Move to Speed Up Vaccination Program Seen

Major Conference
Of All Groups
Called in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to get the lagging antipolio vaccination program back into full swing appeared to be nearing a decisive stage today as representatives of virtually all groups concerned assembled for a major conference here.

U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele sent out the conference call last night after fresh criticism of the government's handling of the program.

In New York, Basil O'Connor, head of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, listed "national and state politics" among factors he said are complicating the situation. O'Connor also mentioned supply, demand and "economic factors of competition" as other factors. Meanwhile, he stressed his faith in the vaccine itself.

Later, O'Connor demanded that the government "release immediately" the results of its study of polio vaccine made by Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif.

It was the occurrence of the disease among children inoculated with vaccine made by Cutter and other drug firms that led to suspension of the mass immunization program over two weeks ago to permit safety double checks. All Cutter vaccine has been withdrawn from use for nearly a month pending special analysis. Of past inoculation cases so far confirmed, 53 have been among children who were injected with Cutter vaccine.

Scheele declined to comment on O'Connor's demand. However, a Public Health Service spokesman said "we have preliminary information but no final report" on the Cutter study.

Members of the National Foundation's vaccine committee were among those summoned by Scheele. Also called to today's meeting were officers of the American Medical Assn., representatives of the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers, technical specialists from the six pharmaceutical firms licensed to make the vaccine, and government scientists.

This conference, coupled with yesterday's day-and-night meeting of the government's medical advisers on polio vaccine matters, indicated decisions of major importance might be in the offing. In their closed-door deliberations at the National Institutes of Health, the scientists reportedly were trying to determine whether any changes should be made in vaccine manufacturing and testing standards. They also were said to be trying to judge what bearing such changes might have on vaccine for the summer ahead—the peak of the polio season.

Dr. William Seabell Jr., chairman of the advisory group, said the scientists also discussed what had been learned during recent on-the-spot inspections of plants making the vaccine. Seabell is director of the institutes, an arm of the Public Health Service.

He indicated the advisory panel might have a set of recommendations ready during the day. Scheele has said he would announce his decisions, based on these recommendations, "as soon as possible."

Badger Senate Passes 340-Man State Patrol Bill

MADISON (AP)—The Senate passed today, 26-7, and sent to the Assembly a substitute bill providing for a 340-man state traffic patrol in the next two years.

There was no definite party-line vote on the measure. The action came after the Senate advanced the plan by a 25-8 ballot.

Republicans, who control the Senate, agreed in a morning caucus to back the substitute as a replacement for a plan offered by Gov. Kohler for a 610-man force.

The substitute has approval of the chief executive. It calls for an appropriation of $2,293,000 in the next biennium to finance expansion from the present force of 70 men. Money for it would come from motor vehicle fuel taxes, presumably from an increase in these levies.

The Senate has passed a bill boosting such taxes from four to six cents a gallon to finance the program and for highway construction. The Assembly has not acted on the increase to date.

Mrs. Howard Loser, Minneapolis, victim of polio since 1950, smiled happily as she looked at a picture of her daughter, Sandra, being inoculated with the Salk vaccine by Dr. F. H. Wolter. Sandra, who is in the second grade at school, was one of 6,000 children inoculated Monday on the first day of vaccinations in Minneapolis. (UP Telephoto)

Ike Depicts GOP as 'Middle of Roaders'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower slipped away from a White House stag dinner last night to tell a Republican audience that Democrats may outnumber them but that GOP thinking is "majority thinking."

He said most Americans agree with the aims of his administration, which he said are based on "a very simple sort of idea." The idea: "We take the principles of the past and apply them to the problems of the moment, and that's all there is to it."

Top Air Force Men Called to Senate Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee has summoned top Air Force officials for what chairman Russell (D-Ga.) said today will be a "thorough briefing" Thursday on U.S.-Russian air power.

Russell said Secretary of the Air Force Talbot and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the chief of staff, will testify behind closed doors on assertions the Soviets may have gained superiority in some fields.

Russell said in an interview it will be up to a subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) to decide whether to expand later an investigation of the subject.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), a former Air Force secretary, has contended the Russians may be ahead of this country in the production of jet bombers and intercontinental guided missiles.

He told the Senate yesterday there had been "efforts to suppress discussion of the subject," and continued: "Evidence continues to pile up that Communist air power is moving up to us in offensive striking power and is moving ahead of us in the fields of defensive power, production and technology."

Commenting on a similar previous speech by Symington, President Eisenhower told his news conference last week that "to say that we have lost in a twinkling all of this great technical development and technical excellence as well as numbers in our total aircraft is just not true."

Missing Jet Plane Hunted in SW Part of Wisconsin

DARLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—Authorities of Lafayette County, in the southwestern part of the state, are conducting an intensive search after a fisherman reported a flash at about the time a F80 jet fighter was reported missing Sunday.

The plane, piloted by Capt. Buell Clark of Winchester, Ind., was reported missing on a flight to Duluth, Minn. It was last reported around noon over Janesville, Wis., about 70 miles east of here.

Delbert Reichling told authorities he was fishing in the Pecatonica River near here Sunday afternoon when he saw the flash and heard a loud noise. He reported the incident when he read of the missing plane in a newspaper Monday.

Chief Deputy Warden Fired At Stillwater

STILLWATER, Minn. (AP)—Warden Douglas Rigg of Stillwater Prison today fired Gerhard Kaske, chief deputy warden who was suspended a month ago.

Rigg said Kaske was being dismissed because of his "unwillingness to cooperate and inefficiency." Kaske, 43, an employee of the prison for 14 years, was suspended for 30 days on April 26. At the time, Rigg said Kaske had threatened to resign if the prison accepted the transfer of a specific inmate.

Kaske can appeal Rigg's decision to the civil service board.

Stanley Alexander, acting chief deputy warden during Kaske's suspension, will remain in that capacity until a new fulltime deputy is chosen.

Odd Jobs Man 'Old Moneybags'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The contents of the gunnysack Amen Balkin had slung over his shoulder today was safely tucked into a Minneapolis bank, all $5,754 of it, mostly in dollar bills.

Police had informed Balkin he would have to move from his lower loop hotel so the management could clean it up. When Balkin, 63-year-old odd jobs man, complied, Capt. Maurice Smith inquired what was in the gunnysack.

In answer, Balkin dumped the contents onto Smith's desk. Out rolled a dozen well-filled bags, inside of each generous bundles of currency.

Balkin told Smith he was afraid of banks since losing some money in one during the depression. But he was reassured when police told him deposits were now insured up to $10,000.

It took clerks more than two hours to count the rolls of bills as Balkin completed his first deposit in about 20 years.

Amen Balkin, 63, odd jobs man, fills out a deposit slip for his life savings which he took to a bank in a gunnysack. Police convinced Balkin to deposit the savings after he was asked to leave his room in a low priced hotel so it could be cleaned up. ## Dry Weather Brings Fear of State Crop Loss

Serious Damage
Already Reported
In Some Sectors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Although the Winona area in southeastern Minnesota and some other southern Minnesota sections have received soaking rains in the past 36 hours, Minnesota farmers in other regions desperately need rain and need it soon.

Fears of major crop losses hang over dusty fields where in some areas rain has not fallen for more than a month. Only a few areas reported crop conditions as fair.

Serious damage has already been suffered in some areas, especially to small grains and pastures. Corn crops are faring the best through the dry spell.

One county agent reported the light showers which fell in spotted areas Sunday or Monday had "only a good mental effect" on farmers and did little to save damaged crops.

One of the most interesting developments of the current dry spell was reported in the New Ulm area. Nicollet County Agent Fred Wetherill said alfalfa and pasture lands which had been fertilized this spring or last fall are surviving much better than unfertilized areas.

"The difference has been astonishing and quite an eye opener on the use of fertilizer," said Wetherill, widely known in fertilizer research. He said the fertilizer has given alfalfa "enough zip to go down and look for water."

Monday's light rain in the St. Cloud area had "only a good mental effect" on farmers, according to E. C. Lenzmeier, Stearns County agent.

Lenzmeier said the .04 inch of rain "did little to save damaged crops in the area where our moisture situation is bad from several different angles."

"Pastures are in very poor condition and the first cutting of hay is reduced tremendously. The small grain is damaged and the lower two or three leaves on the sprouts have been parched off."

"If water does come now, the small grains will go to seed and not fully mature. The farmers can't expect much from grass seedlings if emergency crops like clover are planted to replace burned out crops."

Clemens Landwehr, who farms south of St. Cloud, said "the grain is hurt in spots, but the corn is not far along enough to be damaged."

Anton Traut, who farms north of St. Cloud, said "pastures and hay crops are in a bad way. It's beginning to look serious all over and lots of oats are turning brown."

So far this month the St. Cloud area has had only .49 inch of rain compared with the 1954 May total of 4.46 inches. Last month the area had 1.17 inches compared with a 5.31 total in April, 1954.

A brighter situation was reported in the Albert Lea area. Enoch Peterson, who farms near Alden, said "corn and oats look fine. We have had no rain for some time, but we'll get some before our crops are damaged—we always do."

Corn and other crops were reported in good shape in the Albert Lea area, where the season is about 10 or 12 days ahead of normal. The lack of rain was hampering some garden crops, especially strawberries.

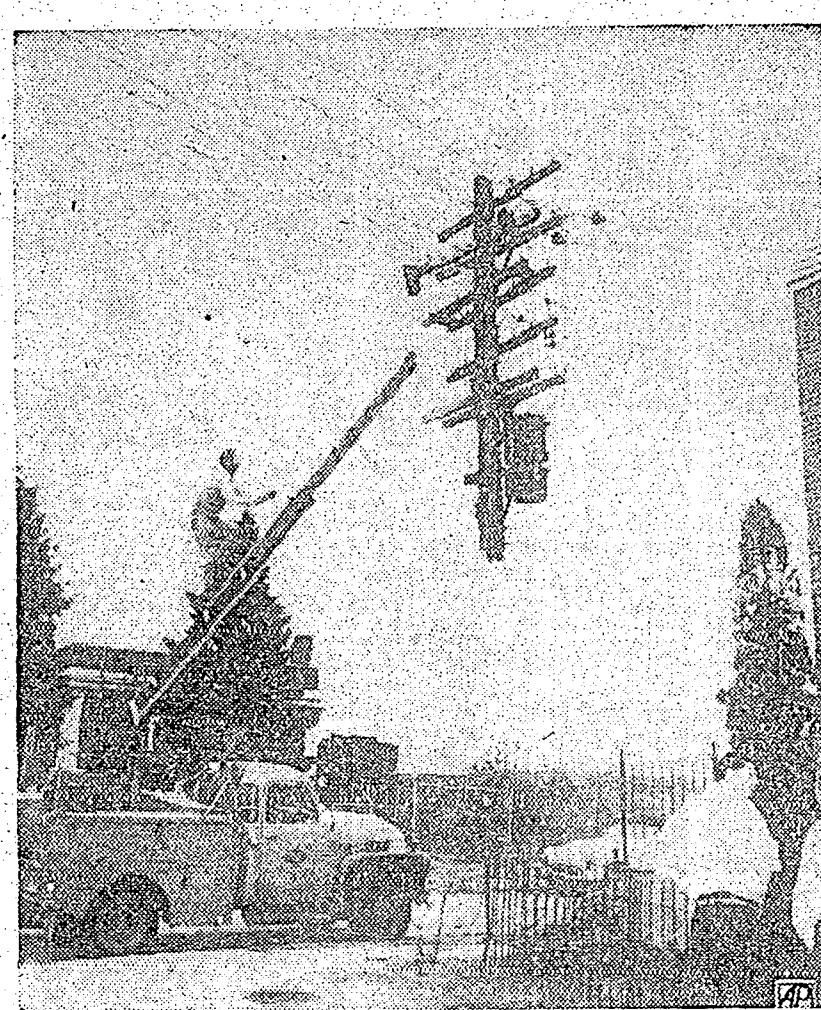

The moisture situation in west Polk County in the Red River Valley is good with subsoil in good shape. Glen Chambers, assistant county agent for west Polk County, said there's nothing to worry about for a while except for the extreme southern portion of the county which didn't get much rain.

Rain Sunday and Monday helped considerably. Chambers estimates that crops in general are about two weeks ahead of normal years.

Roger Driden who farms small grains exclusively near Crookston said prospects are "darned good" as far as he is concerned. Barley and oats are coming along about normal and wheat is doing very well.

Veral Gibbons who farms about 7 miles south of Crookston said the situation in his area is still dry. Gibbons, who raises sugar beets extensively, said a lot of rain is needed from now on to get a good crop. Gibbons' area had about .37 inch rain Sunday and Monday while in Crookston .38 fell.

Farmers in the Willmar area have been holding off on soybean planting, many of them saying they thought it might be "wasting seed." The area has had only four-tenths inch of rain this month.

Drivers Can Lose Permit for 5 Years

ST. PAUL (AP)—Major traffic violations can bring as many as 18 demerits for a driver and revocation or suspension of his driver's license for as long as five years under Minnesota's new point system.

This was disclosed today as Earl Larimer, director of highway safety, reported that some motorists already have received warning letters although the system was announced only last week.

In Gov. Freeman's outline of the plan to the Minnesota Safety Council, he had indicated accumulation of 12 points would bring license suspensions. This still holds, but as points gain so does the length of suspension. In flagrant violations, revocations will be ordered, Larimer said.

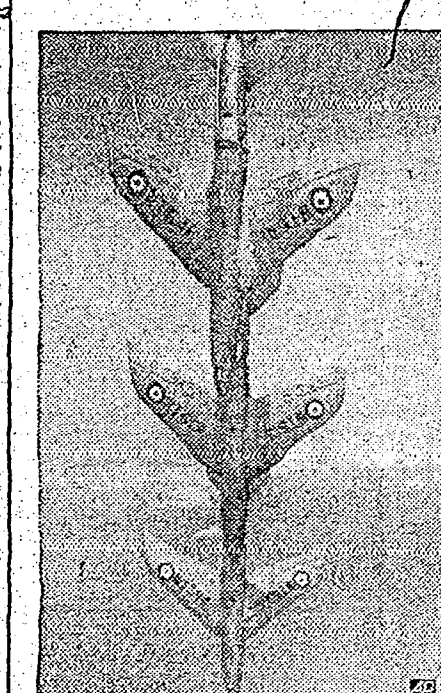

Carrying the 18 points and automatic five-year revocations will be:

Driving under the influence of intoxicants or drugs; hit and run accidents resulting in deaths or personal injuries; manslaughter or criminal negligence; three convictions within a 12-month period for careless or reckless driving, or speeding; commission of any felony in which a motor car is in use, and making false statements concerning ownership of operation of a motor vehicle.

In such cases, Larimer said driving licenses could be reinstated only through filing of proof of financial responsibility as required by state law.

Suspensions ranging from 30 days to a year will be ordered for: Conviction of a violation which led to an accident, 12 points; driving after revocation, 12; reckless driving 6; careless driving 6, speeding or driving too, fast for conditions 6; failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian or another vehicle 6; disregarding traffic signs and signals 4; improper passing 4; following another vehicle too close 3; improper turning 3; driving on wrong side of road 3; leaving scene of accident where there was no injury 3, and all other moving traffic violations 2.

Larimer repeated the governor's assurance, that the vast majority of good drivers have nothing to fear from the new system because it will affect adversely only those who do not or cannot drive safely.

No Change in Aid to Tito, Dulles States

No Decision on Moving Troops
Out of Austria

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, with special authorization from President Eisenhower, today totally rejected any policy of neutrality for Germany.

Dulles said the stand applies to West Germany and also to a unified Germany which might some day result from bringing together the Eastern and Western zones.

Clearing up an uncertainty which resulted from Eisenhower's remarks at a news conference last week, Dulles told reporters today that the West German government has been officially informed of the U.S. view.

He stated the American position to Ambassador Heinz Krekeier last Friday, he said.

Dulles declared it is the view of the United States that a policy of neutrality has no application to a country of the character of Germany with its 70 million industrious people, strategic position and power resources.

Dulles made these other points at his news conference.

1. There is no change in the United States policy of supplying military aid to Yugoslavia even though Soviet leaders are expected shortly to pay a call on Marshal Tito.

2. The mission to Belgrade by Premier Bulganin and party chief Khrushchev is a "humble pilgrimage" to honor a defector from Soviet Communism. Dulles said in a formal statement this is bound to increase unrest and demands for freedom in Soviet satellite states.

3. Dulles would be very surprised if criticism of U. S., British, and French plans for a Big Four session at the Eisenhower-Bulganin level were designed to change the purposes of the meeting. The Western Powers proposed that heads of government deal only with procedures for solving problems but a harsh editorial in Pravda Saturday demanded that they personally tackle major issues.

4. The dispute between Russia and the Western Powers over the flow of traffic between West Germany and Berlin may be discussed, if necessary, by the Big Four foreign ministers. Dulles said that is a possibility. Soviet zone authorities have imposed extremely high taxes on truck shipments to Berlin.

5. The U. S. government has made no decision on whether to move American occupation forces out of Austria into Italy to back up North Atlantic Pact defenses. The troops are to be pulled out under the new Austrian independence treaty and some American officials are known to favor moving at least part of them into Italy, to plug the Austrian gap in Western defense lines.

Dulles expects to see Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and the foreign ministers of Britain and France at a U. N. anniversary conference in San Francisco at the end of next month. He said they would possibly have further informal talks there on plans for the proposed summit meeting later on.

U.S. Told Tito Intends to Keep Independence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Yugoslavia has told this country that Marshal Tito's plan to meet with top Russian leaders does not indicate any wavering from a policy of "firm independence."

Ambassador Leo Mates met with Secretary of State Dulles yesterday and told newsmen upon emerging that "there will be no changes in our foreign policy as a result of the visit to Belgrade."

