House to OK New Military Reserves Bill

Passage Expected
Without Major
Amendments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's program to build up the military reserves was expected to pass the House intact today despite efforts to soften or kill it.

Rep. Brooks (D-La.) predicted it would pass without major amendments, but only after a fight. Brooks leads House forces backing the legislation, which already falls somewhat short of original Pentagon requests.

President Eisenhower is behind the measure to give the military limited authority to enforce reserve obligations and to provide a new plan for training up to one million ten-year-old volunteers in four years.

In one key provision, the measure would authorize the Pentagon to recall for 45 days' active duty reservists who fail to maintain a minimum of 84 weeks of training a year, or the equivalent. Involved are draftees and volunteers who have completed active duty since mid-1953 and are obligated for a total of five years' active and reserve service.

In a second key section, the measure would provide for up to 250,000 volunteers a year to be given six months' special training, followed by 7 1/2 years' active reserve duty. The volunteers, between 17-19 years old, would save 18 months from the two years of active duty required of draftees. But they would put in this time in reserve duty.

New Taxation Needed to Meet Wisconsin Deficit

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The Joint Committee on Finance reported today that appropriations already passed by the 1955 Legislature and others expected to be approved would result in a Wisconsin operating deficit for 1955-57 of $35,169,504 that would have to be met by some new form of taxation.

The committee in a report to the Legislature did not recommend any way revenue should be increased but it is generally agreed that a surtax on incomes will be adopted to make up this deficit because the state can not operate in the red.

The 35 million dollar deficit is expected to be increased by another four or five million dollars before the session ends. Therefore, to provide enough revenue in the next two years to meet that deficit, a surtax of 25 to 30 per cent will have to be enacted unless the state can transfer some other idle funds to the executive budget.

Jefferson City, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman says withdrawal of this country from the United Nations would mean preparation for a third world war and "the destruction of the world."

The former President also said yesterday the United States should try to keep Russia in the U.N., adding:

"When we have the Russians before the world, we are in a better position to make them perform for peace."

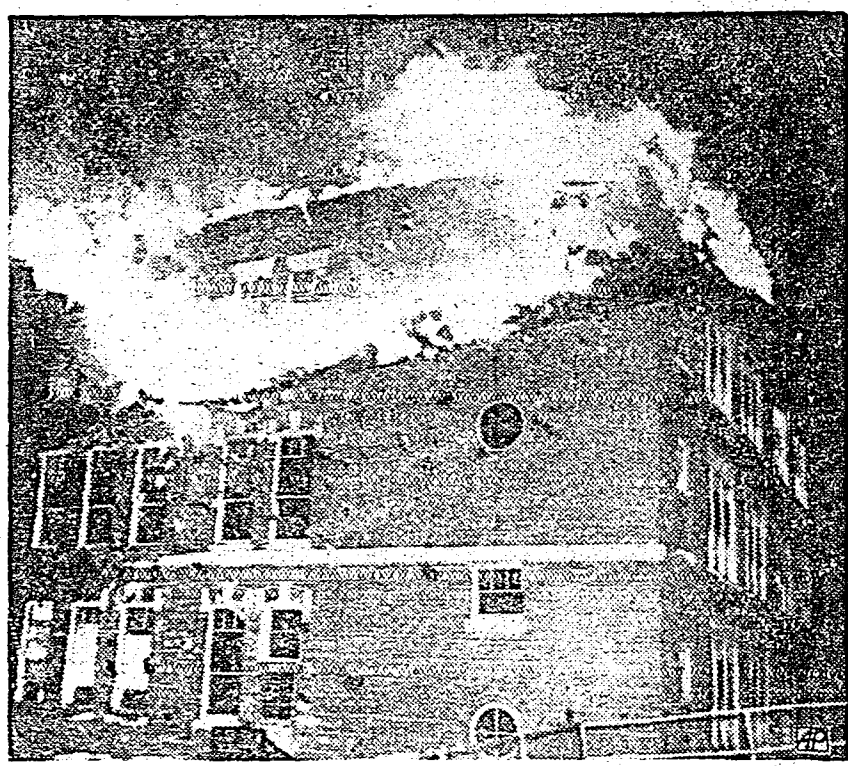

He told a joint session of the Missouri State Legislature world peace or world destruction are the only two alternatives we have.

Antiaircraft Missile Sites to Be Erected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army, embarked on a billion-dollar program of building Nike sites, is seeking to reassure communities nervous over close-by installation of the deadly antiaircraft missiles. Partly for this purpose, the Army yesterday took newsmen to a new Nike site at Lorton, Va., part of the antiaircraft defenses of the capital, about 16 miles to the north.

Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, chief of Army information, told the newsmen the Nike "is being literally installed in the back yards of householders all over the nation." And Brig. Gen. R. R. Hendrix, commander of the Washington-Baltimore Nike defense area, said this "has touched off some knotty problems."

"As you may know," he said, "Army engineers have met with some strong resistance during the process of acquiring real estate for Nike sites. Some local communities have not been at all in sympathy with our program, particularly in land matters or in the stationing of troops in residential areas."

Hendrix contended a Nike site "is not dangerous, but as safe as a gas station; as important to security and as much a part of the local community as the police and fire departments."

(There was no mention at the news conference of an incident a month ago when a Nike missile at Ft. Meade, Md., was fired accidentally, falling onto a usually heavily traveled highway but without injury or damage to passers-by.)

The Nike battery at Lorton is typical of others built or being built at more than 15 cities. Eventually, Hendrix said, the Nike system will be extended to "all our large industrial and population centers."

Jets Fly 4,840 Miles Nonstop For New Record

Refueled During Flight From
Japan to Australia

NEW CASTLE, Australia (AP)—Four U. S. Thunderjets landed here today, completing a record nonstop Tokyo-to-Australia flight in 12 hours 2 minutes.

The speedy single-engine fighters each capable of carrying an atomic bomb, refueled in the air three times during their 4,840-mile hop — over Guam, Manus Island and Townsville, Australia.

The flight, part of a U. S. Air Force good will mission to Australia, extended the nonstop over-water record for single-engine jets by 355 miles. Col. David Shilling set the previous mark of 4,485 miles in 1953 on a flight from Turner Air Force Base, Ga., to North Africa.

The F4s set down at the Royal Australian Air Force's huge Williamstown Air Force Base here at 5:32 p.m. Australian time. New castle is 60 miles north of Sydney, on Australia's southwest coast.

The flight had left Yokota air base, near Tokyo, in balmy spring weather, but landed here in the Southern Hemisphere's May autumn.

The flight was led by Col. Harold M. McClelland, Avon Park, Fla. He was the first man to land. The other three pilots, in order of landing, were 1st Lt. Gerald J. Robinson, Carbondale, Pa.; 1st Lt. Virgil K. Moroney, Pine Bluff, Ark.; and 1st Lt. William E. Miller, Columbus, Ohio.

Lt. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, commander of the 5th U. S. Air Force in Japan, said the flight "shows the U. S. Air Force's capability to move its jet fighters both for concentration and attack."

State Firm Gets $650,000 Army Shell Contract

ST. PAUL (AP)—Award of a $650,000 artillery shell contract to the Arlington Corp. here is a tribute to the prestige of Minnesota industry, Courtland J. Silver, president of the firm, said today.

Arlington won the work from a field of 56 bidders with an estimate of $3.68 apiece for 160,000 75 mm. shells for the Army. Second lowest bidder, at $4.02, was National Presto Industries at Eau Claire, Wis.

The cost included moving of shell-making machinery from Lubbock, Tex. Silver said the movement of this 330 tons of equipment is in itself a major project. Under the contract, the machinery will remain under control of the Arlington firm for a minimum of four years, leading to expectation that other contracts may follow the initial one, officials said.

Production is due to start within three months. The plant will employ about 100, Silver reported.

Won't Fall Into Appeasement Trap, Ike Says of Big 4 Talks

Hopes for Some Contacts With General Zhukov

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he just can't believe the American people think he will fall into any appeasement traps at international conferences.

He also said he feels some good might come if, at the proposed Big Four conference of Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Britain, France and Russia, he could sit down and talk with Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defense minister and a long-time friend.

Eisenhower's remarks to his news conference were a follow-up to last night's nationwide television broadcast in which Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles made clear that they are preparing for the Big Four session in the hope that it may prove a "new dawn" of peace is breaking.

Eisenhower was asked about the contention of some members of Congress that any top level conference which includes a Russian representative is likely to end in appeasement.

He doesn't believe for a minute, the President said, that the leaders of Congress who meet with him regularly feel there ever will be any appeasement on his part.

Dulles predicted dramatic results from this pledge throughout Eastern Europe. Communist satellite countries like Czechoslovakia and Hungary will also want freedom, he said, adding that the joy of the Austrians over their freedom will be "contagious."

Defeat for Reds
Dulles said that the acceptance of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has dealt the Soviet Union its "greatest diplomatic defeat since World War II. The explanation of Russia's changed behavior, he said, may lie in a Kremlin decision to stop trying to block such developments and "conform to some of the rules and practices of a civilized world community."

But whatever the explanation from Russia's side, he said, the important point is that a "policy of strength and firmness and the standard of moral principle" is beginning to pay off for the West. If the West sticks to that policy, he said, "we can face the future with confidence."

He cautioned both against relaxation of armed strength and against the great danger, as he called it, of expecting too much from the prospective Big Four talks between Eisenhower and the Prime Ministers of Russia, Britain and France.

Excessive hope now, he said, might result in disillusionment, dismay and even a war psychology later on.

Eisenhower, who interrupted Dulles' report to the nation from time to time with comments of his own, broke in to say he thought "the American people are pretty well aware of what is going on" and that they show "greater maturity" about negotiating with Russia than was expectable several years ago.

Termed Overcautious
Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee later said he thought Dulles was "overcautious" and showed signs of "timidity about the Big Four meeting."

"We will stay strong and we will stay vigilant," Eisenhower said, "but we are not to extinguish the hope that a new dawn may be coming even if the sun rises very, very slowly."

Dulles himself sounded a similar hopeful note at the outset of his half-hour broadcast with the President, saying: "I think now one can say that what happened (with respect to Germany and Austria) may really mark a turning point in the tide of history."

The occasion was Dulles' return from Paris and Vienna. In a historic 10-day period he had participated in bringing West Germany into the North Atlantic Alliance, in signing an Austrian treaty, in working out a better understanding with France on support of an independent government in Viet Nam and in redefining from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Russia's acceptance of a bid from the Western powers for a top-level Big Four meeting.

One of the great moments of the week, he said, came when he saw representatives of France and Germany sitting side by side as Allies at the NATO table in Paris.

"You felt a new page had been opened on European history," he told the President, "and the vision which so many people had for so many years of a united Europe had actually started to come to pass."

President Eisenhower refers to some papers, brought to him by Press Secretary James Hagerty to help him answer a news conference question today on the subject of atoms for peace. The President told the conference that the supply of Salk vaccine is sufficient to complete first shots for first and second graders in the relatively near future. (UP Telephoto)

President Gets Bill Repealing Support Penalty

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to repeal one of the penalties on farmers who do not abide by acreage controls in the farm price support program was sent to the White House Tuesday.

The Senate approved the House-passed measure by a voice vote after rejecting by a 49-35 rollcall vote a compromise proposal. The Agriculture Department has endorsed it.

The bill would abolish a provision of the 1954 farm law which denies soil conservation benefit payments to any farmer who knowingly violates acreage allotments on basic crops. These are corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts.

It would leave unchanged the government's main weapon for enforcing compliance with acreage quotas—the right to impose direct monetary penalty levies against violators.

The provision was a part of the 1954 legislation which substituted a flexible support system for one backing farm prices at a fixed 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard calculated to give the farmer a fair return in relation to his necessary costs.

Pointing up a curious Senate alignment, such lawmakers as Sens. Anderson (D-N.) and Holland (D-Fla.) and Aiken (R-Vt.) fought to repeal. Last year they had argued with the administration for the new sliding support scale.

On the other hand, one of the measure's leading advocates was Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.). He had vigorously opposed flexible props and only Tuesday introduced a bill to put supports back up to 90 per cent.

There were predictions the Senate would actively consider support legislation this session, despite previous reports to the contrary. The House last week squeezed through a bill to restore the level to 90 per cent. At the time it was freely stated the Senate would hold up action until the presidential election year of 1956.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—Two young children were found trapped in an ice box in a shed near their homes yesterday. Found with them in the ice box were wooden blocks and other toys.

Handling Post In Efficient Manner, Claim

Admits She Has Talked About
Leaving Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Secretary of Welfare Hobby has handled the Salk polio vaccine program and her job generally in a highly efficient manner.

The President's statement was made at a news conference when he was told Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) had described Mrs. Hobby as guilty of "gross incompetency" in the vaccine program. Morse said she ought to be removed from office.

Eisenhower said it would be a waste of time for him to take note of Morse's accusations.

Cites Cabinet Record
The President went on to say that Mrs. Hobby's record in the cabinet has proved out what Eisenhower termed the good opinion in which she was held during the war as WAC commander.

Those good opinions are fully justified, Eisenhower said, adding that she has handled her job, including the vaccine program, in a highly efficient manner.

Her counsel, Eisenhower said, has been eagerly sought.

Asked about reports that Mrs. Hobby may resign soon, the President said she placed him on notice some months ago that for personal reasons it might become necessary for her to leave government service.

No Hint on Reason
Eisenhower said he would be sorry to lose her services because, as he put it, she is a symbol underscoring the idea that properly trained women are just as able to handle important jobs as men are.

The President gave no hint of what personal reasons might make it necessary for Mrs. Hobby to resign.

However, her husband, former Gov. William P. Hobby of Texas, has been ill with arthritis. Mrs. Hobby flew to Houston earlier this week to be with him.

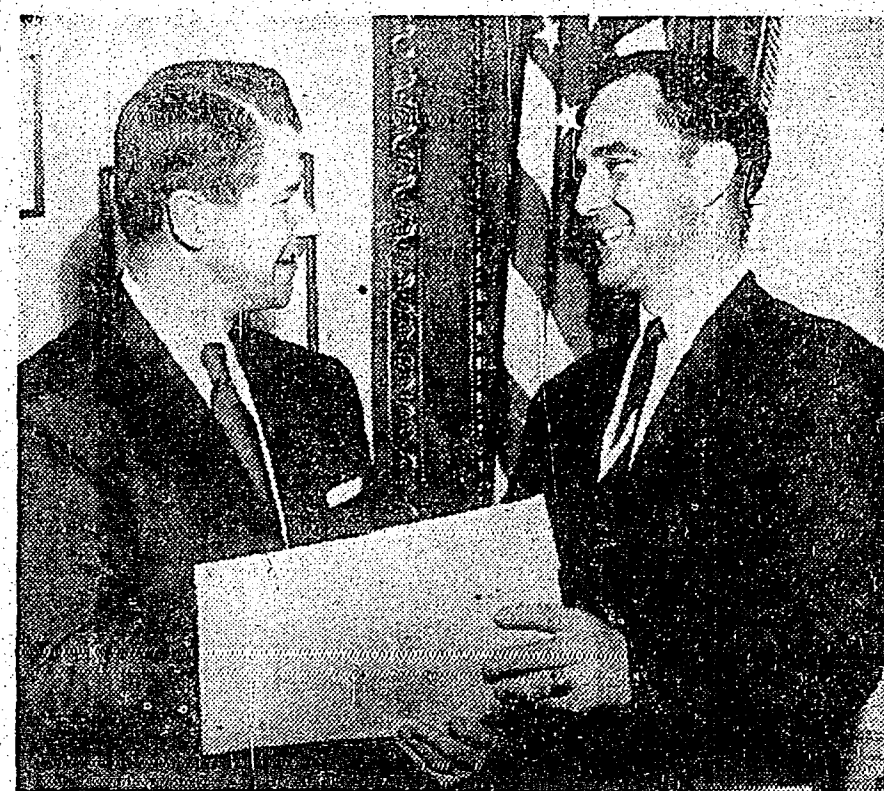

The President also dealt with these other topics:

VACCINE SUPPLY — Eisenhower said his information is that the supply of Salk vaccine on hand or in sight is enough to take care of the program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. That program is to provide vaccine free to first and second graders.

