Indianapolis Man Mistakes Friend for Burglar, Kills Him

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A 42-year-old Indianapolis electrician died early Sunday after being shot by a lifelong friend who thought he was a burglar.

The victim, James Wilkinson, was wounded Christmas night as his neighbor, Herbert Skaggs, 51, fired two pistol bullets through his kitchen door.

Wilkinson, thinking Skaggs and his wife were away from home, was trying to open the door for Skaggs' mother, Mrs. Lilly Breeden, 82, who had forgotten her key.

Adenauer Hopes For Control of Atomic Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany says he has hope that an effective system of controlling atomic weapons will be found and that it will in turn lead to a general easing of world tensions.

"Once the terror of the atomic weapons has been banished, then such a change of the mental atmosphere among nations will, I think, occur that one can arrive at reasonable arrangements," Adenauer said in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

Asked how he views the prospects for "truly peaceful coexistence" with the Soviet world, Adenauer replied:

"In my opinion, the decisive question is whether it will be possible to reach an agreement in the matter of atomic weapons. If that were achieved, I trust the decisive step would have been taken, and I have the hope, just because of the dreadfulness of those weapons, that it will succeed."

"Once countries and governments become ready... to renounce it (the atomic bomb) in earnest, to renounce it under control, then, I think, that will cause such a liberation of thinking and such a liberation from human fears that everything, so to speak, will go ahead successfully."

However, as long as that question is not solved, I don't think that an easing of tension will occur, and then all the special problems will remain unsolved."

'Smallest Baby' Now Weighs 20 Pounds

SPERRY, Iowa (AP)—Nancy Lucas, thought to be the smallest baby ever to survive after birth in a Burlington hospital, tipped the scales at 20 pounds on her second birthday Thursday.

Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lucas, was placed in an incubator immediately after she was born. When first put on the scales five days later, she weighed 1 pound, 12 ounces.

Mendes-France Stakes Cabinet On Outcome

Showdown to Come On Issue of Rearming Germany

By HARVEY HUDSON
PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly convened shortly after 3 p.m. today for a decision fateful for the government of Premier Pierre Mendes-France and the defense of the Western world.

The Premier is asking for the Assembly's vote of confidence on West Germany's entrance into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and, by implication, the whole network of London-Paris accords for West German rearmament as a partner in a seven-nation Western European Union.

The public and press galleries of the chamber were packed long before the Assembly was called to order.

Outside, many others, including knots of Communist demonstrators hostile to West German rearmament, thronged against barricades waiting a turn to get inside.

Police on Guard
Hundreds of police stood on guard at strategic points around the Assembly building, the Bourbon Palace, to maintain order.

Shortly before the session opened, most of the political groups were holding last minute caucuses, and the odds appeared to favor the Premier by a slim margin.

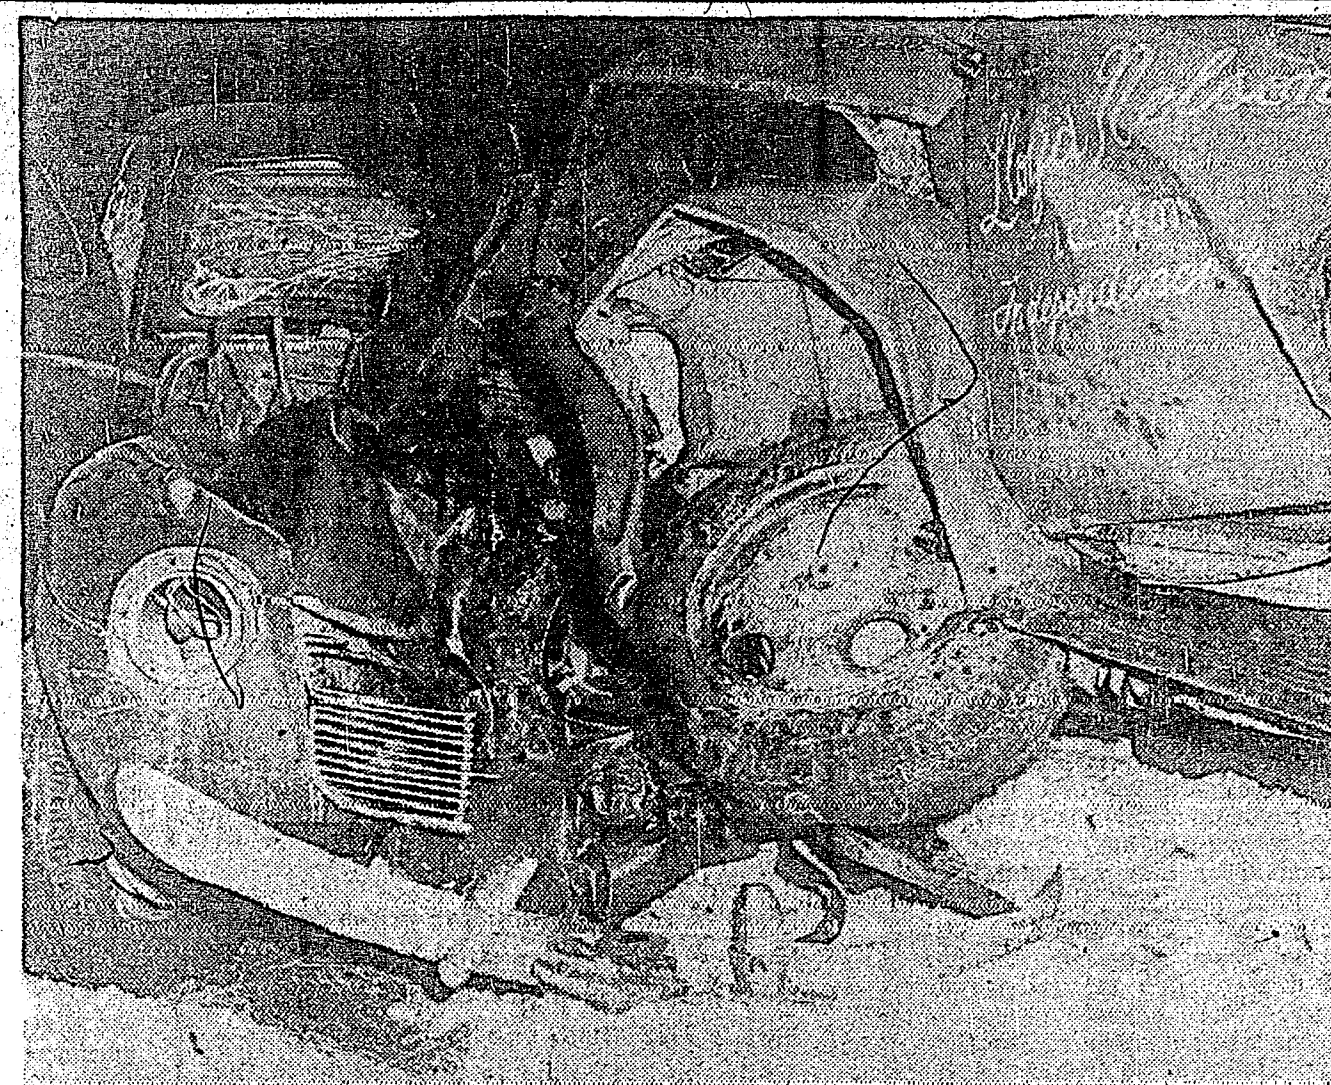

The executive committee of the Independent Republicans, most of whom were hostile to the government last week, advised party members today to vote for the Premier. This, it said, should be done to support the Atlantic Alliance and not as a gesture for Mendes-France personally.

Various party spokesmen planned to take the floor before Mendes-France himself presented a supreme last-minute appeal for the Assembly's backing on his pro-Western foreign policy. Defeat would mean the resignation of his six-month-old government.

Asks Vote of Confidence
He is asking a vote of confidence today on three points—West Germany's entrance into NATO, and endorsement of the government's position on three amendments to the ratification bill.

If successful on those ballots, he was slated to demand that the Assembly reverse its refusal last Friday to ratify the treaty permitting West Germany to rearm as a member of the seven-nation Western European Union (WEU). That, too, would be a question of confidence which under Assembly rules could not be voted on for 24 hours, probably tomorrow.

Defeat on any of the three votes would force the government to resign, plunging France into another of its numerous postwar cabinet crises.

Albert D. Marsolek, 65, Elk Creek, Wis., farmer, was crushed to death in this car Christmas Eve on Highway 93. Hunter Slain In Gunfight Over Dead Dog

JASPER, Tex. (AP)—Two ranchers and five hunters who accused them of killing a hunting dog shot it out in a wild Christmas Day gunfight, officers said.

A sixth hunter—the only one who didn't fire a shot, the sheriff said—was slain. Both ranchers and another hunter were wounded in the furious exchange of some 40 shots. Six men were charged with assault to murder.

Dist. Atty. J. L. Smith said the grand jury will take up the case Jan. 3.

Sheriff Tom Mixon said five hunters fought it out with two ranchers they accused of killing a hunting dog. He said the ranchers had often warned hunters they would kill any dogs they found in their pasture.

Roy Muench, 51, Beaumont, Tex., killed by a rifle blast through his right shoulder, had left his gun in his truck, Mixon said.

The bachelor rancher brothers, Sterling Garlington, 53, and Dalphin, 43, were among those wounded. Sterling was hospitalized at Beaumont, in critical condition, with a rifle shot in his stomach and shotgun blasts in his neck, chest and back. Dalphin was in a Jasper hospital in serious condition with face wounds.

The sheriff said, "These hunters came up to the Garlington place where they were sitting in their pasture; one or two words passed between Charley Ellis—one of the hunters—and the Garlingtons, and the shooting started."

Sterling Garlington ducked behind a dirt embankment and Dalphin ran across a ravine as the fight began. Both had .30 caliber rifles.

Dalphin Garlington was among those charged with assault to murder and released under $2,000 bond. The others, all among the hunters, were Charley Ellis, his father Travis Ellis, who was shot in the face; Gerald Sanford; Richard Morris and Clarence Willingham. All are of the Jasper or Beaumont areas.

Travis Ellis' condition was reported satisfactory at a Jasper hospital.

States Agree on Fishing Regulations

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)—The North Dakota Game and Fish Department and the Minnesota Department of Conservation have announced agreement on a uniform set of fishing regulations for the Red and Bois de Sioux rivers between the two states.

The new regulations open the regular season on the two rivers from May 1 through Feb. 28 on walleyed pike, northern pike and sauger.

Christmas Traffic Accidents Kill 379

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A record accident death toll left a grim aftermath today of the nation's Christmas holiday weekend.

The violent death list reached 499 during the 2-day, 54-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Deaths in traffic numbered 379. Fires claimed 59 lives. The remaining 54 victims met death in a wide variety of mishaps.

The traffic toll came very close to the National Safety Council's pre-holiday estimate of 370 fatalities. It was far heavier than the earlier record of 277 traffic deaths for a similar period at Christmas 1948. The over-all total, too, surpassed the 1948 mark of 286.

The holiday accident death figures compared with a non-holiday weekend count by The Associated Press Dec. 10-12 of 255 traffic deaths, 39 in fires and 67 from miscellaneous mishaps.

Despite a strenuous campaign for safe and sober driving during the Christmas weekend in California, the populous state recorded 27 deaths on streets and highways. Other states with heavy traffic tolls included Texas with 26, Pennsylvania, 25; Ohio and Illinois, 20 each; New York, 18, and Michigan, 16.

Six states reported no deaths from accident of any sort during the period—Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wyoming.

Iowa's eight traffic deaths put that state over the previous year's record by four; the toll to date is 629.

Stove explosions and Christmas tree fires contributed heavily to the unusually large number of deaths from fires.

The weekend's worst tragedy occurred in a tenant farmhouse near Parkin, Ark. Eleven persons, including 10 children, died when kerosene poured into a wood stove exploded.

Four persons, one a baby, died in a fire which destroyed a farm labor camp building at Penn Yan, N. Y.

Accidents Kill 6 in Wisconsin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Accidents in Wisconsin during the three-day Christmas holiday, one of them a head-on highway crash that killed three people, claimed a total of six lives.

The smashup that killed three persons occurred Sunday afternoon near Arena in Iowa County, during a rain and snow storm.

Victims of the wreck on Highway 14 were Gifford Davis, 64, of Richland Center, and his wife, and Delbert Dodge, 17, of Arena. The Davises died in the wreckage of their auto. Dodge, who was alone in his car, died en route to a Madison hospital.

Victims of other accidents were: Adolph Woviaras, 48, Waukesha, killed Friday night, in a collision on the Blue Mound road at Highway 100 in Milwaukee County.

Christ Frey, 50, of Milwaukee, suffered fatal injuries in an auto crash in Milwaukee Friday afternoon when his car and another collided at an intersection.

Highway accidents over the Christmas weekend took the lives of two area men—one from Independence, Wis., and the other from Spring Valley, Minn.

A retired Trempealeau County highway worker was killed instantly at 5 p. m. Christmas Eve in a head-on crash on a stretch of Highway 93 north of Independence which he had patrolled hundreds of times.

Dead is Albert D. Marsolek, 65, Elk Creek (near Independence), who was crushed to death in the front seat of his auto by the impact of a crash with an Elk Creek Co-op Creamery truck driven by Lemoyne Nelson, Independence. Lloyd Nelson, a brother who owns the truck, was riding with Lemoyne.

The brothers, headed toward Independence at the time, suffered facial injuries. Two of Lemoyne's front teeth were loosened.

Spring Valley Death
Robert Hawley, 37, Spring Valley father of six, died in an Albert Lea hospital about 8:30 p. m. Sunday following a two-car crash on Highway 16 12 miles east of Albert Lea. A nephew, Glen Hawley, 16, is in critical condition in the hospital with injuries suffered in the collision.

The Hawley car collided with another carrying four Austin youths, about 5 p. m. Robert Bulow, 23, Austin, driver of the other car, was treated and released. Former residents of Albert Lea, the Hawleys recently moved to Spring Valley and were headed for a niece's birthday dinner when the mishap occurred.

Others who suffered lesser injuries in the crash were Hawley's wife; two sons, Terry, 13, and Robert Jr., 4, and Miss Naomi Johnson, 19, and Maydena Swope, 17, Austin.

The death increased the state's traffic toll for the year to 622, 11 below the count at this time last year.

Inquest Scheduled
A coroner's inquest into the ninth Trempealeau County traffic fatality of the year—two more than in 1953—will be held at the courthouse at Whitehall at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Nelsons were questioned by Sheriff Ernest Amess and Dist. Atty. John C. Quinn following the crash. According to Maurice Scow, Trempealeau County traffic officer who also investigated, the vehicles met on a slight curve four miles north of Independence and about a mile south of Marsolek's farm at Elk Creek. He was alone and headed home.

The collision drove the car back about 75 feet and onto the east shoulder of the road. Nelson's truck came to rest on the front half of the auto.

Martin Wiemer, county coroner, said the car motor pinned the elderly man in the wreckage and that the seats had to be removed to free him. He suffered a skull fracture, fractures of the upper and lower left arm, fractures of both knees and the right hip, and severe internal injuries including

Ike's Cabinet Doubts War Coming in 1955

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet, including in the year-end custom of taking a look ahead, see 1955 as a year of peace but continuing tensions and of a stable and prosperous economy.

But the National Planning Assn., less optimistic about the economy, says the new year will be one of rising unemployment unless buying power and production are stimulated by the government and by industry.

TODAY Reds in Indochina Thorough

By JOSEPH ALSOP

SAIGON, Indochina—Across the busy canal there was a barracks. One could tell it was a barracks because the Communist chiefs of the Viet Minh army enforce strict, if primitive, rules of personal hygiene, which brought out the whole company of men inhabiting the little palm huts to soap and scrub themselves in the muddy canal water, morning and evening at appointed hours.

The soldiers were preparing for the public ceremony that would take place before their embarkation to join the big Communist armies in the North. There was singing. There was a gymnastic exercise. And the high point was a long, elaborate, propaganda dance miming the fall of Dien Bien Phu or some other Communist victory.

Of the five man dance team, three members were graceful, slender Vietnamese. One was stocky, deep eggplant colored and performed his steps with a marked stomp—most probably a French colonial soldier from the Ivory Coast. And the bright blond head of the fifth dancer marked him as a captured German member of the Foreign Legion who had been successfully "re-educated." They danced well, and passing sampan loads of villagers stopped to watch and applaud.

I was not supposed to be in the independent Viet Minh state, which still survives in southern Indochina. Having got there, I was not supposed to see anything. But I was allowed to take the sun on the little pier in front of where I was being held under a gentle house arrest. And from my pier, I too darted occasional cautious glances at the dancing soldiers.

It was the dance team, perhaps

8 Dead in Riots In India Village

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Deaths in rioting at Valod, 160 miles north of Bombay, rose to eight today as another victim died from wounds received in the clash between police and a mob of 1,200. Another injured person was reported in a critical condition.

Freeman Indicates He Favors Tax Hike

ST. PAUL (AP)—Gov.-elect Orville Freeman said today that the income tax school fund will be more than 12 million dollars in the red at the end of the next two years if basic school aid is continued at the present rate of $80 per pupil unit.

He added that if this is increased to $92 as proposed by the Coordinating Committee on Education, the deficit will be nearly 28 million dollars.

"The analysis of the committee as to needs is essentially sound," he said. "The $92 figure is needed to hold the line because of rising school population."

