Stalled Polio Inoculations Ready to Roll

Manufacturers Accept Controls By Government

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The stalled antipolio inoculation program showed signs today of getting set to roll again, perhaps next week. U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele, in a burst of optimism, said late yesterday the program may yet reach its immediate goal—completion of second shots of the Salk vaccine for nine million schoolchildren before the late summer peak of the polio season. A third "booster" shot also is contemplated, but this would not come until seven months later. Scheele said at a news conference it appeared "quite certain" that some vaccine supplies—held back for nearly three weeks for extra safety checks—would be released next week. He said Public Health Service approval of further supplies would follow "progressively thereafter."

Earlier, he had told the House Commerce Committee he was "very optimistic" now and that he expects the inoculations to "go forward rapidly" after new vaccine releases.

Acceptance by six vaccine manufacturers of tighter production and testing standards cleared the way for resumption of the mass immunization of first and second-graders. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is paying for the shots.

The revised standards, mostly technical in nature, were described by Dr. James Shannon as providing for more heat to kill any live virus, and for "more frequent testing, more sensitive testing than has been the requirement up to now."

Shannon, assistant director of the National Institutes of Health, said the stiffer requirements—worked out by a committee of scientists—now contain a "safety factor that was not there before."

One new requirement, he explained, involves tests after the vaccine has been poured into dispensing bottles ready for shipment. This is designed to make certain no living polio virus has gotten in after other tests.

The additional testing safeguards, Scheele and Shannon said, should not add very much to production time after the program gets going full blast.

Scheele, who heads the Public Health Service, said the vaccine expected to be cleared next week would be supplies already distributed, but frozen when the inoculations were halted three weeks ago for safety rechecking after some youngsters who had received shots came down with polio.

Arizona Senator Sees Conservative Trend in U.S. Too

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today he believes the same trend toward conservatism demonstrated by the Tory gains in England's election Thursday will be paralleled by a Republican victory here in 1956.

But Sen. Ervin (D-NC) contended in a separate interview that there is "no connection" between the return to office of the Eden government and is happening politically in this country.

Goldwater, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said that while he can't put his finger directly on it, he senses "a conservative trend all across the country."

"It is reflected here in the attitude being taken by the laboring people toward the issues of the day," he said.

"They are property owners with a big stake in the kind of economic stability this administration has brought to the country. They want no half-baked leftist schemes such as have been proposed in the past."

Asked if he thought President Eisenhower would be a candidate again to carry forward his "progressive-moderate" program, Goldwater replied with a grin: "We're working on that."

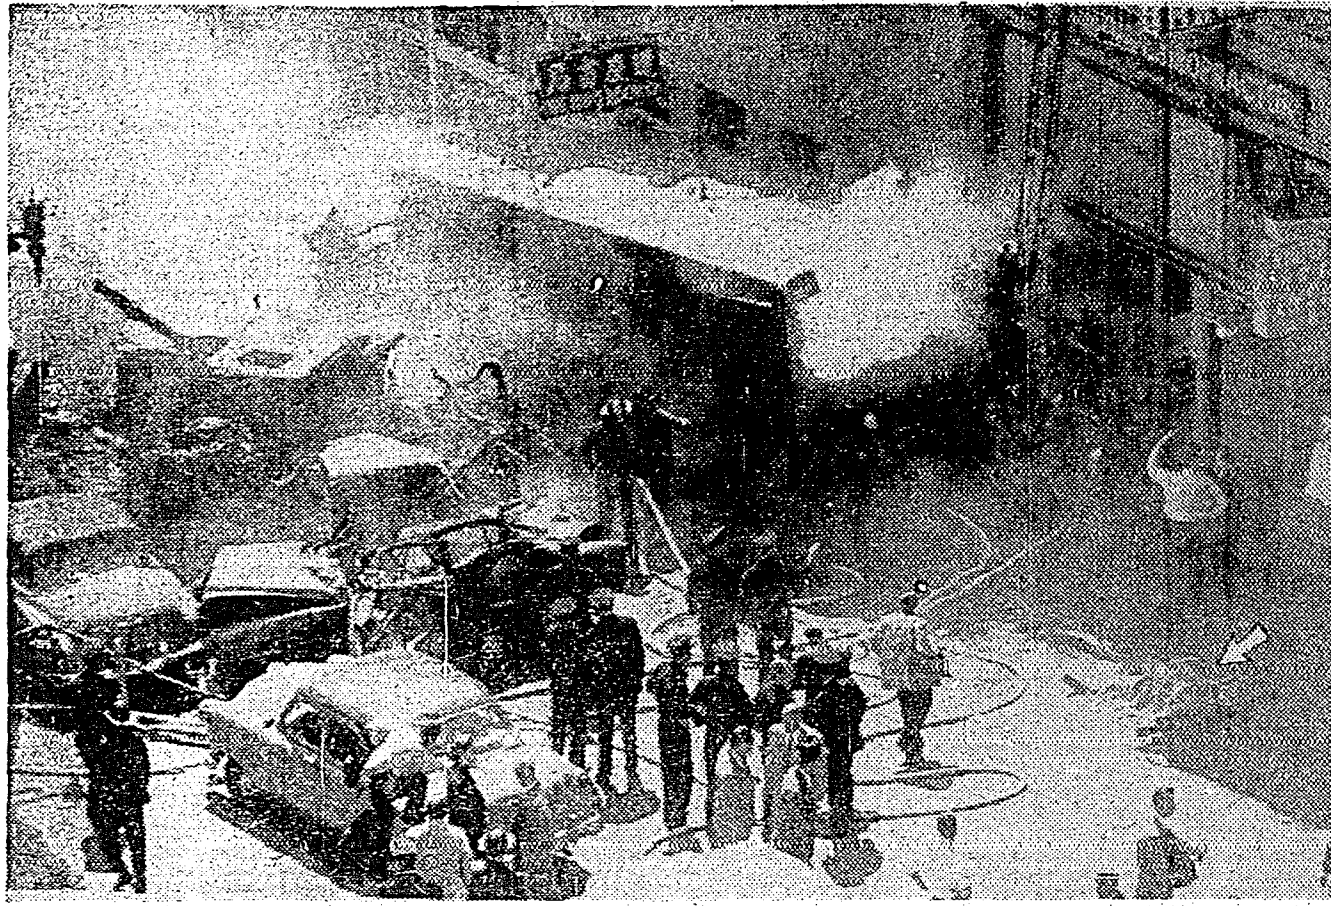

Conceding that Eisenhower is "still very popular," he said he thinks the Democrats can beat him "if we can get a candidate all elements of the party can support."

Live Chinchilla Missing From Hotel

NEW YORK (AP)—A live chinchilla is reported missing from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Mrs. Dorothy Marshall, of Glen Head, N.Y., took a room at the hotel to show the female animal—valued at $3,600—to a prospective customer.

When she left her room last night, she told police, the chinchilla was in a carrier. Returning about 20 minutes later, she said, the cage was open and the animal was gone.

Newly-Elected Eden Tackles Rail Strike

LONDON (AP)—Buoyed by their smashing electoral triumph, Prime Minister Eden and his key Conservative ministers sought ways today to avert the chaos expected to follow a threatened nationwide rail strike.

Even as the last results of Thursday's election were being counted, thousands of Britons rushed by train from London and other cities to the seashore for their annual three-day Whitsun weekend. The holidaying families ignored the prospect that the nationalized rail lines may be operating only a skeleton service after midnight tonight.

Eden's government faces the task of keeping essential supplies moving and somehow easing the confusion when these people try to get back to their homes and jobs Monday night.

In thanking the nation for the votes which confirmed him in office with a tripled majority in the House of Commons, Eden warned last night that "industrial disputes... are already causing us great concern."

The 70,000 railwaymen rejected as "too late" an offer made yesterday by the Labor Ministry to set up a conciliation board to hear the dispute. Union Secretary J. G. Baty said, "I think a strike is inevitable."

Eden met with Cabinet ministers last night in a 70-minute emergency session on the strike crisis.

The crisis clouded the joy the Tories felt at their election victory—a triumph that broke the near political deadlock between Britain's two main political parties by giving Eden a commanding hold on Parliament.

Unlike the 1951 balloting, the Conservatives also got a larger share of the popular vote—a factor that strengthens their mandate to speak for Britain at home and abroad.

With results from only 2 of the 630 races still to be announced, the Conservatives gained an assured overall majority of 57 in the new House of Commons. Their old margin was a slim 17.

The two still outstanding results—to be announced later today—are from districts that are usually heavily Conservative. They are expected to up the final majority figure to 59.

The election standings with 628 of 630 races counted were:

Conservative and allied parties	343 (net gain 16)
Liberal 5
Others 2 (net loss 1)
The speaker (nonparty 1)
The aggregate vote from the 628 districts was:
Conservative	13,313,303 (49.84 per cent)
Labor	12,393,125 (46.39 per cent)
Liberal	710,647 (2.66 per cent)
Others	295,772 (1.11 per cent)

Not since the Labor sweep of 1945 has a party won so conclusively in Britain.

Jap Court Sentences GIs for Assault, Theft

YOKOHAMA (AP)—A Japanese court sentenced two U.S. Army privates yesterday to seven and four years at hard labor on charges of assaulting and robbing a Japanese taxi driver.

Pvt. Paul A. Lesperance, 20, Woonsocket, R.I., was sentenced to seven years. Pvt. Richard W. Haviland, 19, Stamford, Conn., was sentenced to four years.

The recorder and tapes disappeared from Briskier's Park Avenue office early in the week. Said the doctor:

"I have the sounds of very unusual conditions, some of which I may never hear again."

On the four reels were the sounds of rheumatic hearts, hyper-sensitive hearts, blue-baby hearts, heart beats of unborn children and hearts with defective valves.

Udall Planning To Rebuild Its Flattened City

UDALL, Kan. (AP)—New tornadoes hopping around Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma sent some jittery residents ducking for cover again last night as the rebuilding of this flattened town began.

The third straight day of tornado activity which has left at least 114 dead and more than 700 injured in four states was accompanied by severe thunderstorms, heavy rain and hail in some areas.

A rash of menacing twisters broke out but there were no reported deaths or serious injuries. Most of the property damage was minor. Many funnels failed to hit the ground.

The first new building—a 40x80-foot frame structure to serve as a government and communications center—went up yesterday in Udall, where at least 73 were killed and more than 200 were injured by a tornado Wednesday night.

Relief help poured into the community. Workers from surrounding towns and representatives of relief agencies teamed up with the National Guard.

"We're going to rebuild," said Mayor Earl B. Rowe, "although we'll have to start from scratch."

Gov. Fred Hall of Kansas visited Udall and said "There's certainly no defeatism here."

Tents were set up as headquarters for various relief agencies. Bulldozers closed in behind hoisted cranes, sweeping up the wreckage as the cleaning-up work picked up speed and the search for other possible victims continued.

An estimated 500 persons were still missing here but it is believed many of these might be living with other people.

The Red Cross reported 170 homes were completely wrecked in Udall, 18 were so damaged they are not livable and will have to be razed; and only one was relatively unscathed. Only three business and public buildings were not leveled and these three are unusable.

Boy Riding Horseback Killed as Saddle Slips

MEDFORD, Wis. (AP)—A 9-year-old Taylor County boy was killed Friday when the saddle on the horse he was riding became detached and slid under the animal.

Allen Louis Wedin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wedin of the town of Grover, died of a broken neck en route to Medford Hospital. Two companions with whom he was riding on the highway about 12 miles west of here said a strap on the saddle had broken a few minutes earlier and Allen had tried to fix it. He fell to the pavement when the saddle slipped.

Tito Reported Turning Down Russian Offer

Wants Talks Kept Strictly on Governmental Level

By LYNN HEINZERLING
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito reportedly turned down a Russian bid for closer party ties between his independent Communist nation and the Soviet Union. He is said to have demanded that the current Soviet-Yugoslav talks here be carried on strictly on a governmental plane.

