Stocks Ease Off, Market Faces Probe

Russia Hikes Butter and Meat Prices

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today hiked consumer prices of meat and butter to finance the country's lagging agricultural program in the face of food shortages.

Butter—up 25 per cent—will cost $1.83 a pound; pork and beef—up 30 per cent—will retail for 88 cents a pound.

The effect of the increases are measured against salaries much lower than those in most foreign countries. A semiskilled Soviet worker gets the equivalent of $38 a month, professional and semiprofessional people about $222 a month.

The government announcement said that the increased charges were necessary because there was no other means of raising money to pay the increased expenses on farms.

Blame was placed in part upon the United States. The statement said it was not possible to "switch funds to increase the output of livestock products at the expense of the country's defensive capacity."

"We do not live in a vacuum. While imperialism exists, the danger of new wars will remain. It is no secret that international reaction, with the United States at the head, now is engaged in sabre rattling, conducts a feverish arms race and harbors plans for a surprise rocket nuclear attack on the U.S.S.R. and the other socialist countries. Its politicians and generals speak openly of this."

Israel Executes Adolf Eichmann

By GARVEN HUDGINS

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Defiant to the end, Adolf Eichmann walked firmly to the gallows Thursday night and paid with his life for his role in Nazi Germany's systematic extermination of 6 million European Jews.

The young state of Israel hanged the former Gestapo colonel at two minutes before midnight on an improvised scaffold in a third-story storeroom of Ramleh Prison near Tel Aviv.

It was the first execution in the 14-year history of this Jewish nation which counts among its citizens thousands of relatives of Jews whom Eichmann, 36, helped speed to death in Hitler's gas chambers.

Eichmann's body was cremated quickly and the ashes scattered upon the waters of the Mediterranean.

Eichmann was cool and unrepentant as his Jewish nation carried to conclusion its announced determination to record the history of the Nazi program and mete out justice in the name of all Jews.

A faint smile on his face, Eichmann spurned the traditional black hood and even chided his jailers for making it difficult for him to stand on the gallows' trap door.

"My belief was correct," the former head of the Gestapo Jewish affairs section declared. "I had to obey the rules of war and my flag. I am ready."

At a command from an Israeli guard, Eichmann stepped to the trap door and lunged to his death almost in a single motion.

Death was instantaneous, prison officials said.

Eichmann was condemned to death last December by a special three-judge tribunal which found him guilty of acts of unparalleled enormity against the Jewish people and against humanity—the only crime subject to capital punishment in Israel.

The balding, bespectacled Hitler disciple had insisted he was only a minor cog carrying out orders from above in the Nazi campaign for "the final solution to the Jewish problem"—extermination.

But the court declared he actually relished shipping Jews to their deaths by the hundreds of thousands, saying he was motivated by "an ardent desire to blot out an entire people from the face of the earth."

The Israeli Supreme Court rejected Eichmann's appeal against the death sentence Tuesday, declaring even death was an inadequate penalty.

And with unexpected speed, President Izhak Ben-Zvi sealed Eichmann's doom about noon Thursday, rejecting appeals for executive clemency from Eichmann, members of his family and others.

Eichmann was transferred quickly from his cell in Jerusalem, where he had been lodged for the Supreme Court decision. At a command from an Israeli guard, Eichmann stepped to the trap door and lunged to his death almost in a single motion.

The Canada-born Protestant clergyman reported later that Eichmann was not sad but was defiant. Eichmann, who earlier had expressed a belief in God but belonged to no church, refused to reaffirm a faith in Christ.

"I do not have time to read the Bible," Eichmann told the minister. "I have peace in my heart. I am ready to die."

Eichmann was told of the rejection of the clemency appeals—but not that he was to die that night—about 8 p.m. He asked for and received a bottle of red wine. He drank half of it.

Outside a thick fog set in. Guards turned on flood lights and police set up roadblocks to divert traffic from the prison, a former British fort, on the Tel Aviv-Jerusalem road.

Eichmann learned death was at hand only when guards came to his cell to take him the 30 yards to the gallows. He walked steadily to the execution room handcuffed to two guards. He made only one request—to stop and blow his nose.

Dressed in brown slacks and a brown shirt open at the neck, he mounted the scaffold by a single step and stood directly under the noose which was suspended over his head on a chain. His hands and ankles were bound with white cloth.

As the noose was fitted over his head, Eichmann half closed his eyes and looked downward at the floor. As the black hood was proffered, Eichmann said: "I don't need that."

Eichmann spoke his last words to a small group of officials, guards and newsmen gathered to witness the execution.

"My belief was correct," he said. "After a short while, gentlemen, we shall all meet again. So is the fate of all men. I have lived believing in God and I die believing in God."

"Long live Germany. Long live Austria. These are the countries with which I have been most closely associated and I shall not forget them. I greet my wife, my family and my friends. I had to obey the rules of war and my flag. I am ready."

Record 201 Deaths Over Memorial Day

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents killed 107 persons during Memorial Day, two under the record toll for the one-day holiday period in 1956.

A record over-all toll of 201 violent deaths was recorded during the 30-hour holiday period. In addition to the traffic fatalities, 3 persons lost their lives in boating accidents, 38 drowned and 47 were killed in miscellaneous mishaps. The total topped the previous record of 174 set in 1956.

Prices Lower, Trading Heavy At Opening

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market cooled off today and declined under a flurry of profit-taking.

Selling by traders who had bought at the week's lows chipped away at phenomenal gains scored in a rally which followed the plunge Monday and Tuesday morning.

The market's drop would be considered substantial under normal circumstances but so far was puny in comparison with the earlier big fall and rise.

Losses of key stocks ranged to around $2 while the more volatile issues took deeper setbacks.

Trading volume continued heavy but well below the week's three previous sessions. The New York Stock Exchange's ticker tape fell 19 minutes behind transactions at one point but was nearly even with transactions early in the afternoon. In the first two hours, 2.32 million shares were traded, compared with 3.71 million in the like period Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 5.07 to 608.29 after having advanced 36.43 in the two previous trading sessions.

Among losses were International Business Machines $6.50, Polaroid $5, Xerox 5.87, Litton Industries $3.87, American Telephone $2.87, U.S. Steel $1.75, General Motors $1 and Union Carbide $1.75.

The few gainers included Du Pont 75 cents, International Nickel 12 cents, Texaco 37 cents and Liggett & Myers 25 cents.

Buying by institutions, which had been a great bolster to the recovering market, died down.

The securities industry, rocked by severe falls and rises, faces a possible investigation by Congress.

The market propelled its startling rally through a second consecutive session Thursday and more than made up the retreat of Monday and Tuesday morning. However, stock prices, declining since mid-March, remained far below their 1962 highs.

Buy orders swelled to mammoth proportions—a dramatic turnabout from the selling panic that earlier had gripped the market.

Trading continued at a hectic pace.

Rusk to Confer With Allies on Differences

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is planning a trip to Europe later this month to confer with allied leaders about clearing up some of the policy splits in the Atlantic Alliance.

He is expected definitely to meet with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He may see French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Rusk confirmed to a news conference Thursday that arrangements for a trip are being worked out. From other sources it was learned that he wants to talk to Adenauer about U.S.-Soviet discussions on a Berlin settlement and about future moves for greater Western European political unity, which the United States strongly supports.

Whether Rusk sees De Gaulle probably will be determined by progress in his conferences here with French Ambassador Herve Alphand. Rusk and Alphand met for two hours Monday and for 90 minutes Thursday on Paris-Washington policy differences. They apparently have no hope at present of ending major differences over De Gaulle's determination to give France an independent nuclear weapons force and his desire to promote a European grouping of national states with looser U.S. ties.

Rusk reiterated at his news conference that the United States is completely opposed to the De Gaulle plan for a French nuclear force. In response to a specific question he said the United States would not favor Britain's supplying nuclear weapons to France.

Rusk also challenged critics of administration foreign policy to come up with proposals for alternative lines of policy development if they really believe that the administration is following a no-win course.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has accused the government of having a "no win" policy in the cold war.

Rusk rejected the charge but said "there is one point on which we do have to show some caution and that is the notion that victory in its usual sense is to be achieved by sudden military means."

He declared that the United States is promoting development of the Atlantic community, building up its alliances, trying to expand trade, assisting countries in need and strengthening the solidarity of the Free World.

Graham Looks Forward to College Job

CHICAGO (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, in Chicago for a 19-day crusade for Christ, says he is looking forward to the day when he can return to Christian education work in a small college.

"I don't know when the last crusade will come, but I do know these years of the revival have taken a great physical price," Graham said Thursday. "I don't seem to have the reserve, the strength that I used to have."

The North Carolina evangelist, 43, added "I'm tired of traveling and I'd like to be home with my family."

"Beyond this, my heart is centered upon Christian education work, and that's why a small college is so appealing to me."

Graham was president of small Northwestern College in Minneapolis from 1947 to 1952.

Some 20,500 persons attended the second night's meeting of the crusade in McCormick Place. Approximately 200 persons made "decisions for Christ," bringing the two-day total of decision makers to about 650.

Graham told the revival rally that man cannot achieve the salvation of the world by the solitary means of his intellect. He said the United Nations cannot, alone, save the world and added that President Kennedy's efforts to have this nation led by the top minds available are not sufficient to prevail against sin.

Chinese Reds Fire at Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists fired 47 shells at the Quemoy Islands Thursday in the first attack in four days. The defense ministry in Taipei said the light barrage began at 7:15 p.m. and continued an hour and 40 minutes.

Film of Carpenter Flight Salvaged

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Prints which are usable for scientific study have been made by Eastman Kodak Co. from water-damaged movie film taken of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter during his three-orbit flight on May 24.

Kodak said Thursday that while new prints of the damaged film are not good enough for publication, they are "adequate for engineering evaluations."

The new prints were sent to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington.

The film, taken from a movie camera trained on Carpenter inside his space capsule, was damaged when ocean water seeped into the capsule prior to recovery.

Humphrey Asks Cut in Taxes

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., today urged a cut in individual and corporate income taxes "to strengthen the economy and the stock market."

"It will take more than expressions of friendship and cooperation from the White House and other areas of government to strengthen the market," Humphrey said in a statement.

"What is needed is action," he said. "Delay by Congress or the administration will bring further economic trouble."

