Costa Rica Acts To Quell Revolt

By CARLOS ESCUDERO
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—The government of Costa Rica President Jose Figueres promised decisive action today to quell a revolt at Villa Quesada, about 60 miles north of San Jose.

A government spokesman said about 40 men apparently were involved in the uprising, although the army chief of staff earlier had estimated the attacking force at 75 to 100.

A communique said government troops, hastily sent to the scene when the revolt broke yesterday, were dug in near the town after consolidating their positions and setting up communications.

The 21-nation Organization of American States ordered a five-nation commission to fly here today to investigate. Costa Rica blamed neighboring Nicaragua for the uprising, a charge denied by the Nicaraguan government.

Col. Rodolfo Quiros, Costa Rican chief of staff, announced last night that two government soldiers were wounded in an initial clash with the rebels, who he said also seized several villages in the Villa Quesada area.

A general staff bulletin said refugees from the area reported that the revolt broke out shortly after a two-motored plane with no lights or visible identification flew over Villa Quesada. A group of about 40 men drove into the town in a truck and a station wagon and took over the mayor's office.

The report said the men came from the north, the direction of the Nicaraguan border.

Villa Quesada is about 40 miles from the Nicaraguan frontier and has a population of about 3,500.

Climaxing a long quarrel between the two Central American neighbors, Costa Rica accused Nicaragua of "direct aggression."

In a message to the OAS Council, the San Jose government said it expects to receive military aid from the other American states "to repel the forces of invasion."

Costa Rica's only military force is its 1,200-man civil guard, a kind of citizen's militia with a reserve estimated at 4,000 to 5,000 men.

Nicaragua promptly described the charges as "foolish" and denied that the attacking force had come from its territory.

"The bold accusations by the Costa Rican government," the statement said, "correspond to the well-known tactics used by unpopular chiefs of state, who try to stir up public opinion in their favor by terming as invasion a rebel uprising in the heart of their own country, in which their nationals exclusively participate."

My Resignation Was Demanded, Swenson States

Governor Plans Committee to Pick New Warden

By JACK B. MACKAY

STILLWATER, Minn. (AP)—Edwin T. Swenson, warden of Stillwater Prison, said flatly today he did not resign as warden because of ill health but that he was "whipped" and "beaten down" in a meeting with Morris Hursh, new state public welfare commissioner.

Swenson had signed a resignation statement Friday during the meeting with Hursh and A. C. Gillette, supervisor of the welfare department's correction program. It said: "Because of my present health, I am resigning as warden."

Swenson issued a prepared statement at a press conference at his prison grounds residence today in which he said "I did not resign because of ill health. My resignation was the result of a two and a half hour conference" with Hursh and Gillette.

Asked why he signed the resignation with ill health as the reason, Swenson replied: "After two and a half hours, I was whipped. I never entered into anything dirty in my life. The warden added: 'I was just beaten down.'"

He then said "they told me that political changes come about. They also referred to my spell of illness and it makes a nice out—a nice solution."

Swenson said he had "no inkling" that the matter was coming up when he was summoned to St. Paul through a telephone call from Gillette last Friday. He told me the matter was so urgent that "he could not discuss it by telephone."

Asked if he was given reasons for the resignation, Swenson said that Hursh and Gillette talked generally about not getting a rehabilitation program started and that no specific reasons were given. Swenson said Hursh and Gillette had threatened to prefer removal charges against him if he did not turn in his resignation adding: "They said it had to be settled today, right in this office."

Swenson said he believed the groundwork for his removal was actually laid by Jarle Leirfallom, who was replaced by Hursh as public welfare commissioner.

Swenson implied that his relationship with Leirfallom had not been as favorable as when Swenson was first appointed.

The warden said he was feeling fine and added that "my doctor said I'm coming along in good shape."

Swenson had been on a month's leave last fall because of ill health and reportedly had suffered from hypertension.

At a press conference in St. Paul, Gov. Orville L. Freeman said plans were going ahead for selection of a new warden.

"There has been some speculation that the resignation of Swenson was accepted for political reasons," Freeman said. "This is not true."

"As far as I am concerned the case is closed," he continued. "We are looking for a new warden."

Tuesday the governor said he "stood firmly behind" Commissioner Hursh and that he has "every confidence" in Hursh's action in the controversy.

Swenson stepped in as Stillwater warden on the day a serious riot broke out in April, 1953. He said he had worked "endless hours" and "into the night" for 15 months before he even took a day off.

Trans World Airlines Craft Down With 13

Bodies Scattered Over 200-Yard Area in Snow

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Fifteen persons were believed to have been killed today in a mid-air crash between two large airplanes several miles southwest of the Greater Cincinnati Airport. The airport is 12 miles southwest of Cincinnati.

One of the planes was a Trans World Airlines ship enroute to Dayton and Cleveland. The other plane was not identified immediately, but was believed to be carrying two persons.

TWA identified the crew members as Capt. J. W. Quinn, 41, Edgemont Ave., Belleville, Mich.; R. Childers, co-pilot, 1824 Arch St. Ann Arbor, Mich., and Miss Pat Stermer, hostess, 731 Towner, Ypsilanti, Mich.

The other plane, a Douglas DC-3, bearing serial number N-999-B was understood to have taken off from Battle Creek, Mich., with pilot Arthur Slim Werkhaven, Surgis, Mich., and co-pilot Edward Agner, Battle Creek, aboard. The information came in a telephone call to the airport at Battle Creek.

Also reported to have been aboard the TWA plane was Robert Sobul, about 38, Columbus, Ohio, district manager for Swank Jewelry, Inc.

Test Accident Since 1944
Paul D. Strahm, Columbus, TWA passenger representative, said it was the first domestic accident experienced by TWA airliners since Dec. 1, 1944.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority control tower at the Greater Cincinnati Airport said it had no knowledge there was any other plane but the TWA within miles of the area.

"As far as we knew the TWA plane was the only one in the area," the tower operator stated. "We had no culls or flight plan to indicate any other plane was within miles of the area."

The planes fell two miles apart, according to John Hedrick, operator of a flying service. One of the first men to fly over the scene, he said he doubted there were any survivors.

He said he saw bodies lying about a 200-yard area.

Plane Identified
Later at Battle Creek, Mich., the National Carbon Coated Paper Co. of Sturgis, Mich., identified the DC-3 as a plane belonging to that firm which took off at 8 a. m. CST from Kellogg Field at Battle Creek.

The plane was to have proceeded to Lexington, Ky., to pick up Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Van Lennep, wealthy Detroit race horse owners. Mrs. Van Lennep, the former Frances Dodge, is an officer in the firm which owned the plane.

The plane then was scheduled to carry the Van Lenneps to Del Ray, Florida.

Both Werkhaven and Agner are married and each has two children. They were employed as test pilots on bombers produced at Willow Run Airport outside Detroit during World War II.

Badger Lawmakers Open 72nd Session

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's lawmakers met here today for the opening of their 72nd regular legislative session, in which they will face problems ranging from financing the state for the next two years to settlement of farmers' line fences.

The biennial session of the Legislature opened at noon today in both the Senate and the Assembly.

Pressure Being Put On Asia

By JOSEPH ALSOP

BANGKOK, Thailand—Here in Bangkok, it is easy to summarize the plot of the grand future drama of South Asia. Will world Communism be able to cross the Great Divide that separates the Chinese Communists and their Viet Minh allies from the rest of this strategically vital region? Or will the Communist advance be halted at this natural border line?

These are the questions that have to be answered, in quite large part by American policy. The answers will determine the future, not of Thailand only, but of the whole trend of history in our times. But before anything else, the nature of this Great Divide in South Asia has to be understood.

In brief, the Vietnamese, who inhabit the coast of Indochina, Tonkin, Annam, and Cochinchina in the South, may be regarded as a flowing back of Chinese power into regions where Chinese power has always predominated.

The other nations of South Asia—the two other Indochinese states, Laos and Cambodia, this rich and smiling country of Thailand, Burma, Malaya and Indonesia have an altogether different character.

Chinese imperialism has often in the past been felt by these peoples, as it is being felt today. But the (Continued on Page 15, Column 8)

Freeman Appoints Hastings Man to Liquor Control Post

ST. PAUL (AP)—Gov. Orville Freeman today named Harry A. Sieben, Hastings businessman, to be state liquor control commissioner. Sieben, Democratic - Farmer - Labor candidate for Congress from the second district in 1950 and 1954, will take over the post Jan. 17.

He will succeed Dudley C. Erickson, who has been commissioner since he was appointed by Gov. Luther Youngdahl on Jan. 10, 1947.

In announcing the appointment, Freeman repeated his previously announced policy of strict enforcement of the liquor laws. Sieben, 40, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and served in World War II.

He has managed the family drug store in Hastings, served as Minnesota director of the Office of Price Stabilization during the Korean War, and was personnel manager of the Northwest Airlines bomber modification center at Holman Field in St. Paul in 1944-45.

He also has held sales promotion and administrative positions with several Twin Cities firms.

71 Leap From Burning C119s

SEWART AIR FORCE BASE, Tenn. (AP)—Engine blazes in two C119 Flying Boxcars marred a paratrooper drill to Alaska yesterday with a flaming crash here and a forced landing in Montana.

A total of 68 paratroopers and three airmen parachuted to safety from the two planes, but two crewmen of the plane which crashed—presumably the pilot and copilot—still were missing today as Air Force investigators poked through the smoking wreckage.

Names of the missing men were not released.

Thirty-five airborne infantrymen and three crewmen jumped when an engine burst into flames shortly after the twin-engine craft took off here.

Only hours earlier, 33 paratroopers used their chutes when an engine caught fire on their plane near Miles City, Mont. Pilot-Capt. T.G. Johnson of Sewart AFB then guided the plane to the Miles City airport without incident.

The two Boxcars were part of a flight of 80 ferrying 3,000 airborne troops from Ft. Campbell, Ky., to Alaska for Operation Snowbird, a winter exercise. Paratroopers involved in both jumps were members of the 503rd Airborne Infantry Regiment.

The crash scene here was about three miles from the base. Witnesses said the plane spun nose first into the earth, then burst into "a great mushroom of fire and smoke."

Second Lt. James Reynolds, Melbourne, Fla., platoon leader of the paratroopers aboard, said his men thought it was in a stall when the crew chief ordered them to prepare to jump.

Reynolds said the men followed briefing instructions exactly and 30 seconds later the passenger compartment was empty.

"I don't know what happened to the pilot, but he did a good job. He gave us all the time we needed."

The troopers bailed out at 8,000 feet and came down in near-freezing weather over an area more than three miles across. Most landed on the base. One man, Pfc. Richard L. Dalton, Benton Harbor, Mich., was hospitalized overnight with minor injuries.

Another proposal offered today calls for a constitutional amendment to permit the Legislature to fix the time and length of its sessions. The constitution now limits the Legislature to a 90-day meeting every two years.

The measure was sponsored by Sens. J. A. Johnson, Preston, Gordon Butler, Duluth, and Magnus Wefald, Hawley. A similar bill passed the Senate in 1953 but failed to come to a vote in the House.

Ladejinsky Case Responsibility Stassen's: Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has reached no judgment personally in the Wolf Ladejinsky case, and that Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen must take full responsibility for whatever is the eventual outcome of keeping Ladejinsky in government service.

The President discussed the controversial security case at his news conference and emphasized that he had only one side of the story when he once remarked to Secretary of Agriculture Benson that Ladejinsky's background was the sort that would scare him.

Hammarskjold Flying Back Across Pacific

TOKYO (U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold flew home today on his way to report to the U.N. and the world on his efforts to free 11 Americans and other U.N. prisoners held by the Communists.

He is due in New York tomorrow. The date for his report has not been announced.

Hammarskjold and his party stopped in Tokyo less than an hour on the trip from Peiping to New York.

He has refused steadily to give any indication of the results of his four talks with Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

Hammarskjold's U.S. Air Force Constellation was due in Hawaii this morning, Hawaii time. It should arrive in San Francisco later today and New York tomorrow.

At U.N. headquarters, a top aide to Hammarskjold said the Swedish diplomat has made progress but he advised giving the situation "a little time."

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said: "He has made progress toward the goal set for him by the General Assembly to 'make, by the means most appropriate in his judgment, continuing and unremitting efforts for the release of the 11 fliers and other U.N. Command personnel still detained.'"

"The talks in Peiping were 'useful' toward this end. They established a basis upon which further progress can be made."

In their communique, Hammarskjold and Chou said the discussions were "useful" but gave no details.

In London, senior diplomatic officials said the mission apparently has only finished the first step toward winning freedom for men held by the Chinese Reds.

In the United States, Secretary of State Dulles said the United States would be "slow to anger" in facing issues which could upset peace, but the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a top Republican senator used a blockade of Red China if everything else fails.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford said a blockade would have a great effect on the Red Chinese and would be the best way to tackle such a problem.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said a blockade would be dangerous but "I believe to squeeze them economically would be the best sanction to apply."

Talk of a blockade has fallen flat with President Eisenhower and Dulles, who have termed it warlike.

There has been no comment from Red China.

Hammarskjold crossed from Red China into British Hong Kong last night, then flew to Tokyo.

Hammarskjold's plane, on the Tokyo-Honolulu hop was piloted by Maj. Elmer E. Dunn, Portland, Me.

Ambassador Luce Urges Continuation Of Aid to Italy

WASHINGTON (U.S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce was said today to be urging continued military and economic aid to Italy to help Premier Mario Scelba's government in its fight to overcome native Communism.

Mrs. Luce, now home for consultations, was reported arguing any substantial cutback in American assistance would jeopardize Italian development projects which she says promise to reduce Italy's critical unemployment problem.

As a result of her plea, the Foreign Operations Administration is expected to announce shortly a new aid allocation for Italy from available funds instead of ending such assistance as had been planned.

Opposition Member New President of French Assembly

PARIS (U.S. Pierre Schneider, a member of the opposition to Premier Pierre Mendes-France, is the new president of the French National Assembly. Though his election last night was considered a slap at the Premier, Communist voting tactics put him into office.

Schneider defeated the incumbent Assembly president, Socialist Andre le Troquer, on the third ballot because the Communists withheld from Le Troquer the support they had given him a year ago. Instead, the Reds voted throughout for their party's elder statesman, 85-year-old Marcel Cachin.

The decisive vote was Schneider 232, Le Troquer 188 and Cachin 88. Schneider, 49-year-old former minister from the Champagne region, is a member of the Popular Republican Movement (MRP), which has opposed the Premier since he refused to fight last summer for ratification of the European Defense Community.

His election, however, is not likely to affect the Premier's legislative program. The Assembly president is a neutral officer who does not even take part in voting.

FTC Turns Up Nose at Claims On Mushrooms

WASHINGTON (U.S. Mushroom raising is no bed of roses, says the Federal Trade Commission, and it doesn't smell like one either. The commission filed false advertising charges today against the Washington Mushroom Industries, Inc., of Seattle, a firm which sells mushroom spawn and fertilizer.

The FTC challenged the company's claim that mushroom beds have no odor and can be placed satisfactorily in a spare room. These beds produce "a very disagreeable odor," in the view of the FTC lawyers.

Neither is it true, said FTC, that mushroom growing is a "pleasant, easy occupation," providing a substantial income even to those without experience; nor that the firm's mushroom spawn will produce "extraordinary financial returns" to buyers.

On the contrary, the commission said, successful mushroom operations require a high degree of skill and amateurs "cannot earn extraordinary profits, particularly in view of the company's charges for spawn and fertilizer."

The company and its president, Arthur T. Lelles, were given 20 days to answer the complaint. A hearing was scheduled for March 1 in Seattle.

Riot Quelled But Lepers Now on Sitdown Strike

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (U.S. Police have quelled a revolt by 300 inmates of the Chacachacare Island leper colony, but the patients are on a sitdown strike protesting the removal of the doctor who gave them a Christmas holiday in Trinidad.

The police took over the 151-acre islet, 13 miles west of here, yesterday after the inmates seized control in an effort to prevent the ouster of Dr. Corcos, superintendent of the settlement.

Corcos was returned to the mainland last night by a police launch and Dr. Young Lao was put in charge. Trinidad officials said Corcos is on "compulsory leave" pending an answer from the British government to their request that he be fired.

