SCHOOL EXTENDS SYMPATHY

The sympathy of the entire school goes out to the family of Mr. Charles S. Miller, who is the third member of the school's faculty to die in the last six months. The other two deaths were Mr. B. B. Bliss, who was principal of the school from 1926 to 1928, and Mr. Geo. H. Barrett, who was principal of the school from 1928 to 1930.

Mr. Barrett's death came at a time when he was expected to be a candidate for the principalship of the school. He was a very popular teacher and had been highly regarded by the students.

Mr. Miller had been a teacher at Winona Teachers College for many years and had been associated with the school in one way or another for over twenty years. He was known for his ability to get along with students and for his knowledge of history and geography.

The study of design in hardware and other forms of industrial work is an essential part of the curriculum at Winona Teachers College, and the school extends its sympathy to the family of Mr. Miller for their loss.

LAUGH WITH US

HARRY BARR

By Gerry, we woold be the Parmes of Paisly, face of the world, and the task of writing down to Paisly and the Five, is to be a black and white thing. One day, they had a black and white thing that was a
black and white
thing. And that's when he had to keep his wife.

THE DERENTIAL MUSCULODY

In that fall came the pupils to the
Winona Teachers College. They had arrived from all
different parts of the country, some from as far as the West Coast.

The majority of the pupils were between the ages of 17 and 19, and they came to the college to prepare themselves for the teaching profession.

Many of them were determined to make
a career of teaching,
and they were
motivated by a desire to help others.

IRWIN SHEPARD'S PICTURE GIVEN TO GIRLS DORMITORY

Shepard Hall was recently the recipient of a unique gift from the Winona Teachers College: a beautiful portrait of Irwin Shepard, a former student who had emigrated to Canada and
become a successful
businessman.

The portrait was presented to the college by a colleague of Shepard's,
who had recently returned from Canada.

The portrait
is now
installed in
the girls' dormitory,
and is admired by
students and faculty alike.

FIFTEEN GRADUATES AT THANKSGIVING

Mrs. Hosken talks

The first of the formal graduation exercises for the Winona Teachers College was held on November 13, with
fifteen students
graduating.

These students
had completed their studies and were considered to be prepared for teaching in elementary schools.

The ceremony was attended by family and friends, as well as
faculty and administration.

and "Parrot of the Minute," by Eugene O'Neill.

See what the Legion convention did?

The Legion convention held in Winona last year was a SUCCESS. It brought
hundreds of veterans
and their families to
the city, and
provided a vibrant
social atmosphere.

After many days spent amid buckets and tents, the veterans were ready to return home and enjoy their families.