The Assistant Senate Democratic leader, who talked Thursday in New York with stock exchange officials and other financial leaders, proposed cuts of 2 to 4 percent in corporate levies and 2 percent in personal taxes.

Meanwhile, the recent gyrations of the stock market prompted Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, to ask Congress to approve a $750,000 investigation of the market by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

"Congress ought to know what influences the stock market and how these influences affect the health of the business and credit systems," said the Texas Democrat.

The Tuesday's surging rally of the New York Stock Exchange continued Thursday and over the two days an estimated $20.8 billion was added to the quoted value of listed stocks. This more than made up Monday's $19.5-billion loss.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon told the House Ways and Means Committee Thursday the administration was not supporting any immediate income tax cut.

The Treasury has said, however, that such cuts probably will be proposed next year as a part of a tax overhaul measure which will include some provisions to increase revenues in other ways.

Humphrey proposed the tax cuts in a four-point program in which he also called for:

1. A commitment by government and private industry that unemployment will be reduced to not more than 4 per cent of the work force. The rate now is 5.4 per cent.

2. A stepped-up and expanded public works program placed into operation at once.

3. A massive overseas selling campaign and immediate approval of the Foreign Trade Expansion Act.

Humphrey said that in addition to income tax cuts there should be immediate action on the investment tax credit designed to help business modernize its plant and equipment. This is included in the tax bill passed by the House but tied up in the Senate Finance Committee.

Robert Kennedy Opens Drive On Communists

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has petitioned the Subversive Activities Control Board to require 10 persons to register with him as members of the Communist party.

With this action Thursday the government opened another front in its campaign to unmask the party, its leaders and members.

The Supreme Court cleared the way for the Justice Department last June when it ordered the party to register with the board under provisions of the 1950 Internal Security Act as an agency of Moscow. The party appealed but the court last October refused to reconsider.

Kennedy said in his announcement that the 10 persons were elected to the party's national committee in December 1959. He identified them in separate petitions as:

William L. Patterson, 71, chairman of the party's New York district; Betty Gannett Tormey, 55, and William Albertson, 52, both of the New York party committee and board; all of Brooklyn.

Arnold Samuel Johnson, 57, national legislative director; Miriam Friedlander, 48, New York party committee member, and Louis Weinstein, 59, New York party committee and board member; all of New York City.

Albert J. Lima, 54, Oakland, Calif., chairman of the party's Northern California district; Roscoe Quincy Proctor, 41, Berkeley, Calif., former member of the North California district committee; Dorothy Healey, 47, Los Angeles, Southern California district chairman, and Burt Gale Nelson, 52, Seattle, Northwest district chairman.

Mrs. Tormey and Weinstein were convicted in 1953 and served prison terms of two and three years respectively, on charges of violating the Smith Act which prohibits the teaching of violent overthrow of the government.

The 10 named in the petitions have 26 days in which to reply. The board then will conduct hearings and its decision in each case will become final only after review by the courts.

The maximum penalty for failure of an individual to register—if he refuses to do so after the board orders him to—will be five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

First of 32nd Troops to Start Home July 24-25

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — The 10,000 men of Wisconsin's 32nd Infantry Division will head home in three large contingents during July and August, with the first group leaving July 24 or 25.

Division headquarters said Thursday the first group to depart will be an advance detachment of 2,500 men traveling by private car and reaching their home stations by July 31. They will be joined by the main body of troops, about 5,000 men, by Aug. 8. All will remain on active duty with full pay until Aug. 10.

The remaining 2,500 men will take care of cleanup work and load the equipment, and leave about Aug. 18. They will be mustered out before Aug. 31.

The announcement said that division members not traveling by private car will return home by government furnished air and rail transportation. The men will receive their July and August pay, allotments and accrued leave and travel pay before they leave Ft. Lewis.

The 32nd Division, a former National Guard unit, was called to active duty last October at the time of the Berlin crisis to serve not more than a year. The tour of duty will be 2 to 3 months short of the maximum.

Encores for Goodman

Young Muscovites Love It

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP) — When you saw it they live—even in Moscow.

Benny Goodman's hand souped up an old Cossack melody, "Meadowlands," with some good old Mississippi River sludge Thursday night and had young Muscovites hopping.

The American "king of swing" brought fans out of their seats and marching toward the stage—a gesture of a happy crowd in the Soviet Union.

A few firm volunteer police wearing red arm bands kept the enthusiasts in check but didn't try to put a damper on the gay festivities.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's stamp of approval, showing up at the opening concert the night before, put the audience in a relaxed mood for music they often had heard officially criticized.

The government brass stayed home Thursday night and the crowd of 5,000, including Soviet beatnik poet Evgeny Yevushenko, let go.

Goodman was called back for 25 minutes of encores.

Asparagus, corn, cucumbers, assorted cooking greens, lettuce, onions, spinach, squash, tomatoes and potatoes are plentiful in most areas.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Businessmen Feared Crisis in Confidence

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A crisis in confidence is what businessmen, stock traders, and almost everyone else fear most.

And the thing they had been fearing for several weeks seemed to be taking sudden and sickening shape Monday. Businessmen as well as stock owners breathed easier Tuesday afternoon when the market came back—whether from a return of confidence, from an opportunity to buy bargains, from a chance to make a quick buck, didn't seem to matter.

The five-month drop in stock averages from their peaks had been taken in stride by most top business executives around the country. They didn't like it but they had been expecting it.

Even the sharper rate of decline in recent weeks after the steel crisis, with its overtones of a fundamental clash between government and business over Washington's role in setting industrial policies, left many of them cautious but still optimistic about the near term outlook for business.

Executives were perhaps more calm about it in other sections of the country than in New York where daily market fluctuations, and especially rumors, seem to have a greater impact on business thinking.

Almost without exception, business leaders who have expressed opinions have said that a shakeout in the stock market, if orderly, might be a good thing in disguise, by deflating some stock prices way out of line with earning prospects.

But to this they always added a big "unless"—unless the general public lost confidence. The fear was that this might spread from selling of stocks to curtailing consumer spending.

The rush to sell stocks all day Monday and early Tuesday, with the general public, the small holders, credited with doing most of the dumping, seemed to bear out their worst fears—a crisis in confidence.

Kennedy Spurs Investigation of Texas Shooting

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — President Kennedy's interest in the case is spurring an FBI investigation of the mysterious death of an Agriculture Department official who died in the affairs of Billie Sol Estes, the Dallas News reported today.

A Texas grand jury also is looking into the shooting of Henry H. Marshall, 52, found dead on his farm near Franklin Tex., a year ago. The body was exhumed and a pathologist said Marshall probably was murdered. At the time of his death, a justice of the peace decided it was suicide.

In a copyright story, the Dallas News said the President's personal interest prompted his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to order the FBI to step up its investigation.

Marshall was shot five times. A bolt action .22 caliber rifle was found near the body.

Spiking Not Included With Dance Permit

ST. PAUL (AP) — Presence of an officer at a dance hall doesn't excuse the owner of the dance hall permit from responsibility in seeing that persons do not spike drinks during the dance. Atty. Gen. Walter F. Mondale said Thursday.

F. J. Clemensen of Breckenridge, Wilkin County attorney, asked Mondale if revocation may be instituted where consumption of intoxicating liquor is permitted on the premises.

"If evidence is found of a condition that would have prohibited the issuance of the permit in the first instance," he said, "subsequent existence of that condition constitutes grounds for revocation of the permit."

Park Brewery Building Goes Down in Hurry

A 59-year-old Mississippi River front landmark disappeared within a two-hour period Thursday morning when a wrecking crew razed the Park Brewing Co. plant at the foot of Walnut Street to provide a site for Peerless Chain Co.'s new $40,000 general office building.

A three-man crew headed by Ray Thilmany, 107 Chatfield St., labor foreman for WMC Inc., which has the contract for construction of the new building, started work at 10 a.m. and had the two-story brick building down to ground level by noon.

A steel ball swinging from a crane was used to knock down the walls of the building. A bulldozer now will be used to complete the leveling and push brick and other debris into the basement as a fill.

WMC plans to begin pouring footings for the new 48- by 72-foot Peerless Chain office building Monday and will then await arrival of structural steel to be used as supporting members for the raised-level structure.

Designed by Eckert & Carlson, Winona architects, the general offices will be nine feet above ground level. The area under the building will be used as a parking lot.

Burlington Bus Taken for Ride To Centerville

Theft of a 32-passenger bus from the Chicago Burlington & Quincy Railroad ticket office, 100 E. 2nd St., is the latest in a series of major thefts reported this week to police.

Reported over the Memorial Day holiday were thefts of a $1,000 trailer house, a $450 outboard motor and a portable transistor radio.

Police said today they are investigating the incidents but have not yet made any arrests.

The bus, which was parked near the ticket office, was first discovered missing about 10:35 p.m. Thursday when John Starzec, 1028 Gilmore Ave., agent on duty, received a telephone call from someone in Wisconsin who said they had seen the bus go on Highway 35 toward Centerville and thought it was strange.

Starzec looked for the bus and saw it was gone. He immediately called police who contacted the Trempealeau County Sheriff's office at Whitehall.

Although Trempealeau County authorities set up a roadblock near Centerville, it was Burlington personnel who found the bus about half an hour after it was discovered missing at 11:15 p.m. The bus was parked on the west side of Centerville.

It was still in good working order. Nothing was damaged, a Burlington official said.

Engineers Say 52-Foot-High Bridges OK

Construction of the interstate highway bridge over the Mississippi below the Dresbach Dam moved a step closer with the recommendation of the Corps of Engineers that the clearance height be established at 52 feet.

The review report was submitted to the U. S. Senate Public Works Committee Thursday.

This new height is seven feet higher than the original 45 feet approved by the engineers.

Federal highway authorities have requested a 35-foot clearance, which was backed by state highway departments along the river, pointing out millions would be saved on the four-lane bridges built to the lower height. Such structures, they said, would provide ample clearance for any towboat now operating on the river or that may be constructed in the future.

A bill pending in Congress would establish a 55-foot clearance as requested by the Mississippi Valley Association.

Interstate bridges at Dresbach and Le Claire, Iowa, are involved. Below St. Louis bridge clearances vary; some are more than 100 feet above flood level.

The engineers were asked to make a restudy after the 53-foot clearance was approved by the house.