He referred to the scheduled visit to the Yugoslav capital later this month of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev. There has been Western speculation that they will seek to woo Tito, who broke with the late Premier Stalin in 1943, back into Moscow's orbit.

The State Department, in an announcement it conceded was unusual, said Dulles had congratulated Ambassador Mates "upon the success which has now crowned the courageous pursuit . . . of its policy of firm independence."

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and the CIO United Auto Workers scheduled full-day contract talks today for the first time since negotiations opened April 7.

The UAW and GM extended yesterday's session past 6 p.m. but neither side would comment on what headway is being made on the union's guaranteed annual wage proposal.

Similar talks with Ford were scheduled for today.

Walter P. Reuther, president of both the CIO and the UAW, sat in on the Ford session yesterday morning and on GM conferences in the afternoon. He planned a similar schedule today.

New Indictments Brought Against Texan in Land Deal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Bascom Giles, father of Texas' 100-million-dollar veterans land program, today faced five new indictments growing out of his administration. They allege theft by fraud involving $33,600.

Only yesterday, Giles' trial in a bribery charge involving $30,000 in a Bexar County veterans land deal was postponed in San Antonio.

He faces a third group of indictments charging conspiracy to commit theft of $68,500 in a Dimmit County deal.

The new charges involve a block land deal in Kinney County. In block deals, a promoter buys up into small tracts, signs up veterans to buy it, then receives from the state the total amount of money the veterans have agreed to pay.

Indicted, along with Giles yesterday was B. F. Sheffield, Brady land promoter. In addition, Sheffield was indicted on two charges of forgery and uttering (passing) a forged document in the same land deal.

Giles 34, refused last Jan. 1 to take office although re-elected to his 10th term. Veterans land investigations were under way then.

2 Fishermen Lost As Vessel Sinks

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Two fishermen were lost and eight were rescued late last night after the fishing vessel S. Gonzales sank in the Gulf of Mexico.

The two missing seamen were identified as Oscar Olsen, 65 and Raymond Sheffield, 45.

Eric Lindberg, 63-year-old skipper of the vessel, said it was "crowded into a sea buoy" by an outbound freighter which continued on its way. The freighter was not identified, he said.

Miller Felpax Asks Street Use To Build Plant

Closing of King Between Bridge And Louisa Asked

Miller Felpax Corp. is asking vacation of a block of East King street to permit erection of a plant more than a block long.

The City Council, meeting Monday evening at City Hall, set a hearing for June 20 on the petition to vacate King street between Louisa and Bridge streets.

The Winona firm, now in business at 51 Walnut St., owns the block to the north of the street it asks to be vacated, plus the half-block to the south of this.

At present, the petition points out, King street actually ends at Bridge street although it is platted for another block east — to 25th street.

President R. W. Miller noted that construction contemplated during the current year involves only block 22, the block to the north, which was purchased from the city last year — but the ultimate plan proposes an expansion into block 23, the block to the south. Miller Felpax owns the north half of this block.

Miller wrote that "for the proper construction of a modern efficient manufacturing plant to meet the needs . . . it is necessary to provide for a plant, the buildings of which cannot be contained in one city block and must of necessity be buildings in excess of 300 feet in length."

Joining Miller Felpax in the petition is C. E. Johnson Jr., president of Plasti Industries, 1205 E. Sanborn St.

Lake Drive Drainage
Improved drainage of Lake drive is foreseen in an agreement with the Minnesota Department of Highways approved by the City Council Monday evening.

In connection with the rerouting of Highway 61 to the south side of Lake Winona, the state and city will share in certain costs: The state will construct a 4-foot berm (small dike) along the north edge of Lake drive from Carlin Heights road to Mankato avenue; the city will surface it with bituminous materials; the state will construct catch basin type inlets in the berm, the city paying for 10 and the state for seven.

City Engineer W. O. Cribbs estimated the cost roughly at $5,000. Formal agreement will be made with the state later.

Sell Shive Land
In other business, aldermen agreed to sell a 34- by 75-foot piece of city land to Bernard W. Drakowski on the Shive road, east of the intersection of Mankato avenue and East Sarnia street.

In a letter Drakowski said that a survey of his property has shown that his house is constructed on city land.

The center of the Shive road now is 75 feet from the north edge of the Drakowski property, with the home extending some 23 feet onto city property. The city is selling Drakowski 30 feet more, permitting also the construction of an addition to the home.

The price is approximately in ratio to the price the city paid for land about a year ago in the same area.

Athletic Park
The request of the West End Commercial Club for repair or replacement of bleachers at Athletic Park was referred to M. J. Bambenak, park-recreation director, for a study and report. Said West President Ernest Mahle in a letter, "We do not want to see this park abandoned."

Second Ward Ald. William S. L. Christensen urged again that consideration be given to consolidating Athletic Park with Jefferson Field, particularly for spectator events. "A playground doesn't need bleachers," he said.

In his inaugural address last month, Mayor Loyde E. Pfeiffer declared, "The Athletic Park grandstand is unsafe and should be torn down and if it is economical, by not feasible to rebuild it, the entire area could be sold for building lots — and the Council working with the School Board could get together to have the Jefferson Agricultural grounds used for the combined school activities and organized youth baseball as well as other athletic events."

Two-Day Rainfall Over 1 Inch Now

More than an inch of rain has fallen during the last two days after an otherwise dry month and the weatherman said today that more showers are expected Wednesday.

In addition, skies will be cloudy and temperatures cooler, with a low of 46 tonight and high of 62 Wednesday. The temperature dipped to 56 Monday night as rains cooled off the afternoon high of 87. The temperature at noon today was a chilly 59 degrees, the coolest noon reading since May 9.

The 1.05 inches of rain that have fallen during the last two days boosted the month's total of 2.27, only .04 of an inch below the normal for the month. Rainfall during May 1894 totaled 4.59 inches.

11 Arcadians Competing for Queen Title

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—Eleven young Arcadia girls will vie for royal status Wednesday night at the second annual coronation ball of the Arcadia Broiler-Dairy Festival in the high school auditorium.

One will be chosen queen of the festival and Arcadia representative in the Western Wisconsin region of the Alice in Dairyland contest. Two attendants also will be named.

Sen. Joseph McCarthy, who was scheduled to speak at the festival Memorial Day, announced Monday from Washington that because of conflicting engagements he has had to cancel this appearance. Locally, the news was received with disappointment and the committee is working to secure a suitable substitute.

Judges for the queen contest are Mrs. Adolph Bremer, Winona; Mrs. R. L. Alvarez, Galesville; Trempealeau County Judge Albert Twissie, Galesville; Circuit Judge Lincoln Neprud, La Crosse, and Buffalo County Judge G. L. Paterson, Alma.

To Be Interviewed
The girls will be guests at a 6:30 p.m. banquet after which each will be interviewed by the judges. Dancing starts at 9 p.m. to the music of Fred Heyer and His Rhythm Masters. Coronation ceremonies will take place during intermission about 10 p.m.

Contestants are Delores Eichman, Donna Jerecek, Ann Siebenaler, Nancy Glanzer, Ruth Bauteh, Theresa Sossalla, Dorothy Bauteh, Mary Lou Ziegewied, Phyllis Wiesenberger, Arvilla Schlessler and Gloria Scharlau.

Appearing with the queen on the program will be the Winona Twirlers and the Peppermint Trio, Mercury Recording artists, two of the members being natives of Arcadia.

Alice in Dairyland finalists will be selected from about 60 entrants from Trempealeau, Buffalo, Jackson, La Crosse, Monroe, Juneau and Vernon counties Saturday afternoon. The contestants will ride through town in a parade starting at 1:30 p.m. A banquet in their honor will be held here Saturday evening.

Mary Ellen McCabe, current Wisconsin dairy queen, will make a personal appearance at the regional finals.

Admission to the coronation ball is by ticket, not by Broiler-Dairy buttons, committee members have announced. Tickets are being sold by festival committeemen or can be obtained at the door. Dancing will continue until 1 a.m.

The Alice contest is held each year by the State Department of Agriculture. One winner is chosen and employed by the department for one year to promote Wisconsin agricultural products. She will appear throughout Wisconsin to assist local communities in their sponsorship of Wisconsin food products. In addition, she travels throughout the United States as an ambassador of goodwill to encourage others to use more Wisconsin agricultural products.

Miss McCabe, Ladysmith, has made over 400 appearances in Wisconsin and traveled extensively in other states. Recently she made appearances in Denver; Billings, Mont.; Boston; New Orleans; Cincinnati and Chicago.

The contest is held on a regional basis with eight contests planned. These will be held at the following places: May 28, Arcadia and Keauwaunee; June 1, Beaver Dam; June 4, Eau Claire and Oconto; June 10, Park Falls, and June 11, Portage and Clintonville.

Finals will be held in Wausau June 23-24.

At both the regional and final contests girls appear in street fashions to be interviewed by three judges. They receive luncheon and usually ride in a parade of bands and floats before being feted at the evening coronation ceremony.

Houston, Wabasha Counties Set Salk Vaccine Clinics

Completion of scheduling for Salk polio vaccination clinics was announced this morning by health authorities in Houston and Wabasha counties.

The first round of immunizations will be completed in Houston County by Friday, as will the majority of Wabasha County clinics. Three communities in the latter county have not as yet scheduled shots.

Miss Gladys Lapham, Houston County superintendent of schools and county nursing supervisor, said today that first and second graders from Caledonia, Eitzen and surrounding rural areas will be vaccinated Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Caledonia public school.

Hokah youngsters will be immunized Thursday at 9 a.m. at the Hokah municipal auditorium, with physicians from Houston administering shots.

Houston children will get theirs Friday at 2 p.m. at the Houston village school, winding up the first round in Houston County, she said.

About 250 youngsters already have received the vaccine at Spring Grove and La Crescent.

THE WABASHA COUNTY schedule, announced today by Mrs. Verma Olin, superintendent of schools and chairman of the county nursing committee:

Today — Children at St. Felix Catholic School, Wabasha, began getting shots at 9 a.m.

Wednesday — Wabasha public school at 9 a.m. Kellogg public school at 9 a.m.

Thursday — Lake City Hospital at 9 a.m.

In first consent slip signings, said Mrs. Olin, parents of 100 per cent of eligible public and parochial children in Wabasha okayed the immunizations. She said she didn't know how many would withdraw now.

Local Wabasha County physicians will administer all shots free of charge.

Ambassadors To Meet Tonight

A roll call meeting of the Ambassadors, the Winona Chamber of Commerce's membership and good will organization, will be held tonight at the Oaks beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Plans for the current membership campaign and other summer activities will be discussed.

Jury Case Slated In Wabasha Court

WABASHA, Minn. — The first jury case on the spring District Court calendar here will begin at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, not yesterday as previously announced. Judge Arnold Hatfield is hearing a trial in Rochester and had to postpone the local session.

In the first action, survivors of three persons killed in a two-car crash between Wabasha and Kellogg May 2, 1934, are suing Mrs. Florence Blattner, Lake City, who is general administratrix of the Frank Herbert Blattner estate. Frank Blattner Jr. died from injuries 10 days after the accident.

Harry Reynolds Candidate For Head of National PTA

The national Congress of Parents and Teachers today was voting on a Winona man for president.

Harry M. Reynolds, who was the first male president of the Minnesota congress seven years ago, was nominated Monday at the national convention in Chicago to become the first male president of the national organization in its 59-year history.

Opposing him is the choice of the nominating committee, Mrs. Rolin Brown of Los Angeles, Calif., now first vice president.

Secret balloting will continue until late this afternoon and announcement of the results is not expected until early Wednesday.

Reynolds was nominated for the 3-year term by Mrs. Lester Bangs of Wilmar, a regional vice president of the state organization. Reynolds is not at the convention, nor is anyone from Winona there.

He was president of the state organization from 1947-50 and since then has been chairman of the extension committee and a member of the executive committee.

Liquor, Beer Fines Range Up to $450

5 Winonans Given Sentences in U.S. District Court Here

Fines ranging from $200 to $450 were drawn this morning by five Winonans who had pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court here to charges of violating federal liquor laws.

The $450 fine was imposed in the case of Lawrence F. Jung, operator of Shorty's Liquor Store, 54 E. Mark St., who pleaded guilty a week ago to a charge of carrying on the business of a wholesale liquor dealer without paying the necessary tax.

Jung also paid a $100 fine on another charge of purchasing liquor for resale at wholesale without a basic permit.

Represented by H. M. Lamber-ton Jr., Jung was named in a federal grand jury indictment of five counts on the first charge and one count on the second.

Tavern Operators
Also sentenced this morning were four tavern operators charged with carrying on the business of a retail liquor dealer without paying the necessary tax.

They are Edna P. Kohner, 51, operator of the Wagon Wheel, 1000 W. 5th St.; Joseph Lewinski, 41, owner of Blanche's Tavern, 416 Buchanan St.; Joseph Olszewski, 55, operator of the Reception Bar, 279 W. 2nd St.; and Henry Yackel, 56, owner of the Henry Yackel Tavern, 920 W. 5th St., each of whom was fined $200.

All pleaded guilty to the charge a week ago.

Each of the five also was placed on probation by Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye, Minneapolis, for two years.

The four tavern operators were represented by C. Stanley McMahon, Winona.

The government was represented by Alex Dim, St. Paul, assistant U. S. attorney.

Tust Sentenced
Sentenced Monday afternoon was Donald Martin Tust, 40, 259 W. 2nd St., who was charged with filing false statements to obtain illegally $234.50 in railroad unemployment compensation benefits.

Tust originally appeared in court last Tuesday when McMahon was appointed by the court to serve as his attorney and the defendant was given the additional time in which to enter a plea to the charge.

Monday Tust pleaded guilty and the court ordered that he be placed on probation for two years on the condition that he make restitution of the amount of compensation he obtained illegally.

Goodview Bonds Up for Vote Today

Goodview voters were going to the polls today to decide whether the village should issue bonds to finance construction of a $16,000 community hall and fire station garage.

The vote follows by less than a week village council action to pay off the final bond covering purchase of the municipal liquor store and present city government headquarters at 4060 6th St.

Goodview residents approved purchase of the present building in a referendum in January 1930 and favored continuation of a municipal liquor store (rather than a store on a private location) in a "straw" vote conducted at the same time.

The new building, if approved in today's balloting, would be located on the same lot as the liquor store. Polls in the basement of the liquor store will be open until 8 p.m.

Library to Use Identification Cards For Issuing Books

Pretty soon now you'll need an identification card to borrow a book from the Winona Free Public Library.

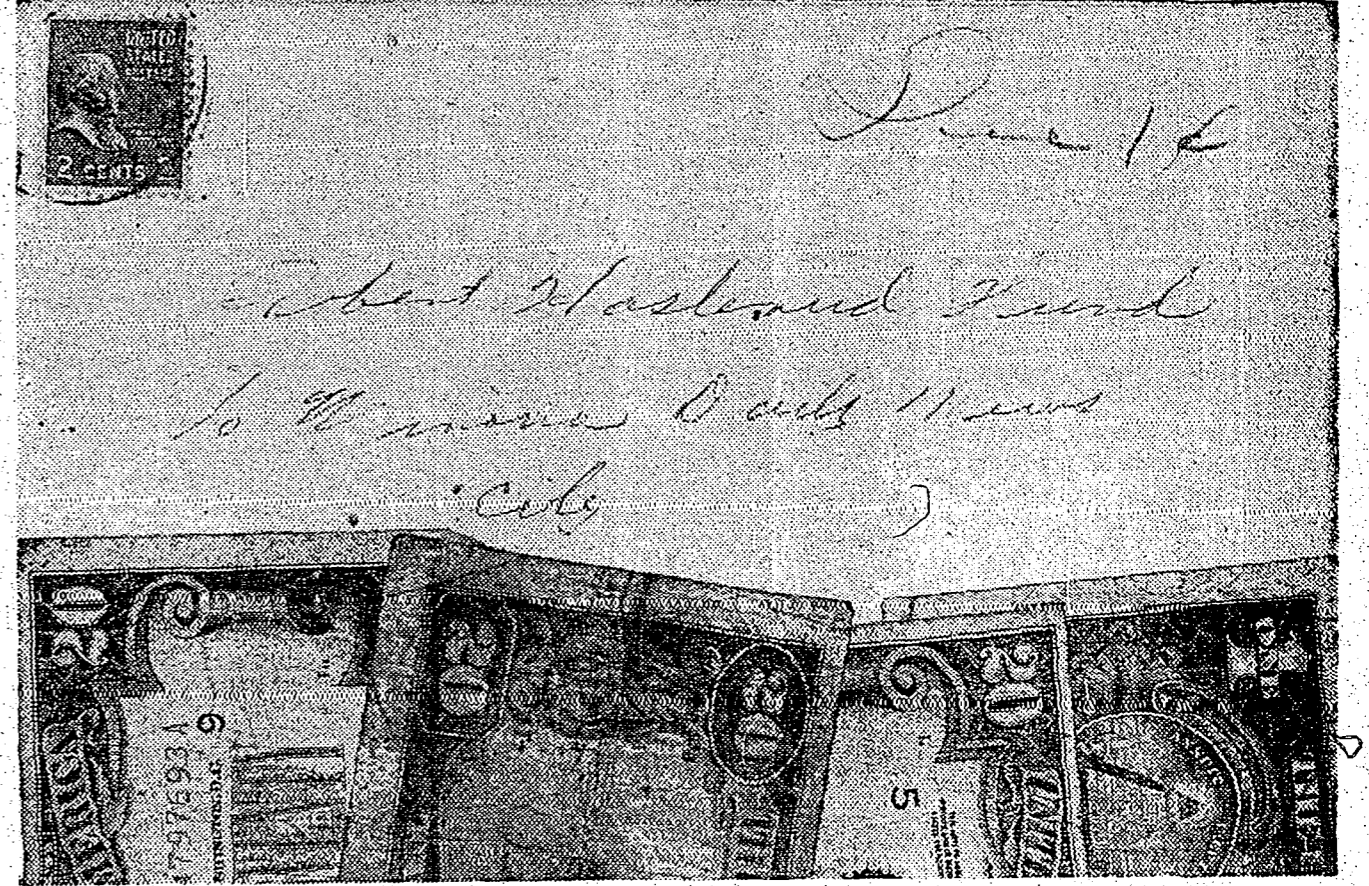

The library board Monday afternoon voted to rent for $50 a year the Gaylord electric charging machine because the present practice of charging books without requiring a borrower's card or identification "has not proved successful," according to a statement to the board of Miss Anita Saxine, librarian.

