Crippled B47 Kills Five in Crash

3rd Atomic Blast of '55 Turns Nighttime Into Day

The Fireball of the atomic detonation atop a 300-foot tower this morning lasted about six seconds. The flash was seen as far away as Salt Lake City in one direction and as far as Los Angeles in the other. This was the third blast of the current test series at the Nevada test site of the AEC. (UP Telephoto)

The Flash Of The Atomic bomb forms a four-pointed star at the start of the detonation in this morning's pre-dawn blast at Las Vegas, Nev. The test was set off on a 300-foot tower in place of the "big" test that had been postponed since Feb. 15. (UP Telephoto)

Plane Carrying 4 Missing on Trip to St. Cloud

Area Along River Searched for Trace of Craft

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The St. Cloud, Minn., father of a missing airplane today joined the expanding aerial search for a light plane which vanished Saturday en route to St. Cloud from Danville, Ill., with four men aboard.

B. G. Vandre, manager of the St. Cloud airport, went aloft this morning as search planes traversed a four-state area. His son, Bernard Vandre, 19, and Wayne Studer, 22, both from St. Cloud, are among those missing.

CAP headquarters here said some 300 to 350 planes would be engaged in the search by mid afternoon, when weather was expected to clear over portions of Wisconsin and Iowa.

The Air Force identified a third airman in the party as Cyrus Manfull, Pacoima, Calif. All three are airmen third class. Officials at the Danville airfield where the single-engine Piper Tri-Pacer took off Saturday morning said a fourth man was aboard but were unable to identify him.

On Weekend Leave
The airmen, stationed at Chanute Base in Rantoul, Ill., were on weekend passes. The plane was rented at the Danville airport.

It was last reported at Joliet, Ill., where it refueled Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Lt. Col. Charles Webber, operations officer of the CAP here, said 11 Minnesota CAP squadrons were in the air this morning, searching from St. Cloud to La Crosse, Wis.

The search generally followed the Mississippi River Valley and covered 30 to 40 miles on each side of the river. Planes also were aloft in Illinois, Wisconsin and northeastern Iowa. Webber said no trace of the red and cream colored craft had been found.

The last to hear from Studer was Maxine Matthews, his fiancée in St. Cloud. They talked by phone Saturday morning.

R. F. Studer, the airman's father, said the youth "just couldn't wait to get home to see his girl."

Weather Bad
Studer called Miss Matthews at the St. Cloud airport where she was waiting for him Saturday morning. He said the weather was so heavy he was unable to take off.

After several unsuccessful attempts, officials at Danville said, the plane took off.

Webber said the plane could be anywhere within a 350 mile radius of Joliet.

Vandre said he had been notified by his son that he was flying home over the weekend. He said he had written the youth advising him against the trip because of the threatened bad weather.

The fliers had been due back at the Chanute Base Monday morning to resume classes in aircraft maintenance, which all were studying.

The Landsdown Housing Project in Youngstown, Ohio, was struck by a small twister early this morning, destroying five houses, killing one and injuring several others. Shown above is the area in which three houses were leveled. (UP Telephoto)

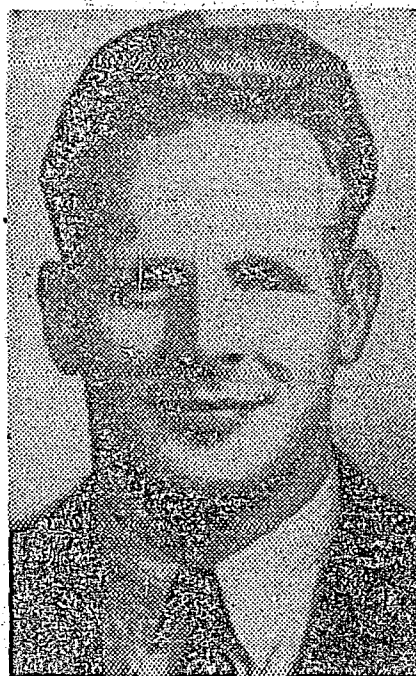

Ike Urges All To Register In Red Cross

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says he hopes that by the end of this month he "can call every single American my fellow member of the American Red Cross."

Eisenhower, in a filmed message for use on television, called last night for public support of the new Red Cross drive for $5 million dollars and 30 million members. The drive begins today.

The President said he believes the Red Cross has set its sights "far too low."

Leirfallom New Secretary of Minnesota GOP

Jarle Leirfallom

By JACK B. MACKAY

ST. PAUL (AP)—Jarle Leirfallom, St. Paul, former Minnesota commissioner of public welfare, today was named executive secretary of the state Republican party.

The appointment was made by Rep. John Hartle, Owatonna, Republican state chairman.

The position is a full time paid job and, it was learned, carries a salary of $10,000 a year.

Leirfallom resigned as public welfare commissioner shortly after Gov. Orville Freeman succeeded C. Elmer Anderson. Taking over the welfare post was Morris Hursch, onetime executive secretary to the late Gov. Floyd B. Olson, in the late thirties.

Leirfallom, in accepting the appointment, said that he has always had an "intense interest" in public affairs and added that he was convinced that "progressive, truthful government is important to all of us because government touches us in so many ways."

Village Abandoned To Hawaiian Volcano

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP)—A spectacular volcanic eruption spouted with new fury today and civil defense officials declared a state of emergency. One small village was virtually abandoned.

An estimated 100 acres of sugar cane fields and timber were ablaze with molten lava. More than 400 persons fled their homes in the path of the fiery rivers moving relentlessly forward.

Civil defense headquarters reported tons of fluid rock spreading out in three directions. Fountains of boiling lava shot 50 to 100 feet in the air from four white hot craters rising higher by the hour.

The state of emergency will permit officials to order people out of their homes. Some have refused. Sightseers are stopped at Pahoa. There have been no casualties and no home has fallen before the boiling streams.

Through the night, officials at Red Cross headquarters in Pahoa High School cast worried glances westward, where fumes were reported breaking out of a new rift of dormant craters five miles from here.

Fear for City
"If that erupts, Pahoa will be in danger," said Robert Spence, Red Cross disaster chairman.

Early today the main lava stream had traveled about 2 1/2 miles, and was still about 4 1/2 miles from the ocean.

Police said it was amazing no one was hurt among the estimated 20,000 sightseers whose cars choked five miles of access roads from the eruptions to Pahoa.

The eruptions started at 8:10 a.m. yesterday when a cane field five miles southeast of Pahoa in the Puna district blew up in a shower of molten lava. Since then three other fissures have opened, filling a blazing triangle bounded by the villages of Kapoho, Ophir and Pahoa.

It was the first sign of life from Puuena crater in more than 50 years.

Sixty families were evacuated from Kapoho, two miles ahead of the largest lava flow. Police reported a few families refused to leave their homes until all hope was lost.

The main flow had "picked up speed and shortly before midnight had moved 500 feet in two hours. Two families stood by with their belongings piled atop two trucks—waiting until the last minute."

Kapoho was cut off from communications. The few people left there, however, have an escape route up the coast.

Main spectacle for thousands of sightseers was a second flow which crossed the Kapoho road yesterday afternoon while onlookers and civil defense workers milled around a few feet away.

It moved slowly, a few yards an hour, and thousands of spectators flocked to the edge of the road to watch the nightmarish fireworks.

A boiling white hot crater barrel 50 yards off the road shot lava 10 feet high across the road. It cooled rapidly but a few feet away it was still like a furnace.

Most of the refugees from Kapoho were taken in by friends and relatives outside the danger area. The school gym provided emergency quarters for about 75.

An emergency kitchen at the high school fed an overflow of about 100 men, women and children.

Smoke, sulphur fumes and muffled roars filled the air. The ground shook underfoot but the crowds kept pouring in.

A tourist from Oregon, dazzled by the ringside spectacle said, "Judging from that, it will be a long time before hell freezes over."

Throughout the night sightseeing planes circled low over the blazing inferno. Two Hawaiian airline planes flew 30 extra excursion flights over the volcano.

By midnight the flow, some 200 feet wide, piled fuming lava 10 feet high across the road. It cooled rapidly but a few feet away it was still like a furnace.

Falling Bomber Cuts Fiery Path In Trailer Park

Young Couple Dies In Home, 3 Aboard Plane Perish

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—A crippled B47 jet bomber smashed into a suburban residential area last night, killing five as it cut a fiery swath into a trailer park.

The dead included the three crewmen and a young couple whose house was demolished by flaming debris.

The six-engine Stratofortress was trying to land at Lake Charles Air Force Base when it hit a power line, crashed and exploded in a field. Heavy metal pieces hurtled into the residential area.

The air base said the plane reported one engine had failed.

Capt. George Spotswood, base public information officer, identified the dead crewmen as:

Capt. Clarence Wilson, 34, pilot, California, Pa.; Capt. Mark M. Week, 34, copilot, Downsville, Calif.; and Capt. Elwyn B. McBeck, 33, observer, Fort Worth, Texas.

The Calcasieu Parish (County) sheriff's office identified the dead civilians as Albert Morgan, 24, and his wife Kate, 20.

T. Sgt. James C. Sapp, of Lake Charles AFB, was burned when debris ignited his trailer home. His condition was termed not critical. His wife was uninjured.

Wreckage of the plane was scattered over an area more than 250 yards long and 75 yards wide.

The main part of the plane careened into the Morgans' house, carrying the bodies of the pilot and the copilot. The body of the observer was found in the field.

Cole Olsen, a resident of the area, said he saw the wreckage hit the Morgan house and he ran to it. He kicked in the front door, but was driven back by searing heat.

The impact of the crash apparently hurled the sleeping couple from their beds into the bathroom.

Several unoccupied houses and several trailers also were burned.

Spotswood said evidence indicated the plane was coming in for a landing when an engine went out, causing it to lose altitude quickly.

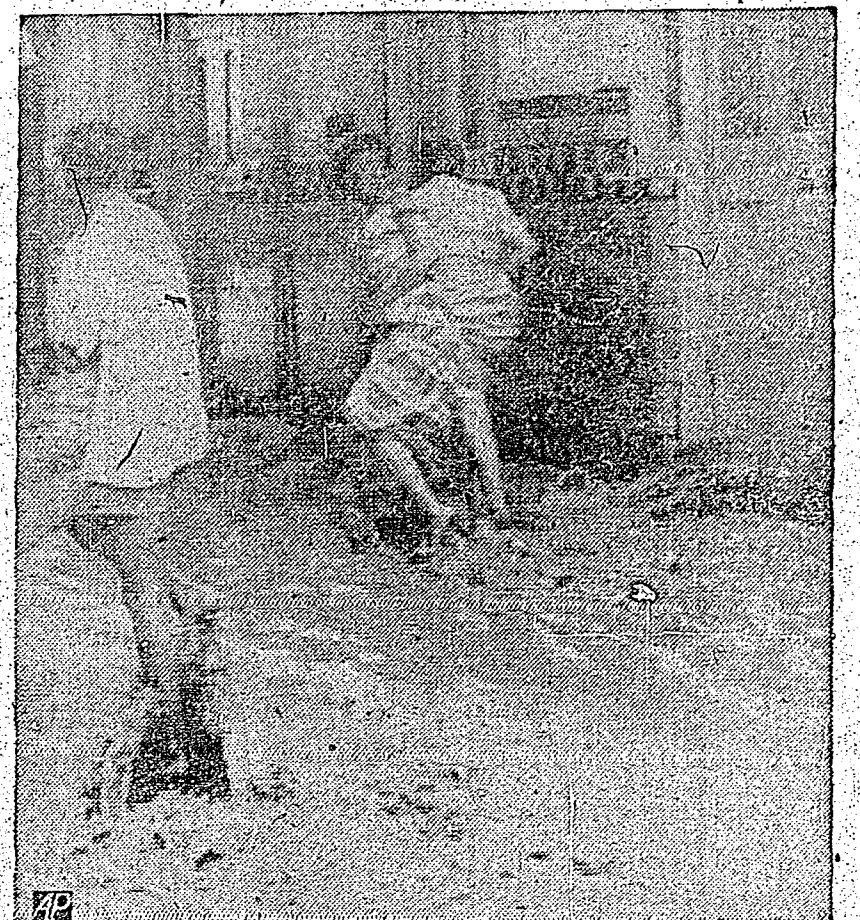

"The flames must have gone 1,000 feet into the air," reported William Denton, of Houma, La., who was a mile away when the plane hit, then hurried to the scene.

"The people were running in every direction around the tourist court. The wreckage appeared to be all in one fiery heap down toward the back of the court."

Air Force Plane Crashes, 6 Survive
TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. Air Force said a twin-engine C119 flying boxcar crashed tonight, 18 miles north of Ashiya Air Base on Kyushu Island.

A spokesman said all seven men aboard bailed out over water and were picked up by rescue crews. One man died later.

The spokesman said he did not know if any were passengers, or whether all were crew members. Names were withheld.

TODAY No Plot To Delay H-Bomb

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The brilliant physicist, Dr. Edward Teller, has done a decent and generous thing, which is also a major contribution to national security. In an article called "The Work of Many People" Teller has scotched the poisonous myths which have grown up around the history of the hydrogen bomb.

The publication of Teller's article last week was an event of real national importance, although it did not attract great attention.

For in these days, American survival depends on American science. As Teller remarks in his article, "Disunity of the scientists is one of the greatest dangers for our country."

An even greater danger is a breakdown of the partnership between American science and the American government. Within the last 12 months, this vital partnership has been threatened, while a bitter division has grown up within the American scientific community.

The trouble started, of course, with the government's action in labeling Dr. Robert Oppenheimer a "security risk," an action which most scientists considered a national disgrace.

Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis Strauss was, of course, the chief instigator of this action, while Dr. Teller was the only really distinguished American scientist to testify against Dr. Oppenheimer.

The trouble became much more serious, when the Oppenheimer case was used to propagate a whole mythology about American science and the hydrogen bomb.

This mythology was disseminated chiefly in a book by James Shepley and Clay Blair. The twin heroes of this book were Strauss and Teller, who were named by the authors among their sources.

Virtually all other American scientists, conspicuously including the staff of the A.E.C.'s great Los Alamos Laboratory, were pictured

Iowa Hog Prices Hit 5-Year Low

DES MOINES (AP)—Hog prices paid to Iowa farmers hit a five-year low Monday.

The market was from 35 to 39 per cent under a year ago and the price average for hogs was the lowest since January, 1950, before the Korean War. For February prices were the lowest since 1946.

Market specialists explained that pork is more plentiful this year and hogs have been sold at heavier weights—two factors which helped to bring lower returns to producers.

The only word on today's shot was an AEC statement that it had a yield of "several kilotons."

A kiloton is equal to 1,000 tons of TNT. The Hiroshima atomic bomb had a 20-kiloton yield.

Minneapolis Hotel Clerk Killed in Fight With Guest

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Chester Thure, 42, clerk at the Eland Hotel, was fatally slashed Monday night and police were holding a male guest without charge as a suspect in the death.

Carl Anderson, manager of the hotel at 614 Glenwood Ave., said John Williams, 42, and his wife, Lillian, 47, both guests, had had an argument Monday morning and Williams left the hotel.

When Williams returned later, Thure attempted to stop him from going to his wife's room. A scuffle ensued.

Police said this was what happened then:

Williams broke off the argument, went to the room and came down with his wife. The scuffle was then renewed with Thure. Anderson sought to break it up, unsuccessfully, with a sawed-off pool cue.

Anderson said he saw Williams "jab down" at Thure who slumped to the floor, bleeding from a cut that extended from his temple to the chest. Williams grappled the cue away from Anderson, struck the manager over the head with it.

When Anderson went to summon police, Williams ran out of the hotel but returned soon after. Officers said he was sitting quietly in a lobby chair when they arrived.

