St. Cloud Man Killed as Car Strikes Tree

4 Others in State Road Mishap Victims; 11 Wisconsin Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Death of a prominent St. Cloud businessman in a crash early today brought to five the number of reported weekend auto fatalities in Minnesota.

Lloyd Pelley, about 56, long-time St. Cloud divisional sales manager for the Northern States Power Co., was killed about 12:30 a.m. when his car struck a tree on a curving residential street. Mrs. Pelley, who was with him, was hospitalized with undetermined injuries.

Two Elbow Lake youths were killed Sunday when the car in which they were riding went out of control.

The car hit the curbing on a divided highway, smashed into a tree, traveled nearly 60 feet, then hit another tree, spun around in the air and landed facing the opposite direction.

Victims of the accident on Highway 59 at the outskirts of Elbow Lake were Leonard C. Cravens and Marvin Miles, both 18.

Their deaths and other fatalities over the weekend raised Minnesota's 1955 traffic total to 252, compared with 286 during the same period last year.

Young Cravens was killed in the crash and Miles succumbed an hour later. The car was demolished, and one door was found 91 feet from the main wreckage. Two other occupants, Dale Mickelson, 19, and James Carlson, 18, the driver, also of Elbow Lake, were hospitalized in Fergus Falls. Neither was in serious condition.

Pedestrian Killed
Nels W. Lantto, 70, a Carlton County farmhand, was killed Sunday when he apparently stepped in front of a car on Highway 61 a mile from his home, in the Mora area. Sheriff Oscar Juntunen said Lantto apparently stumbled in front of the car as he was walking home. The driver, Thomas W. McGregor of rural Mora, was not held.

Kenneth Harris, 15, a farm youth of the London, Minn., area, was killed Saturday when his motorcycle was struck by an Illinois Central freight train near London. Officers said the youth apparently was distracted by a mud hole which he sought to avoid hitting, and took his eyes off the crossing.

Wisconsin Deaths
Accidents in Wisconsin during the weekend have taken 11 lives. Charles Farmer, 8, of Superior, drowned Sunday near a swimming beach of the St. Louis River in that city while playing with two older sisters who tried in vain to save him.

Mrs. Robert Hitchcock, 39, of Pardeeville, died in a Portage hospital early Sunday of injuries suffered a few hours earlier when she fell from her husband's car on a country road near Portage. Columbia County authorities said she complained of feeling ill and had tried to leave the car before it stopped.

Norbert Carter, 22, of De Pere, was injured fatally Saturday when a loaded gravel truck backed over him in a gravel pit near De Pere. Charles Sandler, 71, of the town of Lewis (Clark County) was gored to death by a bull Saturday evening while leading the animal across his barnyard. Sandler's 16-year-old grandson, Harold Sharp of Chicago, ran from the barn when he heard his grandfather's screams but was butted aside by

Wheat Farmers Vote to Keep Tight Controls on '56 Crop

Mary Ann Virgilio, 6, stares admiringly at the back of the head of her hero, Jimmy Harris, 14, after Jimmy got what he demanded from a barber in Chicago today. Jimmy ordered a haircut to match his Davy Crockett hat, and after a few glances in the mirror when the barber finished, Jimmy smiled approvingly. The opinion of his parents has not been reported. Government Will Guarantee $1.81 Bushel Average

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a decisive majority, the nation's wheat farmers have voted for tight controls on their next year's crop in return for a government-guaranteed price averaging $1.81 a bushel.

In doing so, the growers caused Secretary of Agriculture Benson to lay aside a proposal that they seek broader markets at home and abroad by offering the grain at considerably lower prices than would prevail otherwise.

Over 928,000 wheat farmers took part in an Agriculture Department referendum on the question Saturday. By a 77 1/2 per cent majority, they voted to continue next year marketing quotas designed to hold wheat production at roughly 30 per cent below postwar peaks. This was well over the two-thirds approval required to put the quotas into effect on the 1956 crop. About one million wheat farmers were eligible to vote in the referendum.

To Prevent Surplus
The controls are designed to prevent the accumulation of still more surplus stocks of wheat.

The heavy support given quotas came as a surprise to many farm leaders because advance reports from various producing areas had indicated a closer vote. These reports stressed farmer dissatisfaction with sharp income reductions resulting from already-imposed cutbacks in wheat production.

There had been speculation too that farmers would vote against quotas as a way of registering disapproval of the Eisenhower administration's flexible support program under which Benson can set price props on most basic crops at between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, depending on the size of supplies.

Under the program adopted Saturday, growers will be allotted 55 million acres for the next year's wheat crop—the same as this year, but 30 million less than the peak.

Southeastern Vote

Southeastern Minnesota farmers eligible to vote in the wheat referendum Saturday favored marketing quotas.

The reported votes: Winona, 1-1; Wabasha, 6-2; and Olmsted, 2-0.

Thirty-one Minnesota counties reported no votes.

Farmers will be allowed to sell, free of penalty, wheat grown on their individual shares of the allotment.

The 1956 crop will be supported at 75 per cent of parity, or a national average of $1.81 a bushel under the new flexible price support system. This compares with 82 1/2 per cent, or $2.06, for this year's crop and $2.20 for last year's crop, which was supported at 90 per cent of parity under the now-junked high, rigid support system.

Had growers rejected the 1956 quotas, the support price would have dropped to 50 per cent of parity, or about $1.19 a bushel. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

West Will Ask European Arms Race Be Stopped

Proposal Will Be Given Russia at Big Four Parley

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France probably will propose at next month's Big Four summit talks that Russia consider a formula for reversing the arms race in Europe.

The idea is one which Secretary of State Dulles considered with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay during the past 10 days at New York and San Francisco.

Dulles returned yesterday from the United Nations 10th anniversary ceremonies at San Francisco. He said he was gratified at Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's response to American demands for compensation in the case of a U.S. Navy patrol plane shot down by Soviet jet fighters between Alaska and Siberia last Wednesday.

Landing on an island, the plane burned. Seven of the 11 crewmen suffered burns or injuries.

The State Department made public yesterday a note Molotov handed Dulles just before both men left San Francisco Saturday. The Soviet said the airplane had violated Russia's "state frontier." The American government said Soviet MIGs blasted it in a surprise assault over international waters. The State Department said yesterday there was "no possibility of error" as to the U.S. plane's location.

Molotov also said there was an "exchange" of gunfire, but the United States said the U.S. plane did not fire.

However, Molotov expressed regret at the incident and offered to pay one half the damage—an unprecedented offer in such cases.

"It is gratifying that he expressed regret," Dulles commented, "and at least expressed willingness to make some reparation, but it is not what we asked for."

Dulles may be called upon to report on the incident this week to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, some of whose members have said it raises serious questions as to whether this country should go through with the Big Four talks.

The Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California, contended in a weekend interview that the attack involved a "deliberate testing" of American defenses. He said he thinks it was part of a pattern of such attacks the Communists have launched in the past when international conferences were under way or about to begin.

2 State Teen-agers Drowning Victims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Swimming accidents claimed the lives of two Minnesota teen-agers over the weekend. Kenneth Voshell, 19, Akeley, drowned at the Walker community beach Sunday — just one day before lifeguards were to go on duty for the summer.

Voshell and several friends were swimming in Leech Lake. His companions missed him at a diving raft. They dived for the youth and recovered his body near the raft. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Voshell of Akeley.

James E. Drew, 16, Augusta, Minn., drowned Saturday night in Miller's Lake, seven miles northwest of Chaska. Carver County sheriff's deputies said James and an older brother, Robert, had taken a boat out about 75 feet and decided to swim to shore. Robert made it, but James went down about halfway to the shore. His body was recovered an hour later.

A search party late Saturday recovered the bodies of Fred Wilde, 42, and his wife, Irene, 40, resort operators on Clearwater Lake, about 50 miles north of International Falls. The Canadian couple drowned Thursday after their boat apparently hit a submerged object.

Superior Boy Drowns In St. Louis River

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP)—Charles Farmer, 8, Superior, Wis., drowned Sunday in Billings Park near Superior while swimming in the St. Louis River. He was last seen going under the surface by his two sisters, who tried unsuccessfully to save him.

Georgi Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to the U.S. covers his mouth with his hand as he holds a whispered consultation with V. M. Molotov, right, Soviet foreign minister during a pause in a special press conference called in San Francisco by Molotov. Molotov told gathered newsmen that Russia would favor a unified Germany that would neither be an extension of the Communist regime of east Germany nor of the Republican form of government in west Germany. 20 Inches of Rain In N. Platte Valley

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)—The first flood in 25 years in the upper North Platte Valley late yesterday followed cloudbursts which dumped an estimated 20 inches of rain at Guernsey, Wyo.

The rains came in two or three cloudbursts, isolating towns, cutting off communications and downing power lines.

Initial reports from the area indicated there were no injuries among the evacuees.

Torrington, Wyo., a town of about 3,000 near the Wyoming-Nebraska border, reported 10 inches of rain. The southeast third of the town was under water early today.

Traffic was reported possible only north from the town, with roads to the south, west and east under water. Power lines were down over a wide area.

The National Guard was called out at Torrington to evacuate the flooded area and give other assistance.

Fort Laramie, a town of about 100 farther north in the valley, was reported completely isolated.

The storm moved in over western Nebraska about midnight. At Morrill, north of Scottsbluff, a small twister uprooted trees and caused some property damage. Heavy hail also was reported.

The Scottsbluff Weather Bureau said the flood was the first in the valley in 25 years. Crop damage was reported running high throughout the fertile valley.

Pleasant and cool weather continued today over much of the central and eastern United States.

The rain areas today were in the South, along the south Atlantic Coast, the Great Plains, the northern Rockies and the northern Pacific Coast. Six-hour falls ranged up to 1.8 inches at Dickinson, N.D.; 1.42 at Lemmon, S.D.; .95 and .80 at Tallahassee and Daytona Beach, Fla.

The session had a few rough moments, when the president wielded the gavel and cautioned restraint, but behind-the-scenes relations between Russia and the Western Powers were unusually cordial.

This was perhaps what Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had in mind when he said at his rare news conference Saturday that the meeting had "achieved positive results in view of the various talks and contacts that have been established."

In addition to a four-hour meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers, there were private talks between Molotov and each of the big three foreign ministers. Molotov's talk with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was especially friendly and cordial.

These talks resulted in complete agreement on the procedural arrangements for the meeting of the Big Four chiefs of government July 18. The U.N. disclosed yesterday that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld had received a joint request from the four asking permission to use the Palace of Nations, the U.N.'s European headquarters, for the meeting.

20% Surtax Bill Signed by Kohler

MADISON (AP)—A bill calling for a 20 per cent surtax on individual incomes, expected to provide 29 million dollars in additional state revenues during 1955-57, was signed into law by Gov. Kohler today.

The surtax was a major obstacle to recessing of the state Legislature, because of Democratic opposition.

One of the final actions of the Assembly was to concur in the measure, approved by the Senate earlier.

Stumbles Into Pothole Along Highway 26

James Greener Dead; Houston Co. Coroner Rules 'Accidental'

HOKAH, Minn. (Special)—James Greener, 20, Reno, Minn., drowned in a pothole alongside Highway 26 Sunday night while scuffling with several home town pals who had attended auto races with Greener earlier in the day.

According to Houston County Coroner John Potter, Caledonia, Greener, who was an ex-Marine, stumbled backward into the water while playfully scuffling with several buddies from Reno and was not seen alive again. Investigation by the coroner and Deputy Sheriff Byron Whitehouse this morning revealed this story:

Greener's brother, Robert, 15, both sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Greener, Reno; LaVerne Welter, 16, Larry Sheriff, 17, and Elder Wuennacke, 18, all of Reno, were returning home from the La Crosse races about 7 p.m. when they stopped on Highway 26 a mile south of Miller's Corner at the junction with Highway 16 near here.

While playing and scuffling, James backed into the pothole, about 18 feet from the roadway. It is about 12 feet deep and was formed by an excavation for roadbed material.

His companions drove to Reno to notify his parents and returned to search for the body. David Richardson, La Crescent, dived and retrieved Greener's body about 8:40 p.m. A rescuer squad from the La Crosse fire department under the command of Capt. Edwin Bay worked on the boy 18 minutes before giving up the attempt to revive him.

Potter ruled the death "accidental drowning" today. Attempts to question the companions last night were futile as the boys were almost incoherent with nervousness and confusion, the coroner said. This morning, however, they told the story to the official.

Greener served in the Alaskan theater, according to Potter.

He will be buried Wednesday morning after services at the Freeburg St. Nicholas Catholic Church, the Rev. J. J. Donahue officiating. He was born March 4, 1935, at Reno and is survived by his parents and seven brothers and sisters.

Ike Moves Into Maine Before Returning Home

PARMACHEENEE LAKE, Maine (AP)—President Eisenhower, happy over a successful weekend of fishing, gets an official welcome late today to traditionally Republican Maine from Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie.

The governor, the first Democrat to be elected the state's chief executive in 20 years, will greet the President at Skowhegan, home of Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Muskie and Eisenhower will attend a clam bake at Mrs. Smith's home.

A few hours later Eisenhower will fly back to Washington, ending a six-day tour of northern New England, and go to a late evening White House conference with Secretary of State Dulles on the shooting down of a U.S. Navy patrol plane by Soviet aircraft.

Eisenhower fished for about six hours yesterday and caught two salmon and a mess of trout in the Magalloway River at Little Boy Falls. One of the salmon was an 18-inch weighing about two pounds. The other was under the legal "keeping" size of 14 inches and the President threw it back.

The trout averaged 10 to 12 inches, and Eisenhower, who reportedly caught them "fast and furiously," had them stored in the refrigerator for his breakfast this morning.

The president arranged to break camp shortly after noon today after lunch at the Parmachenee Lake Club with Sen. Payne (R-Maine); Maine's three GOP House members, Representatives Hale, Nelson and McIntire; and State Republican Chairman John F. Weston of Fryeburg.

Ike Will Go Along With Humphrey Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration reportedly has decided to go along with a Democratic-sponsored proposal for a bipartisan commission to study the controversial federal employee security program.

The measure, sponsored by Senators Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Stennis (D-Miss.), was scheduled for Senate debate today with all signs pointing to overwhelming passage.

As the Senate took up the matter, informed sources reported the administration — after several weeks of apparent indecision — has decided to support the proposal.

Up to now, President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Brownell have indicated they felt there was no need for such a study.

A House committee already has approved a companion measure sponsored by Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who with-held his vote on the proposal when the Government Operations Committee approved it 10-0 last week, said in an interview he now knows of no opposition.

The security program became a lively issue in last fall's congressional elections. Some Republicans contended the Eisenhower administration had discovered and turned out of office "thousands" of security risks hired by the Democrats. Many of those ousted were alleged to have subversive data in their files. Drunks, sex deviates, blabber-mouths and other unrelaxables also may be fired under security regulations.

The Humphrey-Stennis proposal would:

1. Set up a 12-member commission, 4 to be named by the President, 4 by the vice president and 4 by the speaker of the House, with a 6-6 balance between Republicans and Democrats.
2. Instruct the commission to study the "entire security program."
3. Order a report by Dec. 31, 1956, on whether the "existing requirements, practices and procedures" of these programs are in accordance with a policy of

The dockers demanded revised unemployment indemnities and a pay increase. They want an extra 40 francs (80 cents) a shift, to bring the wage for a seven-hour day to 257 francs ($14).

Sailing Craft Challenges Yachts

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Orthodox ocean racing yachts today were challenged by the skipper of a strange, twin-hulled sailing craft of ancient Polynesian design that skimmed from Hawaii to California in a surprising 15 days.

Before the Saturday night arrival of the Waikiki Surf, a craft patterned after those built hundreds of years ago by Pacific island natives, the Coast Guard estimated the trip would take her 26 days against the prevailing winds.

Skipper Ernie Nowell, 33, a Honolulu hotelman, and the four other crew members sailed the $20,000 boat, called a catamaran, here seeking to enter the trans-Pacific yacht race back to Hawaii starting July 4.

"We feel we can beat anything in the race," Nowell said. "Our 'cat' attains speeds of 25 to 30 knots at times and we are sure that with favorable weather we can beat the best yachts in the race by many days."

Nowell conceded there may be difficulty in having the catamaran accepted and assigned a handicap because the conventional standards of weight and sail area would be hard to apply. But even if the Waikiki Surf isn't formally accepted for competition, Nowell declared, the "cat" would race with the yachts anyway.

The Waikiki Surf carries 1,500 square feet of sail. Designer Rudy Choy, 31, a crew member, said she weighs only 1½ tons, has a draft of just 20 inches and because of the light weight almost skims the water like a giant surf board.

Hill Foundation Makes Annual Fund Grants

By JACK B. MACKAY
ST. PAUL (AP)—Thirty-three separate projects—ranging from research into a dread disease once known as "the black curse," to a study of social and economic impacts of oil discoveries in North Dakota—received grants from the Louis W. and Maud Hill Family Foundation in its 20th year of operation.

This was revealed today in the non-profit philanthropic foundation's annual report, covering the year ended Feb. 28, 1955. A. A. Heckman, the foundation's executive director, said copies are being sent to civic leaders, businessmen and others throughout the Northwest.

Grants totaling $704,575 were authorized in the 12-months period, with 21 different organizations participating. This brought to $4,287,568 the total funds disbursed since the late Louis W. Hill first established the foundation in 1934 under the name of Lexington Foundation, Inc. Two years after his death in 1948 the name was changed to the present title.

A grant for Huntington's chorea, referred to in earlier days as "the black curse," went to the Rochester State Hospital in Rochester, Minn., and totaled $31,000.

Hereditary Disease
The disease, which involves the central nervous system, is hereditary in nature and usually strikes persons in mid-life. Often it results in eventual commitment to a mental hospital. The grant enables research into causes of the disease and methods to cure it, plus formation of a master list of all known Minnesotans who have had the disease in their family and whose children possibly may inherit it.

The Williston (N.D.) Basin Study grant went to the University of North Dakota, and amounted to $20,950. The university also received another grant, $8,000, for a study of ant life in North Dakota.

Four of the other projects are being carried on by the University of Minnesota, and the sixth is underway at St. Luke's Hospital, Duluth. Largest of the university grants was $140,000, to cover establishment in the Medical School of a 10-year Hill research professorship for study into enzymology and intermediary metabolism. Dr. Paul D. Boyer, nationally-recognized authority in the field, has been assigned to launch this study.

University Funds
The university also received $70,838 for further studies on convulsive disorders in children. The St. Luke's grant was for $48,000 and will be used for eye and ear research studies.

In other fields, the foundation helped under-write two important projects in education. One, the production of three motion picture films on wild life conservation, received a grant of $49,542. The other, formation of a new Twin Cities educational television station, received $40,000, conditioned on other St. Paul foundations, individuals, and corporations raising an additional $60,000 towards the total cost of nearly $395,000.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Association received a $91,000 allocation in a grant classified in the cultural arts fields.

