Course Description:

This is a practice course that provides a systematic approach to developing basic counseling skills. Students will have the opportunity to practice counseling microskills (e.g. rapport building, attending, paraphrasing, reflecting feeling and meaning, interpretation, modeling, role playing, etc.) on a weekly basis. P/NC only.

Course Objectives:

- Apply basic and advanced counseling techniques in a structured learning environment;
- Develop a self-awareness of abilities, behaviors, values, and attitudes and how they impact on performance in counseling;
- Acquire proficiency and gain confidence by applying theoretical knowledge in a helping relationship;
- Learn the basic difference between interviewing and counseling;
- Learn and demonstrate the skills of the five stage counseling process;
- Become intentional in the selection and use of basic and advanced helping skills;
- Critique the work of self and others in a constructive manner; and
- Develop an understanding of diversity of clients and how to apply basic helping skills in a culturally rich society.

COUNCIL FOR ACCREDITATION OF COUNSELING AND RELATED EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS (CACREP) RELATED STANDARDS:

- K.1.b. professional roles, functions, and relationships with other human service providers;
- K.1.h. ethical standards of ACA and related entities, and applications of ethical and legal considerations in professional counseling;
- K.2.a. multicultural and pluralistic trends, including characteristics and concerns between and within diverse groups nationally and internationally;
- K.2.b. attitudes, beliefs, understandings, and acculturative experiences, including specific experiential learning activities;
- K.5.a. counselor and consultant characteristics and behaviors that influence helping processes including age, gender, and ethnic differences, verbal and nonverbal behaviors and personal characteristics orientations, and skills;
- K.5.b. an understanding of essential interviewing and counseling skills so that the student is able to develop a therapeutic relationship, establish appropriate counseling goals, design intervention strategies, evaluate client outcome, and successfully terminate the counselor-client relationship. Studies will also facilitate student self-awareness so that the counselor-client relationship is therapeutic and the counselor maintains appropriate professional boundaries;
- K.5.g. ethical and legal considerations.

Course Requirements:

Communication:

Students are required to check their email and D2L daily. This is the primary mode of communication, a means of submitting assignments, and a way of receiving feedback.

Attendance:

Attendance in class is critical to benefit from the course. Students are expected to attend and contribute to the class by presenting their ideas, reactions, questions and concerns in relation to class discussions. Students are required to attend all class sessions. If there is a need to miss a class based on emergency, it is expected that the student will contact the instructor before the missed class. If it is necessary to miss more than one class for any reason, the student should withdraw from the course and retake it. If a class needs to be missed, the professor needs to be notified. The class materials are expected to be made up by summarizing what you learn from the assigned chapter and class activities for the week. Note: Weather could interfere with class at times. Make smart decisions about the weather and travel and consult instructor before class time if possible regarding absences. In addition to the WSU homepage and local TV alerts, the instructor will provide updates about cancellations via e-mail by 3 p.m. on the day of class. Absences due to extreme weather conditions will not result in a lower final grade.

Participation:

Participation in classroom activities is essential for learning the concepts in this course. Small group activities, assigned readings and class discussions will serve as the foundation for achieving course learning outcomes. Students are expected to prepare for class by completing all readings and exercises assigned as scheduled prior to the class meeting. Students are expected to bring the main textbook to each class meeting.

Informed consent:

Students will design their own informed consent forms (Practice Contract) to use with their practice clients (to be reviewed at the start of a course of an interview). The forms should include a description of the purpose of the tapes; procedures used to ensure confidentiality; students' professional qualifications, including the names and qualifications of their supervisors; and should gain permission from the clients to tape the sessions (see example in Ivey text, p. 36). You will obtain informed consent from practice clients by explaining to them about the goals, procedures, benefits and risks of counseling, and ensure that the client agrees to what has been outlined.

Interview/counseling/recording in class and reflection paper:

Students will have an interview or counseling session weekly, record it, and review it. You will form dyad or triads in which you will interview. Each person will take turns assuming each of the three roles: counselor, client and observer. You will receive feedback from your group after each session. You are also to review the recording and write a reflection paper (2-3 pages, double spaced) based on your feedback and review of your own recording. You are to describe what went well and what you need to improve regarding specific skills and specific tasks in the counseling process. The paper is to be submitted in the Dropbox on D2L by the following class period.

Counselor experience—This role calls for practice and demonstration of skills you have learned in assigned readings, class discussions, simulations, and practice sessions. You should exhibit genuineness, openness, empathy and congruence; engagement with the process, person and task; willingness to take risks in the spirit of learning; and acceptance of positive feedback and constructive criticism.

Client experience—In the role of client you should exhibit genuineness, openness and a present orientation. You are asked to draw upon real life experiences, the content of which is totally within your discretion. You should take responsibility for determining and monitoring the level of self-disclosure that they contribute to the learning experience. You may also choose to role play the part of “client” during in-class demonstrations and practice sessions; however, this is not permitted during taped sessions as such simulation may detract from the realism and quality of the learning experience. Also in this role, you will be expected to provide feedback to the individual in the “counselor” role.

Observer experience—This role calls for you to pay close attention to the process occurring between the counselor and the client, and to relate what occurs in the practice session to the learned material. It also aids in your development of the ability to give constructive feedback. When in this role you will take notes and complete an observation form to be used as feedback for the counselor.

Transcripts:

You may be asked to transcribe your interview and submit transcripts the following week. Please wait for further instructions.