Tito beamed with self-confidence but Russian delegates were grim today as the second day of the talks opened. Informed sources said the sour Soviet looks could be due to the speed with which the Yugoslav President rejected their efforts to win him back to the Kremlin fold.

The sources said Tito voiced his stand in a speech to the conference yesterday. He was quoted as telling the Russian delegates he had agreed to their coming to Belgrade on the understanding that the talks would be purely governmental.

The remarks apparently were aimed particularly at Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party boss, who took a "Dear Comrade" approach in appealing to Yugoslavs for closer political relations. Khrushchev holds no office in the Soviet government but Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Deputy Premier Anastase I. Mikoyan accompanied him here.

Tito apparently saw in Khrushchev's appeal an effort to lure him back into the Cominform. Yugoslavia was expelled from the international Communist group in 1948 and Tito has sworn he would never return.

Mill City Barman Robbed of $1,600

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Police today hunted a hold gunman who grabbed more than $1,600 from a bartender in a daylight robbery Friday.

Paul E. Roslin, 34, just returned to Boyd's Bar, 622 Plymouth Ave., from a bank and parked his car.

Immediately, a man holding a small pistol appeared at the left side of the machine. He was partially masked with a green handkerchief held to his face.

"Give me that money," he told Roslin.

After the bartender complied, the intruder warned him to lie down on the front seat and stay there five minutes.

Disobeying, Roslin raised his head in time to see the back end of another car leaving the parking lot. The holdup man was described as stockily built, about 45, and wearing a dark raincoat and baseball cap.

Gov. Williams Buries Party Loyalty Hatchet

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, one of those who demanded party loyalty oaths from Southern delegates during the 1952 Democratic National Convention, has buried the hatchet.

"The party loyalty issue is a dead duck as far as I am concerned," he told an interviewer yesterday. "I'll assume that delegates to the next Democratic convention are Democrats or they wouldn't be there."

At least he didn't steal home plate.

The choir currently is directed by his son, Olaf Christiansen.

Rochester Man Killed When Car Goes Off Highway

2 Others Dead in State Mishaps; Drivers Warned of Wet Highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three highway fatalities in Minnesota, including one near Rochester, got the long three-day Memorial weekend off to a bad start in Minnesota today. Heavy showers made driving hazardous in many sections of the state and authorities cautioned drivers to take it easy.

Edward Joseph Lanigan, 26, Rochester, was killed when his car failed to make a curve in Highway 14 west of here and hit a driveway grade.

Lanigan's car sheered off a 15-inch telephone pole and struck a rock pile. The engine and transmission were found 125 feet from the car body. Lanigan was employed in Fairbault by an air conditioning firm.

A 35-year-old Minneapolis man was killed in front of his home early today when crushed against his automobile by a second car that failed to make a slight turn in the street.

Driver Booked
Dead was Louis E. Gitchell. Police arrested Douglas E. Lewis, 24, driver of the second car, on a charge of drunken driving. He was held for action by the county attorney's office after being treated for cuts and bruises.

Mrs. William Giebler, 75, St. Paul, died in a St. Paul hospital Friday night several hours after her husband's car and a truck collided in rural Hennepin County. Giebler, 73, was injured. James Shaw, Worthington, driver of the truck was not injured.

The deaths raised Minnesota's traffic toll for the year to 190 compared with 239 at this time a year ago.

Wisconsin Mishaps
Two were killed in Wisconsin. At Ft. Atkinson Richard Tutton, 19-year-old Whitewater College student, died today of injuries received Friday when his car collided with a milk truck on Highway 59 while he was en route home to Palmyra for the weekend.

Critically injured was Catherine Congdon, 19, also of Palmyra. At Marinette the body of an airman hurled into the Menominee River Thursday night when his motorcycle struck an abutment of the interstate bridge on U.S. Highway 8 was recovered about 100 feet downstream today.

The dead man was Airman 2-C Robert Dean, 23, of Gowanda, N.Y., who was en route from his home to Fairchild AFB near Spokane, Wash.

A school teacher in Milwaukee was hit by a brackless truck when she remained in a Milwaukee street to hurry 35 school children to safety.

Mrs. Ruth Kuhlman, 49, a teacher at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran School, suffered a fracture of the right leg and internal injuries Friday. None of the children was injured.

Mrs. Kuhlman was in the center of a street stopping traffic as the children, most of them 8-year-olds, crossed to the school's playground. When she realized that an oncoming truck was not slowing down she shouted to the children to run for the sidewalk.

As she hurried some stragglers, the truck, driven by Harry Melka, 45, Milwaukee, struck her. Melka was named in warrants charging him with driving a truck with defective brakes and failure to yield a pedestrian the right of way.

The count of deaths in accidents rose slowly across the nation today while millions got started on their long Memorial Day weekend.

Since 6 p.m. local time Friday fatalities numbered 32 in traffic, 5 by drowning and 5 in the miscellaneous class. The total at 9 a.m. was 42.

The first holiday of the warm season is expected to put millions of cars on the roads. Rain areas in the central section of the United States may have held down the traffic volume in the early part of the day at least.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 360 persons will lose their lives in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period ending at midnight Monday. The record traffic death toll for a three-day Memorial Day holiday was 363 in 1952.

The council has estimated that on the highways during the holiday weekend and urged extreme caution.

Pres. Eisenhower also urged all Americans to "take maximum care for safe driving" over the weekend and during the rest of the summer.

There were 362 persons killed in traffic mishaps in the three-day holiday last year. Ninety-three others drowned and 84 were killed in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 539.

Work Rushed On Big State Oil Refinery

By JACK B. MACKAY

ST. PAUL (AP) — Construction of the 25,000 barrel-a-day refinery at Pine Bend, 12 miles south of St. Paul is "on schedule" toward the target date of Aug. 1 for launching operations.

Taking advantage of Minnesota's continued warm weather this spring, 800 construction workers are rushing to completion the state's largest oil refinery operation.

Barring unforeseen developments processing of the first crude oil is expected to get under way early in August, according to Malcolm T. McCants, plant superintendent for the Great Northern Oil Co.

Full capacity of production is expected to be reached after several weeks of testing.

The refinery, sprawling over a 90-acre site in Dakota County, is being constructed by the Fluor Corp., Ltd., Los Angeles, one of the nation's top refinery firms. The plant represents one of Minnesota's largest single industrial projects in recent years.

McCants said that crude oil for the operation will come from the Fosterfield fields in southwestern Saskatchewan. The Inter-Provincial Pipeline Co. will carry it from Regina, Sask., to Gretna, Man.; the Lakehead Pipeline Co. will carry it from there to Clearbrook, Minn., and the Minnesota Pipeline Co. will carry it from Clearbrook to Pine Bend.

Products will include gasoline, fuel oil, propane, butane, petroleum coke and sulphur, with all distribution going into the Minnesota market. Most of the products will be sold to Socony-Mobile Oil Co. under a long-term contract.

Office personnel moved into a new building on the site several weeks ago. The company is now in the process of securing its technical and operating personnel and by the time it swings into production it will reach a total work force of 200.

Reds Claiming New Process of Making Petroleum

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio claimed today that the (Communist) Chinese Academy of Sciences has developed a new process of making synthetic petroleum which increases the yield 50 times from the same equipment.

The broadcast did not say so, but the Chinese Reds operate synthetic plants in Manchuria built by the Japanese before World War II to make gasoline from vast coal resources there.

The broadcast, heard here, said academy researchers in four years of experimentation have found how to use iron instead of cobalt as the catalyst in the process which extracts hydrocarbons from coal and re-forms them into those of petroleum which can be refined into gasoline.

Badger Legislators Pondering How to Raise $30 Million

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's legislators went home Friday pondering the problem of how to raise nearly $30,000,000 more to run the state the next two years than for the two years now ending.

Gov. Walter Kohler told them in a joint session of the Assembly and the Senate Thursday that he thought they should boost cigarette taxes one penny a pack and tap state income tax payers with a 20 per cent surtax. That means that Wisconsin citizens would take 20 per cent of whatever their state income tax would be after figuring it up and add it on.

Kohler said the state would require 270 million dollars in the next two years as compared with 242 million in the current biennium.

Without debate, the Assembly voted by voice to pass a bill introduced by Assembly Speaker Catlin (R-Appleton) to clarify the law regarding sale of beer to minors.

National Security Medal Awarded to J. Edgar Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Friday awarded the National Security medal to J. Edgar Hoover, for 31 years of "brilliant leadership in a position of great responsibility" as chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

President Eisenhower pinned the medal to Hoover's lapel at a ceremony at which Hoover was praised for devotion to "the highest ideals of federal law enforcement."

Members of the President's cabinet and other top administration officials witnessed the presentation in the White House rose garden.

The National Security medal was created by President Truman, by executive order, on his last day in office, Jan. 19, 1953. The only other recipient has been retired Gen. Walter Bedell Smith for his work as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

He was awarded the medal for his work as director of the Central Intelligence Agency, sold to persons between the ages of 18 and 21 anywhere in the state except in those communities which adopted special local ordinances that require a minimum age of 21.

Simultaneous Pay For Vets Illegal Under Federal Laws

Veterans training under the Korean GI Bill may not draw GI unemployment and GI training pay at the same time, since simultaneous use of the two GI benefits is illegal, the Veterans Administration said today.

Even though a veteran is not working while taking Korean GI Bill training, he still would not be eligible for the unemployment allowances.

Unemployment payments are limited to Korea veterans actively looking for work, who are not receiving GI training benefits.

Unemployment pay—administered by the U. S. Department of Labor through the states—may range up to $26 a week for a maximum of 26 weeks.

GI training allowances—handled by the VA—range from $110 to $160 a month, for veterans in school full-time. Lower monthly rates are paid to part-time trainees, and to veterans training on-the-job or on-the-farm.

France Clamps New Controls On Cameroons

PARIS (AP) — France clamped a tight police grip on its Central African trust territory of the Cameroons last night after five days of demonstrations and clashes in which nine persons died.

Reports reaching Paris from the territory, which France administers for the U.N., said at least 80 persons were wounded. Many others have been arrested.

The Cameroons trouble came as French officials mapped urgent moves to cope with spreading terrorist activities in France's North African possessions — particularly Algeria and Morocco.

Nationalist bands were roaming the Algerian Mountains, defying French troops, and terrorists were striking down victims even in the heart of the big cities of both Algeria and Morocco.

In the Cameroons, outbreaks were reported in Yaounde, the capital, Lom, Ngonkamba, Bafoussam, Foumban and Edou, in addition to Douala. The opening clash in the port city began when demonstrators attached to the Communist-dominated Cameroons Peoples' Union attacked a police post held by French and African guards. One of the African guards died of injuries.

New disorders flared Monday and Tuesday. In a clash with armed demonstrators Tuesday, police opened fire killing four and wounding 20 others.

Haslerud Fund Over $2,300; Thanks Sent

Gullickson Says They'll Take Care Of Grandchildren

One hundred and twenty-five additional contributions pushed the Robert Haslerud Fund over the $2,300 mark today.

Included in today's mail was an anonymous donation of $40 from Lake City, more than $50 from employees at the Lake Center Switch Co., Winona, and a letter of gratitude from Gilbert Gullickson, father of the 26-year-old mother of four small children who died as the result of an explosion at his farm home.

Exact figures for today: $2,309.30, from 860 total listings.

These figures — The Daily News' appeal to its readers — supplemented by an additional $698 raised by Haslerud's Fillmore County friends. (See story on Page 13.)

Letter From Father

Gilbert Gullickson wrote, "We have noticed in The Daily News that a lot of people would like to help with our grandchildren and we thank everyone for being so kind."

"We have the children all here at our home, (Whalan) where they've been most of their lives. I stayed (at the hospital) with my daughter most of the time until she died and she asked me to take care of them. I promised her I would."

"The children will be with me as long as God will permit me to take care of them and I will."

"So far, a home they have; but we would be glad to have help for other things."

