SHOOTING SUSPECT CAUGHT . . . William Doty, 19, natless youth in center, is held by police after tear gas pumped into his house brought about his arrest on suspicion of wounding three persons. Doty, police said, wounded Dr. Sheldon Reed, visiting nearby, and hit two police officers with shotgun blasts fired from his mother's home. Police said the youth apparently went berserk. He muttered the name, "Karen," when he was taken. (AP Photofax)

Youth Seized After Shots Wound Three

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Some 200 random shots echoed through a quiet south Minneapolis neighborhood late Thursday, apparently aimed at any moving target —

Passing-cars were pinked by small caliber rifle bullets.

Birdshot from a shotgun peppered sides of houses.

Shots greeted an elderly woman

picking up the newspaper from her front porch.

At first, residents thought it was some youngster trying out a firearm he got for Christmas.

These ideas quickly were dispelled when Dr. Sheldon C. Reed, 35, an obstetrician, stepped out of his mother's house.

Dr. Reed ran into Donald A. Nelson, 40, an off-duty police inspector who lives in the area. The officer and the doctor compared notes.

"They were just standing there when two more shots rang out and both my husband and the policeman went down," said Mrs. Reed. She had been watching from a window.

The shots were traced to the home of Mrs. Marie Doty at 4917 Newton Ave. S.

Within minutes, police squad cars began arriving with an eventual 100 officers — all warned or driven into cover immediately by the haphazard firing from various windows of the Doty house.

Carl Pearson, 42, another deputy inspector, directed a wartime-like deployment of police about the Doty home — until he, too, was felled by a blast of birdshot, as had been Dr. Reed and Nelson.

Firing from the shelter of squad cars, trees, retaining walls and the sides of nearby houses, officers smashed out the Doty windows with bullets, then lobbed in a tear gas barrage.

After an hour and with the shooting subsided, Sgt. Ben Soule broke out a basement window of the modest home. With the aid of his flashlight, he spotted William Doty, 19, sitting on the basement floor. The youth, nursing a wounded leg amid a veritable pall of gas was taken into custody.

After firemen had been called to pump and blow out the gas accumulation, police reported they found almost the entire house in disorder.

Soule reported the youth, a University of Minnesota freshman, had called out: "I won't give you up, Karen; Karen, save me," as the officers collared him.

The Karen referred to was believed to be a former girl friend of Doty's now attending a college outside of the state.

Police identified Karen as Karen Aaker, 19, a freshman at Luther College in Decorah, Iowa. The girl said she had never dated Doty or even associated with him "except to say hello in the hall" when they attended the same high school.

"He never asked me for a date," Karen said. "I don't know why he wanted to talk to me."

Soule said a veritable arsenal of weapons — rifles, shotguns, pistols and knives — was found strewn about the house.

Questioned by a General Hospital psychiatrist on his reason for undertaking such a berserk rampage, Doty answered:

"Ask the Lord."

"I guess he thought he was in heaven," said Dr. William Jepson, the psychiatrist. Doty was being held without charge but under police guard for further observation.

Nelson and Pearson were in fair condition at the same hospital, as was Dr. Reed at Northwestern Hospital.

Clay Bringing New Report From Berlin

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay will fly here from West Berlin this weekend to confer with President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Berlin problems.

One purpose of the conference presumably is to discuss reported operational differences between U.S. officials in West Berlin and policymakers in Washington.

Clay is reported to have registered an objection with Rusk last month against instructions which sharply limit the freedom of action of the U.S. command in Berlin in dealing with a possible East German uprising along the East Berlin border wall.

High U.S. officials claim any differences between Clay and the administration are relatively minor in comparison with what they assert is basic agreement among Clay, Kennedy and Rusk on U.S. policy in Berlin.

Other informed authorities confirmed, however, that some differences do exist. Specifically, they say Clay feels strongly Washington cannot anticipate all possible emergencies which may arise and that authorities on the scene should have some power of action in such cases without waiting for detailed decisions from Washington.

From the administration's point of view, informants said, the problem is primarily one of deciding often at the White House level what action might be taken to serve long-range U.S. policy purposes. Moreover, officials said there is a constant need to consult with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, particularly Britain, France and West Germany, and thus make sure of a coordinated response to any dangerous situation or new Communist challenge.

Clay is Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin. He was the top American official in Germany at the time of the 1949-49 Communist blockade and his assignment to West Berlin by the President last summer was designed in part as a reassurance to the West Berliners that the United States intended to stand firm in their defense.

State Department officials said Clay's return to Washington for consultation had been planned for a week or more and was not related to the publication Wednesday of reports he had objected to instructions which in his view limited too severely the freedom of action of the U.S. military commander in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson.

Minuteman On Target

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Minuteman intercontinental-range missile roared out of an underground pit today and successfully hit a target 3,600 miles down the Atlantic range.

It was the third straight underground launching success for the pushbutton solid-propellant weapon which is scheduled to be operational next summer.

The Air Force reported all test objectives were achieved. Major goals were over-all performance of the three-stage vehicle and to measure temperature, pressures, acoustics, vibration and shock effects of the subterranean firing on the rocket.

TRAIL BY HALF YEAR

Russia Believed Behind U.S. In ICBM Program

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence specialists believe the Soviet Union will trail the United States by about half a year in getting an advanced intercontinental ballistic missile ready for combat.

Informed sources said today the latest estimate is that the first such Soviet ICBM will be ready in early 1963.

The first solid-fuel Minuteman, this country's most advanced ICBM, is due to become operational this summer.

Updated intelligence information also indicates the Soviets, by pressing, may have three Polaris-type missile firing submarines by the end of this year. None has been seen so far.

The United States now has six nuclear powered submarines, each capable of firing 16 Polaris missiles deep into the Soviet Union. A seventh submarine is due to be commissioned in three weeks.

Before the end of this year the U.S. fleet will have a total of nine Polaris subs—mounting 144 missiles.

The most recent intelligence estimates were believed to have been discussed by President Kennedy and top U.S. military leaders at meetings in Palm Beach, Fla., earlier this week.

Kennedy administration officials have felt for some time that the United States has an edge over the Soviets in deep-striking missiles.

The new intelligence estimates, sources said, point to a widening margin in favor of the United States when the Minutemen start coming along in numbers next year.

The most recent intelligence evaluations, sources said, credit the Soviets with what were called "startlingly few" liquid fuel ICBMs in place. They said the Soviets have three or four fewer than the United States, which has replaced 45 liquid fuel Atlas ICBMs.

During the 1960 presidential campaign Democrats contended a

Germany Hails Adenauer on 86th Birthday

BONN, Germany (AP) — The usually sedate and quiet chancellor of West Germany echoed today with laughter and the clink of champagne glasses—Konrad Adenauer was celebrating his 86th birthday.

Amid hundreds of well wishers stood the world's oldest government chief, smiling, in obviously good spirits and not looking a day over 70.

As in past years, aides "confided" to reporters that it took a lot of talking to get Adenauer to stay away from his desk, where he still spends 10 to 12 hours a day, just as he did 12 years ago when he first took up the reins of government of the West German Federal Republic.

Adenauer left his home at the small village of Rhodorf across the Rhine River shortly after 7 a.m. and drove to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Bonn. There, as in past years, he attended a special Mass celebrated by his son, Paul, and then had breakfast with the nuns.

In the chancellor's office, Adenauer was met by his family—four sons, three daughters and 21 grandchildren. Their congratulatory kisses off the nine-hour birthday party.

His personal aide, Hans Globke, conveyed the best wishes of the chancellor staff. Deputy Chancellor Ludwig Erhard led Cabinet members congratulating Adenauer. They gave the chancellor a stone bench for his garden.

Katanga Leaders Study Treaty

By ADRIAN PORTER
ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — The Katanga Assembly today begins closed sessions to study the pact President Moise Tshombe signed pledging to end the province's secession.

The Assembly split into foreign affairs and political commissions to have secret discussions after Tshombe raised objections to two key provisions of the agreement he signed last month with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula at Kitona.

A spokesman said the commission would meet in secret for the next day or two.

Only 35 of the 72 members of the Assembly showed up for the first session Thursday, and only 9 of the 25 anti-Tshombe members from the Baluba tribe were among them. An Assembly spokesman suggested that the United Nations bring opposition deputies who had taken refuge in Leopoldville to Elisabethville immediately.

Without asking the deputies in so many words to reject the Katanga agreement, Tshombe objected to the first and last of its eight provisions. In the first, he had accepted the Congo's provisional constitution, which makes Katanga a province under the control of the central government. In the last, he pledged to respect and help enforce U.N. resolutions, which call for an end of Katanga's secession and expulsion of the Katanga government's foreign military officers.

In fulfillment of another clause of the Katanga agreement, Katanga delegates began meeting in Leopoldville Thursday with central government officials to discuss revision of the Congo constitution. The Katangans were expected to insist on confederation and provincial autonomy, and it was assumed the negotiations would continue for many weeks.

Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the neighboring Rhodesia-Nyasaland Federation, meanwhile rejected a request by U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant to post U.N. observers in Northern Rhodesia to guard against shipments of arms to Katanga.

Welensky, a supporter of Tshombe, invited Thant to make a personal survey to "correct misunderstandings regarding both our federal policy and the position on the frontier as Northern Rhodesia and Katanga." The prime minister previously had denied U.N. charges that supplies had been reaching Tshombe's forces through Rhodesia.

Snow, Sleet, Strong Winds In Wide Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow, freezing rain and sleet peppered much of the central section of the nation today, slowing or stopping traffic and closing many schools.

North winds carried a cold wave deeper into the northern half of the country, pushing temperatures under the zero mark in many communities.

Freezing rain coated most of lower Michigan. Schools were closed and traffic was brought to a standstill in Lansing, East Lansing and some other cities. Many accidents occurred on outstate freeways and expressways.

A snowstorm swept across Iowa from the northwest. Several schools in the southwestern part of the state canceled classes.

Winds up to 73 m.p.h. blasted across the Texas Panhandle and whipped snow into the Vernon and Chillicothe areas near the Red River. Chillicothe reported 5 inches of snow on the ground.

The near-blizzard conditions reduced visibility to zero at 6 a.m. in Chillicothe, but the storm eased up later. Many trucks pulled off highways, particularly U.S. 287, because the drivers could not see. The wind blew down some power lines in Amarillo.

Sleet and snow hindered morning rush hour traffic in Kansas City, where the Weather Bureau predicted an accumulation of 10 inches by nightfall.

Snow was scattered along a cold front that extended early in the day from Michigan southwestward to Texas. Freezing rain fell in some areas near the front as it moved eastward.

Strong northerly winds churned up an inch of snow in eastern Nebraska.

Fog cut visibility to an eighth of a mile at Meigs Field on Chicago's lake front, and it was closed to incoming planes.

Icy roads closed several schools in northern New York State.

The mercury plunged to -19 in Bernick, Minn., -17 in Grand Forks, N.D., -11 in Greenville, Maine, -9 in Caribou, Maine, -7 in Burlington, Vt., -8 in Massena, N.Y., -1 in Watertown, Albany and Troy, N.Y.

Boston had 11 above.

South of the snow and sleet belt, some sections were hit by rain. McComb, Miss., was drenched by almost three inches and Baton Rouge, La., by almost two inches in six hours. Thunderstorms loomed over eastern Oklahoma and nearby areas in Arkansas and Missouri.

Cold weather, with readings in the teens and 20s, covered the Rockies while eastward they were zero and lower along the northern border to the 60s in the west Gulf Coast and the extreme southern tip of Florida and the 40s and 50s on the east Gulf Coast. Mild weather prevailed in most of the Southeast in the wake of chilly temperatures earlier this week.

In the West, the 30s and 40s spread along the Pacific Coast except for 50s and a few 60s in extreme Southern California and the southwest desert region. The 20s were reported in the Plateau States.

American Aid Program Set For Dominicans

By LARRY OSIUS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Removal of diplomatic and economic sanctions against the Dominican Republic has triggered quick action to relieve the Caribbean island's ailing economy.

A vote by the council of the Organization of American States Wednesday to remove sanctions cleared the way for an immediate increase in the amount of sugar which the United States buys—at high prices—from the Dominican Republic.

The vote was 20-0 with Cuba abstaining on grounds that removal of sanctions was a U.S. plot to establish a puppet Dominican regime. The OAS decision set off a series of moves by the United States and Latin-American nations to resume normal diplomatic and economic relations with the island republic.

President Joaquin Balaguer said the OAS action will lead to "opening the doors to great possibilities on the economic front."

Balaguer, head of a compromise council of government established last Monday, reaffirmed he will step down as head of government before the end of next month. He had vowed to quit if the sanctions were removed.

The sanctions were voted in 1960 after an inter-American foreign ministers meeting in Costa Rica. The late Dominican dictator, Rafael L. Trujillo, was im-

Strike Settled, New York Gets Bus Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Full bus service was restored to New York City today following settlement of a strike of 6,800 drivers and maintenance workers that had stalled the two largest private lines since New Year's Day.

The four-day bus strike—the city's first in nine years—was settled Thursday when both sides agreed to a settlement proposed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The Transport Workers Union agreed to a one-year contract instead of two-year pact it had signed last week with five other private bus lines.

For its part, the Fifth Avenue Coach Lines Inc. and its subsidiary, Surface Transit Inc., gave the employees election day as a paid holiday to make up for the New Year's holiday they lost because of the strike.

The two lines collect 1.3 million fares a day in the Bronx and Manhattan.

Army Reduces Draft Call for February, March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced today a sharp cut in draft calls for the next two months because the Army has reached its buildup goal.

This was the lowest since last July, just before the U.S. began building up its military strength in the face of Russian threats to push the West out of Berlin.