The University of Minnesota received several grants besides those in the health and medical field. One of the largest went to the school of architecture, and will be used for a planning study of housing for aging persons. The total authorized was $24,840.

St. Paul Groups
St. Paul organizations participating in last year's funds included the College of St. Catherine, $5,000 for education studies; Hamline University, $2,500 for follow-up studies of alumni; Junior Achievement, $5,000 for enlarging its program for youth; St. Paul Institute of Science, $2,400 for a

Irish Candidate Doesn't Get Vote

GRANARD, Ireland (AP)—John McGovern, an independent candidate in Town Council elections held over the weekend, didn't get a single vote—not even his own. "I voted for the other chap," he said. "I thought it was the decent thing to do."

An editorial in the Dublin Mail offered the consolation that perhaps his popularity was such that almost everyone thought he would win and no one bothered to vote for him.

Baby-Sitting Job's Not So Temporary

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A teenager who advertised for a job got one that left her holding two babies for nine days.

Brenda Lois Wright's stint ended Saturday when Children's Center took custody of the youngsters.

They were left with the 15-year-old girl on June 16 by Mrs. Donna Whitson, 20, who offered Brenda $15 a week to sit with Leslie Ann, 18 months, and Lynn, 2 months. All went well until an anonymous caller notified the teen-ager Mrs. Whitson had left town.

Brenda's mother called police and they sent the babies to Children's Center.

Hearing Canceled For Dismissed Stillwater Deputy

ST. PAUL (U)—A hearing scheduled Tuesday on the appeal of Gerhard P. Kaske from his dismissal as chief deputy warden at Stillwater Prison was cancelled today by the Civil Service Department at the request of the State Welfare Department.

It was discovered that Kaske, who was discharged May 26, by Warden Douglas Rigg, was not given five days notice in compliance with a revision in the state civil service law by the last Legislature.

Consequently, Rigg has made Kaske's dismissal effective June 23. The warden removed Kaske on charges of insubordination.

Kaske, 43, has been employed at the prison since 1929. He now has 45 days, under the law, to request a hearing.

Centennial Growth Falls Off at Mondovi

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special)—Barbershops here are doing a big business today as beards and mustaches grown for the Mondovi Centennial, which ended Sunday, are shaved off.

The 100th birthday party, which lasted five days, is just a memory now, but it will linger long in the minds of local residents who are more than satisfied with results.

"The celebration was a success from all angles," Dr. R. A. Krehner, centennial chairman, said today. He estimated the Saturday parade crowd at 20,000 persons. More than 5,000 attended the pageant, "Mondovi's Turn of the Century," during the four nights it was presented.

Two-Hour Jam
Traffic was jammed for two hours after the centennial parade which was seen by the largest throng here in the memory of Mondovians.

There were 125 units in the parade from all parts of this Western Wisconsin-Southeastern Minnesota area. Prizes were not awarded though dignitaries from the region reviewed the line of march from a special stand at the corner of Main and Eau Claire.

At the Centennial Belle style show Friday afternoon at the schoolhouse, the following were awarded prizes: Most original—Mr. and Mrs. Homer Yerrington, first, and Mrs. James Schmitt, second; most humorous—Mrs. James Sessions, first, and Mrs. Lee Dowden and Mrs. Lloyd Tomten, tied for second; reproduction of centennial—Mrs. Oliver Glanzman and daughters, Nancy and Shelly, first, and Miss Dorothy Williams, second;

Mother and daughter—Mrs. James Barnes and daughter, Peggy Jo, Lynwood, Calif., first. (Mrs. Barnes is the former Geraldine Ward of Mondovi), and second, Mrs. George Garlick and daughter, Deborah.

Brothers of Brush
Brothers of the Brush whiskers were judged Sunday afternoon with these winners named: Most fringed—Raymond Kruger, Eleva; full beard—Freeman Brownell, Mondovi; Rt. 4; bushiest beard—William S. Moy, mutton chops and mustache—Wesley Holden; mustache and goatee—James Sessions; goatee—Sam Orness; sideburns and mustache—Pete Peterson; greyest beard—Joel Shaw; blackest beard—Merlin Hoch; and reddest beard—Charles Giese.

The celebration ended with the final presentation of the pageant at the fairgrounds Sunday night capped by a mammoth fireworks show.

Two Hospitalized By Auto Crash In Stockton Valley

STOCKTON, Minn. — Two persons were hospitalized in Winona today for treatment of injuries sustained in a head-on collision of two cars on the Stockton Valley Road, about 2½ miles south of here Sunday at 9:20 p.m. Damage to the cars was estimated at more than $1,200.

Mrs. Allen Strelow, 21, Stockton, suffered a fractured ankle and additional X-rays were being taken today at the Winona General Hospital where her condition was described as "good." Mrs. Strelow was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, traveling west on the road when it collided with a vehicle operated by John Buggs, Minnesota City.

Buggs' brother Andrew, a passenger in the car, suffered cuts and bruises on the face and head and was also hospitalized. His condition today was satisfactory. John Buggs and Strelow were treated for minor injuries and released. Deputy Sheriff John Jensen, who investigated the mishap, said that damage to the front of the Strelow car was estimated at $650 while the front of Buggs' car was damaged about $575.

Citizens' Group On Alcoholism Organized Here

Formation of a Winona County chapter of the Minnesota Citizens' Commission on Alcoholism was announced today by the Rev. Paul S. Rahneff, Minneapolis, executive secretary of the state organization.

Named chaplain of the Winona County group was the Rev. Eugene Reynolds, pastor of the Church of Christ, Winona, who will serve as one of 25 such community leaders throughout Minnesota.

Rahneff and the Rev. A. D. Hartmark, Minneapolis, a former Winona minister who is presently in charge of editing and publishing for the CCA, were in Winona Saturday to set up a local organization.

The Citizens' Commission is a nonprofit organization representing business, industry, jurists and clergy. In its articles of incorporation, the commission's four-fold purpose is expressed:

• To conduct research into the causes and effects of alcoholism, to study the curative effectiveness of the workhouse and other punitive measures, to study the relief reciprocity and alcoholism in Minnesota and to make recommendations to the liquor industry, law enforcement, social and communal agencies.

• To combat damaging effects of liquor in business, industry and the home.

• To sponsor educational and public information programs on a state level and work with church groups, trade unions and lay groups.

To give primacy to spiritual values which will result in the moral and social improvement of those affected by alcoholism.

The CCA's primary target will be rehabilitation. With a theme, "mending broken lives," the group proposes to appoint chaplains in the court systems of larger state communities, juvenile courts in particular.

The organization will appoint counseling groups, consisting of a minister, a physician and a social worker, and as far as possible improve and multiply facilities for the rehabilitation of the alcoholic.

Cornerstone Box At Plainview Tells History of Church

PLAINVIEW, Minn. — The opening of a copper box placed in the cornerstone of the Congregational church here in 1871 has revealed something of the religious history of the early Plainview settlers.

The box was opened following its removal from the stone during the present remodeling of the church basement. It was opened before the congregation of the Community church, as it is now called.

A handwritten history of the church was included among other things in the box, and it tells of the congregation in 1893 and members of the group. In 1871, when the church was erected, the congregation had 54 members.

Other items in the box included a King James version of the Bible, printed in 1861, church periodicals, two pennies dated 1863 and 1867, a half-dime piece and a U.S. paper note.

The members of the church have decided to add other items to the box to bring the church history up to date. A list of names of the present members, copies of the Plainview News, and a note stating the reason for the opening of the box will be included in the new items.

Independence Greets Beauty Named Alice

Arcadia Club Also Plans Honor for Barbara Brown

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. —This community reacted spontaneously Saturday to the arrival of Miss Barbara Brown, who was named the eighth Wisconsin Alice in Dairyland Friday.

A parade and reception were held in her honor here late Saturday and a formal affair is planned by the local Lions Club for September or October. Tuesday night the Lions Club of Arcadia, where she was crowned regional Alice champion over the Memorial Day weekend, will stage a reception in her honor. And Thursday the State Department of Agriculture will sponsor a party in her honor at Madison.

Barbara, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Brown, begins a one-year career as Alice this week Friday at a Sparta celebration. The preceding Alice, Miss Mary Ellen McCabe, Ladysmith, Wis., crowned Barbara at a 10-day Wausau dairy celebration last Friday.

Has Been Student

Today, Barbara is arranging personal affairs at Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wis., where she was scheduled to start her senior year in home economics education next fall and at a resort near Hayward where she was employed together with her sister, Bovard.

It was a hectic weekend for the Brown family, a member said today, with relatives and friends invited here for the homecoming and publicity men interviewing the family and Barbara.

She has made plans for a short deer hunting trip with her father this fall and will have a two-week vacation at Christmas; otherwise the family does not expect to see much of her for the next year. Her father, Eugene Brown, is superintendent of schools here.

Miss McCabe traveled over 150,000 miles and made about 800 appearances from coast to coast in the last year. Bert Hutchison, publicity man for the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, said Saturday. If Barbara follows a similar schedule, and it is expected that she will, her time will be filled for the ensuing 12 months.

She is hired by the department of agriculture at a salary of $3,600 a year plus expenses. Barbara will be chaperoned by Hutchison and at times by her mother.

Mayor Welcomes Her
Officials and the school band awaited her arrival home about 5:30 p.m. Saturday, meeting her on the north edge of town and escorting the Alice in Dairyland car to the main city intersection where Mayor Rufus Warner and her parents greeted her and a bouquet of roses was presented by Miss Marjory Roskos in behalf of the city.

At 8 p.m. in the school auditorium a public reception was held with Mayor Warner presenting Miss Brown the key to the city. Martin Wiener, chairman of the reception committee, spoke briefly and refreshments were served by women of Independence, Joseph Roskos, local beverage dealer, and the Whitehall Land O'Lakes creamery.

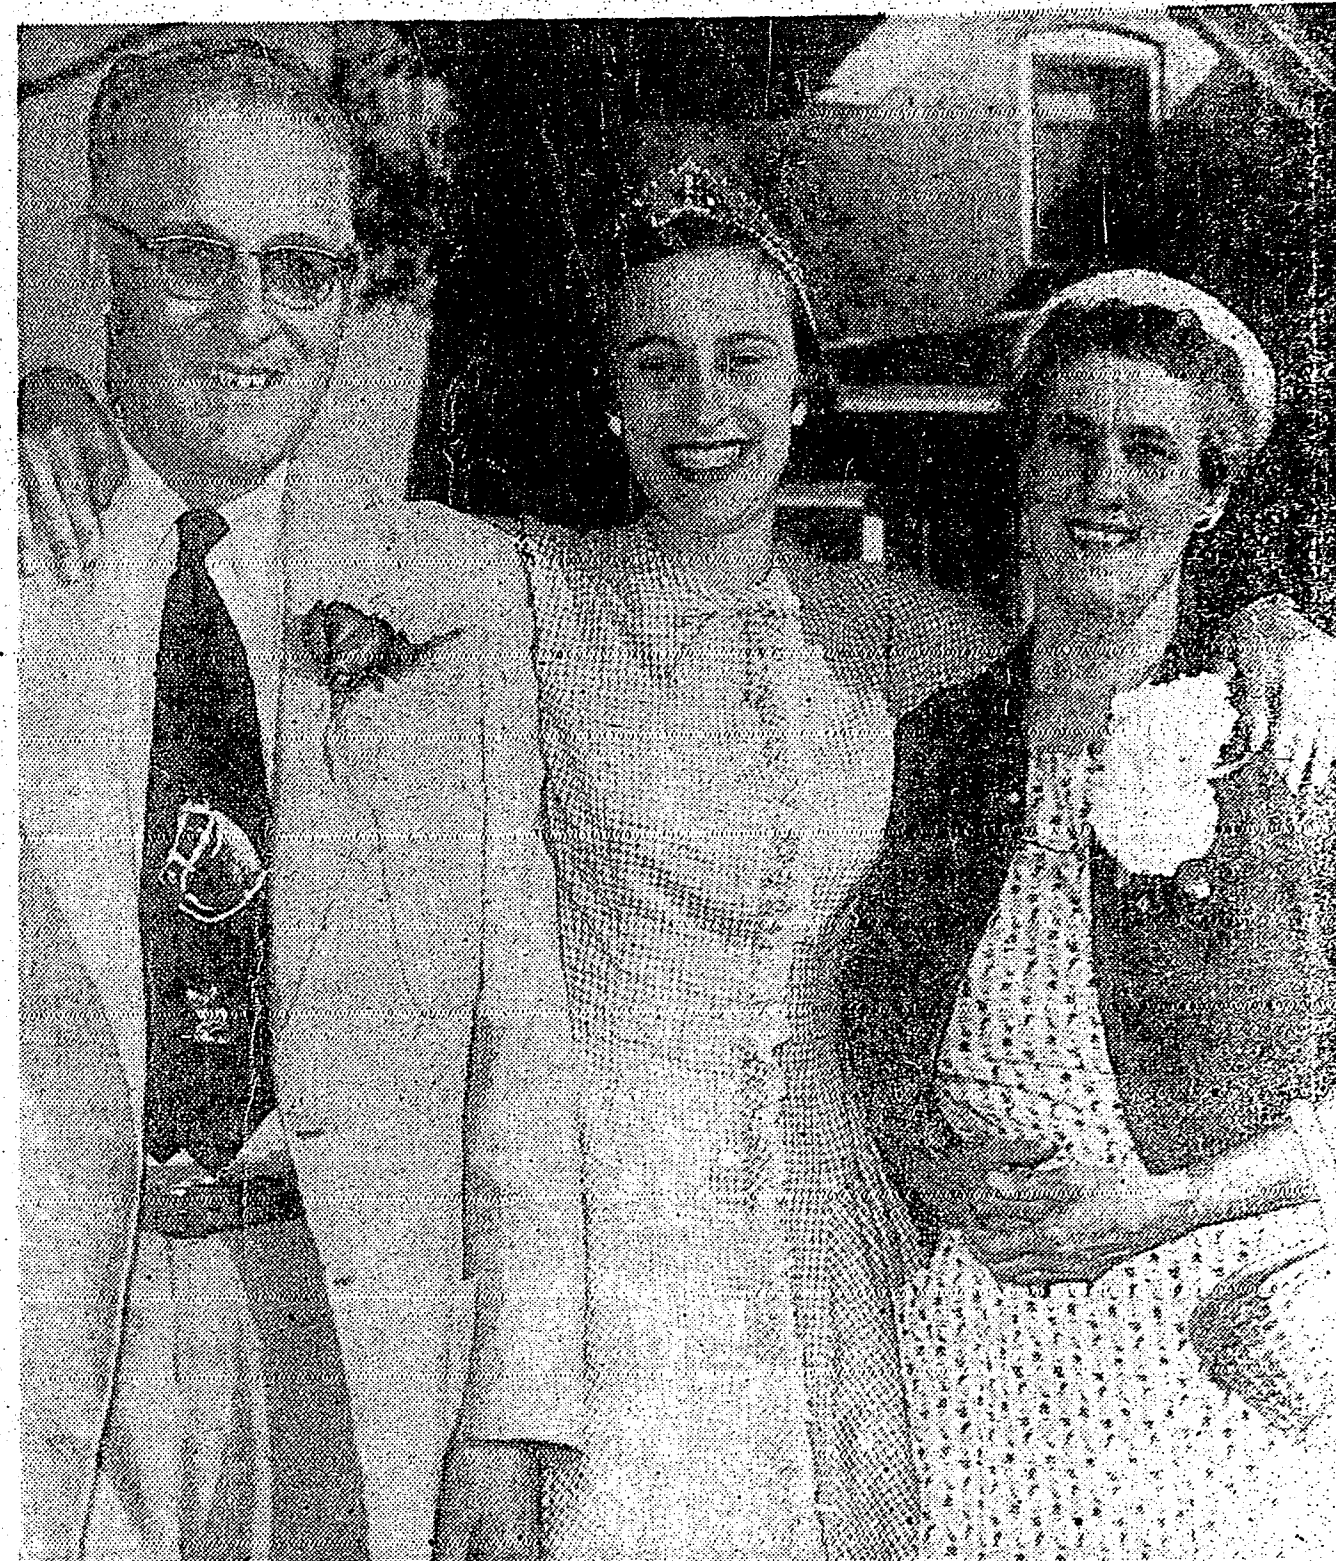

Barbara spoke to a large crowd in the business district in the afternoon while standing in the back seat of the open car.

"This memory will linger with me when I am far away during the coming year," she said.

Later her boy friend, a Stout student, and Bovard, came in from Hayward where the boy had gone with the family car to bring home the youngest member of the family for the weekend. He will go into the Army this year for a tour of duty.

Another sister, Betty, (Mrs. David Knoll, New Richmond), also was home for the weekend. Barbara drove from Wausau with Hutchison in the Alice car donated by a Wausau firm for the occasion. They stopped at Stanley, Wis., to visit Barbara's grandparents.

Her father said Saturday that the family, including Barbara, haven't taken her entry in the contest too seriously.

Her name was entered by her father's secretary at the Independence High School and when she competed in the regional contest at Arcadia over the Memorial Day weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Brown were in River Falls at a graduation ceremony.

Early last week her father put her on the bus for Wausau not thinking of going to watch her in the finals until the boy friend came by Friday morning and the two made the trip by car to Wausau.

The new Alice is an extremely personable girl. She smiles easily, is composed in a crowd or privately and exudes vivacity. Indications were Saturday that she is looking forward to the experience with eagerness.

Barbara will be given a complete wardrobe for the personal appearance she will make in behalf of Wisconsin dairy products.

Members of Wiener's committee were Roskos, Mayor Warner, Mrs. Roy Lyga and Ernest Brickner.

Greek Cafes So Relaxing As the World Passes By

By EARL WILSON

ATHENS, Greece, Not Ohio—Maybe it's the rubie in me, but I wish America could have sidewalk cafes where I could sit with my coffee watching the world passing by—where people would stop by and give me news.

I was sitting here at Zonar's cafe—across the street from a famous Athens landmark—the Socoy-Vacuum Bldg—when up stepped Atty. Sig. Moisseff of N. Y.

"How's Bernie Kamber?" he asked, referring to the N. Y. publicist who did such a colossal job for the picture "Marty."

I mentioned that Bernie had just put our son Sluggo on a Pan-Am plane to join us in Rome. Then Mrs. Moisseff told us a story—about a Hollywood star.

"We were in a bus," she said, "and I said 'Oh, there's the Acropolis!'"

"And this star said, 'Is that one of the big hotels?'"

"What do the Greek girls look like?" I asked a native before I started looking around.

"Irene Pappas," he answered. "That's pretty good—as she's now getting a Hollywood buildup, though, like most Greek girls, her build doesn't need a buildup. Falsies aren't much needed by the Greek goddesses."

"Do they have television here?"

"Then—it seemed only fair—Sonja Henie opened her suitcase and let the Government see her jewels."

"What does the wine taste like in Greece?" I inquired.