Capt. Rollin W. Kapp of Setauket, Long Island, N. Y., takes a reading from a pocket dosimeter which registers the dosage of radiation he may have received in the forward test site area during an atomic detonation. He is a member of the radiological safety section participating in the U. S. Army's exercise Desert Rock VI near Las Vegas, Nev. It is destined to give 5,000 soldiers a first hand appreciation of the effects of nuclear weapons. (AP Wirephoto)

Board Suggests Expanded Grass Area at Gabrych

Park-Recreation Board Purchases Tractor and Mower

Better playing conditions for the same price may be in store for Winona's baseball Chiefs if the City Council agrees with recommendations made Monday by the Park-Recreation Board.

P-R Director M. J. Bambenek told the board that the $1,000 allotted by the council for grassing the infield at Gabrych Park may permit sodding outside the actual playing field toward the grandstand. Originally it was believed that only the area inside the base paths around the pitching mound could be sodded for $1,000.

The commissioners decided Monday to tell the Council of this and ask if the Council will agree to make up the difference between the rent charged the Winona Baseball Association and the actual operational cost per game.

In the letter the board will suggest that the $50 per game fee be maintained, although costs in recent years have been estimated at about $72. The Council has made up the difference through a special allotment in the P-R budget in recent years.

Bambenek explained that he proposes to contract the sod work while the P-R maintenance department crew will do necessary grading of the infield. He has procured blueprints for the work from the Milwaukee Braves.

Beach House Job

The board also considered improvements of the beach house near Lake Winona during the monthly meeting. The commissioners agreed that the building should be repaired and possibly remodeled to permit year-round use. Bambenek pointed out that the building erected in 1926 at a cost of $13,000 has no heating plant and that the roof leaks. It is structurally sound, however. Bambenek was instructed to work with City Engineer W. O. Cribbs in determining what work will be necessary.

The discussion was prompted by a letter from the Junior Chamber of Commerce recommending the remodeling project to provide Winona better swimming facilities and mentioning the possibility of future adult swimming facilities at Lake Winona. The board agreed that the latter was not a matter for P-R board consideration, however, since the city now operates the Latch beach on the Mississippi River.

Also mentioned was board property at the east end of Lake Winona that is being considered by the Council as the location for a new municipal golf course, should it be determined that the present Westfield site would be feasible as a residential development. The commissioner wondered why they had not received a report of the group assigned to probe the possibilities.

Tractor, Mower Bids

Low bids by the Auto Electric Service Co., 2nd and Johnson streets, for a turf maintenance tractor and mower attachment, were accepted. The bid totaled $3,670.13, with the tractor at $2,420.13. The only other bid, $3,710.13 was by R. L. Gould & Co., St. Paul. At the March meeting, the board will open bids for a 1 1/2 ton truck to replace a 9-year-old truck. Bills totaling $825.15 were approved. Present for the meeting were President C. W. Siebrecht, Vice President Lambert Kowalewski, Dr. C. A. Rohrer, J. M. George, A. J. Gessell, Bambenek and Cribbs.

Parking Lot Plans

The city engineer, who left after the bid opening, told the board he had prepared plans for a parking lot in Levee Park and would present them to the board upon request. This inaugurated a discussion of the possibility that one of the "Indian mounds" in the park would be disturbed in the construction of the parking lot.

Cribbs said he had sent drawings of the area to the archeological society for further study. But Bambenek noted that in a review of Park Board (which controlled the park since it was given to the city about 1890) minutes, he could find no mention of any Indian mounds and said that some Winonans contend the mounds are only piles of dirt left over from construction.

His review of the minutes also revealed that the Park Board (merged with the Recreation Board when the latter was dissolved about six years ago) will be 66 years old April 15 and that an 8-inch Bedford stone, used to check surveying instruments in determining true magnetic north, is located on P-R property south of Lake Winona.

Garden Plots Set

In the monthly report, Bambenek noted that preparations for spring are well under way. He said applications are now being accepted for garden plots to be located in an area between Huff street and Gilmore Creek. And 66 croquet mallets and 40 croquet balls have been made from discarded bowling pins.

In current recreational activities, attendance for figures at the city's seven ice rinks totaled 39,310, with Lake Winona drawing 17,678. With basketball activities ending, he reported that 196 players on 23 teams in four leagues had participated in P-R supervised play. Attendance at the two recreation centers during the period of Jan. 24 to Feb. 26 was 1,746 at the East center and 1,916 at the West.

Extending Their Congratulations to Dr. Max DeBolt, named Monday evening as Winona's outstanding young man of 1954, were E. J. Sievers, left, chairman of the five-man committee which selected the winner, and Jeanne Reince, Miss Minnesota of 1954, who holds the gold key annually presented to the recipient of the distinguished service award. DeBolt is examining the certificate awarded him during the 20th annual Boysses Night affair. About 300 attended. (Daily News photo)

Bjornson, Rolvaag Speak Here Saturday

St. Mary's College Young GOP and Young DFL clubs, sponsoring their first Citizenship Clearing House at Hotel Winona Saturday, announced today that guest speakers for the affair will be Val Bjornson and Karl Rolvaag.

Bjornson, the GOP candidate for U.S. senator in the November election and former state treasurer, is now writing for a St. Paul newspaper.

Rolvaag, formerly of Rochester, is presently serving his first term as the state's lieutenant governor in a DFL administration.

The pair will head what officials at the college today termed "a distinguished list of state political figures" in the political participation day Saturday.

A lunch and reception for local dignitaries and outstate guests will precede an afternoon of political forums and debate sessions.

The Citizenship Clearing House is designed to assist colleges in preparing students for active participation in the political affairs of their community. The effort is bipartisan, seeking to involve political leaders of all views.

In charge of arrangements for the public program are Brother L. Fabian of the college's department of political science; George Hansen, president of the college's Young GOP Club, and Paul Medigan, president of the Young DFL Club on campus.

Big Deal—

$100 for $300 Check

Advertising paid off — $100 worth — for a Winona man during the weekend.

The principal in the case, who was not identified by police, received an advertising circular from a local finance company inviting him to inquire about their services for loans of up to $300.

The advertising message was printed on a form somewhat similar to a check with the addressee's name printed in the "Payable to..." blank.

During a weekend visit to a West 2nd street bar the recipient of the circular laid the advertising piece on the bar and asked the tavern operator whether he would give him $100 for it.

The bartender glanced at the paper, noticed the $300 printed on the form, assumed that it was a finance company check for $300 and handed over the $100.

Monday the tavern owner went to the finance company to "cash" the "check" and learned that it was only one of several thousand advertising pieces mailed by the firm to persons throughout this area.

The piece of paper was just that, the operator was told, and had no value whatsoever.

Finding that the bar patron by this time had spent $50 of the proceeds for room rent and the remainder on a weekend of drinking the tavern operator was informed that his best chance for recovery of the $100 would be in a civil action.

Bus, Car Collide South of Lamoille

LAMOILLE, Minn. — No one was injured in the collision of a car and a bus on Highway 61, three miles south of here Sunday afternoon.

Sheriff George Fort said that the accident occurred at 3:15 p. m. when a Fairbank Bus Lines vehicle, driven by Maynard Hamann, Fairbank, began to pass a car driven by Elmer Rieck, Prairie du Chien, Wis., R. 1.

Rieck, the sheriff said, did not hear the bus horn as it began to pass and the right front wheel of the bus struck the car.

The car went off the highway and sustained damage estimated at $200. The bus was not damaged.

Elk Creek School Election Postponed

ELK CREEK, Wis.—Confusion of school issues caused by unfounded rumors was blamed today for failure of an election in a new consolidated district here Monday night.

New officers for the merged district were to have been named at the Elk Creek School last night but an early adjournment and postponement of the meeting until March 17 were made necessary by the rumors, an official said today.

Since the Maule School District of the Town of Lincoln was consolidated with the Elk Creek district in early February, rumors of various sort have swept the community, the official said, and it was impossible to hold a reasonable election. Electors are from the towns of Hale, Chimney Rock, Burnside, Lincoln and Elk Creek. Members of the Elk Creek board are Aloysie B. Halama, clerk; Walter Smick and Dominic Sylla.

Vetsch Appeals To Supreme Court

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Clarence Vetsch, 14 Crescent, appealed to the Minnesota Supreme Court late Monday in the prolonged Houston County sheriff election recount.

His appeal of an order by Judge Karl Finkelnburg, Winona, was filed by attorney Milton Kludt, La Crescent, with Maurice J. McCauley, Houston County clerk of court, at about 3 p. m. Monday. McCauley in turn forwarded the document to Frank Larkin, clerk of the Supreme Court, St. Paul.

Vetsch is appealing an order by the Houston County court denying his motions for amended findings of fact or a new trial in his dispute with Beryl Kerrigan over the Nov. 2 general election for county sheriff.

H. M. Lambertson Taken To Hospital Following Collapse Near Office

H. M. Lambertson Jr., 251 Walnut St., was taken to the Trinity Lutheran Hospital in an ambulance at noon today after he became ill while he was preparing to enter his parked car near his office.

The Winona attorney was stricken and collapsed beside his car in a parking area at the rear of his office at 3rd and Center streets.

Examinations were being made at the hospital this afternoon to determine the nature of his ailment and his condition.

Persons in the vicinity at the time said that Lambertson struck his head on the car when he slumped to the ground.

Dr. Max DeBolt Selected As 'Young Man of Year'

"I can't believe it," someone take me home," said DeBolt after receiving his gold key and the certificate emblematic of the distinguished service award from E. J. Sievers, chairman of a five-member committee which made the choice.

"In making the final selection," said Sievers, "the committee considered not only activities in connection with purely civic or service activities, but also the activities involving the church affiliation of the respective candidates."

"Reduced Application" continued, "that the tensions and competitive pressures of the past few decades, resulting from wars, threat of war, inflation, etc., have resulted in the reduced application of spiritual values from Monday through Saturday and that a closer day-by-day application of Christian principles on the part of everyone would tend to solve or minimize many of the social, political and international problems confronting us today."

It is therefore with a great deal of satisfaction that the committee finds it possible to make the distinguished service award to an individual who has not only exerted himself strenuously in the interests of civic and service activities, but has also found time to assume a large measure of responsibility toward the expansion and development of the affairs of the church of his choice."

For DeBolt, receipt of the honors capped a year that saw him participate energetically in a lengthy list of community activities.

Activities Cited

He headed the business solicitations department for the 1954 Community Chest campaign; was a YMCA membership drive captain and served on a committee which planned the organization's annual banquet;

DeBolt is the chairman of the committee on education at Central Methodist Church, where he also teaches a ninth grade Sunday School class and serves as a member of the official board; is chairman of the Southeastern Minnesota Optometric Association; serves as chairman of the vocational guidance department of the Minnesota Optometric association; was runner-up in an area Toastmasters contest held in March at Rochester; is secretary of the Kiwanis Club, and is a member of the board of directors for the Winona Jaycees.

A proficient public speaker, DeBolt, however, was inordinately nonplussed when called by chairman Sievers to the head table to receive his award before the 300 persons attending the affair.

"No toastmaster ever taught me how to make a speech like this before. . . it's a great and wonderful honor. . . I thank God for the opportunity that has been placed before me," he concluded.

Here Since 1953

DeBolt, a 1949 graduate of the Northern Illinois College of Optometry, arrived in Winona in March of 1953 from Mankato, Minn., the city in which he was born and attended grade and high school. He is married, has two daughters and lives at 130 E. Howard St.

Since coming here, recalled Sievers, "he has, according to all reports, aggressively, willingly and enthusiastically performed all the assignments requested or suggested to him in many fields of service or community activities."

Serving with Sievers on the committee, which announced that it had considered 12 candidates for the honors, were Henry Mursas, S. J. Petterson, Joseph C. Page and Fred E. Boughton.

Only 1954 Considered

Speaking for the committee, Sievers prefaced his introduction of DeBolt by noting that in "making our deliberations, we confined our considerations entirely to community services performed during the year 1954, without continuity or recognition for past years' performances."

"We found that the year 1954 was distinguished by a high degree of teamwork in the conduct of the many successful community projects completed during the year, making it exceedingly difficult for any individuals to make themselves particularly conspicuous," he concluded.

Build a Life, Not a Living, National Jaycee Head Says

E. LaMar Buckner, Ogden, Utah, 32-year-old national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, outlined what he termed a "four-point formula to build a life instead of just a living" at the Bosses Night banquet at the Oaks Monday evening. About 300 attended.

"You make a life by what you give—your make a living by what you get," said Buckner, emphasizing a need for contemporary men to "give a part of themselves each day."

Expressing the desire to "share with you a part of the philosophy that guides our work," Buckner directed a series of questions at young men of today:

"What is it you want? . . . Which way do you go to get it? . . . Do you have it yet? . . . If not, what are you waiting for? . . . Will you recognize it when you get it?" he asked.

"The thing so many men today want," noted Buckner, "is security—financial security—but that's not the only thing."

"The vast majority (of men) want to succeed," he continued. "Most Jaycees have a goal, knowing as they do that they'll never reach their destination (success) without that goal. It's far more important to build a life instead of just a living, because by building that life a man attains real success."

Formula for Life

Pin-pointing his formula for a "life," Buckner said, "first you must learn — to become a leader in whatever you do."

He said that the people of the world look to the U.S. for know-how for leadership, and indicated that the young men of this country must develop that leadership if we are to hold our prestige throughout the world.

"Improve your community with every project and program you put on," was Buckner's second step. He added that the "only criteria for putting on a project is: Is it needed?"

Demonstrating the improvement necessary to make anything worthwhile, Buckner offered the case of a 2 cubic inch piece of steel. "As it sits," he explained, "that piece of metal is worth about $3 on the open market; but convert it into watchsprings and it's worth about $300,000."

Third ingredient in the formula is to "find a faith that gives assurance in your God, your fellow man and yourself," said the executive, adding that faith was necessary for success in any work attempted.

"And finally," said Buckner, "enthusiastically serve your fellow men. The service you give to your fellow men is the rent you pay for being on this earth."

"And there you have it," he summed up. "Learn . . . Improve . . . Faith . . . Enthusiasm . . . That's the way to build a life."

Buckner added that "the greatest success story in all history was registered by a young man, who, after but three years of public life, saw the tide of public opinion turn against him and was ignominiously put to death between two thieves; but for the past 1,900 years he has been recognized as the central column in any line of progress."

In conclusion he noted that "the young man—like Dr. Max DeBolt

Young Wykoff Rider Dies Of Injuries

Girl Was Determined To Manage Horse; Thrown Twice Before

WYKOFF, Minn.—A monumental determination to win over an obstacle today brought tragedy into the home of a hard-working Norwegian farm couple, whose home is nestled among low-lying hills one mile east of here.

Fourteen-year-old Karen Anderson is dead today after losing her struggle for life at St. Olaf Hospital, Austin, late Monday.

Karen, the only daughter of a heart-broken Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson, who had maintained a 60-hour vigil at the girl's bedside, probably would be alive today were it not for a streak of Norse determination which wouldn't admit defeat.

Always Liked Horses

Karen had been crazy about horses ever since she was a tot. Within the past three or four years she had developed into an excellent horsewoman—one who knew all the tricks there were about controlling skittish animals. But there was one horse—a magnificent 3-year-old American saddle horse—that was determined it was not going to be ridden. But Karen had other ideas.

For the past year, the youngster had worked patiently with the animal, attempting to ride it bareback for short intervals of time. Twice before, the horse had pitched the brilliant young high school freshman from its back; but Karen was not to be denied—she was going to ride the horse.

Last Saturday, Karen put a saddle on the animal for the first time and rode into the village. It was the last ride the girl ever took.

Horse Falls on Ice

While "passing a Wykoff Feed Mill, the animal stepped on a patch of smooth-frozen ice, and the combination of saddle, fear and slipperiness was too much for the high-spirited horse.

He jerked violently and lost his footing, pitching Karen head-first to the ground and landing on top of her.