Here's how the new machine works: Each borrower will be given an identification card to which a numbered plate is attached. This must be presented each time he or she withdraws a book. This card is placed in one slot and the book card in another slot in the machine. Automatically the borrower's number and date are printed on the book card.

There is no possibility of error in recording the number, and, in addition, books are charged out 2 to 5 times as fast as by hand, according to Miss Saxine.

The board also awarded a one-year contract to the F. W. Saxon Co., Boston, Mass., for periodicals. Its bid of $614.40 was low. Other bidders: Mrs. A. L. Osborne, Winona, $630; Paramount Reading Club, Minneapolis, $674.07; Helen J. Caswell, Winona, $622.34; and Cincinnati Subscription Agency, Cincinnati, Ohio, $631.55.

Bills approved amounted to $797.69.

Even Though The Postmark is indiscernible, the stamp's in the wrong place and there was one-cent postage due on this letter when it arrived, the heart was in the right place for the person or persons who mailed this envelope to The Daily News. Because sealed within were three $20 bills and a $1 bill—$61 for the "Robert Haslerud Fund." There were no clues of any kind as to who sent the donation, but The News, Robert Haslerud and his four little children all send their thanks. (Daily News photo)

Contributions are coming in from all over The Daily News' area for the 34-year-old man who lost his 26-year-old wife in a tragic explosion May 14.

Haslerud has inadequate funds to pay doctor, hospital and funeral expenses in connection with his wife's death and to help him and his four children out of a desperate situation. The Daily News has appealed to its readers to contribute to a special fund.

A Houston County contributor sent $3 today, adding, "if enough people will send in their tiny bit now, maybe this will grow."

An Alma, Wis., letter said, "Please add this little donation to the fund. Would gladly give more but am a widow and poor myself."

May God bless this grief-stricken father and four children."

A Winona contributor said today, "May I compliment you for your efforts on behalf of this family. The crowning point of your Saturday appeal was the picture. The expressions you captured in that picture should make everyone in Winona feel the necessity of doing something to help these children."

"May God bless them in this time of need and I would like to express my deepest sympathy," said another Winona giver, and "it may help just a little," noted a third.

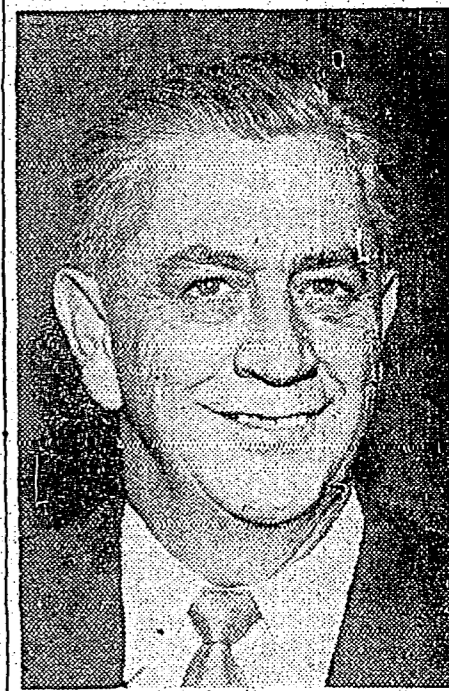

"Congratulations for sponsoring this very worthy project," said still another contributor.

Readers throughout The News' area are asked to send contributions to "The Robert Haslerud Fund" in care of The Winona Daily News. A special account has been opened in a Winona bank and when all contributions have been received the money will be turned over to the Haslerud family.

Western Hero Making Money Killing Outlaws

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Randolph Scott cleaned out another town this week. He brought the outlaws to justice and convinced the local citizens they had to take a stand against lawlessness.

This time he's "Marshal of Medicine Bend."

In the past he has been the "Bounty Hunter," "Fighting Man of the Plains," "Man in the Saddle," "Man Behind the Gun," "Nevadan" and "Frontier Marshal."

He has cleaned out "Abilene Town," "Badman's Territory," "Train Street," "Albuquerque," "Coroner's Creek," "Walking Hills," "Santa Fe," "Fort Worth" and "Carson City."

With his "Colt .45" or while "Riding Shotgun," Scott has combated the "Return of the Bad Men," "Doolins of Oklahoma" and "The Desperadoes."

What's more, he shows no signs of quitting.

Randolph Scott is the perfect Western hero. He is tall and lean, with a leather-faced handsomeness and an ability to command respect with his tight-mouthed orders.

He is, in fact, just about the only Western hero who can make a living—and a mighty handsome one—from making movies for theaters.

Cowpokes like Roy Rogers, Gene Autry and Bill Boyd have loped off to hunt the television gold. Only Scott remains on the movie range.

Cards Schedule Tryouts in June At La Crosse

A St. Louis Cardinal baseball tryout camp will be held at Copeland Field in La Crosse, Wis., on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 13-14-15, it was announced today.

Cardinal scouts will be on hand to conduct the workouts which may result in a baseball career for some of the youthful hopefuls on hand. Workouts, open to all players between 17 and 23, start each morning at 10 o'clock.

Players attending the trial sessions need bring only a glove, baseball shoes and a uniform, if they have them. All other equipment will be furnished by the St. Louis National League team.

Five of the 23 players now on the Cardinals' major league roster were discovered in tryout camps—Pitchers Harvey Haddix, Herb Moford and Bobby Tiefenauer, Rookie Third Baseman Ken Boyer and the incomparable second baseman, Red Schoendienst.

English Getting Chance to Vote On Hydrogen Bomb

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

GRAVESEND, England (AP)—In this corner of England near the mouth of the Thames Thursday's election will be, in effect, a referendum on the hydrogen bomb.

Election posters depict the mushroom clouds of atomic explosions. There are pictures of devastated Hiroshima, of piles of corpses.

There is no provision for a referendum on any subject in the election. But the vote will amount to that here because of the burning conviction of one candidate, Sir Richard Acland.

For 74 years Acland represented this district as a Laborite in the House of Commons. His last majority was a healthy 6,000. Then his party approved manufacture of nuclear weapons.

His opposition was so violent he resigned from the party, resigned from Parliament and decided to fight as an independent for reelection. Independents usually have a rough time in British voting. But it could be different here because of Acland's wide acquaintance and his record as a vote-getter.

"It will be the first time, as far as I know, that common people will have a chance to pass judgment on this hideous weapon," Acland says. "Parliaments and military strategists have given us this thing, but now people will have a voice."

Parents Called Big Problem in Child Illness

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The biggest problem for doctors treating children afflicted with eczema? Keeping the parents patient for the duration of the necessary lengthy treatment.

But even though treatment is difficult and long, chances for relieving the condition are good, Dr. Albert V. Stoesser, Minneapolis allergy specialist told the 102nd annual meeting of the Minnesota State Medical Assn. today.

Dr. Stoesser said that of two eczema types, erythroderma is the hardest to treat because it does not respond well to medicine externally applied. The second type, atopic eczema, represents about 75 per cent of such cases and does answer well to external treatment.

There is urgent need for more vigorous research into diabetes, Dr. Arnold Lazarow of the University of Minnesota department of anatomy told the delegates.

Dr. Lazarow said that insulin does not carry the complete answer to the diabetes problem. He said that sufferers who take the remedy faithfully for as long as 15 or 20 years still develop one or more of the serious complications of the disease.

"This and other facts make it seem probable that other factors in addition to insulin deficiency contribute to the development of these complications," he said. "It points up the need for much more vigorous research into the disease and its control."

Smooth Brake Release

Takes Practice

The "bucking" stop, mentioned in the last article, is a driving fault against which the passenger has practically no defense. Only an infant can relax sufficiently to avoid the neck-snapping action of this type of stop.

Considerate drivers learn the art of releasing brakes. Bus and street-car operators lose their jobs if they can't learn it.

As in music, for example, the "attack" is easier than the "release." Even the great Caruso could "hit" a high note more artistically than he could end it. His release suggested, somehow, a kick in the solar plexus. Those of you who play the violin know how difficult it is to end a note "clean." Amateur musical organizations can occasionally effect a good attack, but rarely, a good release.

A musician needs years of practice to learn a good release. A driver should be able to learn it in a few hours. How should you practice? A few yards (more, if you have power brakes) before you expect to stop, begin to ease off brakes pressure. Releasing the brakes partly minimizes the initial pitching movement. Slippage between the brake shoe and drum helps to damp out the rebound.

The faster you stop, the more skill you need to release smoothly. Cars with heavy engines and

It Happened Last Night Anita Ekberg, the Beauty, Really Obstructs Traffic

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Pretending that it was for research, I assigned myself to go around town with beautiful Anita Ekberg.

"What's it like, Wilson," I said to myself, very sharply, "to be so beautiful that you stop traffic? Go find out!"

The first curious thing was that a fellow wrote her a poem. It went like this:

"Ekberg Is no iceberg."

As we left her hotel, the tall blonde Swede, who's Hollywood's latest doll, thanked a man in the lobby for the two dozen roses—and another man for offering her his car.

"What happens when you pass a man on the street?"

"You can hear their shoes grind in the sidewalk ven dey turn around to look," she said. She spoke not conceitedly but matter-of-factly.

When she posed in front of a car, a young fellow swung his car around in the middle of 59th St. and yelled, "How about posing in front of a Cadillac?"

"We don't like Cadillacs!" she flung back, tossing her head.

At the Stage Barber Shop at 54th and 7th, the barbers stopped barbering and the customers stopped customizing to come out and whistle. We went into the Stage Deli-catessen. Joe Di Maggio happened to be lunching.

Anita waved, then trotted over and said hello. She then sat down on the other side, holding her toy French poodle, Robert.

"How about some pastami? How about some potato pancakes?" pleaded Max Asnas the boss, hovering over her. "How about some Max Asnas?"

"Professor" Irwin Corey, the comedian, a few tables away, shouted to a fellow nearby, "I'm not staring at you. I'm staring at her!"

He decided he had some important news items to tell me and rushed breathlessly over.

We then went down to "Dolly's," a novelty shop at 49th and 7th, to show her a life-sized picture of her in a bikini.

"Happy Father's Day," a sign on it said.

"Vott a dreadful 'ting dey dol' Anita said. "Dey got $2 for my pictures and I get mudding!"

"You're running neck and neck with Marilyn Monroe on the pictures we sell," the boss man said.

Upstairs at Klein's Gymnasium some young guys shouted "Hey, Oil! Oil! Bring her up here!" Suddenly there were 50 or 75 people around. A cop hustled up.

"Don't you know you're obstructing traffic?" he said. "Get going!" So that's what traffic-stopping beauties do. They really stop traffic.

Makeup Artist Ups Child Support Pay

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie makeup artist Pere Westmore has agreed to raise his support payments for his 9-year-old daughter Bridget.

Westmore appeared in Superior Court yesterday to answer a petition of his ex-wife actress Rosemary Lane, who asked that payments be increased from $25 to $50 a week. A compromise was reached and Westmore will pay $35 a week.

The makeup artist and Miss Lane were divorced last year. He appeared in court with his bride of a month, the former Jeanne Shores, who was Miss California of 1952.

Guess What Pupils Named Their School?

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The kids had a chance to name their new school yesterday and what name did they pick? Yup, Davy Crockett. "Only 50 parents voted," sighed W. A. Griffith, superintendent of the school district, "so there wasn't much doubt what name would win."

Politics, Price Supports Mixed For Strong Election-Year Potion

Price supports and politics are being mixed in a heady brew which may leave campaign hangers in 1956.

As legislators and farm groups survey the present price-support picture, they also weigh the question: Would it be smarter politics to wage a Senate battle over supports this season, or delay it until election year?

Both backers of rigid and those who favor lower, flexible supports claim they could win an early showdown, but both also cite reasons for delaying a vote. This would give the administration's flexible program a chance to operate, and its supporters are sure, would win farm votes for next year's fight. Opponents feel a delay would strengthen their case by proving the "deleterious" effect of flexible supports on farm income.

The present program provides for support of prices of five basic crops, wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts, at 82.5 to 90 percent of parity this year and at 75 to 90 percent thereafter. Parity is a formula designed to yield the farmer a fair return on his product in relation to farm costs.

In a close vote, 206-201, the House May 5 passed a bill to restore supports to 90 percent of parity. The Senate approved the administration's flexible program last year by a vote of 49-44, and even if it now sanctioned a return to rigid supports, a presidential veto would kill the bill.

Politicians and lobbyists in both camps are agreed that supports will be a top issue in 1956. Planning and preparation for election year therefore share attention with current lobby efforts. A newly rebuilt "farm-labor coalition" plans to improve its coordination to work more effectively for rigid supports in 1956. Its chief members are the National Farmers Union and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and this bloc claims that in the May 5 House test it won for rigid supports the votes of most of the city Democrats.

Labor's stake in the coalition is rural support for minimum wage legislation. On May 9, James Patton, Farmers Union president, appeared before a Senate Labor Subcommittee to testify in favor of an hourly minimum wage of $1.25.

Officials of the Farmers Union, long-time champion of rigid supports, are optimistic about chances for Senate approval this year or next. "House repudiation of the sliding scale may force a reappraisal by the administration of strategy in farm politics," says John Baker, legislative director. Other spokesmen claim a poll shows members of the Senate Agriculture Committee are 9-6 in favor of higher supports.

For its part, CIO is making farm supports one of its top legislative issues. It is giving nationwide circulation to a reprint of CIO President Walter Reuther's April testimony before the House Agriculture Committee in favor of rigid supports, and is issuing an analysis of the House roll-call vote to legislative representatives of each CIO union.

CIO legislative men plan a personal poll of the Senate Agriculture Committee, in order to pick out "borderliners" and concentrate on trying to win them over.

All of this evidently doesn't worry advocates of the administration's program. "We've got the overwhelming bulk of farmers on our side, and that's what counts," says an official of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has spearheaded the drive for flexible supports.

AFBF is circulating a bulletin which declares that, despite "unprecedented pressure" by labor during the House vote, 29 Democrats joined with 172 Republicans to vote against rigid supports. They contend that the labor-farm bloc will prove less effective in the Senate.

Federation officials say that a growing proportion of their members actually favor even lower supports than those provided under the administration's program.

Top officials of another powerful farm group take still a different view. "Our members are scared by falling farm income, and they're ready to support a higher level of supports than they think are sound over the long term, until supply and demand are back in balance," says Roy Battles, director of information for the Grange.

Grange spokesmen stress that, while gross national produce has shown a fairly steady increase during the last five years, net farm income has consistently dropped and, it is estimated, will rise only very slightly this year.

These Days

Eden Seeking New Hold on Parliament

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

LONDON — Each country, in the historic process of molding a nation, develops a national personality that is as distinctive as that of each individual. No two are alike. We, in the United States, only too often think of the British and ourselves as the same kind of people, perhaps because we speak the same language and stem intellectually from an identical historic origin, but one need not be here for more than an hour, watching one of the most important elections in British history, to discover vast differences in character. This election is only a week away, but it has not "hotted up" yet.

It is obviously not an exciting election. The fact is that the voters do not understand why an election is held at this time at all. The Conservatives still had 18 months to continue in office. There are many explanations, the favorite being that Sir Anthony Eden did not want to finish Sir Winston Churchill's term. He wanted the confidence of the people all on his own. Then he could continue for five years if he gets a working majority in the House of Commons and holds that majority. Others suggest that there must be some great events in the world about which the people know nothing, and that if Sir Anthony Eden is to devote himself to negotiations on major problems, he must show that he is not merely a successor to Churchill but that he was directly chosen by the people. In a word, as the people wonder why there is an election, they speculate what Eden knows that they do not know.

THE PEOPLE HERE in England want peace. It is possible to say that if there is any issue in this campaign at all, it is peace. England is prosperous and knows full employment after an era of bitter austerity. This people remembers the war—not only World War II but World War I. They remember the pits in London made by Nazi block-busters. They remember the period in the war when they were practically a besieged island and the people lived on hunger rations. Now that they have a prosperity beyond their imaginations in those horrible days, they want peace.

The Conservatives have the advantage in the argument that it was Churchill who saw them through a war that might have been a conquest and that Eden has labored for peace. The Austrian Treaty and the agreement for the Big Four to meet "at the summit" are undoubtedly helping the Conservatives. At any rate, it has robbed the Socialists of the principal issue. It has, in fact, left them without an issue.

There is no argument against prosperity and full employment. Socialism can create an anger against possessions and the possessors when times are bad, when groceries are costly and the future is dim. But what is to be said against prosperity except that it is too good to be true?

THE RESULT IS A campaign without issues, a campaign which brings out small audiences to meetings. Only Winston Churchill and Aneurin Bevan excite interest and attention and both are curiosities rather than political candidates. Churchill has become a living monument, a person above all parties and issues, one whom men and women want to see and hear.

Bevan is believed to be a man with a future, the most dangerous man in Great Britain today. It is generally held that he will lead his country some day to extreme Socialism if he has the chance. At him, people look and they listen. But it is not believed that he will carry the Socialists, that is, the Labour party, forward in this election.