The Trinidad government wants Corcos ousted because he let the patients come to the mainland during Christmas despite a protest from the governor of the British colony. The colony's inmates issued an ultimatum, "Dr. Corcos or nobody," and took over. The Sisters of Mercy, from Baltimore, Md., who care for the patients, appealed for police help.

Stepson 'Picked' On, Shoots Elba Woman

Graveside Services For Stepmother Planned for Saturday

ELBA, Minn. (Special)—Graveside services for Mrs. Kenneth Joachim Corcoran, 49, native of this vicinity who was shot to death by her stepson in New York Saturday, will be held at St. Aloysius Catholic Cemetery here, probably Saturday morning, the Rev. Edward Klein officiating.

The boy, Kenneth Jr., told police he shot his stepmother because she "picked" on him.

The boy's father is expected to arrive here late this week. Mrs. Corcoran was the former Irma Joachim, born in nearby Beaver Valley March 26, 1905, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Joachim.

Ambushed Her
Nassau County police said that her stepson ambushed her as she returned to her Glen Head, Long Island home from shopping, killing her at the front door with a single shot from a .22-caliber rifle.

The small wound where the bullet entered the woman's right breast went unnoticed by the doctor who pronounced her dead, and the assistant Nassau County medical examiner who listed the death as apparently the result of a heart attack. She had been receiving treatment for a heart ailment.

An undertaker discovered the wound and notified county police two hours later.

The boy admitted under questioning that he had shot Mrs. Corcoran because she "was too strict and picked on me," according to Inspector Stuyvesant Pinnell, chief of detectives.

Probation and psychiatric reports have been ordered by Children's Court Judge James N. Gehrig, before whom the boy was arraigned Saturday morning as a juvenile delinquent. Pending completion of the examinations, the boy will be held in the Children's Shelter, Minneapolis. District Attorney Frank Gulotta said no attempt will be made to charge the boy with homicide because of his age.

Inspector Pinnell said that Kenneth, an average eighth grade student in the Glenwood Landing School and a newspaper delivery boy, had planned to kill Mrs. Corcoran Saturday night. He had taken the single-shot rifle, one of four guns in the house, from an upstairs closet and loaded it just before his stepmother was due to return home, the inspector said.

Father Home on Leave
The boy's 39-year-old father, a Navy lieutenant, was home on 10 days leave from his duties as executive officer of the destroyer escort Allen. He married the boy's stepmother in 1945 in California.

Saturday night Lt. Corcoran had left the house after having dinner with his family and was at a nearby tavern when the killing occurred, according to police.

Inspector Pinnell said that the boy sneaked out of the back door and around one side of the house when he heard Mrs. Corcoran return about 8 o'clock.

Standing behind a small tree, he fired at her from a distance of 20 feet as she unlocked the front door. He threw the rifle into nearby shrubbery and re-entered the house through the back door, the inspector said.

A neighbor across the street, a war veteran with an artificial leg, heard the shot and the woman's screams. He went across the street and dragged her into the living room after Kenneth answered his knocks on the door.

Doctor Called
Acting on the neighbor's instructions, the boy asked the telephone operator to summon medical aid. Mrs. Corcoran did not regain consciousness. A doctor pronounced her dead and the assistant medical examiner released the body to the family after learning that she had been under treatment for a heart ailment.

An autopsy performed Sunday revealed that the bullet had passed through the liver, spleen, diaphragm and heart.

Survivors are: Her husband, and stepson; four aunts, Mrs. Leon Elrlinger, Plainville, and the Mmes. John Joachim, Elizabeth McGovern and John Hoffman, Rochester, and 10 cousins, Mrs. William Lewis, and Fay Martin, Plainville; Mrs. Walter Beddie, Cochrane, Wis.; Forrest Wentworth and Mrs. Perry White, Weaver, Minn.; Wayne Martin, Pepin, Wis.; Matt Simon, Fairwater, Minn.; Mrs. Bruegger, Wabasha, Minn.; Mrs. John Busch, Mankato, and Mrs. Robert Donaldson, Rochester.

Mrs. Corcoran formerly lived at Redfield, S. D., with her first husband.

Don't Drive on Park Property, Chief Warns Fishermen at Lake

Chief of Police A. J. Bingold reported today that he has received a number of complaints recently of automobiles being driven across lawns and park property adjacent to Lake Winona by ice fishermen driving to the lake.

Chief Bingold pointed out that access to the lake may be gained from both Franklin and Hamilton streets and asked that these two roadways be used by all vehicles traveling to the lake.

He said that anyone found driving over private property or the park area will be arrested and prosecuted.

Early Railroad Days were recalled recently at Lanesboro when modern diesels replaced steam engines. The original "Pusher" engine, shown in an 1879 photo, was stationed at Lanesboro to help freight trains over Fountain Hill

In the background is the Lanesboro Stone Hotel, one of the finest hostleries of that region until fire destroyed it in 1880.

'Puff, Puff' Missed As Diesels Arrive

By MRS. VIENNA DRAKE

Daily News Correspondent

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special)—The Milwaukee Railroad has recently replaced its coal burning steam locomotives with new diesel electric units on its Southern Minnesota Division, running from La Crosse to Austin.

The entire Milwaukee system is now powered by diesels as it becomes the first major North-west railroad to make the conversion.

The old Southern Minnesota Railroad, which the Milwaukee later acquired, started in 1866. From La Crosse its tracks wound up the Root River valley through newly settled Houston and Fillmore counties. It reached Lanesboro in 1869, and a few miles west of the village emerged out of the valley up grade called the "Fountain Hill" to strike the prairie and continue onto Mower County and Austin.

Until 1918, when larger engines were put in service, an auxiliary locomotive, commonly referred to by local residents as the "Pusher," was kept at Lanesboro to assist trains to climb the "Fountain Hill." A round house was built and two engine crews provided 24-hour service to the many scheduled freight trains. As Lanesboro was about half way on the division, many trains would ride track, meet and pass here.

In early days the company employed locally 17 men for operators and maintenance. Now there are five. The present depot agent, H. S. (Henric) Hoff, has completed 41 years of railroad service, which was interrupted once. He served with the AEF in France during World War I.

The accompanying picture, taken in 1879, shows the original "Pusher" with its crew and the famous Lanesboro Stone Hotel in the background. The hotel, 84 by 89 feet, was built in 1868 at a cost of $52,000. Elegantly furnished, its interior was finished by some of the finest craftsmen of that period to make it a show place. It operated successfully until razed by fire in 1880.

To Lanesboro folk, the puff, puff of heavily-laden freight engines, the clank of their drivers on the rails and the sound of the soft whistle echoing against the bluffs of the Root River valley will be sorely missed. The old steam engines are being sent east and will be junked for scrap. Another tie with the past has been broken by progress.

Liquor and Money Taken at Millston

MILLSTON, Wis. (Special)—Jackson County Sheriff Julian Larkin and Undersheriff Frank Skogstad are investigating a burglary Monday night at the William Zahrt 400 Bar here.

The break-in was discovered about 8 a. m. Monday by Mrs. V. Bathke, morning bartender. Entrance had been made through a rear window and about $750 worth of liquor is missing plus about $10 in cash. Cash was taken from coin operated machines but an attempt to open the "juke box" was unsuccessful.

Judge Hears Two More Divorce Cases

Two divorce cases brought on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment were heard by Judge Karl Finkelnburg in District Court Tuesday.

Plaintiffs in the two actions were Mrs. Beverly Ann Farrington, 25, 76 1/2 W. 2nd St., and Mrs. Lorraine Cieminski, 20, 151 1/2 E. 3rd St., both of whom were represented by P. S. Johnson.

Neither of the defendants, Johnny E. Farrington and Richard Cieminski, contested the suits although Farrington was represented at the hearing by his attorney, Lauris G. Petersen.

The Farringtons were married at St. Louis, Mo., April 29, 1930, and have one child, Mrs. Barbara Gile, 560 Hamilton St., appeared as a witness for Mrs. Farrington.

The Cieminskis were married Nov. 17, 1931, and have two children.

Mrs. Cieminski's mother, Mrs. Helen Gora, 151 1/2 E. 3rd St., appeared as a witness for her daughter.

Philippine Educators Visit High Schools In Western Wisconsin

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—Napoleon D. Dignadice, Domingo C. Cabertan and Tomas L. Mangasen, each a principal of coeducational schools of agriculture and home economics in the Philippine Islands, visited Whitehall High School Monday in company with Rex Liedenberg and LeRoy Spangler of Madison, state high school supervisors.

The Filipinos are making a tour of schools in the United States to study methods, equipment and curriculum.

The state supervisors and the Philippine principals, together with Ernest Bricker, Independence High School coach, were entertained at dinner Monday evening at the home of Supervising Principal Carl E. Nordhagen and wife. The visitors also called at the Arcadia and Osseo schools.

Bridge, School, Abstract Action Taken by Board

The Winona County Board of Commissioners approved three resolutions Tuesday which in turn will be passed on to the county's three representatives in the State Legislature for presentation to the state's chief governing body.

Two of the three, if passed, could conceivably result in a 50 per cent reduction in the amount of money given to smaller municipalities within the county for bridge construction and slash in half the amount of time now spent on school set-off petitions.

A resolution regarding monies spent within the county on bridge construction states that any city or village of the 3rd or 4th class can receive from the county road and bridge fund one-half of the total cost of the bridge, up to and including that amount which is one-half of the amount paid into the road and bridge fund by the municipality during the previous tax year.

As an example of what the new law could mean: The city of St. Charles pays approximately $10,000 in taxes into the county road and bridge fund each year. If the city wished to build a $10,000 bridge within the city limits, county funds would pay $5,000; if it wished to construct a $15,000 bridge, county funds would still pay only $5,000, with the city absorbing the rest, and if it wished to build a $6,000 bridge, county funds would then pay $3,000, and the city the remainder.

Under present statutes, the outlying municipality can petition the county board for the full amount of road and bridge fund tax money paid during the previous year when it wants to build a bridge within the city limits.

Regarding school set-off petitions, commissioners are asking the State Legislature to make a change in the law so that the petitioner for a school set-off, who owns land wholly within one county and the common school district he's petitioning out of lies wholly within one county, shall petition only the county board in the county in which the land in question is situated.

Presently, the land says that the petitioner must petition county boards in all counties involved in the change.

A third resolution approved by commissioners Tuesday asks that a statewide law be passed which will permit the county board in any given county to appoint a county abstract clerk.

There is a law on the state's statute books which says that Winona County may appoint an abstract clerk, but it is so written that it applies only to this county and commissioners felt that they wanted it to be put on a statewide basis. They were inclined to believe that should the county board here go ahead and appoint a clerk under the existing law, a court would term it an effect of "special legislation" and throw the appointment out.

Receiving copies of the three resolutions, all of which ask for a change in present laws, will be Sen. J. R. Keller and Reps. Donald McLeod and John D. McGill.

Rushford Youth Returned to YCC

Merlin Hatlevig, 20, Rushford, Tuesday afternoon was remanded to the Youth Conservation Commission after pleading guilty in District Court here to a charge of second degree grand larceny.

Arrested at Livingston, Mont., last week, Hatlevig was charged in an information presented to the court by County Attorney S. A. Sawyer with using a worthless check to purchase a $335 motorcycle from The Trading Post, 116 Lafayette St., Dec. 29.

At the time of his arrest, Sawyer said, Hatlevig was on probation from the YCC on another criminal charge.

Judge Karl Finkelnburg presided at the session and Loren W. Torgerson served as Hatlevig's court-appointed attorney.

Citizens Group Sets Fund Drive At La Crescent

LA CRESCENT, Minn. — An incorporated village cannot protest an election, La Crescent Mayor Alan Charley told a mass meeting of local citizens here Tuesday night, and thus the move by the community to appeal a recent decision of the Houston County District Court is in the hands of a citizens committee and the defeated candidate for sheriff, Clarence Vetsch.

Funds to push the move are the main concern of the citizens group at this point and Dr. L. W. Gitten's committee met here last night prior to the spontaneous village meeting to discuss a fund solicitation.

Citizens Committee, in care of La Crescent Box 339 has been set up as receiving point for mail contributions. Dallas Ames, chairman of the publicity subcommittee, said today that all who contribute will be given receipts. A house-to-house canvass is being organized with 40 men scheduled to meet tonight to complete plans.

Attorney Contacted
Contributions have been offered from Hokah, Brownsville and many other points in the county, Ames said. He figured it will take at least $2,500 to appeal the case. An attorney, prominent in Southeastern Minnesota law circles, has been contacted and is studying the matter before agreeing to take the case.

It is understood that a transcript of testimony taken at the Houston County District Court trial Dec. 30-31 has been asked for this purpose. Normally it would take the court reporter about two weeks to make this, but it is hoped that means can be thought of to speed this up, possibly by providing a stenographer.

"Last night's village meeting was like spontaneous combustion," Charley said. "They called me up and I went to the meeting to give a report of our findings." (Charley and Russell Egan, councilman, conversed with three La Crosse attorneys about the village's right to appeal Tuesday. It is also understood that one of the citizen's committee members talked to the Minnesota Attorney General Miles Lord. All agreed with Lloyd Duxbury, village attorney, that the village, as such, had no right of appeal.)

Thus the citizen's committee is excited to make a joint appeal with Vetsch when the attorneys involved have completely studied the case, Ames said. Clerk of Court Maurice McCauley said, when questioned today, that no moves for appeal have come through his Caledonia office.

Tollefsrud Situation
Yesterday, in another corner of the dispute, Leonard Tollefsrud, Sprague, who was defeated for register of deeds on the strength of the La Crescent vote which has now been invalidated by the District Court ruling, said he has not made a move to seek the office.

About 300 townspeople assembled in the village hall in La Crescent last night without an announcement of a meeting. The citizen's committee was convened in Pete Knapp's barbershop to plan action at the time and most of its members went to the village meeting later. Mayor Charley spoke briefly and it is his opinion today, as well as those who head the citizen's group, that the voters here are still "up in the air."

Mercury to Dip To 5 Tonight

Much colder temperatures are forecast for the Winona area tonight and Thursday, close on the heels of the inch and a half of snow that fell here Tuesday night.

The mercury was on the way down this morning, slipping from 26 degrees at 7:30 a. m. to 24 at noon.

Tonight, the weatherman says, the low temperatures will be about 5 above and Thursday's high will be 12 degrees. It'll be cloudy early tonight, but clearing later as the near cold wave sets in. Thursday will be partly cloudy.

The cold wave is expected to bring 10 to 15 below temperatures to Northern Minnesota tonight and some readings as low as minus 10 in the southern part of the state by Thursday morning.

Snowfall in some parts of the state Tuesday night amounted to 3 to 4 inches.

The new snow made main Minnesota highways slippery, especially through towns. U. S. Highways 169 and 10 are snowpacked and slippery, the Minneapolis Automobile Club reported. U. S. 14 was slippery in spots.

Main highways in Wisconsin have frequent slippery areas, the auto club said.

Travel over Minnesota roads was possible at any point but at reduced speeds in some areas. The Twin Cities, Brainerd, Willmar and Duluth received 3 inches of snow. St. Cloud reported 4. Marshall, Windom and Rochester each received an inch.

City Not Liable For Examiner Bill, Judge Indicates

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (M)—District Judge W. F. Rogesheke has ruled in effect that the city of Little Falls is within its rights in contending it does not have to pay for a state public examiner's audit of municipal records made on petition of freeholders.

The petition was filed in August, 1950. The city maintains the 1949 Legislature dealt with the statute applying to authority to make

La Crescent?

LA CRESCENT, Minn. — A similar audit, made upon request of freeholder's petition, was made here in 1954 and the cost of it—about $4,000—has been placed on the 1955 village taxrolls.

The audit was asked by a petition in late 1953 and the public examiner's office made the check last year. As many as three examiners were in the village at one time making the audit. A request by the state office for payment came before the village council last fall.

Culhane reported $250 damage to the car and damage to the truck amounted to $100.

4 Federal Aid Road Projects In County Oked

Buena Vista Split To Be Supervised By Three Persons

Four federal aid secondary highway projects, with a total cost estimated at $97,350, were approved for 1955 construction by Winona County commissioners as January's annual board meeting lasting four days, wound up Tuesday. The meeting was adjourned without further discussion of a proposal to create the office of assistant county attorney. Action now is scheduled at the February session.

