Dr. Minne Succeeds President French

Dr. Nels Minne, science instructor, was elected president of Winona State Teachers College Thursday, May 26, at the meeting of the State Teachers College Board in St. Paul. Dr. Minne will succeed Arthur T. French, retiring president. Warren H. Stewart, St. Cloud, president of the State Teachers' College Board, announced the appointment at the close of the meeting at the state capitol. Dr. Minne has been an instructor at the college for twelve years and received his bachelor of arts degree at St. Olaf College in 1924, his master's degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1928, and his doctor's degree there in 1932. Since that time, he has studied at the university of Chicago. He is the co-author of a text book “Quills of Physical Science” and scientific papers and pamphlets. Previously, Dr. Minne taught at South Bend, Indiana, at Staples, and Erskine, Minnesota high schools.

Arthur T. French, the retiring president, is credited by the college's history of the college. The year 1944 marks Mr. French's twenty-sixth year at the college. He has served as vice-president since his second year here, and was acting president following the death of Dr. G. E. Maxwell. Later he was named president to succeed Dr. O. Myking Mehus, successor to Dr. Maxwell.

Mr. French received his bachelor of science degree at Harvard and his master's degree at Columbia University. His teaching experience includes work at University of Minnesota, Osseo, and Robert College, Constantinople. Mr. French is the former secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern Minnesota Education Association, and a member of the city library board. For many years he also had charge of arrangements for concerts given here by the Community Concert Association.

Mr. French during his years here has had a large part in community affairs and earned for himself a prominent place in Winona. His contributions to the college are incalculable and will leave their impress upon students and college through the years.

Commencement Climaxes Graduation Activities

Dean Peik Is Guest Speaker

Tomorrow, June 8, Dean Wesley E. Peik of the College of Education at the University of Minnesota will deliver the commencement address at the annual commencement exercises at 10:00 a.m. in Sommers Auditorium. Blake R. Nevius, Resident Director, will present diplomas and confer bachelor of science degrees upon graduating students.

“I am very happy that we were able to secure Dr. Peik as our commencement speaker,” stated President A. T. French. “Dean Peik is a fine man and a great power in education in the state of Minnesota. He has just returned from a month’s work in Boston assisting in the schools there.”

The traditional ceremony of graduation will be followed again this year at the college including the procession, the invocation, “O Lovely Peace” by the Mendelssohn Club, and an informal reception on the lawn.

The following are selections: Janet Calhoun, Charlotte Lehman, Helen Borger, Helen Bungarden, Ruth Flanagan, Mary Kowackamp, Joanna Tomkins, Donna French, Norma Graussel, Thoisdela Brauer, Doris Siers, Ruth Gernes, Grace Stank, Helen Wedawitz, Evelyn Zimdisn, Madeline Reiter, Kenneth Seeling, William Foss, Robert Clay, Phyllis Anderson, and Florence Lindgren.

Two year students include: Ruth Doering, Alice Prudoehi, Arlene Anfinson, Rosemary Schultze, Houston; Ruth Gast, Kansas; Jeanne Tompkins, Donna French, Winona; Gloria Bungarden, Theilman; Elaine Strand, Honolulu; Ruth Gast, Winona; Shirley Olson, Harmony; Mary Smart, Lakeveld; Evelyn Carlson, Stillwater; and Elizabeth Uhlweiler, Rose Creek.

Last year's members of Purple Key were Helen Borger, Marcie Croenquist, Florence Walsh, Lorraine Casby, Ruth Stelter, Cordelia Lundquist, Jacqueline Schultze, Florence Buchow, Stella Harris, and Frederick Abel.

Wartime Annual Takes a Bow

Lett in array, seated: Dorishe Woonenberg, Mary Moell, Jesse Macht, Shirley Olson, and Betty Ulwelling. Standing: Angelene Clarke, Joyce Evans, Norma Tenmire, Sarah Schabern and Kenneth Seeling.

Writer's cramp is developing by the hour as pencils and students hasten to splatter their “John Henries” on the pages of the Annual. As the tangible reminder of this, the annuals of 1944 will serve through the years to recall the joys, hopes, and sorrows we have shared together.

Baccalaureate Held Sunday

Delivering the annual Baccalaureate sermon at the Winona State Teachers College on Sunday, June 4, at 4:00 p.m. was the Rev. Charles Mosebrook of the McKinley Methodist Church, Winona. Baccalaureate exercises were being held during Commencement Week at the college.

The Baccalaureate service was opened with the playing of the “Largo” by Miss Agnes Bard, on the memorial organ. The hymn, “Holly, Holy, Holy,” was followed by the Scripture read by the Rev. Ingersoll of the Presbyterian Church, Winona, and the Mendelssohn Club singing “Let There Be No Concerts.”