The fear is that the defeat of the Socialists in this election will lead to the end of Clement Attlee's leadership and that the Labour Party will be taken over by Aneurin Bevan. On the other hand, some say that the Labour party is so split that its defeat in this election will result in a realignment by which those who are liberal Socialists will break with the Labourites who are Communists, pro-Communists and fellow-travelers (here they are called crypto-Communists). Such a division would produce a new party. The liberals, who have been reduced to what might be called a splinter party, hope that it might lead to revival of their party of the middle-of-the-road.

Speeches Warning of Reds' Growing Air Power Junked

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Here is the amazing inside story of the Air Force mix-up over whether we are ahead of Russia or Russia is ahead of us in air power.

Called before a closed-door Senate committee meeting, Gen. Nathan Twining, chief of staff for air, and Gen. Woodbury Burgess, chief of Air Force intelligence, both denied that Russia was ahead of the United States.

However, here is what happened before they walked in to face the senators.

Earlier, Gen. Twining had prepared a speech to be delivered in Los Angeles on Armed Forces Day, May 21, giving a solemn warning that Russia had made terrific progress and might be forging ahead of the United States in air power.

On the same day, Sec. of the Air Force Harold Talbott also planned to deliver a "block-buster" speech warning the American people that we were falling behind Russia.

However, he was called off by President Eisenhower and Sec. of Defense Wilson. Both had recently denied that the United States was falling behind Russia, and Talbott was told that a speech by him to the contrary would not be politic. "We don't want to alarm the public," was the advice he got from the two top men responsible for the nation's defense.

Speeches Are Scrapped

Talbott meanwhile had heard of Twining's proposed speech at Los Angeles and called the Air Force chief in. He did not order Twining to change his speech. But he did say he'd get word from Sec. Wilson not to alarm the public, and that, accordingly, he, Talbott, had rewritten his speech. He also pointed out that he and Twining would be in the embarrassing position of giving opposite speeches on the same day unless Twining also rewrote his speech.

It was further recalled that Sen. Symington, the Missouri Democrat and Secretary for Air in the Truman Administration, had publicly charged that the United States was falling behind Russia. For Gen. Twining to side with Symington, therefore, would be highly embarrassing to the Eisenhower administration.

So Gen. Twining tore up his Los Angeles speech and wrote a new one.

While this was going on in Washington, Gen. Burgess, intelligence chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, made his now famous speech in Detroit stating in effect that Russian air might be ahead of the U.S.A.

Jets Over Moscow Burgess and Symington, together with Twining and Talbott, had based their worry on the jet bombers, U. S. observers had seen in Russia. This column first reported on April 26 that "the power pendulum is swinging over toward Soviet Russia as far as air strength is concerned."

This May Day the Russians will have 15 giant type-37 jets. In contrast we had two B-29 jet bombers of the same size a year ago. Today we have only three. In other words, the Russians are outproducing us 14 to one!

Ten days later this was confirmed by a Defense Department spokesman. On May 18, however, Eisenhower said just the opposite.

"It is just not true," he told a press conference, that we "have lost in a twinkling" all our great technical advantages.

Gen. Burgess, however, is an intelligence officer who knew what the intelligence reports were from Moscow. He also knew that the Russian pilots had down their new jets right over the American embassy 13 times, virtually thumbing their noses at the American ambassador. So he gave an unvar-

Advice on Health

Color Can Be an Auto Safety Aid

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Are you in the market for a new car? If you are, give careful consideration to the color. It may help you avoid an accident.

Whether you buy a new auto—or what make you buy—is no concern of mine, but I am interested in your health and safety. So, let me pass along some advice about cars and their colors.

According to the Better Vision Institute of New York City, the color of autos is an important factor in driving safety. A recent study showed that judgment of the distance of an object is influenced by the contrast of its color with the background.

As an experiment, 164 persons were tested for vision with the use of colored cards. Each one looked through a small opening at the cards, which were placed about 200 feet away.

Cards that were either much lighter or much darker than the background appeared closer than those which showed less contrast to the background. Yellow and blue cards seemed to be as much as six feet closer than others exactly the same distance away.

Now this is significant for you motorists. Cars which contrast sharply with the background are much easier to spot. Besides, if they appear to be closer than they actually are, there's ample time to avoid them.

The color, you see, can actually be a built-in safety device.

As a result of this study, it would seem that the two-toned blue and yellow combination is evidently one of the safest color schemes for a car. The darker blue stands out in daylight and in fog; the lighter yellow is easier to see at night. Just keep this in mind. It's sensible to buy an auto that is plainly visible. But most important of all, drive safely no matter what the color of your car.

Wife Too Fat So Hubby Gets Divorce

Beer, Speedboats and Death on Lake Winona

To the Editor:

Last Saturday afternoon was an ideal summer day on the shores of Lake Winona. Children were swimming in the water, old and young were enjoying the sun, the shade, the playgrounds and the picnic tables. A party of four came upon this tranquil scene, three men and a woman. One carried and drank lustily of a picnic bottle.

They went to the shore where a boat with a high powered outboard was grounded. It was not long before the waters were churning with the sharp turns, right to left, and left to right, and round the lake. Soon another boat with an equally powered outboard joined them. The race was on.

I returned to the lake at 5 p.m., an hour later, to get my canoe, and the youngsters who had it on the opposite shore. The first speed boat was still traveling strong. Once it went past the swimming beach with swimmers on the inside shore and outside its path. It "buzzed" the canoe on the south shore. Then it pulled in to the park shore for a brief stop before the last ride. The parting from the shore on this last trip was the heaving of the empty picnic bottle from the boat to the sand. (Park care takers will take care of such things.)

At this time the canoe was coming across the lake with its four passengers. The speedboat tore out into the center of the lake in its vicinity. It made a sharp turn, and then the inevitable happened. All three passengers in the speedboat, two men and a woman were thrown clear of the boat and into the water. The boat sped on with even greater speed alone. Unpiloted, it turned toward shore, and with a terrific motor roar crashed and stopped upon the beach.

The four in the canoe were now nearing the shore where I was standing. The three in the water started to swim toward shore. A man jumped into the boat that had crashed and tried to start it, but it would not run. At this point the swimmers began to cry for help. A young lad in a kayak pulled rapidly to the rescue, and let them cling to his boat. Another young lad and I started toward them in the canoe. By this time the speed boat was started again, and came to the rescue.

If the speedboat running wild had turned in the opposite direction from the course that it took, it might well have headed straight for the four young folks in the canoe or other innocent boats and swimmers on the lake. Some of those youngsters could have been killed. And one of those youngsters was my own.

Our Lake Park is a beautiful spot. It is a place for rest, relaxation, and pleasure. Wee tots play in its sands. Youth suns itself on its shores. Families gather round its picnic tables. But when the trilogy of beer, speedboats, and reckless individuals haunts its waters and shores, there is the possible and potential killer-rampant in its midst.

Michael Korzen wanted a divorce because his wife had gained weight.

Once 127, now 190, he said, "She's too fat for me."

Michael demanded she reduce to 125 pounds.

When the judge suggested this was asking a little too much, Korzen conferred with his attorney and then offered a compromise.

"I'll take her back at 140. Not one ounce more!"

I don't know what the judge told Korzen, but I know what I'd have told him.

I'd have sentenced him to spend a few nights in the husbands' waiting room at some hospital for cancer cases.

If a man's family is blessed with good health, it seems to me he's a pretty ungrateful ingrate if he allows himself to consider anything else important.

Babs Hutton, the poor little rich girl, once so desperate to be lean that she went on a diet of black coffee and nothing else, so ruined her health that now all her worldly goods cannot buy it back.

Metropolitan Life says there are 25 million overweight Americans. (These are round figures.) There are five million of us "seriously overweight."

But while our recent emphasis on dieting has cited the effects on our physical health, we have neglected to consider our mental health.

Men and women straining to streamline themselves often shatter their emotional stability.

The heart doctor's patients are mostly fat, that's true.

But the psychiatrists' clientele is mostly lean!

And make no mistake about this, most women diet out of concern for their measurements, not their blood pressure.

The pin-up craze among emotionally immature males has wives and sweethearts conspiring with a calorie chart in a frantic effort to compete.

The result is a generation of beautiful, miserable misanthropes.

Mercenary fashion designers and food faddists can commercialize on this subject if they want to. Documentaries on dieting within their province in recommending scientific dieting where good health requires it.

But when our concern for a shapely silhouette becomes such that a marriage can be dragged into divorce court and even be dissolved on such absurd grounds, then it's time for society's distorted perspective to get a sharp rap across the knuckles.

The request, by the Wendover Light and Power Co., was for permission to reduce its rates by more than 15 per cent.

Commission Secretary Frank A. Yeamans said the firm's application was "completely voluntary."

Milwaukee Puts Off Salk Shots In City Schools

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Dr. E. R. Krumbiegel, city health commissioner, has postponed indefinitely the Salk polio vaccinations for the city's school children.

"We don't care what they do with the vaccine on a national level," Krumbiegel said Monday. "Milwaukee children will not get it until we are absolutely certain it is safe."

He said the vaccine would be tested locally by giving the vaccine to a small control group of children. Their body wastes will be examined and if any signs of the polio virus are detected, the household will be protected and the gamma globulin and the Salk inoculation program for the city will be called off for the rest of the year. Another test to be conducted in the city will consist of inoculating a small group of children and then testing their blood for antibodies produced.

Krumbiegel said he believes the further tests are necessary because some of the vaccine used in the 1954 field trials gave little or no protection against polio.

"Not in this line of work," he said of the style set by San Antonio college students and milkmen.

Detective Frank Lombardino and Chesley Jones appeared in the style Monday, but not for work. Shaw emphasized that they won't either.

Banker Finds Youngsters Good Business Risk

STURGEON, Mo. (AP)—Johnny Sydow started out in the sheep business at the age of 8 with $53 in his pocket and good intentions.

Now, at 12, he has five ewes and a purebred sow as capital livestock, is earning profits from their offspring and doesn't owe anyone a cent.

The man who gave Johnny—and scores of other youngsters in this area—a starting boost with a loan is C. L. Harper, president of the Sturgeon State Bank in this east-central Missouri farming community of 570 persons.

Harper says he has loaned about $6,000 in the past 10 years to youngsters from 6 to 16.

"I've never turned down a youngster's application for a loan, never foreclosed on one, and never lost a cent on any loan," Harper declared proudly.

Student Leaders Meet at St. Mary's

Nearly 90 students participated in the third annual student leadership workshop at St. Mary's College Sunday. Sponsor was the student commission.

James Flack, student commission president, explained the purpose of the workshop at the main assembly, and Brother J. Ambrose, college president, discussed the important role that activities of campus organizations play in rounding out the whole curriculum for the campus community. Brother Louis, dean of students, discussed the "Purpose of the Student Commission," showed how it should work in a communal group so as to formulate campus public opinion in the proper channels.

Raymond Holmes, past commission president, related how the clubs form the backbone of the Student Commission's activities.

Student officers split into three panel sessions, following the main assembly, to discuss the varying aspects of student club activities.

The chairman of these panels were the student commission officers; James Flack, president; Robert Taylor, vice president, and Larry Mitchell, secretary.

After the banquet, Frank J. Allen Jr., Winona, presented the keynote address. Allen, a graduate of St. Mary's College class of '49, discussed what businessmen look for in college applicants for jobs. He stressed backgrounds in activities of an extracurricular nature.

Afternoon sessions of the workshop consisted of reports of the panel discussions and a mock session of parliamentary procedure. Those at the mock assembly agreed to adjourn before adopting the motion that St. Mary's be co-educational.

Bad-Acting Alligator Hard to Give Away

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Dr. Arthur M. Levy has a 20-inch alligator to give away—but so far there are no takers because of the alligator's reputation.

The alligator arrived for Dr. Levy Sunday night and promptly broke loose at the Pittsfield post office. Before it was caught, it bit clerk Fred Binder.

The doctor was called at midnight to "come get your alligator." The doctor did.

Yesterday, his son Larry took the alligator to school. His teacher Katherine M. Maley was bitten on the finger.

Neither bite wound was considered serious.

Seems That Everybody Has Check Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was something of a blow when the government's Treasury check bounced.

Edward Saver said he got the $37.50 check as a refund of a deposit he had made with his bid for some war surplus goods. He just sent the check to his bank to be added to his account.

But the bank promptly sent it back yesterday. Seems somebody in the Treasury Department had neglected to sign it.

U Increasing Yearly Tuition

ST. PAUL (AP)—General boosts in tuition covering most colleges and including both resident and non-resident students were announced today by the University of Minnesota.

The increases, to become effective with start of this fall's term, are expected to yield about $300,000 annually. On the average, they amount to a 10 per cent increase.

President Morrill said the fee revisions are in line with discussions held at the time the university budget for 1955-56 was being discussed in the Legislature.

Minimum resident tuition, now $41 will be upped to $46 while the quarterly non-resident minimum will go to $135 from $110. Highest resident fee will be the $100 per quarter for dentistry, now $86. That college and the medical center will top the non-resident tuitions with a quarterly rate of $210, compared with $175 and $185, respectively, now.

In the college of education, resident tuition will be reduced from $47 to $46 per quarter, thus bringing it into line with other undergraduate schools and providing the only fee reduction.

Quarter a pound-of pitted dates and put in a saucepan with a cup of water and three-quarters cup of sugar. Cook slowly, stirring often, about 15 minutes or until mixture is thick enough to spread. Use as a filling for rolled oatmeal cookies. Delicious old-fashioned flavor!

Brickbats Fill British Air at Campaign's End

BY HAL COOPER

LONDON (U)—A barrage of political brickbats filled the British air today as backers of the two major parties tried to liven up the last 48 hours of a dull election campaign.

The Conservative Daily Sketch discovered a "conspiracy within the Socialist party which will rock the nation." In the event of a Labor victory at the polls Thursday, it said, more than half the Socialist candidates are ready to dump placid old Clement Attlee as party leader and supplant him with left-wing firebrand Aneurin Bevan.

That would make the Welshman prime minister—a prospect calculated to chill the marrow of every staunch Conservative. Bevan once called the Tories "vermin."

On the Socialist side the Labor Daily Herald declared that the forthcoming Big Four peace talks are "going sour" in advance and can be saved only by electing a Socialist government.

The Herald said the Russians already are preparing world opinion for a failure of the parley because they think the West called for it just to help Sir Anthony Eden and his Conservatives win the election.

In line with that argument, Moscow radio said last night that Washington is confident a Conservative victory in Britain will give the United States "a trustworthy partner in conducting an aggressive policy in Europe."

Custody of Bulldog Puzzler for Judge

OKLAHOMA CITY (U)—Lois Frederick contended in Municipal Court yesterday that Mrs. Jessie Hall gave her a 4-month-old screw-tail bulldog last February. Mrs. Hall said the dog belongs to her and that she never gave permanent custody to Miss Frederick.

"This is like a child custody case in a lot of ways," Judge Mike Foster said. "I'm looking up my divorce and child custody laws to see if there is a precedent in this sort of thing which might also apply to dogs."

The women agreed to let a veterinarian keep the dog until the judge makes his decision.

Manhattan's Magic in Its Eternal Youth

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—What is the magic of Manhattan? Cynics have been predicting for some time that the flight to the suburbs would eventually turn this heart island of New York City into a ghost town on the Hudson—the world's largest pigeon roost. Some people, perhaps, rather hoped this would happen.

But what has really happened? No grass is growing in Wall Street yet. In the last 10 years some 21 million square feet of office space has been built or is planned in the midtown area. Luxurious new apartment buildings are still springing up like dandelions. The U. N. has lifted a towering new home of glass-enclosed hope for the future.

Commenting on this spectacular postwar growth, a real estate dealer the other day said, rather wonderingly, there seems to be some magic in Manhattan that defies logic.

There is a magic in Manhattan, the magic of an ever-young town ceaselessly growing through 300 years of continuous change.

Pace Is Killing

"The pace here is killing . . . Everybody has a dog-eat-dog attitude . . . I couldn't live here, feeling so cramped and crowded." These are typical complaints of out-of-town visitors.

"What do you really see in the place?" they ask. "Why, I wouldn't take Manhattan as a gift."

But as they leave for their home town, they wonder secretly if, after all, there isn't something here they have missed.

There is. They have missed the whole thing—the magic in Manhattan.

They have missed the glamor and excitement and power and majesty that make up the real lure of Manhattan. They have a vague dislike of Manhattan, and an active distrust of it. But they don't know enough about Manhattan either to hate it or love it. You have to marry Manhattan to do that. You have to live here.

Manhattan is a mighty melange of money, mystery and melodrama made up of many smells and sights and sounds and an infinite number of voices. Manhattan isn't America, but it is America squeezed up like an accordion—where the mountains are man-made and the prairies have a "keep off the grass" sign.

Manhattan is the true "dream city" of our country. More people travel here to make their dreams come true than to any other city in the world.

Genius Market Place
This is the talent capital of the 20th Century, the market place for every type of genius, whether your skill lies in training fleas, directing a symphony orchestra or building skyscrapers. It is the modern mecca of the writer, the salesman, the artist, the businessman, the chef, the boxer, the scholar and the con man. Whatever you can do, here is your market and your audience.

Manhattan is less lovely than Paris, less livable than London, less casually friendly than any major American metropolis. But it holds more grandeur than ancient Rome and is gradually attaining some of the glory of old Greece.

There are a thousand accents in Manhattan, but the main accent is on youth. Youth isn't served here, but it has a chance to sell here anything it can dish up that has a new quality or a fresh excitement.

That is the real magic in Manhattan, a city that eternally renews itself by feeding on young dreams: Anything is possible here, whatever you look for you have a feeling you may find it.

