Players’ “Only 38” Pleases Large Audience

The Wenoehah Players’ production of “Only 38” presented by an all star cast delighted the large audience which greeted the performers. The Teachers College orchestra under the direction of Walter Grimm made its initial appearance. The Black Diamond overture was received with enthusiasm as were the numbers between the acts.

Mrs. Stanley, the widow of the late pastor of Lebanon, New Hampshire, decides to live the life she has longed for instead of being tied down as the “pastor’s widow.” Miss Esther Willard carried this part very nicely. She finds it difficult to bring her ideas into practice because the children, Bob and Lucy, are inclined to hold fast to the strict and narrow minded principles of their father. Miss Florence Speltz and Joseph Steiff played the part of these indulgent children.

Miss Esther Wetzl and Miss Florence Speltz as Mrs. Newcomb and Mrs. Peters present a humorous situation when they come to sympathize with Mrs. Stanley.

Carl Witt, as Mr. Sanborn, Mrs. Stanley’s father, brings hilarious laughter from the crowd by his remarks and actions. This eccentric old farmer is enabled through the sale of his pine forest to fulfill the desire of Mrs. Stanley to have the children sent through college and also his own desire to see some of the “glory and fame of Bob and Lucy, the play ends with Mrs. Stanley, the widow of the late pastor of

FESTIVAL OF NATIONS A DELIGHTFUL SURPRISE

The Kindergarten Club entertained the faculty and students at a school party, the “festival of nations,” in the gymnasium Saturday evening. Many different countries; France, Russia, Spain, Holland, Turkey, China, Japan, Sweden, Norway, India, Italy, England, Ireland, Scotland and America were represented by the flags which decorated the walls, the appropriately costumed girls who took part in the program, the favors, and the dance music. One feature of the program was a geography lesson illustrated by human paper dolls. Following that was a Scotch dance by Elaine Elliot of Winona, and a Dutch “wooden shoes” danced by Margery Zache and Cecilia Madden. A scene symbolic of world unity concluded the program. This was a maypole dance by girls representing the leading nations of the world. After the program, ice cream and wafers were served in an adjoining room by Kindergarten girls dressed in a variety of national costumes. During the remainder of the evening the guests danced to the tune of foreign dance music.

GRADUATION EXERCISES FOR MARCH CLASS HELD

Last evening, March 5, at 8:00 o’clock, exercises for the March graduating class were held in the Auditorium of College Hall. Twenty one students were given diplomas at this time. The program was as follows:

- Andante, from the “Sunrise Symphony”. Haydn
- Vinona Teachers College Orchestra
- Address — “What a Teacher Can Do To Conserve the Health of Pupils.”
  - Dr. Max Seham
- Brooks Shall Murmur
- Welcome, Pretty Primrose
- Presentation of Diplomas
  - Director S. H. Someren

The students completing their work at Winona State Teachers College are:

- Bingham, Bernice G., Winona
- Bourbe, Kenneth, Winona
- Brodt, Emily H., St. Charles
- Conkey, Elizabeth, Winona
- Elken, Judith, Rushford
- Fossum, Selma, Hayfield

On February the twentieth and twenty-first the American Association of Teachers College presidents held several important meetings in the Hotel Gibson. The program which was devoted to problems of curriculum and administration was a most profitable one. President G. B. Maxwell of Winona State Teachers College was president of the association during the past year and much of the success of the program was due to his expeditious handling of the meetings.

The National Society for the Study of Education discussed its twenty-fourth year book. One part is devoted to reading and other to individualizing instruction. Dr. Gates of Teachers College, challenged our methods of teaching reading and demanded that the whole procedure in teaching reading be subjected to the most careful scientific scrutiny and study, to find out what is the best method of teaching reading and the best age to begin it.

Superintendents Washburne of Winnetka, Illinois, and Stoddard of Bronxville, New York favor strongly the individualization of instruction in our schools while Dr. Kilpatrick insists this must not be done to the detriment of socializing our instruction and training our children to work and live together harmoniously.

In the City Teacher Training School section much emphasis was placed upon the use of the practice school (the laboratory of the teachers college) in preparing teachers. It was also considered very important that the student be inducted into teaching gradually and that he be trained by the ordinary sized class. This training of teachers in considered so important that the work of the supervisor and that of the college teacher of subject matter courses be focused upon the student teaching in the training school.
ORGANIZATIONS

TWIN CITY CLUB
Saturday evening, February 21, at 6:30 P.M., the Twin City Club had a banquet at the Social Tea Rooms. After a delicious dinner, the tables were pushed back and the girls danced until shortly after nine o'clock.