While Freeman would not discuss means of raising the additional money, he indicated he was in general agreement with the committee.

DFL Sweep Top State Story In Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Minnesota's Associated Press editors have voted the Democratic-Farmer-Labor near sweep in the November elections as the state's top news story of the year. Sharing other places among the year's top 10 stories were accounts of a successful football season, of tragedies, violence, a prison probe, a birthday, the visit of an emperor and a world church meeting.

AP newspaper, radio and television members around the state ranked the top stories in this order for 1934.

1-The Democratic-Farmer-Labor victory in the November election that swept all of the Republicans but State Auditor Stafford King out of major offices.

2-The seven wins, two losses record of the University of Minnesota football team under Coach Murray Warmath, fresh from Mississippi State.

3-The mail crashing crash that took the lives of six high school students returning from a homecoming game at St. Cloud in October.

4-The slaying of his parents and grandmother at Sherburn in January by Richard Wisdorf, 15.

5-The Northwood Inn fire that took eight lives at Crookston in March.

6-The military plane crash in which 10 died at Duluth May 30.

7-The escape of five men from the Ramsey County jail in St. Paul in May.

8-The March probe at Stillwater Prison, started after charges were made that contraband items had been smuggled into the institution.

9-The celebration at Duluth in February for Albert Woolson, 107, last of the Civil War's boys in blue.

10-A tie: the visit of Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie to the state in June and the World Anglican Congress in Minneapolis during August.

Monthly Sewer Fee Planned at Arcadia

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—At a joint meeting of City Council and the city planning commission, revenue bonds were favored as the method of financing the new sewerage disposal plant which Arcadia must build during 1935.

Under such a plan, a monthly sewer charge would be made to each property owner. A minimum would be set, and anything over that amount would be pro-rated according to the amount of water used.

Deadline set by the state for the plant to be in operation is September. The aldermen are making preparations for bidding. Plans were accepted earlier this year.

Does your family enjoy browned potatoes served with roast lamb or beef? Use medium-size potatoes and boil them for 10 or 15 minutes, then put the par-boiled spuds around the roast about three-quarters of an hour before the roast is done. Make sure you turn the potatoes in the fat drippings in the bottom of the roaster so they will be well coated, and sprinkle them with salt and a little paprika.

Death of Man in Burning Car Near Moorhead Probed

MOORHEAD, Minn. (U)—Clay County authorities resumed their investigation today into the death of a Sisseton, S.D., man in a burning car north of here.

The victim was Ben Johnson, about 40. A companion, Calvin Friemore of Veblen, S.D., remained under treatment in a Moorhead hospital. He suffered burns.

Held in the Clay County jail in connection with the death are Joseph P. Johnson, 37, Sisseton, and Sam De Marco of Veblen.

Johnson's charred body was found Friday in the rear seat of the car. A can of gasoline was found beside him.

Public Health Experts Conduct Roach Experiment

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter
BERKELEY, Calif. (U)—Radioactive cockroaches have demonstrated how the species can invade homes, even passing through water traps in the plumbing, two U. S. Public Health experts reported today.

Sewer cockroaches in Phoenix, Ariz., were used in the experiment. The results showed that the insects, which are potential disease carriers, migrate as much as 200 feet when they become overcrowded or when forced out of their colonies by backed-up sewage.

The experiment was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by William B. Jackson and Paul P. Maier of the Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga.

The roaches in one sewer manhole were collected and sprayed with radioactive phosphorus which made them traceable with a geiger counter. Then they were put back into their hole and then another colony of 1,500 roaches was trapped from a nearby manhole and dumped into the radioactive colony.

The second group of roaches was not made radioactive. The idea was to produce overcrowding and see how many of the radioactive insects would leave their own home under such conditions.

In cold weather the migrating roaches didn't go far, but when it warmed up they went off in all directions. They were caught in spots both upstream and downstream in the sewer.

This is about what could be expected when clogged mains produce backed-up sewage, the health experts said. The insects are capable of carrying a variety of disease organisms, the experimenters said.

Retired Mill City Policeman Halts Hotel Holdup

MINNEAPOLIS (U)—A retired Minneapolis police captain working as a hotel night clerk broke up an attempted holdup early Monday, wounding a man who held a gun on him.

Three young men walked into the Wisconsin Hotel at 2:15 a.m. and asked night clerk William McCormick, 60, for a room. Seconds later one pulled a nickel-plated revolver on McCormick and demanded the hotel's receipts.

McCormick walked to the safe where his gun lay, turned and ordered the gunman to drop his weapon. When the youth raised his arm, McCormick fired. The three fled but two were captured within minutes after McCormick notified police. The third escaped.

In critical condition at General Hospital with a chest wound was Arthur Williams, 21, 2633 South Dupont, Minneapolis.

Veteran Menomonic Dentist Dead at 76

MENOMONIE, Wis. (U)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Dr. C. F. Clark, 76, who practiced dentistry here for more than half a century.

Dr. Clark died Saturday. Students have attributed some reports of fish and frogs falling with rain to waterspouts which may have sucked up the animals.

100 New TV Stations Predicted by End of '55

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (U)—Television entertainment will be dished up from 100 new stations by the end of 1955, a General Electric Co. executive says.

Dr. W. R. G. Baker, vice president and general manager of GE's electronics division here, predicted yesterday that—at this time next year—"at least" 500 TV stations will be in operation across the country. That would compare with the 430 Baker said are now on the air.

Baker forecast the retail sale of about 5,800,000 black and white receivers and 200,000 color receivers during the coming year. He said the retail cost of one color set would approximate that of three black and white receivers.

Iowa's '54 Auto Death Toll Hits All-Time High

DES MOINES (U)—Iowa's 1954 motor vehicle toll for one year surpassed all previous records Sunday with the deaths of three girls in two widely separated car-truck crashes.

Dead were Judy Ann Timmer and Judy Kay Garthoff, each 10 and of Waterloo, Iowa, and Patricia Fletcher, 16, of Massena, Iowa.

The Timmer and Garthoff girls were killed about noon Sunday when the car in which they were riding and an auto transport collided seven miles west of Manchester, in northeast Iowa.

Miss Fletcher was killed early Sunday when the car in which she was a passenger crashed into the rear of a truck on Highway 71, two miles south of Exira, about 70 miles west of Des Moines.

The deaths boosted to 623 the motor vehicle fatality toll for 1954. The previous record for one year was 625, set in 1951.

There are 4½ million tractors on U. S. farms.

Attorneys Ready For Conference On Sheriff Case

Pre-Trial Meeting Set Tuesday in Houston Co. Dispute

CALEDONIA, Minn. —Attorneys for Beryl Kerrigan and Clarence Vetsch are preparing today for a pre-trial conference in the disputed Houston County sheriff race which will go into District Court here Thursday morning.

The conference is scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday in Judge Karl Finkelnburg's chambers in the Winona County Courthouse. It is understood that the question of who will be county sheriff after Jan. 3 — should the case not be settled by then — will be brought before the judge tomorrow.

Vetsch won the Nov. 2 general election and maintains he should take office Jan. 3. He is now attending the annual convention of the Minnesota State Sheriffs Association in the Twin Cities and will not be back in time to attend the pre-trial conference.

Kerrigan, the incumbent, called for the recount through court action, and may move to keep the office until litigation is completed.

Findings of a three-man recount board will be considered in the trial starting at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Caledonia courtroom.

Rejection Will Send Ike Back To Washington

By WILMOT HERCHER
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—If the French Chamber of Deputies today rejects the plan to rearm Germany as an equal partner in the Western alliance, President Eisenhower may return at once to Washington to grapple with a new world situation.

If German rearmament is approved, Eisenhower will probably stay here in his holiday retreat until Jan. 3, working on his first messages to the new Congress and playing a little golf.

An air of tension pervaded the President's circle here.

West German rearmament is an integral part of the administration's defense plan for Europe, and France's rejection of it, the White House has made clear, would be a bitter blow.

Premier Mendes-France, fighting for ratification, has demanded a vote of confidence on the issue. The French Parliament is expected to act sometime today, with the government standing or falling on the result.

Last Friday the President said he considered the adverse vote in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday a provisional action—as of “the utmost seriousness of the free world.” A new White House statement reiterated this view yesterday and noted that Eisenhower had also “expressed the hope of our government that the vote would not represent the final French decision on the matter.”

The statement continued: “If, contrary to our hope, this should unhappily be the case, however, the President would naturally reconsider his present plan to remain here at Augusta, where he had originally intended to concentrate on the preparation of his State of the Union message, the submission of the budget and economic report and other special messages to the Congress.”

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said that if rearmament is rejected by the French and Eisenhower decides to finish out his Georgia stay anyway, Secretary of State Dulles and other high administration officials, no doubt will fly here for a series of conferences.

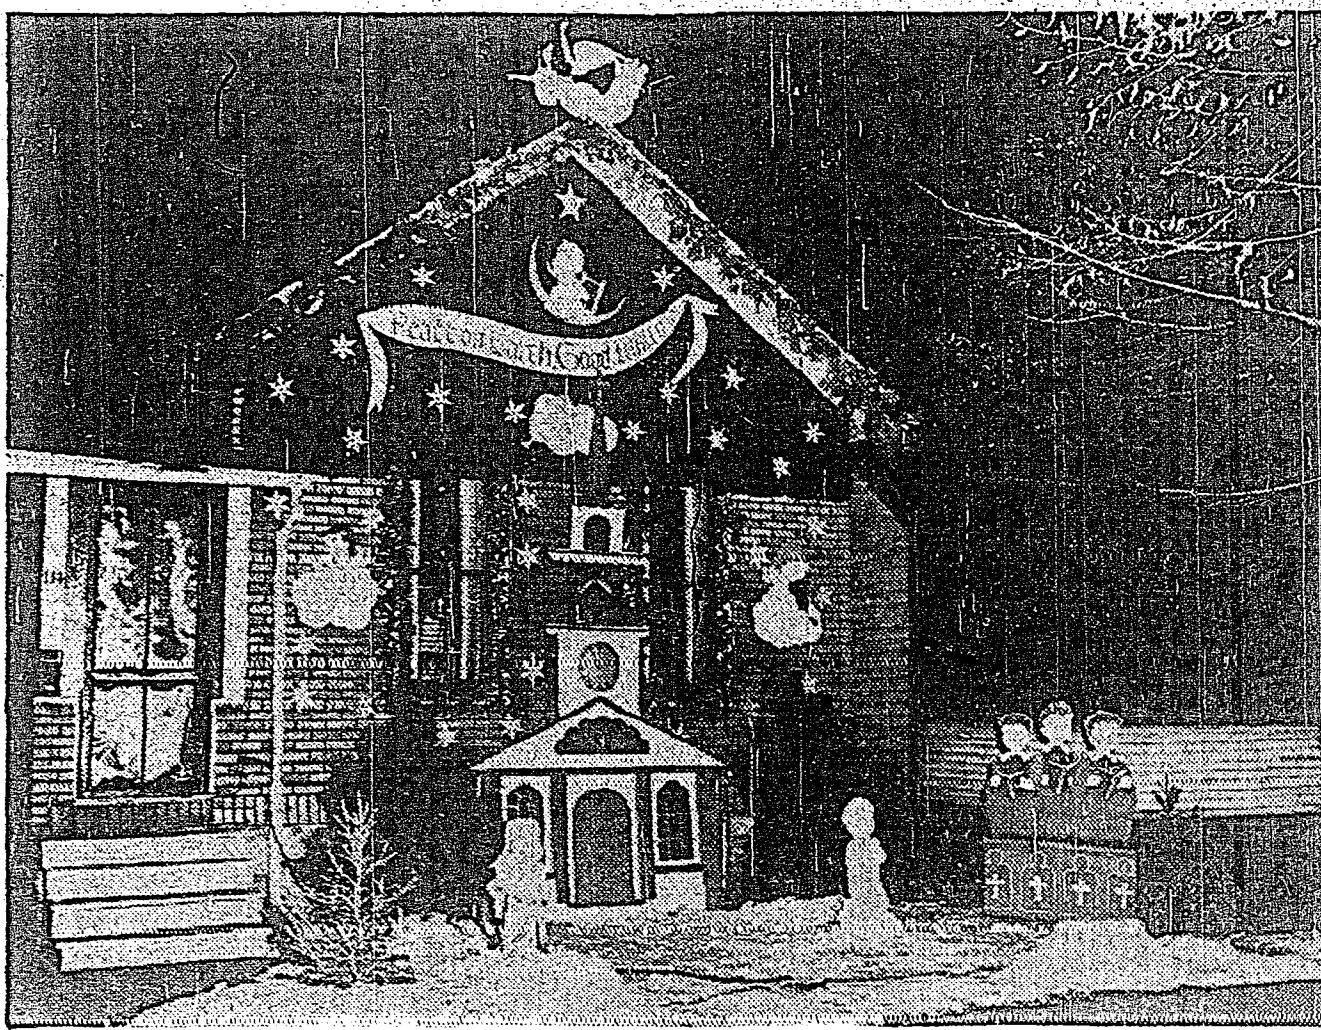

While Hagerty refused to speculate on the prospects of French approval of the German rearmament, he noted at his news conference yesterday that Mendes-France “says he was confident they would have the votes.”

The President talked with Dulles by telephone yesterday.

Gabriel Hauge, the President's personal financial adviser, and Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, arrived in Augusta last night.

Home Lighting Winners

Following A Suggested “Christ in Christmas” theme, Henry Muras, 114 High Forest St., Sunday won the Winona Jaycee-sponsored Christmas home-lighting contest for the third year in a row. The display, for which he receives a $25 merchandise certificate from the Mississippi Valley

Public Service Co., was built entirely by Muras' 15-year-old son, James, and is completely different from either of his previous winning entries. Gale Hunn was Jaycee chairman of the annual event. (Daily News photos)

Efforts to Put Out Fire on Danish Ship Abandoned

SINGAPORE (AP)—Harbor firemen gave up all attempts today to extinguish a fire that has burned since Saturday aboard the 5,720-ton Danish freighter Lexa Mersk.

Capt. Otto Carox, the ship's master, said, “It is now a toss-up whether she will burn herself out or sink or whether the fire will go out.”

The blaze started in a hold as the vessel was leaving Singapore for New York with a cargo of rubber, rosin, teakwood and textiles. Flames swept the length of the ship within six hours. At least 40 persons aboard, including six American tourists, were removed safely.

Flames and clouds of smoke still poured from the freighter today and the hull was caved in to about two feet above the water level on the starboard side. Hundreds of persons watching ring-side seats circled the vessel in hired launches.

The American passengers, who lost all their luggage, said they would continue to Europe for vacations. They are staying at a Singapore hotel and shopping for clothing while awaiting the arrival of another Maersk Line vessel to take them to Genoa, Italy.

In the stranded group of Americans were Misses Grace Beatty of Los Angeles, Calif.; Louise McCune of Columbus, Ohio; Mary Ann Levey of Kansas City, Kan.; and Virginia Dickerson of Macon, N.C. — all until recently employees of the U.S. Army in Tokyo — and Mr. and Mrs. George N. Crocker of San Francisco.

To Question Children In Theft of Yule Bulbs

Four children were to be questioned at police headquarters today regarding the theft of light bulbs from an outdoor Christmas display at the Winona National & Savings Bank.

Patrolman Sylvan Thiel arrested the group at 7:35 p.m. Saturday when he found them removing bulbs from the display. The boys range in age up to about 13.

Although snakes cannot strike as effectively when they are in water, their bites are almost as poisonous under water as on land.

Christmas Warm And White Here

Although somewhat whiter than a year ago, Christmas weather in 1954 wasn't up to par.

Much of the snow that had fallen here earlier this month was gone, and temperatures were above freezing. The high Saturday (Christmas Day) was 42 and Sunday's high was 35. The temperature never got below 24 and at noon today it was 25 degrees. Near International Falls it was -17 this morning.

The weatherman says cloudy skies are expected tonight with occasional snow Tuesday. There's no important change in temperature, however, with a low of 26 expected tonight and a high of 35 degrees Tuesday afternoon.

A year ago, the high-low readings for Christmas Day were 43 and 31 degrees respectively.

At least one Winonan took advantage of the warm Saturday temperatures to wash his car, while several area residents were seen in an outboard on the Mississippi River near Trempealeau Sunday.

In other respects, however, Christmas was about normal. Telephone and telegraph offices reported the usual heavy flow of holiday greetings. About 1,500 outgoing long-distance telephone calls were handled Saturday with all the operators required to work at least part of the day.

Reports from the Winona General Hospital indicated that the city and area missed having any “Christmas babies.” The closest was the daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wiebold, Utica, at 6:43 p.m. Friday.

The end of the Christmas holiday will provide some much-needed rest for clerks in Winona stores, in fact there will be a little extra leisure time as the New Year holiday approaches Saturday. Winona stores, usually open until 9 p.m. on Fridays, will close at 5 p.m. Friday for New Year's Eve. They'll return to regular schedules the following week.

A spot check of various Winona business places this morning indicated that Christmas trade was heavier than a year ago.

One clothing firm executive stated that although more articles were sold in his store, the items were generally less expensive than those sold a year ago.

Other merchants commented on heavy sales the last four or five days before Christmas. Now, the shoppers and recipients of Christmas gifts will have until Jan. 8 to make exchanges.

Report Suggests State Could Double Its Timber Output

ST. PAUL (AP)—A forestry study commission of five senators and five representatives believes that Minnesota could double its output of timber with more intensive management.

