MENDELSSOHN CLUB ARE HOSTESSES TO COLLEGE

On Saturday evening December 15, our dear parents (Francis Gilsford and Delpha Kahl) and the younger brother (Ed. Leicht) and sister (Hermina Lindberg), welcomed us all home for the annual Christmas festivities. How fine it seemed to all to be at home with them! Our new friends appeared to enjoy the good old family life quite as much as the older members of the group. Father and Mother gathered us about the great room to listen to the art of various members of our group. Pauline Binney and Kathryn Vaughn played a beautiful piano duet and then our "little sister" (Hermina Lindberg) told us the delightful story of "The Night Before Christmas." Hazel Norton accompanied by Bernice Bingham sang several delightful solos. Lorene Gibbons played a flute solo which pleased everyone.

Miss Davis gave a reading in negro dialect that was very much appreciated. Then Miss Richards introduced a most delightful game, "Coo Coo," and we almost believed a few of us had reached that stage from the funny demonstrations of stunts. As the game progressed Old Time Carolers were heard in the distance. They were called in to join the happy throng and sang very beautifully in return for the hospitality.

The merry fiddlers then came and Father urged everyone to yield to their tempting and trip the light fantastic. But ere we could step off into the dance, ice-cream bars were passed and the revelry of the evening went on.

Though difficulties had presented themselves the Mendelssohn Club and their assistants are to be highly complimented about their entertainment. And the Club wishes to thank Miss Richards and all others who so kindly gave their assistance and made the evening so splendid a success. And again the decorators made the ball room a place of beauty. The Christmas colors over the lights cast a glow about that warmed every heart. The side lights were unusually effective with heralders in silhouette.

Completion of New Hall by August 1st is in Sight

Last Monday the pouring of the concrete for the first floor slab of the new building was started. Barring unforeseen accidents, this slab upon which the flooring will be laid will be completed before Christmas. An elevator tower nearly one hundred feet high has been erected from which the pouring into the forms will be done. A double-cylinder concrete-mixer which is steam heated will enable the construction crew to work throughout the winter. At present the work on the building is nearly a month in advance of the schedule, due to the unusually fine weather. In reinforcing the concrete work, two types of steel are being used: spiral steel, which strengthens the walls, and temperature rods which take up the expansion and contraction resulting from weather conditions.

The clearing away of the wreckage of the old building, which was destroyed by fire last December, started about ten weeks ago and by November sixth, enough of the debris had been removed to allow the beginning of the actual excavating. Two weeks ago the last load of dirt was hauled from the excavation but as the weather conditions were practically useless, they resorted to long shots, but in this phase of the game they failed also, as the score indicates.

In the second half with the game tucked away on ice, coach Habermann made frequent substitutions, twelve players seeing action in the fray. The shooting of free throws was one of the outstanding features of the Teachers' play. A good share of the points representing the purple and white's score were gathered via the free throw route.

Shemp of St. Marys and Rowe of Winona High School officiated in a very satisfactory manner.

SHEPARD HALL SOCIAL ROOM DECORATED BEAUTIFULLY

According to the custom the Shepard Hall Social Room has donned its Christmas decorations this year. A large Christmas tree holds proudly aloft its gay tinsel, red and green balls, and many colored lights. The walls and doors are bedecked with wreaths tied with red ribbon bows. The red and green electric bulbs throw a subdued light on the Christmas scene.

The decorations were planned and executed by the students of the Drawing IV class as one of their problems in interior decorations.

agent and the architect's inspector have now set a tentative date a month earlier than that.

Between seventy-five and one hundred heaters will be used to prevent the freezing of the freshly-poured concrete columns so that they will "set" evenly throughout. By using these heaters, tarpsaul covers, and the steam system already mentioned, the work will be carried on continuously regardless of weather.

The State Normal School Board has set aside $392,000. for the building of which $410,000. will be needed for general construction and another $124,000. for plumbing and electric wiring. The remainder, some $97,000., will be spent for equipment such as desks, tables, chairs, laboratory appliances, gymnasium equipment, auditorium seats, and such other furnishings as may be necessary.

The Hall Described

In a report written as a supplement to the Teachers College Bulletin, President Maxwell brought out the following points in his description of the new building:

The new Hall is located on the site of the old building. It is concrete and brick, the same brown pressed brick as is used in the library and training buildings.

Going in by the main entrance, one enters a wide corridor or lobby beyond which is found the auditorium which is two stories in height, with a balcony on the long north side, and seats 1000. At the sides of the stage are ample dressing rooms and above the dressing rooms is provided the space for a pipe organ, awaiting the generosity of the alumni or of some other good friend of the school. An orchestra pit provides for the oratorios, dramas, and commencements, all of which will now take place under our own roof.