Nobody owns Manhattan. It gives you a feeling of belonging to something greater than yourself. But anyone who lives here and then goes away knows in his heart that part of him will always belong to Manhattan, and that he has left something behind—usually his dreams.

Ike Commends Women's Clubs For Good Will

PHILADELPHIA (U)—President Eisenhower today commended the General Federation of Women's Clubs for its efforts to increase international good will.

The message from the White House was sent to the opening of the organization's 64th annual convention.

Eisenhower said it is particularly impressive that through their generous contributions for overseas relief, the clubwomen have demonstrated their friendship for women of other nations.

The General Federation, the world's largest organization of women has 11 million members, half in clubs in this country and the remainder in affiliated clubs in 33 foreign countries.

Eisenhower further praised the General Federation for its outstanding record of programs aimed at protecting the health and advancing the welfare on the domestic front.

Mrs. Theodore E. Chapman, Jerseyville, Ill. General Federation president said in a prepared address that she hoped all member clubs in this country and abroad would celebrate the U.N.'s 10th anniversary in October.

Presbyterians Say 'Yes' to Woman Preachers

LOS ANGELES (U)—Should women be ordained as preachers?

"Yes," says the 167th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. Its approval yesterday by a standing vote of about 3 or 4 to 1 now goes to the church's 256 Presbyteries or local groups. A majority must vote approval.

During lively floor debate, the Rev. Victor G. Dawe, of Framingham Mass. declared:

"Too often when women have felt themselves called to be bishops, it has resulted in cults and heresies. Witness Mary Baker Eddy in Boston and Aimee Semple McPherson here in Los Angeles."

The Rev. LeRoy Patrick, Pittsburgh, replied:

"We sin against women when we say that cults and heresies are associated peculiarly with them. The Christian faith has been history's most potent force in elevating women. I, for one, do not fear their ordination."

In another action, yesterday the delegates approved by a voice vote a resolution critical of what they termed a Roman Catholic "trend to exalt the figure of the Virgin Mother."

Bare Knees Banned From Schoolroom

OKLAHOMA CITY (U)—An Oklahoma City high school principal has ruled that Bermuda shorts are not appropriate classroom attire for young men.

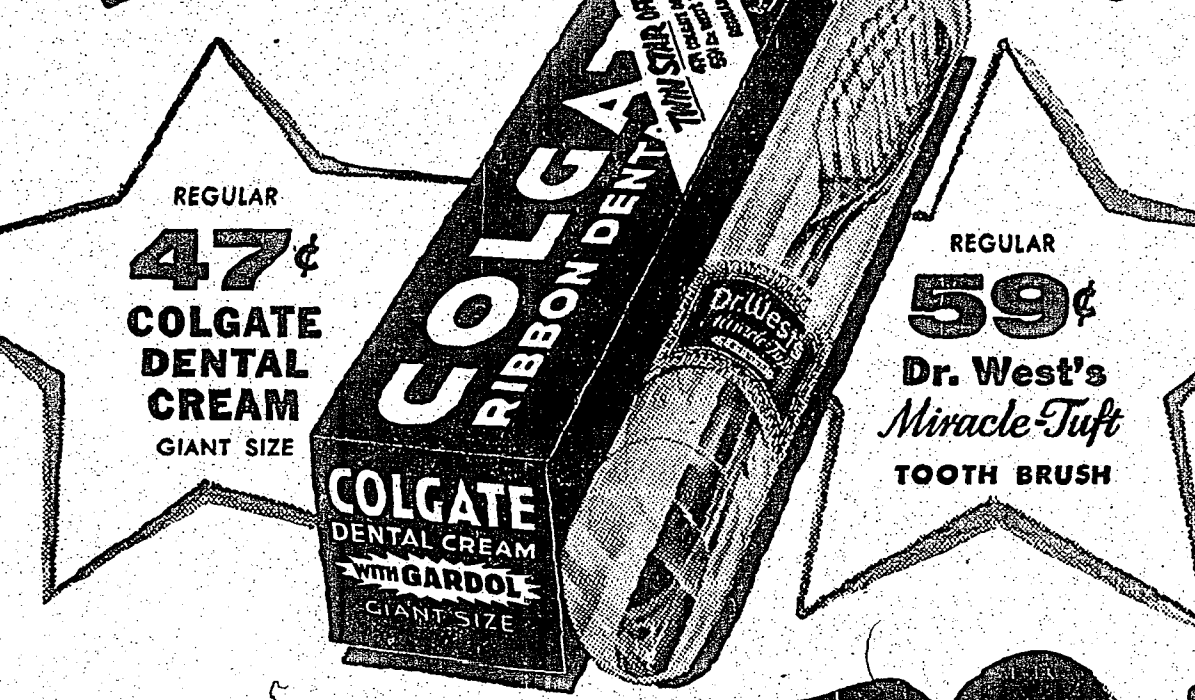

"We didn't make an issue of it," Clarence Breithaupt said. "But I doubt if the boys will wear them tomorrow."

Three or four students, including a football player reported to classes yesterday in the walking shorts. One wore a bright orange and yellow combination.

With final examinations coming up, Breithaupt said he felt the bare knees might be a distracting influence.

Largest Taxpayer Hands $54,533 Check to County

Officers of Winona County's largest taxpayer—the Mississippi Valley Public Service Co.—Monday delivered a $54,533.02 check to Arthur Dorn, Winona County treasurer, as the first-half installment on the company's real estate tax bill. With the exception of about $100, the tax is on real property located in the city.

The company this year will pay a total of $153,852.56 in taxes on real and personal property located in Winona County, officials said. In addition, a total of $73,369.41 was paid in 1952 to the city of Winona as a franchise fee making total Winona city and county payments of $227,221.97. Of this amount, the city of Winona will receive $177,535.26 and the balance will be allocated to the state of Minnesota, Winona County and Winona County villages in which company property is located. Personal property taxes alone are $44,786.52.

The company's total 1952 tax bill was $605,000, with federal income taxes accounting for more than one half of the total. Total taxes were greater than the combined annual total of last year's coal costs, dividend payments and interest costs on the outstanding bond issue. Total taxes exceeded the operating payroll by $12,000.

All of the gross income received by Mississippi Valley for an average period of 102 days goes for taxes—an equivalent of 28 cents out of each dollar received.

If the annual tax bill were paid in one dollar bills and they were laid end to end, they would form a path 58½ miles long—almost long enough to stretch out on Highway 61 from Winona to Red Wing.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By MARGARET LATROBE

Now that the gentle Professor Einstein is gone, many are the anecdotes in print illustrating his kindness and humanity. One tells of his finding a young bird fallen from his nest. Einstein tenderly replaced it only to find it again thrown to the ground. Again he restored the fledgling to its mother, but when he returned the bird was on the ground, dead.

While typifying Einstein's gentleness, the story's conclusion was that although birds will protect their young from cats and other marauders, once a human has touched a young bird its mother will toss it out to die.

Some of our feathered friends aren't so prejudiced against human beings, I am happy to report. Either that, or they don't consider young children as human—yet. In raising the small, it is possible to over-do "be kind to birds" preachments. Impressing a certain pair, aged two and five, that every care must be taken to protect delicate creatures of nature, we went too far. They got the idea that mother birdie wasn't very bright about feeding her newly hatched family—and could use their help.

Worms? Ugh. Ought to be cut up, at least. And if milk is prescribed for babies, why not for baby birds? The youngest was hovering near the hedge, guarding something under its branches. "We got birdies," she lisped, filling a medicine dropper with milk. You got—what? She had them, all right. Four nests full of slightly underdone robins, carefully covered with a doll blanket. "Sh-h-h!" commanded our babe. "Don't wake up the wobbins. They're bare naked."

And where was big brother? Gone to dig worms, what else? The five-year-old dietitian was found busy with spade and coffee can plowing up the tulip bed. With the uncanny accuracy of childhood, he was able to say which nest had come from which tree. Feeling pretty certain the robin population was due for a decline, we put back the nests anyway. And the mother birds, perched close enough to watch the return of the kidnaped, were quite hysterical about it.

Would they return to their nests? Or were homes and family forever spoiled by the half-hour human interlude?

They hopped right back, warmed and fed their babies. And the little robins grew up and lived, I trust, happily ever after.

Phelps Ninth Grade Entertains With Plays, Music

A refreshing evening's program of two one-act plays and a musical interlude was presented for parents and friends Monday night in Somsen Hall Auditorium, Winona State Teachers College, by the ninth graders of the Phelps Laboratory School of the college.

Booth Tarkington's "The Trysting Place" opened the program. Against the setting of a fashionable modern country hotel with comfortable chairs, palms and tall pillars—a section of the hotel which the guests seemed to think quite private but which proved to be about as private as Grand Central Station—three romances, plus, unfolded.

The "plus" was the infatuation of Lancelot Briggs played by William Heller, for the attractive widow, Mrs. Curtis, played by Elsie Naas. Lancelot's avowed devotion for a "woman with some experience in life" as he said, was not seconded by his mother, Mrs. Briggs, also a widow, played by Marie Harvey, or his sister Jessie, played by Helen Knutson. When they come into the room the boy takes cover behind a settee. He consequently overhears all that later occurs in the room.

Jessie urging her mother to keep an eye on Mrs. Curtis so that Lancelot will not be led astray, thus succeeds in getting her mother out of the room. She then, her friend, played by Ronald Rose, Rupert is not on mama's approved list. When Mrs. Briggs returns unexpectedly, he too takes cover in the room.

The second romance unfolds when Mrs. Briggs meets a former suitor, Mr. Ingoldsby, played by Dennis Graves. Both Lancelot and Rupert—and a third person, unidentified to the audience—hear the ensuing proposal.

Things come to a boiling point when Lancelot discovers that his "woman of experience" is in the room to keep an appointment with the unidentified person (the third romance), and when the other two couples realize that their trysts have had witnesses. The "voice" was played by Wayne Tarras.

The curtain rose on a bare stage for Thornton Wilder's "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden," a play that depends much on pantomime detail and imagination. In the story of an automobile trip to the home of the married daughter, comedy is provided by the children's questions and the parents' answers, the audible reading and comments on the road signs as the family journeys, and the starting and stopping of the family car (four chairs plus pantomime by Pa Kirby, played by Joseph Richie, A. counterpoint to the running conversation of Ma Kirby, played by Leah Ohnstad, were the dignified, factual comments of Pa Kirby, the animated tones of Caroline Kirby, played by Barbara Knopp, and the eager interpolations of Arthur Kirby, played by Robert Halverson.

The family was enthusiastically welcomed at Camden by married daughter, Beulah, played by Janice Baers. The well-being of the family "car" and the "furnishings" of the daughter's "house" lay in the hands of the "stage manager," played by Burr Robinson, who also good-naturedly took the part of Ma Kirby's neighbors when she called goodbye to them and gave parting instructions.

Flower-decked white picket fences formed the background for the musical interlude between the two plays. Numbers presented by a quartet were "Tumbling Tumbleweeds," "Serenade Medley" and "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White." In the latter, student teacher Curtis Peterson played a chorus of the song on his trumpet. Members of the quartet were Janice Baures, Sharon Brugger, Donna Case, and LeVonne Schmidt.

The plays were presented by Miss Donna Freeman, Dexter, student teacher, and Mr. Peterson. ARCADIAN ELECTED ARCADIA Wis. (Special)—Nathan Wolfe has been elected delegate to the supreme Knights of Columbus convention at Philadelphia, Pa., in August.

75TH BIRTHDAY ARKANSAW, Wis. — Dennis O'Meara celebrated his 75th birthday at the Ralph Schlosser home, Arkansaw, May 22. Dinner guests included Jerome O'Meara and Leo O'Meara, Lewiston, Minn., and Miss Mary E. O'Meara and Mrs. Teresa O'Meara, St. Charles, Minn. Mr. O'Meara made his home at the Ralph Schlosser home for the past 3½ years. He previously lived in Lewiston.

LIFE MEMBERSHIPS GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—Life memberships in the Women's Missionary Federation of the Lutheran church were conferred upon two members last Thursday when the Ladies Aid Society met. Receiving gold pins were the Mmes. Lena McCallum and Ella Tranberg, the presentation being made by Mrs. Hugh Ellison and the pins being affixed by granddaughters of the two women honored. The new life members were seated at a special table for lunch, together with five other women formerly honored in the same way. Each of the group received a corsage.

Children's Physical, Spiritual, Mental Needs Cited for PTA

Three basic needs, physical, mental and spiritual, were cited by Russell E. Meyers, executive director of the St. Paul Council of Human Relations, in his talk on "How We Can Fulfill the Needs of Our Youth," at the annual dinner of the Winona City PTA Council held at the Hotel Winona Monday evening.

In discussing physical development, Mr. Meyers felt that "we do little about programming recreation for our youth. Parents must act on a good quality of recreation. Activity is not wrong; it's what we do with it that counts. Parental guidance is constantly necessary."

"As for mental needs, American schools provide the finest system in the world for the development of the intellect. Mere repetition is not necessarily learning. Reading is not merely ability to pronounce words but rather the ability to acquire knowledge from words."

Mr. Meyers stated that he does not want a ban on comic books, expressing the opinion that "a delinquent who takes an idea from a comic book was a delinquent before he read the comic book. Our children acquire their reading standards in the home."

"In the realm of spiritual development," he continued, "we must teach youth to make wise decisions. In teaching honesty, parents must set a good example. Teach youth a respect for law and government. If we want to prove our Christianity we should live it. We should understand and accept people for what they are. People must learn to live together."

Mrs. A. E. Schleder Installed by Chautauqua Club

Mrs. A. E. Schleder was installed as new president of the Chautauqua Club Monday afternoon as the club held its final meeting of the year at a luncheon in the Flamingo Room of the Hotel Winona.

Incoming officers installed were Mrs. Schleder, Mrs. Lloyd Osborn, vice president, Miss Stella Halderson, secretary, Mrs. Norman Indall, treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Schain, historian, and Mrs. Gorman Winston, corresponding secretary. Bouquets of spring flowers centered the luncheon tables and the place cards were ornamented with pink and yellow rosebuds.

Annual reports by officers and committee chairmen featured the business meeting conducted by the outgoing president, Mrs. C. R. Kollofski. Among major projects of the Chautauqua Club over the past year was sponsorship with the Portia Club of the 12th annual conservation essay contest, and in this connection, Mrs. Kollofski read letters of commendation from the Minnesota state conservation chairman, and the national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. M. L. Spencer Sr., who served as essay chairman for Chautauqua, reported that the boy and girl who won the first district essay competition were both entrants from Winona Senior High School, the second year in a row that district winners have come from Winona.

She explained that Winona city essay winners compete with schools in ten counties that make up the Federated Club first district, and named the district winners as Sally Smith, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Smith, 622 W. King St., and Raymond P. Heyer, Dakota, Minn. Each receives an expense-paid week at Itasca State Park as a prize.

Club members voted favorably on a motion to participate as individuals in a nation-wide life-saving project to be conducted by the General Federation in cooperation with the President's committee for traffic safety June 29-30. This will involve the making of telephone calls in a personal appeal for care and courtesy in driving over the three-day July 4th weekend. In this connection, Mrs. R. N. Anderson, publicity will also be arranged. The local club is a federated club.

Mrs. Kollofski, outgoing president, was presented with a gift. She expressed appreciation to fellow members for their assistance to her during the past year.

A skit based on Lewis Carroll's "Through the Looking Glass," delighted club members on the program which followed the business meeting. Mrs. A. E. Meinert was in charge of program arrangements.

Cleverly written and costumed, the skit was well acted by students from the English department at Winona State Teachers College. David Davis was in charge of direction and costuming. Introductory remarks were made by Gene Renslow who in the part of the Mad Hatter, acted as narrator. Mr. Renslow also authored the original script.

Marcia Veir appeared as Alice, the Griffin was Robert Goetting, the Mock Turtle was played by Bob DeYoung, and Gordon Schleder played the part of Humpty Dumpty. Gordon is the son of the new president of the Chautauqua Club, Mrs. Schleder.

"Teaching responsibility to youth should begin when they are very young. If you say 'no' to a child, you should mean it."

Mr. Meyers cited an incident pertaining to his own son, David. When David was two years old and playing with a bag of spoons, he was twice asked to pick them up and come to lunch, but he kept on playing. His parents finished their meal and put David to bed, the hungry boy protesting all the while. Thereafter they did not need to tell him the second time to pick up his toys. This experience the speaker felt taught his son responsibility. He also said that this sort of teaching has paid off because David at college age has never caused his parents any trouble.

Donald Rand, 1954-1955 president of the council, presided at the dinner and the business meeting immediately following. The Rev. Harold Rektstad gave the invocation and the benediction and Eugene Sweazey led community singing with Miss Dorothy Hoffman as accompanist.

Presidents of the various PTA units in the city affiliated with the central council, gave brief reports on an important project their association carried on during the year. The attendance prize, a floral centerpiece, went to Sherman Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell also was chairman of the nominating committee assisted by Mrs. Max Steinbauer and Herbert Johnson.

Officers for the coming year installed by Lloyd Deike were: Randall, president; Mrs. S. J. Kryzsko, vice president; Mrs. Francis Farrell, secretary, and Mrs. John Forestall, treasurer.

Girl Scouts Receive Caps As Hospital Aids

Fourteen Girl Scouts were capped as volunteer hospital aids in a ceremony Monday evening in the scout rooms of Central Methodist Church.

The girls, all members of Winona's senior scout troops, troop five and the mariner scouts, have completed a 20-hour course, instructed by Mrs. Edward Valentine, and are now prepared to assume duties as hospital aids at the Winona General Hospital.

Mrs. Valentine and Mrs. George Jackson, superintendent of nurses at the hospital, officiated in the capping.