Short 'Summer': Mercury Under 50

The weatherman and the poets seem to have a different idea about June.

For what in literature is supposed to be the finest month of the year opened on the cloudy and chilly side in Winona today. The temperature slumped to a disagreeable 48 this morning and is slated to slide to between 38-48 tonight. It was only 54 at noon today.

and also cooler than the May average. In the month just closing the temperature rose to 90 and dropped to 40 for a monthly mean of 63.15. These figures compare with 87 a year ago for the May high and 31 for the low, giving a 1962 May mean of 50.65. Normal for the month is 56.5.

Precipitation in May this year totaled 3.28 contrasted with 3.53 a year ago and the normal figure of 4.06.

June opened a year ago with a high of 87 and a low of 56. All-time high for June 1 was 96 in 1934 and the low 33 in 1897. Mean temperature for the past 24 hours was 54. Normal for this day is 65.

Oral Vaccine Huge Success in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Nearly half a million San Antonio residents took Sabin oral polio vaccine Thursday in a mass move to avert a possible epidemic.

"The campaign was a fantastic success," City Manager Jack Shelley said.

Health officials counted 494,141 people who ate sugar cubes saturated with the vaccine at 48 stations. San Antonio has a population of about 600,000.

Doctors organized the campaign after the city recorded its 12th case of the year last year. There had been two a year ago.

Eight other cases have been reported in surrounding cities. In one town, Dille, there have been two deaths. San Antonio sent 2,000 doses of the oral vaccine to Dille.

Driver Guilty of Muffler Charge

Robert A. Lubinski, 23, 56 High Forest St., was found guilty by Municipal Judge S. D. J. Bruski on a charge of driving with illegal mufflers.

Lubinski had pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned May 19.

HIGHWAY Patrolman Oscar Krenske testified that he arrested Lubinski during a routine safety light check at 9:15 p.m. May 19. He said the mufflers on Lubinski's car were excessively loud in his judgment.

Lubinski testified that he had bought the car recently. He said that he since had tried to get the mufflers fixed.

The problem is complicated, he maintained, because his car is a foreign make. Its structure is different and the muffler is harder to adjust. Lubinski also contended that the Jaguar has a reputation for being noisy.

Lubinski said he believed he should have been issued a warning rather than an arrest ticket.

Richard Darby, Winona County assistant attorney, prosecuted.

AFTER HIS formal testimony,

Lubinski admitted he did not have a title to his car and that he did not have liability insurance.

Judge Bruski sentenced him to pay a $15 fine or serve five days in county jail. He paid the fine.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Never swallow a bolt, no matter how much you might like the taste!" was the advice of beautiful and extremely shapely Jane Morgan, the singer, as she languished the other day in Doctors' Hospital trying to get rid of one lodged in a muscle near her colon.

If she's gotten rid of it by the time you read this, she still feels the same way.

Doctors meant well, no doubt, but they insisted she stand on her head regularly several times a day trying to shake it loose (the bolt, not her head).

Friendly souls wrote in proposing that she try to pull it out with an electric magnet.

Jane, who swallowed the bolt from some clam chowder she'd made herself, was a leading candidate for Belle Poitrine (Beautiful Bosom) in "Little Me," and found this all very annoying. The bolt wasn't moving... she wasn't either... she knew what it meant to be bolted down.

Eddie Fisher's now got offers to sing at a gala in Monte Carlo, and at the Paris Olympia — part of his comeback. The flow-ers signed "Elizabeth" were probably some publicity idea... John Mason Brown's preface to his biography of Robert Sherwood in the current "Horizon" indicates he's producing one of the greater books of our era... Bob Six, prez of Continental Airlines, and husband of Audrey Meadows, got a $5 million insurance check for the loss of that jet in Iowa — and is ordering a new jet "on the phone" at $5,392,000. The insurers paid off the day after the crash.

Speaking of big money, B'way Comic Gene Baylos, while in Hollywood, was asked to play "Mandy the Croupier" in a "77 Sunset Strip" show. He had to join Screen Actors Guild ($200) and got big money ($150) so, he says, "I lose $50 for the day, besides a lot of sleep, as I have to get up at 7 a.m. But I don't mind the money. I'm in the 11 percent bracket."

Billy Rose and Ben Hecht are close friends and so this was kidding: Billy told Hecht he'd like him to write a book about "the new Billy Rose," adding, "I'll pay you for it." Hecht cracked: "This is the new Billy Rose!"

Irving Berlin, whose "Mr. President" has a $1.3 million advance, says the collaborators, producer, director etc., "have to get into a lot of fights and do a lot of screaming," otherwise a show's probably no good... Marty ("Hello Dore") Allen's trying to get his wild hair cut insured with Lloyd's of London but it's asking questions like "How do we know you aren't going bald tomorrow?"

Strip-teasing has gone bust in London, the public got tired of over-exposure, several strip spots have gone over to gambling. "JFK is a great man," claims Joe E. Lewis, "He lost his PT boat in World War II. Luckily, he had an allowance, so he bought another one."

Polly Bergen's three kids have chicken pox in Las Vegas, where Polly is working... Marlene Dietrich and Carroll Baker visited Maxim's in Paris, and some guests asked Marlene if Carroll was her "other daughter"...

Sloan Simpson said at La Chansonnette she'll open two sporting goods stores in Acapulco. (She says she "wouldn't mind getting married," but has no one in mind).

EARL'S PEARLS: A career woman is just a gal who takes up a man's subway seat during the rush hour.

DEAR ABBY:

Voice of the Outdoors

Another 10-pounder Memorial Day 1962 will be remembered by the smiling young man pictured above as the day he caught the big fish. He is Gordon Gutzman, physical director at the Winona Y.M.C.A., and resides at 724 W. Broadway. He got it while spin-fishing on a sonar off the Banta Barge below the Alma dam.

However, not too many big walleyes or 11 lbs. of them were taken over the holiday. The weather and river did not cooperate. The gates were wide open at all the channel dams, the river was rough and nearly a ten to 11-foot stage at Winona, or double normal pool level or only a foot and a half below flood stage. The flow was over the 85,000-cubic-feet-per-second rate at the Winona Dam this morning.

This high water condition with the cool, rainy weather cut pleasure boating to a minimum over the holiday. Sandbars are pretty well submerged, and dangerous deadheads were floating just below or on the surface, which means to the experienced boater proceed with caution. Seldom are these deadheads sources of serious accidents but cause the loss of a propeller or a dent in a boat is common.

Those fishermen who did not turn back after a look at the river did get some fish. It was hard work, mostly over old submerged windmills. The current was too powerful below open gates of the dams for comfortable fishing. White bass were hitting from the floats and crappies and northers in some of the backwaters.

Predictions are that the river will crest before Sunday and the stage will become stationary for a couple of days. The water is fishably clear. In fact, some of the sloughs Wednesday appeared to be a bit on the too-clear side for real good fishing.

Trout fishermen, unless heavy rain comes, will find all three branches of the Whitewater fishable. The only branch that was cloudy Thursday was the South Branch. The Whitewater was fished heavily Memorial Day and because of recent planting, most fishermen caught some trout.

Speaking of fish planting, 1,000 northern fingerlings were put in Lake Winona at Franklin Street, by the Minnesota Fisheries crew from Lanesboro. The fish were secured by Russell Hanson, superintendent, to adjust the balance of fish life in the lake. The northers will, as they grow up, control the oversupply of panfish, providing the big bass and large crappies don't eat them all up while they are small.

Retriever Trials
The present high water which is cresting today, will not delay the big circuit retriever trial of the Tri-State Hunting Dog association that will get under way at 8 a.m. Saturday on Prairie Island, club officials stated today.

Some of series will be shifted to different locations, an official stated, but as a whole it will not in anyway handicap the running of any of the heats. In fact, the water work probably will be bettered by this higher stage of the water in the sloughs. None of the heats are run in any waters of the main channel.

The Winona Dam spillway is running level at the present time. The flow down Straight Slough has a current with strength almost equal to the main channel. However, all water events are above or away from the spillway.

Owners and handlers were arriving in Winona today and some of them have set up camping facilities on Prairie Island. Incidentally, the camping area at Merrick State Park is flooded, and will not be usable this weekend. The upper picnic grounds, of course, are high and dry.

She's Uniform In Her Likes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I share an apartment with another girl. This girl is absolutely crazy over uniforms! She has lost her head over policemen, soldiers, sailors, marines, airline pilots, ushers and even Western Union boys. Just show her a uniform and she goes limp. She is not a child. She's 29 and ought to know better. She has paid dearly for this weakness of hers. How can I talk her out of it?

DEAR BETTER: You can't. She has a fixation — brass buttons. Introduce her to a Salvation Army man. Maybe he can save her soul.

DEAR ABBY: When a woman deliberately steals another woman's husband, she is robbing her of her means of support, the father of her children and everything of value in that woman's life. So why doesn't the Law step in and do something about it? When a man steals a horse of an automobile, he is made to pay a fine or is sent to prison, yet husband stealers go free. Why?

DEAR ROBBED: Because a man is neither a horse nor an automobile, and if he has all his marbles, he has some say about who "steals" him. Now, there IS a law against kidnapping, but I doubt if many women have been found guilty of it under those circumstances.

DEAR ABBY: I may not be the world's best wife, but I am the world's best actress. To get to the point, I can't stand my husband. He doesn't know it because I put on a good act, but sometimes I feel like I can't stand him near me another minute. We don't quarrel. He is a fine father to my children. He gives me everything I want. I have my own car, a lovely home, and we have a good social life. I can't explain it, Abby, but I am merely going through the motions of living. I keep secretly wishing something would happen to him so I could be free without leaving him. Do you think I am losing my mind? I can't tell this to anybody but you.

DEAR POOR: You may be experiencing a glandular or chemical change, causing doubts, boredom and depression. Be candid with a good doctor. Or you could be hankering for a kind of wild and forbidding romance that is especially attractive to an "actress." Don't reach. You could lose your perch. There are many women who want desperately what you already have.

Abby

The Casual Observer

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

TODAY I took the last of my six "surprise cans" off a cupboard shelf and opened it. It turned out to be some rather dismal canned carrots, most of which ended up in Shoshoni's dog dish. But I had to laugh when I remembered how I came by that can. Several years ago I took a little three-year-old boy shopping with me at a supermarket that had miniature shoppers' carts for children. The little boy was delighted and rushed up and down the aisles pushing his cart. He was very good about obeying my instructions not to take anything off the shelves.