Eisenhower said that if the first and second shots for those children cannot be completed by the time school lets out, arrangements probably will be made for inoculations during their summer vacation.

AIR POWER — Eisenhower said it just isn't true that the United States has lost in a twinkling all of the great technical excellence and development of its air power. That remark was in reply to a request for comment on a speech by Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) Tuesday raising the question of whether the United States has lost control of the air to Russia.

Eisenhower, in his reply, also said there is no truth in any statement that this country may have lost in a twinkling superiority as to the number of aircraft it has.

Warsaw Rising From Rubble of 10 Years Ago

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Warsaw, 10 years ago a mess of rubble, is taking shape as a fine city.

Reconstruction is tied to a six-year plan that ends this year. Diplomats, businessmen and other Westerners here say progress has been spectacular.

Everywhere builders are at work. They are producing a city of broad, tree-lined avenues and spacious sidewalks with many new buildings.

Eighty per cent of Warsaw was laid low in World War II. Today there are still many signs of this destruction but they are disappearing.

High over the city towers a 740-foot skyscraper, the Stalin Palace of Culture and Science. It is described officially as the gift of the Soviet Union to the people of Warsaw. Designers, engineers and 5,000 workmen came from Russia to build it.

Reporters who came to Poland for the meeting last week of the Soviet Union and its European allies were shown around the building.

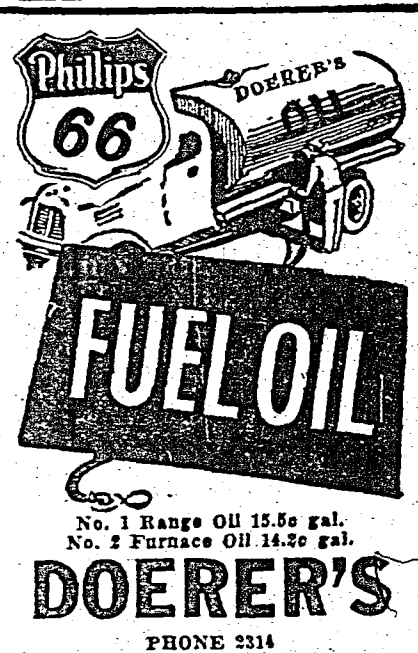

Work started two years ago and the palace is now almost ready for its opening in July. Its exterior is heavily decorated in the Russian wedding-cake style. To some eyes it clashes with the simple elegance of other new buildings. Inside, the palace is equipped on a lavish scale. At any one time, according to a guide, it will accommodate 23,000 persons in its theaters, movie auditoriums, recital rooms, concert and congress halls, libraries, game rooms, gymnasiums and a marble swimming pool.

A showpiece of the new Warsaw is "Old Warsaw," razed in 1945 uprising. It has been rebuilt just as it stood in the 18th century, a cluster of narrow streets around a market square.

In this city the Poles look at least adequately and sometimes attractively clothed. Nor, so far as one can judge after only a brief stay in Warsaw, is there any shortage of food. Because of the artificial exchange rate, prices look prohibitive to Westerners. But the shops look well stocked and people are buying. Housing is greatly deficient. Another deficiency seems to be transport, a situation apparently to be remedied by the building of a subway in the new plan due to start at the end of this year.

Although the planet Pluto was not discovered until 1930, its position and orbit was predicted by astronomers in 1914.

$110,000 Trial Beginning in Federal Court

Rail Compensation Case Postponed Until Next Monday

The trial of three persons in jury cases involving damages of $110,000 was to begin today in U. S. District Court here this afternoon.

Brought by three members of a Wabasha, Minn., family, the cases — consolidated for trial before the jury — stem from an automobile accident near Theilman, Minn., Jan. 3, 1954.

The plaintiffs are James Harney, the driver of one of the cars; Mrs. Harney, and their daughter, Geraldine. The driver and owner of the second car, Arthur and Willis Slawson, North Bend, Wis., are the defendants.

Mrs. Harney is asking damages of $75,000 for permanent and disabling injuries she alleges were suffered by her in the accident. Harney is suing for $25,000 and Geraldine, in suit brought by her father, is seeking $10,000.

The Harneys are represented by Daniel F. Foley, Wabasha, and the defendants by Francis G. Thompson, Winona.

Jurors Arrive Early
Members of the jury panel reported for duty at the federal courtroom in the Post Office Building at 10 a.m. today but were informed that the trial of the case would not begin until this afternoon.

A jury was to be selected to hear the three cases at 2 p.m. Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye, Minneapolis, is presiding.

Two matters were heard during Tuesday afternoon's session of the opening day of the Winona term of federal court.

In one, Judge Nordbye authorized a continuance until next Monday in an action brought by the federal government against Donald Martin Tust, 40, 259 W. 2nd St., on a charge of unlawfully collecting $234.50 in railway unemployment compensation benefits.

Tust had appeared at the morning session and requested that he be allowed to consult with an attorney before entering a plea to the charge.

When Tust explained that he was without funds, the court appointed C. Stanley McMahon, Winona, to represent the defendant.

In the afternoon McMahon told the court that the defendant apparently misunderstood his instructions and the attorney and Tust had not met after the morning session.

McMahon consulted briefly with the defendant and then asked that the time for entering a plea be extended until Monday so that he might consider the facts in the case more fully.

Judge Nordbye granted the request.

Mislabeling Charge
The other case involved sentencing of McMahon & Co., Winona, on a charge of mislabeling. The firm, represented by McMahon, Tuesday morning had entered a plea of guilty to the charge of shipment of poultry feed which allegedly had a lower vitamin niacin content than that specified on the label.

McMahon told the court Tuesday afternoon that circumstances of the case did not represent a willful violation by the company.

He said that the government had checked the feed formula and found that in manufacture the niacin content could not be developed to the proportion set forth on the label and informed the firm of this.

McMahon said that the notice was received last June 30 and on July 1 the company wrote a letter to the Pure Food and Drug Administration stating that the situation would be corrected.

The attorney said that immediately all shipments of the feed were stopped at the plant.

However, there apparently was some of the feed on the loading dock away from the plant.

Employees don't work on Saturday or Sunday—July 3 and 4 last year—and Monday, July 5, was a legal holiday.

Shipment Gone
When operations were resumed on July 8 some of the feed that had been on the loading dock for several days was taken away for shipment and it was this feed on which the action was brought.

McMahon said that the company did not ship any feed out of the plant after the notice from the government had been received.

Alex Dim, assistant U. S. attorney from St. Paul, agreed that a nominal fine would be appropriate and Judge Nordbye imposed the minimum fine of $100.

Teachers College Cited for Joining In National Study

Winona State Teachers College was one of two Minnesota colleges cited today by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education for its share in a unique nationwide study to improve the quality of teachers for the nation's schools.

Also cited was Macalester College, St. Paul.

In a letter to the Teachers College, the association announced completion of an intensive four-year project aimed at better teaching and commended the college for the participation of its faculty members in the program.

More than 400 educational authorities have served on a nationwide visitation task force to strengthen the service programs of the 285 colleges in AACTE, according to an announcement issued at AACTE national headquarters in Oneonta, N.Y., by Dr. Edward C. Pomeroy, executive secretary of the association.

AACTE is a national voluntary association of colleges and universities with members in 44 states organized for the purpose of improving the education of teachers.

In the letter of citation Dr. L. D. Haskew, dean of the College of Education of the University of Texas and president of AACTE, said: "As a result of the intervisitation project . . . the college programs for educating teachers are already being improved in dramatic fashion."

"College organization, faculty preparation, student personnel services and teacher education curriculum were among the problems which came under the microscope during the study which was started in 1951."

"Each participating institution now has available for its guidance a written report based upon study by local faculty committees as well as recommendations prepared by visiting authorities from other institutions."

"The results are unparalleled in American higher education."

"These improvements will provide even better teachers for the boys and girls of the nation. Such dividends more than justify the tremendous investments made in the project."

Involved Caledonia Hospital Case Taken To Supreme Court

CALEDONIA, Minn.—After three years of litigation, the question of who owns the Caledonia Community Hospital appears near final settlement.

Two appeals of a Houston County District Court order handed down by Judge Karl Finkelnburg of Winona Jan. 25 have been made to the Minnesota Supreme Court by defendants, Mrs. Selma E. Browning, San Francisco, Calif., and the Caledonia Community Hospital Association, Inc.

The high court is expected to review the case sometime next fall.

From the beginning of the action in August 1952, it has been an involved affair with six firms of attorneys representing the three principals—E. Reginald Browning, Galesville, Wis., the plaintiff, son of Dr. William E. Browning who owned the property until his death in 1929; Mrs. Selma Browning, step-mother of Reginald and second wife of the doctor, a defendant who was given a life estate to the property by her late husband; and the Caledonia Community Hospital Association, Inc., a defendant, which purchased the property from Mrs. Browning in June 1948.

Harry H. Peterson, Minneapolis and Duxbury & Caledonia have represented Reginald; Lees & Bunge, La Crosse and George, Brehrer and McMahon, Winona, Mrs. Browning; Sawyer & Gurnee, Winona (now Sawyer, Sawyer and Darby) and Hale, Skemp, Nietsch, Hanson & Schnur, La Crosse, the hospital association.

Mortgage Foreclosed
In brief, this is the background: When Dr. Browning died on May 6, 1929, he left the hospital estate to his son, Reginald, subject to a life estate given to Mrs. Browning. There was a mortgage on the property which was foreclosed and sold to a group from Caledonia, Feb. 25, 1935.

It is this 20-year-old transaction which gave Reginald ground for his subsequent suit, according to attorneys in the case.

A year after the sale, March 30, 1936, Mrs. Browning purchased the property from the mortgagees for about $9,000 and in 1943 she leased it to Dr. Neil T. Norris, Caledonia physician, for $142.50 a month plus taxes and cost of insurance.

He gave up the lease June 30, 1948 at which time the local association was incorporated. It purchased the holdings from Mrs. Browning for $30,000 including real estate, building and equipment by land contract. Seven thousand dollars of this amount was for equipment. The association reportedly gave $17,300 as a down payment and took possession June 30, 1948.

This is where Reginald came in. On Aug. 12, 1948 his attorneys notified the hospital association that he claimed an interest in the real estate. April 16, 1952, a summons and complaint were served on the association asking for declaration of judgment adjudicating the rights of all the parties to the litigation.

Counter Claim Filed
A counter claim was then filed by the association against Reginald for the sum of money spent on improvements which include remodeling living quarters and swimming pool to hospital use. They also purchased an adjacent home and a space for parking. The association asserts it spent $20,000 for improvements between June 30, 1948 and April 16, 1952.

Cross claims have been filed by the association against Mrs. Browning charging she has failed to deliver a warranty deed and clear title to the property according to the sale contract. It concedes that reasonable rent should be paid Mrs. Browning since June 3, 1952.

Mrs. Browning has filed a counter claim against Reginald for recovery of money spent on the transactions.

Trial was first held in Caledonia July 2 and 3, 1953, Judge Finkelnburg presiding. The court made and filed its order March 6, 1954. In effect it ruled that the mortgage foreclosure was invalid as an affidavit had been improperly handled and thus was not binding on Reginald. He was still the remainderman and when Mrs. Browning repurchased the property she simply re-established her right to a life estate.

Bierce Referee
All transactions following the mortgage sale were in good faith it appears, in the belief that the foreclosure was valid.

Herbert M. Bierce, Winona, a court referee, was named by Judge Finkelnburg March 6, 1954 to hear and determine the issues involved in the counter claims by the defendants, and the cross claim between them.

Bierce heard the issues July 15 and 16, 1954 in Caledonia and filed his report Oct. 23, 1954. This report and objections to it by attorneys, were submitted to Judge Finkelnburg Dec. 2, 1954. The final order was handed down by the court Jan. 25. It adopted the findings of the referee and ordered judgment.

Goodview Vote On Bond Issue Slated Tuesday

Village Purchasing Winona Fire Truck Sold as Trade-in Voters in Goodview will go to the polls Tuesday to determine whether the village shall borrow $16,000 for the construction of a community hall and fire station-garage building.

Preliminary plans have been drawn for a 30- by 60-foot concrete block building that would be used to house the village's newly acquired fire engine, offices of the village government and provide recreational and meeting facilities.

Would Issue Bonds
If the proposal is approved, bonds would be issued to finance the project for construction of the 1-story building with half basement located on the same lot as the Goodview Municipal Liquor Store, 4060 6th St.

St. Preliminary sketches, prepared by the Winona architectural firm of Schubert, Sorensen & Associates in conjunction with the village's building committee, have been made to facilitate additions to the building in the future for expansion.

Erection of a city building has been one of the projects of the Goodview Civic Club for about seven years.

Municipal business headquarters now are located in the basement of the liquor store. Polls will be open there from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Getting Truck Aug. 1
Half of the main floor of the building would be used by the Goodview fire department to house the truck which will be delivered about Aug. 1. The truck, formerly owned by the Winona fire department, is being traded in on a new pumper. Goodview now has a central fire alarm system, but no fire truck.

Provision also has been made in the floor plan of the structure for storing another truck and equipment owned by the village.

The new building would include tile floors, painted walls and have complete cesspool and septic tank facilities and necessary furnishings. The community room would measure 30 by 30 feet. A separate room would be provided for a vault for storage of records.

Acquisition of the fire truck has been cited by village officials as a valuable addition in cooperating with the Winona fire department in combating fires in outskirt areas of the city and village.

Gainey School Discussion Set For St. Charles
Plans for a public meeting at St. Charles May 26 were completed by the Winona County Historical Society board of directors at the YMCA Tuesday night.

The program at 8 p.m. will concern the Gainey School, now owned by the society, Alton Bergh, St. Charles, will be master of ceremonies. Former students and teachers of the school will tell some of their reminiscences. The plans for utilizing the building after it is located on the fair grounds will be discussed. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

The road has been lifted on county and state roads so that moving of the Gainey School will begin next week. The county fair board has agreed to provide a suitable site and foundation for the building when it arrives at the fairgrounds.

Cemetery Cleanup
Directors voted to announce Friday, May 27, and Saturday, May 28, as cleanup days at the Homer Ridge Cemetery. All interested parties are asked to participate. Transportation to and from the cemetery will be provided. A committee consisting of Edward Curtis, chairman, Mrs. Harry Busch, Dick Bower, Harry Reynolds and Peter Loughrey was appointed to take charge of the restoration.

At the meeting last night copies of the 1955 roster of membership were distributed. Attention was called to the honorary and distinguished members with explanations of how the bestowals were made. Names and addresses of the 200 members are listed.

A delegation consisting of Dr. L. J. Younger, Harris Choate, Miss Leona McMill, Miss Mildred Sebo, Loughrey and Mrs. Frank Sheehan will represent Winona County at the 11th District Historical Society meeting at Preston today. A workshop type of program is planned to discuss problems and ideas in the 12 counties of this area that confront local historical societies.

