General Clamps New Controls On Argentina

Peron Remains
In Seclusion
At Residence

By SAM SUMMERLIN
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (U)—Argentina's new armed forces chief, Gen. Franklin Lucero, pressed grimly ahead today with efforts to return revolt-bloodied Argentina to normal.

The 57-year-old army minister, who vaulted into the spotlight after his troops rescued President Juan Peron's government from Thursday's navy revolt, called on the nation last night to stamp out "false alarms" disturbing efforts to restore peace. He signed his communique as "Commander in Chief of the Forces of Repression."

Lucero and other military leaders were to take part today in a ceremony in bomb-blasted Plaza de Mayo commemorating Gen. Manuel Belgrano, who created the Argentine flag. The prominence given the military in advance announcements of the observance underscored the army control of the country.

Change in Rule
(News dispatches from Argentina are subject to censorship imposed after the revolt. An Associated Press dispatch from Montevideo said Argentine refugees in the Uruguayan capital had learned in telephone calls to Buenos Aires that army leaders were negotiating with Peron and the navy in an effort to set up a three-man ruling junta consisting of Peron, Lucero and Rear Adm. Alberto Teisaire, the vice president.)

Evidencing his new importance, Lucero spent a crowded Sunday morning inspecting security emplacements and troop positions in the capital. Later he went to the Army Ministry, where he worked the rest of the day on plans and orders for the country.

In contrast, Peron remained in seclusion in his residence, although he reportedly kept in touch with government officials. He did not visit his temporary office in the Army Ministry, where he had moved after Thursday's revolt destroyed his office in Government House.

Return to Normal
Urging his countrymen to aid in stemming the flood of false reports, Lucero's communique charged, "People interested in impeding the return to a normal situation continue circulating alarming rumors, completely unfounded and devoid of truth."

He branded as completely false reports that rebellious army units were marching on Buenos Aires from outlying regions, and that there had been naval bombardments and garrison uprisings in the interior.

Lucero declared that the only troop movements were men returning to their garrisons. He added that navy forces remain loyal and that airplanes seen flying overhead were operating only on vigilance missions.

Youngdahl's Son Ordained

ST. PAUL (U)—Luther W. Youngdahl Jr., son of former Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl, now a federal judge, was among 62 men ordained into the Lutheran ministry here Sunday.

The ordination service was the concluding event of the 96th annual synod of the Augustana Lutheran Church.

Former Gov. and Mrs. Youngdahl, and young Luther's uncle, the Rev. Reuben Youngdahl, Minneapolis pastor, were present for the ceremony.

Another former governor, C. Elmer Anderson, Brainerd, and Gov. Freeman, as well as former Gov. Youngdahl participated in a convention service Saturday night.

Warren Speaker At Celebration to Honor LaFollette

MADISON (U)—Over 1,000 persons paid tribute and honor Sunday to "Fighting Bob" LaFollette in a centennial celebration in memory of Wisconsin's famed son.

Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, told an outdoor gathering the dynamic principles and fighting spirit of LaFollette are needed today to preserve the union.

The address followed a pilgrimage by Warren, state political leaders and some 100 veterans of the old Progressive party to the hamlet of Primrose in Dane County where Robert M. LaFollette Sr. was born in a farmhouse June 14, 1855.

From there LaFollette rose to become governor, United States representative, and founder of the Progressive Party, and was serving his fourth term in the United States Senate when he died in 1925.

He was the Progressive candidate for president in 1924. "Robert LaFollette believed," Justice Warren said, "that the substance of our government is not to be found in its form but in the eternal principles upon which it is based and which, if preserved, must be fought for by courageous men and women in every generation."

"He believed implicitly in our system but he believed it belonged to the people—that it should not be shackled and that every hindrance should be removed from it in order to enable it to progress so that it might produce a better life for every man and woman and their children."

"These were the principles of the Wisconsin idea of which he was the father. These were motive power in his laboratory of human problems."

Justice Warren was introduced by Philip LaFollette, son of the late Robert Sr. who also was governor but now lives at Bayside, N.Y. Another son, Robert Jr. succeeded his father in the Senate and died in 1953.

Hibbing Man Jailed In Bicyclist's Death

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A young Hibbing man was held today on charges that he left the scene of an accident in which a bicyclist was killed.

In jail in the northern Minnesota city was Jack Van Damme, 20. St. Louis County sheriff's officers arrested the youth at his home Sunday, several hours after the death of August Luoma, 36, Chisholm.

Luoma died of a broken neck Saturday night when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car on Highway 73, about six miles north of Chisholm. The impact threw Luoma 90 feet through the air.

Deputy Sheriff Allen Johnson, Hibbing, said a passenger in Van Damme's car, John Hocking, 19, Hibbing, remained at the scene of the accident but the driver left. Hocking was questioned and released.

Death of Luoma and other weekend traffic victims raised Minnesota's 1955 highway toll to 237, compared with 268 during the same period last year.

Appleton Woman Killed
Mrs. George Danielson, 60, Appleton, was killed Sunday in the collision of her son's car and another vehicle near Redwood Falls.

The son, B. H. Bartz of Minneapolis, suffered cuts and bruises. The other driver, Neil Jakes Pegler, 19, Cosmos, escaped injury.

2 N.D. Brothers Overcome by Gas Still Unconscious

WILLISTON, N. D. (U)—Two Williston brothers, overcome by carbon monoxide gas, were in their 10th day of unconsciousness today at Mercy Hospital.

An attending physician said there was no change in the condition of James and Tom Stannard. James is 21, his brother 19.

The brothers were found overcome on the morning of June 11. They had been sleeping in a small house on the family farm south of Rawson and apparently were poisoned by fumes from a gas refrigerator.

Neither youth has stirred since being brought to the hospital here. Their physician described them as being "fully unconscious," and there has been no indication the youths were snapping out of the unconscious state.

"But they are alive and otherwise in good condition," he said. By that, the physicians said he meant their hearts are beating properly and their kidneys and other organs seem to be functioning properly. The two have been fed through tubes during their stay in the hospital.

DETROIT LAKES, Minn. (U)—James E. Norby, 64, lifelong resident of Detroit Lakes and head of the L. J. Norby Co. department store here, died Saturday night following a short illness. He was a former park board member and also was active in civic and social groups here.

Italian Premier's Cabinet Resigns
ROME (U)—Premier Mario Scelba's cabinet resigned today to open the way for a reshuffle of the government.

Scelba is expected to complete a switch in Cabinet posts in time to present his rearranged Cabinet to Parliament for a crucial test of confidence later this week.

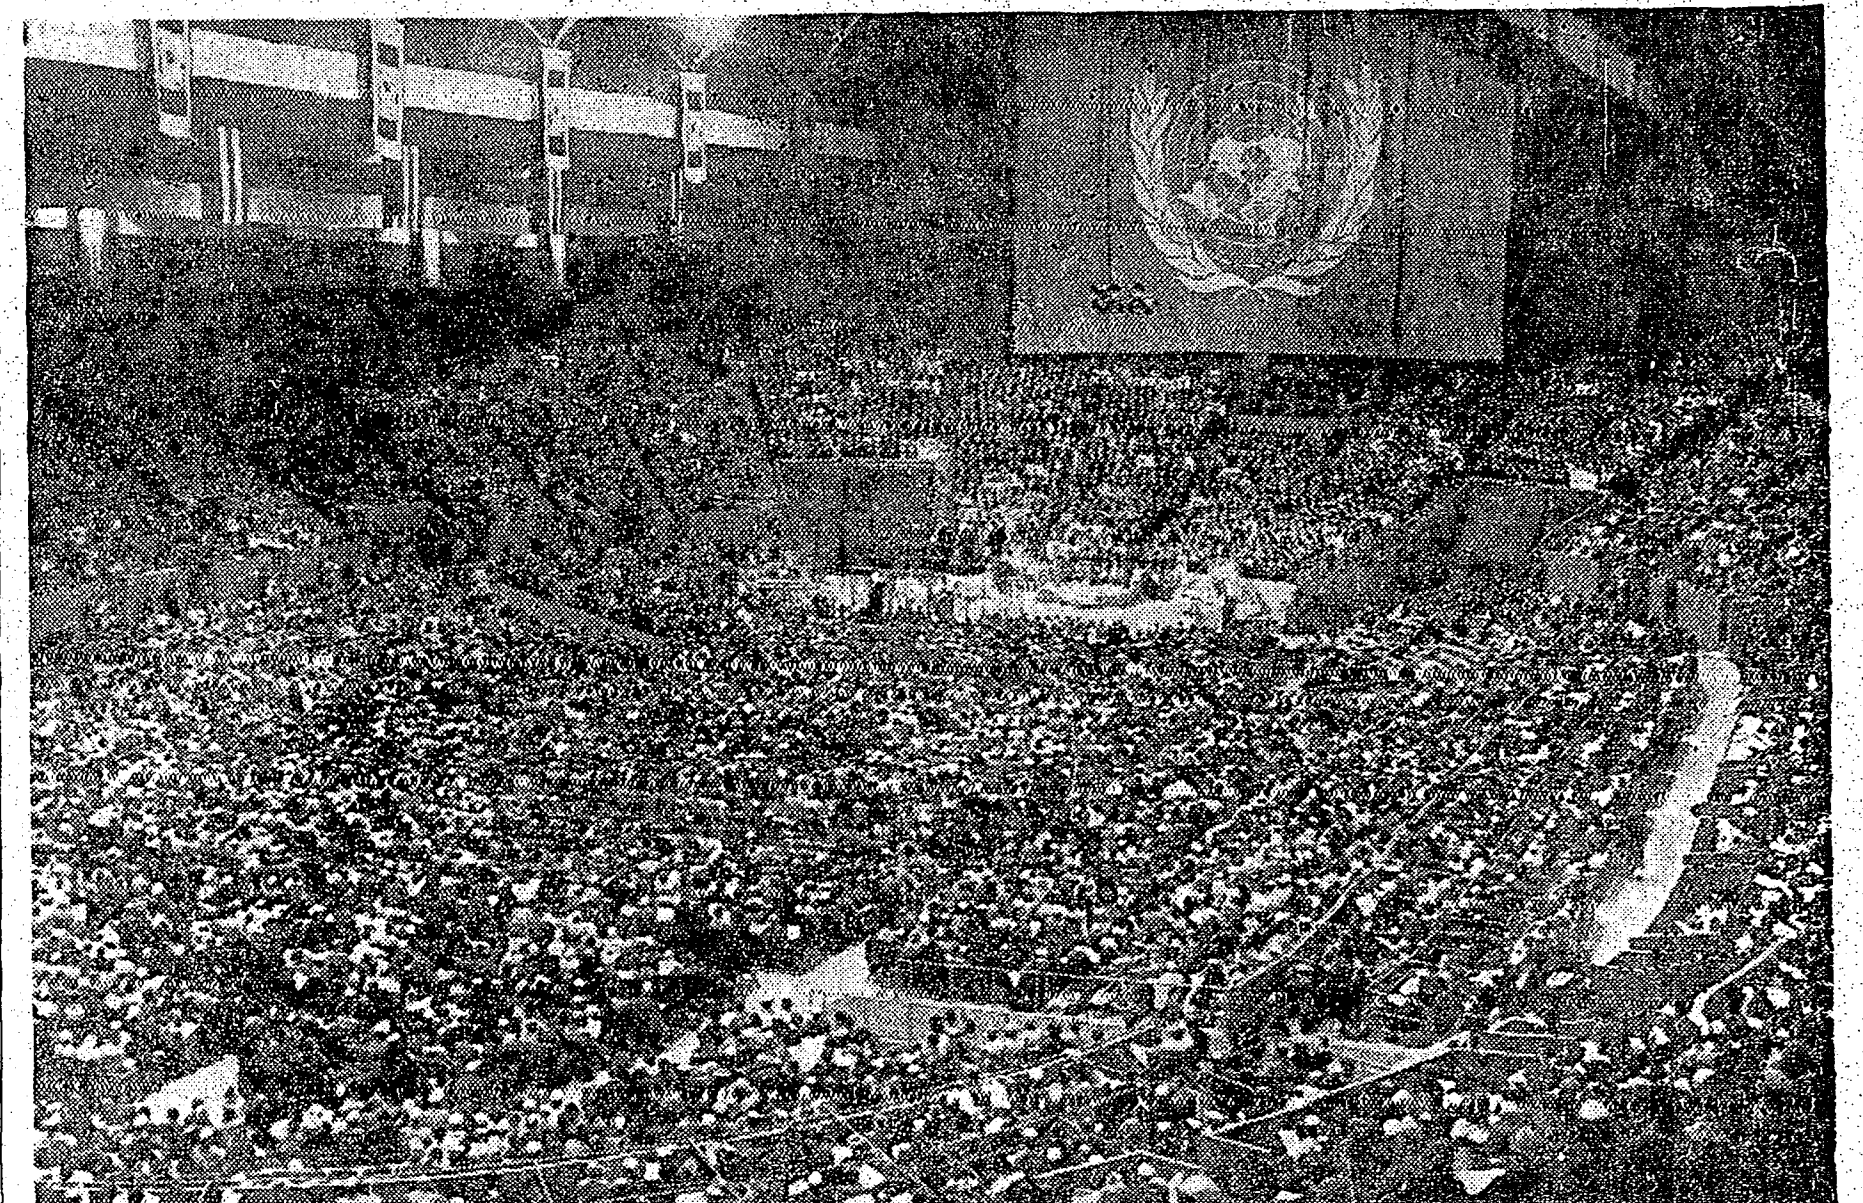

Scelba's 15-month-old center bloc government coalition has been under attack recently both by members of his own Christian Democrat party and the extreme political right and left.

It appeared that Scelba, who is interior minister as well as premier, has a fair chance of forming a Cabinet that would enable him to win the test vote.

The government has been accused of slackness in promoting economic and other reforms.

Polio Experts Suggest Shots During Summer

NEW YORK (U)—A group of top polio experts has advised that children be given antipolio shots during the summer months even though this is the peak season for the disease.

After a conference called by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to determine whether to continue polio injections during the summer, the authorities issued a statement Saturday saying:

"The slight hazard of provocation (causing paralysis) is insufficient to limit the injection of poliomyelitis vaccine even in the presence of a rising incidence of poliomyelitis in the community."

Among 30 persons on the board of experts were U.S. Surgeon General Leonard Scheele, Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine, and Dr. Thomas B. Francis of the University of Michigan, who directed analysis of last year's vaccine field tests.

The National Foundation viewed the group's decision as a sign to go ahead with the vaccine program which many communities stopped as the polio season approached.

The conferees said the benefits to be gained from antipolio shots increase with the severity of the polio epidemic. They said this is because "a proportionately large number of paralytic cases would be prevented during the period of the epidemic."

Air Force Clears Returning Jet Ace

WASHINGTON (U)—An Air Force spokesman says a false germ warfare confession was obtained by Chinese Communists from one of four returned American jet pilots, but no disciplinary action against the officer is planned.

He named the flier as Capt. Harold Fischer Jr., of Swea City, Iowa, a double jet ace of the Korean War who was released May 31 after more than two years in Chinese prison camps.

The spokesman said Fischer and three other fliers released with him also "confessed" to crossing the Yalu River into Chinese territory under Air Force orders. But he said no such orders had been given.

The spokesman said the actions of all four men are under study, but he indicated they probably "will be given a clean bill of health."

The Air Force has declined to discipline any of its men for actions while they were Chinese prisoners, on the ground they were acting under pressure of Communist mistreatment.

The Marine Corps likewise declined to bring court-martial proceedings against Col. Frank Schwabe, a flier who made a false germ warfare confession. The Army, on the other hand, has convicted four former prisoners of war on charges of collaborating with the enemy, and has filed charges against a number of others.

The officers released with Fischer are Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, Wynnewood, Pa.; Lt. Lyle Cameron, Lincoln, Neb.; and Lt. Roland Parks, Omaha, Neb. The four were tried May 24 on Communist charges of "intruding into China for harassment and provocative attack." Heller told a news conference in Honolulu June 2 that all four pleaded guilty and were ordered "deported" to the United States.

