San Francisco Nov. 7. Nothing untoward happened.

2-1 Odds Favor Carter to Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Activities slowed down to a walk around the block today but bristling words of confidence flowed from the camps of the nation's top lightweight fighters, champion Paddy DeMarco and the man he dethroned, Jimmy Carter.

They meet over the 15-round route in the vast Cow Palace, with a national television audience sitting in—outside the San Francisco area—Wednesday night.

Carter, a 30-year-old New Yorker, broke his customary vocal habits when he observed almost casually: "I'll win decisively, and I may knock him out."

DeMarco, 26, from Brooklyn, who surprised the boxing world in beating Carter by a decision for the title last March 5, remained at his training quarters at Bermuda Palms in nearby San Rafael.

"I came out here as the champion and I'll leave as the champion," he promised.

Carter, who once before lost the lightweight crown and won it back, is a 2-1 betting favorite. Carter dropped the championship in May, 1952, to Merico's Lauro Salas in Los Angeles but won it back six months later in Chicago.

As Far as Possible — A query from Cleveland requests information on length of slide. Six inches? A foot? Perhaps 18 inches? How far to slide is a moot question, much debated. It is best answered by saying simply that you must slide, and that how much to slide is an individual matter. No two experts look the same going to the foul line, and certainly they differ greatly at the finish. Therman Gibson, top Detroit, for instance, rides his left leg in a long slide. Frank Benkovic, on the contrary, stops surprisingly short. They both do what comes naturally, and that is exactly what eluding amounts to.

The importance of a slide finish can quickly be appreciated by one who has stopped abruptly and then lets himself go at the line. He finds his body relaxed, his swing coordinated, his follow-through longer, reaching, and more accurate. I know the feeling only too well, because I adopted the long slide only a few years ago, and to it I attribute an immediate rise in my average. It isn't a case of giving the slide a trial. It's a must — and a pleasant one!

Seniors Graduate With Grid Honors

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota's football class of '54, the hard-willed seniors who some said would retard the Gophers new era, graduate with honors Saturday against Wisconsin.

Almost everyone but Murray Warmath complained earlier this year when the southerner inherited a squad top-heavy with seniors in Minnesota's first venture with the split T.

Warmath gradually found room for new men to the point where five of his starters against Iowa last week were sophomores or juniors. But it has been the experienced seniors who steered Minnesota through one of the refreshing stories of the year in college football.

Nineteen players end their college careers Saturday.

One of them, quarterback Geno Capelletti probably has no hope of doing anything more than place-kick. Minnesota trainers said Monday the chances of his seeing any action at quarterback are about 1000-1.

Otherwise, these are the vets who have helped push Minnesota to a 7-1 record and 10th place in The Associated Press poll.

End Jim Sollau, a gangling but determined young man who has caught important passes and contributed quietly but effectively in three years as a letterman.

End Phil McElroy, who shrugged off injuries this year to regain the regular's job he lost early in the season and put the topping on three varsity years by blocking a conversion try last week against Iowa.

Tackle Chuck Kubers, headed perhaps for all-conference recognition before suffering an arm gash when the season started. Still one of the strong linemen in the Big Ten.

Center, Chuck Stamshor, in Warmath's opinion, one of the four or five best linemen on the team.

Quarterback Dale Quist, who will share the crucial quarterback job with Don Swanson Saturday on the field where he starred two years ago as a pinch-hitting right half.

Fullback Bob McNamara, a coach's dream—the complete football player who still might make All-America.

Seven Lettermen Bolster Rambler Squad This Season

By RALPH REEVE
Daily News Sports Editor

Despite the fact that he has seven lettermen back in the fold this season, Cotter Coach Johnny Nett isn't overly optimistic on the eve of the 1954-55 basketball wars.

Nett's Ramblers, who open their season by hosting La Crosse Aquinas next Tuesday night at the Catholic Rec, will have fair size this year although they will be minus exceptionally tall players.

Nett said, "We haven't improved our rebounding since last season and it doesn't look like we have too much scoring punch ... Defense is still a weak point.