The January call was 15,000. The Pentagon said that as a result of higher draft calls and other actions the "strength objective of the Army, including provisions for manning the two new Army divisions, has now been reached."

Since the start of the buildup, the announcement said, there has been more than a 20 per cent improvement in enlistments. Half of the total manpower gains during the buildup have been from inductions, it said.

This did not include the call to active service of 119,000 Army National Guardsmen and reservists.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Writing Practice Helps Spelling

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Did you know that you have three vocabularies—one for reading, one for speaking and one for writing?

They are never the same and the one that lies the farthest behind is your writing vocabulary.

Recognizing words when you read them is one thing. Saying them is another. And writing them is something else because, for one reason, writing involves your knowledge of spelling.

Not long ago someone complained to me:

"When I write I must continuously substitute words which I can spell for the ones I'd really like to use. The result is completely unsatisfactory."

IT IS EASY to see how searching for words would interrupt the flow of thought. This is the reason many students dislike writing themes and book reports. This is the reason they may have difficulty with even a simple letter after they have left school.

This situation is not, however, hopeless. I have a solution to recommend. In a reasonably short time you will be able to gain the assurance of one who spells well.

The real secret lies in learning to spell the words you would normally use. Concentrate on learning to spell your words rather than someone else's. Don't waste your time learning how to spell "abracadabra" or "aspindistra."

Write a theme for school, or a letter to Aunt Daphne and say what you want to say, ignoring the matter of correct spelling. Write just as though you were talking.

Now check your theme or letter for misspellings. Perhaps you can even have someone help you pick them out.

ARMED WITH a list of these words, use them as the basis for a handwriting exercise. String several of them together in a line and write and rewrite them, attempting to improve your handwriting, and at the same time learning to spell the words correctly. A dozen minutes spent in practicing handwriting with this group of words will tend to fix their spelling clearly in your mind.

When you rewrite the theme or the letter, you will discover happily that you are able to spell the words correctly.

Your biggest surprise will be the discovery that the number of words you spelled incorrectly was not very large; that the difference between believing yourself a poor speller and feeling that you are a fairly good speller hinges on a relatively small number of words.

I suggest that you repeat this process every day or so for two or three weeks. Then spelling no longer will be the limiting factor in your written vocabulary.

Continue this treatment as needed. After you have worked with a given subject for a semester, there will be no words relating to the subject which you would hesitate to use for fear of misspelling.

Marine Chief Wants Outfit A Little Sharper

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine commandant and crisp talking critic of the Corps, gave his annual word to the Marines Thursday.

Said he, in a message read to his staff and telegraphed to all Marine units around the world:

"The Corps' work was 'passing good' last year, superior marksmanship knocked out some bull's eyes, but for 'a few—Maggie's drawers!'"

(Note to non-leathernecks: "Maggie's drawers" is a red flag waved by target attendants in rule pits to indicate to a shooter that the last round he fired missed completely.)

The clean misses could have represented "bad range estimation on my part" in setting goals, but he still didn't like them.

Training is not all sitting in a chair, listening to lectures. "Get out into the kinds of geography in which you are likely to fight; get out into the rain, snow, cold and darkness to where you might have to do battle."

"I recently observed a training lecture in progress in a barracks. The platoon of Marines which was listening to their instructor talking about guerrilla tactics looked about as enthusiastic as weight-watching women waiting at the skim milk dispenser."

Fifty-plus per cent may satisfy some requirements. "There are those who draw salaries by battling only .333. But for Marines there can be only one goal—100 per cent."

He has "no trouble finding people to handle machines. The problem is to find people who can handle people. Concentrate on Marines. They'll handle the machines."

It is gratifying that increasing command attention is being given to combat intelligence. "However, there are too many of us who seem to hope for success in combat while operating in a black-sock atmosphere."

And finally "We will continue to teach fighting, but not hate." In an interview last fall, Shoup was asked what he thought about intensive troop orientation lectures on communism. He replied that teaching hate is not necessary, that Marines are taught only to fight whatever enemy the commander in chief designates.

How Would Edison Do In College?

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—If Thomas A. Edison were starting anew today, how would he do in college?

Dr. Carroll V. Newsom doubts Edison could even get into a modern engineering school.

"He wasn't a theoretical man," said Newsom, a veteran educator who retired Jan. 1 as president of New York University.

Newsom isn't too happy about what he considers an undue emphasis placed today on development of theoreticians.

He feels that the old "trial and error" method is still valuable, too, and oughtn't to be discouraged. "We're short on people who can 'play with hardware,'" he said.

These and some other partly stated beliefs were voiced by Newsom in an interview just before taking a new job as a vice president of Prentice-Hall, which publishes educational books.

Among the beliefs:

College today should be fitted to the student, rather than the student to the college. Tailor the teaching to the capability of the individual student, rather than force him to struggle through a traditional curriculum devised long ago and including courses the student doesn't need or want.

Ninety per cent of today's youngsters are fully capable of doing college work, and ought to have a chance. Many educators put the top figure at 50 per cent. Actually, only about 5 per cent now attend.

Parents should quit giving their children allowances and insist that they work for their spending money.

Youngsters themselves should be able to pay from one-half to two-thirds of the cost of their college education.

The time to start getting a boy or girl ready for college is at the age of nine.

Education has all but ignored something the nation needs the most. That is training people to think ahead, far ahead; to peer into the future and anticipate what man's needs will be. Thus the foundation can be laid now for providing them.

Newsom, nearing 58, has served 10 years at NYU, five as president. Before that he was associate commissioner of education for New York state, head of the mathematics department at Oberlin College in Ohio and held a similar post at the University of New Mexico.

County Tax Bill Hits Record

But Mill Rates Down Slightly In Few Areas

The Winona County personal and real property tax bill has climbed to a new high for 1962—$4,512,440. That's $300,846 more than the 1961 record $4,211,594.

However, despite the general upward tax trend, Winona County Auditor Richard Schoonover reported that one township had lower taxes for 1962 while one city and two villages had lower mill rates.

Taxes in Elba Township, which were $32,547 in 1961, declined $789 to $32,668 for 1962. Schoonover said Elba Township had made a $1,000 reduction in the road and bridge fund, reducing total township funds to $4,000 compared with $5,000 the previous year.

HERE ARE the declines in homestead mill rates for the three municipalities: St. Charles City, 1962, 199.12; 1961, 201.55, decline of 2.43. Lewiston, 1962, 211.35; 1961, 213.12, decline of 1.77. Dakota, 1962, 199.62; 1961, 200.54, decline of .92.

Homestead mill rates of the three municipalities declined apparently because of the decline in the state's homestead mill rate. This would cause a decline in homestead mill rates of municipalities whose actual rates were similar with the previous year's. The new state homestead mill rate is 6.39 — .45 under the previous year's 6.84. However, the state nonhomestead mill rate is up. The new rate is 15.51 — .14 more than the previous year's 15.65.

Winona city's new tax bill is $3,196,989. That's an increase of $174,656 over the 1961 bill of $3,022,333. The city's new homestead mill rate is 227.34 — 7.62 or 3.6 percent higher than the 1961 homestead mill rate of 219.52. The city's new nonhomestead mill rate is 226.46 — 9.93 or 4.5 percent higher than the 1961 rate of 216.53.

For the taxpayer, the perennial rise in taxes has the usual cause — the increasing cost of government.

THE TOTAL TAX bill for the county's townships is $1,158,588 for 1962 — $97,636 higher than the 1961 total of $1,060,952. The total tax bill for the county's cities and villages is $3,654,852 for 1962 — $203,210 higher than the 1961 total of $3,451,642.

Real estate taxes in the county (excluding light and power company taxes, the grain and coal taxes and special assessments) total $3,796,424. Personal property taxes (with the same exclusions) total $1,017,016. These two figures total $4,813,440.

The light and power taxes to be paid in the county total $19,800. Grain and coal taxes add another $2,574, and special assessments another $23,164, for a grand total of $45,538.

A comparison table showing how the tax money is distributed for 1962 and 1961 follows:

Ettrick Man Hurt Repairing Tire; Pinned by Truck

ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — Alfred Swenson, 62, South Beaver Creek farmer, suffered a broken leg Thursday night when he was pinned between two pickup trucks.

He was repairing a tire on his truck about 7 p.m. in front of the Whalen School, two miles east of here, Frank Howe of Ettrick and his 12-year-old son Leonard had stopped to assist him. Leonard and Swenson were jacking up the truck when they were both pinned by another pickup driven

CONCERNING THE TAX TABLE

All mill rates given here are homestead mill rates. To get the nonhomestead mill rate, simply add 9.12 to any 1962 figure and 7.01 to any 1961 figure.

The 1962 mill rates given for St. Charles city are for nonagricultural property. Agricultural property in St. Charles will be taxed at 174.12 for homestead property and 183.24 for nonhomestead property. The same procedure applies to Lewiston. Agricultural property will be taxed at 168.35 for homestead and 185.47 for nonhomestead.

The figures that show the total township taxes (in dollars) do include total school taxes for each township.

The township mill rates do not include the school rates. All townships cannot be included in the mill rates because all townships contain more than one school district. School district mill rates appear elsewhere on this page and should — in each case — be added to the total township rate, thus arriving at a total mill rate for an individual taxpayer living in a given township and school district.

Boy, 14, Admits Altura Burglary

A 14-year-old Altura boy, who left his shoes at the scene of an attempted burglary Wednesday evening, has admitted ransacking the home of Carl Sturgis, Altura. Sheriff George Fort said the boy will be turned over to juvenile authorities. The only thing missing from the Sturgis home is a pair of tennis shoes, which the boy denies taking. Sheriff Fort said the boy also will be questioned about the theft of $17 from the home of Mrs. Lloyd Schumacher, Altura, over the past weekend.

Sturgis told the sheriff and his deputies that he returned home about 6 p.m. Wednesday and heard someone upstairs. Near the side door he found a pair of shoes.

The youth has admitted entering the home and hearing Sturgis come in. He told Sheriff Fort that he opened an upstairs window, climbed out on the roof of a porch and dropped 12 feet to the ground. Then he fled — barefooted, according to the youth's story.

Sturgis said a pair of tennis shoes are missing. Apparently the boy took them.

The youth said he removed his shoes to be more quiet in case someone was home.

by "Bud" Brenengen of Ettrick when he collided with the rear of Swenson's truck.

Leonard was treated for bruises by a local doctor and released. Swenson, with a broken right leg and other injuries, was taken to a La Crosse hospital by ambulance.

From signed statements taken from Frog Island inhabitants and supported by polygraph (lie detector) examinations, police traced the following events leading up to Ives' death:

IVES APPEARED at Frog Island about 10 a.m. Saturday. He began drinking shortly thereafter with Gradel, who owns a shack on Frog Island, Alice P. Feehan of 653 Olmstead St., Robert Wildt and Burt Wildt and Burt share the shack in which the body of Ives, later was found.

About 4 p.m. Saturday the group started to leave the area to visit a local tavern. While climbing up a railway dike into the side of which a series of steps had been cut, the others found Ives was apparently so intoxicated he could not make the ascent. Ives slipped and fell.

The woman left Wildt entered the shack of Harry "Kokomo" Cisewski at the bottom of the path. Burt and Gradel assisted Ives back to Gradel's shack, helped by Wildt. There they removed some of Ives' clothing because he was snowy and wet.

Gradel said Ives stumbled around in his shack and bumped against a stove. Gradel objected to Ives "wrecking" his shack and the two scuffled. Both went outside, where Gradel admitted hitting Ives, who fell down. Then both reentered Gradel's shack.

THE FOUR continued drinking until Saturday evening. Then Burt and Wildt left, leaving Gradel and Ives alone. They went to bed.

About 3 a.m. Sunday, Gradel said Ives woke him up with a protest about the cold. Gradel noticed the stovepipe Ives had loosened earlier was damaged. Gradel got Burt and Wildt to help them fix the stovepipe. The four started drinking again.

About 10 a.m. Sunday Mrs. Feehan, who is divorced, returned and all five were later joined by Irvin Langford, 110 High Forest St. When Langford left about 12:30

Jaycees to Collect Yule Trees Sunday

The Winona Junior Chamber of Commerce will conduct its annual Christmas Tree Lift starting at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Trees to be collected should be left on the boulevard. There is no charge. However, any donations received will be used to finance Jaycee community projects.

The trees will be burned at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the junction of Highways 43 and 61. The public is invited.

21,520 Use City Rinks

Total attendance at Winona's skating rinks was about 21,520 by Jan. 1, the city park-recreation department announced.

Five land rinks opened Dec. 14 and the Lake Winona rink Dec. 24.

Attendance follows: East Center, 9,005; Athletic Park, 5,510; Lake Winona, 5,175; Arthur C. Thurlay Homes, 900; Belmont Pond, 540, and Glen-Vue, 360. The last three are estimated.

Junior hockey instruction has been in progress two weeks at the Athletic Park and East Center hockey rinks. Leagues have been organized and play will start Monday. A hockey rink for informal play is being set up at Lake Winona and South Main street.

Hockey attendance at Athletic Park totaled 897 with 146 spectators. The East Center rink had 653.

Kenneth Meinke, 754 W. 4th St., is in charge of the Athletic Park hockey program, and Bud Lande, 508 Chaffin St., at the East rink.

Two children's sled slides are in use, one near the Lake Park Lodge, the other at Thurlay Playground. Estimated attendance at the Lake slide from Dec. 14 to Jan. 1 was 165, and at Thurlay 65.

GRADEL TOLD Ives to leave. Ives wouldn't. Gradel then pushed Ives out onto the back porch, where Ives fell down. Gradel continued pushing Ives. Police said Gradel orally admits following Ives outside and hitting him. This was about 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Gradel threw Ives' jacket and belt outside and locked the door. Ives was barefooted, dressed only in shirt and pants, in sub-freezing weather.

