Questionnaires reveal present hours are satisfactory to women residents

Hours women have in the dorms are generally satisfactory, according to a survey run by the Women's Residence Hall Council. Women dorm residents felt, however, that freshman women's Friday and Saturday night curfews and upperclasswomen Sunday night hours could be extended.

Surveys were made of the 494 women in residence, and 259 replied. There responses are as follows:

Homecoming theme is subject of contest

A contest for the best over-all theme for homecoming, such as Mardi Gras, is one of the chang- es Gary McDowell, homecoming senor has announced for the 1967 Homecoming.

Poisons in previous years, he stated, been has a commodification of themes, but this year he hopes to have one that govern all the activities.

The deadline for students who want to enter is May 19. They should send their suggestions to Gary McDowell, P.O. Box 827. Two free tickets to the big name entertainment at Homecoming will be the prize.

The budget, McDowell went on to say, was not as tight as it was last year, and presently he has his committee out in the process of selecting a date. The dates under consideration are Oct. 14, when Winona State meets Mankato State, or Oct. 28, when Winona State meets Rossford College, Ohio. In choosing a date, he said that the wishes of the Winona State Women's Residence Hall Council, 69 disagreed, and 8 had no opinion. The chairman for the 1967 Homecoming besides McDowell is Alice Peterson, co-chairman; Sister Zelma, assistant chairman; and James Devries, treasurer.

The committee chairmen are Jan West, publicity; Fred Bemarak, public relations; Char- lotee Belafken and Mary Jo Blum- eitritt, queens board; Donald Johnson and Judy Lee, contest committee; Diane Higgin and Sue Kniebel, dance committee; Shirley Kress, Alumni No- tion. Their resident assistants will be: Barbara Beeman, Wichita, Kansas; Karen A. Miller, Red Wing; Patricia Mullin, Minneapolis; Mary Pupe, St. Paul; Linda Peters, Worthington; Joan Frentz, Minneapolis; Margaret Smith, Bachan, North Dakota; Catherine Walters, Bloomington; Carol Womsey, Albertville, N.Y.; Patricia Wiemerlage, La Crescent, and Janice Winter, Hopkins.

New academic dean is sought

The process of selecting a new academic dean is underway, according to Dr. DuFresne, College President. Dr. M. R. Raymond, present dean, resigned a month ago, and a faculty committee is being formed for the purpose of choos- ing a new one.

Each college division, Dr. DuFresne pointed out, will be represented. The committee will interview applicants and explore possibilities, and present their recommendation to Dr. DuFresne, who will make the decision and present it to the State Col- lege Board for final approval.

Late Release:

Homecoming Oct. 14, Mankato Foe
Nominations open for Who's Who

Who's Who nominations are now being taken by Mike Tolk at the Union from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in room 101 in Somsen.

Who's Who candidates will be elected by an open election of all seniors, juniors, sophomores and faculty members. The candidates must be nominated by any student or faculty member.

The nominators must have at least a 2.5 GPA and between 60 and 175 credits. The nominator must also be from Baldwin, New York, which in no way makes you that you are from Baldwin, New York.

The election will close Friday, May 19, at 2:00.

The elections will be held on May 25.

The office hours will be: 1-2 Monday, 8-11 and 1-2 Tuesday, 10-1 and 1-2 Friday.

The election will be held on May 25.

Homecoming dispute continues at WSSA

by J. M. Wiersbta

Homecoming continues at Tuesday's WSSA's meeting. The voting for the student Senate with the usual reversal: seniors (for) or the junior (against). Voting was eight to five for Oct. 28 for the date.

In conclusion, Mr. Baglino, I am not sure whose decision it was. The discipline board, under the Personnel and Guidance Committee, may be revamped. Rather, the majority of the members on the Senate, student of discipline, and a list of the student disciplinary rules will soon be published.

Sophomore class elections will be in the Student Senate office, room 106 in Somsen. The elections will be held on May 25.

The campus must be a little in- roll I didn't see your name, so maybe I am not sure whose decision it was.

Faculty members attend institutes, publish

Mr. Baron

Mr. Baron, geography professor at Winona State, took part in a computer mapping institute at St. Louis, Mo.

At the Institute, part of the Association of American Geographers National Meeting, was open to 50 people from the United States and Canada.

The institute was conducted by Dr. William Warms of the Laboratory for Computer Graphics, Harvard University. SYMAP, a computer program for producing maps which graphically depict spatially distributed quantitative and qualitative information, is a tool to a broad range of application, and is provided with numerous options to meet widely varying requirements.

Mr. McCAuley

Mr. M. J. McCAuley, Physics Department, Winona State College will attend a 6-weeks institute on Computing Machines.

The course is sponsored by the National Science Foundation at the University of Wisconsin and beginning June 12, 1967.

THIS TYPE OF INSTITUTE is open to the participant in the University of Minnesota Summer Institute for College Teachers in Structural and Inorganic Chemistry.

The five-week institute is being staffed by ten professors of the University of Minnesota Chemistry Department and nine professors from other sections of the country.

THE MAJOR objective of this National Science Foundation Institute is to contribute to the improvement of the teaching of advanced inorganic chemistry by the participants through broadening their understanding of and background in modern structural and inorganic chemistry.

Miss Wolfe

Daune Wolfe, instructor of mathematics at Winona State College, has been awarded the U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award at Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Ala. - Chaplin Johnson, who is assigned to the 9869th Air Base Wing at Maxwell, will wear a permanent blue ribbon decoration for helping the wing achieve an exceptionally meritorious rating for the period covering January 1, 1965, through December, 1966.

Mr. Fogleen

Pressure for some kind of anti-strike law "will likely intensify rather than diminish," according to Dr. J. H. Fogleen, professor of business, in an article in the Feb.

The strike will provide an opportunity for teachers to exchange thoughts and ideas with other teachers from all parts of the nation as well as with well-known leaders of mathematics, education, and administration. The course will include advanced topics in calculus, abstract algebra, and a Mathematical Problem Seminar, which will consist of a study of problems in higher mathematics.