"Like turpentine," I was told. It has risen in it and the morning after you notice that you have resin in your head."

Some foreigners got Honey Bear Warren's name mixed up this trip and called her Honey Bun.

Leo (Pancho) Carrillo told me this voyage that some of his kid fans have gotten wise to him. "We like you Pancho," one told him, "but you don't fool us—we know you're going around that same rock all the time!"

THE MIGHTY EARL IN N.Y. Eva Gabor canceled out of a play opening in Chicago so she wouldn't conflict with sister Magda's show opening there the same night.

Johnny Ray wants to join Elia Kazan's Actors Studio.

Paddy Chayefsky, the acerbic, was asked to write the Ed Sullivan film bio.

Georgianna Carhart, the sprightly oldest of "Life Begins at 40," is hospitalized: Pneumonia.

The Jack Palances are expecting in December. Walt Disney's next project is a live-action movie about a boy and a butler.

Pretty Milly Vitale gets costarring billing with Bob Hope in her first American film, "The Seven Little Foys."

Author Marion Hargrove was a week-end dog-sitter for eight pups at Fire Island. "What Makes Sammy Run?" has been sold to an independent movie company.

Marlon Brando's pulling a switch, ordering ten Ivy League-type suits. Lionel Hampton's after Benny Goodman to tour Israel with him.

Rhonda Fleming's called off the property settlement discussions and may reconcile with Dr. Lew Morrill. Jose Ferrer flies in this weekend for the premiere of "The Sarise"; Rosemary Clooney will join him. Gene Tunney's son joins the Marines this summer.

Earl's Pearls. Year in and year out, says Jan Bart, some husbands have been listening to their wives ear in and ear out.

New Red Planes Displayed

By STEWART ALSOP

MOSCOW — On Tuesday of last week there was an impressive display here of Soviet technological achievement. On the morning before the afternoon reception for Indian Prime Minister Nehru in the Moscow Stadium, between 150 and 200 of the newest type Soviet jet aircraft were flown over Moscow.

The flights were largely concentrated in the area between Tushino airport and the Kremlin. They took place for the most part shortly before noon. There is no available breakdown here of the number and type of planes flown. But there were numerous large new turbo-prop bombers of the type believed in the West to be adapted for air refueling purposes. There were particularly large flights of the two-engine medium bomber known in the West as the Badger. And there were large flights of fighter aircraft, including the advanced type known in the West as the Farmer.

The very large four-engine bomber known in the West as the Bison was not observed on Tuesday. But flights of a dozen or so of this aircraft, perhaps the most impressive Soviet achievement in the field of airpower, have been observed on more than one occasion since the new fashions May overflights. Indeed, the Tuesday overflights were exceptional only that more planes were flown than usual. Flights of the new Soviet jet planes, usually at around 11 o'clock in the morning or around 4 o'clock in the afternoon, have become almost routine in recent weeks.

Plan for Red Air Force Day These flights are presumably in preparation for the display of Soviet airpower scheduled for Red Air Force Day. The date for Red Air Force Day has not been set, but it is expected to take place on a Sunday early in July. No new types have been flown since the May overflights. But it would obviously not be surprising if new Soviet aircraft models of advanced design were displayed on Red Air Force Day. It is possible, for example, that the delta-wing aircraft of radical design and revolutionary performance, about which there have been rumors in the foreign press, might be flown. But this is, of course, the sheerest speculation.

So, of course, is any attempt to interpret the reasons for the overflights. But what is sometimes overlooked in Washington is that these flights are witnessed not only by a comparative handful of foreigners but by millions of Soviet citizens in this metropolis.

By a brilliant and concentrated propaganda campaign, the Soviet people have become profoundly convinced that the peace will never be broken by the Soviet government but only by foreign aggressors. The overflights provide one way of further convincing the Soviet people that the government has the means to prevent this from happening.

The Soviet government must also of course be entirely aware that foreign observers witness the overflights. To put the matter colloquially, the overflights provide a way of saying, "Look, if you want to get tough, we can get tough too."

Turned to Planes At any rate, the planes now being flown by the Red Air Force unquestionably represent a genuine triumph of Soviet technology. It is impossible even to speculate intelligently on the economic cost of this achievement.

But the resources of this immense country are very great, and can be concentrated to achieve a single end in a way most difficult to repeat in the United States. As soon as the Soviet Union broke the American atomic monopoly, it should have been obvious that they would concentrate their resources to achieve an efficient means of delivery. And their technological triumph in the nuclear field should have foreshadowed a similar triumph in the field of air power.

At the very least, the overflights here should provide a brake on Western smugness, and especially on the particular brand of smugness enjoyed in Washington. The United States has a national habit of judging national power in terms of the number of automobiles per thousand, or even in terms of the elegance of the plumbing. There is no doubt that there are more cars in the United States than here and that the plumbing is superior. But a better index of true national power is to be found in the remarkable aircraft which now regularly appear in the Moscow skies.

The Casual Observer

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

LAST Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock I was driving along the lake front and was astounded at the number of people using and enjoying the lake park. Cars were parked bumper to bumper watching the kids' ball games going on in the center playground. Younger children were using the merry-go-round and swings, while in the east section a crowd of boys were flying model planes with tiny whining engines. At every picnic table families were having supper, and some families were sitting in the grass having their picnics.

Children rode bikes around and around the circles. Teen-age boys and girls strolled along the shore, and old ladies or old men walked slowly along the curbing. Young mothers pushed baby buggies. Dogs trotted around happily. At the upper end a couple of hunting dog owners were training a black Labrador and a Golden retriever puppy in water retrieves.

And in the bandshell the Municipal Band was rehearsing for its weekly concert to be given at 8 o'clock this same evening. I stopped to listen and watch, parking in the grove of towering elm trees in front of the shell. The last was eating as a mirror reflecting the hills and the pearly-pink clouds boiling over the hills. It was a lovely spot to sit and enjoy the beauty of the evening, and many people seemed to think so too for the benches began to fill up even though it was far too early for the concert.

Director Harold Edstrom was leading the band in his casual graceful manner through a gay jazz number, "Rock Around the Clock." As they swung into the tune a group of teen-age girls who were sitting in the grass listening jumped up and frisked into a spontaneous jitterbug dance. Then the band went into a Spanish march, and then a number with a lot of brilliant chromatic passages for the brass. These different passages were rehearsed once or twice solo, then the whole number went off like clockwork. A little boy of about five who has been perching on the bandshell steps leaped up and—for the benefit of his admiring young companions—directed the band with wildly flailing arms. Then he joined the other little boys who were playing tag on the outside ledges of the bandshell.

Next came a smooth overture that rose to a stormy climax. Very few passages had to be done over, and I thought I had never heard a more finished rehearsal. It must be, I naturally supposed, the final of quite a number of rehearsals. For it was characterized by precision, snap and beautiful tone shading—a combination of style and brilliance.

The next day I found out that this rehearsal, 6:15 to 8:15 before the actual concert, was the only rehearsal the band had. It was hard to believe, and I asked Harold Edstrom how an only rehearsal could possibly be such a finished performance.

As he explained, "It's because every single person in the band is an accomplished and finished musician. Many are music teachers. Some, like Everett Edstrom, Gil Mason, Roger Busdicker, have won national honors as musicians. Most of them can switch with ease from one instrument to another and play them all brilliantly. You get a bunch of real musicians like that together, and all you need is one rehearsal. I mean, they're GOOD. They've got to be good, they can't get in the band."

The oldest member of the band is Fred Dabelstein who has been playing in it for 35 years. Ed Hostetter has been in the band almost that long. There are a few high school youngsters in it, the most accomplished of the high school musicians, and they rehearse with the Municipal Band all winter. During the winter the Municipal Band practices every Tuesday night; in summer they rehearse for two hours Wednesday night before the concert—which makes a long, hard day as most of them work all day too.

Before 1931 there had been city bands, and excellent ones, under the direction of George Coburn and Emil Michaux. But the Winona Municipal Band as it is today was set up in 1931 with O. W. Reese as its first director, then Stanley Sirebner as acting director, and in 1942 Harold Edstrom was appointed as band director.

This year Director Edstrom cast a critical eye on the sometimes casual costumes of the band and issued an edict that every band member must wear the correct matching band costume: tan slacks and shirt, brown tie, brown socks and shoes. Any member violating this rule would be sent home for proper apparel. The first person to be sent home for wearing the wrong color socks was — Director Edstrom's brother Everett Edstrom!

Silliman Evans, Noted Nashville Publisher, Dead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Silliman Evans, the Nashville Tennessee president-publisher who was called a key political figure, was found dead in his bed yesterday, victim of a heart attack.

The body will be flown to Nashville tonight after resting at a funeral home here.

Evans, 61, died in his sleep Saturday night a few hours after attending the funeral of his old friend and former employer Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, who died Thursday.

The crusading son of a crusading father, Evans rose from virtual obscurity to eminence in the newspaper world and a place of leadership not only in Tennessee politics but in the national Democratic party. He had suffered since World War I from a heart ailment, which caused his discharge from the Army.

A physician said he died in his sleep several hours before his body was found at 6:30 a.m. by O. M. Mozier, an American Airlines official with whom he was to return yesterday to Nashville. Evans had gone to his room in the Fort Worth Club after complaining of feeling tired.

Evans was the son of the Rev. Columbus Asbury and Alice Silliman Evans.

He started in the newspaper business as a printer's devil (apprentice) at the age of 12 on the DeLeon (Tex.) Press, not far from Joshua, Tex., where he was born April 2, 1894.

He married Miss Lucille McGree, of Cisco, Tex., in 1923 and they had two sons, Silliman Jr. and

Monty Woolley Complaining—As Usual

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Monty Woolley was seated in his hotel room and complaining as usual—about his film role, hotel living, television, bores in bars and other matters.

A chronic complainer, the bearded actor was in fine fettle. He growled about coming to California for the role of Omar Khayyam in MGM's "Kismet."

"It's a small role; I don't even know why they need me," he remarked. "I thought at least they'd have me reciting some of Omar Khayyam, but they don't even have any of that. And I certainly don't sing."

"The bad thing about it is that although I have only a little to do, it's at the beginning and end of the shooting. That means I have to wait around until they finish with the other stuff. People say I shouldn't complain because I'm getting paid for waiting. But do you know what it costs to live in a hotel? It's monstrous!"

Woolley said he hadn't been well at all. He had a bad sinus condition which affected his inner ear and caused vertigo. The sudden death of Walter Hampden also shook him.

He added that his well being wasn't helped by his early scenes in "Kismet." The first day's work had him and Vic Damone in a mob scene. He had to fall on Damone and then several extra's toppled on both. He suffered through nine takes of such undignified and strenuous goings-on.

"And the next day I spent most of my time racing up a staircase and shouting," he added. "Finally I told the director, Vincente Minnelli, that I had no voice left; I was hoarse."

"That's fine," Minnelli replied. "That's the way you should be." Woolley reported that he has been spending most of his time at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., where he has resided a good deal of his life. He said he has not been well enough to attempt a return to the stage.

Woolley exploded over one recent report—that Liberace might play the Sheridan Whiteside role in a musical version of "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

"I could think of nothing more ludicrous!" he snorted.

Here's a new sandwich idea: Mix cream cheese with drained crushed pineapple and chopped mint leaves and use as a spread between slices of nut bread.

Louisville Has Church Without Preacher, People

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —Sam Gafford has a church and steeple but no people.

The one-armed maintenance man built Pentecost Powerhouse himself although he isn't a preacher and has no congregation.

Gafford, who mortgaged his home to pay for the $8,000 structure, started the project more than two years ago because he wanted a church free of the influence of money.

Gafford said his church will be "pure Pentecostal" and that a preacher will be called in if attendance warrants it.

There will be no collections except for special purposes, like helping somebody who is in trouble.

Cold Water Tap Gives Live Steam

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Al Cristo turned on the cold water tap yesterday—and thereby possibly averted an explosion.

Instead of water, the faucet emitted a blast of live steam. He called firemen. They discovered that a hot water heater on the second floor had vaporized water in all lines in the house.

They turned off the heater and drained the pipes to remove the threat of explosion.

Hoover Suggests Officials Keep Company Stocks

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (P)—The Hoover Commission recommends changing the law which requires policy-making government officials to divest themselves of corporation stockholdings.

This was one of a set of recommendations in a report yesterday settling forth ideas for improvements in Defense Department administration and business methods improvements which the commission said could result in annual savings of as much as two billion dollars.

The group headed by ex-President Herbert Hoover also considered some of the department's other problems. One of them is the difficulty in getting high-salaried business executives to take comparatively low-salaried government jobs and at the same time to dispose of stock in their companies. That was a decision Charles E. Wilson, present secretary of defense and former General Motors Corp. president, had to make when he came to the Pentagon.

"There are circumstances," the report said, "that discourage able executives from serving as secretaries, deputy secretaries and assistant secretaries."

Rome Rail Workers Get Pope's Blessing

VATICAN CITY (P)—Pope Pius XII told Roman railroad workers yesterday that no true Christian could oppose their union in strong organizations to defend their rights and improve their conditions of life.

"You are therefore acting fully in conformity with the church's social teaching when, by all means morally permissible, you vindicate your just rights," the pontiff said.

Korean Don Juan Denies Promises

SEOUL (P)—A Korean Don Juan boasted today that he seduced more than 70 women in 12 months. He is lanky, handsome Pak In Soo, 25, who was dishonorably discharged last August for being AWOL from the South Korean Marine Corps.

Six women 20 or 21 years old sue him charging false promises of marriage. Pak denied that. "There was mutual consent," he told a courtroom jammed with women.

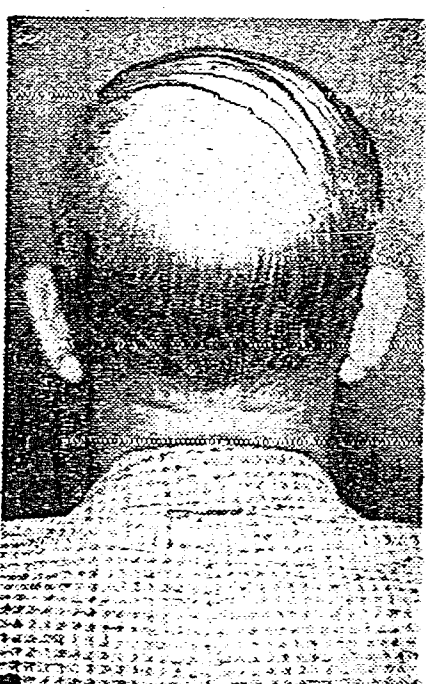

Pak, whose trial is in recess, told reporters he used the routine on more than 70 women, mainly college girls.

Aerial Daredevil Suffers Injuries

SHERWSBURY, Mass. (P)—Aerial daredevil Herman Hoyer, 32, of New York, was in serious condition today with injuries he suffered when the 65-foot pole on which he performs broke and toppled him onto a crowd.

He suffered two fractured feet and possible spine injuries. Four spectators at White City amusement park were injured, none seriously.

Working without a net, Hoyer was attempting to perform a headstand on a unicycle on a three-foot-square platform atop the swaying pole.

Byrd to Check Up on Navy's Sub Building

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) announced today he will ask that top naval officials be called soon to explain why the Navy still is building conventional submarines and not going all-out on atomic-powered undersea craft.

Byrd said he wanted the officials summoned before the Senate Armed Services Committee. He said he was disappointed the 32-billion-dollar defense money bill carried funds for only five new atomic submarines while also providing for four of the conventional type. The bill has been passed by both the House and Senate, but in somewhat different forms which must be adjusted.

The Navy already has one atomic sub, the Nautilus, afloat. A second, the Seawolf, is scheduled to be launched next month at Groton, Conn.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member both of the Armed Services group and the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, predicted in a separate interview that Russia soon will be launching atomic-drive submarines of her own.

Jackson suggested the Russians may already have completed some craft of that advanced type and may be holding them back for surprise disclosure in numbers.

He said Russia already has more conventional submarines than the United States and is concentrating largely in that field.

Jackson said he has the impression the Navy is reluctant to proceed.

"It's the same old story," he said. "The admirals wanted to keep on building battleships and it was not until after Pearl Harbor that the aircraft carrier really came into its own."

Carpet Maker Must Change Styles Quickly

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (P)—A carpet maker is turning to a mechanical brain to help him lick the problem of the public's fickle taste. To survive in this competitive age a manufacturer must roll quickly with the punches of the consumers.

Sales data, computed quickly on punched cards, reveals color and style trends in floor covering. Then another card can be punched and used to control the machinery running carpet looms.

A maker of auto seat covers each week feeds into a mechanical brain nationally gathered data on what shades are favored at the moment by suddenly color-conscious motorists.

The bank speeds up handling eight fold by using an electronic device to scan the millions of Travelers Checks which touring Americans are scattering around Europe and the rest of the world this year.

These are a few of the examples cited by makers of office machinery to show how competition need to know quickly what the public fancies and to service these needs with speed—is turning business, big and little, to the use of mechanical short cuts.

The carpet company is C. H. Masland Sons of Carlisle, Pa. Punched cards have been used for years to run Jacquard looms. And Masland has been using punch card accounting methods for some time.

The Rayco Manufacturing Co. of Paterson, N. J., uses International Business Machines to solve two competitive problems.

First, it tackles the public's shifting tastes once a week. It feeds sales data from its 150 retail outlets around the country into punch card equipment. Trends in consumer demand for particular auto seat cover patterns and shades are quickly pinpointed.

Color combinations the public tires of are quickly dropped.

The second problem is in choosing a site for a new retail outlet. Rayco specialists and IBM team up to make statistical studies of market and sales potentials in special areas.

World Honors Helen Keller on 75th Birthday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

EASTON, Conn. (P)—This is a summer day much like any other summer day at the white clapboard, green-shuttered gift home called Arcan Ridge. At least, that's what Helen Keller and Polly Thomson are trying to pretend.

Actually, of course, it's Helen Keller's birthday, her 75th. And everybody, it seems, is determined to make it an occasion for tribute, for congratulations, for retelling the story of the woman who overcame deafness, blindness and muteness to spend a lifetime writing and working to help others with similar handicaps.

But Miss Helen and Miss Polly, her companion, wish that it was all over. The only things they are really interested in doing at the moment are getting unpacked from their recent round-the-world trip and sorting out a growing mountain of gifts, scrolls and souvenirs which have followed them home by ship and catching up with their correspondence, neglected for almost six months.

So Helen Keller planned her usual day. She rises shortly after 6 a.m., spends an hour in thought and Bible-reading, and strolls on the grounds, along with her dog and guided by the red cedar fence railing.

Her sole concession to the day was to be a brief press conference. Then Miss Keller gets back to her chores.

With them are their most intimate friends: Mr. and Mrs. James Adams, neighbors; and Mrs. Nella Braddy Henney, for the past 30 years Miss Keller's editor.