Karen was unconscious when discovered immediately afterward by employees of the mill. She was still unconscious when bundled into an ambulance half an hour later for a 38-mile breakneck trip to Austin.

Karen Anderson never regained consciousness. Sixty hours later she was dead of a skull fracture, ending a career that teachers at Wykoff High School said had possibilities of being "brilliant."

Native of Illinois

She was born Sept. 16, 1940, at Rockford, Ill., and it's at Rockford that Karen will be buried sometime Friday.

Funeral services will be held at an as-yet undesignated time Thursday in the Wykoff High School auditorium, where her clear soprano voice had already run forth several times in mixed chorus concerts.

The Rev. C. W. Howe, Waterloo, Iowa, will officiate.

Surviving the girl, in addition to her parents, are two brothers, Gene, Belvedere, Ill., and Wayne, Wykoff.

Asked this morning what is to become of the 3-year-old horse, Wayne Anderson quietly and firmly said that "he'll be sold . . . we don't care to whom . . . anyone that wants it. . . we don't ever want that horse here again."

No Southern States for Ike, Sen. Gore Says

WASHINGTON (U. S. A.)—Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said today he doesn't believe President Eisenhower will have "an outside chance to carry a single Southern state in 1956."

Gore said he disagrees with Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, who said yesterday in Richmond, Va., that if Adlai E. Stevenson is the Democratic candidate again he will run into party opposition as he did in 1952. Stevenson lost four Dixie states to Eisenhower: Texas, Florida, Virginia and Tennessee.

Kennon supported Eisenhower in 1952. Gore, who backed Stevenson, noted this in an interview and asked: "Who is he to tell the Democrats whom they should nominate?"

Kennon, suggesting alternates to Stevenson, said he wasn't predicting that any Democratic candidate could beat Eisenhower. The President has given no public word as to whether he will run in '56.

Kennon and Republican Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin had a White House appointment with Eisenhower late today. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said he understood the two wanted to discuss the administration's highway aid program. The Louisiana governor is chairman of the Governors' Conference.

Gore said he believes the traditional Democratic hold on the South has been solidified by Eisenhower administration policies.

Spectators at Patterson Trial 'Frisked' for Guns

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (U. S. A.)—Spectators were ordered searched for guns "or other deadly weapons" today as Albert Patterson's murder trial entered its third week in an atmosphere of tension.

Patterson, fighting to escape a possible death sentence for the murder of A. L. Patterson, gets his chance, meanwhile, to try to prove he had nothing to do with the killing.

Judge J. Russell McElroy said the shakedown order was issued "because of indications of increasing tension on the part of irresponsible persons who are believed to be spectators at the trial. Nothing appears that would tend to show anyone connected with the cases has caused or promoted the indicated irresponsibility."

The prosecution had already rested its case against the former chief deputy sheriff of Phenix City when the recess began Saturday.

Fuller's lawyers were given a day's delay to arrange the presentation of testimony and to look for evidence that might discredit the account of the slaying given by the prosecution's surprise star witness.

The defendant says he can produce witnesses to testify he can produce in the county jail half a block away at the time of the slaying.

The 35-year-old former chief deputy, who held office during the era of wide-open vice and racketeering at Phenix City, is charged with two codefendants with killing Patterson June 18 to keep him from cleaning out the gambling dens.

Patterson had won the Democratic nomination for state attorney general last spring on a promise to smash the racketeering empire.

Study Says Taste For Comic Books Isn't Lowbrow

BERKELEY, Calif. (U. S. A.)—If you read comic books it isn't necessarily a sign that you are a low-brow, says a study made at the University of California.

Even 12 per cent of the nation's schoolteachers read them, and so do very bright children.

The report was written by Edward L. Feder of the university's public administration staff for the State Legislature.

Americans buy about one billion comic books a year and pay $100 million for them. This, says the

Here's a Texas Gal All Us Yankees Like

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—You owe it to you to get acquainted with a real nice star who's different—she says she hasn't even been married once.

Friendly-like, this nicelystacked blonde often says at parties, "I'm Dorothy Malone from Dallas."

"You're very frank," one Hollywood party guest complimented her. "But don't apologize."

"Listen," she fired back, "Dallas is the New York of the west. I've been up and down, and Texans are nicer even when you're down."

"How come you don't live there?" asked the heckler.

"I don't," she said. "I don't like the six months of the year!"

Right now Dorothy Malone's not only loyal to her home town—a quality I admire—but she's hotter in a 300-pound man doing the mambo. She's made 7 movies this year.

In "Battle Cry"—one of the nation's hottest box-office movies—she has a love scene with Tab Hunter which the censors couldn't cool down.

On TV, she'll be seen opposite Henry Fonda in Emmett Kelly's life story, "The Clown." She plays Mrs. Clown.

Her mother was here with her. They spoke softly of a Dallas tragedy. Her "little brother" was killed by lightning while golfing last summer.

By a fantastic coincidence, this was while Dorothy was acting in "The Young at Heart" with Frank Sinatra—who, in the film, wanted to be struck.

"Afterward... when I came back from Dallas," Dorothy said, "Frank gave me a sad little clown doll with tears on its face. It was just a very sweet thought."

But I didn't mean to be creating sympathy for Dorothy, who's had lots of acting experience—including the old Ken Murray TV show, "Studio One," "Fireside Theater" and "Four-Star Theater."

So "her little brother" could produce being from Ohio, Indiana, Boston, Maine, Wisconsin, Minnesota—even Brooklyn. She quotes Bob Hope about why Texans drink.

"Every time they drill for oil, they get water. So they have to drink whisky—there's such a water shortage."

"I hear Tab Hunter gets squeals from the girls!" I asked her.

"And if there's anything I like to hear more than girls squealing," Dorothy said, "It's boys whistling!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Marilyn Monroe and Joe Di Maggio had dinner with the Toots Shors at Shor's, then went to a movie. Marilyn was laughing about her Sardi's press party when she said she'd ride a pink elephant at the circus opening for the Arthritis Fund. One photo said, "We'll just wait 7 hours for that girl and not a minute longer." When she began leaning, while posing, another cameraman said, "All I get is double exposure!" When reporters asked her about Joe, she replied, "Let's talk about arthritis!"

CAR TIPS

By Al Speltz

(Editor's note: This is another in the series of articles to be published every Tuesday as a service to readers of The Winona Daily News who are interested in automotive maintenance. The author is a certified engine mechanic and contributor to technical magazines.)

WATCH FOR CYLINDER HEAD GASKET LEAKS

Cylinder head gasket leaks should be considered serious trouble in any type of automobile engine.

They are more serious in today's high compression engine. Worse still, they are more likely to show up in today's engine.

The increase in gasket failures is not caused directly by higher compression ratios and (as a result) higher compression pressures. Higher compression pressures do, however, increase the rate of pressure rise during combustion and the maximum combustion pressure.

Thus, even without detonation, gaskets are exposed to greater shocks.

The use of pressurized systems aggravates gasket trouble. When the hot engine is stopped, coolant under pressure up to 14 pounds per square inch is forced into the combustion chamber. If the piston seal is poor, this liquid enters the crankcase and contaminates the oil.

If the piston seal is good, the coolant will remain in the combustion chamber until the engine is started. A small quantity in a cylinder is enough to foul the spark plug and cause "missing" for a few seconds.

A considerable quantity in a cylinder which happens to be at the beginning of its compression stroke usually makes it impossible for the starting motor to crank the engine at its first attempt.

If a large quantity of coolant has been forced into a cylinder which is the second or third to fire, the reduced clearance volume may cause a cracked piston or a bent connecting rod.

In most cases, it is possible to prevent head gasket failures. The most important preventive maintenance is the head bolt tightening service the new car dealer gives you after a specified number of miles of "break-in" driving. Failure to take advantage of this service will be very costly.

Some gasket failures do occur in spite of this type of preventive maintenance. Watch for such symptoms as water in the crankcase oil, an abnormal loss of radiator coolant, oil in the radiator, and rough starts.

97 in Commercial Club at St. Charles

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special)—Membership in the St. Charles Commercial Club has reached 97, the highest in several years, according to an announcement by Fay McCarthy at the first meeting of the year.

Retail, street and development committees have been appointed. Their projects include scheduling store hours and supervising promotional events, safety and problems involving Highway 74's approach to the city. The club also has recommended that merchants park their cars at the rear of their places of business to improve the main street parking situation here.

The Commercial Club-sponsored athletic banquet will be held the second week in April. Further details will be announced in a week.

Attending the meeting were several representatives of the Winona County Historical Society who discussed the school building that will be moved to the fairgrounds here this year.

Boyle's Column

Arise, Men, Emancipation Is Possible

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U. S. A.)—Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato: Congress is missing a bet. Rep. Katharine St. George of New York, who is both a lady and a Republican, has introduced a bill you'd think every man in America would back.

It proposes a constitutional amendment to give women equal rights. Naturally her male colleagues, who may feel they already are living in a civilization dominated by feminine muscle, don't act very excited.

They aren't interested in giving women even more power. And the bill seems to have disappeared down a deep dark well, the same well it vanishes into every year that Mrs. St. George introduces it.

But what the gentlemen in Congress are overlooking is the fact that they may be missing a rosy opportunity to get back equal rights for men. The amendment would abolish all legal discriminations based on sex alone.

Heaven for husbands

Mrs. St. George believes a lot of antiquated state laws now do discriminate against the ladies. She cites a number of states in which her sisters aren't allowed to serve on juries. She says that in North and South Dakota a husband can put his wife out to work and make her turn all her pay over to him.

(Editor's Note: Can this be possible?)

(Boyle's note: I have been in North and South Dakota and never met a husband there strong enough to tear even a dollar bill from his wife's closed paw.)

The lady legislator chivalrously admits many states have passed laws giving special protection to working women. But she feels most women would willingly forego these special privileges for the chance to compete with men on equal terms.

Why doesn't Congress leap at this golden chance? Anything that tends to equalize the sexes before the law can't help but hold out the hope of giving a better break to America's frustrated, beaten-down males.

Vast Advantages?

Granting the exceptions listed by Mrs. St. George, don't women by both custom and the actual working of the law enjoy vast advantages over men today?

They have special privileges in everything from getting a seat in a crowded bus to getting away with marital murder. A man who kills his wife in a fit of rage after 20 years of incessant abuse goes to the chair or to prison for life. But a wife can cold-bloodedly mow down her husband, invent any defamatory lie about him she can think up to explain her action, and have an odds-on chance to cry her way to freedom. She may even later marry a sympathetic bachelor on the jury.

The energy men burn up in outworn forms of gallantry—running errands for women, lighting their cigarettes, straining themselves pushing revolving doors so the girls can walk through without so much as even lifting their little finger—probably is one explanation why men die younger.

Bald by Chivalry

One man I know even blames his baldness on his chivalry.

"My mother taught me at the age of 5 to remove my hat in the presence of ladies," he said. "After 35 years of taking off my hat and putting it on again, I finally wore all my hair off. And what is my reward? Women laugh at me now."

There is also the little legal matter of alimony. A wealthy woman now can marry a poor and innocent young man, turn his boyish head with her riches, and then—after he gives her the best years of his life—toss him aside penniless and go on to another man. If he tries to sue her for a fair share of her booty, he is laughed out of court as a humbug.

The 20th century has been a one-way street for the ladies too long. Let's climb on Mrs. St. George's handwagon, boys, and force women once and for all to take equal rights. If they are made equal in law, they must in time accept equality in social customs, whether they want to or not.

Share the Work

Let the girls tip their hats to us every time we tip ours to them. Let them light our cigars every time we light their cigarettes. Let them do their fair share of pushing in revolving doors. Let them divvy up some of that 70 per cent of the nation's wealth they now control. When they go on misternity leaves, let's us go on paternity leave.

An equal rights amendment that shifted more of the world's burden on women would help free a man from worrying about what would happen to his widow. It might result instead in leaving him a care-free, cheerful old widower himself, with nothing on his mind except where to find the right cozy blonde to soothe his sadness while they spent the insurance money.

4 New Men Enter Top Red Circle

MOSCOW (U.P.)—Four new men entered the top circle of the Soviet government today and three others already well known moved up the ladder.

In the first major government shakeup since Marshal Nikolai Bulganin became premier three weeks ago, the President of the Supreme Soviet, raised three deputy premiers to the rank of first deputies and named four other men to be deputy premiers.

These were the new appointments, announced early today: To be first deputy premier—former Trade Minister A. I. Mikoyan, M. G. Pervukhin and M. Z. Saburov, chairman of the State planning commission. They join Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and L. M. Kaganovich, who have been first deputies since Stalin died nearly two years ago.

To be deputy premier—A. P. Zavenyagin, onetime vice commissar for heavy industry who was also named minister of medium machine building; M. V. Khrumchev, once minister for the aircraft industry; V. A. Kucherenko, formerly deputy minister for construction and machine-building enterprises; and P. T. Lobanov, deputy premier of the Russian Socialist Soviet Republic since 1933 and before that a deputy minister of agriculture.

The Soviet Union's four other deputy premiers are former Premier Georgi Malenkov, I. S. Tevosyan, A. V. Kosygin and V. A. Malyshev. Of these, today's announcement mentioned only Malyshev. It said he was giving up the post of minister of medium machine building to Zavenyagin and now would supervise a group of machine building industries.

12 Scouts Cited At Troop 6 Event

Twelve Boy Scouts received promotions at a Troop Six court of honor at Central Methodist Church Monday evening.

One boy, Kenneth McQueen, was raised to first class, seven received second class badges and four were inducted as tenderfoot scouts.

Those given second class badges were Allen Johnson, Stuart Korpela, Lee Edstrom, Michael Reinhard, Frederick Heyer, Allen Burmeister and James Hill. Tenderfoot pins went to Terry Runkel, Robert Beatty, James Meinke and Tom Edstrom.

A star award was presented to Robert Jones and two merit badges to James Collier.

The presentations followed a potluck supper in the church at which a Boy Scout picture was shown.

The district representative, John Woodworth, presented the 33rd annual charter to the troop. The scouts were introduced by John Hughes, scoutmaster, and the awards were made by members of the troop committee, of which Arthur Hill is chairman.

A Boy Scout statue was given to the retiring scoutmaster, Robert Massey.

Following the court of honor Terry Runkel was announced as winner of the bird feeder building contest which the scouts have been participating in for the past two months.

A report on the polar camp at Rochester was given by Scoutmaster Hughes and Robert Jones.

Brady's Bridge, at the eastern edge of Perrot Park near Trempealeau, Wis., will be replaced between March 14 and May 14 by the I. H. Pertsch Construction Co., Onalaska. Elderly Invalid, Wife Perish in Burning Home

HEWITT, Minn. (U.P.)—A 78-year-old invalid and his wife perished late Monday despite efforts of another elderly couple to save them when their small frame house here was heavily damaged by fire.

Victims were George Holly, who had been bedridden for five years, and his wife, Grace, 76. They had observed their golden wedding anniversary three years ago.

Lamont McKelley and his 73-year-old wife, longtime friends and neighbors, were in the kitchen of their home when they saw smoke and flames spurring from the Holly home.

Mrs. McKelley ran to the front door but was driven back by the heavy smoke. Her husband then crawled into the house on hands and knees calling out their neighbors' names but he, too, was repelled by the heat and fumes.

The McKelleys themselves had celebrated their golden anniversary two weeks ago. Hewitt, nine miles south of Wadena, is about 150 miles northwest of the Twin Cities.

Both Hollies were dead when firemen reached them. Mrs. McKelley said the fire may have been started by some kind of an explosion. She reported hearing the noise but had attributed it to the slamming of a car door.

Firemen said they could not determine origin of the blaze.

Hornell Press Agent Freed on Gun Charge

LOS ANGELES (U.P.)—Anthony Kent, press agent for meat packing heir George Hornell II, has been freed of a charge of firing a gun into an inhabited dwelling.