In a brief talk to the girls and their parents and friends, Mrs. Adolph Bremer, a past president of the Winona Girl Scout Council, referred to selfless service for others as "the gift without price, which enriches the giver as well as those to whom she gives it." She commended the group for their willingness to give their time, work and abilities in the service of their fellow human beings, and for their wisdom in preparing themselves to do specific tasks which will lighten the burdens of those who are professionally qualified to administer to the needs of the sick.

Sharon Lang, a senior scout, acted as mistress of ceremonies. After welcoming the group, she introduced the special guests, Mrs. R. J. Williams, president of the Winona Girl Scout Council; Mrs. Truman W. Potter, Mrs. S. J. Kryzsko, member of the Girl Scout regional committee; Miss Margaret McCready and Miss Phyllis Roney, leaders of senior troop five; Miss Mary Tripp, leader of the mariner ship; Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Valentine, and Earl Hagberg, hospital administrator.

Mr. Hagberg, in accepting the class for the hospital, stressed the importance of every task performed for the comfort of patients, no matter how small or seemingly menial the service may be. He impressed upon the girls their responsibilities as hospital aids, and welcomed them as volunteers.

Camilla Kryzsko, representing the class, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Valentine, the staff of the hospital and the program committee of the Girl Scout council, for making the hospital aid course possible. On behalf of the 14 girls, she presented Mrs. Valentine with an ornate corsage.

The girls were dressed in white uniforms which they had made themselves.

*Videotown is New Brunswick, New Jersey, a place of considerable historic background and a typical American community. It was chosen by the Cunningham and Walsh advertising agency as a laboratory for the study of the growth of television and its impact on American social habits.

The study, begun in 1948, shows that

TV had been cutting deeply into normal daily routines, except for one—newspaper reading.

Videotown TV owners spend more time with newspapers each week than before TV.

Why does newspaper reading become ever more popular? Because newspaper reading is as natural as breathing—and, so far, nothing has come along to replace either one. Matter of fact, latest U. S. circulation figures show newspapers at an all-time high of 55,072,480, up 600,000 in one year.

Nothing comes close to newspapers as America's Number One advertising medium. Advertisers placed more money in newspapers last year than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor—combined!

Trees Felled By High Wind At Independence

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special)—High winds late Monday afternoon felled a half dozen trees here halting traffic and damaging a porch roof. Slight damage to power lines cut off electricity for short periods during the evening. Striking from the south, the winds broke a large elm in the Ignatz Sobota yard dropping it across Highway 93. This and a flash flood from heavy rains in that section of town, halted traffic and made it necessary to detour. A television aerial on the Bernard Kulig home was twisted and knocked down and a power high-line connected to the Bisek Bowling Alleys building was torn loose and dropped onto the awning over the sidewalk.

Trees at the Martin Wiemer home, the Ste. Peter and Paul convent and the E. L. Brown home were blown down. At the latter, two trees yielded to the blast, one of them falling onto a porch roof. Damage was slight, according to reports.

Fountain Barn Destroyed by Fire

FOUNTAIN, Minn. (Special)—Fire destroyed a barn and its contents on the Nick Connelly farm, two miles east of here early today. Defective or inadequate wiring is believed to have been the cause. Connelly went out to milk early this morning and discovered that the power was not on. A storm yesterday had put the telephone out of order, so Mrs. Connelly went to Fountain for an electrician. As they returned they noticed the fire.

There were no cattle in the building, but a large quantity of hay was burned. It was an 80 by 40-foot structure; the loss was not estimated by noon today.

The Fountain fire department received the call about 7:15 a. m. and managed to save a chicken coop and a wellhouse which both caught fire from the barn blaze.

Housing Authority To Pay City $2,515 In Lieu of Taxes

The Housing & Redevelopment Authority of Winona will present a check for $2,515.45 to the city treasurer by the end of the month as payment in lieu of taxes during the fiscal year ending March 31. Executive Director Arthur A. Galtier has received authority from the Public Housing Administration to make the payment which represents 10 percent of the aggregate shelter rent.

Under Minnesota law, housing projects such as the 16-unit Arthur C. Thurlay Homes are exempt from real and personal and property taxes levied by any taxing body. The city will distribute the payments in lieu of taxes among the taxing bodies in the proportion which the real property taxes would have been divided if the project were not exempt.

The regulations stipulated that the local authority will make payments in lieu of taxes annually for public services and facilities furnished the project.

Divorced Wife Fatally Wounds Oklahoma Man

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Three shots from a .22-caliber pistol fired by his recently divorced wife in downtown Tulsa fatally wounded 46-year-old Ray Madison Deatherage. Police arrested Mildred Ann Barton, 44, for questioning minutes after the shooting during the evening rush hour yesterday. Deatherage died shortly before midnight.

A woman traffic officer who was on duty half a block away, took the gun from Miss Barton.

The woman told officers her former husband entered the department store where she worked and threatened her. He then demanded she leave with him. She was divorced from Deatherage in January.

As they got to the door of the store, Miss Barton said, the former oil field worker reached inside his shirt. She said he had a gun but she beat him to the draw. Detective Ed Underhill said a loaded .45-caliber pistol was found on Deatherage.

'Honor Bright' But Students Suspended

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Fifty-two honor students at Gloversville High School, nearing the end of their senior year, played hooky last Friday afternoon for a picnic at a nearby lake. They said they figured they would be kept after school a few days.

The nine boys and 43 girls yesterday were suspended for two days. Rules "apply to all students" said William E. Male, superintendent of schools.

THANK YOU WINONA!

During our Grand Opening last weekend we had the pleasure of getting to know hundreds of you folks from the Winona area. It was most heart warming to us, the number of people who stopped in and said hello.

As we promised for our opening, 40 names were picked from the hundreds who registered. These 40 names are published with this "Thank You" letter. You will be sent a personal letter within the week, and if you will stop in to see me at your earliest convenience, we have a $10 Gift Certificate for you, good at the store of your choice in Winona.

To say the least, our "Get Acquainted New Car Sale" was a huge success... so successful, as a matter of fact, that we are going to extend it through this Saturday.

We still have on hand a select number of brand new 1955 Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks that we are offering at price savings never offered before to folks in the Winona area. We also have left one company car which we are offering at a savings of $600.

And though we started business in Winona with hardly a used car, we now have some excellent ones taken in trade this past week on new 1955 Chevrolets.

Again, our heartiest thanks to all you folks who stopped in to say hello last week. To you who bought cars, I'm sure you know now that Quality Chevrolet in Winona IS "a friendly place to save."

Very cordially yours,

State Educators Back Withholding, Oppose Sales Tax

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota educators are for a state income tax withholding plan but against a sales tax as a means of raising money for schools.

This became evident Monday when the finance group of the Minnesota White House Conference on Education gave a vociferous "no" vote to the sales tax proposal and equally heavy backing to the withholding program, which failed in the last Legislature.

The votes, which represent an expression of sentiment rather than binding commitments, came as 483 delegates met to line up a state program to be presented at a national conference on education. That session will be held in Washington Nov. 28-Dec. 1.

The finance committee did go on record as favoring the diversion of 50 per cent of iron ore occupation tax receipts into current educational expenses, including those of the University of Minnesota. That money will now go into permanent state trust funds with only the interest being used.

Gov. Freeman had backed the iron ore tax diversion plan in his talk to the conferees. The sales tax proposal had come from John Cowles, Minneapolis newspaper publisher, in a speech opening the session.

The withholding proposal won approval on a motion by Frank Balcerzak, Mankato school board member who served as one of the 75-member finance group. With respect to federal aid, that group voted that it be confined to "the present program of aid for school lunches and vocational education plus offering those services which most conveniently be provided on a national basis."

The committee on organization called for, among other things, early codification of all school laws, unified districts with 12 grades under a single board, professional qualifications for county superintendents, and a minimum size of three teachers and six grades for elementary schools.

Class Day Planned At Gale Elementary

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—Special class day exercises will be held Wednesday at the Galesville elementary school, to honor 40 boys and girls completing grade school work. The exercises will be held at the school at 1:30 p. m. Parents and friends are invited.

In addition to students from Galesville, the group includes youngsters from the Frenchville, Crystal Valley and Smith districts, part of the integrated area.

Last week a guidance program was conducted at the high school for the students preparatory to their enrollment in high school. Ronald Eastman, who will be the school's new supervising principal, was in charge.

Man Pleads Guilty to Shooting at Woman

RHINELANDER, Wis. (AP)—Henry Lyannas, 46, of Lake Tomahawk pleaded guilty in Oneida County Court Monday to a charge of armed assault regardless of life. Sheriff Robert Gaber said Lyannas fired a pistol shot at Hazel Boynton while she was walking on a Lake Tomahawk street Sunday night with Edward Brunsluk.

The shot missed, Gaber said, and Brunsluk grappled with Lyannas while Mrs. Boynton seized the pistol.

Judge George Richards ordered Lyannas held under $1,000 bail.

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

Dinner Time

Bobby Lee, nine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee, 124 West Broadway, found the little gray squirrel he is feeding from a doll bottle, above, beneath a tree on the College of Saint Teresa campus. It had apparently fallen from a nest in the tree.

Bobby like all boys who bring home creatures found in the woods or outdoors, was faced with the problem of how and what to feed the baby squirrel. Family agreement was that milk was the universal food, and that a baby squirrel would live on cow's milk.

The next problem was to get a bottle for the squirrel's little mouth. A doll bottle was put to use and today, as the picture shows, the pet helps hold the bottle with its two front paws, and drinks like a little pig. His diet also includes nuts which the Lees crack and feed him. He has grown considerably since found.

Squirrels, one of more common animals, are fully protected within city and village limits the year around. Otherwise there is an open hunting season in the fall. We have red, gray, fox, and flying squirrels in this area.

Sciurus, the scientific name for squirrel, means "shadetail" and the squirrel is very proud of its tail and never forgets to keep it well groomed. A squirrel without a tail is a sorrowful looking creature and keeps pretty well out of sight.

Its sudden movements, its rapidity of action, and its ability to vanish around a tree trunk, is probably the reason that old Scandinavian legend characterized the squirrel as a messenger of the gods that carries news of what is going on to animals of the world. At least, squirrels are found over most of the earth.

Fish of the Week

Report Issued On Municipal Liquor Stores

Municipal liquor stores closer to the Iowa border, showed a larger profit than others in this area, a chart released by the Minnesota Department of Public Examiner reveals.

Stores at Caledonia, Mabel, Spring Grove and Spring Valley all did business in excess of $80,000 last year, according to the public examiner audits. Liquor sales at Stewartville, a community on Highway 63 just south of Rochester, were high for the five county area of Winona, Fillmore, Houston, Wabasha and Olmsted.

Sales at Mabel are the most spectacular. With a population of 788, it grossed $87,547 and netted a profit of $20,872. This is an on and off sale establishment a few miles from the Iowa border, a state with a sales tax and rigid liquor laws. Canton, also near the border, with a population of 459 grossed $84,457 by off sales only and netted $1,836.

R. A. Whitaker, supervisor of municipal reporting for the public examiner, stated that information for Rushford and St. Charles operations were not available as audits had not been completed.

Would-Be Paratrooper Makes First, Last Leap

NEW YORK (AP)—Seventeen-year-old William Oliver was to become a parachute trooper today. Yesterday, a group of pals teased him about his qualifications for the service as they were crossing a Harlem River bridge.

Flushed with anger, the youth vaulted a four-foot railing of the bridge, stripped off his T-shirt and kicked off his shoes. "I'll show you," he shouted. Then he plunged 180 feet into the river below.

It took an hour to recover the body.

Psychology for Children Needs Refresher Course?

CHICAGO (AP)—Maybe it's because of psychology, if parents don't get along with their children.

Or maybe the schools need a course in how to understand parents.

On the other hand, maybe it's only because of TV tray suppers.

These are suggestions offered at the 59th annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers meeting this week in Chicago.

Mrs. Bonaro Overstreet, of Mill Valley, Calif., declared yesterday parents carry too many misconceptions of child psychology, such as permitting a child to cry itself to exhaustion.

Parents, she added, also carry over too many thoughts and ideas of their own simple pasts into the complex structure of their children's present.

Her recipe for good and wholesome family living contains four ingredients for use in the home: honesty — obeying laws, telling truth and living within society's rules; work performance — to the best of one's abilities, rather than merely to get by; generous give-and-take between individuals; factual knowledge — distinguishing true facts from rumor.

Winona to Ask Federal Work On Dike Road

The City Council of Winona Monday night decided to ask the federal government to keep open the Winona Dam dike road and to maintain it.

On the basis of action taken by the aldermen, City Attorney Harold S. Streeter will direct letters to Minnesota's senators, the 1st district congressman and the Corps of Engineers, which has jurisdiction of the road.

William A. Galewski and Robert Verchota, representing the Rod & Gun Club of Winona, told the Council that for many years the Corps of Engineers has had congressional authority to develop a master recreation plan but no appropriation has even been made to implement the plan.

Verchota and Galewski urged that the Council help secure such an appropriation and that in the meantime the corps be asked to keep the road open.

To Close June 1

The St. Paul District, Corps of Engineers, has advised the city that because of local subdivision of government will assume maintenance of the road—from Latch Prairie Island Park to near Minnesota City—it will be barricaded June 1. That's a week from tomorrow.

The Winona County Board of Commissioners, Winona and Rollingstone townships and now the city of Winona all have refused to maintain it.

The city, in addition to facing a ruling that it cannot maintain a road outside its city limits, feels that if the county did assume maintenance, the city would still pay nearly 60 per cent of the costs through taxes.

The Minnesota City Boat Club has a lease to use the western end of the road. It maintains that portion.

Arthur Thurlay Homes

In other business, the Winona Housing & Redevelopment Authority asked passage of an ordinance making the Project Service Drive at the Arthur C. Thurlay Homes a no-parking zone and a one-way alley. City Engineer W. O. Cribbs said that the authority in the past has posted restrictions but has not learned that it is in the Council's jurisdiction to impose these restrictions. Aldermen agreed to pass an ordinance.

Subject to the passage of an ordinance, William F. Hart was given permission to erect an aluminum awning at Hart's Grocery Store, 474 W. Samia St.

Similar permission was given George Falk for his property at 62 and 64 E. 4th St. It will be 52 feet long. This is a revision of approval given before a fire there several months ago.

In accordance with previous agreement, the Council passed ordinances permitting installation of additional or larger underground gasoline tanks at three Standard Oil Co. service stations (East Broadway and Mankato, East 3rd and Walnut and at West 4th and Johnson streets), and permitting Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pozanc to install a 525-gallon tank.

The 419th Military Government Co. was given authority to use the 2nd street parking lot-off Center street—for training purposes last night.

Rules for use by aircraft of the Winona Municipal Airport were approved. Generally they are the Civil Aeronautics Administration regulations.

Calcium Chloride
First Ward Ald. William F. Holden recommended, and aldermen agreed, that the Minnesota Department of Highways should be asked—for at least the third year in a row—to use oil rather than calcium chloride to reduce dust from shoulders along state highways within the city. In previous years the department has replied that it did not have oil for this purpose in its maintenance budget.

First Ward Ald. Harold W. Briest said that the calcium chloride is carried on the highways and adjoining streets making the surface greasy. "It's dangerous," he said.

For the first time, the Council plans to advertise for stop signs. Agreement was reached that because of the large number needed for cross streets on West 5th street—recently made an arterial—bids should be asked. Approximate cost of each sign is $15. Bids will be asked at an early meeting.

City Council President William P. Theurer commented that the Council may have passed the arterial ordinance too soon. He said that West 5th street drivers are assuming that there will be no through cross traffic, but stop signs haven't been erected on all cross streets yet.

Club Employees Identify Austin Liquor Store

Three employees of private clubs in Albert Lea this morning identified the Bell Liquor Store in Austin as a source of supply for liquor used in their club operations during the period when Albert Lea and the rest of Freeborn County was dry.

The witnesses were called by the government this morning on the second day of the federal court jury trial of Eugene Hanf, owner of the Austin liquor store, on charges of filing false records with the Internal Revenue Service and purchasing liquor for resale at wholesale without a basic permit.

The trial of the case opened Monday morning with 11 witnesses called by Alex Dim, assistant U.S. attorney from St. Paul, up to noon today. The trial, at which Judge Gunnar H. Nordby is presiding, was resumed at 2 p.m.

Club Employees Testify

Among those on the witness stand this morning were Thomas Blacklin, manager of the Albert Lea Elks Club, and Leslie Nelson and Wallace Foley, manager and bartender, respectively, at the Albert Lea Veterans of Foreign Wars Club.

Each said that during the period from 1951 until the county went last summer liquor in wholesale quantities was purchased from the Bell Liquor Store.

Foley said that he had purchased liquor from the Austin firm since he became a bartender at the VFW club in 1950 and said that he made purchases from "whoever was there—Gene Hanf or Babe Bell."

He said that his purchases were in quantities of "maybe four cases."

During 1953, Foley testified, he placed his orders by telephone from 10 to 18 cases and the liquor was delivered by Bell, an employee of Hanf's.

Procedure Changed

Late in 1953, Foley continued in direct examination by Dim, the club manager, Nelson, instructed him to drive to Austin to pick up the liquor.

He said that he'd park the car near the liquor store, leave the keys in the car and would visit various places in Austin while Bell loaded the car with the liquor purchases.

Subsequently, Foley testified, there was another change in the procedure.

He said that the last two or three times he made purchases from the Austin firm he would drive to a spot outside of Austin where he would meet Bell.

He would then transfer the supply of liquor from his car to Foley's car, the witness explained, and they would return to the Austin firm.

Floyd W. Nichols, Albert Lea, who with C. Stanley McMahon is representing Hanf, asked whether it was right that the club purchased liquor from many sources during the period described by the bartender and Foley replied that they did.

He said that perhaps a half-dozen other persons bought liquor for the club.