Total mileage of the road projects, presented for approval by Highway Engineer Gordon Fay, is 7.79 miles, with federal aid slated to pay $48,000 of the total cost. In order to receive federal aid on county highway projects, county funds must match the federal grant dollar for dollar on each project.

Approved by commissioners were the following road projects under the plan:

State aid road 11 from Lewiston to 3 miles south of Lewiston, 2.83 miles.

State aid road 7 from 1.5 miles north of Highway 14, east of St. Charles, to a point 2.5 miles north, 1 mile.

State aid road 18 from the junction with township road south and east of St. Charles and east to junction with county aid road 126, 2.82 miles.

State aid road 1 from a point 2 miles east of Ridgeway to a point 3 miles east of Ridgeway, 1.04 miles.

Commissioners Tuesday granted a petition from A. Grant Burleigh, Wiscovy Township, for a reduction in assessed valuation of real estate for the tax year 1954, from $345 to $720.

The board gave its chairman and the county auditor authority to execute an extension of a lease with the Chicago & North Western Railway on a strip of land at the west end of 2nd street. County tanks, used in storing bituminous material, are on the land.

In a session-ending move, commissioners accepted a resolution passed by the Mineral Springs Sanatorium commission to accept Winona County TB patients on a per diem basis. Statute sets the cost at $9.35.

Henry Langenberg, Winona, was named Winona County's representative on a three-member board of arbitration, which will divide the present assets of Buena Vista Sanatorium at Wabasha between Winona and Wabasha counties. One person from each county is on the board and a third will be appointed by those two. Division of assets will be made on a how-much-was-paid-in-basis.

Principals Omitted From Salary Action

Winona's five public schools principals Tuesday were erroneously included in the listing of teachers salaries for 1955-56 approved Monday night by the Board of Education.

Board Business Manager Oscar S. Glover pointed out that no action was taken on principals salaries for the next school year at this week's meeting of the school directors.

The salaries of the principals—Ralph W. Williams, Senior High School; Charles F. Beckman, Central Junior High and Lincoln schools; Verdi F. Elles, Central Elementary and Madison schools; Eugene Sweeney, Washington-Kosciusko School, and Sherman S. Mitchell, Jefferson School—will be set at a later meeting of the board, possibly in February.

Proposed Badger Arterial System Gets First OK

MADISON (AP)—A bill establishing a 2,200 mile arterial highway system for Wisconsin will go to the 1953 legislature with the recommendation of the state legislative council.

The proposal, which calls for a priority for the roads in the system, was approved at a meeting Monday following a recommendation from the council's highway committee.

The council did not go into the finances of the plan but estimates its cost at about $14 million. One highway official estimated 1 1/2 cent per gallon boost in the gasoline tax will be needed to pay for the program.

Attempts to increase the tax could stir up a storm in the session set to open Wednesday.

The council ordered further studies and personal committee inspection before voting on a proposal backed by its welfare committee to move the school for boys from Waukesha. One plan would relocate the facilities near the state reformatory at Green Bay. Another would move the institution to the property of the school for girls in Dane County near Oregon.

Waukesha is opposed to abandoning the school site there and Green Bay and Brown County interests have taken a strong stand against moving it to that neighborhood.

The committee approved a plan by Assemblyman Frank Grass (R-Sturgeon Bay) calling for visits to the institutions at Waukesha, Green Bay and Oregon by the council to look into the matter in person.

Assemblyman Alfred Ludvigsen, (R-Hartland) of Waukesha County, who is opposed to moving the school, suggested the visits be made without advance notice.

The council approved a bill that would give the department of public welfare more probation officers for juvenile work.

Approval was also voted to a resolution urging state agencies purchasing new automobiles to give strong consideration to Wisconsin-produced cars.

The proposal was offered by Democratic Assemblyman George Molinaro of Kenosha. His home city and Milwaukee have plants of the American Motors Corp.

Rejected was a bill that has been battling around the past two legislative sessions calling for a ban on small boat licenses by communities. Many resort communities have imposed the licenses as a safety measure.

The council recommended establishment of a bill setting up a state department of economic development in the governor's office. The department, with a goal of finding new and keeping old business for the state, would need an appropriation of $70,000.

The council also heard, and accepted without action, a report recommending the state traffic patrol be enlarged from its present 70 members to a force of 609 men. The proposal would cost $3 million.

The report was turned in by a Northwestern University institute on highway safety at the request of the council highway safety committee.

Fiscal Policies Due for Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Patman (D-Tex.) declared today government fiscal policies will get a close look in connection with what he termed the "accelerated inflation of stock prices."

Patman, a member of the Senate-Economic Committee, said he will go into the stock "inflation" matter as a committee member or as chairman of a subcommittee he expects to head on general credit control and debt management.

Other members have said the group will look into the surge of stock prices.

They'll Do It Every Time

Invited Guests Fail to Attend Killer's Execution

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A young convicted killer who had invited to his execution the detectives who caught him, the men who prosecuted him and the jurors who tried him died early today in the electric chair.

None of those he had invited were there. He did not even bother to read a statement he had written questioning the death sentence. Donald Hawkins Brown, 24, was brought into the state prison death chamber at 12:02 a.m. while outside the prison walls his young wife, mother of two children, and his mother waited. He survived the chamber, a half smile on his face, and remarked:

"I don't see the district attorney or any of the prosecutors here." Then he was strapped in the death chair. The first electric charge struck him at 12:04 a.m. and he was pronounced dead two minutes later.

As he stepped to the chair, he handed newspaperman Don Reid, of Huntsville, a "prepared statement" which he had said earlier he planned to read before his execution.

"Capital punishment . . . has become the great issue here where I have lived among the dead," the note said. It said if the death sentence was to be feared by criminals and the public and was to be a "deterrent to crime" that the public and prosecutors "should be here."

The note questioned the wisdom of the death sentence and said it "made martyrs of these men and placed at the feet of psychopaths an adventure to be desired."

Brown's plea for clemency was turned down by the parole board yesterday.

Newspaperman Reid, who has reported hundreds of executions, said Brown, after receiving the news, did not follow the death row tradition of remorse and the brave front but asked that Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and his staff of Dallas, the arresting detectives and the jurors come to the execution.

"This is their party, you know," he said. "I hope they will enjoy it."

Brown was convicted of shooting Edwin Campbell, 26, to death on New Year's Eve 1953 and burning the body in the victim's gasoline-soaked automobile.

He was arrested 14 days after Campbell's death. Officers found him living in a Fort Worth trailer camp under an assumed name. Although blood-soaked clothes and some of Campbell's personal effects were found in Brown's former residence in Dallas, he maintained a plea of innocence to the end.

Farrell, superintendent of the Minnesota State Training School for Boys at Red Wing, will be the principal speaker at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Winona.

Farrell, who will speak on "The Minnesota Program for Delinquency," has been associated with the school for the past 24 years, first as head coach and later as house-father and vocational education director. He has served as superintendent since February 1948.

He is a veteran of four years' service in the Navy during World War II in both the Pacific and European theaters. He is a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, was chairman of the Red Wing Recreation Board and is a former Community Chest chairman and chairman of the Cannon River district of the Boy Scouts.

He was the first president of the National Association of Training School and Juvenile Agencies. The program was arranged by Robert R. Reed and the Rev. Webster Clement, program chairman for January.

State Teachers Colleges Badly in Need of Help

For some years now there has been great lamentation and concern over the need for an increased supply of adequately trained teachers for the public schools. And there are sound statistics indicating that this need will grow rather than decline within the next decade as the tidal wave of children continues.

Some positive steps have been taken. Higher salaries and other benefits have been given those already in the profession and some effort has been made to recruit promising high school graduates for the profession through scholarships and other means.

It is time that efforts be made to assist the source of teachers — the colleges — and particularly those institutions created by the state of Minnesota to train teachers which are the five state teachers colleges.

It is no secret that these colleges have been treated many times as poor relations by the Minnesota Legislature and certain state agencies. Too many members of the Legislature have been considering each of the five colleges as local institutions and have forced the representatives and senators from the communities in which the colleges are located to trade a dollar for something else to get a nickel for a teachers college.

This is a distressing situation for each of the colleges; but, more important than that, the public which is interested in seeing that their elementary and secondary schools are adequately staffed should be aware that the present miserly attitude toward the teachers colleges is a great handicap in accomplishing their mission.

Organizations devoted to education have not been courageous in giving support to the teachers colleges, but now they have an opportunity to back a proposal that is coming from the teachers colleges themselves, through the State Teachers College Board. The resident director of the Winona college, as chairman of a subcommittee of the board, has made a series of recommendations to the board which are aimed to strengthen the board and thereby the colleges.

Chairman S. J. Kryzsko's committee, among other things, recommends:

1. That the board have an office of its own. At present, the financial affairs of the board and the colleges are subject to the Department of Administration. Employees would include an executive officer, educational coordinator and an accounting officer.

The fact that the board has had powers to establish a central office but has not exercised the powers is an indication of the inferior role that has been forced upon the board.

2. That teachers college appropriations be made by the Legislature directly to the board, not to the Department of Administration. This would put the board on a level of authority with the board of regents of the university and would, combined with recommendation No. 1, remove the colleges from the jurisdiction of the Department of Administration.

An independent status for the board is highly desirable because the colleges, by their very nature and purpose, present an administrative problem different from that of the many other state agencies.

3. That the board secure authority, from the Legislature if present laws are inadequate, to issue revenue bonds for the construction of dormitories and other physical facilities, thereby eliminating the need for appropriations for this purpose.

This third recommendation should receive particular commendation, for it indicates the resourcefulness of the committee in furthering the board's role of providing adequately trained teachers.

The committee says that surveys show that by 1968 enrollment at the five colleges will increase at least 66 per cent, from the present 5,107 to 8,478, but more likely the enrollment will be doubled. If the enrollment is doubled, the present dormitory accommodations of about 1,500 should be increased to about 3,100.

Estimated cost of this tremendous expansion is $10,530,000, and the committee has conceived of a plan — based on present practices in other states — of financing the cost with revenue bonds, that is without taxing property. The revenue bonds would be paid off from present profits from board and room charges plus a $2 weekly increase, to $15.49.

A similar plan, according to the committee, could be employed to finance the construction of student unions and other revenue producing facilities.

Altogether, the committee headed by Mr. Kryzsko has taken a forward and courageous step in making these recommendations to the board. They should meet with the approval of the board and with the public interested in a more adequate supply of teachers for their children.

The time has come for the people of Minnesota to stop thinking of the five teachers colleges as Winona State Teachers, St. Cloud Teachers College, etc., but instead to conceive of them as they were created, as the teachers colleges of Minnesota.

943-Page Report Too Much to Read

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK — The hearings of part 1 of the tax-exempt foundations by the Reece Committee consist of 943 pages; the report of the committee fills 432 pages of hard reading. Nobody can possibly read all the hearings and the full report in a few hours and then write a comprehensive article on what this committee heard and did and proposes, except what can be absorbed at a glance while seeking what one wants to accept.

This much must be said: Granting that the Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations here and there erred, particularly in grants to such organizations as the Institute of Pacific Relations, the amount of good they have done in the world is beyond calculation. Rockefeller money in medical research and education and Carnegie money in education have provided benefits to the human race beyond measurement in dollars. This goes back to the beginning of this century, under the leadership of Drs. Abraham and Simon Flexner and Alexis Carrel and a host of others who devoted themselves to the obliteration of disease and the prolongation of human life. This work continues to the present moment and any study of the foundations which ignores it is inadequate.

THE SAME CANNOT be said of the Ford Foundation which has devoted itself to politics, that is to current questions that have a present political implication. If Rockefeller and Carnegie grants to individuals and organizations work out that way, it is incidental to important projects of permanent value. When the Ford Foundation matures and rids itself of opportunism, it too may use its funds for less temporary values. In fact, the only justification for freeing foundations from the burdens of taxation which the rest of us have to carry is that the work they do is of permanent social value.

The study of the foundation, as an institution, ought not to be based solely on errors of judgment or faulty operations, but also upon the value of a reserve of private capital to be used for the public advantage. Were it not for the legal institution of the foundation, many businesses and private fortunes would be dissipated by punitive tax laws and their proceeds would have gone down the drain in the profligate and often pointless expenditures of government bureaucrats whose doctrine has not rarely been to spend for the sake of spending.

If there is a peril to the nation in the existence of foundations, it is in the failure of the Treasury Department, which has supervision over them to the extent that it can withdraw from them tax exemptions, adequately to supervise their expenditures to make certain that exemptions are not evasions. For instance, expenditures directly or indirectly for political advantage cannot be included in any statement of justifiable tax exemptions, but when foundations contribute to hospitals, schools, colleges and churches, to medical research, to the prevention of disease and the elimination of affliction, no one can quarrel with them. It is not understandable how the Fund for the Republic comes within this category.

AN EXCELLENT EXAMPLE of how foundations get into trouble by expending funds for current problems is in the quarrel between the Carnegie Foundation and the American Bar Association over the genocide convention. The Carnegie Foundation gave the American Bar Association a grant to study genocide, a very vexed problem. What the American Bar Association did about this displaced the Carnegie Foundation. The Reece Committee Report says of it:

"Without going into details of the controversy, which involved some rather sharp correspondence, we conclude from the facts that Mr. Johnson's irritation stemmed from the Bar Association's having dared to condemn the genocide convention." (Joseph E. Johnson is president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.)

This controversy was, in many respects, silly and a negation of the independence of scholarship. Apparently, the American Bar Association did not receive a grant to study the problem of genocide but a subvention to favor the Carnegie Foundation's particular views on the subject. That is not scholarship; it is bribery and an excellent example of the fault in using vast accumulations of wealth to influence or even control public opinion on current problems. This function should clearly be forbidden by law, because if foundations are permitted to use their enormous wealth as public opinion molders, it could produce an unwholesome conformity and orthodoxy in this country.

White House Removing Its Political Liabilities

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The White House has finally decided to jettison some of its political liabilities. In particular, it has given notice to bright, nosy, ambitious Charles Willis that he will be out of a job in 45 days.

Charles Willis is the White House aide who has made himself the "secretary in charge of jobs," the "secretary in charge of handling out TV licenses," and the "secretary in charge of interstate commerce." A nice guy, but too busy for his own good; he has stepped on more people's toes than anyone, save Sherman Adams.

Even though his father-in-law is none other than Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Co., friend and heavy supporter of Ike's, Willis is being given the ax.

Gen. Harry Vaughan got a lot of publicity for pulling wires for pals and handing out deep freezes, but Charles Willis has made Vaughan a piker in comparison. Instead of dealing in deep freezes, he has dealt in TV licenses worth millions and airline routes worth even more. He has had two FCC commissioners, John Doerfer and Robert E. Lee, in the palm of his hand and hasn't hesitated to tell them bluntly and baldly to give TV licenses to certain publishers because they helped the Republican party.

Particularly, Willis passed this word to the FCC regarding the hotly contested TV license in the St. Petersburg, Fla., area. When the license was about to go to the St. Petersburg Times, he stepped in, told Republican commissioners on the FCC to reverse themselves and reward a group dominated by the Richmond Va., News-Leader and Times-Dispatch, which supported Eisenhower.

Stepped on Civil Service

Willis also got in wrong — even with Republicans — because of his zeal in planting Republicans in "career jobs." In doing so he won the name "Jobs-for-Republicans" Willis. What caused the trouble was the way he rode roughshod over Civil Service laws, thereby incurring certain Democratic investigations.

Juggling jobs, of course, is a thankless assignment. In the first place, Willis had more available applicants than available jobs. He also had to clear each applicant with three or four senators and congressmen, get the endorsement of the local politicians, keep the GOP National Committee, keep the White House happy — yet supposedly not violate the Civil Service laws against political appointments.

At first, Willis got into "hot water" with the Republicans on Capitol Hill, who complained they weren't consulted. Then, he worked out a system for clearing federal jobs quietly with GOP senators and congressmen. But his plan leaked to the papers and stirred up a public protest.

Now the Democrats are laying for Willis for circumventing the Civil Service laws. Right-wing Republicans are some at him for not allotting them enough jobs. They have also embarked on a campaign of sniping at the "palace guard" around President Eisenhower. Willis is one of the most vulnerable members of the "palace guard." So the White House has concluded that its sad-eyed patronage boss is expendable. He has been given polite but firm notice to resign.

