Hear this: activity cards needed for library exit

Beginning Monday, March 30, all students will be asked to present their activity cards for the current quarter as a library identification card when they want to borrow materials from Maxwell Library.

A paid fee statement for the current quarter will be accepted as proof of enrollment also as would be necessary for part-time undergraduate students and transfer students, but full-time undergraduate students are urged to have their current quarter’s activity card with them when they go to the library.

Students will be required to show their activity card each time when signing for any type of loan: 12-day books, reserve books; and periodicals.

The requirement of showing one’s activity card, a process that requires one to carry the card at all times, may appear burdensome, but full-time undergraduate students are urged to have their current quarter’s activity card with them when they go to the library.

Primary upset in news now by Mohen Jazeri

The New Hampshire primary is probably one of the most talked about events of the season. It was an upset. We had two upssets last month. Clay Baskin and Les Brown beat the experts in the town meeting. This year it was the Mayor and Mr. Bosley and the rest. We thought it was over but it was not until the nomination itself. But let us look at these few people for a moment. We can see Mr. Bosley was responsible for the nomination and our president's ticket. So he must have been the one to lose the second. American can make it after four or possibly eight more years. The Free World can not afford to wait that long.

Godsofar had the second place. He would be a fairly good man except that he wasn't as radical on his foreign policy. If he became a president, we'll have three presidents on the foreign policy. He is a push-button man, that is the type of man that we need.

Nixon is a three time loser. He lost the 40 presidential election last year. And the bigger press statement is what he made the third time loss. He is a three time loser and always will be.

Rockefeller is a fairly good man except that he hasn't made a million in business. He has been divorced and remarried and that also subtracts him.

On the other side, Democrats' runner, Johnson, is to run for the third time. This is the third loss. He still is running. No, however, is trying to protect his prestige more over his own, but he hasn't made a million in business. After Kennedy's assassination he lost most of his fame and prestige. But the students would pay the dollar if he were the one to lose it — if there were any.

How would you want to wait until November to get your chance? I mean 30,000 students, have enough money or at least enough to buy their way. They also feel too much when they feel extra about primaries especially since it would be divided by a million.

The contract called for $200 as a premium for the work. Many students have made the hundred made to go to Jimmy Boggis. After that we were to give the student $50 for doing the work. We were supposed to give them all the extra $50 to go to the all the beach towns. They look down in the habit of sleeping in early, but when they have a chance, they would be able to cover all the entire country. If my students go around the two little maintenant houses, they would be able to cover all the entire country. If you talk around these two little maintenant houses, they will be able to cover all the entire country.

We have only one conclusion to this puzzling question. The professors want to give the students the best education possible. The students want to get their education cheaper and at a minimum price. We have already put the contract together.

Sig Tau to hold spring wash car sale

To the editor

I was impressed today on the strong stand taken on cheating as you pass them by. I was too late. Are "honesty" and "good work" worth the extra work? Does it matter to you if they cheat? I give grades to each level he gives. In most cases I giv grades even if I give them. I give grades as they were the only subjects I didn't like. But I was delighted most of the students who gave the "A" in a class of 28. It made me feel that perhaps I had taught better and reached more people with my efforts.

I suppose justification for cheating (a "tough profit") also interested me more. I know I have this reputation although it is CSU, "I was the one who has made a lot of money." I will not name it on the obvious matter of living by principle. However, what is a tough profit, first of all I must, I simply requiring a greater effort the students part in the business of learning, which is the only reason any student should be in an educational institution at which attendance is voluntary. How many students could honestly say that they are overlooked at WSC?

The "tough profit" merely says, "put a bit more effort in you and you will get more out of your education," which in vital to your life as a person, a citizen, a parent, and your career. Student, must, must be as little as possible, must be as little as possible, be engaged in living teachers and all be parents. A tough profit is something that is either to do as little as he can get away with. Finally, what would be the advantage of them that turn out to be if they have the example of cheats for teachers and/or part- ners?

Sincerely, Dr. Marvin Lichtenberg

Dear Editor

I read the editorial, "We Still Want Peace, Winona," which appeared in the March 24, 1944 issue of The Winonaian. This remained an interesting question for the student concerned for expression many years ago. I was the first president what is now the Student Senate.

Freedom of speech in college classrooms is not being curbed. There isn't any great responsibility attached to it. It would seem better to change the emphasis on freedom of inquiry rather than placing restrictions on freedom of speech.

Winona State College is essentially a teacher training institution, but it is not receiving the training expected to be being placed on teachers call for more time in training. Too much of the training of beginning teachers is placed on the student's own money. This is not only true of other teacher training institutions but also of medical, law, library and engineering schools. Can you imagine a medical student going to his professor demanding free speech in an organic chemistry class?

In teacher education we are finding that the state of basic communication is definitely not to meet minimum standards for instructors and students. The instructors are faced with responsibility of helping beginning teachers to improve the people in the field of education. The organizational and management skills. It is quite appropriate for students of education to develop skill in the art of listening, being able to assimilate ideas and analyze and approach teacher education as an experience in discovery.

For this reason I believe that a student can improve himself if he has the freedom of speech with ideas, concepts and generalizations. These are often based on research. The class needs to risk the lack of insight. An opinion is tested in terms of the need to understand the part of the class and how it is good breadth and depth. It is hoped that this will serve as a reason for attending college.

No one will deny a pupil or student the right to an opinion. He or she will have one regardless of how it may be imposed. We all enjoy freedom of thought. We all have a right to enjoy free speech when it is carried on in its purest form. My recent contact with graduates and students of WSC would make me believe that freedom of speech is not being curbed as much as we do believe. My students are not putting up the backing, the state of the case is everybody's."
Trackmen shape up for season

The Warrior track squad will open its season April 11 in a dual meet at Luther College at Decorah, Iowa. There are a total of 12 meets on the schedule. Coach Maury Kohn has named his captains for the year, in the likes of Harry Dero and Dick Lettau, both seniors. Lettau's specialty is the half mile and Dave Sayre, 440 yards.

The infielders will be particularly strong in the distance and relay events this year, thanks to the addition of several first-year men. Work aspects will probably be centered around the sprints and field events.

The candidates have been working out for approximately a month now, concentrating on leg strengthening exercises and light jogging so they may be at their peak when the season opens next Tuesday.

The squad is comprised of but the half mile and Dave Sayre, 440 yards.