Dim this morning also recalled to the witness stand Nelson who had testified previously during Monday afternoon's session.

Nelson was asked by Dim whether he had ever had any conversations with Hanf regarding the purchase of liquor at the Austin store and Nelson said that Hanf had told him that he should not keep any record of such purchases.

Nelson said that Hanf also had told him sometime about Feb. 20, 1954, that he would have to come to the store to pick up the liquor.

Before this conversation, Nelson said, deliveries of liquor had been made to the club by the store.

"During the three years prior to June 30, 1954," Dim asked, "did you personally make any purchases of liquor for the VFW club from Eugene Hanf?"

On Stand Today
Nelson replied that he had. Blacklin was the last witness called by the government Monday afternoon and he resumed his testimony this morning.

The Elks Club manager presented a book which he said contained records of purchases of liquor made for the club and identified those which he said were bought from the Bell Liquor Store.

Also introduced as evidence were checks which Blacklin testified were drawn against club funds, cashed and the money used to pay for the liquor.

Most of the purchases cited in the records were for 4 to 6 cases.

"Did you make any purchases directly from Eugene Hanf?" Dim inquired and Blacklin replied, "I can't remember if I got it directly from Hanf but I bought it at the store."

Are They Correct?
Nichols asked whether the records were completely correct and Blacklin acknowledged that several entries citing purchases from the Winona Liquor Store actually represented purchases from the Bell Liquor Store.

In answer to later questions by Nichols, Blacklin said that other members of the club had made purchases of liquor for club use and that there were several sources of supply.

"The information that you got for Exhibit 5 (the record book) was obtained from persons who made the purchases?" Nichols asked.

"Substantially," Blacklin answered.

"As far as you know you can't positively say that anyone ever purchased anything from Eugene Hanf personally," Nichols continued.

Blacklin said that he could not.

Three agents of the Internal Revenue Service also were called as witnesses for the government this morning.

They were Cyrus Sandberg, an investigator for the alcohol and tobacco tax division now stationed in Bismarck who formerly was working at Mankato.

He introduced an affidavit signed by Hanf in 1950 regarding the operation of the Bell Liquor Store.

Two other investigators, William L. Pierce, St. Louis, and Richard Buckley, Mankato, testified that they had visited Hanf and inspected records kept by him.

Each said that Hanf told him that he had made no sales in wholesale quantities at the liquor store over periods of several months with which the investigators were concerned.

Seven Witnesses Called
Dim called seven witnesses to the stand Monday afternoon before adjournment was called at 5 p.m.

One of these was D. W. Arms, Omaha, Neb., supervisor of audits in the bonded accounts division of the revenue service's regional office.

Arms described forms which all liquor dealers are required to file with the revenue service noting all sales of liquor in quantities of five wine gallons or more.

On these forms Arms said, the names of individuals or firms to whom these sales were made as well as the names of the firms from which the liquor was purchased must be recorded.

Arms testified that during the period from 1951 to July 1954, forms filed by Hanf for the Bell Liquor Store made no mention of any sales of five gallons or more.

The witness also said that in his office there was no record of instance at any time to the Bell Liquor Store of a basic permit required for all dealers who sell for resale.

In a lengthy cross-examination of the witness, Nichols inquired about the privileges afforded by the law to sell at wholesale five gallons or more for consumption by the purchaser.

Nichols asked whether any regulations as to the consumption were included in certain sections of the law and Arms acknowledged that laws that are not designated in the taxing section of the law but was covered in the code of regulations.

Liquor Supplies Called
Dim's next three witnesses were representatives of three liquor supply houses who testified as to the volume of sales to the Bell Liquor Store during 1953 and 1954.

They were Richard Stopf, St. Paul, Griggs-Cooper Co.; Emory Smith, Long Lake, Minn.; Ed Phil Phillips & Sons, and Rudolph Charney, St. Louis Park, Ebin Bros. Co.

On the stand briefly during the afternoon was Robert D. Hanson, Albert Lea, Freeborn Co., auditor, who testified that at an election May 24, 1954 the sale of liquor was authorized in the county.

The county had been dry for more than 39 years prior to the election.

Nelson, the Albert Lea VFW Club manager, testified during direct examination by Dim that during the period of 1951 to 1954 while he was manager purchases of liquor for sale to members were made from the Bell Liquor Store in Austin.

He explained that because the county at that time was dry the club could not purchase liquor from wholesale distributors but when various members would go out of the city they would buy liquor in case lots for the club.

He said that many of the purchases were made at his direction by Wallace Foley, a bartender at the club.

Introduced as evidence was a record book that Nelson said that he kept of liquor purchases—the club.

Nelson said that previously it had been the policy of the club to keep no records of liquor purchases but in 1953 he was instructed by internal revenue agents that records must be kept if the club were to hold its federal stamp.

A listing of purchases recorded in the book was read to the jury and Nelson testified that some of these were made from Hanf's store.

"When did the club first start buying from Hanf?" Dim asked and Nelson replied, "Before I came there."

The onetime club manager was asked whether he placed the orders himself. He said that he usually left the orders with the bartender.

"Did you make any purchases from Hanf?" Dim inquired.

"I couldn't be positive, it was so long ago," Nelson replied.

Store Made Some Deliveries
Asked who made deliveries of the liquor purchased, Nelson said that some of them were made by the store.

He said that he could not remember if Hanf made any deliveries personally.

Who made the deliveries, then? Dim continued.

"His employer, Mr. Bell," Nelson answered.

Nelson said that he had never seen Hanf at the club himself but he's heard that the Austin man had been there.

In cross-examination Nichols asked whether it was true that during the period when Freeborn County was dry the club had to "get its liquor from wherever it could."

Nelson said that that was right. "Isn't it true that many times you'd send different people out to other places to get what you were short of?" Nichols questioned and Nelson agreed.

"Wasn't a greater part of it picked up by members of the club?" Nichols asked.

"It's hard to set the amount, I didn't keep track of that," Nelson replied.

"You don't know then if three or

Objectors Taken Out of City's Sidewalk Job

About $8,600 work was eliminated from the sidewalk, curb and gutter project by the City Council Monday evening before awarding the contract to a Wausau, Wis., firm.

But Elmer H. Plantz, owner of Ready Mixed Concrete Co. there, said that he believes he'll be able to pick up jobs around the city on a private basis to make up for the loss. The contract price is 27 cents a square foot for new 4-inch construction (34 cents for replacement).

Aldermen eliminated every property owner who had objected at the May 16 meeting to inclusion in the contract. About 28 property owners were involved and on the basis of the contract prices, $4,837 worth of new sidewalk work was eliminated. All these sidewalks had been ordered in, officially, but by Monday night's action the Council canceled those orders.

In addition, the Council eliminated 22 other properties ($3,779) because an error was discovered in the legal notices and City Attorney Harold S. Streater said that the incorrect legal descriptions would have made the assessment procedure illegal.

Principal Areas
Principal areas affected by the reduction of the contract are the vicinity of West 5th and Lee streets, where only the east side of Lee north of 5th remains in the contract, and the vicinity of West Mark street and Gould. In addition a small area on Mankato avenue south of Mark street and other small areas were eliminated.

First Ward Situation
First Ward Ald. William F. Holden and Harold W. Briest said that some of the homes in the West 5th and Lee streets area are considerably below what would be the sidewalk grade, so as to cause hardship and great inconvenience.

When they gained three supporters to eliminate the north side of 5th west of Lee, Second Ward Ald. William S. L. Christensen moved that everyone who had objected be eliminated from the contract. He got support from all except the 1st Ward aldermen.

Ald. Christensen explained that he had made the motion because he believes that if the order is side walks in at one home then it should do the same at all the homes involved. He said that all should be treated alike.

He received support in this from Council President William P. Theurer.

Supporting the 1st Ward aldermen on eliminating the north side of 5th west of Lee were 4th Ward Ald. Joseph Karsina and 3rd Ward Ald. Howard A. Baumann. This is the area that is the easterly extension of the crushed rock walk built by the city about two years ago and is used considerably by school children.

Ald. Holden said that the property owners would be willing to pay for a crushed rock sidewalk but do not want to bring the sidewalk up to grade. It would mean a raise of between 9 inches and about 1 foot, said City Engineer W. O. Cribbs.

Property owners said that, among other things, sidewalks at this level would be a dike around their houses.

The city attorney, on inquiry of Ald. Holden, said that it would be improper for the city to conduct an assessment procedure for crushed rock sidewalk at the wrong street grade.

Truck Stolen at Rollingstone Found
The recovery of a truck stolen from its owner near Rollingstone Sunday was reported today by police.

Edmund Mullenback, a Rollingstone farmer, told Sheriff George Fort that he found that his truck was missing Sunday afternoon and that he believed an employee, Rudolph Thompson, who left the farm at about the time the truck was found missing, might be responsible for the theft.

The sheriff heard that Thompson had been seen in Winona and notified police of the description of the truck.

This morning Patrolman W. H. Wogan found the missing truck abandoned on East Wabasha street near Mankato avenue.

Sheriff Fort said that he would obtain a warrant for Thompson's arrest.

four fellows would go out and make several small purchases at several different places and accumulate a supply in several hours or so?" Nichols asked.

"No, I don't know," Nelson replied.

"Do you have any knowledge that Hanf ever sold more than two cases to one person?" Nichols continued.

"I'm pretty sure," Nelson said. "But you don't know if it was a couple of cases at a time in a period of hours?" Nichols asked.

"I don't know," Nelson answered.

Dim asked how the club paid for the liquor allegedly purchased from Hanf and Nelson said that a purchase would be made and when members returned to make another purchase from the store the liquor bought on the previous visit would be paid for.

In other words you had credit between times of purchases?" Dim asked.

Nelson said that that was right.

The name of Hell-to-Pay, Wash., founded in 1889 as a railroad camp, has evolved into Elliptia.

676 Live in 160 Arthur Thurlay Homes

The Arthur C. Thurlay Homes, Winona's low-rent housing project, has become a thriving community according to figures announced today by Director Arthur A. Gallien.

The report shows that the 160-apartment site (approximately six square blocks) had a total of 676 residents Friday.

The "census" revealed that adult male population is 129 while 151 adult females reside in the apartments. A breakdown of children living in the homes shows 210 youngsters 5 years and under, 88 between 5 and 10; 92 between 10 and 18 and 5 over 18.

Included in the statistical summary between May 20, 1954, and last Friday is the fact that 27 children have been born to families who reside in the Thurlay Homes. One resident has died.

Three of the occupants have husbands on active duty with the armed forces and six veterans with service-connected disabilities are living there. The 676 figure includes four sets of twins.

Gallien also noted that pursuant to legislation enacted during the 1955 session of the Minnesota Legislature, employees of the Housing & Redevelopment Authority now are eligible to be covered under Social Security provisions.

Forgery Charge Brought Against Lewiston Worker
Verl Ruud, 36, Lewiston, this morning was bound over to District Court on a charge of check forgery.

Ruud, who waived his right to a preliminary examination in the municipal court, was arrested by Sheriff George Fort Monday afternoon on the complaint of Ernest Anderson, Lewiston, who charged that he cashed a $10 check which Ruud had forged at Lewiston Monday.

The sheriff said that Ruud signed the name of his employer to the check.

Ruud was set at $1,000, in default of which the defendant will be confined in the county jail.

Tippling Gourmet On Restricted Diet
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—John Celich, 63-year-old resident of the Rescue Mission, says the four points of wine he drank sharpened his appetite and led to his being arraigned in District Court Monday on a charge of shoplifting from a downtown department store.

He said that he was so hungry he couldn't resist taking two cans of highest grade shrimp, a can of scallops, a canned chicken worth $5.96 and a pair of scissors he intended for opening the cans.

"You have rather expensive tastes," said Judge Robert Hansen in sentencing Celich to six months at the county jail, where the food borders on the Spartan.

SPORT SIDELITES

By Ralph Reeve

FEUDING & FIGHTING: Looks like a storm's brewing between Winona Manager Emil Scheid and Ben Sternberg, pilot of the Rochester Royals. Scheid, smarting over the 17-2 defeat handed the Chiefs by Rochester in an exhibition game here a week ago, accused Sternberg of bunting to get runs and trying to build up a score. Sternberg, when informed of Scheid's charge, replied: "I'm sorry, Emil. I'm sorry we didn't score 17 more runs." Looks like the fur will fly when the Royals and Chiefs get together this season.

Night Train

The boy who caught our eye in the Minnesota football squad scrimmage Saturday at Memorial Stadium was Dick Blakley the Negro speedster from St. Paul who scored three touchdowns. On one play particularly, when he scored a touchdown, he looked tremendous.

Floating to the left behind blockers, he saw an opening and was through there like a streak of lightning. Coach Murray Warmath has a couple of pet nicknames for Blakley.

On occasion, he calls him "Night Train," and has been known to urge the speedster on by yelling, "Go little grayhound, go!"

Dick Brown and Bob Haake of Winona played briefly in the contest. Haake at quarterback and Brown at right halfback, got in the game for the Maroons the last couple of plays in the first half and the final four minutes.

They were part of a backfield that moved the ball over 60 yards from the 2-yard line the last part of the game. Also in the act were Mac Reynolds, fullback from Pipestone, and Bobby Cox, the highly-ballooned transfer from Washington, who ran at left half.

Haake completed a pass and Brown caught one . . . It's hard to tell whether or not the Winona boys will get to see much action next year. Not in our memory has Minnesota been so well blessed with an abundance of young, big, fast-moving backfield candidates.

Nice to Win

The Winona Chiefs' victory over Austin puts them two weeks ahead of last year's pace when they dropped their first five games. It was nice for Emil Scheid's men to be able to win the opener before a home crowd of 2,070 fans.

Incidentally, Winona probably will keep the league attendance trophy since the 3,510 fans at Mankato resulted from another "giveaway" ticket promotion over yonder.

Members of the Mankato baseball group gave businessmen free tickets to give to customers in return for financial assistance in a fund-raising drive.

Fairmont drew "2,000 fans," although the exact attendance wasn't released, while some 1,200 turned out at Owatonna for the Twins' 8-7 opening victory over Albert Lea.

From the looks of first-game results, some early prognostications held true. Albert Lea, rated a power team, collected six homers although losing to Owatonna-Waseca. Rochester showed good balance in the exhibition games, and right now looks like the best team in the league.

Albert Lea's pitching looks doubtful, although its hitting attack is probably the best in the circuit. Fairmont evidently has a winner in newcomer Royal Bloxam, who blanked Faribault 1-0 on three hits.

How about the Chiefs? Well, a good pitching performance from Whitey Felker tonight at Austin would bolster that department, since Jim Lawler is a known winner in this league. Carl DeRose and Wes Rinker are still unknown commodities and newcomer Bob Umfleet, although looking good in the exhibition win over Fairmont, hasn't had enough work to be given an appraisal.

The hitting in Sunday's game was well-balanced, with seven of the nine players getting base knocks. Newcomer Bert Tracy looks like a fellow who can hit and veteran Billy Leach is off to a good start. They all look good when you win . . .

Seeks Opponents

Rollingstone, former state Class B champs and currently kingpins in the Hawatha Valley League with a 4-0 record, is seeking exhibition game opponents, either at home or away, after the first week in June, according to business manager Norm Snyder.

Managers of area teams interested in booking exhibition games with Rollingstone can either write or call Snyder at Norm Snyder's Tavern, Rollingstone—phone 2391 . . .

Sports writers in the Southern Minny picked Albert Lea to repeat as champion with 56 points on the basis of eight for first place, seven for second, etc.

Behind the Packers, in order, came: Rochester 46, Waseca-Owatonna 46, Faribault 37½, Mankato 36½, Fairmont 27½, Austin 22½, and Winona 16. The half-points resulted because the votes of Waseca's Jim Cowan and Owatonna's Lee Thielman were split in order to give each team equal representation.

Managers of the league teams were asked to participate in a similar poll, but several declined to put any ball clubs on the spot. Emil Scheid said he'd take Rochester and Albert Lea to run 1-2, with any of the other clubs having a chance to finish in the first division.

Austin's Bill Campau merely put the finger on Albert Lea as the favorite, while Jim McNulty at Fairmont listed his own club. The other five managers, however, picked them down the line, with these cumulative results:

1—Albert Lea, 2—Rochester, 3—Faribault, 4—Mankato, 5—(tie)—Owatonna-Waseca and Fairmont, 7—Austin, and 8—Winona . .

Four Winonans were awarded athletic letters at an annual banquet held recently at Hamline University. St. Paul, Jim Christensen, O. J. Fawcett, and Jim Warmack received letters for participation in swimming, while Rod Florin earned an award in football.

Jeffcoat Equals 1954 Win Record

CHICAGO (AP)—Relief pitcher Hal Jeffcoat of the Chicago Cubs can take it easy. He's already equaled his victory output of 1954. Jeffcoat has won five games without a defeat this year. In 1954, the converted outfielder finished with a 5-6 won-lost record.

Country Boy Kicks Up Heels

KANSAS CITY (AP)—There's apparently plenty of baseball life left in old Country Slaughter. Slaughter, the 39-year-old outfielder the Athletics obtained from the Yankees two weeks ago, has collected 11 hits in 25 at bats for Kansas City for a .440 average.

Giants, Yanks Get Serious

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press

It's the rump end of May and most folks are getting serious about picking a spot to spend the summer. So are the New York Giants and the New York Yankees.

Both of 'em have first place in mind.

The Yanks have come up with a six-game winning streak for a down payment on the No. 1 spot in the American League. And right now, that's the best offer anybody's made.

It's all come about in the past seven days. New York has overhauled a 2½-game Cleveland lead in that time while the Indians were fumbling along losing three of five.

In the National, the Giants haven't tried on the lead for size yet, but they've won six of seven over the past week. That's chopped three games off Brooklyn's nine-game lead. The Brooks have been playing no better than 400 ball—and they haven't been able to widen their bulge in 10 days.