I put six cakes of soap, two cans of peas and two cans of corn in my cart. Then the little boy begged to be allowed to wheel some groceries around, so I transferred the soap and the four cans to his cart and continued my shopping. When it was time to go through the checker he wheeled his cart next to mine. Beaming with pride he said,

"Look what I did for you. I took all the old paper off the soap and I took it off the cans too."

In his cart I saw the six bars of soap with wrappings torn off. And the labels were neatly torn off the cans too. And instead of the four cans I had bought there were SIX shiny blank cans! There was nothing to do but take all six cans.

All of them were the same size so I never knew what I was opening. When I opened what I was sure would be a can of peas to go with roast lamb it would turn out to be corn. And when I wanted corn for corn fritters it would be peas. One of the two extra cans turned out to be red kidney beans, which I can't stand. And today's can was carrots. Now all six mystery cans are used up and I'll rather miss the excitement of guessing what's inside.

There is real melodrama in the world of birds. As they have for a number of years a pair of bluejays raised a family in an oak tree just up the slope behind the kitchen. It's always fun watching the bluejay babies learn to fly. First they try flapping awkwardly from one branch to another of their familiar oak tree, then they graduate to my washline and woodpile, always with a great lot of teetering and squawking and wild flapping.

The other evening about 7 o'clock I was poking out dandelions in the back yard and listening to the plaintive "weeep-weeep-weeep" of three young bluejays who were just learning to fly from branch to branch of their oak tree just up the bank from where I was weeding. Suddenly there was a strange and chilling whoosh. Scared, I jerked my head up just in time to see the finish of a hawk's dive, and the next instant he leveled off over the oak tree clutching in his talons a big fat young bluejay, then zoomed off skimming the treetops.

The parent jays were up and after him, and I've never heard such angry and distressed screaming. I could hear them screaming far up the hill as they chased him. But it must have been hopeless because in a few minutes they were back in their oak tree crying agitatedly. And I really mean crying. If I've ever heard a cry of grief that was it. Their usual brassy "Jay-jay-jay" had a distinct downward inflection at the end of each "jay" that sounded like weeping. They kept up this distressed crying through the dusk with the babies "weeeping" forlornly until it got dark. Made a person feel bad.

Driver Injured At La Crescent

LA CRESCENT, Minn. — One person was injured and extensive damage resulted from a one-car accident at Highways 61 and 16 at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday.

The Highway Patrol reported that Catherine L. Evenson, 24, La Crosse, was driving west on Highway 61 and approaching a stoplight at Highway 16 at La Crescent.

She told authorities that she was confused and did not know which way to turn. She struck the boulevard which separates the highway at that point, knocked down a barricade post and three road signs. Her 1953 model car was declared a total loss by a patrolman. She was accompanied by Norman A. Seml, 35, also of La Crosse.

She was taken to Lutheran Hospital, La Crosse, where she was treated for cuts and bruises on her body and face and a possible broken nose. She was released later in the day.

The Highway Patrol charged her with careless driving and having no driver license.

Missing Tacoma Child Sought

Where is She?

A blond 9-year-old girl, Ann Marie Burr, has been missing from her Tacoma, Wash., home since Aug. 31, 1961, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Burr, have turned to newspapers across the country for help.

Two hundred American newspapers, including the Daily News, have received photos and descriptions of the girl who police say vanished mysteriously from her bedroom last August. An intruder is thought to have entered the home and taken the blonde, hazel-eyed, 4-foot 2-inch youngster.

The parents refuse to give up hope and are trying to reach readers across the nation who may have seen their daughter. A reward of $5,000 is offered for information leading to Ann Marie's return or to the conviction of possible abductors. Communications should be made with D. G. Hager, chief of police, Tacoma, Wash.

Warm Weather Plays

Tricks With Food

DON'T LET A case of food poisoning spoil your summertime eating enjoyment, is the warning issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association.

Food poisoning may occur at any time, says the Association, but the incidence is greatest in warm weather when refrigeration and food protection methods are inadequate. Whether the food is part of a family meal, a picnic or barbecue, or a hot dog and root beer at the nearby drive-in, caution must be the byword.

A number of foods are more vulnerable to food poisoning and should be avoided unless it can be positively proven that they are safe. Leading food poisoning troublemakers include: Chicken, beef and ham salads; sea food salads; egg salad; potato salad; custard pastries, pies and puddings; creamed foods; and meats which have not been fully cooked.

USE COMMON sense to avoid the possible danger of food poisoning. When traveling, select only reputable eating establishments. When preparing foods for the family dinner table or outdoor snack, make certain that all canned foods have been cooked for at least ten minutes before serving. Serve only pasteurized milk.

Most community water supplies may be considered safe. However, bottled water supplies are recommended when private camp or picnic water sources are in question.

Avoid packing that picnic basket long hours before the food is to be eaten. It may be economical to save the noon meal left-overs for the evening meal, but it may not be wise. The foods usually found in the family picnic basket can also be a picnic for bacteria troublemakers. Keep unrefrigerated foods covered until they are to be served. Invest in a portable ice box if picnic lunches are your favorite sport.

CERTAIN REGIONAL foods may appeal to the vacationer. Approach these foods with caution unless you are certain that you will not suffer from an upset stomach, hives, or other allergic reactions.

Shifts Seen

In Retail Ranks

THERE ARE NO newcomers this year to the list of the top 20 retailers, but there has been a milling-around in the ranks. Still at the top is the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., but even it shows bruises from competition with a slight drop in both sales and profits.

Behind the changes in the retail honor role, a national business publication observes some clear trends:

1. Variety stores are moving into so-called "discount" operations, both to find new customers and to defend themselves against discount competition.

2. Food stores are diversifying into softgoods, and variety or junior department stores are setting up food departments. Both have had to establish new, lower-cost outlets to meet the demand so eagerly exploited by the "discount" stores. This has had a depressing effect on profits.

3. Mergers and acquisitions in retailing last year hit the highest mark in years as managements attempted to cope with shrinking margins.

4. Stores have had to become more promotion-minded. Says the head of one large chain: "While competition is recognized as an ever-present factor in food retailing, the situation became extremely acute last year . . . and many food retailers turned to new and often extreme promotional devices to attract customers." Case in point—trading stamps in greater use than ever before.

The constant search for increased growth adds up to a period of turmoil unlike anything the retailing business has experienced in many years, comment leaders in the field. Moreover, when the economy wavered last year, it caused some of the decreases in sales and profits.

AND, THEY CONCLUDE, even though retailing this year is close to a runaway pace, the top 20 will not find a smooth upward path. The customer's desire these days apparently is for one-stop shopping. As the big retailers bend to the customer's whim at various times and in varying degrees, there are going to be more changes in the nature of their businesses.

Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding. Job 28:28.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

Kennedy Has Vast Powers

By SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

President Kennedy's use of government power to force the steel companies to rescind their price boost has focused the attention of Congress and the American people on attempts to increase the scope of executive power.

Frankly, I don't believe it is generally understood just how much additional power the President has asked for in his legislative programs.

These requests have been arriving in Capitol Hill in bits and pieces—scattered through dozens of Presidential messages to Congress on all conceivable subjects. But, nevertheless, they have been formally proposed, and the President's lieutenants in the New Frontier are busily trying to get them translated into law.

When you add them all up, you find the operating blueprint for a planned American economy manipulated by government and directed from Washington, an economy in which the major decisions are relegated to the theorists and bureaucrats, an economy in which the natural laws of supply and demand would play an ever smaller role in the business life of the nation.

TO IMPLEMENT this plan, President Kennedy is seeking vast new federal powers in almost every important economic field. He is, in actual fact, asking for more power than any President has ever held when this country was not engaged in an all-out shooting war.

Here are some of the new powers the President has asked Congress to give him:

1. The power to cut taxes as much as 5 percent without the prior approval of Congress.

2. The power to influence the supply and cost of money through authority to appoint his own chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

3. The power to launch massive new public works programs on his own initiative.

4. The power to borrow public works money from the funds of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the Federal Home Loan Bank, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. and other special agencies.

5. The power to cut tariffs on a huge, unprecedented scale over a period of five years.

6. The power to exercise more controls over the nation's agriculture.

7. The power to extend federal influence into local communities through a Department of Urban Affairs.

These are not only great new powers the President is seeking; but they also are unusual powers.

FOR EXAMPLE, let's consider his request for the power to adjust income taxes. This has always been the sole prerogative of Congress and has always been exercised for the sole purpose of raising revenues. Now the administration wants to use the taxing powers for economic planning and manipulation.

The changes in the income tax rates would be made when the White House planners decided that business conditions required such a shift. And where is the economist, regardless of how many university degrees he holds, who is qualified to decide some bright morning that taxes should be reduced to stimulate consumer spending.

OF COURSE, there is no certainty that a sudden stimulus to consumer spending would come at the right time. Nobody knows when a recession has run its course or when another is about to begin. I doubt if the passage of a law by Congress would invest the White House planners with the special insight needed to decide when tax rates should be arbitrarily adjusted.

In this case, it would be well for the American people to understand that if the President is given the power to lower tax rates, the next step may well be to seek power to raise taxes by White House decree.

How do you stand, sir?

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Business Seen Out to Give Kennedy Lesson

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has held almost daily huddles with economic advisers over the stock market. He is quite worried. What chiefly worries him is that the fear psychology similar to that which gripped the country at the time of the Hoover panic will take hold.

Actually, the reports given him by his Economic Advisory Council are excellent. They show retail business at an all-time high, auto sales up, savings deposits good, housing starts better than last year.

However, a panic psychology could undermine all this — if it keeps up. And there is one factor that Kennedy's economic experts haven't figured on and which at first they refused to believe — namely, big business vengeance.

For some time reports have been going around Wall Street that top industry leaders had decided to teach Kennedy a lesson. He had not only slapped them down in the steel price controversy but called them "S.O.B.s." It was the first time the President of the United States had ever won out in a battle with the steel majors, and the report was that they had decided to give a lesson to the "brash and cocky young man in the White House."

These reports began to circulate shortly after Kennedy forced the steel price rollback. Now they have reached proportions where both the administration and big stock-market investors are inclined to believe them.

