College Adds New Courses

During the spring quarter certain new courses will be offered. They are as follows, "Money and Banking," second semester, Teachers College; "Psychology of Education and Curriculum," third hour; both are given by Dr. Toots. A Physical Education organization and administration course will be given by Mr. Grimm. An other course being offered this spring, although not new, is "Music Supervision" under Mr. Grimm. This latter course is given every two years.

"Money and Banking," deals in the organization, management, and operation of financial institutions and is of practical value, according to Dr. Toots. The remaining three courses take up the practical demonstration side of such institutions.

Some changes are proposed next year in the preparation of physical education classes for men and women. Only five terms are required, thus leaving the students free for one quarter in which practice teaching may be done. Of the five terms, one will be spent in the junior's course in physical education in which the students divide into sections of activities, needs, abilities, and interests of students are studied. The senior's course will consist of two hour quarter credits and will be devoted to the development of the student with lower and upper grade problems. Requirements for this course are as follows: an understanding of the physical education and having each one quarter.

A wide range of activity courses are to be offered for the selection of the students to fill the requirements of the remaining two terms. These will include different types of group activities, such as basketball, tennis, and games, and appropriate seminars.

The summer schedule, which is usually out at this time, is delayed this year, but it will soon be printed.

Dual Debate Results in Tie

Winona debaters engaged representatives from Eau Claire State Teachers College in debate on February 24. The question of debt cancellations was discussed. A negative team composed of Edith Bond, Arlene Gell, and Mildred Williams, took the floor against the Winona affirmative team, composed of Miss Grimm, Miss Constance Johnson, and Mary Edna Wiss. The debate resulted in a tie with the negative team of each college being awarded the decision.

The debate topic of Winona State Teachers College clashed with the following issue of the La Crosse State T. C. in a dual debate February 17. In the first contest, the affirmative held the negative of the question of cancellation of the inter-state war debt. Attorney Watson of La Crosse granted the decision to the La Crosse team. In the second contest Messrs. Glasson and Wacholtz took the affirmative and Mr. Johnson, La Crosse, the negative.

Dr. Wu Gives Address on Chinese Problems

"China Through Chinese Eyes" was the subject of a talk given by Dr. Wu before the college assembly on February 8.

"The average American's idea of the Chinese is gained from reading the novels of 'Madame Butterfly,'" said the speaker.

After completing a course at St. John's College in Shanghai, Dr. Wu came to America. He then completed the medical college course at the University of Virginia. Dr. Wu is now studying at the University of Minnesota.

Students Select Songs for Chapel

The ballot on the music sides which were being voted on was counted with the following results: "Moonlight in Vermont" received the largest number of votes for the first choice, 558. "Outward Bound" was second in order of the largest number of votes as follows:

"Moonlight in Vermont" received the largest number of votes for the first choice, 558. "Outward Bound" was second in order of the largest number of votes (394). The vote was taken Monday, Febru-ary 24, by 8660. Of these, 208, or 24, voted for the other sides in order of the largest number of votes as follows:

"My Wild Irish Rose," 311 votes; "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," 209; "Tell Me, Old Grey Bonnet," 277; "Mighty Lak's A Mighty Lak's A Man," 204; "The Tiptop of the Tulips With Me," 202; "Sing Along," 221. According to Mr. Gregerson, these are the ones which will be sent for. The final arrangements which were given trials were: "My Dame Had a Lame Tape Gown," 168; "So Long, My Lass," 164; "I'm人为;, 156; "Farewell to Thee," 170. During this quarter the music sides which were merely being tried out but from now on will really be sung.
PROSPERITY

How to recover prosperity? That is a question which bankers, and which we, as prospective teachers, are trying to answer. But there is a great deal more legitimate proposals, suggested by men of affairs, as methods for stimulating economic recovery. A proposal which many economists is the revaluation of our country by the gold standard, nor even the suspension of it. Now, before attempting to set down the fundamental principles of this theory in an understandable fashion, we must briefly portray the economic condition which confronts our country in its present depressed state and its relationship with the economic conditions of other nations of the world.

At the present time the United States has about 42% of the gold in the world which is the equivalent of about $20,000,000,000 or $19 of the world's gold. England has 6.8%, Russia has 2.3%, Germany but 2.9% of it. This is a very small fraction of the world's gold.

The ratio of twelve credit dollars to one of gold has really jumped to the relation of 117 to one. The other nations passed through a similar experience. To remedy their situation they revalued their gold standard. For example, the United States gold was five times more valuable in 1900 than it is today. She declared that a franc was five times less than a dollar. In this manner, gold deposits the French franc, which formerly represented shoes and dollars or twenty-four credit dollars. This will practically cut our debts in half. Then will we be able to formulate constructive measures toward economic recovery.