An ice fisherman, Norman G. Fried, 215 Harvester St., wearing a parka, found Ives sitting before the shack and pulled him over to the Wildt-Burt shack. Ives stood up and walked inside, then fell down again. Ives appeared to be intoxicated, not injured, Fried said. Ives fell down inside.

FRIED PLACED a cover over Ives, since he could not get him out of the shack. Wildt was asked for the other bed. Fried said Ives told him he did not need any further help.

Winona County's 1961 tax levy (payable in 1962) is the highest ever. For comparison, here are the levies in dollars in the county since 1951:

Year	Levy
1951	$2,948,691
1952	3,131,376
1953	3,428,797
1954	3,353,704

1959	4,438,309
1960	4,512,594
1961	4,813,440

Winona County's total valuation for 1962 taxes was $23,161,317 — an increase of $337,039 over the previous year's $22,824,278. County Auditor Richard Schoonover announced.

About two-thirds of the increase was in Winona city where the new valuation of $13,670,326 was $208,378 higher than the previous valuation of $13,461,948, mostly because of new building.

In all, nine cities and villages had increased valuations while three villages had lower valuations. Nine townships had higher valuations and 11 had lower.

Goodview village's valuation jumped $30,017 — $483,122 to the new total of $515,139.

St. Charles city had an increase of $14,654 — $864,637 to a new total of $869,291.

The municipality showing the biggest relative gain was Minneiska which expanded its limits from Wabasha County into Winona County because the Trunk Highway 61 improvement project had wiped out the village's business section in Wabasha County. Because a new business section has been established in Winona County, the village's valuation climbed more than 2½ times over the previous year's total. The new total is $16,905 compared with $4,246 the previous year.

Here's a comparison of 1962 and 1961 valuations in the county's townships, cities and villages:

It Happened Last Night What They'll All Do in '62

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Now that we're safely into 1962, I'll make my fearless forecasts. I wasn't going to make any predictions about '62 in '61, because, who knew there was really going to be a '62?

Johnny Carson, of course, will be the Jack Paar of '62. Hugh Downs will be the Hugh Downs of '62.

I say "of course" to give myself assurance. Last year this time I said Marilyn Monroe would make big TV news in '61 by doing "Rain." I was right — at right as rain — but she got sick and then NBC got sick and waiting around... and it all collapsed. It seems sure now that Carson will take the Paar spot and Hugh Downs for the time being, anyway, will go along at his side through the summer — starting around April — assuming certain little contractual problems with an other network can be ironed out for Carson.

And here are the other intrepid predictions for '62:

Ruby Wallace, who'll be 61 in '62, will become known for philanthropy — he gave 150 presents to the "How to Succeed" cast and crew, everything from fountain pens to vodka, and didn't even have his name inscribed on the vodka.

Jack Waldron foresees Fred Brison, producing the Jack Dempsey story, assigning the Dempsey role, obviously, to Raz Russell.

Composer Richard Rodgers' lyrics will be acclaimed (I'm serious now) after "No Strings" opens as "early Larry Hart" and the Hart collapsed as kids.

MIAMI BEACH'S coming up this winter with something revolutionary (Les Kramer hears): frozen orange juice — right off the trees. Desapio, Sharkey and Bob Wagner forces will move to N. J. and found a "N.Y. City Gov't. in Exile."

Bob Hope'll go down in history for his Goose Bay crack applying to all junkies and entertainers: "The personnel here is out of touch with things: every time you ring for Room Service, they send up FOOD!" Bob'll make a big TV Name out of Rosemary Frankland ("Miss World from Wales") on his Jan. 24 TV show.

Connie Francis will in '62 revise women's "mantle-tailored tuxedo look." She'll wear a tux jacket with braided skirt. Tailor Irving Heller says it's the first since Marlene Dietrich did it with pants.

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS'LL become "the Joe E. Lewis of the Playwrights." He dragged a bottle of Scotch along to do "Open End."

Tools Short, hit restaurateur of '62, won't forget Jackie Glen-

Texan Becomes Navy's New Civilian Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fred Korth, 52, Texan and a former assistant secretary of the army, became the Navy's new civilian boss today.

He was sworn in as Secretary of the Navy by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in a ceremony attended by the military high command, members of Congress and others.

McNamara, after administering the oath to Korth, told the gathering that the Defense Department and the nation were to be congratulated in getting "so experienced a public servant."

Korth was an assistant army secretary during the Harry S. Truman administration. He has been active in many civic and business organizations, and has been an official in a banking firm and a director in various corporations.

Korth succeeds John B. Connally, an ex-Texan, who resigned to seek nomination as the Democratic candidate for governor of Texas.

In response to McNamara's remarks, Korth said he was honored that President Kennedy and McNamara should have picked him for "this finest position of trust."

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

friend something to remember him by — the measles.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: We'll remember 1961 as the year in which taxes, living costs and women's skirts all went up — Irma Washout.

The average husband has to think twice before going out alone at night. First, he has to think of an excuse for going; then he has to think of a reason why he can't take his wife along... That's Earl, brother.

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

Lotus Planting

Winona is to have a new lotus bed near the Huff street bridge in Lake Winona. The Winona chapter of the Junior Outdoorsmen of America planted more than a thousand lotus seed pods in the mud bottom through the ice, with the cooperation of the Park-Recreation Board, Wednesday.

Pictured above is the planting operation, showing the methods used by the boys. Fifteen members of the organization worked on the detail. The two boys at the extremes of the picture, Richard Theile, without hat, and his brother Steve, wearing cap, are cutting holes through the 12-inch-thick ice. They are using fishermen's chisels to make the holes. More than 40 such holes were cut during the afternoon.

The two boys in the center, Jud Eilefeldt, seated, and Bruce Odell, are planting the seeds. They used a long pipe which they ran through the chopped hole to the mud below. The seed is inserted in the pipe and pushed down through it with a rod, about two inches into the soft unfrozen lake bottom mud.

Located in the shallow south corner of the lake next to the dike, the bed, if it grows, will give Winona a lotus bed that can be looked down upon from the roadway above, and at the same time provide cover for bass and crappie spawning beds and for the fingerlings after they are hatched.

Wildlife Assistance
For a number of years, conservationists have been complaining about the lack of aid in game and fish projects under various farm programs. The Soil Conservation Service was criticized for its failure to provide for wildlife and for encouraging drainage projects. "They drain duck marshes to put land into cultivation, and pay the farmers through the soil bank to take it out of cultivation."

Well, the following release from the Minnesota Conservation Department explains a new department program which can be helpful in satisfying this standard complaint:

"The Minnesota Conservation Department pointed out today that in 1962, for the first time, farmers are eligible to receive cost sharing assistance for practices directly beneficial to wildlife under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP)."

"The department's division of game and fish has worked with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), who administer the ACP Program, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Soil Conservation Service, and the Soil and Water Conservation Districts in developing desirable practices which will be eligible for cost sharing. As a result of this work, two wildlife practices have been included in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

"Practice G-1 provides for the establishment of vegetative cover and food for wildlife. Under the terms of this practice, landowners may receive cost sharing for the establishment of annual and perennial plants as well as trees and shrubs. Eligible plants under this phase of the program will be corn, oats, barley, and other crops for wildlife food, grasses and legumes for the establishment of nesting cover, and the establishment of trees and shrubs primarily for winter cover. No harvesting of food and cover plants will be permitted. The rate of cost sharing under this practice is $4 to $5 per acre for seeding and $1.75 to $2.50 per 100 for trees and shrubs.

"The G-2 practice is designed for the development or restoration of marsh areas for wildlife. It may be used to develop, create, restore, or improve wetland habitat for waterfowl, furbearers, or other wildlife. Level ditching, excavating, and dam construction are all covered by this practice. The practices will be planned and supervised by the Soil Conservation Service. The maximum federal cost share will be 50 percent of the cost not to exceed $2,000 per structure.

"The state and county ASCS offices will be promoting these new practices for the betterment of wildlife habitat throughout the state. Conservation Department game managers have also been instructed to encourage farmers to take advantage of these practices wherever possible. Landowners or operators may sign up for these practices at any time in their county ASCS offices."

163 Bills Await Badger Solons

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Some 163 bills and resolutions held over from last year await the return of Wisconsin's state lawmakers Monday.

Final action on the measures was deferred when the Legislature recessed Dec. 22 after reaching agreement on a tax bill.

Included in the pile of pending business is a controversial measure that would boost salaries of lawmakers from $300 to $500 a month and grant them expenses of $15 a day instead of the flat $175 a month now received for room and board.

Other proposals include a compromise version of a school bus bill that would extend public transportation to parochial school pupils. The Assembly already has approved the measure and the Senate is expected to follow suit.

A number of controversial bills on reapportionment also are pending. Most have been buried in committee since they were introduced.

New business is expected to in-

PEPIN, Wis. (Special) — Pepin volunteer fire department has re-elected Wayne Raethke chief. Cleon Peters was named first assistant; Wesley Miller, second assistant; and Richard Berg, secretary-treasurer.

At a recent meeting of the Pepin Village Board a plan for cooperation with the Nelson fire department was adopted. In case of a major fire in either Nelson or Pepin, each department will be on call by the other village.

Mrs. Otterson Marks Her 99th Birthday

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Mrs. Mary Otterson, formerly of Blair, observed her 99th birthday New Year's day at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Amanda Larkin in Minneapolis.

She moved there last fall when her other daughter, Mrs. Nettie Anderson, 81, with whom she resided, fell and fractured her hip. Mrs. Anderson said her mother's health is failing.

A package proposal designed to smooth some rough edges on the tax revision measure passed before the lawmakers recessed.

DEAR ABBY:

This Couple Overdoing It

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Just how much affection is it proper to display in public?

Someone in our family married an Irish girl. She thought Americans were cold. She always sat with, or walked with, her arms around her husband. She kissed him in company, in the streets, stores, etc. Not just quick little pecks, but the long, lingering movie-style kisses.

In company, they sit cuddled up next to each other like a pair of lovebirds. He is 43 and she is 35. Wouldn't you say they were old enough to know better? When they were newlyweds, folks would say, "Aren't they cute?" Now they think it is downright disgusting. What do you think?

NAUSEATED RELATIVE

DEAR NAUSEATED: Lovebirds, of all ages, can fly as high as they want to when they are alone, but should keep their beaks off each other in public.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a man who wants to eat his cake and have it, too?

KATH

DEAR KATH: Bake plenty of cake. And vary the icing!

DEAR ABBY: Neither my mother nor my father wishes to attend my wedding. They believe that large weddings are a waste of money. I have always wanted a nice church wedding, so I have worked and saved by own money for it. I have no uncles on either side to give me away. My father has refused. Whom shall I ask?

STANDING ALONE

DEAR STANDING: Ask a male friend, whose friendship you value, to do you the honor.

DEAR ABBY: How many times have you printed letters like this one, and how many times have girls like myself read, and ignored, their messages?

I am 19. Too young to be messing up my life. I was going with a very nice boy for a long time and I planned to marry him. I gave him ALL my love. Now he's gone, and I hate myself. I am sorry and I've learned a lesson, but what good is it now?

Abby, please print this letter. Any girl who is old enough to read is old enough to understand it. And if just one girl benefits from my mistake, it is worth your trouble.

SADDER BUT WISER

Half of Big Plane Towed Through Paris

PARIS (AP) — A truck towed half of a huge U.S. Air Force transport plane through downtown Paris and into eastern France today.

The front part of the C130B, saved from a fire at Evreux Air Base, is on the way to Spangdahlem Base in West Germany. There it will be jigsawed together with wings and a tail section of two other damaged C130s. The Air Force hopes to come up with one good C130, which carries a price tag of about $3 million.

The front section of the Evreux plane — 61 feet long and 15 feet high — began its 600-mile road run to Spangdahlem Wednesday. It passed by the Arch of Triumph in Paris in the early morning hours.

To help skid the plane section around tight corners, its moving crew brought along five gallons of grease.

For the curious along the route, the Air Force put signs in French on the sides of the fuselage section.

"With new wings I will soon fly again, but they are in Germany where I am going to get them," the signs said.

Guiding the bulky load to Germany are Capt. Arthur Hempen of Carlyle, Ill., and T. Sgt. Ralph R. Slayback of Staples, Minn.

In 1946 a scythe manufacturer, Joseph Jenkes, received this country's first machine, patent, for equipment used in his water-driven mill.

3 Cases of Smallpox At Duesseldorf

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — Three cases of smallpox today prompted health authorities in this big city on the fringe of the populous Ruhr area to launch elaborate precautionary measures.

Some 200 beds were reserved in hospital isolation wards in anticipation of an influx of persons who have been in contact with the three proven cases.

Large-scale protective inoculation was ordered.

Doctors said the disease was brought to Germany by an engineer who returned Dec. 2 from a business trip to Liberia.

What's the Picture for the Years Ahead?

This year-end statement is figuratively speaking a "picture" of what has happened to date. As we review the figures, we know they cannot remain static so we naturally ask ourselves — What's in the picture for the years ahead?

It is said that bank deposits, bank debts and bank clearings are barometers of business today and indicators of prospects for business growth to come. These things and others, of course, are a measure of the times. As we examine the results, we are conscious of the significance that closeness to the community's economic life is measurably reflected in these important economic barometers.

A bank, however, must be more than a reflector of conditions as they are and forecaster of what future trends may be. A bank must assume responsibility, in part at least, for the kind of reflection it casts off. A strong community-minded, helpful bank is not afraid to step in when leadership and courage is needed to perhaps change the times or conditions.