Efforts are being made to interest private individuals and business concerns in setting up scholarships at the Winona State Teachers College for research in Winona history. About $500 is needed for each scholarship. Such work can be applied toward a master's degree in history.

Efforts to locate an old river sternwheeler have been unsuccessful so far. It was discovered that within the last two years two small boats of just the type desired have been dismantled. These were the steamer Aquila and the steamer Harriet, both of which were well known to Winonans.

Wisconsin Children Getting Polio Shots; Minnesota Waiting

Nearly 2,600 first and second grade children will have received the Salk vaccine in four Western Wisconsin counties by the end of next week; the bad publicity scare in regard to the polio vaccine has not caused as many withdrawals as originally anticipated, and Southeastern Minnesota health authorities are still uncertain as to when inoculations can get under way.

These were the developments uncovered in a Daily News survey of area health officials this morning.

"Overdone" and "we're still skeptical" were the verdicts of Wisconsin and Minnesota authorities respectively, when questioned about the effects of adverse Salk vaccine publicity in recent weeks.

The last of BUFFALO COUNTY children eligible are receiving the first series of shots today at Nayson. Inoculations got under way Monday, said Miss Irene Brewer, county nurse, with no date as yet set for administration of the second shot in the series.

"It will depend partially," she said, "on when the second batch of vaccine is available. We think it'll be in about four or five weeks, but we're not sure."

Just over 600 first and second graders have received the first set, said Miss Brewer, "which represents a little over 90 per cent of those eligible."

She indicated that a few parents have withdrawn their children from the schedule because of the publicity scare, but that it wasn't as heavy as originally anticipated.

Miss Brewer said that there is presently a rash of children's communicable diseases in Buffalo County, which automatically eliminated some children from the inoculation rolls. She added, however, that a separate schedule will be set up to give first doses of the vaccine to children who are now ill.

Inoculations are now in their second day in PEPIN COUNTY, said Mrs. Helen M. Murphy, county nurse, who is directing administration today at the village of Pepin.

They started Tuesday at Durand, she said, and will finish Thursday in the town of Albany, with about 308 children to be recipients.

The total, said Mrs. Murphy, represents about 88.2 per cent of those eligible.

"All this bad publicity about the vaccine has been very overdue," said Mrs. Murphy. "Yes, a few of our parents have withdrawn, but others have added their children's names to the list since the first consent slips went out."

TREMPEALEAU COUNTY inoculations will get under way Monday, with about 970 first and second graders slated to receive the vaccine, said Mrs. Fern Lasiter, county nurse. That's about 88.2 per cent of those eligible, she said.

Mrs. Lasiter echoed feelings in other counties surveyed when she said parents have been reluctant to have their children's names to the list since the first consent slips went out.

"If there are parents who do not wish the immunization at this time, they should not feel obligated because they had signed a consent slip earlier, the nurse said.

"It is up to the parents, with the advice of their family doctor, to decide whether they want the vaccine," said Mrs. Lasiter.

"No immunization will be given unless the signed request slip accompanies the child," she added.

The schedule for Trempealeau County: Monday, May 23, Blair High School, 9 to 11 a.m.; Etttrick Grade School, 1 to 3 p.m.

Tuesday, May 24, Galesville Grade School, 9 to 11 a.m.; Trempealeau High School, 1 to 3 p.m.

Wednesday, May 25, Eleva Grade School, 9 to 11 a.m.; Strum Grade School, 1 to 3 p.m.

Thursday, May 26, Arcadia High School, 9 to 11 a.m.; Independence High School, 1 to 3 p.m.

Friday, May 27, Legion club room, Whitehall, 9 to 11 a.m.; Osseo High School, 7 to 3 p.m.

JACKSON COUNTY authorities have declined to release an inoculation schedule at this time, but based on original consent slips returned about 700 children should be recipients. The program is expected to begin about May 27 or 28.

"There has been almost a 100 per cent favorable response to the vaccine," an observer said.

Two methods of operation—one concerning the way immunizations are administered and the second in regard to charges—will be followed in the same manner throughout all four counties.

The Salk vaccine is set up nationally to be given in three shots. In Wisconsin counties surveyed today, the first two—one now and the second in about four weeks—will be administered at clinics by county health authorities.

The third shot—to be given in seven to 10 months—will be given by the individual family's own physician.

Funeral Friday For Young Mother Of 4 Children

WHALAN, Minn. (Special) — Mrs. Robert Haslerud, 28-year-old mother of four, died in a Rochester hospital at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday of injuries she received in an explosion at a farm home near here Saturday.

Mrs. Haslerud had just entered a storage and washhouse immediately adjacent to the Gilbert Gullickson home—three miles east of here—when a small gasoline can tumbled onto a hot wood stove, causing an explosion and fire that virtually demolished the building.

Her father, the burned Gilbert Gullickson, offered severe burns about the face and hands when he rescued his daughter from the flaming wreckage. Gullickson, victim of a heart condition, is still confined to his bed.

Mrs. Haslerud, who received second and third degree burns on more than half of her body in the accident, was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester.

Her husband, who is employed as a barber at Rochester and commutes daily to work, remained by his young wife's bedside throughout the four-day vigil.

The family had moved to Rushford, Minn., only a few months ago and Mrs. Haslerud had been at her family's home for a visit at the time of the accident.

She was born July 18, 1928, in Hope Township, Fillmore County, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gullickson. She was married to Robert Haslerud Dec. 30, 1946, at Whalan.

Funeral Services will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Gilbert Gullickson home and at 2 p.m. at the Whalan Lutheran Church, the Rev. Dale Simons officiating.

Survivors include her husband; her parents; four children, Elaine Marie, 7; Gloria Jean, 5; Ingar Christian, 2, and Charles Peter, 8 months; two brothers, Arden and Herman, Whalan, and a sister, Mrs. James (Johanna) Arnoldy, Winona.

Arrangements are being made at the Stanley Johnson Funeral Home here.

Burial will be in the Whalan Church Cemetery.

Studio Stable Of Old Cars Man-Size Job

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If you think you have troubles getting your jalopy started in the morning, consider Jim Ruman's chore. He has 150 ancient autos in his care, ranging back to an 1898 horseless carriage.

Jim is the transportation head at 20th Century-Fox. That means he must supply movies with cars, both antiquated and brand new.

The new cars are a cinch. Like several other studios, 20th has a tieup with a major auto firm, which provides new cars for virtually nothing. The car company figures that having its produce seen in big pictures is well worth the expense.

Old cars are easy for 20th too because the studio owns one of the biggest collections of antique autos in the world.

Says Jim: "It all started about 11 years ago when I took over the department. I like antiques and I thought we ought to start a collection of old autos."

"It turned out to be a good idea from the start. When I was in the Midwest, a woman in Ohio called me and said she had a 1902 Columbus which she had owned for 40 years. It still had the original top and paint on it. I bought it and had it shipped to Hollywood."

"When I got back, I picked up the script of 'Captain Eddie,' the Eddie Rickenbacker story. One scene had him working on a car in a horseless carriage factory around the turn of the century. The Columbus, which was built by the Columbus Buggy Co. and Harvey Firestone Sr., fitted perfectly."

Dutch Queen Seeks Political Leader to Form New Cabinet

Daffy Women Shoppers Spoofed by Jack Carter

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I don't want all the bargain-mad wives in America mad at me; so I'll play down Jack Carter's spoofing of their shopping habits in this review of his excellent new act at the Copacabana. "Eighty per cent of the money is spent by women," Jack told us. "The other 20 per cent is spent by men—on women." He claimed one female tore home and panted to her beloved, "Look at it! Only $87.50!"

"What is it?" the old man asked his B.V. "I don't know," she confessed breathlessly, "but isn't it wonderful? The salesman said it was the last one they had!"

Jack and "Let Me Go, Lover" Joan Weber are in the new show—and incidentally, the women around me thought Miss Weber's much prettier than her pictures. Jack said some of the Copacabana waiters are bitter about the club's plan to remove four of the big posts.

"They want to know," contended Jack, "Where we gonna put the customers we hate?"

Oscar Hammerstein II was telling Ed Murrow how Sam Goldwyn, visiting the Hammerstein place in Pennsylvania, observed a bull running after some cows. "Well," commented Sam, "he's only human."

Park Avenue Hillbilly Dorothy Shay saw Huntington Hartford drinking milk at her Plaza Persian Room opening. "You may be drinking milk," she told him, "but you're paying for booze." For her first appearance here in 3 years, she came loaded with new material. In "That Little Western Town of Beverly Hills," she sings that "The kids ring your bell on Hal-oween, and beat it in a chauffeured limousine." She adds that "Every day the mothers offer up a prayer, their son'll become President . . . of Metro-Goldwyn Mayer."

B'way character Jack Tirman phoned his wife Fawn: "Fawn, baby, it's beautiful outside today. Don't stay cooped up indoors. Get outside in the sun. Get out . . . go out somewhere . . . to a nice movie or someplace."

Thoughts while loafing: What ever happened to safety pins? When the busted elastic in my shorts had to be repaired, my gorgeous mother-in-law could only find one teeny one in the whole house. Wonder if the 52d St. strip joints have an uncover charge . . . Our NY sunsets are so purty now.

Brother, Sister Who Married Facing Trial

HEREFORD, England (AP)—A brother and sister who were parted in childhood but later met and married are facing trial on incest charges. Authorities accuse them of knowing they were related when they were wed.

At a preliminary hearing yesterday, a local court ordered Geoffrey Walter Hughes, 26, and his sister Marjorie to stand trial June 20. Both were released on bond without entering any plea to the charges.

The couple married in 1951. They separated early this year when their relationship was disclosed, and the sister since has remarried.

Tip Thwarts Plot To Rob U. S. Mail

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Police said an informer's tip thwarted an elaborate plot to rob the U.S. mail of a large amount of gambling casino money last night.

Police Chief A. H. Kennedy said five persons were taken into custody, including a Las Vegas police officer and his attractive red-haired wife.

He said an informer told him two weeks ago of a plan to rob a police car delivering a load of cash from the Las Vegas post office to the railroad station.

Postal authorities said the police car had been scheduled to carry a "very substantial amount of money" destined for San Francisco. There were reports it would have amounted to half a million dollars but postal authorities would not verify this.

Several postal inspectors from California and Nevada hid with 22 policemen in the vicinity of the post office. No attempt was made to halt the police car, which because of the tip carried no money. However, police arrested Las Vegas policeman George Anderson, 31, and his wife Joyce, 24, a casino cocktail waitress, in front of the post office.

Kennedy said Robert Schomer, 29, an electrician, was arrested behind the post office. The three were booked early today on suspicion of conspiracy to rob the mail by force. Two other men were taken into custody for questioning and a sixth person is being sought. A variety of weapons and masks were seized.

Russia, Satellites Increase Egyptian Cotton Purchase

CAIRO (AP)—Russia and her satellites have sharply increased cotton purchasing in Egypt. Red China may also absorb heavy tonnage.

Egyptian cotton men the Communist economic delegates are friends in need—even though trading is on a barter basis. The main thing in Egyptian eyes is that the Red deals take part of Egypt's backlog out of warehouses.

Egypt's newspapers greeted the prospective deals as a new blow against "imperialism." The influential Al Kahira said: "To think of exporting Egyptian cotton in markets other than those fixed by the imperialists was regarded as a crime in the past; now Egypt is at liberty to sell her cotton to any buyer."

By April, the Eastern bloc was taking 23 per cent of all the cotton moved by Egyptian exporters. Egyptian producers decry American export of cotton as a surplus commodity for aid purposes. They are no less bitter about American sales under a law permitting U. S. exporters to sell cotton abroad for local currencies which the U. S. government transforms into dollars.

Under the barter deals, Egypt gets crude oil from Russia, kerosene from Romania, machinery from Poland and Czechoslovakia. It hopes to get newsprint and rolling stock from Red China.

Stock Market Misses Public Buying Solurge

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sprang a slow leak three weeks ago.

Watching stock prices going soft, the public took to the sidelines. The professionals, however, had a wide variety of ready explanations and some are looking eagerly for signs of recovery and revival of public interest.

The stock market lost its zip at a time when most of the news continued to be bullish. Good earnings reports, increased dividends, new records in steel production, gains in industrial output generally, and a flood of optimistic predictions of even better times ahead—all of these seemed suddenly to lose their glamor.

But it was the very same kind of news that earlier in the year was the unfailing excuse for bidding stock prices higher.

Why didn't the same good news work in the last three weeks?

Brokers point out that stock traders don't buy because of what business has done, but because of what they think it's likely to do. Six months ago the bulls decided that first-quarter earnings were going to be good. The first of this year they guessed that second-quarter earnings should be good also. They anticipated the stock splits, mergers and increased dividends, and the general prosperity.

So stock prices were bid up high—so high in some cases that yields lost much of their attraction and bonds didn't look so dull.

Those who bought six months ago are now in position to sell and take their profits subject only to long-term capital gain tax rates.

Buying on margin has also been made less attractive. In two stages the Federal Reserve Board has raised margins to 70 per cent.

Brokers say there are other reasons for the market slowdown. Peace talks rose to volume, brokers note, just about the time the market turned soft. Businessmen would welcome peace. But it is recognized that one of the first results of any real lessening in world tension which the American people could believe trustworthy would be a demand that defense spending be cut further so that taxes could be lowered.

First Centennial Event Friday on Mondovi Streets

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special)—After months of preparation, the Mondovi Centennial celebration will roll into gear Friday night at a street dance and entertainment at the corner of Eau Claire and Main streets.

It will be the first of regular Friday night entertainments leading up to the main event June 22-26.

A highlight of the first show is inauguration of the kangaroo court and jail for the clean shaven. Brothers of the Brush—men with beards, mustaches or sideburns—are setting up the machinery for the show and it is reported some Buffalo County officials may get sentences at the first term of court.

The brothers and Centennial Belles will stage a promenade prior to the court and a street dance on North Eau Claire will follow. Russell Cook is in charge of the program.

Mondovi's television square dancers will demonstrate maneuvers from the squared circle and the Six Foot Four, barbershop quartet, will sing. The public is invited.

Next week the first historical exhibits will go into local store windows. Space was reserved by centennial committees this week.

A history will be published early in June and a representative of the John Rodgers Co. is expected May 23 to remain here until the 100th birthday party is completed. The Rodgers firm has been hired to supervise events.

Russ May Want Free Germany

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON—Is it possible that the Russians really do want a general European settlement, on terms which the West could accept? For the first time in many years, American diplomats and policy-makers are seriously debating this question with each other.

The heart and soul of any general settlement must be, of course, a German settlement. Agreement on Germany, on terms acceptable to the West, would require a drastic change of policy in the Kremlin. As previously reported here, the majority official view is that any such basic change is highly unlikely.

Yet some officials have been having second thoughts on this score. There have been intriguing hints that the Russians might arrive at the forthcoming meeting at the summit prepared to negotiate seriously about Germany. Some of these hints have been public, like Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's cryptic remarks on the occasion of the signing of the Austrian treaty. But there have also been private hints, and these have been a lot more specific than anything the Soviets have said in public.

More Freedom
Soviet diplomats and officials, whether in Russia or Western Europe or the United States, have been talking to Westerners with far more freedom than at any time in at least a decade. These unofficial chats have resulted in some surprises. Here, for example, is the formula for a German settlement outlined by a Soviet diplomat in one such informal conversation.