What was left of a general store and three homes burned after the winds struck. A lumber yard was scattered for blocks. Automobiles were overturned on the streets, and trees were uprooted.

Ron Ridley, his wife and two children, Cynthia, 4, and Rodney, 2, were in their home when the tornado hit. The frame house was lifted, tossed 300 feet, then dropped in a heap. The family crawled out of the debris, suffering only minor injuries.

Opens U.N.'s Anniversary at San Francisco

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
SAN FRANCISCO (U)—President Eisenhower today urged the United Nations to strive anew for "a glorious way of life" in which "the atom, dedicated once as man's slayer will become his most productive servant."

In a major address opening U.N. tenth anniversary ceremonies the President also pledged that the United States at the forthcoming Big Four conference will do everything in its power to help the world move toward that goal of peace in this "season of high hope for the world."

Eisenhower maintained his cautious attitude about the "at summit" conference, however, saying in his prepared address:

"Within a month (July 18-21 at Geneva) there will be a four power conference of the heads of government. Whether or not we shall then reach the initial decisions that will start dismantling the terrible apparatus of fear and mistrust and weapons erected since the end of World War II, I do not know."

Basis for Success
Then he went on to say that the basis for success of the meeting of the Big Four — Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden of Great Britain, Premier Faure of France and Premier Bulganin of Russia — is simply put:

"It is that every individual at that meeting be loyal to the spirit of the United Nations and dedicated to the principles of its charter."

"I can solemnly pledge to you here — and to all of the men and women of the world who may read or hear my words — that those who represent the United States will strive to be thus loyal thus dedicated."

Speaking in the War Memorial opera house where 10 years ago the U.N. was founded, the President said the organization has had both its successes and failures in the first decade of existence, then declared:

"The object of our second decade is still peace — but a peace of such a new kind that all the world will think anew and act anew."

"It cannot be a mere stifling of the guns — it must be a glorious way of life. In that life the atom, dedicated once as man's slayer, will become his most productive servant."

"It will be a peace to inspire confidence and faith so that all peoples will be released from the dread fear of war. Scientists will be liberated to work always for men never against them."

"Who can doubt that in the next 10 years world science can so beat down the ravages of disease (Continued on Page 3, Column 3.)

Discuss Red Satellites Now, McCarthy Asks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) demanded anew Sunday that the United States insist before the Big Four Conference next month discuss "the disposition of the nations of eastern Europe and Asia now under Communist control."

Noting that Russia had stated that the subject would not be discussed at the Geneva "summit" meeting, McCarthy said any attempt to bring it up during the talks would fail.

"If the President starts talking about the satellite countries without such prior understanding, the Kremlin leaders will simply not listen," he said.

McCarthy announced in a statement that he will introduce a resolution today by which the Senate would ask Secretary of State Dulles to get Russia, Britain and France to agree to the discussion. He suggested this be accomplished at the foreign ministers' meeting in San Francisco this week "or at such other meeting or occasion as may be appropriate" before the Geneva session.

Failure to discuss the countries under Communist control, McCarthy said, would imply recognition of Communist domination of the areas and thereby establish "a permanent threat to the safety, peace and independence of the United States."

McCarthy made similar demands in a Senate speech last week and said President Eisenhower "has agreed to play with a stacked deck." He said the President made a "tragic blunder" in agreeing to the Big Four talks.

Canadian Parliament Hearing More French

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Canada is officially a two-language country, and nowadays French is being heard frequently in Parliament.

Only 10 years ago, the chief stenographer of the House of Commons recalls, a month might pass without a word in French. Now there's daily use of Canada's second language.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, fully bilingual, replies in French when legislators ask him questions in the language. George Drew, leader of the opposition, learned to speak French only a few years ago; now he uses it in formally introducing newly elected French speakers of his Progressive Conservative party.

Chief Stenographer Paul Frenette recalls that all members before 1949 were called "mister." Today both "mister" and "mon sieur" are in order. Speaker Rene Beaudoin greets official visitors in both languages and makes rulings in the language used by the member he addresses. When addressing the House as a whole he uses English, the language of the majority of members.

IN the leisurely days of the Gay Nineties and the early 1900s the village barbershop was a man's club, a male paradise. Often under the gaslight it resounded with masculine voices singing spontaneous close harmony—"Sweet Adeline," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "Heart of My Heart," "Old Black Joe" and many other plaintive ballads—the old barbershop quartet. Alas, that in this day of hustle, conformity, and women taking over—alas, that this great American institution had to go the way of the mustache cup.

But dry your tears. The old barbershop quartet is back again stronger than ever. Back in 1938 a Tulsa, Okla., attorney named Cash got fed up with the syrupy flow of jukebox music, the lack of spontaneous enthusiastic singing. So he invited a few friends to a quartet singing party on the roof garden of the Tulsa Club. Twenty-six men attended and had so much fun singing that they had another session the following week.

Over 70 men showed up for this second meeting. The third week 150 men came, and the police force had to break up a traffic jam of people in the street listening to the singing coming from the roof garden. A story appeared in the Tulsa paper, and the wire services picked it up. The idea spread like a forest fire. All over the Middle West men formed branches of this new Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing.

Today there are over 600 such clubs in the U.S. in every state in Union.

Attorney Cash who was so fed up with the canned conformity of music had unwittingly hit a sympathetic chord in the hearts of men, most of whom are frustrated close harmony artists. Today the spontaneous plaintive or gay singing of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing resounds not only throughout America but around the world, and International Quartet Contests are held annually.

Winona has a young attorney, Richard Darby, who has been a barbershop quartet singer in Owatonna, Detroit Lakes, Duluth and other places. With Ed Eckert, Jim Carlson and John Sacher he has formed a Barbershop Quartet called "The Dis-chords" which has sung for local clubs like the Who's New Club. Half a dozen additional Winona men join them in barbershop chorus singing. Any other men interested in barbershop singing are asked to contact Richard Darby who is now forming a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing.

"You don't have to sing to be a member," he said. "Lots of members are what we call 'erows.' That is, they sit on the fence and listen to singing. The women's auxiliary of the society is called 'The Sweet Adelines.' We have real fun doing old songs with original 'swipes.' When there are several chords on each melody note they're called 'swipes—you can get some wonderful effects with swipes."

He added, "The society sends us wonderful arrangements of songs. Oh yes—we, the Dis-chords, are going to sing in the barbershop show 'Showboat' that our local Jaycees are bringing to Winona on Saturday, June 25. There's some wonderful barbershop singing in that show. Like the Atomic Bums quartet of Minneapolis—they were finalists last year in the International Quartet Contest. I hope everybody'll go to 'Showboat'—and then join the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing which we're forming."

Well, it sounds like enormous fun—both the idea of a Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing and the show featuring barbershop singing on June 25.

Excellent Suggestion Accompanies Present

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Paul Butler arrived here last night for talks with Mrs. H. H. Weinert, Texas Democratic national committeewoman, and received a quick present—a bottle of tequila, potent Mexican drink. But a woman's voice floated out of the audience suggesting that if he decided to drink it to take three days off—two to recuperate.

Freeman Praises 47th After Tour At Camp Ripley

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP)—Men of the 47th Infantry Division here got a pat on the back from Gov. Freeman over the weekend as he inspected the Minnesota National Guard training site.

A World War II Marine captain, Freeman said he was "very impressed with the high state of morale, preparation and training here."

Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Nelson, Minnesota adjutant general, his staff and his predecessors were praised by the governor for their "foresight" in laying out and planning the future of Camp Ripley. Further expansion of the camp to permit firing by Minnesota anti-aircraft units here instead of in Wisconsin would be "sound," Freeman said.

The governor viewed some 6,000 men of the Viking division as they passed in review. The parade honored 63-year-old M. Sgt. Paul Redpath of Minneapolis, who has 29 years of service behind him. He and four officers received the Minnesota medal of merit or other awards.

They were Brig. Gen. Fritz A. Peterson, Minneapolis; Col. William S. Williams, Minneapolis; Lt. Col. Alf K. Stratte, Pine City, and Capt. Robert Olson, Brainerd.

Meanwhile, the camp's public information section reported this year's training period has more chaplains on duty than any year since the camp opened in 1931. Eleven ministers and priests are

Boy Takes Car on Expensive Trip

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Maxine Metzen agreed to let her 13-year-old son, Edward Jr., take the wheel of the family car yesterday. He was to drive the car up the driveway into the garage, but he apparently confused the brake and accelerator. Sgt. Frederick A. Olson, who is in charge of postal operations for the Viking Division, reported the 6,000 men receive an average of 4,500 letters a day.

Film Stars to Capitalize on 'Wedded Bliss'

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the story of Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, a Christmas tree in June and a battling couple of married stars.

No, Ida and Howard are not the pair. Not in real life, anyway.

"Our own marriage is in fine shape," says Ida, knocking on the nearest wood.

"Twas not always so, as readers of gossip columns can attest and the Duffs readily admit. Now they plan to capitalize on their stormy marriage with a TV series that sounds like a natural.

Originally it was to be called "Mr. and Mrs. Duff." Now they're seeking rights to the title "His and Hers." Ida and Howard will portray film stars whose professional and private lives are far from serene.

What about the Duffs themselves? They seem the picture of domestic bliss. That's where the Christmas tree figures.

Visitors to their spacious bungalow near the Riviera Golf Course are startled to find a large white Christmas tree in the front hallway. Decorated and everything.

"It's like this," Ida explained. "Last December was our first real Christmas together—Howard, Bridget, (their three-year-old) and I. We had such a wonderful time that we wished the Christmas spirit could extend through the whole year.

"That gave us the idea of keeping the tree up. It has worked wonders. Everything has been happy ever since."

Dallas Police Trace 'Unearthly Sounds'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A shapely 17-year-old blonde and her two boy friends were arrested last night for causing the noises that filled a suburban Dallas woodland with "the shrieks of lost souls."

Police said the trio honked their horns and yelled — disturbing 65 peafowl on an estate at the city limits. The cries of the frightened birds, unearthly at best, had given rise to a legend that the estate was haunted.

Children Getting Polio Shots Asked To Leave School

FRANKLIN LAKES, N. J. (AP) — Eight youngsters who received Salk and Koplik vaccine shots have been asked by the Board of Education to stay away from school for the remainder of the term.

The board's action followed reports that parents of other pupils fear the inoculated children might be polio carriers.

School officials telephoned the parents of the eight yesterday on the advice of the Board of Health. This polio-conscious community had planned to go along with inoculation of its less than 200 first and second-graders last April but the Board of Health reversed itself last month and recommended postponement of the program until fall.

Franklin Lakes, with 2,300 residents, had three polio cases last November, including two fatal ones. As a result, the community is especially concerned about the disease.

The parents of 173 first and second-graders authorized the inoculations last April. There are a total of 181 children in the two grades here.

But last month, the Health Board suggested the delay and most parents withdrew permission — except five families to which the eight children belong.

The National Education Assn. says adequate classrooms provide 30 square feet of floor space for each elementary school pupil and 25 square feet for each high school student.

It Happened Last Night Rules for Air Travel, Other Exclusive Advice

By EARL WILSON

ATHENS — There's one thing that upsets me when I'm trying to show off my French to a Greek or Turk, assisted, let's say, by a waiter interpreting my French for me. That's when my interpreter, trying to explain my French, says, "Sorrerie, I don't understand you."

Yet it happens to others besides me, for we Americans get cockier and cockier about our own language.

"Sure, the Swiss are great linguists; they talk Swiss, German, French and Italian," said my B.W. "But so am I."

"You don't talk anything," I snapped.

"America's a big country," she mentioned. "O.K., so I talk Brooklyneese, Ohioese, Texaseese and Holywoodese. I'll bet they are as different as the European languages."

I told her I didn't think so. I think also that one of the rules of good behavior is to tell our foreign brethren that their language is the most musical of all.

Another rule of safe travel — especially air — is to remember that the pilots are mostly wolves.

"When you see your captain making a bee-line for you, transfer your wife and your wallet to the other side," has advised some sage employed by Air India.

Another tip:

"Remember, never be superior to the beggar. He makes more money than you do, and if you're nice to him, he may even give you credit."

Still another:

"True to traditions of India, our hostesses will embrace thee at thy destination... they're recovering our silverware from your pockets."

The airline also advises male passengers how to use electric razors. It seems a few have enjoyed using them all right, but not until after they've lathered their faces.

As for getting off the plane to pursue to another city a girl as luscious even as the Greek beauty Betty George, remember there may be two costs involved: The cost of pursuing, and the cost of canceling the plane ticket, which in Europe sometimes runs 20 to 50 per cent.

The cost of a woman companion in Europe seems to be even higher, if possible.

Adenauer Starts Plans for Talks With Russians

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer got back to his homework today in preparation for a possible meeting with the Russians.

The 79-year-old Chancellor returned home last night from a strenuous week of visits in Washington, New York and London during which he assured top Western statesmen of his government's loyalty to the Atlantic Alliance.

He declared on arrival that West German views on such coming developments as the Big Four "summit" conference "coincide fully with those of President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and Prime Minister Eden."

Evidently tired by his eight days of traveling, Adenauer had to be reminded by his new foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano, of the French.

He stepped back to the microphone to describe French-German relations as "extraordinarily heartless."

He said he had "very useful and important discussions" in Washington. In London yesterday, he said, he and Eden "discussed the whole present situation in full frankness."

On his trip, Adenauer stressed publicly that his government will "remain a good partner to the West" even though he will "probably" accept the Russian invitation to go to Moscow to discuss establishing trade and diplomatic relations.

He indicated that he would not visit the Soviets until after the Big Four talks in July. But a London report last night suggested that the British think it might be a good idea for him to sound out Moscow intentions before the Geneva conference.

People of Berlin Promised U.S. Help Against Communists

CHICAGO (AP) — Ambassador James B. Conant said today the United States will back the people of Berlin against any Communist effort to "tamper with the present status or harass the population."

"We shall remain in Berlin," he said, "until that city is the capital of a Germany reunited in peace and freedom."

In an address prepared for the United League Club, Conant said Russia is well aware that "We will not tolerate any changes that would interfere with the lifeline of the city, or that would arrest the city's gradual process of recovery."

Conant expressed confidence that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government would never barter away its security in exchange for "the doubtful promises of the Kremlin" involved in any sham reunification plan.

Adenauer and his government realize, he said, that German unity is not an isolated problem but "part and parcel of a global problem."

"The forthcoming summit meeting will provide a strategic opportunity to probe the nature and the scope of the Soviet government's recently developed symptoms of flexibility," he said.

Catholics Clash With Belgian Premier's Son

OOSTENDE, Belgium (AP) — Irate Catholics clashed with the son of Belgium's Socialist Premier Achille Van Acker in a local cafe yesterday after a demonstration against the government's education policies.

Frank Van Acker and a party of friends were sitting outside the cafe watching the Catholics parade. The marchers spotted them and a fight began. A window and a few glasses were broken before police stopped the skirmish.

One of the Catholic demonstrators died later of a heart attack, police said.

State Steps in, Orders Treatment Of Baby Girl

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (AP) — A 10-day-old baby girl was reported slightly improved but still in critical condition today after new blood was pumped into her veins. Her parents had blocked the transfusion on religious grounds until the state stepped in and took custody.

Several transfusions have been given to Gail Bertinotto, of Palisades Park, at Englewood Hospital to correct an Rh negative blood factor which slows production of red corpuscles.

Guard Training At McCoy Starts Tactical Problem

CAMP MCCOY, Wis. (AP) — Training of Wisconsin's 32nd National Guard division shifts to the field today as most of the division begins a 48-hour tactical problem.

All elements except the combat troops were scheduled to move out to bivouac area today for the exercises.

The aggressor forces in the problem will be made up of regular Army men stationed here. The aggressors will speak a different language — at least in the presence of the "enemy" — and will wear distinctive uniforms.

