JUNIOR BOYS ARE OFFERED THREE LINES OF WORK

Our Junior High School boys may now be given three lines of work. One of these lines is Industrial Arts. Mr. Creighton, who is a specialist in this department, will be a regular art instructor. The other two lines of work are divided among the music department. The boys may be music majors or music minors.

For the benefit of you, the reader, the three lines of work will be explained as follows:

1. Industrial Arts: This line of work includes mechanics, shop work, and metal work. It is designed to give the boys practical training in these fields, which will be useful to them in later life.

2. Music: This line of work includes theory, music appreciation, and performance. It is designed to give the boys a thorough grounding in music, whether they choose to pursue a career in music or not.

3. Free Elective: This line of work allows the boys to choose any course that interests them, whether it be in the arts, sciences, or trades.

Remember, the boys must register for all three lines of work. Only one line of work can be dropped, but no new lines can be added.

THE CALL OF SPRING

Have you answered the call of Spring? This year’s trial to the garden was not as successful as last year. The garden was initially planted with three hybrid barlets, but only two of them thrived. The garden is now in full bloom, and the boys are working hard to keep it that way.

FARMERS TO TEST BERRYS OF BARLEY FOR CATTLE

The yield of barley and hogs is the subject of the following studies which the Bureau is now making. A group of samples of the barley is to be ground and fed to hogs in the various states in order to determine the relative value of the different varieties. The work is expected to be completed by the end of the month.

SLASHED LIMES OF HOGS

Every good farmer will find it profitable to keep his hogs well fed on hay and straw, and it is a good plan to keep them in a clean, dry lot. The lot should be well drained and supplied with good drink water. The hogs should be fed at least three times a day, and the feed should be well mixed and given in small amounts. The best feed is hay and straw, and the hogs should be given plenty of fresh water. The hogs should be kept in a clean, dry lot and should be fed at least three times a day.