The policies which direct us at the Winona National and Savings Bank demand that we must work in every way possible to help business, industry and the individual citizens of Winona to create and reflect good times good futures. May we help you in jointly accomplishing this objective?

President

MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

Area Economy Not Up to U.S. Average

ECONOMIC RECOVERY in the Ninth Federal Reserve District during 1961 did not quite match that of the nation as a whole, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank notes in its annual report.

The impact of last summer's drought on the western Dakotas and Montana held farm income down six percent causing a slower rise in district personal income than in the nation as a whole.

Drought cut back acreage yields of small grains, notably wheat, and caused pasture and forage shortages in western livestock areas. In the eastern corn and soybean producing areas of the district, however, excellent growing conditions were responsible for record breaking production of these crops.

Business activity turned down in the harder hit drought areas and continued at low levels in the iron ore mining regions of the district. Industrial output, however, as measured by indexes of kilowatt hours of electrical energy used, for industrial purposes, rose quite steadily following a low in February, and by October this measure of industrial activity had risen 8 percent. Expanding demand increased district employment in manufacturing firms, especially in the durable goods industries in Minnesota.

DISTRICT MINING activity trends were mixed in 1961. Copper production was fairly normal, but iron ore production continued to decline. Iron ore shipments from U. S. ports in the Lake Superior region were down 18 percent from the 1960 level. This decrease is significant considering that 1960 was a recession year.

The amount of contract awards made for all types of construction in the district during the first ten months of 1961 was down 2 percent from the same period of last year. The decline in residential building and heavy engineering projects such as highways, other public works and private and public utility construction more than offset the nine percent increase in the amount of awards made for nonresidential building.

A major transition in residential construction during 1961 was the trend toward more apartment house building.

DISTRICT BANKERS found 1961 to be a year of substantial deposit growth coupled with unusually modest loan demands. Deposit growth both here and in the nation reflects, in part, a national monetary policy aimed at promoting economic recovery from recession by stimulating monetary expansion.

No Striking Changes Planned

THE OLD ADMONITION, "It's dogged as does it," appears to have been adopted by President Kennedy as a sort of motto for his administration. Judging by what was said at briefings for the press at Palm Beach, the chief executive plans no striking changes in the year ahead but expects to proceed much as he has done thus far.

This applies most particularly to the administration's conduct of foreign affairs. Mr. Kennedy hints at no dramatic action, promises no memorable advance in the continuing battle to strengthen the free world. He feels that the balance of power lies with the West, but not enough so to permit genuine freedom of action. In all his pronouncements he has emphasized the prolonged difficulties we face. This concept of the struggle still appears to be uppermost in his mind.

It is significant, also, that President Kennedy thinks the differences among America and her allies have been exaggerated. He holds firmly to the view that although there are points at issue the great powers of the West stand unmistakably aligned when they come up against communism. This belief strengthens the promise of steady, essentially concerted undertakings to extend freedom and thwart Moscow.

AMERICANS should not be disappointed in this undramatic approach to the playing of our part on the world stage. They would have cause for alarm if the President were talking of brinkmanship and drastic action. The situation calls for realistic analysis and unremitting effort rather than for battle cries and adventures. This is the sensible premise on which our leadership now appears to rest.

When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee. Is. 43:2.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

No Concessions From Russians

By SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

LOS ANGELES—Newspapers are full of reports suggesting that the western powers are going to find some basis on which to negotiate the Berlin crisis with Nikita Khrushchev. Many thoughtful Americans, and particularly those who speak for the liberal establishment, argue that if we're talking at least we're not shooting at each other. This same apology is offered in support of the United Nations, and even those of us who are most strongly anti-Communist can find some small merit in this argument.

However, I would suggest that self-interest compels us to make a realistic examination of this proposal that the West and East "must" find a way to settle their differences at the conference table.

We should remind ourselves that for a long agonizing period the Western world attempted genuinely to negotiate with the Russians over a ban on atomic testing, and that when it suited the Russians they recommenced their testing and paid scant attention to the "world" opinion we court so assiduously.

The period of the Berlin airlift should remind us that, with the Russians, negotiation is a one-way street. We're invited to come to the conference table in order to tell the Russians just what concessions we will make. In return, the Russians offer no concessions themselves.

Goldwater

NEGOTIATIONS in Southeast Asia have resulted in a steady loss to the free world, and the negotiations at Yalta and at Potsdam will, in my judgment, be viewed by future historians as total defeat for the West. The spirit of Geneva and Camp David gave the world a falsely optimistic hope but produced nothing concrete in the way of lessening world tension.

Before his election, President Kennedy rejected the notion of conferences between heads of state. After the election, without going through the period of preparation which he described as necessary, the President met with Khrushchev, and the outcome of that meeting was certainly not a victory for freedom.

I AM REMINDED of a delightful story told by James Wood Krutch. It seems that an English clergyman, who was passionately devoted to the notion of brotherly love and who preached that the lion and the lamb must learn to lie down together, decided to demonstrate the practicality of his belief.

He procured a lamb and a lion and a cage, and established this exhibit in the church yard. The appearance of the lion and the lamb together created quite a sensation, and a number of other clergymen, impressed by the demonstration, questioned the originator of this rather graphic presentation.

"What's the gimmick?" they asked. "No gimmick," the clergyman replied. "It's absolutely on the level. Of course, from time to time you must replace the lamb."

How do you stand, sir?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

At an infantry officers' training camp, one tough, officious captain was the pet hate of every candidate. Yet at graduation ceremonies, every newly hatched second lieutenant contributed happily for a present to the detested captain.

It was a framed picture of Lassie, neatly inscribed, "With love, from Mother."

For Christmas last year, Jack Douglas was given a stunning pair of cuff links. The fact that he wears nothing, but short sleeved shirts didn't stump Douglas for a moment. The resourceful fellow simply had his wrists pierced!

"Business," opines Palmer Hoyt, of the Denver Post, "is like a bicycle. You have to keep it moving forward at a reasonably good speed or it starts wobbling."

Two gabby matrons in a New England town were gossiping endlessly on a party-line telephone, when they were suddenly interrupted by the unmistakable sound of a receiver being slammed down on the hook. "Well, how do you like that?" snorted one of the talkers indignantly. "Somebody's hung up on us!"

A swanky young lifeguard in Florida found himself in a peck of trouble when his wife all but drowned in the bathtub. The lifeguard's explanation: "I was watching TV instead of her. After all, it was my day off."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Few Planes Available For Hitchhiking GIs

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Hundreds of GIs with Christmas leave, who couldn't afford commercial travel, tried to hitchhike home for the holidays on Air Force planes going their way.

Many were picked up usually by junior officers flying workday planes. But some GIs were left stranded, usually by the political brass who had commandeered plush, spacious aircraft.

None of the sleek jets which ferried the presidential party to Palm Beach, Fla., for instance, picked up a single GI hitchhiker.

Four GIs caught a ride on a special jet, otherwise empty, which was ordered to Los Angeles to pick up California Cong. Harry Sheppard and two Air Force engineers, Alan I. McCone and Maj. Gen. A. M. Minton.

But the hitchhikers got only as far west as Amarillo, Tex., where the plane stopped for fuel. There it suddenly diverted to Austin to pick up Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who wanted a ride to Washington. He reversed the plane and left the GIs stranded in Texas.

Since the special jet never got to California, Cong. Sheppard and party, being lower on the protocol pole, were obliged to fly from Los Angeles to Washington in a four-seat jet trainer.

THE WEEK before Christmas, Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to Paris and back in a roomy, nearly empty jet. He didn't offer a ride to any of the GIs and dependents trying to join their families for Christmas.

Shortly before Christmas, the Air Force also provided Texas Cong. Olin Teague with a plush, two-engine plane for a flight to New Orleans. A frequent hitchhiker on Air Force planes, Teague is chairman of the Veterans Committee, but he offered no free rides to GI hitchhikers.

However, Georgia Cong. John P. Picher, who wangled Air Force transportation from Georgia back to Washington for Christmas, happily waved 10 GIs aboard his plane.

PRESIDENT Kennedy, who has three luxurious jets at his disposal, sent one on two pre-Christmas flights to Paris—First to pick up a State Department party, then back to get a group of NATO delegates.

Although it brought no leave passengers back, it did carry seven college students to Paris on the first flight, 11 more on the second flight. All were joining their families, stationed on military duty in Europe, for Christmas.

In a holiday gesture, the Air Force supplied Assistant Secretary of the Army Paul Ignacius with a special, two-engine plane to inspect the Army's aviation center at Fort Rucker, Ala. But Ignacius didn't make the same gesture to GI hitchhikers.

However, the Army's Lt. Gen. Earle Wheeler, who also got a courtesy plane from the Air Force for a pre-Christmas flight to Montgomery, Ala., carried eight GIs down and nine back.

Lt. Gen. Robert Burns, the senior American military officer at the United Nations, also took three GI passengers with him on a special plane from Washington to New York.

THE ONLY other VIP plane in the air around Christmas-time, a comfortable but cumbersome C-119, was placed at the disposal of Moshe Tshombe, self-styled "president" of the secessionist Katanga province, for his true trips to bring peace to the Congo.

As another Christmas gesture, the Air Force arranged to fly several navy midshipmen home from Annapolis on routine, combat-training flights.

Note—Many military posts did an expert job of arranging bus transportation home for GIs. Brig. Gen. Charles S. D'Orsa, commander at Fort Jackson, S. C., had several hundred Trailway buses on hand for his men at cheap rates. They were lined up four abreast three miles long.

Sending U. S. planes into Dominican waters is ticklish business these days, even when the planes are sent by request.

A short time ago, Maj. Gen. Pedro Rafael Ramon Rodriguez Echavarría (who invariably uses all his names), top commander in the Dominican Republic, received intelligence reports that weapons were being shipped ashore in fishing boats from Castro's Cuba. The smuggling was along a sparsely inhabited strip of the Dominican north coast, so the Dominican military chief asked Marine Col. Bevan Cass, new U. S. naval attaché in Santo Domingo, for aid in patrolling the area.

CASS transmitted the request to Washington with a recommendation that it be granted. State Department and Pentagon officials agreed; so on Dec. 21, Navy patrol planes from Guantanamo began regular runs along the designated coastal stretch.

Two days later, Cass got a telephone call from Gen. Santiago Rodriguez Echavarría, the strongman's younger brother, who heads the Dominican air force.

"One of your aircraft is over our territorial waters," the Dominican general said. "I must warn you that we're going to intercept it and force the pilot to land. I hope he'll obey without obliging us to fire on him."

Startled, Col. Cass asked: "Hasn't your brother talked to you about this?"

"No," was the answer. "I have no new instructions, if that's what you mean."

"Well, please consult him before you do anything else," Col. Cass urged.

The air force chief did so, learned that the U. S. plane was making its patrol at his brother's specific request.

Note—Reason why Maj. Gen. Pedro Rafael Ramon Rodriguez Echavarría feels the need to use his full name is that his brother was baptized Pedro Rafael Santiago Rodriguez Echavarría.

The average American consumed 10.4 pounds of frozen vegetables in 1961.

THE VICE president was speaking at a luncheon honoring a new federal judge at Houston, Texas, and he said that in America people have "a right to say what they wish—however popular or unpopular." He then added:

"Therefore, our courts are subject to attack. Those who disagree—even for partisan reasons—with a court decision have the right to say so. They may even go so far as to question the motives and the good faith of the judges who rendered the decision."

"The right to raise such questions should never be challenged. This is—and must remain—a free society. But the wisdom of this course of action is open—and should be—to sharp debate."

"It is one thing to declare a court decision wrong and to seek its reversal. The men who wrote the constitution recognized that even the best-intentioned of human beings were fallible and they provided simple means for appeal. It is another thing to declare a judicial system wrong and to demand that all judges who render unpopular verdicts be impeached. This train of thought merely paves the way for the Communist dictatorship we seek to avoid."

BUT IT ALL depends on what is meant by "impeachment." The legal meaning, as set forth in the constitution itself, is that this remedy can be invoked only in the case of "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

Impeachment, however, in a broad sense could also mean steps leading to removal from office. Thus Congress can pass laws providing for the removal of any judge who violates the requirement of "good behavior." For the constitution doesn't say that judges shall hold office for life, but only "during good behavior." Obviously, the Supreme Court itself can hardly sit in judgment on the behavior of its own members, so it can be argued that Congress has the power to provide for trial of such cases by the Senate, and the penalty could be removal from office.

Thomas Jefferson, who helped to write the constitution, fell, after seeing the new government in operation for 30 years, that the "life tenure" idea was erroneous. He wrote in 1820:

"THE JUDICIARY of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working underground to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric."

"To consider the judges as the ultimate arbiters of all constitutional questions is a very dangerous doctrine, indeed, and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

Mr. Jefferson recommended that all Supreme Court justices be appointed for six-year terms, with re-appointment by the President, and subject to confirmation by both houses of Congress, instead of just by the Senate.

The chief criticism throughout the years has been that the court has tried to become a policy-maker and has departed from judicial limits. In August 1958 the conference of state chief justices, by a vote of 36 to 8, severely crit-

Uphold Right To Criticize

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Controversy over the alleged leniency of the Supreme Court toward the Communist menace inside America is bound to grow as Congress soon resumes its sessions.

The high court has said, in effect, that Americans can join the Communist Party and that Congress cannot legislate against them except in cases in which it can be proved that they are knowingly intent on the overthrow of the government of the United States by force. This is considered an almost insuperable barrier because it involves endless technicalities over what constitutes legal proof of "intent."