The text of a 100-page report is being made into a booklet for the 1955 Legislature.

The legislators made recommendations in the areas of production, marketing and waste through disease, insects, and fire. Research in these fields would be basic to increasing the 162 million dollar value of forest products produced in Minnesota every year, the report says.

Farm forestry on small private lots should be encouraged and made more profitable, partly through establishment of some kind of central market to bring buyer and seller together, the report suggests. This could help the big operator, too.

Industry's expressed desire to enlarge its 700,000 acre holdings to more than a million acres was reported without opposition by the legislative group.

Planting of seedlings ought to increase beyond the 11 million set out last year, the group said. Private nurseries should be encouraged to go into mass-seedling supply along with the state nurseries.

Other recommendations included zoning of lands, new fire laws, state loans to counties, an insect-control fund, establishment of a forest-products laboratory at the University of Minnesota School of Forestry, and a county forestry section in the state conservation department.

Commission members are Senators Herbert Rogers, Duluth, chairman; Leo J. Lauerman, Olivia; Wendell L. Ledin, Bethel; George O'Brien, Grand Rapids; and Thomas D. Vucelich, Gilbert; and Representatives Hubbard, F. C. Kaplan, Aitkin; Walter E. Day, Bagley; Paul L. Eddy, Howland Lake; and A. O. Sundet, Faribault.

It's thrifty to buy a large pork loin or rib; part of it can be cut into chops, the rest used for a roast.

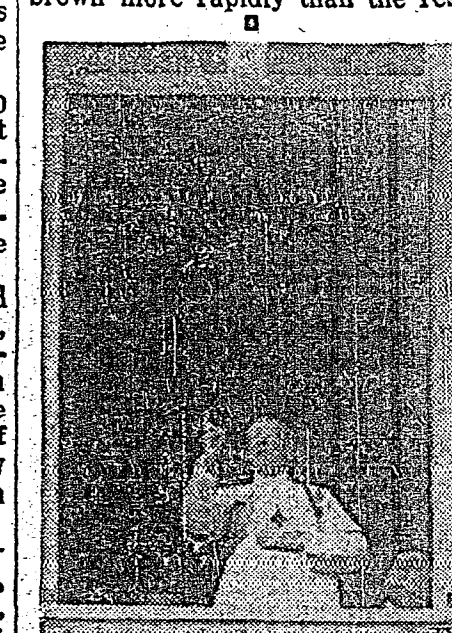

Christmas Day Prison Escapee Still Missing

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Harold Putnam, 38, who escaped Stillwater Prison possibly to play Santa Claus to his family here, was still absent today.

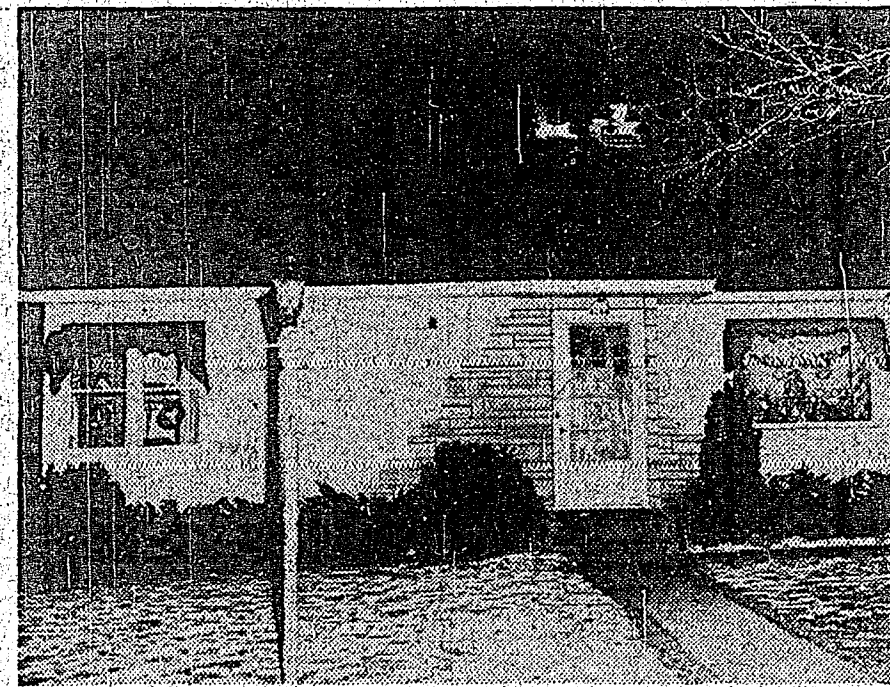

Putnam walked off the prison farm early Christmas morning. He had been sentenced last May to serve up to five years for forgery. A letter from his wife who lives in Minneapolis with a 24-year-old daughter, told of poor circumstances at home and was believed to have inspired Putnam's departure.

Several persons reading about the case Sunday stopped at Mrs. Putnam's apartment with gifts for the child. Detectives say Putnam apparently has not contacted his wife.

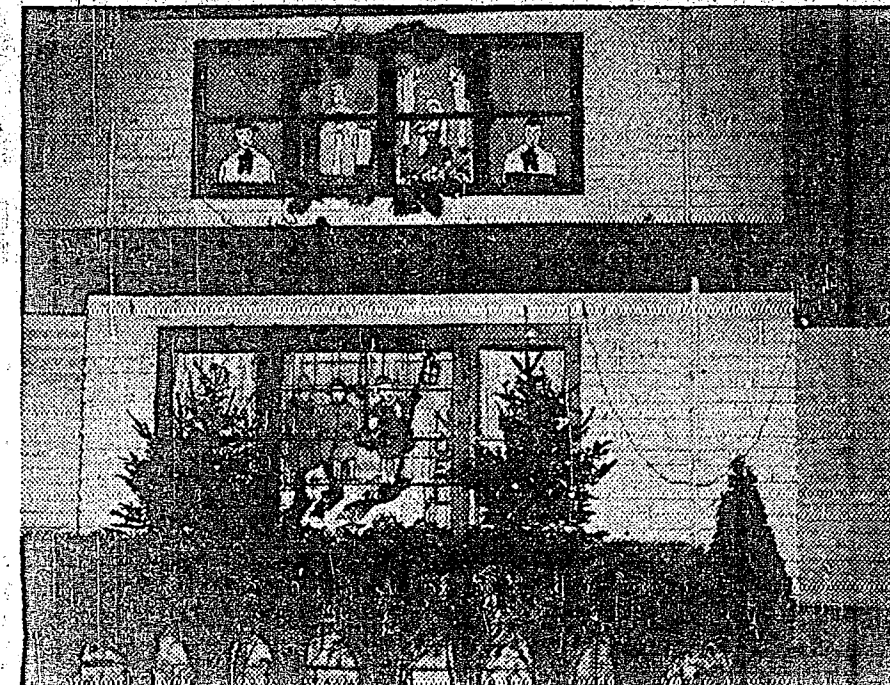

A small-grown turkey, of the Beltsville type, that weighs from four to six pounds (ready to cook) will need 3 to 3½ hours in a slow (325 degrees) oven. Rub the surface of the bird with butter or margarine before roasting; then place pieces of aluminum foil loosely over those parts of the bird that brown more rapidly than the rest.

Santa On The Wing Brought third place in the Jaycee home-lighting contest to the home of Peter Warner, 4044 8th St., Goodview, who wins a $10 merchandise certificate. Judges for the more than 25 entries in the affair Sunday evening were E. J. Bauhuvin, Lucjan Grupa and Argan Johnson, all of Winona.

Youth Got Into The Act again at the home of Ralph B. Flath, 1314 Parkview, whose second-place winning entry was built by a 15-year-old son, David. He is the winner of $15 in merchandise. The nativity scene in second-floor windows follows the “Christ in Christmas” theme, while Charles Dickens' lamp-lighted carolers on the ground floor adds the traditional touch.

Nurse Quickly Uses Butter on Burned Woman

CHATFIELD, Minn. (Special)—Quick action by a nurse wielding a pound of butter was credited with preventing more serious injury to a Chatfield woman who was burned Christmas Day in a kitchen gas explosion.

Mrs. Clarence D. Martin suffered burns on her right arm, right leg and face when the oven in the kitchen of Hotel Chatfield exploded about 3 p.m. Saturday. She operates the hotel dining room.

She was about to prepare a Sunday turkey dinner when the accident occurred. Mrs. Martin said she put her hand into the oven and struck a match when gas that had leaked into the oven exploded. The impact knocked her across the kitchen and set her hair afire.

Her screams for help were heard in the adjacent dining room by Christmas Day guests. One of them, Mrs. Walter Martin, a sister-in-law, who is a nurse, ran to the kitchen, took a pound of butter and smeared it on the injured woman's face.

Mrs. Martin was treated by a doctor for second and third degree burns on the right hand and arm, and minor burns on the right leg. Her hair also was singed, but she was not hospitalized.

Buffalo Co. Sends Plan 'A' Petition

ALMA, Wis. —Petitions requesting that Buffalo County become a part of the Wisconsin state Department of Agriculture.

Unofficial tabulation showed 80 per cent of the herd owners in Buffalo County had signed the petitions. A public hearing will be held in the county courthouse here in January. A notice will be published.

Cigarette License Applications Due

Applications for 1955 city cigarette licenses are due this week, City Recorder Roy C. Wildgrube reminded retailers today.

He'll accept them until 7:30 p.m. Jan. 3, when the City Council will act on them.

Senator to Retire When Hunting's Over

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—United States Sen. A. Willis Robertson, elected to a new six-year term, told an audience here when he was going to retire.

“I'll know when I'm too old to serve you — you won't have to tell me,” the senator said. “That time will be when I'm too old for hunting and fishing.”

Steals Fire Ax To Hack His Way Into 3 Offices

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—A 23-year-old Dearborn, Mich., man stole an ax from a fire station and used it to break into three downtown offices before police, attracted by the chopping noise, arrested him.

Dist. Atty. Donald Bero said Ora A. Harmes, who was taken into custody early Sunday, admitted stealing the ax, other tools and approximately $185. Harmes will be charged with three counts of breaking and entering and four of larceny, Bero said.

Harmes came here for a Christmas visit with relatives. The district attorney said Harmes related he spent Sunday night in a tavern until it closed, then entered a downtown fire station, took the ax and broke into a nearby office building.

Meet on Moral Rearmament to Open Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Believers in Moral Rearmament, an international movement hoping to improve mankind, assemble here Tuesday to explore “an idea to win the world.”

Sponsors expect 1,000 persons from other nations to join participants from this country for the 10-day meeting.

Moral Rearmament was described by DuBois Morris, a spokesman for the movement, as “an ideology for everyone everywhere which aims at remaking the world by remaking mankind.”

Starting with the individual, he said, the guiding principle is the application of “absolute moral standards.”

The assembly theme of a world sweeping “idea” was inspired by a message signed by Vice President Nixon and 94 members of Congress last June, Morris explained. He said the message congratulated Dr. Frank Buchman, founder of the movement, on his birthday for providing “a unifying idea of the nations that can turn the ideological tide in the world today.”

Morris said speakers on the Moral Rearmament program, which includes panel discussions and plays, will represent many areas of the world.

Employment Service To Resume Visits To Wabasha Jan. 5

Itinerant service to residents of Wabasha County will be resumed in January by the Minnesota Department of Employment Security, Stanley S. Hammer, manager of the Winona office, said today.

A representative of his office will be at the City Hall at Wabasha at 10 a.m. Jan. 5 and alternating Wednesday mornings thereafter.

Service to Wabasha County was discontinued last spring, when traffic reached a level at which it was impractical to continue.

Persons wishing information on the several services offered by the employment service, such as applying for work, filing unemployment compensation claims and employer services, should contact the employment representative at Wabasha, said Hammer.

Lake Winona Ice Rink Open Again

The ice skating rink at Lake Winona has been reopened for public use today, M. J. Bambenek, director of parks and recreation, announced this afternoon.

The rink, opened earlier this month, was closed last weekend when thawing weather left the ice in poor condition.

Bambenek said that when colder weather arrives refreezing of the other city skating rinks will be undertaken.

The Lake Winona rink is the only one open for use today.

Asian-African Convention Talks Open Tuesday

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Premiers Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, Jawaharlal Nehru of India and U Nu of Burma arrived here today for five-nation talks to plan an Asian-African Convention.

Ceylon's Prime Minister, Sir John Kotelawala, is getting in early Tuesday. Indonesian premier Ali Sastroamidjojo is the host for the conference, to open Tuesday in Bogor, the summer capital 35 miles south of Jakarta. The projected African-Asian Convention is tentatively scheduled for February.

Special security measures have been taken at Bogor. That city of 50,000 is on the edge of country ridden by rebel Moslem bands.

The Pakistani Premier told newsmen that he expected the Bogor conference to do no more than draw up an agenda for the larger talks and select the countries to be invited.

“But if there are other matters of mutual interest to be discussed this time I will be happy to discuss them, too,” he said.

In Singapore, 2,000 Indians chanted “Victory Nehru” and surged against police cordons as the Indian leader and U Nu halted briefly on their flight to Indonesia.

Nehru waved aside questions. U Nu told newsmen he thought the meeting would take important decisions.

Thurley Homes Fully Occupied

Total occupancy of the 160-unit Arthur C. Thurley Homes was achieved this morning.

Executive Director Arthur A. Gallien said the lease for the last available apartment was signed today by John Ramsey. An employee of the Badger Machine Co., Ramsey, his wife and daughter have been reading on Lake boulevard.

The first tenant was admitted to the low-rent housing project March 20.

Winona Youth, 19, Tavernkeeper Fined $25 Each

ALMA, Wis. (Special)—A Winona youth and a Buffalo County tavernkeeper were fined $25 and costs each on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The fines were levied Thursday by County Judge G. L. Pattison.

Frank J. Budnick, 19, Winona, admitted giving his identification card to a minor; also of Winona, he purchased beer at the Czechville Tavern at the junction of Highways 35 and 88. Operator of the tavern is Ervin Kennebeck.

No Serious Accidents Mar Christmas Here

Driver in 3-Car Mishap Contesting Drunken Charge

No serious accidents were added to Winona's 1954 traffic record during the long Christmas weekend. Several collisions — one of them involving three cars — were reported to police during the weekend but in none was anyone injured.

The three-car crash occurred late Sunday afternoon at Highway 61 and Lenox street and involved cars driven by Ronald Mallets, La Crosse; August Gernhardt, Red Top Cabins, and Ruden Sparrow, 164 W. Broadway.

Gernhardt, 68, was arrested by police, who investigated the accident at 5:05 p.m., on a charge of drunken driving.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge in municipal court this morning and trial of the case was set for Wednesday. Bond was placed at $125.

Each driver reported $150 damage to his car.

Senski reported $5 damage to his car.

Donald Buck, 5873 6th St., Goodview, told police that his car was damaged when it was struck by another car at East 3rd and Carriana streets at 6:15 p.m. Dec. 17.

Buck said that the driver of the other vehicle did not stop after the mishap.

Elmer Hammann, 607 Walnut St., told police that his station wagon was damaged by another vehicle while it was parked from 1 to 6 p.m. Thursday.

70-Mile-an-Hour Winds Whipping South California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Winds up to 70 miles an hour whipped southern California today, topping power lines and billboards and slowing traffic.

As the winds rose, humidity dropped and the Los Angeles fire department described the fire hazard as “really dangerous.”

A 2½-million dollar blaze burned through the Fullerton citrus warehouse district.

The 70-mile-an-hour blasts were recorded at Ontario. The wind whistling west from the desert virtually stalled traffic on highways in the Beaumont-Banning area.

Gales lashed Cajon Pass and upper canyons of the San Bernardino and San Gabriel mountains.

Wind velocity was expected to increase.

Immigration Checks in Refugee Law Praised

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) today praised immigration checks in the refugee law and defended R. W. Scott McLeod, whose administration of the act has been criticized by others.

Walter is second ranking Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee and helped to write the McCarran-Walter Basic Immigration Law.

The Judiciary Committee's chairman-to-be, Rep. Celler (R-NY), returned from a five-week overseas tour this month with sharp criticism for McLeod, the State Department's security chief.

"A good law," Celler said, "has been prostituted by the insane, arbitrary and savage administration thereof by Mr. Scott McLeod."

Walter said in an interview that attacks on McLeod for his admin-

Christmas Fires All Burning Turkeys

EASTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—Fire records today showed three alarms were sounded Christmas Day.

All were for turkeys burning in ovens.

Illustration of the slow-moving special refugee program are "entirely unwarranted and unjustified."

The Pennsylvania, who had a hand in drafting the 1953 act, said McLeod is "just administering the law" and declared that restrictions in it are "safeguarding the best interests of the United States."

The law, signed Aug. 7, 1953, authorizes admission to this country of 214,000 refugees outside the regular immigration quotas during the three years ending Dec. 31, 1956.

Latest figures from the State Department show that, as of Dec. 17, only 18,081 immigration visas had been issued under the program, and only a fraction of these visa-holders have actually arrived in the United States.

The State Department has said the chief reason for the slow start was the need to set up machinery.

Soldier Killed as Second Driver Hits Parked Car

LEVELLAND, Tex. (AP)—Highway Patrolman Henry Crump gave this account of a car wreck yesterday:

Army Pfc. Carl Preston Peek, 20, of Midland, Tex., pulled off the road near here, evidently to sleep. A car driven by Lonnie Cole, 26, of O'Donnell, Tex., hit Peek's car head-on.