THE retaliation, according to Washington reports, is not taking the form of dumping big blocks of stocks; rather, it takes two very practical and potent forms:

1. Hand-sitting in regard to new plant construction and modernization.

2. Closing down marginal plants and putting money into factories in the European Common Market where labor is cheaper, taxes lower, and business is more prosperous.

The latter strategy has two grave dangers for the Kennedy administration. First, it increases the drain of gold out of Fort Knox, already dangerous, and could endanger the dollar.

Second, it could mean an unbalance of Kennedy's budget estimates. Because the closing down of marginal factories permits a company to go to the treasury with a tax-loss carry-back. And if enough companies do this, the loss of tax income could run into many hundreds of millions of dollars.

The hand-sitting strategy in regard to new plant construction and modernization has an important political objective. It not only teaches "that young whippersnapper in the White House," as they call him at the Duquesne Club and the Union League, a real lesson, but what industry wants most is a healthy depreciation allowance in writing off new equipment. Kennedy has already promised this, but industry wants to make sure it's substantial. Industry also doesn't like the withholding tax on stock dividends, Kennedy's deficit spending, or almost anything else about medical care, aid to education, or the Kennedy social program.

SO A QUIET slowdown strike on new plant equipment and modernization will decide whether the young man in the White House or the leaders of industry are the boss of American economy.

This psychology, whether justified or unjustified, has contributed materially to the panic psychology on the stock market.

The biggest business in the U. S. A. is not U. S. Steel or American Telephone and Telegraph, but administering the affairs of the 22,000,000 veterans of the United States. The Veterans Administration does everything for its wards from protecting orphans to supplying burial flags for caskets.

Into this sometimes unwieldy agency has come a recent new breath of efficiency in the form of a puckish, silver-haired administrator named John S. Gleason, Jr., who not only processes veterans' claims with record speed but even answers them in plain English.

He has been waging a quiet war against government bloat. A long letter from a veteran claiming he was overcharged for his GI insurance, for instance, received this straight reply: "You're right. We're wrong. Here's a check for the difference."

UNDER GLEASON, veterans hospitals treated 28,000 more patients last year than the previous year with the same number of beds. This was accomplished by a Gleason order to convert 75 hospitals to general hospitals and to improve the medical staffing.

While Gleason was increasing efficiency, he also reduced costs. When Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver revealed that brand name drugs cost far more than the same drugs under generic names, Gleason immediately ordered the Veterans Administration to purchase drugs strictly by generic names. This saves an estimated $3,000,000 annually.

Gleason also closed the remaining 161 one-man contact offices, opened after the war to handle postwar demobilization inquiries but unneeded for 15 years. This meant resisting a lot of political pressure from congressmen, but the new V. A. chief went ahead anyway.

Gleason doesn't get into the headlines but few bureaucrats are doing a better job in Washington.

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Kennedy Aims At Conservatives

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy has launched the 1962 congressional campaign with a declaration of war on the conservatives in his own party. He has asked the voters in northern states, particularly to elect Democrats in the place of any Republicans, whether or not they happen to be conservatives.

The significance of this move has not yet been sensed even in the political arena. But it means that the coalition of Republicans and Democrats, which for the last 25 years has saved America from radicalism and socialism, is to be broken down if the President has his way.

Two speeches within the last six days by Mr. Kennedy emphasize his attitude toward the existing coalition. He said, for instance, to the 1962 campaign conference for Democratic women at a meeting on the White House lawn a few days ago:

"Nearly every issue which comes before the House and Senate today is settled by one vote, one way or the other. Cong. Boggs, on the trade bill — nearly every important vote on the trade bill in the Ways and Means Committee was settled in our favor by one vote. We lost the agricultural bill in the Senate—agricultural committee on which Sen. Humphrey sits—by one vote. We passed it in the House of Representatives, out of the agricultural committee, by one vote."

Just before the above speech, Mr. Kennedy told a Democratic party rally in Madison Square Garden that the coalition—or "balance of power," as he calls it—must be defeated. He said:

"The fact of the matter is, since the loss in 1938—Franklin Roosevelt's second term—when the Democrats lost so many seats—there has been a balance of power in the House and Senate which has made it very difficult to pass any new legislation which involves important interests."

"WHAT WE are now talking about is whether the United States, now and after the 1962 election, shall have such a balance of power in the Congress and in the executive that nothing will be done. That's the simple and clear issue. And those who think that nothing should be done, should regard this as an unimportant election."

"But as long as we have so many issues facing us in so many parts of the world, and our own country—so much unfinished business involving all kinds of issues which go to the well-being of our people—as long as we have a necessity for action as the leader of the free world, I believe we should have the opportunity and not have the kind of balance in the Congress which will mean two—many more years of inertia and inaction. That's why this is an important election. Five, ten seats one way or another can vitally affect the balance of power in the Congress and vitally affect our future."

THE PRESIDENT denies that he himself is seeking any more power. He says that this idea is "the oldest old political argument" and that people "should know and realize that the power given to the President of the United States, under the constitution, particularly that of war and peace, is as great a power and in many senses more than man could possibly desire."

The above quotations are taken verbatim from the White House transcript covering Mr. Kennedy's extemporaneous remarks. The topic would seem to have been important enough for embodiment in a prepared address. But an impromptu speech often reveals the innermost thoughts of the speaker. In this case, it is evident that the President is concerned about the "balance of power" against him in Congress and seeks a free hand. Few presidents have gone as far without law to regulate the economy and social life of the nation by executive orders as has Mr. Kennedy. He realizes that the only check could come from Congress. He has today virtually a two-thirds majority of his party in both houses of Congress. But this, in his opinion, isn't enough. It is a shaky majority because the nonradicals and nonsocialists do frequently break away from party lines.

THE MENTION of "war and peace" and "leader of the free world" in the context of political speech-making is somewhat puzzling. For Republicans and Democrats in Congress, whether or not they are conservatives, have generally supported the President on international policies for many years, irrespective of the party affiliation of the man in the White House.

The real issues are on the domestic side. Mr. Kennedy wants enough nonconservative elected on the Democratic ticket for Congress in the North to cancel out the power and influence of the conservative Democrats of the South and perhaps even to take away their committee chairmanships if they fail to join the "rubber stamp" contingent

To Your Good Health

Bladder, Ulcer Symptoms

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Just what is a diseased gall bladder?—M.H.

The liver produces about a pint of bile a day, which is used for digestion. Some of this flows directly to the small intestine. The rest is stored and concentrated in the gall bladder. When needed it flows into the "common bile duct," which also carries bile direct from the liver.

Like any other organ, the gall bladder may become infected. With acute infection, there will be fever; the gall bladder may subside into a chronic state which will make the wall thicken. There's also the problem of crystals or "gall stones"—bile salts or cholesterol crystals form and are the basis for the stones.

There may be a single stone or several, or a sand-like sediment in the "gravel." When these particles try to escape through the small bile ducts, the ensuing colicky pain can be severe.

If only the outlet of the gall bladder is blocked, there will be pain but no jaundice; if the "common duct" is obstructed, bile no longer can escape from the liver, and it backs up into the system causing the yellowness or jaundice.

Gravel or stones may be loose in the gall bladder or may stick to the mucus lining which, in turn, may develop polyps. Cancer of the gall bladder is a possibility.

An acute infection, with pus formation, is referred to as empyema of the gall bladder.

VARIOUS SYMPTOMS are possible: Either sharp pain or vague discomfort in the upper abdomen, centrally or to the right of center. There may be indigestion, gassiness, belching.

Pain may be referred or transmitted to the back, in the area of the right shoulder blade, and even to the tip of the shoulder.

It's not always easy to distinguish these symptoms from those of peptic ulcer, and X-ray becomes important, although with different techniques. Drinking a barium mixture outlines the stomach and duodenum in seeking an ulcer; for gall bladder the patient swallows a dye (in tablet form) the night before X-raying.

Gall bladder cases require careful treatment. I won't generalize because it varies generally. Some cases are best handled by diet and medication; others must have surgery. And no, there isn't anything that will "dissolve gall stones."

and go along with presidential edicts. Many Republican voters in the North will be thinking of participating in the Democratic primaries to join with other conservatives to defeat radical and socialist candidates aspiring for a Democratic party nomination. Mr. Kennedy seems to have flung a new challenge into the congressional elections of 1962.

State Urging Expansion of Arcadia School

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—Expansion of the Arcadia public school plant has been recommended by A. L. Buechner, supervisor of school building services of the state Department of Public Instruction.

His recommendations for building a new elementary school, acquiring property adjacent to the present high school to develop during a long range program, and remodeling and expanding the present building for a comprehensive 7-12 educational program were made in a letter to Clifford Nelson, school board clerk, after he visited the facilities here recently.

BUECHNER SAID his recommendations show many areas of agreement with tentative expansion plans considered by the board.

Public meetings to acquaint people of the district with the plans probably will begin this month.

Because of two parochial schools in the city and two in the area served, elementary enrollment is comparatively small, but the state department recommends closing the Penny School less than three miles east of Arcadia. A room each for grades 1-6 will be needed in the city, he said, and limitations of the present site point to the necessity of acquiring another location in the city for the proposed elementary school.

The present building, Buechner pointed out, represents a substantial investment that should be protected by acquiring adjacent property when it is still available.

EXPANSION of the present building for grades 7-12 should include additional area for shop, music, administrative offices and general and special storage.

The state department also outlined recommendations for a continuing program of present building maintenance and modernization.

In recommending optioning one or more suitable sites for the proposed elementary school and present building expansion and engaging an architect to prepare preliminary plans and estimates, Buechner said:

"An alternate scheme wherein the present school is to be expanded and continued for elementary and secondary use does not in our estimation warrant a preliminary plan since it cannot offer either a comparable short or long-range solution to your building program."

BUECHNER SAID, "It should be noted that financially there are few if any districts in your area of the state that could meet their school building needs in the recommended manner and yet require less than 3 percent of a legal 10 percent borrowing potential."

The present building provides for about 525 high and grade school students. The district operates a two-room school at Waumandee, Pennock rural school, and beginning next fall will operate the Dodge school. Total enrollment is 662.

Buechner surveyed the facilities here at the invitation of the board of education and W. B. Gausch, supervising principal.

