The Atomic Fireball of "Operation Cue" spread across the desert floor and reached out toward Survival Town as the much-delayed atomic shot was exploded today in Nevada. Senate Approves Foreign Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (P)—A 73-13 Senate victory for President Eisenhower's foreign trade bill today assured him of the first new tariff-cutting powers granted a chief executive in 10 years.

The bill, passed by the Senate last night, now goes to conference with the House to resolve differences. But the two versions both contain the key provisions sought by the President.

Nautilus Ready For Six-Weeks Shakedown Trip

WASHINGTON (P)—The Nautilus, the world's first atomic-powered submarine, will start on her six-week shakedown cruise in the next few days.

Announcing this today, the Navy in a brief statement also disclosed belatedly that the Nautilus was officially delivered April 22.

The history-making submarine previously had logged more than 4,000 miles on her nuclear power plant, steamed both surfaced and submerged and made more than 80 dives during builder's trials which started Jan. 17.

The Navy said that during the shakedown cruise the Nautilus will carry no passengers other than a few technical observers, will be closed to the public at any ports of call and will return sometime in June to New London, Conn.

The Navy gave only one hint as to where the Nautilus might go on her first long cruise, saying the submarine would be at San Juan, P.R., May 13 or 14.

Little Hope Held For 9 in Crash Of Flying Tanker

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (P)—Little hope was held today for nine crewmen of a U. S. Air Force flying tanker which plunged flaming into the stormy North Atlantic. But an air-sea search continued on the chance some might have gotten clear of the blazing wreckage.

U. S. Air Force headquarters said the plane, a stratocruiser-type oil transport, radioed yesterday it was about 90 miles southwest of Iceland. The aircraft was en route from Keflavik, Iceland to Prestwick, Scotland.

Later rescue craft reported seeing a big oil slick and what appeared to be wreckage, but said there was no sign of survivors.

Air Force headquarters in London said the plane belonged to the 30th Air Refueling Squadron and was on a training mission. Normally stationed at Salina, Kan., the unit is now on overseas duty. The Air Force listed the missing as:

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

A. P. Science Reporter

IN TRENCH AT Survival City.

Nev. (P)—The sight and feel and smell of an A-bomb came flashing, thundering and rocking at six women braving war's newest weapon in a trench only two miles from the blast center today.

They were awed, excited and, yes, a few a bit frightened.

"Oh, that burst!" "Gee, what a beautiful thing!"

These were typical reactions of typical American women who took the blow of an A-bomb at the closest range U.S. women have ever experienced.

They did it to demonstrate to other women that civilians can survive an atomic blast, if they take proper precautions. Helmeted and goggled, they knelt in this dusty trench gorged with excitement, tinged with a bit of quite normal fear.

Then a hundred thousand suns burst in the blue dawn. The earth shook as though rocked by a giant's tread. There was a tinge of warmth from the atomic heat, but only a tinge, not as much as a bluish.

And in startlingly quick seconds came the roaring boom of the burst and the blast hurling dirt and stones and sand and dust and bringing landlides of dirt spilling into the trench.

Everywhere there was dust, with the taste and smell of the bomb.

In those seconds, a steel tower had vaporized. What might have been an A-bomb detonated in war had reached out with blast and fire and radiation to scorch and rip at typical homes only a mile ahead, at the food and furnishings and mannequins who were the make-believe people in those homes.

What happened in this flash of simulated war to those homes was hidden in a vast field of choking desert dust. It hid from view even a row of three homes and a handful of trailers just off to our left from the trench.

No one was the slightest bit hurt in the booming shock and pelting dirt and small stones.

But crashing down went two mannequins, a man and a woman, seated and standing in the open by the trench. A flying stone tore a hole in the male mannequin's head.

Mysterious Air Raid Alert on West Coast

OAKLAND, Calif. (P)—A mysterious air raid alert throughout the West set sirens wailing from Oklahoma to the Pacific Coast today.

The "yellow" alert—an attack expected—was canceled a few minutes after it was sounded.

Civil defense and other officials in various cities said it definitely was not a mistake, but what caused it was not explained.

At Oklahoma City, the 33rd Air Division, charged with guarding six states against enemy attack, issued a brief white alert because of an undetermined aircraft. The order was canceled almost immediately.

The division is responsible for air defense in Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

The alert caused confusion throughout California today, from San Diego to Redding.

The unexplained warning was Scattered Showers Over U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were some widely scattered thundershowers but generally fair and pleasant spring weather prevailed in most sections of the nation today.

The thundershowers were reported along a line from the eastern Great Lakes region, the lower Ohio Valley and into southeast New Mexico.

Cooler air from Canada moved southward and most of the Midwest cooled off after a brief spell of summerlike weather. But temperatures mostly were above normal in the eastern two thirds of the country. Readings yesterday were in the 80s and some 90s from the Southwest, northward across the central part of the country into New England. It was 97 at Hobart, Okla., and a warm 93 at Elmira, N. Y. Boston's high was 86.

Temperatures early today ranged from 77 at Abilene, Tex., to 34 at International Falls, Minn.

Badger Senate Passes Record Budget Bill

MADISON, Wis. (P)—An executive budget bill calling for a record expenditure of $225,183,096 during the next two years—which means probably a 30 per cent surtax on incomes—was concurred in by the Senate today. The vote was 23-10.

The bill now goes to the governor.

Duluth Man Kills Self Rather Than Accept Warrant

DULUTH, Minn. (P)—His home filled with tear gas and surrounded by officers, a Duluth man shot and killed himself Wednesday night rather than accept service of a court order and warrant.

Dr. Cyril Smith, St. Louis County coroner, said Elliott R. Webber, 48, put a bullet in his own head after threatening deputy sheriffs and police who had sought his surrender.

"Get back or I'll blow your guts out," two deputy sheriffs reported Webber shouted as they stepped onto the porch of the multiple dwelling where he lived near downtown Duluth.

Deputies Ralph L. Altman and Byron Butchart retreated to their squad car and radioed for reinforcements. They had sought to serve Webber with a court order that he leave the premises. It was obtained by his wife, May, who filed suit for divorce two weeks ago.

Evidence of Norsemen Found at Fergus Falls?

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (P)—A log chain forged by hand, found by workmen building the new Cascade street bridge, and mooring pins discovered in a boulder near the bridge abutment have aroused considerable speculation here.

Some believe the finds are evidence of the presence in this area centuries ago of Norsemen.

Two Viet Nam Congresses Meet in Saigon

One Demands Removal of Chief of State

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (P)—Two Vietnamese "congresses" met in Saigon today. One thunderously demanded the removal of chief of state Bao Dai. The other was expected to insist that the ex-emperor keep his hands off Viet Nam's government until a national assembly can be elected.

Bao Dai's ouster was demanded at a "National Political Congress" summoned by the "National Revolutionary Committee," which last week demanded he be deposed. A crowd of 4,000 political leaders, revolutionary committees and local and provincial officials jammed a Vietnamese theater for the meeting.

The executive committee of the other congress, a "states general" of elected local and provincial councilors and tribal chiefs, continued secret sessions begun yesterday at Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's Independence Palace.

The "states general" was not expected to demand Bao Dai's immediate ouster but instead that he take only a figurehead role.

But the 4,000-man national political congress by voice vote approved a resolution to:

1. Depose ex-emperor Bao Dai, who has been trying to oversee the government by remote control from the French Riviera.

2. Dissolve the Bao Dai-appointed government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem and "empower Diem to form a provisional regime which would hold national elections soon.

The assembly—nearest thing to a popular national congress Viet Nam has ever had—took the decision at the close of a tumultuous, two-hour session. It was held in a Vietnamese theater on Boulevard Gallieni, scene of recent bloody battles between the national army supporting Diem and the outlaw Binh Xuyen force.

A resounding "No" welled up from the gathering when it was asked, "Shall we retain Bao Dai?" "Do you decree that Bao Dai is deposed?" came the second question. A roaring "Yes" rang out in the chamber.

One of the congress' leaders, Gen. Nguyen Thanh Phung, commander of the Cao Dai religious army, promised the cheering group that not only would Bao Dai be deposed but the monarchy would be abolished.

This was a sharp rejection of advice given Diem by U.S. Gen. James H. Doolittle, President Eisenhower's envoy, that South Viet Nam would be more stable with a constitutional monarchy than as a democratic republic.

Committee Votes To Kill Kohler Education Bill

MADISON, Wis. —In a 5-4 vote, the Assembly Education Committee decided Wednesday to recommend that the Assembly kill Gov. Kohler's higher education bill.

The committee also voted 6-3 to recommend passage of another bill to merge the University of Wisconsin extension center at Milwaukee and Milwaukee State College into a four-year degree-granting liberal arts university.

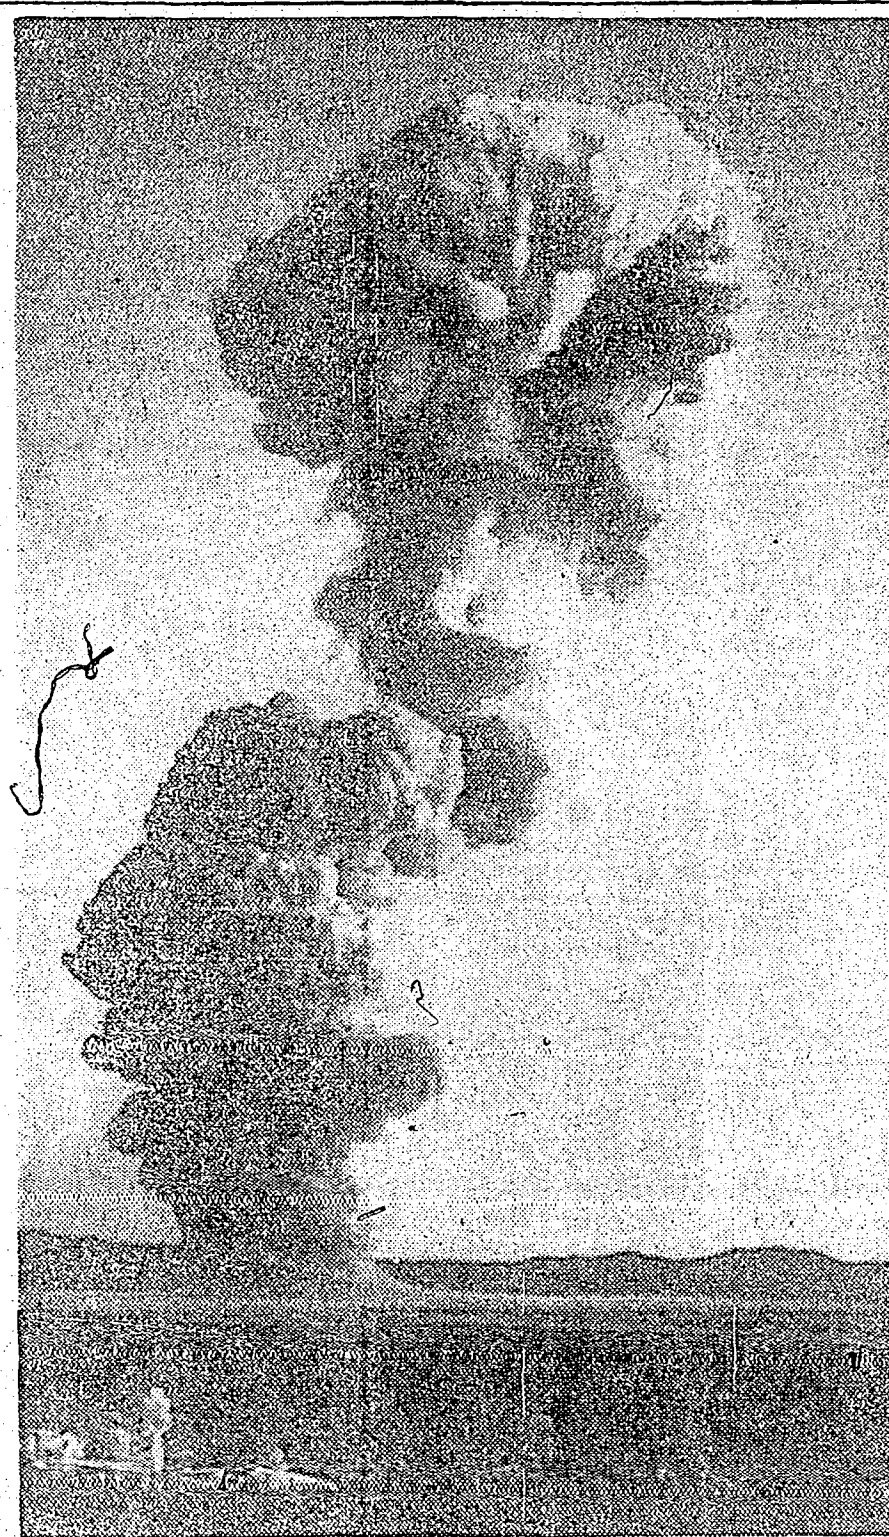

Kohler's bill would also provide for such a merger but in addition would set up a single, statewide board of regents to replace the U. W. regent board and the Board of Regents of State Colleges.

The committee's votes occurred in an executive session following a two-hour public hearing on bill 603-A, the bill which was recommended for passage.

University officials appeared at the public hearing in favor of the bill. The University of Wisconsin has voiced strong opposition to the Kohler bill.

DFL Farm Conference To Be at Moorhead

ST. PAUL (P)—A Democratic-Farmer-Labor conference on farm problems will be held June 4 at Concordia College, Moorhead, State Chairman Ray Hemenway, Albert Lea, said today.

The Mushroom Cloud of "Operation Cue" rises over Survival Town today. The cloud was estimated at 2,200 feet from top to bottom. The atomic blast packed a fireball lasting 25 seconds and its power was said to be at least one and a half times as great as the explosion that leveled Hiroshima. (UP Telephoto)

Basic Parity for Dairy Goods Denied

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (P)—The House shouted down today an amendment to the farm bill to require support of dairy products prices at the same parity level as the "basic" crops.

The 58-39 vote was the second setback in two days for forces which seek to scrap the administration's flexible farm price support system.

Democratic leaders backing a bill to restore mandatory 90 per cent of parity supports on the "basic" crops were fighting a delaying rear guard action while they tried to win back some of the northern big city Democrats who voted against them.

Wednesday's setback for those forces was a 189-150 teller vote for an amendment stripping peanuts out of the list of "basic" crops.

That would leave wheat, corn, cotton, rice and tobacco to be supported at 90 per cent of parity under the pending bill. Parity is a legal standard for measuring prices fair to farmers in terms of their costs.

At noon the House appeared no nearer a final vote than when it was adjourned suddenly after Wednesday's jolt to the bill's backers.

Great White Flash Seen For 500 Miles

By BILL BECKER

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (P)—Atomic fury at least one and a half times as powerful as the blast that leveled Hiroshima struck at this tiny test town on the desert today.

It knocked out the 250-watt radio station located less than a mile from the heart of the great nuclear explosion, and probably caused extensive damage to the four homes along Domesday Drive only 4,700 feet from the blast tower.

The huge device packed a fireball lasting 25 seconds and a power of between 30 to 35 kilotons. The bombs that hit Hiroshima and Nagasaki contained 20 kilotons of power, the equal of 20,000 tons of TNT.

The full extent of the damage will be determined in a tour of battered Survival City Friday.

The test organization announced that the 14th and final shot of the 1955 series—also from a 500-foot tower on Yucca Flat—might be detonated before dawn Friday. A weather evaluation meeting was set for today.

The tower for the final shot is located about seven miles east of today's blast and is not expected to have any effect on the test town. The shot, if it comes off, will be in advance of the Survival City tour.

The great white flash from the explosion was seen throughout the Southwest and 500 miles northwest at Klamath Falls, Ore. It also lit the sky across the Mexican border from San Diego, Calif., and was sighted in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Phoenix, Ariz.

Brilliant Light Although it illuminated Los Vegas, Nev., 75 miles away, brighter than the sun for an instant, no concussion was felt there. However, the burst jarred Henderson, near Las Vegas.

The scattered little test city here—it might be a suburb in any part of the United States—lay completely enveloped in dust, some of it radioactive, a few minutes after the detonation. An hour later Atomville still was completely obscured from the view of observers on News, Nob, eight miles back.

The shock wave, a jolting wall of unequaled by any previous public test, hit observers in trenches at 2,600 and 3,500 yards

West Germany Granted Full Independence

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Republic became a sovereign nation in alliance with the free world today. The 10-year allied occupation ended at noon.

Two short ceremonies wiped out the supreme powers wielded by the United States, Britain and France over the 50 million West Germans since 1945.

In the first, the Allied High Commission repealed all its laws and abolished itself by proclamation.

Then the British and French high commissioners completed the formality of depositing the sovereignty treaty at Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's office. The United States and West Germany did this April 20.

The French and West German governments simultaneously put into effect their agreement to Europeanize the Saar.

Allied Offices Abolished
"The occupation statute is revoked and the Allied High Commission and the offices of land (state) commissioners in the Federal Republic are abolished," the high commissioners' proclamation said.

Sixty Allied laws and 130 ordinances were repealed by the declaration, which was signed by Dr. James B. Conant of the United States, Sir Frederick Hoyer Millar of Britain and Andre Francois-Poncet of France. They now become their nations' ambassadors to the Bonn Republic.

"Federal Germany has re-entered into the circle of free nations," said Francois-Poncet, chairman of the High Commission's first meeting Sept. 21, 1949, and of its 109th and final session today.

"We wish to believe... that the free nations will find Germany a loyal and efficient partner, enlightened by the memory of her past ordeals. We wish her good luck on the road she will follow, mistress from now on of her own destiny."

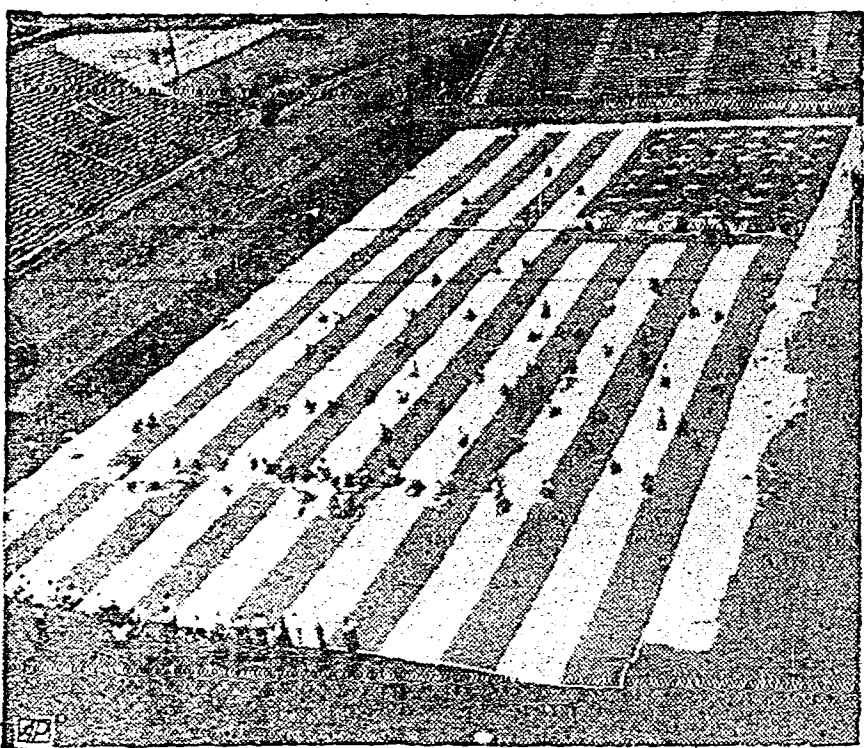

Welcomed Into Family

Conant said:
"All of us are gladly giving up our responsibilities and our authority, and we rejoice in the fact that the Federal Republic of Germany is being welcomed into the family of sovereign nations."

In the final ceremony, Hoyer Millar and Francois-Poncet called on President Theodor Heuss tonight to present their fresh credentials as ambassadors to the newly sovereign republic. Conant, whose appointment as ambassador has not yet been confirmed by the U. S. Senate, will go along to deliver a message of congratulations from President Eisenhower.

With these formalities out of the way, Adenauer goes to Paris tomorrow for West Germany's admission to the seven-nation West European Union. In another ceremony in the French capital next week, the Bonn government will become the 15th member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Within five years, West Germany is expected to field an army, navy and air force totaling 500,000 men—the largest Western armed force on the Iron Curtain frontier. Twelve divisions numbering 400,000 men trained in atomic warfare, a jet air force of 80,000 men and 1,300 planes and a coastal navy of 20,000 men will be added to the Atlantic Alliance.

Such a force would outnumber the Soviet Union's present armed strength in Red-reduced East Germany. Allied strategists claim it could tip the balance in favor of the West should World War III erupt.

Under the occupation, diplomatic relations with the Soviet bloc were banned. Now Bonn can establish relations with any country, East or West.

Full Authority

The sovereignty treaty stipulates that West Germany "shall have the full authority of a sovereign state over its internal and external affairs." But in actuality, the Western Big Three will continue to wield a strong influence here.

U. S., British and French troops will stay on as defense forces under a special treaty agreement. Russian-surrounded West Berlin remains under Allied occupation. The Western Big Three also retain the right to negotiate with the Soviets on German reunification and a peace treaty for a reunited Germany.

The end of the occupation means a big change for Allied troops. Occupation costs levied on the Germans paid for domestic servants, entertainment of the soldiers and other frills. But strict economy now becomes the order of the day.

Allied troops in general will be required to obey German law. The soldiers also can be sued for the maintenance of illegitimate children born after sovereignty.

For the Germans, the change will mean an early end to their responsibility for a large chunk of the occupation costs. Until the end of this year they will continue to pay 600 million marks ($142,800,000) a month toward the cost of maintaining Allied forces.

After that NATO will decide the German financial contribution to Western defense, using the same yardstick as for the other 14 alliance members.

Among other German gains:

1. Ending of remaining controls on industry.

2. Restoration of air sovereignty, permitting the building and operating of aircraft.

3. Ending of numerous Allied powers of censorship and security control over the West German public.

As an accompaniment to West German sovereignty, a French-German agreement to Europeanize the tiny German-speaking Saar Valley went into effect.

Private Colleges Need Alumni Aid, Hamline Group Told

The future of the private liberal arts colleges of the nation is in the hands of the alumni and friends, Dr. Paul H. Giddens, president of Hamline University, St. Paul, told an alumni group from the school Wednesday night.