A theoretical atomic weapons storage point will be the target of the aggressor forces. It will be the job of the Red Arrow division to defend the storage point and repulse the attack.

Little Change In Policies in French Voting

PARIS (AP) — Half of France's upper house was renewed yesterday in the nation's biggest electoral test before the 1958 national assembly elections. The results showed little change in the political climate, with the major French parties swapping only six seats so far.

The vote for members of the Council of the Republic (Senate) went almost unnoticed. It was an indirect election with the public having no part.

The campaign has been extremely quiet—confined mostly to luncheons and small get-togethers among professional politicians.

The Senate is the advisory upper house of the French Parliament. Its members are elected for six-year terms, with half the group named each three years. It can delay legislation, but cannot finally veto actions of the dominant assembly.

The electing was done by deputies of the lower house, members of the municipal councils, members of regional councils and some supplementary electors representing larger towns.

Up for renewal yesterday were 153 seats—123 from metropolitan France, 5 from Algeria and 25 from overseas areas. The National Assembly will name six additional senators next month to represent Frenchmen living in Morocco, Tunisia and other foreign territories.

Crowd at Rural Schools Meeting Held at Whitehall

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—The annual convention of the Trempealeau County Rural Schools Association at the Elk Creek School was attended by the largest group in the history of the organization, according to President Carl Reinhold, Independence.

Named with Reinhold were: Clarence Haugen, Whitehall, vice president; Mrs. Ida Stollpflug, Galesville, secretary - treasurer, and Joe Girerok and Emil Skroch, Independence; Jake Blaha, Ettrick; Ralph Waldera, Arcadia, and Sverre Aasen, Arthur Ringlien, Palmer, Hanson, Jennings Dahl and Eldon Schrobahn, Whitehall, directors.

Luther Larson, president of the Friends of Minnesota Schools, was the principal speaker. His subject was school district reorganization in Minnesota and nationally.

"We have arrived at a turning point," Larson declared. "People are beginning to realize that better education is not the purpose of reorganization and better education is not to be found in the larger schools."

Larger districts and larger schools mean bigger costs and bigger taxes," he said. He compared the bonding and borrowing powers of school districts in Minnesota and Wisconsin. In that respect he indicated that Minnesota is far ahead of Wisconsin in that Wisconsin is limited to 5 per cent, while Minnesota is at present limited to 50 per cent of assessed valuation and is considering raising the limit to 80 per cent.

Also on the program were entertainment numbers furnished by the Pleasantville square dancers and the Elk Creek school pupils.

Jake Blaha, Ettrick, president at the meeting, Carl Reinhold, president of the Friends of Rural Education, gave a summary of the legislative activities of the Friends in the present session of the Wisconsin Legislature.

Judge Sentences FCC Witness on Perjury Charges

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Turnabout witness Marie Natvig today was sentenced to eight months to two years in prison for lying under oath as a government witness.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff turned down a plea by Mrs. Natvig's attorney that she be allowed to remain free on bond pending an appeal.

A marshal immediately took the 51-year-old gray haired grandmother into custody.

The judge described the sentence as "moderate." He could have sent Mrs. Natvig to jail for up to 15 years on the three perjury charges on which she was convicted by a jury a month ago.

Mrs. Natvig, a divorcee from Miami Beach, listened silently without any show of emotion as the judge reviewed the case in detail.

A jury had convicted Mrs. Natvig May 16 of three charges of perjury. The indictment stemmed from her testimony as a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) witness during an inquiry into the background of Edward Lamb, a Toledo lawyer, publisher and broadcasting executive.

Humphrey Seeks More Consideration For India, Burma

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Sunday India and Burma should receive greater consideration in American diplomacy.

"There has been a fixation upon Formosa" in the Eisenhower administration's Asia policy, Humphrey said in an interview.

That Chinese Nationalist stronghold is important, but not so much so as India and Burma, the senator added.

Dealing with Prime Minister Nehru of India may be "difficult," Humphrey said, yet he is the only "free leader . . . that we will have a chance to negotiate with."

Humphrey is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Argentine Papers Fail to Mention Excommunications

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (U-P)—Argentine newspapers have carried nothing yet about the Roman Catholic Church's excommunication of President Juan D. Peron and others of his regime for the expulsion of Msgr. Manuel Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires.

The fact that Bishop Tato and his assistant, Msgr. Ramon Novoa, who was ousted with him, led a religious procession in Rome Sunday also has gone unrecorded in the Argentine press.

The excommunication of all who raised their hands against Bishop Tato, impeded his work and participated in his expulsion was announced by the Vatican Thursday.

The navy air revolt against Peron flared a few hours later.

The communication of all who raised their hands against Bishop Tato, impeded his work and participated in his expulsion was announced by the Vatican Thursday.

He had just given his unit "eyes right" and brought his hand up in salute when he collapsed. His wife, Mrs. Alta Mae Lorenze, and his two children, Tommy, 6, and Susan, 12, were among the 3,000 spectators.

He was an assistant professor of medicine at the University of Wisconsin and a staff member of Wisconsin General Hospital at Madison.

Pravda Calls for Tighter Grip on Industry, Farming

MOSCOW (U-P)—Pravda called today in a front-page editorial for stricter control by the Russian Communist party and government over every phase of Soviet industry and agriculture.

The party's official newspaper deplored any extension of red tape and bureaucracy but said a "close check on fulfillment of decisions is practical work, with the object of laying bare shortcomings."

The editorial, which was broadcast by the Moscow radio, declared that further economic and cultural progress is "possible only if stricter control is exercised over implementation of directives by the party and government." It indicated plans are being made for an extension of authority for party functionaries throughout farms and workshops. They would report to Moscow, especially on plans to increase the productivity of labor.

First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich recently was named to head a cabinet rank committee charged with such tasks.

Thirty thousand party functionaries have been assigned this year to take control over a third of the Soviet Union's collective farms. The Pravda editorial foreshadows an extension of this system throughout the economy.

The editorial cited shortcomings in the ministry of timber industry and took officials of the ministry of agriculture to task.

Highway's Green, But Not With Envy

MANKATO, Minn. (U-P)—For a few hours at least, Highway 169 certainly was the most peas-full route in Minnesota.

Several yards of the road was buried late Saturday under up to eight inches of shelled peas. The highway was so heavy and slippery that traffic was halted.

Before the road was cleared, an estimated 500 cars had been stopped by the mess. They were backed up several miles.

The peas, about eight tons of them, spilled onto the road when a cannery truck's front wheels apparently locked as the vehicle made a turn. Nine stock-watering tanks full of peas tipped from the flatbed and landed on the highway.

A few motorists tried to drive through but several minor accidents resulted. Sheriff's officers stopped traffic and started shoveling the peas from the road. Even then, the surface was too slippery for safe driving so firemen used hoses to rinse the highway.

In the meantime, many persons had stuffed peas into boxes, baskets and even pockets.

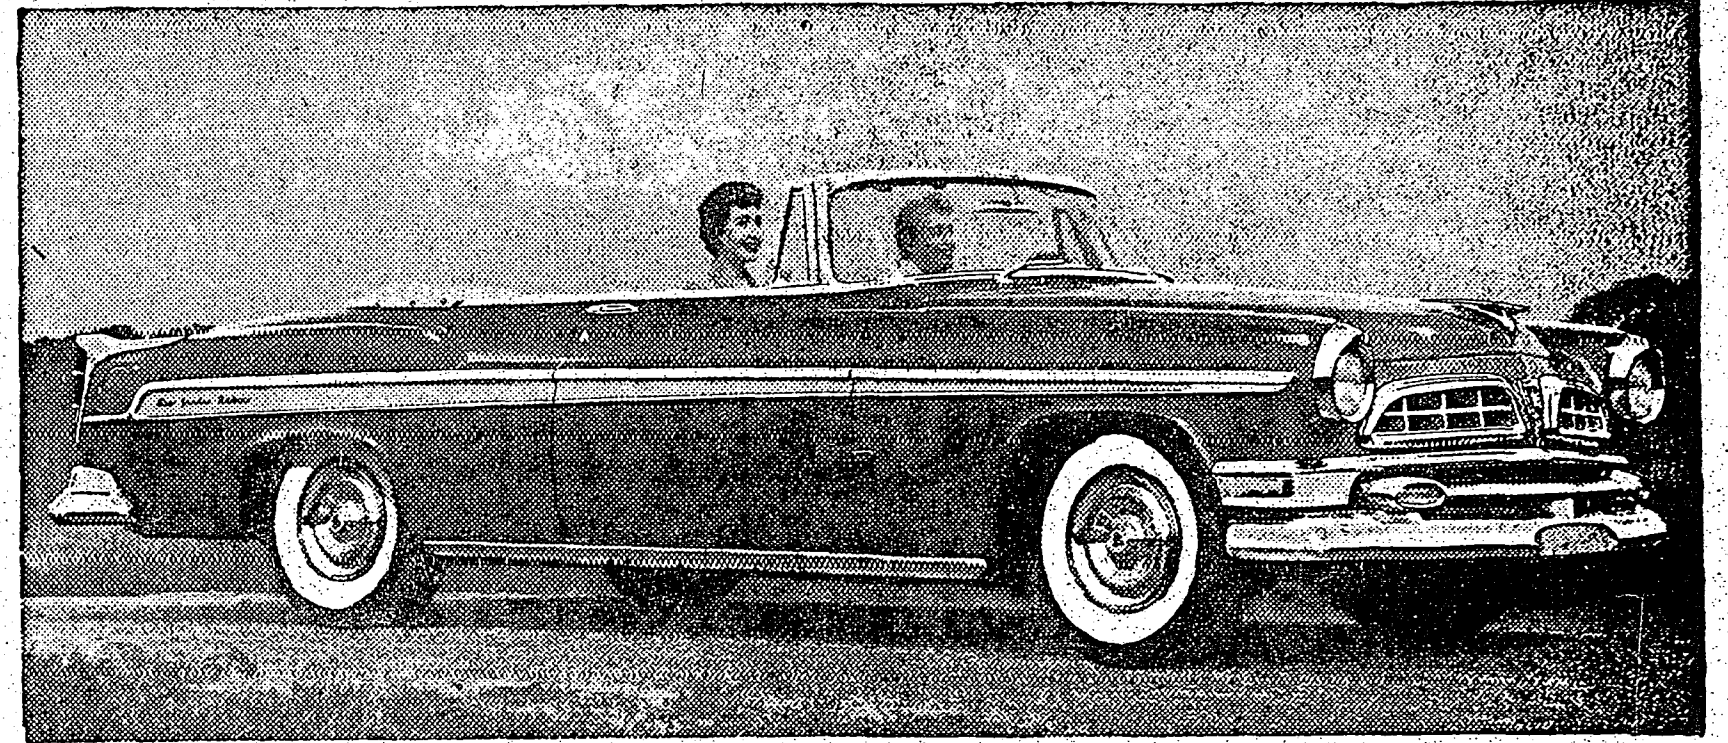

Glass fiber, now widely used, was unknown commercially until the early 1930s.

U.N. Anniversary Points Up Charter Revision Problems

That somber phrase, "agonizing reappraisal," is sure to be revived this week, when the United Nations "celebrates" the tenth anniversary of its founding.

Key to the atmosphere likely to prevail in San Francisco during the June 20-26 observance is this incidental fact: The meeting of delegates from 60 UN members also will be the occasion for a back-stage conference of Big Four foreign ministers, called to set the agenda for the July meeting "at the summit" in Geneva — a meeting to resolve world problems which the UN itself has failed to solve.

The United States is not slighting the California birthday party. President Eisenhower, after some earlier indecision, accepted an invitation to speak on the opening day. Former President Truman, whose first act on entering the White House April 12, 1945, was to confirm plans for the 50-nation charter conference scheduled to begin April 25, will address the delegates June 24.

But no one expects to hear repeated the many high hopes — or the exaggerated fears — voiced about the UN at its birth. Ten years of experience have served to reshape the UN and public attitudes toward it. And while U. S. official and popular opinion continues to support the UN, attention is now focusing on ways and means of strengthening the world organization without killing it.

Whether or not the Geneva conference proves to be a turning point in East-West relations, the U. S. faces a concrete problem in determining its position on proposed changes in the UN Charter. It is generally conceded that the UN General Assembly, automatically scheduled to consider the question at its tenth session this fall, will vote to call a charter review conference, probably in 1956.

According to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, "the United Nations as it is, is better than no United Nations." By this Dulles means two things: The UN, in his view, has proved useful despite its shortcomings; and changes in the UN Charter, if carried too far, might serve to destroy the UN.

What these changes might be are presently the subject of study both by the State Department and by the Senate Foreign Relations UN Charter Subcommittee, which was set up in mid-1953. The subcommittee, now headed by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), has held extensive hearings, both in Washington and other major cities, and has issued eight staff studies on various aspects of the UN Charter and how it might be amended.

The subcommittee has until Jan. 31, 1956, to file a report, but the odds favor an earlier date. According to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. representative to the UN, the "final conclusions of the executive branch . . . await the advice of Congress." And Lodge feels time is growing short, since "there must be time to build up a big wave of world opinion in support of our proposed changes" when those finally are agreed upon.

Already, however, the direction of official thinking is clear. The problem is how to overcome the fact, as Lodge puts it, "that the basic assumption on which (the UN) was founded — which was a continuing alliance between the United States and the Soviet Union — has never materialized." Symbol of this failure is the veto power of the five permanent members of the UN Security Council — the U. S., Great Britain, France, China, and the Soviet Union.

Of 62 vetoes recorded over the past ten years, the Soviets have cast 60. France the other two. Says Dulles: "The council's inability to function as designed has been primarily due to the abuse by the Soviet Union of its so-called veto power."

One way around this roadblock was found in 1950, when the General Assembly agreed to take steps to meet threats to world peace if the Security Council was stymied. Another proposal, urged by the U. S. since 1948 and in all probability to be offered when the charter is reviewed, would abolish the veto power on questions dealing with the peaceful settlement of disputes and the admission of new members.

But so long as the charter empowers the Security Council to call up the troops of UN members to repeal aggression (even though this has never been done), the U. S. is certain to oppose the complete abolition of the veto, a step urged by the small nations. The veto was written into the charter at U. S. insistence, according to former Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa), because "we could not get a provision through the U. S. Senate unless there was a veto power protecting the United States."

What was true then is probably still true. And whatever the changes proposed and approved by a UN conference, they must be ratified by the five permanent members. For the United States, that means approval by the Senate.

These Days

Zhukov Fails to Give Ike Credit

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK — Quite a little fuss has been made over the "military" friendship of President Eisenhower and Marshal of the Soviet Union G. Zhukov. They have carried in their hearts, if not in political orientation, the memories of combat comrades who drank to the downfall of the enemy. So I have been reading an article on the Soviet role in World War II by the aforesaid Marshal Zhukov, as of May 8, 1955, in which he gives Gen. Eisenhower no credit, but takes it all for himself and his country. He said:

"The Soviet army firmly grasped the initiative. The attempts of the Hitlerite command in a number of battles to pluck this initiative from our hands foundered. The Soviet army, thanks to the constant solicitude of our party, of the Soviet people, overcame its enemy in all respects during all subsequent stages of the war. It was well armed for the struggle on land and in the air."

SO, WE, THE UNITED STATES, did nothing. We fought on every front; we supplied every allied army; we gave the Russians $11,000,000,000 as a free-will offering — but we did nothing, according to Zhukov.

With political skill, rather than soldierly honesty, Marshal Zhukov refers to the period of the Hitler-Stalin alliance as "the complicated and difficult situation." It was the period when Hitler was able to walk through France; it was the period when Great Britain stood alone for a year, taking a beating in a state of siege. But to Zhukov it is only a "complicated and difficult situation."