Copley pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verse
Sunday	Psalms	8	1-9
Monday	Psalms	1	1-6
Tuesday	John	15	1-8
Wednesday	John	15	12-17
Thursday	Luke	8	4-15
Friday	Romans	12	9-19
Saturday	John	4	19-34

Lonely, gnarled, and neglected, but a thing of beauty, isn't it?

We know that trees are functional, that is, they hold the soil, the good earth, the rain. But more than that, each tree, in loneliness or forest, sings out the praises of its Creator, God.

Much more so, does man reflect the glory and image of God. He too then, must sing out the praise and honor to God, his Creator. There is a place for that worship and honor; it is your church. Whether lonely, solitary, or in crowds, He awaits you... to hear and to answer.

What Do You Believe?

"When people start talking about the Lutheran churches the first thing that comes into their minds is synodical affiliation," the Rev. L. E. Brynstad, pastor of Central Lutheran Church of the American Lutheran Synod, said as he sat behind the desk in his church office.

"Actually synodical affiliation means relatively little," he continued. "The basic beliefs and confessions of all the Lutheran churches in America are the same. The only difference in the synods is the particular area a person came from in the 'Old Country' and the language he spoke."

"GENERALLY THE Lutheran Church of the East is considered the most liberal of the three large groups," he explained. "The American Lutheran Church is looked on as the middle of the road with the Synodical Conference or Missouri and Wisconsin synods being the conservative."

To explain the difference Rev. Brynstad presented a brief history of each of the three groups now in America.

Lutheranism had its historic organic beginning during the Protestant Reformation from 1517-30. The Lutherans put their emphasis on the scriptures as the authority for faith. Salvation was defined as "faith in Christ as opposed to the works of man."

German and Scandinavian immigrants to the United States became the originators of the Lutheran Church in America.

There were three waves of immigration. This caused the three separate synods or groups.

The first group came to this country during the years 1720-30 from the Rhenish Palatinate (Rhine Valley) and settled in the area of Philadelphia and across Pennsylvania. They came to this country because of the persecution of Lutherans in the "Old Country."

Melchior Muhlenberg, their leader, organized the first Lutheran synod in 1748. This synod became the nucleus for the Lutheran Church of the eastern seaboard or the United Lutheran Church of the East.

The second wave of immigrants came to this country in 1833 primarily from Saxony and Prussia because of the spread of deism or the denial of the trinity in Christianity. They settled in or near St. Louis, Mo., and formed the nucleus for the Synodical Conference composed primarily of Wisconsin and Missouri Synods.

The unique characteristic of this group was that since they had left their homeland for the sake of protecting the true Lutheran teachings they wanted no relations with any other group or church. In this way they could preserve the original and true Lutheran beliefs.

The third wave came to the U. S. from the Scandinavian countries of Norway, Sweden and Denmark and settled in the midwestern states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and North and South Dakota between the years of 1840-70.

Each group, since it had its own separate church in the Old Country and since a language barrier did exist, formed its own church according to the language spoken in its native country.

The groups remained separate until the first quarter of the 20th Century when merger began. Scandinavian groups together with separate German groups of the Iowa, Ohio, Wisconsin and Texas synods were organized into the American Lutheran Church or the third leg of the synodical triangle.

"THE HISTORY of the three groups alone would lead you to believe that the differences arose chiefly because of the place of settlement, the language barriers and the periods of immigration," Rev. Brynstad smiled.

"In reality these are the only differences although I'm certain that many people, even in our own church, aren't aware of it."

"Some of the disunity may have come about because the fathers of the church in the Old Country did not permit many qualified leaders to come to this country during the periods of immigration," he continued. "Some leaders did come and everyone that did was responsible for a different synod such as Muhlenberg in the East, Johann Walter of the Synodical Conference and the Preuss family in the American Lutheran Church."

WHAT ACTUALLY is the difference as far as the American Lutheran Church goes?

"The beliefs and confessions of all the Lutheran churches of America are basically the same," Rev. Brynstad explained. "The American Lutheran Church accepts the Augsburg Confession and Luther's Small and Large Catechisms. Others accepted are the Apology of Augsburg, Schmalkald Confession and Formula of Concord."

"We accept, with all of Christendom, the three universal creeds, The Apostles Creed, the Nicene Creed and the Athanasian Creed. The stress and center of faith lies in the emphasis of scripture as the only authority for its teachings."

The doctrines are summarized by these words: "Salvation is by Faith alone. Grace alone and the Word alone."

"These words center in the present that Christ through death on the cross atoned for the sins of man and that man through faith in Christ receives the forgiveness of sins and thus comes to possess the righteousness which is of God rather than of man," Rev. Brynstad explained. "This is the central doctrine of the American Lutheran Church."

WHAT ABOUT the Winona congregation?

"The church here was established in 1871 and called the First Scandinavian Church," he stated. "It ministered to very few people and these became even fewer with the closing of the lumber mills and wagon works at the turn of the century."

"The church remained small until 1920 when it changed its name to Central Lutheran and put the emphasis on the English language," he continued. "During the war years plans were made for expansion and the building program culminated in a new church in 1954."

"The church now has a membership of 2,000. The program is especially aimed at youth," said Rev. Brynstad. "Our Boy and Girl Scout program has an attendance of 165 and the junior and senior high groups each number 100. LSA (Lutheran Students of America) ministers to 300 on the Winona State campus. We also have the boys and girls choirs."

Teresan Math Films Scheduling For Kinescoping

The College of Saint Teresa announced today that 15 kinescoped 28-minute programs on teaching mathematics will be available for rental by September.

Kinescoping will be done by Twin Cities educational Channel 2. This project follows favorable response to a series of 19 telecasts, "Parents Ask About Arithmetic," sponsored by the college in cooperation with Channel 10 from November 1961 to March 1962.

SISTER M. LEONTIUS, OSF, of the college mathematics department, was the teacher-narrator of these programs and Robert Oram, college speech and drama department, was director. The series informed parents of the new approach to arithmetic. A survey showed that over 500 mothers, 300 fathers and more than 1,100 children, as well as an undetermined number of elementary teachers, viewed the program. Tabulations of responses to a questionnaire showed that 43 percent of the parents, 70 percent of the teachers, and 83.3 percent of the administrators who had viewed the first telecasts indicated an interest in seeing some of the series again.

The original 19 scripts have been reduced to 15.

THE REVISED scripts will be examined by a committee of consultants from the elementary teachers of the area public and private schools who will consider the scripts from the point of view of effectiveness of teaching. Each film will be accompanied by a manual.

Sister M. Thomas a Kempis, chairman of the college department of mathematics, said: "This project has the cooperation of the Minnesota National Mathematics Laboratory which has as its advisor, Dr. Paul Rosenbloom, University of Minnesota and consultant for the Minnesota Department of Education. We, at the college, as well as the state committee, feel that it is a privilege to pioneer a set of films of this nature and to assist in the raising of the standards of mathematical teaching as recommended by the Committee on the Undergraduate Program in Mathematics."

The kinescopes are designed to aid elementary school teachers and others who have not had the opportunity to take course work in new approaches to arithmetic. There will be a modest rental fee.

SISTER LEONTIUS has since March appeared before PTA groups in the Twin Cities and the spring meeting of the Minnesota Council of Teachers of Mathematics where she lectured on television as a teaching medium. Aug. 15 Sister Leontius will be a member of a panel discussing television as a teaching medium at the meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics at Madison, Wis.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Organization Key In Writing Theme

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D., Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Jim wanted to be a lawyer—but, for a time, it looked as though he wouldn't make it.

His problem was in writing assignments. His highest grade on his first four papers in freshman English was D-plus. His teacher's major criticism was that his papers were poorly organized.

I ASKED JIM what he thought was wrong. His answer was one I had heard many times:

"I can talk about things but when I start to write them down I think faster than I write. My thoughts crowd up on me."

I told Jim to keep these things in mind when he started his next paper.

—Select a topic you are familiar with or one that arouses your curiosity.

—Get a fresh approach to the topic by bringing your own ideas into it.

—Narrow down your topic. Once you have done your research, state in one or two brief sentences what you are going to write about and stick to it. Don't try to write a history of the world in 1,500 words.

—When you take notes, copy down only what you expect to use for direct quotations. Put other notes in your own words.

—RESEARCH WIDELY, consulting numerous reference books.

—Outline your material into four or five general sections.

—Make the first page interesting.

—Read the material you have gathered at least five times before starting to write. Then write quickly, making your first draft two to five pages longer than the finished product.

—Go over your notes again and write a second draft, adding points you forgot and eliminating minor points.

—Correct your second draft and write the final one.

Once Jim had mastered these points, he turned out to be a solid B writer of papers—and he's well on his way to becoming a lawyer.

Benefits of USDA Cited

LEWISTON, Minn.—Wash-and-wear clothing that has lightened laundry chores, washable woollens, frozen orange juice, the family-size Bellville turkey—these are a few of the many benefits consumers owe to research by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This month marks the beginning of a year-long observance of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's 100th anniversary, reports Virginia Hohmann, Winona County home agent.

THE WASH-and-wear cottons Americans now take for granted were developed through USDA research. So were the stretchable cottons, produced by a chemical treatment that crimps the yarns so they can be pulled easily, yet snap back when tension is relaxed.

Thanks to Department of Agriculture scientists, men's cotton wash-and-wear shirts now should have longer-lasting collars and cuffs.

Researchers in USDA have discovered ways to shrinkproof wool fabrics so they can be washed safely.

Frozen orange juice owes its existence to scientific investigation done in the USDA. In 1944 scientists in the agricultural research service worked with Florida citrus growers on the basic process for freezing concentrated fresh orange juice in small, convenient cans.

Other USDA research has given consumers the small, family-size Bellville turkey. Working with scientists from the University of Minnesota and the land-grant colleges, USDA researchers have developed the meat-type hog to give consumers hams and pork chops with less fat and more lean.

A SERVICE that protects everyone is the department's inspection for wholesomeness of all meats and poultry products in interstate commerce.

Of special help to shoppers is the system of grades and standards developed for beef, butter and eggs.

Improvement in American diets has come as a result of information provided by research in the department on the food needs of different age groups.

Agricultural scientists also have given us the aerosol can, now used for everything from shaving cream to whipping cream.

