Vol. XXXIV No. 1
WINONA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, WINONA, MINN., OCTOBER 27, 1947

Comely Queen and Her Court

Enrollment Reaches New High

The full quarter enrollment of 605 students has topped last year's all-time high of 601 entrants. The freshman class has again taken the lead with 270 students. One hundred and fifty-six sophomores, 60 juniors, and 34 seniors complete the group. Sixty-five percent of the women registered at the college are enrolled in the regular teacher training program. This represents a near return to prewar ratios.

The men of the college still outnumber the coeds by sixty-two to one and one-half per cent to thirty-seven and one-half per cent.

Dr. Minor, president of the college, wishes to express his thanks to the citizens of Winona, for bringing to house students.

Ruth Bierbaum Chosen Queen

Ruth Bierbaum, a senior who comes from Eyota, has been crowned Queen of Homecoming for 1947. A chalking beauty with an engaging smile, she is extremely popular throughout the campus. She is a Phi Eta Major, and is unusually active in extra-curricular activities. She is president of the Associated Women Students and also of the Phi Ed Club, vice president of Winona's Athletic Association and of the Science Club, and secretary of Kappa Delta Pi.

Year Book Staff Organized

At a staff organization meeting, Evelyn Stephan, Plainview, was chosen editor of the 1948 Winona college yearbook which would be distributed in the spring. She will be aided by Jean Felderman, Winona, assistant editor; Ray Jahnke, La Crosse, business manager; Edwin Johnson, Winona, photographer; and Phil Fellows, advertising manager. Other members of the staff will be chosen from those students who applied for positions on the annual staff. Dr. Ellis Murphy is faculty adviser of this group.

Pep Fest Opens 3-Day Festivities

One of the most gala Homecomings of many years is being celebrated this weekend by the Winona State Teachers College, in an air of mixed nostalgia and fervent enthusiasm. Kick-off of the two-day alumni welcome was a pep fest held in Somsen Auditorium. It was highlighted by the crowning of a Homecoming queen. Actual name of the winning candidate was withheld until the moment of her presentation on the stage.

Evening events will be capped by a roaring Homecoming bonfire and snake dance at Maxwell Field, led by the cheerleaders and the college band directed by Mr. Royer.

Saturday, the entire college is to be open to alumni, with both faculty and students waiting to welcome them. Between 10 and 11 the time set to renew old friendships at a coffee hour in the social room. Refreshments will be served by a committee from Money Hall.

Game Time to be 2:00 p.m.

Two o'clock will see the kickoff of the Homecoming game when the Winona Warriors meet the Huskies from St. Cloud at Jefferson Field. Following the game the doors of the dormitories and dormitories will be open to receive alumni and friends.

The annual Homecoming dance will begin at 9 p.m. Saturday evening. Charley Russel and his orchestra, a two-piece band from La Crosse, will provide the music.

The annual Homecoming dance will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Winona Hotel at 11:30.

WELCOME ALUMNI!

In these times of crowded colleges an enrollment of 600 is not large. But when our own enrollment of 605 exceeds the last maximum set at this college in 1925, the fact is at least noteworthy. This peak has been reached with less of our enrollment due to veterans than last year. More of our students, 75 per cent in all, have named teaching as their professional goal.

These facts of our present enrollment indicate a stabilizing trend which will be observed carefully as we move into the post-war decade of college education. This year our staff has been increased in number, and new fields of instruction for this college have been opened. Added facilities and equipment will gradually provide better instructional aid in new and existing fields of offering.

Enrollment, staff size and plant facilities are external evidence of growth in the service a college gives. More fundamental is the question of growth and maturity in the student body which college, if allowed, will not fail to stimulate. Both present students and alumni will be interested to know that this important problem is continually under study by our staff through many groups and committees.

This 88th year continues on a note of encouragement and optimism as we consider the implications of our growth in size and in service.

President Minnè
Editor Says —

September, 1947 finds enrollment in colleges and universities at an all-time high. This influx of students into educational institutions indicates that young people face serious problems of adjustment in the modern world, but clear statement of specific aims is often lacking.

We say we are seeking an education, and by that we mean more than merely putting in four years at college. The American educational system has been criticized for producing unrealistic students, who, when they leave, do not know how and why we may avoid such criticism.

Perhaps the answer lies in Dr. Lokensaagard's opening convocation address. Our business is scholarship. No clearer statement of our purpose can be made. Other college activities have much to contribute, but if we are to prepare seriously for our place in the modern world, it is in scholarship that we must seek our answer.

Council Elects Board of Review

The Administrative Council, composed of faculty members of the college, has been discussing student recommendations concerning college publications and policies relating thereto.

