The rural schools which were represented provided a brief but interesting program, which included singing by the members of the respective schools and gymnastic stunts which were presented by the East Burns Valley school. During the noon hour the teachers college band under the direction of Harold Estabrook entertained the parents, children, and teachers with a concert of lively marches.

The major part of the afternoon was spent in playing games under the supervision of the physical education department, the children being divided into three groups according to age.

Alumni Society To Sponsor Reunion

One of the most anticipated events of the closing of the year is the alumni reunion and banquet. On Tuesday, June 5, at 5:30 there will be a reunion of all graduates who have come back for the commencement exercises and that same evening members of the graduating classes will be guests of the alumni society. The committee is expecting a goodly number of them to be given at Money Hall. This is an annual affair and serves both as a farewell to college life and an introduction to the alumni society.

President Maxwell will be toastmaster at the dinner. The greetings to the graduates will be given by Charles Simmons. The response from the classes will be given by George McCusky.

Following this there will be brief talks by Mrs. Mary Kinney Swain, Mr. Munson and Mrs. Halsey Cory.

Mrs. Swain will speak on the teacher; Mr. Munson, the graduate; and Mrs. Cory, the school. At the conclusion of the dinner the college songs will be sung.

At Faribault the class visited the schools for the blind and the shoemakers.

On May 22, the second trip was taken to Hastings via Red Wing. One of the supervisors at Rivervale Training School for Boys at Red Wing, Miss Adams, who is a sister of one of our students, Inez Adams, acted as the guide. She explained the various cases in which she thought the class would be most interested. At Hastings the Men’s Incurable State Insane Asylum was visited.

RARE LEADERSHIP MARKS MISS GILDEMEISTER’S TEACHING CAREER

In the period of thirty-six years teaching and supervising direction that Miss Gildemeister has devoted to public education on the faculty of the Winona Normal School and Teachers College she has established a record of exceptional results. Her mind is creative, logical, always constructive.

She has been a real leader. Her approach to any situation is impersonal. She believes in the spirit of youth. She has shown a genius for discovering the talent that has lain latent in the young candidates who come to be trained for the teaching vocation.

The enduring results of this inspiring teacher’s qualities in the heart, mind, and soul are wide and will be as lasting as is the conception of public education to which her life has been dedicated. Among the large number of devoted women who have labored for better conceptions of what true education is and can be made to achieve, she is one of the most worthy representatives.

Miss Gildemeister’s part in bringing to completion a sound, permanent, and successful state re- tirement fund for teachers is in itself a monument to her many creditable services. Her processes have never ceased to operate short of a realized goal. She is realistic, hence practical; her sympathy has been balanced with unbiased, mature judgment.

A number of social functions have been given in her honor, including a faculty tea in the club room, May 15, and also a dinner by the Rotary Club. Several programs of the 1934 Wenonah also have been dedicated to her.

On November 11, 1918, a sigh of relief rose from the armed camp. The United States, which finds it necessary to curtail expenditures for education, races and plants for the junior high school. Never again would we allow those who profit by the slaughtering of the finest in our society to profit by the expenditure of the children of our country.

Editors Disturb Sleeping Ghosts

It's seven o'clock Monday night. No church bells ring in the village tower — no lights in the belfry other but six females. Paul Re-veer does prepare to carry the newseum to the people. Yes, it's press night for the Winonaan.

Up to this time the editors have not read about midnight. They have seen the editors of the newspaper. To see the white of the reporter's eyes means it is getting the shot to be heard round the world.

Now everything's going to start. There is no time to waste. Seven o'clock in the activities room just as the main corridor of college hall.

While the editors measure and pin and the copy reader counts heads. The rewrite editor puts life into a badly mutilated story handed in late by a reporter. Everyone holds his breath — has his "sympathizing" and "teasing" been good or is his head too big for the story. It is one of life's tragedies that type wasn't made of rubber.

Student wins too with its steady tick tock out in the sleeping quarters. Ghosts of "murdered" hymns float out from the auditories half opened door. But the paper must come out!

George E. St. John, '86, is now located in Tacoma, Washington, at 2214 South Cushman Avenue. Mr. St. John is very familiar with the University Education Club, and teaching during his career. He has given a great deal of study and thought to the preparation of a text book entitled "The Instruc-able Unit, Method of Teaching Spelling and Pronunciation." This work contains many interesting and unusual features.
If a Certain Modern Bard Had Written “Trees”
It often strikes me as being queer and unusual and really quite odd, That nobody in the whole world, with the definite exception, probably of God, Can make a tree. Anyone can make pomegranates for arboreals or pate de foie gras or homes. But a tree is different; a horse of another color; something else again: A tree that is always looking at heaven and never at men. A tree that may, for all you or I know or imagine or care. He weaving, to express its individuality or something, a hat of cobalt in its hair; Who (meaning the tree) has a bosom on which the snow has lain, And who has been kept by, or at least lived intimately with, rain. Now pomeons, in brief, are made by looks like you or, more frequently, like me; But I don’t suppose you’ll ever catch either one of us going around dashing off a tree.
— Paul North.

NUTS TO YOU
It takes more than 1,360 nuts to hold an automobile together, but it takes only one to scatter it all over the landscape.

POLICY OF THE “WINONAN”
Boiling it Down
The reporter came idly into the office.

"Well," said the editor, “what did our eminent statesman have to say?”

"Nothing."

"Well, keep it down to a column.”

GENESIS AND EXODUS
When Noah sailed the waters blue He had his troubles, same as you. For forty days he drove the Ark Before he found a place to park.

MARBLE BROW TO “BONEHEAD”
Professor: “Why did you not answer my question?”
Student: “I did. I shook my head.”
Professor: “Well, you don’t expect me to hear it rattle from here, do you?”

MOVIEGOER’S DICTIONARY;
SPECIALIZED: Micheare. [Same definition for episocal, incomparable, and so on.] PLOT: Minor detail. JOKE: See Joe Miller’s Reference Book. SOME: Variation on an old theme. COLLEGE: Pleasure place for the pursuit of football, dancing, singing, and so on. DETECTIVE: (a) Police: moron, idiot. (b) Amateur: genius, master mind. ENGLISHMAN: Half-wit, sillyerson. STENOGRAPHER: Girl in love with her employer. COLLEGE: Pleasure place for the pursuit of football, dancing, singing, and so on.

Dr. Emil Murphy Elected To Staff
In the period following her return to her home with the close of our winter quarter, Miss Murphy’s father passed away. Miss Murphy will therefore have her mother with her at Winona for most of the time. The securities of an additional teacher in the field of English to succeed Miss Theda Gildemeister are safe, and the dean feels that the professor who will succeed Miss Theda Gildemeister in the field of English is a part of the plan to strengthen the academic phases of the college curriculum; while at the same time maintaining a high standard of work in the professional or educational field.