Turkey Marketing Order Discussion Set at Rochester

ROCHESTER, Minn.—A public meeting for producers in connection with the proposed turkey marketing order will be held here at 8 p.m. June 12.

Representatives of the Minnesota ASCS and extension office will explain the turkey marketing order.

The referendum for the proposed turkey marketing order will be June 18-22.

Echo Ridge Club Erects Safety Sign

LEWISTON, Minn.—The Echo Ridge Pioneer 4-H Club has erected a sign on Leo Rowekamp's farm, 10 miles south of Lewiston.

The sign reads: "Echo Ridge Pioneer 4-H Club. Welcome You. Drive Carefully." The wheels on the simulated covered wagon are 4-H club symbols. Color scheme is green and white.

Each club member helped put the sign in place by putting one shovelful of soil around the supporting posts.

Price Support For Oats .60, Same as 1961

LEWISTON, Minn.—The price support rate for 1962 crop oats in Winona County will be 60 cents per bushel for Grade No. 3 oats, Raymond L. Schell, Winona County ASC committee chairman, reported.

This is the same as last year. Oats eligible for support must grade No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only.

Premiums and discounts which are applied for grade and quality to determine individual producer support rates are unchanged from the 1961 program. The premiums are 1 cent per bushel for grade No. 2 or better, 1 cent for heavy test weight, and 2 cents for extra heavy test weight. Discounts are 1 cent per bushel for grade No. 4 on the basis of test weight only and 3 cents per bushel for garlicky oats.

The chairman pointed out that participation in the 1962 feed grain program for corn, grain sorghum or barley will not be a condition of eligibility for price support on 1962 crop oats. Participation in the 1961 feed grain program was required for 1961-crop oats price-support eligibility.

As in previous years, price support on 1962 crop oats will be carried out through farm-and-warehouse-stored loans and purchase agreements. Oats produced in violation of leases restricting production of surplus crops on federally leased lands will not be eligible for price support in 1962.

Review of USDA In County Planned

LEWISTON, Minn.—A decision to compile and publish a historical review of the beginnings of USDA activities in Winona County and the effect on local farmers and communities was made at a recent meeting of Winona County USDA workers and interested citizens.

The group also urged that interested "old timers" in Winona County should submit items of interest in connection with early USDA activities and their effect on local people. Some present recalled distribution of trial seed packets, liming and cropping information, early livestock feeding and management recommendations, farmers institutes and early DHIIA testing.

It was suggested that local groups and organizations could use annual meetings, the county fair, and other public events to call attention to the USDA centennial in connection with the history of their own organizations.

Buffalo Co. Fair Premiums Available

JUST LIKE OLDTIMES... Ever since he bought a steamer in 1917, Clarence Angst, Gilmore Road, has been using his antiquated machine for various tasks around the area. Whenever he uses the steam rig, crowds gather to watch how it once was done. Each year, Angst plants several acres of grain and uses the rig in most of the operations. The steamer originally was manufactured in 1914. It has a Russell engine and produces 25 horsepower.

Swedish Youth Visiting Family In Buffalo Co.

Eidon Johansson

ALMA, Wis.—Eidon Johansson, International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) student from Sweden, will stay with the Merlin Hauser family at Cochrane from today through June 19, according to Norman L. Haugen, Buffalo County 4-H club agent.

Of special interest to Johansson is the cooperative. Almost every farmer in Sweden belongs to a cooperative and 90 percent of all farm products are sold through co-operatives.

4 Trempealeau Co. Homemakers to Attend Convention at Madison

Mrs. Anderson will preside at Thursday sessions.

IN MINNESOTA

Green Bug Seen West of Here

LEWISTON, Minn.—Green bugs are damaging fields of small grain in southern Minnesota and may move northward across the state, Oliver Strand, Winona County agent, reported.

The grain-attacking aphids were carried into the state on south winds blowing along a stationary front in Western Minnesota. This is a weather condition similar to that causing the destructive green-bug attack of 1959.

JOHN LOFGREN, extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota, reports that infestations by May 20 appeared to be general (but light) in o's and other small grains in south central and southwest Minnesota counties. Some damaged fields have been replanted to other crops.

Green bugs suck sap from plants; grain plants are stunted and yellowed and can be killed from the insects' feeding. Also, the green bug carries and transmits yellow dwarf virus, a disease also known as "red leaf" in oats.

According to Herbert G. Johnson, extension plant pathologist, symptoms of the virus disease usually appear about 15 days after plants are inoculated. Symptoms are discolored upper leaves; yellow in barley and wheat and red in oats. Degree of infection and loss in yield depends mainly on how early infection takes place.

JOHNSON said the virus disease often can be distinguished from other plant maladies such as drought, lack of fertility and wind damage because virus affected plants are usually scattered; with other problems plants are more uniformly affected.

The future of the green bug problem depends a good deal on the weather. Warm weather will promote the activity of insect and cool weather will favor build up of the green bug population.

Lofgren says that because of the virus transmission, use of the chemical sprays to control green bugs is seldom justified. But spraying may help prevent spread of the insects if they are found first along the margins of the field.

Mondovi Man Off to Poland

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special)—Two Mondovi men will leave this week on a journey that will take them behind the Iron Curtain.

Thomas F. Meis and George W. Moats will go to Minneapolis Saturday and proceed by jet for Poland, arriving Monday. They will demonstrate the "world's most portable sawmill," manufactured in Mondovi by Jackson Lumber Harvester Co., Inc., at the 31st International Trade Fair in Poznan, Poland, June 10-24. They also will demonstrate the Lumber Harvester, edger, power unit and the Jackson Livestock and Poultry Bedding Mill which produces wood shavings.

Fifty-four countries will participate in the fair. The Office of International Trade Fairs, a branch of the U. S. Department of Commerce, specifically requested the Mondovi firm to exhibit their portable sawmill at the fair in Poland. Inasmuch as a Russian display of sawmilling equipment also will be shown, the U. S. government desired a sawmill that would prove to the optimum in lumber-producing machinery as well as present itself as a symbol of the American way of life.

Meis, vice president of the company, is originally from Battle Lake, Minn. Prior to joining the corporation he operated a custom sawing service with Lumber Harvester equipment and was later employed in basic chemical research at Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. research and development center, St. Paul.

Moats is originally from Mondovi, Wis. He has been employed at the Jackson Lumber Harvester Co. factory three years as a machinist and welder.

Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

June Is Here

Yes, June is here and with it comes the flower shows. The first of these is the seventh annual peony and iris show staged by the Winona Flower and Garden Club. This show is being held today in the lobby of the Merchants National Bank under the full cooperation of the bank.

Exhibits were registered from 8 to 11 a.m., this morning and the show was open to the public at 2 p.m. It will remain open to visitors until 9 p.m. tonight so there is plenty of time yet today to go into the bank and view the beautiful exhibits of flower specimens as well as attractive floral arrangements.

The cool wet weather that has prevailed the past few days will make the weed crop grow very rapidly which will necessitate some intensive cultivation to eradicate them as soon as the soil becomes dry enough. However, do not become discouraged for this is a common task that we have overcome many times and which will probably confront the gardener always.

A mulch of grass clippings, stored leaves, marsh hay, or other material, will help to control weeds and conserve moisture. Or, perhaps, some gardeners may want to try some of the plastic sheets that are being recommended for this purpose.

WE RELY primarily on a fine dust mulch created by light cultivation, along with old marsh hay previously used as winter covering. The hay is spread about the tomato plants and, also, around the cucumber and melon hills just before the vines start to run.

Very few cut-worms have been encountered in our garden so far this year, but they are always a menace. They are grayish or brownish in color, about an inch long and work mostly at night, cutting off tomato, cabbage, pepper and other plants close to the ground. They also work on glads that are just coming out of the ground, but this damage is not serious as the new leaves that come later are not injured.

AS A PROTECTION against these pests, we place a paper collar about four inches wide around each plant when set out, with one-half of the collar in the ground and the other half above. A six percent chlordane dust worked into the surface of the soil at planting time will help to control cut-worms, as well as wire worms that damage root crops such as carrots.

May is generally a pleasant month, although sometimes like April it is quite unpredictable. This year the hot dry weather that prevailed during the first half of the month hastened the blooming of some of the early plants and shrubs, while the recent cool and rainy days have delayed the flowering of others.

However, the recent weather has been very favorable for the transplanting of shrubs and other plants and we have taken full advantage of it in moving some hydrangeas, spires, honeysuckles and lilacs. By soaking a shrub thoroughly with water and handling it carefully, the transplanting can be successfully done, even though in fairly good leaf. Frequent waterings are necessary after planting until the plant becomes established.

IRIS, OF course, can be divided and transplanted when in full flower, although it is better to do this after the blossoms have faded. The flower stalks should be cut off when this is done.

When you dust or spray the roses don't neglect to give an application to the phlox, lythrum, hollyhocks and other plants that are very susceptible to damage by diseases and insects.

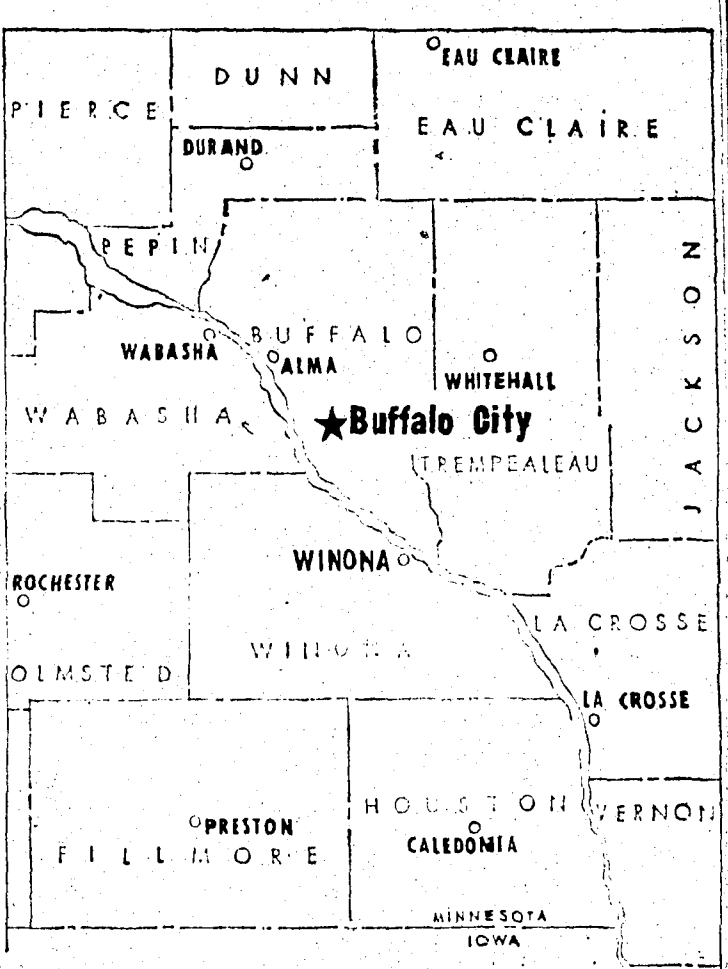

Don't forget to go into the Merchants National Bank this evening and view the beautiful flowers at the peony and iris show.