Of the Second World War, Zhukov says: "The Second World War, prepared by the forces of international imperialism reaction, was unleashed by the block of Fascist states: Germany, Japan and Italy. The ruling circles of the United States, Britain, and France, striving to direct the aggression of German Fascism and Japanese imperialism against the USSR, connived by all means with the aggressors, but they miscalculated seriously."

This is an amazing interpretation of history. It was Russia that was in alliance with Nazi Germany. Surely the United States was not in alliance with Nazi Germany, nor was Great Britain or France. It was Soviet Russia and Nazi Germany that concluded the Molotov-Ribbentrop pact to divide the world imperially. Surely, it was not the United States that had any such pacts. What kind of a man is this general who tells such tales? Is he utterly ignorant of the history of his own country and his own times or is he merely a stuffed and bemedaled robot siring an article prepared by propagandists? And is this the "friend" upon whom we are to depend?

MARSHAL ZHUKOV'S explanation of what has happened since 1945 is naive or brazen, as you choose, but it is obviously not the truth. This is what he said:

"The ruling circles of the United States and Britain, fearing that other nations of the capitalist world would follow the example of the peoples of those countries, took an open course for the liquidation of democratic freedoms in all states which remained within the orbit of their influence. "At the same time, they started preparations for a new war against the USSR and the people's democracies having trodden underfoot the obligations undertaken during the period of struggle against the common enemy. Such a policy of the U. S. and British imperialist circles led the world to a state of international tension, and there appeared the threat of a new world war."

The only value there can be in reproducing this stuff is to make it clear that the man is not a friend of the United States. For some reason, not quite clear, after Khrushchev seized power in Soviet Russia, Zhukov got a terrific build-up in this country. There was an exchange of correspondence between him and the president; war-time stories were retailed. He is supposed to be the very strong man in Soviet Russia but Nikita Khrushchev showed that he is the boss and no one else.

In a long article in "Pravda," entitled "The 10th Anniversary of the Great Victory," Zhukov does not glorify friendship but minimizes the role of the United States in the most costly war in our history in which Russia was supposed to be our ally.

U.N. Has Not Failed As 'Peace of the World'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The United Nations was born 10 years ago in an aura of hope and hope. I recall it vividly. I was there.

Ed Stettinius, then Secretary of State, had risen to the top in General Motors as a public relations expert, and at San Francisco he poured on the public relations. Small-town newspapermen from the heart of America were personally invited by the Secretary of State to come to San Francisco. Church people, racial groups, labor groups, women's club presidents, all got personal invitations from Ed to come to the delivery room in San Francisco and see the peace of the world born.

Possibly Stettinius carried it too far, but basically Ed was right. The peace of the world and the new machinery for keeping the peace of the world had to be founded on people, their hopes, their fears, their dread of war.

Hope was high at that time — bright, fresh, unquenchable hope. It rippled through the delegates like collegiate urge at a football game. It spilled over into the bleachers of the conference hangers-on. It permeated everything that happened at San Francisco.

It knocked on the head the unpleasant warning of Ambassador Averell Harriman fresh from Moscow that Russia was up to no good in the future.

It poured large bucketfuls of cold water over my report that Stalin had written a savage note to Roosevelt shortly before FDR's death and that Eisenhower had withdrawn United States troops out of the suburbs of Berlin, back to the River Elbe because of Russian protests.

Finally it even made slightly glamorous the crusty unglamorous person of Molotov.

It was indeed a hopeful, rosy world.

Killing the U. N. ? But permanent peace has got to be born of hope. It can't function otherwise. And when you look back over the past 10 years, there still remains hope, there still remains determination for peace and there still remains a United Nations.

A lot of people have tried to wreck the United Nations since those rosy, hopeful, collegiate days 10 years ago. The Minute Women have poured cold water on it. The Liberty Bells have linked it to radicalism. The mayor of Santa Monica refused to have the U. N. flag flown from the schools on United Nations day. The creation of NATO as a separate organization in Europe circumvented the United Nations didn't do it any good. The mess over Indochina in which the French and Dutch sided stepped the U. N. plus our recent refusal to refer Formosa to the United Nations — all have hurt.

And most potent of all, the men in the Kremlin have tried to undercut, belittle and sabotage the United Nations.

Nevertheless, and despite all this, the United Nations today is still functioning.

For it's too important, too basic to be killed. People have been discouraged about it. It has suffered setbacks. But it still represents the world's best hope for peace.

And though people have forgotten, it also has accomplished some great victories, plus some victories few people even knew about.

U. N. Victories

People have forgotten, for instance, how the U. N. stopped Russia dead in its tracks when the Red army in 1946 was about to move into Iran. Iran was considered — by Moscow — a Soviet sphere of influence — territory on which the Soviet had a lien. No opposition was dreamed possible to Red occupation — except from the people most concerned, Iran.

Then the United Nations moved in. It had behind it only the force of public opinion, the force of moral warnings sounded from the U. N. rostrum. But the warnings

Hats Hit as Bunnies Fail To Multiply

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — The oddity almanac:

An executive looking for a stenographer who can spell might do well to hire a deaf one.

As a matter of fact, many employers now are doing just that. They have found that office workers with hearing impairments have a large vocabulary and know how to use it because they learned to spell properly early in life.

The reason: Deaf children, undisturbed by distracting noises, develop a good visual memory of words and letters. Those with normal hearing often learn to spell the 66 basic sounds of English speech by ear instead of by sight.

Big crisis in industry note: Australian rabbits aren't multiplying as well as they did—and that may add up to your paying a higher price for your hat, mister. The faraway bunnies have been riddled by a disease called myxomatosis, and the price of their pelts has risen from $2 a pound to $5.

"If this keeps up we'll all be wearing beaver again," says I. Benjamin Parrell, president of Adam Hat Manufacturers, Inc., which converts nearly 10 million Australian rabbit pelts a year into felt toppers.

It now takes about five skins to make a hat, but as a result of the disease epidemic the Australian hoppers are growing smaller, and soon it may take six to eight.

Parrell's plant is in Corsicana, Tex., where plenty of wild rabbits abound nearby. But this is no consolation to him.

"They're Texas jackrabbits and no good for hats," he said. "Too tough."

Is there a magician in the house?

Almanac editorial: Many of our readers have complained that the 75th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the electric light caught them flat-footed, and they didn't have time to get properly lit up in tribute to this important occasion.

Well, our friends in the industry have let us in on another closely held secret—next Aug. 1st is the 25th anniversary of the photoflash bulb in America.

Now is the time to start planning your own celebration of this historic event. Why don't you and your neighbors hold a block party in tribute to the dear old flash-bulb?

Incidentally, now that Americans spend almost as much time in automobiles as they do in their homes, did you know motor cars now use more light bulbs than houses do?

The average motor car had only 5 1/2 bulbs in 1925, now has 22.8 (one 1955 model has 32!). The typical home contains only about 19. And if your house is like mine, they all seemed to be turned on all the time!

Odd jobs department: Richard and Edith Barstow, the brother-sister team of choreographers, say the most difficult job of their career was plotting steps for the 50 dancing elephants in the Ringling Bros. Circus. The problem they had to overcome: An elephant's front feet follow a different rhythm than his hind feet.

By the way, there are no "chorus boys" in the herd. Most circuses got rid of their male elephants years ago. The boys get too bad-tempered during certain seasons. And you can't sell a customer pop-

THE WORLD TODAY

U.N. Serves Role In World Affairs

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — There was almost an exhilaration in those June days in 1945 at San Francisco when the United Nations was born. There was a sense of a new world born: A world of peace and brotherly cooperation.

The world of the U. N. is now 10 years old. It resembles very much the old world of hatreds, distrust, wars and fears. Yet, while the U. N. has not worked perfectly, it has been useful.

Advice on Health

'Mal de Mer' Licked by A Tiny Pill

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

If an ocean voyage or any long water trip is on your vacation schedule this year, you'll be interested in the latest information on seasickness and what you can do about it.

Seasickness has gotten many a joyous vacation off to a bad start. None of us is immune to it; but fortunately, only about ten per cent of adults are highly susceptible to the malady.

Yet, about one-third of those who travel by boat can expect to become seasick within one or two hours on the high seas, under even a moderate amount of turbulence. Under severe rolling and pitching, about 90 per cent of inexperienced travelers become ill.

Some people get along all right on large ships, but can't stand the bouncing of small boats.

Symptoms Differ

While symptoms differ according to the individual, generally they are: Drowsiness, pallor, sweating, nausea and then vomiting. Sometimes, you may have headaches and become dizzy. But you don't have to memorize these symptoms. You'll know when you are seasick, all right.

What can you do about it? Well, there are many drugs on the market which manufacturers claim will alleviate seasickness.

Dr. Francis N. Kimball and his associates, on the medical staff of a large steamship line, conducted a series of studies aboard ships on the high seas. Several drugs were tried on the passengers. Mareline was found to be the most effective and did not seem to cause any unpleasant reaction. It was noted that, since the studies began in 1952, more than 200,000 tablets have been used.

Tests Are Successful

Passengers taking 25 mg. every three or four hours were reasonably free from sickness and ill effects. One ship's surgeon observed that only about 10 per cent of the passengers required a second dose.

In his report, in a recent issue of "International Record of Medicine and General Practice Clinics," Dr. Kimball said that extensive tests made on large vessels showed excellent results in from 90 to 100 per cent of the cases.

So, maybe this simple little pill will help make your sea voyage a real vacation. I hope so.

New Silver-Tan Uniforms for Air Force Men

WASHINGTON — The Air Force decided finally today on a new silver-tan summer uniform to take the place of khakis worn since 1947. But it will not be available this summer, and the complete change-over will take four years.

The summer wear will include, along with conventional items, short trousers and knee-length stockings, a short-sleeve shirt and a long-sleeve bush jacket.

Air Force officers and men have plenty of time to wear out their present summer clothing. Use of the new summer uniform does not become mandatory until July 1, 1959.

The summer equipment will begin to be available next fall in Air Force sales stores located in tropical and semitropical areas.

The cheer-up dept: Do you always feel lost on Blue Monday? Well, here's a quote from Matthew Arnold to carry you through the week:

"Resolve to be thyself; and know, that he who finds himself, loses his misery."

This week its members' foreign ministers meet in San Francisco to celebrate the anniversary.

The U. N. is a meeting round for nations—a place where to some extent they can influence each other for good through the pressure of world opinion publicly expressed.

The U. N. has failed to produce, as was intended, an international armed force to prevent war. There have been more wars, some of which the U. N. helped settle, but no major war.

Some optimists believe a big war may be prevented as long as the nations can meet, if only to revile each other. But if a big war begins, there would be no more U. N.

The U. N. has spread some feelings of cooperation and brotherhood through the health, education and agricultural programs of its various agencies.

It seems certain the world would be different if the United States, unable to depend on the U. N.'s nonexistent international army, had not gone outside the U. N. to protect itself.

That was done through the alliances this country made with its non-Communist friends in Europe and Asia. Russia also went outside the U. N. to make its Communist alliances.

In 1945 the Allies, in blood and mutual sacrifice, had won the Hitlerian war which ended in May. It did not seem far-fetched at the time to think they might, with less effort, stick together to keep peace.

The wishful may have thought so. The realistic kept their fingers crossed. No one at San Francisco was more realistic than the representatives of the United States and Russia.

They put the veto into the U. N. Charter, useful both as a fire escape and as a roadblock they could employ against each other when they wished.

Body of Pilot Who Bailed Out Found

DENVER — The body of one of five Marine Reserve jet fighter pilots whose planes were forced down Saturday by severe weather was located yesterday near Leoti, Kan.

A spokesman for the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base here said the victim, Maj. Patrick Duggan, Lone Wolf, Okla., probably was dead when he reached the ground.

Duggan bailed out during a thunderstorm. His plane crashed 12 miles northeast of Selkirk, Kan. The other reservists all brought their planes down safely.

Seasonal Diet Will Solve No Weight Problems

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Are you forever going on a diet, taking off ten pounds or twenty and slowly putting them all back on again? For many overweight, it isn't reducing that is difficult—it's staying normal weight that's a problem.

One more question . . . do you recognize exactly what your dietary weaknesses are? Of course you are aware that some foods are fattening, but do you know exactly which food habits you've slipped into that are responsible for your poundage?

There is one way to find out, and if you are really serious about being normal weight, you'll give it a trial. Keep a week's account of everything eaten daily . . . breakfast, lunch, dinner, bedtime snacks and nibbles in between. This may be a real eye-opener. For example, one overweight who tried this plan reported that she had no idea she ate so much bread and butter. Another found it was the tea-time snacks that piled on pounds.

Of course, a dietary record is no revelation unless you jot down everything eaten. And to be fair, you'll mean to be exact in this record. But it's deceptively easy to snatch a handful of peanuts and munch them without even thinking about what you are doing. Nibbling can become almost second nature so that the nibbles aren't even thought of as food.

The blushing truth is that one group of overweighters all lost five pounds each in a single week when hospitalized and given the exact amount of food they claimed they ate.

But back to the dietary record. The reason why some of you are perennial dieters is that you really do not recognize which calorie weakness is responsible for mounting pounds. Then too, you look upon a reducing diet as a temporary expedient—not as a pattern of regular eating for keeping weight normal.

Perhaps there is too much emphasis put on high quality protein and all the other protective foods as ideal for a reducing program. Of course they are. But these same protective foods will help you maintain normal weight and high vitality.

Probably you are not consciously aware that you have a set pattern of eating which determines your weight—and you won't be until you actually make a day-by-day record. At the end of a week, look at this record in the light of food habits. Which food habits are piling on your pounds?

Once you honestly face calorie facts, you'll see the folly of going on a strict diet then promptly returning to the same fattening ways of eating. A far more satisfactory plan would be to adjust your regular pattern of eating to fit your daily calorie needs.

Hospital Auxiliary Day in Country Raises $1,000

A thousand dollars or more is expected to be cleared for the Winona General Hospital Women's Auxiliary through its Day in the Country, those in charge estimated today. About 300 attended this summer project of the auxiliary held at Holler Hill. In general charge of the project was Mrs. Floyd Simon, assisted by Mrs. S. F. Frankel.

The pink elephant auction sale set the theme for the afternoon with frolicking pink elephants posted high on poles marking out the auction area and the outdoor fireplace where Edward Allen served as auctioneer, assisted by Mrs. Robert Selover, Mrs. Philip Baumann, Mrs. Leslie Woodworth and Mrs. H. E. Nicholassen.

Everything from dad's electric razor (brand new) to a piecrust table went under the auctioneer's hammer. Additional antiques, cranberry glass, Chelsea china and other items were sold at a table in charge of Mrs. Carl Breitlow.

Deep pink awnings, scalloped and fringed in white, marked the entrances to Briarcombe garage in which a variety of hand-sprayed and decorated baskets were sold, orders were taken for Christmas gifts and baked goods and specialties in foods made by auxiliary volunteers were available.

Basket Booth

At the basket booth where gilded wastebaskets, flower decorated letter baskets, basket purses with ribbons and flowers and a variety of other baskets were sold, sellers were the Mmes. S. A. Boyd, William Bright, Edward Hartert, George Robertson Jr. and Melvin Heath.

Orders for Christmas gifts, to be specially made by auxiliary volunteers, were taken by the Mmes. Leo C. La France, M. A. Goldberg, Loren Torgerson and J. M. George. Skirts of felt on which were appliqued gay felt grains, balls and toys with sequins, to disguise the Christmas tree base, holiday wreaths of wrapped candy, bed table trays piled with gifts, Christmas stockings of felt, card table covers, painted watering cans and other gift numbers were on display.

In charge of the "pantry shelf" at which food specialties were offered for sale, was Mrs. F. O. Gorman, fund-raising chairman. Assisting her in the sale were Mrs. Thomas Underdahl, Mrs. Frank Allen Jr., A. J. Davis and Irving Gerner.

Balloons and a contrivance with which to blow them up, were sold by Maud Callender, Sue Selover, Carol Ann and Honey Lou Miller, Camilla Kryzsko and Peggy Williams. In charge of attendance prizes were Mrs. D. B. McLaughlin and Mrs. Herbert Streich. Mrs. S. J. Kryzsko, Mrs. T. J. Kane, Mrs. John David and Mrs. Robert Harkenrider took charge at the "gate."