Meeting at the Hotel Winona, Winona, alumni from the Winona-La Crosse chapter of Minnesota's oldest college were warned by Giddens that government control threatens the private schools.

"Unless the American people can see a way to help the private colleges of the nation in their financial plight, the government may take over more and more higher education," he said.

Giddens pointed to the increase in enrollment in American colleges, explaining the high birth rate of the 1930s and 1940s as the major cause. Some 2,500,000 students are currently enrolled in American colleges, he said, and there will be an estimated 3,000,000 students by 1960.

"No one knows whether these students will attend private or tax-supported colleges, although the trend is to the state colleges," he said. "This means more taxes for everybody. The private colleges can and must do their part in coping with this flood-tide of students, and in doing so, they must look to the alumni, to business and industry, and to their friends for help."

Following the address, a specially produced color and sound motion picture on Hamline was shown to the group. Entitled, "Vanguard," the movie told the college story, its program and educational system. It was produced on the school campus earlier this year.

Harlen Holden, president of the Winona-La Crosse Hamline alumni chapter presided at the program, assisted by Mrs. William B. Specht, chapter secretary, and John Hynes, chapter treasurer.

U. S. Communists convicted under the Smith Act, he had already served a five-year sentence.

Statute Gives Tiny Saar Valley 'European' Status

SAARBRUECKEN, Saarland (AP)—The new Saar statute which goes into effect today creates a new kind of territory out of the tiny German-speaking coal valley on the border between France and Germany.

Until a final peace treaty with Germany decides its permanent status, it will be neither German, French nor independent.

It will be European, under the supervision of the seven nations of the new Western European Union.

They are France, West Germany, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy.

WEU will set up a control commission. WEU will name a high commissioner who can be neither French, German nor a Saarlander.

Otherwise the 970,000 Saarlanders will run the government of their 991 square miles of territory, as they have since the end of 1947. They have a 50-member elected legislature, and a coalition government of the Christian People's party and the Socialists.

The new statute and subsequent French-German agreements continue France's monetary and customs union with the Saar. The valley's biggest steel plant, the Roehling works, will be shared between French and German private interests.

West Germany gets an increasing part of the Saar's trade. The Saarlanders themselves must accept or reject their new status in a plebiscite to be held within the next three months. The territory's government parties are strongly in favor of them; the pro-German groups complain they won't have enough campaign time to make much of a dent.

Wind Topples Caledonia Area Barn 3rd Time

Damage Reported On Several Farms; No One Injured

By EARL GILBERT
Daily News Area Editor

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Lightning may not strike twice in the same spot, as some say, but wind certainly does. When the William Oitzman barn was demolished by heavy blasts Tuesday afternoon, it was the third time in 30 years.

It added to the already grievous events in Oitzman's life as his wife died in March.

But neighbors showed him Wednesday that they share his losses as more than 10 men and about 20 women spent the day picking up the scattered pieces of his barn and putting the battered farm on Portland Prairie back into order.

By late afternoon yesterday Oitzman had only to put the barn back together.

He wasn't the only farmer in that stretch of Houston County southwest of here who suffered loss Tuesday about 4:30 p.m. Roy DIBLEY estimated damage at about $400 including a wrecked metal corn crib blown into an oat field and some wreckage from a fallen cottonwood tree in the farm yard.

A barn on an unoccupied place between Dibley and Oitzman, owned by Elmer SCHROEDER, was collapsed. Farm equipment inside was damaged. Schroeder said it will take about $2,500 to repair the damage.

Beyond Oitzman in the direction of Caledonia, Cap STOLTZ also lost a small barn.

The villages of EITZEN and BROWNSVILLE and several hundred farms in this community were without power for most of the evening after the high wind swept through. Lasting only a few minutes, the wind was accompanied by hail as big as walnuts and heavy rain.

In 1924, before Oitzman started farming on the place, the barn blew down early in the season and after being erected that same summer, was blown down a second time.

Mrs. Louis Beneke, a neighbor to Oitzman, was in a car on a road overlooking the Oitzman place when the storm hit Tuesday.

"The front end of the car went up in the air and I thought 'well here we go' but nothing happened. It was a rolling kind of wind that rose and dipped and I'd say it was a tornado or cyclone."

Ronald Roeber, who works for Oitzman, and recently returned from Army service, rode out the storm inside the barn after trying unsuccessfully to open the doors. His life was spared by the sturdy old foundation which he huddled near. Five calves were trapped by sections of the barn that collapsed but none were injured.

Wednesday morning the neighbors took time off from their field work and headed for the Oitzman place. Pieces of the building were found a half mile away in a valley. By 3 p.m. all the shingles and siding were in neat piles, a cover had been rebuilt on a cistern after being blown off by the winds and a huge manure pile had been carried off to the fields.

Oitzman was in his garage as the wind broke and he said the big door on the garage bent like a bow. The house wasn't touched. A storm window on the southwest side is unharmed although it was hanging ajar during the height of the big blow.

Power line crews from TRI-COUNTY ELECTRIC CO-OP, Rushford, were putting final repairs on main circuits and in farm yards yesterday. They went out late Tuesday restoring power to Eitzen and Brownsville. Falling tree limbs were blamed for most of the line damage.

Along the path of the storm on Portland Prairie there are many farms which lost trees from tree breaks and groves. Mrs. Emma Wiegrefe lost eight pines from her prized stand near the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice, who have operated the business for 10 years will retire, spending summers at a home they have purchased on Madeline Island, one of the Apostle Islands in Lake Superior, near Bayfield, Wis., and wintering in California.

County Court Jurors To Report Wednesday Morning at Whitehall

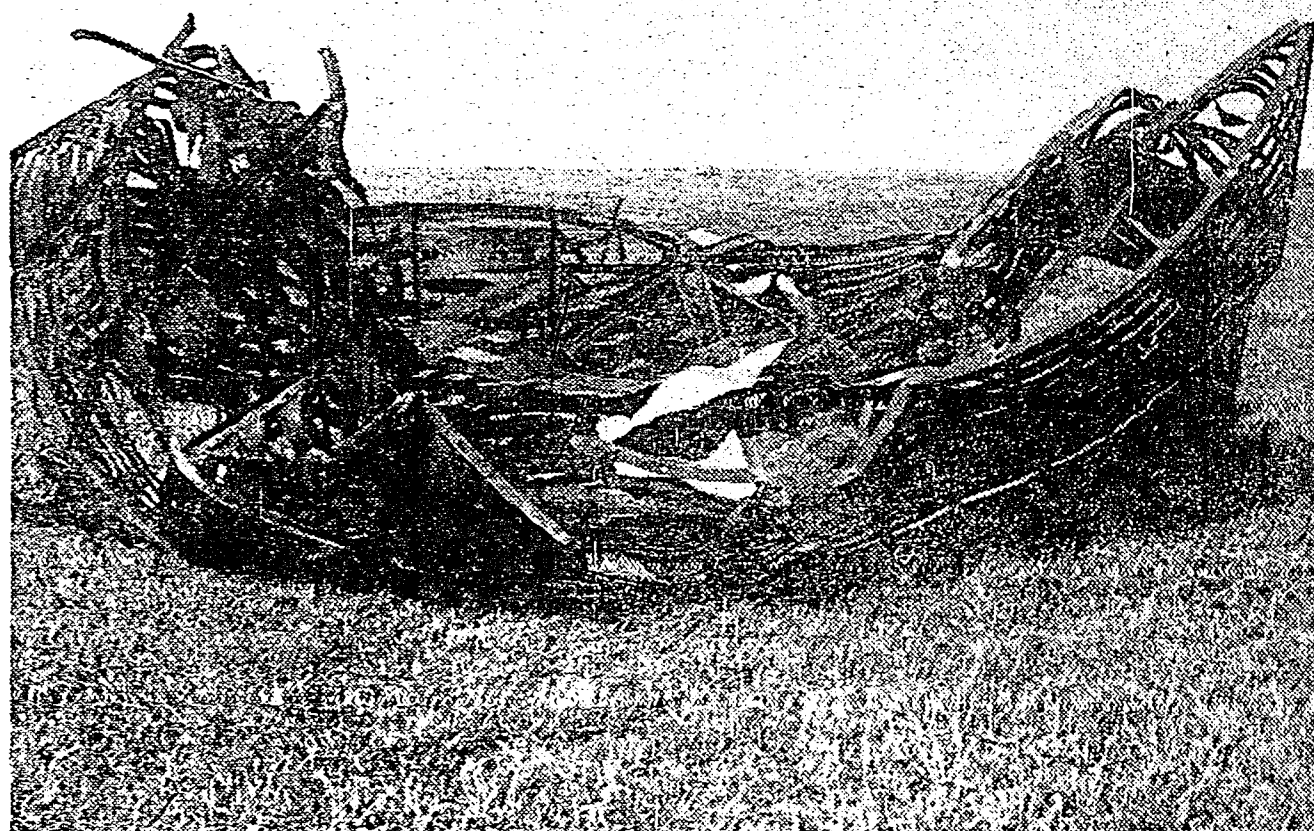

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—Judge A. L. Twesme announced the spring term of Trempealeau County Court Wednesday morning and then adjourned the session to next Wednesday, when the jury will report at 10 a.m.

The one fact for jury case —

Cows Stood In This Houston County barn Wednesday morning to be milked. It still had its roof at the time. Late in the afternoon a high wind scattered the building over the William Oitzman yard and fields. About 100 neighbors joined a work bee at the Oitzman farm Thursday. They had the place cleaned up by mid-afternoon. A helper, Ronald Roeber, huddled near the large entrance at the far end during the storm, and was unhurt.

Once A Circular Corn Crib worth about $250 this tangled mass of metal now lays in an oat field several hundred yards from the Roy Dibley farmyard on Portland Prairie, Houston County. A large cottonwood tree in the yard, valued highly by the Dibley family, also was blown down. Luckily it did not hit a building when it fell.

A Hayloader, in the background, with a wheel visible, lays in the wrecked Elmer Schroeder barn on Portland Prairie, Houston County, after a windstorm which struck about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Schroeder, who does not live on the farm, figures his loss at about $2,500. (Daily News photos)

392 Pints Blood Are Still Needed

When the Red Cross bloodmobile finished one-half of its stand here Wednesday evening, it only had received a little more than one-third of the needed blood.

In two days Winona chapter residents had given 225 pints toward a quota of 617. A total of 392 pints still are needed.

The unit is at the Masonic Temple until 8 o'clock tonight. Walk-ins are welcome, according to James D. Cole, chapter blood chairman. Friday the unit will move to St. Mary's College.

Twenty willing donors were rejected for medical reasons Wednesday.

Stanley Skadahl, Pigeon Falls, against the Rural Mutual Casualty Co., with State Farm Insurance Company as impleaded defendants — was settled out of court.

The jury will hear two criminal cases. First on the calendar will be the State of Wisconsin, represented by Dist. Atty. John C. Quinn, against Joseph Thomas, Arcadia. Second for trial will be Trempealeau County, represented by Quinn, against Harry C. Leslie, represented by Kulig & Kulig, Independent. Both are alleged traffic convictions appealed from justice court.

Date for the trial of the state against Dominic Symiczek, Independence, represented by Fugina, Kostner & Ward, Arcadia, has not been set.

Lumber Building Burns at Lake City

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special)—Fire of undetermined origin this morning destroyed an auxiliary building and its contents at the Botsford Lumber Co. yard here.

Loss of the 12-by 40-foot building and roofing materials stored inside was estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000, by Kenneth Garbisch, manager of the yard.

Stored in the one-story building were shingles, rolled roofing and liquid asphalt. The building was not electrically wired.

Lake City firemen prevented flames from spreading to the main yard building some 40 feet away despite a strong wind. The fire was discovered about 9:40 a.m.

La Crescent, Hokah Schools Burglarized

Damage to Property Set at Over $300 At Public School

Burglars broke into the La Crescent public school, the Church of the Crucifixion Catholic School at La Crescent and the Hokah public school Wednesday night, causing more vandalism than property loss.

About $300-$500 damage was done at the LA CRESCENT public school late Wednesday night or early today, according to Principal A. L. Grob.

Entry to the school was obtained by climbing onto a low kitchen roof, smashing a library window on the second floor and then raising the window. Custodian Orville Wetzel said five doors were smashed and $20 taken from a teacher's desk and a cash box in Grob's office. Mrs. Ellen Lawrence, first grade teacher, lost a small amount of cash from her desk drawer.

A storeroom door, the cash box and some windows were smashed. This damage was estimated by Wetzel at $300-$500.

At the parochial school, about 10 pounds of cheese and some wieners were taken from a freezer and a refrigerator. The loss was negligible, according to the priest, the Rev. Richard Speltz. The burglars probably entered the building through openings where repairs are being made. There was no damage except to the deep freeze and refrigerator, which were pried open.

Mrs. Florence Gaustad, principal of the HOKAH school, said that 25 cents in cash was taken from her school but the thieves left a smashed filing cabinet in her office valued at $65.

"They probably entered about 10 p.m.," she said, "as neighbors heard noise at that time." A lock on the basement door was smashed. Almost every drawer in the building was ransacked.

Houston County Sheriff Beryl Kerrigan, and his deputy, Byron Whitehouse, were investigating today with the help of La Crosse police. Similar burglaries have taken place in Western Wisconsin recently and officers said today that the breakins at La Crescent and Hokah followed the same pattern.

Wabasha Board Pays $8,500 For Garage Site

WABASHA, Minn. — A building site was purchased by the Wabasha County Board of Commissioners Tuesday from the Mrs. Lydia Schwartz estate, Wabasha, for location of a new county highway department garage. Cost was $8,500.

Plans are not complete, but officials are hoping they will be ready so bids can be opened at the June 7 meeting. The present garage will be turned into offices. The Schwartz lot, on the west edge of Wabasha, measures 330 feet across the front and 287½ feet deep.

Seventeen county organizations which sponsor rites on Memorial Day were given $25 each, for a total of $425.

The Morton Salt Co., Chicago, the lone bidder on a carload of rock salt, was given a contract at $1.18 a hundredweight. The Material Supply Corp., Minneapolis, won a contract for a carload of calcium chloride by lot. It bid $27 a ton, the same as the Lyon Chemical Co. and Merchants Chemical Co., Minneapolis. Names were grouped and one was selected by lot.

Wilbur Koelme, auditor, was authorized to advertise for bids on 30,000 cubic yards of crushed rock, 80,000 gallons of road oil and 5,000 yards of crushed gravel. Bids will be opened on these items May 31.

A petition by Common School District 53 to be dissolved and annexed to District 2, Hammond, will be heard publicly July 12. Individual requests by John Pick, Oak Center, to have his land set off from District 73 to District 15, Oak Center, and Everett Freiheit, District 13 to Lake City Consolidated District 40, will be heard June 7.

The load limit of five tons maximum axle weight on the Millville to Zumbro Falls parkway was raised to seven tons.

35 Units Entered In Arcadia Parade

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—The Lions Club of Arcadia, meeting Monday evening on the Dairy-Broiler Festival May 28-30, was told by the parade chairman, Gile Herrick, that 35 units have been entered in the parade thus far.

It will be held May 29 at 1:30 p.m. Any units wishing to enter the parade should contact Herrick.

Ten girls have entered the contest for broiler queen. They are: Nancy Glanzer, Theresa Sossalla, Arville Schlessner, Dolores Eichman, Dorothy Bauth, Gloria Schlarla, Ruth Bauth, Ann Siebenaler, Donna Jereczek and Phyllis Wisenberger.

Also entered were pits for main street where charcoal broiled chicken will be prepared.

Orville Wetzel, La Crescent school custodian, views a chipped door which burglars attempted to pry open. They stole about $20 from the school and did damage estimated at from $300 to $500. (Daily News photos)

A Smashed Filing Cabinet at the Hokah public school office is examined by Mrs. Florence Gaustad, right, principal, after a burglary there Wednesday night. The cabinet was valued at $65; only 20 cents was taken from the school.

Thousands of Trees To Be Planted at Arbor Day Program

RUSHFORD, Minn.—Several thousand trees will be planted on the Stryk Isberg farm, one-half mile west of here on Highway 30, Friday, which is Arbor Day.

Hosts of school children and farmers from Houston, Fillmore and Winona counties are expected for this second annual "Tri-County Treeville" sponsored by the bankers of Southeastern Minnesota, the Minnesota Extension Service, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, the Minnesota Department of Conservation and school officials.

Events will start at 1 p.m. with a short platform program at which Dr. J. O. Christianson, superintendent of the University of Minnesota State Farm School, will speak. The Rushford High School band will play a concert preceding his talk.

As spectators enter the grounds they will be given a colored card placing them in one of four groups for tours of the mass tree planting demonstration later. Isberg's farm has been divided into four stations and the groups alternately will visit each during the afternoon.

In Charge of Stations

Stations and those in charge are: Hand planting of trees—Marvin Smith, extension forester; machine planting using the equipment donated by the state banking association—Harlie Larson, Hoboken, Wis., agent; mulch, water and wildlife, William Silman, Winona County SCS farm planner, and tree identification, Parker Anderson, extension forester.

Public and parochial pupils beyond the fifth grade have been given permission by school officials to attend the event and it is planned to give each of them a young tree for home planting, sponsors said.

Heading up the school participation committee is Melvin Wedul, head of the teacher training department of Winona State Teachers College. Working with him on the committee are: the Rev. Harold Dittman, superintendent of schools; Diocese of Winona; Miss Gladys Lapham, Houston County superintendent of schools; Miss Anna Seem, Fillmore County superintendent of schools; Jesse Jesus, Winona County superintendent of schools; Harold Aulse, school superintendent at Harmony; Albert Hjelte, school superintendent at Spring Grove, and Harvey D. Leaders of tours are: Red—Glenn Anderson, Winona vocational agriculture teacher, and Lyle Briggs, Houston banker; white—George Schoen, Houston agriculture teacher, and R. E. Sprague, Caledonia banker; blue—Frank Tolmie, St. Charles agriculture teacher and

Payrolls Here Over 10,000 Mark Again

Employment Total Nearly 200 Ahead Of One Year Ago

Employment in the city of Winona has jumped more than 3 per cent during the past 30 days, hitting the 10,000 mark for the first time since last December, the Winona office of the Minnesota State Employment Service announced today.

Stanley S. Hammer, manager, said that worker demand is on the upswing, worker supply is diminishing and that slowly rising employment levels are anticipated by employers as the summer season approaches.

The trend, said Hammer, is generally upward, with six of the 10 industrial categories showing increased employment over March totals.

Hammer's late April figures show that 10,004 are on the job here, a jump of 305 over the 9,699 employed during March. The count is also 184 more than were working in April of 1954.

Principal Increases

In the April breakdown, manufacturing, construction and the "other" activities groups netted substantial employment rises, with smaller gains occurring in wholesale and retail trade.

Manufacturing employment rose sharply, climbing for the sixth consecutive month and now is at its highest point since August of 1954.

Of the eight manufacturing groups, five rose and three showed very slight declines. Heavy hiring in the fertilizer industry, callback of workers in apparel manufacturing, worker additions in metal working (electrical switch and heavy equipment) and increased crews in food processing pushed manufacturing employment well above March levels.

Employment in the manufacturing field is expected to show further slight gains during the next several months.

Construction Jumps

Construction, after a slight employment rise in March, climbed sharply during April and now is at its highest point since November of 1954.

Good construction weather during April has pushed this industry along rapidly. Construction employment is expected to climb at a rapid pace during the next several months and will very likely surpass last year's levels, said Hammer.

The "other" activities group netted a 38 per cent employment increase during April, with reopening of gravel pits and nurseries after the winter shutdown accounting for the heavy employment climb.

Labor demand showed increased strength during the month, as the construction industry and local factories built up their crews.

Labor supply fell off during April, with approximately 575 persons seeking work, of which 165 are women.

The report in detail:

	1955 -	April	1954 -

Popcorn, Camera and Hotdogs for a Tourist

NEW YORK—I don't mind being called a "tourist" with the popcorn... and the camera... and the hot dogs... especially the hot dogs.

Our little family—including Cookie and the Glamorous Mother-in-Law—was driven up to City Island by Max Asnas, who boasts that his Stage Delicatessen in midtown serves the finest frankfurters in the world.

While there, I noticed Max suddenly stuffing himself on hot dogs at a waterfront place called "the Sea Breeze."

"Somehow," grined Max, along about his third one, "hot dogs taste so wonderful here."

Zsa Zsa Gabor isn't anxious to marry Porfirio Rubirosa though he has his divorce from Barbara Hutton—so she has just insisted to me, "It would interfere with my work."

"None of my ex-husbands," said Zsa Zsa—referring to Turkish Senator Burhan Belge, Conrad Hilton and George Sanders—"ever married again. After they've married me, they've had it!"

"What time do you want me to show up?" Guest Star Jack Benny asked TV Star Jackie Gleason. "A half hour before the show," said Gleason. "But I want to be made up so I'll look good," said Benny. "In that case, about four hours before the show," said Gleason.

Betty Hearn, the "Ankles Aweigh" star panned by the critics but adored by several columnists, now says, "You remember me—the Critics' Pet!"

Lilo, French star of "Can-Can," told in Sardi's how two gents looking out a window saw her sun-bathing on a roof, with her top down (the top of her bikini): "If I kept the top off, they'd be bothered, but if I put it on I'd be bothered, so I decided to let them be bothered."

Do you remember: Alexander Kerensky? The ex-Russian Premier, now 72, dines Sunday nights at the home of Countess Janusz Ilinska (Fira Benenson the dress designer), whose Irish cook makes him Russian dishes... Or O. O. McIntyre's vests? Burton Rascoe (who looks more like Old Elmer Fudd than any of the new vests) though he told Mrs. Courtney Riley Cooper they're not new vests, but "vests left over from worn-out suits."

Comedian Joe E. Lewis, wearing a single diamond ring, sat with Sonja Henie, wearing $300,000 worth, at El Rancho Vegas. "Darling," cooed Joe to Sonja, "since we love each other so very much, don't you think we ought to pool our jewels?"

There may be a row in Actors Equity because "Ankles Aweigh" Producer Tony Farrell notified actor Eddie Hanley his part's being "written out" and asked Frankie Conville to take a 25 pct. cut. (They were hired by Co-Producer Fred F. Finkelhoffe who's barred from the theater.)

Joe Di Maggio, whipped out to California for a while but will return for the All-Star game... Ernie Kovacs is so sure ABC TV'll be big that he turned down a great bundle at NBC just to start on radio at ABC.