"It looks like a long season," Nett sighed.

Among the returning lettermen are two who were regulars last year—junior forward Dave Skemp, who may fill a guard position this season, and forward Jim Danielson, a 6-2, 210-pound senior.

Missing from the scene this season will be three of last year's first fivers, Dan Shrake and Bill Pellowski were graduated and center Jim Scherneck decided to forego basketball this winter.

Nett may have been referring to that trio when he brought attention to possible lack of scoring punch this season. Scherneck, Shrake and Pellowski finished 1-2-3 in individual scoring last year for Cotter.

Scherneck had 255 points over the 24-game season while Shrake collected 230 points and Pellowski 187. The leadership qualities of Shrake also may be missed, Dan was chosen All-State last season after his sparkling play in the State Catholic Tournament.

In addition to Danielson and Skemp, other lettermen back for Cotter include 6-2, 185-pound senior forward Jim Small; 5-9 senior guard Don Dooney; 6-1, 175-pound senior forward Ralph Dorsch; 5-10 forward Ralph Dorsch; 5-10 6-2, 160-pound junior center Ken Klein.

Top scorer among the returning lettermen is Skemp, who tallied 184 points last season. Danielson netted 119, Small 78, Dorsch 55, Klein 30 and Dooney 22.

The remaining positions on the Cotter varsity squad will be filled with two juniors and three sophomores who didn't earn letters last year but are rated outstanding prospects.

They include Rich Brown and Bob Hogenson, both juniors, and sophomores Dave Prondzinski, Charles Kustelski and Roger Czaplowski.

Cotter finished with a record of ten victories and 14 defeats last season. Highlights of the year included another Region Six Catholic title and a pair of thrilling games in the State Catholic meet.

Ralph Kiner Sold by Cubs To Cleveland

CHICAGO (AP)—Ralph Kiner, hard-hitting outfielder, today was sold by the Chicago Cubs to the Cleveland Indians for cash and a "satisfactory player" to be delivered later.

Kiner, 32, had been obtained by the Cubs from the Pittsburgh Pirates in June 1953, but after hitting 35 homers that season, this year dropped to the lowest homer total in his major league career, 22.

The cash involved was not disclosed, nor was it indicated when the Indians would provide the "satisfactory player."

Kiner played left field for the Cubs in 147 games this season. He was at bat 557 times, bating 159 hits for a .285 average. He scored 88 runs and batted in 73 runs, his lowest RBI in his big league career.

Swept Series To Eliminate Sunday Game

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A smiling Alvin Dark Monday night told a church meeting that the New York Giants took the World Series in four games from Cleveland "so we wouldn't have to play on Sunday."

As a youngster playing football, the major league baseball star also related, he believed "you had to pray to win."

"But if you had 11 good Christians on one side and 11 good Christians on the other, what would you do?"

"I decided to pray that nobody would get hurt and let God take care of the one who wins," Dark said.

The Giants' captain and shortstop spoke to 1,200 persons attending the Baptist Brotherhood convention of Louisiana here.

Coach Leaves Tottering Bullets

BALTIMORE (AP)—Veteran basketball coach Clair Bee was in self-imposed exile at his New York farm today and said he planned to stay there until there is some break in the tottering fortunes of the Baltimore Bullets.

The "for sale" sign has been hung on the National Basketball Assn. franchise by owners John Knox and Frank Robinson of New York.

Reports that Bee had quit and that the team lacked funds to meet its payroll were denied Monday by general manager Rudie Schaffer.

The Bullets, who finished last in the league's eastern division last year, have won one game in nine starts this season. They meet the New York Knicks tonight.

This season's schedule: Nov. 23—La Crosse Aquinas. Nov. 29—Prairie du Chien. Dec. 3—at La Crosse League. Dec. 10—at St. Agnes, St. Paul. Dec. 14—Wabasha St. Felix. Jan. 4—Winona High. Sanders Beefs Up Bruins for Southern Cal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Red Sanders of UCLA is taking no chances on his undefeated and untied Bruins underestimating the Southern California Trojans when the two meet for the Pacific Coast Conference championship Saturday.