Mrs. Richard Callender and Mrs. E. L. King Jr. were responsible for the decorations which emphasized the "pink" theme. Signs in deep pink with black lettering announced the various events and white letters scrolled across the awnings designated the sale booths. Geraniums furnished by a local florist were on sale, and added their color to the scene.

Tea Table

The tea table covered in green and white was decorated with ferns and geraniums. Baskets held cakes and colored paper cups and plates continued the "day in the country" atmosphere. Mrs. L. William Bailey was in charge of the table assisted by the Mmes. D. T. Burt, B. A. Miller, Richard Powell and John Miller. Punch was served at the scene of the auction with Mrs. J. L. Jeremiassen, chairman, assisted by Mrs. N. J. Fischer and Mrs. D. R. Kiral. Pouring at the tea table during the afternoon were the Mmes. A. M. Oskamp, Louis J. Wilson, Leo Buchholz, S. A. Sawyer, Bright, Albert Tushner, S. D. J. Bruski, John Dalleska, Lyle Morcomb, E. K. Meredith, J. A. Leaf, Adolph Bremer and Douglas Erickson and Miss May Murray.

State Reports 4 Drownings Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Eden Valley men drowned Saturday in two boating accidents on lakes within the same Stearns County township.

Frank Koppke and Chester Gobel, both about 35, died in Eden Lake late Saturday. A few hours before, Ed Hudalla, 50, drowned in Long Lake.

A Champlain youth, Harley Shores, drowned Sunday in Twin Lakes near Minneapolis when he dived from a floating diving board about 50 yards from shore.

Bodies of Gobel and Koppke were not recovered until Sunday.

Ed Teicher of Eden Valley told of seeing Gobel and Koppke plunge into the water when their small boat overturned after circling. Teicher and another fisherman, both some distances away, went to the scene but Gobel and Koppke already had disappeared. Teicher estimated they had remained up about three minutes after being thrown into the lake.

In the other mishap near Eden Valley, Hudalla and Norman Linnemayer, about 40, were in a boat that was upset by high wind while they fished. Linnemayer swam to shore.

Linnemayer said he and Hudalla had just lifted anchor to move to a quieter spot in the lake when their boat was upset. Both climbed onto the overturned craft, but it tipped again, throwing both men into the lake. Linnemayer set out for shore, about 150 feet away assuming that Hudalla also would try for shore. Sheriff's deputies recovered Hudalla's body.

Other swimmers in Twin Lakes at suburban Brooklyn Center said Shores did a "bellyflop" in his fatal dive. Investigators were told that Shores, 18, was not an especially good swimmer. Lifeguards found him in water about 20 feet deep.

Children Heads State Legislative Research Group

ST. PAUL (AP)—Rep. E. J. Childgren, Littlefork, a long time liberal leader in the Minnesota Legislature, today was elected chairman of the 18-member Legislative Research Committee (LRC).

Rep. Childgren, serving his 15th straight term in the House of Representatives, has been an LRC member since its creation in 1947. He succeeds Sen. Archie Miller, Hopkins.

Sen. Donald Sinclair, Stephen, was elected vice chairman to succeed Rep. George French, Minneapolis. French was not renominated to the commission, composed of nine senators and nine representatives.

Louis C. Dorweiler, Jr., Minneapolis, was named secretary and research director. He is not a member of the commission.

Sen. Arthur Gillen, South St. Paul, who is not a commission member, sent a letter proposing an investigation by the LRC of the method and time of publication and issuance of the game and fish laws and hunting laws. He suggested the study include any defects in the present laws governing issuance and letting of contracts.

Gillen said he had received many "bitter complaints" concerning the unavailability of the laws and regulations.

County auditors, issuing hardware stores and resorts and the hunters and anglers themselves have complained many times that the pamphlets come out long after the seasons are opened and neither the average citizens nor the resort owners nor auditors are able to "intelligently advise as to what the sportsman is expected to live up to in the ways of laws and regulations."

ICC Orders Probe
Of State Rail Rates
On 12 Commodities

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered an investigation into the intrastate railroad rates on a dozen heavy commodities maintained by Minnesota.

The inquiry was requested by railroads operating in that state. They complained that the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission had refused to apply the 12 to 15 per cent interstate rates authorized in 1952 to intrastate movements of livestock, coal, coke, grain, sugar beets, roofing products, crushed rock, agricultural limestone, pulpwood and specified timber items.

The rail carriers contended this involved discrimination against interstate commerce. A time and place for the ICC hearing remains to be set.

HOW DEEP IS THE OCEAN?

THE ATLANTIC OCEAN IS ON AN AVERAGE, 15,000 FEET DEEP WHILE THE PACIFIC IS DEEPER BY ABOUT 1,000 FEET AND ALTHOUGH THE ATLANTIC COVERS MORE THAN 8,000 SQ. MILES, IT COULD BE CONSIDERED A MINUTE NEAR TO THE PACIFIC WHICH ENCOMPASSES WELL OVER TWICE AS MUCH AREA.

3 Gls Want to Leave China in 3 Different Ways

LONDON (AP)—The three American soldiers who changed their minds about Red China all want to leave the country different ways, the Communist Daily Worker correspondent in Peking reported today.

Cpl. William A. Cowart of Dalton, Ga., wants to go to Japan to live.

Lewis W. Griggs, from Jacksonville, Texas, plans making straight for the United States by way of Hong Kong.

Open House Set For New Home In Goodview

An open house showing of a new Page & Hill home has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday by A. Grant Burleigh, Winona, and Earl Kjos, Lanesboro, who is cooperating contractor for the construction of the homes here.

Finished and partially furnished for the showing will be a 1-story, 2-bedroom home at 875 38th Ave., Goodview. Another of the homes has been erected at 855 38th Ave. and a third is scheduled to be erected on 38th avenue in the near future.

Burleigh and Kjos have 17 lots available in the Davis subdivision of Goodview.

Size of the Page-Hill homes range from 24 by 30 feet to 24 by 48 feet and are available in 12 floor plans, each of which can be reversed to give more favorable exposure in certain rooms, or an actual variety of 24 plans. Sizes are from 2- to 4-bedrooms.

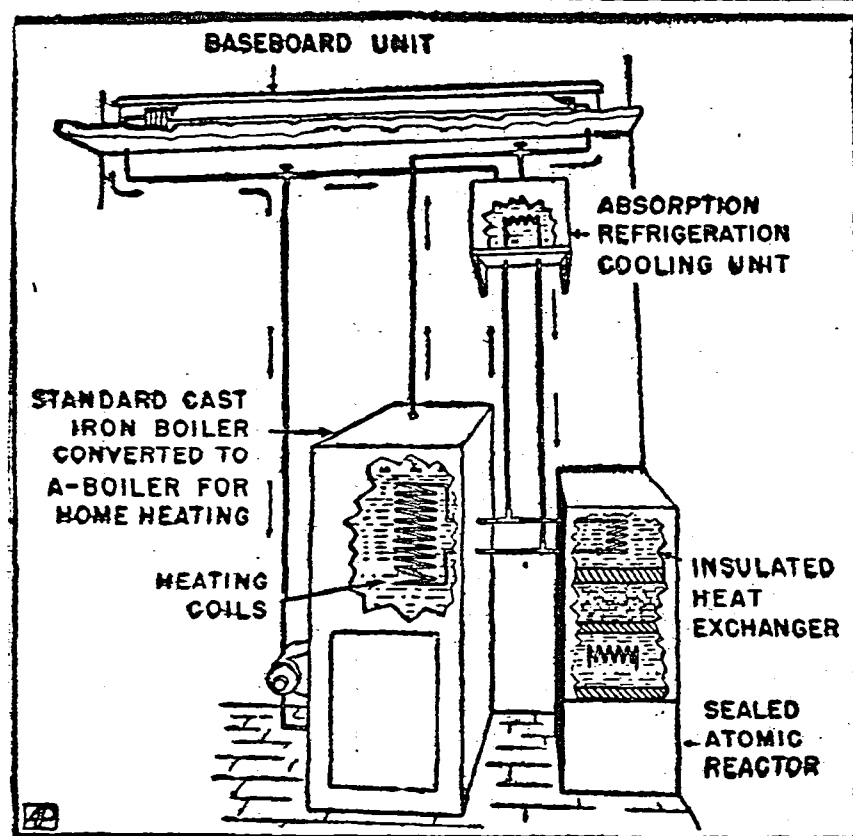

The ranch-type homes also feature two level and split-level varieties and all are approved for FHA and VA financing.

Construction is by use of panels, complete with doors and windows, insulation and other features, permitting erection in about eight hours. Interior finishing, however, is done by conventional methods.

The homes feature forced air heat, automatic hot water heaters, roomy closets (seven in the home that will be on display), steel kitchens, rubber tile flooring in kitchens and bathrooms and cork tiling in other rooms.

The home on display will feature a built-in electric range and table-top cabinet-type oven.

Winona union contractors who have participated in construction of the new homes include: Abraham Monahan (masonry), Abrahamson Electric Service, Charles J. Olsen & Sons (plumbing), Winona Heating & Ventilating Co., Richard A. Hassett (interior decorating) and Norman Lueck, George Foster and Walter Kapanke (carpenters).

How Atomic Home Heating and cooling system would work is shown in this sketch. This design by the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers would provide hot water for heating, washing and driveway snow melting, as well as chilled water for summer cooling. The cooling unit would work on principle of gas refrigerator.

Atomic Heating Cost Set at $50 a Year

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Is there a place in your home for a little invisible, splittable atom? There'd better be!

Atomic heating plants with summer cooling systems are just around the corner. They'll cost you just $50 a year to operate, says an expert.

And you'll build your house with plastic, subjected to atomic radiation to make it stronger than steel. Will this replace lumber?

As for that pesky bomb, which wipes out cities when it splits the infinitesimal atom, a Yale university expert says basement bomb shelters will soon become as standard in the design of our houses as bathrooms and kitchens.

All we are waiting for when it comes to economical home heating and cooling is a new discovery of a large source of fissionable material, says Robert E. Ferry, general manager of the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers. So get out your Geiger counters and go hunting.

Ferry was speaking at the recent 40th anniversary meeting of his industry at Absecon, N.J. He said that all of Bareuther's parts needed for an atomic home heating and cooling plant are now available on the market, except for the small atomic reactor to replace fuel.

This missing unit, hermetically sealed in lead and about twice the size of an automobile battery, should cost about $300, according to Ferry. It would be good for six years and then would be replaced. Net cost: $50 per year; no chimney; no ashes; no waste energy.

The rest of the workings are so well known that you could install such a plant in a house for about $1,500, says Ferry.

The potential strength of PLASTIC has been demonstrated with a new hammer now on the market. It has a brilliant red handle made of plastic reinforced with fiber glass. This handle is stronger than steel, yet it has the resilience and shock absorbing quality of hickory.

With this strength attained by blending plastic and fiber glass, the possibilities of the new alchemy of gamma radiation are fabulous.

Architectural Forum recently explored the prospects of such radiant-treated plastic for the benefit of designers and engineers. It concluded that today's bulky posts and beams, serving as ribs of a building, will be reduced to a mere fold or seam in the skin of the wall.

Douglas Haskell, editor, summed up "Tomorrow's" structure may be typically all skin. Its skin may become its shell and its interior columns. Even its windows may be simply transparent patches of its skin.

Probably a skin game in which you, for a change, will win.

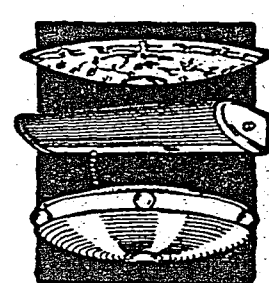

In the meantime, the threat of that ATOMIC BOMB and its gargantuan relative, "H," hangs over our houses. Lincoln H. Lippincott, director of safety for Yale University, says "the Yucca Flat tests have emphasized the protection given by basements against atomic bomb blasts and radiation."

Lippincott told a Boston meeting of the New England Building Officials Conference that a basement bomb shelter of proper design should have an added outside exit for rescue.

Well, if the atom can rescue us from the cost of building chimneys and from the biggest part of our annual fuel bills maybe we can afford to pay our diplomats enough to rescue us from misuse of the atom.

The Colorado River washes half a million tons of silt into Lake Mead every day.

HOME REPAIR DOs and DON'Ts

By Andrew C. Lang

YOUR GARDEN HOSE
Do . . . remember that it has been estimated that the life span of a garden hose is cut at least 50 per cent by careless handling.

Do . . . repair a leak at either end of the hose by checking first to see whether a new washer is needed and then, if necessary, buying and attaching a new fitting.

Do . . . repair a pinhole leak along the length of the hose by applying liquid rubber, rubber cement or tightly-wound plastic tape.

Do . . . repair a larger leak along the length of the hose by cutting out the damaged section and using a metal coupler to join the two parts.

Do . . . buy a swivel device for use where the hose is connected to the faucet; it allows the hose to be moved freely without the usual wear and tear at that point.

Don't . . . leave the hose about when it is not being used; drain it and coil it on a hanger so that it has not abrupt bends in it.

Don't . . . pull the hose around the corner of the house without checking to see whether it is scraping against the foundation.

Don't . . . indulge in that very bad habit of smothering the flow of water by kinking the hose sharply at some point along its length.

Don't . . . forget that when the outside cords of a hose are damaged, but there is no leak, further trouble can be prevented by wrapping the area with plastic or friction tape.

Don't . . . neglect to change the position of the hose on your lawn occasionally; when left too long in one position, the grass underneath it will suffer.

Heating, Cooling Jobs Separated In Some Setups

In most sections of the U.S., the typical home needs heating approximately 250 days in the average year and only two or three weeks of the remaining 115 days involve extreme conditions when cooling may be required to create comfortable living conditions, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Recognizing this fact as well as the fact that the distribution of heat involves a different set of engineering principles than the distribution of cooled air, some manufacturers have decided in favor of divorcing the heating equipment from the cooling equipment, according to the bureau.

One manufacturer of baseboard heating systems has introduced a compact central air conditioner which is offered for modernization work as well as new construction. The unit takes only square feet of floor space. It can be tucked away in a closet, attic, utility room, basement or garage.

In one-story homes with a central hall, the cooling mechanism may be installed in the attic above the hall. The hall ceiling is "dropped" to serve as a distribution chamber.

The cool air then flows directly from the distribution chamber into the rooms adjoining through openings near the ceiling of each room, thus making ducts unnecessary. Since ducts are not needed, there is a substantial saving in material and labor.

The cooling unit is of the "dry" cooling type, that is, no water is required. The package unit comes in three models ranging from two-room to 6-room capacity.

Sawdust From O'BRIEN'S

LAST week one day a massive semi-trailer pulled into the yard loaded to the hilt with lumber and moldings. Out of the cab stepped a real live Indian! Here we were without a Davy Crockett in the whole place. We had bought some Minnesota White Pine from the Red Lake Indian Mills at Redby, Minnesota. This mill is operated by the Chippewas. The government allows them to cut a fixed quantity of timber each year and the proceeds from the sale of it goes to the Chippewas. They do all their own logging operations, including the trucking, getting back to the lumber. This is some real nice merchandise. Dry stock, uniform manufacture. Soft, easy to work with. It's graded according to the Western Pine Association grading rules so that you get the grade you pay for. The moldings are equally as nice. Manufactured according to standards, uniform in color and easily worked. We asked him if his territory was confined to Minnesota and he said that they truck this White Pine all over. Just a week before he had been down to Indiana. If you're planning to do some building we ask you to come down and look at this Minnesota White Pine. I think you'll like it. We were well satisfied after seeing it.