Everything is done scientifically in order to get the best results. Good cooks who, when asked for a recipe of the eight billion dollar French national debt, would write down "just a little of this, and a little of that," but that the dietary of the world, the flush of plappiness that makes all the different—she leaves us no choice. There are many ingredients and even the diet is different.

You have been told often that every housewife own type of weakness and by purchasing the different articles of diet the golden standard enters the depression of the world war.

Winona Five Defeated By Duluth in Last Game

Fighting desperately in an attempt to win one conference game this season, the Teachers College cagers were defeated by Duluth Teachers College 42 to 31 last Saturday night. The game, like many others this season, was a nonconference game but both teams are members of the Northern Conference. Duluth started last to the big lead and it looked bad for the cagers until Vince Viezbicke and Emilie Wright scored. At the end of the first period Duluth led 12 to 10. The Warriors outplayed the second quarter making 8 points to their opponents 12 and the score was set at 24 and 18 as the half ended. The game was played on even terms in the third period with each team scoring seven points. Coach Glen Galligan was forced to use his reserves in the final period and Duluth went 15 to 11 in the last quarter to give the Purple their total of 37.

Teachers Lose To St. Cloud

The Purple Teachers played one of the best games they have played this season. They took a 15 to 6 lead in the first period and raised it to 22 to 12 at the half. Coach Galligan called time out to advise the players to avoid their roughness. The Purple cagers just didn't get the breaks and they couldn't get the Purple five will never be known but there are a great many of us who are of the opinion that he might have been able to risk a long shot that time to win the game for the Purple.

The Warriors outplayed in the final period making 4 points to 2 for the Purple. The game could have won it for the Purple.
A Decorated Gym Means Hard Work

When is a barn not a barn? It is the answer: "After one of our hard-working organizations decorates for a party."

This is no insult to the gymnasium, because after all it wasn't built to be a social room. A difficult problem encountered by the committee is to take this high-ceilinged room, with its three balancing columns, two cold walls, and make a warm, friendly, scintillating ballroom.

The Faculty Reception, the Homecoming Party, the As You Like It Frolic, the Interfraternity Club Snow Dance, and the Junior High Club Valentine Party are excellent examples of well-spent time, effort, and money.

There is an average of three hundred people that attend these parties. There is a seven piece band, ticket-takers, chaperones, refreshments, and janitor service.

The statistics on any one of these parties is interesting. Because the Valentine party is fresh in the minds of the students, it can be used as a fine example.

Fifteen hundred hearts were suspended from the ceiling by streamers; these latter were cut and crinkled by hand. Thirty-two lamps hung from the four thirty-two shades were hand shaded and carried out the valentine motif. Each of these shades had twenty-two small streamers and five lighted streamers. Six very large hearts were also used to decorate the music room.

These decorating committees work all of Friday evening and Saturday morning, with the additional space moments put in on the project; the time will average ten hours per person. "We are grateful of a full working day.

This gives one a vague idea of what it takes to make a play room out of a "barn."

Winonan Selects Contest Winners
Miss Christine Breyer won the short story contest with the "Cap of Jan," an excellent piece of work. Her story itself was well constructed and although the idea was slightly morbid in tone it was well enough written to carry this weight in a surprise ending. The story will appear in a later issue of the Winonan. Mr. Robert Reid was the judge.

Miss Mildred Bachman's "Inside of Me" was first in the poetry division. Her poem was closely pushed by the second place winner, Dominador Landitcho's "Mother and Child." Both poems were judged by Miss Grace Marx on the merits of truth and self-expression without particular stress on construction. Miss Bachman's poem appears in this issue.

In an effort to unveil hidden talent the Winonan carried on this contest. It is hoped that the next one will be more enthusiastically accepted. We thank all of those interested and although those who didn't get a prize this time, try again.

(All Breyer and Miss Bachman will receive as prizes any volume of short stories or poetry they choose.)

THE KARMELKORN
Karmelkorn Studio

I can't believe that the little tot's sweet time has passed into memory. The little tot is unable to decide what, among the assortment of marshmallows, candy cigars, gumdrops, licorice, or peanut candy, he wants most.

Gumdrops are exchanged for a licorice stick and a Jawbreaker for candy corn all within two minutes. "Quantity not quality" is his motto.

The little tot's final decision is always a studied and well-planned affair. The patience of the clerk is tried beyond the breaking point while the little tot is unable to decide what, amongst the assortment of marshmallows, candy corns, licorice, or peanut candy, he wants most.

Needless to say a full grown man, with the help of his hands, gan to the store counter to get the little tot what he needs. He then ran out the door to the corner where he can eat his candy, unmolested by his begging pals.