The Mariners are being billed as "Arthur Godfrey's Axe-Friends"... Jose Melis of the Jack Paar show got the mumps from his kids... Pretty little Betty threatened an expose magazine with a lawsuit if they printed anything about her... Lenya Gabriele, Chez Vito's attractive vocalist, can serve up your favorite tune in any of a half dozen languages.

John J. Astor's pseudonym at the Villa Victor in L. I. is "Mr. Atterbury"... Dancer Carolee Hanny and husband Larry Byden get the "Person to Person" treatment June 17... A young heir who has checks bouncing all around town just bought a $35,000 boat... 18-Year-Olds Still Face Military Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — A defense official told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce yesterday that even after planned cuts in the armed services "virtually every physically fit and mentally alert young man may look forward to a term of military service sometime between the ages of 18 and 28." Robert Anderson, deputy secretary of defense, said national defense will also continue to absorb about a tenth of the nation's hard goods.

Little New Orleans Polio Victim Dead

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Funeral services today were arranged for 30-month-old Eugene Allen Davis Jr., who died of infantile paralysis eight days after he received the Salk antipolio vaccine.

The boy, grandson of the noted surgeon Dr. Alton Ochsner, was inoculated April 26 with vaccine obtained from the Cutter Laboratories. The Cutter vaccine was withdrawn April 27 after several children in California contracted polio after receiving it.

The boy was stricken Sunday and was taken to the Alton Ochsner Medical Foundation Hospital the following day. His father is public relations director for the hospital.

Dr. C. Harrington Snyder, who attended the boy, said he and other physicians did not believe the vaccine was responsible for the boy's contracting the disease.

John L. Lewis Mystery Man Of U.S. Labor

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis is the mystery man of American labor today, standing on the sidelines while the AFL and CIO push forward with plans to merge their 15 million members into one giant federation.

The shaggy-browed chief of the United Mine Workers of America remains uncommitted and enigmatic. He declines to give a hint as to whether he will eventually make peace with the AFL-CIO chiefs and give organized labor virtually a solid front in pushing for expansion and political power.

But there are signs aplenty he doesn't intend to, at least not right now. The best hint as to Lewis' thinking comes from his old friend and long-time lieutenant Thomas Kennedy, UMW vice president, whose statements usually can be taken as an accurate reflection of Lewis' own views.

Kennedy said in reply to a list of questions that organized labor could boost its present membership of 16 million (this includes the AFL, CIO and independents) to more than 26 million members under certain conditions.

Then he added: "These conditions would include, first, a unified labor movement with a militant leadership that is capable of standing up for labor's rights and with the ability to see beyond the end of a Stillson wrench."

The implication is inescapable that Kennedy doesn't think that kind of leadership will be present in George Meany, AFL president, who will head the merger and with whom Lewis has been at odds for years.

Kennedy had "no comment" when asked if he could foresee a time when the miners would join the merger and under what conditions such a move might be made.

Kennedy indicated that Lewis and the UMW believe the AFL and CIO are moving too deeply into politics before consolidating their strength by an organizing drive.

Texas Town Has Gray Market in Cement

HOUSTON (AP)—A gray market in cement was reported here as the city and apparently the Southwest faced a growing shortage. A cement manufacturing firm official said yesterday some operators were buying up cement and reselling it at handsome profits. The spokesman attributed the shortage to "prosperity, defense and pretty weather."

China May Play For U.N. Seat

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—What will the United States position be if Red China plays nice, maybe agrees to a cease-fire around Formosa, and then wants to get into the United Nations?

American opposition to U.N. membership for them might change. One stumbling block to Red China's admittance—although not necessarily the final one—would be removed if the veto power of the Security Council on new members was ended.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., American ambassador to the U. N., this week suggested dropping the veto power on new members held by the Big Five powers on the Security Council—the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Nationalist China.

Under the present U. N. Charter, admittance of a new member hinges around what happens in the Security Council.

Seven of the 11 members—including all the Big Five—must vote yes. A veto by any of the Big Five can block a nation from membership.

Under Lodge's proposal, eliminating the veto, neither the United States nor Nationalist China could keep out Red China if any seven of the remaining Security Council members voted yes.

It's possible that, with removal of the veto, Red China still couldn't get seven votes that would let her in. Russia has proposed U. N. membership for Red China several times, but there were never seven votes for admittance, making a veto unnecessary.

Lodge made it plain, in testimony to a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, that he was speaking for himself, his views can serve as a trial balloon.

Up to this time the State Department hasn't taken a position on changes in the charter. Its attitude seems to be now let's go carefully about this sort of thing.

It may be waiting, before taking a stand, to find out what American public opinion is.

So, although Lodge said he was speaking for himself, his views can serve as a trial balloon.

Railway Express Has Burro on Its Hands

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Anybody know who belongs to Judy?

Judy is a little burro from Texas who has been living at the Railway Express office here for five days—ever since a companion burro ate the tags off Judy's crate.

Railway express says a check with the shippers in Laredo, Tex., hasn't been very helpful so far. They can't remember Judy's destination.

So Judy will probably be farmed out until somebody somewhere comes looking for a missing burro.

No Banners Fly As West Germany Becomes Sovereign

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—

West Germany became a sovereign state today, but to the man on the street it caused less concern than a scorched sausage.

A sidewalk poll, from the sprawling port city of Hamburg to the rolling hills of Bavaria, brought only casual reaction.

No banners flew, no hurrahs were raised.

A German traffic policeman in Frankfurt may have summed up the reason:

"We haven't had any real occupation here since 1948," he said. "And since then things have moved gradually ahead until today it's just a scratch of the pen."

A Munich beer trucker was more interested in quenching his thirst. "Sov—I don't even know how to say it but we don't need it. I drank 20 steins of beer yesterday and I'll drink 20 today. Leave me alone."

A Bavarian housewife thought of sovereignty in terms of the kitchen.

"Now maybe we won't have so much chlorine in the water. It makes things taste bad."

A Hamburg man looked ahead: "Let's hope the Russians will leave and we can be united again."

An Offenbach bookkeeper said, "What's sovereignty? No country can decide for itself which way to go. It must be either East or West. We are West."

But a Duesseldorf textile salesman said sourly: "I don't believe

Car Smacks Man In Booth of Cafe

DENVER (AP)—Robert C. Gingles, 23, was having a peaceful snack in a cafe yesterday when a driverless automobile smashed through the wall and knocked him out of the booth. He was taken to a hospital. Police said a truck, trying to avoid a collision with another car, smashed into a parked car and sent it hurtling through the wall.

25 Fishermen Saved From Greenland Floes

JAKOBHAVN, Greenland (AP)—An exhausted group of 25 Greenland fishermen turned up safely here today after a grim fight to escape from drifting ice floes. A number of others were reported still missing.

The men were fishing late Tuesday when the ice broke into numerous floes which started drifting toward the open sea.

The 25 survivors reached safety by jumping from one floe to another and wading through shallow icy water.

"We are sovereign. We must dance to the Western fiddle."

A young Frankfurt clerk grinned and said, "Sovereignty, you say. You mean that rearmament becomes effective today. Otherwise, I don't think things will change."

In Bonn, where the formalities took place, a waiter commented, "Sovereignty, yes, but it's only for half of Germany."

A stocky elevator operator, a former Russian prisoner of war, waved a hand airily.

"Sovereignty? Ach, ja. Das haben wir schon gehabt." (Ah, yes. We already had it.)

12 Unions Go Back to Work at Atomic Center

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Twelve unions went back to work today at Sandia Base, ending for a month at least a strike against the firm operating the atomic center.

About 2,600 workers, split between the AFL Metal Trades Council and AFL Office Employees local 251, returned to man the sprawling installation where atomic weapons are assembled and used for them are developed.

They ended their walkout, which began April 28, last night, when they were told of a plea by the President's atomic labor-management relations panel, William F. Leverenz, president of the Metal Trades Council who conferred with the panel in Washington, reported to the strikers that the panel would make recommendations within 30 days after a hearing on strike issues in Albuquerque next week.

These Boys Did Something About Reducing Taxes

Now that the regular and special sessions of the 1955 Legislature have set a new record of appropriations and tax boosts, all Mr. Taxpayer must do is foot the bill as usual.

The Lanesboro, Minn., Leader, not too happy about our new jumbled tax setup, recently published an article from the Minnesota Historical Society on one of the really pioneer legislative sessions that appealed to us.

"Those boys did something about their campaign promises to reduce taxes," comments the Leader. The article from the Historical Society's files follows:

"For a hundred years Minnesota struggled with increasing costs of government, onerous taxation and poor times. The story of every legislative session is much the same, too much to do to too little to do with.

"Back in 1860 Governor Alexander Ramsey addressed the Legislature on 'the financial embarrassment of the state, depreciation of the value of property, the general stagnation of business and the expensiveness of state, county and township governments.' The governor saw the day when wise and prudent management would make Minnesota as prosperous in her affairs as she was blessed by advantages. He urged the Legislature to act that 'taxation shall not eat up the substance of the people.'

"The governor evidently had influence with the lawmakers. They began on a program of economy and started with the governor. They reduced his salary from $2,400 to $1,500 a year.

"Then the lawmakers started in on themselves. They reduced the Senate from 37 to 21 members and cut the House from 80 to 42. They passed a law under which no legislator could get paid for more than 60 days in a regular session and for 30 days in a special session.

"By various methods and economies the cost of the Minnesota state government was reduced from $149,500 to $95,000 and in 1861 the floating indebtedness of the state was reduced by $26,000."

In 1954 the total cost of state government in Minnesota was 323 million dollars. The "tax and spend" and "tax and spend" rate is still going strong.

Legislative Sessions Not Popularity Contests

The board of directors of the Minnesota School Board Association met the other day in a mood critical of the Minnesota Legislature for what they regarded as its failures in the field of legislation for education.

By a unanimous vote, they expressed "regret at the lack of support and understanding of the problems of education" shown thus far by the Legislature.

True, the organization did not get all that was asked of the Legislature in the matter of increased funds for education. However, in some aspects they came out pretty well. Two of the bills which they opposed met defeat. One of the bills would have abolished some 1,400 school districts in which schools are closed. The other would have denied state aid to districts with fewer than ten pupils.

The cost of education per pupil in Minnesota is one of the highest of any state in the union. A major reason is that Minnesota has more school districts than any other state, and far more districts than most states. In opposing the two bills which were defeated, the association, though demanding more funds for education, has been less than half-hearted in attempts to bring down school costs by pushing consolidation.

Unfortunately, in demands for more money in education, the zeal is often greater than efforts to find ways to cut costs without losing effectiveness of education.

The job of the Minnesota Legislature is not to grant everything any group asks. This is true in education as it is in anything else. It is the function of the Legislature to appraise the requests it receives, and to act in what it believes is the best interest of the people as a whole. The Legislature deserves the support of the people in carrying out that objective.

Certainly, a legislature could make itself very popular by granting everything asked. However, legislative sessions are not popularity contests, and it will be a dark day for Minnesota if they ever become that.—The Austin, Minn., Daily Herald.

Exciting Case Before Court

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK — One of the most exciting cases to come before any court is that of Michael A. Musmanno, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, vs. Laurence H. Eldredge, official state reporter. Involved is the refusal of the court reporter to publish the dissenting opinion of Justice Musmanno in a case concerning the right of press photographers to take pictures of a trial.

The majority of the court upheld a lower court's decision rejecting the photographer's demand that the sheriff's order be vacated; Justice Musmanno wrote a learned dissent which the majority sought to suppress. Why the majority took such a view is not clear from the pleadings except the statement:

"The court as a whole should have discretionary power to decide in a given case that the publication of a particular dissenting opinion would be contrary to public policy."

EVEN IF A COURT possessed such powers, it is not understandable from the record that any matter of public policy is involved in this case or that any very startling public issue was originally brought forward. The term "public policy" can cover a world of sins. This case may go to the Supreme Court of the United States on such fundamental issues as freedom of speech and the administration of our courts.

In his dissenting opinion, Justice Musmanno said:

"To those who argue in the case at bar that freedom of the press is not involved, it is enough to say that freedom of the press is not restricted to freedom of printing. A printing press without material to print would be as useless as a vineyard without grapes, a flour mill without wheat, or an orchard without trees. Freedom of the press means to gather news, write it, print it and circulate it. If any one of these operations is inhibited, freedom of the press becomes an empty phrase. Gathering news includes photographing of the news, printing of photographs and reproduction of photographs in the finished newspaper. To prohibit the taking of photographs is no less an infringement of the freedom of the press than to prohibit the presence of a news reporter. . . ."

Surely nothing of public policy or the impairment of the dignity of the court is stated in this dissent, unless questioning a Judge's conduct, he be drunk or bull-headed, is, of itself, contemptuous. Musmanno states the case of the newspaper and particularly the photographer-reporter better than I have seen elsewhere: ". . . In the story of every crime, every accident, every untoward happening goes the unspoken preachment that the reader could be the fateful and unfortunate recipient of the punishment, injury or sorrow depicted if the reader had succumbed to the same temptation, or had been equally careless, or had allowed himself to be drawn into the same web of circumstances related in the columns which now engross his attention. To the extent that the newspaper is denied the opportunity to present all the facts — photographic or otherwise — to that extent the reader is denied the opportunity to be forewarned on the evil, as well as fortuitous forces bent on wreaking havoc and destruction."

THE ARGUMENT WAS raised that the photographers were only told not to take pictures; they were not arrested. The dissenting judge wanted to know whether citizens had to violate the law to discover what their rights are.

Musmanno asks: "In order to get the 'actual application', which this court mentions, were these three photographers compelled to take pictures despite the fact that the sheriff was standing by with the additional guards and threatening deputies? Suppose in this attempt a scuffle ensued and cameras were broken. Suppose that Sheriff Thomas, in the application of the court rule, seized the offending photographers and threw them into jail. Does this court need that kind of a distressful circumstance as a basis for passing upon the constitutional rights of three citizens of the United States? . . ."

This case affects freedom of the press more than it does the right of Justice Musmanno to have his dissenting opinion published along with the majority opinion. What matters is that a gag rule is being applied; the attempt is made to withhold the truth from the people; and that a fighting judge is risking the good-will of his colleagues to fight for American rights and privileges under the Constitution.

Senate Antitrust Probe Remains in Talking Stage

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It has now been four months since the Democratic Senate convened, with a big blare of trumpets about probing monopoly.

And here is the inside story of what happened when the Senate anti-monopoly committee under chairman Harley Kilgore of West Virginia at long last got down to work on April 26 at 2 p.m.

As the senators sat down, someone anonymously handed them a speech made at the University of Michigan law school by Joseph W. Burns, the man who had been picked by Sen. Kilgore to be counsel of the investigating committee. Senators took a fast look at the speech and were flabbergasted.

"It looks as if our counsel is even to the right of Atty. Gen. Brownell," remarked Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee.

Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri, another Democrat, agreed. So did Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, the veteran trust-buster. Sen. Bill Langer, North Dakota Republican, rubbed his eyes in amazement.

For Joe Burns, the man supposed to investigate monopoly, had delivered a vicious attack on the anti-trust laws supposed to protect against monopoly.

Openly he stated that lawyers owed it to "their clients" to secure favorable revisions of the antitrust laws. He recommended repeal of the Robinson-Patman Act, proposed ending the treble damage and criminal provisions of the Sherman Antitrust Act, and made the astounding statement that the Supreme Court had "no authority to upset the entire economy of the country . . . in declaring invalid the freight equalization or basing-point price system."

"I am terribly upset," confessed Chairman Kilgore, after reading the speech of the man he had picked to defend small business. He had picked Burns as a favor to two old friends — Hugh Fulton and Rudolph Halley, each former counsel of the old Truman committee, both now Wall Street lawyers. Several of Kilgore's colleagues opposed Burns' appointment in the first place, but the West Virginia solon, one of the most lovable but harassed members of the Senate, insisted on appointing him.

And even after Burns' pro-monopoly speech was scrutinized, Kilgore still insisted on keeping him. The meeting was abruptly canceled after that. The next day's meeting was also canceled. Another called for the third day was also canceled.

But the prerogative of the Senate chairman is such that Burns, the champion of big business, will remain as counsel of the committee supposed to probe big business — at least for the time being. Big Real Estate

This writer, having had something to say about deep-freezes and Gen. Harry Vaughan in a previous administration, considers it only fair to report on any backstage wire-pulling in the present administration.

One difference is that the stakes are bigger today and the wire-pullers get paid more. Here's what happened recently in regard to one of the biggest real-estate developments in the nation's capital.

It's the Southwest Development, to abolish Washington's worst slums which sit right under the nose of Congress and nestle close to the dignified Army war college on the banks of the Potomac. William Zeckendorf, New York real-estate promoter, has come forward with some ideas on cleaning up these slums, though he wants to be paid rather handsomely. Major L'Enfant was paid only $1,394 for laying out the most beautiful city in the world, but Zeckendorf wants

Father Gets Word Of Runaway Son After 31 Years

DETROIT — One night in 1924 Thomas E. Josephs had an argument with his 16-year-old son Bernard over the boy's companions and late hours.

The next day Bernard ran away. A police search failed to locate him.

As the years went by, Bernard was all but forgotten by everyone but his father, a widower with no other children than his son.

Yesterday, the police missing persons department called up Josephs, now a building caretaker, to tell him they'd received a letter from a Bernard, age 47.

After discharge from the Army in 1947 he had landed a job with the Military Transport Service in the Pacific and needed papers to prove his citizenship. He asked police to get the papers from his father.

Did his son ask about him? Josephs wanted to know. No, said police, that's all the letter said.

Parents Have 13 Boys; No Delinquents

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — The parents of what is believed to be the nation's largest all-boy family don't see why poverty should cause juvenile delinquency.

Emory and Thelma Harrison, a farm couple who live near Johnson City, Tenn., have 13 sons ranging in steppladder style down from 21-year-old Guy to Ivan, an infant of 3 weeks.

Money-poor all his life, Harrison said his children "never caused us a speck of trouble," and explained why:

"It's the way we raised them. We raised them to obey us, never to bother anybody, and never to pick up anything that belonged to anybody else.

"If they need a spanking, they get it. But they don't need it often. Each has his chores—one feeds the hogs, one feeds the chickens, one does the milking. Some dry the dishes, some cut wood, some carry it in."

"They all help each other. The big boys are just as crazy about the new baby as my wife and me are."

"There never was a child born but what there was a bite made to fill his mouth with—but there have been fathers and mothers too trifling to fill a child's mouth."

"When we had one child we just lived. When we had six children we lived. Now we got 13—and we're still living."

Mrs. Harrison was named "Honorary Mother of the Year" by the Interfaith Movement in recognition of "her exemplary life as wife, mother and neighbor."

The Robert Hall clothing firm paid the expenses of the entire family here as they could see her get the award.

During a four-day stay the boys won a $3,200 jackpot in cash and prizes on a CBS network show, "On Your Account." But the wonders of Manhattan palled quickly and left the whole family homesick.

"It's corn plantin' time," explained Harrison. The tall, rawboned farmer, who had to quit school after the fourth grade to go to work, is a man of natural dignity with a rich vein of homespun humor.

"I courted for a year before I got married when I was 23," he added. "I'll never forget that day. I didn't have anything at all — only a woman." Mrs. Harrison glanced up with a shy smile — "and maybe 75 cents in my pocket. I earned only $2 the first week we were married."

After years of struggling labor during which he sometimes had to go out after his day's work and cut wood to trade it for groceries, Harrison was able with the help of a friend to buy a 72-acre hill farm.

The farm has 2 horses, 3 cows, 225 chickens, 6 or 8 hogs, a large vegetable garden. The cash crops are wheat, corn and tobacco.

"We don't spend more than $13 to $14 a week for food," Harrison said. "We raise the rest."

U.S. Top Producer Of Valuable Uranium

By PAUL HARVEY

NEW YORK—Private uranium activities in the United States now have a value of about 100 million dollars a year. The United States has become one of the leading producers of the world.

Private industry has expressed its willingness to invest in atomic power plants to produce electricity. It's estimated that within the next 20 years we'll put 40 billion dollars into developing atomic energy.

Yet, despite this anticipated expansion, we have more than enough uranium now on hand.

This is important to everybody who hunts it, digs it, and buys stock in it. Our horses are running ahead of the hounds.

Today 530 uranium mines are producing and ore production is doubling every 18 months.

According to Mr. Jesse C. Johnson, Director of Raw Materials for the Atomic Energy Commission, supplies of uranium now on hand are "adequate to meet all foreseeable military and industrial requirements."

Nobody has a more healthy respect for the immediate future of our national economy than I. I maintained that optimism all through the recent epidemic of jitters on Wall Street.

But there are presently 238 million hard earned American dollars invested in uranium stocks, and I'm offering these facts for whatever use they are to you in deciding how many of your eggs you want to put in this particular basket.

If you aim to make your fortune investing in atomic power, the head of Babcock and Wilcox says such profits are "some years away."

If you figure to buy stock in somebody's uranium mine, let's explore that possibility.

There are companies which sell stock and use most of the money gained from the sale of that stock to promote the sale of more stock.

There's no law against it. There are companies which exaggerate the value of uranium ore on their properties.

Fortunately, there are comparatively few such promotions. The SEC is now probing the uranium stocks. All they're discovering is that most of them are legitimate.

But now a sobering new consideration has been injected into the uranium race.

Uranium is destined eventually to go the way of coal. As soon as we learn to control FUSION . . . as we now control FISSION . . . we will have a new source of nuclear energy.

And we will have little further use of uranium.

Fusion is the process employed by the sun, turning hydrogen into helium, and thus creating a tremendous and inexhaustible source of power.

I say "new" . . . Actually, Jules Verne dreamed more than half a century ago of duplicating the sun's source of power.

Remember how he had Capt. Nemo in the Ten Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, say, "I power my submarine with the same source as that from which the sun gets its energy."

So fusion is not a new idea. And the realization of that dream is barely across today's scientific horizon.

Because we must not get caught short in the uranium supply which we might need for suddenly expanded weapons production, we must not discourage expanded uranium prospecting.

That is why those who know how near we are to controlling fusion . . . the far more efficient source of power . . .

That is why they . . . dare not say.

"I don't believe our medical bills have been more than $50 all told since we were married, not counting the cost of getting the boys born."

"If they get a cold I just mix up some hog lard, turpentine and kerosene, rub it on their chest—then turn 'em off barefooted. We don't pay no attention to 'em not wearing shoes."

Fire Destroys Home One Tuesday last, October a fire destroyed their home. For the first time in his life Harrison felt completely down at heart. But the next Sunday the congregations of 12 nearby churches pitched in with money, materials and labor and built the family a larger, better home.