The world intrudes to express admiration of the woman who was born three-quarters of a century ago in Tuscumbia, Ala. Since last week increasing numbers of messages—letters and telegrams have been arriving, plus flowers and gifts.

"I wish there could be less fuss," exclaimed Polly Thomson. "This isn't what Helen wants. And we've been so busy since we got back that we really must get unpacked. Besides, in the past six months we've seen and talked to everybody. 'There's not much else to say.'"

Red Press Says Dulles Talk Has 'Gunpowder Smell'

TOKYO (P)—Red China's press charged today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' address to the United Nations San Francisco Friday "smells of gunpowder."

Peiping radio quoted press accounts as saying Dulles' purpose was "to poison the international atmosphere, undermine the four-power conference and obstruct the easing of world tension."

Peiping reacted bitterly to Dulles' charges that the Red Chinese regime "became an aggressor in Korea, promoted aggression in Indochina and has used force and threat of force to support its ambitions in the Taiwan (Formosa) area."

Quoting from the official Communist newspaper, People's Daily, the broadcast said Dulles' speech was intended "to cover up the U.S. defeat in its aggression against Korea, China's Taiwan and Indochina and to create pretexts for further aggression in these areas and preparation for a new war."

The paper added that the speech "testified to the U.S. aggressors' intense hatred of the Chinese people and their plans to aggravate world tension."

Blame Irresponsibility, Incompetence, Indifference

There are 59 million reasons why you should drive carefully on the Fourth of July.

That is about the number of registered motor vehicles in the United States today, and adds up to 10½ million more reasons to drive carefully over the Fourth this year than on Independence Day five years ago.

You won't meet that many cars on your own Fourth of July trip, but the tremendous increase in the number of vehicles and the amount of travel greatly increases the chance for an accident.

While auto mishaps always lead the list of Fourth of July accidental death causes, drowning also claims a high toll on this mid-summer holiday. Last year 348 persons died in traffic accidents and 189 by drowning. Fireworks, once the cause of many deaths, killed four persons last year.

Accidents don't just happen. They are caused by the three I's of the highway—incompetence, indifference and irresponsibility.

So if you're driving somewhere over the Fourth, start early and take it easy. Don't be in too big a hurry to get there. Remember, your trip is for relaxation and pleasure.

Obey legal and common sense speed limits and keep your car under control at all times. A car does not go out of control unless the driver loses his control over it. Slow down at sundown, and hold down your nighttime speed so you can stop within the range of your lights.

After you arrive, don't overdo. Avoid endurance contests on the golf course, in the water or at the oars of a boat. Over-exertion is doubly dangerous in hot weather.

If you're going swimming, wait an hour after eating and know the depth of the water. Never swim alone.

If you go boating, avoid horseplay and be cautious in changing seats. Get back to the dock before darkness or bad weather. If your boat should capsize, cling to it and wait for help.

When returning from your holiday, drive to stay alive.

Basic Training at Benning Now a Paper Doily

Remember World War II and all those records that chased, wandered or strayed after a man throughout his service days and haunted his long service nights with dreams of loss, theft or destruction? Remember all the carbon copies, the desk sergeants and the paper generals? Remember the rumor that the paper shortage was the result of the wild paper war Washington was valiantly fighting with typewriter and pulp? Well, 274.17 tons of that war have just been turned into napkins.

New York City has surrendered to peace and chucked two office floors full of service files off on a paper company. Basic training at Benning is now a dainty paper doily while that hitch overseas made a splendid luncheon cloth with clowns dancing happy birthday all around the edge.

The Marines Were There— They Have Earned the Shrine

The Marines are to have a special shrine in Philadelphia, where the corps was founded on Nov. 10, 1775. The location will be the so-called New Hall, near Independence Hall, built in 1791 and now to be restored as a memorial museum to the Marines.

Incredible as it may seem, there was a time in our history when they did not exist. After valuable service in the Revolution they were disbanded, just as the Navy was, and not re-established till 1798, when the looming Naval War with France made it advisable to strengthen our armed forces. They have served ever since wherever there was fighting. They were at New Orleans with Andrew Jackson. They fought the Indians.

They put down bandits in Haiti, the Dominican Republic and Nicaragua, at a time when our government was actively intervening in the Caribbean states. Their part at Belleau Wood in World War I is history.

The nation is proud of the Marines. They have earned the Philadelphia shrine.

These Days

Treaty Not Law In British Courts

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEW YORK — In the case of Rice vs. Sioux City Memorial Park Cemetery, Inc., et al., the question again arose as to the relationship of the United Nations charter to American federal and state laws. Justice Felix Frankfurter delivered the opinion of the Supreme Court.

This case concerned the refusal of a cemetery to permit the burial of a Winnebago Indian under a contract which contained the clause, "Burial privileges accrue only to members of the Caucasian race."

The discussion in this article does not concern itself with the moral or social correctness of the conduct of the owners of the cemetery; it limits itself to the political effects of the United Nations Charter upon the United States.

THE PLAINTIFF raised the issue that the action of the cemetery owners was a violation of the Charter of the United Nations. Justice Felix Frankfurter said of this:

" . . . There was reference in the opinions of the Iowa courts and in the briefs of counsel to the United Nations Charter. The Iowa courts dismissed summarily the claim that some of the general and hortatory language of this treaty, which so far as the United States is concerned is itself an exercise of the treaty-making power under the Constitution, constituted a limitation on the rights of the states and of persons otherwise reserved to them under the Constitution. It is a redundancy to add that there is, of course, no basis for any inference that the division of this court reflected any diversity of opinion on this question."

The United Nations Charter is a treaty between the United States and 59 other nations who are members of the body. Under our law, a treaty is the law of the land, not passed by Congress in the usual manner, but negotiated by the executive, signed by the president and confirmed by two-thirds of the Senate present. Such a treaty then supersedes any federal or state laws, no matter how ancient. In a California case, the Charter was employed to vitiate a law which had been in existence for some 30 years.

The Charter of the United Nations, as a treaty, will continue to be used by lawyers for the benefit of their clients, until an amendment to the Constitution alters the relationship between the Charter and domestic law, or the Charter more emphatically is made to state that it cannot be applied to domestic law. The Bricker and George amendments are examples of what legislators are trying to do about this.

DURING MY RECENT visit to England, I made inquiries concerning this subject and found that they operate under a system that is something like the Bricker Amendment. A treaty with them is not the law of the land. If a treaty is to have the effect of domestic legislation, Parliament must do the legislating. The British Parliament has a long tradition, going back to Magna Carta (1215), of jealousy over its prerogatives and suspicion of the executive. Because of historic circumstances, particularly the importation of the sovereign from continental Europe, Parliament actually captured the control of the executive, so that every member of the cabinet is first a member of Parliament. The sovereign does not possess such administrative power as the president of the United States. The cabinet is a captive of the parliament.

If a treaty between Great Britain and another country were to be made to apply as the lawyers propose in the case of Rice vs. Sioux City, Etc., Parliament would have to pass a law on the subject before it could apply. The law—not the treaty—would be debated in the House of Commons and the House of Lords and the debate would be published in the press for all to read if they are interested. The executive cannot make British law by a treaty.

I cite this example because the opposition to any amendment to the Constitution on this subject bases itself upon the rather silly notion that it demonstrates a lack of confidence in a particular president. The law is long; presidents come and go. Amendments to the Constitution ought not to be evaded lest the sensibilities of a public official be bruised thereby. Were that the case, it would be impossible ever to amend the Constitution. One was even adopted limiting the term of the president.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sen. Long Battles Fellow Democrats on Power Site

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Nelson Rockefeller, whose family is one of the wealthiest in America, was playing penny-ante poker on the President's special plane en route to San Francisco. In the game with him were Cong. Miller, Democrat of Oakland, Calif., Mailliard, Republican of San Francisco, Younger of Ohio, and Scudder of California, also Republicans.

When the trip was over, Rockefeller was down seven dollars to his congressional friends.

Remarkable Harold Stassen, also with the presidential party: "I am going to watch the stock market tomorrow morning. Nelson will probably have to dump a lot of stocks on the market to pay for his losses."

Russell Long Deserts Father Sen. Russell Long, Democrat of Louisiana, did his best to defeat his fellow Democrats during bitter closed-door meetings of the Senate public works committee when it voted last week on the one remaining big undeveloped power site in the United States, Hell's Canyon.

With all other easily developed power sites already built, Hell's Canyon on the Snake River is of crucial importance to Oregon, Washington and Idaho. The Eisenhower administration has favored its development by the Idaho Power Company. The Democrats, with the exception of Russell Long, have favored development by the government, on the ground that rivers and works of nature belong to the people not private power companies.

Russell Long, whose father, the late kingfish of Louisiana, battled against the power companies, has strangely voted with the power companies. When the Dixon-Yates project was up for debate last summer, Long astounded his colleagues by casting his vote against the Democrats and with the power lobby.

When the secret meeting of the Senate interior committee opened last week, Long at first sat silent. Six Republicans bitterly denounced government operation of Hell's Canyon—including Millikin of Colorado, Watkins of Utah, Dvorshak of Idaho, Barrett of Wyoming. The only Republican who did not take a definite stand was Kuchel of California. Though he spoke on the subject, he did not definitely commit himself.

All the Democrats present urged that Hell's Canyon be developed by the government, except Long. He sat grim and silent. Finally, with Sen. Murray of Montana absent in Geneva attending the international labor conference, Acting Chairman Anderson of New Mexico pulled out a letter from Murray asking that the vote be postponed until his return. Anderson knew that a vote that would mean a victory for the Idaho Power Company.

It was at this point that Sen. Long finally jumped in to oppose his fellow Democrats. Knowing that the Republicans had a one-vote margin, counting his, long urged that the vote be taken immediately, that they not wait for Sen. Murray to return.

Sen. Dvorshak, Republican of Idaho, did likewise. However, they were overruled. Final vote on the last remaining big dam site was postponed for about a week.

Inside the Pentagon Here is the inside reason why Operation Alert was scheduled to test Civil Defense at the very time when the West is about to talk peace with Russia . . . The whole exercise was deliberately timed to build up public support in favor of the talks with Russia. 'Heaven' Is Swallowed up In 2 Gulps

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time there were two little mice, and one was named Oswald—and he whispered to the other, "Harriet."

When he called her name she heard it like the tinkling summons of a three-syllabled bell. "Harriet," he called, and she ran to the wire restraint of her laboratory cage. Across a small space she could see Oswald, running up and down his wire cage and sticking his eager pink muzzle through at her.

She thought modestly, but still excited, that in all her born days she had never seen a mouse with quite such whiskers. Her heart rose and fell as Oswald's whiskers did. She felt she must brush them or die.

All of a sudden Oswald and Harriet were plumped into a darkened case. They felt movement, heard the dull plod of feet in sand, and . . .

Left in Strange House A miracle—light dawned—they saw each other again left alone in a strange house on a strange floor. They scurried to a corner as mice do, and looked around. Why this was heaven. Food scattered around and no traps to worry about. The two little mice ran toward each other.

"Harriet!" cried Oswald, and each syllable was a bell tone. "I'll bet you can't gallop like a pony." "Oh, yes I can," she answered, blushing. And with no other word she held out her tiny paw, and he took her paw in his paw, and around and around they pranced like miniature ponies.

They swirled into the living room, and saw four gangling people—a father, mother and two children—sitting wide-eyed and silent on a sofa.

The two mice ran from them with quaking hearts and hid under a chair.

"Are they human?" asked Harriet. "They don't move." "They can't be human," replied Oswald, "because there are four of them—and not one is complaining."

Actually, the four family figures were clothing store dummies. They and the mice had been put there for a purpose, but neither dummies nor mice knew why.

"Oh, Harriet," signed her bell-toned lover, "let us dance like ponies again."

Sudden Dull Boom Her small warm paw crept back again into his paw. But just as they were ready to dance again together there was a sudden dull boom outside. The windows splintered around them, the ceiling caved in. Beams crashed down. Falling plaster raised a dust.

Harriet and Oswald scurried outside. A tremendous mushroom grew in the sky above them. Swiftly behind the clearing atomic cloud moved in two circling hawks.

Terrified in a falling world, Harriet left the broken shelter of the comfortable house and ran outside. Oswald ran after her.

One hawk peeled off and dived and as he engulfed her she cried weakly, "Oswald! Oswald!" And then the second hawk hit Oswald and the last sound she heard was him calling "Harriet! My Harriet!" Then the tinkling ceased.

Above them the mushroom cloud sprawled higher in lazy power. As it blew away the human engineers moved in to see what had happened to the test house. They had geiger counters to test the shattered dummies in the

THE WORLD TODAY

Retired Admiral Helps Power, Water Inquiry

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ben Moreell has opened a bag of tom cats. He is a retired admiral and chairman of the Hoover Commission's task force on water resources and public power.

His 26-man group did the groundwork investigation for the 12-man commission headed by former President Hoover. The task force, set up in November 1953, handed an 1,800-page report to the commission on March 31, 1955.

Now the commission, free to accept or reject the task force findings, will make a recommendation to the President and Congress on water resources and public power. The task force and commission recommendations are due out in about a week.

But in a speech at St. Louis June 15 Moreell, who is chairman of the board of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., indicated:

1. His group recommended to the commission that the federal government sell its power plants—and get out of the business of selling electric power—to private utilities or, if that can't be done, states or local communities.

2. The Hoover Commission itself will not, in its recommendations to the President and Congress, go along with everything the task force proposed. But Moreell did not hint what exactly the commission will say.

He did, however, say its recommendations will be a compromise between political and economic considerations. This seemed an oblique suggestion his task force was motivated strictly by economics.

3. He will "do all in my power to mobilize public support" for those parts of the commission's recommendations with which he agrees.

This promise points to perhaps an even more intensive fight, lasting for years inside and outside Congress, on the old dispute over public versus private power, or, to put it briefly: Should the government sell electric power in competition with private enterprise?

Jeep Desert Ride Survivor Tells of Tragedy

By TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif.

Murderous heat, walking sands and shivering nights were a grim memory today for a survivor of a desert jeep ride that claimed two lives.

"It's the worst thing I've been through in 20 years on the desert," said Chester Bunker, 67, local real estate promoter. He recalled watching one man walk to his death and another die of exposure on the blistering desert when their jeep broke down on an outing last Wednesday.

Bunker, recovering in a hospital here, told this story:

He and three others set out in the jeep to inspect the Amazon Valley area, which Bunker described as "ripe for development." They carried water but no food for the half-day journey.

The jeep sank in drifting sand in Amazon Canyon, about 30 miles east of here, and the differential broke.

At nightfall, Calvert Wilson, 49, prominent southern California Democratic politician, set out on foot for the highway about 15 miles away.

His sun-blackened body was found by searchers two days later about five miles from the jeep, where he had died of exposure and thirst.

Bunker, James Thompson, 75, retired Joshua tree businessman; and Lyle W. Robertson, 49, local hardware store owner, remained closer to the jeep.

"We figured we had more chance of being seen on Cadiz Dry Lake and we did," Bunker said. "They tell us we walked about 5,000 yards."

Their water ran out the next day. The temperature hit 120 degrees, Bunker and Robertson lay on the desert and covered their heads with their shirts.

"But Thompson got away from us and started running in circles," Bunker said. He died a few hours later.

Thompson's body and the two survivors prostrate on the shimmering dry lake were spotted about 8:30 that morning by a civilian plane. A helicopter rushed Bunker and Robertson to a Needles hospital. They were later transferred to Twentynine Palms, which is about 120 miles east of Los Angeles.

Both are recovering and Bunker said he has learned one thing: "After so many years on the desert a fellow gets careless."

home, but none that could plumb the sky for the fate of Oswald and Harriet.

Advice on Health

Child Seems To Grow in 'Fits, Starts'

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Don't be too concerned over your youngster's growth.

Children, you must realize, grow in "fits and starts." Maybe little Johnnie won't seem to grow much for quite a while. Then he'll suddenly shoot up like a weed. This is perfectly normal. Don't worry about it.

The average baby weighs about three times his birth weight at the age of one year. Now never again will he triple his weight in any single year.

But there is a period in the lives of both boys and girls in which they will grow rapidly in both height and weight. This adolescent cycle for girls usually ranges from the age of 9 to 13. For boys the fast growing period begins about 11 and ends at the age of 15.

Because girls generally begin the cycle at an earlier age, they frequently are taller than boys of the same age in freshman high school classes. Along about the age of 14, however, the average boy will pass the average girl in both height and weight.

Following the adolescent cycle, growth slows down until adult size is reached. Generally, this is about the age of 16 for girls and 17 for boys.

Let me emphasize that these are only averages. Each child is an individual and will grow individually. Therefore, it won't be much good to compare your youngster with the neighbor's kid.

There is a good way, however, to check on the growth of your child. Keep records of gains in height and weight. Measure his height twice a year. Gains for boys probably will average about two to three inches a year between the ages of 4 and 16, with the greatest growth during the adolescent cycle. Girls will average between two and three inches annually between the ages of 4 and 13.

Weigh your child every month. If he is in good health, he should gain a little each month. If he goes three successive months without gaining, or if he loses weight or suddenly begins to gain too much, check his health habits. Make sure he's getting enough food, sleep and exercise.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

E.R.: Would a special diet be of help to a victim of osteo-arthritis?

Answer: The diet for a person with arthritis should be a well-balanced one which, together with clearing up any infection in the body and improvement of the general health, may be of help. Cortisone or hydrocortisone may be of some value, used under the direction of your physician.

Wisconsin GOP Confab Backs Ike, McCarthy

By ARTHUR BYSTROM
RIPON, Wis. (P)—Wisconsin Republicans said they want President Eisenhower to run for re-election next year.

They also approved the activities and work of their junior U. S. senator, Joseph McCarthy, despite his criticisms of the chief executive.

And they modified their stand on the state's senior senator, Alexander Wiley, who two years ago was booted at a state convention.

Delegates endorsed a small town business man, Robert L. Pierce, 54, for the post of national committeeman from Wisconsin over Henry L. Ringling, 49, Baraboo, the incumbent.

The annual state convention of the Republican Party of Wisconsin here Saturday drew over 2,000 delegates to the Ripon College gym. The delegates endorsed Mrs. Marian Fox, Madison, over Mrs. John Batten, Racine, for the post of national committeewoman. Mrs. Yvonne Towne, Waukesha, the present committeewoman, was not a candidate for re-election.

However, the endorsement of a committeeman and committeewoman is only that. Delegates to the national Republican convention next year will elect them. Pierce, of Menomonie, who has the support of Gov. Kohler, won 1,480 to 995 over Ringling while Mrs. Fox won 1,273 to 1,212 over Mrs. Batten.

All out for Ike
The state GOP members, in the past only lukewarm in support of President Eisenhower, went all out for him Saturday.

They adopted a resolution urging the President to respond to the demand by his country and his party by placing his name in candidacy for the Republican nomination for President in the next general elections.

The resolution added "the convention expresses its belief, confidence and enthusiasm in the administration by President Eisenhower and commends him for the outstanding work he is doing as chief executive."