The patrolman quoted Cole as saying he went to sleep at the wheel.

Peek was killed, Cole and five passengers injured.

There's a New Look on Minnesota Highways

Are you interested in the city where an automobile is licensed as indicated by the new look on the maroon and gold license plates of the State of Minnesota for 1955?

For the first time, the license plates indicate through letters of the alphabet in which congressional district and which city in that district, the automobile owner resides.

Because of the interest in the registrations, we are publishing herewith the entire list of designations as obtained from Andrew M. Lipinski, deputy registrar of motor vehicles in Winona. If you would like a folder containing these listings, drop a note to The Winona Daily News:

Portraits

By JAMES J. METCALFE
How much am I in need of you... That life be not in vain? ... As much as crops and flowers need... The sunshine and the rain... As every heart must have its beat... And every lung its air... And babies cannot do without you as much... As friendship cannot live... Unless there is that willingness... To sacrifice and give... As much as sails depend upon... The wind that sweeps the sea... In all these ways and more, my love... You mean so much to me... Without encouragement from you... I could not ever thrive... Without your promise to be true... I could not stay alive.

Military Decisions Not for Amateurs

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
NEW YORK — Military decisions, like surgical decisions, are not to be made by amateurs. A good guess might occasionally succeed but in these highly technical fields an error can be irretrievable. An error today as to the military defenses of the United States could be so tragic that three centuries of achievement could become a chapter in recent history.

It is for that reason that one dreads to write about military matters, except as they have occurred in the past. Yet certain facts do stand out clearly and certain hypotheses may be discussed if for no other reason than to seek enlightenment.

ONE HISTORIC FACT is that the weapons that were most successful in some wars may be of no value whatsoever in succeeding wars. For instance, the bow and arrow is no longer an acceptable weapon of war, nor is the lance, nor is chain armor, although they all served well in their day. Similarly the U-boat of World War I is outmoded and inadequate for World War II. TNT was a terrific invention when it was developed in World War I but the atom bomb and later the hydrogen bomb reduced it comparatively to a stick of dynamite.

The lay citizen therefore asks, "What about the infantry?" Do the infantry generals really believe that during the next war, foot soldiers will be employed in mass formations, like Caesar's phalanxes, or in trenches, like Hindenburg's troops, or in long-line guerrilla warfare, like Marion's bands in our Revolutionary war? Obviously under air-planes, equipped to drop modern bombs, such infantry troops would be sitting ducks to be wiped out by the spit of a nuclear cannon.

It is suggested by some that the infantry will still continue to be the best military arm because after the more modern weapons have done their work, conquered territory will be occupied and held.

There again, the layman faces great difficulties because he has never experienced a war of the new, unorthodox weapons. For that matter, the military man has never experienced such a war either. His decisions have to be made partly out of his imagination and partly out of his studies of the capabilities of these weapons none of which have been tried in actual war but many of which have had experimental trials. The military man certainly knows more about these weapons than we laymen do.

BUT WHAT CONFUSES us is that the great soldiers do not agree among themselves and are at loggerheads as to how the defense dollar should be spent to the best advantage of the American people. These men are not log-rolling politicians; they are professional, objective students of the science and art of war and are, with the rarest exceptions, incapable of selfishness when they speak professionally. The layman, however, does not have that variety of training and varieties of experience have produced differences of view.

For instance, naval and air force men can envisage the end of the usefulness of infantry in time of war except as a salvage and police force. They cannot foresee a war between Soviet Russia and the United States in which long lines of infantry will face each other on the plains of Manchuria or will try to pass through the Pripiet Marshes. Instead they see bombing action by atomic weapons and the advanced use of guided missiles and the rapid destruction of cities, so rapid and so thorough that no infantry could, for months, enter the area because of the heat and the "vapors" that destroy themselves. In such circumstances, what would an infantry of 10,000, 000 or 15,000,000 foot soldiers do but get in the way?

On the other hand, the foot soldier generals continue to fight for a huge infantry, including a vast reserve, taking roughly 10 years, on service or in reserve, of the lives of our sons. Some of the new proposals indicate that there is to be a politically disguised universal military training.

While military secrets should not voluntarily be disclosed, although the enemy does manage to get them anyhow, nevertheless it would seem advisable for the American people to know more about all this than we do.

Pope Pius XII Is Man Of Great Understanding

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — I shall never forget my audience with Pope Pius XII. It is difficult to describe one's impression upon meeting him—great gentleness, great depth of understanding, deep insight. But most of all I came away thinking that if our government leaders could have his understanding, peace would not be the elusive thing it is today.

I have been thinking about that audience during the Christmas season—obviously not a very happy Christmas for those in the Vatican worried about His Holiness' health. The Vatican is a matchless setting for this entirely different and equally compelling man. You pass by the Swiss guards with their striped uniforms, holding their efficient-looking halberds, then up a broad flight of stairs, across a courtyard and up more stairs to a reception room filled with soldiers, whose uniforms, designed by Michelangelo, become progressively more magnificent as you move from one room to another.

Then, after a wait in the final anteroom, His Holiness entered. You could not help contrast the magnificence of the rooms with his simplicity, his aesthetic face, his magnetic personality.

The Pope's Humor
It was easy to understand why students of the Vatican agree that Pius XII will go down in history as one of the greatest Pontiffs in the 2,000-year tradition of his religion as well as one of the most brilliant men of his time.

It was also easy to understand the truth of a story told about his audience with a group of Genoese pilgrims, when a small boy, kneeling for his blessing, suddenly looked up at the kindly Pontiff and blurted out:

"Holy Father, when I grow up I'm going to be like you, I'm going to be Pope."

"There was a shocked silence. But Pius smiled.

"Ah, my son, you do not know what you wish for yourself," he said.

The Pope's sprightly sense of humor also manifested itself when, at Castel Gandolfo, the Vatican summer residence, a great throng of pilgrims had gathered for his blessing.

Pius speaks so many languages that he seldom has need of an interpreter. So he began addressing each bloc of pilgrims in their own language. He spoke to one group in French, another in German, another in Spanish, until the meeting became like a game, with various foreign contingents humorously challenging the Pope to say something in their tongue.

Pius joined in good-naturedly, continuing the linguistic welcomes until he had spoken in English, Polish, Hungarian, Dutch and Portuguese. Finally, a pilgrim with a River Liffey accent standing in a group the Pontiff had overlooked, spoke up.

"Your Holiness, we are from Ireland."

With a laugh, the Pope promptly said "cead mille failte," Gaelic for "a hundred thousand welcomes."

His Economic Views
Pius XII is frequently compared with his immediate predecessors Pius XI and Leo XIII, both of whom were known for their social consciousness. All three thought along the same economic and political lines and did not hesitate to speak with great frankness.

Leo XIII and Pius XI were noted for their "de rerum novarum" and "quadragesimo anno" encyclicals, which spoke against economic exploitation of the workingman and the unfair distribution of wealth.

Pius XII was quite blunt on the subject, declaring:

"The discrepancy between wealth and misery cannot be tolerated by the Christian conscience."

Christmas Both Fun And a Bore

By MAL BOYLE
HOMETOWN, U.S.A. — "Is Christmas really fun—or is it just an annual bore?" asked Trellis Mae Peeble, helpmate of America's most hapless male.

"It is both," said her husband, Wilbur, as they surveyed the rubble left in their apartment from a weekend spent in celebrating the arrival of Santa Claus and the visit of four relatives.

"Don't go mystical on me," said Trellis Mae. "We have to be practical. There are a dozen presents here in the wrong colors or the wrong sizes that have to be exchanged. And I'm tired and you'll have to do it."

"Oh, no I won't," replied Wilbur. "That is wife's work."

"Why, after all the years we've been married," demanded Trellis Mae, "do you have to be so dull as to say that something that involves us both is the wife's work?"

"Well," replied Wilbur sturdily, "the exchange of Christmas presents does happen to be a wife's job, and that's it, that's the fact, that's the way it is and always has been, and darn it anyway, I say, either keep a present or throw it away."

"Oh, if you think I am going to keep some of these monstrosities, you're crazy," said Trellis Mae. "But even if people can't get things in the right color, why can't they get them in the right size?"

"Because people are people, and most of the Christmas presents they buy are bought to fit their own ego rather than yours, and

"Don't be cynical, Wilbur. The house is already so messed up."

"I'm not being cynical. But you asked me."

"Wilbur, I don't want to be difficult. But I have such a feeling of letdown after Christmas. Are we different from other people?"

"I'm not sure I know what you mean. What do you mean?"

"Maybe I'm just acting like a woman," she said.

"No, you're not acting in that respect," he replied.

"All right, then, I am a woman," flared Trellis Mae. "But why do I feel wrong about Christmas?"

"Nobody but you say you feel wrong about Christmas."

"But I do feel wrong."

"Why?"

"Oh, it's a matter of colors and sizes, and they're all mixed up in an atmosphere of good will and all that, but it's still largely an ego reflection and . . ."

"When I said that same thing a moment ago you bawled me out."

"Oh, shut up, Wilbur. Why am I mad at Christmas?"

Silently he pulled his wife over to the Christmas tree, bent it down, brushed the hunched star against the tips of his wife and his own lips, then kissed his wife for a long moment and told her:

"Well, Trellis Mae, wrong tree, wrong star, wrong guy, wrong girl, wrong Christmas, and . . ."

"Oh, Wilbur," she said, pulling him toward her with no complaint left in her voice. "Wilbur. . . Wilbur. . . Wilbur."

THE WORLD TODAY

France Wrestles With German Pact

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The French Legislators today wrestle with their conscience and their temper in a final vote on whether to let West Germany rearm. They voted against it Friday. They can reverse themselves today.

The vote is on a plan which, while letting Germany rearm, is intended to keep her from becoming a menace to her neighbors again.

Under this plan a rearmament Germany would be brought into NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—which now has 14 members, including the United States, Britain, France.

The NATO nations have a joint military staff planning the defense of Western Europe against Russia. And NATO would have jurisdiction over a Germany rearmament, France, as a NATO member, therefore have a say-so.

The French conscience—The French naturally fear the Germans who have invaded them three times in less than 100 years. They fear what Germany, once it became a military power, might do again.

The present French fears in the end may be justified. A number of things could happen: NATO itself might break up; Germany might turn from the West and make a deal with Russia. Other events could pull Germany from under NATO's thumb.

But the reason France is in NATO is to create a defense against Russia. The French know NATO would be stronger with Germany in it. They have the problem of choosing between future fears and present strength.

The United States and Britain both want Germany in NATO. Both want the French Assembly to approve. After last week's "no" vote, Britain in effect told the French: Germany is going to rearm anyway, with or without French approval.

The Eisenhower administration, which didn't go as far publicly, no doubt thinks the same.

If the United States and Britain help Germany rearm, it may have to be done in a way which provides for no control or jurisdiction. That provides another problem for the French.

Although they fear the Germans, is it better to let them have guns, so long as they're under NATO's eye, than to sit back and watch them get guns with perhaps no controls?

Although the French seem unwilling or unable to face the fact they no longer are a major world power, they nevertheless enjoy a senior partnership in the Western world with the United States and Britain.

They may lose that seniority, sliding down the international totem pole to a truly secondary position, if they vote "no" and the United States and Britain rearm the Germans independently of France.

But France has a card here: They know the United States and Britain can't turn their backs on France altogether. She's too important to Western defense and alliance.

The French temperament—The French, torn among themselves, were no match for Germany in 1940. They are still torn among themselves. The new enemy is Russia. They played into Russia's hands by voting "no" last week. The Russians have worked overtime trying to wreck the plans for rearming Germany.

Even in a time of danger like this it would be understandable, if not excusable, if Friday's vote was a matter of conscience only.

It wasn't. France is split seven ways to Sunday with political parties and cliques.

In Friday's vote there was a lot of political conniving against the French Premier, Mendes-France, who asked for a rearmament Germany. He is the strongest premier since the war, the only one who seems to have had a sturdy sense of direction.

If today's vote is still against rearming Germany, bringing with it the fall of Mendes-France's government, the French will start stumbling and drifting again, looking for another premier.

Father Takes His Christmas Present Shopping

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.
SALT LAKE CITY, (AP) — Mike Katsanevas, 66, took his children shopping today—but he wasn't just looking for after-Christmas bargains.

He wanted practical coats and trousers and dresses and shoes, all right. But at the same time, he was showing six of his children a new way to live, the way he has learned to live in America.

The children arrived yesterday from Greece — Mike's Christmas present from his coworkers at the Clearfield Naval Supply Depot, where he is a janitor.

This was the first time he had seen them in seven years, since he left Crete.

Three children came with Mike then, but he had to leave his wife and seven other sons and daughters behind. He got a job as a janitor at the naval supply depot north of here. He prayed and he saved—but he never could get together enough money to bring the rest of the family over.

Then Mike's fellow workers decided on his Christmas present. They raised $2,500, and that was enough.

The family started, but in Athens Mrs. Katsanevas was detained for about a month because of a minor illness. The six children came on by plane. Another son, George, 21, will join the family when he finishes a hitch in the Greek army.

Mike couldn't say much when the airliner landed and his children ran out—he just laughed and cried. His friends standing behind the runway fence didn't say much either—they just grinned.

The thin little father tried to gather all six children into his arms at once. Then he and the other three—James, a U. S. airman first class now home on leave; a daughter, Kalliope, 13, and Manuel, 16—posed for pictures with them. And between shots they turned and hugged Leonidas, 17, Irene, 14, Nicholas, 13, Areto, 11, Stylianos, 10, and Stavroula, 8. As soon as he could, Mike got EVERY once in a while a wild Ring-Around-the-Rosy policy pops up in the American scene. Most people remember a really weird one during the Roosevelt administration, when the CCC camps were established for the main purpose of preserving our forests. So the government cut down millions of board-feet of lumber to build log cabins and big wooden barracks for the CCC boys all over the country. And no one ever figured out how many more board-feet of lumber were used to house the Conservation boys than they actually conserved.

Equally topsy-turvy is a policy proposed by the present Department of Agriculture to use up the hundreds of millions of pounds (almost 600,000,000) of surplus dried milk stored in government warehouses. The idea, it seems, is to use this surplus dried milk in cattle feed and thus feed it right back into the cows. To date we haven't yet heard of a proposal to use surplus eggs in poultry feed and get the eggs back into the hens, but who knows?

The whole thing reminds one of the story of the man who applied for relief. In due time an investigator was sent out to check up on the applicant and find out if he really needed relief. The investigator found the man owned a little plot of ground on which was a small hayfield, and he also owned a horse.

And speaking of weird policies, here's one that must stump many people who have read the dazzling prose in the ads of this year's automobiles. Most new cars proclaim proudly, solemnly, that their horsepower has been enormously increased and that their cars are now capable of far greater speed.

Well, in most states of the union 50 or 60 miles per hour is the speed limit and if you go faster you are liable

1. To get yourself killed.
2. To get yourself arrested.

It is a proven fact that 75 horsepower is sufficient to carry six people along at 55 or more miles per hour. Why then stick under the hood a hundred or more extra horsepower?

It seems to us that the National Safety Council is going at its job backward. Why doesn't the eminent Council stop scolding us poor beat-up motorists for a while and lecture the automobile industry on the way it's breaking its neck to turn out speedier, more powerful cars with which we can break our necks more easily?

meeting at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 4 at the courthouse, according to Carl Harmon, secretary.

Britain Orders U.S. Divorcee to Leave Country

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — An American divorcee ordered out of Britain sought temporary haven here today and blamed American "pressure" for her plight. U.S. officials denied any part in the case.

The woman, 32-year-old Mrs. Jean Butler, flew here yesterday with her British fiance, Clive Jenkins, a British trade union official. She plans to marry him here when her divorce becomes final in February, then return with him to England as a British citizen.

Mrs. Butler has been in Britain for the past five years, employed recently as a curator at a London museum. The British Home Office had refused to extend her residence permit and warned that she must leave the country by Dec. 28 or be deported.

The Home Office declined to discuss the case but said "such action is made when it is conducive to the public good."

Mrs. Butler was divorced Dec. 22 from J. Jordan Butler, an American archaeologist living in Britain. She said previously "there is certainly no question of security involved, and there never before has been any question about extending my permit to stay in Britain."

Mrs. Butler has said she did not want to return to the United States because of former trade union affiliations.

Merchants Seek Record Sales After Holidays

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—With a record Christmas out of the way—except for the bills which the merchants will mail out next week—businessmen today are after another record: Post-Christmas sales.

Bargain sales are starting early in many of the nation's stores. The big Chicago mail order houses have their midwinter sales catalogues in the mails this week. They are liberally studded with price cuts from the listings in the fall general catalogues.

Department stores are launching their bargain sales early this year. Merchants are taking note of the increasing custom of using gift certificates or putting cash in family stockings.

That means there are a lot of folk today with money burning holes in their pockets. Many a retailer is eager to tap this flow of cash before it goes to a competitor.

And Christmas sales volume showed that people had money to spend and were in a mood to spend it this year.

More people than usual, however, were putting the tab for their Christmas generosity on the cuff. Merchants interpret this as revealing a "better feeling" about the economic outlook. They hope that—with a little prodding from bargain sales—consumers are in the mood now to take some more big ticket items on time.

But with the Christmas bills coming in next week and the installment payments starting next month, New Year's Day may be a sobering occasion for many a consumer.