"I think I know now what faith and friendship come to," said Harrison. "I've known a right smart of trouble, but I've had a happy life."

"But the children—they're the biggest enjoyment we've got in this world. It would be lonesome without anyone of our children. We'd miss him."

Mrs. Harrison nodded quietly.

Advice on Health

Find Reason Why Child Sucks Thumb

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

How do we keep our child from sucking his thumb? Parents frequently ask this question, although thumb-sucking in an infant is perfectly natural.

Your youngster isn't going to suck his thumb for the rest of his life. He'll stop, eventually, of his own free will. Don't worry about that. But if the habit continues as he grows older, it should be curbed.

Cured at School If he still sucks his thumb by the time he enters school, he will be ridiculed by the other children and that will make him drop the habit fast. This isn't the best cure, to be sure, but it's effective.

I think, though, you'll want to break him of this habit long before he is of school age.

I don't believe you'll have much luck with mechanical devices, such as mittens, cuffs, thumb-guards or adhesive tape. Putting bitter-tasting substances on your youngster's thumbs won't do much good either. Instead of correcting the trouble, these things might make your child want to suck even more. Scolding or nagging an older child won't cure him and might only make him unhappy and feel guilty.

Keep Him Busy You've got to determine the cause for his thumb-sucking. I think you'll usually find a child of one, two or three, or even older, will suck his thumb when he's bored or tired. Maybe he's playing too hard, or maybe he's not playing enough. Watch him.

If he tries too easily, slow him down a little.

On the other hand, maybe he should be kept busier than he is. Give him several toys to play with, keep his curiosity aroused, keep his hands busy.

Frustrated youngsters sometimes suck their thumbs. It is important to consider carefully all of your child's requests and questions. Don't come out with an automatic "No" just because you're busy at the moment.

Here's another tip. Try giving him some chewing gum. Quite frequently this is an effective cure. Or, if your child is old enough, try to reason with him. Maybe you'll find that rewarding him for not sucking his thumb will help him break the habit.

QUESTION AND ANSWER B. F. K. Will you please tell me if an injury to the left breast might become serious, and is there any treatment? I am 17.

Answer: Whether or not the injury to your breast is serious depends upon its extent and severity. In order to be sure that no damage has been done, it would be well for you to have an examination by your doctor.

The historic move was revealed yesterday. Friona School Supt. Dalton Caffey said about 700 white children enrolled have accepted the Negroes and "in fact seem rather proud of them."

6 Bomb Threats Keep Manhattan Police Hopping

NEW YORK (AP)—Six bomb threats in rapid succession kept Manhattan police hopping yesterday afternoon and last night.

Exhaustive searches were made. No bomb was found.

The threats were reported in this chronology: Macy's department store; the Roxy Theater; Webster Hall, on East 11th Street; the Academy of Music movie theater on East 14th Street; a First National City Bank branch at Canal Street and Broadway; and the Radio City Music Hall.

At Macy's, a woman shopper found a note warning that a bomb had been planted. The rest of the bomb scares were telephoned.

A homemade bomb, with death-dealing potentialities and a faulty timing device, was found in the Radio City Music Hall Monday morning. A warning had been telephoned the day before, but searches failed to discover the contrivance then.

First Important Movie Makes Star of Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What kind of a guy is James Dean? Film fans who saw "East of Eden" have been asking that. In his first important film, he emerged as a star of first magnitude. No other debut of a virtual unknown in recent years has appeared so auspicious.

A great deal has been written about Dean since his rise to fame, and much of it has been spurious. The real Dean was observed at close range on the location of "Rebel Without a Cause," his second starring film. He was emoting at the Griffith Park Observatory, which overlooks Los Angeles.

At first he doesn't seem too impressive in person. He is not so tall as most leading men. He dresses casually and mingles with the other young actors who are portraying juvenile delinquents in the film. He generally wears horn-rimmed glasses, with clip-on dark lenses when he's in the sun. He has a handsome, expressive face with a shock of blond hair.

He is somewhat amused by the legends that have already sprung up about him.

"Some of the things that have been printed about me are fantastic," he said. "One night I was supposed to have been in Ciro's, and I was also reported in two other places. How could I be in three places at once?"

"I probably should have a press agent. But I don't care what people write about me. I'll talk to the ones I like; the others can print whatever they please." This attitude has been expressed by other new stars; how long it lasts remains to be seen.

The comparison to Marlon Brando has been pointed out by most reviewers. How does he feel about it?

"It doesn't bother me," he declared. "When a new actor comes along, he's always compared to someone else. Brando was com-

Housing Authority Buys 34 Mowers

The Housing & Redevelopment Authority of Winona Wednesday accepted bids for 34 hand lawn mowers and one rotary type self-propelled power mower. Neither was the low bid.

The R. D. Cone Co. bid of $16.87 each for the 16-inch hand mowers and a bid of $144.50 for the 21-inch power mower submitted by the Auto Electric Service Co. were approved following an inspection of several hand mowers during a special meeting at the Arthur C. Thurley Homes.

Bids of the Bambenek Hardware, 429 Mankato Ave., and Robb Bros. Store, 576 E. 4th St., at $16.50 each, were rejected by the authority after the inspection because the mowers did not equal the specifications of the mower listed in the advertisement for bids. The mower purchased was the sample that was mentioned in the specifications.

Two lower bids were submitted for the power mower. These were for $112.75 by Sears Roebuck & Co., and Gene Meisch, Altura, $139.50, with a 2 per cent discount provision. The commissioners, in accepting the Auto Electric bid, said that information supplied by Sears Roebuck & Co. was insufficient and that the specifications submitted by Meisch indicated the mower to be of lower quality than the brand specified. The mower offered by Auto Electric was not the same brand as mentioned in the advertisement.

Other bids for hand mowers were submitted by Sears Roebuck & Co. at $557.97 for the 33 mowers (about $16.90 each) and Auto Electric, 2nd and Johnson streets, with several varieties of mowers, the lowest being $18.90.

Additional power mower bids were by the Larry Sales Co., Minneapolis, $152.50; Robb Bros. Store $152.46 and R. D. Cone Co., 66 E. 2nd St., $159.96.

Afghanistan Proclaims State Of Emergency

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—Afghanistan's government proclaimed a state of emergency last night and called its minister to neighboring Pakistan home.

Radio Kabul also announced mobilization of the army. It said the country was preparing to face aggression from outside, an obvious reference to Pakistan.

The Afghans and Pakistanis have been disputing for years over the rights of Pathan tribesmen living in frontier areas of Pakistan along the border between the two nations. Afghanistan backs the warrior hill tribesmen's demands for independence in a new state.

Anti-Pakistan rioting in which 47 persons were hurt broke out in Kabul in March after the Karachi government consolidated West Pakistan's half-dozen states—including the northwest frontier—into a single province of West Pakistan. Pakistan accused the Kabul government of fomenting the violence and ordered its diplomats' families home.

Left-Handed Pinstickers Irk Londoner

LONDON (AP)—"Why must people employed in factories to put pins in new shirts all be left-handers?" asks an exasperated Londoner.

The left-handed approach, C. Gower Robinson complained in a letter to the London Times, means a right-handed purchaser can't find all the pinheads and gets stuck.

And why so many pins anyway? Robinson wanted to know.

The complaint started a rousing discussion, revealing that male Britons are suffering an unexpected martyrdom. One correspondent related he had found eight obvious pins in one shirt. What irked him were three which weren't obvious. They jabbed him on a bus in the rush hour.

The shirt industry is aware of the irritations. Edward Herbert, managing director of a shirt factory, wrote:

"My company, after many years of trial and error, has devised a method of folding a new shirt securely and neatly without the use of even a single pin. Our efforts have been inspired no less by reasons of production economy than by a desire to spare our friends unnecessary pinpricks."

Pinless shirts, he said, will be on the way to London shops within a few months.

A canoe trip lasting from three to five days, a pioneering unit and overnight bike-hostel trips are among the new and exciting activities which will be offered to girls attending the Winona Girl Scout camp this summer.

Final registration for established camp will be on Saturday from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m. After Saturday, camp registrations will be opened to girls from out of the city who are now on a waiting list. Local Girl Scouts are being given the first opportunity to register, and vacancies will be filled by scouts from other communities.

Gardens Theme Of Congregational Union Meeting

The annual spring luncheon meeting of the Woman's Union of the First Congregational Church was held in the parlors of the church Wednesday afternoon with about 75 members present. Theme for the occasion, "Gardens," was carried out in the spring flower arrangement which centered the tables, in the devotions read by Mrs. Frances Sawyer and in the program.

Mrs. Howard Packard, president of the union, conducted the brief business meeting. New members were introduced, and presented with carnation boutonnieres.

Five members of the Harold Edstrom family presented a half-hour musical program. Mr. Edstrom at the Hammond organ, Mrs. Edstrom at the piano, Johnny on the drums and Lee and Tommy alternating with the accordion and the bass fiddle.

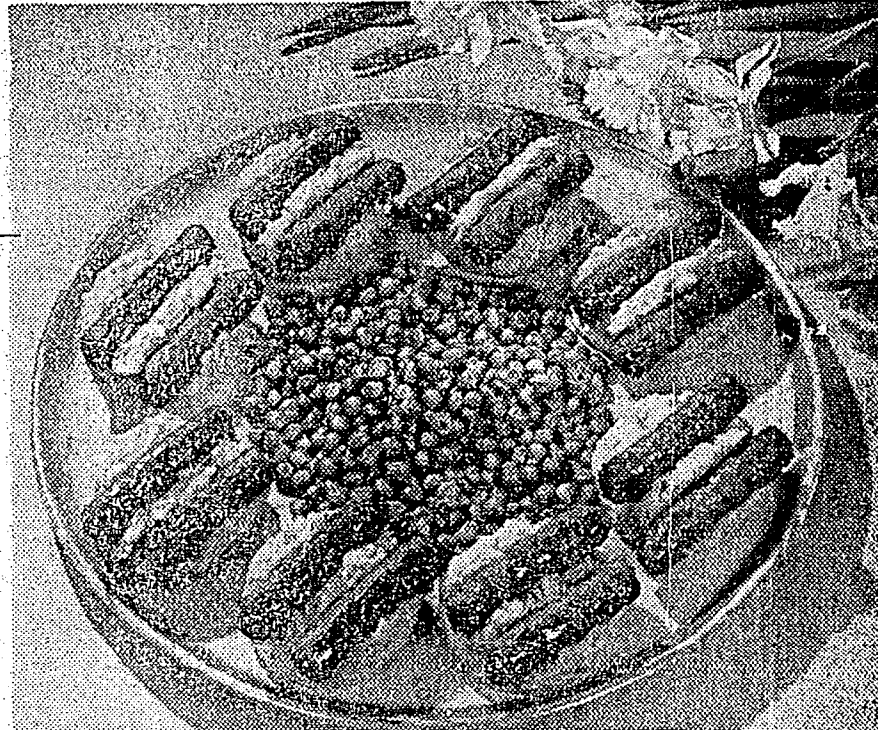

All five also sang "In the Garden," "Melody of Love" and "Little Brown Church in the Vale." Instrumental numbers were a Strauss waltz and the "Clarinet Polka." As a concluding number, the group presented the popular "Davy Crockett" with clever innovations worked out by the three boys.

Miss Gertrude Blanchard read excerpts from an article "My Garden and God" by Albert W. Palmer, taken from a copy of the Advance magazine. Mrs. Hermon Curtis, program chairman, explained that the article had belonged to the late Miss Daisy Dean Urch who was a devoted and much loved member of the Woman's Union and said that she felt it expressed not only Miss Urch's philosophy but also that of all true gardeners.

The guest authority on gardening, Mrs. A. H. Booth, was introduced and for nearly an hour, answered wittily and wisely many questions raised by her audience about shrubbery, flowering trees, roses, begonias, African violets, geranium, or what to plant on which side of the house, Mrs. Booth was prompt and explicit.

Even after the meeting was adjourned, members were still asking questions and seeking advice. Serving the luncheon were members of the social committee of the Woman's Union with Mrs. John Kolb as chairman.

Mountain lions also are known as pumas, cougars, painters, panthers and catamounts.

The Full Exciting Flavor Of Sausage makes any menu more tempting and satisfying. The above recipe, Sausage Sweet Potato Towers, consisting of a pineapple ring and a fluffy mound of sweet potato topped with juicy cooked sausage links, requires only ten minutes of baking. The new Brown 'N Serve sausages are ready to serve in the time required to thoroughly heat the mashed sweet potatoes.

To make the sausage tower, add 1/4 cup chopped pecans to 2 cups of cooked, mashed, or canned sweet potatoes. Place 1/4 cup of the mixture on each slice of pineapple and top with one or two links of the sausages. Dot with butter and spread each mound with orange marmalade. Bake in a hot oven at 400 degrees for about ten minutes.

This is one of the many quick recipes and menu suggestions which will be included in the "Meal Magic" cooking school May 12 at the Winona Senior High School auditorium to which all homemakers in the area are invited. The cooking school to be conducted here by Martha Logan, is a part of a series of activities commemorating the Swift Centennial. Tickets are available without charge from food and General Electric appliance dealers, sponsors of the schools.

Martha Logan, Nationally Known Home Economist for Swift & Co., will present a cooking school for homemakers in this area next Thursday at the Winona Senior High School. Martha Logan in reality is 30 home economists on the company's staff, all of whom take that name in their work. Miss Louise Frazier, above, displaying a tempting ham encircled with orange cups, will be the Martha Logan who will come to Winona to conduct the cooking school here.

Martha Logan To Conduct Local Cooking School

A cooking school for city homemakers will be conducted by Martha Logan, nationally known home economist for Swift & Co., May 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Winona Senior High School. The cooking schools are part of a series of activities commemorating the Swift Centennial.

The Martha Logan staff of the company is made up of 30 home economists, each one known as Martha Logan while carrying on the work of the staff.

The Martha Logan who will come to Winona for the cooking school here next Thursday, will be Louise Frazier, graduate in home economics at Pennsylvania State University. She received her master's degree from Ohio State University, and prior to coming to Swift & Co., served as home economist for a utility company, and conducted a homemaker's national television program in New Haven, Conn., and in Cleveland, Ohio.

She is a member of the American Home Economics Association, and is active in the Home Economics in Business branch of the association.

The cooking school here is being sponsored by local food dealers and Swift & Co. There is no charge for admission and free tickets are available at local food and General Electric appliance stores.

"Meal Magic" is the theme of the school which will feature a wide array of taste-tempting foods. Miss Logan will show a standing rib of beef roast and a skinless, shankless ham. Other features will be a make-your-own pastry mix for desserts and main dishes and a gourmet-style lemon barbecued chicken.

Practical know-how will be combined with approved techniques in presenting time-saving, work-saving methods of preparing and serving food. A copy of the Martha Logan Meat Cook Book will be given to each homemaker attending the cooking school.

Miss Logan is expected to arrive here by plane Tuesday morning to prepare for the school to be conducted the following Thursday evening.

Among other dishes she will prepare are a festive Frank Crown Roast, the frankfurters held upright to form a meaty crown and the center filled with heated sauerkraut. This is surrounded by parsley potatoes. A string is run through the center of the franks to hold them intact in crown form. Because the franks are fully cooked as purchased, the crown needs only to be lowered into a deep kettle of bubbling hot water until they are heated through. On the center may be filled with mashed potatoes or a favorite baked stuffing.

Other foods to be demonstrated include leg of lamb, a turkey, a hot cheese bread and a braunschweiger pineapple appetizer. Gifts to be given away at the school will be announced later.

Keep in Trim

You Need Not Go Hungry to Lose Weight

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Many of you who are burdened with excess pounds would go ahead enthusiastically and reduce if you knew you need not go hungry while reducing, and were sure you would not lose your bounce while cutting calories. Here is reassurance from a successful dieter. . . . "I think what finally gave me the courage to start was your statement that one did not have to go hungry or feel dragged out in order to slim down. I started last September and weighed in at 175 pounds. I followed a 1200 calorie diet only roughly, but was careful to trim all fats and avoid gravy and did not eat rich desserts. I stopped nibbling candy and snacks between meals.

"At the start I wore size 24 dress and it was tight on me. I now weigh 142 pounds and wear a size 18 dress and it is not too tight. I feel wonderful! I will continue to 130 pounds and hold my weight there. Thanks for all your encouragement."

All those interested, get aboard. By using the science of nutrition, all the essential nutrients can be included in optimum amounts within reducing calorie limits. The scientifically planned diet is the very essence of protection, and it is satisfying, due to careful planning and the protein included at each meal.

Overeating doesn't make for extra energy, for food eaten in excess of requirements goes into fat storage. Moreover, too many pounds are a drain on energy, for they are a burden which you have to carry. You know how weary you feel after lugging even ten pounds of groceries any distance. How many excess pounds are you constantly carrying?

On a scientifically planned diet, you draw on stored fat for part of your fuel needs, but with all protective nutrients furnished in normal amounts — not in reduced amounts — body functions go along normally and you feel fine. As excess pounds are lost, you have increased energy.

If you feel dragged out while dieting, it is not because you are lessening the load, but because you are not including in the daily menu adequate amounts of the foods which furnish materials needed for tissue repair and body regulating.

A scientifically planned low calorie diet furnishes the required nutrients in optimum amounts, through a judicious choice of foods. Every food included in a safe reducing diet furnishes its full share of repair and regulating material. Here is the low-calorie food pattern by which you can lose 1 to 2 pounds a week and have more energy.

For Protein and Minerals—Lean meat (4 to 6 ounces), 200 - 300 Eggs (1 or 2) 75 Buttermilk or skim milk, 1 glass 80 Yellow cheese (1 oz.) or second glass of buttermilk 100 For Minerals and Vitamins—Vegetables, always 1 green leafy or yellow, plus 1 starch vegetable or another.

For prolonged reducing, 1 vitamin concentrate furnishing vitamins A and D, may be used.

Soroptimists to Conduct Civil Defense Survey

Reports were given by various chairmen at the noon luncheon meeting of the Soroptimist Club of Winona held at the Steak Shop Wednesday. Mrs. Fae Griffith, president, presided during the business session.

Miss Harriet Kelley, chairman of the service committee, reported on the progress of preparations for the Civil Defense housing and feeding survey which the club is going to conduct in the city within the next two months. This is in accordance with a program outlined for them by C. A. Hedlund of the Civil Defense committee for Winona.

During the North Central Regional Soroptimist conference at Marshalltown, Iowa, April 22 to 24, Miss Kelley attended the Civil Defense workshop held there.

Miss Leona McGill and Mrs. Griffith, delegates from the local club to the conference reported on action taken during the sessions. The speaker at the Saturday evening banquet was Dr. Marcus Bach, author of "Strange Aliens," who has been making a study of the various religions of the world and has recently returned from Israel.

Dr. Bach spoke on "The Will to Believe" and among the ideas brought forth, he stressed the three beliefs that each person should have, "belief in the life hereafter," "belief in the life around us," and "belief in future life."

Mrs. Griffith reported that there are 14 regions in the United States in which Soroptimist clubs are located, and that there are now 25 clubs, composed of about 700 members in the North Central Region which includes North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota. The spring conference in 1938 will be held in St. Paul.

Reports were given on the visit of Dr. Olga Monsani to Winona and of the various entertainments planned for her during her brief stay here. A report was also made on the "Woman of the Year" award dinner, and a letter was read from Mrs. William Speich, recipient of the 1934 Golden Pineapple award as the Woman of the Year for Winona.

Mrs. H. R. Streich, chairman of the nominating committee, asked that all members return their ballots before May 11, so that election of officers can be held at the May 13 dinner meeting at the New Oaks. Mrs. Walter Kelly and Miss Keller will be hostesses at this dinner meeting. Mrs. Streich was the hostess for the luncheon meeting.

La Crosse Circuit, WMF, Convention Attended by 350

ETRICK, Wis. (Special)—The 31st annual meeting of the La Crosse circuit of the Lutheran Woman's Missionary Federation at South Beaver Creek Lutheran Church Tuesday was attended by 350.

The address of welcome was by Mrs. Harvey Johnson, president of the South Beaver Creek Aid Society, and the response was by Mrs. C. I. Anderson, La Crosse, circuit president of the WMF.

The Rev. Luther B. Keay, led the devotions and discussed the convention theme, "Follow Me." Miss Carla Holterman, staff member of the Lutheran Bible Institute, Minneapolis, further developed the theme, her talk based on her varied experiences. Miss Holterman has served as general secretary of the YWCA at Rock Island, Ill., where she organized and taught Bible classes for business girls. She is author of the book, "Path to Happier Living."

The afternoon speaker, Dr. Erling Hestenes, medical missionary, home on furlough from the South African Mission Field, told of his experiences in the Labasia Hospital in Zululand. The Rev. and Mrs. W. O. Rindahl are missionaries in the same field as Dr. Hestenes. A La Crosse circuit project of the WMF is the support of the Rev. and Mrs. Rindahl who are from the Hardies Creek Community.

Dr. Hestenes said his hospital is in need of an ambulance. Also hospital garments are always needed, since those on hand, "walk away." The doctor asked that no more sheet bandages be sent, since the supply on hand is great enough to last for ten years. While his own hospital is well equipped and needs little aid, he asks the WMF to concentrate on funds for hospitals in the Sudan and in Madagascar which are greatly in need.

G. Donald Polanz, La Crosse social worker for Lutheran welfare, briefly addressed the group on that phase of WMF work. Afternoon devotions were led by Mrs. Lavern Hanson, La Crosse. Organ music was by Miss Rose Witte, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Richard Holleque, West Salem, with Miss Ellen Knudson, West Salem, accompanying. A hymn-sing was directed by Mrs. Holleque.

Latsch Valley School Closing Discussed By County Committees

DODGE, Wis. (Special)—The county school committees of Buffalo and Trempealeau counties met with the Dodge and Latsch Valley school boards and interested voters from the Latsch Valley district in Mueller's Hall here Tuesday evening to consider a petition filed by the Latsch Valley School District. It requested dissolution.

Two factions in the district expressed wishes to be merged with the Arcadia High School District and the Dodge District. Those asking to join the Dodge District were Herman, George, Frank and Miss Mary Tuschner (all residing on the same farm), Edward Jaszewski, Dominick G. Kulas, Joseph Rebbahn and Mrs. Jacob Tulus. Those wishing to be annexed to the Arcadia High School District were Roman Doraway, Emil Glenzinski, Henry Glenzinski, Louis Giodowski and Edward Patzner.