Note — Some Republicans interpret the firing of Charles Willis as a sign Ike is clearing the decks in order to get ready to run again. Nothing could be further from the case. First, Ike knows little about these patronage matters, in fact little about detailed

Baseball Palls, He's Man of World at 13

By SAUL PETT

(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK — A young man I know has gone through quite a change recently.

He used to be strictly a man of action, tough, virile, fearless by adventure, a bold hunter of the gay boulevardier, the dapper sophisticate who has seen everything and done everything. A few more years at his present pace and they'll be calling him a worn-out old roe.

But at 13 Bob has a little time left.

The change came suddenly. Just a few weeks ago his life was devoted entirely to football and baseball, to the settlement of disputes on a field or street or back lot of honor, to roaming the world on a bike, to the exclusive company of men who were men.

Built Club House

Just before the change came, he and his cronies built a club house of lumber "borrowed" from nearby construction projects. It had a two-foot "picture window," a grand entrance through which he crawled and an "attic" big enough for one member to lie down in, without breathing.

When the members fell into disagreement, each would leave with his part of the clubhouse. Thus, on some days, the headquarters was bereft of a roof or a door or a whole side wall. But one thing was never removed — the sign on the front which said, "Private—No Girls."

Suddenly one day Bob told his mother he and his associates would like to throw a party in the basement recreation room of Bob's home. It would be all their own doing and adults were not to interfere. Besides, there would be GIRLS. Mother agreed.

One other stipulation: Bob's younger brother was not to show his face anywhere. Agreed.

The six joint hosts worked on the party for a week. Each day another member arrived with an item — soda, pretzels, crackers, records. They decorated the room in blue and white crepe paper. The basic motif was not quite clear. On one wall was a large sign saying, "Go-Go-Go." On another, a larger sign: "No Smoking."

Bob's mother bought a couple dozen doughnuts, just in case.

Men Arrived First

The men arrived first — four in charcoal black suits and pink shirts and two in tweeds. The girls properly followed the new, long, flat look. As the girls went down to the basement, one boy was heard to whisper, "look at that low-cut dress!" Her dress opened all the way down to her collar bone.

At one point in the party, a freckled, red-haired young man came up to the kitchen. He noticed the doughnuts and asked if he might take a few. He could, and took more than a dozen.

"Do you happen to have any peanut butter and jelly?" he asked Bob's mother.

"Why, yes, why?"

"We thought we'd make a few hors d'oeuvres."

Inspection Tour

Halfway through the evening, the six males trooped upstairs to examine Bob's new microscope set. In some circles the fact that they left the women alone in the basement might be considered unwholesome, but in this set it was all matter of fact. No questions asked, no female recriminations.

Later, the red-haired young man came up again.

"Happen to have any candles around?" he asked.

"Yes, why?"

"Oh, we thought we'd dance a

THE WORLD TODAY

Democrats May Treat Ike Trade Plan Better

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's foreign trade program seems headed for better treatment by the Democrats, who run Congress this year, than it got from his fellow Republicans who controlled Congress in 1954.

Eisenhower's message to Congress this week, asking new authority to cut tariffs, revives an ancient fight with some new twists. Tariffs protect American producers from the competition of foreign manufacturers who could undersell them in this country. Traditionally, Democrats have been for low tariffs, Republicans for high ones.

There is divided opinion among American businessmen whether tariffs in general should be reduced, kept where they are, or boosted. Eisenhower wants to increase foreign trade; tariffs restrict it.

There is now the bugaboo of Russia seeking trade, which is one device for winning away American friends, with foreign countries which will certainly trade where they can to keep alive.

Just how much of Eisenhower's program will get through Congress — and just how effective it will be in increasing trade if it does get through — is something for the future to disclose. He says he offers a "moderate" program.

Just as the depression was getting started in 1930, the Republican-run Congress passed the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act. President Hoover, over the protests of 1,000 economists, signed it. It created the highest tariffs in American history. It was the peak of American protectionism.

Within two years 25 foreign countries retaliated by hiking their tariffs against goods Americans tried to sell them. In the depths of the depression, when the Roosevelt administration took over, Secretary of State Cordell Hull thought a revival of world trade was one way out.

Under Hull's prodding the Democratic-run Congress in 1934 passed the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act under which the President could reduce tariffs on certain goods from other countries provided they reciprocated by reducing their tariffs on American goods.

That was 20 years ago and Congress has kept the act alive, renewing it sometimes for three years at a stretch, sometimes for only one year. The last time it was renewed was in 1954, for one year. It's due to end in June.

Every time it was renewed there was grumbling or opposition from those who complained American producers were suffering because of it. When Eisenhower took over in 1953, with a Republican Congress, he asked merely for the act to be renewed for one year so he would have time to study the problem of foreign trade.

To help him he appointed in 1953 a 17-man commission which included members of Congress. Its chairman was Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the board of the Inland Steel Corp.

The commission reported to Eisenhower Jan. 23, 1954. In general it recommended extension of the act plus congressional agreement for the President to reduce tariffs further. Some of the Republicans on the commission balked: Sen. Millikin of Colorado, Rep. Reed of New York, Rep. Simpson of Pennsylvania. Republican opposition in Congress stood firm.

On March 30, 1954, Eisenhower sent a special message to Congress following the line of the Randall commission recommendations. But on May 20, under Republican resistance, he said he was willing to accept a one-year extension of the act without further authority to cut tariffs. That was what he got.

On Monday Eisenhower sent another special message to Congress, asking for a three-year extension. Since much of the President's present power to cut tariffs to 50 per cent of what they were in 1945 has been exhausted, Eisenhower asked permission to cut another 15 per cent for the next three years, at the rate of 5 per cent a year.

He promised there would be "no sudden or radical tariff reductions."

little by candlelight." At the end of the evening, the girls all thanked the host's mother quite properly. The red-haired boy said he had a wonderful time "and what I liked best was that you didn't interfere."

When they were all gone, Bob's father, who had been restless all evening, asked his son what they had done at the party.

"Oh, talked."

"What else?"

"Danced."

"That all?"

"Oh, we played a few kissing games. You know, pop, it's kinda fun."

And with that Bob picked up a baseball glove which happened to be under a chair and threw it in the closet, and went up to bed whistling a tune of his own making.

There is now the bugaboo of Russia seeking trade, which is one device for winning away American friends, with foreign countries which will certainly trade where they can to keep alive.

Just how much of Eisenhower's program will get through Congress — and just how effective it will be in increasing trade if it does get through — is something for the future to disclose. He says he offers a "moderate" program.

Just as the depression was getting started in 1930, the Republican-run Congress passed the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act. President Hoover, over the protests of 1,000 economists, signed it. It created the highest tariffs in American history. It was the peak of American protectionism.

Within two years 25 foreign countries retaliated by hiking their tariffs against goods Americans tried to sell them. In the depths of the depression, when the Roosevelt administration took over, Secretary of State Cordell Hull thought a revival of world trade was one way out.

Under Hull's prodding the Democratic-run Congress in 1934 passed the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act under which the President could reduce tariffs on certain goods from other countries provided they reciprocated by reducing their tariffs on American goods.

That was 20 years ago and Congress has kept the act alive, renewing it sometimes for three years at a stretch, sometimes for only one year. The last time it was renewed was in 1954, for one year. It's due to end in June.

Every time it was renewed there was grumbling or opposition from those who complained American producers were suffering because of it. When Eisenhower took over in 1953, with a Republican Congress, he asked merely for the act to be renewed for one year so he would have time to study the problem of foreign trade.

To help him he appointed in 1953 a 17-man commission which included members of Congress. Its chairman was Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the board of the Inland Steel Corp.

The commission reported to Eisenhower Jan. 23, 1954. In general it recommended extension of the act plus congressional agreement for the President to reduce tariffs further. Some of the Republicans on the commission balked: Sen. Millikin of Colorado, Rep. Reed of New York, Rep. Simpson of Pennsylvania. Republican opposition in Congress stood firm.

On March 30, 1954, Eisenhower sent a special message to Congress following the line of the Randall commission recommendations. But on May 20, under Republican resistance, he said he was willing to accept a one-year extension of the act without further authority to cut tariffs. That was what he got.

On Monday Eisenhower sent another special message to Congress, asking for a three-year extension. Since much of the President's present power to cut tariffs to 50 per cent of what they were in 1945 has been exhausted, Eisenhower asked permission to cut another 15 per cent for the next three years, at the rate of 5 per cent a year.

He promised there would be "no sudden or radical tariff reductions."

Nixon Praised by Top GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican high command again defended Vice President Nixon against Democratic criticism today, issuing a statement in his praise signed by four GOP Midwestern state chairmen.

"We believe we speak for the vast majority of Americans who resent below-the-belt attacks currently being made upon the vice president," the statement said. "People in general are getting pretty sick of these pitiful cries of 'smear' which lack any trace of proof."

The statement, distributed by the GOP National Committee, bore the names of these four state party chairmen: Ray C. Bliss, Ohio; Alvin C. Cast, Indiana; Martin H. Hollingsworth, Illinois; and Don C. Pierson, Iowa.

All four were among the guests at a stag dinner given by President Eisenhower at the White House Monday night.

Many Democrats have criticized the vice president in the weeks before the November elections, on the ground that he sought to indict Democrats generally for a softness toward Communism.

Nixon has declined to comment on this criticism.

Eisenhower praised Nixon's efforts during the campaign, and GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said in a statement Monday night there was in progress "a highly organized campaign to besmirch" the vice president.

In what looked like a campaign by the GOP to counter the criticism, the four state chairmen said they wanted to thank Nixon publicly for his service to the party and the American people in the campaign.

"Needless to say, the vice president went before the American people in the 1954 campaign with facts about the destructive effects of left-wing influence in government—facts which were distilled from a year and a half of cleaning up after a party which ran its reckless course."

"The Democrats engaged in these attacks would better serve their country if they gave more time and attention to supporting President Eisenhower's legislative program and less to assaulting the character of the vice president."

Death Sentence Recommended for Slayer of Son

CHICAGO (AP)—Death in the electric chair was recommended last night by a Criminal Court jury which convicted Vincent Ciucci of the murder of his 9-year-old son.

Ciucci, 29, already has been sentenced to a total of 65 years after being convicted of the murder of his wife Anne, 28, and a daughter, Angeline, 4. A murder charge in the death of a second daughter, Virginia, 8, is pending.

The state had charged Ciucci had killed his wife and three children so he could marry another woman. Their bullet-pierced bodies were found in the ruins of a fire which destroyed the family's combination grocery - home on the West Side Dec. 5, 1953.

The jury's recommendation of death in the murder of his son, Vincent Frank, makes it mandatory for the judge to impose such a sentence. However, Judge Arthur J. Murphy set Jan. 25 for a hearing of a motion for a new trial. Ciucci earlier had been tried for the murder of his son, but a mistrial was declared.

Arcadia High School Debates in Practice

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—When the Arcadia High School participated in a speech clinic at Eau Claire Saturday, the debate teams lost five out of five.

Doris Grossman and Kay Fugina were on the affirmative team and Sharon Luedi and Walter Skroch on the negative team.

John Riesch, debate instructor, accompanied the students. Others on the debate teams are Mary Ann Kaiser, Marlys Meistad, George Bohmstedt, James Sobotta and Warren Rhude.

This debate was a warmup for the Arcadia debaters for the district debate contest at La Crosse Feb. 5. The school elimination contest in oratory and declamatory will be Feb. 28. Faculty members in charge of the forensics program are Riesch, Mrs. Agnes Bohmstedt and Miss Florence Gorton.

Free Legal Advice Now Available In Security Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Bar Assn. announced today the establishment of a special committee to give free legal assistance to government workers involved in security cases.

Some federal workers, although finally cleared, have complained of heavy legal expenses incurred in defending themselves. The government reimburses them for any pay lost during periods of suspension, but it does not pay their attorneys' fees.

ABA President Loyd Wright said the special committee was set up in Washington because it has the heaviest concentration of federal workers.

But he said similar aid would be provided through legal aid clinics and lawyer referral services in the principal cities of the nation. He said the "problem is broad enough to include questions of industrial security matters" involving employees of private firms holding government contracts.

Atomic Laboratory Heads Will Review Security Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The heads of the eight Atomic Energy Commission laboratories will meet here next week to review the commission's personnel security program.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said yesterday the scientists will meet with an "open mind" but won't necessarily recommend any changes.

"My personal feeling is that it is okay as it is now," Strauss told a National Press Club luncheon.

Who'll Carry U.S. Mail Is Big Question

By ED MORSE (For Sam Dawson)

NEW YORK (AP)—Who'll carry the mail for Uncle Sam is a multi-million-dollar question these days. It brings to sharp focus the deadly rivalry between the railroads, on the one hand, and the airlines and truckers on the other.

The feud came to a boil in October 1953 when the Post Office launched an "experiment" of flying first-class 3-cent mail on the New York-Chicago and Washington-Chicago routes whenever airlines had space available for it. The experiment was broadened to include Florida points and local airlines covering 125 scattered communities. This deprived the rail of sizable mail revenues.

The railroads got even madder when the experiment spread to include major Pacific Coast cities last November.

But Postmaster General Summerfield reported last month that in the initial stage of the West Coast "airlift" ordinary letters bearing 3-cent stamps had been advanced in delivery by from 24 to 48 hours.

"To date the 3-cent mail-by-air experiment is improving mail service at slight savings in over-all cost to those formerly paid," said Summerfield.

The railroads protested that the savings were only apparent and ignored the "complete" mail service rendered by the rails. The airlines and their allies, the truckers, argued back. Thousands of words were exchanged.

The rails say that already the experiment has wiped out most of their lucrative haulage of first-class mail on the New York-Chicago-Washington routes.

The industry complains that it has invested close to a billion dollars in mail handling facilities whereas the airlines and truckers have invested nothing and the taxpayers must provide these for them.

They protest further that they are required by law — under pain of severe penalties — to carry all mail offered them and to carry it on any and all trains the Post Office may direct.

In contrast, say the railroads, the airlines carry 3-cent mail only on a "space available" basis when it is not crowded out by more profitable payloads of passengers or cargo.

Railroads have challenged the legality of carrying 3-cent mail by air and have launched court actions. But the experiment goes on.

Meanwhile, the railroads are losing more mail revenue, they say, because the Post Office has awarded contracts to motor carriers.

riers to carry mail on more than 550 routes.

The airlines and truckers call the rails' billion-dollar figure on mail facilities "unrealistic" and say the 300 million figure covers total mail revenues, not just first class, which they assert was only 40 million dollars in 1953, or two-fifths of 1 per cent of all mail revenues.

They argue that, just as the railroads succeeded the canal boat and stage coach as mail carriers, the railroads themselves must give way, at least to some degree, before more modern means of transportation.

Report Raises Doubt on Dairy Props Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department report raised questions Tuesday as to the degree of success of the controversial flexible price support system in influencing dairy production.

Last April 1, Secretary Benson reduced government price guarantees for milk from 90 to 75 per cent of parity. Parity is a price declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Advocates of flexible supports believe that in times of surplus, price props should be reduced for the dual purpose of discouraging production and of increasing consumption.

Conversely, in times of shortage, they say price guarantees should be increased to encourage production and to discourage consumption.

In reducing the dairy support level, Benson said the resulting lower prices should bring about some downward adjustments in dairy production as well as increases in consumer buying of dairy items.

A department report issued Monday showed that milk production between the date the lower supports went into effect and Jan. 1 this year increased nearly 1 1/2 per cent, instead of going down. The production over this span was reported at 95,000,000,000 pounds compared with 93,700,000,000 pounds in the corresponding nine month period a year earlier—when the higher supports were in effect.

Milk production in 1954 set a new record of 123,800,000,000 pounds, 2 per cent above the previous record of 121,200,000,000 pounds in 1953.

Department dairy specialists said it may take a couple of years to gain production decreases sought under flexible supports. They explained that many dairymen, having no alternative types of farm production to turn to, actually stepped up production under the lower supports in efforts to maintain incomes at levels enjoyed under the higher supports.

The department has reported, however, that consumption of dairy products has increased somewhat since the supports were reduced.

Can't Rule on School Purchases, Says Lord

ST. PAUL (AP)—Atty. Gen. Miles Lord Tuesday stated he was unable to say whether purchases made by a school district at Long Lake are in violation of state law because the school board chairman is a director and attorney of the company from which school supplies are purchased.