Under the direction of Walter Griman. Following the sermon by Rev. Mosebrook was the hymn, “Come Ye Almighty King,” by the congregation, the benediction by Rev. Ingersoll, and the postlude, “Fantasia in G Minor,” by Bach.

Other commencement activities included the spring play “Junior Miss,” the senior class banquet, the promotion exercises of the Phipps Laboratory School, Award Assembly Day, the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Alumni Reunion Reception and Tea. The climax will come with the annual commencement exercises tomorrow morning at 10:00 a.m.

Extension Courses Planned for T. C.

At five centers W.T.P.C. is giving summer re-fresher courses. At the Preston work shop Miss DeMars, principal of the high school, was in charge of arrangements for concerts given here by the Community Concert association.

Mr. Fishbaugher is in charge of the promotion exercises of the college are incalculable and will leave their impress upon students and college through the years.

Mr. French during his years here has had a large part in community affairs and earned for himself a prominent place in Winona. His contributions to the college are incalculable and will leave their impress upon students and college through the years.

As the tangible reminder of this, the annuals of 1944 will serve through the years to recall the joys, hopes, and sorrows we have shared together.
What We Get

Each graduate from a college this June has a sense of fulfillment and accomplishment. This June, 1944, he is realizing the goal he set for himself when he entered, despite all odds against him. The war destroyed such a goal for many, but for others it still remained. Those students who were able to stay in college, despite the war, and did, insured a future for themselves. There are two general reasons for this such a statement: a materialistic reason and a personal reason.

One great materialistic advantage of achieving a college education centers around the fact that the post-war will demand a formal education for many specialized positions—the positions that will insure comfort and a decent standard of living. Students who have remained in college during the war have splendidly equipped themselves for such positions, because they have benefited from the personal instruction that teachers were able to give students in small classes. Beyond this, materials for learning have been more accessible because fewer people demanded them.

More important, however, is what a college education has done for the student himself. Montaigne said that "Learning is a great and very useful thing; the gain from study and learning is to have become wiser and better through it. A great understanding is gained in nature and the world is derived from it, and made to flow in productive channels.

To the person who can handle them, the arts and tools of education give a superiority. The ability to make constructive criticism, to distinguish what is fine from what is poor, in other words, the power to lead through breadth of mind—are the prerogatives of an educated person.

Miss Norma Grausnick, for instance, said that "The word of ambition at the present day is culture." Such a statement is still true. A person who is trained in the social graces and is equipped with a knowledge toward helping him to adjust his social situations, is at a great advantage in the modern world.

College students are a people to mix with, to understand situations and to adapt himself to them, for a great part of education is social.

In realizing the goal of a college education, the graduate is able to see other goals ahead of him, and have reasonable confidence that he can reach them also.

Education Is Not Enough

Culture is an intangible quality of the educated, well-integrated person. It accounts for the difference between one who is sensitive to all beauty, and one who never gets beyond the commonplace in life. We find this sensitivity and appreciation of the beautiful in others, and we are charmed; but it seems to be lacking in those who are interested only in acquiring earthly gain, such as the merchant to whom culture was "significant in insofar as it induced people with little or nothing worth while to do to create new markets for his wares."

One means of enriching our cultural life is listening to radio concerts. We have the Sunday symphonies, the Saturday afternoon programs. These bring us the best in music—the most beautiful. If we make this music our own, let us contribute to and develop it, something which brings us closer to the Divine Being. It will leave a mark on our lives and make them fuller and more meaningful.

Reading great masters means of enriching our cultural life. There are not only those books that have lived through the years, but also our modern books—books coming off the presses each day. By developing an appreciation for these things, we are also developing an understanding which will be important in the world of tomorrow.

Art, too, has its place in our cultural life. Many of us, perhaps, should cultivate more interest in and more appreciation for the beautiful in art.

Perhaps we should all spend more time in enriching our cultural life—through music, books and art.

WINNER ANNOUNCED

For his poem Song of the City, Richard Nelson, former T. C. student, was awarded first place in the adult division of the annual non-member poetry contest sponsored by the League of Minnesota Poets.

The contest included entries by adults, high school students, and grade school students. The judges were members of the English department of Winona State Teachers College, St. Cloud State Teachers college, and Macalester college.