A decision will be reached at a meeting of both county school committees and school boards involved at Fountain City Monday evening. Eugene Vogel, Arcadia, was chosen chairman of the meeting. Dist. Atty. John Quinn, Galesville, and attorneys John and Edward Kulig, Independence, were present.

The Latsch Valley School has been closed this term and Wisconsin's reorganization law forces them to become part of a larger district or districts by the end of the term. One pupil is being transported to the Dodge School, and another 13 attend the parochial school at Pine Creek.

Farmers Report Possible State Uranium Find

LITTLEFORK, Minn. (A) — Two farmers prospecting for uranium on a rock ridge near here today reported the needle on their Geiger counter "went as high as it could go and stayed there."

The report came from Her Popejoy, who farms near here, and Clarence Olson, farmer and school bus driver at Margie.

The two said they rechecked the rocky area several times and got the same high reading in the area 100 by 50 feet 10 miles south of here. The area adjoins Highway 65 on state-owned land.

Popejoy and Olson staked joint claims on an area 200 feet square. The two said they were not familiar with state regulations on claim staking and planned to contact federal officials.

Sources at the state Capitol who would be familiar with such regulations were not immediately available. It was pointed out, however, that whenever state land is sold, mineral rights are maintained by the state.

Another "good reading" on a Geiger counter was reported on the Otto Hoff farm seven miles southeast of here.

Plainview Resident's Son Named President

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special)—Dr. Charles Slocumb of Rochester, son of Mrs. Zula Slocumb, Plainview, was elected first president of the Minnesota chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation at Minneapolis.

The charter was received from the national foundation at the meeting.

Young Woman Catches Bus Despite Handicap

MIAMI (A)—A young woman ran across busy Flagler street waving toward a bus. Midway across the intersection, she stopped suddenly and grabbed her waist with both hands. It appeared she had suffered a stroke until, agilely, she stepped out of her panties, grabbed them up and ran for the bus. She made it.

12 Die in Blazing Shower of Chemical

MEXICO CITY (A)—At least 12 persons, including six bus passengers, perished last night in a blazing shower of chemical solvent from a plastics factory. Authorities feared the death toll would go higher.

Touched off by sparks from an electric circuit breaker, the flaming liquid erupted from a 2,500-gallon tank of thinning fluid. Within minutes the fiery shower had:

1. Enveloped a bus stopping at the factory gates, killing six passengers instantly and burning 20 others.

2. Set the factory afire, burning to death five or more persons inside.

3. Indirectly caused the death of a bus passenger who was struck by a falling power line as he fled from the vehicle.

Women Keep Secrets About Murder, Claim

CLEVELAND (A) — Says Capt. David Kerr, head of the homicide bureau, women can keep secrets—at least about murders.

Giving a talk yesterday on his experiences, the detective said women involved in murder cases will "talk about everything under the sun, from favorite band leaders to movie stars, but not about their men suspected of crimes."

Pick up the wife or girl friend of a male suspect, he continued, and she'll "flash big blue eyes" and claim she doesn't even know the guy.

Odd thing is, said Kerr, that when you grab a suspect he bitterly blames the girl friend "for talking too much."

Parents Told to Ignore Outlandish Attire

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (A) — Chief Judge Francis J. McCabe of the Rhode Island Juvenile Court says parents whose children wear outlandish attire and too much lipstick should treat the result as natural. He told a Parent-Teacher Assn. last night that the fancy dressers are only bidding for attention and if ignored perhaps would lose interest in showing off.

Make up a batch of cheese wafers from a standard recipe. Give them new and different flavor by sprinkling them with whole cumin seed before baking.

Farm Spokesmen Claim Plot to Kill Public Power

WASHINGTON (A) — Spokesmen for the Farmers Union Wednesday accused the administration and private utilities of plotting the destruction of public power.

They assailed the administration and the Idaho Power Co. in statements prepared for a Senate Reclamation subcommittee hearing on a bill to authorize the proposed federal Hells Canyon dam in the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon.

Idaho Power is seeking Federal Power Commission (FPC) licenses to build three dams in the Hells Canyon reach of the Snake River, which would flood the proposed federal project site.

Angus McDonald, representing President James G. Patton of the National Farmers Union, said authorization of the federal dam "would fulfill one of the legislative goals" of the Farmers Union.

"Our final objective," he said, "is to establish an economy of abundance made possible through expanding productive capacity. The goal: Maximum development of our natural resources can only be brought about by coordinating development of river valley basins.

Our program includes the establishment of such a multiple-purpose development as Hells Canyon in every river valley in the nation."

McDonald said the Republican administration "has reversed the historic policy of Congress in regard to public power which has existed for more than 50 years."

"Present department of interior administrators," he declared, "instead of carrying out their solemn oath of office, no longer are guardians of the public interest but are partners of the private power gang which would despoil and steal the peoples' resources."

C. E. Huff, manager of the Farmers Union Resources Corp., declared "The private power companies are on the march. . . spending millions of dollars in an attempt to mislead and confuse

Game, Fish Hearing Set at BRF Monday

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (Special)—The annual public game and fish hearing will be held at the courthouse here Monday at 8 p.m., according to Howard Glander, chairman of the Jackson County Conservation Congress Committee.

Committee members whose terms are expiring are Harry Palm, Hatfield, regular member, and Claire Emerson, Northfield, alternate. These seats will be voted on at the Monday night meeting.

The American people. . . attempt to wreck existing public power programs."

Bootleggers Aplenty, Who's Left to Buy?

RALEIGH, N.C. (A) — Sheriff Dwight L. Beam of Gaston County told a State Senate committee there are between 400 and 500 known bootleggers in his county. While asking legislative help to cure the situation, he declared: "I don't know how they keep from selling it to each other."

$45 Million OKed For Resettlement

GENEVA, Switzerland (A) — The Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration has approved a $45,625,000 budget to pay for the most ambitious program of its four-year history—the moving of 142,000 Europeans to new homes overseas.

The action was taken at the final session yesterday of the committee's semiannual meeting. The program calls for the resettlement of more than 50,000 Italians, 37,000 Germans and refugees living in Germany, 18,000 Austrians, 12,000 Greeks, 11,000 Dutch and 13,000 other Europeans.

Australia is to receive the largest number 48,850, followed by the United States with 34,280.

AT COUNCIL MEETING

It was Herman Luedtke of the street department—not Jack Nelson of the engineering department—who was a member of a delegation to the City Council Monday night regarding wage matters.

Legion Backs Bill To Catch Traitors

INDIANAPOLIS (A) — The National Executive Committee of the American Legion has endorsed a bill that would give the government more time to prosecute attempted treason, spying and sabotage. The bill, by Sen. Butler (R-Md.), would increase from 5 to 13 years the statute of limitations in subversive activities cases.

Manpower Cuts In Army Voted By House Bloc

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today approved the administration's planned military manpower cuts and voted $31,438,206,000 in new defense funds.

It promised additional funds in a hurry "in the event of drastically worsened world conditions."

The recommended new money, coupled with unobligated funds from previous appropriations, would give the Defense Department $49,051,000,000 to spend during the bookkeeping year starting next July 1 if the House and Senate go along.

That budget, the committee said in a formal report written by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), emphasizes "continental air defense and our increasing potential for massive retaliation in the event of enemy attack."

Subject to House action next week, the bill approved by the 50-man committee provides $744,609,000 less new money than President Eisenhower requested, but much of the cut was more technical than real.

The committee's approval of the President's plan to cut Army strength about 75,000 during the coming year is certain to touch off a House battle. Rep. Flood (D-Pa.), a committee member, said he would ask the House to boost the funds by 750 million dollars to prevent any military personnel cuts.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Mr. Tom, the gentleman cat on Pussycat Island in Frog Pond, was much excited by what Bosun had said. Uncle Wiggily's raft had arrived at Pussycat Island on a weekend voyage, and one of the first things that happened was that Mr. Tom Cat said Queen Florabell was having trouble in blowing up toy balloons to give the children at a party she was holding for them in her palace.

Everytime Queen Florabell tried to blow up a toy balloon, her sharp teeth made a hole in the balloon and it burst.

"But I know how that can be fixed!" barked Bosun, the jolly old sea dog. He had come ashore from Uncle Wiggily's raft with the others.

"How can the queen blow up the toy balloons without biting holes in them with her sharp teeth?" asked Mr. Tom Cat.

"With the air in the spare!" exclaimed the old sea dog.

"That sounds like a riddle, Mr.

Bosun," said Tom Cat who was one of Queen Florabell's helpers. "Please explain."

"Avast and belay, Cap'n Wiggily, sir!" barked the old sea dog. "Maybe you had better tell Mr. Cat. I think you can guess the riddle, can't you, Cap'n Wiggily, sir?"

"I think I can, Bosun. You are speaking of the spare tire of my automobile, are you not, Bosun?"

"Shiver my driver's license, Cap'n Wiggily, sir! You are right on the beam. Tell Mr. Tom," barked Bosun.

"It is like this, Mr. Tom," explained the rabbit gentleman. "On my raft, I have my automobile in case I should want to take a ride on any of the islands in Frog Pond where we may stop. As you know, there is a spare tire on every auto, in case of a blowout or a puncture."

"Yes, I know about autos and spare tires," mewed the cat gentleman. "Queen Florabell has an auto. But her tires are filled with condensed milk instead of air, and there is also condensed milk in the spare."

"Shiver my dog biscuit!" barked Bosun. "I never heard of such a thing! Why does Queen Florabell use condensed milk in her tires, Mr. Tom?"

"In case she gets hungry when she is out for an auto ride," explained Mr. Tom. "She drinks the condensed milk from her spare tire."

"But if she drinks the condensed milk from the spare tire, what does she do in case she gets a blowout or a puncture?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, Queen Florabell is smart!" mewed Mr. Tom. "She carries, in her auto, many cans of condensed milk. And if she happens to get hungry and drink the milk from her spare tire, she fills it again from the cans."

"I think it would be easier, Mr. Tom," said Uncle Wiggily, "for Queen Florabell to drink the condensed milk from the cans. Then she wouldn't have to bother to refill her spare tire."

"I don't believe Queen Florabell ever thought of that," said Mr. Tom. "I shall speak to her about it. But, as she is anxious to get the balloons blown up with air, and as I don't believe condensed milk would be good for the toy balloons, can you show Queen Florabell how to use the air from your spare tire, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Yes, I can," answered the rabbit gentleman. "Bosun, get the spare tire, please, and we will take it to Queen Florabell in the palace. She can soon blow up as many balloons as she needs."

No sooner said than done. Queen Florabell was surprised and delighted with the idea. Bosun showed her how to put a little rubber tube over the valve in the spare tire, snapping the tube on after the valve had been opened. Then all Queen Florabell had to do was to hold a balloon over the open end of the rubber tube. The air from Uncle Wiggily's spare tire rushed out and blew up the balloons. Mr. Tom stood by to pinch the tube after each balloon was blown up, and one of the cat queen's pussy ladies stood ready to twist the end of the blown-up balloon to keep the air in.

In a short time Queen Florabell had blown up many, many toy balloons. And, as her sharp teeth did not touch them, not a balloon was burst.

"Three cheers for the air in Uncle Wiggily's spare tire!" mewed the cat queen. So the three cheers were given. Then the queen said: "Now for the balloon party!"

Soon the jolly party had started. Something happened at it. I can tell you about it in tomorrow's story if the storage battery on daddy's auto doesn't shoot out sparks and make the steering wheel think it is the Fourth of July.

Halley's comet which put on a spectacular show in 1910 is again to be visible from the earth in the mid 1980s.

Thousands of 'Fish' Floating Over Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Thousands of "fish" floated over Japan today. Bright-colored banners, tailored to look like carp were displayed from flagpoles on almost every home in the nation to mark Children's Day, a national holiday.

To the Japanese the carp is the most spirited of fish, ready to overcome all obstacles. That's the way they want their children to be.

Ike's Promise Stills Demand on Polio Vaccine

Congress Ready With Controls if System Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's promise that Salk polio vaccine "is going to be distributed equitably" fueled today congressional demands that the government take on full supervision.

But Congress members, like the President, appeared ready to step in with mandatory controls if the voluntary system Eisenhower advocated should fail.

The President told his news conference yesterday that no child would be deprived of the vaccine "for want of ability to pay." A later White House statement went further, saying:

"If a situation ever develops in this country where children are deprived of the vaccine because of inability to pay or maldistribution of the supply available, the President would immediately ask . . . authority . . . to buy the entire output of the vaccine."

Funds for Ike

Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) said he would introduce legislation today to give Eisenhower a million-dollar fund to buy vaccine for needy children.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called for "severe penalties" against anyone who violates the voluntary allocation program being set up.

But Senators Hill (D-Ala.) and H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), chairman and senior Republican on the Senate Labor Committee, said that group will take no action this week. They spoke after hearing from Surgeon General Leonard Scheele, head of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said the committee had been assured there is "no problem," and that ample supplies will be available by November.

In New York, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said it had authorized total shipments of 7,570,400 cubic centimeters of the vaccine for free use in the school program it is sponsoring. It said that meets most of its needs.

West Virginia Case

Meantime, West Virginia reported its first case of polio among the 106,840 children given their first shots in that state, and in New Orleans a child died of polio eight days after receiving the vaccine.

These were in addition to 33 post-mortem cases which the Public Health Service said yesterday had been reported to it.

The health service said 29 of the 33 cases involved use of vaccine manufactured by Cutter Laboratories, of Berkeley, Calif. Supplies of that company's vaccine have been withdrawn for further testing. The four other cases involved supplies furnished by Eli Lilly & Co., of Indianapolis, on which no restriction has been placed.

Two previous deaths had been reported among 10 cases in Idaho. Dr. Carl Ecklund of the Public Health Service laboratory at Hamilton, Mont., said his study of the Idaho cases "points strongly to vaccine as the cause."

Army Burns 11,000 Bottles of Tablets

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Maj. J. V. Huffman, chief of the stock control division at the St. Louis Army medical depot, says 11,000 bottles of quinine sulfate tablets were burned last month because it was not economically sound to put them on the surplus market.

Each bottle contained 1,000 five-grain tablets. They cost a total of $28,050 and had a current value of $7,920. Maj. Huffman said he did not know when the tablets were acquired nor how many were still fit for use.

He said yesterday there was no longer an Army demand for the tablets which were used for malaria but had been replaced by more effective drugs. Maj. Huffman also said there was no demand from other federal agencies and they were not wanted for government stockpiling.

LOOK MY WAY

Gov. Williams Sees Plenty of Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. G. Menen Williams of Michigan said today "the Democratic party has plenty of candidates" qualified for the presidency whether Adlai E. Stevenson seeks the nomination again or not.

Williams, who previously had said Stevenson looked like a shoo-in for the 1956 nomination, said in an interview he didn't want to single out now any of the potential candidates.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas said yesterday he still opposes Stevenson. Democratic National Committee member Carmine de Sapia of New York indicated he is lukewarm toward the former Illinois governor, who lost to President Eisenhower in 1952.

The governors yesterday discussed 1956 campaign plans at a closed session which National Chairman Paul M. Butler said produced, "no dissent" to the idea that the Democrats would win the White House next year.

Butler said the Democrats plan to attack what he called "the indecisive leadership of the Eisenhower administration."

De Sapia said he told the governors the party ought to "go after Eisenhower rather than the people of second rank" in the administration.

As for his own party, De Sapia said he doesn't think "any Democrat should play coy or have to be drafted to serve as the party's nominee."

Stevenson has been silent about his plans. De Sapia called the nomination race "wide open" at this point, indicating he may seek to hold New York's 34-vote convention delegation for Gov. Averell Harriman. Harriman has said he is for Stevenson.

Busiest Day in Weeks Reported on 'Vest Pocket Front'

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist Chinese reports today dwell on the Communist buildup near the offshore islands following the busiest day along the vest pocket front in weeks.

The first battle between planes of the two sides near the Matsu Islands occurred yesterday. Nationalist planes damaged three Red gunboats near Quemoy at the southern end of the coastal front.

Nationalist quarters reported an intensification of air base construction near the Matsus and charged the Communist countries in East Asia are forming a unified military command in Peiping to launch simultaneous attacks on Formosa, South Viet Nam and South Korea.

None of these reports could be confirmed, but the buildup is not new.

One press report said the Reds have set June 15 as the deadline for finishing the Fukien coastal airports opposite Formosa.

The official Chung Hua (China) Daily News said the buildup has been pressed "with greater vigor" since Red Premier Chou En-Lai 12 days ago proposed talks with the United States to relax tension in the Formosa area.

Chou's offer was "designed to put the United States off guard while the Reds prepare for military action in the Formosa Strait, control of which they are determined to seize," charged the paper.

Yesterday's appearance of four MIG-15s 50 miles north of Matsu and their clash with the same number of Nationalist propeller-driven planes was not unexpected here but was regarded as a concrete sign of danger to the offshore islands.

Businessmen Beat Thieves to Cash

WESTERN, Neb. (AP)—After widespread reports of burglaries in this area, businessmen emptied safes and cash drawers and took all the money to the bank. It was a timely move.

Nine places were broken into yesterday. Sheriff John Tesar said, "It was pretty light pickings."

Mendes-France Gains Control Of Radical Party

PARIS (AP)—Ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France stepped out on the comeback trail today as the dominant voice in France's powerful Radical Socialist party. But his pledge to put it back in the forefront of leftist, non-Communist thinking threatened to split the organization.

His opponents accused him of seeking to lead the Radical Socialists into a working agreement with the Communists, a charge denied by the energetic former Premier.

Mendes-France won control of the party machinery last night at a stormy one-day special convention. He called for the Radical Socialists to turn to the left and agree on a specific program before next year's general election.

Once considered well to the left, the Radicals have become more and more conservative with the years and have acquired a reputation for vagueness of principle.

Man Finds Living Easier in Prison

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Edward Guntton, 59, sentenced in federal court to four years for passing a bad $3,500 check, explained that he did it to get back in prison. "I can't make a living outside of jail," he said.

U. S. Construction Firm In Iran Loses Payroll

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—A $24,000 payroll of an American construction company was seized by masked bandits in a highway hold-up. The money was for workers on the Karaj Dam, being built by Morrison Knudsen International.

Ex-Phenix City Official Acquitted

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Arch Ferrell, prosecutor at bawdy Phenix City in the days of its lush rackets empire, is free of the charge that he murdered vice foe A. L. Patterson last June 18.

The 38-year-old Ferrell sat tense yesterday as a jury returned the verdict of acquittal after deliberating 13 hours and 11 minutes. The decision came after a 12-day trial.

The young attorney, stripped of his office in the cleanup campaign which followed the Patterson slaying, had nothing to say to newsmen concerning his future plans.

Patterson was shot down outside his law office 17 days after he had been nominated as Alabama attorney general on a pledge to wipe out Phenix City's multi-million-dollar vice empire.

Ferrell was one of three men charged with the slaying. Albert Fuller, former chief deputy sheriff

Quick Signing Of New Austrian Treaty Likely

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Chances for quick signing of the Austrian independence treaty looked still better today as the Russians dropped their controversial demands on refugees and eased insistence on armament restrictions. But the Soviets and the West must still agree on the touchy issues of prewar foreign oil investments and of a declaration guaranteeing Austrian neutrality before the pact will be ready for signing by the Big Four foreign ministers.

Diplomats attending yesterday's meeting of the four powers' ambassadors and Austria's foreign minister said the picture brightened considerably when Soviet envoy Ivan I. Ilyich accepted a Western-backed, Austrian proposal to drop the treaty article on repatriation and to raise limits on Austrian rearmament.

The disputed Article 16 would have allowed Soviet repatriation teams to enter Austria—once it had won independence—to quiz refugees from Communism. Western diplomats had feared this would enable the Reds to spread propaganda inside Austria while the nation was supposed to be neutral.

Article 17, also bitterly disputed, would have imposed a 53,000-man ceiling on Austria's armed forces, limited the air force to 9 planes and barred Austria from building or taking over certain categories of equipment. Diplomats said the Russians had agreed to raise the limits to levels which were not disclosed.

Sheriff Fort Warns Of Blasting Caps
Sheriff George Fort today appealed to parents to warn their children regarding the dangers of playing with dynamite blasting caps that they might find.

The sheriff explained that the caps contain a highly sensitive explosive used in blasting operations and each year many children are injured seriously when they strike the caps with rocks or hammer or toss them into fires.

Mr. caps, sometimes found by children at abandoned blasting sites — are bright copper or aluminum tubes, about as big around as a pencil and from 1/4 to 5 inches long. A cap may or may not have a fuse attached. Some have plain or colored wires at one end.

Sheriff Fort asked parents to instruct their children never to touch any blasting cap they may find but to summon an adult or call the sheriff's office or police.

'Davy Crockett' Answers Longing, Rotary Club Told
The words of the song, "Davy Crockett" satisfies a longing in the human heart for the freedom of pioneer days and new frontiers, the Rev. Layton Jackson, pastor of the Grace Presbyterian Church, told the Rotary club at its luncheon at the Hotel Winona Wednesday.

And during that same period, Minnesota has lost its timber, most of its iron ore, and a percentage of its top soil, he added.

The movement from the land and the increase in population—at the rate of four million babies a year—mean a great strain on the family and the need for ideals, he said. The greatest inheritance to pass on to children are religious-inspired ideals, he added.

Paul Breza, Cotter, and Thomas Jensen, Senior High, were introduced as the student guests of the club for the month.

Dulles Opposes 3rd Party in Formosa Dispute

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has decided against designating any nation just now as an intermediary for the United States in efforts to get cease-fire negotiations going with Red China.

Officials cited several reasons: 1. The United States is willing to negotiate now only for a cease-fire. Dulles does not want this position itself to become a subject of bargaining so that wider issues, such as the future of Quemoy and Matsu, become involved.

2. Britain, Pakistan and India are trying on their own initiative to find out Red China's intentions. No American initiative now is essential to keep the situation moving.

3. Dulles does not want to "play favorites" among the nations trying to act as intermediaries.

In effect, this attitude puts the next move up to the Chinese Reds, and there is no lack of avenues by which they can make their views known.

Dulles is scheduled to fly to Paris tomorrow for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council. Arrangements have been made for him to discuss Far Eastern problems with French Foreign Minister Edgar Faure and British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan.

These will include Viet Nam and Formosa. On the latter, officials said the first aim is to determine whether the Reds are willing to talk about a cease-fire in the way in which Dulles has indicated the United States is willing to negotiate.