Charles Bellows, attorney for Crone School District 11, asked for a legal opinion. Bellows explained that the chairman is not employed by the company, is not a stockholder and receives no financial gain from the sales or operation of the company. He said the only financial benefit he receives is through payment for legal services.

Lord said he is in no position to determine whether the chairman is directly or indirectly interested in the proceeds or profits.

bringing some reductions in retail prices.

Increases in consumption have been reflected in the fact that in the past two months, government purchases of surplus butter, cheese and dried milk have been smaller than at any time in nearly two years.

As part of its drive to bring milk production more into line with demand, the department has been urging dairymen to cull less efficient milk cows and to adopt certain feeding and other practices.

5 Employees Own Entire Stock of Million-Dollar Firm

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Five long-time employees of the E. H. Baare Manufacturing Co. today own the entire stock of the million-dollar concern.

They received the stock under terms of the will of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Baare, an inventory of her estate showed in Probate Court yesterday. Mrs. Baare died last November, just 16 days after her husband.

Vernon J. Ambach, who took over as president after Baare's death, received 51 per cent of the 5,499 shares of stock. He was reared by the childless couple who befriended him when he was 12.

Other stock went to Charles James Jr., vice president; Otto P. N. Groose, vice president; and Robert Renkel, secretary, all 13 per cent; and George Hoch, treasurer, 10 per cent. The firm makes wire and sheet metal parts.

President Fills 2 Labor Posts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pres. Eisenhower Monday announced his choices for two important labor post vacancies in the government.

He nominated Theophil C. Kamholz, Chicago attorney, to be general counsel for the national labor relations board (NLRB), succeeding George C. Bott, whose term expired Dec. 20.

He also announced he would nominate today Joseph Finnigan, 50, New York attorney, as director of the federal mediation and conciliation service. Finnigan will succeed Whitley P. McCoy, who resigned Dec. 1.

The NLRB's general counsel has sole authority to carry on prosecutions under the Taft-Hartley labor relations law. The mediation service director is the government's chief troubleshooter in strikes or threatened strikes.

The record high temperature for one Maine weather station is 108 degrees Fahrenheit compared to the record of one Florida station — 95.

U.S., Reds Clash Over Shipping Ban

HONG KONG (AP)—Soviet and U.S. delegates to an Asian economic conference exchanged sharp words today over the United Nations embargo on shipments of strategic goods to Communist China.

The clash occurred during the closing session of the meeting sponsored by the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East (ECAFE), when Russia's V. B. Spandaryan complained the commission's report did not reflect certain fundamental questions.

Among these, he said, were "closer contact with the Chinese People's Republic" and the obstacles "created by the United States to expansion of trade with China."

U.S. Delegate E. M. Brademan immediately replied that the embargo — imposed following the entry of Red Chinese troops into the Korean War — "is hurting the Chinese aggressors and that is good."

Brademan said the question of widening trade with Red China had been discussed and rejected at numerous international meetings.

"Most of us are willing to abide by decisions of the majority but that is not so with some countries," the American delegate continued, adding that the Soviet Union maintains it is right while everyone else is wrong.

The ECAFE report recommended wider trade relations as a desirable target in international relations suggested improved trade promotion techniques and advised more equitable raw material prices.

It said the most significant Asian trade development during 1954 was the increase in prices of such export commodities as tea, rubber, jute and cotton.

More than 36,750,000 babies have been born in the United States in the last 10 years.

Congress Set To Grant U.S. Pay Increase

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress seemed to be in a mood today not only to give a prompt pay raise to 1½ million federal employees, but also to boost substantially its own salaries.

But a companion administration proposal to increase postage rates was met with marked reserve and some outright opposition.

President Eisenhower sent to the Capitol yesterday special messages urging 5 per cent pay hikes totaling about 339 million dollars annually for one million civil service workers and 500,000 postal employees. He also called for increases in rates charged for first, second and third class mail to help offset the added postal pay costs.

Leaders in both the Senate and House said they would vote an early federal pay raise.

The only question appeared to be whether the lawmakers would court a veto by passing a much bigger raise than the President asked, and by refusing to boost postal rates as he requested.

Eisenhower vetoed a 5 per cent pay raise bill last year on grounds there was no offsetting revenue gain provided for postal operations.

At the same time, a strong movement gathered force for a pay hike for the lawmakers themselves. Eisenhower gave this a big plug in his State of the Union message last week without naming a specific figure.

Congressional leaders apparently felt the time was ripe to raise House and Senate pay because any adverse political effects would be evenly distributed, with Republicans in the White House and Democrats controlling Congress.

Sen. Kilgore (D-W.Va.), prospective chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, announced he would introduce Friday a bill to carry out last year's recommendations of the Commission on Judicial and Congressional Salaries.

This body proposed a $12,500 increase for senators and representatives, to $27,500 a year. It urged similar raises for federal judges.

Some lawmakers said privately that enactment of a $10,000 raise was more likely than the one to be proposed in the Kilgore bill. A measure calling for this figure was introduced in the House last week by Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.), soon to be chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and by Rep. Walter (D-Pa.).

The congressional pay question was discussed yesterday at a closed conference of all Republican senators.

Snow Over Most Of Great Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skies cleared in most of the eastern and western parts of the country today but there was wet weather over wide areas of the mid-continent.

Snow fell during the night in the northern Great Plains, the upper Mississippi Valley and parts of the western Great Lakes region.

Rain areas included the extreme southern part of the Rio Grande Valley on the southern border of Texas and western Washington.

Skies were mostly clear in New England, the middle Atlantic Seaboard, the Southeastern states, the central Rockies, most of the plateau region and in southern California.

Neighbor Reports Man's Threat to 'Blow Up McCarthy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) returned from an undisclosed mission Tuesday and learned his next door neighbor had reported a telephone warning that the senator would be "blown up."

A police guard was stationed near the McCarthy home, one of a row of houses joined together.

The neighbor, Mrs. George W. Ennis, told newsmen a "man with a foreign-sounding voice" called and told her, "We want you to vacate the premises. We're going to blow up Sen. Joe McCarthy."

McCarthy said he believed "some crackpot" made the call.

The senator said he left Washington Sunday in connection with the work of the Senate investigations subcommittee but the trip proved a "blank run." He did not say where he had gone or why.

Keep in Trim

There's Really No Glamor to Sack-like Shape

By IDA JEAN KAIN

In picturing yourself at beautiful normal weight, visualize your figure slim and shapely. "I look like a sack — 5 ft. 3 in., 150 pounds. I'd like a better shape," writes one overweight. Another, "I'm a dumpy 165 pounds."

Here's encouragement from a model reducer who exercised daily and slimmed off 28 inches with a loss of 30 pounds! Reducing from 172 to 142 for 5 ft. 5 in., here are her measurement changes: Bust 40 to 35; waist from 33 to 28; stomach from 44 to 36; hips from 48 to 37; thighs from 25 to 21 1/2. "Tell your disheartened women it can be done!"

Where to begin? In the middle. Ease through slow, smooth stretch-bends. Hold each movement, and once is enough for each exercise.

Position: From a lying down position, on back on floor, left knee bent, sole of foot flat on floor, left arm down at side. Have right leg straight down on floor, right arm stretched up on floor beyond head. Movement: Contract with abdominal muscles and pull small of back flat against floor. Now raise right leg 12 in. from floor and hold. St-t-e-t-c-h, pushing down with right toes, stretching up with right fingers—p-u-l-l. Breathe naturally. Hold to slow word count of 7 — trim, slim streamlined — strong, elastic middle muscles. In a held stretch, muscles act against one another. Now bend right knee and stretch to left side, holding for the word count. Ease into a side-bend.

Position: Stand on knees, then sit back on heels and pull up strongly with middle muscles. Have arms out at sides, shoulder level.

Movement: Bend slowly and smoothly sideways, aiming to touch fingers to floor at right side. . . don't strain. Hold to a slow word count: Slim—limb—limber; shapely willowy waist . . . hold. That's what you want, say the words, hold the movements and visualize a slim, shapely waist. Then bend to left side. A prolonged stretch-bend is beautifully toning.

CHOICE DIET
BREAKFAST (200-275 calories)—Choice of 1 or 2 eggs, thin slice toast, butter (1/2 cup) or toasted flakes (1/2 cup), whole milk (1/2 cup), coffee (1 teaspoon).

NOTE: If black coffee makes you want to nap at your husband, add 1 tablespoon cream (30 calories), sweetened with saccharin. Sugarcane or Sucaryl.

LUNCHEON (350 calories)—Hot vegetable soup (1 cup). Choice of Swiss cheese on rye, lettuce and mustard or grilled cube steak on thin slice bread. Small serving fruit. Hot tea.

LATE AFTERNOON ENERGY PICKUP—Glass skim milk or buttermilk (80 calories).

DINNER (420 calories)—Protein choice of (250 calories): Mixed grill, liver, lamb chop, strip lean bacon, or frankfurters (2). Mashed potatoes (100 calories). Choice of one 100-calorie vegetable: Baked potato (medium), cup or lima beans (1/2 cup), or baked squash in shell (generous wedge). Butter (1/2 teaspoon). Combination green salad, special dressing. Coffee only.

Total calories for day . . . 1,650-1,720. If you wish exercise, send long stamped, self-addressed envelope for illustrated leaflet Away With Middle Spread. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of the Winona Daily News. Post card requests cannot be answered.

LADIES AID

ASIDES

by the
SOCIETY EDITOR

Straw hats in January and velvet in July, lots of fun but when I got reams of spring fashion notes and forecasts prior to Christmas (in fact the invitation to the opening of one spring collection came in October for the opening was Nov. 9 in New York City), I tucked them away until now. While the weather is still chill, one fashion note of interest to Winona was the recent International Mink Ranchers Show in Milwaukee Jan. 7, 8 and 9 where Arlene Francis acted as commentator and proceeds went to the United Cerebral Palsy fund. Ranchers, manufacturers, retailers and those interested in the benefit, about 3,000, attended, including Mr. and Mrs. Francis Losinski of Winona.

Have you always as I have, considered mink ferocious and untameable. Incidentally, it was demonstrated that mink don't always have to be coats—they can be nice pets too. Joan Sistik, Caledonia, Wis., displayed Snow, the pet white mink raised on her father's mink ranch, and Miss Francis led the mink on the leash perfectly beautiful, docile like a dog. Miss Francis was presented with a pastel mink coat made up of pelts contributed by 80 mink ranchers of this country and Canada.

One of the garments modeled, a stole of a very new color in mutation mink to be known as winter blue, developed at the Rush Arbor Mink Ranch at Rushford by the ranch owner, Elmer Schueler, was styled and manufactured by Mr. Losinski. Schueler won a trophy and several ribbons in showing this new strain of mink.

From furs to cottons—long torso treatments with seams or bands at the hips; higher and often more square necklines; bodices cut without bustline darts, sometimes as simple as camisoles, and skirts starting below the hipline, knife-pleated, box-pleated, slim, gored, gathered or tiered are offered in resort wear and for the coming spring and summer. Fabrics are softer and easier—cottons and linens and silk prints with white backgrounds and either pastel or bright motifs such as abstracts or brush strokes, and border prints in gay cotton or in Indonesian-inspired batik pattern.

Overblouses dominate separates collections in every fabric and vary from the fitted, intricately seamed from shoulder to hip, to the semi-fitted and loose midgy types. Many of these were shown at a recent Tucson, Spanish muslin furnished the music and models changed costumes in abandoned stables and huts. A western barbecue followed.

The show offered a modified squaw dress, the free-swinging, pleated skirt still the basis but the blouse changing. Sometimes it is simply a halter-like affair, in other models, it boasts a mandarin collar or no collar, and in the "bracero" dress, the blouse is an adaptation of the Mexican peon's work shirt, wonderfully full, both forward and aft, with a deep neck designed to discreetly fold itself and hand-made wooden latch buttons on the sleeves. A ruffled torreador blouse tops another and ranch blouses, feminine versions of the tailored cowboy's shirt, are popular.

Continuing the separates picture, fitted hiplines characterize skirts to accommodate the overblouses. But in addition there are pleated, gored or gathered skirts or those with godets. Softer fabrics are used—and there are wrap skirts, fitted front or back. The Bureau of Industrial Service tells us American women are the best-skirted women in the world—few have a one-skirt wardrobe. "Borrowing from the boys" continues strong and slim skirts in men's wear flannels are popular and there is an increasing interest in belts for conversation pieces or dramatic color touch.

Later day separates bring bouffant skirts and yoked tops to suggest the long torso look with bodices to be worn at the bottom of combinations. Many of the late day offerings are in cotton. Much longer jackets have a slouched, casual air Garbo-ish looking. A favorite trick is to button them just at the bottom so that they are snug at the hip and loose at the waist. Newest are double-breasted with buttons tapering to the hem. Interchangeable sep-

Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Grupa, 876 E. Sanborn St., announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Janice Frances, above, to Stanley J. ates are stressed and separates in dyed-to-match leather, wool and knitwear, the first named extremely new. Separates include middies, one-sleeved toga playsuits, camisoles worn with crazy pants or flowing skirts and a midriff, sleeveless blouse. Denim is shown in wrap-around dress, a jumper, a camisole with skirt or shorts, a caring beach coat, sleeveless and full in blue, gray and gold, gold gray and purple, apricot, gray and brown or pink, gray and purple.

Clipper poplin comes in playclothes in bright colors accented in black trim, a midgy buttoning part way up each side and with a huge sash. Colors—dazzle blue, hot pink, orange, lime, violet. A "perma pleet" cotton arrives in turquoise and green, lime and orange, or pink and violet, each pair of colors outlined in black. Playclothes are gay and giddy, stripes appearing in T-shirts and T-shirt dresses with hoods, turtle necks, crew-necks or Italian styles. Striped pants may be worn belted or unbelted over tight pants. Gondolier pants or planter's pants are a new length just covering the unlovely part of the knee-cap and very short shorts are worn almost obliterated by a long loose top.

Garth Bentley's recent book of poetry "Faintest from Pegasus" contains a most timely, at this moment, warning on its cover, titled "Fashion Note." "Though women like To dress like men, It's very, very Seldom when (Except for youngsters In their teens) The end will Justify the jeans."

Tops go gay with the overblouse in bright prints or bright tweedy cottons. A dark tawny batik print in one overblouse is tied around the hips. Beach coats are cut straight in unexpected fabrics, hounds' tooth check, and with unexpected touches, such as handkerchiefs dangling from the pockets. Variations of the fall Bermuda skirt are in light fabrics, kilts continue in white linen with gold braid, skirt panels are used over shorts like a little wrap skirt and fine, permanent-ly pleated bright cotton flares out like a Greek soldier's uniform. Wrap skirts in jersey or cotton knit make coverups for long, skin tight pants in all sorts of novelty cottons and bright prints. Swimsuits are smooth and slick of line, long torsos, high-cut bodices, hip bands, flat pants, sleek little shorts and skirts.

And at the end of the day—night wear offers granny gowns cut off knee length, and even to men's shirt lengths, tailored shirts worn over bloomers or Bermuda shorts. A perky dunce cap, plastic lined to do double duty as a shower cap, and matching bed slippers accompany one outfit. Romper pajamas, pajamas with slim tapered pants for sleeping or lounging, overblouses in cossack fashion, waltz-length nightgowns with matching peignoirs, embroidery highlighted with pearls and rhinestones—how can one sleep?—May Murray.

State's Education Problems Topic For BPW Panel

"Minnesota's number one problem in education is reorganization or consolidation of the rural districts. This is a problem which has caused dissension wherever it has been suggested and has been bitterly fought over the years. Nevertheless it is one solution to the problem of too few teachers and too many pupils in one area, while you have an abundance of teachers and few pupils in other areas," said G. E. Fishbaugh, director of Phelps School, in his part of a panel discussion at the January meeting of the Winona Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday evening.

Dinner preceding the program was served in the parlors of the First Congregational Church.

"Another problem has always been finances. Some areas have reached the maximum that they feel they can bear in taxes, and this will probably mean more state aid, more national aid, and more scholarships, so that our children can continue their education," continued the speaker.

"As to the teacher shortage, part of it is due to the fact that during World War II, the birth rate dropped and consequently there aren't the students in the present graduating classes that there will be in the next ten years or so. At present we have an expanding population with increased birth rate and consequently more children are beginning school while fewer are coming out to teach them."

"Last year 2,400 teachers left the school systems, 45 per cent of them married, and the balance went into other fields."