"The Trojans have perhaps the fastest set of backs that has ever been in football and an underrated line," Sanders said yesterday of the team which has surprised everyone, including its own coach.

This is the ninth and final game of 1954 for the Bruins and their only chance of regaining the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press poll they relinquished this week to Ohio State.

The Bruins were idle last Saturday and dropped into the No. 2 spot by a narrow margin as the Buckeyes of Ohio topped Purdue.

"This is the best Southern California team I have seen," Sanders told the Southern California Football Writers Assn. But he also rates his Bruins as "the best team I have ever coached."

Asked whether he thought UCLA had an edge over USC, he told the group: "I don't believe I've seen a line any better than ours on any collegiate team."

Coach Jess Hill of underdog Southern California answered "yes" when somebody wanted to know if he was surprised at the showing of his Trojans, who were generally overlooked in press reports and now are tied for No. 7 in the poll.

"And I'm very gratified," he added. "We are in better shape in the won and lost column than I'd ever even hoped."

The Trojans have won eight, losing only to Texas Christian early in the season, and have shown improvement, particularly in running and blocking since then.

Two Men Hurt In Accident At Lanesboro

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special)—Two Montana truckers are in the Johnson Hospital here with injuries suffered when their semi-trailer truck went off Highway 16 on the east village limits and smashed into a bluff about 11 a.m. today.

Driver of the truck which was headed from Great Falls to La Crosse with a load of empty beer bottles, is Floyd Murrill, 25. His passenger, who was asleep in the rear of the cab when the accident occurred, is Morris Halden, 34. Both are of Great Falls, Minn. Halden has injuries of the head, chest and pelvis. Halden has chest and shoulder injuries.

They were pinned in the wreckage for more than a half hour before highway patrolmen and villagers could remove them. Marks on the road indicate that the truck veered from its lane approaching the last curve before the village limits on the east edge of town. It plowed into the bluff and the cab overturned. An electric power line pole was knocked down at the scene. The truck belongs to the Bell Truck Lines, Great Falls. County police are investigating.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D.S.

Answer to Question No. 1
1. Actuary Annie Mary Lyle studied 737 men and 490 women who had had slight to high blood pressure over periods of 6 months to 20 years. She found that the death rate of the women was far lower than that of men. If this is a fair sample, women stand both the physical and mental stress of high blood pressure much better than men.

Answer to Question No. 2
2. Ability to get along with other people, says eminent psychiatrist William C. Menninger in "Journal of Living." This, he says, depends on consideration of others as well as love of wife and husband. "The child who isn't loved," Menninger says, "is likely to find it hard to love when grown up."

Answer to Question No. 3
3. Yes. One insurance company, as reported in "Magazine Digest," already gives nondrinkers lower rates. They say, "If you don't drink, why pay for accidents involving people who do?" Dr. S. R. Gember found that in half the auto deaths in a large city, the drivers had been drinking, and most of them were moderate drinkers.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Jackie Bow Wow, who had been smelling around the far end of the playground of Hollow Tree School, stopped looking for a bone. Jackie had hoped he might find one. But when he heard his brother Peetie barking in such an excited voice, Jackie forgot all about the bone.

"What was that you said, Peetie?" Jackie wanted to know. "I said the pond is frozen over!" barked Peetie.

"No! Is it, really?" asked Jackie.

"Come and look," invited his brother.

Jackie ran to where Peetie was standing near a fence that had been built at the far end of the school playground. The pond was on the other side of the fence. The fence had been put up to keep the boys and girls of Hollow Tree School from going to the pond unless the Lady Mouse Teacher was with them.

"How do you know the pond is frozen over?" asked Jackie.

"I looked and saw it," answered his brother.

"How could you look through the fence?" Jackie inquired.

"There's a hole in the fence I looked through the hole," answered Peetie. "Take a look for yourself, Jackie. Here's the hole!"