Unity and party harmony were the theme of most of the speakers at the all day meeting.

La Crosse Man Oldest Minnesota Active Guardsman

LA CROSSE, Wis. (P)—Minnesota's oldest active National Guardsman is a Wisconsin man—M. Sgt. Paul Redpath, 63, of La Crosse.

Redpath has been a member of Minnesota's 47th Viking Division since the end of World War I.

He moved to La Crosse in 1952, but has commuted every week—winter and summer—by car to Minneapolis where he is a member of the 47th's quartermaster unit.

Because of his value to the Minnesota National Guard, Redpath recently was presented the Minnesota Medal of Merit by Gov. Orville Freeman in ceremonies at Camp Ripley, Minn. The only others receiving the award were two colonels.

Now retired from his career as a railway postal employee, Redpath devotes much of his time to the Guard. He is spending his entire summer at Camp Ripley where he works with a commissary unit.

Hunt for Murder Suspect Turns To California

DICKINSON, Tex. (P)—The search for a tall, young 190-pound, airman officers believe may have killed three persons here turned to California today.

The airman, described as about 25, is wanted for questioning in the slayings of Mrs. Ruby C. McPherson, 44; her son George Richard McPherson, 12; and Mrs. Zola Norman, about 65, the mother of Mrs. McPherson.

All were found shot to death Saturday night in the pine-shaded McPherson home near the traffic-heavy Houston-Galveston Gulf Freeway.

Mrs. McPherson's 1953 automobile was missing, but police said nothing apparently had been taken from the home, and Texas Ranger Johnny Klevenhagen said there was no evidence of a sex crime.

Early today, Los Angeles police were checking on a vehicle, described as "almost matching" the teletyped description of the supposed slayer's car, the 1953 Ford stolen from the McPherson home.

R. E. Plummer of the Los Angeles detective force said the automobile was found parked on an Ingwood street, its engine still hot.

Local and state police both said they could find no motive for the slayings, believed to have occurred late Wednesday or early Thursday.

Mrs. McPherson returned Wednesday afternoon from Sulphur, La., where her husband John M. McPherson Sr. and their elder son John Jr., 22, were working on an oil well project.

Two waitresses told investigators that Mrs. McPherson appeared at a restaurant Wednesday night with an airman she introduced as a friend of her son.

The waitresses—Ruby Krueger, 23, and Doris Fillup, 25—said Mrs. McPherson called her mother and told her she was bringing a "friend of Jack's" home for the night.

Both waitresses said the airman told them he was en route to California to visit his parents but did not say where in that state he lived.

Mrs. McPherson's body was found in a back bedroom. Mrs. Norman and the boy were found in another bedroom. And officers said a bed in another room had been slept in "very recently."

Blistered Blonde Claiming Salt Water Ski Crown

NASSAU, Bahamas (P)—A blistered blonde laid claim to the long-distance salt water ski crown today after completing a 200-mile sea voyage riding only one ski.

Delores Kipple, 22, managed to stay on the ski for 10 hours and 25 minutes yesterday while making the windy crossing from Miami to Nassau. She was buffeted and battered by waves as high as eight feet. At least twice, her father, a professional skier riding in the tow boat, thought of calling off the trip.

The exhausted girl collapsed in the surf when the long trip was over and asked for "a glass of water and a rubdown."

Her hands were cut and her legs blistered by salt water.

She surpassed by four miles the record set by Bruce Parker and Evie Wolford in 1952. The team made their 196-mile trip on the usual two skis.

Dolores' ski was of regulation width and was equipped with two foot sockets. She started out with a special belt holding water, sugar and honey, but quickly threw most of it away to get rid of the extra weight.

Chrysler Opens Negotiations on Union Demands

DETROIT (P)—Chrysler Corp. opens new contract negotiations with the CIO United Auto Workers today.

Chrysler is the third and last of the Big Three auto makers to be served with the union's demand for a guaranteed wage plan, already established at Ford and General Motors.

Observers, however, foresee little possibility of the company balking at the established pattern.

In addition to company-paid supplemental unemployment benefits the union also is expected to seek wage and pension increases, liberalized insurance programs, added fringe benefits and a full union shop.

The union shop provision was included in the June 12 settlement with GM. It was already in force with Ford.

Under the provision an hourly rated worker must join the union to hold his job. Contract coverage for 130,000 hourly rated Chrysler employees expires Aug. 31.

Two Red MIGs Attack Chiang Plane Off Matsuo

TAIPEI, Formosa (P)—An unarmed amphibian airplane owned by Nationalist China's Foshing Airlines was attacked and damaged by two Communist MIG jets today as it approached Matsuo Island from Formosa, the airline said.

An unidentified U.S. military doctor aboard was wounded but his injuries were reported not serious. None of the four Chinese crewmen were injured.

The plane, a twin-engine PBV Catalina, landed at Matsuo, some 100 miles northwest of Formosa, and was beached.

The plane was hit in the left wing and in one of its two engines.

The attack occurred off Tung-chuan, or East White Dog Island, 11 miles south of Matsuo and 14 miles off the Red China coast. It was the first reported instance of Red MIGs appearing south of Matsuo. Previously they had come no closer than 20 miles north of the island, a Nationalist outpost.

The wounded doctor, a member of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group on Formosa, was en route to Matsuo to examine ill Nationalist soldiers.

The airline said the plane left Taipei at 11:10 a.m. and at noon flashed this two-word signal: "Red SOS."

And 10 minutes later: "MIG shooting our plane." At 12:30 p.m., the plane messaged that it had landed.

How to Get the

for your money when buying building products

You can select from three different quality grades of lumber at Standard Lumber Company. Do the same with other products that are made in varying grades. This is an easy way to buy. And it's foolproof. It's the one way to know what material you are getting, and to fit your need to your pocketbook.

Here's an explanation of Standard Lumber's 3-Grade service:

UTILITY GRADE. Lowest priced materials. Used where appearance or standard strength is not important. This grade is well-suited for many building purposes, but it has certain limitations and is priced accordingly.

FIRST GRADE. Sound quality value-priced. First Grade materials meet all but the most exacting needs. This is the largest selling grade of all three.

SUPER GRADE. Extra quality. Not needed for ordinary building. But in fine cabinet work, for example, where a perfect finish is wanted, Super Grade is the right choice.

EXTRA VALUES

You get other advantages, too, when you do business with Standard Lumber, right in your town.

- Time payments — available on most purchases of over fifty dollars — often with no down payment.
- Convenient location — no extra distances to travel.
- Reliability — with an A-1 reputation to protect, you can be sure Standard Lumber will stand behind purchases you make from them.
- Delivery service — anywhere in the area . . . when you need the material; no storage problems.

Miss Johnson Becomes Bride Of Lt. Adams

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special)—Baskets of sprayed huckleberry and yellow daisies wickered in candelabra decorated the altar of Bethlehem Lutheran Church here Saturday at 4:30 p.m. when Miss Margaret Ann Johnson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Johnson, Lanesboro, became the bride of Lt. Cameron Adams, Ft. Sill, Okla., son of Mr. and Mrs. Deane Adams, Madison, Wis.

Candles in candelabra entwined with ivy decorated the single aisle at the church where the Rev. A. M. Jothan performed the ceremony. Mrs. Keith Burmeister, harmony, organist, played traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Swiss embroidered organza accented with pearls. The bodice with lowered waistline and short sleeves, had a square neckline outlined with a pleated band of organza. The bouffant skirt fell into a chapel-length train and her veil of imported silk illusion was caught to the head by a Juliet cap of pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of fleur d'amour and adiantum and her only jewelry was a single-strand necklace of pearls.

Miss Carol Johnson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Joan and Susan Adams, Madison, twin sisters of the bridegroom; Miss Barbara Johnson, sister of the bride, and Miss Elaine Koester, Milwaukee.

Byron H. Stebbins, Madison, was best man and groomsmen were Michael Dean and Sydney Miller, Madison; Charles Mayer, Kenilworth, Ill.; Robert Hanson, Lanesboro, and John Spooner, La Crosse, Wis.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns, ballerina length, of white organza styled with long torso bodices, short sleeves and square necklines. Yellow satin sashes were tied in flat bows at back, with streamers falling over the bouffant skirts.

The attendants carried yellow daisy and ivy cascade bouquets, and wore matching daisy head-dresses.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink silk frock with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a gray-blue dress with matching accessories. They wore gardenia corsages.

A reception for 250 guests was held in the garden of the bride's parents' home. The wedding rehearsal was Friday at 3:30 p.m. at the church. The bride, given by the bridegroom's parents, was at 7 p.m. that day at the Kahler Hotel, Rochester. The bride who graduated from Lanesboro High School and the University of Wisconsin, has been a member of the faculty at Portage, Wis. The bridegroom, graduate of Lake Forest Academy, Lake Forest, Ill., and the University of Wisconsin, is a lieutenant in the U.S. Army, and is stationed at Ft. Sill.

A beige and white long torso dress with matching jacket and white accessories, was chosen by the bride for travel. Her corsage was an orchid. Following a trip to Mexico, the couple will be at home after July 4 at Lawton, Okla. Prenuptial parties given for the bride-elect were miscellaneous showers by Mrs. Thora Ragone and Miss Joan Gebhard and by Mrs. Milton Neshek, both at Madison, a kitchen shower given by the Mmes. E. R. Sears, A. W. Hignum, Otto Moe and C. W. Hanson, at Lanesboro, and coin showers given in Lanesboro by Mrs. O. T. Simonson, Mrs. Hans Lilljor and the Misses Oringa and Ella Elstad, and by Mrs. Leonard Johnson.

Your Laundry Tub In Color on a wrought iron base is as attractive as any furniture on the terrace, in the breakfast room or elsewhere. A sturdy material that is light as a feather—Fiberglass, reinforced plastic—makes it possible to design the laundry tub out of the basement and into the kitchen.

The baked-in colors—lemon yellow, pistachio green, strawberry pink, raspberry blue, and white, too—will blend with any decorator scheme or spark a basement or first floor utility room. The tub is shown above on its wrought iron stand.

Decorative and practical, these tubs are easy to maintain as is the splashable brick wall covering, velvex. Both can be wiped clean or scrubbed if necessary. The tubs may be used as stationary or portable units, and are available through plumbing dealers and jobbers.

Winning Formula To Help You Stick to Diet

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you have started a diet many times, only to slip back into the old rut about the fourth day, you're in the same dilemma as that expressed in a letter from a discouraged Ohioan.

"Here comes another letter from an overweight who just can't seem to make that diet stick! I'm ashamed to go anywhere and have only one dress I can get into. About the longest I can stick to a diet is four days, and then I start to overeat. I could just sit down and cry—to have failed again!

"Diet aids haven't helped a bit. How in the world do any overweight weights successfully reduce? About a year ago I quit smoking, and since then I've gradually gained 35 pounds. I'm 5 ft. 2 in. and weight 170. Isn't it amazing that I could stop smoking and yet not be able to stop overeating?"

"I bought a new, small swim suit, hoping that would spur me on—but that was a month ago, and I haven't lost a pound. I live in a lake and the neighbors and I live on the beach, but I wouldn't think of putting on a suit with this shape.

"Perhaps I could form a slimming club and reduce with other overweight. I need someone to help me, behind me and with me!"

First, let's analyze the reason back of repeated diet failures. While you outwardly expressed determination at the start of each diet, apparently you have had many inward doubts and, without being aware of it, you visualized yourself failing. The fact is, you cannot will your will into staying with a diet while you anticipate failure. The winning technique is not to try harder, but to believe. That's sound psychology.

The right nutrition can reduce your weight and control hunger, but first you must convince your inner mind that you want to eat to slim down healthfully. The nutrient that maintains the blood sugar level most effectively is protein... so have a complete protein food at every meal. At breakfast have one or two eggs; for lunch have a four ounce lean round steak patty, broiled, plus sliced tomatoes and a glass of skim milk or buttermilk. Build dinner around a generous serving of broiled chicken, fish or lean meat, plus two low calorie vegetables and fruit for dessert.

What helps sell your mind? A persistent suggestion to your inner mind that you strongly desire to eat to reduce. Remember that suggestion is powerful, and can enable you to control your appetite without the action of your will. Through suggestion to the subconscious mind you can get yourself to act the way you really want to act. Believe it—act on it.

New Meeting Set in Steel Wage Demands

By JOHN MOODY
PITTSBURGH (U-P) United Steelworkers officials — spinning steel industry offers of 10 and 10 1/2-cent hourly wage increases—meet today with the union Wage Policy Committee to chart future negotiations.

Inland Steel Co. submitted the 10 1/2-cent offer yesterday. U.S. Steel Corp.'s 10-cent offer was given last Thursday. The union promptly rejected each offer. The Wage Policy Committee undoubtedly will uphold the rejection.

Union President David J. McDonald has notified 96 basic steel companies and iron ore mining firms the union wants a substantial wage increase. He has not stated any specific figure publicly. He says the union will strike at midnight Thursday if an agreement is not reached.

William G. Caples, vice president and head negotiator for Inland Steel, told newsmen his firm's offer "is no indication that he will not make a new proposal" before Thursday midnight.

U.S. Steel's head negotiator, John A. Stephens, said he is "always optimistic."

McDonald, in his formal rejection, told Caples:

"There remains sufficient time to work out an equitable settlement before the strike deadline."

In Chicago, an Inland official said there is no indication that

National Guard President Plans To Retire in '57

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (U-P)—Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, former Minnesota National Guard officer and commander of the 34th Infantry Division before World War II, plans to retire in 1957 as president of the National Guard Assn.

Gen. Walsh made that announcement Saturday in a talk to Minnesota National Guard officers on the closing day of their annual summer training period at Camp Ripley. He has headed the National Guard Assn. for the past seven years.

He described the National Guard as "big business — big in strength, big in money." Gen. Walsh said appropriations for the present fiscal year amount to 437 million dollars and estimated appropriations for the coming year at more than 538 million dollars.

Maj. Gen. Edgar C. Erickson, chief of the National Guard Bureau in Washington, finished a two-day official inspection of Camp Ripley and called it "the nation's finest National Guard training center."

shutdown operations will start soon.

The union said telegrams have been sent to all district directors notifying them to begin preparing to shut down steel mills at midnight Thursday. A union spokesman said, however, the action was "routine."

The union said it has received no offer from any other company.

Farmer to Be Charged With Manslaughter

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP)—The Eau Claire County district attorney says he probably would seek County Court arraignment of a Town of Union farmer today on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Robert Guthrie, prominent cattleman.

There are four degrees of manslaughter.

Dist. Atty. Victor Tronsdal said Gordon Smith, 44, admitted he struck Guthrie, his neighbor, with his fists on Guthrie's farm early Thursday.

Guthrie's body was found Thursday afternoon in the Chippewa River near Jim Falls, about 25 miles from his home near here.

Guthrie, who owned two farms near Smith's farm, was president of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders Assn.

Smith was sent to jail without charge after he surrendered voluntarily Thursday.

Chippewa County Sheriff Clifford Dorr said Friday that autopsy findings showed Guthrie died of a brain injury resulting from blows on the head.

Tronsdal said Smith insisted he struck Guthrie only with his fists and did not believe he hurt Guthrie seriously.

The district attorney said witnesses related Guthrie climbed into his auto after the fight and drove west. The car was found parked close to the place where Guthrie's body was found.

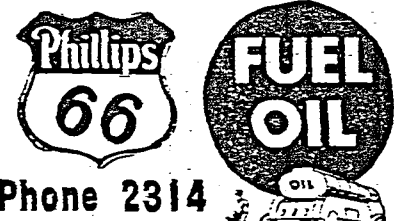

Authorities have not told of any motive for the dispute between Smith and Guthrie.

Houston Co. 4-H Program Praised

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Houston County's 4-H program ranks with the finest in the state, according to Earl Bergerud, state agent, who spoke at the county 4-H play day here Thursday.

He headlined an afternoon program which included 4-H talent numbers by Leon Schuttemeier, Wilmington Gophers, and Sandra Jetson, Beverly Nelson and July Sylling, Newhouse Norsemen.

Softball competition in boys, girls and mixed divisions was held throughout the day at the fairgrounds. Championships were won by the Hokah Champion Workers 4-H in mixed and boy competition and the Caledonia Champion Racers 4-H in girls play.

Proposed Closed Areas

The accompanying map shows the new arrangement of "closed areas" within the Genoa pool, pending Washington approval. Three present closed areas, one opposite La Crosse and two in front of Brownsville, will be opened to hunting, and a large new closed area will be established just above the Genoa dam.

This new area, totaling 5,300 acres, is largely a water area, with a group of islands. It is similar to other areas directly above the dam. The three areas that will be open total 4,121 acres. The La Crescent-Tar-get Lake area totals 1,200 acres and should become a popular hunting area. The two tracts opposite Brownsville, including the Goose Island closed area, have an acreage of approximately 3,000, which will now be open to hunting.

Action on the whole project is now centered in the Fish and Wildlife Service office in Washington. The proposed changes made by refuge officials, we understand, have received the approval of all the adjoining states and the recommendation of the regional office in Minneapolis.

Wildlife Refuge staff members are now awaiting the go-ahead signal from Washington to start posting the new closed areas and removing the old closed area signs from the tract to be opened.

Black River Muskies
A 44-inch muskie weighing 20 pounds and eight ounces was caught by Glen Jergens, Black River Falls, in the Black River within the city limits of Black River Falls Thursday evening.

Graham Addresses Biggest German Revival Meeting

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—American evangelist Billy Graham addressed his largest revival meeting crowd in Germany last night—65,000, according to police estimates.

About 9,000 U.S. servicemen and their families were in the audience at the former Nazi party rally grounds here. At the conclusion of Graham's sermon, 6,000 persons—1,200 Americans among them—stepped forward at his urging to make "decisions for Christ."

