Wenonah Players one-acts begin under direction of Mike Shimo

John Hedde helps Paul Skatun entertain a strange young lady.

The first Wenona performance of a Peter Shaffer play runs Thurs- day and Friday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

The program includes two of the nation's most successful comedies, "The Private Eye" and "The Public Eye." Michael Sche- man, graduate assistant, is directing the Wenonah Players produc- tion under the supervision of Miss Dorothy B. Magnus.

"The Private Eye" concerns young Bob (Paul Skatun, Hill- iard). New workshops begin in summer

Ten workshops, including a geography field trip to Jamaica and one to the Western states, will be offered by WSC's summer. Of those, the Jamaican trip, a driver education workshop, and a scientific numerical workshop are new.

In addition to the usual course offerings in drama, literature, and psychology, fine and applied arts, languages and literature, health and physical education, mathematics, and social science, the college will offer special sum- mer programs in special education. Among these are programs dealing with the mentally retarded, the emotionally disturbed, and alcoholics.

Faith-in service

Music and media combine

A Wenona State College Faith- in will take place in Kansas. An- other discussion this Sunday at 4:00 p.m.

The Faith-in, a non-denomi- national folk worship service, is an effort to show students the rela- tionship of worship in their lives by using music and media of our time. Members of LSA, Wesley, and Newman, and their advisors have cooperated in planning the program.

Father Robert Brun, Director of Music at Cathedral of the Sacred Heart and Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary, will arrange the music for the Faith-in. The service Sunday will include petti- tions from the students as well as some scripture readings.

The interfaith group responsi- ble for the folk worship service has also cooperated in joint meetings and in program once a week. They have jointly coordinated with the Community Memorial Hospital. They have visit- ed other churches for a further understanding of other religions and shared aspects of the spiritual ecumenical movement. They all- worked together on a proton- chair project which will take place for a year in college.

The Interfaith Council has been meeting since 1966.

Pellowski, Zacharias

Exchange students plan for Oslo

Cathy Pellowski and Henry Zacharias, both juniors, have been selected by the internationa- l Affiliation Committee to spend the next school year at Oslo College. Cathy, a Social Science major working for a B.A. degree, enjoys swimming, canoeing, water-ski- ing, dancing, sewing, and knitting. She became interested in the program through Ms. Hem- dahl, applied at the beginning of the year. Henry, a member of the tennis team, found out that she would be an Oslo College student next year.

Application due

Applications for resident as- sistant positions within the college residences close March 1, accord- ing to Housing Director, M. L. Mariner.

Application blanks may be ob- tained from the housing office in 106 Somalia or from the super- visors of the various dormitories. A job description is available with each application; selection date has been set for April 1.

Speaks at Newman

by Lee Gurner

"ONE ANSWER for the failure of education is the death of ex- perimentation," stated Dr. Catha- rine Grollman, in an informal ad- dress at the Newman Center last Friday.

Her topic, "The Failure of American Education," included what happens if one tries to ex- periment. The answer will come back: Any- thing goes. But the answer is wrong: anything doesn't go. If you change a thing, you need to come up with a new system.

The only real experimentation is with machines and this is be- cause large scale industries are financially involved in this type of learning.

Dr. Grollman continued, "It was the goal of higher education (whether it actually existed in practice) was to train young people to think, and to do so before coming to their judg- ment... Now it is the purpose of schools, in the college vernac- ular, to give you a trade union card. This purpose is called 'un- imagination' because it's a way to teach you how to make a living, which for a college educated per- son includes the right clothes, cliche, and wife. This can be done without the fancy paranoma- nalia known as schools."

"The problem is that the Wi- nona freshmen already know how to behave... Schools once had to train immigrants; this is no longer necessary, although some schools have remained the same.

"It is the primary complaint against schools that they have not succeeded in teaching the three Rs," according to Dr. Grollman. "I'd like to give a reading test to the students. Some colleges have made elaborate remedial reading courses on the grounds, however, that reading is necessary for an adequate curriculum for pleasure and information."

"AFTER FRESHMAN. Compe- titive ability is the problem. The society is capable of writing a letter to the newspaper complaining that yel- low jackets are throwing a pok- er in your living room and not allowing you in the game... And another subject in which one should be competent is arithme- tic; but a society that does not know how to fill in your income tax form, does not know how to do arithmetic."

"By the time you reach the eighth grade you have learned that what goes on in one class- room is unrelated to what goes on in your next class and both are irrelevant to what goes on outside."

"The teacher determines who is successful and who is not—what Jesus says, what you do on tests and, because they cannot be objectively graded, im-agination, creativity, and origi- nality are eliminated as well as joy... We need to train a minority; other students be- come college dropouts, or take the same path to go to Vietnam."

"STUDENTS LEARN not from what their teachers say but what they do. The teacher espouses and practice what students can admire? Democracy? Freedom? Liberty? Equali- ty? These are taught in the class- room as a veneer, that are not good, that we have, that we are fighting for them in South Vietnam, or that we will not be able to applied in the class- room, college, community, or South Vietnam."