Last Friday night I went up to my brother's place and returned, favor that was about 5 years old. I helped him paint! Five years ago when we bought our house he volunteered a helping hand at painting the kitchen. Being a good fellow I said, "sure go ahead." With enamel yet! Well, I didn't know that he had a date that night and after a while the painting wasn't going fast enough for him so he proceeded to speed it up a little. The next day I painted the whole kitchen over!

I didn't have the heart to turn the tables on him. First, because he was using one of our Gilt Edge "Charmony" colors; and, secondly, it was working out so beautifully that I was just like an artist, stepping back every now and then to look at it.

Anyway I guess he's satisfied. I am, not only with the paint but because I got a free lunch from him and believe me you can't hardly get them no more—from him!

Incidentally, this "Charmony" color system does work real well and we invite you to come down and look it over for yourself. I think you'll find that this is one of the better color systems on the market today. 324 colors in flat, semi-gloss, outside house paint and enamel.

Remember O'Briens for all those items you need for the small repair jobs: Sakrete Ready-Mixed Cement, Structolite Ready-Mixed Plaster, screen wire, nails. And, incidentally, speaking of nails we have now in stock some case hardened nails for nailing directly into cement blocks, brick stone or what have you. Lots of calls for these lately. And we have a complete line of hardware, doors, roofing, trellises and all the rest.

We also have a lot of items on display in the office that have to be shopped for. Things you don't think you need until you see them. So drop in some time, we've remodeled, you'll be surprised at that and look around if nothing else. You'll see a lot of things that you often wondered what it looked like and whether or not you can use it to good advantage in your next remodel or repair job.

like privacy on most occasions. Diners would like to be closed off from unexpected callers. But for the most part walls between living area and dining area are not important—one reason why the folding door is becoming popular.

A folding wall permits more breathing space for the family.

Nylon Buttons on the bamboo fold are inserted into the track in a jiffy.

Children may romp in a larger area and a feeling of spaciousness is acquired in a small home.

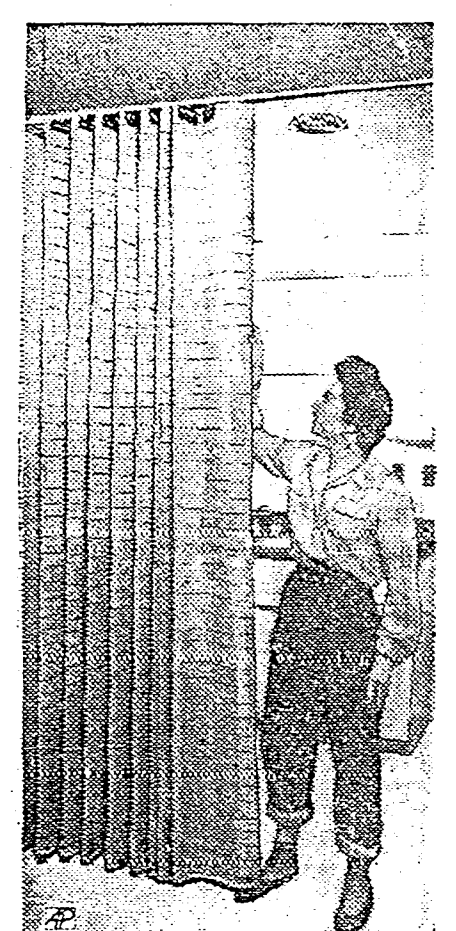

Metal has been used for this purpose. Bamboo and plastic are also popular in the fold-door group.

A bamboo-fold may be applied in from 5 to 7 minutes. A metal track is centered at the ceiling where the room divider is to be put.

Holes are punched through the track with a drill or awl and screws inserted in the opening. Nylon buttons on the bamboo are inserted at the top of the track, keeping folds partially open. The divider folds to less than 10 percent of its extended width with fingertip control.

More than 21 colors offer high style decorator harmonizing shades for the room. The bamboo may be

Let's get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

IRIS

IF you are going to get some new iris for your garden this year, now is the time to order them. They can be planted any time after they have bloomed off.

During the past years the hybridizers have brought about many changes in the iris. Perhaps the most important improvements have been in size and greater range of colors.

This stately and elegant flower now comes in clear light blues, dark blues, rich purples, lustrous yellows, warm browns, delicate pinks, deep maroons, bicolors and bitones of colorful blends, as well as whites. The many colors, tones and blends should satisfy the most discriminating tastes.

Among the high ranking iris, the blues seem to predominate, probably because of the value of this color in the garden. Closely following the blues in favor are the coral pinks, pure whites and the red iris, so-called, are still a far cry from being a truly red color, as they all are dominated by a purple or brownish tone.

Therefore, in purchasing iris, a wide selection of colors, tones and blends is available and the lovers of these beautiful flowers should be able to work out various color schemes in their gardens to their hearts' content.

In addition to the tall bearded iris which are the most popular, there are the dwarf bearded, the Japanese and the Siberian types.

Iris are very effective when clumped in the perennial border or massed with the shrubs. Generally it is best to group three or five rhizomes of one variety in a group for bold color effect, rather than to have them strung along in rows.

Bearded iris are economical to buy, since a single rhizome will form a sizeable clump within a few years.

Any good garden soil will grow iris, but for best blooms the soil should be enriched with well-rotted manure, or a balanced fertilizer. An occasional top-dressing with bone meal is good.

In planting iris do not set them too deep, but place them so the tops of the rhizomes, or crowns, are at the ground level. The roots of the rhizome should be well spread. Water well and after it has soaked away add any further soil that is required. Iris can be planted twelve inches or so apart depending on the effect desired.

If you are going to dig up some of your old clumps, you can do it now. Each clump should be divided into single plants, each with a piece of rhizome and some good roots. The tops should be cut back to within a few inches of the crowns, to assist the new plants in getting off to a good start.

After about every five years the plants will usually become over-crowded and require division. If your available space will not permit you to use all of the single rhizomes you get from the division, plant only the stronger ones and discard the others.

The iris borer is the cause of most of the trouble with iris as it bores into the rhizomes or crowns and eventually kills the plants. Cleaning out all of the infected parts will help. Also, early sprays in the spring with lead arsenate, or DDT will help. They can be applied every ten days until blooming time.

So order your iris now, or start dividing your old clumps.

Social Security Increase May Die in Senate

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—There were signs today that the Senate may raise some roadblocks against enactment this year of a Democratic-sponsored proposal to expand social security benefits.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance Committee said preliminary studies indicate it would be "very costly" to put into effect plans agreed on in principle by House Democratic leaders to give immediate benefits to the disabled and to lower the age at which women may draw payments.

Sen. Martin (R-Pa.), a member of the Finance Committee, said that if the bill clears the House he will propose public hearings before the Senate committee takes any action.

Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee said in an open letter to Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn.) made public yesterday that it is "unthinkable" that no public hearings be held in view of the "tremendous... ultimate social and economic implications."

Cooper has announced plans for three days of closed hearings, starting tomorrow.

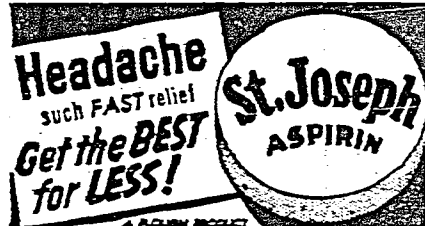

The GOP members told Cooper they will insist on public hearings. "The public is entitled to an opportunity to decide whether these proposals are an honest attempt to improve the system or whether they simply constitute a political raid on the (Social Security) trust fund," they said.

"It is difficult to escape the conclusion that legislation which is presented in this fashion is not honestly and sincerely conceived."

The Democrats have been silent on plans for financing their proposals, which the Republicans said would cost between 1½ and 2 billion dollars a year.

Farmers Use Geese To Eradicate Weeds

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Cotton farmers have solved a labor problem in the San Joaquin Valley. They're using geese to eradicate weeds. The geese eat the Johnson and nut grasses that endanger crops but won't touch cotton plants. Farmer Fred Scharf said: "We have 100 geese and they weeded 66 acres in exactly two weeks."

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

The three Bad Chaps, Fokie, Wolfie and Bobbie the Bob Cat, who had been rushing through the woods to catch Uncle Wiggly, came to a sudden stop when they heard that loud BOOM! BOOM! noise about which you heard in the story last Saturday.

As we know, it was Bosun, trying the little cannon that he was going to put aboard Uncle Wiggly's Amusement Raft, who had made the BOOM! BOOM! sounds. But the Bad Chaps didn't know that.

"Did you hear it?" whispered Fokie.

"Who could help hearing it?" asked Wolfie. "Don't be silly! Do you think Bobbie and I are deaf?"

"No, I didn't think that," answered Fokie. "I suppose you heard the BOOM! BOOM! noises just as I did. But what made them, I ask you?"

"Thunder," answered Bobbie. "There isn't a cloud in the sky," answered Fokie. "So how could it be thunder?"

"Maybe there is a cloud in the sky away off at some other place," suggested Bobbie. "And we heard the thunder from away off there."

"If it was far-off thunder we don't need to worry about it now," growled Wolfie.

"But what made the BOOM! BOOM! noise so close to us?" Fokie wanted to know.

"It was Fourth of July," said Wolfie.

"The Fourth of July is two weeks from today," answered Bobbie.

"Sometimes boys and girls shoot off fire crackers, and other things that make big noises, ahead of Fourth of July," remarked Fokie.

"I just happened to think of something!" snarled Wolfie, suddenly.

"Well, don't keep us waiting!" snickered Fokie. "Tell us and—"

Suddenly the BOOM! BOOM! noise sounded again.

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed Bobbie.

"Quiet, please!" ordered Fokie. "I want to hear what it is that Wolfie just happened to think about! Tell us, Wolfie!"

"First I want to ask a question," said Wolfie.

"Go ahead!" invited Fokie. "Ask your question."

"What were we doing just before we heard the first BOOM! BOOM! sounds?" asked the Wolf.

"We were thinking of catching Uncle Wiggly," answered Bobbie.

"Right!" exclaimed Wolfie. "I saw that rabbit. I told you chaps so and advised you to hurry so we could catch him. Then, suddenly, we heard the BOOM! BOOM! noises."

"You are right, so far," answered Fokie. "But what of it?"

"Take a look at Uncle Wiggly now!" whispered the Wolf. "You can see him over there between the bushes."

"I see him!" exclaimed Bobbie.

"So do I!" chimed in Fokie.

"Bosun is with him. And Oh, me! Oh, my! They have a small cannon and they are going to shoot it again! That's what made the BOOM! BOOM! sounds. Uncle Wiggly and Bosun were shooting the cannon!"

"Now they are aiming it right at us!" shouted Fokie. "We had better run away, I think!"

"I think the same!" howled Wolfie. "They may shoot us!"

Once more Bosun loaded and fired the small cannon. It made very loud BOOM! BOOM! noises. But neither Uncle Wiggly nor Bosun knew that the Bad Chaps were so close to them. Bosun just fired the cannon any old way, just to hear it make a noise. But, anyhow, the cannon frightened away Fokie, Wolfie and Bobbie the Bob Cat, so Uncle Wiggly was safe.

"That's a fine cannon, Bosun!" said Mr. Longears. "It will be better than the bell on my raft to call the animal boys and girls to their meals if they go ashore when we tie up, say at Pussy Cat Island. But now we had better go back to my bungalow, hadn't we?"

"Just as you say, Cap'n Wiggly, sir!" barked Bosun. "I have fired the cannon enough. Just take hold of the pulling rope with me and we will haul the cannon to your bungalow. Later we will put it on the raft."

When Uncle Wiggly reached his bungalow, he saw and heard Etisco, one of his little rabbit boys, crying.

"My toy engine! My toy engine!" shouted Etisco. "Some one has taken it!" More tomorrow if the ice will spade up the garden in the back yard so the rake can plant some radishes for the canary bird.

U.S. Steel Answer On Union Wage Demands Ready

PITTSBURGH (AP)—U.S. Steel Corp., traditional pace setter for the steel industry in labor matters, gives its answer today to the CIO United Steelworkers demand for a substantial wage increase.

The union and Big Steel resume negotiations after a recess of more than a week in which the company has been preparing a counterproposal. Its answer was expected to set the trend for the nation's five other top basic steel producers whose negotiations with the USW are still recessed.

I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer of the union, said over the weekend that the major steel companies would probably offer a 7½-cent hourly pay raise.

That, he told the USW's District 20 convention, won't be acceptable. The booming basic steel industry is in position to pay a much greater amount, he said.

The union has not publicly made known its demands.

The 600,000 USW members in the steel industry now earn an average of $2.33 an hour. Observers figure the union is asking about 25 cents an hour but probably will settle for between 12 and 15 cents.

The steel union is bound by a two-year contract, signed last year, to discuss only hourly wages now. It cannot raise any other issues, such as a guaranteed annual wage plan.

If no agreement is reached the union is free to strike June 30. Most observers don't foresee any such action.

Judge Orders Added Punishment

CHICAGO (AP)—Judge Cornelius Harrington is "laying groundwork for legal action" to enforce his order for solitary confinement of two women convicts on the anniversary of the murder for which they were sentenced in 1936 to 180 years in prison.

That additional punishment was ordered when Judge Harrington sentenced Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, now 64, and Mrs. Evelyn Smith, now 66, for what the judge called "one of the most vicious, premeditated assassinations... solidly plotted and unfeelingly executed."

The women were convicted of murdering Mrs. Dunkel's son-in-law, Ervin Lang, 28, after testimony indicated he planned to break off an illicit romance with his mother-in-law and marry another woman.

According to trial evidence, Mrs. Smith, promised $500 for her part, plied Lang with liquor, drugged him with ether and strangled him in her apartment. Then she and her husband dismembered the body and scattered the parts.

For Best Pictures Submitted

This year marks the 100th Anniversary of The Daily News. In November you'll see what we believe will be one of the best anniversary editions ever published by an American newspaper. To make it "one of the best," we're staging a Centennial Edition Picture Contest in hopes that you will look into your attic and dig up those old pictures that might be of interest to everyone in the Winona area.

We assure you that we will take the best possible care of your pictures while they are in our possession. Every picture will be encased in a special envelope properly filed with your name and address. At the end of the contest, we'll return your pictures to you by mail.

A guide to the kind of pictures we want and DON'T want is shown below.

WHAT WE WANT!

- Pictures relating to outstanding early local news events such as floods, fires, railroad and steamboat wrecks.
- Pictures of early Winona city and farm life, showing street scenes, early automobiles, horse cars, important buildings, etc.
- Pictures of individuals who were important in the pioneering and later development of the community.
- Pictures showing the wearing apparel worn by local men, women and children through the years.
- Pictures of Winonans who held important offices at the state and national levels.
- Pictures of Winonans who held important local offices—mayors, police chiefs, educators, etc.

WHAT WE DON'T WANT!

- Pictures of large groups of people such as graduating classes, etc., unless they are of outstanding historical value.
- Pictures found in old newspaper clippings. (While many of these might be interesting, it is virtually impossible to reproduce them for printing today.)
- Faded snapshots. In general, snapshots must show the subject in clear detail to be printable.
- Pictures printed in books, unless you are willing to clip them from the book. Some of these are printable and some are not. We suggest you show them to us before you clip them.
- Pictures in frames. It is impossible for us to reproduce pictures for printing unless they are removed from frames.

Federal Security Quiz Seen

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The cloud is still no bigger than a man's hand, but maybe Herbert Brownell, Scott McCleod, Lewis L. Strauss and a few other people had better start thinking about what happened to the prophets of Babel when Elijah's little cloud grew to be a big one. The cloud in question is the unanimous report by the Senate Committee on Government Operations of a resolution calling for the appointment of a high level commission to review the entire federal security program.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn mean to pass the resolution through their respective bodies. Rayburn and Johnson have a highly developed knack of getting what they want. Hence the resolution has an excellent chance of becoming law before the end of the session.

Jeopardy Sponsorship
Meanwhile, the circumstances in which this resolution to investigate the investigators was reported to the Senate are highly significant in themselves. In the novel style of the Lyndon Johnson democracy, it was co-sponsored by a left-right team. Senators Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and John Stennis of Mississippi.