The Department of Justice is trying now to prosecute the leaders of the Communist Party in America on the ground that, under existing law, they can be required to register as agents of a foreign government, which they refuse to do. A few such persons, therefore, could ultimately go to jail, but in reality many thousands of others will be free to continue to carry on their support of the Communist Party in America. The remedy would seem to be a constitutional amendment broadening the power of Congress to deal with this and other problems of the "cold war."

Vice President Lyndon Johnson made a speech recently which was widely construed as, in part, a criticism of the John Birch Society, some of whose members have called for the "impeachment" of certain members of the Supreme Court of the United States. The address, which was carefully prepared in advance, deserves more attention than was given to it.

Second, let me subject you to a somewhat more complicated reasoning. Basically (and this is why some people are aiming their criticism at it) milk does contain a certain amount of animal fat. Indeed, that is the way by which we measure its "richness."

Likewise — and this seems to go along with the theory of those who criticize milk — there is reason to think that excessive animal fats, or other "solid" fats, contain so much cholesterol that it raises the cholesterol level in the blood, and thus contributes to the amount of material which is gradually deposited in or on the artery walls and helps "harden" the arteries.

So far I'm giving the argument all the way to the other side. Now let me have my say. By every known criterion, the correct diet isn't one with no fat. It is one with not too much fat. We all need some fat. Even the rigid vegetarians need fat and they get it either in the form of dairy products or the various vegetable oils. It isn't fat that harms us. It's too much fat!

The American diet is known to be far richer in fats of all sorts than the diet in a good many other parts of the world. Some other areas are harmfully short of fats.

So should we therefore abolish all fats? No. We'd be as badly off as people in areas where there isn't enough fat!

Or to concoct a simile, there's the man who says, "I smoke three packs of cigars a day and three cigars. Do you think I should cut down on my cigars?"

leized the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and, in a formal report, said:

"WE BELIEVE that in the fields with which we are concerned, and as to which we feel entitled to speak, the Supreme Court too often has tended to adopt the role of policy-maker without proper judicial restraint. We feel this is particularly the case in both of the great fields we have discussed—namely, the extent and extension of the federal power, and the supervision of state action by the Supreme Court by virtue of the fourteenth amendment. In the light of the immense power of the Supreme Court—and its practical non-reviewability in most instances, no more important obligation rests upon it, in our view, than that of careful moderation in the exercise of its policy-making role."

The foregoing is really an appeal to public opinion to achieve a reform. It is the right of individual citizens similarly to call for reforms, and that's why it isn't so simple to write off the "extremism" of some members of the John Birch Society as altogether unprovoked.

Milk Is Nature's Food

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am an elderly lady who has taken a whack at milk as a factor in hardening of the arteries. I can see their point — but I don't entirely agree."

I'm quite aware that some research people recently have taken a whack at milk as a factor in hardening of the arteries. I can see their point — but I don't entirely agree. First let me answer today's question, which is one of many in the same vein. Yes, I would keep on drinking milk.

Now for my main reasons. First, milk is not going to harm the arteries of elderly people already having hardening of the arteries. And on the other hand, if they skip milk, they are going to miss the calcium and some other useful ingredients of milk.

Second, let me subject you to a somewhat more complicated reasoning. Basically (and this is why some people are aiming their criticism at it) milk does contain a certain amount of animal fat. Indeed, that is the way by which we measure its "richness."

Likewise — and this seems to go along with the theory of those who criticize milk — there is reason to think that excessive animal fats, or other "solid" fats, contain so much cholesterol that it raises the cholesterol level in the blood, and thus contributes to the amount of material which is gradually deposited in or on the artery walls and helps "harden" the arteries.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Five armed bandits held up a housing project office late Thursday and escaped with about $1,357 after binding and gagging five persons.

They were joined by Gerty Welch, 14, and Patrick Gregorio, 49, a maintenance man for the company, who entered the place separately while the men were ransacking the office.

Five thousand years from now, if there's a man left, one of our descendants, looking back on his ancestors of the 1960s who spent so much time talking about "peace," will probably say: "Why, they just came down out of the trees."

The nice thing about that, of course, is that nobody around now will be around to hear him.

THE WORLD TODAY

Force, Animal Instinct Strong

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year has begun in reassessing fashion for anyone worried that mankind might be getting soft or inclined to let reason prevail over force and animal instinct.

On New Year's Day 30 people were injured in a Reno riot when police tried to break up a teenage kissing spree, 3 were killed in a Portuguese revolt and 12 were killed in Algerian riots which continued and by today had taken 72 lives.

The most heartening thing about all this, for those concerned that human nature might get flabby from disuse, is that every day somewhere in 1962 some people will get killed keeping muscles in shape.

The Indonesian government, for instance, is threatening to take West New Guinea from the Dutch by armed force, if necessary; the government of Iraq is ready to snatch Kuwait; the Indians are telling the Red Chinese and the Pakistanis to back off Indian land; the Berlin situation may turn very nasty; Laos is split; Viet Nam is plagued by Communist guerrillas; this week Fidel Castro was just as noisy and bawdier as ever; French President Charles de Gaulle doesn't know what the Secret Army may do to him; the Congo is far from settled; and the United Nations has fallen into some disrepute.

Like the one-time colonial people, the India, Egypt and Ceylon, who screamed in pain and protest against the use of force when it was used against them by the British, feel no pain at all when one of them, India, uses force to grab a little real estate like Portuguese Goa. In the U.N., Egypt and Ceylon refuse to rebuke India.

And Russia, the biggest colonial power of modern times, wouldn't rebuke India, either, which is a kind of "I'll scratch your back—and you scratch mine" bit of diplomacy since now India can hardly rebuke Russia in the U.N. for any new Soviet adventures.

About the only consolation the rest of mankind can take from the Goa invasion by Prime Minister Nehru's India is that they probably won't have to listen to his pious preachments in the future when some nation uses brass knuckles instead of brains. He'll hardly have the gall to try the holier-than-thou stuff again.

Congress will want to examine the U.N., that world organization whose primary purpose is peace, although some of its biggest members, like Russia and France, don't want to pay attention to it.

It seems safe to predict there will be a lot of congressional indignation about the U.N., but little action, since there is hardly enough national feeling for the United States to pull out of the world organization. So long as the U.N. lasts, it at least gives some of mankind an excuse to say that there is a chance that reason and morality might prevail some day.

Without it, the nations could revert to their pre-UN international, capitalism without even a little progress.

Although it may be hard for the squishy to reconcile themselves to the thought, the presence of the U.N. won't prevent capitalism among nations altogether. At most it probably can only dull the appetite a bit.

Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

All-America Annuals

With a good start in the New Year, this seems to be an opportune time to examine the flowers that have been chosen as the award winners of All-America Selections for 1962.

As most gardeners know, All-America Selections is a non-profit as well as an educational institution, self-perpetuated by its Council of Judges who test, screen and rate and by public, private and commercial plant breeders from around the world. The judges are responsible for their trial grounds and the evaluation and behavior of each entry, which is by a number only, under various climatic and soil conditions.

For thirty years this non-profit institution has been testing new flower and vegetable varieties for North America under the sponsorship of the garden seed industry of the United States and Canada. In the twenty-six trial grounds the new entries are grown for comparison along with the nearest similar varieties already on the market.

AN AWARD winner must necessarily be widely adapted and most satisfactory from every standpoint of growth and production wherever the particular variety can be successfully grown. For 1961 there were three award winning flowers and one ornamental. It is interesting to note that two of the flowers were zinnias, flowers that have advanced in recent years from a plebeian form to a position of high estate among the more aristocratic varieties.

First to be considered is the zinnia, Old Mexico, with double flowers of a mahogany red with the tips of the petals a lively gold. The large bicolor blossoms are about three inches across and are stated to surpass the variety Persian Carpet and other zinnias of a similar type. This annual reaches a height of about two feet, forms bushy plants, and the long slender flower stems are fine for cutting.

The third All-America award winning flower is Brava, a dianthus, or garden pink, and the only annual dianthus of a scarlet red color. These little plants grow only about seven inches high, and about the same in width, and are said to make a brilliant display for edgings and borders.

The fourth award winner is an ornamental sweet basil, Dark Opal. It is the first and only herb plant ever to merit an All-America award. The color is stated to be a uniform metallic purple, both in foliage and flower. It is said to be a bushy, shapely plant about 18 inches high with a spread of 12 inches and covered with dozens of small purple flower spikes.

THE PLANTS can be used in flower borders, in groups among perennials, and elsewhere. It can have a special place in the herb garden as the basic condiment for flavoring foods, either in the fresh state or when dried. This versatile plant with its aromatic foliage can be used to advantage in flower arrangements.

The seeds of the above flowers can be purchased from most seed houses and stores. Look for the All-America Selections emblem in buying them.

THE OTHER 1961 zinnia is Red Man which is stated to be the largest and richest red among the dianthus types so far developed. The large, double flowers, up to six inches across, are produced on strong stems and are graceful, airy and make good cutters. The plants are bushy, growing to a height of about two feet, and produce an abundance of blooms.

You Have Choice On Paying Your 2 Income Taxes

If at least two-thirds of your income is from farming and your tax year starts Jan. 1, you have two choices as to how to pay your state and federal income taxes, advises Hal Routhie, extension economist at the University of Minnesota.

You may either file an estimate of your tax and pay this amount by Jan. 15, then file your return and pay any balance due by April 15. Or you may file your return and pay the tax on or before Feb. 15.

IF YOU DO NOT file your income tax return and pay the tax by Feb. 15, you must file a federal tax declaration if your estimated tax is $40 or more and a Minnesota declaration of estimated tax if your estimated tax is more than $20.

You must report as income, among other things, compensation for services, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, income from partnerships, estates and trusts, profits from sales or exchanges of property and business income of all kinds.

You must also include as income payments received under the Soil Bank Act for reducing crop acreage below allotment of base acreage; the cash equivalent of certificates for feed grain program payments; and the advance payment and final payment under the Feed Grain Program must be included when received.

In general, any patronage dividends which you receive from a cooperative are included in your income in the year received.

If you have a loan from the Commodity Credit Corporation, you may elect to include the amount of the loan in the year in which you actually received the proceeds of the loan instead of the year in which the commodity is finally sold.

YOU DON'T need permission from the Internal Revenue Service to adopt this method of reporting Commodity Credit loans even though you may have reported such loans received in prior years as taxable income in the year the crop was sold.

But once you have reported on this basis, you must report all such succeeding loans as income in the year received or get permission of the Internal Revenue Service to change to a different method.

The 1962 Farmer's Tax Guide is a good source of easy-to-understand information concerning farm income tax. County Agent Oliver Strand says he has a good supply of Tax Guides on hand; if you can't stop by his office, drop a card to the county extension office, Lewiston and ask Strand to mail you a copy.

Order Trees Now, SCS Worker Says

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Now is the time to order trees and shrubs for 1962 spring planting, according to Harold Dineen, SCS technician assisting the Root River Soil and Water Conservation District.

Dineen points out that not only do trees increase the value of the farm through beautification of the area but they also provide a source of income through the sale of Christmas trees in the near future and lumber later on.

He advises planting them on the west and north of the farmstead. Trees planted in such a location will, in a few years, provide wind and drifting snow protection for the buildings and cattle yards.

Most farms have several areas where trees could be profitably planted. Areas now idle because they are too steep, too rocky or too sandy for crops can be planted to trees.

The state nurseries have a limited supply of trees available this year and they can be ordered through Dineen.

SEEDS • SEEDS • SEEDS

We urge all farmers to book their seeds now! Prices will be higher in the Spring.

A-G Creamery Volume Sets New Records

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — A. C. Schultz, manager of the A-G Creamery, reports that higher patronage, more cows per patron and better feeding methods by the producers are credited for breaking all previous records at the A-G Co-op creamery.

Fresh green chopped hay in dry lot feeding by more and more producers, instead of pasture feeding, has resulted in increased milk production per cow, the year-end report shows.

NEW AUTOMATIC bulk tank washing facilities were installed to speed washing and sanitizing. A large storage tank, also installed in 1961, gives the plant a 215,000 pound holding capacity for liquid milk. The milk drier was recently improved to give better results, and improve the quality of the powder manufactured. Top volume of milk processed in one day during 1961 was 504,000 pounds.

A new bookkeeping and recording machine was purchased for the office which increases efficiency in all departments by a considerable percentage.

The A-G Co-op broiler plant volume held up well considering the drop in the broiler market during the past six months and although affected by the lower broiler market, the Co-op hatchery's volume was high throughout the year. The quality egg program increased materially.

Additional land was purchased during the year, making all land west of Highway 95 available for future expansion.

A TOTAL of $5,000 was invested in the new Arcadia medical clinic by the co-op.

At the conclusion of this review of another progressive year for A-G Co-operative, Manager Schultz, who returned in August from an 18,000 mile tour of Iron Curtain countries, said: "Our thanks to God can't be measured in dollars or any other way for the blessings we enjoy in our area. What is our freedom alone worth? We can sing 'Silent Night'—We can criticize our government—We can travel anywhere in our country without passport—We have food as no other country on earth. It is impossible to list all of our blessings. Pray and be thankful."

Each steering committee member present divided the entire area into group areas. Each group area will hold meetings under the supervision of a steering committee member. Assistance will be furnished by the Soil Conservation Service and the Extension Service.

Also present were William Doser, David Alstad, Perley Olson and Ralph Gunderson.

Others who have been active in steering committee promotion are Myron Larson, Selmer Ryan, Tom Solie and the Fillmore County Extension Service.

IFYE Returnee To Visit 2 Weeks In Wabasha Co.

WABASHA, Minn. — Janet Adams, Austin, a 1961 International Farm Youth Exchange delegate from Minnesota to Israel, will spend two weeks—Jan. 29 to Feb. 10—in Wabasha County with her headquarters in the county extension office.