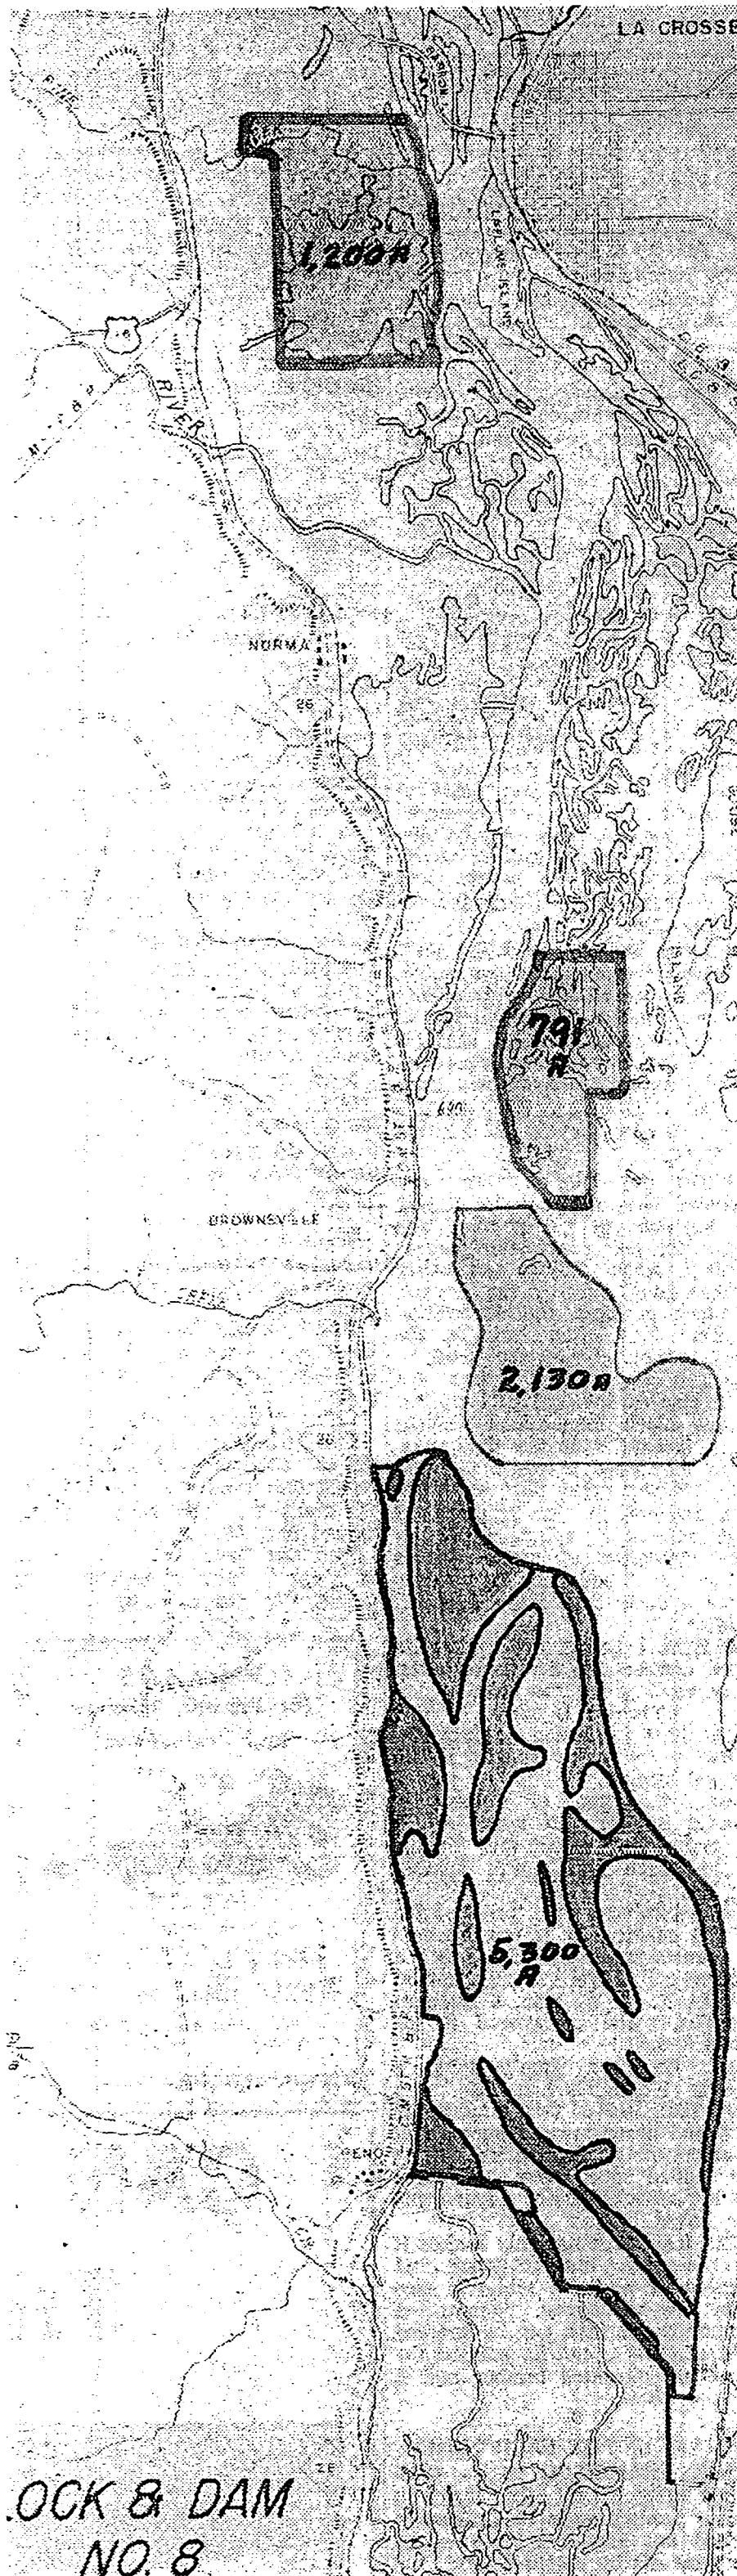

He told a news conference here that he had been invited by the Manhattan Protestant Council to conduct a "Crusade for Christ" in New York City and will discuss the project with the council when he returns to the United States next month. Graham said the New York crusade could not be scheduled before 1957.

Gunderson Elected Chairman of AMA Board of Trustees

LA CROSSE, Wis. —Dr. Gunnar Gunderson of La Crosse has been elected chairman of the board of trustees of the American Medical Association.

Elevation of Dr. Gunderson to the chairmanship of the AMA's powerful governing body was at the Atlantic City, N. J., meeting of the medical association.

It climaxes and recognizes a long period of devoted service by Dr. Gunderson to medicine and to the American Medical Assn. Now in his seventh year as a member of the board of trustees, he long has been interested in AMA activities on the county and national levels.

Until recently he had served as chairman of the executive committee, which functions when the board of trustees is not in session, and he also is on the board of directors of the association's American Medical Education Foundation.

Members of the board of trustees—the body which directs all activities of the association between meetings of its House of Delegates—are elected by the House of Delegates, which is the legislative organ of the AMA. The board of trustees, in turn, selects its own chairman who holds office for a one-year term.

"Most members of the board of trustees are men who have demonstrated their interest in medicine over many years," explained Dr. Gunderson. "They have been active in county and state medical affairs, and their state groups

Hibbing Woman Dies of Burns In Gas Blast

HIBBING, Minn. (AP)—A Hibbing woman is dead of burns suffered when a gas explosion ripped her eight-room house last Monday.

Mrs. Della Cossette died in a Hibbing hospital Sunday. She suffered burns on her hands, abdomen, back and sides in the fire that followed the explosion.

Mike Ondarko, 35, Minneapolis, also injured in the blast, was recovering in a Hibbing hospital. Two other persons in the house at the time of the explosion were not hurt.

The blast blew out two sides of the two-story house and sprayed glass a half block away.

As chairman, it will be Dr. Gunderson's duty to preside at board meetings. However, he was quick to point out that a large staff carries on the day-to-day management of the American Medical Association's interests and activities, subject, of course, to the direction of the board.

Antonio Segni Asked to Form Italian Cabinet

By FRANK BRUTTO

ROME (AP)—Antonio Segni, 64-year-old farmer, scholar and left-center Christian Democrat, has until Thursday to accept or reject an invitation to try to become Italy's seventh postwar premier.

He was asked last night by President Giovanni Gronchi to see if he could line up a new governing cabinet. Segni said he would investigate the situation further before undertaking the task officially.

Following a procedure first used in 1953 by the late Alcide De Gasperi and former President Luigi Einaudi, Segni will talk with political leaders and explore the possibilities for a new cabinet before being formally charged by Gronchi with formation of a government.

If he decides that his chances of finding a group of ministers to work with him are slim and declines Gronchi's bid, the President is expected to turn to Ezio Vanoni, budget minister in the outgoing cabinet of Mario Scelba.

As he left the President last night, Segni said he hoped democratic parties would support him, indicating that, like Scelba, he would seek a coalition of the center parties — Social Democrats, Liberals and possibly Republicans — to give the Christian Democrats the marginal support they need in Parliament.

Spring Grove Woman Tops Cake Contest

CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special)—Buttercake baking champion of Houston County is Mrs. Elling Solum, Spring Grove, who topped a field of township winners here Wednesday.

Mrs. Wilfred Pohlman, Caledonia, placed second and Mrs. Albert Holm, Spring Grove, third. Judges were Mrs. Hollis Benson, Houston; Mrs. Leonard Sylling, Caledonia, and Miss Norma Myrah, Spring Grove. In addition Mrs. Elmer Schroeder, Mrs. Irvin Ingvaldson, Mrs. Arthur Plitzwelt, Mrs. Lawrence Holm, Mrs. Glen Bratland, Mrs. Milvin Olsgard, Al Husemann and Irvin Plitzwelt were entered.

Ten safety posters were entered in that contest. Judges were Mrs. Charles Sauer, Hokah; Mrs. O. J. Strand, Caledonia, and Miss Gladys Lapham. The Ernsters made it a family affair with Alice winning first, Larry second and Duane third. Alice Jo Sannes received honorable mention.

Ed Dixon, Chicago, entertained the group with piano and singing. He also accompanied Bob Husemann who played several violin solos. Linus Ernster provided a humorous skit. Wayne Hanson, county agent, showed movies dealing with dairying. Bill Lovett auctioneered box lunches brought by the women. The cakes were served with the lunches, too.

FB Women Meet
Thirty-three Farm Bureau women attended the picnic meeting of present and former chairmen at the George Kelly home near Houston Tuesday. The essay contest and the Farm Bureau women's camp were discussed. Subject for this year's essay is "Farm Bureau Meeting—Today's Problems—Planning for Tomorrow."

Mrs. Alvin Stellick, Mrs. Grant Lapham, Mrs. Russell Senn, Mrs. Albert Holm and Mrs. Kelly were named to the resolutions committee.

"Pennies for Friendship," a Farm Bureau project, was discussed and pennies were collected. This money helps promote friendship through the Associated County Women of the World. Mrs. Ed Detters was in charge of entertainment.

New Red Probe Set in Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Another probe into alleged Communist activity in Hollywood and environs opens today before a three-man subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Rep. Clyde Doyle (D-Calif.) is acting chairman of the group. About 40 witnesses are expected to appear before the subcommittee in a five-day session, Counsel Frank Tavenner says. At least 14 have served notice they will not cooperate, relying on the protection of the Fifth Amendment.

The subcommittee also will question witnesses in San Diego July 6 and 7.

BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggly and Bosun, the jolly old sea dog, were aboard the rabbit gentleman's Amusement Raft. The raft was tied up along shore in Frog Pond.

Bosun had told Uncle Wiggly, over the telephone, that there was trouble aboard the raft. When Mr. Longears quickly hopped to the raft, from his hollow stump bungalow, he found Bosun looking very sad and unhappy.

"That's just what happened," Uncle Wiggly said. "I was shooting the small cannon. The one we bought from Mrs. Moo, the lady cow, you know."

"Yes, Bosun, I know about that. We traded in the ding-dong bell from my raft, gave Mrs. Moo some cash and bought a small cannon."

"To signal the animal boys and girls back to the raft for their meals, when they went ashore to have fun," added the old sea dog.

"We got the cannon because the sound of it would be louder than the ding-dong of the bell and the children could hear it, no matter how far they were off playing in the woods," said Uncle Wiggly as he twinkled his pink nose.

"And then," went on Bosun, telling the remainder of the story, "when I was practicing with the cannon a little while ago, here aboard your raft, the recoil or the back-fire, rolled our cannon overboard."

"And now our cannon is in Frog Pond; is that right, Bosun?"

"As right as lollypops, Cap'n Wiggly, sir!" the old sea dog looked sadder than before.

"Have you looked for it, Bosun?"

"Looked for what, Cap'n Wiggly, sir?"

"Looked for our cannon, Bosun. Have you looked for it since it rolled overboard and fell off the raft into Frog Pond?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, Cap'n Wiggly, sir. I have looked on the port side and I have looked on the starboard side of the raft. But I couldn't see our cannon. It must be in deep water. I also looked fore—that is at the front end of the raft."

"Did you look aft, Bosun? You know—the back part of the raft. Did you look aft?"

"There wasn't much use looking aft, Cap'n Wiggly, sir. We are close up against the shore at the after part of the raft. The cannon couldn't fall off aft, or it would be in shallow water and I could have seen it."

"Off which side of the raft did the cannon roll after it recoiled when you last fired it, Bosun?"

"Off the port, or left paw side of the raft as you stand aft and look forward, sir."

"Then did you look in the water at the port side of the raft, Bosun?"

"I sure did, Cap'n Wiggly, sir. I looked and I poked around with a pole that Nurse Jane uses to prop up her line when she washes clothes here aboard the raft."

"Did you get in contact with the cannon under water, Bosun?"

"I can't be sure, Cap'n Wiggly, sir. The clothes line prop touched something, but maybe it was a rock. But, as you said, there is only one way to locate our cannon and get it up out of Frog Pond. That is to ask Grandpa Whackum, the beaver, to help us. He can dive and swim under water with his eyes open. He can see just where our cannon is on the bottom of Frog Pond."

"Then let's go ask Grandpa Whackum to help us," suggested the rabbit.

"Come on, Cap'n Wiggly, sir!" exclaimed Bosun. "We'll go in the small boat. No use sailing the big raft to Beaver Pond. We'll row in the small boat. All aboard!"

"All aboard!" answered Uncle Wiggly. In a few moments he and Bosun were rowing across Frog Pond in the small boat. Something happened. I can tell you about it tomorrow if the cup of coffee doesn't have to wait so long for the cream and sugar that the spoon gets tired and turns out with a somersault to play tag with the saucer.

Los Angeles Strike In Second Week

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Transit Lines strike, affecting about a million riders, moved into its second week and police planned today to combat ever-increasing traffic problems in the downtown area.

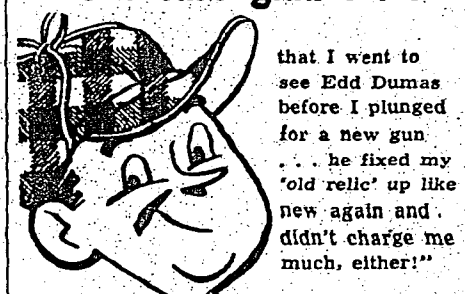

Federal conciliator Harry Malcom called company and AFL union representatives into session with only slight hope of progress. He said he would welcome "any ideas to get the show back on the road."

The transit lines' offer of a 12-cent hourly raise within two years was defeated by union vote last Friday. Some 2,300 bus and streetcar operators are involved in the dispute. They want a 20-cent boost from the previous $1.91 per hour.

PTA Working for Big Vote Tuesday On Lake City Issue

LAKE CITY, Minn. — A PTA telephone brigade will help get out the vote for a special school district referendum here Tuesday.

The board of Joint Independent Consolidated School District 40 of Wabasha and Goodhue counties is asking permission to buy all of the property and land in a block adjacent to the present Lincoln High School for constructing additional school facilities.

Money for the transaction is held by the district in a special fund accumulated over a period of years. Polls will be open in both the Lake City and Zumbro Falls city halls from noon until 9 p.m.

The PTA hopes to telephone nearly everyone in the district asking that they go to the polls. Former district 80 at Zumbro Falls was recently attached to Lake City by consolidation.

State Building Running Ahead Of 1954 Pace

Building projects in Minnesota were more than $35 million higher through the first five months of 1955 than during the same period a year ago, according to a report by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

The 1955 total to date was $110,537,710 compared with $75,212,640 for the January-through-May figure of 1954.

Winona is among the communities in the state included in the report with higher figures for May and the year-to-date.

Years Compared
The city's May total was $191,510 compared with $44,670 a year ago while the 5-month figure is $816,940 this year, $327,800 last year.

Among comparison cities, Austin, Red Wing and Rochester, however, had lower May totals this year, but in year-to-date totals only Austin is lagging behind 1954. In Wisconsin, Eau Claire had a higher total last month but fell behind in the 5-month total, while La Crosse recorded lower totals this year in both categories, reflecting the trend of the eight Wisconsin cities reporting.

Only major projects noted in cities included in the area comparison last month was a permit for a $140,000 store building at La Crosse and a $100,000 school at Faribault. A breakdown of selected cities' totals is as follows:

Wood 'Elegant' Says Architect

There's nothing like wood to give an "elegant sense to life," according to Ralph Walker, New York architect and past president of the American Institute of Architects.

He said that the "inherent beauty of wood is apparent from seeing it, feeling it, and sometimes even from smelling it."

Walker urged that the lumber industry work closely with architects "to help us get fine finishes in homes."

"No one," the architect observed, "cares about the past of a piece of steel or a lamp bulb. Only wood becomes a beloved antique. Only wood can be so beautiful in its natural quality that you want to touch it."

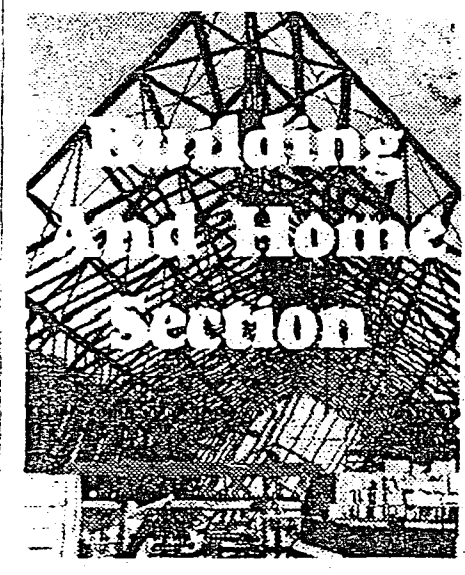

Citing the long life of medieval Japanese wooden houses and temples, and of wood windows in houses dating from pre-Shakespearean England, Walker squelched the idea that wood is "less permanent" than other materials.

"Wood," he said, "is one of the most durable building materials. Four and five hundred years ago, the Japanese did nothing to the wood. They permitted it to weather, and many buildings are still in excellent condition."

Today, the architect pointed out, wood's durability and good service are increased by man-made treatments, such as better paints and other finishes.

Walker predicted an end "very shortly" to the design concept that "everything smooth is delightful." Even now, he said, the "cold white laboratory kind of kitchen is being rapidly replaced by warm friendly kitchens in which wood is used generously."

Burt Smith, Michigan State's defensive line coach, formerly played pro baseball and hockey.

Contract Awarded At Central High

STRUM, Wis.—The O & N Lumber Co. was awarded the contract for general construction work and electrical work at the Central Union Free High School of Strum and Eleva, at a meeting of the school board Friday evening.

The contract calls for furnishing and application of insulation and insulation board, tile ceilings and an extension of the present electrical system. The bid of the O & N Lumber Co. was $8,015, but the school board made an alteration to allow for 16-inch tile, and the cost was raised $507.