ART CLUB NEWS
The Art Club had a dinner at Shepard Hall on Wednesday evening, February 17. The repast was prepared by the "three musketeers," Barbara Wilcox, Hannah Vangor, Irene Hope. The toast was made ready by the president, Helen Chard, and the honorary member of the Art Club. After the feast had been peacefully eaten everyone went to the kitchen where the merriment reached its height during the dish-washing. Miss Speckman was the guest of honor.

THE MERCHANTS BUREAU

The exact nature of the award has not as yet been definitely decided upon, but a committee is investigating the matter, and some suitable emblem will be decided upon soon.

This system has worked well in many colleges and universiites and promises to become one of the traditions of the school. Such an award, backed by the entire student body and faculty will certainly mean much to the receiver, and should promote those qualities which go to build personality and character.

Winona Loses Last Game of Season to St. Cloud

EXTRA PERIOD FATAL — 23 TO 16 SCORE

Winona State Teachers lost a heart-breaking decision to St. Cloud Teachers last Friday evening at the college gymnasium in an overtime period of the greatest and most thrilling exhibition of basketball seen in Winona for some time, the final count being 23 to 16.

The score gives no indication of the closeness of the game and how evenly the two teams were matched, for at one time only 20 seconds separated Winona from victory, which would have been the sweetest of a season full of achievement.

This was the last 20 seconds of the regular playing time. Winona, by a spectacular rally, had overcome a six point lead and was two points ahead with just a little more than a minute to play. Winona adopted stalling tactics to guard their narrow margin until the final whistle.

St. Cloud, however, throwing caution to the winds, sent three men up to break up the stalling, and got the ball long enough for Carpenter to sink an overhand shot only 20 seconds before the regular playing time ended.

The final whistle blew with the two teams tied at 16 all. Both teams were shooting at every opportunity and three of the St. Cloud shots dropped through the ring, and these, added to a free throw, gave the visitors the hardest victory they had ever earned by a score of 23 to 16.

The result gives Winona third place in the standings of the junior college conference. Rochester, by its victory over Mankato, 28 to 27, last night, in another over-time period, kept first place with five victories and one defeat, administered by Winona.

The game was full of all the elements that give basketball its thrills. In the first half there was brilliant playing, neither team being willing to tear loose and give its opponents an opening. Then in the second half both teams began to open up, and the scorekeeping grew more and more eager. First one team and then the other sped down the floor in a desperate attempt to get near the basket. Usually they failed, and had to content themselves with shots from far away and difficult angles. Members of both teams fought savagely to get possession of the ball, and battled just as hard to break up plays of their opponents. Almost all of the baskets were from long range, and those from nearer the basket were thrown in a hurry from any position, overhead or on a dead run.

After six minutes of scoreless playing Nickey, speedy St. Cloud forward, broke away for the first goal of the game, dribbling up to the basket for a short shot. Tust tied the score with a shot of medium length after a fast exchange of passes with Bannan which took him through the St. Cloud defense. Blaha sunk one of medium length. A long shot from Chinske from the side right through the ring brought the fans to their feet. The ball ended after Chinske had a free throw, with Winona leading by a 6 to 4 score.

St. Cloud took a spurt in the first part of the second period and piled up a six point lead. Ashbough opened up with a pretty shot of medium length, and Blaha followed with another of the same kind. Carpenter then found his eye and sunk one from the middle of the floor, and a few minutes later broke away with the basket unguarded and dropped in a short basket. The rally brought St. Cloud up to 12 points, and during that time the best Winona could do was a free throw by Tust, making the score 12 to 6.

Then Winona got going, and for the rest of the game it was nip and tuck, with Winona having the edge in a great up-hill fight. Chinske started things with a shot of medium length, but Blaha matched it with a short shot after some fast passing by St. Cloud. Beatty shot a free throw, and Tust brought the fans to their feet with a goal from the middle of the floor. Tust added another point with a free throw. The score was tied when Gerlicher got away from his guard, took a fast pass from Tust, and dribbled in for a short shot.

The score was tied, with only a few minutes left to play. Again Tust came through. Taking the ball in mid-floor near the side lines he threw it toward the basket. The ball hit the backboard, rebounded from the basket to the backboard, and then dropped through the ring, sending the crowd into a frenzy of cheering. Then came the stalling, St. Cloud's tying basket, and the over-time period, ending with the best basket ball games ever seen here.