She will be available to show colored slides and talk on her experiences while living and working on farms and in the kibbutz in Israel for five months. She will speak to 4-H leaders and other organizations in Wabasha and surrounding counties during the two-week period, explaining the International Farm Youth Exchange program and telling about rural life in Israel.

Miss Adams was among 120 rural young people from the United States who lived in rural homes in 36 countries throughout Europe, Latin America, Africa, the Pacific and the Middle East during 1961. She returned in December.

The IFYE program is conducted by the National 4-H Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service to promote better international understanding.

Groups wishing to schedule Miss Adams for a special meeting should make arrangements with Matt Metz, Wabasha County agent.

Weight Control Homemaker Topic

DURAND, Wis. — Pepin County Homemakers will hold a special interest meeting at the courthouse here Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Topic for the meeting is "Weight Control." Miss Dorothy Knutson, nutrition specialist, will present the discussion portion of the meeting which will deal with the effects of obesity, how weight can be controlled and how to lose weight on well-balanced, nutritional meals.

The meeting is open to the public and all property holders are asked to bring pencils and paper.

A LOOK BACKWARD... Models in historical costumes will give University of Minnesota Farm and Home Week visitors a look into the past. The 60th annual week will be held on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota Jan. 16-19.

This Herd Really Is Growing Fast

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — It appears that 1962 will be a booming year for Robert Bol and who operates a farm east of here.

New Year's Day his herd was increased considerably — two sets of twin calves were born.

Seed Maturity Law Changed

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Beginning this year, greater responsibility for determining maturity varieties rests with the originator or owner of the hybrid rather than the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station.

This was brought out this week by Houston County Agent Francis Januschka, as he passed along information received from Harley Otto, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota and O. A. Ulvin, in charge of seed certification for the State Department of Agriculture.

As the law now stands the director of the Agricultural Experiment Station continues to be responsible for determining the corn growing zones of the state and publishing a list of "day classifications" for each of the zones. These classifications refer to the approximate number of days of growing season required after emergence for corn plants to mature and can be used to compare the maturity of one hybrid with another.

Zones and day classifications are: Northern Zone—120 or 85 days; North Central Zone—90 days; Central Zone—85 or 70 days; Southern Central Zone—105 days; Southern Zone—110 or 115 days. Where a choice is indicated, only one of these classifications may be used.

Hybrids labeled for a particular day classification must not vary more than four percentage points from the average of three or more standard hybrids when grown in the zone of adaptation.

Houston ASCS Head Explains Loan Program

CALEDONIA, Minn. — William Leary, chairman, Houston County agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, has reminded farmers that a commodity loan gives the farmer working capital now while permitting him to hold the crop until the price is more favorable.

The biggest change on commodity loans on feed grains for the 1961 crop are that they are limited to farmers who took part in the 1961 Feed Grain Program.

CORNS, OATS and barley are the only feed grains on which there is a normal demand for loans in Houston County, with corn the most abundant.

The maximum amount permitted for a corn loan is the planted acres of corn times the normal county yield, times the productivity index for the farm. (Sample: If an average county farm had 40 acres of corn planted, they would multiply the 40 acres by the normal yield of 66 bushels then by each producer's share of the crop. In this case they could not sell more than a total of 2,640 bushels. Any amount delivered in excess of that figure would be settled at market prices.)

Producers of soybeans may sell their beans, even though not in the 1961 Feed Grain Program, providing they had as much land in hay, pasture and idle land in 1961 as they had on the average for 1959 and 1960. Soybeans may be sealed right after harvest; other crops must be stored for 30 days after harvest before inspecting and measuring for a loan.

THE PRICE SUPPORT for ear corn is $1.13—6-foot crib or less; the moisture must be 21 percent through February 1962; 19.5 percent through March; 18 percent through April and 16 percent through May. One percent less for each additional foot of crib width.

The interest rate is 3.5 percent. Farm storage loans, as well as price-support loans and purchase agreements, are available at the county ASCS office.

Beef and Hog Farm Tour Set

Gordon Ferguson, area vocational coordinator for Southeast Minnesota, announced today that a beef and hog farm tour is scheduled for Jan. 13.

The itinerary will be:
9:30 a.m.—Depart from Winona Senior High School.

10 a.m.—Arrive at the Joseph Greshik hog farm, five miles out of Fountain City, Wis., on Highway 95 and county road "G."

11 a.m.—Depart for Joseph Greshik's beef farm near Cochrane, Wis.

1:30 p.m.—Arrive at the William and Peter Drysdale farm, just north of Kellogg on Highway 61.

3 p.m.—Arrive at the Fred Drenckhahn beef farm, four miles northwest of Rollingstone on Winona County road 25.

All farmers, agriculture teachers, and others interested in beef and/or hog production in the area are invited to participate.

The Drysdale farm includes a dairy herd of approximately 50 milk cows so dairy farmers may also wish to attend this tour.

Several alternative methods of feeding and handling livestock will be observed, including "push-button feeding," use of "haylage" and high moisture corn silage.

Dairy heifers are being raised at the Joe Greshik hog farm in addition to farrowing and rearing about 120 litters of hogs annually.

Separate facilities are available for the breeding, raising and growing of hogs. Heavy use of silage and haylage in swine feeding is practiced on this farm. Greshik will discuss his herd management and production practices while showing the visitors around the various buildings.

At his beef farm, he will explain the operation and planned activities at this location, where he is presently feeding about 160 Holstein steers.

FRED DRENCKHAHN has just started feeding 161 head of beef steers in a partially completed automated beef-feed lot. In the near future he plans to buy about 300 ent.

feeders in addition to those raised from the Angus breeding herd of about 80 to 100 cows. Drenckhahn's son, Ray, upon graduation from high school in 1960, is being taken into the farm business as a partner and tentative farm plans call for a two-man set-up operated with a minimum amount of hired labor.

Peter Drysdale is renting his father's farm and with the aid of a hired man, plus occasional help from his father, is feeding about 160 head of beef feeders in addition to a herd of 50 Holsteins and their replacements.

How to get extra milk every day for only 1 1/2¢ per cow

Feed Land O'Lakes Milk Maker "36" daily. It costs only about 1 1/2¢ more per cow than your present daily feed costs, because you replace grain with Milk Maker "36". And at today's prices, the cost of a pound of Milk Maker "36" is only about 1 1/2¢ more than a pound of grain.

You'll get extra milk every day because Milk Maker "36" contains the protein and other nutrients that are missing from normal rations of grain and roughage. Not only is this feed protein-rich itself but it also contains sulphur to help your cow make even more protein from urea. The extra milk you'll get pays you back several times over. You'll make more money.

Better stop in to see us tomorrow. We'll help you get started on the Milk Maker "36" program so you can get extra milk every day for only 1 1/2¢ more per cow.

You May Overlook Income Deductions

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Francis J. Januschka, Houston County agent, has reminded farmers that when preparing their 1961 income tax return all necessary farm business expenses may be deducted.

Most farmers know this, he said, but there are many items they forget to list and this is like throwing money down the drain. A few of these items are:

- Repair and expense items are deductible as long as they do not add to the value or prolong the life of your property.
- (Sample: If you repair your barn roof, the cost is deductible; if you replace the roof, it's not!)
- You may also deduct as labor expense any reasonable cash wages you pay your children for farm work they actually do. Nor does the fact that your child spends the money to buy his own clothes, or other necessities, which you are normally obligated to furnish him, prevent you from deducting his wages as farm expense.
- Some items, such as fuel, oil,

Records Complete On 3 Holsteins

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has announced the completion of outstanding official production records by three registered Holstein cows in this area.

Pussy, a 5-year-old, owned by C. H. Mueller & Sons, Lewiston, produced 16,044 pounds of milk and 622 pounds of butterfat in 297 days.

Alvin Simon, Altura, scored with two cows: Robess White Joylyn, a 4-year-old, produced 17,057 pounds of milk, yielding 636 pounds of butterfat in 365 days and a 5-year-old, Fortune Hunter Wendy, produced 16,127 pounds of milk and 651 pounds of butterfat in 301 days.

In contrast, the annual production of the average U.S. dairy cow is generally estimated at approximately 7,000 pounds of milk containing 265 pounds of butterfat.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

ASC Head Says Feed Grain Plan Meets Objectives

CALEDONIA, Minn.—The 1961 feed grain program met all of its objectives, William Leary, chairman of the Houston County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has said.

The program was enacted last spring to meet a serious emergency then threatening agriculture. The objectives of the program and how they have been met were explained by the chairman:

1. Increased income for participating farmers. Net income is up by $1 billion—or nine percent—partly because of the feed grain program. Farm-income prospects for this year are equally good. Not only farmers, but rural communities, processors, and others who sell to farmers benefit from improved farm incomes.

2. Fair and stable prices for consumers for meat, poultry, and dairy products. Retail prices for these products have remained fairly steady and have actually shown a modest decline during the period of the program.

3. Lower costs to taxpayers. Savings of more than $500 million will result during the next few years from storage, handling and transportation fees which will not have to be paid because current government stocks are declining rather than increasing.

4. Reduced government grain stocks. Despite the record yields in 1961, total grain stocks will be reduced by some 200 million bushels—the first reduction in surplus feed grain stocks since 1952.

A program similar to the 1961 emergency feed grain program is in effect for 1962 crops of corn, grain sorghum and barley. The program calls for the diversion of acreage from the production of these crops into an improved soil-conserving practice. Special payments are available to farmers who sign up and participate in the program.

Production Records Reported for Two Registered Guernseys

Two registered Guernsey cows have completed official DHIR production records, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

"Twilight," a junior 4-year-old, owned by the Wachholz Brothers, Stockton, Minn., produced 11,926 pounds of milk and 618 pounds of fat in 305 days.

"Lilac," also a junior 4-year-old, owned by Elmer J. Wirt & Son, Lewiston, produced 10,150 pounds of milk and 517 pounds of fat in the same number of days.

Root River SWCD Adds 60 Farmers

CALEDONIA, Minn.—The annual report of the board of supervisors of the Root River Soil and Water Conservation District takes note of the fact that conservation is being applied on our farms in an ever-increasing amount.

Kenneth Olson, chairman, pointed out that the district has enjoyed fine cooperation from the Extension Service, ASCS and other agencies. He said the Houston County Commissioners have been generous in contributing funds to hire extra help to get more practices applied.

Activities accomplished during 1961 by the district include the following:

Around the Pitchfork

By DAILY NEWS FARM EDITOR

A survey made by Doris E. Lomberg, University of Wisconsin home economist, during the past two summers gives some interesting indications of the average farmer's financial condition.

Most of the farmers surveyed—146 of the 209—carried some life insurance. But for the most part the protection was for $1,000 or $2,000, which would be just enough for emergency expenses.

The survey showed that four out of five of the farmers had a checking account in a bank, but that few had important bank savings or U. S. Government bonds. Only 28 had savings of $5,000 or more. In fact, 86 said that they had less than $500 saved.

Many farmers declared that they'd rather invest money—buy livestock or property—than to put it in a bank. They said they would "sell something" if they need to raise money.

Another reason for the small savings among the farmers might be the fact that most of them expect to be able to get credit if emergencies arise.

The report estimated that 114 of the farmers had more than $25,000 equity in land, buildings, machinery and livestock. Another 31 had equity somewhere between $10,000 and $25,000.

Surprisingly few of these farmers, all of whom are 40 years of age or older, have made their wills. One hundred thirty-eight of the 209 interviewed said they had no will as yet—that they "hadn't gotten around to it."

Very little installment buying of consumer goods was reported by the farmers in the survey. Only 32 were buying cars on time. Most said they paid cash for family living expenses whenever they could.

Baby pigs like a little sucrose added to their feed, according to tests at Iowa State University. In the Iowa tests, four trials were conducted using 362 pigs weaned at two weeks of age. They were given a free choice of a fully balanced feed without any sucrose added, and the same feed with various amounts of sucrose added.

The little pigs showed a distinct preference for feed containing any amount of sucrose, from 0.625 percent up to 10 percent. And when the little porkers had a choice of two levels of sucrose, they went most for the feed with the highest percentage of sucrose in it.

Researchers at the University of Tennessee recently made some tests to determine whether the use of sanitizers in rinsing dairy utensils might leave a residue in milk that would give a false positive antibiotic test.

The results showed that under normal conditions, it would be impossible to have enough of the sanitizers added to the milk to give a positive test for antibiotics. Three types of sanitizers most commonly used on dairy farms were used in the Tennessee experiments.

Using salt on your driveway and walks may save you more than the work of shoveling your walk this winter. It may kill enough grass to cut down substantially on the lawn mowing chore next summer.

And here is a news item you may have missed: In Hammond, Ind., a bull attacked the small car of Joe Ringer, the county's official artificial inseminator, causing considerable damage. (Bully for him! I can't help feeling sympathetic towards him.)

Prices Received Index Up Point; Dairy Declines

The index of prices received by Minnesota farmers was 80 in mid-December, which was up one point from both the previous month and a year earlier, according to the state and federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Dairy products and poultry decreased two points compared with a year ago, while the crops group remained unchanged and meat animals gained five points.

Crop price changes were mixed during the month ending in mid-December. Prices advanced for wheat, oats, flaxseed, soybeans and hay, while corn, barley, rye and potatoes averaged below mid-November.

Sheep, at $5.30, were the only livestock species showing a price decrease from a month earlier. The mid-December price for hogs, at $15.80 per cwt., was 30 cents above mid-November but 50 cents less than in December 1960. All cattle averaged $20.80 per cwt., $1.50 above the previous month and 80 cents more than a year earlier.