Schubert, Sorensen & Associates, Inc., La Crosse, and Winona, is the architect.

Termite Scare Spreading Over Entire Nation

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

The termite scare is now spreading rapidly. New home owners, especially, are jittery every time they see a flying ant — which of course is not a termite.

In fact, according to experts, there is no evidence that subterranean termites are spreading. It's the damage they are causing to houses that is spreading — and hence the growing concern.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says subterranean termites are found in every state — "they are found practically throughout the tropics and temperate parts of the world. . . . They have occurred in very nearly their present distribution for many million years."

Yet, termites are getting into houses more often. There are obvious reasons for this.

More houses are being built in outlying areas, in the country, on sites cleared out of woodland or near woods. The depletion of forests deprives termites of their natural food supply of fallen trees. Among nature's scavengers, their function is to help destroy surplus wood. So now they're out hunting for wood.

The way lots of houses are designed nowadays makes it easy for termites to get a bite. The vogue for low ranch-style houses brought wood siding and other lumber down close to the ground. Careless grading and foundation planting has often brought the earth in contact with the wood.

The way many houses are built also is inviting to termites. Hollow block foundations provide these insects with the dark passages they need in which to build their runway tubes between moisture sources in the ground and food sources of cellulose in timbers. Omission of metal shields on top of foundations gives termites a clear road into structural lumber.

Heated basements make life more comfortable for these pests. They can't stand the cold.

Treated Lumber
The best insurance against termites in a house seems to be treated lumber. In building a new house, the use of chemically treated lumber will make a difference of only about $100 for the whole house and you're insured for life.

Such lumber is not just painted on the surface. It is impregnated in pressurized cylinders in a process called Wolmanizing, named for Dr. K. H. Wolman, a German scientist, who discovered it 50 years ago.

As soon as a termite takes a bite of Wolmanized lumber, he's dead. The use of this lumber for sills and other lower members of a structure is economical, since the added cost over untreated lumber amounts to about four cents per board foot.

The treatment not only makes it termite-proof, but rot-proof and fungi-proof as well, while it also adds fire resistance. Wolmanized lumber is odorless, can be handled without gloves, can be painted the same as untreated lumber and it can be glued.

Rising Income, Credit Aiding Housing Boom

By FRANK O'BRIEN
WASHINGTON 12 — The Commerce Department has reported that rising income, easy credit and a desire for bigger and better homes underlie the current housing boom.

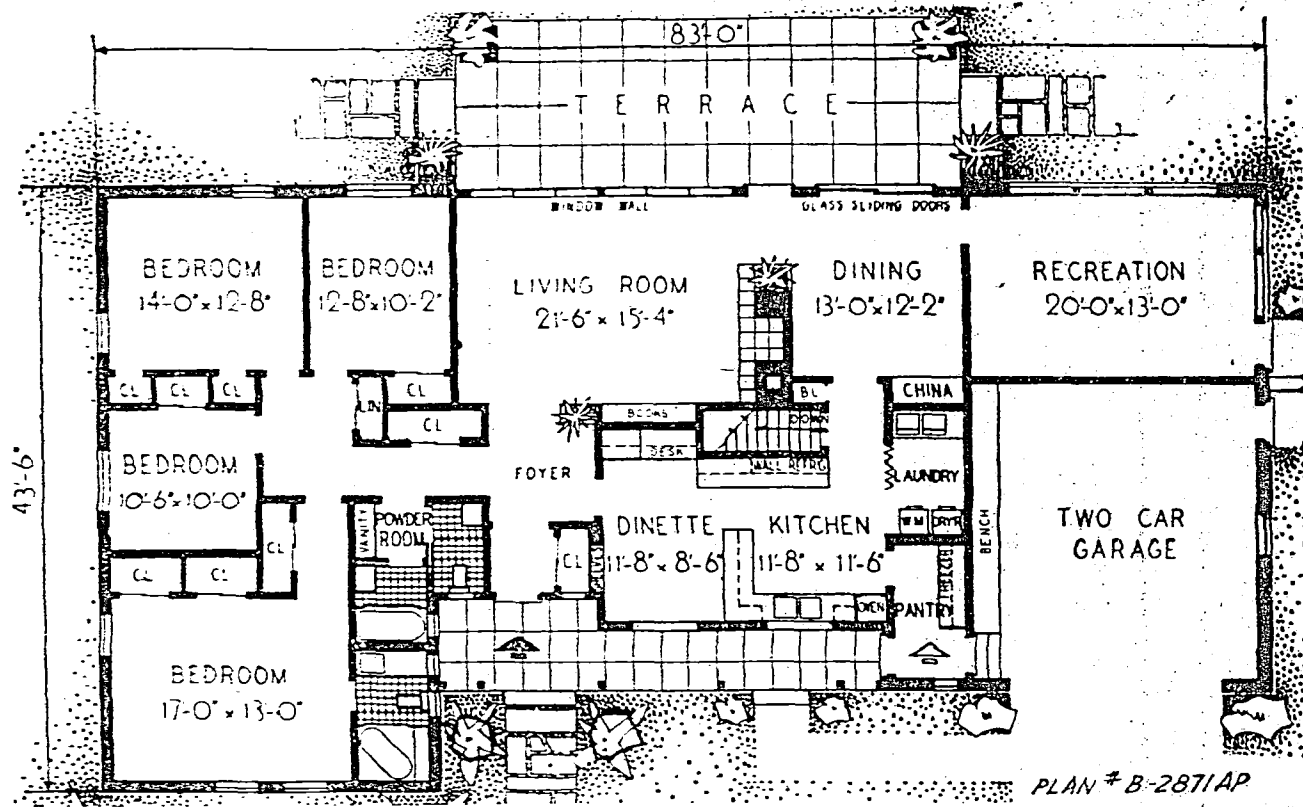

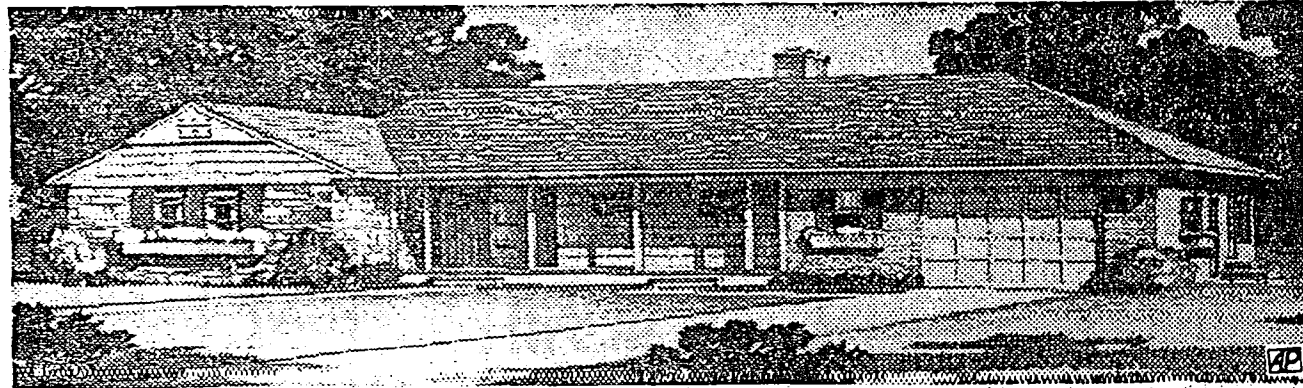

A department report noted that homes are currently being built at a record pace although new families are being formed at a low rate and family formation will remain low through about 1960. This is a result of the low birth rate period of the early 1930s. Depression babies are now at marriageable age.

But following 1960, the department study said, the demand for housing will probably shoot up rapidly, as the war and postwar baby boom results in a steep rise in the number of marriageable young people. The department gave no judgment on the current disagreement over whether easy mortgage arrangements under government insuring processes has stimulated home building beyond the buying capacity of the public.

However, it pointed to several factors which, it said, are sustaining the housing market. Listed as principal factors were:

1. The total population of the nation is increasing by about 2 1/2 million a year.

2. There has been a marked increase in recent years in life expectancy, especially for women.

Window Walls in living room and dining room, a large main-floor recreation room, a pantry entrance to kitchen from both garage and front porch are features of this plan for a four-bedroom house with two bathrooms, one of which is compartmented to serve as a powder room. The house is 83 feet wide and covers 2,570 square feet without garage. This is plan B-2871AP by Alvin Cassens Jr., architect, 145 So. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N. Y.

Coupled with this has been added provision for retirement in the form of social security and business pension plans. Thus more old people are able to maintain their own homes, instead of doubling up with younger members of their families.

3. The number of young people living with their parents, or other relatives, also has been declining. In 1947 nearly three million married couples did not have their own household. Now only about 1 1/2 million couples are living with relatives.

4. A tendency for unrelated individuals to get together and run a household. Between 1950 and 1954 there was an increase of about 1 1/2 million such households, a rise of one-fourth.

5. Successive liberalizations of government insurance for home buying in 1948, 1950 and 1954 have been "especially important" in the rise of residential construction. Underneath it all, the Commerce

How to Make Covers for Lawn Chairs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You can make gay weatherproof coats to put your outdoor furniture in the glamor bracket even when it rains.

A wider range of patterns and textures is available in standard quality vinyl film plastic these days. New decorator designs and colors are sparkling examples of what is happening to plastic materials. You can stitch them up yourself on your trusty sewing machine with these time-saving hints offered by local sewing center experts.

Estimate your yardage first. To measure for the chair center section, start with top center section of the chair. This runs from the floor at the back of the chair over the back to the floor at the front of the chair. To measure length of side section, measure the top of the chair back to the floor. Double this measurement to include the other side. The width of the fabric is adequate for the average chair. Reduce all inches to yards.

To measure for a chaise, measure the top center section of the chaise in the same way as the chair. That is from the floor at back, over the back and straight down across the foot to floor at front. To estimate the yardage for side sections, measure from top of back straight down to foot of chaise, as though you had drawn a string taut from top to foot. Double this measurement to include the other side. Add the total number of inches and reduce it to yards.

Lay fabric lengthwise along chair from floor at back, over top and across to floor at bottom. Cut the center section at this point. Now cut side sections using measurements previously taken. Use paper clips to attach center and side sections together. To achieve neat fit adjust clips along seam lines allowing for arm slant. Trim plastic at seam line.

Next stitch both side sections to the center section. The walking presser foot for your sewing machine makes handling of the vinyl plastic film easier. Use pinkish shears to finish inside seams. Make an inch-deep hem or casing around the bottom of the chair cover and run elastic through to make for snugger fit and to prevent covers from blowing off in summer storms.

Now lay fabric lengthwise along chaise from floor at back, over back and down to floor at front. Cut center section. Then cut side sections. Note the design on the side sections runs vertically on the chaise. Again using paper clips, attach wide sections to center section from top of back along arm to foot of chaise. Stitching and finishing procedure is the same for chaise as for chair.

equipment will be made of hollow blocks and then covered with reinforced concrete that will be surfaced with asphalt tile. The floor is built so that air can pass from one end of the building to the other underneath the floor, to keep it free from moisture.

The building will be heated with liquid gas so that a uniform temperature will be maintained at all times. The building is scheduled for completion Aug. 1 and the equipment will start coming in during September.

Let's get Growing

GARDEN SENTIMENT

Sentiment is strong among most gardeners and flower growers. A kind of regard or intimate relation with growing things that brings peace of mind and serene contentment.

From the busy cares and worries of every day existence, a garden offers a retreat not afforded by any other form of recreation. While cultivating the soil, sowing seed, or setting out a plant or tree, the true gardener is quietly conscious of the mystery of all life.

The way plants respond to good care is pleasing and even the persistence of weeds is food for intriguing thought. There is a deep-seated satisfaction in being in tune with nature and accomplishing some definite objectives.

Persons who have known the fruitful pleasures of gardening have a well defined conviction that no other form of recreation quite equals it. The beginner, as well as the experienced gardener, has faith in the natural processes of life and sows the seeds and sets out plants with a deep conviction that rewarding results will follow.

Perhaps this is the reason that there are more than thirty million gardeners in this great country of ours going their blissful way as individuals, or in organized groups to further their special liking in flowers or plants.

Being one of America's most popular pursuits, gardening appeals to both young and old. Can it be an inborn attachment for the soil and growing things not readily explained by the pleasures one derives from it?

Some persons, no doubt, do their gardening work with a definite practical purpose in mind, such as raising vegetables for table, or having a fine yard and lawn to enhance the appearance and add value to the home. Such aims are praiseworthy, but without some deep-seated sentiment the greater inner values are lost.

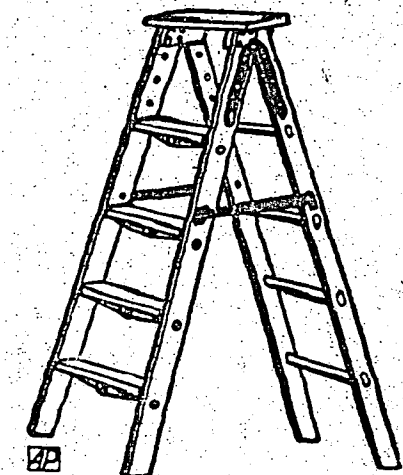

However, such gardeners seem to be in the minority and in time even they may succumb to the sentimental phases of gardening and look upon their efforts as creative art and not alone for the practical results obtained.

Gardening for most lovers of plants and flowers is not a means to an end, but in itself is the end. Raising plants from seed to maturity, watching gorgeous blooms develop from drab looking bulbs, observing the unfolding of a delicate bud to a full-blown rose, is a pleasure rooted deep in sentiment. The grower's greatest satisfaction comes from the close work he does with nature in furthering the well-being of his plants and flowers.

Summer passes, the flowers are killed by frost and winter comes. The garden is an expanse of white, broken here and there by mounds, or masses, or protective covering, bleak looking and cold. Yet, the gardener feels the presence of life within the frozen soil and foresees with acute sentiment the wondrous transformations that will take place in the spring.

Sawdust From O'BRIEN'S

LAST week I took part of my vacation and really got a lot done around home. Some of those things that have been waiting for some time. A guy should really make a list of what he's got to do and then make it a point every so often to do some of it. The other way it all piles up and before long you've got all you can handle. I was cleaning up in the attic a little, man, you sure accumulate a lot of stuff. Seems like we never throw anything away. Anyway, after I was up there a while, working like a dog, Dot (that's my spouse you know) she hollered up the stairs and says, "How would you like a little Sky Blue water?" Naturally I knew right away what she meant so I says, "Sure, haul up one." Well, I sat there kinda resting and my thoughts went back to a few years ago when we first bought the ranch.

The ceiling wasn't insulated at all so I got the bright idea to put some in. The attic has got tongue and grooved 6 inch flooring all the way across. Made the job just twice as easy, you know. I had to take up one side first, move everything over and put in the insulation and then repeat the operation again for the other side. I guess for the guy that laid that floor it was either his first job and he wanted to make sure it was going to stay down or he had a lot of nails he wanted to get rid of. I've never seen so many nails and such a variety of sizes in a single floor. Boy when I was about one-third through I wondered if it was such a good idea after all and I thought this insulation had better insulate after all this.

Well, the insulation that I put in there was Zonolite and believe me it did the trick. We have a cooler house in the summer and a heck of a lot warmer house in the winter. And you know sitting up there and thinking about it I wouldn't want to do it again but now I'm sure glad I did. That Zonolite has actually paid for itself in fuel savings. A savings in fuel is something you can really put your finger on, too.

Of course all attics wouldn't be like that one. You've probably got one that all you'd have to do is hoist the bags up there and then pour them out. Spread it around evenly and you're all through. Zonolite is fireproof, vermin proof, rot proof, won't draw moisture. If it should get wet from a leaky roof or something it dries out quickly and returns to its original state. Zonolite won't settle either like some insulations will, and it forms around electric wires and pipes so that you won't have to waste time packing spots like these. Zonolite is something you can do according to your pocket book too. You can put in what you can afford and later on add to it at anytime. It doesn't require a complete job all at one time.

The most important part of any insulation job is that you ventilate it properly. So if you should want to insulate, remember that you will have to make provisions for a couple of louvers up there for ventilation. For every 300 sq. ft. of attic area you will need 144 sq. in. of ventilation area.

If you've been thinking about insulation, and it's this hot weather that starts one thinking too, look into Zonolite for your attic. It's easy to put in and economical in cost too. And it's something that will actually pay for itself in fuel savings. You'll see next winter when that ton of coal goes farther than it has in the past.

HOME REPAIR DOs and DON'Ts

PATCHING BRICKWORK

Do . . . remove all loose mortar between the bricks by tapping lightly with a cold chisel and hammer.

Do . . . avoid damaging the solid mortar by taking out only that material which gives easily.

Do . . . hose down the entire area, being sure the water saturates the opening you have made.

Do . . . use a prepared mortar mix, carefully following the directions on how much water to use.

Do . . . apply the mortar to the joints with a pointing trowel, packing it in, then smoothing it off.

Don't . . . forget to keep a wet rag or scrub brush handy to wipe off immediately any mortar that falls on the face of the bricks, as it may be difficult to remove later.

Don't . . . neglect to use the end of the trowel to indent the mortar in the joints slightly so that rain water will shed quickly.

Don't . . . consider the repair job finished until the patched mortar joints have been wet down at least once a day for several days.

Don't . . . overlook the possibility of doing an overall first-class job and preventing future trouble by spraying or brushing the entire wall with a colorless waterproof compound.

Chiefs Lose Weekend Pair to Fairmont Nine

Martins Get 3 in 6th For Victory Sunday

By CHUCK WILLIAMS

FAIRMONT, Minn.—The Winona Chiefs' road jinx, which took a one-game vacation, returned to haunt them Sunday night. This time it was a 4-3 defeat at the hands of the red-hot Fairmont Martins. It was Fairmont's fourth straight win and their third of the year over the Chiefs.

A throwing error on a pickoff attempt in the sixth inning brought home the runs that proved to be Fairmont's margin of victory.

It came with the bases loaded when catcher George Gleason threw wildly to third in an attempt to nip Grady Wilson off the bag. When the ball bounced away both Wilson and Hank Workman scampered home.

Joe Shraake took the loss, his first of the year, after giving up seven of the eight Martin hits.

Whitely Felker, in relief, allowed only one hit and no runs in three full innings of work. Clyde De Witt got the win with a ninth inning assist from Loyal Bloxam.

The game ended on a hectic note in the ninth. Pinch runner Ed Hobaugh tried to steal home and was tagged for the out that ended the ball game.

Winona got away to a one-run lead in the first inning without the help of a base hit. Jerry Kindall led off with a walk, stole second and went to third after the catch on Bob Hastings' fly ball. He scampered home while Jack Triplett was being returned on an infield ground ball.

Fairmont came back in the second inning to tie it up. Hank Workman led off with a single, bided his time while Herb Rastine and Jim King were striking out, and then raced around to the plate on Emil Restaino's hit-and-run double.