SUCCESSFUL BASKET BALL SEASON CLOSES

The game last Friday night closed the basketball schedule for Winona State Teachers College. The season was successful in more ways than one. Though we would have liked to see the championship come to Winona, there are other things which count even more toward a successful season.

Our team has established a wonderful reputation for its clean playing and good sportsmanship. The Winona team went through several games without committing a foul and at no time during the season was a player disqualified because of personal fouls. We can well feel proud of such a record. It certainly speaks well for the coach, the players, and those who promote our athletic activities.

Winona played teams from three states, and by committing themselves in such a manner, have placed W.S.T.C. on record as being one of those schools where sportsmanship ranks exceedingly high.

From a financial standpoint the season was a decided success. Larger crowds attended our games than ever before. The gymnastic, which has a seating capacity of over eight hundred was packed on every occasion, long before the whistle blew. It was often necessary to hang up the sign "standing room only" a half hour before the starting signal. Such crowds speak well for the brand of ball played, and for the support which the department received.

At a meeting of the athletic board Monday afternoon it was voted to award letters to Captains Beatty, Bannan, Chinske, Lynch, Gerlicher, Kalkbrenner, Tust and Hargesheimer. McLeod will receive a manager's letter. Numerals will be awarded to McCready and Everett Johnson.

MANKATO OVERWHELMED AT WINONA BY 32 TO 10 COUNT

Team Advances To Second Place In Conference

Winona Teachers College basketball team held on to its chance for top honors in the conference race by decisively outplaying the Mankato quint here, Friday the 13th, winning by a 32 to 10 count.

Mankato took an early lead and held an 8 to 1 advantage for several minutes before Winona could get started, breaking up the teachers offense with uncanny success. The purple and white machine then found themselves and at the half time period held an 11 to 8 lead.

In the second half the Kato boys seemed to be lost, scoring only one field goal while the local quint was gathering 21 counters. To the 800 spectators present, Coach Habermann's men showed some classy basketball.

The result gives Winona a chance to tie for the Little Ten championship, but if not so lucky will give the leaders a good scare. Rochester, by its 30 to 20 victory over St. Cloud at St. Cloud, has the best chance for the top in the conference. However they have two games with Mankato to play and win before they are undisputed champions.

Chinske and Tust were the scoring aces of the game, each netting four field goals and one (Continued on Page 5)
RESPONSIBILITY

The very nature of the teaching profession implies responsibility. From the time you enter your classroom, you are responsible for the appearance of your room, for the discipline of your pupils, for the habits of thought that are started while they are in your care, for the knowledge they get, and for what they do when they leave you. If you succeed as a teacher, you must be able to accept and carry responsibility.

There is an old Chinese proverb that says, "A journey of a thousand miles begins with one step."

We ought to be taking steps in the right direction now. Be willing to accept the responsibility for what you have already done. If you have failed to get an assignment don't shift the blame to the teachers. If you have given your pupils a test, and everyone fails, don't say it is because they are all subnormal. Your teaching or the test are probably to blame. If a mistake is made in some project of the group, and you are to blame, admit it, and if possible correct it. The man or woman who shifts the responsibility for his or her own mistakes is a coward.

When a piece of work needs to be done, feel that you are under some obligations to see that it gets done. Then when you have undertaken it, carry it through. Don't be one of the indifferent ones who thinks that it will get done somehow. Whenever one sees one of these spineless parasites carried by the crowd, one feels like shouting, "Get off and walk!"

JUST READING

The use of leisure time has been a subject of much discussion, both in chapel and in the columns of this paper.

Our library contains a fine variety of magazines which should meet practically all the tastes of our student body. We see few people reading just for the fun of it. The reader usually has his head buried deep in a book or possibly a magazine but busily plying pencil or pen. We do not censor this, of course, but aren't there moments of idleness that could be better spent "just reading?"

If you have selected the magazines you will most benefit by in your later work? If not, why not? Do it now.

STUDENT OPINION

Editor's Note — All communications this column must be signed. The name of the writer will not necessarily be published.

A SENSE OF VALUES

In our high school days we heard something about a "sense of values" and had a faint curiosity as to what it might mean. Various things that we have lately observed again reminded us of that little phrase. A short time ago we heard some students say, "Oh, we have to go to that lecture tonight, because we have to take notes on it!" and, "If we go to Rochester to the game we'll have to miss that dance."