Consumers plunked out—or agreed to pay later—17 billion dollars this month, according to Dun & Bradstreet. This pushes Yuletide spending to an all time high.

And more expensive presents were bought—with auto dealers happily rolling up new models before many families' doors. For merchants say there were more fur coats under Christmas trees this year than in the last five seasons.

Bank clearings hit a record high—showing that not every shopper was asking merchants to put it on the cuff. Money in circulation also went to a new high.

Hopes that the business spurt will continue into next month are big. The biggest drag will be the usual post-Christmas rise in unemployment.

But this increase may be held down some this time. The auto makers, for example, are scheduling heavy production for January. The steel mills have enough orders to keep going along at a good clip. A number of other industries also may keep to the increased pace they started a few weeks ago.

Factory layoffs have been unseasonably low, the Labor Department reports, building hopes that the pickup in industrial output will continue. More call-backs to work than usual are reported.

The National Assn. of Purchasing Agents reports that the total of new orders is still rising at the nation's factories.

The U. S. Department of Labor says the number of mechanics and repairmen has doubled in the past 10 years.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggly, in his hollow stump bungalow, was very busy on several days after Christmas. The rabbit gentleman, with the pink, twinkling nose, was kept busy mending and fixing some of the many toys which Santa Claus had sent to the rabbit girls and boys.

Some of the broken toys were easily mended. Those that were not so easily fixed, Mr. Longears gave to Mr. Whitewash, the jolly Polar bear gentleman, who was visiting the rabbit uncle. Mr. Whitewash was too big to fit into Uncle Wiggly's bungalow. The Polar bear lived, while on his visit, in a snow block igloo, on North Pole house. Mr. Whitewash worked in the toy shop of Santa Claus, at the North Pole. So the white bear knew how to mend all sorts of broken Christmas toys.

Uncle Wiggly, sitting in the room where still stood the Christmas tree, heard a knock sounded on the door.

"Come in, please," the rabbit gentleman invited.

"Thank you, Uncle Wiggly," a voice answered. "I am too busy to come in, thank you. But Mr. Butter is here and wants to see you."

"Send him in," said Uncle Wiggly. "Tell Pat Butter, my grocery store goat friend, to come in, Nurse Jane."

"I told Mr. Butter that you were mending some of the children's Christmas toys," said the muskrat lady, housekeeper. "He said he did not want to bother you."

"He will not bother me," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I have just finished mending Buster's toy train. It is all fixed and will run again. So Pat may come in. I have no other toys to mend right away."

"Hi, Wiggy!" greeted the goat gentleman as he pranced into the Christmas tree room.

"Hi, Pat!" answered Uncle Wiggly.

"Don't let me bother you, Wiggy," went on the goat politely.

"You aren't bothering me at all, Pat. I have just finished mending Buster's broken toy train."

"Was there much the matter with the train, Wiggy?"

"Nothing much. The engine of Buster's train puffs out what looks like smoke when it is running on the track."

"Isn't it real smoke, Wiggy?"

"No, it's just make believe."

Uncle Wiggly held out the toy train engine for the goat to look at. "In this hole," went on Mr. Longears, "Buster just drops sort of pill. Then, when he winds up the spring of the engine, and puts it on the track, in front of the cars, the engine starts running. It pulls the cars, it whistles and the pill that Buster drops in, turns into something like smoke."

"That's quite a fine toy train," said Mr. Butter as he looked at both ends and both sides of the engine.

"It's a fine train," agreed Uncle Wiggly.

"Mr. Whitewash brought the toy train from the North Pole workshop of Santa Claus. My Polar bear friend brought many other toys from Santa Claus for my rabbit girls and boys. But Buster's toy train was one of the best I think."

"What was the matter with it that you had to mend it?" asked the goat gentleman.

"Something was wrong with the pill smoke part," answered Mr. Longears. "But I have it fixed now. When Buster comes in, from his coasting fun, his toy train will be as good as ever. I'll hitch the engine to the cars now, put the train on the track, drop in a smoke pill and Buster can start the train. The engine will whistle and puff out smoke. There, it is all ready to run," said Uncle Wiggly.

He put the engine and cars on the track. It was a large track and was in a circle, all around the Christmas tree room.

When Mr. Longears had made the train ready to run, Nurse Jane suddenly called to the rabbit gentleman:

"You are wanted on the telephone, Uncle Wiggly."

"Excuse me, Pat," said Mr. Longears. "I'll be right back. You sit here and look at the Christmas tree."

Uncle Wiggly talked on the telephone to the Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School. Just as he finished, Mr. Longears heard Mr. Butter, in the Christmas Tree room shouting something strange. You shall hear about it tomorrow if the icicle doesn't tickle the snowball so it laughs enough to melt the butter.

Humphrey Asks Investigation of Ladejinsky Firing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Min.) says Congress should determine whether the firing of a U. S. land reform expert in Japan "is a tip-off of a major change in United States policy" in this field.

Humphrey said last night the ouster of Wolf Ladejinsky as U. S. agricultural attaché in Tokyo raises a question "whether or not more is behind this than just a personnel action."

He urged a congressional investigation, suggesting the action might reflect "a policy change" about which he hasn't been informed.

The firing of Ladejinsky, a native of Russia closely identified with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's land reform program in Japan, was announced last week by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Ladejinsky was removed on security and technical grounds after his file was reviewed when control of his post was shifted from the State to the Agriculture Department.

Humphrey, in a statement, cited

Stored Dynamite Mysteriously Explodes

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—One hundred and fifty pounds of dynamite stored in a tiny metal shack on an isolated prairie three miles south of here blew up last night, jolting a section of West Texas.

The only casualty reported was a woman knocked down when her door was blown open. She was treated for bruises.

What caused the blast was a mystery. The magazine was owned by the T. B. Tripp and Sons oil and construction firm.

past United States support for some land reform programs in the Far East and added:

"There has been an apparent reluctance on the part of our government to maintain its leadership in this field and to do anything to implement our announced policies."

Humphrey said he had asked Benson and Secretary of State Dulles whether Ladejinsky's firing has policy significance.

Ladejinsky, he said, "has been a symbol in Asia of America's concern for the people . . . and it certainly seems unwise to destroy a symbol of hope to people we are trying to win to the side of democracy."

ALSOPS

illogically, that first brought home to me the formidable character of the Viet Minh achievement. For where would you find a more thorough Communist propaganda trick than this obvious demonstration of the brotherhood of "Peace Fighters?"

And yet where would you find a better proof of the Viet Minh success than these dancers, perfecting their performance with trained enthusiasm, and including two of the mercenaries brought there by the French to Indochina to destroy the Viet Minh? What careful organization and what power to inspire emotion, must have been needed to produce this single trivial result of five posturing, chanting young men, who were so obviously convinced and delighted by their solemn humorless Communist dance!

A far longer report would be needed to describe the Viet Minh methods in details but two sets of facts will help to convey their remarkable character. One of the questions I asked the high Viet Minh officials who came to talk with me before deciding to let me go home again, was how they managed to provision the very large army in their zone without making it a burden to the peasantry.

They replied, that it had really been very hard until two years ago, when the inflation of the Viet Minh currency had forced the substitution of rice taxes for money taxes. The changeover had really gone very well—here Dr. Vinh, the local former secretary of the treasury, smiled as George Humphrey might have smiled over the passage of last year's new tax bill.

Tax on Rice
The average tax of just over 20 per cent of rice production had not proven too burdensome for the villagers. The inflation had been immediately rolled back, so that the exchange rate of the Ho Chi Minh piastre against the French piastre dropped from 150 down to forty to one. And rice storage, which they had been very worried about, turned out to be no problem at all.

Government granaries were of course out of the question because of the danger of French air attacks. So when the taxes were paid in, the peasants' patriotic associations in each village nominated certain trustworthy villagers to hold the government grain. That way, the treasury, like everything else in the region, was ideally dispersed.

The army too was normally dispersed as well as kept on the move. When a company entered a village, the company commanders simply presented the necessary rice receipts to the village grainholders. The government rice was paid out again to feed and pay the soldiers; and that was that, except when troops were being collected for a big offensive operation. Then the peasants of the surrounding region would be asked to transport extra government rice to the main concentration points. How primitive—yet how marvelously efficient! And what rigid discipline, and what general loyalty must have been needed to make such a system work without cheating or pilferage by soldiers or villagers! As to the existence of this discipline and belief, the bleak statistics of the life of the men I chiefly talked with gave proof enough of that. All might have been living comfortably or even richly as city bourgeois. All were living as poor peasants, although at least two were very high officials of the Viet Minh state. All got approximately the same state salaries—enough rice to eat plus enough more rice to pay for a little fish and vegetables with an issue of black cloth to make two pyjama uniforms a year. This much, for years of constant danger, they had been passionately contented. To them, it had been fully worth it. Smiling a little thinly, Dr. Vinh remarked to me just before we parted "We started from zero. In 1945 when I joined the resistance, we had nothing, nothing. And now we have almost everything and it will not be long before all Viet Nam is ours." He was, alas, only too probably bang right.

Walter Benike, Bride at Home In Rochester

HOUSTON, Minn. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Benike are now at home at 1143 1st St. NW, Rochester, Minn., following a wedding trip to Ft. Campbell, Ky., where they visited the bride's brother who is with the 11th Air Bomber Division, and his wife. The bride is the former Dorothy Agnes Waletzke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Waletzke, Houston Rt. 1, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Benike, Elgin, Minn.

They were married by the Rev. James Speck at St. John's Catholic Church, Rochester, Nov. 3 at 10 a.m. Miss Phyllis Schneider, Rochester, sang and Miss Betty Ryan, Rochester, was organist. Pompoms in fall colors decorated the church.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz-length satin gown with net and Chantilly lace overskirt. A Dutch bonnet trimmed with seed pearls held her nylon net veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white pompoms. Her pearl necklace and earrings were gifts of the bridegroom.

Miss Mary Carey, Austin, Minn., as maid of honor was in pale yellow net and satin, and carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations and white pompoms and the bridesmaid, Miss Doris Ferguson, Utica, was in peacock blue lace and satin, and carried yellow carnations and white pompoms. They wore matching headresses.

John Horter, Minneapolis, was his brother-in-law's best man and Larry Sass, Chaffield, was groomsmen. Ushers were Welden Egger, Rochester, and Carl Henningsen, Chicago.

The bride's mother wore navy with black accessories and the bridegroom's mother, blue-gray with black accessories. They wore corsages of red roses and white carnations.

A reception for 75 guests was held at the Seton Guild, Rochester. The wedding cake centered the bridal table. Mrs. Weldon Egger, Rochester, served the cake. Miss Judith Zeimer, Dodge Center, poured; Mrs. Richard Christensen, Waseca, was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. John Horter, Minneapolis, and the Misses Cordelia and Joyce Benike, Rochester, sisters of the bridegroom, were in charge of the gifts.

For travel, the bride wore a blue suit with black accessories and red rose corsage. She is a graduate of Lewiston High School, and is employed at St. Mary's Hospital. The bridegroom, graduate of Rochester High School, is employed on his father's farm. Prenuptial parties were given by Mrs. Richard Christensen and Mrs. Welden Egger. Mrs. Philip Waletzke was hostess at a luncheon following the wedding rehearsal and Mrs. Herman Selim, aunt of the bridegroom, entertained for the couple upon their return from their trip.

FROM ARKANSAW
GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—Mrs. Dora Thompson is home after a visit of three weeks at Clarksville, Ark., where she was a guest at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Kohler.

South Wales Visitor 'Working Way 'Round World'

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—Not "working her way through college" but actually working as she goes around the world, is the unusual plan of Miss Margaret Evans, Port Talbot, South Wales, who recently visited at the home of Mrs. William Hunter for two weeks. She is now in Canada. Mrs. Hunter met the traveler as the two journeyed from Australia to England early this year when Mrs. Hunter was returning from a visit to her birthplace in New Zealand.

While visiting here, Miss Evans and Mrs. Hunter made plans for a return to New Zealand in 1956, to take a hiking trip through the mountains of that country. Mrs. Hunter as May Bull spent her early years at Christchurch, N. Z., coming here as a child with her family.

Working when in need of funds, and going on to other scenes when she wishes, is the simple travel-plan of the Welsh woman. In that manner she has really seen the world since 1950. Besides the down-under countries, she visited Colombia, India, Aden in Saudi Arabia, and Egypt. Plans now are for an extended stay in Canada, a brief visit here again in spring, and a journey into Mexico and possibly the Bahamas. She plans to be back in Wales "in a twelve-month."

Of her unusual travel scheme, Miss Evans insisted that it's easy and that anyone willing to work can see the world. "I could write a book about it," she said in her broad speech.

She told briefly of work as a cook-housekeeper on a "small sheep station" of 40,000 acres in Australia, of being governess to a small child, of seeing a "bush-fire" along a 20-mile front, and of living where no rain had fallen in four years.

At one place in Australia she was 96 miles from the nearest town. Work in homes, shops which she called "shaws," for the YWCA, as a traveler's aid, or for women's institute were among her jobs. Her average earnings were "six pounds a week and living" and she usually stayed a "fortnight" or more at a task.

Of her home city in South Wales, Miss Evans said she is of its oldest family, her people having lived there for 800 years. The city is now close to 100,000 in population, and has the world's largest steel works, covering some seven acres and employing 20,000 persons.

When queried Miss Evans admitted she thought American speech was "queer." She said her "pet peeve" in America is the constant gum-chewing she saw — "even the shop assistant where I bought my coat was chewing his cud like an old cow!" she said, and added that she could never get used to hearing our frequent "Ja" instead of "yes."

Christmas Crib Pilgrimage Attracts 400

More than 400 participated in the Christmas Crib Pilgrimage sponsored by the Winona Knights of Columbus Sunday. Those taking part met at St. Mary's Catholic Church, and proceeded from there to the Chapel of St. Mary of the Angels at the College of Saint Teresa, St. Casimir's Catholic Church, the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart and St. Stanislaus Catholic Church. The pilgrimage ended at St. John's Catholic Church where the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given with the council chaplain, the Rt. Rev. D. D. Tierney, officiating. Del Schneider, chairman of the Catholic Activity Committee, was in charge. Arthur Fair is grand knight of the council.

Prayers were offered at each church and an opportunity given for those participating to view the various cribs and the church decorations.

James Stevens, Wife Honored On Anniversary

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special)—The Christmas theme was carried out at the open house held at the VFW Hall Dec. 19 for the 35th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens, St. Charles. The bridesmaid and best man of 35 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Renspie, were guests.

Lyle Stevens was master of ceremonies for the program which included a piano solo by Mrs. Leonard Anderson; Mrs. Walter (Betty) Froyum in memory read "Highlights of My Parents' Life As We Remember Them"; "I Love You Truly," sung by Mrs. Lyle Stevens and Mrs. Robert Stevens; a reading, "A Married Love Letter," William McClary, a nephew, Austin, Minn.; solo, "Till the End of Time," Mrs. Lyle Stevens; a reading, "A Lover Without Arms," Forest Busher, Winona, brother of Mrs. Stevens; a Christmas recitation, Jimmy and Gary Stevens and Dicky McCarthy; a duet "White Christmas," Robert and Lyle Stevens, and solos, Daniel Lynch, Chaffield.

Christmas carols were followed by lunch. Tables were decorated with candles and Christmas greens and centered with an anniversary cake, cut by Mrs. Harold Stevens, Rochester. Mrs. William McClary, Austin, poured. Mrs. Lyle Stevens, Mrs. Robert Stevens and Mrs. Froyum served. The guestbook was in charge of Mrs. William Streng, Winona, a niece.

The couple received many gifts and congratulations. They have two sons, Robert and Lyle, and one daughter, Mrs. Froyum.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Storlie, Spring Grove, Minn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol, above, to Laverne O. Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroeder, Plainview, Minn. No wedding date has been chosen.

Influence of Ancient Egypt's Fourth Dynasty is shown on the above costume blouses. In the Morlove creation, at the left, a simple, round neckline is ornamented with a pendant necklace motif of glittering beads in contrasting colors, and at the right, a delicately rounded, standup collar is encircled by rich gold embroidery encrusted with beading, in a blouse designed by Lady Dorothy. Both blouses are of San Chu, an acetate and rayon tissue faille, and available in 14 authentic Cheops' colors. The Morlove design comes in Papyrus, Egyptian Night and Sycamore and the Lady Dorothy model in Royal Amethyst, Scarab Coral, Turquoise Treasurer, Cedarwood and Egyptian Night.

Keep in Trim

Teen-age Girls Can Help Each Other Lose Weight

By IDA JEAN KAIN
All right, teenagers, it's your turn. Advice from someone near your own age carries conviction, so we'll do it that way. There is wisdom in these words. . . "Tell your teenage girls to bring their weight into line now. I made the mistake of carrying a load of fat all through college, when I normally would have been having the time of my young life. If only I had changed my food habits then, instead of waiting until later, it could have made all the difference!" With that introduction, we'll take up the problem of a teenager from Oregon.

"I am just an ordinary teenage girl who would like help in reducing. I am 5 ft. 4 in. and weigh 154 pounds. . . waist 30 in., bust 38 in., hips very large, and stomach no smaller. Every time I try dieting, I get discouraged after a couple of days and quit because I am so hungry. People always tease me because of my size. I do wish there was someone to diet with me, so it wouldn't be so lonely. Can you help me in your column?"

