The ORCHESTRA of 20 varia-
tous musicians, includes flute,
clarinet, bassoon, horn, trombone,
harp, percussion, and strings.

Nearly every player has a solo part, which accounts for the "clarity of execution which is usually found only in a fine string quartet."

Most of the players are artists
in residence at the Interlochen
Arts Academy of Interlochen, Michigan. Gresham represents country's finest Symphony Orchestra and Chamber Music Ensemble.

Founded by Thor Johnson, the condutor, the orchestra is the result of his efforts for more than a quarter of a century in the chamber orchestra field. His re potor, "unusual but listenable," is as interesting to the connoisseur
as it is entertaining to the novice core.

"America's Finest Chamber Orchestra" truly to the symphony musician of the orchestra as well as the brilliant and exciting programming.

ance. A graduate of the Univer-ities of North Carolina and Michigan, he has been honored with Doctorate Degree by ten univer-

Wine and growth

Winona State College, under President Minne’s leadership, has made a vital and stimulating difference. One of the smallest of the state colleges to the fastest growing of the state colleges.

Wine has had an enrollment of about 200 students, offered only the Bachelor of Science degree, and the only buildings were Simons, part of the present Marshall Library, part of the Wine School, two dormitories, Morey and Shepherd, and two lodges, called Prentis and Lucas, each housing about 20 students. 1964-65 saw a marked increase in enrollment. In just nine years, the campus has increased by eight and one half blocks, holding new dormitories, classroom buildings, the common, and the present Marshall Library.

In the field of curriculum, innumerable new classes are offered and an addition to the Workshops programs, the Bachelor of Science in Education have been added. Furthermore, Winona State has grown, until now about 3,100 full and part-time students are enrolled, an increase of 16.5% over last year, and this in a time when the state colleges are fast losing ground to the private colleges and the University of Minnesota, with its three branches.

Winona State’s work in education is so vital that the college is one of the most important community assets in the state. And the college officers, (class presidents), 6 executive, (president, vice president, treasurer, secretary), 2. hope for consistency, 3. and the governing body. He then expressed President Minne and his foresight.

Wine reported on the reorganization of the college, and the library addition.

Warriors top Dragons, Tech, lead NIC

By Bruce Cloway

Winona State's basketball team continued to impress area fans last weekend by rolling over a pair of NIC conference opponents, Moorhead and Michigan Tech.

The victories boosted the Warriors' season mark to 10-2, and put them in the top spot in the conference with a 2 1/2 game margin.

WINONA STATE also controlled the boards, outrebounding Moorhead 41-39. The Statesmen poured in 53 points in the final 30 minutes and went on to rout the Dragons 94-66.

The next afternoon Minnesota Tech took the role of challenger and made quite a game of it before bowing to the host Warriors 88-80.

Tech, a vastly improved squad over last year, outscored a team of which came from the charity stripe. Jersek, a junior from Winona Cotter, had his top game of the season by collecting 29 points on an assortment of short Warrior's and tip-ins. The 6 foot 4 pivot man also pulled 21 rebounds.

Anderson, the "Bangor Bomber," added 18 points to Winona's attack, and Starzecki, another Cotter alumna, wound up with 13.

Around the conference last weekend, Benedict State's 67-59 up set of nationally ranked St. Cloud thrust Winona's Warriors into the conference lead.

Mark Carlin's 29-point contribution sparked the Beaver's upset, while Benedict's defense held Terry Porter to 15 and Tim Ditty to 11, allowing the locals to throw their own dark horse title hopes, bolstering them in the second set behind S.C.