The court held yesterday that the shot fired into Hornell's house, just missing him, last Jan. 9 was fired without malice. The court ordered the charge dismissed.

Kent claimed the shot was a publicity stunt following the case in which Hornell was acquitted of a marijuana possession charge.

Prospect of $20 Tax Cut Declining

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The scales of the Senate Finance Committee appeared tipped today against a House-passed tax cut of $20 a person to take effect next Jan. 1.

"The show's over," said one committee Republican, asking anonymity, when he heard that Sen. George (D-Ga.) had stated he would vote to kneecap the cut.

In any event, the issue appeared likely to be carried to the Senate floor later in the week.

Republicans said their seven committee members were holding fast against the cut, although some expressed uncertainty about Sen. Malone (R-Nev.). Malone declined to say how he would vote.

But with Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) and George committed to vote to strike out the tax cut, the GOP side could win even with one defection.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.) proposed a compromise to put into gradual effect the income tax reduction. It would provide a $10-a-person cut in 1936, $15 in 1937 and $20 starting in 1938. This attracted no immediate support from those opposing any cut at this time.

The House bill would make the $20-a-person reduction effective Jan. 1 next year. It would cost the Treasury about $2,200,000,000 a year.

It would also extend for a year the present corporation and excise rates scheduled to drop April 1. This provision, asked by President Eisenhower, would continue about three billion in annual revenue.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey vigorously attacked the $20 plan yesterday before the committee, arguing it could set off another round of inflation. He termed "strictly phoney" a compromise advanced by some Democratic senators to make the effective date for the $20-a-person cut July 1, 1936, and to continue the corporation and excise rates until then.

Advocates of this plan had been hoping George, the dean of the committee and its former chairman, would go along with this. But he dashed their hopes, although he left the door ajar slightly with the comment he might offer some compromise if a deadlock over the bill develops between the House and Senate.

Wheat Allotments May Be Surrendered For Reapportionment

PRESTON, Minn. (Special)—Francis A. McNiff, chairman of the Fillmore County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today that wheat acreage allotments may be surrendered for reapportionment.

This pertains to farmers who have a 1935 wheat allotment and who now plan to seed less or none at all. The county committee will reapportion the allotment to other farms.

Any producer may file an application for readjustment of allotment by April 29, McNiff said. A wheat allotment will not count against a farmer when the 1936 allotments are established.

McNiff added that requests for cost sharing practices filed after the initial closing date, March 10, will be accepted and considered by the county committee to the extent of available funds.

North Central Gets Chicago, Detroit Service

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, D. C., has awarded North Central Airlines which serves Winona with four flights daily the local service route between Chicago and Detroit.

"This is recognized as one of the most lucrative route segments awarded a local service airline in recent years," H. N. Carr, company president, said in Minneapolis when notified of the board's final decision.

Intermediate cities on the segment are South Bend, Ind., and Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Jackson and Ann Arbor, Mich., with Ann Arbor to be served through Willow Run airport, Detroit.

Operation of this route will make North Central—already a leader in the local service field—by far the largest local carrier in terms of passenger, mail and express volume," Carr said.

North Central's initial schedule pattern calls for six flights daily (three flights in each direction between the terminal points of Chicago and Detroit), with service increased as passenger traffic develops.

Fund, Highway Needs Confront Badger Lawmakers

MADISON (U.P.)—Wisconsin's legislators are expected to be confronted this week with their second request within a month to boost taxes to provide for the ever-growing expansion of state needs and services.

The men and women who make Wisconsin laws came back to Madison today for their eighth week of legislative duties.

Highways and the problems that go with them will be the number one subject on the week's agenda. Gov. Kohler will tell the Legislature—and the people—what the state needs to build new roads and maintain current ones and what he believes should be done in the field of safety.

Just four weeks ago the legislators were given a budget message from the chief executive in which he reported that the state needed new taxes in some form or another to provide for an anticipated deficit of some 58 million dollars in 1935-37. As the state cannot go into debt it must appropriate the money needed to balance anticipated income.

When Gov. Kohler addressed the Legislature Feb. 4 with his budget message, he pointed out that traffic requirements are of such importance that a special message would be needed to cover all points.

"I will present to you," he said then, "a special message devoted exclusively to highway construction, and the related and equally significant problem of highway safety."

On Thursday of this week Gov. Kohler will present his message for financing highways and safety measures.

There have been many guesses that the governor will recommend increases in gasoline taxes and increased license fees. Guesses on a gas tax boost range from one half cent to two cents per gallon. The state tax per gallon.

All, however, Kohler has not so re-omitted.

It is a sure bet recommend some in gasoline taxes or both, because enough money from way revenues, to program already Legislature. This item of 2,200 million prime arterial system.

House Action on Draft Dims Training Program's Chances

When the House voted Feb. 8 to extend the draft another four years, it increased the odds against passage of the President's proposed revisions of military training and reserve legislation.

The House has always been cold to so-called Universal Military Training proposals, and only somewhat less reluctant to support successive extensions of Selective Service. So when Pres. Eisenhower carefully coupled a request for extension of the draft with a plea for new training legislation, in his Jan. 13 message to Congress, Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee carefully uncoupled them, and pushed the draft extension through first.

An Armed Services Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.), is now studying a bill embodying the President's training and reserve proposals. Brooks says he will report a "reasonable" bill, but organizations like the American Legion which seek a stronger reserve system are pessimistic about eventual action in the House.

Consequently, the Legion is pressing for early action in the Senate, where it feels the chances are better. Although the Legion is backing a bill which differs from that of the administration in several major respects, both bills contain features long opposed by many congressmen and pressure groups.

Basic purpose of both bills is to strengthen the nation's reserve of trained military manpower. Both propose the establishment of a National Security Training Corps to provide limited training for young men not inducted into the Armed Forces. Both provide means for enforcing obligatory reserve duty following periods of active duty. Details, however, differ.

The administration bill continues the present system whereby men drafted for two years of military service must serve another six years in the reserves. But men selected for the six-month NSTC program would be obligated for another nine and one-half years in the reserves.

The Legion-backed bill limits the overall period of obligatory duty to five years. This would mean three years in the reserves for those completing two years of active duty, and four and one-half years for NSTC graduates. Initial NSTC training, however, would be for a period of "not less than 1,000 hours" which the Legion estimates could be accomplished in four rather than six months.

Two problems explain the need for additional legislation along these lines. First, men who have been discharged after completing active duty have not been fulfilling their reserve duty obligations and no attempt has been made to force them to do so. Second, manpower cutbacks ordered in the Army have resulted in reducing draft calls to 14,000 a month. Consequently, the pool of trained manpower will be inadequate to support the minimum reserves recommended by military leaders.

Some of the opposition to the new proposals unquestionably stems from confusion over words. In 1951, Congress passed the "Universal Military Training and Service Act," although it was "universal" only in the sense that all young men had to register. In actual practice, however, few of those reaching the age of 18 have been called into service.

The 1951 act was permanent, but Congress limited the government's authority to induct registrants to four years. It was a four-year extension of this draft authority which the House approved Feb. 8. The 1951 act also laid down the general policy for universal military training, but stipulated that Congress would first have to approve any specific program. Such a program was submitted in 1952 but was killed in the House. It is this feature of the original act which is again up for congressional action.

Both the administration and the Legion are playing down any references to UMT, the former calling its proposal the "National Reserve Plan" and the latter the "National Security Training Act." In fact, neither proposal contemplates universality. The administration has indicated that it wants to train about 100,000 men a year in the NSTC. But some 800,000 men turn 18 every year, and no one proposes that all of these be trained.

Nevertheless, the UMT label has stuck, giving to many citizens who fear "conscription" the idea that that is what is being proposed. For example, Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.), Armed Services Committee chairman in the 83rd Congress, said that one of the reasons he would support extension of the draft until 1959 was that "it will make unnecessary the passage of the so-called Universal Military Training Act."

Despite the fashionable talk about coexistence in Washington, the two parties always start to campaign for the next election right after the votes from the last have been counted. How nice it would be to have a law against destructive politicking except at specified intervals every two years.

Wrong Proclamation By Famed Hebrew

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK—Usually one thinks of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations as a body of conservative citizens. Its founder, Rabbi Isaac M. Wise, was one of the greatest Jewish leaders this country has known, a citizen who taught loyalty to the United States without qualification. His son, Jonah Wise, is the rabbi of the synagogue where I have worshipped for more than 20 years.

I write then in sadness that so honorable and representative an organization as this should have felt called upon, at its recent Los Angeles convention, to issue a statement on "Judaism and Individual Freedom" that is so broad as to require general attention and comment.

The statement contains these sentences: "THE LEGITIMATE and necessary requirements of protecting ourselves from Communist infiltration and espionage have been grossly exploited by some to justify certain governmental procedures which curtail freedom of speech and of conscience under the claim that these must yield to the larger security of the nation. The need for a calm, steady, and positive program to insure the triumph of democracy over Communism has given way to a pathological fear of Communism which inhibits the thinking of some political leaders and colors the judgment of many citizens. We oppose any effort, legislative or otherwise, which would make criminal the expression of opinion, no matter how controversial."

This country has sent its sons to war in Korea and has them scattered over the world at numerous bases because of the rise of Soviet imperialism. One of the devices employed by the Soviet Universal State, with great effectiveness, is the weakening of the will to resist by propaganda for Marxism and infiltration into governments and the institutions of the people. It has therefore become necessary, in all countries which have not been conquered by the Soviet Universal State, to establish a defense against these Marxist weapons which may be, and in instances have been, as deadly as other unconventional weapons of war.

It is not "pathological fear" to recognize the facts of history any more than it is "pathological fear" to recognize that the atom bomb and the hydrogen bomb can be totally destructive. The Communist expression of opinion has not even been opposed in this country, the proof being that the "Daily Worker" and other Communist publications appear regularly. What the United States has done has been to pass, by orderly constitutional means, legislation to defend itself against espionage, infiltration, and the corruption of the people by carefully devised patterns of Marxist penetration.

The statement further says: "WE HAVE TENDED to ascribe every person and organization at any time pro-Soviet, including many of the most effective present opponents of Communism, and regardless of whether former attitudes now condemned were at the time consistent with our national policy."

I should like to see some names, particularly of "the most effective present opponents of Communism" who have been proscribed. A broad generalization such as this requires some details before it can be discussed. I do not know of any proscriptions by our government in all the investigations by various congressional committees. I have not come across a single name of "the most effective present opponents of Communism."

I do not think that those who passed this resolution can prepare a list of such names. Further the statement says: "We would defend all constitutional privileges and immunities without regard to the guilt or innocence of those who invoke them. In our view, the preservation of these rights is of greater significance to our way of life than any benefit our law enforcement agencies can derive from curtailment or suspension of these rights."

AGAIN, THE GENERALIZATION is startling. "Constitutional privileges and immunities" must be balanced by obligations, duties and responsibilities. There is no privilege or immunity which can safeguard a man from the consequences of his serving another nation as a spy upon his own country.

The statement further says: "We believe that the preservation of civil rights and civil liberties is a function of government equal in importance to the prosecution of subversive offenses."

Precisely what this means it is difficult to say. How does one balance the normal rights of a citizen against one who engages in "subversive offenses"? The function of the state is to protect its citizens against those who engage in subversive offenses as it is its function to safeguard its citizens against kidnapers and burglars.

New U.S. Judge Figures In Drunken Driving Case

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It isn't often that a newly elected senator has a chance to spike the White House on a judicial appointment just after he takes office, but that is the position in which Sen. Dick Neuberger of Oregon, Democrat, finds himself as a result of an automobile accident near the Oregon coast.

U. S. District Judge William nominated, figured in this incident. He was held briefly under suspicion of drunken driving after attending an all-day judicial meeting at Coos Bay, Ore., on Jan. 23.

Driving home afterwards, their car brushed that of Wayne Warner, a Eugene, Ore., car salesman, who reported to the chief of police in nearby Reedsport that three judges were drunk. Warner did not know, however, that he was turning in a newly designated federal judge, who was driving the car at the time of the incident, together with judges Frank B. Reed and Chester Anderson, Oregon County judges.

The state police immediately put out a call for a "possible 31" which is the code number for drunken driving.

When apprehended, U. S. Judge East had relinquished the wheel to Judge Reed and Judge Anderson was fast asleep in the back seat. Judge Reed was submitted to the indignity of an on-the-spot inebriation test after which the state policeman reported that on the basis of this test he couldn't "conscientiously" arrest him for drunken driving.

However, the patrolman did not permit the three judges to drive their car back to the police station. He made them park their car on side of the road, in itself suspicious, and drove them back himself.

It developed later that the three judges were, to quote one policeman, "abusive as hell." Or, as the police chief put it, they seemed to resent being brought to a "small police station." Finally, after being held about an hour, they were released.

What makes this interesting politically is the fact that Sen. Neuberger had already given his OK to the appointment of Judge East. Senators enjoy a unique position when it comes to judicial appointments, in that one senator can usually block a judge's confirmation.

Following the traffic incident, Sen. Neuberger asked the FBI for a full report. Says Neuberger: "I would like to know whether the new appointee is going to be as sober as a judge."

Saintly Cabinet Members

In words that dripped molasses, White House aide Max Rabb described the saintly qualities of Ike's Cabinet officers the other day to a seminar of clergymen.

As Cabinet secretary, the ebullient Rabb was expected to say nice things about his bosses. But he outdid himself, pouring on the sticky, sweet praise. He called Sec. of State Dulles as "godfearing" and adorned the other Cabinet members with equally ecstatic adjectives.

Afterward, the reverend gentlemen were invited to submit questions in writing. The one that stopped Rabb was a scribbled note, asking: "Do you have a special room at the White House for the Cabinet members to check their halos?"

Charges Backfire on GOP

It has been kept secret all these years, but Sen. McCarthy's 1950 charges against the State Department did not reflect upon his intended victim, then Sec. of State Acheson, so much as the darling of the Republicans—former Sec. of State Byrnes.

Long-suppressed figures show that Byrnes appointed 57 of the 73 State Department employees on McCarthy's "subversive" list. Acheson appointed only four, including the re-appointment of Philip Jessup who was first hired by GOP Sec. of State Charles Evans Hughes in 1924.

Scientists Develop New Medicines

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

New medicines, and new methods of using known medicines, are constantly being developed through research. Among the latest advances are these:

Varidase, streptokinase-streptodornase has been reported used effectively to reduce swelling associated with bruises, wounds, operations, infections and tooth extractions more rapidly, thus shortening hospital confinement.

This preparation already is widely used in surgery for dissolving pus and blood clots. In such cases it is applied locally.

By administering it intramuscularly, it reverses the process of inflammation, according to tests conducted by Dr. Joseph M. Miller, chief of surgical service at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Fort Howard, Maryland.

Excellent Results

Tests were made on 64 patients. At the end of the first day of treatment, Dr. Miller reports, beneficial effects were observed. Excellent results, he says, were obtained in 45 patients, and good results in 15.

No improvement was noted in four patients. Three of these had advanced and complicated conditions, and the other received insufficient treatment.

"Alflorone" Acetate, a derivative of hydrocortisone, promises to make long-term treatment of chronic skin conditions more practical and more economical.

Upon releasing the new product, Sharp & Dohme, Division of Merck & Co., Inc., announced it possesses an anti-inflammatory activity up to 10 times as great as hydrocortisone on a weight-for-weight basis. This indicates that any skin condition responding to an ointment of hydrocortisone will respond to Topical Ointment of "Alflorone" Acetate in one-tenth of the concentration.

A new intramuscular form of the antibiotic, terramycin, has proven helpful in treating whooping cough, according to three doctors of Brooklyn's Kingston Avenue Hospital.

Dr. Gustave Davis, Samuel Weinberg and Benjamin Newman report that 40 children were given three injections of terramycin per day. Their temperatures returned to normal in an average time of less than one day, the physicians said.