Take a deep breath. . . you need not go hungry! But first, for inspiration read this letter from a teenager from New York State who turned teasing into a honey of a figure. She ate to build strength and normalize her weight.

"Toward the end of December of last year, I weighed 155 pounds. Then I got so ashamed of myself and felt so left out and hurt when kids teased me and called me names. . . I made up my mind to do something about it. So I went on a diet. By spring I had slimmed down to 120 pounds.

"I think what helped me most was people calling me 'Fatty,' and 'Butterball.' I don't consider these people cruel — in fact, I would like to thank each one of them personally, for I feel it was they who helped me to stick to my diet.

"Business seemed to run in our family, because we were all such heavy eaters. So everyone cut down except my brother who didn't need it, and now we are more calorie conscious. It is much easier to cut down if some member of the family does it with you. I just thought you would like to read another success story, and incidentally, I am only 14 years old."

All right, Miss Oregon, how about it? If Miss New York can stop overeating, can't you? If another member of your family needs to lose weight, enlist her interest. Or ask an overweight pal to curb calories with you and make an exciting game of it. Don't keep in mind all the forbidden foods — instead, concentrate on all the good foods you can eat and be beautiful normal weight. Eat three meals a day, but eat smaller meals. After five days on your new pattern of eating, you will not feel hungry.

Your normal weight is 120 pounds. By June first, you can have a honey of a figure — just in time for the swim suit season.

For help with your menus and exercises, send long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for Teen-age Slimming Menu and illustrated exercise leaflets Slim Hips in a Hurry and Away With Middle Spread. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Winona Daily News. Post card requests cannot be answered.

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—The Community Club meeting will be held Tuesday evening in the Gowle School, Glencoe.

For Sunday dinner, or a company meal, what's better than roast chicken with a chestnut stuffing? Cooks who are short on time, may want to use the cooked-and-peeled chestnuts widely available in 18-ounce jars. These chestnuts also make a delectable ice-cream sauce when they are mixed with chopped candied fruit, preserved ginger and a light orange syrup.

Ability to Pay To Determine Tax, Says Freeman

ST. PAUL (AP)—Prime consideration as he and the department of administration consider possible new taxes, Gov.-elect Orville Freeman said today, is ability to pay.

The governor-elect is facing the job of finding about 26 million dollars in new money to balance the proposed budget. He has said he will give the Legislature a budget calling for expenditure of about 167 million dollars during the next two years, with only about 141 million expected to come in from present taxes.

Freeman named two other tests which he suggested new or increased taxes must pass: How they affect the competitive position of Minnesota people and industry in relation to other states, and whether they can be fairly collected and administered.

He declined to name any new taxes under consideration. The governor-elect cited the personal property tax as an example of one many persons feel is unfair.

"The personal property tax is so incredibly difficult to assess," he said, "that many feel they are being unfairly treated."

He did not say, however, whether he planned to recommend any change in the personal property tax.

Heart Attack Kills Iowa Marshal After Fight With 4 Men

GUTHRIE CENTER, Iowa (AP)—County Coroner Dr. T. P. McWilliams said today a heart attack caused the death of Charles Loucks, 51, night marshal of Stuart, Iowa, who died Christmas Night following an altercation with four men outside a tavern there. Sheriff J. C. McCool had said earlier Loucks apparently had been struck with his own black jack while trying to take a prisoner to jail.

But after an autopsy, Dr. McWilliams said death definitely was caused by a heart attack. He termed "superficial" a wound over one of Loucks' eyes.

County Atty. R. V. Taylor, however, said that three of the four men were remaining in jail here voluntarily until officials complete their investigation of the case.

He said the three are Daniel Grant, 17, of Adair, on leave from the San Diego, Calif., Naval Base; his brother, Jim Grant, 23, of Nevada, Iowa; and Clair Downing, 25, of Adair.

The fourth man, Robert E. Devoreaux, 25, of Adair, pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication and disturbing the peace and was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Pole-Sitting Champ Suffers Heart Attack
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Jim (Shipwreck) Kelly, who claims the world's pole-sitting record, is in a hospital today after suffering a heart attack while trying to set a new mark.

Kelly, 74, climbed down from the perch he had held over a downtown tavern since Dec. 22 and collapsed on the sidewalk. He had hoped to stay on his 18-inch-square platform for 63 days and break his own record.

Kelly said he set the world's record of 57 days atop the Denver Post Building.

Rain, Snow For Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warm, wet air moving northward from the Gulf of Mexico and cold air settling slowly southward out of Canada boded a day of rains, snow and a sloppy mixture of both for much of the Midwest today.

Light rain fell across central Missouri, southeastern Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Michigan. Light snow fell to the north of the rain area.

The weather variety ranged from flashes of lightning in north central Texas and northeastern Oklahoma, to unpleasant thermometer readings of two below zero at Grand Forks, N.D., and eight below at International Falls, Minn.

There was a light sprinkling of snow in portions of North Dakota, Montana, Nebraska and Colorado. It was mostly clear in the Far West, except for western Washington.

Early morning reports included: Caribou, Maine 23 cloudy; New York 37 clear; Miami 61 fair; Brownsville, Tex. 70 cloudy; Denver 19 light snow; Chicago 41 drizzle; Cadillac, Mich., 32 light snow.

Landing Spot Checked in Crash Of British Plane

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)—Investigators trying to discover the cause of the crash of a transatlantic plane which killed 28 persons here Christmas Day concentrated study today on three runs the ship made as it landed.

The plane, a British Overseas Airways Corporation stratoscruiser traveling between London and New York, touched down here, turned over and caught fire. Only eight of the 36 aboard survived.

From a study of the marks, the investigators said they believed the ship hit the soft ground 20 feet short of a cement runway, bounced 200 yards, struck the runway, skidded and then turned over.

Bentley Favors Ending Russian Diplomatic Ties

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.) wants the United States to sever its diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and the Iron Curtain countries.

Bentley told a meeting of the Hungarian Catholic League of America Sunday night the move "would be one of the best steps which this government could take to reassert its position of moral leadership of the free world."

"The weapons of international morality are among the strongest which remain in our arsenal," Bentley said.

He questioned the value of using American embassies in Communist countries as "listening posts."

He said that on the basis of his personal knowledge as a foreign service officer between 1941 and 1950, he found their value "of extremely limited content."

Their maintenance, Bentley said, "can hardly compensate for the intense propaganda and espionage activities carried on in this country by Soviet diplomatic officers."

Big Lifting Jobs Made Easy With New Lever Device

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Home care and repair activities can be hard on your back when you aren't used to acting like a bulldozer.

The lawyer, bank clerk, or other desk man, who doesn't go in for wrestling as a past-time, often pays a doctor instead of a hired man for moving that old piano to the attic.

So when an invention turns up, making it possible for any one of us to lift a ton and a half with the greatest of ease, it's news.

This invention is a lightweight hoist combining Archimedes' lever — which would lift the world — with pulleys and the ratchet idea.

Bareuther make it possible to hitch this contrivance up with a strong anchorage, such as a big tree, and pull a stump out of the ground or an automobile out of a ditch or snowbank merely by working the lever.

Of course, there is nothing new about block and tackle pulleys. But this gadget can be tossed in the luggage compartment of any car. If you're a physicist, you can find the whole story in a short paragraph in the big dictionaries.

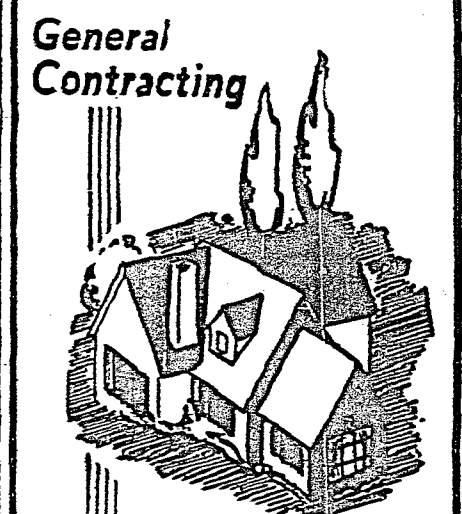

It's easy to multiply your weight lifting strength three or four fold by using pulleys. So with this hoist you can lift your car to put on chains, load your boat without working up a sweat, or move that giant boulder into your wife's rock garden.

A smart young woman recently told us "I send a man to the delicatessen for a loaf of bread, he returns with a staggering load of everything from imported candied orange peels to frozen pigs' knuckles. Second only to the delicatessen in breaking down a man's sales resistance is the local hardware store."

Another new invention now on the market is a new kind of angle iron to end all toenailing. This is a framing anchor to hold joists to other timbers where they meet head on, without the necessity of notching or otherwise overlapping.

You nail these grips to the end of a beam, hold the beam in place with its end against post or header, and nail the other wing of the grip to the post or header.

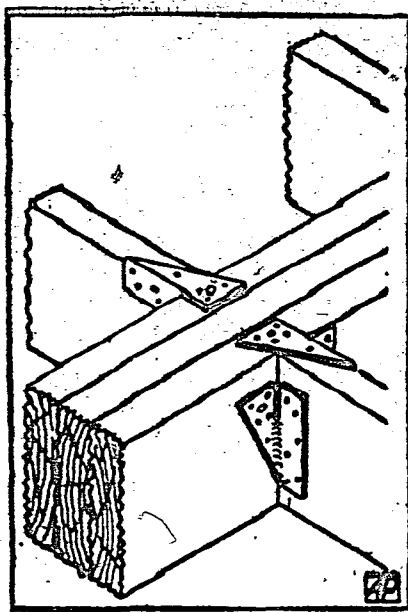

Some of these grips work three ways. When nailed along the top edge at the end of a timber, they not only can be nailed to an abutting timber, but also to the top of that timber. This makes it easy to get a positive joint between a stair carriage and headers or trimmers. The stairs are stronger because of the lack of notching or the possibility of splitting by toenailing.

In addition to the strength achieved by adequate nailing, these grips offer a big advantage in labor time saved.

HOME REPAIR DOs-DON'Ts

By Andrew C. Long

LEAKY FAUCETS

DO . . . shut off the flow of water to the faucet, either by a shut-off valve under the fixture or by the main shut-off valve.

DO . . . unscrew the nut under the faucet handle with an adjustable wrench, turning it counter-clockwise to loosen.

DO . . . turn the faucet handle (in the same direction as though you are turning the water on) until the stem assembly comes loose from the fixture.

DO . . . remove the screw at the bottom of the stem and replace the washer with a new one of the right size.

DO . . . if the faucet still leaks, buy an inexpensive refacing tool, which contains directions on how to reface the valve seat, a simple operation.

DO . . . use a special tool to reface a valve seat if replacing washer fails to stop faucet leak.

DON'T . . . fail to keep a box of assorted washers and screws around the house at all times.

DON'T . . . damage the plating on the faucet fixture; the marring can be avoided by wrapping adhesive tape around any part which comes in contact with a wrench.

DON'T . . . be dismayed if you have an old-fashioned faucet which has a small, rubber ball at the end of the stem instead of a washer; remove the ball, buy a similar one and replace it.

DON'T . . . forget that, in the less frequent type of leak, which occurs between the stem and the nut, a different kind of repair must be made.

DON'T . . . forget that, in the latter type of leak, tightening the nut often will cure the trouble; if it doesn't take off the nut, wind some packing around the stem and replace it.

District Building Volume Increases

Building permit valuation during the first 11 months of 1954 was $14,120,360 above the same period a year ago, according to figures compiled for 41 Minnesota cities by the department of research and statistics of the Federal Reserve Bank, Minneapolis.

November volume was $9,451,520 higher than November 1953. Winona followed the latter pattern. Its $92,380 total last month topped the $30,050 total of November 1953, but the city is behind in 11-month totals.

Important building permits issued in area cities last month included a permit for a $300,000 church at Austin, a $110,000 rectory at Eau Claire and for a $61,000 Salvation Army citadel at La Crosse.

A comparison of selected cities is as follows:

	Nov. 1954	Nov. 1953	Jan.-Nov. 1954	Jan.-Nov. 1953
Albert Lea	$68,410	$22,410	$1,507,470	$1,507,470

Sturdy, Complete and low-cost, this two-bedroom house is planned for a small family. It covers only 959 square feet, which keeps it in the most economical construction bracket. Sketch shows how kitchen sink can be placed in corner window. Brick veneer and flush paneling are suggested for the exterior with a roof of asphalt shingles. This is plan H-301-P by the Homograph Co., 11711 E. Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich.

Your Folding Doors Can Be Slip Covered

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Space saving is still the No. 1 problem in the American home. Now doors are part of the project.

A space saving accordion-fold door is installed easily even by an amateur. When pushed back it folds into itself, creating about 6 square feet more floor and wall space in the home. The doors usually come in gray vinyl coated bark cloth and may be painted with a rubber base or slipcovered as desired.

Here's how to slipcover one: You'll need 2 1/4 yards of fabric 42 1/2 inches wide for a 3-foot door, for example. This allows for the pleats.

Use iron-on rug tape equal to twice the width of the fabric. The tape is used across the top and bottom.

Cut fabric (98% for 2 feet 6 inch door, 42% for 3-foot door and 56% inches wide for 4-foot door.) Lay fabric on floor, reverse side up. Apply tape along top edge with iron. Measure door from top to bottom of the door at center and fasten at this point temporarily with a paper clip or pin. Follow contour of door folds and work to both ends. Fold fabric under the bottom of the door in the same fashion. Swing door towards you for more hand room. Pull away original glued fabric from front and back posts — about 1 1/2 inches down. Fold new fabric over original fabric, then fold back. Do same at bottom. Tuck fabric inside post from top to bottom.

Extend door to full width. Center fabric over door. Fold taped fabric over top of the door at center and fasten at this point temporarily with a paper clip or pin. Follow contour of door folds and work to both ends. Fold fabric under the bottom of the door in the same fashion. Swing door towards you for more hand room. Pull away original glued fabric from front and back posts — about 1 1/2 inches down. Fold new fabric over original fabric, then fold back. Do same at bottom. Tuck fabric inside post from top to bottom.

Won't Halt Till Formosa's Ours, Says Red Leader

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's Premier Chou En-lai, in one of his most blistering statements to date, says "the Chinese people will never halt" until the Red flag flies over Formosa, island holdout of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists.

Chou voiced this latest Communist threat to capture Formosa before a government-sanctioned consultative conference in Peiping last Tuesday. Peiping radio did not broadcast Chou's remarks until yesterday.

Peiping quoted him as saying: "Taiwan (Formosa) is China's territory and the Chinese people will never halt until Taiwan is liberated."

The Chinese people resolutely demand that the United States withdraw all its armed forces from Taiwan.

Chou, at the same time, boasted that China no longer is a weak nation and would not beg for peace at the price of surrendering territorial claims.

He called the recently signed mutual defense treaty under which the United States promises to defend Formosa and the nearby Pescadores as "a great menace to peace in the Far East and Asia."

The Chinese Communist leader charged that the United States attempted "to cover up the aggressive substance of the treaty by creating 'a great clamor about the U. S. spies that had been justly convicted in China.'"

That was Chou's only reference to the 11 U.S. airmen imprisoned by the Reds on spy charges. He made no mention of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's projected trip to Peiping to seek the airmen's release.

She's Attached to Ivy But Ivy's on House

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frankowski have a unique problem when they move to their new home next week. Mrs. Frankowski bought a 10-inch ivy plant seven years ago, has become attached to it, and wants to take it with her—undamaged.

Chicago Has Best Educated Waiter

CHICAGO (AP)—Leo Reese is probably Chicago's best educated waiter.

While working nights, he has progressed through Wright Junior College, John Marshall Law School, University of Illinois and Roosevelt University.

He is now studying at DePaul University toward a master's degree in elementary school education.

Leo has eight children.

Tobacco No Danger Like Matrimony, Says Man, 93

LOS ANGELES (AP)—At the age of 93 Thomas N. Camfield offers the opinion that "all this stuff you read about the dangers of tobacco and alcohol is a lot of hot air."

Camfield, a retired Los Angeles real estate man, took some time yesterday to give his views on life — and women — to a reporter in his room at the Jonathan Club, where he has lived for 30 years.

"I start my day with my corn-cob," said Camfield. "As soon as I wake up I go back to bed and smoke my head off. And I have a cigar after breakfast and dinner."

He said he also has a glass of port before breakfast and a drink of whisky before dinner.

"Best thing I ever did in the whole world was never to get married. I never wanted to have anyone telling me where to head in. And I never wanted a home. I've known a lot of women and they're wonderful. But whenever I got tired of one, there were always plenty more."

"Millions of them."

Old Santa Doubles as Stork, Brings Twins

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Old Santa being no piker perhaps figured he could do on Christmas what the stork had done on Thanksgiving 13 years ago.

So Mr. and Mrs. Clebert Bergeron now have their second set of twin boys. The eldest sons are Clebert Jr. and Gilbert born on Thanksgiving Day 1941.

Brotherhood Week Co-chairmen Named In Buffalo County

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special)—Mrs. Eva Ward and Ervin Heck, both of Mondovi, have been named co-chairmen for Buffalo County's 1955 observance of Brotherhood Week. The announcement was made by Jack Novis, Mondovi, county chairman.

Heck will serve as finance chairman and Mrs. Ward as publicity head.

