Teresa are on a semester system. Hours enrolled at Winona State ever, since Winona Staters are Teresa have a blanket tuition courses at the other colleges and roll for Winona State courses they will be able to enroll for. Returning to Winona Players this year is Karen Tasdale who plays Bianca. She was last seen as Desdemona in OTHÉLIA, fall of 1964. Dubbing in the role of Grumio, they will need to secure a signed agreement slip available from the registrar’s office and they will need to pay the fee at Winona State. This should be done before pre-registration.

A new course available to the students will be Sacred Scripture 101-102, accredited through the College of Saint Teresa. This will be taught at the Newman Center under the auspices of Winona State Campus Ministry. December 12 will be co-registration day at all three colleges; St. Mary’s and St. Teresa students will be here.

For some years St. Mary’s and St. Teresa’s have been involved in a shared class program; now Winona State is participating in an experimental basis under authority of the 1965 act of the Minnesota legislature.

This cooperative shared class program between private and public higher education institutions is believed to be the first under that act.

Announcement of the program was made by Dr. R. A. DuFresne, Brocher Gregory Robertson, president of St. Mary’s and Sister M. Camille, president of St. Teresa.

OPEN STAGE PRODUCTION... Petruochio berates Grumio (Alfonso Pagliarulo in this, the first production of the “Taming of the Shrew” at Winona State College, Nov. 3 through 16. Petruochio says to Grumio: “Where is the foolish knave I need before?” Grumio replies: “Here, sir, as foolish as I was before.” Servants are Alan Tripp, left, and Michael O’Toole.

Winona Staters will be able to enroll in courses at St. Mary’s College and the College of Saint Teresa starting in the winter quarter under a new cooperative program. Previously they could do so on an individual basis.

The shared class program is another expansion of the mushrooming tricollage cooperation under the guidance of Winona State President Robert A. Dufresne and the other two presidents. Students at each of the three colleges may now enroll for courses at the other colleges and arrange to have their earned credits transferred to their own colleges.

Because St. Mary’s and St. Teresa’s have a blanket tuition system they will be able to enroll for Winona State courses without additional charge. However, since Winona Staters are under a per quarter hour credit system they will have to pay for the hours enrolled at Winona State rates. Both St. Mary’s and St. Teresa are on a semester system.

“Winona Staters interested in the program may examine course schedules from the two sister colleges on the registrar’s office. On Dec. 13 they will be required to go to the selected college to enroll,” said Ann Lois Simonetta, registrar, “and in advance of that they will need to secure a signed agreement slip available from the registrar’s office and they will need to pay the fee at Winona State. This should be done before pre-registration.”

The building program is again expanding and remodeling the campus of Winona State. Student building programs, Performing Arts building, and Money-Stephan Hall are all on the schedule. Planning of these new buildings is also under discussion.

Both the Performing Arts building and the High-Row dorm will be named as soon as the State College Board and final plans are approved by the State Board and bids are let. Hopefully, it will be finished by fall. Housings is rapidly becoming short and this will be even more evident next fall.
Lindahl concurs with Muras: dance lacks essential propriety

To the Editor:

In reference to Mr. Muras’ article, “When will the college raise the Commons College Center” (which appeared in the last editon of the Winonan), it is true that I am opposed to it. He is not alone in his opinion about what type of dance we should have during Homecoming. The undergraduate college has plenty of dances to pacify themselves. They certainly shouldn’t feel that there is nothing to be done to their behalf. That is the reason I am opposed to Homecoming. I think our school should be more considerate of the students. It is supposed to be arranged; specifically, we should return to Drug Administration on a massive scale, not a feeble effort by newspapers and magazines.

Lindhald discusses with Muras: dance lacks essential propriety

To the Editor:

I enjoyed the dance, as did many others, but felt guilty knowing that many faculty, alumni, and even some of our students couldn’t participate because of the dress code that we have adopted. “Please spare my life. I carry no weapon,” said the student to his captors. “But you selfeed,” said his captors, “but you can participate in the war through your own acts.”

As they were about to put him in the airplane, he pleaded, “Please put me away for the rest of my life.”

If one is applying for the status of dance, it should have been. To some, it was below their dignity; to others, above their physical potentialities. In the future, can we have a Homecoming Dance that is going to please everyone who will attend it?

One last comment: I hope Dave Heyer knows that this is no way to treat him or his wonderful group. He has played and sang for many years, I hope, will continue to do so.

Minds need to be opened to laws against marijuana

The halocannabinic drugs, most prominently LSD and marijuana, have become quite popular throughout the country of late. Its presence on every college campus in America, including Winona State, is common knowledge.

LSD, the little pill which does so much, has managed to cause everything from birth defects to religious hallucinations. That LSD can cause a complete mental collapse in untutored persons is positively proven, but LSD’s connection with phenomena-behind-the-scenes and mutated children is still being researched and is at present not much more than a guess.

Marijuana is quite another story. Long believed to be habit-forming, a direct contributor to heroin, and a dangerous drug leading a user to commit heinous crimes of great violence, it is now found by some that it is not only harmless but proven that it is no more harmful than liquor, and probably much less so.

The only thing marijuana does cause is sparsity toward everything, which is nothing new.

The laws against the use of marijuana are far too strict is commonly agreed, even by the Director of Food and Drug Administration, Dr. Linus Pauling, who has done so much to promote medical use of marijuana in the last twenty years.

Perhaps the alumni should write the Winonan, may I suggest, to inform them of what type of activity fees and deserve the type of representation of dances for those who return for the occasion.