(Multi-) Cultural Interview Paper:

After reading the Sue, Arrandondo, and MacDavis article, students are asked to consider their personal biases and/or competencies and create a plan to become a more culturally competent counselor. You are to interview 2 individuals who are different from your own culture for 30 minutes or longer. This project has to be a new activity/experience to you. The paper will include an explanation of what was learned from the experience (e.g., what new information you learned, things that surprised you, situations that made you feel comfortable/uncomfortable, observations, etc.). Emphasis should be given to knowledge obtained and how this will build your competency as a counselor with a diverse clientele. Students are strongly encouraged to personalize this experience. The paper should be 3 to 4 pages (double spaced) for each interview.

Presentation:

Psychoeducational skills presentation. Students will form 4 groups and present a psychoeducational workshop (as suggested in the Ivey text) to the class on a skill that could be readily presented in an individual or group counseling session. Presentations will be for 30-minute long for each group and given on Week 12 (11/12/14) on the following topics: 1) Communication Skills & Assertiveness Training; 2) Stress/Anxiety Management, Mindfulness, & Relaxation Training; 3) Relapse Prevention Training; and 4) Cognitive Skills & Rational Self-Counseling Strategies.

Wellness project:

Graduate education can be stressful. Students are to formulate goals to survive a graduate program, stay healthy in it, or improve some aspects of your life in order to be a good or better counselor. This may include practicing effective stress management, re-prioritizing your life, learning to be assertive, and/or working on your current and/or past challenges. These goals will be incorporated in your interview or counseling exercises. I recommend students experience counseling for themselves before they graduate.

Policy on Late or Unfinished Assignments:

Late work is not accepted except in extreme circumstances and with prior permission of instructor. IMPORTANT: A grade of incomplete (IP) will not be awarded except under extraordinary circumstances such as prolonged illness. If such circumstances arise, it is the student’s responsibility to notify the instructor immediately.

Grade:

Achieve a “P” for each assignment. If a “NC” grade is given on recording and/or reflection paper or miss a class, the student will conduct another session with a partner and turn in a transcript of that session within a week of the assigned additional work.

STUDENT NOTICES

Confidentiality and Ethics Information: Students are bound by the 2014 ACA Code of Ethical Ethics and/or 2010 ASCA Ethical Standards for School Counselors to abide by confidentiality with respect to any material or issues brought forth by any members of the class during any role-playing or practice interview sessions conducted throughout any portions of this class. Students must seek verbal as well as written permission of the student client before conducting taped interviews. You will also have to keep recordings confidential. Violation of confidentiality is subject to its consequences such as a reprimand and NC for an assignment or the entire course.

Students have the right and personal responsibility to only share or disclose issues and information with which they feel comfortable. If at any time during the interview a student feels discomfort or is unable to continue, he or she can request the right to stop the videotape or not engage in the role-played session. However, if a student finds him or herself very uncomfortable with the nature and activities required by this course as well as the counseling practice and issues one must face, he or she may prefer to drop this course. When selecting a partner with whom to conduct the interviews, it is best to choose someone you do not know.

Confidentiality Notice: As a reminder, all information concerning clients, supervisees, and classmates must be kept confidential. Confidentiality is a crucial element in the counseling profession and should also be upheld with clients, supervisees, and peers. Any discussion should be conducted in such a manner that persons are protected by the limits of confidentiality. Confidentiality will be broken if there is evidence that you have been or pose a potential danger to others or if you break ethical or legal standards as established by the Counseling Profession. Professional services may be recommended in such cases. Be sure to respect confidentiality outside the class. Do not discuss classmates in public places where your conversation could be overheard. Do not discuss your classmates with persons outside the class such as spouses, family members, friends, etc.

DIVERSITY & RESPECT

Please read WSU's commitment to diversity, Growing a Vibrant Community of Diverse Learners, including the Inclusive Excellence Syllabus Statement, at:

<http://www.winona.edu/diversity/estatement.asp>

Diversity Statement: This is meant to be a safe, welcoming, and inclusive classroom environment for students of all races, ethnicities, sexual orientations, gender identities/ variances, ages, religions, economic classes, and ability statuses. As such, you will be encouraged and challenged to use language and basic counseling techniques that are respectful, inclusive, representative and culturally appropriate.

Students with Disabilities Notice: Students with documented disabilities who may need accommodations, who have any medical emergency information the instructor should know of, or who need special arrangements in the event of an evacuation, should make an appointment with the instructor as soon as possible, no later than the 1st week of the term.

Electronic Device Notice: As a matter of courtesy to your classmates and the instructor, please turn off your beepers, cell phones, and any other electronic devices that make any noise. The phones are allowed for use only during breaks or for emergencies. Computers may not be brought to the classroom without prior permission of the instructor. Even with the permission, the use of a computer is for the in-class learning.

Recording Policy: Excluding students with a documented disability, and other than the taping of counseling demonstration sessions, the use of electronic recording devices in class are prohibited without prior permission of the instructor. Also, the recording of clinical material is prohibited to all students.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY

Academic Integrity at Winona State University is based on honesty. The University requires that work produced by students represents their personal efforts and requires that they properly acknowledge the intellectual contributions of others. WSU students are required to adhere to the University's standards of academic integrity, available at: <http://www.winona.edu/sld/academicintegrity.asp>

Academic Dishonesty: Academic dishonesty is a basis for disciplinary action. Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, activities such as cheating, using or purchasing “ghost-written” papers, and plagiarism (presenting as one’s own the intellectual or creative accomplishments of another without giving credit to the source[s]). The faculty member, in whose course or under whose tutelage an act of academic dishonesty occurs, has the option of failing the students for the academic hours in question and may refer the case to other academic personnel for further action. Penalties for academic dishonesty may include expulsion from the university.

Class Visitor Policy: Due to the clinical nature of this course, visitors of any age are not allowed without the instructor’s prior approval.