First, staged withdrawal from Germany of all foreign troops. The Soviet troops, it was said, would be withdrawn behind the borders of the Soviet Union. But, the Soviet official remarked, if the United States insisted, American troops could be stationed elsewhere on the continent, rather than withdrawn across the Atlantic.

Second, supervised free elections throughout Germany—though just how the elections would be supervised, or how free they would really be, was left very much up in the air.

Oder-Neisse Line
Third, an advance agreement by Germany and the Western powers to regard the Oder-Neisse Line as "settled." Much emphasis was laid on this point.

Fourth, in every other respect, full sovereignty for the new all-German government resulting from the elections. Specifically, the Germans would have the right to join NATO, although the confidence of belief was expressed that the Germans would be "more sensible," and that they would form a "third force." Ahis, of course, was the most surprising item on the list.

Finally, there would be some rather vaguely defined all-European security arrangement, of the sort already proposed by Molotov, to guarantee this arrangement. Both the United States and the Soviet Union would be included.

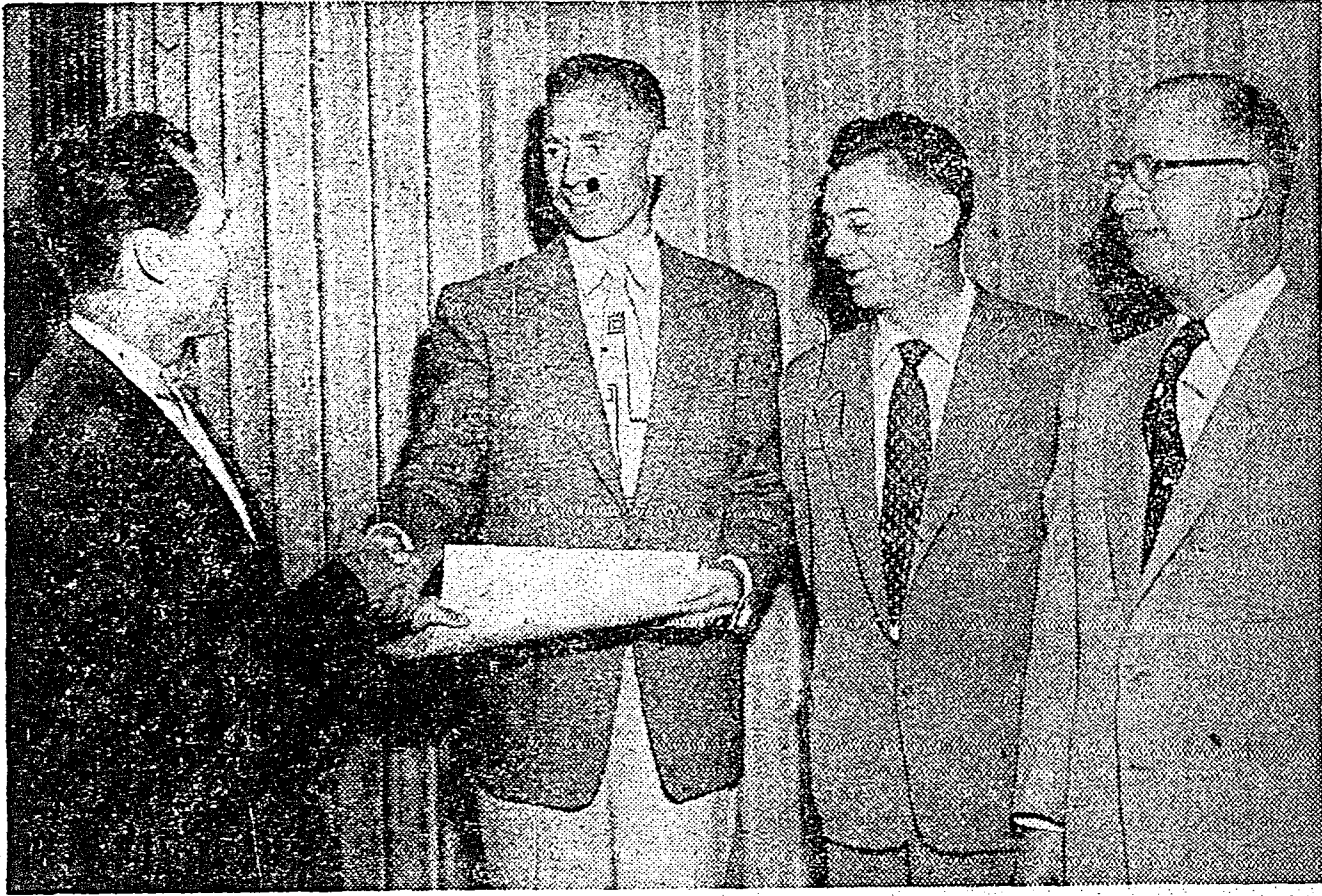

If this sort of Soviet proposal were formally made at the meeting at the summit, it would certainly require some serious negotiation despite its ambiguities.

No German government could afford to reject such proposals outright. And although informal chats commit no one, it is at least interesting that Soviet officials should be talking in this vein. It could even mean that the Kremlin has been making its own agonizing reappraisal.

The Western alliance, after all, is no longer a house of cards which threatens to collapse at every Soviet puff. The Soviets are having real economic difficulties at home. The Kremlin might thus logically conclude that the time had come for a limited disengagement from Central Europe.

Even supposing this country retained the right to keep forces on the continent, the disengagement would be by no means unilateral. If they were denied German bases, probably five-sixths of the American forces would have to go home, simply because there is nowhere else for them to go. And four British divisions would also go back across the Channel.

For the rest, it might seem to the Soviets that there was not a Announce New Way to Relieve Pain of Arthritis and Rheumatism Without Pills!

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep—speeds up flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas—actually helps drive away pain-causing congestion and pressure.

New York, N. Y. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring a new kind of relief from pains of arthritis, rheumatism, and muscular aches and pains. This new cream relieves these pains without the need of taking pills and other internal medicines that may only upset the system.

Gently rubbed into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep and completely that it actually vanishes. Quickly a comforting feeling of warmth develops and the whole painful area takes on a pleasing glow. This is striking evidence of the power of this cream to penetrate quickly and stimulate the circulation of the blood. This glow illustrates how it speeds up the flow of fresh, rich blood into the sore areas and actually helps drive away the pain-causing congestion and pressure.

146 British and French doctors are so satisfied with this new help for patients suffering from arthritis and rheumatism that they have prepared written reports of success based on hundreds of cases. Further, one of the leading arthritis and rheumatism clinicians in the United States has now confirmed the findings of these doctors.

Now for the first time this remarkable cream can be obtained without a prescription at drug stores throughout America—under the name InfraRUB. The price of InfraRUB is only 98¢ for a large tube. InfraRUB is backed by the amazing guarantee that sufferers from the pains of arthritis, rheumatism, lumbago, neuritis, neuralgia or muscle injuries or sprains will get hours and hours of comforting relief or their money will be refunded in full.

Voters Have Small Voice In Presidential Nominations

Only a minority of the states will give rank-and-file voters a direct voice in nominating the 1956 Republican and Democratic presidential standard bearers.

Delegates to the national conventions will choose the nominees. The 48 states will send 86 delegations — one Republican and one Democratic slate each. In addition, territories and other areas will be represented.

Who elects the delegates?

Twenty-three of the 98 state delegations will be elected through party primaries. Another 59 state parties will elect delegates at conventions on the state or district level. Party committees will pick five slates of delegates. Alabama Republicans will have a choice between selection by primary or convention. Four state parties will choose some delegates by primary, some by convention; four others will use a primary-party committee combination.

Presidential primaries or delegate elections will be held in 19 states, with New Hampshire leading off March 13. The season will close June 5, 1956. May 8 will be the busiest day, with five primaries scheduled.

Besides electing delegates, voters in some primaries have the chance to express their preference directly on presidential hopefuls. In ten states, primaries are used for both purposes, in six only for election of delegates, and in three only for a presidential preferential poll.

Voters in only seven states can consistently control their delegates to the national conventions. In California, Indiana, Montana, and Nebraska, delegates are bound by law to support the candidate who wins the preferential primary. Minnesota and Ohio hold no preferential primaries, but would-be delegates must run pledged to a particular candidate, and the law holds them to their pledge.

Maryland's national delegates must support the candidate endorsed by the state convention. Endorsement, in turn, is based on a county-unit vote of pledged delegates to the state convention.

In Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, and Wisconsin, delegates are bound to support a particular candidate only if they choose to run as pledged delegates.

Arkansas, North Dakota, and Tennessee allow party rules to govern the question of binding delegates.

In the other 34 states — some of which hold preferential primaries — delegates are free to support any candidate they want. They may, however, announce their preference and stick to it voluntarily. The choice of the rank-and-file has moral, but not legal force.

No pledge is permanent. Delegates may be released after the convention's first ballot or at some later point. Traditionally, all delegates swing behind the winning candidate to make the final vote unanimous.

Presidential hopefuls employ a variety of stratagems to win nomination. Some, like Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) in 1952, fight hard to win primaries — at least in states where they believe they're strong. They hope both to win pledged delegates and to demonstrate their strength in order to influence unpledged delegates and delegates not chosen by primaries.

Adlai E. Stevenson and Gen. Eisenhower, on the other hand, devoted no open, personal effort to winning primaries. Mr. Eisenhower won some, anyway. Instead, their backers concentrated on rounding up support in state committees and conventions, and among political leaders — who influence and sometimes guarantee "delivery" of delegates' votes.

The record testifies to the minor role played by primaries in the 1952 nominating process. Both the men who stood aloof carried the conventions.

Guaranteed Annual Wage Plan Aired

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK — Apparently when a thesis that requires full study and accommodation to the national economy is given a cryptic title and is symbolized by initials, it is accepted rather by substance. G.A.W. means guaranteed annual wage, a system already in vogue in many enterprises.

In most industries, the assured annual wage is more difficult than in, say, a slaughter house, because the sale of the commodity may be seasonal or on order. Automobiles are an example of a seasonal industry; structural steel of an on order industry. There is much talk these days of the peaks and valleys in industry being leveled off, but in this conversation, the fact that a large share of production has, for more than a decade, been war production or what is euphemistically called defense production, is too often forgotten. Do we require war or the preparation for war to have full employment?

WALTER REUTHER's proposal is to supplement state unemployment compensation by the employer which is not exactly a guaranteed wage for work done. What the United Automobile Workers demand is that the guaranteed annual wage plus unemployment compensation should be equal to the present take-home pay. This would only apply to those workers who have acquired seniority according to the union-company contract.

One of the problems that faces every worker in every industry in this country is what is called "automation." This is the growing fear among workers that the development of labor-saving and automatic machinery will result in reduced employment or unemployment.

While it is demonstrable that in the past, machines have made jobs, it is also demonstrable that in particular industries, automatic devices have become so perfected that few workers are necessary. It is not contended by anyone associated with either management or labor that the use of automatic devices should be reduced or curtailed; the point is made and has to be considered seriously that no interim period should be permitted to exist during which the purchasing power of large numbers of Americans should be sharply reduced or altogether removed, forcing them on the dole.

IN A WORD, GRANTED that new knowledge and techniques can free human beings from irksome and onerous toil and produce an abundance heretofore unknown, the task remains to minimize the perils of job displacement and family hardships.

It seems to me that this is so serious a problem that it cannot be solved by a strike which will not remove the problem no matter who wins. Involved in all this is the question of the smaller business which is being squeezed out of existence by taxes, wages, beneficial financing by the larger companies and the huge cost of advertising, particularly since the advent of television.

The question is whether it is beneficial to the American economy and to social conditions in this country if only huge monopolistic companies exist. That will not be solved by Attorney General Herbert Brownell's plethora of anti-trust suits, because if it requires a quarter of a million dollars to buy one automatic machine to be on a competitive basis with an enormous firm, the small man cannot go into that sort of business. If Brownell breaks up large enterprises to prevent monopoly, he still cannot tell small men how they can set up businesses which require huge capital outlays to get started and to reach a break-even point.

NOR IS THE SOLUTION to this problem government-control of industry or either a Fascist or a Socialist basis. That would involve us in more problems, and less pleasant ones, than we face today.

In the older days of the free market, competition would solve the problem, but we are not living in the older days nor do we have a free market. We live in a mixed economy, a condition prolonged by the continuance of war-like conditions.

The solution does lie in management-labor studies as to how to protect not only the wage but the community life of the worker. We know, from experience during the depression, that the major problem of unemployment is not the disfigurement of the individual, who can be put on the dole, but the reduced purchasing power of the entire population which leads to vast social and even political changes, some of which are antagonistic to a free society.

New Board Appointee Has Unusual Congress Record

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the boys who run things for Ike at the White House either didn't do much screening or else don't care what kind of Democrats they appoint on certain commissions, where, under the law, they have to appoint Democrats.

They have just appointed to the Subversive Control Board, a vital body which rules on loyalty and subversives, an ex-congressman father in breaking the will of the late Dr. George Bryce. . . . Reeves stood sixth on the eligibility list.

Congressional Sobriety — Here are more facts that could have been ascertained by the FBI or the White House before appointing Wood to a key job in which he passes upon the conduct of his fellow men. . . . When Wood was solicitor general of the Blue Ridge judicial circuit, a sworn affidavit shows that the local sheriff arrested the said John S. Wood while he was drunk.

Wood was in a room in the Mashburn Hotel in Cumming, Ga., and held him there 24 hours and that the opening of the superior court of Forsyth County was delayed from Monday morning to Tuesday morning while the said John S. Wood sobered up and got in condition to perform his duties as solicitor general. . . . If this had been an isolated case it would not be mentioned here. But as a congressman, Wood was under the influence of liquor during one important debate on his own substitute for the Taft-Hartley bill that ex-Speaker Joe Martin and Cong. Charlie Halleck of Indiana had to substitute for him. His own "Wood bill," tougher than the Taft-Hartley act, was being debated. Yet, though he was sitting in judgment on millions of American workers, he had to do so from a reclining position on a couch in the House cloakroom. Though he managed to appear on the floor to vote, he retired to the couch immediately afterward. . . . Now he's been picked to pass upon security and subversive matters for all Americans.

Communism in Hollywood — As chairman of the un-American activities committee, Wood was supposed to probe alleged Communism wherever he found it, including Hollywood. However, when his committee started to probe certain Hollywood film writers in 1945-46, Louis B. Mayer, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, hired an obscure Georgia attorney, Edgar Dunlap, living in Cong. Wood's district. Mysteriously, the Hollywood probe was postponed. . . . Later the Republicans took over Wood's committee and the probe went forward. However, attorneys for film writers Robert Kenny and Bartley Crum were informed in advance by attorneys for the film industry that Cong. Wood would ask friendly questions. The official record of the hearings shows that Wood did. He fell all over himself to be nice, kind, and gentle. . . . The current question is: Would Wood be especially kind to others brought before the subversive control board if they hired a lawyer from his district in Georgia?

Mail Routes — A congressman is supposed to recommend the award of mail routes on merit, not because of any fee, direct or indirect. . . . Here is how Cong. Wood awarded them, as told in a sworn affidavit by Weldon C. Bennett of Canton, Ga. He took an examination for rural mail carrier in June, 1949, and two weeks later went to see C. D. Holcombe, secretary to Cong. Wood. . . . "I offered C. B. Holcombe $1,500 for said route," Bennett states. Mr. Holcombe is the secretary who originally approached the elder Stanfield about the $1,000 fee. . . . Two other sworn affidavits signed by Ralph Clark of Flowery Branch, Ga., and Harold W. Puckett of Buford, Ga., state that in September, 1949, Cong. Wood told them he was awarding the Flowery Branch mail route to Homer Reeves because of the large fee he had received in connection with a lawsuit brought by Reeves.