None of the children vomited after the second day of treatment. By the third day, the doctors reported, the number of whoops had decreased and the coughs had become less severe.

The average hospital stay, they said, was shortened. There were no deaths and none of the cases developed into pneumonia.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

E. F.: What are the symptoms of Burger's disease?

Answer: The earliest symptom of the disease is a pain in the calf of the leg or foot, especially after exertion. Color changes, usually appearing in the foot, the foot becoming a purplish red when held down, and white when it is elevated. In severe cases, gangrene may occur.

By PAUL HARVEY

NEW YORK—The Communies are about to pull the plug on the rest of Indochina.

The south half of that nation will go Red, by hook or crook, shortly. 200,000 Red-trained troops are on the northern border now.

What are we going to do about it?

Why? We fight them for it?

I mean it. Why are we about to sentence our sons to march 6,000 miles away to another war?

In order to oppose Communism? No, we can't tell our sons that.

Because we have offered the hand of friendship and 705 million American dollars to the Godless Communist dictator of Yugoslavia.

So "being against Communism" is hardly a legitimate excuse.

What are we "for?"

That's the most important single factor in the esprit de corps of fighting men. A reason for fighting.

We had none of that in Korea, and our rate of frontline desertions was unprecedented.

If we intend to fight in Indochina, why? What "for?"

The only official public utterance I have heard on the subject was from Vice President Nixon.

He said we could not afford to lose free Vietnam (Indochina) because this would "open the flood gates" and Communism would then sweep all southeast Asia with its "rich resources of tin and rubber and rice."

Well, now, maybe that's a good enough reason to fight.

I don't pretend to be as smart as the international economists and geopoliticians who are advising our government.

Maybe they're right.

It seems to this displaced country boy a little ridiculous to go to war for tin and rubber and rice when we are exporting tin from our own hemisphere.

When we have more than 125 synthetic rubbers that are better than the real thing.

And when we're growing enough rice in Arkansas to feed our 48 states. In fact, the USDA has had to order a 25 per cent cutback in the acreage we're planting to rice. Fifteen per cent of last year's crop is cramming government warehouses.

So it seems absurd, on the face of it, that we should go to war for those things which we have in such plentiful supply.

But maybe I'm wrong.

Maybe the "experts" know what they're talking about.

But if they do, then let our great men have the decency to explain promptly and publicly.

Mr. Nixon let this statement slip out in the text of a routine official public speech.

Let us make a formal and official announcement, so that every American will know what we are fighting for.

Let us go back to America's Gold Star Mother and explain that she might have to give another son for tin and rubber and rice.

Let her decide if it's worth it.

Let our young men and women who love them have the facts straight.

Tell them they may have to march away to fight, and maybe to die, for tin and rubber and rice.

Give them something to fight for!

But in Heaven's name let's not continue the silly pose . . . of opposing Communism in half way around the world . . . while Harry Bridges and Judy Coplan and William Z. Foster are still running loose in the United States!

that only sees fit to employ half-year jobs if that much. Sign them to a contract that they have to post a bond too and make it big enough to back up their big talk of steady employment and a bright future.

Not until then are you going to get anywhere near solving the unemployment situation here in Winona.

Direct Talks With China on Fliers Opposed

WASHINGTON (U)—Senators Knowland (R-Calif.) and Mansfield (D-Mont.) said today they oppose direct negotiations with Red China for the release of 15 imprisoned American fliers.

This was their reaction to Bureau Premier U Nu's disclosure in Rangoon that he had passed along to Secretary of State Dulles a Chinese Communist suggestion that the United States send an unofficial mission to Peiping to discuss the fliers' fate and other causes of U.S.-Red Chinese tension. The State Department yesterday gave the roundabout proposal a chilly reception.

"We don't want discussion," said Knowland. "We want release of the 15 men in compliance with the terms of the Korean armistice."

The fliers were captured by the Reds in the latter stages of the Korean War. Eleven of them have been sentenced on "spy" charges. Mansfield, a colleague of Knowland's on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he regards the indirect proposal as "just a propaganda move" by the Communists.

"There is nothing to discuss and nothing to be gained by any conference," Mansfield said. "The air men are being held illegally in direct contravention to the Geneva convention on prisoners of war."

Waukesha Girl
To Undergo Rare
Heart Operation

WAUKESHA, Wis. (U)—A mother's heart and lungs will take over the life-giving operations for her 7-year-old daughter when physicians attempt a rare operation to close a hole in the little girl's heart.

Penny Rae Raymond, a second grade student, will undergo the operation the 15th of this month at the University of Minnesota Hospital in Minneapolis.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Raymond, wrote to Dr. C. W. Lillehei, who will undertake the delicate surgery, after seeing a TV program in which an operation gave a normal life back to a 5-year-old who had suffered a similar malformation of the heart.

Physicians have determined that Penny Rae was born with one and possibly two holes in the muscular wall separating the right and left portions of her heart.

In the operation the patient's blood is transferred to the donor, in this case Penny's mother, whose heart and lungs pump and purify the blood. It is then piped back to the patient. While the donor's heart carries on this process the patient's lungs are collapsed and the surgeon makes an incision in the heart and sews up the hole.

Pay Hikes to Cost Nation $7 Million

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (U)—Congress is almost finished voting a pay raise for itself—$7,500 a year—and raises for federal judges and district attorneys. Total cost to the taxpayers will run around seven million dollars.

The Senate approved the idea yesterday. With the House almost certain to do the same, the pay boost then will be effective as of today. Congress had a lot of support for this move.

President Eisenhower gave it his blessing beforehand, without naming an amount. So did a special commission which he appointed in 1953 to study the problem of pay increases for Congress, the judges and the district attorneys.

The salary of 530 members of Congress—96 senators, 434 representatives—goes from $15,000 a year to $22,500. That of the remaining House member, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), goes from $40,000 to $45,000.

So does that of Vice President Nixon. The bill does not affect the President, who gets $150,000 in salary and an expense fund.

The $7,500 increase for all members except the speaker is a 50 per cent raise. The last increase Congress voted itself in 1946, was from $10,000 to $15,000. The presidential commission last year recommended a raise to $27,500.

This is what happens to the pay of about 400 federal judges: Chief Justice Warren—$25,000 to $35,000; the eight Supreme Court associate justices—$25,000 to $35,000. Judges of the United States Court of Appeals—$17,500 to $25,000. Lower court judges' pay will jump from $15,000 to $22,500.

United States district attorneys and assistant district attorneys were permitted a pay boost by Congress too, but how much each gets depends on how much Atty. Gen. Brownell wants to give him. Congress left that up to Brownell.

New Maximum $20,000

He can raise district attorneys any amount from the present maximum of $15,000 to the new maximum of $20,000 and assistant attorneys from the present maximum of $12,500 to the new maximum of $15,000.

In addition to his pay each member of Congress gets official office space in Washington (in the House and Senate office buildings) and in his home district. He is allowed a minimum of $12,500 a year for clerical hire, $2,500 in mechanical equipment, $800 a year to buy stationery, unlimited free mailing privileges.

For travel to and from Washington for each session of Congress—one round trip—he is allowed to deduct $5,000 of his salary as expenses for income tax purposes.

The presidential commission estimated it costs the average member of Congress $3,000 a year more than his old $15,000 salary, and that 80 per cent of the members must depend on some private income. Many members maintain two residences, one here, the other at home.

U.S. Has Shortage Of Engineering Technicians Today

By JOHN B. KNOX
BOSTON (U)—The United States may be falling seriously behind Russia in a race which many Americans don't even know they're in.

In this swift-changing atomic-electronic age, educators say that this country may soon be handicapped in research and development by a shortage of engineering technicians—the men who turn plans into production.

Unofficial figures show that last year Russia graduated about 50,000 engineers and the same number of engineering technicians. The United States graduated 23,000 engineers and 13,000 technicians.

In some fields, particularly the automobile industry, five technicians are needed for each engineer.

This situation is causing deep concern among educators and government officials alike.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks warns that without technicians the efficiency and progress of the engineer and the scientist would be critically curtailed or utterly lost.

What is this field which is being comparatively neglected by American youth, despite the scarcity of workers and the promise of good salaries?

Dr. H. Russell Beatty, president of Wentworth Institute, a top Boston technical school, says the technician combines the points of view of the scientist and the skilled craftsman.

"Here is a field definitely between the trades and the engineering field," says Dr. Beatty. "It is a field for the doer, the builder."

"The engineer plans; the technician makes and does. The engineer creates and projects; the technician operates. The engineer is concerned with the why of a job; the technician principally with how to do it."

There are about 60 technical institutes in this country.

Out of their intensive two-year courses come engineering team specialists, such as draftsmen, designers, cost estimators, production supervisors, chemists, testers, research technologists, control supervisors, time study men, technical salesmen and planners of production and construction.

"The warrant officers of industry," Dr. Beatty calls them. Often they become contractors and owners of businesses.

Starting salaries are not far below those of engineers and, says Dr. Beatty, "We have no placement problems."

Commercial Storage
Of Grain Reported Up

WASHINGTON (U)—The Agriculture Department said today there has been approximately a 30 per cent increase in the last three years in commercial storage for the nation's grain supplies.

It said such facilities are capable of storing 2,819,815,000 bushels of grain, or 643,873,000 bushels more than in 1951.

These figures did not include facilities on farms, or the government's own facilities with a 350-million-bushel capacity.

Bill to Raise Congressmen's Salaries Settled

WASHINGTON (U)—Only House approval, expected today, was needed to send to President Eisenhower a compromise bill to give members of Congress a 50 per cent pay raise.

The Senate passed the measure by voice vote yesterday after conferees, meeting for the second time, had set the salary figure at $22,500. Congress members now get $15,000.

The measure also carries pay raises of $7,500 to $10,000 for approximately 400 federal judges, a $5,000 boost for the vice president and House speaker, and increases for U.S. attorneys, their assistants and several top Justice Department officials. These were not altered in yesterday's conference.

The House passed a compromise pay bill last week, but this measure was rejected by the Senate because of a tax-exempt $1,250 expense allowance.

The new version is shorn of two of the benefits carried in the first compromise last week.

The conferees yesterday not only struck out the tax-free allowance, but also eliminated a provision for five expense-paid round trips to a member's home state each year.

as leagued in a sinister plot against Adm. Strauss, Dr. Teller, and the hydrogen bomb.

Dr. Teller has now thoroughly expunged this mythology. He gives the lion's share of the credit for the hydrogen bomb to the Los Alamos Laboratory. He disposes completely of the notion that there was any plot to delay the bomb. He speaks generously of many other scientists, including Dr. Oppenheimer.

Teller also says that he "respects and understands" the view that it would have been "better never to develop this instrument"—and Dr. Oppenheimer's doubts about making the bomb, which were shared by many scientists, of course constituted one of the main counts against him.

Generous Gestures

The background of Dr. Teller's generous gesture is significant. Particularly after the publication of the Shepley-Blair book, it became obvious that the dangerous bitterness in the scientific community could be dealt with in only one way—by persuading the heroes of the new mythology, Dr. Teller and Adm. Strauss, themselves to explode the myth.

For some time, while Adm. Strauss reportedly urged him to say nothing, Teller resisted the efforts at persuasion of his fellow scientists. Shortly before he died, however, the late, great Dr. Enrico Fermi succeeded in persuading Teller that he had a duty to speak out.

As for Strauss, great efforts were made to get him to stand up for the A.E.C. scientists by repudiating the mythology. Gordon Dean, Strauss' predecessor as A.E.C. chairman, wrote him a very strong letter urging on him his responsibility to set the record straight. Dr. Norris Bradbury, director of the Los Alamos Laboratory, made a similar request. Finally, all the Los Alamos division chiefs wrote Strauss a round robin asking for an official disavowal.

Aside from empty assurances of high regard for the scientists, Strauss did nothing, ostensibly on the ground that, as a public official, he could not disavow a private publication. But a little later Strauss himself made mincemeat of this argument, when his personal publicity man widely circulated a long official memorandum attacking another book (which happened to be by this reporter and his partner) in which Strauss was criticized.

Unfriendly Attitude

Strauss is said to have complained privately that he could not understand the unfriendly attitude toward him in the scientific community. But it is not really laugh to be wondered at—when Strauss himself was criticized—the resources of the A.E.C. were marshaled in his defense; but when the A.E.C.'s scientists were pictured as fools at the best, or traitors at the worst, not an official finger was lifted in their behalf.

In short, Dr. Teller's generous gesture has undone half the harm that has been done—but only half. His article has done much to end the bitter internal division which has threatened the American scientific community. But the acrid aftertaste of the events of the last twelve months still threatens the partnership between science and the government—and it is going to take more than empty assurances to restore and maintain it.

The Navy's attack aircraft carrier USS Midway was visited by more than 23,000 South Africans recently in Capetown, South Africa.

Exercise Keeps Your Figure From Going to Waist

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you're naturally the non-athletic type, but mildly determined to keep your figure from going to waist, you'll be interested in streamlining methods that produce results with a minimum of time and effort. The science of muscular movement takes half the work out of calisthenics.

Once you get the knack of muscle action, you can, with no waste motion, carry one to streamlines. To slim a particular measurement, the muscles which control that area must be restored to live tone.

Since it is always the middle measurement that spreads first, let's begin in the middle. Get a mental picture of an invisible girde made up of four powerful bands of muscle—one pair running lengthwise from wishbone to pelvic girdle, with up-pull action; two pairs coming in bias-wise, with a sideward in-pull action, and a deep inner horizontal band which flattens the abdomen.

Taking it from there, you can see that a stretch will reach the front muscles, and a side-bend will bring the crosswise and bias muscles into play. So that's the midriff slimming technique. The action must always be concentrated through the midsection, with the muscular pull up-and-in. Here's a slimming stretch-bend...

Movement: Stretch upwards, pulling the waist up away from the hips and the ribs up away from the waist. Then bend slowly and smoothly sideward, pulling strongly with left hand as it curves toward right. Hold this stretch-bend for a slow count of three.

Back to position, stretch right arm overhead, left arm down at side and bend in the opposite direction. Again hold the stretch-bend.

Here's a stretch that sounds difficult, but it is really easy. Position: "Stand" on hands and knees, do not tip head down.

Movement: Raise left arm and right leg until they are on a straight line with body. Follow with a thorough-going stretch, from tip to toe. Hold this stretch for six streamlining seconds. Relax, return to starting position on hands and knees, and repeat exercise by raising right arm and left leg and holding the stretch for six seconds.

By taking those two exercises daily, and holding the movement, tone is restored to the midsection muscles.

Send stamped, self addressed long envelope for "Away With Middle Spread" and "For a Slimmer Midriff." Address request to Ida Jean Kain care of The Winona Daily News.

Gloria Moe Wed To James Suchla

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—Nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Gloria Moe and Jerome Suchla Feb. 19 at 10 a. m. in St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, Arcadia. The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moe, Arcadia, and Mr. and Mrs. Alois Suchla, Arcadia.

The Very Rev. Joseph Andrzejewski performed the double-ring ceremony. Traditional music was played by the church organist, Sr. Mary Thomas and the St. Stanislaus Catholic School choir sang "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother."

The bride was given in marriage by her father before an altar decorated with yellow carnations and candles in candelabra. She wore a floor-length gown of white tulle, guipure lace and nylon tulle. The fitted bodice of lace over tulle had a wide square neckline with a nylon tulle net insert and Peter Pan collar. Her sleeves were long and the bouffant skirt of tulle was worn over a crinoline. Lace and nylon tulle net made an overskirt open in front to show double tiers of nylon tulle ruffles. A tiara of tulle and pearls with seed pearls held her circular nylon tulle veil. She carried a small cascade of white carnations encircling a removable corsage of sweetheart roses, and wore a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings, gifts of the bridegroom.

As maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Betty Moe, Arcadia, and the bridesmaid, Miss Janet Kupietz, Arcadia, wore identical floor-length gowns of berry-red nailhead tulle over crinoline. The fitted bodices were shirred with off-the-shoulder sleeves and square necklines. Their headresses were bands of red nailhead tulle and white nylon tulle. They carried small cascade bouquets of white carnations encircling red carnations. Their jewelry was a single strand pearl necklace and pearl earrings, gifts of the bride.

The bridegroom's brother, Clifford, Arcadia, acted as best man. Ushers were Spencer Axness, Arcadia, cousin of the bride, and John Kampa, Arcadia, uncle of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moe wore a black and white dress with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a tan and brown dress with matching accessories. They wore corsages of white carnations and blue hyacinth flowers. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Moe, Arcadia, and the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. John Kampa Sr., Independence, wore dark dresses with matching accessories and corsages of white carnations and red rosebuds.

A dinner was served at noon at the Ticker-Erickson American Legion clubrooms for the immediate families. A wedding cake, made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Arnold Haugen, Northfield, Wis., centered the bridal table. Decorations were in red and white. A reception was held in the clubroom in the afternoon for 75 guests. Music was furnished by Palmer Halverson and Lionel Adank Jr.

Iota Chapter Entertains at 60 Tables of Cards

The benefit card party sponsored by Iota Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, at the YMCA Monday evening was attended by a large group of Winonans interested in the recruiting of capable teachers. Tickets for 60 tables were sold, several to people who were unable to attend but eager to show their support for the project.

Scrabble proved the object of interest at some ten tables while a variety of card games such as bridge, canasta and 500 occupied the larger number of guests. The attendance prize went to Mrs. R. E. Stevenson.

Tea, coffee and pastry were served during the latter part of the evening from a table set with silver candlesticks and coffee service and centered with pink snapdragons.

"This evening has been an exceedingly gratifying experience," said Miss Gertrude Finch, program chairman, whose committee promoted the party. "It is always inspiring to see people from various organizations and with various interests and activities, lend their support to a project like this. Although our chapter has only 28 members we shall be able, through the interest of our friends and our own efforts to help send a young Winonian into the teaching profession. Hot Debate Seen On Constitution Rewrite Vote ST. PAUL (U. S. — Determined groups marshaled forces today for what is expected to be the first all-out debate, in the Minnesota Senate during, this session of the Legislature.

In position for early consideration is the hotly contested proposal to let voters decide at the 1938 general election whether a convention should be called to rewrite the 97-year-old state Constitution.

The bill, by Sens. Stanley Holmquist, Grove City, Harold Mullin, Minneapolis, and E. L. Andersen, St. Paul, was approved Feb. 17 by the Senate Judiciary Committee. The vote was 11-9 there, but the House General Legislation Committee Monday gave the go-ahead to a companion bill by a 20-1 vote.

Committee discussion of the proposal turned less on the question of whether a convention should be called than on whether the constitution should be revised.

One group argued that a complete rewrite is necessary to develop a framework for government under modern conditions.

Another contended that essential changes could be made by submitting individual amendments, and this would avoid the dangers of opening the entire Constitution to revision.

Indicating a belief among legislators that some changes in the Constitution are necessary is the fact that more than a dozen proposed amendments have been submitted during this session. They cover a variety of subjects, from repeal of obsolete sections to legislative reapportionment.

The convention bill now ready for action needs a two-thirds vote in each house to pass—45 votes in the Senate and 38 in the House.

Monday, after another of its extended debates, the House gave preliminary approval 59-51, to a Senate approved bill to permit state employees to have union dues deducted from their paychecks.

The measure will need seven more favorable votes when it comes up for final action today.

Scout Leader's Job Important, Volunteers Told

The many reasons a Girl Scout leader's job is an important one today were enumerated by Mrs. William M. Markle in her talk, "Your Job Is Important In This Town," at the February meeting of the Girl Scout Leaders Association Monday evening at the YWCA.

Mrs. Markle, who has been a leader of girls' groups, pointed out that "a leader is influential in guiding girls into their future life, preparing them to successfully meet with people in all walks of life, in any community."

Mrs. Markle continued, "A girl's character is almost always instilled in her before she reaches school age, and this can be a real challenge to the leader if the child is obviously off to a wrong start." She emphasized the importance of the leaders having faith in themselves and in the work they are doing in order to succeed in meeting the needs of the increasing number of children and to help prepare a better world for all to live in.

"It is not only a duty and a challenge to guide girls' groups," said Mrs. Markle, "but it is a privilege and an honor."

Miss Carol King, community advisor of the National Field Staff of the Girl Scouts of the United States, gave a short talk, encouraging the leaders in the work they are doing. Egypt Accuses Israel of Killing 38 Egyptians CAIRO (U)—Egypt accused Israel today of killing 38 Egyptians and wounding 21 others in a "sneak" night attack on an army headquarters two miles inside Egypt's Gaza Strip.

The Egyptian director of Palestine affairs, Lt. Col. Salah Gohar, termed the attack the biggest clash on the Israeli-Egyptian frontier since the 1949 Palestine Armistice.

Five hours after the Egyptian announcement, an Israeli army spokesman in Jerusalem announced that the Egyptians had attacked an Israeli army unit and a "battle ensued which started in Israel territory and continued into the (Egyptian-held) Gaza Strip." The spokesman said the "enemy forces were repulsed" and the Israelis "suffered a number of casualties."

Gohar said Israeli forces surrounded the army unit last night, blasted it with mortars and demolition charges, and then ambushed a truckload of 38 troops rushed to the position.

"The Israelis even threw Molotov cocktails of blazing gasoline into the wrecked truck," the Egyptian spokesman reported. "Twenty-two were killed and 14 were wounded. None escaped being either killed or wounded."

Gohar said 16 Egyptians were killed and seven were wounded in the opening attack. These casualties were believed to include one civilian dead and one wounded, he added.

He charged also that the attackers destroyed a well supplying one-third of the water for the ancient town of Gaza, population about 40,000.

It was expected Egypt would act quickly to bring the incident before the U.N. Security Council.

Personal Problems Separate Singer, Hero Husband

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U)—Singer Jane Froman, her fairytale marriage to pilot John C. Burn threatened by "personal problems," rested here today while her husband vacationed in Mexico.

She announced that they had "decided to part for awhile" in the hope the "very, very personal" differences would iron themselves out.

When asked if she had any plans for a divorce, she quickly replied, "Absolutely none."

"We feel we can resolve our personal problems more easily if we're apart," she told reporters at a press conference.

The star took a week's leave from her Thursday show to recover from an attack of buritis. She said Burn would remain in Mexico until the end of March. She will return to New York March 10.

"I will see him then," she said. Burn was copilot of a plane that crashed in the Tugus River of Portugal in 1943, in which 24 of 39 persons died. Both he and Miss Froman were injured but he held her head above the water for nearly an hour until they were rescued.

Miss Froman spent five painful months recovering from her injuries and married her rescuer at Miami in March 1948 after divorcing her first husband. She still wears a brace on her right leg.

Practice Field

The four people on top of the loaf of Sugar Loaf, waving their arms and yelling loudly just about dark Sunday, were not calling for help or assistance—they were just a squad of mountain climbers celebrating their afternoon's attainment in good mountain climbing style. They had reached the summit.

It had been a spectacular climb, containing quite a few thrills and a couple of near-falls. Only the rope tied around her waist saved the girl dressed in red from plunging to possible death. She swung in the air on the rope held by her co-climber above after falling about 20 feet.

Arriving here from their homes in Minneapolis about mid-afternoon for a second try at Sugar Loaf mountain, as practice maneuver for adventures next summer, the group, fully equipped with ropes, picks, spikes and hammers in back packs, started their climb up the north face of the bluff itself, where rock crags hang dangerously and shrub cedars grow.

All four, fastened together for the climb with ropes, scaled the almost straight up side, step by step. It was here that the red-clad girl missed a footing and fell. However, after resting momentarily with their climbing, they finally reached the foot of the loaf proper.

After a lunch and rest, they moved around to the north side of the loaf and scaled the 90-foot-high cake of rock with its weathered surface, slowly. It was dark when the last of the four climbed up to be outlined against the darkening sky.

The established trail was followed in the dark on the north side of the loaf and scaled the 90-foot-high cake of rock with its weathered surface, slowly. It was dark when the last of the four climbed up to be outlined against the darkening sky.

Spunky Teller Gets Bank Bandit To Make Change

BUFFALO, N.Y. (U)—A spunky woman teller in a collection office of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. met an obliging holdup man. When the man poked a revolver at Miss Margaret A. Bock, 49, yesterday and ordered her to put cash into a brown paper bag, she pushed about $200 at him and told him to put it in the bag himself. He did.

"I thought I'd done enough just by letting him have the money," she said.

Then she asked for some money back to make change for her customers. The holdup man gave her a $5 bill and a few singles.

Panfish Contest

Fishing contests did not end with the closing of the general fishing season on the river. Two committees from the Fountain City Rod and Gun Club dropped in Monday to tell us about their big event scheduled for Merrick State Park Sunday. It will be for crappies, sunfish and other fish on which the season is not closed.

There will be prizes aplenty—a boat, guns, fishing rods, reels, and a whole truckload of other things. There will be lunch, drilled holes, and you will be able to fish there with either a Minnesota or Wisconsin license. The park is in the boundary water zone. In fact, the way the bill reads, a big dogfish will win a prize.

Baldwin Wins

Cecil Baldwin, Winona's crack trapshooter, broke into the headlines in the East Florida Coast tournament held at Fort Lauderdale last weekend. On Saturday he was runner-up, finishing second in one of the big events of the week long tourney, winning a silver service and sufficient cash to extend his vacation a few weeks. Then on Sunday he again shot his way to third place against one of the largest fields of shooters of the week, carrying away another array of valuable prizes.

Cecil has been making these shoots for the last several winters, and seems to do his best shooting against the blue of the ocean in the warm sunshine of the south. So don't expect him home for a while.

Legislation Meeting

Chaplin Sells U.S. Interests

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Charles Chaplin has sold his interest in United Artists Corp., probably his last important business connection in this country.

He was one of movieland's "Big Four"—the others were Mary Pickford and her former husband, the late Douglas Fairbanks Sr., and the late D. W. Griffith—who formed United Artists in 1919.

Miss Pickford, now the only remaining stockholder of the original group, owns one-third. The corporation, of which Robert S. Benjamin is board chairman and Arthur B. Krim president, owns the rest. An announcement by Benjamin yesterday was that Chaplin had sold his 25 per cent interest to the corporation. The price was not given.

Chaplin left this country three years ago.

Report Card F May Be on Its Way to Oblivion

By ROGER L. JOHNSON

ST. LOUIS (U)—Buck up, Junior! If you got an F on your school report card last month, perhaps it shouldn't be there.

A group of educators here for a regional meeting of the American Assn. of School Administrators say it shouldn't.

But the group admitted in an interview, it will take time to convince your teacher, your father, and even your school board.

"We don't have to have failures in our classrooms," said Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, of Providence, R. I., president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

With her in the discussion were J. C. Wright, Iowa superintendent of public instruction; Dr. Francis G. Cornell, professor of education at the University of Illinois; Darrell Blodgett, superintendent of schools at Wheaton, Ill.; and Mrs. Irma Detjen, of Webster Groves, head of the Missouri Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Wright said grading children by arbitrary standards, whether the grades are good or bad, is unfair. Chief objection to the present day report, said Dr. Cornell, is that it tells only what happened the past semester and gives no indication of what the child can or will do in the future.

Some communities, the educators said, have replaced grade report cards with the following:

A parent-teacher conference about each child at the end of each semester (more often if necessary).

A narrative-type report card, on which the teacher discusses each of the child's subjects.

A group meeting with both parents and children prior to each semester to discuss the goal for that semester.

Security Study Bill Up for Consideration

WASHINGTON (U)—A Senate subcommittee on government reorganization has scheduled public hearings to start Thursday on a bill proposing to create a special commission to study the government's security program.

The U.S. marriage rate reached an all-time peak of 16.2 per 1,000 population in 1946 and has been declining since that time except for an upswing in 1950 when the Korean war started.

Free World Losing Propaganda War, Says Gen. Romulo

ROSOWELL, N.M. (U)—Gen. Carlos Romulo of the Philippines says the free world is losing its advantage in the Far East by not making more of its opportunity to play up positive points.

The former president of the United Nations General Assembly and special envoy to the United States said last night:

"We are losing this propaganda warfare to Asia."

"The Manila conference last September, instead of emphasizing the fact that two important documents were signed, the Manila Treaty and the Pacific Charter, publicized the negative side—that Indonesia, Burma, India and Ceylon did not participate."

Year Ago Today 4 Puerto Ricans Shot Up House

WASHINGTON (U)—Just a year ago today four Puerto Rican fanatics sprang up in a visitors gallery and, screaming Nationalist slogans, sprayed the House chamber with bullets.

On this first anniversary of that wild shooting attack, five representatives who were wounded called on Congress to replace the present politically appointed Capitol police force with a corps of professionals.

Sponsors of the bill were Representatives Roberts (D-Ala.) and Bentley (R-Mich.) who were most seriously wounded. They said they were joined in this move by Representatives Davis (D-Tenn.), Jensen (R-Iowa) and Fallon (D-Md.), other shooting casualties. All have recovered although Roberts still walks with a cane.

Speaking in the House yesterday, Roberts said that "but for a miracle" many would have been killed when the Puerto Ricans—three men and a woman—ramped lead at the House floor. The four, later given long prison sentences, said they wanted to call attention to the Puerto Rican independence movement.

Bentley, who hovered close to death for several days after he was shot, said he thought the American people "would be outraged if they realized that the security measures in the House are almost identical to those that prevailed a year ago."

The U.S. marriage rate in 1954 was 9.1 per 1,000 people.

Dulles Aide Opposes Talks With Chinese

SAIGON, Viet Nam (U)—An aide to U.S. Secretary of State Dulles threw cold water today on Burmese suggestions that the United States send an unofficial mission to talk with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

The aide said Burma had not yet relayed to Dulles Chou's offer to receive such a mission. But the United States, he continued, most likely would take the position existing channels are sufficient to discuss the case of 13 American espionage charges and four other U.S. fliers held by Peiping.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold visited Peiping just after Christmas in an effort to secure the Americans' release. Since his return to the United States, he has kept in touch with Chou on the question.

Burmese Premier U Nu told a news conference in Rangoon yesterday he had told Dulles of Chou's willingness to see an unofficial American delegation, to discuss other questions causing tension between the United States and Peiping as well as the case of the prisoners. U Nu suggested such a conference to Chou when he visited Peiping early in December.

Dulles stopped in Rangoon Saturday as part of his tour of Southeast Asian capitals following the SEATO conference last week in Bangkok.

The secretary's aide said the Chinese Reds might be trying to inveigle the United States into making a deal on Formosa. He said the United States probably would take the position it would make no such deal behind Chiang Kai-shek's back.

Dulles, meanwhile, continued a busy round of conferences with French, Vietnamese and American officials here.

Trust Yourself, Syngman Rhee Tells Americans

SEOUL (U)—President Syngman Rhee today urged Americans "trust yourselves a little more."

"Have faith in your own ideals, for truly the American principle and the American ideal are the last great hope of the world."

Rhee spoke at Seoul Stadium on Korea's 30th anniversary of her independence movement against Japanese rule.

"No Asian will ever forget" what America has done for the freedom and independence of Asian peoples, he said.

"I wish the people and the government of the United States were not quite so quick to criticize and doubt themselves. When they hear the Communist propaganda charging that the people of Asia do not like their interference, they are fearful that there might be some truth in such charges, and they have a tendency to withdraw."

Communists Gain Strength in Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (U)—A year ago Syria was ridding itself of a rightist military dictatorship. Today this country has the most active left wing in the Arab world.