In the same area she stated: "What do want is not neces- sarily what they need, but in this case it is the students who are right and the colleges and society which are wrong. There is no education when both the teacher and the students stop learning when the bell rings."

Delta Zeta criticizes dance review, claims story contains prejudices

Editorial:

Senior needs more ZIP

The ONLY CONSISTENCY that we CAN see in the present Student Senate is in its inconsistency and in its provincialism.

What disturbs us is not the $160 to the student publication fund was voted, the fact that most students had expressed their dis- interest— in many cases their opposition— in the last student government election, or that there was one of the few times when the senate actually held a hearing upon which to make its decision. Those things, while regrettable, are not surprising. What is not surprising, and is a majority of the senators voted to contribute the $160. This money was to come from this senate’s expense budget for this year. The senate budget committee, after a recent meeting, is in an idealistic state of mind, and this newspaper has never received word regarding the success or failure of this decision.

Two weeks later one of the same senators— the treasurer, Tam Dalton— suggested a student referendum to determine interest in forming a student group affiliated with the United States National Student Association (UNSA or NSA, as it is best known). The motion to affiliate was tabled after Senator Hull had voted against the motion on the grounds that it was not before the proper body. Senator Hull takes a more dynamic role in determining senate policy. We suggest that senators understand the recent three-day regional meeting at Saint Cloud State College (also affiliated with the UNSA) — was immediately rejected. The senators were equally as ignorant of the aims of this organization as of the others, but the name UNSA scared them.

They had heard “things” about UNSA which made it unacceptable on the basis of its activities. UNSA received tentative charter status (it is irrelevant to the present issue, but the organization has since become inactive). One senator after the meeting that he had voted against the UNSA mission the first time and had not considered the subject objectively. For those unfamiliar with UNSA, it does encompass much of the issues discussed above. The point here is that it would not have been given the chance to prove its merits or demerits on this campus.

The second reaction was evident in the discussion of the proposed NSA affiliation. Most senators knew little about the organization, but they quite readily endorsed NSA’s political body but also endorsed it as unacceptable on this campus. (After a national representative addressed the student government, another senator commented that she had a Communist.” We would like to know how one ends a Communist.

WHAT THE SENATE IGNORED is that NSA conventions — such as the recent one at Saint Cloud State College provide a major impetus for an enthusiastic student government. At the recent three-day regional meeting at Saint Cloud State College — provide a major impetus for an enthusiastic student government. Those sections pertaining to the position they are seeking. Second, the student government system will produce a more willing, more informed senate. Addition-

I would like to comment on the objective 2 the use of the word “Negro” was written about the Valentine Dance by Linda Kirch. I am representative of the black students at Delta Zeta that attended the dance, as well as my sisters in Delta Zeta.

First of all I like to say that Linda did not write an objective article. She expressed her own personal opinions which are not based on fact.

Each year Delta Zeta strives to become more involved with the black community and it is important that we try to improve the decorations so that the atmosphere may be suitable for the selection of the Campus Cover Girl. We strive for the best and are willing to accept constructive criticism, but we are not willing to accept an article which tears our efforts apart without having its contents checked and published.

I’d like to go through Linda’s article and make a few com-

To the Editorial:
I read your column titled "We Need," in last week's WINONAN and then turned my attention to the article "Sweetheart Tee Adorn Dance." You're right, you do need help!

This year's Valentine dance was probably the best decorated, most attended, and most successful dance that Delta Zeta has ever had. The last week was so satirical and demoting, anybody who had not attended this lovely dance would have probably been happy they didn't. Why is it that whenever somebody goes out of their way at this school to make others happy, the small human errors are always amplified to such an extent to make it boomerang?

Actually, nothing unusual even happened. At each social function of this type, nobody ever dances at the strokes of 9:00. Usually it is lucky if people are even there on time. As far as falling decorations go, it seems that many people like "couvenence," is Delta Zeta to blame for this?

There is no qualm that the crowning of the Campus Queen Girl was the highlight of the evening, and for good reason. The candidates were all very worthy and the most attended and most successful dance at this school in the French Air Force from 1944 to 1954.

Fredric, recent figures tell we have killed about 90,000 Vietnamese soldiers not counting those killed in combat by South Vietnamese Army, and we have killed and wounded unnumbered thousands of innocent civilians. And we have made an utter shambles of their country.

DO keep trying to enlighten your readers.

Sincerely,

Lynn M. Johnson

WSC graduates, nursing students
The first fifteen students in the new Winona State College nursing program will graduate this June.

The nursing program at Winona State offers a non-teaching B.S. degree that can lead to the position of registered nurse as well as a preparatory course for the nurse licensing exam.

Nursing students work in several areas, including medical, surgical, pediatrics, maternity nursing, mental and public health. Students work at the Winona Community Memorial Hospital in lab work, in child care and adult nursing. They also work at the Rochester State Hospital in mental health training and at the Winona Public Health department as part of their public health training.

At the present time there are six faculty members who teach nursing. An additional teacher will join the staff at Spring quarter. There are 13 juniors and 27 sophomores enrolled in the nursing program along with the 15 seniors. Mrs. Rosalie Burton is director of the program.