"We want to thank the Winona newspaper and all contributors for all you've done. Sincerely, Grandpa and Grandma Gullickson."

Gullickson added that it was Trygve Dybing, a neighbor, who kept their home from burning down after the shed explosion that took the life of Mrs. Haslerud and expressed his gratitude for that action.

Haslerud's wife died in a Rochester hospital three days after she suffered second and third degree burns on more than half of her body.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ressee, Lewiston, wrote today, "We hope our contribution will help in some small way. We also have four children so we know how much money it takes to keep a family going."

Baraboo Donation

A letter, accompanied by a cash donation, from Mrs. Orville Nelson, Baraboo, Wis., said, "I was so happy to hear that you took it upon yourselves to help out this very needy family. May God bless you for it. We had a misfortune fall upon us just three years ago."

"A tornado hit our farm near Pigeon Falls, Wis. We were so lucky though, thanks to all our good friends and relatives who helped us out. We will always remember them. I hope the future will brighten soon for this very nice family."

A $5 donation reached the Haslerud family all the way from St. Petersburg, Fla., today.

Two Lewiston couples, writing jointly, today said, "It is hard to have so much bad luck, but with God's help nothing is impossible. Someday in the not-too-distant future you'll be on your feet again."

Contributions for The Robert Haslerud Fund may be sent in care of The Daily News. An account has been opened at a Winona bank and the funds will be turned over to Haslerud after all donations are in.

A Memorial Day Tribute

'Many Are Called and Some Are Chosen'

He came from the little town of Pepin, Wis.

Pepin is not very large — only 500 inhabitants, and they are families who have been there for many years. It's a quiet place, where everyone knows everything about everybody. The town has a newspaper, a few stores, a dairy bar, a post office, some taverns and a motion picture theater. There is also a high school, a grade school, some churches and a park for summer evening band concerts. Oh yes, and gasoline stations on the highway that runs through the town. These people have everything they need and they are contented. Even when they argue or complain, they're happy. If a person wanted to sit down and argue — just for the joy of arguing, he could be sure of finding company at one of the beer parlors or the post office.

Many of the old men of the town, around the post office waiting for the mail, and every one of them is a past-master at the art of arguing. Getting them started is easy, it's turning them off that's hard. On a hot summer day, barefoot children come prancing up through the town to get the family mail. They buy ice cream cones, then they sit in the warm sun, outside the post office and listen to the oldsters talking — pro and con. The oldsters bring chairs and prop them up outside, with the backs against the post office window. A good hobby — sitting in the sun and arguing with old friends.

'A Beautiful Scene'

And there's a view, too! Ah, what a view! A wide, calm lake in front of the town and rolling, green bluffs behind and above it. The Mississippi, the old grandfather of waters himself, flows through the lake. And when he gets to the middle of it, he floats on his back, with his face to the hills. In this manner, he rests his body and his eyes until the bluffs are out of sight. It's such a beautiful scene that he carries it with him all the way to New Orleans.

When the birds fly over Pepin, they see a village nestled beside a placid, blue lake. The lake must appear to be surrounded by green, velvet, sofa pillows. It probably looks like an inviting place, for even from a train window the view makes you want to stop and rest.

Fair Weather Forecast for Next Two Days

The week's rain had reached and passed the 3 1/2-inch mark at noon today, but the weatherman said generally fair weather can be expected Sunday with only partly cloudy skies on Memorial Day.

Local showers that were expected to end this morning were continuing in the early afternoon in Winona. It was "pouring" this noon at Arcadia, where the annual Broiler-Dairy Festival is in progress.

Temperatures through the holiday weekend will remain relatively cool, the weatherman added, with a low of 48 tonight and highs of 66 and 68 degrees Sunday and Monday.

The relief from the rains will apparently be short-lived, however, as the extended forecast calls for showers Tuesday night or Wednesday. But temperatures during the same period will average 3 to 6 degrees above normal.

At noon today, the rain this week hit the 3.49-inch mark, bringing the month's total to 4.71 inches, more than half an inch above normal.

Before Sunday, however, the city had a month's fall of only 1.22 inches, including a 12-day "drought" when only a hundredth of an inch of precipitation fell.

Sunday's fall totaled almost half an inch (.46) and an additional .59 was recorded Monday. No rain fell Tuesday or Wednesday but Thursday morning another .18 of an inch fell and by Friday the total had mounted to 1.81.

Today's rainfall had reached .22 of an inch by 8 a.m. and an additional .41 of an inch fell during the next four hours.

Preston Lutherans To Build New Church

PRESTON, Minn.—A majority of the congregation at Grace Lutheran Church here elected during a special meeting this week to construct a new church on the present property.

The present structure and the old C. M. Anderson home immediately adjoining it will be razed to make room for the improvement.

WINONA STUDENT NAMED

Gus Renk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Renk, Winona, has been elected intramural chairman of Chamberlain House at Iowa State College.

That's the place this boy came from — he grew up there. He liked the hills and the lake. He and his dog wandered over the bluffs and sailed around the lake many times. Perhaps, he sat under the huge, old trees in the cemetery on the slope of one of the hills and looked across the water and thought how wonderful his life was going to be. Maybe he sat in a boat on the lake and watched the storm clouds gather above the water and thought about life's problems.

People looked twice at this boy for he was a striking lad. He stood many inches over 6 feet; his features were clean-cut; his forehead was broad and high; he was thin, but his shoulders were wide and so was his smile; his blue eyes held serious thoughts in their depths; his intelligence crackled around him like lightning. People liked him instantly and he did not have one enemy. Men were proud to call him "friend" or "buddy." He wasn't handsome like a movie idol, but he was handsome with a cleanliness and an honesty and a dependableness. And the many good qualities that he possessed wrapped his personality in a warmth felt by all those around him.

'Went to Fight'

When this son of Wisconsin was 25, he left the village, the lake, the rounded hills — he went to fight for his country. Then, the war was over and he was coming back to the land he loved.

Every business place in the town was closed — in his honor. The hot, August sun beat down on a deserted main street. Most of the people were at the depot to meet him. His relatives had come from all over the country, to be here on this day.

His old, white-haired father was surrounded by middle-aged sons and daughters. There were grandchildren, too.

A group of young men from the town, who had also fought, had come to escort him to his father's house. And these folks waited quietly for the train to come.

Finally, it was there. The baggage-car doors slid open and a starched Marine was seen standing at attention beside a long, slim, crate-covered with the American flag. The Marine wore a black arm-band and a sober expression. He, too, was a fine young man, but this was not his home. The Marine had escorted the Wisconsin boy home to Pepin. And the boy from Wisconsin was in the long, flag-draped crate.

The boards were removed from the bronze casket and the town's escort carried it up from the depot to a place prepared for it in the living room of his father's house. The living room was cool, for the shades were drawn and it was peaceful and quiet. This boy was once again, and for the last time, under his father's roof — among the pleasant smells that must have brought back memories. The smells of clothes fresh from the line, apple pies, clean furniture and lavender soap. How long he had waited to come home!

'A Peaceful Rest'

There was a short service and the casket was taken up over the green bluffs, to the old cemetery on the side of the hill. It was taken to the place prepared for it — a place made for a peaceful rest. A person could sit here, with his back against the bluff, smell the fresh wind from the lake, hear the pine needles fall to the ground, and watch the ripples on the water below. Sometimes, he might see a silver plane in the distance as it knifed its way through the soft foam of a cloud.

Here, in this place, the casket was poised over an opening, an opening to a grave dug out of the soil of Wisconsin, dug out of the ground that this boy had died to preserve.

As his niece now recalls, Dudley E. Fuller was "a striking lad" when he left his home at Pepin, Wis. It was Technical Sergeant Dudley E. Fuller when his father, John E. Fuller, and the community laid him to rest a few years later. A top turret gunner and engineer on a B1F, Dudley had been killed on Oct. 2, 1942, while serving in the armed forces of his country.

Mrs. Magin is the 10th anniversary for many such sorrowful returns — and also the 10th anniversary of more happy reunions as World War II came to an end.

In commemoration of that anniversary, and in the spirit of Memorial Day, The Daily News publishes this moving tribute by Miss Jacqueline Magin, daughter of John Janikowski, former Winona, now of Detroit, Mich. Two of his brothers were killed in World War I.

The young Marine stepped forward and, with white-gloved hands, removed the flag from the bronze box, folded the flag into a triangle and presented it to the dead boy's father. The young men of the town, all friends of the returned soldier, fired a volley of shots in his honor.

Someone played "Taps" as the casket was lowered into the ground and the lowering straps were withdrawn.

Then, all was silent. No breeze, no bird's song, — not a whisper. The people gathered in this place stood with bowed heads and the afternoon sun slid noiselessly behind the hills.

He had left the town — a fine example of young manhood. He had walked tall and straight and slim. He had smiled and he had laughed and he had spoken like a soldier. But war didn't take about his fineness; she only needed bodies. So she called him away just as his life was beginning. She took him from his family while he was strong and healthy — and she sent him home in a box, on a hot August day, back to his town, back to the hills of Wisconsin.

Margaret Truman Lets Public in on Visit to Parents

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP)—Margaret Truman shared with the public last night a folksy visit with her parents, former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman.

Miss Truman was in New York, Mr. and Mrs. Truman sat relaxed on the side porch of their rambling home in Independence, Mo.

The half hour was short on politics, but packed with the informality of a family gathering. On international affairs and politics, Mr. Truman had this to say:

He thinks the recent signing of the Austrian Peace Treaty means the world is "approaching a peace settlement and the end of the cold war."

He has "nothing in particular" up his sleeve politically except to help beat all the Republicans he can.

The "toughest" decision he had to make while president was sending armed forces to aid South Korea.

He hopes to be remembered in history as the "people's President."

From their porch the elder Trumans wandered through their 83-year-old house—the dining room, the living room, parlor and Mr. Truman's den. The camera peeped into the kitchen and Miss Truman talked with a woman identified only as Vietta, who was baking brownies and who was a member of the White House kitchen staff.

Miss Truman would preface her questions with "Daddy," or "Mother," or "Mommy."

When his daughter asked what kind of manual work he did around the house, her father replied: "I do an immense amount of it from a rocking chair."

As for hobbies, Mr. Truman said he had none and added, "My only relaxation is to work and I have never known anybody to be injured by too much work. It is the lack of it that kills people."

How about that iron fence put up around the house?

"Well, the fence had to be put up to keep the American propensities from collecting souvenirs and tearing the house down," said Mr. Truman.

Mrs. Truman told about finding a lady picking her prize tulips, and about the throngs of sight-seers who appear almost daily.

"We had a funny experience the other night," she said. "Dad and I went over to see your cousin across the street and there were so many out here in front of the house we could not come home."

"We had to spend most of the evening on the front porch all by ourselves because our cousins weren't home."

Marilyn's Vice President Has a Head for Business

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—When Marilyn Monroe first met Milton H. Greene—the brilliant photographer who's now her Veep—her mouth flew open . . . and she wasn't posing.

"Why, you're just a boy!" she exclaimed.

"And you're just a girl!" he exclaimed back.

He's only 33 now—he was 31 then—and in the portraits he took of her for Look, he saw her also as a lady. "I thought she looked very chic," he has said since.

He didn't ask her to take off as much as possible. He spoke to her of the good taste of exuding sex appeal while covered. His pet portrait shows her in a black terry cloth robe—just her blond head and bare legs protruding.

Impressed by the boyish, pipe-smoking, open-collared Milton and his attractive wife Amy, and their passion for good taste, Marilyn chose him as vice president of "Marilyn Monroe Productions" last fall—and it appears now that she gambled wisely.

There was much sniping at the time.

But Marilyn seems about to make a new and better deal with 20th Century-Fox . . . thanks to the fortune she got from the Greenses. Milton's always been an individualist. At Textile High School on 14th St., he flunked advertising—and also photography—because he rebelled against some of the rules.