The ample wide and well lighted main corridor entirely surrounds the auditorium, the two large light courts, and the four stairways. Turning in this corridor to the left, after entering from the front, one passes the suite of offices, then turning to the south he finds the social rooms; a large study room with unassigned desks for use during vacant periods; then the nurse's office, with rest room; and the physical education office for women. Another turn to the right brings one to the gymnasium, just across from the stage of the auditorium. It is sixty-five by eighty-eight feet in size and has seating space both on the floor and in a gallery that extends along three sides. The playing floor alone is larger than the entire gymnasium of the training school and the stands and galleries will accommodate seven hundred spectators.

In the southeast corner is the large assembly room of the junior high school. On the west are seven or eight more rooms for these children. This entire department is separated from the college proper by glass partitions, but is easily accessible to all parts of the building.

In the west end of the front corridor one passes the office of the director of training; a class room for special subjects; a student-activities room for publications, committees and club officers; and last, a combined faculty and literary society room.

On the second floor are rooms and equipment for the various academic subjects, all connected with the fine open corridor that again passes in a square about the entire floor. The four well-located, well-lighted, stairways, extending from bottom to the top of the building, make this floor readily accessible from any location.

The tower story, over the main entrance, is for the music department, and provides an ample recital room, three practice rooms, and an office.

On the ground floor, which has its windows six feet above the grade of the sidewalk, are to be taught the several art subjects. Industrial and manual arts, with printing, has six rooms; housekeeping has four; and fine arts has three. The six hundred lockers for wardrobes are recessed in the corridor walls of this floor, and gymnasium lockers, with fine shower bath equipment and small group dressing rooms, are installed in the spaces below the auditorium. Wardrobes for the junior high school, and space for a swimming pool also find provision on this floor.

Below the gymnasium lies the heating plant, and all piping and mechanical equipment extends below the ground floor of the building in unoccupied basement space. Underground passageways lead conveniently from the new building to each of the buildings at the east and west.

A portion of the final paragraph of Mr. Maxwell's report reads as follows:

"The building is elastic in arrangement and provides for the growth and changes of the hundred years to come, because those who have planned have kept in mind the future, as far as they could see it, as well as the present. Limitations such as shall develop, aside from those conditioned by reduced funds and high costs following the great war, will be the result of the limited vision of which the future always inflicts the past."—F. Y. W. C. A. MEETING

Wednesday, December 12, following school management, was held the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. The meeting was opened by Miss Mabel Moen, who introduced Mrs. Von Arx, Verna, who presided.

The Y. W. C. A. held its annual bazaar in the Annex building on Sanborn street. The rooms were decorated in blue and gold, and baskets of flowers adorned the various tables.

The night previous to the sale, the girls were busy putting the finishing touches to their gifts. Many beautiful articles were donated by them. Japanese pictures, trays, and baskets which had been purchased from the art shop in Minneapolis, added to the variety of articles sold.

One table which received a great deal of attention was the one containing the candy. Delicious fudge and taffy had been donated by the faculty, Miss Arzt being chief candy maker.

The tea rooms were well patronized by the students and the faculty. Wafers, doughnuts, and tea were served by the cabinet members. Wafers, doughnuts, and tea were served by the cabinet members. The PRIMARY CLUB PARTY

On Friday evening, December 14th, the members of the Primary Club enjoyed a Christmas Party in the Training School gymnasium. The gymnasium was prettily decorated with pointsettias, Christmas trees, and Christmas candles. There was an exhibit of primary handicraft which proved very interesting to the students. Christmas stories were told by several of the members for the entertainment of the guests, and Miss Mabel Moen gave a very pleasing vocal solo. Christmas games, a grand march and the singing of Christmas Carols added to the pleasure of the guests. Refreshments were served in a unique way.

Miss Gage spent Monday in Mankato visiting the Training School of the State Teachers College.
PICTURES FOR THE ANNUAL

The time has come to give some pointers on the pictures for our Annual. In the first place, it is not too early to begin collecting kodak pictures. Make it a point to take your camera or kodak with you when you go skating or for a hike. Let's have an overwhelming number of good pictures ready to turn in to the Picture editor when he calls for them. The more he has to choose from, the better that part of the book will be. The importance of the picture section in making the Annual a success is of course, great. So take your kodak with you, ready to use wherever you go.

In the next place, there are a few things to consider when you have your class pictures taken. Have a gloss print made. Have a light gray background. Have a good medium size, for which exact specifications will be given later. Plan to have your picture ready to hand in not later than January 30, 1924.