During the panel discussion which preceded Mr. Fishbaugh's talk, members of the education and vocational committee carried out the theme of this meeting which was "Adventure in Achievement through Education in Minnesota."

Miss Mildred Bartsch, chairman of the committee, gave facts on the non-public school, stating that the educational system was begun by the pioneer women who taught private classes in their homes before the public schools were started. St. Paul and Winona were the two first cities in the state to acquire high schools, and this was in the early 60's.

Higher education was continued prior to that time in schools under church auspices, such as the Methodists who began Hamline in Red Wing in 1854, and this was moved to St. Paul many years later. St. John's at Collegeville was begun in the 1860's, Carleton in 1867 and St. Thomas in 1875. Many of these schools were taught in the native language of the particular church sponsoring them until World War I.

Miss Louise Farnar, another committee member, spoke on Minnesota public schools, stating that the story of education in Minnesota is the story of education in the world. The set-up was begun more than 100 years ago in Minnesota, and it is a well organized school system at present. The common school systems include elementary schools, of which 768 are graded and 5,000 ungraded, and more than one-half of the ungraded schools are one-room schools.

There are 652 four-year high schools or high school departments, but of the latter there are only four; eight junior colleges, five state teachers colleges, of which Winona's is the oldest, and one university, with 17 distinct colleges, plus other departments and laboratory schools. There are also state institutions where educational facilities are available for the handicapped, atypical, or maladjusted individuals and children.

Mrs. James Werra, third member of the panel, spoke on the place of adult education. She stated that "in ten years at the present rate of enrollment, the grown-ups will outnumber the children in the schools." At the present time, more than 30,000,000 adults are in classes in this country, of which one-half are taking "brain courses" and one-half craft courses. Minnesota has a Council for Adult Education and one of the objectives of this council is to stimulate interest in adults, and they also serve in a consultative and inquiring capacity.

Mrs. Werra urged members to study the potentialities for adult education in their own community so that they could raise the educational standards of adults. Devotions preceding the dinner were given by Miss Adele Kressin. Music was furnished through the music department of the Winona Senior High School, and consisted of a trio, composed of Donald Stow, cellist; Sharon Jackson, violinist, and Solveig Lokensgard, pianist. They presented a program of music by Sigmund Romberg and Victor Herbert.

During the business session presided over by Miss Verlie Sather, president, plans were made for the club project, a bake sale to be sponsored in connection with the March of Dimes Auction which will be held at the Auction House Jan. 30th. The Misses Doris Skow, Mildred Bartsch, Louisa Farnar, Ruth Engler and Sather are working on this committee, with Mrs. Marie Fjeldstad on the radio and publicity committee.

Any person who is interested in contributing to this bake sale is urged to contact any member of

Athletic Club Auxiliary Installs Officers for Year

Officers were installed at the meeting of the Winona Athletic Club Auxiliary Monday evening at the club. Mrs. John Dalleska presided at the meeting and Mrs. Ray Bambenek was installing officer.

Installed were Mrs. John Dalleska, president; Mrs. Valentine Mieski, vice president; Mrs. George Muras, secretary, and Mrs. An-drew Rozek, treasurer. On the new kitchen committee are Mrs. Peter Malotke and Mrs. Sophia Loshek.

Referring to the new Mrs. Edward Joswick, vice president; Mrs. George Hassel, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Joswick, vice president; Mrs. Ray Jaszwski, kitchen committee.

New members welcomed into the auxiliary were Mrs. Alex Muras, Mrs. Florian Beck and Mrs. Clarence Troke. It was voted to contribute $10 to the polo drive. Mrs. William Walski received the attendance prize.

A social hour followed the business session. Prizes in buncos were won by Mrs. L. J. Watkowski, Mrs. Paul Losinski and Mrs. Alex Muras. Five hundred prizes to Mrs. John Przybylski, Mrs. John Pepsinski and Mrs. Jack Knapick and schafskopf winners were Mrs. C. J. Chuchna, Mrs. Leo Watkowski and Mrs. Bernard Sheridan. Zionschek winners were Mrs. Edward Pahnke and Mrs. John Orlovski.

The next meeting will be a Valentine supper Feb. 7 at 6:30 p.m. at the club.

MONTANA GUEST

WOODLAND, Minn. (Special)—Charles Ford, Boulder, Mont., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ford, Woodland, this week.

FORMAL DANCE GROUP

About 140 attended the dinner dance of the Formal Dance Group at the New Oaks Tuesday evening. A cocktail hour preceded the dinner and dancing. Music was furnished by Henry Burton's orchestra. Other dances in the series are planned for Feb. 15 and April 12.

The committee and arrangements will be made to pick up the baked goods. Persons, other than members, who wish to contribute can do so also, and in this way they can contribute to the March of Dimes also. Coffee and doughnuts will be served by the club members.

Miss Sather announced that the club had been asked to appoint a representative to serve on the Governor's Committee on Teacher Supply which will hold a meeting Jan. 31. Miss Bartsch was appointed to this committee with Miss Marion Wheeler serving as her alternate. The January board meeting will be held in Minneapolis Jan. 15 and 16. Mrs. William Markle, chairman of the legislative committee, urged members to study two of the bills being proposed at the present time in the Legislature, one of which is the equal work-equal pay bill, and the other in connection with a "withholding tax on our state income tax."

A social hour under the direction of Miss Leon McGill and Miss Margaret Weimer followed the meeting.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at the Paint Depot, 163 Center St. in Winona or Pembroke St., Wabasha.

Nelson, Wis., Will Lose its railroad station agent, George Moline, at the completion of the business day Friday. The Wisconsin Public Service Commission in December approved termination of full-time freight service by the Burlington Road.

Moline has until Jan. 24 to choose one of several sites of relocation. He and his wife will take a 10-day vacation when the local station closes. After Friday, incoming freight will have to be prepaid. Outgoing freight must be collect. (Daily News photo)

The Smiles Are Over Money. Chester McCready, left, chef de gare of the Winona County Voiture 40 & 8, presents a $1,000 check to Howard W. Clark, also a member of the voiture who is 1st District director of Legionville School Safety Patrol Camp, Inc. Approval of the contribution was voted by the voiture at a meeting last week. The voiture is composed of about 180 Legionnaires, principally from Winona, Houston, Fillmore and Wabasha counties, but a few are from Buffalo and Trempealeau counties in Wisconsin.

The $1,000 is contributed toward a campaign fund goal of $130,000 to finance development of a boys' camp on North Long Lake, about seven miles northeast of Brainerd. The corporation—a subsidiary of the state American Legion—already has purchased a 320-acre farm, with house and barn. It has 1,500 feet of shoreline. Primary purpose of Legionville will be the annual Legion-sponsored school patrol camp for boys and girls, but it might be made available to other groups, too.

Since 1936 these camps have been held. In recent years the site has been the Crow Wing County fairgrounds. In 1954, 621 attended. The new camp is designed for 1,000.

Public contributions—as well as those by Legion posts, auxiliary units and voitures—will be accepted by the corporation, located at 600 Schubert Building, St. Paul, according to Clark. (Daily News photo)

A Long-Awaited Addition to the Spring Grove school is nearing completion and one unit, an 8-room grade school section (ABOVE), is expected to go into use in about a month, according to officials. It also contains an agriculture department.

The other half of the $390,000 project, a gymnasium-auditorium (RIGHT), probably will be ready for commencement exercises in May. In addition, the old building, built in 1926, is being remodeled. The old gymnasium was divided vertically and horizontally to make a grade school playroom, a cafeteria and kitchen and industrial arts department.

A girls dressing room is being renovated and the heating plant replaced. Dedication ceremonies will be held up until the entire job is finished, Superintendent A. E. Hjelle said today. The school will be in the shape of a giant U when construction ends. Grade classes will be on the west end of the old building and the gym on the northwest corner. It will contain an 84- by 50-foot playing floor, seating for 1,100 and a 90-foot stage running the length of the building. Gymnasium equipment costing $25,000 has been donated by the community. Public activities also will take place in this unit. Rooms for physical education and team dressing are provided.

School space will be about doubled with the new units. Although the eventual dream of officials is to have the elementary section separate from the high school, about four grades will convene in the old building for some time yet.

P. Earl Schwab, Winona, is general contractor. Construction started in April and is being financed by a bond issue. (Daily News photos)

Breeders Co-op Meets at Sparta; Directors Named

SPARTA, Wis.—About 400 delegates from 18 Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa counties are attending the annual meeting of the Tri-State Breeders Co-op at the city hall here today.

Sessions got under way at 10:30 a.m., followed by a dinner at the First Methodist Church. Primary business concerned election of county delegates and officers to replace Chris V. Hanson, Viroqua, Wis., president; Frank McNelly, Ellettsburg, Minn., vice president; Norbert Nuttleman, West Salem, Wis., treasurer, and George Hass, Houston, Minn.

Reports on finances, organization and sires will be heard. It is known that the co-op neared the $1 million mark during the last 12 months and that the stud has been improved and enlarged.

Featured speakers are Miss Mary Ellen McCabe, Ladysmith, Wis., state Alice in Dairyland; an International Farm Youth Exchange personage, and Prof. Karl Schoemacher, economics department, University of Wisconsin.

Over 100 sire committeemen and directors attended the annual meeting at Westby, Wis., Friday. Main items of business included analysis of breeds, suggestions for maintenance and additions to the stud and election of six sire purchasing committees. The purchasing committees will have full charge of purchasing sires during 1955.

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

Stranded Sailors

The wind went down and these young ice boat fans from Lake City found themselves and their craft stranded on the ice at Stockholm and the push back home over nearly two miles of ice was a slippery job.

In fact, as Ben Simon, the pilot of Rex II, a large 36-foot ice boat on the lake, told us the ice is wonderful right now, the best it has been in years. Ben is an oldtimer at this sport.

Two of the boys, who Merritt Kelley, Daily News photographer, caught pushing the boat Sunday are Jon Walstrom and Bruce Eggenberger, Lake City. The third one, on the end, is recruit Bernie Heinemann, Stockholm, whom they enlisted to help them get started, probably under the promises of a free ride.

There are about 20 ice boats on Lake Pepin now, mainly at Lake City, although there are no longer any races or contests held there. They are mainly used for pleasure, and for thrilling, breath-taking flight across the glistening ice. Ben would be interested in promoting some races if sufficient interest could be kindled.

Tree Planting
Willis Kruger, Wabasha County

warden, is busy now urging farmers through the county to make application for trees to plant next spring. In fact, he implies that it is getting a bit late to get in applications.

Trees may be secured by farmers, he tells us, under the Pittman-Robertson grant by making application through the local warden, county agent, or Soil Conservation Service district. Wisconsin has a similar program.

Kruger, by his vigorous effort in behalf of trees, is known all over the state as the tree planting warden. He enlists every one reachable in the tree planting period of the year and has in the past ten years been responsible for hundreds of acres of trees being planted in Wabasha County.

This year, Kruger is centering his main effort on what he calls the tree-less or prairie areas of the county, where cover is one of the reasons why game is not plentiful there. This area embodies the districts around Plainview, Elgin and western sections of the county.

"Trees planted by the pioneers," Kruger states, "are disappearing one by one and little effort is being made to replace them. Farmers in this area should start a ten-year tree replacement plant at once."

Such trees in prairie areas not only provide cover for game but protection for livestock in winter, windbreaks for buildings, yards and roads and halt wind erosion and drifting snow.

Deer on Ice

M. A. Morse, Dakota, was in the other day for a visit and told us of an unusual experience he had recently near the Trempealeau Dam. He saw a deer out beyond the upper guide wall walking about on the ice. It was leisurely feeling its way about.

Suddenly it broke through the ice, plunging into the black river water. It fought bravely, swimming about in the water apparently helpless, with no chance to be saved unless it could be pulled out from the lock wall. Morse got ropes and help from the lock crew.

However, when he returned to the wall, the deer again was walking about on the ice. It had apparently climbed onto the ice and crawled to safety—quite an attainment for a hooved animal, don't you think?

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggly had let his friend, Pat Butter, the grocery store gentleman, down into the cellar of the hollow stump bungalow. The rabbit gentleman was doing something mysterious down in the cellar—at least that is what Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy thought. So she telephoned for Mr. Butter to come over and find out about the mystery.

So Uncle Wiggly had let Mr. Butter down into the cellar. And Mr. Longears was just about to tell the goat something about the mystery when a knock sounded on the upper cellar door.

"Who is it? Who is knocking?" asked the rabbit. That's where we left off yesterday's story, if you will please remember. Now we can go on from there.

"This is Nurse Jane knocking," answered the voice of the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"I told you, Nurse Jane, that I was not yet ready for you to learn about the mystery," said Mr. Longears, in a kind but patient voice. "Please go away and don't knock any more."

"But you are wanted on the telephone," said the muskrat lady. "What is it?" Uncle Wiggly inquired.

"Mr. Whitewash at the North Pole," was the answer. "It's a long distance call and you had better hurry!"

"I wonder what White wants?" said Uncle Wiggly. "White only went back to the North Pole workshop of Santa Claus in his helicopter a few days ago. He had been visiting me over the Christmas holidays, Pat, you know."

"Yes, I know," beamed the goat. "But this is a long distance call and you had better hurry to answer it or it will cost Santa Claus a lot of money. That is unless it's a collect call."

"I don't believe White would telephone collect," said Uncle Wiggly. "I think I know what it is about. I asked him to find out something for me when he got back to the Santa Claus workshop, and this must be what he wants to talk to me about."

"Well, don't keep that jolly Polar bear waiting," advised the goat. "Hop along and talk to him."

"I will," said Uncle Wiggly. "You lock the door after me, Pat. And don't open it again until I knock after I have talked to White on the telephone. Lock the door!"

"How will I know when you knock?" the goat wanted to know. "It might be Nurse Jane."

"Hum! Yes, it might," admitted Uncle Wiggly. "Listen, Pat. You will know it is my knock if I rap three times, then wait a second and knock twice and then wait another second and knock once. Do you get it?"

"Yes, I get it," beamed the goat. "You will knock one, two, three backward."

"What do you mean 'one, two, three backward,' Pat?"

"You will knock three times, then two times and then once. Is that the idea, Wiggy?"

"Yes, it is, Pat. It will be a secret knock."

"Well, isn't that one, two, three backward? It will be three, two, one. Am I right, Wiggy?"

"Right, Pat, three and two then one knock. Nurse Jane will not know about the secret knock, so she can't fool you. Do you get it?"

"Sure, Wiggy!"

"Then I'll go talk to White on the telephone. Lock the door after me and don't open it until you hear the secret knock. Nurse Jane is very anxious to find out about the mystery, but I am not yet ready to tell her. Now here I go. You lock the door."

Uncle Wiggly hopped out. He shut the door quickly. Nurse Jane was not in sight. Mr. Butter locked the door and waited for the secret knock. But, while he was waiting, Mr. Butter went back down cellar and looked around at the sheet and other things. Then he whispered:

"Wiggy is making a queer boat! A mysterious boat!"

Another story tomorrow if the gold fish doesn't go riding in the gravy boat and fall out into the canary bird's bath tub.

New Guinea was so named because early explorers thought the natives resembled those of Guinea in Africa.

Radio Minister May Head U.S. Presbyterians

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (U)—A movement was developing today to name Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, widely known radio minister, as the head of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Many leading ministers across the country joined in backing the 62-year-old clergyman for the office.

Members of the big presbyteries (districts) of New York and Los Angeles met early this week and named Dr. Bonnell as their choice as the next moderator of the 244-million-member denomination.

The election will not be held until the church's General Assembly meets this spring, but Dr. Millard G. Roberts, a New York pastor and spokesman for the presbytery, said:

"In view of the broad sentiment already expressed, it would appear Dr. Bonnell will have the nation-wide support of the denomination." Dr. Bonnell, whose weekly sermon, "Pilgrimage," over the American Broadcasting Co. network is heard by millions, is pastor of New York's historic Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Austin-La Crosse Mail Bids Asked

LA CROSSE, Wis.—Establishment of a new truck mail route non-stop from La Crosse to Austin, Minn., over Highway 16 was indicated in a call for bids Tuesday.

Postmaster Oscar F. Paulson reported that the U.S. Postal Transportation Service district office in St. Paul will accept bids for the following until 2 p. m. Jan. 25.