"One day in a photography class, I put a plate on a radiator to dry. 'It reticulated'—came out with a lot of lines across it—and I thought it was a wonderful design. The teachers only considered that I'd put a plate on a radiator when I shouldn't have."

He photographed a statue of the nude Venus.

"You can't display that picture. It's indecent," one teacher said.

"That's ridiculous," protested young Milton.

He went away from there—to Abraham Lincoln High School, then won a scholarship to Pratt Institute—and eventually became What's a meeting of Marilyn Monroe Productions like?

It's very simple. Sometimes it's held at Marilyn's suite at the Waldorf Towers, sometimes at Agent Jay Kantor's office at Music Corp. of America, sometimes at Greene's studio at 480 Lexington Ave.

One meeting—held at Marilyn's hotel—ran very long, at Amy Greene's insistence.

It was Marilyn's birthday at his studio being "surprised" at his studio with party given by Amy.

Marilyn and Jay Kantor were under orders to keep Milton at the meeting till 6:30 but they almost ran out of business to discuss.

"I've got to go," Greene would say, and Kantor would cough and say, "There's one more thing I wanted to bring up . . . now what was it?"

The surprise was a success and Marilyn was overjoyed. She said it was the first surprise party she ever participated in.

Her Veep has thrifly allowed her to use his studio for her offices. Under the name of Milton H. Greene, Photographer, on the door, was added Marilyn Monroe Productions.

"Once again," commented Marilyn, "I didn't get top billing."

THE WEEK-END WINDUP . . .

"DON'T PRINT THAT!" Lauren Bacall's singing in the film, "To Have and Have Not"—ten years ago—was dubbed in by young Andy Williams, the guy on the Steve Allen show . . . A comedian fired his long-time publicist when he caught him mimicking the comic's visits to the psychiatrist.

Ex-Mayor Bill O'Dwyer moved into a swank penthouse in Mexico City's Prince Hotel . . . Comic Lennox Gaines is working for Eddie Fisher, while his wife sings on the Perry Como show . . . Frederick of Hollywood, the underwear designer, returned from Europe and announced, "The under-all picture there is good."

Singer Sarah Vaughan will get $11,500 a week plus a percentage in her Canadian stint . . . Agent Sol Tepper, who's 60, finally saw a copy of his birth certificate—and found he's listed as "Sally Tepper—female."

Audrey Christie's up for the lead in the proposed B-way version of "A House Is Not a Home" . . . A million-dollar-a-year hand dealer is so lax about money matters that his wife's got him on a $3-a-day allowance.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Red Barber described diminutive pitcher Bobby Shantz: "He doesn't look much bigger than a bar of laundry soap after a hard day's work."

TODAY'S SILLY SMILE: "As dull as being a lifeguard at a YMCA."—Phil Foster.

American Flag Exhibit at Library Through June 18

An exhibit of American flags lent by the University of Minnesota at the University of Minnesota will be displayed in the art room of the Winona Public Library from now until June 18.

The flag of Leif Ericson, possibly the first flag on the American continent, is a black raven on a white background.

Columbus carried the Spanish flag of 1492, a yellow lion on a red background, on his first voyage to the new world in 1492, and again to the mainland in 1493. The personal banner of Columbus, a cross with two gold crowns and the letters Y and F, standing for Ysabella and Ferdinand, on a white background, was carried beside the Spanish flag.

The flags of France, England, Holland and Sweden followed soon after Spain, and were, in a sense, forerunners of the American flag. In 1497, Cabot, a Venetian, carried the banner of his native city along with the English cross of St. George, which Jacques Cartier planted the flag of France in the new world in 1534.

Henry Hudson, sailing for the Dutch East India Co., brought the Dutch flag in 1609. The flag, orange, white and blue with the initials V.O.C. for the East India Co., underwent changes up to 1650, when the orange stripe was replaced by a red stripe to accord with the change in the flag of Holland.

The state of Delaware, first colonized by the Swedes, adopted the Swedish flag, a yellow cross on a blue background. The flag of 1737 bore the cross of St. George with a globe or pine tree in the upper corner. Sometimes it had a blue field, sometimes red.

The "liberty tree" flag, a pine tree on a white background with the words "an appeal to heaven" done in black, stood at the corner of what is now Essex and Washington Sts. in Boston. Oliver, the stamp distributor, was hanged in effigy on the "liberty tree." Colonial Connecticut adopted it as its flag.

Pulaski, the Polish nobleman, who fought in the American Revolution, carried a yellow flag which bore the inscription "no other governs" around a symbolic eye of God. It had been presented to him by the Moravian Single Sisters of Bethlehem, Pa. The reverse side has the initials "U.S." encircled by the words in Latin, "Union makes valor stronger."

The flag used at Bunker Hill was a combination of previous flags. In the upper left corner on a white background was the cross of St. George and a liberty tree. The remainder of the flag was blue. Another version of this same flag had 13 red and white stripes in place of the blue field.

In 1775, Benjamin Franklin introduced the snake flag which were used in several forms. The striped Union flag with the rattlesnake was popular for a while after the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It was flown at the bow of ships and was one of the first striped flags.

The flag of the Culpepper Minute Men, also carrying the rattlesnake theme, inspired the men of Patrick Henry's state to victory at the Battle of Great Bridge.

Admiral Hopkins' flag bore the inscription "Don't tread on me" in red over a yellow background with the Ben Franklin rattle in the center. The flag was presented to Admiral Hopkins by Rep. Gadsden of North Carolina when he was Commander-in-Chief of the Navy in 1776.

The first flag for the South bore the word "Liberty" and a quarter moon both done in silver on a blue background. There were others before this, but they were British. When this flag was raised in Charleston in 1775, it meant treason and revolution.

Both the New Hampshire regiment flag and the Rhode Island flag of 1775 are included in the exhibit. The Rhode Island flag with its white stars on the blue field may have been the design out of which Betsy Ross drew inspiration for the first real American flag.

The Grand Union flag of early 1776 marked the transition from British colonial status represented by the British Union Jack to revolutionary independence represented by 13 stripes.

The first real "Stars and Stripes" came to the United States June 14, 1777, when Congress resolved "that the flag of the United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white on a blue field, representing a constellation."

From 1795-1818, there were 15 stars and stripes because the new

Ad Alley Pickups

Saturday, May 28, 1955

A brief mention of interesting items about people, business places and campaigns as compiled by The Winona Daily News ad department.

If People in This Area thought the modern day Davy Crockett was getting about in Sunbeam Bread trucks instead of the conventional horse this past week, it adds up to this: Sunbeam Bakers have been franchised to use the Davy Crockett picture on the end of each loaf of their bread, and driver salesmen for the bakery were wearing Davy Crockett hats and vests to draw attention to this fact. Here, a couple of young Davy's—Tommy and Donny Leaf—display the vest and also a loaf of Sunbeam showing the end picture of the "real McCoy."

Above is a scene from VIOLENT SATURDAY which will premiere at the Winona Theatre next Friday, June 3. The movie stars Victor Mature and is in full color and CinemaScope. VIOLENT SATURDAY will be the first CinemaScope movie to be shown on Winona Theatre's new wide screen.

Insects in this area could be in for a rough summer—and a pleasant one for you—with Kan-Kil coming onto the market in Winona. This new Colgate-Palmolive Co. product boasts a high killing power with a pleasant scent. Now stocked in Winona and area stores, the product comes in two sizes. It received heavy tie-in promotion in grocery and drug ads this past week in The Daily News.

This little fellow will be a familiar sight in this area before long. Already he can be found throughout the area. He's the little symbol on all Pfeiffer beer bottles. As you know, the Pfeiffer Brewing Co. acquired the Jacob-Schmidt Brewing Co. plant in St. Paul in January. Now, Pfeiffer is introducing their beer and a new packaging idea in this area. Look for their ads in The Daily News.

Grandma and Granddaughter both are learning new, better and faster ways to make jam and jelly through demonstrations of powdered apple pectin conducted by 7,000 home economists throughout the country. The demonstrations and tests were conducted by some 7,000 home economists and home economics teachers who were supplied free kits, recipes and powdered pectin by the Pen-Jel Corporation, a manufacturer of household pectin. Modern apple pectin in powdered form does not differ from the natural pectin found in unripe apples and other fruit except in simplifying jam and jelly making and improving the flavor and quantity by eliminating long boiling and the bitterness of unripe fruit.

God Bless You All And Thank You

What a wonderful world this old world is! The terrific response to the appeal of this newspaper on behalf of the destitute Robert Haslerud family of Whalan, Minn., is the best example we can cite of the truth of our opening statement.

The "feel" in the more than 850 letters cannot be described by mere words and the wide response, coming as it did not only from Minnesota and Wisconsin but from many states, is evidence of the deep and widespread feeling of sympathy toward this unfortunate family.

The father, a barber who had a good week when he made $25, faces the problem of caring for his four children, ranging in age from eight months to seven years. The 26-year-old mother died in a Rochester hospital last week from burns received in an explosion at the farm home of her parents near Whalan May 14.

Even before Mrs. Haslerud's funeral at Whalan's Evangelical Lutheran Church, a group of generous Whalan citizens raised some $180 to help with immediate expenses and buy clothing for the family. A second fund also was raised in the Whalan area and other funds at Peterson and Rushford, bringing the total in that section to $698. As of today, The Daily News fund totals more than $2,300.

But the help came in other forms than cash. Many families have offered to care for some of the children until the father gets back on his feet; the mother's hospital bill at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester has been paid and scores of offers of clothing have been received.

Everyone who has heard of the tragedy in the Haslerud family can feel gratified with what has taken place since. No amount of money or child care or clothing can bring Mrs. Haslerud back to her husband and children but the wonderful people of this area have done everything else that possibly could be done.

To which we can simply say, "God bless you all" and thank you.

Journal Opposed to That 'Night Cap' at 2 A. M.

If the bill permitting later summer closing hours for Wisconsin taverns passes the state Legislature, (and we hope it does not), it would be plain murder to allow local option on the matter or to exempt Dane County from its provisions.

This measure was introduced by Marvin Dillman (R-Lac de Flambeau), who claims update resort operators need the later hours to profit from the short summer resort season. The bill would permit 2 a.m. closing from June 1 to Oct. 1, if municipal licensing bodies approved the later hour. State law now requires taverns to close at 1 a.m., except for Milwaukee County where later hours are allowed.

But what would happen under a law which would encourage one community to maintain tavern hours different from the legal hours in an adjoining community?

Madison and Dane County had some experience with that problem. They had some experience with that over in Waukesha County, too, where some people insist on going across the municipal or county line in order to get that "night cap." Too many accidents occur when exuberant motorists decide they simply have to have "one for the road" some 4 or 5 miles distant.

The Dillman bill is a bad one and we have heard no logical argument for it whatever. These are prosperous times and resort owners who require an added hour of bar operation in order to remain solvent must be very poor businessmen. The bill should be killed. But if by any chance it does pass, it certainly should include no provision that would encourage late-night driving from one tavern that is closing its doors to another whose doors are still open. — Wisconsin State Journal, Madison.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Commander Edward Whitehead, with a distinguished record in the British Navy in World War II, is famous for something else entirely. He's the man with the full, magnificent set of whiskers in the tonic ads. He acquired the "beaver" aboard a Royal Navy vessel. He's sworn that he wouldn't shave again until victory was achieved—and had to wait two years for the magical day. He became too attached to his whiskers (and vice versa) to part with them—although fellow officers almost did that for him by setting fire to his "beaver" while he was taking a nap. "Fortunately," he recalls, "it only nipped."

There's no trouble selling a great classic, even in screen form, if the pitch is right. The proprietor of a movie house in a mining town did absolute capacity with "Julius Cae-

These Days

Pageantry, Pride Felt in Britain

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

LONDON.—Analyzed objectively, there is no logical historic reason why Great Britain should be a first-class power in this 20th Century of huge mass nations and emphasis upon raw materials. The fact is that the British are a first-class power and one feels it here atmospherically more than one does American power in Washington and New York. Maybe it is the pageantry of royalty; maybe it is the pride of race. But it is here.