Cleveland ran afoul of Detroit's Tigers, a bunch of reluctant fourth-placers, and Chicago had its troubles with the Yanks and seventh-place Kansas City. After taking two from Chicago, New York completed its move from third place by swatting Baltimore in four games.

In the National, the Giants fattened up on the slumping Pittsburgh Pirates, who have lost 11 straight, and Milwaukee, suffering from a pitching slump and Ed Mathews' appendectomy. The Cubs got their licks in against Philadelphia and Milwaukee. St. Louis barely kept the pace, losing three of four at Cincinnati after winning five straight.

Just a year ago—over the same May 16-23 week—it was Cleveland that won six straight to grab the AL lead from Chicago. And in the National, Milwaukee zoomed from sixth to a first place tie with Brooklyn by winning eight of nine.

The schedule favors continued success for the Yanks at present. The New Yorkers, still at home, have four games ahead against fifth-place Washington, then shift for three at Baltimore and two at Washington.

The Yanks get started against Washington tonight while Chicago plays at Cleveland. Detroit's at Kansas City and the Boston Red Sox, with Ted Williams still not ready for competition, are at Baltimore.

In the National, New York's at Philadelphia with the Phils' 10-23 record the only thing that's keeping Pittsburgh out of the cellar. The Bucs, who never have lost more than 11, are home to Brooklyn. St. Louis is at Chicago and Cincinnati at Milwaukee.

Millers Continue To Dominate AA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The performance of three second division teams in the American Assn. Monday jumped the Louisville Colonels from fourth place to second behind the Minneapolis Millers.

The Colonels defeated last place Charleston 8-1 in an afternoon game. Seventh ranking Indianapolis defeated Toledo 9-3, knocking the Sox from third to fourth position. Sixth place St. Paul edged past Omaha 3-2 in a protested game lowering the Cardinals to third.

The Millers continued their domination of the league by catching Denver 6-5 in 10 innings.

The same teams meet tonight. Trailing 2-1 in the bottom of the ninth, the Saints rallied for a pair off a single, Norm Larker's 1-run double and Bill Sharman's Texas leaguer.

Cardinal Manager Johnny Kane protested the game, claiming a St. Paul fan hindered catcher Dick Rand from catching a high foul.

Ramon Monzant struck out 14 Denver batters and limited the Bears to eight hits, but it was an error and balk which got the winning run on second in the 10th inning and let Wayne Terwilliger save the game for Minneapolis with a single off the left field wall.

Cotter Loses Tourney Bid

AUSTIN, Minn.—The Cotter High Ramblers, bidding for a berth in the State Catholic Tournament, were eliminated by Faribault Bethlehem in an 8-7 game in regional baseball play here Monday afternoon.

Faulty fielding again plagued Cotter as the Ramblers committed seven errors.

The Ramblers have one game left on the 1955 slate—a return game with La Crosse Quins. The game will be played Wednesday at Gabrych Park. Aquinas defeated Cotter in the first game, 14-9.

The Ramblers got off to a fast start Monday, scoring three runs in the first inning on a walk, two singles and a sacrifice fly, but Faribault came right back and tied the game up at 3-3 with a trio of tallies in the last of the first.

Faribault added another in the second again in the third to tie the game at 4-4.

However, scored two in the third and two in the fifth to lead 8-4.

The Ramblers closed the gap to 8-6 with two in the top of the sixth before the fireworks started in the seventh.

Rich Brown led off with a walk, and following a strikeout, Roger Czaplewski singled to center and Bob Hogenson followed with a long double to deep left field.

The play was a disputed one with Cotter claiming that Faribault fielders kicked the ball under the fence. The umpire ruled in a ground-rule double and only one run scored on the play.

The next two Cotter batters went out to end the game.

First baseman Jerry Wineski led the Ramblers at the plate with a single and a triple in four official times up, followed by Hogenson with a double and a single in four trips.

Giants Buy Sid Gordon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Giants, trying to build up their bench in a bid to close in on the Brooklyn Dodgers, have laid out a reported $25,000 to reclaim veteran slugger Sid Gordon from Pittsburgh.

Gordon's return to New York after five years absence was completed in a straight cash deal Monday.

In another move, the slumping Philadelphia Phillies picked up left hander Bob Kuzava from Baltimore for the $10,000 waiver price. Gordon, "glad to be home again" probably will be used as a pinch-hitter, with possible fill-in shots at third base and the outfield. He has a .286 lifetime batting average and 195 home runs for his 14-year career.

Kuzava, the 32-year-old past pro of New York Yankees World Series victories, has an 0-1 record in relief this season. He was 2-6 for the Yanks and Baltimore last season.

His departure made room for bonus pitcher Johnny Swango on the Orioles roster.

Akins Aims for Welter Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Akins, a one-time in-and-out fighter, is taking dead aim on the welterweight title now that he has five straight victories, four of them by knockouts.

The solidly built, 25-year-old St. Louis Negro stopped jolting Joey Miceli, of New York, in 2:41 of the first round on three knockdowns last night.

"No more fooling around for me," said Akins after the fight. "I got a chance to go places now and I'm going to keep in shape. That's the reason I'm going good now—clean living done it."

A new manager, St. Louis druggie Eddie Yawitz, apparently has helped Akins considerably. Yawitz is getting Akins matches where his predecessor couldn't do much for the stiff-punching welterweight. Not many name fighters wanted to mingle in the ring with Akins, who formerly was a ranking lightweight.

WILLIAMS, ZAUCHIN BELT HOMERS

'Gopher Balls' Cost Giel Win In Exhibition Against Bosox

Compiled From The Associated Press
BOSTON—Bonus pitcher Paul Giel of Winona, Minn., served up three home run pitches and it cost him a 4-3 decision at the hands of the Boston Red Sox here Monday night in an exhibition game scheduled for the benefit of hospitalized veterans in New England.

Giel, the New York Giants right-hander who was signed for $50,000 from the University of Minnesota, gave up seven hits, walked four and struck out one in the game which was called after six innings. The exhibition marked the return to baseball of the Red Sox's all-time great hitter, Ted Williams.

The 36-year-old slugger, making his first competitive appearance of the season, belted a 395-foot homer deep into the right field seats Monday night and he received a tremendous ovation from the crowd of 24,323 fans.

"It's good to get started again," said a weary Williams after retiring from the game following his towering circuit clout as leadoff man in the last of the third inning.

"My legs still feel like lead and I want to work on them for about another week, but I guess my hitting is okay," he added.

On his first trip to the plate as the Sox No. 3 man in the first inning, Williams took three straight outside pitches for balls from Giel, then swung on the 3-0 pitch and sent a high fly to deep shortstop.

Norm Zauchin, lanky Boston first baseman, put the Red Sox ahead 2-0 in the first inning by belting a homer into the left field screen, scoring Grady Hatton, who had walked ahead of him. Williams' homer in the third was followed by another Zauchin blast in the fifth which connected again on a fast ball by Giel and drove it far over the high screen atop the left field wall for what proved to be the winning run.

The Giants tallied twice in the second on three walks and an error, and added their third run on a homer by Bill Taylor in the sixth.

Pitching for Boston was bonus rookie Dave Sisler, son of the great George Sisler, who was granted an Army leave to pitch in the game. Sisler had a 12-7 record two years ago while with Albany in the Eastern League and after getting out of the Army in six months, will rejoin the Red Sox next season.

Sisler allowed four hits, walked four and struck out one. Giel will get another chance to pitch in June when the Giants have an exhibition game scheduled against their Minneapolis farm team, currently leading the Class AAA American Association.

LOSES EXHIBITION . . . Paul Giel, Winona bonus pitcher with the New York Giants, was a 4-3 loser to the Boston Red Sox in an exhibition game Monday night at Boston against the Red Sox. The former Winona High and University of Minnesota star was nipped for a homer by Ted Williams and two circuit clouts by Norm Zauchin, to account for all of Boston's runs.

Major League Attendance Pace Ahead of 1954

NEW YORK (AP)—Major League baseball attendance is running ahead of last year after a slow start that had the owners wondering where the fans had gone.

An Associated Press survey of attendance figures today showed both of baseball's big leagues ahead of their 1954 pace. The latest figures reveal an increase of almost 80,000 with the American League up 74,000 thanks to Kansas City's new Athletics.

The big leagues have attracted 3,623,401 customers as compared with 3,543,415 in as many games a year ago.

Kansas City's fans, acting as though they haven't had major league ball in 69 years (and they haven't) are supporting the A's—but good. With 321,157 paid-tops in the American League—the A's in 15 home dates, already, have surpassed their entire 1953 season's total in Philadelphia of 304,668.

Milwaukee, which led both leagues in attendance last season while setting a National League record of better than 2,130,000, again is setting the pace. The Braves have played before 451,524 people, a gain of more than 90,000. Cincinnati is almost 15,000 ahead, Philadelphia almost 9,000, Pittsburgh 4,000, Baltimore 3,000 and Cleveland 9,000.

The Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants still have attendance worries. The Red Sox are approximately 74,000 off their '54 pace, but they'll soon have the services of Ted Williams in league play. The White Sox trail by 51,000, the Cards by 38,000 and the Giants by 28,000. The Giants, however, figure to knock off their deficit in their crucial three-game set with Brooklyn this weekend.

Redmen, Warrior Baseball Teams Scheduled Today

St. Mary's College plays its final game in the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference this afternoon at St. Thomas and Winona State plays a nonconference game tonight at La Crosse.

St. Mary's leftfielder Joe Shrake, who defeated St. Thomas 2-0 on five hits earlier this season at Terrace Heights, is expected to get the starting assignment for Coach Max Molock's Redmen today.

The Redmen go into the game tied for second on an 8-3 record with St. Thomas, a game behind St. John's league-leading 9-2 mark. Should the Redmen win today and St. John's lose to Hamline today, the St. Mary's team and St. John's would tie for the title with the same records they shared the crown last year.

Jerry Grebin will be Winona State's starting pitcher tonight at La Crosse and attempt to avenge a 4-0 loss suffered by the Winona Peds to La Crosse earlier this year at Winona.

Also scheduled today is competition for Winona High's track team in the Big Nine meet at Fairbault. Coach Ed Spencer's Winhawk baseball team opens its district Three tournament bid Wednesday afternoon at Lewiston in a 3:30 p.m. game against St. Charles and Cotter High hosts La Crosse Aquinas in the season finale here at Gabrych Park Wednesday.

Felter Scheduled To Oppose Austin

Emil Scheid's Winona Chiefs attempt to notch victory No. 2 tonight and the second in a row against Austin when they invade Marcusen Park, Austin, for an 8 p.m. Southern Minny contest against Bill Campau's Austin Packers.

Other Southern Minny games scheduled tonight find Mankato at Rochester, Fairmont at Fairbault and Waseca-Owatonna at Albert Lea.

Winona, which beat Austin 5-3 in the league opener here before 2,070 fans Sunday at Gabrych Park, currently shares first place in league standings with Fairmont, Rochester and Waseca-Owatonna.

Fairmont beat Fairbault 1-0 Sunday on Royal Bloxam's three-hitter. Waseca-Owatonna handed Albert Lea an 8-7 setback despite six homers by members of Bill Ankoviak's Packers, and Rochester won a 12-inning 9-8 game at Mankato.

Nominated by Scheid to hurl for the Chiefs tonight is Whitey Felter, the right-hander who won over 50 games at Sleepy Eye in the Western Minny in a six-year career before coming to Winona this spring.

Felter has looked good in exhibition games thus far. His last stint was in Winona's 6-2 victory over Fairmont last Thursday. He pitched six innings, was credited with the victory while allowing only one run and two hits.

The rest of Winona's lineup will probably be the same as last night's against Austin—Bill Leach, catcher; Al Radsavage, first base; Don Miller, second base; Emil Nasack, shortstop; Stan Sharkey, third base; Ernie Senter, left field; Bert Tracy, centerfield; and Sid Langston, right field.

Campau is expected to use righthander Lou Ciola on the mound. Ciola, regarded as the mainstay of the Packers pitching staff, started poor ball in Klamath Falls, Philadelpha A's.

He also pitched in the Piedmont, Western League, Texas League and International League. He posted a 14-5 record at Omaha in 1953 and 1954. He turned down a contract at Omaha this year to join Austin.

His pitching equipment includes a good fast ball, curve, slider and knuckler. He's rated a good hitter for a pitcher.

Following tonight's game at Austin, the Chiefs play Fairmont in a pair of home-and-home games, traveling to Fairmont Thursday night and returning to Winona for a Sunday afternoon game against the Martins.

Jack Triplett, hustling Chiefs flycatcher of 1954, is expected to arrive in town Thursday from Marion, N. C., where he is a teacher and coach in the high school.

The addition of Triplett for the Thursday and Sunday games against Fairmont will bolster the Chiefs.

Participating in 36 games last season, Triplett batted .326 with 47 hits in 144 times at bat. He had 10 doubles, 1 triple and 6 homers and drove in 25 runs, second in the Chiefs squad last year in that department to Radsavage who had 47 RBIs and a .351 average.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGUM, D. S.

Answer to Question No. 1
1. No. Science writer John Gibson shows in a leading magazine that three times as many men as women commit suicide over lost love. Also, far more murder for "love" (not true love, but insane jealousy). Curiously, young men usually murder their rivals, while older men take it out on the woman. So, girls, size up the age of your boy friend before breaking off with him. I'm warning you.

Answer to Question No. 2
2. No. You never knew what she said. You weren't interested in it. The first law of memory is interest. You rarely remember what you are not interested in. But, if your wife had leveled a gun at you and said she would use it if you forgot a single item—you would have remembered the list until kingdom come. Our booklet, "How To Improve Your Memory," will help. Nonprofit, 15c (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send to Dr. A. E. Wiggum, in care of The Winona Daily News.

Answer to Question No. 3
3. True. I knew Lester, "the worst boy" in a California town. He could not be taught by usual methods to read his own name. The late Grace Fernald—the greatest teacher of reading in the world—taught him to read, and he soon became the "best boy" in that town. He now holds a big job. There are many "Lesters." For self-addressed, stamped postal I will tell you about her book on how to teach your boy or girl to read.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggly thought that Frisky, the baby circus elephant, was very kind. Frisky was kind because, after running away from the circus where he worked at doing funny tricks, he had stopped at the hollow stump bungalow to invite Mr. Longears to play checkers.

But, as it was too late in the evening to start a game, Frisky scurried off to sleep in the woods until morning. Then a mysterious noise had sounded in Nurse Jane's kitchen pantry. Buster said it was a time bomb left by the fox, the wolf or the bobcat who had sneaked into Uncle Wiggly's bungalow. But they had been thrown out by Frisky.

Bunty, the orphan rabbit, said it was silly of Buster to say the mysterious pantry noise was a time bomb.

"Just you wait—you'll find out!" answered Buster.

Then, Frisky did another kind deed. He came back to the bungalow to ask Uncle Wiggly whether the rabbit gentleman wanted to play with red or black checkers in the game tomorrow. Mr. Longears gave Frisky first choice and the elephant selected red checkers.

Then Nurse Jane asked if Frisky could tell what was causing the mysterious noise in the kitchen pantry.

"I will look!" promised the elephant.

"How can you?" Uncle Wiggly wanted to know. "It is very kind of you to offer to look, Frisky, but how can you? My bungalow is much too small for you to get in. And you would have to be inside the bungalow to hear the mysterious noise."

"No, I will not need to come inside," trumpeted the elephant.

"How else can you listen to the noise and tell us what it is?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Is there a window to your kitchen pantry?" asked Frisky.

"Yes, there is a back window," replied the muskrat lady.

"Then just open the window," said Frisky. "I will walk around to the back of the bungalow. I will put my trunk in through the window. My trunk, to me, is like a paw, a foot or even an ear. I can feel with it and I can hear with it. I do not need to see the noise. I will just listen to it with my trunk stuck in through the open window."

"That sounds to me like a very clever idea," said Uncle Wiggly. "I wish you could find out about the mysterious noise, Frisky. Then we could all have our supper and go to bed."

"And we can play checkers tomorrow," suggested the elephant. "We surely can!" promised Uncle Wiggly. "I will go in the kitchen pantry, Frisky, and open the window for you."

"While you are in the pantry," said Nurse Jane, "please listen to the noise, Uncle Wiggly. Perhaps you can solve the mystery yourself."

"I shall try!" promised the rabbit gentleman.

"I am going now to tramp around to the back of the bungalow and meet you at the pantry window," promised Frisky. "You will be inside and I will be outside, but we shall meet, just the same, Uncle Wiggly."

"Right you are," answered Mr. Longears.

While Nurse Jane and the others waited inside the bungalow, Uncle Wiggly hopped toward the kitchen pantry. Outside could be heard the shuffling, big feet of the baby elephant, walking around to the back of the bungalow. Pat Butter, the goat gentleman grocer, who was also in the bungalow, reached in one of his pockets.

"Don't you take out a piece of Swiss cheese and start eating it!" warned Nurse Jane.

"Why not?" bleated the goat.

"Because you might make such a racket biting into some of the cheese holes that Frisky couldn't listen to the mysterious pantry noise with his trunk," went on Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Very well," agreed Mr. Butter. "I will not eat any cheese until this mystery is solved."

Uncle Wiggly opened the pantry window, he could hear the mysterious noise like the ticking of a large clock. Frisky thrust his trunk in through the open window. He moved his trunk around and around. Then he suddenly whispered:

"I know what that noise is! I have found out!"

You may find out in tomorrow's story if the rubber band around the bundle of papers will play a jolly tune so the lead pencil may dance with the fountain pen.

Counting the jobs in industries providing road building materials, the increased jobs in 1960 would total 1,000,000.