Dulles has implied the United States is ready to try to get the Chinese Communists to stop shooting but that it is not willing to pay a price in territory or other substantial concessions.

The present U. S. government view about settlement of broader Formosa issues is that it would come about in stages, probably over a long period.

WINGS AND RICE GOOD AS THE EMERGENCY MEAL

Mrs. Olive Tommen of St. Louis, Mo., joins the Chicago Daily News Chapter with Chicken Wings and Spanish Rice—an excellent emergency meal, or an "after the theater" or picnic supper dish.

10-12 chicken wings.
2 1/2 cups white rice.
2 cups water.
1 cup celery, chopped.
1/4 cup green pepper, chopped.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 medium onion, chopped.
2 1/2 teaspoons salt.
1/4 teaspoon paprika.
1 can tomato soup.

Boil rice in water as directed, rinse and drain it. Melt butter in skillet, saute onion lightly, then brown the chicken wings in this butter. Season with salt and paprika. Place 1/2 the rice in the bottom of the buttered casserole or baking dish, sprinkle the celery and green pepper over it, then the chicken wings and onions, and top with remaining rice.

Four contents of the can of tomato soup over all, and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese on the side, if desired. You can use a pound of round steak, cut in 1/2 inch cubes and seared with the onions, in place of the chicken wings.

Green Tomato Pie is one for the record. And thanks to Mrs. T. G. Overstreet, Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman Chapter. Use any good pie crust for this one. Line a pie tin and place in a 375 degree oven to partially bake. The filling includes:

Green tomatoes (number depending on size).
1/2 cup sugar.
Juice of 1/2 lemon.
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg.
1/4 cup butter.

Slice peeled or unpeeled tomatoes, place in a saucepan, and add remaining ingredients. Cook slowly, and bring to a boil, but don't let it boil! Remove from heat and pour into the partly baked pie crust. If mixture is too thick, add a little water while heating. Cover with uncooked top crust, crimp edges, sprinkle very lightly with sugar and dot with butter, or first brush top with melted butter, and bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, until crust is nicely browned.

Lamb and Ham Brochettes—This is good indoors and/or outdoors. You need seven or eight skewers to serve that many people. Cut about six pounds of lamb, shoulder or leg, into one inch cubes. Cut 1/4 inch thick slices of tenderized ham into one inch squares. Marinate the lamb with thin slices of onion and two cloves of minced garlic in claret wine for ten hours in the refrigerator.

Arrange the lamb and ham alternately on the skewers, starting and ending with a large mushroom cap if you like. Dust with salt and pepper. Broil under the broiler or outdoors over a good fire of coals, basting with the claret marinade.

Send your favorite recipe and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Winona Daily News and become a life member of The Skillet Club. We'll send you a membership card to prove it.

Naked Man Boards N. Y. Downtown Train

NEW YORK (AP)—It was balmy yesterday afternoon, about 72 degrees, and the Independent subway terminal at 207th street and Broadway was the usual busy place.

New Yorkers are noted for minding their own business and nobody seemed to notice when Patrick Grady, 30, not wearing as much as a hat or a wristwatch, calmly boarded a downtown train. The car he sat in was filling up with male and female passengers.

One elderly gentleman happened to look up from his newspaper and spotted Grady. The gentleman almost fell off his seat. That did attract some attention. One stare-at Grady—led to another and there was much scurrying to leave the car. The police were called and someone thoughtfully shut off the lights in the car.

Grady, smiling and calm but saying nothing, was taken to a hospital for observation.

St. Paul Judge 'Won't Coddle Kid Gangsters'

ST. PAUL (AP)—"When juveniles perform bigtime criminal acts, they're going to be treated like bigtime criminals."

That statement came Wednesday from Judge Clayton Parks, acting Ramsey County juvenile judge, who refused pleas by two attorneys to reconsider sending three 16-year-old burglar suspects to district courts.

"There's been too much coddling of kids who want to act like gangsters," Judge Parks said, "and I'm not going to coddle them."

Judge Parks announced at the same time he is opening his juvenile court to newspaper reporters in the future. The new policy will go into effect Friday when he hears the case of 15 teenagers arrested as a result of police breaking up a scheduled gang fight.

"It's going to be my philosophy, as long as I'm in juvenile court," Judge Parks said, "that when groups of kids 15, 16 and 17 years old run around in gangs, vandalize schools, beat up policemen and innocent people on the street, commit burglaries or holdups or use firearms, they are going to be treated like adults."

Commenting on opening the juvenile court to reporters, the judge said, "I don't see why names shouldn't be mentioned. It might be that the publicity will deter some of this type of crime."

When attorneys for the three young burglar suspects asked the judge to "give them another chance," Judge Parks replied:

"If they transgress again, then we have made no mistake. On the other hand, if they come out law-abiding and realize their wrongs, then we have made no mistake either."

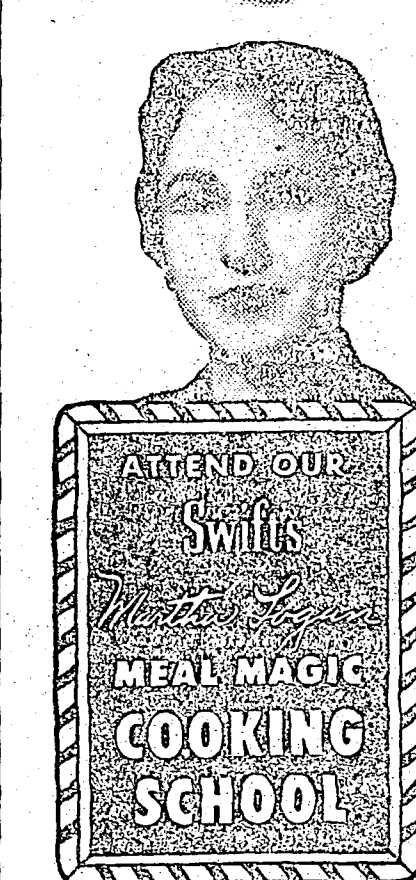

Veterinarian Gets Shaky Assignment

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—As Idaho state veterinarian, Dr. A. P. Schneider gets lots of strange requests. But he got one yesterday which really gave him the shakes.

He was asked to inspect a shipment bound for Michigan—a shipment of 200 rattlesnakes.

"I told them," he said, "I'd do it with a telescope—not a microscope." So the request, by the Michigan State Agriculture Department, was waived.

The rattlesnakes were sent by D. Shaw, a rancher in Council, Idaho, to a Michigan restaurant which specializes in exotic foods.

Hard-Hitting Peds Sweep Twin Bill

By BOB ZIEBEL
Daily News Sports Writer

The Winona State Warriors donned their hitting togs at Athletic Park Wednesday afternoon and pounded out 33 base hits to defeat Mankato State 11-2 and 18-16 in a doubleheader.

It was the first taste of action in the Bi-State Conference for the Warriors, who filled the air with 15 base hits in the first game and 18 in the second.

Jack McGrath claimed the win for the Warriors in the first game. He went the full nine innings and allowed only three hits while walking one and striking out nine. He faced only 23 men.

The Indians used two pitchers against the Warriors in the first contest, but neither could stop the big Winona bats from swinging. Marv Jenkins took the loss, giving up 11 hits and seven runs in three innings.

Jerry Grebin snapped out of a recent slump to hit three times in four trips to the plate in the first game, including a home run. In the second game he hit twice in two trips to lead the Warriors for the afternoon with five hits in six times at bat.

Don Segermark hit another Warrior home run in the first game and Jim Sendelbach and Bill Wiczorek continued the circuit parade in the second. Evan Davies rapped out triples in both games.

Sendelbach, Wiczorek, Bill Christopher, Pete Polus and Jim Miner all hit doubles to account for 11 extra base blows on the part of the Warriors.

Winning pitcher in the second game for the Warriors was Lee Paul, who pitched the first four innings. Shortly after Paul left the game, the Warriors got into trouble and dropped from an 18-5 lead to an 18-16 count. The Warriors had gone through three pitchers by this time, and called on McGrath to put the drawn-out affair to a halt. McGrath struck out three of the four men he faced to put out the fire.

The Warriors waited until the second inning of the first game to draw blood. A walk, single by McGrath, Grebin and Miner and a triple by Davies produced the runs. Winona added two more runs in the third on singles by Polus, Wiczorek and Davies before Mankato could score.

With two out, Duane Welch slammed the first hit, a double, off McGrath. Jerry Hoffman followed with a clout that appeared to be a home run as he circled the bases. But he failed to touch second and Miner took care of the chore for him to end the inning with Hoffman's run being nullified.

The Warriors added two runs in the fourth on a home run by Grebin and double by Miner followed by a single by Sendelbach. Doubles by Sendelbach and Wiczorek, a walk, and a home run by Segermark finished the Warrior scoring in the first game with four runs in the sixth.

The Warriors started fast in the second game, scoring three runs in the first inning. Grebin was walked and came all the way home as Sendelbach homered deep to centerfield. Polus followed with a single and Davies slammed a home run, but he failed to touch home plate and his run was disallowed, with his blow being scored as a triple.

Mankato tied the game in the bottom half of the first with two walks, a double and a single, but the Warriors came back with an eight-run outburst in the second inning.

Pitcher Bill Duncan of Mankato walked the first six men he faced in the second in addition to throwing two wild pitches and he left the game with the bases full and three runs across. Polus hit a sacrifice fly for one more run and Davies, Wiczorek and Christopher all hit singles.

Mankato scored two runs in the third on a hit, walk and two Warriors errors. The Warriors also scored two in the third and added five in the fourth to only one for Mankato.

The big blow in the five-run fourth was Wiczorek's tremendous blast over the trees in right-center field to open the inning.

Five other Warriors—Christopher, Grebin, Miner, Polus and Davies—also collected hits in the fourth, with Polus slamming out a two-bagger.

The Indians exploded in the fifth, however, as reliever Daryl Wohler had trouble finding the plate. He walked seven men and gave up two hits before retiring in favor of Duane Halverson with eight runs across for Mankato.

Halverson gave up a single to allow two more runs before the inning ended. In the sixth Halverson was wild and gave up two more runs on four walks and a double. McGrath came in with the bases loaded and two out and struck out pinch-hitter Edgar to end the inning.

McGrath then struck out two of the last three men in the seventh inning to end the ball game.

Old-Fashioned Home Run Key to Brooklyn Success

By WILL GRIMSLEY
The Associated Press

The secret of the Brooklyn Dodgers' staggering head start in the National League now is out in the open, and it's not a complicated one. It's nothing more than the old-fashioned home run.

Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Roy Campanella hit three more at Ebbets Field last night to crush the St. Louis Cardinals 12-4.

This was their sixth victory in a row, their 17th in 19 starts. It gave them a 6½ game lead over second-place Chicago.

The Dodgers have hit 32 home runs, accounting for 59 runs. Many of them have come at "clutch" moments.

Right fielder Carl Furillo leads with eight. Snider has seven and Campanella five.

While the Dodgers keep right on sizzling, the other red-hot teams in both leagues run into occasional cool-off periods.

The Cleveland Indians, American League leaders, who have won seven of their last eight, were chilled by the New York Yankees, who scored seven runs in the last two innings to win 11-5. The brash Detroit Tigers, winners of 9 of 10 and facing a chance to take over the league lead, dropped a taut 11-inning game to the Boston Red Sox 3-2.

The Chicago Cubs saw a four-game winning streak snapped at the Polo Grounds, where an 11th-inning home run by Whitey Lockman gave the reshuffled New York Giants a 4-3 triumph.

The Kansas City Athletics defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 for their seventh victory in nine games. The Pittsburgh Pirates won their fourth straight, whacking Milwaukee 5-4.

The Washington Senators smothered a late rally to shade the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Cincinnati's Redlegs walloped the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 with the aid of two home runs by Wally Post.

Both Snider and Campanella hit their homers for Brooklyn with two men on base while Hodges socked a loner. The Dodgers continued to get good hitting and pitching when they needed it. Johnny Podres gave up nine hits, including home runs to Rip Repulski and Ken Boyer, but he never was in grave danger.

Manager Leo Durocher shook up the batting order of his world champion Giants and the move paid dividends. Young Foster Castelman, replacing Dave Williams at second, got the first home run of his major league career. Ruben Gomez won the tense mound duel from Sam Jones.

Rookie Roberto Clemente made a spectacular catch to save the Pittsburgh game. He ran deep to the right field stands to spear George Crowe's long drive with two out in the ninth and two men on base for Milwaukee.

At Cleveland, the Yankees scored four runs in the eighth and three in the ninth to crush Bob Lemon's bid for his sixth straight victory. Yogi Berra homered for the Yanks and Dave Pope for the Indians. Tom Morgan, who relieved Bob Grim in the seventh, was credited with the win.

Willard Nixon, although replaced by Ellis Kinder in the 11th, pitched the Red Sox to their first victory in seven games, bettering Frank Lary in a good mound duel. The deciding run came in the 11th after the bases were filled by two singles and a walk. An infield out by Tony Lepcio brought Harry Agganis home.

A home run by Gus Zernial and some tight relief pitching by Tom Gorman accounted for the Athletics' verdict over Baltimore. Chuck Stobbs did a top-flight relief job for Washington's Bob Porterfield at Chicago. He came into the game in the ninth to stop the White Sox with two men on base and one out.

Marciano Takes Knockdown from Sparring Mate

CALISTOGA, Calif. (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano was "properly nailed" and floored yesterday by a sparring mate's left hook to the jaw.

"It was a knockdown, no question about it," said Peter Wilson, of the London Daily Mirror. Wilson was one of five British boxing writers watching Rocky work out with Toxic Hall, of Chicago, a 200-pounder.

There was no question, either, that the second knockdown in Rocky's career couldn't have come at a better time in the buildup for Marciano's May 16 title defense against British challenger Don Cockcroft at Ebbets Field.

Rocky, floored by Jersey Joe Walcott's left hook for a fourth time in the first round of their Sept. 23, 1952, title fight, is a heavy favorite to beat Cockcroft by a knockout.

Manager Al Weill, seemingly surprised at seeing Rocky on the canvas in a training workout with 16-ounce gloves, recovered quickly to exploit the punch.

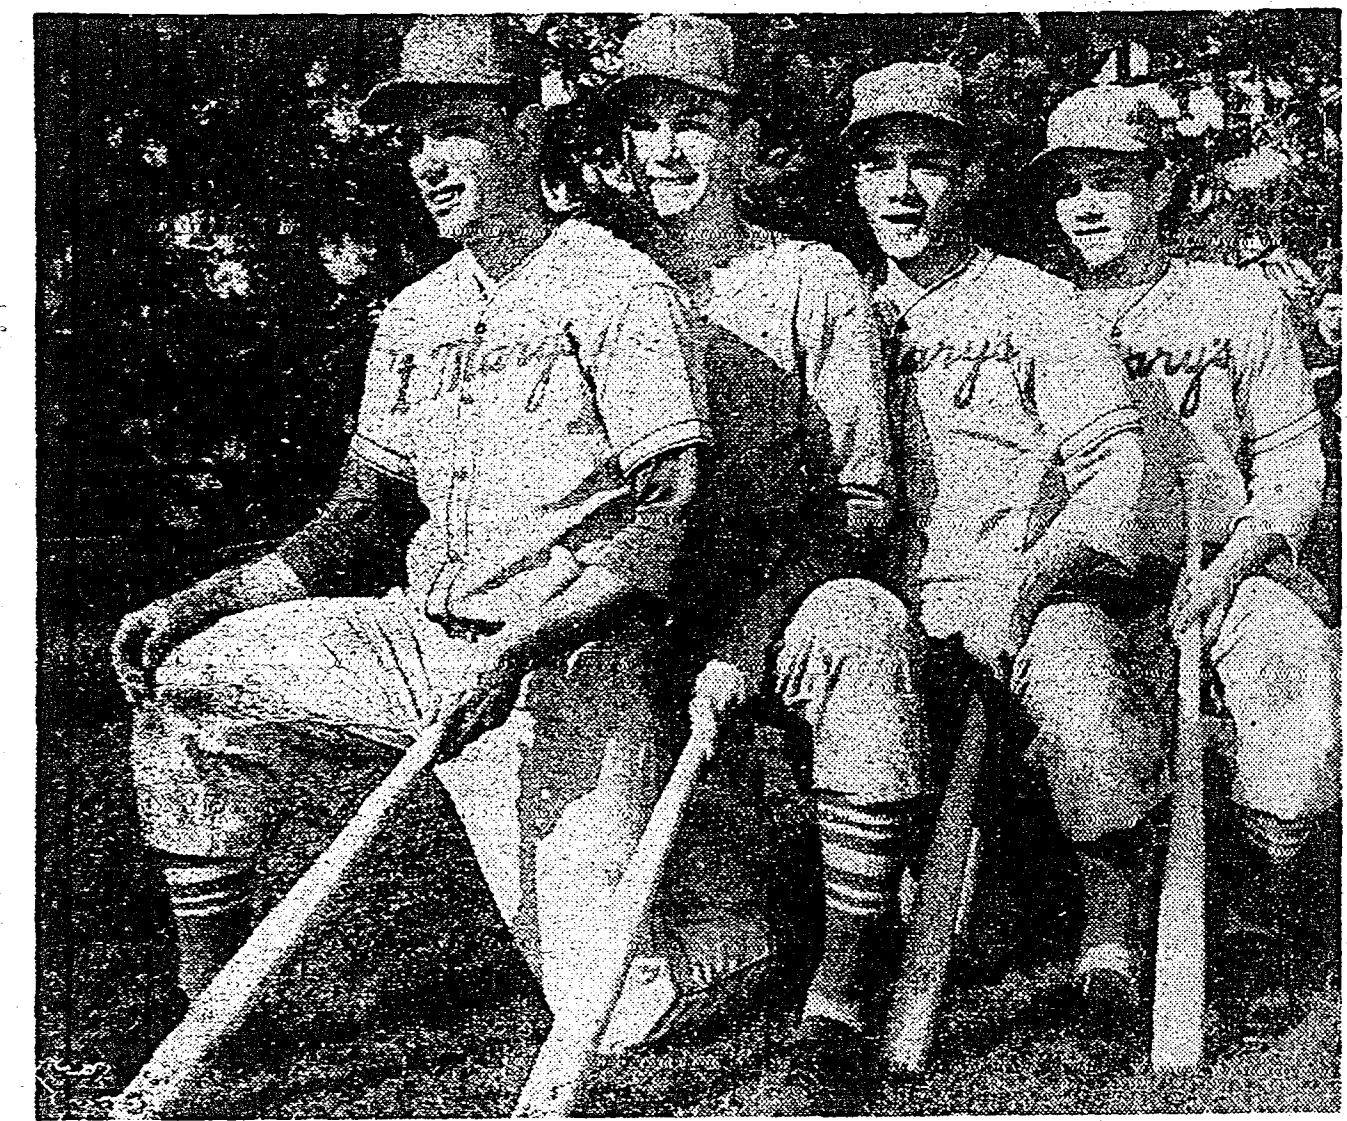

"It only goes to show," he said, "that anything can happen when two men are in there swinging."

Wilson, telling what he saw, said, "Both men threw left hooks. It was Hall's that landed."

"Marciano was down for three seconds, maybe four. Then he was back on his feet."

St. Mary's Whips Gusties, Shrake Hurls Three-Hitter

ST. PETER, Minn. — The St. Mary's Redmen moved past the .500 mark in Minnesota College Conference baseball by posting a 5-1 victory over Gustavus Adolphus here Wednesday afternoon.

It was the fourth victory against three defeats for the Redmen in conference competition and for Joe Shrake, St. Mary's winning pitcher, his fourth win against two conference setbacks.

Shrake, the little left-hander with precision control, granted the free-swinging Gusties just three hits over the nine-inning span.

The only run Gustavus scored, in the second inning, was unearned. Shrake walked only one batter and struck out 11.

Shrake's performance against Gustavus increased his impressive set of pitching statistics.

In 42 innings of conference mound work, he has allowed only four earned runs and 28 hits. More remarkable is his record of 54 strikeouts and eight walks over the same span.

The only run scored by the Gusties Wednesday came with one out when Gustavus catcher Dick Ekmanoff was safe on a throw and was tripped home by Dave Westphal. Shrake retired the next two batters to end the threat.

St. Mary's scored three in the top of the second and single tallies in the eighth and ninth innings.

In the St. Mary's second, Dick Kuehl doubled and Duane Kuehl singled. Dick scored on a double single and Len Sparacino's single drew Duane. Tom Donovan played a walk, followed by Ken Monaco's single that scored Sparacino.

Bennie Palmentieri tripled in the eighth and came home on an infield out. In the ninth, Ep Holten doubled, went to third on Sparacino's sacrifice and tallied on Tom Hibbs' single.

Dale Enning, the Gustavus pitcher who went the distance, gave up 11 hits, struck out six batters and walked two. Duane Kuehl, Holten and Hibbs all had two hits apiece for St. Mary's.

The Redmen were scheduled to play La Crosse Teachers in a return game at Terrace Heights Friday afternoon. The La Crosse Peds won the first game.

Miller Hurls Omaha to First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One good reason for Omaha's perch on the top rung in the American Association standings is a right-handed control artist named Stu Miller.

Miller has yielded only two earned runs in the last 38 innings he has pitched, a record bolstered Wednesday night as he hurled the Cardinals to a four-hit 4-0 verdict over Indianapolis.

Omaha, previously in front by only a slim 17 percentage points, pulled into a full game lead as Minneapolis bowed to Charleston, 4-2, and dropped back to a second place tie with Louisville, 7-4 victor over Denver. St. Paul edged past Toledo into fourth place by taking a 6-5 victory.

At Charleston, the Senators chased former major leaguer Ralph Branca with three runs in the first frame, partly thanks to a pair of walks. Southpaw Ross Grimsley limited Minneapolis to five hits and missed a shutout only because of home run pitches to the Millers' George Wilson in the first and Carl Sawatski in the fourth.

The Saints shelled four Sox hurlers for 11 safeties, including Walt Morry's two-run homer off Dan McMahon in the first. It was the sixth loss in a seven-game home stand for Toledo, the league leaders a week ago.

Gopher Football Prices Raised

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The University of Minnesota Wednesday boosted the price of reserve seats for home football games back to $3.60, the price in effect in 1953 before the federal tax was removed.

The action was taken by the school's senate committee on inter-collegiate athletics to bring Minnesota "in line" with almost all Big Ten schools on ticket charges.

Minnesota last year cut back its reserve seat ticket price to $3.25 after the federal tax on athletic event tickets was eliminated.