Peetie led his brother to the hole in the fence. Through it

Jackie looked at the pond. Then he said, slowly:

"It is frozen over, sure enough! What do you know about that?"

"Jack Frost is here early this year," barked Peetie.

"He sure is! Wow! Wow! Won't the other fellows get excited when we tell them the pond is frozen over. Wow!"

"We aren't going to tell them—that is not right away," said Peetie in a low voice.

"Why not?" asked Jackie.

"Because we are going on that pond, ourselves—first," replied Peetie.

"How can we get on the pond?" Jackie wanted to know. "It's on the other side of the fence."

"We can dig a hole under the fence, can't we?"

"Yes, I guess we could. But we haven't time."

"Recess isn't over yet," barked Peetie. "We have about ten minutes. That will give us time enough to dig a hole under the fence and go out on the frozen pond. We can get back to school before the bell rings. Come on, let's dig the hole and go on the pond!"

"But we haven't any skates!"

"We don't need skates, Jackie. We'll just slide on the ice. We can bring our skates tomorrow. Come on! We'll be the first ones this season to slide on the pond.

Jackie waited a moment. Then he asked:

"Do you think it is right for us to go sliding on the pond? You know Miss Mouse never lets us go on the pond unless she is, with us."

"Miss Mouse isn't here now," barked Peetie. "She won't see us. None of the other kids are at this end of the playground now. None of them can see us. Hurry! Help me dig the hole under the fence and we can go slide on the pond. I never knew it to be frozen over so early! Hurry!"

Jackie and Peetie began to dig a hole beneath the fence. It did not take them long, even though the dirt was a little frozen, like the water on the pond. Soon the two little puppy dog boys were on the other side of the fence, standing on the shore of the frozen pond. The smooth ice gleamed in the sunshine.

"We'll have a race!" said Peetie. "I can slide farther than you can!"

"I can beat you!" boasted Jackie. The two little puppy dog boys ran until they reached the edge of the ice. Then, making their legs stiff, they began to slide. They were half way across the pond. Suddenly they heard the sound of the school bell, calling the pupils in from recess play. Then they heard another sound. It was the sound of a big crack in the ice of the pond.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" barked Jackie and Peetie. But they couldn't stop sliding. They were sliding toward the crack. Something is going to happen. But please don't worry. Everything will be all right. I can tell you more tomorrow. But please ask the sugar bowl not to hide in the tea bag, for the coffee cup is sure to look there for it."

Food news: You can buy frozen shrimp that have been graded, peeled, deveined and put into eight-ounce packages. Handy to have on hand to use for a shrimp cocktail as a first course. Or heat the shrimp with a can of stewed tomatoes and serve over rice as a main course.

Phenix City Vice Trial Jury Told Of Police Payoffs

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—A vice trial jury heard a first-hand account last night of a prostitution racket which reportedly paid some girls as much as $900 a night during the heyday of sin in Phenix City.

The testimony from two prostitutes highlighted the long opening day of the trial for bribery of former Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller. It was nearly midnight when court recessed until 10 a.m. today.

Fuller, still crippled from a 14-week-old back injury and wheeled into court on an ambulance cot, is under indictment on 11 charges of taking payoff money during his swashbuckling days as a two-gun peace officer.

He was called to trial first on one count alleging that he was paid $625 to refrain from closing a drab bordello just outside Phenix City on busy U.S. Highway 80.

The house, known to its patrons as Cliff's Fish Camp, was operated by Cliff Entekrin, who also was indicted by the vice cleanup Grand Jury for offering bribe money to Fuller.

First Refugees Get U.S. Visas

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP)—Stasys Tamulis, his wife and their two sons are the first refugees in Belgium to get visas to immigrate to the United States under the Refugee Relief Act approved by President Eisenhower last year.

Under the act more than 200,000 nonquota immigrants will be permitted to enter the United States.

Tamulis, a coal miner, will join his brother Jonas, who lives in Chicago.

Including dredged lakes and rivers, the New York State Barge Canal system is 800 miles long.