These islands are overcrowded with 50,000,000 people as they must be overcrowded with anything over 15,000,000, which is the most they can feed out of their own resources. Of course, Japan is in the same condition and hoped to find the solution to its problem in an attempt to take over parts of the mainland of Asia, notably Manchuria. But the era of imperialism and colonialism is over for all countries except Soviet Russia, which apparently enjoys an exceptionalism. The British have been forced to give up their best colonial areas and the commonwealth is no substitute, from an economic standpoint, surely for the good old days of imperial exploitation which from Elizabeth I to George V made England strong and rich.

THE PROBLEM HERE then is to maintain a first-class power on inadequate resources and excessive population. Analyzed logically it would seem to be an impossible task. But the fact is that R. A. Butler, the chancellor of the exchequer, has managed to do it within very narrow margins. The British are functioning again as the world's middleman and are building an economy out of it that contains many factors of soundness. It is not likely that they can hope to continue this rule under a labor government.

If they are nervous about the future it is because their margins are so narrow. They cannot, for instance, take another war. They would collapse completely if hydrogen bombs did not wipe them out. And it would not take many hydrogen bombs to do that. It is the realistic fear of war that dominates British policy and naturally gives an advantage to any country that wants war.

The British would like to lessen their economic dependence upon the United States by building strong markets in the undeveloped countries of Asia, Africa and South America. There they anticipate that they will not only encounter American but in time German and Japanese competition. It is this which keeps their standard of living on its present level and which holds the dangers of inflationary prices ever before them.

Were it not that they have to import so much food and raw materials, they could enter upon a spree of replacing old houses by new; giving pp their bicycles for automobiles; putting electrical refrigeration, television sets and radios in 12,000,000 homes.

ACTUALLY, THEY KEEP home consumption of what they still call luxury articles down because they fear to upset their economy so that they will be able to import less food and raw materials. Maybe some day a wizard will show them how to do both but that wizard has not yet appeared.

On the continent of Europe and in the United States British imports do suffer considerable resistance. The goods they can send out are always manufactured and therefore can be made by their customers.

The British have nothing to send to the United States which we do not make. They can only hope that the "buy America" policy will not hamper to the degree of cutting off the American trade, but they know that excessive British exports to the United States could result in political difficulties not only for them but the administration in Washington. Both businessmen and government officials speak of this.

Their problems in international politics are conditioned by the narrow margins of their economy. They recognize that vast changes are taking place in the world, that a Soviet Universal State of 800,000,000 people is aimed against them, can overwhelm them. They recognize that China's emergence is a peril and that Nehru's India creates difficulties. But their hope is that they will survive as the middleman and that in that position they can have both economic and political health. It is almost as though they were to return to pre-Victorian England.

Congressman's Blockade Of Important Bills Ended

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—On May 23, this column reported that a revolt was brewing inside the House Education and Labor Committee against courtly, crusty committee chairman Graham Barden of North Carolina for his delay on the school-construction bill and for sabotaging the minimum-wage bill.

On May 24, when that committee met, Chairman Barden looked plenty peeved. He did not, however, say anything. Other congressmen who had opposed Barden, however, did.

"My name has been mentioned as the source of the Drew Pearson article stating that the chairman was forestalling action on these two bills," said young Cong. Lee Metcalf of Montana. "Let me assure the committee that I wasn't responsible for the article."

"Well, it wasn't me," insisted veteran Cleveland Bailey of West Virginia.

"Me neither," chorused Minnesota's Roy Wier and several others.

However, the rebellion reported in the column in question continued, and before the secret meeting ended, Barden did an about-face. He agreed: 1, to release the vital school-construction bill for House action; and 2, to begin hearings "as expeditiously as possible" on legislation lifting the minimum wage for labor to 90 cents an hour.

Metcalf refused to talk to the Merry-Go-Round later lest he be placed in double jeopardy. However, it can be reported that he again led the fight against Barden's filibustering, with the help of Cong. Carl Perkins of Kentucky, Carl Elliott of Alabama, James Roosevelt of California, Bailey, and Wier. Realizing that his opposition was now out in the open, Barden retreated.

Sen. George Roars

The staid and dignified New York Times carried quite a jazzy story the other day under the headline: "George Thunders and Senate Bows — as Control in Road Bill Stirs Georgian's Ire."

The story went on to state: "Adorned in all his wrath and majesty, Sen. Walter George demonstrated today how to bend the U. S. Senate to his wishes . . . The 77-year-old Georgian, patriarch of the Senate, cowed three younger colleagues to the posture of submissive schoolboys . . . from the summit of his years, he manages to look down on his colleagues."

The Times explained that Sen. George had then knocked, a provision from the federal highway bill which would have let the federal government control advertising rights along the proposed highways. What this colorful and otherwise accurate news account failed to report, however, was why the "Olympian" senator from Georgia was wrathful, and also that he was an empty victory. The senators had already decided to kill the provision he wanted killed.

The reason Sen. George shook an indignant finger and let loose his stentorian oratory was very simple. Coca-Cola was involved. The "Drink That Refreshes" has supported George in every campaign, and the senator is loyal to his friends.

Furthermore, Bill Robinson, former manager of the New York Herald Tribune and an intimate Ike golfing partner, is now head of Coca-Cola. And it's thanks in part to this liaison that Sen. George has become so close to Ike, the President's guest at Augusta.

Coca-Cola, which is probably the biggest billboard advertiser in the United States, just did not like the idea of any federal controls over billboards along the proposed new federal highways. So its friend, George of Georgia, leaped into Senate battle.

However, what neither Sen. George nor Coca-Cola knew was that this portion of the bill was going to be dropped anyway. Senators Gore of Tennessee and Lyn-

Advice on Health

Don't Make Baby Work Too Hard

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Are you forcing your baby to work too hard?

Maybe you are, without even realizing it. Most of you probably believe your infant doesn't do any physical labor. Actually, he may be overworking just drinking his milk.

While most baby bottle nipples are manufactured with the correct sized opening, sometimes you may find one that will give your baby trouble. A simple test will tell you whether the openings are the right size. The holes should be neither too small nor too large.

Hold the filled bottle upside down and allow the milk to drip through the nipple without shaking it. A single drop of milk should emerge at a time, spaced about two inches apart as they fall. The milk should never pour from the nipple in a steady stream.

If the hole is too small, it means your baby will have to work too hard to get the liquid. He may tire quickly or he may develop colic by swallowing air instead of milk.

There's an easy way to enlarge the holes. Heat the point of a fine needle, over your gas range or some other flame, until it is red hot. Grasp the blunt end of the needle with a piece of gauze, or piece of a cork and use the cork as a handle. Then thrust the heated point into the nipple hole. This should do the trick.

Be sure to wash the nipples thoroughly to remove any taste of burned rubber.

Of course, if the holes are too large, the nipples should be discarded.

Woolson 'Sits Out' This Memorial Day

DULUTH, Minn. (U) — Albert Woolson, 108, last surviving member of the Civil War Union Army, will break a long-standing tradition Monday when he "sits out" Memorial Day.

The old soldier's daughter Mrs. John Kobus said it will be the first Memorial Day in her memory that Woolson hasn't been feted or a parade marcher.

"We're keeping him pretty quiet these days," Mrs. Kobus said. Monday will be just another "quiet day at home" for Woolson, she said.

Woolson was hospitalized twice this spring with lung congestion but has made almost a complete recovery. He is up every day and the past two Saturdays he visited the family's lake cottage about 38 miles from here. His appetite is fine.

Deserving Salute to Retiring Air General

By PAUL HARVEY

CHANUTE AIR FORCE BASE, Ill.—Another general is joining the mothball brigade tonight, Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates, this time. As a taxpayer, I resent it.

Here is a public servant whom we have fed and trained and taught to fly . . .

And just as he gets to where he's worth something, he quits and goes to pasture.

Well, Hungry, I hope it's a lush pasture for you. Verdant and green and with a long, cool drink when you're thirsty and a spot of shade when you're weary and a great big blue skyful of memories.

A Hungry Gates does not happen often.

The brash young pilot lieutenant who took four days and five forced landings to coax an ancient DH from Texas to Montana . . .

The artful three-star administrator who knew an Air Force was built one individual at a time . . .

Who combined discipline . . . with compassion . . . in just the right proportions . . . so that they produced men.

These qualities are part of the composite man who first helped our nation to its wings.

If our early flyboys had been conservative men . . . careful men . . . mild-mannered . . . behavior patterns . . . the airship would still be on the drawing boards.

The very dashing, headstrong, adventurous spirit of such as he . . . Gave today's safer wings to you and me.

Now you and I may freely plod the beaten paths . . .

Because one day back there somewhere, Hungry Gates and his gallant contemporaries braved the dark and unknown forests on either side.

And tried the sky.

It was an exciting fire-eating clan, these inspired few who plunged in and pioneered the uncharted air ocean.

While safer . . . lesser men . . . watched from the shore.

Now . . .

After 38 years of it, the Old Man is turning in his suit.

In the way of the long gone barnstorming days, he stuck a wet finger in the wind to see how she blew.

And then grounded himself for good.

And so to younger, leaner men will pass the new challenge of the high frontier.

Other men will tear themselves free from the inhibitions of the earthbound . . . and carry on the next conquest . . . of space.

And one day some one of them . . . indeed perhaps some trainee from Randolph or Rantoul . . . will follow the point . . . from where we are . . . and touch a star.

And you know what? It'll be the Old Man . . . put him up to it.

Goodnight, Hungry, I, who have walked on the sky with you . . . even for a little way . . . Salute you . . . and welcome you to the pasture.

25% Rise in U.S. Major Crime Rate Reported

ST. PAUL (U) —A 25 per cent rise in major crime committed by adults since 1950, with only a 10 per cent rise in population on the national level, was reported Friday by James S. Hennahan, Toledo, Ohio.

Hennahan, chief probation officer of the Lucas county Adult Probation Department, will participate in a workshop at the National Probation and Parole Conference in St. Paul June 19-22.

The Minnesota State Bureau of Criminal Apprehension reported a 47.3 per cent jump in adult crimes since 1950 in Minnesota with only a 4 per cent increase in population.

The crime bureau reveals there has been a steady increase since 1944, but points out that part of the increase is due to a steady improvement in record keeping and reporting by the state's police department. During this period, Minneapolis saw a 69.6 per cent crime rise, but the department had changed its recording system and picked up some categories previously not reported.

St. Paul had a 26.6 per cent rise in the same period.

Since the railroads stepped up substitution of diesel for coal-fired locomotives, some plants making cinder building blocks have had trouble getting enough raw material.

Let Us Show More Respect For American Flag

To the Editor:

Our American Flag is a symbol of unity — of the unity of 48 strong states into one of the strongest nations in the world today. Our flag stands in the center of all the flags at the meetings of the members of the United Nations; it is waved with fervor by alien children to salute visiting statesmen; it flies above governmental buildings in every city in the United States, and it leads Americans in all the celebrations they make when it is at the head of every parade.

Perhaps the last sight is the most heartwarming one to a truly appreciating citizen. Yet, do Americans appreciate their citizenship, and if so, do they express it in any way known to aliens? For example, just how many men bare their heads when the flag passes by in all its glory during a parade? Next time, try counting them. It won't take long, and you may be surprised. That is just one example of neglect on the part of Americans, but to me, it is a very strong example. During Winona's last parade, the warm weather discouraged hats, but when the Winter Carnival festival was in progress, I counted a grand total of 16 courteous American men within a one-half block radius of Winona's busiest corner.

Naturally, the men are not completely to blame for all thoughtlessness of Americans, but in this one manner, they carry the majority. However, let us all examine our manners a little, and see whether or not we might be becoming undemocratic Americans. It's a harsh title to grant to anyone, but only we are the bestowers of that particular gift. At least let us try and show more due respect for the American Flag as it passes in ceremony into the next parade.