Three straight singles by Bill Leach, Al Radsavage and Burt Tracy put the Chiefs out in front in the fourth, and the 2-1 advantage held up until the sixth.

Shraake ran headlong into trouble in that inning. He gave up a lead-off single to Don Dahlke and Bill Spaeter followed with a double to left-center. Grady Wilson drove a walk to load the bases with none away and Workman's single to left plated Dahlke with the tying run.

That was all for Shraake and Felker took over on the hill.

He got Banton to force Spaeter at the plate for the first out, but with Jim King at the plate, Gleason uncorked his wild throw and two more runs came in.

Felker then walked King and Restaino to load the bases again before getting another out at the plate and fielding a ground ball for the final out.

The Chiefs threatened full-scale retaliation in their half of the seventh. Sid Langston led off with a single and Gleason's second double of the night moved him around to third.

Felker bounced out with the runners holding and then Langston scored after the catch of Kindall's long fly to left.

That was all the scoring, but Winona did make one final effort in the ninth. With one out Langston and Gleason drove successive walks and De Witt left the mound in favor of Bloxam. Tom McDevitt batted for Felker and struck out with Hobaugh, running for Langston, moving to third and Gleason taking second when the catcher dropped the third strike.

Kindall was at the plate when Hobaugh broke for home and was tagged out to ring down the curtain.

Rookies Virdon, Arroyo May Be Best in National

By JOE REICHLER

The Associated Press

If St. Louis outfielder Bill Virdon doesn't win the National League Rookie of the Year award, his teammate, pitcher Luis Arroyo, will. Anyway, it's almost a cinch to be in the Cardinal show.

Virdon was the whole show yesterday as the Cardinals swept both ends of a double-header for the first time this year, walloping the New York Giants 9-2 and 7-2. The bespectacled center fielder batted in six runs with a single, two doubles, a triple and home run to boost his average to .324.

Saturday night, Arroyo whipped the Giants for his ninth victory against two losses (both by one-run margins). The Puerto Rican southpaw leads all National League hurlers with a brilliant 2.01 earned run average. A couple of American League rookies — New York's Elston Howard and Cleveland's Herb Score — boosted their stock as the Yankees increased their first-place lead to three games with a split against the Indians. Howard singled and scored the insurance run as the Yankees shut out the Indians 2-0 behind Whitey Ford's four-hitter in the nightcap. Early Wynn furnished the Indians with their only victory in the four-game set with a fifty-three-hit 5-0 performance in the opener.

Score worked five relief innings in the nightcap and pitched brilliantly. He permitted only one hit, walked two and struck out nine in five innings to boost his strike-out ratio to 120.

The Yankees picked up a full game on the runner-up Chicago White Sox, who saw their five-game winning streak go up in smoke after losing two games to Boston 5-2 and 8-2.

Kansas City handed Baltimore its sixth and seventh straight defeats with 1-0 and 5-2 triumphs. Washington snapped its nine-game losing streak with a smashing 12-4 victory over Detroit after the Tigers had come from behind to win the opener 6-4 in 10 innings.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' huge first-place lead in the National League was cut slightly when Milwaukee shut them out 4-0 behind Bob Buhl's five-hitter. The runner-up Chicago Cubs advanced to within 1 1/2 games of the Brooks, splitting their double-header with Pittsburgh. The Pirates won the opener 5-4 but the Cubs bounced back with a 2-1 victory to retain a half-game lead over the third-place Braves.

Cincinnati climbed to within one percentage point of the fourth-place Giants, knocking off the Philadelphia Phillies twice, 16-5 and 5-0. The Reds made short work of Robin Roberts with three-run rallies in the first and second

Hobaugh Loser By 4-2 Count Against Martins

By RALPH REEVE

Daily News Sports Editor

A pair of unearned runs in the ninth inning cost the Winona Chiefs a 4-2 defeat Saturday night at Gabrych Park before a crowd of 1,710 mourners.

Three costly miscues helped break open what had been a tight pitching duel between Winona's Eddie Hobaugh and Fairmont's Loyal Bloxam.

Hobaugh, bidding for his third victory without a loss, absorbed the defeat. The young Michigan State fireballer nevertheless pitched a good game.

He gave up nine hits, walked only three and struck out two.

But for the third inning when Hobaugh gave up four hits for two runs, he was master of the situation.

He retired the side in order in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings and through one stretch got 13 of 14 batters out. Bloxam proved even stingier than Hobaugh. Winona got only six hits off the former Western League star, two of them by second baseman Tom McDevitt.

Bloxam had five strikeouts and four walks and pitched himself out of several potential jams, including in the seventh inning when the Chiefs loaded the bases with only one out.

Both the Winona tallies scored off Bloxam were likewise unearned.

The Chiefs got one in the first when Jerry Kindall went all the way to second on Fairmont centerfielder Emil Restaino's boot of his high fly.

Kindall scored on Jack Triplett's single.

In the fourth inning Al Radsavage doubled down the left field line with one out. After George Gleason popped up, Tom McDevitt lived when Bloxam threw high to the second baseman covering on McDevitt's slow roller.

Radsavage came all the way around on the play and Fairmont second sacker Dahlke's toss to catcher Joe Colasinski sailed wildly, moving McDevitt to second. Hobaugh bounced out for the third out, however.

That tied the game at 2-2 as Fairmont had tallied twice in the top of the fourth on bases-empty homers by Don Dahlke and Grady Wilson.

Winona rightfielder Sid Langston helped prevent further scoring by throwing Bill Spaeter out at second base when Spaeter attempted to advance on a single to the scoreboard.

The game moved along without further scoring until the ninth although Winona threatened in the seventh. McDevitt beat out a bunt to open the inning, advanced on a wild pitch and took third when Kindall singled after Hobaugh popped up on an attempted bunt.

Jack Triplett was intentionally walked to fill the bases, bringing up the righthanded hitting Burt Tracy. Fairmont's strategy worked as Bloxam struck out Tracy and got Langston on an infield ground-er.

In the Fairmont ninth, leadoff batter Emil Restaino was retired, but Colasinski gained base when his grounder to second went through McDevitt.

Bloxam grounded to McDevitt but Colasinski was safe on the attempted force when Kindall dropped McDevitt's throw. Dahlke then singled Colasinski home and after Spaeter flied out, another run scored when Kindall dropped Grady Wilson's line drive.

Next batter, Hank Workman, singled to right field but Dahlke's attempt to score was snuffed out when Langston threw to Gleason at home in time to catch Dahlke between third and home on a run-down.

Winona threatened mildly in the last of the ninth. Len Swartz, pinch-hitter for Hobaugh's stricken out, but Bob Hastings walked in a pinch-hit role for Kindall. Triplett forced Hastings at second, however, and Tracy struck out to end the game.

PLAY BALL!

Mantle Stresses Backing Up Plays

By MICKEY MANTLE

Yankee Center Fielder

(This is the first of six Play Ball stories written by American League stars especially for AP Newsfeatures.)

NEW YORK — This is my fourth season in center field and I'm still learning to play the position. When I came up to the Yankees in 1951 I played right field. The following spring, after Joe DiMaggio retired, I worked out in center at the St. Petersburg training camp.

It never mattered to me where I played as long as I played.

One of the important things about playing center field, or any outfield position, is that you must back up both the other outfielders when fly balls, or even ground balls, are hit their way. If one of them misses the ball there's always the chance that backing up the play will prevent runner from taking an extra base.

On all second base throws made by the pitcher or catcher the center fielder should back up the play. You've got to be ready, too, on pick-off plays that involve second base.

The hardest play for a center fielder, or any outfielder, is the line drive hit directly at the fielder. The ball may fall short or it may go over his head. Judgment is important, and one of the biggest things about playing the outfield is that you must learn to get a jump on all batted balls.

You've got to think before the ball is hit. When it's hit to you it's your job to know where to throw the ball.

Many outfielders run with their backs to the plate on balls hit over their heads. Willie Mays and Duke Snider play the long ball that way. When a ball is hit over my head I run after it while trying to watch the flight of the ball. I never try to catch a ball with my back to the plate. My advice on balls hit over your head is to go after the ball the best way you know how.

On ground balls with a man on first base you must run in fast in the hopes of getting the runner going to third base. Nearly every time, on a base hit to center or right field, the runner on first will head for third.

To make this play to third base requires perfect timing. That comes only after much practice. But if you get a good jump on the ball and can throw well on the play to third base the play will be close all the time.

Learning the hitters by watching how they hit certain pitchers in the early part of a game can be very valuable later in the game. Knowing their hitting habits will give you an idea on where to play them.

With the exception of Fairmont's two-game sweep of its series with Winona, all of the Southern Minny teams split in games over the weekend.

Faribault retained its league lead by winning 9-1 at Mankato Sunday night after losing to the Merchants 12-2 Saturday night at Faribault.

In the game Saturday night, Mankato pitcher Johnny Herr gave up 11 hits but proved tough with men on.

Biggest support came from teammate Kent Pfisterer who belted a three-run homer in the seventh.

The Lakers retaliated Sunday as Don Taylor drove in five runs on a pair of round-trippers before 1,682 fans at Mankato. Vic Stryska won his fifth game without loss for Faribault and snapped a two-game losing streak.

Albert Lea and Rochester remained tied for second, half a game behind Faribault.

The Royals lost 10-7 to Waseca-Owatonna before a crowd of 1,202 fans Saturday night at Rochester.

Art Seguso and Augie Schlarf hit two-run homers for the Twins and Fred Hancock connected with one man aboard in the ninth for Rochester.

The Royals broke loose with four home runs Sunday night to ruin the Twins' bid before 941 fans at Owatonna. Tom Neill accounted for three Rochester runs with two homers. Andy Anderson hit a three-run clout in the fifth and Fred Hancock homered with none on in the sixth.

Waseca-Owatonna Manager Bob Balance hit a leadoff homer in the fifth. After the game, Rochester pitcher Ted Edmunds got his walking papers. He was hit freely in Saturday night's loss.

Austin, after losing 16-11 Saturday night at Albert Lea, came back and took a 4-3 victory in front of the home folks Sunday night.

In the Saturday game, Albert Lea scored 10 runs in the first inning, sparked by Manager Bill Ankovski's grand slam home run. Mike Sichenko homered in the fifth and John Sivinski added a circuit clout with two on in the seventh for the winners.

Bill Jennings and Frank Brown blasted roundtrippers for Austin Saturday night and Jennings followed that up by driving in three runs during Austin's Sunday night triumph.

Millers Divide Bill With Toledo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo broke Minneapolis' six-game win streak Sunday in the first game of a twin bill, 4-1, but was overpowered 11-3 in the nightcap as the American Association leaders took the crucial series three games to one.

The league's two other first division clubs also split, with Omaha taking the second game 4-1 behind Stu Miller after Louisville won the opener 4-0 on R. W. Smith's four hits.

In other action, Denver outthrew Indianapolis 8-5 and 8-4 while last place Charleston took two from St. Paul, 8-2 and 3-2.

Just a week ago, Minneapolis was staggering under a long losing skid and runner-up Toledo was only a half game out of first. But Monday, the Millers held a four-game edge on Omaha and a 6½-game bulge on Toledo, now third.

Louisville beat Omaha ace, Willard Schmidt, an 11-game winner, in the first contest of three singles, a walk, two errors and a sacrifice in the fourth. That netted three runs, and Bob Gernert homered off reliever Memo Luna for the final tally.

Denver, a New York Yankee affiliate, used the parent's big inning formula for its twin wins. The Bears scored five times in the sixth inning of the seven-inning opener and five more in the opening frame of the full length second game.

Jack Urban, usually called on in relief, won the first game as a starter. He gave up 10 hits, but Denver got 14 off Marion Fricano and Dave Hoskins. Rip Coleman allowed 13 hits, but the Indians in the second game.

Charleston, long the league doormat, got stout hitting from Clyde Vollmer and Vern Rapp for its double win over seventh place St. Paul. Rapp drove in all three runs in the nightcap after Vollmer got a triple, double and single to lead the way in the opener.

Vito Valentini went all the way for the first game win, but Floyd Melliore needed help in the final inning of the nightcap.

Sam Jones, no-hit pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, is a former member of the Cleveland Buckeyes of the Negro American League.

L'IL ABNER

DENNIS THE MENACE

"WHATTA YA MEAN MY LEGS ARE TOO SHORT? THEY BOTH TOUCH THE GROUND, DON'T THEY?"

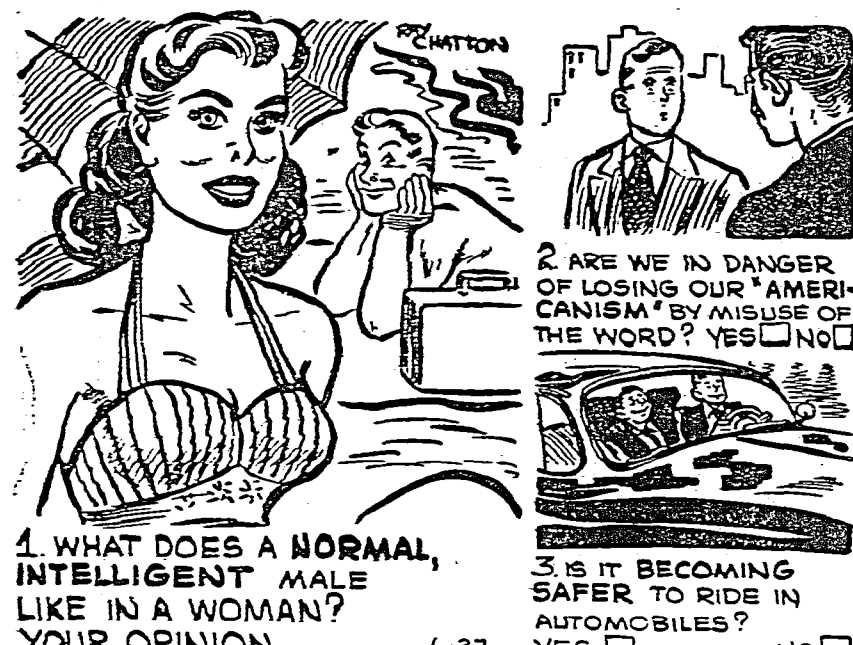

LAFF-A-DAY

"You're a witness, dear. He was standing right in the middle of the street."

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGUM, D. Sc.

1. WHAT DOES A NORMAL, INTELLIGENT MALE LIKE IN A WOMAN? YOUR OPINION.

2. ARE WE IN DANGER OF LOSING OUR "AMERICANISM" BY MISUSE OF THE WORD? YES OR NO?

3. IS IT BECOMING SAFER TO RIDE IN AUTOMOBILES? YES OR NO?

Answer to Question No. 1
1. The five-year Stanford Marriage Study showed that men simply won't stand for a slovenly woman—tousled hair, slip showing, smeared lipstick, crooked stockings, run-over heels, etc. They dislike equally the show-off who thinks her figure is all men want in a wife. A man likes a woman who is cheerful, enthusiastic, interested in his interests, sympathetic, neither too much of a learner nor too self-sufficient.

Answer to Question No. 2
2. Yes, Dr. Wilfred Funk relates in "Word Origins and Their Romantic Stories" that Warren Harding campaigned on one word: Americanism. A reporter asked, "What do you mean by Americanism?" Harding replied, "I haven't the slightest idea, but it's a darned good word to win an election." Many subversive organizations claim they are for "Americanism." If we don't keep our heads and define our terms, we may be deceived into losing what we prize as "Americanism"—because the word works as well for un-Americans as for Americans.

Answer to Question No. 3
3. Yes, twice as safe as 15 years ago. The "Iowa Driving Bulletin" says the American auto driver has piled up billions of travel miles in that time, yet the death rate has been cut in half per 1,000 miles driven. The death rate is now 7.3 per one hundred thousand miles; it was formerly 15. The bulletin also states that American drivers are far and away the safest in the world. This doesn't mean the death and accident rate could not easily be cut another half or three-fourths.

THE GRAB BAG

THE ANSWER, QUICK!

1. For what historical event is Runnymede known?
2. How old was Mohandas K. Gandhi when he was assassinated in 1948?
3. Which is the Magnolia state?
4. Where is the Hall of Fame for Great Americans?

HOW'D YOU MAKE OUT?
1. It was the scene of the signing of Britain's Magna Carta, 1215.
2. Seventy-eight.
3. Mississippi.
4. On the campus of New York University, New York, N.Y.

Use curly parsley in salads, sandwich fillings, cold meat and fish dishes and as a garnish. Use the minced Italian-type parsley in foods that are being cooked.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By MARGARET LATROBE

Happy Birthday, Helen Keller. Will you wear a yellow dress today—for your 75th birthday—the color which is to you "like the sun"? Or will you wear pink—"sweet and endearing, like a baby's cheek or a soft southern breeze"? Or blue, so you will "feel like God's wide blue sky"? Please wear the yellow dress, Miss Keller, for you and not it are like the sun—radiant and warm, lighting the world for those who never saw, as well as for us who have eyes but remain unseeing.

It was 73 years ago when illness took sight and hearing from a little girl. With them went the sealed-off speech. And for five years a half-wild creature tyrannized her family who hopelessly endured and cared for her. What kind of world must that have been for the child called Helen Keller?

But then, when she was seven, that world changed for the deaf, dumb and blind girl. Anne Sullivan, "Teacher," came into her life and stayed 49 years. Miss Keller remembers the day: "I heard approaching footsteps. I stretched out my hand as I supposed to my mother. Someone took it and I was caught up and held close in the arms of her who had come to reveal all things to me."

After Miss Sullivan's death, Polly Thomson became teacher, companion, friend to Miss Keller. There are many lessons we may learn from the life of Helen Keller, who now speaks seven languages, who reads the Bible each morning as she sits cross-legged on the floor of her study, whose books are printed in 50 languages, who loves bright colors which she has never seen except with her own special kind of sight, who had traveled five times around the world, whose friends are everywhere, who would love just to "window shop"—if she could.

The lesson which seems most important is this: The value of "Teacher." What cannot teaching do for us who see and hear and speak, if it can penetrate the depths of a child's mind completely cut off from the world except through the sense of touch?

We can do nothing for Helen Keller—she has had a full and beautiful life and means to keep right on living, "seeing," "hearing," and touching the world she has learned to love. But we can think a little about "Teacher," all teachers, and wonder if perhaps they have not achieved a special significance through the work of Anne Sullivan and Polly Thomson, who brought light and life and a yellow dress to one who was imprisoned. What might they not bring us, who see and hear—if we listened.

'Generous Employer' Leaves for Iceland

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Henry Brosius leaves by plane today for Iceland, as good a way as any to escape the hordes who want to follow him for fat-salaried jobs. Brosius, a safety engineer, has been besieged ever since the Greensboro Daily News carried his want ad for high-paid aides to help build Iceland air bases for NATO countries. He finally had to call on an employment agency to handle his dozens of applicants so he could finish packing.