Advice on Health

New Tablet Cuts Down Ulcer Pain

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A simple little tablet may be a big help in alleviating the pain caused by your peptic ulcer. This fact was indicated in tests conducted by Drs. Frederick Steigmann and Edwin E. Goldberg of Cook County Hospital and the Cook County Graduate School of Medicine.

A year-long clinical investigation, they report, shows that antacid Nulacin tablets relieved duodenal ulcer symptoms in 29 out of 30 patients. Symptoms of gastric ulcers were relieved in four out of five patients. And all 11 persons with hyperchloric gastritis, who were tested, reported relief.

Nulacin tablets, the doctors report, provide continuous acid neutralization for a person with a peptic ulcer and, at the same time, permit him to carry out his normal activities.

Prevention of excessive secretion of hydrochloric acid in your stomach and neutralization of the excessive gastric acidity is of primary importance in treating your ulcer. This acid is the chief cause of your ulcer pain. The pain occurs when the acidity reaches a certain level and vanishes when the acidity falls below that level.

This free acid in your stomach generally is neutralized only during actual contact of the antacid substance with the gastric juice. That means you must have a continuous supply of an antacid. Nulacin tablets provide this constant supply.

Daily Dose

The average dose of Nulacin for treatment of active peptic ulcer is three tablets hourly, beginning one-half hour after each meal. A tablet should be placed between your cheek and your gum and permitted to dissolve slowly. Don't chew it or swallow it. When on dissolves, take another.

The slow disintegration of the tablet reportedly increases the neutralizing powers of the antacids it contains. It's suggested that during the night secretion can be lowered by use of anticholinergic drugs.

Nulacin is a combination of four antacids, buffered by milk solids. Each tablet contains about 11 calories.

The proper diet, of course, is also important to ulcer victims.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

N.E.M.: Since my gallbladder was removed in 1952 there is a sore spot under my short ribs which is now very painful. What is the cause of this?

Answer: It is impossible to tell just what is causing the pain you describe. It might be due to some after-effects of the operation. On the other hand, it might come from some disturbance of the stomach, bowel or muscles. A careful examination by your physician would be needed to find the cause.

Communists Keep America Guessing

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
 WASHINGTON — The American government doesn't know what the Russians are up to. That point stands out clearly in Secretary of State Dulles' talk to the nation.

Lately the Communists have been mild and to a degree cooperative. They let Austria have independence. They have agreed to talks among the Big Four powers—the United States, Britain, France, Russia — at the highest level. Why?

Old Hindu Custom Just Won't Sell

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Would it help out the divorce rate in America if every year we had a week dedicated to husband worship?

A hundred Hindu wives in India recently completed a five-day festival of husband worship. In one ceremony during the festival each wife washed her husband's feet, and a Hindu mystic expressed hope this rite "will end divorce."

Well, it was a heart-warming thought. But would it work here? Many foreigners accuse Americans of woman worship. They feel our high divorce rate stems from the fact the ladies have too much power in this country—that a wife loses respect for a husband she can wear like a watchdog or dangle like a marionette.

Humam. After all, we do celebrate things like National Dill Pickle Month. Why not set aside one measly week a year for husband worship? That would still leave us 51 weeks of wife worship—surely enough to keep any reasonable woman happy.

So, fired up with the heady prospects of launching America's first annual Husband Worship Week, I broached the project to a guy I know whom everybody calls "the oldtimer." He is wise in the ways of marriage, a combat veteran scarred but unbroken by a 30-year tour of duty on the same matrimonial battlefield.

Somewhat to my surprise, the oldtimer, after listening to my proposal, immediately threw cold water on it.

No Heaven on Earth

"Son, I know it sounds like heaven," he said, "but that's why it won't work. Heaven don't work on earth."

"You mean you wouldn't enjoy having your wife worship you for a week out of every year?" I asked.

"Lord-a-mighty, no!" he thundered. "I don't know how those Hindu men stood it, having their womenfolk coming around worshipping 'em and washing their feet for five whole days. Father's day is almost more than I can bear, with my wife and kids behaving like simpering idiots seeing me for the first time. You haven't thought this thing through."

"I don't get you," I murmured. "How?"

"Well, for one thing, I bet you think American wives would resent a Husband Worship Week and holler against having to wash the old man's feet, like Hindu ladies."

"Of course, they'd holler."

"That's how little you know about women," said the oldtimer. "Why, they'd go for it like a weasel goes for hen eggs."

"The wives would be fighting to show how much they worshipped their husbands. Every home would have a gilded bowl—something like the old shaving bowl—inscribed, 'Dear Daddykins—His Tootsie Bath.'"

"They'd have all kinds of Precious Papa foot soaps on the market—perfumed naturally. Wives would be trading foot bath recipes, and there'd be national television contests to pick America's leading foot-washing wife."

"Don't you think that's a bit overdrawn, oldtimer?"

One Long Hell

"Not at all," he replied. "A Husband Worship Week would be one long hell. A man couldn't move. He'd be so smothered in feminine adulation he'd be like a fly in a barrel of molasses. And that's the way his wife would like to have him."

"Son, when you worship something, it becomes your prisoner. Nothing with any sense really likes

Dulles doesn't know. He frankly expressed puzzlement by their motives in his broadcast last night from President Eisenhower's office. Although Eisenhower said a "new dawn may be coming," he and Dulles cautioned against expecting too much of the talks.

Dulles and Eisenhower, both of whom had been frigid for years to a top-level meeting with the Russians, will now both meet with them. Neither man has shown much enthusiasm for the idea. Britain and France persuaded Dulles to persuade Eisenhower to take part.

Dulles last night was very cautious about the meeting, perhaps because he doesn't know what the Russians have up their sleeve.

Since the Russians have them guessing, Eisenhower and Dulles will have to do their homework if they don't want to come out second best. Homework doesn't mean just remembering to stand pat on every single difference which has existed between Russia and the West for years.

This whole Russian performance may be phony. There's a chance it isn't, that they really want peace, and are willing to pay a price for it in the form of concessions they never would make before.

If they do back up a bit, the United States will have to be prepared to do the same if, by doing so, American safety and world peace are benefited. American rigidity might continue a cold war until it became hot.

Teeth, Candy Junked On Teacher's Orders

OKLAHOMA CITY — Mrs. Loretta Bonner, a teacher at Taft Junior High School, noticed one of her students struggling with a piece of candy he was chewing.

"Either swallow the candy or toss it in the wastebasket basket," she advised the youth.

"Can't," said the lad. "The candy is stuck between my teeth." Jokingly, Mrs. Bonner told the youngster: "Well, toss your teeth in the basket with the candy."

The boy took out his teeth and threw them into the basket. He had a complete upper plate.

Navy Will Build 8th Atomic Sub

WASHINGTON — The Navy plans to build an additional atomic submarine, bringing the projected total of such craft to eight.

This was reported yesterday by Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), who said the Navy had advised a Senate House Atomic Energy subcommittee of its intentions.

The Navy had asked congressional authority to build three more nuclear-powered subs. The change of plans would add one to this figure. Four atomic submarines were authorized earlier and one of these has been completed.

being worshipped. That's why women enjoy it. I fought my wife for 20 years before I found out the secret of how to beat her—which was, to worship her.

"I quit being her slave the day I told her I worshipped her. I've been telling her that ever since. When you keep telling a woman you worship her, she has to let you have your own way for fear you'll stop telling her. If there's a slave in the family now, well, it ain't me."

The oldtimer paused for breath. "Let's have no more nonsense about husband worship," he said. "A hell like that could snowball and ruin every sensible marriage in America."

"Any husband who lets his wife put him on a pedestal will find he's turned his home into a museum and himself into a piece of statuary."

Stillwater Lifer Jailed 34 Years To Be Paroled

ST. PAUL (U-P)—Hall Green, who entered Stillwater Prison 34 years ago to serve a life term for murder, will leave the prison a free man within a few days.

The Associated Press learned Monday night that the state parole board and the state pardon board both have taken action to release Green. No official announcement has been made by either board.

Approval of both groups is necessary in cases where persons are serving a life term for murder.

Green, then 25, was convicted in 1921 of first degree murder. He has always protested his innocence, claiming he was convicted solely on circumstantial evidence.

Green was convicted of killing Leslie Joslin, who was shot near the farm of Green's employer, William Humphrey, in the Redwood Falls area. The shooting was reported to have stemmed from the attentions of a farm girl.

Records in the case indicate the motive behind the slaying was traceable to the intimate relations Green allegedly had with the girl and Joslin's plan to marry her.

Green's contention has been that the evidence used against him could have applied equally to Green's own brother, who was convicted and served seven years for carnal knowledge on complaint of the girl in the case.

Pat Passehl Among Finalists

Although a Fairmont, Minn., girl swept top honors in the annual Miss Minnesota pageant at Austin over the weekend, Winona's Pat Passehl "did very well," according to Winona Jaycee director Don Blake today.

Eighteen-year-old Pat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Passehl, was among five finalists in a field of 22 state beauties, said Blake.

In the pageant's talent division, Miss Passehl delighted the audience with a humorous dramatic skit on the subject of a man purchasing perfume for his wife, Blake added.

Eau Claire Bargain Gas Brings Troubles

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (U-P)—To save some money, Harold Kluge took advantage of a local price war between filling stations to stock up on gasoline.

But today, Kluge is without his truck and 90 gallons of gas that he purchased at a bargain price.

While carrying the 90 gallons of gas that he purchased for 18.4 cents a gallon, Kluge's truck broke an axle. The gas ignited and before firemen could extinguish the 40-foot-high flames, his truck was a charred hulk and most of the gas was gone.

The gas that remained was impounded by fire department officials who want to see if the fuel was being transported in proper containers as required by law.

Pair Who Shot Badger Barkeep Sentenced

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (U-P)—Two young men who shot and wounded a tavern keeper after robbing him of $34 were sentenced Monday to terms of 3 to 30 years in Wau-pun State prison.

Circuit Judge Russell E. Hanson sentenced Patrick Redmond, 20, Oshkosh, and Marvin Kofnetka, 24, Neenah, on their pleas of guilty to armed robbery and assault of Edward J. Sabel, 58, on March 29. Sabel was shot three times and brutally beaten, police said.

A second charge of assault with intent to commit murder was dropped after Judge Hanson said it would place the defendants in double jeopardy.

Milwaukee authorities will file a detainer at the prison against the young men in connection with a filling station holdup.

None of the trio were opposed. Of the 111 who voted on the schoolhouse issue, 108 approved the move while three voted against it. The buildings were owned by Winona County districts 63 and 113 and Wabasha County district 81 which joined the consolidation since the last election.

Zumbro Falls Area Man Elected to Board at Lake City

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special)—Everett Freiheit, Zumbro Falls, and Robert Wallace, Lake City, were elected to the school board of Consolidated District 40, Wabasha and Goodhue counties, Tuesday.

Wallace, an incumbent, polled 238 votes to win re-election, while Freiheit received 286 votes. The third candidate in the race for the two posts, Leonard Wiech, Frontenac, received 100 votes.

Balloting was conducted at Lake City and Zumbro Falls. A break-

Leonard Biers was elected to complete the unexpired 2-year term to which he was appointed last fall following a resignation. Biers polled 243 votes to 100 for Delvin Rubberg.

Trespassing Problem Aired by Authority

With several commissioners out of town and unable to attend Tuesday's meeting of the Winona Housing & Redevelopment Authority, the authority decided to hold over a City Council request for action in curtailing trespassing on private property adjacent to the Arthur C. Thurlay Homes.

Nearby property owners have complained that tenants have taken short-cuts across their property to West 4th street.

In March, tenants were informed of the trespassing laws, but the situation apparently has not improved.

There is no access on the east side of the Thurlay Homes other than by going two blocks west, two blocks north to West 5th street and then two blocks east again to get to a point two blocks from buildings at the east side of the site.

Defects Revealed In Houston Co. School Bus Check

CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special)—Many serious defects were found on the 45 vehicles inspected during the school bus clinic here Tuesday, according to the list compiled by State Supervisor of Public Transportation Michael J. Haggerty and State Highway Patrolmen Clyde Seekins and Orville Radtke.

Forty per cent of the vehicles had faulty brakes (were unable to stop within 25 to 30 feet), rear emergency doors on nine of the vehicles were not working, three each had no first aid kits, no fire extinguishers and no horn, and headlights and stoplights that did not work.

Authorities emphasized that all deficiencies are to be corrected as soon as possible and warned that the patrol has the authority to check the vehicles at any time.

Other insufficient or faulty equipment revealed by the clinic tests included: Nine with illegal flashing red signals and seven with signals that did not work; eight with broken or cracked lenses in the signal lights; 16 on which turn signals did not operate; 11 with faulty windshield wipers; nine seats that need repair; seven with rear tail lights not working; five without reflectors; 12 in which interior lights did not operate; eight with broken glass in windows or doors; 12 with floors in need of repair; two requiring bumper repair; seven in which new floor mats are needed; five without properly functioning clearance lights; eight with first aid kits and five fire extinguishers that required restocking or refilling and seven with faulty exhaust pipes.

Defendant Given Award at Alma

ALMA, Wis. (Special)—Kenneth Luck, Waterloo, Iowa, was awarded damages of $691.37 by a Buffalo County Circuit Court jury Tuesday afternoon.

Luck was the defendant in a $2,500 case brought by Alfred E. Sezapanski, Mondovi, but had filed a counter claim.

The case was the last of the jury cases as the action brought by the Fisher Well Drilling Co., Mondovi, against Dr. and Mrs. George Jacobi, Gilmanston, has been settled.

Dismissed was the case brought by Bonded Collections Inc., against Sam Urness, after a hearing Tuesday. An appeal from justice court, it involved collection of a bill. Edwin Larkin, attorney for Urness, moved for dismissal on the grounds that there was not sufficient cause for the complaint. The motion was granted by Judge Kenneth S. White, who ordered the plaintiff to pay Urness' court costs.

It takes TCP
to get the full power
from High Octane Gasoline

Cars being made today are the most powerful ever built. And with this extra power you also get extra economy—more miles per gallon.

The reason for these benefits is that today's engines are high compression engines and make more complete use of the power available in today's higher octane gasolines.

But did you know that the kind of driving most people do most of the time—local driving—can, in a short time, create a condition that offsets the extra power and economy that these engines should get from high octane gasoline.

Why? Because this kind of driving increases the build-up of certain combustion chamber deposits—the root of most power and gasoline waste. And to overcome these deposits you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

What happens is this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time... before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

*Shell's trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for. The above statements may also apply to other companies which produce high-octane gasoline if they are licensed to use TCP.

Talks With Chou Likely to Wait Big Four Parley

WASHINGTON (U.S.A.)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today any discussion with Red China's Premier Chou En-lai about relaxing tensions in the Far East should await a forthcoming top-level Big Four meeting.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he still favors a meeting with Chou despite conditions laid down by the Red Chinese leader early yesterday in renewing his offer to negotiate directly with the United States on Formosa.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.Y.), a Foreign Relations committee member, predicted, "There will not be any talks with Chou under the conditions he has laid down."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), another committee member, said in a separate interview he hopes this country will insist on the release of imprisoned American fliers and detained U. S. civilians before it agrees to any meeting.

Chou has said the Communists would not sit down with representatives of the Chinese Nationalists and would not give up their claims to Formosa. He repeated his demand for a Red Chinese seat in the United Nations.