An Interested Bystander.

Garageman Stops Car Of Dying Motorist

LOS ANGELES (U) —Garageman Jack Fradkin, 34, chased an out-of-control car down West Adams boulevard and found a dying motorist behind the wheel.

As Fradkin sprinted alongside the car its driver Hubert L. Weiss, 72, of Los Angeles, collapsed. His foot jammed against the accelerator and the car gained speed.

Fradkin steered the car away from oncoming traffic, made a desperate lane shift through the driver's open window and turned off the ignition. When police reached the scene Weiss was dead, apparently of a heart attack.

This is our memorial to the spirit of America's servicemen who have participated in all of our great struggles... "that this nation may have a new birth of freedom." Miles of crosses mark their final triumph, as once again, we pay our respects in gratitude. The deeds of these fallen heroes, many known, many unknown, can never escape our memory. Only by their unselfish sacrifices do we stand on the soil of freedom, today... "that this nation under God shall not perish from the earth." Under one Flag we dedicate their graves anew on this Memorial Day... Lest we forget!

BANGOR, Maine (U)—Retired Air Force Gen. James Doolittle went fishing in West Grand Lake Tuesday and got something more than a nibble for the Air Force.

Doolittle met two young fellow anglers at the lake. He asked them how they felt about military service. Both said they planned to wait for the draft. Doolittle advised them to join the Air Force.

Robert L. Berry, 18, of Grand Lake Stream, and Eston K. Greenlaw, 19, of Princeton, signed up yesterday—with the Air Force, of course.

ANY holiday weekend on the river means an ever greater number of boats will be using the water for pleasure. Safety afloat is as important as safety in any of the other ways of travel. The U. S. Coast Guard, with our local Flotilla 2 of Division 10 U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, wants all boat operators to familiarize themselves with some of the prescribed regulations for safe boating. Capt. George C. Carlstedt, commander, second Coast Guard District, has this to say, "Carelessness and ignorance of the basic safety principles are the main causes of accidents. When troubles come, sufficient help is seldom near enough to save everyone. Points of safety for ALL boatmen to observe, as given out by the Coast Guard are:

1. Carry a Coast Guard approved lifesaving device for every adult or child on board.
2. Do not leave shore in a leaky or poorly constructed boat.
3. Do not overload your boat.
4. Carry a set of paddles or oars to use in case of motor failure.
5. Remain seated, avoid sudden stops and quick turns to eliminate flooding or capsizing your boat.
6. Do not leave shore if a squall is approaching. In case of a sudden squall proceed to shore until it passes.
7. Do not mix liquor and boating.
8. Do not go into restricted areas, particularly above and below dams.
9. Help others in trouble. You may need aid yourself sometime.
10. Ask the Coast Guard Auxiliary for a free examination to insure that your boat is properly equipped for safety. (The training officer of the local Flotilla is available to give examinations to any boat operators who make an appointment with him.)

TONNAGE NEAR RECORD

Figures compiled for the month of April by the U. S. Corps of Engineers of the St. Paul District show that the 1955 season, thus far, is on its way to record tonnage for the upper river. In March the total received and shipped from all ports of the area was 39,200 tons while the preliminary reports for April showed 462,993 tons received and shipped in the same area. So far, this navigation season, the reports figure 502,193 tons received and shipped from all upper ports compared with 391,344 tons for the same period of 1954.

Ward Engels' auxiliary ketch, built through the past six years and launched last summer, has been taken from its winter mooring in Bathhouse Slough to more open water below the old Interstate Bridge. Last weekend Engels, with John and Owen Wanek, placed the main and mizzen masts. The mainmast stands 30 feet above the deck while the mizzen is about 25 feet above deck. These masts arrived in Winona from the West Coast as square timbers and were cut and shaped after their arrival.

During the week, Engels has been placing the rigging for the sails which he expects to have before the end of the season. The sailboat was to travel to Wabasha today where the hull will be painted. Next weekend Engels will take his boat to Lake City where he plans to keep her and do some sailing on Lake Pepin.

Miss Margaret Mattison, who is hostess to guests from Iowa State College in Ames this weekend, will entertain the group aboard the Blackhawk during part of their stay here. Last weekend the Blackhawk was on the ways at Hoffman's docks getting a complete new paint job. Wednesday she slid back into the water, fresh and white for another season.

Dr. P. A. Mattison, owner-builder of the Blackhawk which has been featured in many boating stories, will pilot the boat for his daughter and her guests.

WOODWORTHS BUY CRUISER

Newcomers to the boat owners group are the L. R. Woodworths who last Sunday brought their craft upstream from La Crosse. Their boat is a 28- by 11-foot Owens cruiser which will sleep four. The Woodworths purchased the boat from Bob Bart and brought it upstream to the former Ted Maier boathouse which now belongs to them. A new name and some work were on the schedule this week to follow with the long weekend of boating in view for the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walsh of Sioux Falls, S. D., will be guests aboard the Evan Beynon's boat this weekend. Mrs. Walsh, who as Alice Beynon spent a good deal of time on the Mississippi with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Beynon, will find changes in the number of boats and the channel that she knew in days when Winona was her home.

The long weekend will have several Winonans traveling upriver to Stillwater and the St. Croix. Several of the travelers of past years will not make the trip this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walz left Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Streeter aboard. They will be joined by the Don Walz for the trip up the St. Croix. The party plans to return on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Keyes expected to leave this afternoon for a leisurely cruise to Lake City where they will stop for the night. Tomorrow they will go on to Stillwater with their return set for sometime on Tuesday.

Most of the other cruiser owners are planning to make shorter trips nearby Winona over the holiday.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 2, has again taken on the project of replacing the buoys in the entrance to Bathhouse Slough. The work is under the direction of Gene Westra who also worked with Harvey Hogan and Jerry Schneider last Saturday to replace Cutler's dock in Blackbird Slough.

Southerner in Northern Grave Is Honored Too

By EARL ARONSON

GRAY, Maine (U)—The tombstone on the grave of an unknown Confederate soldier is marked "stranger." But the Southerner lies in a Northern grave among friends.

The people of Gray have decorated his grave for Memorial Day, just as they have since the body was shipped to Maine by mistake in the fall of 1862.

"It's one of the strange, untold stories of the Civil War," says Gray historian George T. Hill.

On the Southerner's grave is a pot of flowering geraniums. Over it flutters the Stars and Stripes. The same honor is paid to veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic who sleep nearby.

There is a difference in the iron markers. On the Southerner's star is inscribed "Veteran 1861-65." On those of the Northern soldiers is marked "GAR Post 78."

The Confederate soldier's body arrived in Gray as that of Lt. Charles H. Colley, Company B, 10th Maine Volunteers.

"The lieutenant was the son of Amos and Sarah Nash Colley, farm people here," Hill recalled. "He was wounded at Cedar Mountain, Aug. 9, 1862, and died the following Sept. 20 at Alexandria, Va. He was 29."

"In those days, the family had to pay the government for embalming and transportation. The Colleys had done this. When the body arrived, they opened the casket in farewell. Instead of their son, they found a fully uniformed Confederate soldier."

"You can imagine what the consternation and grief must have been like. However, as both communications and travel were slow

Straight A Average Tops Cotter Seniors

Kay Joswick

Patricia Schleich

A Cotter High School senior with a straight A average has been named valedictorian of the 1955 graduating class at Cotter.

She is Kay Joswick, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Joswick, 978 Gilmore Ave.

Co-salutatorians for the Class of 1955 also were announced today by the Rev. Harold Gavin, Cotter principal.

They are Patricia Schleich, and Marion Wroblewski, each of whom has a 3.950 average. Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schleich, 454 Center St., and Marion the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grochowski, 817 E. King St.

Kay has been active in drama, music, sodality, the student council and journalism while she has been a student at Cotter.

Marion is a senior member of the band, co-editor of the yearbook and a member of the CSMC. Patricia has participated in glee club, debate and journalism work.

Marion Wroblewski

at the time, it was decided to bury the unknown soldier in Gray cemetery."

A tombstone was raised over the grave. It was inscribed: "Stranger—a soldier of the late war. Died 1867. Erected by the ladies of Gray."

The ladies were not an organized group. They were mothers and wives whose men had suffered in the war.

Lt. Colley's body arrived a week later. It is buried 100 feet away. Historian Hill conjectures as to how the mistake was made. Both Lt. Colley and the Confederate may have been wounded in the same battle and hospitalized together. Both must have died about the same time. There is a possibility, says Hill, that both were named Colley.

Milwaukee Polio Vaccine Safe Despite Heat

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee's Salk polio vaccine, unused because of a dispute over additional testing, is still potent despite exposure to 95-degree temperatures after a refrigeration unit failed.

Dr. E. R. Krumbiegel, city health commissioner, said yesterday he was advised by Parke, Davis & Co., of Detroit, manufacturers of the vaccine, that although there was some loss of potency, the vaccine is still above minimum standards.

The 28,000 cubic centimeters of vaccine, enough for the first round shots for the city's 28,000 eligible first and second-graders, has not been used because Krumbiegel wants to run his own safety check in a small pilot program.

Krumbiegel said the company based its appraisal on data dealing with the storage of the vaccine at different temperatures. The vaccine, the commissioner said, probably was without refrigeration for a maximum of 17 hours, and probably less. The storage unit, located in department laboratories in the City Hall, failed Thursday afternoon at 4:45 p.m. It was out of operation until 9:10 a.m. yesterday.

Temperatures in the unit were boosted because of the heat from an air circulating fan which continued to operate.

Krumbiegel moved the vaccine yesterday from the laboratories to the city's polio hospital and two other department installations.

Committee Will Continue Work to Reactivate McCoy

MADISON, Wis. —The Legislature probably will continue a special interim committee created in 1953 to work for reactivation of Camp McCoy, the huge Army cantonment in Monroe County that was put on an inactive basis two years ago.

The state Senate adopted and sent to the Assembly for probable concurrence a resolution by Sen. J. E. Leverich of Sparta authorizing continuation of the committee of six legislators, the governor, the adjutant general and the lieutenant governor.

The original resolution by the 1953 Legislature protested closing of the camp "in the face of the continued need of troops for the rugged fighting in the cold war fronts."

It also asserted the need for a defense center in the vital north central region of the country, and said the camp provides opportunities for all-around military training of soldiers.

The committee as extended will have the authority to confer, on behalf of the state, with members of Congress, Army officers and other national government officials about operation of the camp and its re-establishment as a regular training center for defense forces.

Six other Keystone State first and second-grade children who received the vaccine have contracted polio, but Pennsylvania health authorities emphasized there was no indication any of the cases resulted from the inoculation.

Mrs. Thomas A. Poulos before her marriage this morning was Miss Elizabeth Ann Frisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Frisch, 168 High Forest St. Mr. Poulos is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Poulos, Oaklyn, Sunbury, Pa.

Elizabeth Frisch, Thomas Poulos Exchange Vows

Pink and white peonies on the altar made a spring background for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Ann Frisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Frisch, 168 High Forest St., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Poulos, Oaklyn, Sunbury, Pa., this morning at Holy Redeemer Church, Eyota, Minn.

The bride's brother, the Rev. Joseph C. Frisch, performed the ceremony at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Hubert Weir, organist, played the wedding music and Miss Ann Weir was vocalist.

A gown of Alencon lace and dupioni silk imported from Italy, designed with bodice of lace with V-neckline and short sleeves, and bouffant skirt of the silk, was worn by the bride. She wore a veil of illusion net, and carried an orchid with lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Her maid of honor, Miss Lois M. Lindquist, Minneapolis, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. George F. Frisch, Minneapolis, and Miss Marcianna Werner, Kenosha, Wis., wore gowns of turquoise blue crystal-embroidered with long tulle, fitted bodices, and matching jackets with standing collars. They wore crowns of white daisies, and carried the same flowers in their bouquets.