Because college publications bear the school's name and represent a closely supervised and sanctioned enterprise, the adviser of the publication shall have the responsibility of editing, deleting, or excluding from publication any matter submitted by the staff or other persons. There shall be a Board of Review to whom either the adviser or the student editor may refer questionable material. At the discretion of the adviser, the board may pass on any and all material on an issue or any issue.

The Board of Review shall consist of three faculty members and three student members. Faculty members of the Board are Mr. Boots, Chairman of the Division of Language and Literature; Dr. Galligan, and Mr. Pederison, who members were elected by the faculty. The three student members, one each from the junior, senior, and sophomore classes, were elected by the student body.

Homecoming - Rah! Rah! Rah!

By Jean Zamboni

Everybody loves Homecoming — it's the spirit of the thing. But what is this Homecoming, and where did it start?

I met some primitive people in my wanderings around the globe who set me to thinking that our civilized institution called Homecoming is not such a young idea after all. This is the story of Homecoming in Rocks as told by me the chief Buckley of the Royal Wall.

It seems that in the early days, before man was regarded as better than the beasts, a certain hunter left his cave early in the night to search for a midnight snack. (For you see, even in those early times men had stomachs.) We'll call this fellow Butch. Well, Butch who was a considerable cave man who did not want to disturb Mrs. Butch, tipped her gently on the head with his stone hammer so that she would not wake and worry on finding him gone.

Came the dawn; Butch was not yet home, and Mrs. Butch was beginning to come out of her sound sleep. When she saw that her husband was not in the cave, she decided that Butch had gone off to catch some breakfast down at the stream. She loved fried fish so she hurriedly rubbed two sticks together and threw another stone on the fire. As the sun sank in the golden west she was still throwing stones on the fire. Her brave spirit kept her little mind busy and she did not notice that she should be worrying about her lost man. This went on for several days.

In the meantime, the brave hunter was out in the woods stalking anything he could find. That first night out he could find nothing but a white grass-plant which he devoured in three gulps. This great event later became known as the "Case of the Celeri Stalks at Midnight." But the next day his menu was lacking in everything altogether. Things had never been this bad before. Now he was out of the woods and in the field. Life was rugged, life was hard, but Butch never once thought of giving up — it never occurred to him that the naiest way out would be to die dead.

That's the way those pioneers died — never a thought about themselves.

After ten days of this — more or less — Butch caught a Necksperience to take home. It was a struggle, but Butch learned early in life that a Necksperience is the best teacher; therefore, he learned so well from his Necksperiences that he turned into a furred, animal himself; he made an end of him in a hurry. This is known today as taking the bull by the horns.

Weeks later when Butch arrived back at the cave he found his little wife busying herself on her pile of stones. She, too, had made progress while Butch was away. She was cleaning the caves and making little rock candies, and this interested the beast. When Mrs. Butch saw Butch come into the clearing, she shotted for joy. She shouted so loudly that the nearest neighbors — who were just a Screamometer away, came rushing through the tree tops to see what was going on. When they saw this man with a week's growth of beard, they figured he must be an enemy, and the man neighbors immediately began to pound on the head. It was a good thing they aimed at his head, because that way he couldn't get hurt very much. Because Butch had been leading such a roughed life, he was ready to tackle anything — so naturally he won. But the two boys found this playful scuffle amusing; they decided to do it every so often. This is now known as sports at homecoming.

Now naturally, as long as the fellows were going to have a party frequently, the girls felt they rightfully should entertain one another. This meant cleaning the caves and making little rock candies, and thus today we have open house at homecoming.

This became traditional and after years and years the number of hunters going out into the world and coming back with Necksprises became so great that it was necessary to build a special place in which to hold these celebrations. Thus was born the college. So, dear reader, next time you hear someone say that colleges have Homecomings, tell them how it really is.

Although it is not possible to capture the infectious quality of Jean Zamboni's laugh, we have done the best we could by bringing you her smile. The expression you see here is typical of her sparkling personality.

Her student activities, when programing, are as many as they resemble the famous Chicago bal- - Jan is president of both the Wenonah Players and Kappa Delta Pi, national educational honor society, vice-president of the Student Association, and an active member of Kappa Pi, Newman Club, and Di-O-No-Mo. At the moment, she is one of the students working to make our plans for Homecoming a success. Jan is a "tearjer" art major, and a good one — something unusual, we understand. Her minor accomplishments are speech and English, but if you have heard her announce the weekly Radio Guild program we think you will agree that she is far from minor accomplishments.

Jean, who has a lovely voice, has been an active member of Mendelsohn for the past four years. She is treasurer of that organization at the present time.