Syria is the only Arab state to elect an ad hoc Communist to Parliament. A third of its new papers are leftist. And Syrian Communist leaders have emerged as leaders of all Arab Reds.

Communists here got their big chance in March 1954 after military dictator Adib Shishkely was overthrown. Shishkely had suppressed Communism with a heavy hand. He also had suppressed all other parties. Accustomed to working underground, the Communists weathered the dictatorship in better form than more conservative parties with no underground apparatus.

Communists still are a small minority in Syria, but their influence is strong, internally and externally. The party officially is outlawed, but its candidates enter elections as independents, and its leaders are well known.

In last September's parliamentary elections, Communists elected their leader, Khalid Bekdash, to the Syrian Parliament. Communists running as independents polled a relatively heavy vote in Damascus. Throughout the country, the total Communist vote was around 45,000, in a population of about 3 1/2 million.

The Navy requisitioned its first airplane on May 8, 1911. It was constructed of wood, canvas and bamboo and capable of flying at least 45 miles an hour.

Farmhand Killed In Tractor Mishap Rochester Native

SPARTA, Wis. (U)—Monroe County Undersheriff Roger Young said today a man killed in a farm accident Friday had been identified as Burt Wooner of rural Rochester, Minn. The undersheriff said Wooner, identified by relatives Sunday, was wanted on a bad check charge in Minnesota.

Wooner was killed on the Harland Russell farm near Norway, when a tractor he was driving overturned. He was listed then as Robert O'Neil, the name he gave when he came to work on the farm two weeks back. A slip of paper in his wallet bore the name Burt Wooner.

Republicans Vote To Sue Hotel for Barring Negroes

MIAMI, Fla. (U)—Dade County Republicans last night voted to sue the Urmy Hotel over a Lincoln Day dinner incident in which 24 Negroes were asked to leave.

The Republican County Executive Committee also:

Apologized to guests of Negro committee members who were embarrassed by the incident.

Commended the action of officers and committee members who walked out of the dinner in protest.

Ordered a resume of the facts to be sent to President Eisenhower.

Called for a federal investigation to determine if civil liberties were violated.

Joe Miller Jr., a young Republican leader, blamed Edward N. Claughton, owner of the hotel. Miller said that while plans for the dinner were announced six weeks in advance, Claughton registered objections only three days before it was to be held.

Bert Acker, co-chairman of the dinner and twice candidate for governor of Florida, said he had notified Wesley Garrison, state committee chairman and co-chairman, three days before the Feb. 12 incident that Claughton said Negroes could not be served in the dining room.

Acker said he urged Garrison to heed Claughton and asked the Negroes to stay away.

Garrison said, however, that Joe Clemmons, operator of the dining room, agreed to serve the Negroes.

No details over size of the suit or what charges may be brought were announced.

State to Launch Fight for Open Dairy Markets

ST. PAUL (U)—A three-pronged attack on the problem of opening markets for Minnesota milk and milk products will be launched by the state, Gov. Freeman announced today.

The governor disclosed at a news conference that he will ask the Legislature to appropriate $25,000 to help the state administration carry on a legal fight.

He said the state intends to:

1. Take legal action toward ending what he termed "arbitrary and unrealistic sanitary regulations, which are really intended to create a monopoly for producers in certain areas."

2. Institute legal steps provided for under the Milk Marketing Agreement Act to protest and prevent the incorporation into federal orders under the act such "gimmicks" as have the effect of excluding Minnesota's dairy products from milk marketing agreement areas.

3. Exert every effort to secure an amendment to the 1937 Agricultural Marketing Act, so as to limit the differential in price that may be established under that act between the price of milk for fluid purposes and the price of milk for manufacturing purposes.

Freeman said he wanted to make it clear that he is not opposed to the principle of federal market orders, explaining that "we ask only that they do not set up monopolies which encourage local production beyond normal expansion."

Directors Named At Centerville Creamery Meeting

CENTERVILLE, Wis.—Nat Carhart and Marshall Nehring were named directors of the Centerville Cooperative Creamery at the annual meeting here Saturday.

They replace Carroll Carhart and Jennings Nichols. At a board of directors meeting which followed, Henry Multhoupp was re-elected president; Nehring was elected vice president replacing Carroll Carhart and Ralph H. Nichols was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Other directors are Theodore Harris and Max Lilla.

Gross receipts of $353,000, an increase over 1933, were reported. Use of butterfat increased 26,000 pounds over the year before. Burton Gjelberg is buttermaker and Oscar Gjelberg assistant.

The meeting was held in the town hall with a noon meal served by wives of employees preceding the business session. Speakers included Harlan Harfield, Minneapolis, Land O' Lakes representative; Slim Hendricks, Sparta, manager of the Hiawatha Valley Dairy Co-op there; John Taylor, state dairy inspector; Harrison Storm, Sparta, president of Hiawatha Dairy; and an American Dairy Association representative from Madison.

The annual report reveals these statistics: 171,976 pounds of cream were received in 1934; 8,038,792 pounds of milk; 353,406 pounds of butterfat were used from both sources; 321,033 pounds of butter were made; average test of cream was 22.42 per cent and of milk, 3.71 per cent; average price paid for cream was $6.55 and for milk, $2.9125.

Whitehall Business Changes Recorded

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—One Whitehall business has closed and another changed owners this week.

The Snack Shop, located for 12 years between the Melby Bank and the Home Dress Shop, closed Sunday. It is located partly on bank property and closed at the request of the bank which is planning an expansion program this summer. Mrs. Harold Wood has operated the business for six years.

Harry Schmeling, Hutchinson, Minn., has purchased Olson's Super-Valu Store from Lewis J. Olson, Barron. It will be known as the Red & White Food Store, with a grand opening scheduled in the near future.

The business was established here in 1933 by Erickson Bros. in the Central Trading Association building. Olson managed the store for a number of years before purchasing it. When he moved to Barron to operate a store there, Carl Gustafson became manager of the store. Gustafson will be employed by Erickson Bros. in Minneapolis.

Body of Slain Woman Found

DAVENPORT, Iowa (U)—The nude body of a blonde young woman was found this morning near Highway 67 east of Bettendorf. First indications were that she had been slain.

The sheriff's office said the body may have been thrown from a car. The head was badly bruised.

Time Stands Still After Souvenir Snatch

DES MOINES (U)—Somebody in Lancaster, Pa., whose conscience apparently was bothering him, has returned the key to the old grandfather's clock that stands in the autograph room of the Iowa State Historical Building. It was stolen back in the 1930's.

When curator Claude Cook opened his mail Monday he found the key in a letter, which said:

"You will find enclosed herewith a key to one of the old clocks in the museum. It was taken about 22 years ago for a souvenir. Hope you can locate the clock from which it was taken. It was a large one."

The letter was unsigned.

Doomsday Hits Minnesota on 72-70 Victory by Hawkeyes

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota's 18-year search for basketball glory appeared doomed again today, the victim of an Iowa second half shooting display that defied the percentages and brought the Hawks at least a share of the Big Ten title.

Before a record 20,176 spectators at Williams Arena Monday night, Iowa broke the Gophers' down the stretch for a 72-70 victory, leaving Minnesota only with a distant chance to divide the championship.

The Gophers now need a victory over Wisconsin Saturday linked with an Iowa defeat at Michigan next Monday night to tie the Hawkeyes. But even if the unexpected combination develops, there will be small doubt as to the Big Ten's best.

Iowa proved it Monday night by shooting 50 per cent from the field in the face of constant pressure. It trailed 70-67 with less than four minutes remaining and by one point with less than three left.

But white-thatched Sharm Scheuerman grooved a 10-footer with 2:34 remaining and, after a desperate Minnesota pressing game failed to budge the poised Hawks, Deacon Davis notched a free throw with 30 seconds left.

The Gophers' final chance for a tie went awry when Iowa refused to permit them a respectable shot at the basket.

To win, Iowa had to overcome a one-man offensive in Chuck Mencil, playing the greatest game of his career. Mencil finished with 27 points and almost won it alone with a flood of points near the finish.

Three straight free throws and a writhing drive-in basket by Mencil gave Minnesota a 70-67 lead with 4 1/2 minutes remaining.

Iowa's Bill Seaberg cut it to 70-69 with a long one-hander. The Gophers froze the ball to capitalize on the three-minute rule but Mencil was rebuffed on a one-hander which might have meant victory for the Gophers.

Iowa then shook loose Scheuerman for his climactic basket and Davis followed two minutes later with his free throw.

BIG TEN STANDINGS

Team	W	L	Pct.
Iowa	11	2	.846
Minnesota	10	3	.769
Illinois	9	4	.692
Northwestern	7	6	.538
Michigan State	7	6	.538
Purdue	5	8	.385
Michigan	5	8	.385
Ohio State	4	9	.308
Wisconsin	4	9	.308
Indiana	3	10	.231

The game was one of the most gripping ever witnessed at the huge

Gopher arena and the record crowd which saw it decisively surpassed the previous Williams Arena attendance record of 18,872 set last year. It was the largest crowd ever to watch a basketball game in a college arena.

The score was tied 17 times. Iowa connected on 13 of its first 19 shots in the second half but still was unable to shake the Minnesotans after leading through most of the period.

The Hawks shot a near miracle high 66 per cent in the second half. Scheuerman got the game-winner but most of the playdits went to 6-6 Bill Logan, who picked up 15 of his 25 points in the first half to keep Iowa in contention.

The irony was that Iowa, heralded for its strong reserve power, played the full 40 minutes with five men. Minnesota used two reserves and one of them, Doug Bolstorff, supplied impetus to a flagging Gopher attack twice and, almost turned the tide.

Minnesota, leading through most of the first half, lagged 27-22 late in the period when Bolstorff entered. The Gophers promptly reeled off seven points in a row and led 35-33 at half-time.

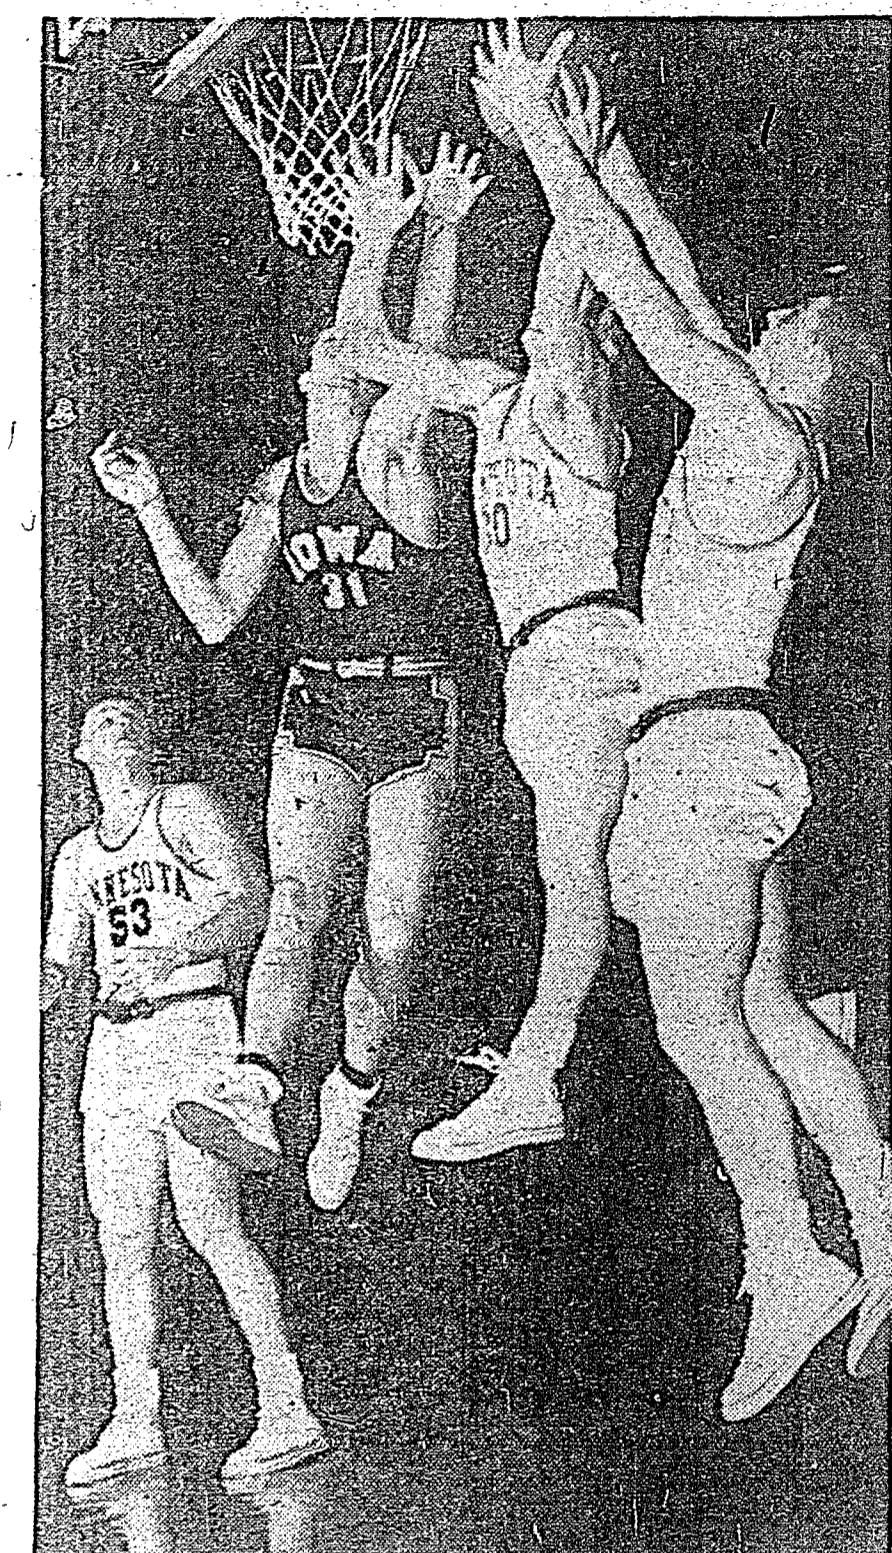

Bolstorff teamed with Mencil midway through the second half to touch off a Gopher rally that eventually put the Minnesotans in front.

The Mencil-Dick Garmaker combine hummed smoothly in the first half but Garmaker suddenly lost the touch late in the game. He finished with 18 points, 12 of which came in the first half.

Coaches Ozzie Cowles and Bucky O'Connor agreed it was a game which could have gone either way. Almost everyone pointed to Mencil as the standout individual on the court.

But Iowa, in Logan, Scheuerman, Carl Cain and Deacon Davis, had the bullseye perfection when it counted. All of the Iowans save Cain were carrying four fouls at the finish.

FLYING HIGH... Up in the air for a rebound are Minnesota's Chuck Mencil (30) and Dave Tucker, right, with Iowa's Bill Logan (31) during Monday night's Big Ten Conference game played before a record crowd of 20,176 at Williams Arena, Minneapolis. Looking on is Minnesota's All-American, Dick Garmaker (33). Iowa won 72-70. (UP Telephone)

SPORTS Sidelights BY RALPH REEVE

Kindschy to Wyoming?

Bill Kindschy, husky Gale-Ettrick athletic star, may be playing football in the Skyline Conference in several years. The University of Wyoming, we are told, is interested in the 6-2, 200-pounder.

Kindschy played tackle, won three letters and was captain last fall of the Gale-Ettrick grid squad. Big enough and fast enough for major college football, he wouldn't have any trouble cutting the mustard scholastically, either, since he's an "A" student in high school.

Gale-Ettrick plays its football in the Mississippi Valley Conference, and another former star in that league went to Wyoming and starred in football, George Galuska of Arcadia.

Galuska played fullback and was recipient of Wyoming's Admiral Landy Award for achievement in scholarship, athletics and leadership.