June Dairy Month will be with us for the next 30 days. This is the best time in the year to come up with new ideas—unique ideas—that sell dairy products.

If you or your club or organization have something original to contribute, why not drop us a line here at the Daily News. We'd be happy to help in whatever way we can to give your scheme some publicity and, indirectly, aid the cause.

Spokesmen at several farmer meetings have pointed out that much is now being done to "knock" the dairy industry. Farmers themselves, they pointed out, could do a lot to correct the misinformation. There isn't a better time to do this than now.

There is much talk about farm programs today. Nearly every farm group has a program. The administration has its program. Individual farmers and businessmen have their own pet solutions to the gigantic farm problems that face America.

Three economists at Purdue University have come up with a program that is worthy of attention. It is featured in this month's edition of "Farm Journal" magazine. Following is the core of the program:

HOW IT WOULD WORK: Retire 80 million acres of our 450 million acres of plowland and get it into other uses. You could bid, voluntarily, to rent land to the government. They'd take either whole farms or part farms on contracts running 3 to 10 years. Feed grains would be supported at a "reasonable" level—but not so high as to store up new surpluses. Present CCC stocks would be isolated—used to fill some of the export needs. Allotments stay on Southern crops.

EXPECTED COST: $1 1/2 to $1 3/4 billion a year at the beginning—less later.

ADVANTAGES: Cuts the most production retired for the money. It helps people—especially those who need it the most, yet it buys the most benefit for all farmers at the lowest cost. Allows you more freedom to decide how you'll farm. No one is forced into anything. Doesn't tie you to your past with quotas and historical bases on crops. Leaves the livestock and poultry business free—helps free enterprise work. Is easier to administer. No quotas to police. You decide what the land is worth—there'd be fewer injustices and complaints.

The wily fox has withstood shotguns, hounds and poison, and still makes many a chicken's feathers stand on end.

According to Milt Sunde, University of Wisconsin poultry specialist, the fox is still a main consideration when you're thinking about putting chickens out on summer range. You can save 30 to 35 cents per bird on feed, get a few more eggs, and make a restricted feeding program work better—if you use pasture. But on the other hand, if a red fox decides to make your plump, little chickens a steady part of his diet, you can lose more than you gain.

With predators in the area, you'll want to get the birds inside every night or erect a high fence. If this costs more than it's worth, then pass up summer range.

If predators are no problem, try short-clipped ladino clover, alfalfa, or alfalfa-ladino. Don't give the pullets as good a feed on range as you do in confinement. Pullets make poor use of pasture, if their ration is too good.

An acre of healthy forest needs 20 years to grow the lumber for a 5-room frame house, according to studies made by the U.S. Forest Service . . . In the Soviet Union, the government owns all the commercial forests; in the United States, federal ownership accounts for only about 25 percent. In Canada, the government owns 90 percent of the timberland; in Great Britain and Ireland, 20 percent, and in Finland, Sweden and Italy, 30 percent . . .

Hunters on national forest lands bagged 682,000 big game animals in 1961, about one-third of all the big game taken in the United States. This harvest, equivalent to 15 percent of the estimated 44 million big game animals living all or part of the year on the National Forests and Grasslands, is well below the rate of game population growth.

STOCK

pace, totaling 10.71 million shares. The New York Stock Exchange's ticker tape was one hour and 46 minutes late at the close of trading.

The exchange ordered brokers to have representatives on the floor Saturday to clear the great mass of paper work.

Profit-taking cut into early gains and raised a threat to continuation of the forward march.

The American, Pacific Coast and Midwest stock exchanges also recorded big gains on heavy volume.

The congressional investigation was proposed by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., who asked Congress to appropriate $750,000 for an inquiry by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

"Congress ought to know what influences the stock market and how these influences affect the health of the business and credit systems," Patman said.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating the securities industry and has uncovered some irregularities. Patman said the SEC probe is "good as far as it goes." He added that he wanted the congressional inquiry to be considered and well designed.

Earlier William Cary, chairman of the SEC, had denied a published report that his agency had ordered an investigation "to explore its suspicions that stock market professionals set the stage" for the plunge. He said he saw no evidence that professionals touched it off.

Brokers around the country were attempting to evaluate the sudden onslaught of buying that sent the market spiraling upward.

"The substantial buying is coming from the public, which always has money to buy bargains," commented William E. Ferguson of the Chicago office of the Thomson & McKinnon brokerage firm.

As for the future, Henri de la Chapelle of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis in Los Angeles said, "The swing of the pendulum is now at its peak and should die down over a period of days. The total decline in the last six months is almost a record and should mark a bottom that should hold for a summer rise for at least a 50 per cent retracement."

"I think the market is going to settle back, tired, and there will be a period of abnormally low activity," said B. K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohn & Stetson in New York. "I expect a lull through the summer with a creeping up on very low volume but it won't be very far."

Boyle's Column
Graduates Want Job Near Top

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Is Joe College getting spoiled?

Many personnel executives think he is.

"University graduates today are not interested in starting at the bottom—they want a job as near the top as possible," grumbled one executive.

"Most of them don't ask what opportunities lie ahead. They want to know 'What's in it for me right now?' They inquire about pension programs, medical care, bonuses, and all kinds of fringe benefits."

"They don't want to live in small towns. They don't want a job that requires them to travel from home much. They are less interested in what they can do for the corporation than in what they can get the corporation to do for them."

"Sometimes they're so choosy you get the feeling the corporation isn't hiring them—they're hiring the corporation."

There is no doubt that ever since World War II life has been getting rosier and rosier for Joe College as he makes an almost effortless step from the campus into business life.

A recent survey by the Family Economics Bureau of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. indicated 1962 graduates will get starting salaries $20 to $30 a month higher than those of a year ago.

The survey showed beginning salaries ranging from $450 to $500 a month awarded liberal arts or business school alumni. Graduates in engineering or science could look forward to even more—$565 to $580.

And a Ph. D. degree holder with some experience could expect from $900 to $1,000 a month.

Ah, me! Those figures awaken a feeling of yore nostalgia in those of us who were graduated just a generation—30 years—ago.

It was a far crueler world that faced the graduates of 1932. No personnel scouts from big firms stood in line to ask how they could make us happy.

That was still in the pit of the great depression, and no one seemed to want us—our alma mater, our parents, or the outside world. A sheepskin was no automatic passport to employment. You couldn't even look forward to a corner on which to sell apples—the best corners were already taken.

To cite a personal example, it was a full year after graduation that I landed my first job. It paid all of $62.50 a month, and I was so glad to get it I could have cried in gratitude.

Two and a half years after leaving college I had worked up to $100 a month. I had been away from the campus 11 full years before I got up to $100 a week.

Maybe Joe College is a bit spoiled, but maybe that isn't all bad either. It's a wonderful thing to be wanted, and to find a welcome market waiting for your talent and ability.

The class of 1962 is emerging into a better and more prosperous and exciting world than did the class of 1932—and that's a good thing, too.

HEAVY HAUL

Dial Telephones Being Installed At Spring Grove

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special)—Workmen and equipment of the Frank Horton Co., Tulsa, Okla., began arriving here this week to complete the dial telephone construction program.

The company will begin installing cable and phones in a few days.

Company officials urged people to sign up now if they want the new dial service and wish their name and number in the directory.

No installation charge will be made if telephone and drop are put in by the contractor before cutover. Chester Hansen, manager, says the contractor can do the work much cheaper and faster than local company workmen could at a later date because of his specialized heavy equipment.

After cutover, a nominal fee will be charged for new installations. Hansen said many farmers are having extensions put in their barns.

The entire $400,000 project, financed by an REA loan, is designed to serve approximately 900 phones in this area.

Clubs Hear Talk On Boating Safety

Boating safety was stressed in a talk by E. M. Allen, before a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at Hotel Winona Thursday noon.

Sufficient funds, $3,400, are available to purchase the required boat, he said, and $2,800 now is in a state provided operating fund.

However, the Board of County Commissioners voted 3-2 against the project at its last session. An attempt will be made to get the project approved at the June meeting of the board, Allen said.

QUALITY CHECK

CHERRY CHOCOLATE TWIST ICE CREAM

SUPER-SCOOPER! Let the youngsters build "mile-high" sundaes with alternate scoops of Quality Check CHERRY CHOCOLATE TWIST, and VANILLA or CHOCOLATE ice cream. Top with chocolate or cherry sauce, whipped cream, and a maraschino.

CHERRY-CHOCOLATE "CAKE" A perfect party dessert. Buy a loaf pound cake and cut lengthwise into three layers. Place CHERRY CHOCOLATE TWIST ICE CREAM between layers and on top for "frosting." Chill in freezer until ice cream is firm. Serve with cherry sauce.

PEANUT POM-POMS! On a square of waxed paper, roll round scoops of Quality Check CHERRY CHOCOLATE TWIST ICE CREAM in crushed peanuts. Place in the freezer, and chill until ice cream is quite firm. Serve one or two scoops in frosty crystal dishes or gay pottery saucers.

Serve it six ways to sundae

Ice cream fans just can't resist... luscious Cherry Chocolate Twist! Snowy vanilla swirled through with ribbons of rich cherry and creamy chocolate... m-m-mmm! For all-out flavor fun, serve it up in sundaes and parfaits with chocolate or marshmallow topping... whipped cream. Let the youngsters dream up their own "soda fountain" treats.