West Virginia University has a twin battery on its baseball team in pitcher James Baliker and catcher John Baliker.

State of Shock

Lippy Leo Took a Nap During Game

NEW YORK (AP)—"I fell asleep on the bench. That's the first time I ever did that."

Coming from the lips of Leo Durocher, often proclaimed as the most alert of all managers, that is a shocking statement.

"That's right," the manager of the New York Giants repeated. "I made a wrong decision because I lost track of the other team's lineup. Luckily, it didn't hurt us but I pulled a rock."

Durocher then went on to explain his "rock," which didn't prevent the Giants from winning a 4-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs in 11 innings yesterday.

There was one out in the Cubs' half of the eighth inning with the score tied at 3-3 when Ernie Banks raised a routine high fly to straightaway center. Willie Mays camped under the ball and prepared to gather it in his usual below-the-belt fashion. Then, to the amazement of all present, Willie dropped it.

With the winning run in scoring position, Durocher ordered Ruben Gomez to give an intentional pass to Clyde McCullough. Leo's strategy looked good when Gene Baker, the next batter, lined into an inning-ending double play.

"Good strategy, my foot," mocked Durocher after the game. "It was a real rock. I thought the pitcher was up next. That's why I ordered McCullough walked. I forgot that Baker was the next hitter. Imagine walking McCullough for Baker, who is twice as good a hitter as McCullough is."

"Maybe I was in a state of shock after seeing Willie drop one."

St. Mary's Cards Win Over Gusties

ST. PETER, Minn. — The St. Mary's College golf team carded an 11½-8½ victory over Gustavus Adolphus here Wednesday. Medalist was Gustavus' Lee Carlson with 76. George Jirsa paced the winning Redmen with 79. Next match for the St. Mary's swingers will be Tuesday at Rochester against Rochester Junior College.

Hawk Thinclads In Triangular

The Winona High track team played host to St. Charles and Lanesboro in a triangular meet this afternoon at Jefferson Field at 3:30 p.m. Other teams involved were St. Charles and Lanesboro.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker was the first to win 90 races in 1955.

Whitehall Golfers Compete at Durand

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—The Whitehall High School golf team competed in a triangular meet with Durand and New Richmond at Durand Saturday. New Richmond won with a score of 250, followed by Durand with 261 and Whitehall with 271.

Individual scores for Whitehall were Gary Johnson, 43-44-87; Marilyn Kiebig, 41-43-84; Toby Ellison, 57-62-119; John Giesen, 40-41, and LeRoy Klavestad, 49-49-98.

Fight Results

DETROIT (AP)—"Sugar" Ray Robinson, 19½, New York, outpointed Garth Panter, 16½, Salt Lake City, 10.

Burton Shipley, University of Maryland baseball coach, is now in his 32nd season as mentor of the diamond squad.

Sugar Ray Coasts To Easy Decision

DETROIT (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson looks a little sharper and a little faster in his ring comeback, but his opposition remains of questionable quality.

Robinson recovered from a staggering right to the head in the first round to win an easy and unanimous 10-round decision over slow-moving Garth Panter of Salt Lake City Wednesday night. The bout was not televised.

Panter, a once-promising youngster, didn't figure to give Robinson anything more than a good workout, and that's exactly how it turned out.

It was Robinson's fifth fight in a comeback aimed at a title shot against middleweight champion Bobo Olson. He won four, losing a decisive 10-round decision to Ralph (Tiger) Jones last January in Chicago.

Robinson's last fight was a 10-round decision over Garth Panter, 16½, Salt Lake City, 10.

Harmony Defeats Spring Valley

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special)—Harmony staved off a Spring Valley rally in the last of the seventh inning and won a 7-6 game in the West Division of District One.

Harmony held a 7-0 lead until the host Spring Valley team erupted for all of its runs in the last inning. Bob Wilson who went the distance and collected the win for Harmony, gave up 10 hits, struck out a dozen batters and walked five.

In addition, Wilson got three hits in four trips to the plate, while teammate Dick Engel batted two-for-four.

Larry Nelson, Spring Valley pitcher, homered in the seventh and also had a single. Jon Wordelman and Dale Jache both had two hits for Spring Valley.

Bowler Hits 705 For Third in ABC

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—For the first time in three days there was a change Wednesday in the top standings in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Andy Selin, a Syracuse, N.Y., electric company employe, went into the fifth place in the singles, with a 705 total. He had games of 202, 246 and 257 to tie Andrew Piraini II, also of Syracuse. Leader in the singles is Eddie Gerzine, of Milwaukee with 738.

No changes were recorded among the top 10 in the other divisions and there hasn't been a change in first place in any division for two weeks. It was two weeks ago that Pfeiffer's Beer team of Detroit rolled 3,136 to take the open division lead.

Fred Bujack, a member of the Pfeiffer team, has the all-events lead with 1,993. Topping the doubles with 1,365 are Harry Zoeller and George Packer of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The tourney, now in its 41st day, ends June 5.

Timberlake Signs For Packer Grid

GREEN BAY (AP)—George Timberlake, great linebacker at Southern California who was lost to the Green Bay Packers last year because of injuries, has signed for the 1955 National Football League season.

Timberlake, 27, was a first-round pick in the 1954 draft by the Packers.

He played in 1954 for the Los Angeles Rams, where he was injured in a game against the Chicago Bears.

Timberlake was a member of the Packers' 1954 championship team, but was injured in a game against the Detroit Lions.

He was a member of the Packers' 1955 championship team, but was injured in a game against the Detroit Lions.

Profits Running Ahead of 1954 In Many Lines

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Stockholders, labor union leaders and tax collectors have a happy gleam in their eyes today. Corporate profits are running 27 per cent ahead of last year. And each group hopes to tap a larger share of that golden flow.

Cash dividends in the first three months of the year rose 6 per cent over a year ago to a total of 2 1-3 billion dollars. Labor union leaders are expected to ask for bigger wage hikes this year than last.

The Treasury officials, scanning the first-quarter reports of corporations, note happily that business is setting aside much larger reserves for federal income taxes than it did a year ago.

Economists of the National City Bank of New York report that 576 manufacturing companies whose first-quarter earnings statements are now available have set aside as reserves for federal income taxes almost two billion dollars.

Policeman May Have to Scratch for Evidence

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—There has been no action in the case, but policeman Johnny Perez said he had "enough evidence."

A San Antonio woman complained to police that a neighbor was harboring 36 cats in a one-room house. Perez found all the doors locked when he got to the house, he said, but could hear considerable movement inside. He returned to the police station — covered with fleas.

This is a gain of almost 500 million, or 32 per cent, over the first three months of 1954.

Prospects for the months ahead are brighter today too. The Commerce Department reports that manufacturers found March one of their best months in history. They took in 29 billion dollars worth of new orders in that month alone, five billion more than in the same month last year.

It means that sales will continue at a high level for several months ahead. When these new orders turn into sales at some future date, Uncle Sam will be right on hand to see that around one half of the profit on them is turned over to him as corporate income tax.

Usually smallmouths stay out of the sun.

Winona Child 2nd in Nation

A 5-year-old Winonan has been named second place winner in the nationwide contest to select a Miss Sunbeam of 1955, the bakers of Sunbeam bread announced today. She is Susan Jean Manthe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Manthe, 1814 W. 5th St.

First place winner was Deborah McCann, Bakersfield, Calif. For her selection as best resembling the famed blonde, blue-eyed trademark of the bread, she'll receive a trip to Europe, accompanied by her parents, and other prizes.

Susan Jean, winner of the La Crosse regional competition, has been awarded an electric range, 20-volume encyclopedia set and a doll. More than 38,000 ballots were cast in the regional contest for Susan Jean and three other award winners.

The sad stories of those correspondents in Las Vegas waiting in vain for the atom bomb to drop were singularly reminiscent of the state of mind of the man in the hotel who couldn't go to sleep because the fellow in the room overhead hadn't dropped his other shoe.

Driver Doing 80 Says Battery Needed Charge

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Espynola Fuller, 23, testified in Traffic Court she was doing 80 miles an hour but only to charge her car battery. The excuse wasn't good enough for Traffic Referee John M. Wise.

She was fined $75 and told not to drive for two months.

Talking Crow Moves in on St. Paul Family

ST. PAUL (AP) — From out of nowhere a voice said, "Damn you, shut up!"

Ray Sonnee, talking over the back fence to a neighbor, looked up and sure enough it was the big black crow that has been pestering the family for days.

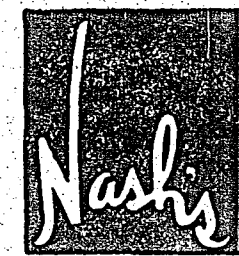

"He's as big as a chicken," Sonnee said Tuesday night at his North St. Paul home.

"This afternoon he sneaked up behind my wife and scared the wits out of her. She was going to turn the hose on him, but he opened his mouth and it was about two inches wide. She dropped the hose and ran."

Monday Mrs. Sonnee and the crow had a similar encounter, and it ended the same way.

The crow established residence in a tree behind the Sonnees home several weeks ago.

In appearance the Brittany is a compact, leggy, short-eared spaniel that looks somewhat like a small English setter. In color he is white and orange, or white and liver, with some ticking.

New Governor Of Maine Far From Forgotten

By ROBERT N. CROCKER

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Eight months after his election as governor of Maine, Ed Muskie is still a little surprised at the importance of human relations in the job.

He is also startled to find he has by no means been forgotten outside the state.

The 41-year-old Waterville lawyer upset Maine tradition to win election last September as the first Democratic governor in 20 years. As expected, he was much in demand for the next two months until the November elections, stumping the Eastern half of the country for the Democratic party.

He had expected out-of-state speaking invitations to slack off after November. They haven't, although their character has changed.

At first he was asked to speak primarily at political rallies. Now he is receiving more bids from trade associations and schools, and Polish - American organizations since he is of Polish ancestry.

He hasn't been able to accept many. Any governor has his hands full when his state's legislature is in session. But when the legislature is Republican-dominated and the governor is a Democrat, the problems are magnified.

Muskie has been striving for closer cooperation, and with individual Republicans feels he has achieved it, at least temporarily. But when Republican leaders meet with him in their official capacity, party lines become hard barriers to crack.

Dealing with legislators and their problems is a big part of the governor's job, but his capacity for human relations has been put to other tests.

Through his intercession and that of members of his executive council, private financing was found for the little northern Maine border town of Ste. Agathe, where schools had been closed for temporary lack of funds. The loan extension enabled the town to reopen the schools and tax payments finally put the town back on firm financial ground.

In a more complicated matter Muskie got together the warring factions in the Bates Mfg. Co., the out-of-state majority stockholder and the management of the big cotton textile firm. The management had had legislation introduced to restrict sale or loans to, or merger with, an out-of-state corporation. They claimed they feared Bates and its 6,000 jobs would be moved away unless prevented by law.

That dispute still hasn't been settled, although the majority owners, Lester Martin and his Consolidated Textile Co., Inc. of New York, have reported offering a five-year contract extension to the Arizona Cattle Inspector Tom Jones counts another dead steer which perished in northeastern Arizona's worst drought in 50 years. Frost, wind and lack of rain have ruined the ranges. Eight Arizona counties have been granted federal drought aid and four others are asking for assistance. (AP Wirephoto)

Bates president, Herman D. Ruhm Jr.

Many less important problems cross the governor's desk in his daily mail. Although about 90 per cent of the mail can be screened out by the office staff, Muskie still must answer 40 to 50 letters a day. Few of these concern job requests, he said, and he has "surprisingly little mail on pending legislation."

The governor's time with his wife, Jane, and their children, Stevie, 6, and Ellen, 5, is limited. Except for walks and rides, there is little chance for recreation away from home without being on official duty. But beyond that, "it's a pretty normal life," Muskie said.

Out of the Bag

CLOVIS, N. M. (AP)—Witness Paul Nisbett was a day late for a trial in Dist. Judge E. T. Hensley's court. Asked the judge: "Where were you?" Answered Nisbett: "Went fishing." Said the judge: "Ten days." Then Judge Hensley turned down Nisbett's plea that his fishing chum be allowed to bring him his sleeping bag. "Common jail," the judge ruled.

FISH TALE

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Gourmets may shudder at the thought, but the University of Maryland has in mind an experiment to determine if a famed Maryland delicacy—terrapien—can be canned.

The job will start on a small scale while experts at a seafood processing laboratory attempt to find a cheap and practical method of processing the delicacy. Lab men have a couple of thousand subjects available for experimentation. They were shipped from a U.S. government pool in Beaufort, N. C., to make room for fish undergoing H-bomb radiation tests.

My New York

Cagney Still a Hooper

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK — Nostalgia is an item from which the New Yorker shies, as from a striking cobra. If he is in show business, he may turn it on professionally and have the simple ones crying in their beer at ringside, but when he is leading his own personal life, he turns his back on yesterday. To him the past is, as Carl Sandburg once wrote, a bucket of ashes.

Once in a while it creeps up on you, however, and there you are suddenly, caught by it, unable to get away . . . and so at last, leaning back and enjoying it. It was that way this afternoon with Jim Cagney, a man with red hair who came from Manhattan's Yorkville and has gone a long way in the entertainment business.

We were sitting around in the big, airy living room of his penthouse apartment in the Stanhope, just across from the Museum of Art on Fifth avenue. We started out talking about hotel rooms we had known and how New York had changed since he was a boy here—and before you knew it, there was nostalgia sitting on our shoulders like a pleasant albatross.

"What was I like as dancer?" He leaned back, a quietly dressed man in brown suit and gray tie, and looked serious, the way he does more often than not. "Well, I was a hooper. A pretty good one. I still do it, you know. Two, three times a week. It comes harder now than it did when I was 20. Listen—in those days, I woke up every morning—every morning, mind you—with an ache or pain. How do you think I wake up now?"

"I remember when I first tried out for a dancing job in a vaudeville act. It was up at the 81st Street theater, and when I was hired, we went right to Philadelphia. Even after that, it always seemed as if I broke in a new act in Philadelphia. Hazelton, Harrisburg, Shamokin—all those Pennsylvania towns . . . people in my business used to call it the Cagney circuit."

"We always were breaking in new acts, too. An act would last maybe 20 weeks and then we'd come up with something new. I did everything. Soft shoe, lines, patter, humor, straight dancing for a whole act—everything. It was experience. I guess it was good for me. I married Billie Vernon, with whom I did an act once, and she was always better than me."

But the critic from Milan's influential Corriere della Sera branded Cagney's paintings "cold and mechanical." He said "all Cagney's art suffers and dies for a far too mechanical style."

Cagney himself was pleased by the reception of his paintings, which he has hidden in a little Paris studio all these years and showed only to close friends.

Funny thing, neither of us particularly cared about dancing."

The sun went down a little lower across Central Park and Jim Cagney kept on going, about life in Yorkville, the German-Irish section where he grew up, and Artie Klein, his best friend here, who works in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and pictures he had made. A ragbag of reminiscences, mellow and glowing. When you get at last to dancers. When you get a man like this, an old pro, you naturally get him down and ask him about the best ones. "Well," he said slowly, "I copied a lot of my style from Harland Dixon and he was great, but you'd have to say the best was Fred Astaire. Who could beat him? Then, among the women, they don't come a good deal better than Eleanor Powell, even if she's out of that kind of action these days. You know who can dance? Doris Day. Believe me, she's good. Ginger Rogers is better than she ever looked on the screen. And Ann Miller is great. Simply great." The afternoon wore away, just that way. It was nostalgic talk by an intelligent man, here in connection with his new film, "Run for Cover," who doesn't get maudlin but who doesn't jump away from sentiment.

I asked him if he could say anything about the way he acts and what he thinks of it. He threw up his hands. "I haven't got any perspective at all," he said. "All I do is put it in the public's hands and hope. I don't know if I'm good, indifferent or lousy."

Cagney is an unusual actor. An unusual actor, indeed.

Matching Pants Bring Jail Term

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Matching coat and pants sent Michael Henry Williams to prison for 10 years. Officer E. L. Kennedy testified he found a capsule of heroin in the pocket of a black-and-red coat hanging in Williams' home. Williams was wearing the matching pants at the time, the officer said.

In England, alfalfa is called lucerne.

Are you giving your children too many "empty" energy foods?

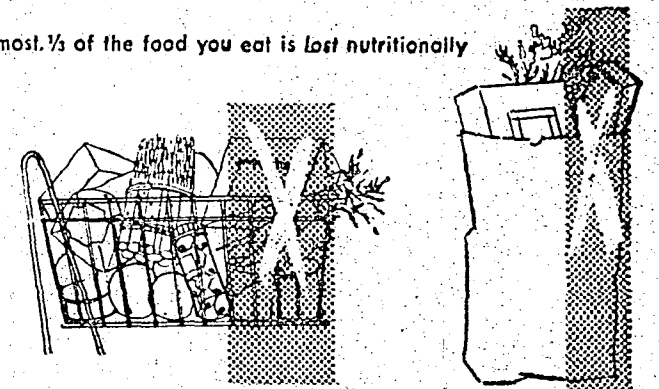

Food authorities say one-third of what children eat today is "empty energy" foods . . . foods "empty" of vital protein, vitamins and minerals found in the great protective foods . . . like energy-packed Sunbeam Bread.

Sunbeam Bread, in addition to giving your children energy, also provides nutrition. That's only one reason why Sunbeam Energy is so good. You see . . . most "quick energy" foods are burned up in a few moments . . . then your children suffer a letdown. With Sunbeam Bread they enjoy the kind of energy that lasts.

Give them Sunbeam Bread every meal, every day. Sunbeam, packed with essential food elements, is the right kind of energy food. It's the right kind of bread. Reach for a fresh, delicious loaf of energy-packed Sunbeam today.

"Empty" Energy foods make up 32% of America's food consumption

Almost 1/3 of the food you eat is lost nutritionally

That's right, 32% of the foods you are eating now provide none of the vital minerals and vitamins. That means you are asking 68% of your foods to do a 100% job of nutrition.

By substituting Sunbeam Bread for some of these empty energy foods, you would enjoy just as much energy, but would get more of the nutritional basics you need every day at the same time.

Artistic Pen, Ink Drawing Effect Achieved

By IRVING DESFOR

NEW YORK (AP)—It is possible, by means of photography, to achieve an artistic pen-and-ink drawing effect from an original photograph. Though this tone-line process, as it is called, has been around for several years, it took a current application of the process to make it look fresh, ingenious and practical.

Thanks to Thomas L. Williams, staff photographer of Colonial Williamsburg, I've seen the latest examples of the work. They will illustrate the president's Annual Report of the famous Virginia historical attraction in the near future.

It is a process which any serious amateur photographer can handle in his own darkroom. Landscapes and architectural studies are especially suited for this technique but any good, sharp negative can be used. Best results are obtained with a 4x5-inch negative size or larger. It is not recommended for miniature camera work.

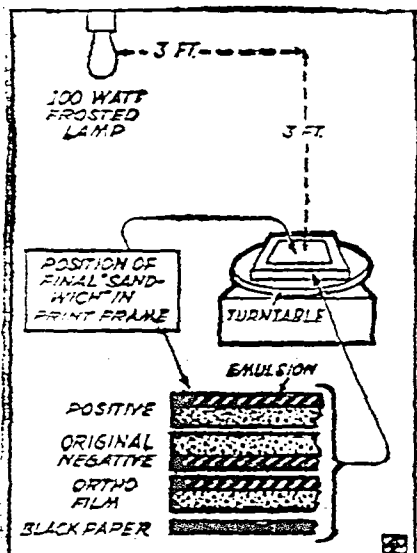

The materials needed are: 1. Original negative. 2. Super XX cut film same size as original negative. 3. Contact printing frame. 4. D 11 developer. 5. Kodalith ortho film, type 2. 6. Kodalith developer. 7. A turntable.

Williams has outlined the step-by-step procedure he has used in achieving successful results.

First, it is necessary to make a positive transparency. In total darkness, the original negative and a sheet of super XX film are sandwiched together, emulsion to emulsion. At this point, before any exposure, you can make register holes with a punch or a pin through both negative for easier registration later. The sandwich, in a contact printing frame, is normally given a five second exposure. The light source is a 7 watt frosted lamp (usually called a "night light") which is six feet from the film.

The film is developed for about four minutes in straight D 11 at 68 degrees with constant agitation. The result should look like a good quality, black-and-white lantern slide.

The second step is to make an exact register of the positive and the original negative and tape them in place. It is important that the emulsion sides are on the outside and the gelatin sides are together on the inside. This sandwich is placed in the contact print frame with the emulsion of the original negative on top, next to the glass. A sheet of Kodalith ortho film, type 2 is placed under the positive transparency, emulsion to emulsion. A sheet of black paper is placed under the ortho film.

The printing frame is now placed on a turntable. This could be a home-made lazy-susan affair or a regular record player which rotates about one revolution per second.

Three feet above the printing frame and three feet to one side, a 100 watt frosted lamp is placed. This provides illumination at a 45 degree angle. Exposure time is about eight seconds while the turntable revolves. The negative is developed in Kodalith developer at 68 degrees by inspection under a red safelight since this is ortho film.

The next step is to enlarge the line drawing which you now have on a suitable contrast matte paper. This can be made more effective by adding details with India ink and removing others with opaque white paint. If this is done, the final step is to copy the retouched print.

Williams assures me that once the materials are gathered, the process sounds more complicated in print than in practice. If you wish to consult the original directions in greater technical detail, it's available by writing to Eastman Kodak, Rochester, N.Y., and asking for the "Tone-Line Process" pamphlet.

Fliers Pay $200 Per Illegal Flight

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Two of three fliers accused of violating the federal ban against airplane travel into the Superior National Forest area Tuesday agreed to settle their cases at a cost of $200 per illegal flight.

George MacKinnon, U.S. district attorney, said C. G. Nissen, Milwaukee, had agreed to pay $600 for trips made last July 19 and 24, and Aug. 20. Robert Beamish, Minneapolis, was assessed $200 for a flight last Oct. 13.

The case of W. B. Odegard, Virginia, Minn., accused of having made a flight over the forbidden territory last Aug. 28, was ordered continued.

The plane ban was fixed in an executive order by President Truman in 1948 to preserve the wilderness area, free of resorts, for canoe travellers.

Austria Issues Stamp to Mark Tenth Birthday

By SYD KRONISH

NEW YORK (AP) — After seven years of German occupation and the ravages of World War II, Austria became an independent republic exactly 10 years ago April 27. To celebrate the 10th anniversary Austria has issued a set of five new stamps, reports Edwin Mueller.