Richard has taken an active part in dramatic productions in high school, and is a member of the Wenonah Players.

song of the city

grey streets
grape like tendrils
through the endless twilight of brick and mortar valleys....

i remember the moist, pearly smell of flower-scented earth

strange white grubs
feed steel-fleshed gods
that whine and snarl their chant of triumph....

i remember who walked in the sun

plaster skies
forty wats suns
love by proxy with celluloid puppets....

i remember the shadowed stillness of a noon-drunk country night

a million plodding footsteps
a million dream-dead eyes
a million haunted faces
a solitary heart

i remember weed in the corn

graduates we wish happiness, luck, joy, and the fulfillment of all those dreams.

Until next fall....again. And aches deseases, with appropriate translation—I'll be seeing you....
Boys Send Letters To Defense Desk

The Defense Committee has sent out cards to servicemen recently, and has sponsored a student letter-writing project. There is a great call for women is being worked on now by the committee.

VIC GILSAN, an ensign in the Navy, left for Florida for training May 25.

MIDSHIPMAN RALPH SCHWICHTENBERG writes from Camp MacDonald in Plattsburg, New York. CURT SIMON is in the same building, although they are in different companies. Graduation is June 28.

T. C. is still represented at Guaynabo Adolphus, in the V-12 unit, writes DAN HASELWOOD, for his track and football man from Winona is still there. Dan is interested in the baseball team at the college.

"Somewhere in India" comes word of SGT. RICHARD SCHWICHTENBERG, whose father teaches at the College of Saint Teresa in Winona. He is in the army now, too. hotter and hotter," he writes. "Soon the rains will begin." Mosquitos seem to play a big part in his life. "In most parts it is necessary to sleep under the net the year around. In late autumn the mosquitoes take over the sting shift."

LT. JOHN QUADY sends greetings from "somewhere in India" to anyone going over the monsoons in India, and that not necessary landing gear. Lt. Zimdars is an educational officer for his division.

"I have finished my basic in the Air Corps and am awaiting shipping orders to my next base," writes CHARLES DUNCANSON from Sheppard Field, Texas. A teacher in the Duluth Public Schools, he enters the Air Corps this summer and will take a furlough, and the winter ones take over the swing shift...

Lt. Dennis Brandt, who is a student at the University of Minnesota, tells of watching a doubles tennis match. One of the players was Bobby Riggs.

CHESTER MULLER, who has been serving as corps man in the 51st Bomb Group in Sicily, and Italy. His boat carries 2500 troops and the necessary landing gear. Lt. Zimdars is an educational officer for his division.

Lt. Dennis Brandt, who is a student at the University of Minnesota, tells of watching a doubles tennis match. One of the players was Bobby Riggs.

GLEN ZIMDARS is an educational officer for his division.

LT. EDSON BRANDT, who is an instructor in map reading at the Marines' Camp Lejeune, N. C., writes that he thinks T. C. is doing an unusually fine job in keeping in contact with former students who are now in service. He and his wife (Ruth Dixon) enjoy the Atlantic Beach.

ENSIGN ROBERT EASTIN and LT. RONALD JOHNSON are rather recent arrivals in England. Both are acting as navigators in their present, though Bob expects to assume his co-pilot duties rather soon.

LT. DALTON RICH, who has been stationed in Italy for many months, writes that he has completed more than half of his missions; he says that the longer he works at his present job the more impressed he is with the blessing of having a wife.

GLEN ZIMDARS is an educational officer for his division.

Lt. Don Fairbanks, who is flying a B-24 with a photographic squadron in the South Pacific, writes most interestingly of his island base. He says there is no shortage of anything such as screens or water, but the daily done of aloe vera has made everybody's complexion very good.

CPL. EARL RAND, who has been serving as corps man in Australia for more than a year, recently received an 18 day leave which he spent in Sidney. He says there is no describing the Australian hospitality. He was the week-end guest of a family that had lived in Japan many years, and that not only was their talk most interesting but that they served him an old fashioned English dinner complete with roast beef, Yorkshire pudding, and gooseberry tarts. Earl, who is tremendously interested in his work, said that he had been attending a soldier with a ruptured heart and that he was so pleased because the patient was responding favorably to some new equipment and a very new treatment.

Lt. Maynard Burt and his wife (Dorothy Miller), who were married May 6, have an apartment near the Yale campus where Maynard is acting as an instructor in the Department of Communications.

From Major General Danielson to the women of Winona State Teachers College

In the fall of 1940, a time of peace uninter rupted by war—yes, you, the free women of the Class of 1944, began your college careers.

You have studied the origins of this war in your classroom and followed its daily programs in your newspapers. You are trained in cultural and technical fields and are now better equipped to make significant contributions to the Army's urgent need for more women.

I am confident that you will not hesitate to put your ability to work for your country and help speed our soldiers' victorious return by joining the Women's Army Corps.