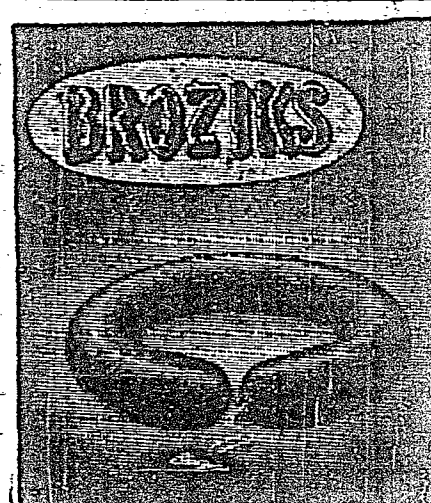

Brotherhood Week, sponsored annually since 1934 by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will be observed nationally during the week of Feb. 20-27. The program will be aimed at reducing race and group tensions by programming of an educational nature.

Military Pay Hikes On Selective Basis To Be Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred Seaton says administration proposals for military pay raises would not affect the ordinary private but would aim at keeping skilled technicians in uniform.

Seaton said Congress will be asked to approve pay hikes on "a selective basis" for men who—particularly in the Air Force—require considerable training or have special skills.

In a radio interview, Seaton listed proposals to improve overseas housing and medical aid for dependents, and a rotation system for returning men from overseas, as more important than pay raises.

State's Attorney Denies Passing Sheppard Evidence

CLEVELAND (AP)—A prosecuting attorney who helped bring about the second-degree murder conviction of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard says:

"Maybe we didn't do our duty from Dr. Sheppard's point of view, but from the public point of view, we did our duty."

Assistant County Prosecutor John J. Mahon was commenting last night on a written statement by the 30-year-old osteopath convicted last Tuesday of slaying his pregnant wife, Marilyn, to death on July 4.

Sheppard, sentenced to life imprisonment, gave the statement to a brother, Dr. Richard Sheppard, who relayed it to a Cleveland newspaper.

In his statement the prisoner said:

"Total disregard of definite evidence that proved the presence of someone else in our house who must have killed Marilyn stirs and depresses me."

Sheppard, who has maintained a powder bludgeoned his wife, added:

"My understanding was that a prosecuting attorney was duty bound to produce all evidence and protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty. This has been far overlooked."

Mahon said no evidence in the Sheppard case was overlooked and "everything was out in the open."

Sheppard's attorneys will push for a new trial in a hearing Thursday.

Wounded Suspect, 16 Breakins Keep Policemen Busy

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Authorities who hoped for a relaxing day after Christmas were kept busy Sunday trying to track down a wounded suspect and investigating a series of 16 area break-ins and thefts.

Among the break-ins was one at the First State Bank in suburban Golden Valley early Sunday. Burglars cut through the bank's outer vault but failed to get into the safe when the acetylene torches they were using ran out of gas.

Bank officials said the safe contained about $30,000.

Five other weekend break-ins were reported in Golden Valley, three in Delano, one in Osseo, one in Crystal and another in Brooklyn Park.

The suspect was shot as he got out of his car at a home north of here. Authorities said they found loot stored in a shed there.

Deputy sheriffs reported the man was struck in both legs before he got into his car and raced off after discarding his blood-stained coat. Deputies lost track of him near Camden.

Elmer McGinnis, Golden Valley police chief, said the break-ins there must have been made by at least four men. He said the work was extremely amateurish and that the burglars apparently got nothing more than petty cash.

Thieves got an estimated $200 or $300 in cash plus a refrigerator, a television set, two power saws and articles valued at around $1,000 in the Osseo burglaries.

McCarthy to Fight Exports to Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said yesterday the flow of goods from the free world to Communist China is steadily increasing and that he plans to intensify his campaign against it.

McCarthy said in an interview he plans to do "a lot of public speaking after the first of the year" to emphasize his contention that Red China should be blockaded "not a naval blockade by U. S. warships," he added, "but a blockade brought about by cutting off aid to nations which do trade with the Reds."

NEW YORK (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss says his present post as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission will be "my last public job on earth."

In an interview in Fortune magazine, Strauss who for months has been involved in the Dixon-Yates power controversy, commented: "For the first time in my life I have enemies."

Strauss said he considered the Dixon-Yates fuss "as phony as a three-dollar bill" and that in the final analysis the government would benefit from a contract with the private power firms.

In saying the AEC chairmanship was his last public job, Strauss did not indicate he would resign before his appointment expires June 30, 1955.

Reds Sounding Out Japan on Renewing Diplomatic Ties

PARIS (AP)—Russia and her East European satellites have been sounding out Japan through their embassies here on the possibility of renewing diplomatic relations, it was learned today.

The report followed recent propaganda from Moscow indicating that the Kremlin wants to "normalize" relations with the Japanese.

Japanese sources here disclosed that Poland's ambassador to Paris, Stanislaw Gaiswki, contacted Japan's envoy to Paris, Kumas Nishimura, about 10 days ago and asked if Japan was thinking about reestablishing relations with Poland.

Nishimura was said to have replied that his government's policies remained unchanged but that he would ask Tokyo for instructions.

The National Planning Assn., urging such public spending, said the national output should be boosted by 25 to 30 billion dollars next year.

The organization's trustees, headed by New York banker H. Christian Sonne, said in a statement fense and "an ever higher standard of living as well as the social services which our people want and need."

Now Production Soon

"The economy for which we are working will provide a dependable flow of new and improved products and new, better-paying jobs for a steadily increasing population," Humphrey said.

Somewhat more cautiously, Secretary of Commerce Weeks said "further economic growth in 1955 is probable, if an environment that is favorable to business progress is maintained."

Weeks said his department is planning record federal outlays to aid construction of airports, highways and ships.

The National Planning Assn., urging such public spending, said the national output should be boosted by 25 to 30 billion dollars next year.

The organization's trustees, headed by New York banker H. Christian Sonne, said in a statement made public last night that the growth of the economy has failed to keep pace with the labor force and increased output per worker, and it continued:

"The actual level of economic activity is at present about 15 to 20 billion dollars below the amount of reasonable full employment."

The group said no general depression seems to be in sight, but it urged tax cuts to stimulate consumer buying, and an improvement of social security legislation.

Among nongovernment measures, the group said it considered "the most important to be a rise in wage rates and a reduction in prices in accord with increases in productivity."

Deaf-Mute Teaches Friends Sign Language

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—When her family moved into a new neighborhood two years ago, Delores Schneider had a problem.

How does an 8-year-old deaf-mute go about making friends and playing with the other children? With a child's directness, Delores found the answer by teaching all the youngsters sign language.

Now there's hardly a child of her age in the neighborhood who can't hold his own in two-handed conversation.

Delores' two brothers, Joe, 15, and Eddie, 13, also have been deaf-mutes from birth but the eldest child, Mary Lou, 17, has normal hearing. So do Mr. and Mrs. Jim Schneider.

Pope Given Another Blood Transfusion

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Ailing Pope Pius XII received another transfusion of blood and plasma today after a "fairly" restful night.

The enfeebled Pontiff's doctors administered the transfusion as part of their general therapy to build up strength sapped by his serious collapse Dec. 2. They have given these transfusions several times in the past several weeks.

Suffering from hernia of the esophagus, the Pope was reported last night to be eating better, slowly gaining energy. His private physician, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi, said he walks in the Vatican gardens.

Farm Woman, 33, Commits Suicide

ALMA CENTER, Wis. (Special)

—Mrs. Alfred Gass, 33, committed suicide at her farm home near here this morning, according to Sidney Jensen, Jackson County coroner. She was the mother of four youngsters.

Her husband said she got up during the night, he thought to check on their children. When he awoke he heard the car engine running and found his wife unconscious in the family car in the garage.

She had been depressed about impending surgery, he told officials. She was to undergo surgery next Monday. Gass called Jensen, who took the woman to Krohn Clinic, Black River Falls, where she was pronounced dead on arrival at 7 a.m.

Survivors include her husband; two daughters, Catherine and Eugene, and two sons, James and Eugene.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

BROWNS CRUSH LIONS . . . Guard Joe Schmidt and Bill Shits (20) of the Detroit Lions try to stop Darrell Brewster, on the ground, as he inches over the goal line for the Cleveland Browns. It was the last game for the Browns' great quarterback, Otto Graham who figured in all five of the team's first half TDs. The Lions and their Coach Buddy Parker were shooting for an unprecedented third straight World's Championship, but were beaten easily by a team that they had never lost a game to and whom they beat just the week before.

6 Boxers Died Of Ring Injuries In Past Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Six boxers died in 1954 from ring injuries—a sharp drop from the record 22 in 1953—Ring magazine disclosed today in a copyrighted article in its February issue.

Editor Nat Fleischer of the monthly boxing publication called the decline in fatalities from the year before one of the few bright spots in an otherwise drab year for the sport.

Fleischer and his worldwide staff selected heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano as "Fighter of the Year" and singled out Argentina's Pascual Perez, world flyweight champion, for its "progress of the year" award.

In 1953, 12 pros and 10 amateurs died following ring injuries. Eight of the fatalities occurred in the United States and 14 in foreign countries.

In 1954, three amateurs and three pros succumbed, four here and two abroad.

There wasn't a pro death until Nov. 30 when British welterweight Bobby Callaghan died in London after boxing a six round draw. Then Ralph Weiser, a Portland, Ore., lightweight and Ed Sano, Olympic heavyweight champion, from Los Angeles, died on successive days, Dec. 11 and Dec. 12th.

The amateur victims were Police Constable Vaipou Ainau, 35, at Samoa, Feb. 18; Airman Jesse L. Hyton, 22, at Oakland, Calif., and Aviation Ordnanceman M. G. Byrd, 22, at Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 8.

Fleischer listed increased safety measures and closer cooperation among the state commissions as the major reasons for the decline in fatalities.

Cleveland Whips Lions, 56-10, for Pro Championship

By JERRY LISKA

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns today owned a rare second National Football League title after an astounding 56-10 dethroning of the Detroit Lions which proved:

1. Cleveland's "retiring" quarterback, Otto Graham, showed enough voltage at 33—three touchdown passes and three scoring smashes—to warrant doubt he will quit pro ball.

2. That you can't believe what you see on the TV screen (the game-turning play favored the Browns after what appeared a neutralizing double-infringement on TV).

OTTO GRAHAM . . . in a Blaze of Glory

3. That the same two teams playing in the same city on successive Sundays won't kill your crowd, (20,000 buying at the gate).

4. That statistics are little white lies (the Browns had only a slight edge over the two-time league champion Lions).

The Browns won their first triumphs in nine starts against a Buddy Parker-coached Lion team, but the runaway didn't develop until after a first quarter tide-changer which puzzled TV viewers.

This came, with Detroit ahead 3-0 on Doak Walker's field goal. Cleveland's punter was roughed on the same play in which Detroit's receiver apparently signaled for a fair catch then was clobbered deep in Lion territory.

The Brown punter, Horace Gilmore, was raked up by Lion guard Harley Sewell, just after lofting a fourth-down punt to Detroit's Jug Girard. After signaling a fair catch, Girard moved three strides to his right and did not have control of the ball when he was smacked down.

What the TV audience never learned was that officials ruled Girard, "muffing the ball," never had enough control to warrant infringement of the fair-catch ruling. That left the roughing-the-punter violation standing alone, instead of being wiped out in a double penalty.

So Cleveland got a first down on Detroit's 35 and two plays later, Graham hurled a 37-yard touchdown pass to speedy Ray Renfro. That was the game's turning point. The Browns took a 7-3 lead and steadily enlarged it.

Detroit's Bobby Layne for the first time in the Lion-Brown rivalry compared poorly with Graham. Layne had six passes intercepted, and every break went against him.

Statistically, the Browns out-rushed Detroit by a scant 140 to 136 yards, and in passing the Lions were ahead, 195 to 163. But what the figures didn't tell was how Graham outwitted and outmaneuvered the Lions.

Passing twice to Renfro and once to end Pete Brewster for touchdowns, and in smothering over from the 5-yard line and 2 and 1-foot lines, Graham set three playoff marks.

Graham's three touchdowns set title-game scoring marks with 18 points, most six-pointers and most touchdowns by running.

After the six touchdowns Graham either passed or carried, the Browns produced a 12-yard touchdown run by Curly Morrison and a 10-yard scoring scamper by Chet Hanulak.

Lou (The Toe) Groza of Cleveland made eight conversions.

RARE AIR SCARE

Keep Breathin', Mariucci Tells Hockey Players

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Minnesota hockey coach John Mariucci sagely advised his bruised to forget about hockey temporarily today and just breathe.

Mariucci herded his team into Colorado early to give them a chance to get used to the rarified air. The business is almost a fixation with Mariucci. He thinks failure to use this slow pressurization process has been costly to Minnesota in the past here in the Rockies.

The Gophers Tuesday night open defense of the Western Intercollegiate Championship against Colorado College, the current leader. They wrap up the series Wednesday night before heading for Denver and two more with Denver University.

Minnesota is unbeaten in six nonconference games, none of them against opposition which matches the two Colorado teams.

SPORTS Sidelight

BY RALPH REEVE

Boyhood Idol

During the summers before I had reached my 10th birthday, I used to look forward eagerly to the arrival of Dewey and Leon Christiansen's cousin, Milt Nielsen.

The Christiansen family lived next door and the cousin of their boys, Milt, always stayed with them during the summer. Milt could run faster, kick a football farther and hit a baseball harder than any other boy in the neighborhood. Small matter that I was only a tyke and he a worldly man in his teens—it just made my appreciation of his feats greater.

Talk about feats of daring—Milt was the only boy who could jump across the widest spot in the creek that ran through Jeffrey's pasture to the north end of town.

The old man pole came along and I had a little scuffle with him. The war came, too, and the next I heard of Milt Nielsen was in 1948 when he had a 9-6 year pitching for Bakersfield in the Class C California State League . . .

Moved to Outfield

Nielsen went to Oklahoma City in the Class AA Texas League the next season and that year saw him make the switch to outfield . . . He was with Oklahoma City in 1948-49 and played with San Diego in the AAA Pacific Coast League in 1950 . . . The next season Nielsen played with the parent Cleveland Indians and also San Diego.

The past three years he's been with Indianapolis in the American Association, serving last season as a player-coach . . . Nielsen's pro career for all intents and purposes has ended now since he was given his outright release by Indianapolis . . . So what happens?

He's in business in Winona and is thinking of semi-pro ball in Iowa next summer, maybe in the Southern Many the following year after his 13 month end of ineligibility for SM ball ends.

Highlights of Nielsen's pro career would include being chosen most valuable player at Oklahoma City and runner-up to teammate Al Rosen for the same honor another year . . .

You'd also have to mention that summer day in 1951 with Cleveland when he scored the winning run in a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers . . . Bobby Feller pitched a no-hitter for Cleveland that day . . .

And there's also the fact he played on a pair of pennant winners—last season at Indianapolis and in 1950 at San Diego . . .

"Our club at Indianapolis was the best minor league team I've seen," Nielsen says. "We really had the pitching—some great young kids played good ball for us . . . That includes Herbie Score, Billy Joe Davidson, Joe Altobelli and Rocky Colavito, along with veteran Harry Elliott, Harry Malmberg and Owen Friend . . ."

"But the best hitting nine I ever played on was 1951 at San Diego . . . Bob Wilson was leadoff, Minnie Minoso batted No. 2, I was third, Harry Simpson fourth, Jack Graham fifth, Max West sixth, Dee Moore seventh and Whitey Weiteman eighth . . . Nielsen dug through some pictures . . . He had a couple of a row at Oklahoma City . . . "The only fight I ever got into . . . "Ken Sterling was pitching against us . . . he knocked me down three times so I got up the third time and turned around to the catcher, Del Ballinger . . . I said, 'Del, do it again . . . "Ballinger clipped me . . . I never did get to throw any punches because Sterling tackled me from behind . . . Then players from both teams broke it up . . . Sterling and Ballinger were tossed out of the game.

"That was a typical baseball fight—no punches thrown except one—and I was the recipient!"

The picture shows a pair of Nielsen's teammates, Gino Marionetti and Al Rosen restraining him . . . Nielsen said, "I got Rosen's cap on and it doesn't fit me . . . mine got lost in the shuffle . . ."

According to Nielsen, the next time he saw Sterling was last spring when Indianapolis played a semi-pro team from Fort Wayne in an exhibition game . . . "I got a homer off him with the bases loaded," Nielsen chuckled . . .

"A TYPICAL BASEBALL FIGHT, THE ONLY ONE OF MY CAREER" Oklahoma City, 1949—Teammates Gino Marionetti, Al Rosen restrain Nielsen

Great Prospects

Nielsen calls Herb Score "the best pitching prospect I ever saw." Score, a young fast-balling lefthander, had a 22-4 year with Indianapolis last season . . . To make it with Cleveland next season Nielsen figures Score will have to pitch every four days . . . "He's a boy who needs work to be good . . ."

Nielsen says, "He joined our club in April as a boy and was a man by June . . . Ted Wilks taught him how to throw a curve and a good changeup . . . He even had to learn how to stand on the mound."

Some other good prospects according to Nielsen include another Brown baby, Billy Joe Davidson, who "was very valuable as a reliever and a real good middle pitcher . . . He could get his breaking ball over . . ."

Of Score, Nielsen says, "He's the best pitching prospect I've ever seen and he's a man to boot. A lot of credit is due Ted Wilks . . ."

Nielsen rates Charley Neal, St. Paul second baseman, another corner . . . "He could hit Score as well as anybody in the league . . . could pull his fast ball . . ."