Richard Reardon, Philadelphia, Pa., was best man and George F. Frisch, Minneapolis, and Gerald Alexander, Milwaukee, were groomsmen.

A wedding dinner was served at 12:30 p.m. in the church hall and a reception was held at 2:30 p.m. on the church lawn. Snapdragons and daisies in pink and white centered the tables.

For travel, the bride chose a gray tweed summer suit, white straw hat, patent shoes and purse and white gloves. Her corsage was an orchid. After a trip to New Orleans and the Gulf for two weeks, the couple will be at home in Milwaukee.

The bride attended Cathedral High School, the College of Saint Teresa and the Winona Secretarial School, and has been a medical secretary at the Veterans Administration Center, Wood, Wis. The bridegroom, graduate of Lafayette College of Engineering, Easton, Pa., is an electrical engineer for Allis Chalmers Mfg. Co., Milwaukee.

The bridal dinner was given by his parents at the Hubbell House near Rochester preceding the rehearsal Friday evening. Prenuptial parties were given by Miss Marcianna Werner and Mrs. Helen Fruehwald of Milwaukee.

Longtime Members Honored by Legion At Spring Grove

SPRING GROVE, Minn.—Thirty longtime members of the Spring Grove American Legion Post were recognized at a dinner at the high school auditorium here Friday evening.

Among those given 35-year cards and lapel pins was Lars Bergsgaard who was one of the 15 signers of the original application for a temporary charter 36 years ago.

Presenting the awards was Thor Kjøme, commander, who presided at the dinner attended by about 100.

Speaker was Adolph Bremer, Winona, who reviewed the basic objectives of the American Legion. He cited the inheritance that World War I and Korean conflict veterans have received from the World War I veterans who founded and built the American Legion into the world's largest veterans organization.

These fundamental purposes were cited: To secure America, to Americanize Americans particularly through youth programs, community service and to assist veterans in returning them to their rightful and proper place in civilian life.

Honored at the dinner in addition to Bergsgaard were Oscar Borreson, E. N. Newhouse, Peter Halvorsen, of Rochester, Leonard Brunstetter, Vernon Eddy, Arthur Evenson, Morris Fladager, Finley Flatlin, Bennie Garud, Henry Gilbertson, Knute Gulbrandsen, Roy Hauge, Carl Hauge, Carl Jacobson, Eddy Kahn, Gust Larson, Harold Lovdov, Arnold Melbostad, Elmer Moe, Harold Oakes Sr., Alfred Omodt, Gerhard Omodt, Magnus Omodt, Melvin Omodt, Arthur Ramstad, Emil Rank, A. A. Thompson, Clarence Ulven, and Nels Nelsheim (30-year member).

Under Commander Kjøme's leadership the post this year has reached its highest membership—some 170 Legionnaires. The dinner last night was the first of its kind here. Wives of the honored members attended the lapel pins.

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—The Daggett Labor Lovers 4-H Club will meet at the Arthur Klingheim home Tuesday evening. A program is being arranged.

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

With sunny, seasonable weather forecast for the Memorial Day long weekend, outdoor recreation will completely rule activities in this area. Parks are planning for the first big holiday crowds of the season; boat liveries, wardens and resort operators predict an unusually large Memorial Day business because of the early season and traffic officers predict crowded and jammed highways.

Appeals for public cooperation like the one pictured above have come from most agencies dealing with recreation and traffic. Minnesota's Division of Parks is providing guests with "litterbug" sacks similar to that which the two models are holding in the picture. It is a part of the program to bring back, despite the park sticker, the public to state parks.

The "Don't Be a Litterbug" idea applies equally well to the whole outdoors. Aid in "policing" all parks, roadsides, and even farmers' pastures, banks of streams and the river itself (the number of snags is increasing) is badly needed. Most of the litter thrown about is the result of thoughtlessness. Everyone certainly realizes that parks and the whole outdoors must be kept clean.

The rows of white crosses in Winona's Lake Park, placed there annually by the American Legion, vividly spotlight the reason for the day—to pay tribute to our war dead. Throughout the area fitting services will be held in every community and miniature Old Glories in every cemetery tell where these war dead rest today.

But these men, if alive, would want all their surviving friends and relatives to enjoy this wonderful spring outdoors of ours. They would encourage picnics, fishing trips, attendance at mass recreations, like baseball games, the broiler festival at Arcadia, and the various other events scheduled for this area.

They would, however, urge you in your holiday travels to exercise caution and not hurry. New graves appear in many cemeteries after each holiday—the traffic toll of the nation is nearly as high as war. They would probably recall the slogan sometimes seen along highways bordering cemeteries that reads, "Don't hurry—we can wait."

Joint Ownership

In the Voice on Thursday it was stated that the fishing pontoon boat was owned by H. C. Aakre. It is owned jointly by Aakre and B. W. Arenz, who was listed as a passenger in the article.

River Regulations

Out of the two meetings held at Red Wing and Ellsworth probably will come two changes effecting hook and line fishing. The bass season opening would be changed from May 1 to the first week in June, and the daily limit of wall-eye or sandpike cut from eight to six.

This was the consensus of observers who attended both the Wisconsin and Minnesota meetings to consider changes in river regulations. Set line regulations could be liberalized, and several minor changes in commercial fishing were proposed. Legal sturgeon will be 25 inches long. There will be no change in the 300-foot rule, although Army Engineers have agreed to mark the line more clearly.

Wabasha Crash

Suits Settled;

1 Jury Verdict

WABASHA, Minn.—A liability suit over the lives of three persons killed in a two-car crash here last spring was settled in Judge Arnold Hatfield's chambers Friday afternoon following two days of testimony in Wabasha County District Court.

But at 4:30 o'clock a jury returned a verdict for the defendants in another suit being tried simultaneously. Mrs. Florence Blattner, Lake City, and the estate of Frank Herbert Blattner were the defendants.

Court was adjourned after the verdict was announced until 10 a.m. June 1 when a suit brought against the village of Plainview by Mrs. Theresa Rader will be heard. Mrs. Rader is suing for damages allegedly suffered when she fell in the village.

The Blattners were being sued for liability in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McCulloch, St. Paul and Miss Rosemary Nickel, Elyota, who died in the crash on Highway 61 on May 2, 1954. Frank Blattner Jr., who was the driver of the car in which the Elyota girl was riding, died in the Lake City Hospital 10 days later.

Suits were brought by McCulloch survivors, Mrs. Patricia J. Morgan, Badger, Wis. the parents of Rosemary, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Nickel and the Emmco Insurance Co. Emmco sued for $915 collision damages on the McCulloch car. This was decided in favor of the Blattners.

Witnesses in the final day of action were Mrs. Blattner, Mr. and Mrs. William Bruhnke, Rockford, Ill., who were following the Blattner car when the collision took place, and James Peterson, Lake City, who held the Blattner car contract.

Humphrey Says Root River Project Stalled

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Failure of Fillmore and Houston County residents along the Root River to acquire easements and right of way for a $47,200 federal snagging and clearing project and to furnish assurance of maintenance upon completion has killed the proposal for the time being, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has reported.

He made the announcement following notification of the project withdrawal by Brig. Gen. E. C. Itchner, assistant chief of engineers for civil works of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Gen. Itchner told the senator that $47,200 was allocated Aug. 6, 1954, following a study of the Root River flood problem by the district engineer from St. Paul. A request for the study came from residents near the mouth of the river, Itchner said.

Vince Miller, a member of the Rushford Conservancy District Board of Directors, when notified of the announcement today stated: "I received the same notification from Sen. Humphrey and it is a complete mystery to the Rushford Conservancy District. There must be some mistake. We know nothing about this snagging project and have been working closely with the Corps of Engineers on all matters pertaining to floods in the Rush Creek, Root River area."

"Just last week we met with the St. Paul Army Engineers and approved plans for work here. Nothing of this $47,200 project has ever been mentioned."

The snagging project was contingent on local interests furnishing necessary lands, easements and right of way for the work and furnishing assurance of operation and maintenance once the project was completed, the senator said.

"I regret to inform you," Gen. Itchner wrote Humphrey, "that local interests have now determined that they are unable to fulfill the obligations described above, and it is therefore necessary that the construction funds previously allotted to the project be withdrawn for use on urgently needed projects elsewhere in the nation."

"Future reinstatement of the project will be dependent upon the availability of funds at the time such a request is made," he continued, "if the request is accompanied by a bona fide indication that necessary local cooperation will be forthcoming."

Sen. Humphrey concluded, "We just want to make sure the local people agree with this change in plan, or if they still feel we should make a fight to have these funds."

St. Mary's Beats WSTC 4-3 for City College Title

By RALPH REEVE
Daily News Sports Editor

The St. Mary's Redmen won the 1953 Winona city college baseball title by winning 4-3 over Winona State Friday afternoon on windswept Terrace Heights.

Friday's victory, coupled with an earlier 7-5 win by the Redmen in 12 innings at Gabrych Park, gave the Heighers a two-game sweep of the current season's series.

The game ended the season for both teams and the results left the two Winona colleges with identical records of 15 victories and six defeats.

Before Friday's game, Winona State had clinched its seventh Bi-State Conference title in eight years, while St. Mary's finished second in the Minnesota College Conference after tying for the title last season and winning it outright in 1952.

Winona State outlasted St. Mary's 8-5 in Friday's game, but could get only two hits after the second inning as Redmen starter Frank Szumlas got steadily stronger as the game progressed.

Lee Paul started for Winona State but was lifted with one out in the third inning and two St. Mary's runs home. Peter Polus replaced Paul on the mound, retired the next two batters and settled into a pitching duel with Szumlas.

Polus and Szumlas provided the fans attending the game a chance to watch some fine pitching. Both hurled shutout ball the rest of the way.

Polus, in his 5th inning on the mound, gave up only two hits, struck out five and walked only one.

Winona State scored twice in the first inning but St. Mary's came back in the last half of the same frame with two runs to tie the game up.

The Warriors got another in the second, but St. Mary's countered with two in the third to end scoring for the day.

In the Warrior first, Jim Miner led off with a double to center field. After Jerry Grebin and Polus were retired, Evan Davies walked and Billy Wiczorek platted the two runs with a booming triple to right field.

Szumlas got Frank Jaszewski to fly out and end the inning.

St. Mary's countered in the first when, with one out, Ben Palmenter singled, took second on a wild pitch and advanced to third on Tom Hibbs' single.

Hibbs pliffed second and Palmenter scored on Dick Kuehl's infield out, Hibbs going to third on the play. Hibbs scored when Evan Davies threw wild to first on Epp Holten's ground ball to third.

The Warriors got four singles but only one run in the second. Jim Sendelbach opened with a single and with one out was sacrificed to second. Jim Miner's single scored Sendelbach. Grebin followed with a single, sending Miner to third, but he was thrown out at the plate attempting to score when the next batter, Polus, singled to left fielder Dick Kuehl who tossed a perfect strike to St. Mary's catcher Tom Donovan.

Ken Monaco opened St. Mary's third inning by walking, stealing second, taking third on a wild pitch and scoring when an attempted pickoff throw was uncovered. Hibbs walked and went to second on the pickoff throw and scored when Dick Kuehl tripled to right centerfield.

Polus replaced Paul at that point and got the side out when Holten grounded to Davies who threw Kuehl out at the plate and Duane Kuehl grounded out.

First-Inning Fireworks New Yankee Trade Mark

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

How about that crafty old Casey Stengel? He's got himself pitching troubles, so what's he do but get his guys to belt homers and score their runs early to give the New York Yankees a three-game lead in the American League.

Casey's had only 16 complete games from his pitching staff in the 38 contests so far. And so when Bob Turley, who had five complete games, failed a second time to make it six on May 20, the professor worked out the new formula.

The Yanks were half a game out of first on May 20. Since then, they've scored first-inning runs in nine straight games and hit 11 home runs, winning eight times.

It was the same formula last night. They rocked Baltimore for four runs in the first and Whitey Ford coasted home for his sixth victory 6-2.