Haul mail, one way only, non-stop from La Crosse to Austin, six days a week, leave La Crosse at 2:30 a.m., arrive Austin 5:30 a.m.

It is believed that the six-day week provision calls for Monday through Saturday service.

The service would be in addition to a star route which now travels the same highway, leaving Austin early in the morning, arriving at La Crosse and leaving here at 3 p.m. The star carrier, making stops along the way, arrives back in Austin early in the evening six days a week.

The new route will be established on a temporary basis. Bids are to be submitted to the office of J. A. Dunn, P.T.S. district superintendent, 5th district, 10th Division, Room 420 Post Office Building, Minneapolis 1, Minn.

Immediately in La Crosse there was speculation in some quarters not official that the one-way, non-stop service would be a forerunner for a highway post office that has been virtually assured for the same route. There was also discussion as to the future of the Milwaukee Road mail service into Southeastern Minnesota.

1st Marine Division California Bound

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (U)—The 1st Marine Division will return here when it is withdrawn from Korea within the next few months, Maj. Gen. John T. Selden, camp commander, announced.

In Fact, Everything But the Kitchen Sink

PATERSON, N.J. (U)—In his Superior Court divorce suit, Albert A. Crisafulli, 33, alleged his wife Rose, 30, during their marriage bombarded him with:

Cups, plates, knives, forks, spoons, a bowl of macaroni, a 20-pound magazine tray, a bottle of milk, ceramic ornaments and a baby bottle.

He also charged she pushed him down the stairs, lunged at him with a vegetable knife, attempted to stab him with a butcher knife, threatened him with a dagger and often slapped and punched him.

Judge William Hagarty granted a divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Fermented Berries Are Robins Downfall

ANNA MARIA, Fla. (U)—Robins by the hundreds have been on a binge here for several days. The birds toter back and forth on telephone lines, fall off, flutter feebly to the ground and remain there.

They fly into automobiles, and streets are strewn with their bodies. Police can't account for the strange behavior, but Harry Varley, editor of the weekly newspaper the Islander, thinks the birds got hopped up on some kind of fallen fermented berry.

Betting Future Is Dependent on Tax

DENVER (U)—"How much tax is due on $75,000 income?" the anonymous woman caller asked a government tax expert yesterday by telephone.

About $41,180, not counting deductions, she was told.

"Well, what about $150,000?" she asked.

The bill jumped to $101,980, the expert's slide rule showed.

Asked why she inquired, the woman replied:

"I'm just deciding whether to buy one or two tickets on the Irish sweepstakes. Thanks for your help."

Hunt in Progress For 9 Eskimos Adrift on Ice

OTTAWA (U)—Mounted police and the Royal Canadian Air Force are searching for nine Eskimos adrift on an ice floe in Hudson Bay since Jan. 4. A police spokesman said last night the prospect of finding them "doesn't look so good."

The Eskimos were marooned when a chunk of ice on which they apparently were hunting seals broke away from the northeast shore of the bay. Their dog teams, kayaks and ice boats were found on the shore.

Moutie Supt. H.A. Larsen said here the Eskimos likely could survive on seal or walrus meat if they had matches to ignite the blubber which is their customary fuel. Otherwise, he explained, they would be threatened by exposure to the subzero temperature.

3 Fathers Found Guilty of Allowing Curfew Violation

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (U)—Three fathers—a minister, a toolmaker and a wallpaper cleaner—were convicted yesterday of permitting their children under 16 to violate this city's 10 p.m. curfew.

Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien upheld constitutionality of the curfew ordinance in fining all three fathers, two of them $50 and the other $10.

The Rev. William Landers, a Pentecostal minister, and Louis Karnes, the wallpaper cleaner, drew top fines because Judge O'Brien said he was convinced they had been "something less than forthright" in their testimony. Toolmaker Jesse R. Nodine, the judge held, had been "frank and honest."

The ordinance requires parents to control their children and force them to obey the curfew.

Nodine's 15-year-old daughter, 14-year-old son and 13-year-old nephew, with Landers' son and Karnes' son, both 15, were arrested last June. Police said they chased them up to 100 miles an hour in a stolen car.

Dog Saved But Ice Skater Drowns

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (U)—Jeff Yost, 15, heard a splash in Pleasant Lake last night. A dog began to yelp. Investigating, Jeff found that a cocker spaniel had fallen through the ice.

The boy called for help. Rescuers came and pulled the dog from the water.

Later, Jeff noticed that his skating buddy, James Burkhardt, 14, was missing. Sheriff's officers and firemen recovered James' body from the lake.

Congressman's Son To Fill Father's Post

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (U)—Democrat Paul G. Rogers is going to Congress to fill the 6th district seat vacated by the death of his father Dwight L. Rogers.

Complete, unofficial returns from the 217 precincts of the 11-county district gave Rogers, a 33-year-old West Palm Beach attorney, 30,131 votes to 21,515 for his Republican opponent, J. Herbert Burke, of Hollywood, in yesterday's special election.

President Eisenhower gave Burke his support.

Rogers' victory gives the Democrats 232 members in the House to 203 for the Republicans.

Night Policeman Appointed by Whitehall Council

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—The City Council Monday evening hired George Fromm as night policeman at a salary of $250 a month and $1.25 a day or $35 a month for the use of his car. He also will be furnished the first uniform and other accouterments he needs.

Fromm, 28, is employed at Bar-Non Mills and will be given time in which to submit his resignation there. His hours, as determined at this time, will be from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m., six days a week, with every second or third Sunday off. A schedule of exchange with Constable Ben Mahle and Marshal W. R. Bensend will be worked out.

Fromm was chosen from a list of 18 applicants. Others applying were: Marcel F. Kulig, Independence; Norman L. Smith, Stevens Point; Donald R. Borreson, Black River Falls; Lloyd Peter Woyczik, Blair; William L. Thoma, Fairchild; Willie Witt, Town of Lincoln; Oscar H. Moe, Irvin Coulee; and Raymond Galstad, Ernest Davidson, Hilmer Hagen, Ernest V. Malmedo, Robert J. Berg, John Ralph Puchalla, Sanford H. Folke-dahl, Clarence Halvorson, Edwin J. Iverson and Carlyle Jacobson, all of Whitehall.

Salaries requested by the applicants ranged from $185 to $300 per month, the majority asking allowance for their car also.

Building Discussed
The council requested A. R. Gar-nock of the Garmock Engineering Co., Eau Claire, who was present at the meeting, to prepare specifications for the construction of the proposed city garage and warehouse. Bids will be opened March 14.

The building plans as approved by the council are for a 106-by-48-foot structure, with a lean-to measuring 16-by-40-feet on the north side as a heating plant and repair shop. Located on the city-owned lot now occupied by a blacksmith shop being used for this purpose, it will be constructed of cement blocks with face bricks on all four sides. There will be two fire department stalls and three for the city and utility at the front facing south. Council members voted in favor of wood roll-up doors instead of metal doors. Windows will be glass brick with ventilators, in steel frames. Heating will be from hanging radiators, thermostatically controlled.

Garnock estimated the cost would be approximately $45,000.

Referred to City Attorney Floren Hegge was a model trailer house ordinance, prepared by state authorities.

At the present time, trailers located in the city pay no taxes, as they no longer come under the personal property provision. In order to charge a just fee for locating in the city, in lieu of paying a property tax, the city must pass an ordinance.

Council members voted to charge $5 for each tapping of its water and sewer mains, with the work done by city employees.

Ask Warming House

Fifty-seven youngsters presented a petition for a warming house at the skating rink. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Eyvind Peterson, Lester Bren-nom and Clarence H. Johnson.

The council voted to permit use of the auditorium in the City Hall each Saturday morning for dancing lessons without charge. The city clerk reported that Dean Van Gorden requested that the dancing teachers now coming to Arcadia from Winona each week also be permitted to come here, saving the families the trip there who wish to have their children take such lessons.

The report of Mrs. Wayne Luke, librarian, showed a circulation of 951 in December, seven new borrowers added, and 25 new books added, of which eight were adult and 17 juvenile.

City Clerk H. J. Elstad informed the council that Jan. 25 at 5 p.m. is the deadline for filing nomination papers for the April 4 election. To be elected are the mayor, assessor, three supervisors, treasurer, and constable, a justice of the peace to fill a vacancy, and three aldermen. The aldermen whose terms expire this year are Lester Brennom, Alfred Sevold and Eyvind Peterson. Sevold is serving by appointment since the resignation of Willie A. Johnson.

Add tiny cubes of jelled cran-berry sauce to a grapefruit aspic. Delicious with roast meat or baked or broiled fish.

TWO PLAYERS, 80 POINTS

Smith-Behrens Duel Tops Area Prep Non-Loop Tilts

The greatest scoring duel of the season in Winona area prep basketball Tuesday night found Don Behrens of Elgin hooping a sizzling 39 points and Eyoita's Tom Smith topping the effort with 41.

Eyoita won the game, too, 79-61, although it held a scant 15-53 lead early in the fourth quarter.

Behrens, a 6-1 junior on Coach Vic Grabau's Watchmen five, netted 18 field goals and three free throws. Most of his goals were scored on jump shots and set shots from outside.

Behrens production gave him 107 points in the last three games since the holidays. He only scored 17 points before Christmas as injuries halted his progress, but nevertheless has a five-game total of 134 points for a 26.8 average.

Smith, a unanimous All-Little Five football player, and All-State six-man grinder, got 13 field goals and five free throws for his 41-point haul.

Most of his points came on jump shots close to the bucket and tips. Smith wasn't the only Eyoita to hit well as Dick Stehley collected 24 points. The two accounted for all but 15 of Eyoita's points.

Eyoita jumped to a 12-0 lead but Elgin managed to shave the margin in the second half, only to have Eyoita zoom into a commanding lead late in the fourth period.

Eyoita also won the B squad game, 59-34.

Three District One teams emerged as victors after a non-conference card Tuesday night.

Among the winners, the first time in a good many attempts, was Peterson, which defeated Grand Meadow 49-48.

Others to win were Chatfield over Kasson-Mantorville 61-40, and Lanesboro over Lewiston 64-55.

Houston dropped to New Albin 58-50 as New Albin chalked up its 14th victory.

Maynard Thompson, high scorer for Peterson, was also the game's hero as he dropped a 40-foot shot with five seconds left to give Peterson the 49-48 victory over Grand Meadow.

Grand Meadow led at halftime 27-24, but Peterson took a 38-37 lead at the end of the third quarter.

A see-saw battle ensued during the final period and ended with Thompson's game saving shot.

Thompson had 14 points for Peterson, and Everett Eiken added 11. H. Kuhn scored 15 for Grand Meadow and Minnich 13.

The teams were even of field goals at 16 apiece, but Peterson scored 17 times from the free throw line to 16 for Grand Meadow.

Chatfield won the B game 28-16, led by Bill Harwood.

Leading the way, breezed past Kasson-Mantorville 61-40. Chatfield led all the way, 15-11 at the end of the first quarter and 29-20 at halftime.

Harwood dumped in 20 points for Chatfield and was aided by three other boys in double figures.

Don Herich had 11 and Ron Olness and Dave Finstuen had 10 points apiece. Chatfield doubled the field goal output of Kasson-Mantorville 22-11.

Kasson-Mantorville won the B game 32-27.

New Albin jumped to a big 22-9 lead in its game with Houston and although outscored the rest of the way won 58-50.

Houston outscored New Albin 17-12 in the last period after two previous even ones.

Jimmy Dollar was high point man with 21 points in leading his team to its 14th win.

Bruce Ferguson added 13. Bob Flynn had 20 for Houston and Leroy Carlson added 12.

New Albin won the B game 28-16.

Lanesboro's District One entry had better luck against Lewiston, another Whitewater Conference team.

The Burros captured a 64-55 decision as three players scored in double figures.

Forward Robert Johnson hooped 24 for Lanesboro, Ralph Sorom had 15 and Ed Redalen 12.

Lewiston's Wayne Essman topped scoring for the home club with 14 and Ron Erdman had 12.

Lanesboro also made it a victorious B squad affair as McCullough's gun-shot won a 35-34 encounter.

Two Big Nine Conference teams, Red Wing and Owatonna, got past non-conference tests.

Dick Deden's 25 points helped Red Wing win 84-49 over Soup Winblad's young Farmington club, while Owatonna toppled Waseca 63-58 but needed an overtime to do it.

Zumbrot's Hiawatha Valley entry fell 64-52 to Wanamingo as George Currier of the latter team made a pair of game-winning free throws in an overtime period.

It was losing night for the Hiawatha Valley League all the way around as Goodhue trimmed Cannon Falls 52-47.

Roger Smith's 25 points sparked LeRoy over Byron 89-52.

Three Bi-County Conference teams — Alma, Nelson and Fountain City — won extracurricular games.

Alma won 16-point cushion in the third quarter and staved off a rally by Wabasha St. Felix to win 58-55 at Alma.

Top scorers for the winners were Bruce Katiepolt with 17, LaVere Wenger 16 and Bruce Dend 14.

Wayne Pinsonneault had 17, Dick Balow 14 and Dick Harano 8 for the Yellowjackets.

Harano, usually scoring in double figures, had a hard time driving against an Alma zone defense.

Alma won the B squad game 37-27.

Fountain City's Dick Heitman, a six-foot junior forward who shoots left-handed, found the mark for 32 points as Ev Steckel's team beat visiting Maiden Rock 61-49.

Heitman had 13 field goals and six free throws with most of his goals coming from the outside.

Junior Andrews made 16 and Thompson 10 for the Rockets.

Three Kellogg players — Dean Kuklinski with 16, Bob Loecheer 21 and Don Peters 13 — hit double figures but Nelson nevertheless won a 65-54 game as Glen Brommer counted 19 points.

Breuninger 19, Nelson 14 and also won the B squad game 40-29.

Bob Rasmussen scored 27 points, including 18 in the third in Whitehall's 70-66 win over Hixton.

Whitehall outscored Hixton 28-11 in the third after trailing by six points, at halftime.

Rodney Moen contributed 16 and Toby Elliott 12 for Whitehall.

Top scorers for Hixton were Casper 21, Byington 19, Faldet 12 and McKisslen 10.

Rasmussen got most of his points on fast-break situations and rebounds.

Osseo won its fifth straight game and once again came from behind in the fourth quarter to do it.

Coach Herb Kohls' team beat Fall Creek 53-48 and outscored the home club 19-7 in the last session.

Four Osseo players hit double figures. Dick Anderson had 15, Gary McCuen and Andy Gunderson 10 apiece and Larry Bagley 12.

Durand won a 75-71 thriller at Elmwood.

Three of Nate DeLong's boys scored all but 10 of Durand's points.

John Fagerland had 23, Ed Stori 25 and John Dollar 17.

Myron Paisley hit 25, Jim Johnson 12 and Jerry Paisley 11 in Mindoro's 62-58 victory over visiting Norwalk.

Joyce Harders Bows 572 Set In Ladies City

Ruth Novotny Hit 236 Single Monday Night

Joyce Harders of Haddad's bowl 219-572 for one of the top scores in Winona bowling Tuesday night. She rolled her honor in the Ladies City League at Hal-Rod and was one of four in that league to go over 500. Gertrude Suchomel had 537, Irene Gostomski 524 and Elsie Dorsch 522.

Monday night Ruth Novotny, Watkins Mary King, bowled a 236 single in the KK Pin Topplers League, highest of the season for women.

Some mighty trundling was turned in on the Athletic Club alleys in the Class A League. O. F. Koetz, Williams Annex bowled 257-627 and sparked his team to an errorless single of 1,036 scratch.

Andy Kolter hit 615 and three errorless series completed the list of fine things there. Andy Kuklinski rolled 586 errorless, Harvey Stever 576 and Ed Dulek 571.

Dick Rosky bowled his first 600 honor of the season in the Commercial League at the Keglers Club. He hit 244-601 for Cozy Corner Bar.

Other toppers included Joe Kierlin, Happy Dan's, 221-593 in the Four City League Hal-Rod; Carl Leonard, Silverleafs, 228-550 in Swift's League at the Red Men's Club.

Also Bill Bailey, Winona Cleaners, 230, and Bernard Kalmes, Kalmes Tires, 579, Elks League, Keglers Klub.

Celtics Take Eastern Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Boston Celtics — "The century king" staged another record-shattering performance Tuesday night as they bolted into first place in the eastern division race of the National Basketball Assn.