It was then studied at prolonged hearings, in the course of which Attorney General Brownell exhibited a marked lack of enthusiasm for the proposed inquiry into his own security practices. The Republican members of the subcommittee studying the resolution, Senators Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, Thomas E. Martin of Iowa and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, were at first inclined to be suspicious of a measure that looked partisan. But in the end they enthusiastically joined in presenting the resolution to the full Committee on Government Operations.

The two senior Republican members of the Government Operations Committee are Senators Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin and Karl Mundt of South Dakota. No one can suspect either Mundt or McCarthy of any desire for reform in federal security procedures. What they want, if anything, is a further debasement.

No Signs of Hostility
Yet even McCarthy and Mundt did not record their hostility when the full committee reported the resolution to the Senate.

The signs are clear, then, that there are increasing doubts about the federal security program. The doubts are no longer confined to leftwingers, intellectuals and obstinately old-fashioned persons who cannot quite approve the back-door derogation of the Bill of Rights. Grave concern is also beginning to be felt by such good, horny-handed, orthodox, corn state Republicans as Senator Martin.

This shift of opinion was bound to come, sooner or later. Essentially, the existing security program embodies a national reaction to the case of Alger Hiss. It was a proper and natural reaction. But the result of the reaction, the security program itself, is neither proper nor natural.

It effectively deprives millions of American citizens of the ancient protections of our Constitution. It has worked horrifying injustices. It has bred among us such novel phenomena as hired informers, officially encouraged poison-pen-letter writers and Federal flatfeet who ask people whether their neighbors' garbage includes an excessive allowance of bottles. As presently constituted and administered, in fact, the Federal security program must keep the founders of this Republic turning in their graves like so many teetotums.

Many Disturbed
The Oppenheimer case, the John Davies case and a few other episodes have already disturbed a great many people. But one can predict with confidence that this security program will eventually produce a sort of Hiss-case-in-reverse—a demonstration of injustices and malpractice so final and so dramatic that it will convulse the entire country with strong indignation and generate an irresistible demand for reform. Any one familiar with the program can already detect the stench of such cases coming up, so to speak, through the floor boards.

Whether the high level commission proposed by the Humphrey-Stennis resolution will really do the job, may perhaps be open to question. It is to be composed of three groups of four members, chosen by the President, the vice president and the speaker. The congressional appointees should be well-balanced, but Attorney General Brownell, who wants no serious inquiry, has a chance to pack the commission through the presidential appointees.

He will make the same mistake if he does so, however, as President Truman made when he called the Hiss case a red herring. Already, the peculiarities of the security program are being somewhat fumblingly investigated by the Post Office and Civil Service Committee of the Senate; and a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. Thomas Hennings of Missouri is also starting a more promising investigation. Sooner or later, the break will come and the storm of indignation will follow, unless the Administration is wise enough to forestall trouble by preparing for careful reform.

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

Not Prize Winner

Some fishermen never have any luck winning prizes. Elmer Bubblitz, 776 W. Mark St., holding a five-pound beautiful brown might be put in that class. The fish was caught in the same week — and month — that Ed Redalen, Lanesboro, entered his 8½ pounder in all local contests.

Catching this big fellow out of the middle branch of the Whitewater just below the state park really was a family affair, according to Gus Bubblitz, 261½ Walnut St., Elmer's father, who was along on the family outing and fishing trip to the Whitewater. Mrs. Elmer Bubblitz actually caught the fish.

Fishing with worms with a cane pole from shore, the Winona fisherman caught the big fellow. There was little action at first. It acted like a big carp, Gus said, but then the struggle was on and Mrs. Elmer hauled it ashore after tiring it.

However, just as it was landed the line broke and the fish wiggled into the shallow water. Elmer jumped into the river and picked it up with his hands, much like he is holding it in the picture and threw it up on the shore. It weighed slightly over five pounds.

Probably the most excited fisherman who caught a big trout during the week was Dennis Pille, 14, Plainview, who arrived at the Billar place at Beaver the other evening while we were making some pictures of the baby raccoons.

He had a very live and very wiggly brown that would run better than three pounds. He had just caught it above the buildings out of Beaver Creek, point of some exciting fishing this season.

When the refuge acquired the 550 acres of the Owatonna Tool Co. property a year ago it included approximately four miles of highly improved and stocked trout waters that had been closed to the public and used as a private trout stream. It was immediately opened by the state and is now providing some exciting fishing. There are some brooks and rainbows in the creek but mostly stocked browns.

Refuge Article

Minnesota is making an outstanding effort to sell its park system to its citizens. In the current issue of The Conservation Volunteer, 18 pages are devoted to Minnesota's state parks. Sixty-four of the parks, containing 90,000 acres, are briefly described. Facilities of each park is listed.

Southeastern Minnesota parks included are Helmer Myre State Park, Nerstrand Woods State Park, James A. Carley State Park, Oronoco State Park, John A. Latsch State Park, Whitewater State Park, Garvin Heights State Park, and Beaver Creek Valley State Park. How many of these have you visited?

Incidentally, the same issue has an extensive article by Ray C. Steele, superintendent of the Upper Mississippi River Wild Life and Fish Refuge, on the growth and use of this largest national refuge. It is now 550 miles long and contains 266,000 acres of land.

Records of the refuge show that 249 different species of birds, 26 larger mammals, 113 species of fish and over 1,000 species of plants are found within its boundaries.

Although established as a refuge for the protection of game and fish, the area last year provided recreation for nearly a million and a half people, nearly as many as visited all of Minnesota's parks.

who since 1941 has emerged once to help the party—by plugging Adlai Stevenson in 1952. The warmth of his greetings to Butler could also be taken as a political gesture.

Garner told Butler he was "delighted to do anything" he could for the party.

Then, after a 20-minute private talk and some public conversation before approximately 200 persons gathered on the oak-shaded lawn, Butler left after asking Garner: "Do you have any advice for me?"

"Just go on doing as you have been doing," Garner replied.

He made a personal pilgrimage yesterday to Uvalde, where he spent more than an hour visiting with John Nance Garner, 86, former vice president and now sage of Texas Democrats.

One of the things that brought Butler to Texas for his border-to-border political tour was the fact that the state went Republican for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 under the leadership of Democratic Gov. Allan Shivers. Shivers' actions underlined a state party split that Butler was also seeking to heal in advance of the 1956 election. Butler will leave Texas this afternoon, probably without having seen the governor.

He said his tight schedule would prevent him from accepting a luncheon date with Shivers. Neither Shivers nor Mrs. Weimer had appeared at any of the Butler gatherings.

The Shivers faction—after having given some signs of wanting to renew connections with the national organization — became miffed when the Butler tour was ramrodded by the state's Democratic Advisory Council. The council handles many national committee affairs in Texas. Butler had never met Garner.

Ike's Defense Bill Facing Senate Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supporters of President Eisenhower's defense program faced a battle in the Senate today on efforts of some Democrats to expand air power further and prevent a cutback in the ground forces.

Up for decision, under limited debate that could bring a passage vote by tonight, was the bulky $1,336,521,336 defense money bill.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force in the Truman administration, was spearheading what appeared to be an uphill drive for three major changes:

1. Addition of about 40 million dollars to prevent a cutback of about 12,000 in the manpower of the Marine Corps between now and June 30 of next year.

2. Addition of about 250 millions to prevent a similar reduction of 88,000 in the regular Army.

3. Addition of 200 million dollars to speed up production of super-sonic jet fighter aircraft.

The first two proposals already have been defeated in the Appropriations Committee by a 2-1 margin. Normally the Senate accepts its decisions.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), floor manager for the measure, was on the losing side in those tests but told the Senate Friday he now will vote to uphold the committee decisions.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), former chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was expected to aid Chavez in opposing additional increases.

"We are not reducing our fighting strength by the changes in numbers of men, most of whom come from supporting units," he said.

Work Under Way On Highway 121 Bridge Structures

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special)—The Nelson Construction Co., Black River Falls, moved in Friday to begin work on building new concrete and steel bridges on Highway 121 east of Pigeon Falls to replace two structures, a half-mile apart, which have been hazardous on that highway for years because they are too narrow to allow more than one vehicle to cross them at a time.

The roadway, leading east from Pigeon Falls to Northfield, is a former county trunk highway but was made an extension of Highway 121 a few years ago. Highway 121, probably one of the shortest state highways in the state, formerly stretched only between Whitehall and Independence, a distance of about six miles. Then it was extended to Gilmanston in Buffalo County on the west and to the intersection with State Highway 27 in Jackson County.

The new bridges will be 26 feet wide and 30 feet long.

Seattle Man's Wife Kills Self, Two Small Sons

SEATTLE (AP)—A bleak and bloody Father's Day greeted 30-year-old Charles Reimers early yesterday.

He returned to his small South End home to find his sons Thomas, 5, and Jerry, 1, battered and stabbed to death. In another room he found his wife, Mrs. Josephine Reimers, with knife slashes in her throat, wrists and groin.

Mrs. Reimers, 29, eight months pregnant with twins, died in a hospital last night. The King County sheriff's office called it a suicide and double slaying.

Reimers, an airplane company employee, had been downtown. He said he stopped at a tavern before heading home early yesterday morning. He found the two boys battered with a rolling pin and slashed with a knife. Authorities said apparently the younger boy had been slain in his crib, then thrown on the bed of the older boy, also slain.

Reimers said he and his wife had not quarrelled. But he told officers she had been despondent.

SPORT SIDELITES

Clippings of feature stories about the success of Paul Giel keep coming in and they make good reading for the followers of the Winona All-American, now making a name for himself as a pitcher with the New York Giants.

The Hubert Weir family, 318 Market St., saw Giel win his first major league game, 7-2, in relief against the Chicago Cubs last week.

The Winonans write:

"We saw the game which the enclosed article refers to, from the Chicago American. . . A real thriller for us. Paul looked very good."

The clipping, by sports writer James Enright, follows:

Who is the happiest baseball personality in Chicago today? Paul Giel? Leo Durocher?

Both are excellent nominations, but the happiest is Frank Shellenback, the Giants' pitching coach and mentor to Giel.

Frank's a fellow you seldom see when the Giants are playing, but he's a very vital cog in the world champion machine nevertheless.

Ever since the Giants shelled out a $75,000 bonus to land Giel, he has been Shellenback's personal project. Durocher told Frank: "Take the boy, it's up to you to teach him how to win in the major leagues."

As of today (June 15) Giel has a 2-1 record, and both decisions resulted in games with the Cubs. The Bruins beat the kid who was drafted by the Bears for pro football in New York, but yesterday it was different.

Following every one of Shellenback's tips, Paul beat the Cubs as he allowed just one hit in the final three innings for a 7-2 victory.

Shellenback said about his pet pupil:

"Paul has two outstanding qualities to become an outstanding pitcher. First, he's blessed with unlimited competitive fire and desire and secondly, he's an outstanding student, willing to learn and everything you tell him sinks in."

"He's still got a lot to learn. He knows it and he knows that I know it. But he's still asking questions and taking full advantage of what we're trying to teach him."

In case you want a second reason for Frank's happiness, he's got that too!

When the Giants went to spring training last March Durocher turned Jim Hearn over to Frank with another "He's your baby" command. Hearn had a miserable year in 1954 and there were hints he was washed up.

Shellenback was the court of last resort. Taking Hearn under his wing, Shellenback got him back in the victory column. As of today, he's just as dependable in a starting role as Giel proved to be in relief.

Only yesterday it was a case of one Shellenback pupil saving the other.

It's no wonder friendly Frank wears No. 1 on the back of his uniform plus an ear-to-ear grin today.

Another Pollard?

People in the know with the Minneapolis Lakers figure jumping Jack Bob Williams, the 6-6 Negro recently signed to a Laker contract, may become "the new Kangaroo Kid," which in basketball parlance means he could be another Jim Pollard.

Pollard, until he retired from basketball after the past season to take the La Salle College coaching job in Philadelphia, was one of the greatest players of professional basketball has ever known.

Jim Pollard

He and George Mikan provided a tremendous one-two punch that carried the Lakers through a long string of glory years and made Minneapolis a symbol for basketball supremacy.

Mikan retired before the 1954-55 season started and Pollard followed suit when the season ended. What remains for Laker officials to do now is start a rebuilding program to get Minneapolis back to the pinnacle it once enjoyed.

Williams is being counted on by the Lakers as a major step in the rebuilding program. The first Negro to join the Lakers, he's 24 years old, married and has three children.

He played a year of college basketball in Florida before going into service. It was in the service where he really made a name for himself and came to the attention of Laker ivory-bunters.

Now discharged, he seriously thought of going back to college and a number of major colleges were anxious to have him enroll. So, when Williams signed with the Lakers, Minneapolis officials were very, very happy and very, very relieved.

This information, and the reason for our off-season basketball discussion, is the result of a visit with Elynd Hoff, Minneapolis Lakers public relations director who was in town last week.

Hoff was in the area sounding out communities for a possible Minneapolis pre-season exhibition time-up series against a league rival. Last year the Lakers traveled 2,600 miles, and as far away as Anaconda, Mont., in pre-season exhibitions, and they'd like to stay closer to home this year.

Hoff said the Lakers still have a worldwide reputation. Letters seeking basketball information have arrived at the Laker office recently from Spain, Argentina, and of all places, Russia!

Hoff said that Laker Coach Johnny Kundla is getting letters these days from college coaches all over the U.S. in regard to the 12-foot lane ruling slated to go into effect next season.

Kundla is all for the 12-foot lane which the pros have been using. In general, he tells the college mentors, "Don't worry about it—it opens up the area under the basket."

It throws more responsibility on individual players, and puts a premium on better defensive play.

Leach Slams as Chiefs Cop 10-9 Thriller

By RALPH REEVE
Daily News Sports Editor

It took the Winona Chiefs 3 hours and 33 minutes to do it, but they chalked up victory No. 4 in their 1955 Southern Minny campaign here Saturday night by winning a wild-and-woolly 10-9 disturbance from Shanty Dolan's Mankato Merchants.

There were no triples, balks nor passed balls in the game. But there was nearly everything else.

By the time the Chiefs pushed the winning run across the plate in the last of the 10th inning 27 minutes before the stroke of midnight, the 1955 fans had been treated to one of the most exciting games at the old orchard in many a moon.

The game was enlivened by one of the best rubeisms of the season which found two Mankato players ejected from the premises. In addition, two more Mankato players—catchers Dick Loomis and Arnie Giebel, had to leave the game after sustaining injuries. Loomis on a collision at the plate with Burt Tracy, and Giebel when he twisted an ankle backing up on a play in the 10th inning.

Jim Lawler, Whitey Felker and newcomer Ed Hobaugh shared twirling chores for the Chiefs, with Hobaugh, the young Michigan Stater, claiming the victory in a 10th inning relief role.

Marco Mainini, who had handcuffed Winona here earlier this season, wasn't so fortunate Saturday, but he escaped without being charged with the loss. That went to reliever Ed Albrecht.

Albrecht took over for Mainini in the sixth with the bases loaded and two out. He got out of that jam, but was touched for a homer in the eighth by new Winona catcher Len Schwartz. Then in the ninth, Billy Leach poled a grand-slam homer off Albrecht to tie the game up and send it into extra innings.

Hobaugh set Mankato down in order in the 10th and got the winning run himself when he hit a one-out single, advanced to second when Jerry Kindall walked and scored on Jack Triplett's single into centerfield.

Mankato got to Winona starter Lawler for seven hits and five earned runs in six innings. It might have been more had not Lawler and Kindall combined efforts twice to pick Mankato runners off second base.

Winona, meanwhile, trailed by 5-4 after the sixth, scoring twice in the first and twice in the sixth. Singles by Kindall, Burt Tracy and a double by Al Radsavage counted Winona's two in the first. In the sixth Radsavage and Leach got singles, Miller walked but was forced at second by Swartz. Walks to Joey Shrake, pinch-hitting for Lawler, and Kindall forced two runs home.

