Shipment of Memorial Organ Postponed

DATE OF ARRIVAL MONTH LATER THAN ANNOUNCED

In a recent letter from the State Board, the committee in charge of the memorial organ were informed that on March 1, the organ would be set up at the New Jersey factory in a condition to be played. At that time Mr. Horace Seaton, the advisor for the Executive Committee of the Alumni Society, will go to the factory and approve the organ before it is taken apart and shipped to Winona.

The instrument will require two or three freight cars for shipment. Upon arriving here, it will doubtless be stored in the organ room and corridor. About six weeks will be required to install the organ which will assure the use of the instrument during the Commencement Season.

The organ chamber is in readiness for the installation. The electrical connections to the basement are placed, the air pipes to the blower room are completed and fixed, and the organ grills on both side walls and ceiling are in readiness.

The organ will occupy the west end of the stage while the console will be connected with a cable which will make it possible to move the console to different portions of the stage or to the orchestra pit itself as conditions require.

DR. SPAETH LECTURES ON MUSIC

On Wednesday evening, February 4, Dr. Sigmond Spaeth of New York City formally opened our Music Course at the College, by delivering a lecture on "The Common Sense of Music." A large audience were in attendance, and were well entertained by the popular lecturer. Dr. Spaeth is a vigorous speaker, with a keen sense of humor. His practical illustrations on the piano had a general appeal, and served to make his points very concrete, for the amateur as well as the professional in music circles.

Taking the so called popular or "jazz" tunes, and playing short sketches from the works of renowned composers from which the melodies had been adopted, Dr. Spaeth demonstrated how these melodies have been worked into the popular tunes of the present day.

"I have come to speak about the common sense of music" Dr. Spaeth said "by that I mean two things. First, that music can be talked about and treated in a common sense way, and secondly, that there is a sense of music common to every one of us, even if it be only a sense of rhythm which responds only to the best of the drum. The great need is to get the so called non musical people to listen to music. In order to do this we must find the point of contact between the listener and the music. Tunes are the point of contact, and if we want to suggest a piece of music we do it by tunes. Melody is made up of tunes, and all great music has melody. All great music runs in patterns by which one can follow the tunes."

"Music is composed of tunes and time. Make good music more familiar and it will become popular. Increasing one's love for music increases one's love for permanent things."

Such was the list of Dr. Spaeth's talk, which he illustrated on the piano at many points.

"Only 38" to be Presented by Wenonah Players

ORCHESTRA TO MAKE INITIAL APPEARANCE

Dr. Spaeth gave his lecture in a lecture course. The Wenonah Players will present A. E. Thomas' three act comedy, "Only 38" Thursday evening, February 26, in the College auditorium.

The play is being presented through special arrangement with Samuel French, play producer of New York. It is being coached by Miss Davis. The cast of characters is as follows:

- Mrs. Stanley: Esther Villaumie
- Mrs. Newcomb: Esther Watzke
- Mrs. Peters: Florence Spelts
- Mr. Sanborn: Carl Witt
- Mr. Stanley: Robert Stanley
- Lucy Stanley: Joseph Streek
- Lucy Wetzel: Florence Suemper
- Mary Hadley: Frances Emmert
- Sydney Johnson: Joseph Martin
- Professor Giddings: Gerald Houston
- Alice: Valois DeFell

The story centers around the home life of Mrs. Stanley, a young widow whose late husband was a minister and demanded of his family the strict religious practices according to his narrow views of life. Mrs. Stanley moves to a college town to educate her son and daughter and leads a life suited to a woman of her age and tastes, in spite of the children's persistent requests that she follow the father's customs. One of the college professors, whom Lucy, the daughter, greatly admires, becomes attentive to Mrs. Stanley. Lucy had thought that his visits to their home had been due to his acquaintance with her and consequently is very much provoked at her mother's actions. Robert, the son, is more easily won over to his mother's views and Professor Giddings finally succeeds in convincing Lucy that her mother has a right to the thing every woman wants — and should have — happiness.

This will be the first play to be presented by the Wenonah Players in the new auditorium. Special music will be played by the orchestra which will make its initial appearance this date. All W.S.T.C. students will be admitted upon presentation of their Term Tickets at the box office for reserved seats.

It brought his audience to laughter when he illustrated the "noble origin" of "Yes, We Have No Bananas," "Cheer, Cheer, the Gangs All Here," and "We Won't Be Home Until Morning."

He dealt almost entirely with the fundamentals of music, and gave his lecture in a convincing and pleasing manner.

MOTHER EARTH GOES A'FISHING CATCHES SMALL ONES

Even small fishes, when they have been caught, disturb quite a large quantity of water. The larger the fish, the larger the disturbance of the water. So it is with moons. The large one that we all know about has regularly disturbed Earth's oceans pretty regularly, as evidenced by the tides. When tides do not act according to schedule astronomers begin to try to find out what is the matter. Nothing that these learned gentlemen have seen with their telescopes explains the aberration; so they have gotten out their notebooks and pencils for the purpose of computing the nature of the probable disturbing body, and they have come to the conclusion that Earth has been fishing and has caught another moon. The nature of the bait is as yet unascertained, but the sky-gazers feel pretty certain that the tackle used is the old, familiar equipment, gravitation.

Like any other fisherman Earth, has to be where the game is if the tackle is to prove anything more than ornamental. It has long been known that on her wanderings Earth not infrequently gets into locations where asteroids are more or less numerous. If she gets near enough to them, nothing but capture can eventuate.