The 70 groschen red violet shows the Parliament Building in Vienna.

The 1 schilling blue depicts the new Western Railroad Station in Vienna. The 1.45 s scarlet presents the Austrian flag depicted by the word Freiheit (Liberty). The 1.50 s brown shows a public housing project (Per Albin Hansson). The 2.40 s green pictures the new Limberg Dam of the Taern Power Works.

Information Dept.: The Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue, which is called the "encyclopedia of philately" pictures and prices every known postage stamp. It is revised and republished annually to include new stamps and to record any price changes in the old ones.

A copy of the catalogue can be found in most public libraries. By comparing your stamps with the pictures and information in the catalogue you will be able to identify them and find their "catalogue prices."

These prices give approximate value. Actual market prices may be lower. In a few cases the prices may be higher. The catalogue should tell you if your stamps are of unusual value or not.

Stamp collecting is popular with Boy Scouts, too. According to Stamps Magazine, more than 100,000 different scouts have qualified for the merit badge in stamp collecting since it was established about 20 years ago. Each year the number has increased and last year 9,231 such badges were awarded.

The latest of the myriad Rotary anniversary sets has been issued. This set of two is from the Dominican Republic, reports the New York Stamp Co. The 7 centavos blue and 11 c red show the International Rotary wheel emblem and the dates 1905-1955. Spokes of light shoot out from the wheel.

Korea has issued a new set of two stamps to publicize its reforestation program. The 20 wuen red brown shows a hand planting a tree in a forest. In the background is an irrigation and power dam. The 50 w blue has an outline map of Formosa with a large tree in the center.

Hearings Planned On Extra Acreage Allotments Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee is planning hearings soon on a bill to give extra crop acreage allotments to farmers hard hit by drought or other natural disasters.

Rep. Pogue (D-Tex.) said Wednesday his plan would be a substantial help to many needy farmers. It would apply to counties declared by the secretary of agriculture to have harvested less than half their normal crops for two successive years because of drought or other disasters.

An individual farmer would be qualified for the extra allotment by his county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee.

For corn, wheat and cotton, a farmer who already had an acreage allotment could get as much additional allotment as he wanted up to this limit: only 75 per cent of all his crop lands could be planted in crops subject to acreage allotments.

Honesty Pays Off In Houston, Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. A. A. Cavada, owner of a liquor store, told a holdup man she had exactly $3 in the house.

"Is that all you have?" he asked.

"Yes," she answered. The man turned around and as he went out the door said, "You have as honest a face as I have seen. I trust you."

X-Rays Upon Brain Help Fight Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Reporter
CHICAGO (AP)—X-rays blasting the brain's switchboard of human emotions seem to be slowing some lethal cancers and easing cancer pain, a neurosurgeon said today.

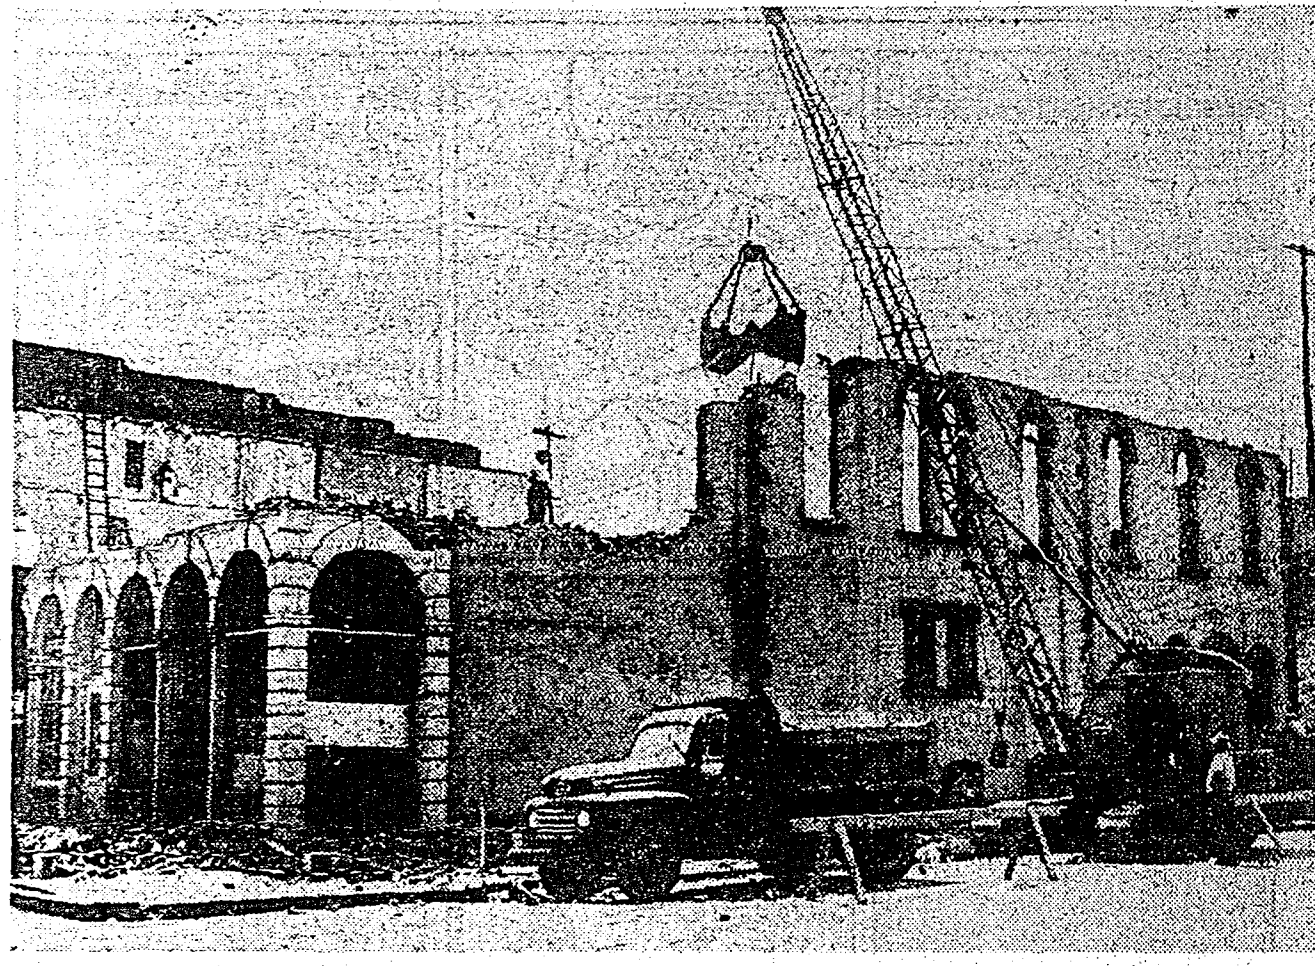

This switchboard is the hypothalamus, the size of a prune, located right under the brain.

Your emotions—fear, anger, love, hate—flow into it from your senses. Out of it come chemical or nerve reactions to make you run, punch, blush, swear, or take other actions.

The hypothalamus sits atop the pituitary gland, often called the body's master gland. The pituitary sends out hormones to control your sex glands, adrenals, thyroid and other glands.

But recent research indicates the hypothalamus is really the top man, that it even may make hormones which are stored in the pituitary for use later, said Dr. Arthur Arnold of the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

Dr. Arnold and associates are hitting at the hypothalamus to the benefit of some cancer patients. They are using X-rays to short-circuit some of the activity of this emotional switchboard.

This Three-Story Brick Building at the southeast corner of 2nd and Lafayette streets is being dismantled to provide a parking lot for the Merchants National Bank. The Winona Business College, which occupied upper stories of the building for 41 years, has moved to a new location over the J. C. Penney Co. store. The first floor has been vacant recently. A. M. Kramer is the contractor for the dismantling project that will cost an estimated $2,000. The lot is less than a block from the bank. Previous owners of the structure, built in 1870, were the heirs of the John Latsch trust—Winona General Hospital, Woodlawn Cemetery Association and Margaret Simpson Home. Model Towns In State Popular WASHINGTON (AP)—A good many drug and liquor store operators and no less than 57 religious denominations are eager to set themselves up in the new town of Silver Bay, Minn.

But Reserve Mining Co., which is building Silver Bay at the neighboring town of Babbitt in northeastern Minnesota, is determined to make them model towns and will strictly control the developments.

Edward Schmidt Jr., Duluth, the company's public relations director, told a U.S. Chamber of Commerce session Tuesday about the situation.

Surveys have shown, he said, that of the 5,000 people to be established at Silver Bay, 34 per cent probably will be Lutherans, 32 per cent Roman Catholic and the rest United Protestant.

Therefore, he said, the company has decided to limit the town to four churches—one Catholic, one Lutheran and two United Protestant—although 57 denominations have applied for permission to establish churches there.

Schmidt added the churches will be in operation before any liquor store is approved for the community.

The two towns are being built in connection with a 160 million dollar project of the Armco Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp. to extract iron minerals from the low grade taconite rock of the Mesabi Range.

Belts May Slash Accident Deaths

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT—Scooped at for years as impractical and unwanted, the automobile seat belt may yet become standard equipment. Edward R. Dye of Cornell University test-laboratory says its universal use would cut auto crash fatalities in half.

A 35,000 annual death toll on the nation's highways is making more motorists conscious of safety. National and state legislation is being proposed for the installation of safety belts. However, even proponents of the belts say safety cannot be legislated into motorists and motorists. It will have to come, they say, through a prolonged course of education.

Dispute Continues
Probably nothing suggested for the automobile in the last quarter century or more has stimulated as much argument as the seat belt. The automobile industry's spokesmen say it can be installed in a car with relatively little added cost. But, they add, few persons want the belt until they have been involved in a serious traffic accident.

They add also that the belt alone may not be the complete answer to safer driving. It may have to be supplemented with a shoulder harness. Relatively few persons, they say, want to be strapped into an automobile.

Also proposed are a chest guard over the steering post and padding over the dashboard. The former would save many drivers from chest injuries; the latter would absorb head blows that might be suffered by the occupant of the so-called "suicide" seat—alongside the driver.

All these things have been tested exhaustively by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, an affiliate of Cornell University. And the safety belts have been unqualifiedly endorsed by a group of surgeons who participated recently in a panel discussion of the car safety problem.

Must Be Solid
Alvin C. Smith, writing in the laboratory's "Research Trends," says that to be really effective the belt "must be attached to the primary structure (frame) of the car," that the belts should be arranged with one person per belt.

What happens to driver and passengers in an average automobile colliding head-on with another vehicle or crashing into an immovable object? Many of the car companies have joined in the effort to find out.

Generally they are coming up with almost identical answers. Simulating various types of crashes, with driverless cars occupied by dummy figures representing children and adults, they learn:

Heads Bashed
The majority of passenger fatalities are a result of head blows. In a front-end collision the driver will invariably receive a potentially injurious blow to the torso against the steering wheel; where the rate of deceleration is beyond a certain point the driver, if not impaled on the steering wheel post, will also receive a head blow against the upper windshield or windshield molding.

For the adult in the front seat, the head initially strikes the upper windshield molding region, followed by a secondary head blow, usually glancing against the windshield and a facial blow on the upper instrument panel shelf.

Describing its tests the Cornell Laboratory reported:

"Rear seat occupants frequently ended up in the rear compartment, although photographic records disclosed they had traversed the length of the compartment—rear to front and then back again."

Out of the tests may come modification of automotive interiors. And because acceptance of seat belts on a wide scale may be slow in coming, the researchers are exploring other methods of body restraint.

Among these other methods are such things as pull-out panels, crash bars and special seat design. It is agreed, however, that these devices, requiring major redesign of the vehicle itself, are restricted to the car of the future.

Lack of Family Authority Called Delinquency Factor

ST. PAUL (AP)—A breakdown of family authority is a principal contributor to juvenile delinquency, says a St. Paul probation officer.

John K. Donohue, chief Ramsey County probation officer, said in a speech Wednesday night at a community center:

"We have one community in St. Paul where there is no juvenile delinquency. That is in the Italian settlement under the high bridge consisting of three short streets. 'Down there the father's word is the law. He is obeyed and no one may question him. There's no divided authority in the family. There is only one authority—the father.'

"In most families today the father earns the money but the mother spends it. Father thinks he is head of the family. His wife lets him believe it. But actually it is she who runs the house. The children know this and play one parent against the other. Authority is divided and broken down to nothing. 'This lack of respect for authority carries on to our government and law enforcement. Our youngsters have no respect for policemen, teachers or any authority for that matter. As long as we have this lack of authority and respect for it we will have crime and delinquency.'

He has joined in the effort to find out.

Generally they are coming up with almost identical answers. Simulating various types of crashes, with driverless cars occupied by dummy figures representing children and adults, they learn:

Heads Bashed

Life of Working Mother Rugged But Worthwhile

NEW YORK—Every day is Mothers' Day for the working mother.

There is never enough of the baby routine to put her dreaming fondly of distant places—high seas and Mt. Everest. Every minute with her offspring is a precious jewel.

Days are spent tolerating the pessimists, those who mutter that you are missing the best years (or months or days) of your baby's life—that nobody but mother can do the job.

Then there are the juvenile delinquency episodes which always existed, but today, of course, are blamed on the working mother.

Before the era of diaper service, automatic washers, freezers and push-button living, when the home needed commandeering by Mom, these debunkers might have had a point. But those very chores in those days kept baby from getting personal attention anyway. Perhaps he didn't get as much loving care as today's working mother gives before and after her bout with the working world.

Early to bed and early to rise keynote the working mother's day. Parties must be reserved for weekends when baby is tucked safely in bed.

My own day begins about 5:30 a.m., when Junior wakes. He is diapered, pampered and put in his play pen to watch his breakfast of milk, egg, cereal and fruit prepared. He is cheery and lovable until that last bye-bye at 7:30.

He is waiting eagerly for us in the evening, has a small play period and gets a leisurely bath. He is put to bed and goes off to sleep happily.

A schedule and common sense are necessary to baby's regimen. He can't be pined for during the working day, nor should he share Mom with her job when she is at home. These are two separate wheels and they must work independently of each other.

A sweet beginning should have a sweet ending, so if the twig is bent carefully and surely you should have a jolly, contented youngster. Here are some suggestions which might prove helpful.

1. Obtain the best pediatrician's book available. Pocketbook editions are inexpensive and may be carried in the handbag. (Dr. Benjamin Spock's "Baby and Child Care," available everywhere, has been my guiding light.) A handbook helps you interpret your pediatrician's advice.

2. Choose your baby attendant wisely. If you can have the experienced hand of a mother or mother-in-law as I have, you are fortunate indeed. If you must hire a nurse look for one (a) experienced, (b) pleasant and affectionate, and (c) patient.

3. Be gentle with your child. Voice as well as hands should be soft. Some babies can't bear high-pitched sounds and the tearing of paper, or to be squeezed and poked when diapered.

4. Plan outings for your baby on weekends. Most babies enjoy car riding. Take him to the grocery store for a ride in the market basket. Visit children and other people, so he has a change of scenery occasionally.

5. When you put him to bed, make it a definite thing. Sing to him beforehand and on the way to the crib, but once he's in his bed, put the light out and disappear.

6. Be sure he is well fed. If he isn't, he'll let you know it and be irritable. Well-fed babies are happy.

7. Introduce him to strangers carefully. He'll object to people thrusting their heads into his playpen suddenly. But once he warms up to them he can be a charmer.

8. Be sure Daddy takes over some of the chores each day. Babies love the contrast of going from Mom's nimble fingers to Dad's strong hands. Make sure you give him the opportunity.

House-to-House Fire Fighting

GLOUCESTER, Va. (AP)—W. N. Gray, who has acted the part of a good Samaritan and called the fire department to a blaze in a nearby house in the middle of the night. While the firemen fought the flames Gray took a look at another section of the night sky. A house he owned was burning too. The firemen moved over to Gray's personal blaze and managed to save a farm building although they couldn't do much about the house.

Nursing Those Dates

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—There's no dearth of dates for members of the Theta Chi fraternity at Pitt. Phil Russo, a 214-pound student, arranges them.

"It is not a matrimonial agency, just a social function," he says. "Theta Chi was sinking into a dateless fraternity because engineering, math and premedical students were too busy 'boning' to make dates."

"I decided to do something to help out. I managed to get dates from student nurses in various hospitals near the campus."

Russo charges no fees.

Good Old College Try

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Editors of the Harvard Crimson, student newspaper, took advantage of the Yale Daily News announcement that it would no longer publish on Saturdays. They left 2,000 copies of a "New Haven edition" of their paper at Yale dormitory doors.

Hormone-Tender Bulls Produced

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—Two scientists here say they are producing bulls that produce meat almost as tender as that of steers by injecting them with synthetic female hormones. Pellets of diethylstilbestrol are implanted under the bulls' hides behind their ears. In charge of the project are Dr. Earle W. Klosterman, of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and Lawrence E. Kunkle of Ohio State University.

Flash of Color? Just Police Car

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP)—One thing about Dearborn's police cars: They're colorful.

First they were a creamy white, then a burnt orange. Fire engine red was next. Now they are being painted a flashy yellow—"Thunderbird Yellow," if you please.

False Tokens Left For St. Paul Firm

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Sales on tokens from a defunct out-of-town bus line zoomed when "collectors" found they resembled the ones used in St. Paul buses. The Twin Cities Transit Co. said $150 worth of the spurious tokens showed up in its coin boxes one month.

Big Ben's Boom To Be Missing After Century

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—Big Ben is going to take a rest after having taken note of each passing hour for more than a century.

The great four-faced clock high in one of the towers of the Houses of Parliament is going to be stopped for major repairs late this month. Its voice, the deep boom of its 15-ton bell, is familiar around the world because it is heard daily in introducing British Broadcasting Corp. programs.

Big Ben's voice will be silent for about two months. Another thoroughly masculine clock, Big Tom in St. Paul's Cathedral, will take over the radio programs temporarily.

Big Ben is 101 years old. The overhaul on the clock and its tower is a major engineering operation which will cost about $112,000.

Big Ben's works are in a fairly good shape, but the structure surrounding the clock was damaged by German bombing 14 years ago when knocking out Big Ben was an incidental mission of many Nazi planes. Despite the hammering, Big Ben's voice never failed to announce the BBC's 9 o'clock evening news to the tens of thousands in occupied Europe who surreptitiously listened in.

Bicycles Dangerous—For Motorists That Is WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Police said 12-year-old Wilson Battort crashed into the side of a moving auto while riding his bicycle. Wilson was not injured and his bike was not damaged. Damage to Mark P. Galletti's car cost $25 to repair.

Action Without TV

WILDER, Idaho (AP)—Members of the Wilder Fire Department were sitting around listening to a fire siren on their television set. Suddenly it struck them they heard two sirens. One was their own, and they rushed out to douse a small blaze at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Patrick.

sands in occupied Europe who surreptitiously listened in.

Broadcasting corporation officials have frequently denied that recordings were ever used during the war. Big Ben's broadcasts have always been "live," they insist.

Big Ben and his boom are London institutions. But some Londoners contend the name Big Ben is applied properly only to the great bell, and that the clock itself should be called St. Stephen's because that is one name for the tower in which it is situated.

The words "Big Ben" are a memorial in the language to Sir Benjamin Hall, who was commissioner of works when the clock was built.

Balanced

Everything it takes to be "TOPS"

STANDARD GASOLINES

...balanced for top power, economy, and all 'round performance
...and raised to the Highest Octane levels in our history

We are mighty proud of our new gasolines. They have been stepped up to the highest octane ratings in our history... designed to give knock-free performance in the most modern of high compression engines, and older cars as well. But important as octane is, good gasolines need something more. They must be balanced too. STANDARD WHITE CROWN and RED CROWN Gasolines are balanced to give you top performance, with controlled volatility—the right gasoline for the right season—with no vapor lock even in the hottest summer weather. Try a tankful of one of these clean-burning, high octane, balanced gasolines today, and prove to yourself that there is a difference in gasolines.

You expect more from and get it!

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGUM, D. Sc.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. A lot of women would like to answer with a loud "Yes!" and maybe point to the fact that there are three times more men than women in institutions for the feeble-minded. However, while even psychologists formerly thought this indicated more feeble-mindedness among men, they found later that prevalence of men in institutions was partly or wholly because it is easier to give home care to feeble-minded girls. Women and men are equally foolish in different ways.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. False. M. W. Hubbard, authority on size and strength, says if a 6 foot 4 inch man suddenly grew to 12 feet 8 inches, he could barely stand; and at 16 feet 8 inches, he couldn't stand. Elephants and whales are weak for their size. If men were the size of grasshoppers, they could jump many times as far as they can now. Sometimes, when your wife catches up with you, you wish you could jump farther than that.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Junior and senior students at con-

Yale Medical School were asked to check such statements as: "I believe most people would tell lies to get ahead"; "People pretend to care more about others than they really do," etc. More seniors than freshmen agreed with such statements. However, both also agreed that "if given the opportunity, one should go out of his way to help others," which indicated they were still, in a general way, humanitarians.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By MARGARET LATROBE

Welcome, sweet spring! With your dainty crocus and dandelion, with your daffodil and wild onion flourishing in the warm sunlight. With your bulletin from the hardware store, depicting all the new tools to replace those carefully bung in the cellar and as carefully lost by young gardeners.

But what's with the modus operandi? What's this about light-weight shovels which will "appeal to the ladies"? And power mowers, curved beside the aproned little woman who steers the contraption skillfully over the verdant green?

The fine aluminum chaise longue, I notice, have large masculine fellows lounging thereon. The all-in-one hammocks, though light enough for mamma to place in the backyard, are shown with Pop slumbering therein. The little tile table at his side, just heavy enough not to break mother's aching sacroiliac as she sotes it to the hammock, is decorated with pipe and fishing magazines and detective stories.

Barbecue ovens shown sizzling with succulent hamburger and hot dog, it says here, can be constructed by the womenfolk if they look sharp at the blueprints and don't mind a wheelbarrow of brick and mortar. Papa seems to be saying, "Fetch me some fire wood, girl!" He appears well rested, quite smart in the freshly starched cook's bonnet and coverall. (And starched by whom?)

Car-washing gadgets also show up in the hardware circular, with springtime. Dainty sponge with hose connection, fine waxes and polish—all manageable by the dream girl when she gets through the inside chores, sets up the hammock, mows the lawn and markets for frankfurters. Nothing like a good wash job on the family bus.