Without the first-inning support, Ford might not have claimed his fifth complete game. The Orioles got one run back in the first, and another on Chuck Diering's homer in the second.

Eddie Robinson put the power in the opening surge, tagging loser Ery Palica for a three-run homer. The Yanks moved up a half game as Cleveland was rained out at Kansas City. Third-place Chicago dropped a 1-0 game to Detroit and Billy Hoeltz and Boston clobbered Washington 16-0 to take fifth place as rookie Norm Zauchin batted in 10 runs with three homers—one a grand slam.

In the National, New York's Giants cut a four-game losing streak by beating Brooklyn and Carl Erskine 2-1 on home runs. That left the Giants seven lengths back of the Dodgers and a game short of the Chicago Cubs, who were sidetracked by Milwaukee 7-5.

St. Louis regained fifth place by beating Cincinnati 7-4 and Philadelphia won its fifth straight 5-2 in 10 innings at Pittsburgh.

Hoeltz scattered six hits for Detroit and Whitey Ford, benched since May 17 with a .397 batting average, homered to beat Dick Donovan, who had won five straight.

Boston had Ted Williams available for the first time, but a chilly night postponed his comeback. Zauchin, a 214 hitter with only five previous RBIs, fell just one short of the American League's one-game mark.

At New York, Bobby Hofman reached a record. His third pinch homer of the season tied the game at 1-1 in the seventh and tied him with Cy Williams (1912-1930) who pitched six hits for the major league pinch homer mark of nine. Hofman's only in his fifth season.

Willis Mays cut the props from Erskine's seventh victory with a two-run homer to the opposite field in the eighth, giving Sal Maglie his fifth straight victory.

Gene Conley won his seventh of the season for Milwaukee. He needed help from Bob Buhl after seven innings and Buhl had to fan Ted Tappe to end it after loading the bases in the ninth. Sam (No-Hit) Jones lost it, leaving in a three-run fifth after giving six hits and six walks.

A three-run 10th extended Philadelphia's streak with Herm Wehmeier the winner after Andy Seminick's two-run homer tied it in the ninth.

At St. Louis, Rip Repulski homered and doubled as the Cards regained their hitting form for 12 hits to dump the Redlegs into sixth. Luis Arroyo won his fifth with Paul La Palme's help.

Gopher Wins Discus; Nash Timed at 9.4

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Michigan's mighty men, strong in the field and fleet-of-foot departments, were odds-on choices today to take the 55th annual Big Ten track championship.

In Friday's preliminaries, which saw two of fabulous Jesse Owens' 20-year-old records beaten and another tied, the Wolverines qualified 11 men in 6 events for today's finals. Michigan has more than adequate strength in the other seven events to end Illinois' four-year reign in the annual cinder carnival.

Indiana qualified six men, Iowa and Ohio State five, Illinois and Michigan State four, Minnesota and Northwestern three, and Wisconsin and Purdue two each. Owens' records in both the 220-yard hurdles and the 220-yard dash were bettered in the preliminaries, and his 100-yard dash mark was tied twice—but the coaches decided against recognizing the efforts because of winds which aided the runners.

Northwestern's Jim Golliday, aided by a 5.7 m.p.h. wind, streaked around one curve to pace the 220-yard dash in 20.9 seconds, two-tenths under Owens' recognized mark of 21.1. Then Iowa's Les Stevens made the straightaway 220-yard low hurdles in 22.5, a tenth under Owens' 22.6.

Running in separate heats, Golliday and Minnesota's Harry Nash were clocked in 9.4 for the century dash, matching the record of the famed "ebony antelope."

In the only event completed Friday, Jerry Helgeson of Minnesota won the discus with a heave of 159 feet 6 3/4 inches.

The victory kept Toledo in step with the Millers, but six games in arrears and in a virtual second place tie with Louisville.

Trowbridge struck out 10 and walked four. Lefty Joe Margoneri got his sixth triumph against a single loss for Minneapolis, striking out 1 after spotting Omaha a run in the first. The Millers tied it in their half, went ahead 4-1 in the second and ran the margin to 10-1 with six tallies in the third.

Joe Brachitta slammed his first and second homers of the season to drive in five Minneapolis runs. Denver's Wally Burnette set down St. Paul only three safeties—one a double by Walt Moryn—and the Bears took only two innings to wrap it up. Bob Richardson doubled home two runs in the second and Lou Skizas sparked a 4-run burst in the eighth with a 4-bagger good for three tallies. The decision gave Denver the No. 5 spot in league standings, two percentage points ahead of St. Paul.

Nashua Known To Run Hard Enough to Win

Belair Stud Colt Favored to Cop Today's Preakness

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—Nashua, a horse with a pronounced penchant to run just enough and no more to win when he can, meets a gang of eight hoping he might cut it too fine in the 79th running of the Preakness today.

Some of the trainers themselves were wondering why they and others had entries against the formidable Nashua except that so far he has run away from nobody. Johnny McCreary, an old Irishman who exercises the big and indifferent colt for Belair Stud, summed up Nashua's attitude.

"If he ran against a bunch of pigs, he'd go just fast enough to beat them."

Nashua's eight opponents in the mile and three sixteenths Preakness aren't a really distinguished lot, but neither are they pigs.

The biggest margin Nashua has won by in his 10 victories has been three lengths and that was his first start, which might have given him an idea racing is an easy business. Since then he hasn't won by more than a length and a half. Two of his three losses have been by the same distance, including to Swaps in the Kentucky Derby three weeks ago, and the other by a neck.

He won two others by a head and another three he saved by his neck.

Chuck Thompson, Montpelier running against him today are B & G Stable's Sticks, Roslyn Farm's Go Lightly, Gee Cohen's Sticks' Sticks, W.L. Ranch's Honey Alibi, Duntreath Farm's Fleet Path, Everglades Farm's Nance's Lad and Clifford Moores' Traffic Judge.

Also a big attraction is the fact that besides the $68,050 for first prize, there is $25,000 for second, $15,000 for third and $7,500 for fourth.

For instance, Sticks has been no better than fourth in six races this year and the paltry sum of $590 is his income. Fleet Path and Chuck Thompson have won only once this season, being outdistanced as recently as Monday at Pimlico by Honey Alibi.

Among the trainers, only Woody Stephens of Traffic Judge wasn't talking entirely about conceding first to Nashua.

"It's like running against the devil," he said, "but you'll never know if you don't try."

The nine are scheduled to go off at 4:45 p.m. EST, with CBS television and radio covering it.

Ax May Fall On Cardinals' Eddie Stanky

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Is fiery Eddie Stanky out as St. Louis Cardinal manager?

A tidal wave of rumors here and in Rochester, N. Y., say that the former New York Giant infielder is out and that Harry Walker, manager of the Rochester farm club, is in.

Bill Walsingham, Redbird vice president, also denied that Stanky was about to make his departure.

The rumors began here several days ago as the club ended a brief, but bad, road trip in which they dropped six of seven games and Eddie reportedly displayed some temper.

The rumors got into print Friday when J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, said in a copyrighted story that Stanky's tenure as Redbird pilot is "nearing the end of the road."

The man who has the answer—August A. Busch, president of the ball club and of Anheuser-Busch, the club's owner—could not be reached, but sports writers here considered it significant that Busch has not come to Stanky's defense as he did last July during another hot spot in his managerial career.

At that time Busch was asked if Stanky would be fired and he replied: "No, I believe in giving a fellow a hullaiva chance."

In Rochester, George Beahon, sports columnist for the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle, said Friday night he learned positively that Walker would replace Stanky within 48 hours.

Walker left the ball park in the middle of a close game with Toronto last night. It wasn't learned immediately where Walker went but club officials said they thought he had left town.

Walker is a brother of Dixie Walker, now a coach under Stanky.

Drivers Pick McGrath to Win Speedway Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Jack McGrath of Ingleside, Calif., will win the 500-mile auto race Monday if the men who should know have guessed right.

Members of the champion 100-mile-an-hour club picked McGrath at the annual dinner Friday night.

They are drivers who have gone all the way in the 500 at speeds of more than 100 miles per hour.

McGrath received seven votes. There were four for Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz.; two for Art Cross of La Porte, Ind., and one each for Jim Rathmann of Miami, Sam Hanks of Burbank, Calif., Fred Agabashian of Albany, Calif., and Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif.

Several drivers who will be competing Monday did not vote. Lee Wallard of Tampa, Fla., 1951 race winner, was elected president of the club.

Seth Klein of Hollywood, Fla., chief starter of the race from 1925 through 1952, received the annual award given to a non-member for outstanding contributions to auto racing.

Walker, now a coach under Stanky.

Costa Earns Saddler Shot On Perez Win

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Carmelo Costa, a 21-year-old Brooklyn featherweight who didn't fight his first main event until June 14, gets the next shot at champion Sandy Saddler.

"Billy Brown, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, tapped Costa for the job last night after he had swarmed all over dancing Lulu Perez to win a unanimous decision in a 10-round "Battle of Brooklyn."

Brown said the title bout would be held in July or August, presumably as a part of the Wednesday night TV series from the Garden.

Costa, ranked No. 6 among the contenders, probably boosted his rating by the way he handled Perez, the No. 7 man in the 126-pound class. Walking into Perez's best punches, Costa scored repeatedly with a right hand lead to the body, followed by a left hook to the head. He found Perez open for a hook, just as Percy Bassett did last June when he knocked out Lulu in a featherweight elimination bout.

Costa weighed 129 3/4, Perez 126 3/4.

Ted's Presence On Team Helps Says Zauchin

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams is helping the Boston Red Sox just sitting on the bench attests Norm Zauchin after driving in 10 runs with three homers and a double.

Zauchin credited Williams with invaluable tips Friday night after he went on a batting spree against Washington that brought him within one of the American League record for RBIs in a single game. Boston won 16-0.

"It's great to have Williams around," Zauchin beamed in the dressing room. "While he's been working out I've talked to him about hitting—little things, but they've helped."

Williams, the 36-year-old left-handed slugger, sat on the bench for the first time Friday night only hours after he'd been switched to the active list from the restricted list by American League headquarters. Manager Mike Higgins decided to use him in a pinch-hitting role if the occasion arose but Zauchin had things well in hand.

Redwood Falls Cage Coach Quits

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn. (AP)—Duane Meyer, head basketball coach at Redwood Falls High School since 1951, has resigned to enter sales work. In four seasons, his teams won 31 games and lost 45, winding up as district tournament semi-finalists in 1952 and district runners-up in 1954. He was a four-year letterman in basketball, football and baseball at Hamline.

How D'ya Stop Minneapolis?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How do seven baseball teams stop another that has won 11 of 12 one-run games, is on a 6-game win streak and boasts four 300 hitters?

American Assn. clubs ponder the case of Minneapolis, which clobbered Omaha 17-6 Friday night with a 17-hit attack that included four homers and six doubles. The run output tied the season's previous high for the league leaders.

Fine pitching marked other loop games as Denver whitewashed St. Paul, 6-0. Indianapolis shoved Charleston deeper into the cellar, 3-0, and Toledo rapped Louisville 4-1 on Bob Trowbridge's one hit.

The victory kept Toledo in step with the Millers, but six games in arrears and in a virtual second place tie with Louisville.

Trowbridge struck out 10 and walked four. Lefty Joe Margoneri got his sixth triumph against a single loss for Minneapolis, striking out 1 after spotting Omaha a run in the first. The Millers tied it in their half, went ahead 4-1 in the second and ran the margin to 10-1 with six tallies in the third.

Joe Brachitta slammed his first and second homers of the season to drive in five Minneapolis runs. Denver's Wally Burnette set down St. Paul only three safeties—one a double by Walt Moryn—and the Bears took only two innings to wrap it up. Bob Richardson doubled home two runs in the second and Lou Skizas sparked a 4-run burst in the eighth with a 4-bagger good for three tallies. The decision gave Denver the No. 5 spot in league standings, two percentage points ahead of St. Paul.