On the trip to Rochester some young ladies put their feet on the seat facing them; some showed unnecessary hilarity in the presence of the stern sex. These things make us wonder if these students are not lacking in a "sense of values." Surely some do not realize that our privileges here are many, our obligations so few. Let us see little things small and big things great, for is not that a true sense of values?

After all, some people are born great, others acquire greatness, while others chew gum.

Doctors Judd, Russell, Horn and others emphasized the need for scientific research as the legitimate means of determining what should be incorporated in the curriculum and taught to our children. Such studies are already under way and are being financed by both private and public funds. It is of more importance that we know what to teach than that we measure accurately what is taught.

Education in rural communities is improving very much. The better conditions in rural schools are being brought about through consolidation, lengthened school year, more professional training for teachers, better salaries, good roads, the country instead of the district unit of administration, and through various other means, until now according to the statement of the United States Commissioner of Education two and a half million of the twelve million rural children have educational opportunities equal to those of children in the cities.

A number of traveling scholarships are made available for teachers. One of $1,000 is provided by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and is to go to some member of the faculty of a teachers college having membership in the American Association of Teachers Colleges. The recipient of this scholarship is to attend the Health Education section of the International Conference on Education at Edinburgh in July and travel for five months in Europe to study health education. Fifty traveling scholarships of $2,500 each are made available through the World Federation of Education Association which includes two and one-half million teachers in sixty-four nations. The scholarships are provided to aid in promoting world understanding and peace.

The N. E. A. has launched a plan for establishing homes for aged teachers. Eventually there should be one in every state, but it is proposed to begin with one at Washington, D. C. during the next five or ten years. A program is laid out which will take from 50 to 100 years to bring to completion.

The Department of Superintendent proposes to work for the creation of a federal department of education rather than a department of education and welfare, and it proposes to continue the fight for the child labor amendment to the United States Constitution which has recently been rejected by the states.

The Western Arts Association had a large exhibit of school art work from a number of cities all over the United States. It is the belief of the writer that Duluth, Minn, made the best showing when considered from the educational point of view, i.e., developing in the child ability to use graphic art as a means of expressing and depicting ideas.
ATHENE'S BIRTHDAY

The third and fourth grades of the Training School presented a Greek play at chapel exercises on February seventeenth. The play, 'Athene's Birthday,' a project growing out of the children's history work, was given under the direction of Miss Smith. It was richly supplemented by the children's work in art, music, language, gymnasm, and industrial arts under the direction of Misses Speckman, Andrews, and Wetzel. The children made their own shields, swords, and lyres. They also invented their dances and many of their speeches.

Miss Hall, author of the history book, 'Men of Old Greece,' on which the play is based, has said: 'I hope that the children may see the characters of the people of their Greek stories that they may see the people themselves living in Greek houses, using Greek tools, wearing Greek clothes, walking Greek streets, playing Greek games, sailing in Greek ships, praying in Greek temples, moving among Greek statues; and that they may so grow richer in knowledge of people and beautiful images.'

The play, 'Athene's Birthday,' which partly interprets for the children that most beautiful of all buildings, the Parthenon, was an attempt to give the third and fourth grade pupils of the college school the experience which Miss Hall wished could be theirs.

West Lodge

The West Lodge 'Frau verein' has met regularly for the last two weeks on Saturday afternoon in Room 5. Mending is our chief diversion, but gossip also comes in for its full share of time. The refreshments are of the healthful type. Among the various menus served were bread, jelly and milk.

The girls of West Lodge indulge in one diversion regularly. What can it be? It is a race! A continuous race! We race to meals, race to school, race home at twelve, so as to beat the dinner bell, race back at noon, and later race for the evening paper. Why? Are we so interested in the current events of the day? Ah, no! The cross word puzzle is the thing! Unfortunately the Winona Republican does not satisfy us. It publishes a puzzle but every other day! It is a race!

Daffodils have appeared in many of the rooms. Signs of spring as some of the girls remarked.

JUNIORS INHALE DEFEAT

After playing a good losing game during the entire period of play, the Senior basket ball team suffered a streak of bad luck and won from the Juniors to the tune of 20 to 17.

Pope Cleary bowled things up in fine style when he sunk three baskets from out of bounds. Cleary making a basket was something unheard of up to last Friday. Therefore when his team mates plotted to throw the game they decided to give either him or Ruhmkorff the ball as much as possible. This, they thought would prevent them from getting very many points. However, Emelie and the Pope were not in on the hush money, so when the others tossed them the ball they accidently registered. The result was that the Seniors won and therefore Bambeneck, Gereckle, Schwager and Ostrum received a good beating, but not the two bits apiece they were to have had for throwing the game.