How about Walt Moryn, the former Winona State cager who went up with the Dodgers in midseason? "Moryn—definitely," Nielsen says. "He's a big, country kid who loves to smash that pea and he's a good kid along with it . . ."

Foster Castleman and Jim Constable of the Millers are two more fine prospects . . . "Constable short-arms you—he's got a sneaky fast ball—it's past you before you know it . . ."

Joe Altobelli, Indianapolis first baseman, batted .285 and is a "good hitter in the clutch . . ."

And Rocky Colavito, the Indianapolis outfielder? "Last spring we said it he got 100 RBIs and 20 homers, he'd be doing good. He finished with 120-30 RBIs and 38 homers . . . And he only had eight homers the last 70 games . . . But he sure carried our club the first three months . . ."

Nielsen thinks Colavito will make it if he continues to improve . . . "He has the greatest arm I've ever seen for an outfielder . . . No, I've never seen Mays . . . From what I've gathered Mays is probably more accurate but Colavito is stronger . . . His throws were too rough for the cutoff man to handle . . ."

Lindsley Bids For Minnesota Starting Spot

Gophers Meet Wake Forest Team Tonight

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Buck Lindsley, a bouncy guard with a flair for connecting under pressure, makes his pitch for a starting job with the Minnesota basketball team in the Dixie tournament-opening tonight.

The Gophers meet Wake Forest tonight in the start of Ozzie Cowles' final sharpening of the team which moves into Big Ten competition Jan. 3 against Northwestern.

Lindsley, a sophomore from West de Pere, Wis., popped up as a possible regular last week by scoring 16 points against Notre Dame and doing hustling defensive chore against Jack Stephens.

It was Lindsley who rammed in three straight baskets with 70 seconds remaining to send the Gophers into overtime against DePaul in their opener.

Lindsley's competition is junior Dave Noack, who has had few offensive chances so far but has satisfied Cowles on defense.

Lindsley's accession to the starting lineup would mean two sophomores in the front ranks, forward Dave Tucker being the other.

But it still is the triumvirate of Dick Garmaker, Chuck Meneel and Bill Simonovich who will have to deliver the major scoring tonight.

Simonovich will be opposed by Dick Hamric, Wake Forest's leading scorer and one of the better players in the south. Wake Forest has won five and lost three this year. Minnesota is 3-2, both of its losses coming on the road . . .

All teams will play three games in the tournament, which closes Wednesday night. Other entries are North Carolina, Southern California, Cornell, West Virginia, Duke and North Carolina State.

Ameche Bypassed On North-South MVP Balloting

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A panel of sportswriters passed over Wisconsin's All-America fullback Alan Ameche to choose fullback Dick Bilecki of Maryland as the outstanding player of the Christmas night North-South football game.

Bilecki played on the South squad which won the game, 20-17. Ameche was picked by the sportswriters as the top player on the North squad coached by Wisconsin's Ivy Williamson.

The Maryland battering ram plunged for most of the South's 203 rushing yards, netting 105 yards on 24 carries for an average of 4.37 yards. He scored the South's first touchdown after an 80-yard drive he generated almost single-handed.

Ameche, who played both offense and defense 84 of the North's 118 yards, carrying the ball 14 times to wind up with an average of six yards per rushing attempt.

"I'd say it was a good battle of fullbacks," commented Maryland coach Jim Tatum, who assisted Miami's Andy Gustafson with the Southerners.

Kurt Burris of Oklahoma, another All-American who played linebacker for the South, agreed it was a fight for the fullbacks.

"That Ameche was a good boy," Burris commented. "But I don't think he was as good as our Bilecki. In the second half, Alan seemed to slow down. Bilecki was just going warmed up . . ."

Observers agreed that the North's refusal to play it safe probably cost it the game.

"The thing that beat them was when they passed with the score 17-13 in their favor," said Gustafson. "That was it."

Leading by four points and with about seven minutes remaining, the North took a kickoff on its 24. Quarterback Florian Helinski of Hurley, Wis., a star from Indiana, threw an incomplete pass and then tried another aerial which was stolen by the South quarterback, Carl Garrigus of Miami. The Rebels took over on North's 34. Bilecki banged out much of the yardage and Garrigus, after a double fake, sliced over from the two for the winning touchdown.

14 Cage Meets Set for Week

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

There will be no rest for the weary this Christmas Week, for starting today, no fewer than 14 major college basketball tournaments will be played, pitting an armload of the nation's top teams against each other.

Eight of the 13 undefeated big-time teams will play in tournaments. Four others will continue their regular-season schedule, and only one, Auburn with five victories, will not see any action.

North Carolina State, which has run up the best record to date, 9-0, swings into the Dixie classic at Raleigh. Two of the other undefeated teams, Dayton with seven triumphs, and Villanova with four, play in the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association's holiday festival in New York.

Columbia, 4-0, plays in the Queen City Tournament in Buffalo, N.Y., Dartmouth, 4-0, and Connecticut, 6-0, are in the New England Tournament at Storrs, Conn.;

Trabert, Seixas Win Opening Davis Matches

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—America seized a firm, almost unbreakable grip on the Davis Cup today when two long-frustrated veterans, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, fought their way to almost identical four-set victories over young Australian foes in opening singles matches of the challenge round.

Trabert, tight-lipped and determined, cut down powerful Lewis Hoad in the first match, 6-4, 2-6, 12-10, 6-3. Seixas, scrapping 31-year-old United States champion, evened a long and embarrassing jinx by trouncing little Ken Rosewall, 6-6, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

"Two down and three to go," exultantly said Bill Trabert, nonplussed captain of the Americans as he congratulated his victorious athletes in the dressing room.

"We'll clinch the cup tomorrow in the doubles. And then Wednesday's final singles matches will be just a formality."

Only one other time in the history of this storied international tennis competition dating back to 1900 has a team lost the opening two singles and come back to victory.

In tomorrow's doubles, with the United States leading 2-0, America will send out Trabert and Seixas again against Australia's Hoad and Rosewall. The Americans, who have established themselves as the best in the world, will be overwhelmingly favored.

Harry Hopman, the disappointed Aussie captain, has the choice between Rosewall and Hoad or Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, who have a brilliant doubles record.

But both Hartwig, just up from mumps, and Rose, a lefthander of shifting temperament, have been mediocre in practice this week and appear certain to watch the doubles from the sidelines.

"I was very proud of both Tony and Vic," said Trabert, whose ridiculed prediction of a 5-0 sweep now looks like a good bet. "Both of them followed our battle plans almost to the letter and they showed great fighting qualities."

A crowd of 25,578, the largest ever to see a tennis match anywhere, sat in the big wood and steel saucer for the day's program and most of them took a lingering look at the gleaming Davis Cup as they left the arena.

This is the fourth year Seixas and Trabert have come to Australia in an effort to wrest back the trophy taken to the bottom of the world in 1950 but every previous mission has been in vain.

Trabert, his teeth clinched with determination, started shakily against Hoad, who has been in a terrible slump. But he held on grimly to gain the decision.

In the 22-game third set, which lasted more than an hour, Tony fought off one set point in the 17th game, twice came back from 15-40 on his own service and won the set with a powerful serve-volley exhibition in the 22nd game.

It was a real tonic for ex-sailor Trabert of Cincinnati, who had taken 4-1 and 4-2 leads in the set only to have Hoad rally to tie it up.

Hoad, who had explained his year-long slump recently by saying he was "fed up" with tennis, served eight double faults and most of them were costly.

Seixas, who had lost to Rosewall eight of the nine times they had met and the last six times in a row, made good his boast he would end the Indian savior.

He followed Captain Trabert's instructions to serve to Rosewall's forehand and move to the net swiftly; also to attack Rosewall's second service and, if possible, the first with a shot to the forehand.

"Vic followed our campaign strategy to the letter," Trabert said. "I was very proud of him."

Rosewall had two set points in the first set against Seixas, holding a 40-15 lead in the ninth game but Seixas pulled out with a strong volley to the baseline and then a forcing shot at Rosewall's feet which was fluffed into the net.

Hopman said he had nominated Hoad and Rosewall for the doubles, but reserved the right to make a change an hour before the match.

Florida, 5-0, heads for the Gator Bowl Tournament at Jacksonville, Fla., and Kansas, 4-0, is the favorite in the Big Seven event at Kansas City.

Among the other undefeateds, Kentucky, the winner of its own invitation tournament last week and the No. 1 team in the country in the latest Associated Press poll, will try to run its streak to seven against St. Louis and Temple; Penn., 6-0, plays Pitt; Vanderbilt with 4-0, goes against Stanford, and Seton Hall, 7-0, tackles Stanford and Gonzaga.

Here are pairings for tournaments starting today:

Holiday Festival (New York)—LaSalle-Syracuse; Niagara-UCLA; Duquesne-Villanova; Dayton-St. John's.

Southwest Conference (Dallas)—Baylor-Alabama; Texas-Texas A & M; Rice-Arkansas; Southern Methodist-Texas Christian.

Queen City (Buffalo)—Fordham-Georgetown; Columbia-St. Bonaventure; Yale-Canisia; Idaho State and Georgetown play their first round game Tuesday.

Big Seven (Kansas City)—Colorado-Oklahoma; Missouri-Nebraska. Tuesday's first round pairings are: Kansas State-California and Kansas-Iowa State.

Gator Bowl (Jacksonville)—Georgia-Spring Hill; Florida-Florida State.

Kentucky Invitational (Louisville)—Eastern Kentucky-Western Kentucky; Louisville-Murray.

All-American (Owensboro, Ky.)—Cincinnati-Mississippi; Evansville-Denver; Kentucky Wesleyan-Rhode Island; Maryland-Texas Tech.

Motor City (Detroit)—Wayne-Penn State; Detroit-Toledo.

Dixie Classic (Raleigh, N.C.)—North Carolina-Southern California; North Carolina State-Cornell; Wake Forest-Minnesota; Duke-West Virginia.

Hofstra Invitation (Hempstead, N.Y.)—Lehigh-Hofstra, Cornell-Delaware. St. Peter's (N.J.) meets Lafayette and Marietta plays Wagner Tuesday.

Three get under way tomorrow night—the Richmond Festival, the Pacific Coast Northern Division and the New England, while the Sugar Bowl event starts Wednesday.

South Beats North, 20-17

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The South used a favorite defensive maneuver of professional football teams in beating the North 20-17 in the Shrine's college all-star game Christmas night.

South coach Andy Gustafson of Miami said he and Jim Tatum of Maryland, his assistant for the game, had four tackles in the lineup at times when the North drove deep into Rebel territory.

The game was played under free substitution rules, enabling Gustafson to do as the pros do—throw the big men into the line when the opposition gets in scoring range.

The North, coached by Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin and Bernie Crimmins of Indiana, drove inside the South's 25 on five occasions. Once the Yanks got a touchdown, the other four times the solid South defense forced field goal attempts by Minnesota's Jim Soltau. He made good on only one.

The other North touchdown came on a 52-yard pass play from Indiana's Florian Helinski to Rhode Island's Pat Abruzzi.

Maryland's Dick Bilecki handled most of the South's fullbacking chores and was voted the outstanding player of the game, winning the honor over Wisconsin All-American Alan Ameche, who starred for the North.

The South packed all of its scoring into the final 15 minutes of the game.

It was the South's fifth victory in seven college all-star games.

Things Will Look Better to More in '55

NEW YORK (U)—You're due for a happier new year. There's a lot more blue in the economic skies than there was a year ago. And the clouds at the start of 1955 are of the seasonal variety.

Businessmen feel much more sure of the future this time. And perhaps most reassuring is that they look for neither boom nor bust.

More money is the forecast for the new year—both an increase in the national total of personal incomes, and in the paychecks of many workers. Profits of many firms should be healthier.

Price changes will be subject to economic crosswinds—but the major direction will be toward slight easing of the pressure on the consumer.

Jobs will be harder to find in the first two months of the year—one of those seasonal type clouds on the 1955 horizon. But the experts expect employment to rise moderately from March until the summer industrial slowdown.

The economy will have the problem, however, of finding jobs for the 600,000 more workers due to enter the labor force in 1955. Thus, while total employment is expected to be higher in 1955, some economists—notably those advising labor—see a definite chance that joblessness will rise.

Shelter should be less of a problem in the new year. The home building boom goes roaring right along into 1955—helped by easier mortgage terms than a year ago. Construction costs seem stabilized. Rents are leveling off.

Most factory workers are a lot easier in their minds about their jobs than they were a year ago. Industrial output is on the uptick now. A slow and moderate increase is looked for in many lines for the next four or five months. And after the usual summer dip the economic signs seem to portend a good fall pickup.

The merchants are planning for a bigger retail year. In 1954, after paying their taxes, Americans had around 253 billion dollars to spend. They saved about 8 per cent of that.

In 1955, economists are guessing that consumers should have 261 billion to spend, will save a little less than in 1954, and spend 242 billion—or nine billion more than in 1954.

If so, it'll mean more trade, more jobs.

It looks like a pleasantly better year for most folks—but with practically no one expecting to see the start of another boom.

Faribault Baker Burns His Dough

FARIBAULT, Minn. (U)—Merry Christmas?

Thomas R. Freer, owner of the Busek Bakery, Faribault, carried home a paper bag containing $1,000 cash, an unknown amount in checks and charge slips from a busy pre-Christmas rush.

Wrappings from gift exchanges in the Freer household made quite a stack. Freer took them outside and burned them—and also the sack of money which had become mixed up in the wrappings.

1½-Cent Gas Tax Boost Eyed In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (U)—A one and one-half cent gasoline tax hike would do much to carry Wisconsin through a huge state and federal road building program in 1955-56, Harold L. Plummer, state highway commissioner, said here.

Plummer plans to make that recommendation to the 1955 Legislature, which convenes in mid-January.

The motoring public, he said, is demanding better roads and at present, not enough money is in sight to carry on the contemplated program.

The state's highway requirements for the next decade were outlined at a meeting of the Legislative Council Highway Committee.

Plummer estimated that the tax increase would bring the state to about 15 million dollars annually. This, he said, would give Wisconsin sufficient money to pay for its share of highway improving and rebuilding costs.

He said: "That doesn't mean that the 1½ cent additional tax is all it would cost us if we should go ahead with the tremendous task of highway building which the committee is considering now."

Need New Sources "If that program is carried out, several sources of funds will have to be devised. I have hopes that some plan will be worked out so the federal government will pay a big piece of the expenses for constructing the federal building program which Pres. Eisenhower outlined some months ago."

Asked about Plummer's proposal, State Sen. Jess Miller (R-Richland Center), veteran head of the Senate Highway Committee and chairman of the council's advisory highway group, said:

"It's a pretty simple thing to talk about a tax boost. It's quite another thing to get it, and to make the people like it."

The state plans to spend $5 million dollars in 1955 on its trunk system and in aids to local units of government for roads. This money has been allocated.

The present state gasoline levy is four cents a gallon. The federal tax is two cents.

Renewed Tension Forecast for '55

NEW YORK (U)—The world, which enjoyed some relaxation during the last months of 1954, will experience renewed tension during 1955.

Although Russia has been backing away from situations which might produce general war, 1955 is the time when, according to long-standing Western estimates, Russian military power will reach its peak.

To counterbalance Western European Union, which will be under parliamentary consideration in various countries for several weeks, the Reds are centralizing their intra-Bloc military controls.

In addition, although they have no timetable, the Reds are arriving at a peak propaganda period in their efforts to embrace all Asia. Any display of weakness among the non-Communists could also produce a peak of action.

The West will react along two lines.

First, as dangerous situations develop, the United States will notify the Reds where their interests may not be transgressed, as it already has done by voting to defend Formosa.

Secondly, economic aid for Asia will be increased, advertising the West's unselfish interest in development of under-developed countries so that they can withstand Communist pressure and enter more importantly into world trade.

Deterioration of Western colonial holdings will continue. South Africa will start on the road to withdraw from the British empire, although it may take more than a year.

There is a possibility that Viet Nam and Indonesia will be lost to the non-Communist front within the year. The United States will not attempt to replace France as the guardian of Viet Nam, even to prevent this loss. It probably would be futile, and would enhance Asiatic fears that America is falling unconsciously into imperialism. Whatever is done will have to be through the Southeast Asia defense organization.

No general war is in prospect for 1955, but there is nothing in sight to change the lesson of history, that every year of peace brings fighting nearer.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D.S.

Answer to Question No. 1
1. The other woman's enthusiasm over things he loves — camping, fishing, golf, art, etc. — which his wife dislikes or thinks foolish. Unfair, because his wife may be too frazzled with housework, children, in-laws, etc., to be enthusiastic about anything. Our booklet, "Facing the Facts of Married Life," will help knock ideas about the other woman out of hubby's mind. Non-profit, 15c (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, care of The Winona Daily News.

Answer to Question No. 2
2. Probably, says Dr. Hildred Schnell in her fine booklet, "Boys and Girls." Harold had poor speech, was rebellious — hated school. His IQ of 70 "proved" he was "feeble-minded." Later a psychiatrist, not associated in Harold's mind with school, got his confidence and found that his IQ was really 97 — normal! Schools and parents should find such children early and help solve their emotional problems.

Answer to Question No. 3
3. Probably smell, because the nose has more brain connections than any of the other senses. Often an odor — the smell of burning leaves or of a cake baking — brings back more memories of childhood than touch, taste, sight or hearing. It even brings back memories we didn't know we had. Half our lives would be forgotten but for our noses.