St. Cloud Child Killed by Car

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (U.S.A.)—A St. Cloud kindergarten pupil was killed today when struck by a car on his way to school. The victim was Dennis Athen, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dedrich Athen.

Earl Liedall, a neighbor who took the youngster to school, told police he warned the boy to press the button on the manually-operated signal light before crossing a street near the school.

Liedall said the boy did as he was told, but started to cross before the light turned red for oncoming traffic.

He was struck by a car and carried some 30 feet down the street. The boy was dead when doctors arrived.

His death raised the 1955 Minnesota traffic toll to 171, compared with 224 at this time a year ago.

11 Dutch Seamen Jump to Safety From Crippled Ship

LONDON (U.S.A.)—Eleven Dutch seamen jumped to safety today from the plunging deck of a crippled freighter as blinding May gales lashed the English Channel and the North Sea.

Dozens of small ships scuttled for shelter in the channel ports. The liner Queen Mary docked 12 hours late from New York after riding at anchor throughout the night.

The Ramsgate lifeboat rescued the 11 Dutchmen from the 309-ton coaster Urmajo as it wallowed aground on the treacherous Goodwin Sands.

Peronists Ready Bill to Abolish 'Catholic State'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (U.S.A.)—With President Juan Peron's government pressing its fight against the Roman Catholic Church, a congressional committee announced plans to report today on a bill to end Catholicism's position as the state church.

Four Catholic bishops of Buenos Aires province called, meanwhile, for retention of Catholic religious education in the public schools. A bill ending such instruction has been approved by both houses of Congress and is now awaiting Peron's signature.

The additional proposal to separate church and state would require an amendment to the national constitution, which now establishes Roman Catholicism as the state religion.

Police yesterday announced the arrest of six more priests, making a total of 41 taken into custody since Peron's dispute with the church came into the open last November. The President has accused some members of the clergy of seeking to undermine his regime.

N. Y. Man Arranges For His Funeral, Commits Suicide

OYSTER BAY COVE, N. Y. (U.S.A.)—On Monday, Ernest Woolard, well-to-do interior decorator, visited a funeral parlor. He said he wanted to arrange for a funeral for a member of the family who was near death.

He wrote down the precise cost of each item. He chose a simple pine casket, and listed the prayers to be said. He ordered the burial in a Washington, D. C., cemetery. Then he went home and wrote a note to an old friend, Police Lt. C. Russell Haff. It said, "You will find my body in the jeep in the garage in the event my wife doesn't find me first."

Woolard's wife found the body yesterday. The jeep was covered with a canvas, and a hose was rigged to the exhaust. Police ruled the death a suicide from Carbon monoxide.

Police said Woolard, 54, was despondent over his 18-year-old married son John, who is in jail on a rape charge.

Judge Declares Juror Slightly Out-of-Bounds

WICHITA, Kan. (U.S.A.)—Finnis C. Morris, a Capron, Okla., drove 130 miles to Wichita for jury duty—as ordered. He was declared ineligible for Kansas jury duty, however, when Judge William C. Kandt learned he had moved to Oklahoma two years ago and that the court summons was forwarded from his old Wichita address. Morris was paid 7 cents a mile for his trouble.

N.C. Parking Lot 'Slayer' Tries for Release on Bond

RALEIGH, N.C. (U.S.A.)—The attorney for Richard Kluckhohn has taken steps to have him released on bond while awaiting trial on a charge of murder.

Howard Manning filed a petition with the Superior Court yesterday asking for a habeas corpus writ. He contends the state showed insufficient evidence at a preliminary hearing Monday to warrant holding the youth without bond.

Kluckhohn, 21, of Evanston, Ill., described as a gun fancier and brilliant anthropology student, is accused in the fatal shooting last Friday of Miss Bernice Seawell, 43, government employee of Arlington, Va.

Police said a shot fired from a hotel room occupied by Kluckhohn hit Miss Seawell as she and a sister were standing at a parking lot. Kluckhohn, son of two Harvard University faculty members, claims his German luger pistol discharged accidentally.

Bills Offered To Carry Out Ike Polio Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bills to carry out the Eisenhower administration's polio vaccination program for poor children have been dropped in the congressional hopper—one by a Republican and the other by a Democrat.

Early approval seemed assured as bipartisan support was voiced for the plan to put up 28 million dollars to make sure lack of money bars no child from getting the vaccine.

Government handling of the situation continued to draw criticism, however. Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) told the Senate yesterday he thinks Secretary of Welfare Hobby should be fired for "gross incompetence."

Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) rose to defend the secretary, saying she had shown herself to be "a great stateswoman and a fine leader."

Mrs. Hobby had opposed moves by many Democrats and some Republicans to provide rigid federal controls for vaccine distribution. A voluntary distribution system was one of the points in a report she presented Monday to President Eisenhower.

The report, quickly endorsed by the President, proposed free vaccinations for those in the 1-19 age group unable to pay for them.

Bills to put this recommendation into effect were introduced yesterday by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) and Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.).

Parents and relatives of Winona and area servicemen and women are reminded that Friday is the deadline for submitting pictures to be used in the Saturday armed forces display here.

Pictures not larger than 4 by 5 inches should be submitted to the Army, Air Force or Navy recruiting offices in the Winona Post Office.

A return address should be attached to the back of each picture. The name, current rank and address of each of the military personnel for whom a picture is submitted should be included.

All pictures will be returned undamaged if the complete return address is attached.

The pictures will be on display in the windows at Langenberg's Men's Clothing, 79 W. 3rd St.

La Crescent Sets Bid Advertising

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special)—Bid advertising and a report on an auxiliary village water supply were top items when the village board met in special session here Monday evening.

Keith Caswell, village engineer, was told by board members that they wished Maple street here be repaved. They'll advertise for bids on the project, to be received within 30 days.

The Minnesota State Board of Health returned a report on a new $20,000 auxiliary village well, showing that the water is hard and has a low content of iron, magnesium, chloride and sulphate. That's good, say health authorities.

At its regular meeting June 6 the board will advertise for bids on additions to the village sewer lines. Estimated cost is $77,000.

Board members Monday evening urged any village resident who wishes a lateral built into the system to make an early petition to the village clerk.

Such action, they say, will reduce the cost of the sewer project to the individual petitioner.

State Voters OK $2 Million for School Buildings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Minnesota school building plans got a better than two million dollar shot in the arm Tuesday as voters in two districts approved that much in bond issues.

At Crookston, balloting was 830-157 in favor of a whopping $1,875,000 issue for security while Paynesville was voting, 381-224, for $265,000 in bonds.

The Crookston program includes a major addition to Central High School, now being used by students from 20 rural areas as well as those in the city under a consolidation plan.

The addition will include a gymnasium, cafeteria, library and space for the music and industrial arts departments. Funds also provide for construction of a new McKinley grade school.

School officials estimate that the buildings will be completed by the start of the fall term in 1958. It was the largest bond issue ever voted on at Crookston.

Funds voted at Paynesville will go for an addition to the present combined elementary-high school building. Construction is to be started this fall.

Shots Fired in War Over Fishing Areas

By TED MCKENNA
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U)—American fishing vessels today are engaged in a conflict over freedom of the seas.

Shots have been fired and one man, William Peck, 42, Seattle, Wash., seriously wounded.

The conflict is over the claim of Peru, Ecuador and Chile to sovereignty for 200 miles off their shores. It is complicated by increasing competition from Japan for the U.S. consumer market.

The American tuna vessels have extended their range to reach virgin fishing areas south of the Equator. Some have moved their base of operations to South America.

Eight vessels flying the U. S. flag have been seized by Peru and Ecuador. Their owners have been fined a total of more than $35,000 to obtain release of the ships.

The U. S. State Department has protested and Congress has reaffirmed this country's position that the sea's are free beyond three miles from shore.

Congress has also authorized reimbursement of the fines from the Federal Treasury and efforts to recover the amounts from the South American countries. This, as yet, has not been done.

Even more urgent are demands of the tuna fishermen for tariff barriers to cut down the Japanese imports, which they declare are threatening them with ruin.

Mason Case, manager of the fishermen's cooperative at San Pedro, declared April 30:

"If the situation isn't corrected by the federal government, our lucrative fishing industry will collapse and this will throw 10,000 men out of work, tying up about 1,900 American tuna boats in Los Angeles and San Diego."

The San Diego Chamber of Commerce says the capacity tonnage of the American tuna clipper fleet, based almost entirely at San Diego and San Pedro, dropped from 44, 300 in 1951 to the present 37,500. In addition, purse seiners with tuna permits have declined from 110 to 67 vessels.

During the same period, the Chamber said, frozen and canned tuna imports into the United States principally from Japan, have increased from 24 million pounds to 155 million.

The share of the domestic market supplied by the American fleet has dropped from 91.4 per cent to 55 per cent, the Chamber reported.

Illinois, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia each produce more than 10 per cent of the soft coal mined in the United States.

Probe of Graft Payoffs in Armed Forces Under Way

WASHINGTON (U)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee called first witnesses today in a public search for evidence of graft payoffs in armed forces procurement.

In a statement prepared for the start of the inquiry, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said the hearings would deal with evidence of corruption "during the last three years." That would embrace a period both before and since the Eisenhower administration took office.

McClellan has given few details of what the investigation would cover, save that it deals with alleged graft in the letting of contracts for millions of dollars worth of white sailor hats and other clothing for the armed services.

His statement said the agencies under scrutiny are the Army Quartermaster Corps and the Armed Services Textile and Apparel Procurement Agency, a unit the Pentagon operated from July 1952 to October 1953 to coordinate procurement for the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Bill Would Give State $287 Million For Road Building

WASHINGTON (U)—Minnesota and the two Dakotas would receive a combined total of more than a half billion dollars for new highway construction over a five-year period under the Gore Bill.

The Senate Public Works Committee has substituted the Gore measure for President Eisenhower's proposed 10-year program which would cost 38 billion dollars.

Under the Gore measure, the Minnesota total for the five years would be $287,400,000; North Dakota $141,800,000; and South Dakota $150,900,000.

In addition to the more than 12 billion nationally in federal aid, the Gore bill would call for state expenditures boosting the total spending for roads over the five-year period to $17,941,000,000.

Minnesota's share of the federal money under the Gore bill would include $22,300,000 during each of the five years for primary, secondary and urban roads and a five-year total of $175,900,000 for an interstate highway network.

The total for each of the five years includes $10,600,000 for primary roads; $8,400,000 for secondary; $3,300,000 for urban; and interstate roads $22,700,000 in 1957, $28,400,000 in 1958, $24 million in 1959, $45,400,000 in 1960 and $45,400,000 in 1961.

Mrs. Clark Heads Legion Auxiliary Poppy Sale Group

For the third time, Mrs. Howard W. Clark has accepted the chairmanship of the American Legion Auxiliary's poppy sale, it was announced today.

The drive will be conducted the afternoon and evening of May 27 and all day May 28. Headquarters will be the American Legion Memorial Club.

Mrs. Clark said her advertising committee is complete and well started on its work. Mrs. Harry Welch is chief assistant. Other committees will be announced later.

Mrs. Clark has long been identified with many functions of the American Legion Auxiliary locally. Membership of the auxiliary reached its highest peak the year she served as membership chairman. Over 50 wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of veterans. Serving as poppy chairman for the late Mrs. Bernard Wetzel, then auxiliary president, Mrs. Clark was able to report more than $2,000 earned for welfare and rehabilitation programs, the highest total ever reached. Mrs. Clark had charge of the Heart Fund dance, several years ago which brought in a substantial part of the $5,000 gift from the local auxiliary to the Heart Fund which is now functioning at the University Medical Center.

Included in the list of members helping Mrs. Clark with the ad solicitation are many women with long experience in welfare work in the auxiliary. Many have served as poppy chairmen in the early days of the organization. The plan of having Poppy Day goes back to 1920.

Churchill to Go Electioneering in Labor Stronghold

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill goes electioneering tomorrow in a district that holds bitter memories for him.

He will speak for the Conservative party in industrial East Walthamstow. Twice in previous years the people in that Labor party stronghold booed him into silence. Clement Attlee, former labor prime minister, represents West Walthamstow in Parliament. Laborite Harry Wallace represents the eastern district.

Churchill went to Walthamstow in the 1924 general election, when his international prestige had never been higher. The crowd howled him down.

It was pretty much the same story back in 1923. Then a Liberal, Churchill went to Walthamstow to speak in support of another Liberal candidate. He was mobbed. Said the Walthamstow Guardian:

"Not only was there a wild rush at the distinguished statesman, but the air was rent with blasphemy, oaths and groans. Mr. Churchill was hustled into his car by police, who formed a protecting cordon around him."

The paper said police discovered 500 forged tickets, printed by a pressure group who hoped to break up Churchill's meeting.

Now at 80, Churchill ventures into Walthamstow again. He will speak in support of a Conservative John Harvey.

John Dugan, Mrs. Harry Teegarden, Mrs. Frank Rost, Mrs. Leroy Roth, Mrs. James Hermes, Mrs. Marie Fjelstad, Mrs. Gilmore Mason, Miss Barbara Steele, Mrs. W. F. Richman and Mrs. David Kinowski comprise the ad committee with Mrs. Arthur Bard, auxiliary president, and Mrs. Don Schaeffer, recently elected to take office in September, also assisting.

Marian Lewis Becomes Bride in Church Ceremony

In a double-ring ceremony Saturday at the Church of the Brethren, Lewiston, Minn., Miss Marian Leila Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Ward Lewis, 217 W. Mark St., became the bride of Invald Topness, son of Mrs. Dorothea Topness, Lanesboro, Minn. The Rev. D. D. Harner performed the mid-afternoon ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Curtis Lewis. Mrs. Clifford Babcock played traditional wedding marches. Before the bridal party entered, Mrs. Neil Ballard, Lewiston, sang "O Promise Me" and "Because." During the ceremony, she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Spring flowers, lilacs, bridal wreath, tulips and honeysuckle decorated the church for the wedding at which Mrs. Cyril Roy, St. Paul, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and George Topness, Rochester, was his brother's best man.

Cheryl Lynn Lewis, niece of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lewis, was flower girl. Eugene Topness, Rochester, another brother of the bridegroom, and Edwin Reys, Lewiston, cousin of the bride, ushered.

The bride wore a gown of white nylon tulle and Chantilly lace over satin designed with portrait neckline and bouffant skirt. Her veil fell from a pearl-beaded crown and her bouquet of white roses was centered with a purple orchid.

The matron of honor wore turquoise nylon tulle and lace over taffeta with matching headress, and carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas and carnations and the flower girl was in shrimp colored nylon tulle over taffeta with matching headress. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of sweet peas and carnations.

A wedding dinner was served at 4 p.m. for 70 with Mrs. Lester Ladewig as hostess. Mrs. Curtis Lewis and Mrs. Orville Anderson in charge of the gifts. Mrs. Orland Elstad serving punch and Mrs. Sidney Topness cutting the wedding cake. A reception was held in the church parlors where table decorations were tulips and other spring flowers.

The couple will make their home at 217 W. Mark St. after a two-week wedding trip. For travel, the bride wore a blue suit and navy accessories. Mr. Topness is employed by the Bay State Milling Co.