Conditions similar to the present perturbations of the moon already have led to the discovery of a planet just where the astronomers prophesied that eventually it would be found. Simple thing this, prophesying about new planets and new moons, if only one knows how? What a joke if Old Earth should catch the asteroid that seemingly she now is angling for! She has one big one, she thinks she has one little one, and when she catches this other little one that is just going to bite, she will have three. But read about it on page 25 of the Literary Digest for Jan. 24th, 1925.

Winona Loses Thriller to Rochester, 35-31 Score

Lose in Last Minutes. Lynch Plays Well.

Rochester Junior college nosed out a 35 to 31 victory over the Winona Teachers in an exciting game played at Rochester last Friday. A special train with 160 Winona fans accompanied the team on their invasion to the Queen City.

The game was replete with thrills and although Winona took an early lead and kept it until the last minute, Rochester was only a point or two behind most of the time. At one time shortly after the second half opened, the locals had a 23 to 16 advantage over the Winona invaders. The score at the end of the half was 17 to 14 with the Winonans in the lead.

By overcoming Winona's lead and winning the game in the last few moments, Rochester accomplished the same feat Winona did when the Queen City collegians played here. By that time, a last minute spurt on the part of the local team resulted in a 23 to 20 victory over the invaders.

Winona could not get the ball off center as it should have and the defense was generally weak. The local attack, however, had the edge on the Rochester offensive.

Craddock, former St. Thomas star, was the outstanding player on the floor ringing up 15 points for Rochester. The work of Captain Glenn Fordham was also a feature of Rochester's final spurt, and it was he who made the winning tally after Craddock had tied the score 31 all with three minutes to go.

CHINSKE AND BANNON GOOD

Chinske and Bannon played the best for Winona, fighting desperately during the entire game. Chinske's shooting was very accurate and his passing was fully as good. The slippery Winona forward, who was shifted to his old position by the absence of Hargesheimer, tied the fast Craddock's record by making 15 of Winona's 31 points.

He often broke through the Rochester defense for scores, and surprised the Rochester forwards by taking the ball away from them at unexpected moments. Bannon played his usual cool game and dropped in three baskets and a free throw. Lynch broke up many of Rochester's plays and prevented many shots with his close guarding. His work at getting the ball off the backboard was a feature of the game but his man Fordham got away for six field goals.

Tust played a wonderful game and while not coming in for much of the scoring, it was his quick and accurate passes that accounted indirectly for many of Winona's tallies. Gerlicher seemingly off form was kept busy trying to guard Craddock rather than working on the offensive much himself.

DANCE AFTER GAME

With both teams fighting at a remarkable pace, Rochester slowly overcame Winona's lead and with three minutes to go Craddock tied.

THE LOW DOWN

Since we last met, Coach "Habie" and troupe have been doing a little traveling. Incidentally on a couple occasions they played some basket ball (referring to the Hamline and Rochester games).

ST. CLOUD

Instantly or postumly speaking, there is always a reason. Possibly the boys were afraid to strut their stuff at St. Cloud on account of the reformatory being so near, but from their playing no one could have guessed that they were the W.S.T.C. team.

HAMLINE 26 — WINONA 28

At St. Paul the gang were back to their old form. Besides giving the Hamline folks a terrible pain, the boys gave the police force a good work out. They didn't murder any one, or walk away with anything, but "Bookie" and "Kalk" and some of the rest asked the coppers more questions than could be answered in the "Almanac of Facts!"

ROCHESTER

We have not, as yet, fingered out a good alibi for the defeat at Rochester. The boys certainly shook their shredded wheat, and if any one thinks that an alibi is necessary they can make up one to suit themselves. We'll say it was a rattling good exhibition.

ALUMNA COACHES PLAYS

On January 29th Hermina Lindberg, graduate of 1934, and Junior High School teacher at Kasson, presented a very successful production of the play "Clarence" in that city. It was given by the Junior Class and was one of the most successful and enjoyable plays ever presented at Kasson. Miss Lindberg has been asked to Coach the Senior Class play of the Kasson High School.

Hamline Bumped 28-26 by Purple and White

Al Sundberg, fast all-state forward with Hamline, was the scoring ace of the game. He made 14 points, 10 coming in the last half.

Winona resorted to the long passing game and succeeded fairly well in stopping the Hamline's five short passing attack. Although the Midway cagers missed many easy shots, Winona's guards were responsible for breaking up some of their opponents best plays.

HAMILLE STARTS SCORING

Hamline was the first to score when Sundberg caged two free throws. Hargesheimer, who started for Winona and played a strong game, scored first for the Teachers with a free throw. Both lines then played on even terms until the last few minutes of the period when Bannon and Beatty talked from the floor and the half ended, 13 to 8 in Winona's favor.

Sundberg again opened the scoring in this period with two free throws. Reed brought Hamline within one point of a tie with a field goal, followed by Schweiger's basket which gave the Midway five the lead they held until the closing minutes of play.

Sundberg then scored three field baskets in succession, followed by goals by Maetzold, Tust, and Kalkberner who had been substituted for Gerlicher at center. With Hamline holding a four point lead, shots by Bannon and Chinske overcame it with Chinske breaking through for the winning basket.

Beatty played unusually well and Kalkberner showed up well at center. Gerlicher fought hard during the entire game and was strong on defense. Tust was applauded for his clean and flashy playing and the diminutive forward Hargesheimer kept the Hamline guards worried trying to keep track of him.

Winona Loses Thriller to Rochester

the score at 31 all after Gerlicher, Bannon and Fordham had sunk in a basket each.

Winona fans become depressed when Fordham sunk in a basket after a long shot and Arter made it 35 a second before the final whistle by following up one of Craddock's shots.

The game was as fast and thrilling as any ever seen at Rochester when three followers of the game there said. It was played at a racing pace throughout. It was said that the largest crowd to attend a floor contest this year at the Queen City, witnessed the battle.