BILLY LEACH
The Grand Slam Kid

The rally ended on a disputed ball-strike count. Swartz, thinking that batter Jack Triplett had drawn a walk, came home and was tagged out by Giebel. Umpire Rasmussen seemed unable to make up his mind which way to call the play, but he finally ruled against Winona.

Before that, in the third inning, Fred Folkes and Charley Sipple of Mankato argued too long and too loud with base umpire Mahre after Folkes was picked off second. They got a preliminary trip to the showers for their efforts.

Mankato made it 6-4 in the eighth when Charley Weiss hit his second homer of the night, but Swartz' clout over the left field fence reduced the margin to 6-5.

Mankato then went out ahead 9-5 in the ninth on a collection of walks, two errors by Swartz, a wild pitch, sacrifice and a double by Ed Wopinek.

Winona came back in the ninth. With the walking Jack Triplett on first and two out, Radsavage lived on an error and Langston stroled to fill the sacks. At that point Leach drilled an Albrecht offering high over the left field barrier to tie the score and sent it into extra innings.

Odds Favor Moore by 9-5 Against Bobo

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Bobo Olson bids for a spot among the ring's super champions Wednesday night when he challenges Archie Moore for the world light heavyweight title at New York's Polo Grounds.

The balding middleweight king from San Francisco is a 9-5 underdog, however, against Archie the Gypsy who will be making his fourth defense.

Weight is the big problem for Moore, who had to boil down to 175 pounds. His weight at Las Vegas, May 2, when he whipped Nino Valdes, was announced at 196½ pounds although some claim he really weighed 10 pounds less. Olson, normally a 168-pounder who has to work hard to make the 160-pound middleweight limit, will come in at about 170 pounds.

The bout will be carried by ABC radio.

A victory for Archie will put him in line for a Sept. 22 date

Yankees Retain Lead With Two Victories Over Chisox

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The New York Yankees perched atop the American League again today in the see-saw battle for first place. They got there by whipping their No. 1 rivals, the Chicago White Sox, twice.

That's never been any problem for the Yanks, who could always fight the pretenders to their throne on even terms.

In the view of Manager Casey Stengel, it's the league have-nots that make the difference. After Cleveland grabbed the pennant last year, he complained that the Indians had managed to fatten themselves on the second division clubs.

That makes Boston's 11-7 victory over Cleveland yesterday significant. The Red Sox couldn't lick the Indians in Boston at all last year and, in fact, beat them only twice in 22 games.

It's different this year. The fifth-place Red Sox have won 7 of 12 from Cleveland, and have taken three of a four-game set.

Ted Williams blasted a pair of home runs yesterday as the Sox teed off on Indian rookie ace Herb Score for eight hits in the four plus innings he lasted. Mel Parnell and Tom Hurd handled the Sox pitching.

The Yanks beat the White Sox 7-1 and 5-2, using the home run to good advantage. Elston Howard and Bill Skowron homered in the opener and Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle in the nightcap.

The first game was no contest with Ed Lopat scattering seven hits for his fourth victory. The second game, however, presented more of a problem.

The game was tied at 2-all going into the last half of the seventh and Sox pitcher Jack Harshman had the Yanks worried. Then McDougald broke the tie with a blast into the lower right field seats. Hank Bauer tripled and in came Sandy Consuegra, who was greeted with a home run off the bat of Mantle. Rookie Johnny Kucks needed help from Jim Konstanty, who was credited with the win.

There was no other action in the American League.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers stretched their lead to 11 games by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 while the second-place Chicago Cubs were splitting a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies. The Phillies won the first 1-0 behind Ron Negey and Jack Meyer, and the Cubs took the nightcap 8-7, a curtailed 6½-inning affair because of darkness.

Milwaukee whipped New York 8-7, and Pittsburgh and Cincinnati split a pair, the Pirates taking the first 5-2 and the Redlegs the second 4-0 with Joe Nuxhall wielding the whitewash brush.

The Brookes peppered an assortment of five St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits—including a home run by Sandy Amoros—in their victory. Carl Furillo was the only regular except pitchers Carl Erskine and Karl Spooner, who didn't get a hit. Spooner, who relieved Erskine in the fifth, was the winner.

The Phils won the first game in the 15th when Marv Blaylock singled and Willie Jones doubled him home. Cub reliever Hal Jecoffoat's six-game winning streak was broken, while Meyer, who gave up only four hits in the last eight innings, snapped a six-game losing skid.

The second game was a slug-fest battle with the Phillies scoring three runs in the top of the seventh with darkness closing in. They fell just short of the Cubs and the umpires called the game. Warren Hacker saved the game for Howie Pollet, who, in turn, relieved Dave Hillman in the fifth. Milwaukee took over third place with its victory over the slumping Giants. Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants benched Willie Mays, the Most Valuable Player in the league last year and batting champion of '54. Ray Crone was the winner in relief and Paul Giel the loser. The winning run in the eighth inning was unearned, scoring as a result of an error by Al Dark.

First baseman Dale Long hit two home runs to lead the Pirates to their opening-game victory over the Redlegs. But they had nothing left in the nightcap and collected only six hits off Nuxhall.

Toledo Nears Top In Association

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo surged to within a half game of the American Association lead Sunday with 2-1 and 5-1 victories over slumping but still leading Minneapolis Millers.

Two other Association teams rapped out double victories in Sunday doubleheader play, the Indianapolis Indians blanking Denver 9-0 and 4-0, while St. Paul battered cellar-dwelling Charleston 6-4 and 5-1.

In the day's only split, Omaha beat Louisville 2-1 in the first game and lost the nightcap 8-7, with both decisions coming on wild throws.

Don McMahon and Bob Trowbridge spun four and six hitters respectively to give Toledo its twin wins. The Sox scored two unearned runs in the fifth to win the opener, and scored three runs in the first inning of the second game to wrap it up early.

A crowd of 5,584 watched the Millers drop their 11th game out of the last 13.

Shrake, Hobaugh Get Mound Jobs

Joey Shrake and Ed Hobaugh have drawn starting mound assignments for the two home games tonight and Tuesday night on tap for the Winona Chiefs.

Shrake, a lefty, will toe the slab tonight for Winona against the league-leading Rochester Royals, while Hobaugh is due to go Tuesday night against Austin.

It will be the first starting chores for both boys.

Shrake, the St. Mary's College star, has a 0-0 win-loss record, while Hobaugh, a Michigan State product, won his first game here Saturday night in relief against Mankato.

The Chiefs were rained out of their scheduled game against Mankato Sunday night and are due to make the game up Wednesday night at Mankato.

Meanwhile, the Chiefs will be bolstered in the player department by a new second baseman and the return of George Gleason this week.

Gleason flew home to Kansas City Saturday to receive a checkup on an aggravated ankle injury. He was told by his doctor to take it easy for five days.

Manager Emil Scheid is counting on him to return by either Thursday or Saturday.

The new second baseman is Tom McDevitt, who has batted .295 in 17 games this season in the tough semi-pro Man-Dak League. Signed as a replacement for Army-bound Don Miller was Bob Hastings of Austin and Harvard College, but Scheid was apparently

Benson to Suggest New Wheat Plan if Market Quotas Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today he would suggest a new wheat program if farmers reject market quotas for the 1956 crop. A farmer referendum is to be held Saturday.

"We would not sit down and hold our hands," Benson told a meeting of the National Association of Television and Radio Farm Directors.

Benson said his department is taking a "neutral" position on the quota issue.

Reports from some wheat areas indicate that there is considerable opposition to the present program. Quotas are designed to limit production to prevent the accumulation of additional surplus supplies. Under the proposed quota program farmers next year would be limited to planting 55 million acres of wheat compared with war and post-war peaks of 80 million acres.

Benson said he was not ready to suggest what he might recommend to Congress in event of rejection of quotas. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required.

Under farm law as it stands now, price support for wheat would drop to 50 per cent of parity in event quotas were turned down. Otherwise the support rate would be 75 per cent of parity. This year's rate is 82.5 per cent.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices in relation to prices farmers must pay for things they buy.

Benson indicated, in answer to questions, that he favored changes in price support programs which would offer special inducements to grow more better quality wheat and cotton and less of the poorer qualities.

Questioned about problems of low-income farmers, the secretary said it was not the policy of this administration to provide programs that would guarantee a profit to anyone who wishes to farm.

He said that now as in the past there has been a declining need for farmers, reflecting agriculture's increasing efficiency.

"Our job should be one of offering guidance so that farmers will be free to move in and out of agriculture as they are needed," he said.

Benson agreed with a questioner that farmers have not shared "fully in recent and present prosperous conditions."

"But farmers could not expect the inflationary prices of the war and post-war period to continue indefinitely," he said.

"It has been necessary to make adjustments. Farm prices have been relatively stable for several months and for the first time farm production costs have shown signs of easing somewhat."

Moon Eclipses Sun Over Asia

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The moon totally eclipsed the sun over South Asia today.

Heavy unseasonal rain clouds blocked the view of the eclipse from observation posts set up by most foreign and Ceylonese scientists.

But only a light cloud was over the central Ceylon spot guarded by an American team from Harvard University. A spokesman said the phenomenon was fully visible for the four minutes that the eclipse was total, beginning about 8:10 a.m.

The eclipse began at sunrise in the Indian Ocean, along the eastern coast of Africa and southern Arabia. As the earth rotated, it streaked at 24 miles a minute—visible entirely or in part—across India, China, the Indochinese and Malay peninsulas, Indonesia, northern Australia and the Philippines.

The 180-mile-wide path of total darkness streaked 7,200 miles across Ceylon, south Siam, central Indochina and the Philippines.

The longest totality lasted 7 minutes 7.9 seconds, at one point in the South China Sea. New York's Hayden Planetarium said many scientists think it was the longest since 717 A.D.

DENNIS THE MENACE

LAFF-A-DAY

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. M.

Answer to Question No. 1
1. If everyone had this attitude, we would still be cave dwellers. Everything of importance has been done by one discontented man or woman. They are the men and women who have influenced nearly all history. One woman founded Hull House; one man discovered that microbes produce disease; one man invented anesthetics. Look around in your town and see that one man or woman who is getting things done. Still better, try doing a few things yourself.

Answer to Question No. 2
2. Yes—about 90 per cent of the time. Our own self is the most interesting thing in the universe. This is especially true in day-dreams and reverie when you just let your mind go. Even the philosopher or politician who earnestly wants to save the world unconsciously pictures himself as the savior.

Answer to Question No. 3
3. Yes. They've never discovered that "there's one thing in which all men are alike—they are all different." Unpopular people use the same technique on everybody. People differ in aggressiveness, sociability, selfishness, self-control, and every other trait.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By MARGARET LATROBE

In a delightfully interesting book called "Why Johnny Can't Read—And What You Can Do About It" the author, Rudolf Flesch, makes some highly erroneous charges against the American schools' system of teaching the kiddies to read.

Mr. Flesch, Austrian by birth, came to this country in 1938 and has since then written six books on readability, writability and thinkability. And why so few people can and do. His approach is always original, particularly when he is kicking out the literary furniture stuffed with clichés and the art of making 10,000 words do the work of 100.

But in tackling the reading ability of little Johnny, who muddles through his primer with the speed of glue, I feel that Mr. Flesch crawled out on a European limb with a German buzzsaw. He maintains that all over the world we ones are taught to read at the age of six. And in Great Britain, he chortles, they start at five. What about our own kids? They are a good two years behind, that's what! Johnny-conscience is in starting them, but we do not teach by sound. By phonics. We teach 'em only by heinous word-recognition, without phonetics of any shape, size or description.

This is not the truth. First, our schools do use sound, plus the faster, rib-sticking word recognition. Second, why concern ourselves with the earliness of reading ability, when it has been proved quite authoritatively that by grade three or four children are reading as well as though they had begun in the cradle?

You can call me a patriot if you like, but it puts me off to hear European methods of education extolled as superior to our own.

What is the end result? What are the superior ideologies which Europe has contributed as a result of this early reading method? Just what books, for example, read so eagerly in Germany by its toddlers, suggested the brutalities of the gas chamber, the persecution of millions, the succession of wars? And is there a connection between early education and the shifty politics characterizing at least four nations who so thoroughly messed up their national affairs that they now are receiving Uncle Sam's bounty? (And sometimes I wonder if our free-handed foreign aid experts can read the fine print!)

Can Johnny read? You are mighty right, he can—and if he still can't after having remedial reading he probably falls in the 2-to-5 per cent group of emotionally or visually handicapped.

Can Johnny spell? Not too well, but certainly better than his 1900 counterpart. Repeat — "counterpart." Does Johnny use the public library and the school library—or has television made a literary know-nothing of him? My friends, the Johnnies of America are using libraries more than they ever did. Their interests have been stimulated by new mediums—and they want to learn more and more about subjects you and I never heard of 25 years ago.

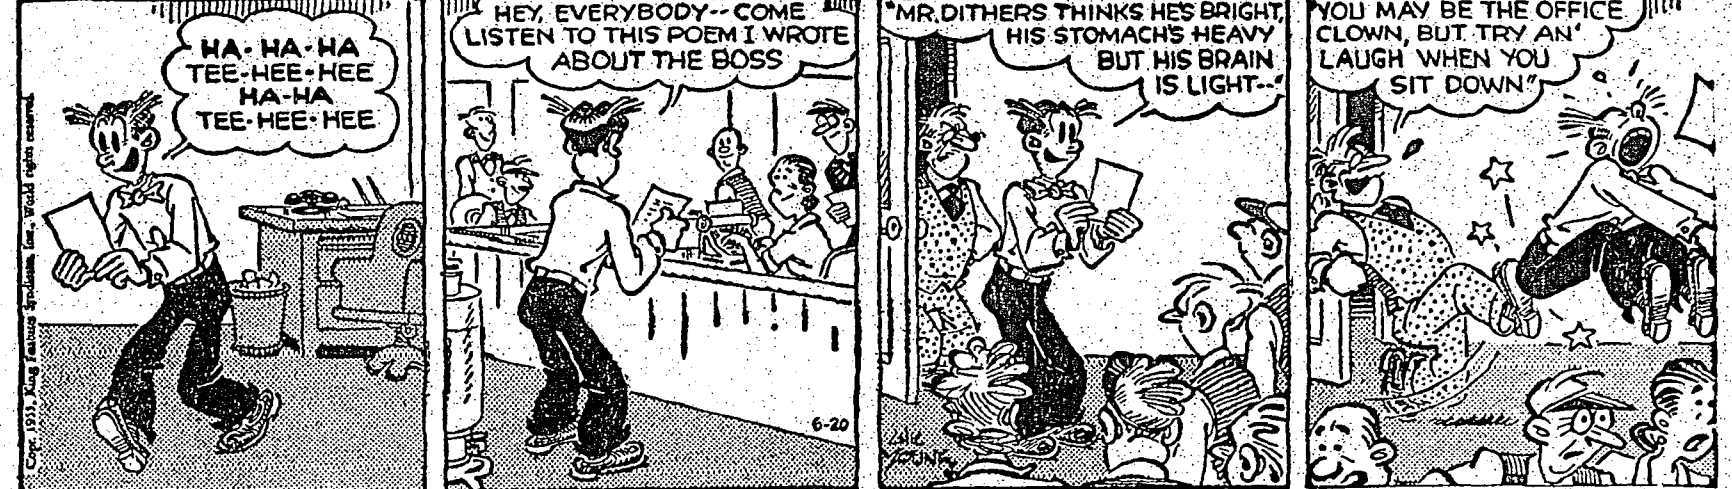

Does that make the American way perfect? Not by a long shot. But to imply that some conspiracy exists among educators to retard and delay the education of our young is arbitrary myopia or a calculated misrepresentation of fact. And either way, I don't appreciate it, brother!

The probability of an American man dying within a year are 1 in 100 at age 45, rising steadily to 22 in 100 at age 80.