ASIDES - By the Society Editor

For what does a housewife always long—another closet, another cupboard, more drawers. The problem is a maddening one—you always collect more items and you never discard an equal number of old ones. Then you pile away neatly an assortment of varied articles in one drawer, lose track of which drawer when you want some odd thing and start at the last minute—it's always the last minute when something is needed—to paw through the drawer. If you find the item you're lucky. More than likely, two or three drawers or cupboards receive this pawing through treatment. Result, a mixed up conglomeration of everything under the sun, all tumbled together and the outlook confronting you of finding a spare half hour to reorganize the drawers again.

Recently there came my way, a new gadget—at least a new gadget for the housewife, although I'm informed that this device has been offered to the man of the house for some time. The device is a Jiffy Cabinet, a small metal cabinet with 16 plastic drawers, each with a space contrivance in front in which you may slide an identifying label as to the drawer's contents. Partitions also are included to divide each drawer into three compartments.

Immediately I dumped everything out of the drawers of our old-fashioned sewing machine—sorted threads as to color, shade and tint, picked the needles out from among the pins, separated hooks and eyes and clasps, and put them into partitioned drawers. All through with three or four drawers to spare and then disaster—where could I store the cabinet where it would be handy when a button came off and thread was needed—or a safety pin was needed for an emergency. Just too big for any nearby drawer, just too gay (bright red) to sit out in the open in a green and rose room. So now some day when along comes a spare ten minutes, back will go the thread, needles, pins and clasps into the machine drawers but not to stay. No, I am fascinated by those little plastic drawers, and I am going to possess a cabinet less high and with fewer drawers which will fit into my nearby cupboard and in which will go the thread again.

In the meantime, my cabinet is going to head for the bedroom where it will store costume jewelry—all that collection that keeps growing because stores, designers and advertisers provide new and tempting arrays each season. Originally the drawers were designed to hold screws, nails, and small hardware items in the workshop—some found their way to the fisherman's corner where they were ideal for hooks and flies and some to the workroom for pen points, clips and thumb tacks.

I can see them being used by collectors for extra coins, stamps and other small items which are surplus and waiting for a trading deal. Incidentally I know one is to be used for the storage of expensive water color brushes. I have been promised that by next fall the cabinet will appear in more feminine guise for the costume jewelry storage role and I can visualize cabinets with fewer or larger drawers storing the Christmas cookie supply rather than an array of cookie jars that never fit together and use loads of space.

Collections of odds and ends—have any of you noticed that the bigger a woman's handbag or tote bag, the more she collects to keep in it—in fact in mine, I sometimes wonder what I do have in the bottom of it.

A recent survey of what the average teen-ager keeps in his or her billfold, listed the following items: Movie ticket stubs, telephone numbers, assorted keys, photographs (some very old), a lock of hair, an activities card, a ticket to a school dance, a charm bracelet (broken), receipts from purchases, two rubber bands, a paper clip, several postage stamps, a comb, a nail file, a typewriter eraser, a swatch of fabric, a dance program, a newspaper clipping, magazine coupon offers, doctor and dental appointment cards, a social security card, a letter, a test paper, a shopping list, a class assignment card, due date for a term paper, a sample perfume card, a transportation ticket, a list of committee members, a library card and one earring—I absolutely refuse to go through my bag and list what is in it but I'm sure there is some letter I'm supposed to answer and some notation for The Daily News somewhere in the mixup.

Haven't talked about collections in the masculine corners of the house but I think possibly a new greening card, a Daffy Award, is the answer to that problem. The Daffy Awards include that official looking document with facsimile of seal and ribbon called the "Royal Order of Perfect Housewife." It is given for such husbandly attributes as not being a hard of hearing when the wife asks funds for a new dress, not criticizing her administration of the family budget, and not failing to keep her posted on his daily activities.

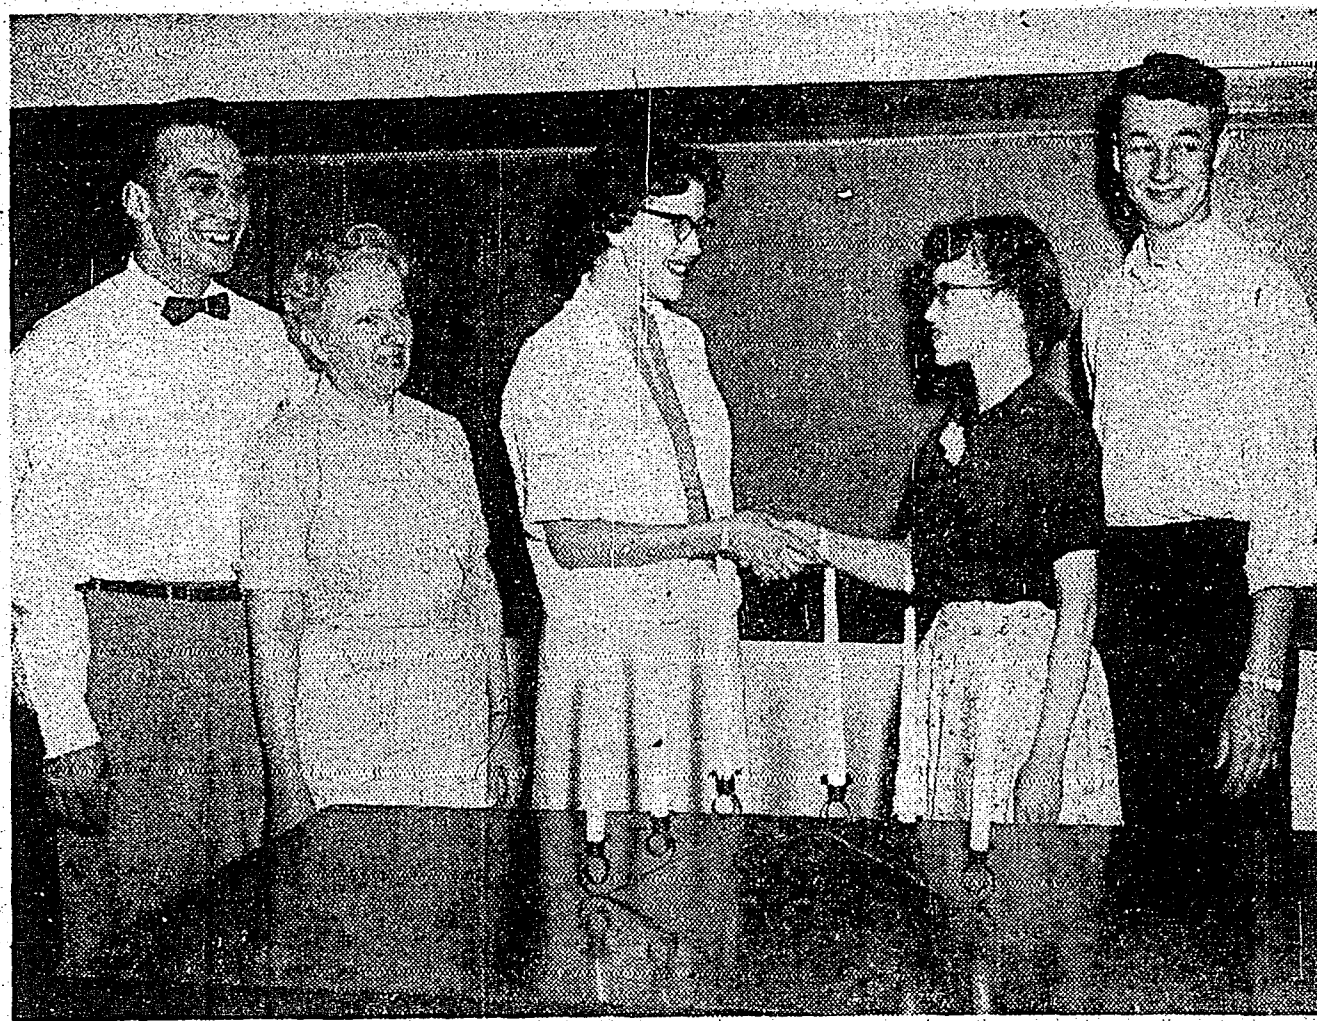

I can see the head of the household also awarded one for housecleaning his collections of sacred objects. The Daffy Awards also come with membership certificates in the "Perfect Wives Club" and also include a "Post Operative Award" for those who have lately and "legally been separated from a portion of their anatomy." They are made lifetime members of the "Mystic Order of the Itching Stitch." And there is a citation for new parents giving them the rights and privileges of membership in the "American Society for the Creation of Presidential Candidates." The membership certificate in the "Golfers Anonymous" organization and the "Honorable Order of Expectant Bait Dinkers." All are on imitation parchment with old English lettering, and are suitable for framing.—May Murray.

Mohara, blended of mohair and worsted, by the famous Pacific Mills, adjusts—comfortably—to the sizzling heat of Summer as well as the cooler days of Spring and Fall. It's porous (there are over 1,000,000 tiny windows in a Mohara suit) to keep you cool when the thermometer rises and, because mohair and worsted are natural insulators, it is comfortable when the mercury drops. And finally, because luxurious mohair adds a natural silkiness, Mohara has a rich lustrous appearance.

vote Monday of her fellow students was awarded the ring, a symbol of service to both school and community, and Solveig Lokensgard, and in back, left to right, Joanne Landers, Nancy Cribbs and Mary Kay Haake.

Charlotte Svenningson Receives Inner Circle Ring at Banquet

The gold Inner Circle ring, the highest award given any member of that organization and a symbol of service to both school and community, was presented to Charlotte Svenningson at the annual Inner Circle banquet Tuesday evening at the First Congregational Church. Approximately 320 persons including faculty members, parents and 32 Outer Circle members attended the dinner.

In accordance with the theme, a garden tour, tables were decorated with paper flowers placed between two pastel sprinkling cans bearing the letters IC in black on one side and a large flower on the other. Favors were small bottle vases in pastel bases filled with artificial flowers. On the walls were cutouts of large flowers, several Misses Marys, some gardeners and songbirds.

Behind the speakers' table was a large yellow daisy on either side of which were two miniature mock apple blossom trees. To the right of the table was a garden scene complete with park bench, trellis and picket fence.

Toastmistress for the banquet was Ramona Johnson, junior chairman, who welcomed the guests in to the garden.

Girls Welcomed

The program of toasts was also keyed to the banquet theme, and opening that portion of the program was Betsy Tweedy, sophomore chairman, who welcomed the ninth grade girls. She said it was hard saying goodbye to the seniors but it eased the grief to see so many "young buds ready to enter Inner Circle next fall." Freshmen responding to the toast, "No winter ever held a crocus back" were Sandra Smith, Jefferson School; Judy Grausnick, Washington-Kosciusko School; Barbara Knopp, Phelps School; Marilyn Matzke, St. Martins School, and Jean Drakowski, Central Junior High School.

Miss Susan Day spoke for the faculty and explained "the need of cultivating one's garden." She commended Inner Circle members for so successfully completing their many worthwhile service projects during the past year.

Speaking for the Outer Circle was Miss Becky Morgan who proved "You can't forget a garden," and then welcomed girls of this year's senior class into the Outer Circle where "more gardens remain to be planted."

Mary Kay Haake introduced those guests who "so loved a garden they had come along on the tour." Special guests included Supt. and Mrs. Harvey Jensen, Principal and Mrs. Ralph Williams, Mrs. S. A. Boyd, Miss Inez Adams, Miss Lorraine Kassulke, Miss Josephine Kukowska, Miss Eileen Peterson and Miss Magda Talle. Mary Kay also introduced faculty members, mothers and Outer Circle girls.

The guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Adolph Bremer, who spoke on "How Does Your Garden Grow?", asked each girl to think of the garden she would talk about as the girl's own personal project. She warned them against comparing their gardens and urged them to discover their own talents and use them.

"Don't dissipate your talents nor waste garden space," she advised, "and remember, everyone of us has a 'green thumb' for something." She stated that "happiness is the greatest do-it-yourself job in the world," and stressed the need for peace, contentment and sanctuaries in one's private life.

"Remember a garden is a partnership with God, and the endowments with which we work come from God," she went on. "Slovenly habits, like weeds, can overrun your life and you don't want to let them get a start." She mentioned that "each garden needs a fence of ideals, namely kindness, courage, modesty, integrity and idealism," and closed with

"Go and make thy garden fair as thou canst, Thou wilt never be alone; Perchance he whose plot is next to thine Will see it, and mend his own."

Patricia Olson, speaking for the juniors, asked guests to "Tip toe through the tulips" which the juniors had raised so carefully this year and regretfully bid farewell to the seniors.

Responding for the seniors was

This Is Ice Cream Selling 1955 Style

According to Roy T. Patneade, Vice President of Marigold Dairies, Inc., the merchandising of Ice Cream, as a food product, has come into its own in 1955.

"In years past we in the Ice Cream business had not yet learned how to effectively merchandise and sell our product on the competitive market with other foods."

The Marigold executive outlined that Ice Cream is not in competition with another brand of Ice Cream. He reasoned that Ice Cream, as a dessert, must compete with all the other items that are usually placed on the family menu for dessert.

"Packaging is another very important item," stated Mr. Patneade. "We are living in an age of packaging. With the growth of the self-serve grocery store, and the Ice Cream self-serve cabinet in other locations, the package must sell all by itself. It must say 'pick-me-up-and-take-me-home'."

In line with this selling policy is the new Marigold Ice Cream package, recently introduced throughout the vast Marigold market.

"It occurred to us that since packaging is so very important to other food people, that we re-evaluate our own Ice Cream cartons. We found our old cartons to be lacking, thus we made the change. We believe our new packages are appealing, especially to the woman, who buys the great majority of our food."

Mr. Patneade explained how modern Ice Cream packages must be flavor-identified. Marigold's new cartons are easily identified by both color and photograph.

Each flavor has its own colored carton, and each flavor is illustrated by both color and photograph.

"We're no different from any other business, automobiles, appliances, or the like. We must have new designs, new flavors. In short the Ice Cream business has to keep up with the modern pace of living."

As we concluded the interviews, I had the feeling that Marigold would always keep pace.

Chiang Planes Run Into Red Antiaircraft Fire

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist Chinese planes ran into Red antiaircraft fire from the mainland and from warships while on patrol over Luyuan Bay near the Matsu Islands before dawn today, air force headquarters announced.

An undisclosed number of planes used radar to bomb the Communist craft in the darkness, the communiqué said. Results were not observed.

Luyuan Bay is 15 miles north of the Matsu Islands which lie close to the Communist coast 120 miles northwest of Formosa.

On Monday two Communist MIG fighter planes exchanged fire with two Nationalist propeller planes in the same area. On Sunday, 50 miles farther north, four MIGs fought a brief dogfight with four Nationalist Thunderjets over the Taishan Islands.

What Probably is the largest display of new vehicles in the history of Winona now can be seen on the lot of Quality Chevrolet Co., Washington and West 2nd streets. Melvin P. he expects the number will rise to more than 70. Paster said that he ordered 75 passenger cars for delivery in the first two weeks of May and that he now has ordered an additional 25. Chevrolet has 15 different models in three lines. (Daily News photo)

Cool Belt Across Northern States

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a little on the cool side for mid-May today with frost threatened for many northern areas from New England westward across New York state and the Great Lakes.

Temperatures in the cool belt were in the 30s over wide areas and below freezing in some sections. Generally fair weather prevailed and some warming was in prospect.

Wet weather continued during the night over the Great Plains from Texas north to Nebraska. Heaviest rain fell in Nebraska and western Kansas, with more than 1 1/2 inches at Dodge City, Kan. A heavy downpour struck 30 miles north of Lubbock, Tex., and dumped an unofficial 6 inches of rain.

Hail and tornadic winds hit areas in Texas and Kansas yesterday but no injuries were reported. Damage was light.