PHELPS STAFF MAKES CHANGE

Miss Vernia Hoyman, junior high school English supervisor, will leave in June on a year's leave of absence for New York City, where she will train at Columbia University for the position of program director in U. S. O. personnel service. After a month's instruction at Columbia, she will be stationed at the U. S. O. in Fort Center, Battle Creek, Michigan.

Miss Isabella Loughery, 1941 graduate, will take Miss Hoyman's place during her leave of absence.

Miss Mabel Marvin, Phelps School secretary for thirty-four years, is leaving her position this year. Miss Marvin has been active in the D. A. R., the Eastern Star, and is secretary of the Old Settler's Association in Winona, Wis. She is also present in the diocese and historian for the Alumni Association.

Four years of being phys-eders brought its reward today to Florence Lindgren and Evelyn Zinders, seniors. After earning 1000 points, Florence and Evelyn were made the happy recipients of the W.A.A. large "W" award. Let me tell you right now that these 1000 points aren't tossed around to just anyone. The person who has earned a thousand points can put herself on the back. It means that she has been a true sports enthusiast for four years, and by true enthusiast I mean one who has been active in sports, giving her talents, receiving the product of everyone's talents combined. Such have been Florence and Evelyn.

Following in the footsteps of their senior leaders, Audrey Carothers, Lorraine Cashy, juniors, and Carrol De Wald, sophomore, having earned 500 points through active participation in W.A.A., received their small W.A.A. monograms.

Compliments of SPANTON'S/SALE'S

T.C. Sportswomen

Evelyn Zinders and Florence Lindgren

"Give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you." If we change one word of this quotation, we may easily analyse and enjoy this picture of Florence Lindgren and Evelyn Zinders. Let's say, "Give to the school the best you have—the picture will finish the quotation." It tells us that both girls have obviously given their best to the school or they would not be leaving, and their smiles show us that the best has come back to them.

So let's say "Hats Off" to our two sportswomen of the year.

Dr. Dallman is On U. Of Chicago Staff

Dr. Martha Dallman, sixth grade physiada supervisory from 1929 until 1940, is on the teaching staff of the Rural Education Workshop and Conference to be held at the University of Chicago from August 21 to September 9.

Dr. Dallman is now assistant professor of education at the Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio. The project she will be affiliated with this summer co-operates with and furthers the opportunities in rural areas.

Highlights of the day were the swimming and camping stations presented by the University Acquatic league and Orchesis. Participative sports included softball, archery, badminton, and volleyball.

When in Doubt -- Picnic

When In Doubt -- Picnic

Dr. Murphy had the best time of all on her first bicycle ride.

Curioussity Satisfied

The Country Life Club got curious about it all, so they too took to the wilds of Holzinger to find out about life. Lorraine Brandlance and "Pete" Kennedy report that the ants are doing nicely this year—they're motorized.

Even some classes got the urge of the dusty road. The photog class went westery one evening with seven pounds of hamburger to keep them warm. An art class trotted forth to drink in the beauty of nature, but finally had to resort to real food when their papawems proved to be anti-artistic.

The Newman Club footed it out for an after dinner picnic. Annie Truman and Gracie Stanek declare that the milked milks and peps were good to the last phone.

Then, of course, the alphabet soup (to borrow a phrase from Mr. Jede) packed up and picnicked and picnicked and picnicked, in varying seasons and situating stations. Seventy hungry picture on her wall. Then the Moryettes liked to Holzinger for fun and food, rugged style, and that's what it proved to be with Marg Fox duelling over the possession of the extra tomato, while everyone else subtly struggled to sit next to Jane Pulver's Johnny.

From Picnic to Picnic

The most enterprising excursion was by the Mendelsson Club who packed themselves sardine-like into anything with wheels and hied themselves off to the wilderness—complete with running water. Hilt Brand and Dag Mindrum had a good time waiting in said water. After gorging on bird seed or whatever canaries eat, some of the more ambitious guests went directly to the Winonan staff picture where Mary Neil's baked beans were the peace of resistance of the evening. Newspaper--water--and choice Duxbury objected to the seven heavy blankets. Instead of the usual dalney carrot sticks on the menu, the hearty throng were provided with choice tomatoes, slabs and spikes prepared by Chef Clarke.

Thus it can be seen that whoever first mentioned picnic at T. C. this spring deserves the plaudits or punches of the picnic-weakened student body. One seasoned backwoodsman was heard to say, "It's all right until we start comparing the size of our tapeworms..." But don't be discouraged, picniqueers, perhaps next year bee-stings will be permissible! And don't get us wrong, we love picnics!