The price for whole milk was $3.45 per cwt. in December. This is 8 cents less than in November but 10 cents more than last year. Butterfat in cream, at 67 cents per pound, was up 1 cent from both the previous month and a year ago.

Prices for eggs, averaging 25 cents during mid-December, decreased 2 cents a dozen from a month earlier and were 9 cents below a year ago. Turkeys, at 16 cents per pound live weight, were the same as in mid-November but averaged 11 cents less than in December 1960.

155 Expected To Be Killed On State Farms

An extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota today predicted that 1962 will bring as many as 60 farm work and 95 farm home accident fatalities to Minnesota.

Glenn Prickett said the greatest number of farm work accidents will occur with tractors, followed by unshielded power shafts. Falls will account for the greatest number of home mishaps, followed by fires, burns and poisons.

Prickett stated his predictions would hold unless farm operators and homemakers exercise more care and caution in 1962 than they did in the year just past.

He said adoption of these New Year's resolutions would cut the accident toll in 1962:

- Think. Accept the fact that accidents can occur to any of us if we violate safe methods of living.

- Teach, especially by example, safe methods of working to family members and employees.

- Provide and use protective equipment for the job you're doing.

- Make an accident survey. Locate and remove dangers wherever possible. If necessary, have an electrical inspector check your wiring and follow his recommendations.

- Keep stairs and passageways clean, rugs anchored and spills cleaned up to prevent falls.

- Store poisons and chemicals in a locked cabinet or bin away from children, pets and livestock.

- Store and use liquid fuels according to safety recommendations to prevent flash fires and explosions.

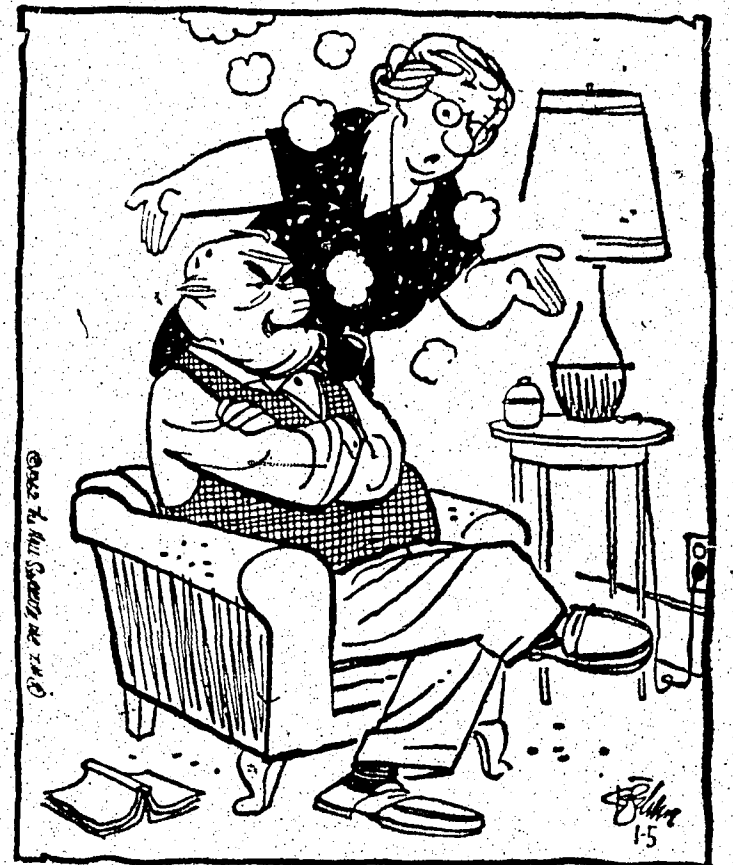

- Protect youngsters from vehicles and equipment. Keep them off and away from moving machines.

- Stop power equipment before servicing it. Use shields for moving parts.

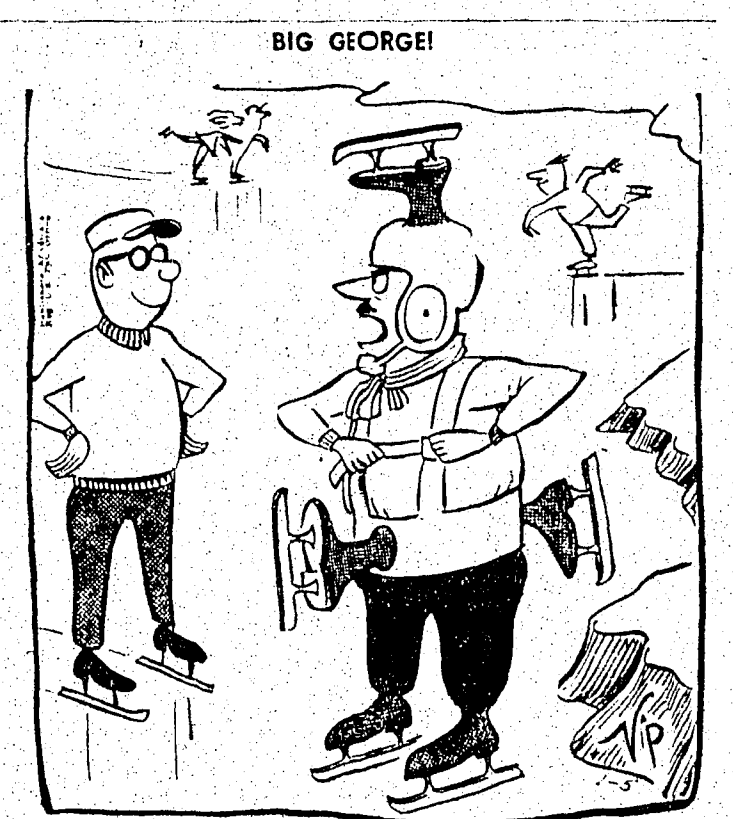

- Use caution and safety devices when handling livestock and keep children away from barnyards.

Legislative Plans Await President

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

President Kennedy, eager to get his medical care, tax and tariff proposals on legislative wheels, flies back to Washington today for a series of tactical and advisory conferences.

Kennedy opens the advance campaign for his domestic program Saturday morning at the White House when he ranges over the outlook for the 1962 session of Congress with Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Mills' committee will handle legislation by which Kennedy hopes to provide medical care for the aged under the Social Security system, obtain tax incentives for industrial investment along with tax revisions to make up any loss in revenue, as well as authority to bargain with other governments for tariff reductions.

With Mills, the President's main project is to convert the Arkansas Democrat to support of the President's medical care plan.

Mills opposed the Social Security feature last year in favor of legislation he backed in 1960 with Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., to aid state medical care programs. Congress adopted that approach.

Sources close to Kennedy say he expects to get his own medical care program through Congress and to gain at least a measure of success with his tax and tariff proposals.

Kennedy scheduled a 4 p.m. takeoff for Washington. He will be returning to the capital a day ahead of his original timetable.

Kennedy still plans to speak Saturday at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Columbus at Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's birthday. Kennedy will return to Washington for Sunday talks on preparedness with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, his personal representative in Berlin, and Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Clay is returning to the capital amid reports of differences between Washington policymakers and U.S. officials in West Berlin on dealing with the situation in the divided German city. Presumably, this will figure in his talks with the President.

On Monday, the President is expected to meet with congressional leaders of both parties. He will be trying to muster support for his programs and soften opposition to them.

Kennedy tentatively planned a last cruise over Lake Worth and into the Atlantic before leaving Palm Beach this afternoon. He and Mrs. Kennedy have been going out with friends and relatives almost every day aboard the presidential yacht Honey Fitz.

The chief executive departs in a more cheerful, if not contented, mood than when he sped to Palm Beach on Dec. 19 to be with his stricken father.

Beef River Gets Votes at Osseo

OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — Of 743 telephone subscribers in this area 407 prefer Beef River Telephone Co. and 51 prefer General Telephone.

Most of the others did not return ballots to a citizens committee. Nine preferring Beef River did not sign their names and two for General were not signed. Three signed, but had no preference, and one named "I don't prefer to be connected with Strum exchange."

Three were returned unsigned and unmarked, and one signer wanted to know the names of the citizens committee. They are John Rongstad, St. Johnson and T. H. Jensen.

No word has been received from the Public Service Commission on a decision on three hearings concerning alleged duplication of services of the two companies in Osseo and elimination of a 10-cent toll service between the two companies.

FOR DAY AT LEAST

We're Spared Cold

Snow to the east and south of Winona, severe cold weather to the west and north, but generally mild conditions in the immediate vicinity best describe the weather picture here for the past 24 hours.

Although the Weather Bureau missed on its prediction of colder weather for Thursday night, the weatherman repeated the forecast for tonight. He foresees a low of zero tonight and a high of 15 Saturday.

MOSTLY FAIR is the outlook for tonight with increasing cloudiness for Saturday. Sunday will be fair and warmer, he says.

The cold wave was spotty across the Midwest, plunging temperatures to -19 at Bemidji and dipping up to four inches of new snow in Wisconsin, some of it as near as Wausau, but leaving the temperature range in Winona from Thursday afternoon's high of 32 to this morning's low of 23. It still was 23 at noon.

Some Western Wisconsin communities reported rain overnight, leaving streets and highways extremely slippery. Authorities urged motorists to use extreme care on Highway 35 between Osseo and Eau Claire because of the icing conditions.

WABASHA reported a light snow overnight as did other Minnesota communities between there and the Twin Cities.

Reports from Weather Bureau and State Highway Department sources said up to six inches of snow fell in the extreme northern part of Minnesota. Red Wing had five and Litchfield and Glencoe four each.

Eastern North Dakota had up to four inches of snow.

A late morning forecast said winds 30 to 50 m.p.h. and heavy snow would create blizzard conditions in southeastern Iowa by this evening. Forecasters also predicted six to 10 inches of new snow would fall in that area by morning.

Some snow was reported at Rochester where the morning temperature was 20 after a high of 32 Thursday.

International Falls had a morning low of -14. At Redwood Falls the low was -6 and the sky was clear. It was -2 at St. Cloud.

Fargo, N.D., had a low of -14 and Winnipeg gave a morning reading of -28.

A year ago today the Winona high was 35 and the low 3. All-time high for Jan. 5 was 46 in 1880 and 1930 and the low was -29 in 1884. Mean temperature for the past 24 hours was 27. Normal for this day is 16.

Winter hit WISCONSIN with a variety of unpleasant conditions today, including snow, sleet, freezing rain and fog. In addition, a mass of Arctic air was pushing toward the state just behind the storm.

Unofficial reports had snow piling in 12-inch drifts in extreme northwestern Wisconsin. Three inches fell in the Park Falls area. Green Bay reported two inches of new snow.

Sleet and freezing rain fell south of the snow belt and fog covered southeastern Wisconsin and the area along the Illinois border.

EXCEPT IN the extreme northwest, temperatures were unseasonably high. The mercury was at 10 above in Superior during the night but fell to four above by mid-morning today. Other nighttime lows: Park Falls 17, Eau Claire 18, Wausau 15, La Crosse 25, Green Bay 35, Lone Rock 28, Madison 29, Beloit 33 and Milwaukee 34.

Maximums Thursday ranged from 20 at Park Falls to 33 at Beloit.

THE SNOW, SLEET and freezing rain caused slippery driving conditions during the morning hours of a line from Prairie du Chien through Columbus to Sheboygan. Driving conditions were expected to deteriorate as temperatures fell during the day.

Bemidji, Minn., was the nation's coldest spot early today with a low of 19 below zero and Cutula, Tex., set the high of 45 Thursday.

In 1346 Salim the Grim conquered Syria for the Ottoman Turks, who ruled until 1918 when British and Arabs occupied the country. Syria was under French mandate between the two World Wars and won full independence in 1945.

ROBERT C. RUARK

He Would Allow Stand-up Drinking

NEW YORK — I trust the Senate will not be too difficult when the time comes to act on a bill of great importance to the law of the land — an already-passed-by-the-house chunk of legislation designed to reach eventually to the farthest corners of the globe. This is the House bill to allow stand-up drinking in the nation's capital.

For years, or at least since repeal, Washington has been noted as the nation's drunkest village. And I blame it all on a law which says a man must be seated before he can be served an alcoholic beverage in restaurant or tavern. There are no bars, per se — only places that sell liquor to seated lusers.

The quick, sociable snort was outlawed, and I shall never know why. You could not even take your drink-in-hand and move to another table with it.

Some weird brain had conceived that the devil dwelt in vertical drinking, and that—moral travel was a sin, such as a violation of the Mann Act.

This had a curious effect on the diplomats a n d world moul ders, as well as on the government clerks (female) who clustered to certain chosen spots to pick up other government clerks (male). Tables were placed at a premium and, once acquired, were not lightly relinquished. The upshot was that if you did not wish to eat, you had to pander to the waiter's interest by keeping a steady flow of booze coming.

It is well known to medical science that if you move around a bit, you will at least maintain some sort of even pace with your intake and diffuse a bit of its impact. Circulation is kept moving, muscle tone is preserved, and the erect body is forced to exert a certain amount of muscular energy to remain upright.

But if you sit, knocking back one after another, for the necessary hours to accumulate your load, your body has been withdrawn from use, so to speak, and when you get up you have to fight inertia as well as alcohol, which has centered in one place to make a beachhead. It is a tricky business, and its effect is not generally noted until you try to walk off from the table and then—wham! You're stoned.

HEAVEN KNOWS how much loneliness has been encouraged, how many happy marriages averted, how many friendships lost by the law which forbids a friendly foregathering at the bar for a couple of quorum ones and perhaps a neighborly nod at the pretty girl at your elbow. Contrast the easy camaraderie of a decent bar and grill in New York or San Francisco or New Orleans with the strained isolation of Washington, the loneliest town in the world for the girl from South Carolina and the boy from Arkansas.