The Celts, who have been averaging more than 100 points per game this season, outlasted Fort Wayne's western division leaders 119-110 to take over the top slot in the eastern section by one percentage point over the Syracuse Nationals.

In other games the Nets bowed to the Minneapolis Lakers 93-82 and the Milwaukee Hawks turned back the Rochester Royals 93-80.

Boston's 119-point outburst broke the Fort Wayne Coliseum scoring record. Sharp-shooting Bill Sharman paced the Celtics' attack with a one-handed set. Sharman connected for 12 field goals and sank 13 of 14 free throws.

Bob Pettit moved ahead of teammate Frank Selvy in the individual scoring race as the Hawks unleashed a fourth-period rally to top Rochester. Pettit wound up with 31 points — 15 in the final quarter when Milwaukee outscored the Royals 30-17.

Selvy, who entered the game with a one-point lead over Pettit, collected 16 points before fouling out.

Minneapolis withstood a last period surge to beat Syracuse. The Nets had crept to within 80-77 when the Lakers went on a 10-1 tear to move safely ahead in the final two minutes. Big Clyde Lovellette was high for Minneapolis with 23 points.

The lead changed hands seven times during the contest at Grand Forks, N. D.

It was the play of guard Whitey Skoog and reserves Jim Holstein, Dick Schnitzler and Bobby Watson which paced the Lakers in their fourth quarter spurge.

Minneapolis edged away to its biggest margin at 80-70 with 5:40 left but John Kerr, Dick Farley, Dolph Schayes and Red Rocha of Syracuse combined to cut the count to 80-77 with 4:15 remaining.

Lovellette dumped in a pair of baskets and Skoog added three quick ones while the Nets hit only a free throw and the Lakers grabbed a 50-78 margin with a little over a minute left.

Guard Paul Seymour was the Syracuse standout and led his team with 16 points.

Blair's resurging Cardinals handed Eleva-Strum its first defeat in Trempealeau Valley Conference play, by a resounding 78-61 count Tuesday night at Central High School.

Independence handed Fairchild a 49-46 defeat and the Taylor at Alma Center game was postponed due to lack of water at Alma Center. The game has been rescheduled for Feb. 1.

Four Blair players hit double figures in the crucial battle for contending position in the standings.

Roger Solberg paced the way with 26 on eight field goals and 10 free throws. Paul Halverson, recovering strength after illness, played a little more than half a game and got 23 points. Lee Matheson followed with 14 and Eldon Quarne 11.

Don Bergerson sank 22 for the losers. Ron Matheson and Paul Matheson followed with a dozen apiece and Hal Havenor had 10.

Blair also won the preliminary, 44-34.

Independence rallied to outscore new Fairchild 16-6 in the last quarter and take a three-point decision.

Don Smick hit 21 for the winners. Schlichter scored 14 and Jerry Johnson 11 for Fairchild.

It was announced Independence's new gymnasium won't be ready by Friday night. The Blair-Independence game will be played at Arcadia.

Sportsmen's Party Set at Whitehall
WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—Area sportsmen are invited to a Whitehall-Pigeon Rod & Gun Club party Monday evening at the Whitehall City Hall.

Harold Arneson, club president, said there will be movies, refreshments and card games.

The club's pheasant pens, which have been located on the west city limits of Dewey street, have been disassembled to make room for the building of new homes in that area. About 600 pheasants have been raised there each year.

The club will enlarge the capacity to 1,000 birds a year and will install new equipment. The new location for the pens has not been determined but preparations are being completed for purchasing pheasant chicks from the Conservation Department this spring.

The local club also has full membership in the Trempealeau County Association of Conservation Clubs and receives approximately 1,200 birds a year from the association's pens on the Trempealeau bottoms.

The Whitehall-Pigeon club has between 4,000 and 5,000 legal size brook trout to release in streams of the area in the spring. They are being reared in a 40- by 10-foot pond on the Clarence Haugen farm in the Town of Pigeon. Haugen and his son, James, are taking care of the rearing pond, feeding the trout commercial pellets and raw liver.

Bonspiel Finals At Centerville Slated Tonight

CENTERVILLE, Wis. — Finals in the Centerville Curling Bonspiel will start tonight at 8:30 and probably be completed by 11 o'clock.

Warm weather made the ice unplayable during the daytime the last several days and forced bonspiel officials to move the finals back three nights from the original Sunday night schedule.

Finalists in the first event are the Charles Chapman rink of Le Center and the Earl S. Surt's Centerville rink. Chapman defeated the defending champion Ristow rink earlier.

Don Bergerson sank 22 for the losers. Ron Matheson and Paul Matheson followed with a dozen apiece and Hal Havenor had 10.

Blair also won the preliminary, 44-34.

Independence rallied to outscore new Fairchild 16-6 in the last quarter and take a three-point decision.

Don Smick hit 21 for the winners. Schlichter scored 14 and Jerry Johnson 11 for Fairchild.

It was announced Independence's new gymnasium won't be ready by Friday night. The Blair-Independence game will be played at Arcadia.

'Gigantic' Plan For Soviet Union Cited by Lecturer

"Perhaps no government in history had ever undertaken such a profound change on so 'gigantic a scale,'" said Daniel B. Hoyt, principal of Phelps Junior High School, as he referred to the Soviet Union in 1939 during a public lecture at Winona State Teachers College Tuesday afternoon.

Hoyt's address, titled "Europe Between the Wars," pointed up vast changes in the political, social and economic spheres of Europe between 1918 and Sept. 1, 1939, when Germany invaded Poland.

Regarding Russia, Hoyt said, "Although well informed foreign judges doubted the political stability of the U.S.S.R., the foundations of the Soviet state were firmly laid in 1939. It became increasingly clear that totalitarianism, upheld by the communists, had penetrated the entire realm, showed no sign of withering away as original Bolsheviks had prophesied."

"Stalinism had become a blend of modified Marxist and Lenin philosophies on the one hand and revived traditions of the Russian nation on the other. The new Stalinism had obscured revolutionary Bolshevik internationalism following after Peter the Great more than Marx and Lenin."

BONE REMOVED
HOKAH, Minn. (Special)—Mrs. Raymond Wiese has returned home from St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, where she had a chicken bone removed from her throat.

The use of yellow fever germs in biological warfare would be possible, says the World Health Organization.

PIANO PURCHASED
ETTRICK, Wis. (Special)—A piano has been purchased by the village board to replace the old piano, which was beyond repair, in the Community Hall.

Chance to Halt Reds
Thus in theory it should not be impossible to halt world Communism's onward march at the Great Divide of South Asia. But there are, unfortunately, some three practical difficulties of great magnitude.

First, Thailand, Cambodia and Laos, the three countries most immediately threatened, are all soft and easily penetrable or at least easy to bully. Thailand, for instance, is an easy-going Asian nation, in which the old forms of Asian society have utterly broken down. An amiable, money-loving junta now rules Thailand as a sort of benevolent police state. But there is no unity between government and people, little enough unity within the government and people, little enough unity within the government itself, and no visible national power to make a long, hard, grim effort of resistance.

Second, the keys to the Thai position are the even weaker nations, Laos and Cambodia, Cambodia being absolutely vital. The French naturally attached Laos and Cambodia to the rest of Indochina, transpire and in every other way. Thus if either Cambodia or Laos is to be saved, a major, urgent and coordinated effort is needed, to render these two countries independent of Saigon and Hanoi, and to reorient their communications, economies and everything else towards Thailand. No such effort is being made.

Third, and most important, all three of these countries are now liable to fall before mere military menaces, as Vichy's walls fell to Joshua's trumpet. The only safeguard against this is to give these countries an ironclad Western guarantee with such strong teeth in it that they will feel there is no danger of attack. And the Thais and Cambodians are quite astute enough to see that SEATO as at present constituted is the emptiest sort of fraud and fake.

The first of the three difficulties can only be surmounted by the two other difficulties could now be surmounted, and perhaps disaster might thus be averted, by wise American policy. But alas, at the moment, there does not seem to be any American policy in this area except to float, to drift, to talk big, and to hope for the best.

County Nursing Board Elects

The Winona County Public Health Nursing Advisory Board has elected all 10 of its 1954 officers and directors.

Serving during 1955 will be: Jesse B. Jestus, county superintendent of schools, president; Mrs. Norman Heim, St. Charles, vice president; and Mrs. M. L. Spencer Sr., Winona, secretary.

Other board members during the coming year will be: Peter

Legislators seek Dairy Parity Hike

ST. PAUL — Two Minnesota legislators are seeking a general backing for a resolution they say would spur the consumption of Minnesota dairy products and restore them to a 90 per cent parity basis instead of the present 75.

Reps. George Grant, Milaca, and Paul Widstrand, Hibbing, say their resolution, to be passed on and Congress if approved would make dairy products "available to our people at prices determined by the economic law of supply and demand."

Grant added that present governmental programs have the effect of reducing consumption of dairy products and lessening availability of them to the public.

Subsidies Asked

Under the resolution, Congress would be asked to authorize subsidy payments direct to farmers after calculating a parity foundation based on market prices.

In a second bill for a resolution, Grant asked that Congress ban entirely the sale of oleomargarine "colored yellow in imitation of butter" (Minnesota and Wisconsin now are the only two states that prohibit sale of such colored oleo.)

Other bills introduced in the House included those by:

Rep. Ed Chigren, Littlefork, to raise the pay of highway patrolmen next July 1.

Reps. F. R. Anderson, Duluth; Karl Gritzer, St. Paul, and Thomas Christie, Minneapolis, calling for party designation of legislators, now elected on a nonpartisan basis.

Rep. Robert Kennedy, New Ulm, for a three million dollar appropriation for a new bridge to carry U.S. 14 over the Minnesota River near that city.

More Old Age Aid Asked

Rep. Arne Wanvik, Duluth, to raise maximum benefits for old age assistance from $60 to $85 per month.

Rep. Alfred Otto, St. Paul, to change garnishment laws by raising exemptions for heads of households.

Rep. Karl Iverson, Ashby, a companion proposal to one in the Senate calling upon President Eisenhower to oust Secretary of Agriculture Benson and change the farm support program.

In the Senate, three members called for a change that would make the state civil service director appointive for a six-year term by the governor instead of picked by the civil service commission, as now.

Sponsors of the change are Sens. Herbert Rogers, Duluth; Thomas Vukelich, Gilbert, and Elmer Peterson, Hibbing. A similar measure was passed by the Senate two years ago but failed in the House.

Another bill, co-authored by Sens. Walter Burdick, Rochester; J. A. Johnson, Preston, and Harold Schultz, St. Paul, would repeal the personal property tax insofar as it applied to household goods.

Internal Revenue Auditing Chief In State Resigns

ST. PAUL — Theodore H. Feig, chief of the Bureau of Internal Revenue's audit division in Minnesota, has resigned.

A. R. Knox, Minnesota director of the Bureau, has named Jay Bruce Seifert, Minneapolis, as auditing chief.

Feig, who will be 55 next October was under fire last summer from T. Coleman Andrews, Washington, bureau commissioner, over methods of handling federal income tax cases as chief of this five-state region.

Feig would have completed 30 years of service with the bureau Jan. 19. He becomes eligible for retirement compensation when he reaches his 55th birthday.

Flash Fire Sweeps Hotel Ryan Kitchen

ST. PAUL — Damage was estimated at $12,000 in a flash fire which swept the Hotel Ryan kitchen shortly before the dinner hour Tuesday.

Dan Loney, district fire chief who made the loss estimate, said flash flames erupted from a container of overheated grease. Smoke carried by the ventilating system filled some upper floors but no guests were forced to leave their rooms.

Faribault County Has First Traffic Fatality

ELMORE, Minn. — Selmer E. Voldahl, 64, became the first traffic fatality this year in Faribault county when he was struck by a car while crossing U.S. 169 near here Tuesday night. He lived at nearby Frost.

Don Stuckler, 49, Elmore, driver of the car, said he failed to see the victim until too late to stop because Voldahl was wearing dark clothing.

The death carried the state toll to 28, 4 more than a year ago.

Dry Win Election In Marshall County

WARREN, Minn. — Marshall County apparently will stay in the dry column as a result of a special election Monday.

Incomplete and unofficial returns Tuesday night showed the vote 2,983 to 2,764 in favor of continuing the ban on sale of liquor. Observers said the few missing precincts would not reverse the trend because all had voted dry in a similar election in 1947.

Stocks Drop, Trading Light

NEW YORK — The stock market declined modestly today with steel firm in the late afternoon.

It was the second straight mild retreat of the market following a two-day rally that ended last week's severe break started by new credit restrictions on speculation.

Neither gains nor losses were very large. At the outside in key areas they went to between 1 and 2 points.

Business dwindled down to an estimated 3,100,000 shares, lowest in around three weeks. Tuesday's total was 3,680,000 shares.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"HOW COME YOU CAN LOCK DOORS AN' I CAN'T?"

LAFF-A-DAY

"Everybody looks like this."

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D.S.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Because men's voices have more appeal to both men and women. Psychologists say that men's voices are more "persuasive" and sell more goods over the radio than women's. This was true whether the articles being advertised were those primarily for men or women or for both.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. True. The "Journal of the American Medical Association" reports the case of two women—identical twins—having the same severe infectious skin disease, although they lived far apart. Dr. Franz Kallman's fine book, "Heredity in Health and Disease," reports cases of identical twins having similar mental diseases, whether separated or not. Heredity influences our bodies and minds, or man would bear no resemblance at all to his ancestors.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. A blustering, cocksure manner is nearly always an attempt to cover up a feeling of failure and inadequacy. Psychologists say when a person tells you anything very positively, he is not sure of his facts, but he hopes his seeming confidence will make you think he is sure. One research shows this attitude indicates stupidity.

THE GRAB BAG

THE ANSWER, QUICK!

- Who wrote "Dr. Faustus"?
2. In ancient history, who opposed Marc Anthony and Octavius Caesar at the Battle of Philippi?
3. Where and when was President Martin Van Buren born?
4. What newspaper suggested before the Revolutionary War that Americans send a cargo of rattlesnakes to London parks in retaliation for British injustice?
5. Who was Massasoit?

HOW'D YOU MAKE OUT?

- Christopher Marlowe—1564-1593.
- Marcus Junius Brutus—85-42 B.C., and Caius Cassius Longinus—died 42 B.C.
- At Kinderhook, N.Y., Dec. 6, 1782.
- Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette.
- An Indian king who was friendly to the Plymouth colonists.

Experts estimate that if the work now being done by Diesel locomotives on American railroads were done by steam locomotives, it would cost two million dollars a year more.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By MARGARET LATROBE

Whether you live in Bangor, Portland or Port Arthur or some place in between, there is nothing funny about the wisecrack—"Well, now, that's a good place to be FROM!"

Friend, the place you came from is "home." There is no other spot like it. Never could be, because it was home.

But the jokers laugh if you're from a little town in the "sticks." The place where you found the warmth of friendships with every single one of that "Population, 302." They say "everybody knows your business" in little towns. They sure do. When you are sick or in trouble they know it, and they do something about it.

And the jokers guffaw if you're from the big city. Call you a "cave dweller" because you lived in a vast apartment building, never knew your neighbors whose living room sofa backed up to yours on the other side of the wall. Where you knew your block as a little village all its own. Where you knew the thrills of city life—the museums, concerts, plays—and had as many friends as could be found anywhere.

Or from the barren plains of the ranch country? "But how ghastly! You mean nothing but horses and sunsets and those quaint rodeos?" Or from that Yankee New England? "How do you stand the long, cold winters?" Or Florida? "But doesn't that divine weather get awfully monotonous?"

They have a choice of detractors for just about any place. Sometimes jokes come from a book or a musical comedy. Your true Oklahoma could never quite give John Steinbeck for his literary "Okies." And you won't get far extolling "Oklahoma" in their midst, even though the play was dandy. Oklahomans, of which I am a proud one, figure it could

Ike's Stag Dinner Has Political Note

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held another of his stag dinners with political overtones Monday night with former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and seven national GOP committeemen, including Henry Ringling, of Baraboo, Wis.

Prior to the dinner, Dewey told reporters he hoped in 1956 it would be another Eisenhower-Nixon ticket and was sure it could win it an overwhelming margin.

Manchester, England claims it has the longest single railroad station platform in the world—2,195 feet—although many stations have more than that length of platform, broken into several sections.