Although the Class picture problem is of vital importance only to the Seniors, it is expected that the Juniors will be ready with their share of snapshots.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

Women's Physical Education Club

Physical Education is more and more coming into its own, and especially in the Winona State Teacher's College. This fall the Women's Physical Education Club reorganized—we elevated our aims and ideals in order to raise the standard of Physical Education in W. S. T. C. Every girl, in order to become a member of the club had to answer a questionnaire, dealing with Physical Education, satisfactorily.

At our first meeting the following officers were elected:

Doris Sinclair..............President
Dorothea Fraehich........Vice-President
Emily Lange...............Sec'y-Treas.

We hold our regular business meetings the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month.

One week end in September the Seniors duly initiated the Juniors at Prairie Island. It is agreed we all had a good time.

Although our club has been seriously handicapped by illness of its members and other things, we still stand strong. We are boosting for a bigger and better Physical Education Department at the Winona State Teacher's College.

The Kindergarten Club held its regular monthly meeting Friday evening December 7th at 7:15 p.m. The first part was given over to a short business meeting. Afterwards the girls made themselves busy with needles and brightly colored yarn. Fifty-six small stockings of white tarleton were made. These will later be filled with candy for the kindergarten Christmas tree. While the stockings were made Christmas songs were sung.

The Certificates granted by the State Board of Health on the completion of the Correspondent Course offered by them have been received.

BASKET BALL NOTES

With “Number One” to their credit the boys are out to make it two in a row when they oppose the strong La Crosse Normal five on the Badgers floor, Wednesday night, Dec. 19th.

"Old Hard Luck" is sure camping on the trail of Mike Bambeneck. The Wed. night before the Fort Snelling game, Mike dislocated his arm again, while scrimmaging the High school in the Y. M. C. A. It will be remembered Mike was kept out of foot ball because of this same injury which he suffered in the La Crosse game. Mike is our unanimous choice for hard luck champion.

Habermann's "prize pets" sure got a hand when they made their appearance in the second half. Cleary said the only trouble was they didn't throw the ball where the men were supposed to be.

The coach found many rough spots in Sat. night's play and these will have to be polished off before the game with La Crosse.

A complaint was made that the boys singing in the dressing room disturbed the work of the training school. They actually accused those innocent boys of "Singing." Just think of it.

Guess that will be all for this time.

The average man is proof enough that a woman can take a joke.

LUKE 2:8-15

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men.

TO ALL A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND TO ALL A HAPPY VACATION

Once more the Holiday season has come bringing with it its atmosphere of good will and merriment, its serious thoughts, and the spirit of giving. Since the Three Wise Men first gave gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Babe in the manger, gift giving has been dominant in the hearts of everyone at this time. The New Year is also at hand. “At this moment of the year one feels like a person standing on the prow of a boat. Back of him is the long wake marking the road over which he has come, turbulent or peaceful, with familiar landmarks and memories. Ahead, the boat slips into unfamiliar waters. It is as if the momentous things behind suddenly stand clear. What lies ahead?” Let us all try to keep the Christmas spirit throughout the New Year, and do all we can to make “Peace on earth, good will to men” come true.

Mr. Stalcup—“Has any one else a question?”
Orr—“Yes, what time is it?”

Letters have recently come from the following kindergarten girls of former years:

Irene Riley, teaching at Tracy, Minn.; Lois Everetts, teaching in Minneapolis; Mary Laughlin, teaching at Gaylord; Helen Wilkins, who is studying this year at the Washington University; Laurie Mayer, teaching at Excelsior, Minn.; Emma Levy, who at the time of writing was traveling in the far west; Margaret Anderson, kindergarten teacher at the Northrop Collegiate; and Lillian Van Osdale engaged in newspaper work at Rochester.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Thru increased effort on the part of Miss Andrews music in the Junior High School is still progressing in spite of Mr. Grimm's illness. By shortening the time given to singing classes Miss Andrews is succeeding in the preparation of a Christmas program to be given at the Masonic Temple.

The Campfire Girls met in the Assembly room, Thursday, November 1. They worked on their permanent record book and discussed Indian symbols and designs for headbands.

A Thanksgiving play entitled "The First Thanksgiving Dinner" was given by the pupils of the eighth grade, Wednesday, November 28. Miss Doebler, the teacher in charge, coached the play. Both teacher and students did remarkably well," said Mrs. Simmons who was a very appreciative visitor.