V. A. Administrators Tests to Veterans

The Veteran's Administration of Winona, affiliated with the Rochester branch, has been sponsoring a battery of fifty tests that veterans may take by request. These tests arranged for by Dr. Raymond and Mr. Marion, and administered by V. A. personnel, analyze an individual as to interest, vocational choice, and ability. Some of the tests determine individual personality.

Mr. Owen is in charge of the testing program within the college. He stated that the Thurston test is required of students to determine their capability level. The Kuder Preference Record test is available to the veterans requesting it at this college. It has to do with vocational interests and represents a catalogue of the activities entering into a large number of vocations. The G.P.I. test is given in specific fields for determining credit that a veteran may take by request. The tests these arranged for by Dr. Raymond and Mr. Marion, and administered by V. Money Appropriated For New Bleachers

Boyum, Schubert and Sorenson have been named architects for the new concrete bleachers to be built at Maxwell field, in 1948. Increased construction costs have made the $80,000 appropriated by the state legislature at its 1947 session inadequate to complete the structure as first planned. Original plans called for a seating capacity of 1,400 with overall length of 270 feet.

The present wood bleachers will be removed and the track and football fields moved about 10 feet. To avoid danger from those tracks, the concrete bleachers to be built at Maxwell field, in 1948.

Warriors Nudge Duluth 7-0

Outdistanced in the air, on the ground, and in the first down column, the Winona Warriors capitalized on a third quarter pass interception by Cook, and two line plays, to set up the winning touchdown against the University of Minnesota-Duluth branch at Ordean Field in Duluth, October 11.

Early in the third quarter after a see-saw first half, halfback Dick Cook intercepted a Duluth pass on his own 30 yard line and ran it back to the Duluth 35. Clausen got 5 yards through the line and Traxler added 11 for a first down. Three more plays failed to produce and on fourth down, Cook, badly rushed and nearly tackled, got off an amazing pass to Traxler in the end zone. Bennett converted and the scoring was over.

Duluth, primed for the game, stormed back and only a shift in defensive tactics prevented the speedy Bulldogs from scoring on several occasions during the remainder of the game. Much credit should go to the Warrior line for the heroic stands they made on three occasions when Duluth threatened seriously. It was down in the shadow of their own goal that the real superiority of the Purple forward wall was most in evidence.

Warriors Meet Huskies Tomorrow

At least two points stand to be cleared up tomorrow afternoon when the Winona Warriors meet the St. Cloud Huskies on Jefferson Field at 2 o'clock. First will be the addition of another chapter to the "Who keeps the mythical goat?" saga. The second? "Can the jinx of Jefferson be broken?"

The goat trophy personifies a friendly rivalry which has existed between the two schools for many years. Sometimes mythical, sometimes an actuality, the goat has proven a prize possession for the winning team. At the present, it is in the Huskies possession.

Jefferson Field may prove a psychological factor. Since its inauguration this fall, seven games have been played there by City schools. Of these, one was a tied score, six were lost, none have been won. Five of these billys have gone down with the tally 6-0.

St. Cloud has a highly touted organization; their record this year has been admirable. Winona has a team vastly superior to those of the past few seasons. Their record has been good, but for freakish breaks, might have been better.

W. A. A. Spotlight
by Jean Carlston

This column is dedicated to former students and fellow teammates. I cannot take you out on the field for a bang-up game of soccer, but I can tell you about this season's attraction. Are you listening?

Members of the W. A. A. board planned a play-day type party for the opening day of the 1947 year. The twenty-five girls who turned out were anxious to postpone the bruised shins, so they spent the afternoon on the softball diamond and the volleyball court. Marion Brustuen held the balls and strikes for the spring sports fans. Janice Sobotta joined the volleyball game and kept things running smoothly. When I cornered Dorine (Danney) Daniels, sport leader, for news of the coming soccer tournament she refused to make any predictions. She only invited everyone interested in having a good time to join us. We play on Mondays and Wednesdays from 4 to 5 on the Ogden lawn.

Heading the W. A. A. board this year are Clyda Dressen, president; Ruth Bierbaum, vice-president; and Marion Brustuen, secretary-treasurer. Other members of the board are Evelyn Stephan, Hazel Hellick, Lorraine Snyder, and Janice Sobotta. Two freshmen representatives will be elected.

I know that there are many former members of the Phy. Ed. Club that I haven't met. In case you didn't receive a card telling you about the club reunion, I will take this opportunity to invite you to Dr. Talbot's for coffee at 12:30 Saturday afternoon (203 W. Fifth St.). I hope to see you there.