Boy sees pretty girl at another table. To meet this girl he must perform the act of a masher—rise from his own table, stalk across the floor, and literally, boldly pick her up. The girl, if she is a nice girl, is on immediate guard. "Aha," thinks she, "if I let him pick me up he will think I am a cocktail-room tramp and after two hours and sixteen daquiris I will be fighting for my virtue."

AT THE SAME TIME, the boy is thinking: "Aha, this is sure-fire. If she turns me down she's a waste of time. If she lets me slide over to her table, or comes over to mine, she's a cinch. Else why would she let me pick her up?"

So the lass, who might well want to meet the nice-looking fellow with the crew cut, primly crosses her mental knees and announces that she is sorry, but she does not drink with strangers, and the boy goes away, ego deflated, to order another six bourbons. A love potentially greater than that of Cupid for Psyche, Pelias for Melisande, has been frustrated, and will never bloom.

AS FOR THE diplomats a n d high functionaries, they don't bothy at all with the friendly hip. They get stiff in Georgetown apartments, drinking it brown from the bottle, and collide with other diplomats and functionaries as they weave homeward. What happens to local and foreign policy God only knows, because the office battle is not unknown, either, in the halls of state.

The House has copped this bill with a cute clause which says that customers may only drink standing while waiting a short time to be served food, and may only drink out of sight of the diners. But the good ones will find a way to beat that, and, in any case, at last we've got a sensible foot in the door.

Florida Will 'Rehang' Truman

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Harry S. Truman's picture is going to be restored to a place of prominence in a state capital office building after being resurrected from a storage vault.

The framed picture of the former Democratic President was turned over to Jerry Carter by Gov. Farris Bryant in a brief ceremony Thursday.

Carter, a member of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, often is referred to as "Mr. Democrat" in Florida. He said the picture would be hung in commission offices with fitting ceremony.

The Truman picture once occupied a spot on the wall of the office of an administrative assistant to former Gov. Fuller Warren. It was taken down during a remodeling program in the Leflore Collins administration.

Hawks Lose Hazelton; Cotter Here Tonight

By AUGIE KARCHER
Daily News Sports Editor

A healthy Cotter quintet and an injury-riddled Winona High team take to the hardwoods tonight in hopes that 1962 will be different than the 1961 half of their current campaigns.

Cotter, 3-4 in the won-lost column, plays host to Pacelli of Austin at 8 p.m. at St. Stan's Gym.

Winona High, 3-3, invades La Crosse for a duel with undefeated (8-0) Central.

The Winhawks face the stiffer test and will have to do it with an ailing Bob Grausnick and without regular forward Dave Hazelton. Hazelton will be out of action for two weeks or more with torn tendons in his left ankle, suffered in a holiday tobogganing spill.

"We didn't have an injury all year last season," moaned Hawk

Coach Kenney. "But this looks like the year for them."

Grausnick returned to uniform when drills resumed this week but his shoulder ailment far from pleases Kenney. And on top of that, Kenney lost one of his managers, Russ Hassinger, who was injured in a touch football game.

Rich Kalbrener, another varsity squad member, is out for the year, having undergone a knee operation. And, of course, Dan Scharrer, "B" squadder, is home in a cast as a result of a leg fracture suffered Dec. 15.

Grausnick will get his first shot at right forward tonight, culminating Kenney's plans that were sidetracked when Bob sat out the last two games. Leaf Strand, who started the season at center, will go at Hazelton's spot.

Morrie Miller at center and Marty Farrell and Wulf Krause at guards will round out the starting quint.

Kenney has shifted Gary Nissalke, 5-10 guard, to forward to backstop his front line, and brought up Steve Keller from Coach Duane Bucher's "B" team to fill in the backcourt contingent.

Central's record doesn't impress Kenney as much as it might a sports fan. "They haven't exactly killed any team," he points out. The Raiders will have a height advantage but Kenney is most concerned with their zone press. "If that bothers us, we'll have trouble," said the Hawk coach. Central is an outside shooting team, leaving the middle open for driving.

At Cotter, Coach John Nett's Ramblers hope the "third time charm" is working tonight against Pacelli.

The Ramblers lost to the Shamrocks 42-40 at Austin and 43-36 in the Pacelli holiday tournament.

Nett plans no changes in his starting line-up, giving wing guard Rich Starzecki another shot opposite Gene Schultz and running Bob Judge at center. Larry Modjeski and Sam Czaplowski will be at forwards.

"Starzecki was a little tight in past games, but his defensive work has been good and so is his passing game," Nett said.

Don Carlson's Shamrocks run taller than the Ramblers, but that advantage hasn't been the main problem.

Cotter worked out three days this week and Nett has drilled his cagers hard in an effort to iron out the weak spots.

The Pacelli-Cotter "B" teams square off in the 6:30 p.m. preliminary.

DENNIS RAARUP Accepts Logan Post

Gale-Ettrick Coach Accepts Post at Logan

LA CROSSE, Wis. — Dennis Raarup, who coached Gale-Ettrick to a 13-1 record in his two years as head football coach has resigned at the end of this year to take the reins at La Crosse Logan High School.

Raarup will succeed Raymond W. Nibbe who had returned to coach at Logan during the past campaign after retiring in 1945.

Logan won only one of eight games the past season, that being a 7-6 decision over Winona Cotter. Raarup is a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus College and is completing work on his masters degree at the University of Minnesota.

While at Gustavus he was a member of the football team for three years, president of the Letterman's Club and a member of the student council.

Prior to taking the coaching job at Gale-Ettrick he was head football coach at Blair and an assistant at Nicolet High School.

Wayne Lukas, basketball coach at Logan, was a member of the Blair faculty at the same time Raarup was football mentor there.

Klinder Back For Warriors

By GARY EVANS Daily News Sports Writer

Winona State College's basketball team starts its first extended road trip of the year Saturday hoping the effort that won the La Crosse Holiday Tournament can last for at least another week.

In the title game against La Crosse last Saturday the Warriors played their finest defensive game of the season to rack up a 55-42 victory.

ONE THING in the Statesmen's favor is the return of starting guard Arlen Klinder to school after missing the La Crosse meet because of the flu.

Klinder started working out Wednesday but is not expected to see extended action at St. Norbert's tonight. He will be used in the Michigan Tech game Saturday.

The Tech game will mark the second NSCC start for the Warriors who have beaten St. Cloud 64-51 in their only loop outing.

The Huskies are 3-2 overall as they head into a full weekend of action also. Tonight they meet Mankato State at Houghton before the Warriors come in Saturday.

COACH VERDIE Cox's corps got a lift shortly before Christmas vacation when Larry Hunter, 6-5 center, and Don Kirshberger, 6-3 forward, became eligible. Both are letterwinners and will be counted on for their scoring and rebounding ability.

Dave Jeske is the leading Husky scorer with 77 points in five games, Dave Cvengros follows with 62.

"Tech likes to run a lot," Coach Bob Campbell said. "I think that before the conference race is over they could cause a lot of trouble. They play a zone defense and have fair size to make it work."

The Statesmen will be starting with Ken Stielplager and Dick Papenfuss at forwards, Lyle Papenfuss at center and Gerry Goetz and Bob Lietzau at guards.

LIETZAU cracked the starting lineup at La Crosse and so far has demonstrated that he can be the scoring playmaker Campbell has been looking for to team with Goetz.

In St. Norbert's the Warriors will be meeting a formidable foe. Earlier in the season the Green Knights blasted St. Mary's 71-50 and Redmen Coach Ken Wittgen says they are "a good hustling five."

The Knights use a zone defense and rely mainly on their front line to do the scoring.

"The zone defenses we'll be facing should be good for us," Campbell commented. "Now we have to get some outside shooting and if the team can come through under the pressure of the zone we should be on our way."

NO OFFENSIVE and defensive changes are planned. The Warriors will be using their single post with play patterns along with a man to man.

Following the trip the Statesmen won't be in action until Mankato State comes to town Saturday, Jan. 13.

Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers has led National Football League scorers the last three seasons.

JOHNNIES WIN

Duluth Rolls By Concordia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Minnesota Duluth sits perky atop the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference basketball heap today, although still not out of reach.

The Bulldogs pounced on Concordia, 74-58, Thursday night for their fourth victory without a defeat. Only Hamline (3-1) is within immediate range of UMD as the Cobbers (2-2) slipped into a tie for fourth.

Duluth guard Gene Hamilton flipped in 21 points. Forward Frank Johnson had 15 for Concordia.

The game was part of a benefit performance for Don Kerlin, Barneville high school coach injured late last year in a car-train crash.

St. John's snapped a six-game loss streak with a 72-67 non-conference victory over visiting River Falls Teachers of Wisconsin. A quick start to open the second half put the Johnnies in front for keeps as Craig Mayers led the scoring with 18 points.

Bernie Kukar of St. John's scored 10 before a shoulder injury forced him to the bench. Don Koepnick had 18 for River Falls.

Minnesota college action tonight includes Ripon at St. Olaf, Lawrence at Carleton, Mankato State at Michigan Tech and Winona State at St. Norbert.

Faithful Fan Awarded Lifetime Grid Pass

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — A football fan who hasn't missed a Williams College home game in half a century has been given a gold admission pass to all home games.

Nelson W. Domin, 67, began his remarkable record in 1912. He was recovering from an operation on one occasion and confined to bed. But he was able to watch the game through the bedroom window of his home, which overlooks the football field.

PACKERS SIGN GROS GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Packers announced Thursday the signing of fullback Earl Gros of Louisiana State, their No. 1 draft choice. Terms were not revealed.

Gusties Here In MIAC Tilt

St. Mary's Coach Ken Wittgen is faced with the task of trying to get his team to bounce back from the loss to Macalester Wednesday when Myer (Whitey) Skoog brings his Gustavus Adolphus five to Terrace Heights Saturday for an 8 p.m. contest.

The Redmen were going along smoothly after a conference loss to favorite Duluth. They had beaten Augsburg, which was riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, 60-54, and looked like they could be the MIAC darkhorse.

TITLE HOPES took a sharp dip with Wednesday's 65-60 loss to the Scots which were winless in three loop starts.

In their last outing the Gusties tipped Augsburg 70-66 after leading by 16 points at halftime.

In the conference Gustavus stands 2-2. The other win came over St. John's in the first league game of the campaign. Losses to Duluth and Hamline were sandwiched between the wins.

"WE WANT to win and we can win," says Wittgen. "I think the kids are more mad than down. I'm still optimistic, sure we had a bad night at Macalester but you'd have to attribute that to the holiday layoff."

"The team looked real sharp on Thursday night. We've got the bad one out of our system now, and I think we are going to come along from now on," the coach said.

Wittgen doesn't figure that the Gusties are a top notch team and outside of Bill Nordstrom, who has been averaging 15.3 points a game, are just average.

"THEY DON'T have a weak link in their starting five but depth has been hurting them. They've only been playing five or six men a game," Wittgen stated.

The St. Mary's coach will be going with the same starting five of Mike Stallings and Dennis Burman at forwards, Tom Ruddy at center and Bob Jansen and Al Williams at guards.

Following the Gustavus game St. Mary's plays at Concordia Monday and then comes home to take on St. Thomas the following Saturday.

Lions to Give Hall End Shot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Minnesota end Tom Hall, signed by the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, may get a tryout at both end and defensive back.

Lion coach George Wilson said here Wednesday he won't know until next summer's training camp where Hall will be used.

"But we're glad to have him with us."

Hall is in Hawaii for the Hula Bowl game, along with Sandy Stephens of the Gophers.

1,200 GREET GOPHERS

'Nice to Come Home a Winner'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Most University of Minnesota football players melted back into the comparative anonymity of winter quarter classes today after a welcome home Thursday by some 1,200 admirers.

The plane bearing the team and coaches was about 1 1/2 hours late but the onlookers sat in their cars or listened to the university band during the wait.

A bouquet of roses, symbolic of the Gophers' Rose Bowl victory over UCLA, was pressed into the hands of Mrs. Murray Warmath as she stepped off the plane.

Coach Warmath, flashing his broadest grin for the crowd and looking natty in a checked sport coat, told the gathering that "It's wonderful to come home a winner."

Missing from the entourage were Rose Bowl hero Sandy Stephens and Tom Hall, both in Honolulu for this weekend's Hula Bowl game.

The fans, families and friends of the team pressed 10 deep behind a roped-off area as the plane slowed to a stop at the new terminal area on the east side of World-Chamberlain field.

Opening of the plane's door was a signal for the uniformed band to strike up its loudest and peppiest version of the Minnesota Rouser, a song they had played a half-dozen times as the bandmen stood around waiting for the team to arrive.

Most of the players, although smiling, shivered a bit at the 25-degree chill and a freezing drizzle that greeted them as they alighted.

"They've got to be loyal to come out in weather like this," quipped assistant coach Bob Bossons.

Eight teams are entered in the tourney which is staged as part of the Grand Rapids Winter Carnival.

The host team is currently rated as No. 2 in the state. Others entered besides Winona and Grand Rapids are Hibbing, Bemidji, Cloquet, Princeton, Aitkin and Park Rapids.

Making the trip for the Winhawks are Ron Fugelstad, 95; Don Schoening, 103; Jim Dotzler, 112; Ray Welter, 120; Gary Hazelton, 130; Strand Wedel, 138; Bob Grant, 145; Pat Woodworth, 154; Mike Goergen, 165; Jim Bambenek, 175, and Mike Gerlach, heavyweight.

Woodworth, Goergen, Bambenek and Gerlach are undefeated in competition this season.

The Winhawks are 3-1-1 in meets thus far this season.

The local "Y" has 40 boys on its swim team and all will be in action Saturday.