In the safety habits essay contest Harriett Beyerstedt, Besie Brown, Clarence Loerch, Josephine Kjelland, Harold Tust, Irma Clausen, Cornelia Weis, Howard Long, Esther Anderson, Clarence Cheslik, Alice Erhke and Ruth Erhke won honorable mention because their essays were the best in their respective sections. Arlene Marshall, Doris Ward, Marion Muir, and Barbara Lindsay stood highest of all. The decision was made by a committee who did not know the names of the writers.

The seventh grade has a system of self-government in which each class teacher appoints a leader for a week who keeps the room in order. The class leader also takes care of the attendance and conduct in class, and in passing to and from classes.

Under the coaching of Mr. Habermann a basketball team is being organized from pupils of the fifth through the ninth grade. It was plainly seen in the practice that many had been on the floor before. Mr. Christensen is working out a schedule which will involve not only competition in the grades but interscholastic games as well.

On Wednesday, December 12, the general assembly hour was of special significance. The banners won in the relay race were presented. Miss Devitt presented the girls in the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades with their banner while Mr. Little awarded the Junior High boys with their triumph signal. Mr. Simmons received the honors for the school.

The Training School has taken on a very Christmaslike atmosphere and work is in full swing for splendid Christmas programs. Decorations are attractively arranged in each classroom.

The Junior High School girls are dressing dolls, to be given to an organization for children. Miss Parker is in charge of the work. The girls donated the dolls.

Friday morning, December 21st at 10 o'clock, in the women's gymnasium will be held the kindergarten "Christmas Party." The children will sing songs and dance around the Christmas tree. All those who are interested are invited to come.

DORMITORY NOTES

Miss Seraphine Martin, who has been ill since the summer term, is back at school and will live with us at Morey Hall until she finishes her work here this year. We are all glad to see her back again.

Mildred Vermilyea and Matic Stone are leaving Shepard Hall December twenty-first as they graduate at that time.

Miss Dorothy Feinlich entertained several of her friends at a tea, given in her room at Morey, last Saturday afternoon.

The little mice in West Lodge have become extremely unruly of late. In fact, about five o'clock every morning some of the girls have to sit up with them until the little fellows can be persuaded to go back to bed and be good. Any one knowing a remedy for the naughty "pups" please send it immediately, as the nervous strain is beginning to tell on the girls.

A group of first floor Shepard Hall girls gave a birthday party in honor of Sadie Van Buren on Monday, December 10.

The Misses Esther Eide and Fern Peterson entertained about twenty of their friends at a luncheon in their room last Saturday evening. All reported a good time.

THE WENONAH PLAYERS

The Wenonah Players held their last meeting for 1923 at Shepard Hall on Monday evening, December seventeenth. "The meeting was of a social nature and was in charge of Alfred Boeck, chairman of the social committee.

A substantial supper was served, after which plans were discussed for work for the new year. In all probability work after the holidays will be centered in one full evening play to be presented the latter part of February. It is hoped, however, that several one-act plays can also be staged so that every member of the club may have an opportunity for practical work.

The club was interested in the report of the treasurer to the effect that over five-hundred of the faculty and students were entertained at the November "At Home," the hall decorated, music furnished, refreshments served, two sketches produced, with a bill that totaled under fifty dollars.
THE ANNUAL STAFF

Several meetings of the newly chosen annual staff have been held and plans are under way for an entirely satisfactory 1924 "Wenonah." The various heads of the departments, their assistants, and the faculty advisers have started the work which will be resumed after the Holiday recess.

against a red background announced to all the coming of Christmas.

Each party brings forth more skill and ability that is possessed by the various organizations. Also, they bring the members of the school more close together, so that this family reunion at the evening of holiday time brings more happiness and "good will toward men." And we hope that many may be able to respond to the kind Father's bidding as he said "goodnight." and invited us to return at this time next year.

"Here's the place we've been looking for" said the bustled student, Chinski, as he went through the door with "No Admission" on it.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

BY MARY E. WILKINS FREEMAN

My mother was a singing wind I never knew;
My father was a tall and stately pine;
Beside his majesty I slowly grew
Through God's great seasons for this fate divine.

I glory in my triumph, which has slain
My life among my comrades of the trees;
I cannot greet with them the spring again,
Tuning my leaves—the jocund glees
Of homeward birds are not for me; I kept their nests in vain.

The keen ax cut my roots; I fell mid spray
Of glittering snow-wreaths; and my nests were torn
By clinging bimals as I crashed away,
Slain like a king who is by death reborn.

They placed me where His little ones could see;
They hung my boughs with lamps of lovely fire;
They sang for joy to symbolize proud me,
Thrown to the flames! Who cares—. . . I was the Christmas Tree.