Nevertheless it was a good game. Goodwin representing the Juniors looked the best in the clutches. Johnson was very fast on his feet, and might have won the bout had he not jumped out of the ring. However, telling about such a game would never do it justice.

To get the full benefit of Ruhmkorff yelling, "gimme the ball," one should have been present at the battle.

Don't miss the next game, the Pope might make another basket.

Now that the quarter is about to close and our marks are being fixed up, we would like to remind the faculty that the Lord loves a cheerful giver.—We students are bothered the same way.
THE LOW DOWN

Ladies and gentlemen: read the following and get a good idea of what you are going to miss if you haven’t ordered a copy of the 1925 Wenonah. If you have ordered a copy, read this aloud to your friends who have not.

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE

THE 1925 WENONAH

SCENIC SECTION — Beautiful rotogravured of the most beautiful bits of Winona’s scenic playground. Good pictures will always bring back happy memories. The Wenonah may have a picture of your favorite park bench.

CLASSES — Of course every senior will want to see his picture in print. Other people who are interested in humorous cartoons should enjoy them also.

SPORTS — Everything, masculine, feminine and neuter. Read the history of football at W.S.T.C. since 1890 by Wampus Morgan.

DRAMATICS — Photographs of the beautiful and unique. Reviews and storm warnings. You cannot afford to miss this department.

FEATURES — Works of poets and other tragedians. Achievements of intellectual notables and notable intellectuals. If it is not new, it sure is different. Recklessly illustrated.

AND IN ADDITION — The latest in Music, Men’s Fashions, Cosmetics, Dancing. Everything you want, nothing you wouldn’t have. Be sure to read “How I am Going to Make a Super Man of Ray Jr.” by Coach Habermann.

Since about April first, last, we have been doing our damnest to enlighten the public on the grave matters of international and far reaching importance. In cursing and discussing the sports, scandal, religion, science, invention, plays, books, and news in general, we have endeavored to be partial to none and fair to all.

However, on certain rare occasions we have slipped up a bit and allowed a few of the celebrated a little more space than might be called just and fair. On the other hand we have always tried to publish the best in gossip and therefore had to give the space accordingly. Therefore we hope that the public at large has not felt slighted if they have noticed that Pope Cleary, Wampus Morgan and a few others have held a slight advantage in getting the comment of this column.

Outside of appreciating the hearty cooperation of the Good Literature Club and other matadores, who have always furnished us with a good fund of gore, and thanking the public at large for their hearty cooperation, all we will say is goodbye and good luck. We hope that you have enjoyed the line of bunk we have hurled in this column.

As a parting thought, we will suggest that Isabell Quinn the new humor writer give a good account of her own actions. This should always furnish the public with some good humorous scandal, which is precisely what they want. Is that all right?

Now to Spill the Hot Custard Core

Our scandal reporter picked up a little dope on “Wee Gee” the other day. He learned from Kalk’s little friend at Menomonie that every letter she received from “Al” was blackmail. Possibly washing the hands before writing would prevent this.

Gore

Fritz Schwager went to Sunday School last Sunday. He was quite puzzled to find that David got a big write up in the Bible for throwing stones. When Fred was a kid he used to get licked for pulling the same trick.

Miss Brunner—Have you done your outside reading?

Jerry—No, it’s been too cold.

He—Your sister’s spoiled.

Little Brother—Naw, it’s that perfume you sent her.

Can you string beans?

No, but I can bull frogs and kid gloves.

I’ve come to fix that old tab in the kitchen. Oh, mamma! Here’s a doctor to see the cook.

A certain Florence Peterson thinks John Lynch is called “Corn” because his ears stick out! Maybe it’s because she comes from the Corn state.

Mr. Owens—“What do we mean by psycho-physical-paralassism?”

Chinske—“I’ll bite Prof., what do we mean by it?”

Late in life, success expands the waistline. Early in life it expands the hat band.

First Flea—“Been on a journey?”

Second Flea—“No, on a tramp.”

If it takes a full grown cat 30 seconds to catch a half sized rat, how long will it take Soya to finish his recitation?

And why wasn’t it spell ‘sigh-cology.’

And why is Cleary bringing all those apples to his teachers the last few days.

GORE

We understand that Micky McCready spends money like water, a drop at a time.

OUR FAREWELL SONG HIT

When Banana skins are blooming, I’ll come sliding back to you.