Homecoming, I think our school should be more considerate of the needs of the students. His technique was considered as a solution to difficulties of one of the students. His technique was the reason why so many of our dances and, I think, will continue to do so. But it is at present not much more than a guess, so I think we should return to Drug Administration on a massive scale, not a feeble effort by newspapers and magazines.

Wilke criticizes Veterans Club for condemning of peace booth

To the Editor:

If one is not to be too critical of the Winonan, I think we should return to Drug Administration on a massive scale, not a feeble effort by newspapers and magazines. The recent letter by the Veteran Club promotes a common mentality that there is some discussion of “truth” in military cadence which is the only thing. But such a beat seems to beat down some of the moral and ethical issues of warfare, especially in light of the Vietnam conflict.

The Vietnam war is inescapable. Alas, I think the ethical question through obtaining lawful, or for that matter, unaltered knowledge, is to be scorned and denounced.

This type of action by the veterans is dangerous. Already they deny certain “rights,” for example, their quick denunciation they suggest that the “free world’s emphasis is to be defined as a ‘threat’ to our country.” But they would be so much better if it is on one’s responsibility to address the ethical question through obtaining lawful, or for that matter, unaltered knowledge, is to be scorned and denounced.

“Those who will not understand the meaning of war will be made to understand it by force.”

Werner Heisenberg

Haynes: does military hear “truth” more than others?

To the Editor:

"We often give our enemies the means of our own destruction."

Once upon a time (make that last week), a representative of a military organization was recruiting college students on a small campus. Looking over his shoulder, he noted a bearded student offering alternatives to the draft.

“Here’s my chance to get even with this bastard,” he thought, “I can find an excuse to talk to him.”

Then he called out to the boy: "Where is your concession pew?"

"Right here, sir," said the pacifist.

"Well, then," exclaimed the disinterested Sergeant, "why didn’t you pick the Federal Building last week?"

"Oh, not, I, sir," replied the dove, "I was up in the air at the time."

"No matter, it was someone of your kind who did it," cried the dove, "I wouldn’t have picked the Federal Building even if I was up in the air at the time!"

"No one denies that many of our representatives in the uniformed services, in a word, in uniformed exchange, denounce popular opinion, even if they do it as a direct contributor to heroin, and a dangerous drug leading a user to commit heinous crimes of great violence, it is now found by some that it is no more harmful than liquor, and probably much less so.

The only thing marijuana does cause is sparsity toward everything, which is nothing new.
Student questions constitutional legality of U. S. selective service

To the Editor:

The legal issue raised by the recent letter from the Veterans Club urging certain students to refuse to register for the draft is most questionable. In reading said section, we note that the Congress is empowered to "raise and support armies" and to "declare war." The first point is not in contention, although various civil liberties groups are contending raising a Constitutional issue regarding Selective Service as it possibly violates the guarantee of the Thirteenth Amendment which addresses "involuntary servitude." It is important that we have maintained the "draft" system, as emergency legislation, when there has been no legally defined "state of emergency."

The second point regarding the declaration of war is crucial. While no one is callous enough to believe that the suffering of American men is of no account, it remains that legally there has been no declaration of war. It is terrifying when one notes that the American media has given the President far more authority than intended. It is equally terrifying when both so-called "hawks" and "doves" agree that such actions should not be promoted in the future. It is horrifying when architects and supporters of such actions as Senator Fulbright (Dem, Ark) have renounced the subsequent actions. It is alarming when the controversial "white paper" of the Republican Party is accepted by Senator Ditchen and a majority of Senate Republicans and yet they do not act on what they agree is a grievous error. The Home Republican under the direction of Rep. M. Bollard (Wis), Rep have not come up with a critical report, and yet these men do not act.

For the Veterans Club to denounce an information table on Selective Service while politicians mourn the fact that we are again "good blood after bad mist" is not political responsibility but an act in creating a drama in the above.

Plans are drawn for president inaugural

A tentative skeleton plan for Dr. DuPree's inauguration has been set up, according to Miss Browning, chairman of the Inauguration Committee.

Originally planned to be sometime this quarter, it is now scheduled for one or two days in late January or early February. Activities will include dedication of the new addition to Maxwell Library, which may be on a Thursday afternoon or at 10 a.m. Friday, with a well-known speaker, yet to be decided.

The inaugural ceremony is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., Friday, with a speaker, followed by a reception at 3:30. At 7 p.m. that evening, the inaugural dinner will take place in the Kryzsko Commons. The dinner will be open to the public, but there will be a charge.

That evening, the inaugural ball will cap the events.

Dr. DuPree has commented that he is "anxious to have the inauguration as short and as unpretentious as possible within the boundaries of good taste."

Warriors take second by defeating Michigan

Winona State closed out its conference season Saturday with a narrow 10-6 victory over winless Michigan Tech.

The Warriors finished second in the NCI with the victory and Tech wound up in the cellar, but it didn't really look that way Saturday. As Coach Molinari put it: "Anything can happen in this league because it's so well balanced."

The Warriors had no trouble moving against the Engineers, but repeatedly found tough going inside the twenty. A field goal in the first period and Pat Boland's sixty-yard scoring run in the third accounted for the Warriors' only points.

Things looked fairly safe until the fourth quarter, when Michigan Tech suddenly became alive. A long drive ended in a fumble on the Winona 18, but the Engineers bounced back moments later to drive 81 yards in 11 plays to score. A 54 yard pass play sparked the drive.

This Saturday, the Warriors face Illinois State in Illinois.