Only other wet spots early today were in the Southeast, which reported scattered showers, and in the Central Plateau region, where light rain fell.

Community Drills For Water, Gets Oil

FREDONIA, Ky. (AP)—Two months ago this community launched a fund-raising campaign for a waterworks system. After raising almost $2,000 workers began drilling for water. Yesterday the drill went down 265 feet and hit oil. Experts said the well may be one of the best producers in western Kentucky. The search for water is still on.

Segregation Ruling Near, Warren Says

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chief Justice Warren indicated today the Supreme Court will rule before recessing for the summer on how and when to end segregation of white and Negro pupils in the public schools.

Warren said in an address prepared for the American Law Institute that despite an increase this year in the volume of Supreme Court work, the court has been keeping abreast of it, and he added:

"This means that our work is on a current basis and, as has been the practice for many years, action in all argued cases is expected to be announced prior to adjournment."

The court completed hearing arguments a month ago on the form of a decree to carry out its unanimous decision of May 17, 1954, holding that racial segregation in the public schools violates the Constitution.

There had been some informal speculation that a final decision might be postponed until fall. The court has tentatively fixed May 31 as its final opinion before its summer recess, but in past years it frequently has not met its adjournment target.

Wife Claims Jail Didn't Hold Hubby

BOSTON (AP)—Clarence Merriam, 41, of Springfield, disputes his wife's claim that he used to get out of jail nights and fathered their daughter Carol Ann, now 2 1/2.

He contended in Municipal Court yesterday that the girl could not be his because he was in jail for drunkenness.

Mrs. Florence Merriam, 22, seeking support of the child, told Judge George W. Roberts: "He used to come home a lot at night" from the Berkshire County Jail at Pittsfield.

Merriam retorted: "I only sneaked out once and that was back in 1950. They caught me and put me in a place where I couldn't get out any more."

Judge Roberts suggested a grand jury probe in connection with Merriam's testimony about "sneaking" out of jail.

Rosy Future Sighted

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Three-day-old Maria Ann Green should have a colorful future. She's the daughter of Howard and Myrtle Rose Brown Green—of 812 Sunset Drive.

Uncle Wiggily was watching in the darkness through the window of his hollow stump bungalow, the fox, the wolf and the bobcat, inside the place. They were helping themselves to good things to eat from Nurse Jane's kitchen pantry and cupboard.

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy was also watching. The muskrat lady housekeeper continued to murmur to herself: "It's a shame! The police ought to do something! The bad chaps will eat up everything in the bungalow and there will be nothing for Uncle Wiggily. Why doesn't somebody do something?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I have just told Uncle Wiggily what to do," said Frisky, the baby elephant who had run away from circus.

"What was it you told me to do?" the rabbit gentleman asked as he looked at the bad chaps in his lighted bungalow and, at the same time, twinkled his pink nose.

"What am I to do, Frisky?" "Just stand right where you are, in the darkness outside your bungalow, and give a call," answered the baby elephant.

"What sort of a call?" Mr. Longears inquired.

"Any sort of a call," answered the elephant. "Just shout something like this!" Then, in a loud whisper, imitating the rabbit gentleman's voice as best he could, Frisky exclaimed:

"Here I am! Outside the bungalow! I dare you to come and get me!"

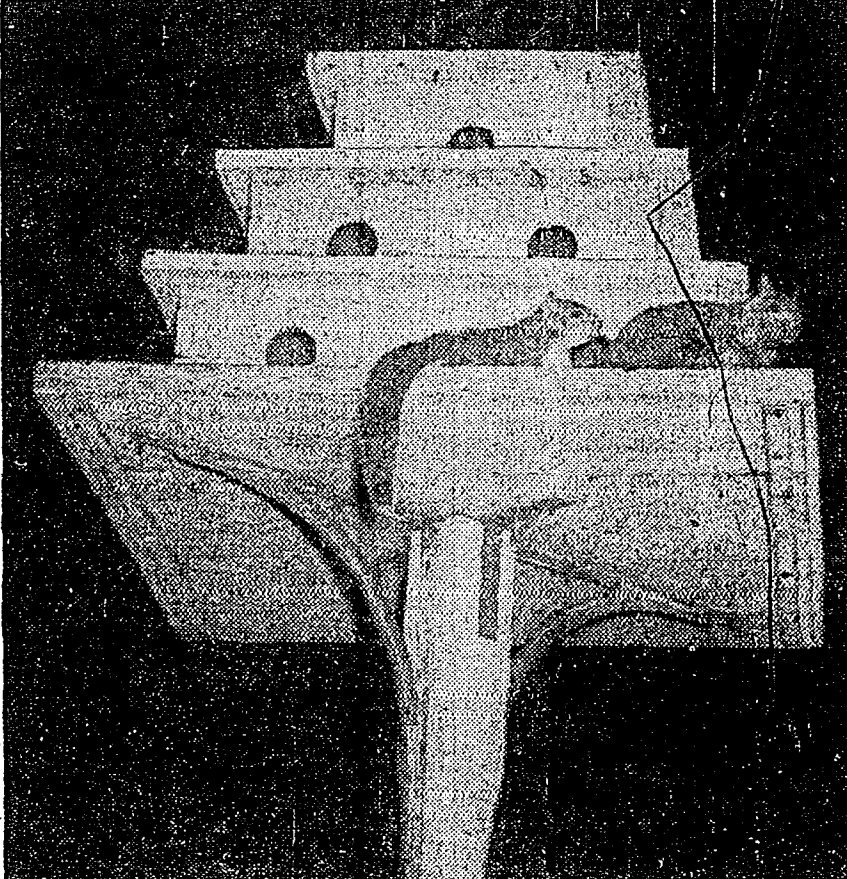

"But if I shout that," said Uncle Wiggily, "and the bad chaps come out after I call, they may catch me."

"They will not catch you!" exclaimed Frisky. "Have no fear of that! Just dare the bad chaps to come out and get you! They will come all right!"

"How do you know that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because we have some bad chaps in the circus," replied the baby elephant. "We keep them in cages so they can do no harm. But some of them are just like the fox, the wolf and the bobcat, now in your bungalow. Just you stand out here and shout. Dare them to come out and get you and they will come out all right!"

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

Unusual Home

Maybe it was the lack of hollow trees in the neighborhood or just laziness on the part of the parent squirrels; anyway, they took over the large martin house pictured above, as a modern apartment to raise their family. The success of the venture is apparent in the two baby squirrels posed on the platform, photographed recently by Merritt Kelley, Daily News staffer.

The Brezas, 177 N. Baker St., whose martin house was partly taken over by the squirrels, are wondering how Mrs. Squirrel is going to get her family down. The pole supporting the suspended house is iron. However, through the years the pole became eroded to such an extent that squirrels could climb it. Now the mother will have to teach her young ones to crawl down the iron pole.

In order to get into the house to give birth to the family, the mother squirrel enlarged the holes in the house by cutting them bigger with her sharp teeth. Despite the presence of the squirrels, several pairs of martins have used higher tiers in the house this season.

Trapping Laws
Snowmobiles were added by the Minnesota Legislature at its last session to the type of vehicle from which bounty animals, wolves and foxes mainly, can be hunted legally.

Ferrets were outlawed by the Legislature as a means of taking protected animals. Rabbits are classed as protected animals in Minnesota.

Placing a trap within 150 feet of any stream, lake or navigable water 30 days prior to the opening date of the minnow or muskrat season is another new act on the trappers' code adopted by the lawmakers.

Night trapping was fully outlawed. It is now unlawful to tend any trap set for wild animals between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. It is also unlawful to molest or destroy the den of any wild animal between Nov. 1 and April 1 without a permit from the state conservation commissioner.

Fishing Regulations
Although Mississippi River fishing, of greatest interest locally, is controlled by river regulations uniformly established by the Conservation Commissions of Minnesota and Wisconsin, certain rights are still retained by the two states such as licensing and methods.

One of the new laws passed by the last session is the licensing of all fish houses used on Minnesota waters for winter fishing. Hereto-

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel has blamed an Egyptian land mine for the death yesterday of two Israeli soldiers and the wounding of three others. The Israelis complained to the U. N. Mixed Armistice Commission.

An Israeli army spokesman said, the troops were on a routine patrol along the Israeli-Egyptian truce line adjoining the Gaza territory when their car exploded the mine.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGUM, D. Sc.

1. SHOULD WOMEN WHO WANT TO BECOME ENGINEERS GO TO RUSSIA? YOUR OPINION.

Answer to Question No. 1
1. They'd be more likely to succeed. Even in 1949, 20 per cent of all Russian engineers were women, and the percentage has been increasing ever since. In America today only 1 per cent of engineers are women. Of course, in Russia they would have to face the incidental disadvantage of the likelihood of being shot any day as spies and would work several weeks to buy a pair of shoes. But, it shows that women do make good engineers, and heaven knows we are dangerously short of engineers in America.

2. TRY TO IMPROVE THEM. SAYS J. WORTHAM IN HIS "ART OF PERSUADING PEOPLE." CHECK UP ON EVERYTHING THEY DO OR SAY, ARGUE OVER LITTLE THINGS, AND TELL THEM THEIR MISTAKES "FOR THEIR OWN GOOD." THIS WILL ALLEGIATE FRIENDS AND FRIGHTEN PEOPLE AWAY. TAKE PEOPLE AS THEY ARE AND TRY TO UNDERSTAND WHY THEY ARE WHAT THEY ARE AND DO WHAT THEY DO. WORTHAM'S FINE BOOK CONDENSED IN OUR NEW BOOKLET, "HOW TO PERSUADE PEOPLE." Nonprofit, 20c (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send to Dr. A. E. Wiggum in care of The Winona Daily News.

3. IN HARD JOBS AVERAGE INTELLIGENCE OF WORKERS INCREASES; IN EASY JOBS DECREASES. TRUE OR FALSE?

Answer to Question No. 3
3. True. Psychologist M. A. Biles gave intelligence tests to workers in five different levels of difficulty and the same tests to them two and a half years later. Average intelligence in the lower jobs had decreased because the brighter workers had dropped out. In the harder jobs, the average intelligence had increased because the duller workers had dropped out.

4. WHAT PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES SERVED ONLY 16 MONTHS? HOW'D YOU MAKE OUT?

1. Cosmo Monkhoush. — (1840-1901) — from his poem, "A Song of the Seasons."
2. Haile Selassie of Ethiopia.
3. The ancient birthstone was agate; the modern, emerald.
4. Zachary Taylor.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By MARGARET LATROBE

An officer of one of the nation's biggest banks had just returned from a "fishing" trip. Not for trout, though the season had opened. This was another kind of season, another kind of "catch."

He was out for college graduates, class of '52, and although he had plenty of bait to offer them, he was looking not just for a particular kind of "fish" but some who wanted to be caught. Banks, like other businesses, realize that their future is based on men and women. They want the best, but the best must also want the bank.

The first young man to be interviewed looked excellent—on paper. His transcript of grades looked as if the "A" key was stuck. Every course carried top marks. But what about outside interests? Extra-curricular activities? None. "I'm not a joiner," he said. "And besides that, books are so much more interesting than people. I came here to study—nothing else."

Several more candidates ranging from good to excellent filed through. In one overwhelming opposition when he tried to make milk the national drink.

Faure's proposed decrees would: Compel big factories to distribute fruit juices free to their employees during hot weather. Forbid the sale of alcoholic beverages in or near factories. Grant tax exemptions to bars converting to soft drink parlors. Cancel the license of any bar that goes bankrupt.

Cut the production of apples and pears for making fruit brands by about a third during the next three years.

Provide that all persons arrested for crimes and misdemeanors and all persons involved in auto accidents be subjected to blood tests for alcohol.

Faure to Try Frenchmen on Fruit Juices

PARIS (U-P)—First it was Pierre Mendes-France and milk. Now Premier Edgar Faure is considering a plan aimed at converting wine-loving Frenchmen to unfettered fruit juices.

A series of suggested decrees designed to cut France's abnormally high consumption of alcohol was set for Cabinet consideration today.

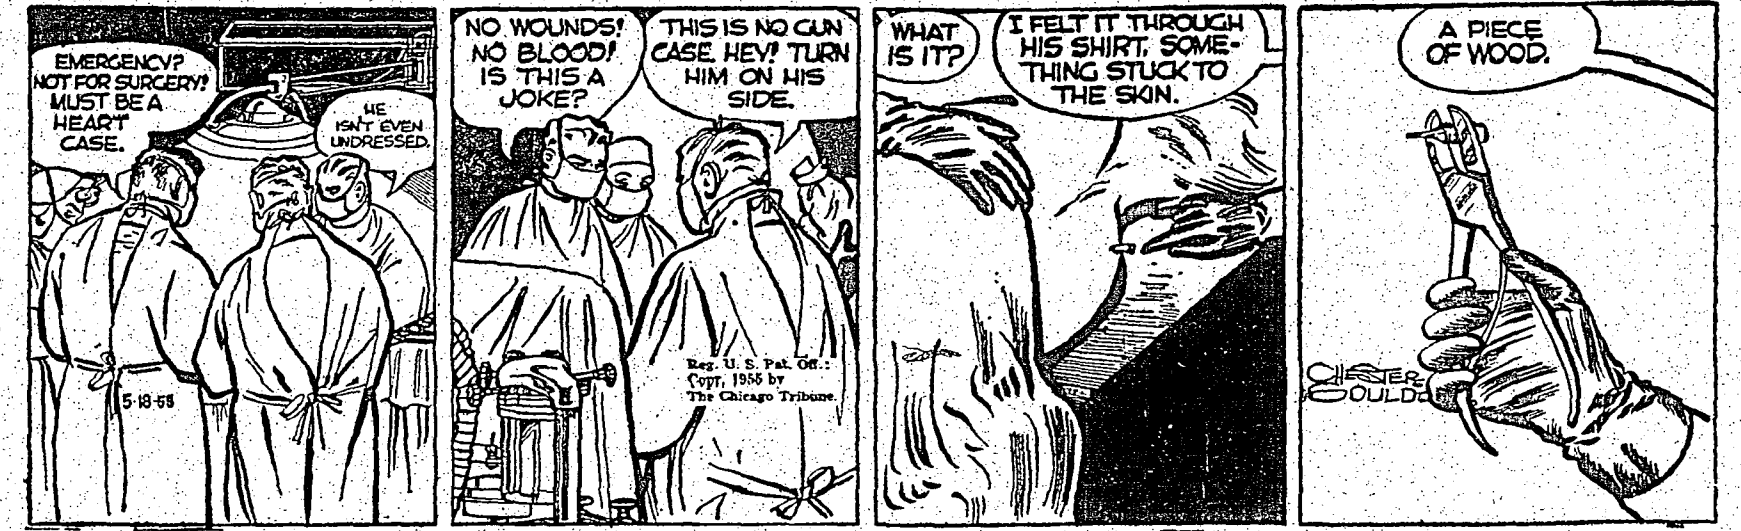

Mendes-France, Faure's predecessor, ran into overwhelming opposition when he tried to make milk the national drink.

Faure's proposed decrees would: Compel big factories to distribute fruit juices free to their employees during hot weather. Forbid the sale of alcoholic beverages in or near factories. Grant tax exemptions to bars converting to soft drink parlors. Cancel the license of any bar that goes bankrupt.

Cut the production of apples and pears for making fruit brands by about a third during the next three years.

Provide that all persons arrested for crimes and misdemeanors and all persons involved in auto accidents be subjected to blood tests for alcohol.