The WIAA, governing body of Wisconsin public school prep sports, prohibits the use of flash cameras during the second half of basketball tournament games.

The Gale-Ettrick school where the Almaden District finals were held Saturday night, is a spanking new high school located on spacious grounds.

Thursday night 317 cars were parked in the vast area around the school and an attendant said capacity is 500 cars.

Cochrane Coach Ralph Leach was complimentary on the necktie he wore Saturday night at the tournament. Leach explained his choice of the blue and white cravat by saying, "Same one I wore at Stratford."

Cochrane beat Stratford 80-75. Incidentally, Cochrane may have a record no other Wisconsin school can boast of—beating three other teams ranked in the Little Sixteen.

Stratford was No. 1 when Cochrane bumped it. The Indians handled Wilton, the No. 7 team at the time, and its victory against Gale-Ettrick was over the No. 6 team in the final pre-tournament ratings.

When Jim Schneider announced the low payoffs in the various Winona City Bowling Tournament events, advised us there were 700 bowlers who hit 600 or better in singles and quipped, "There would have been one more if I had bowled!" He sprained his ankle Valentine's Day and couldn't compete.

Here and There

Back in the good old days of boxing, according to sports writer Lester Bromberg in a Packard Sports Library article, welterweight Sam Langford was a mighty puncher with abiding confidence in himself.

Nicknamed the "Boston Tar Baby," Langford had a hard time getting fights because most boxers his weight were afraid of him and as a result he fought many heavyweights.

To keep Langford working his manager, Joe Woodman, generally had to agree to have him carry opponents.

Sam had a fight under those arrangements with Fireman Jim Flynn, supposedly an up-and-comer. Flynn misinterpreted Sam's generosity and went around telling people he'd given Langford a licking.

When it got back to Sam, he had Woodman arrange a return fight and he quickly flattened Flynn. Headlines the next day said: "FIREMAN FLYNN GOT HIT ON THE CHIN—AMEN."

Another Langford anecdote is when he was booked to fight in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

There were few trains heading east and the last one that night was scheduled to leave half an hour after the fight started.

"Guess we can't leave 'til tomorrow," Woodson told Langford. "We'll make it," Sam assured his manager. "Because this fight is going no more than one round."

Langford and Woodson were able to take the train east—the fight was ended in the first round.

Arnie Giebel, veteran Southern Minny catcher, has had a fine season as coach of the Waseca Sacred Heart basketball team.

His boys won the De Smet Conference title, were victorious in 15 of 18 games this season and averaged 63 points per contest to the opponents' less-than-50.

Giebel's team averages only 5-10 in height, but every member of the starting five averages 10 points a game or better. Sacred Heart has only 100 students and is a co-educational school.

U.S. Ski Team Youngest Ever

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP)—The youngest U. S. Olympic ski jumping team ever assembled will challenge the world's greatest riders in the 1956 winter game at Cortina, Italy.

For the first time, teen-agers broke the hold of the veterans in the U. S., three of them winning berths. They are Rudy Maki, 19, national champion from Ishpeming, Mich.; Dick Rahol, 19, 1953 national Class C titlist from Iron Mountain, and Ragnar Ulland, 17, 1955 Class C champion from Seattle.

Ulland is the youngest rider ever to win a U. S. Olympic spot.

Only a few years older are two more members, Roy Sherwood, 22, 1954 national champion from Salisbury, Conn., and Bill Olson, 25, of Eau Claire, Wis., and the University of Denver, a repeater from the 1952 Olympic team.

The sixth squad member is veteran Art Devlin, 32-year-old motel operator at Lake Placid, N. Y., who became the third jumper ever to win a place for the third straight time.

More Seats for Milwaukee Park

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Enlargement of Milwaukee County Stadium has been recommended by the Park Commission which suggests 4,300 additional permanent seats and the elimination of 1,100 bleacher seats.

The proposal, made to the County Board Monday, would cost $724,000 and raise the seating capacity to 46,605. The present seating is 45,405.

If approved, the seats would be installed for the 1956 season.

Baker Outpoints Layne in Ten

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Big Bob Baker has eight wins in a row and no place to go. So the Pittsburgh boxer put it up to his manager today to get a second helping of Cuba's Nino Valdes.

"I don't think we'll have much chance of getting Valdes but I'll give it another try," said Dusty Bettle after his 6-2, 214½-pound fighter decisively outpointed pudgy

Rex Layne of Utah in a telecast 10-rounder at Eastern Parkway Arena last night.

"Bobby Gleason, Valdes' manager, wants a $50,000 guarantee and that kind of money is out," said Bettle. "After all it was Bob who beat Valdes in their first fight and not the other way around."

Baker, now ranked as the No. 4 contender, beat Valdes in a 10 on May 21, 1953. Since then the giant Cuban has swept 11 straight and has soared to the No. 1 ranking behind Marciano.

For a while against Layne, Baker, a 5-1 favorite, didn't even look like he merited a No. 4 position. The 206½-pound Layne gave his taller rival fits in the first five rounds by scoring repeatedly with long rights to the head. The rights enabled Layne to hold Baker even at the halfway mark.

In one exchange of rights in the fourth, Baker dropped Layne to one knee. Rex bounced right up but referee Ray Miller tolled the mandatory eight count. The 26-year-old Layne, now ranked seventh, came back full of fight but he ran out of steam in the sixth round.

From the sixth on, the fast-punching Baker nailed Layne consistently with left-right combinations to the head. Rex wobbled several times but he refused to go down.

In the other network TV fight of the night, Toledo's Pat Lowry made a successful New York debut by gaining a unanimous 10-round decision over Pete Adams, of Newark, N. J., at St. Nicholas Arena.

BELOIT, Wis. (AP)—Beloit College and Eau Claire State meet here Thursday night to see which team will represent Wisconsin in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament at Kansas City.

Beloit officials announced Monday that they had approved the school's participation in the play-off. Beloit finished the season with a 19-3 record, that included an 18 game winning streak. The victory string was believed the longest owned by a small college in the nation.

Eau Claire, winner of the State College Conference crown Monday night became the other half of the Wisconsin playoff entry.

Williams Among Absentees at Spring Camps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Williams was among the absentees at the major league baseball teams officially began their spring training routine today with 34 other players still unsigned.

Players are classified as hold-outs according to spring training tradition, if they haven't returned their signed contracts by March 1. However, only about half the recalcitrants were regarded as actual holdouts.

The status of Williams, fishing leisurely off the Florida Keys, remained a question mark. General manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox said last night in Sarasota that Williams promised "to call me in the near future and give me a definite answer" whether he'll play ball in 1955.

One report had Williams reiterating his retirement plans while another had him returning for another season.

The Cleveland Indians were having the biggest holdout woes with 10 members of last season's American League pennant winners still unsigned. All told, the American League had 30 holdouts as compared to only five in the National League.

New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Redlegs, Philadelphia Phillies and the New York Yankees had all their players signed.

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager had three of his key performers—pitcher Early Wynn, second baseman Bobby Avila and outfielder Larry Doby—to contend with.

Wynn, usually one of the last to agree to terms, was reported to be asking for $40,000 and Avila and Doby around $30,000.

Kansas City and Washington also were having their holdout worries with each missing five contracts. The unsigned Athletics were John Gray, Cloyd Boyer, Ed Bertschy, Jim Finigan and Forest Jacobs. The Senators had not received the signed contracts of Mickey Vernon, Eddie Yost, Bob Porterfield, Jim Busby and Roy Sievers.

Spring Training Gets Under Way

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The citrus and cactus season—baseball's spring training—got under way today on widely scattered fronts in Florida and Arizona.

This is the day baseball officially opens the long grind that will lead to the World Series seven months hence. Thirteen clubs will go through their paces here in Florida while three more—the world champion New York Giants, Cleveland Indians and the Chicago Cubs—are in Arizona.

The clubs will have 10 days to get into shape for the exhibition season beginning March 10. This late opening of training, put through by the players themselves, has proved unpopular and it wouldn't surprise anyone if the rule were changed in the near future.

In fact, only yesterday Commissioner Ford Frick fined the Milwaukee Braves $500 and 14 of the club's players lesser amounts for breaking the rule.

This March 1 deadline was imposed by the players themselves," said Frick. "I think it's a bad rule. I think spring training should be governed by the clubs themselves. But as it's a baseball law my office will enforce it."

Attracting almost as much attention at the start of training are the efforts of the Indians to get their players under contract and the big question of whether Ted Williams is going to return to the Boston Red Sox.

The American League champions still have 10 players outside the fold and General Manager Hank Greenberg said, "Someone's being unreasonable, and it's not me."

All told, 35 major leaguers still have not signed contracts.

As for the races, the National League appears to be the better balanced, although virtually all clubs are depending on one or two key men who could make or break the team.

The big three in the National League are the Giants, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Braves. St. Louis, Philadelphia and Cincinnati also could come through and, in fact, only the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs seem to be out of it.

The American League race again shapes up as strictly a two-team affair between the Indians and New York Yankees, who finished one-two last year so far ahead of the rest of the loop they couldn't be seen with a spy-glass by the also-rans.

Eau Claire Peds Rip Stout, Win Wisconsin Title

Blugold Center Hanson Averages 26.3 in Loop Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eau Claire State is the undisputed champion in the Wisconsin College Conference basketball loop today after its thumping 114-84 victory over Stout Institute at Menomonie, Wis., Monday night.

Second place for the season was captured by River Falls with its 105-80 triumph over Superior State.

Milwaukee, Platteville and Superior pulled a three-way tie for third place, Oshkosh finished sixth, Stevens Point seventh, Whitewater and La Crosse tied for eighth and Stout was last.

In the battle for the crown, Eau Claire got off to an early lead in the game and at the half was ahead 59-37. Center Roger Hanson was high scorer for the game with 32 points.

Hanson's 32 points Monday night gave him a total of 316 for the 12 loop contests, an average of 26.3 per game.

The River Falls—Superior tilt saw Bob Williams and Dick Wells pace the Falcons with 30 and 26 points. At halftime the score was 52-38 in favor of River Falls.

Platteville took an early lead in its battle with Whitewater and was ahead 49-26 at the half, then went on to win 90-78.

Stevens Point romped to its 83-59 victory over Milwaukee. The Pointers took an early lead and were never headed. Center Jim Richards was high for Stevens Point with 35.

Eau Claire's only loss of the season was to second place River Falls, 92-74, five weeks ago.

Last Saturday night, however, Eau Claire gained its revenge by whipping the Falcons 106-82.

The last time the Blugolds won the State Conference championship was in 1942.

Eau Claire and Beloit will meet Thursday night to see which team will represent Wisconsin in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament at Kansas City.

Beloit finished its season with a 10-3 record that included an 18 game winning streak.

The Athletics' first player from the Kansas City area is Galen Wheeler, 20-year-old pitcher. He signed a contract with the A's farm club in the Sooner State League.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGUM, D. Sc.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, because men are freer to pick and choose—although nowadays women are doing more of the picking than in grandma's day. But men are freer to move to places where there are more women than men, usually in rich suburban towns. Women seeking husbands should move to boom towns where there are always more men than women.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. You should feel the satisfaction of having attained it, but you should try to make it a rung to go one step higher. The next higher job looks big from below, but not so big when you finally reach it. Emerson said, "Hitch your wagon to a star." No. Grab the first job you can, hold on and keep climbing, and you'll reach the stars.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes. The world takes you largely at your own estimate of yourself. You may say this isn't true of the egotist. It is, because, actually, he does not value himself highly and has to boast to overcome his inferiority feelings. Experiments show that nearly everyone has much more ability than he thinks he has. Each person should learn his actual abilities and limitations.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper for Uncle Wiggly in his hollow stump bungalow, was very much surprised. She was surprised in more ways than one.

In the first place, Nurse Jane was surprised when she found that she, Uncle Wiggly and all the rabbit children were snowed in. A big storm had blown up in the night and now the ground was covered with deep snow. It was so deep that it reached more than half way up the sides of both the back and front doors of Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow.

In the second place, Nurse Jane was surprised by what Uncle Wiggly said to her. She had asked him what could be done about being snowed in, and Mr. Longears had answered: "I am going to telephone Pat Butter to come and bring his horns. That's what I'm going to do!"

"What good will that do?" asked Nurse Jane. "If we are snowed up here in the bungalow, Pat Butter is also snowed up in his house and grocery store. If you can't get out to go adventuring, and the rabbit children can't get out to go to Hollow Tree School to recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse teacher, how is Pat Butter going to get out of his house? He must be snowed in just as we are."

"Yes, I suppose he is," admitted Mr. Longears.

"And the Lady Mouse teacher!" exclaimed the muskrat lady. "She must be snowed in also. She can't get out to go to Hollow Tree School. And Mr. Coke, the rat gentleman janitor? He also will be snowed in his house. He can't get out to open the school!"

"Yes, I suppose all that may happen," admitted the rabbit gentleman, casual like and peaceful. "But I still think that Pat Butter and his horns can fix up everything!"

"Do you mean he can come here and shovel away the deep snow so that you and I and the rabbit children can get out?" asked Nurse Jane.

"That's what I mean," answered Uncle Wiggly. "Only Pat Butter will not exactly shovel away the snow here at my bungalow and at the home of the Lady Mouse teacher, and at Hollow Tree School."

"Well, if Mr. Butter isn't going to shovel away the deep snow, what good will it do to telephone him?" Nurse Jane asked. "Pat will come here with his horns and he will horn away the snow," explained Uncle Wiggly. "Pat is very strong. When he lowers his head and butts his horns into a snow bank, that snow bank, or drift, just bursts all apart. Leave it to Pat and his horns to get us unsnowed, and also unsnow Miss Mouse and the rat gentleman janitor and Hollow Tree

School. Just leave it to Pat!" said

Uncle Wiggly firm and confident like. "I am going to telephone him now. I hope the snowstorm hasn't torn down all the telephone wires."

As the rabbit gentleman hopped to his telephone, Nurse Jane said quickly:

"Perhaps you had better not telephone Pat Butter, Mr. Long-ears.

"Why not?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Because I think Mr. Butter may be angry with me for having sent him that Fourth of July exploding

firecracker valentine," replied

Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "He may not come."

"Pat Butter will come with his horns all right, if I ask him," said the rabbit uncle. "Pat isn't one to hold a grudge. He sent you a comic valentine and you sent him a fire cracker one. So you are even." "I'll telephone Pat. I am sure he will help us."

Mr. Longears hopped to the telephone. In a few moments he said:

"The telephone is working all right, Nurse Jane. The wires are not down. They are ringing the telephone in Pat's store now. I can hear it. He will soon be on his way to unsnow us."

"I hear another voice!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "It is the March Wind!" Listen, Uncle

Wiggly! Listen to the March Wind!"

The wind was blowing, howling and whistling outside the bungalow. What will happen next? Read tomorrow's story if the thermometer doesn't turn upside down, and make the weather look as warm as the Fourth of July.

3 Children Help

Mother Beat Their

Father to Death

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A

mother and three children—the oldest only 14—faced murder charges today after the woman told police she and the children beat and choked her husband to death when he threatened them.

Sheriff Ed Guinn said Mrs. Sam

E. Davis Jr., 41, said in a statement yesterday she hit Davis on the head with a wrench while two of the children choked him with a belt after he threatened to drive the family car over a steep embankment.

Mrs. Davis was held without bond on a first-degree murder charge, Guinn said. The children—two girls aged 14 and 11, and a boy, 8—also were charged with murder but were released to relatives,

he said. The sheriff said

Mrs. Davis came to his office yesterday and gave this account:

"The family was returning to their home near here Sunday night through the edge of the Great Smoky Mountains when

Davis stopped the car at the edge of an embankment and said:

"You had better all start praying, as we are all going to hell together."

At that the family began beating him.

In the statement, Mrs. Davis gave no reason for her husband's action.

The sheriff said Davis' body was found in the parked car on the
