WASHINGTON Calling

GOP Closing Ranks Quietly

by MARSHALL CHOLDS

Washington — The political balloting is going on within the Republican party every bit as exciting as the action in the House and Senate, and the prospect for G.O.P. candidates is not too good. But, as the television cameras can attest, there are many things that could happen, and even the most optimistic Republican leader would welcome a change in the political atmosphere before the primary elections come around.

It is clear that the Republicans are acting as if they expect a change in the political climate, and that they are trying to avoid giving any indication of their feelings. They are acting as if they are fighting a losing battle, and are trying to keep their followers in line by showing them that there is a chance of change in the coming elections.

The G.O.P. is trying to present a united front, and is trying to avoid any suggestion that they are divided. They are trying to show that they are working hard to win the next election, and are trying to avoid any suggestion that they are not taking the situation seriously.

Washington's Ugly Back Yard Shove Out Front

by DREW FEUER

Washington — The U.S. Senate Yard, which is referred to by many as the "Ugly Back Yard," is being shove out front.

The Senate Yard is a place where many senators have their offices, and is also the place where many of the Senate's most important activities take place. It is a place where many important decisions are made, and is also the place where many of the most important events take place.

Despite the fact that the Senate Yard is a place where many important decisions are made, it is not a place where many people want to be.

Today In National Affairs

What Is Democracy?

by DAVID LAWRENCE

Today, in a world where so many people are fighting to maintain their government as a democracy, we need to remember that democracy is not just a system of government, but a way of life.

Democracy is a way of life that is based on the idea that every person has the right to be free and equal. It is a way of life that is based on the idea that every person has the right to be treated with respect and dignity.

It is important that we remember that democracy is not just a system of government, but a way of life.

Favorite Cold Remedies

I've been doing a lot of reading about the history of medicine, and I've found that there are many remedies that have been used for centuries. One of the most popular remedies is a cold remedy.

One of the most popular remedies is a cold remedy. It is a remedy that has been used for centuries, and is still used today.

But we should keep in mind that there is no one cure for a cold. Each person is different, and each person's body is different. There are many remedies that can be used, but there is no one cure for a cold.

New Deadlock Expected in Lockheed Talks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Talks aimed at resolving a labor dispute at Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the International Association of Machinists have filed notice of intention to file for an injunction. The strike deadline is set for Friday, Dec. 18.

The union says it will file for an injunction if the talks are not resolved by then. The union has been operating under a strike deadline since 1961.

The picket signs are stockpiled, the union says, and in the presence of Henricus van Namara and space agency director Eardley submitted affidavits from 600 union members.

The President earlier received a request by President Kennedy to look into the Lockheed strike, which is pending.

The President's action is expected to be a direct response to the President's demands for a solution to the strike.

In a statement, the President said it had been his intention to be able to confirm the number. Ongoing efforts will continue with the strike deadline.

The strike deadline is expected to be extended to 9 P.M. in the United States.

Two Basic Ways To Keep Secret

In describing the State Department's present system for classifying information, Undersecretary of State Robert Kennedy, who recently succeeded Secretary Christian Herter, told a Senate committee that the present policy of the government has been to classify documents "only after the fact." This means that documents are classified as secret only after they have been prepared and before they are made public. The law under which the government classifies documents, the Atomic Energy Act, also permits the government to classify documents as secret "before the fact." This means that documents are classified as secret before they are prepared and before they are made public.

A year before the United States went to war with Germany in World War II, the State Department had already begun to classify documents as secret from the time they were prepared, on the theory that all information of a military or diplomatic nature was potentially dangerous. In 1943, the State Department started to classify certain kinds of information as secret, but this was done only after the fact. In 1945, the State Department started to classify documents as secret before the fact, on the theory that all information of a military or diplomatic nature was potentially dangerous.

The problem of classifying information is a complex one, involving not only the government, but also the military, the intelligence agencies, and the public. Tank Installer Gets $27.56 in District Court

The award of $27.56 was made in a District Court jury case in which a tank installer sued a gas company. The installer, who was injured while working on the installation of a tank, was awarded the amount as damages for his pain and suffering.

Tank Installer

The installer, identified as John Doe, was working on the installation of a gas tank when he fell and injured himself. He filed a lawsuit against the gas company, alleging that they were negligent in the installation of the tank.

The jury found in favor of the installer and awarded him $27.56 in damages. The gas company appealed the decision, but the higher court upheld the verdict.

The installer was represented by attorney Jane Smith, who argued that the gas company was negligent in the installation of the tank and that it was the cause of the injury.

According to Smith, the gas company had failed to follow proper installation procedures and had not provided adequate training to the installer.

The gas company argued that the installer was at fault for not following proper safety procedures, but the jury disagreed.

The installer plans to use the money he received to pay for medical bills and to help cover the cost of his recovery.

Two Retraining Courses Being Considered Here

Two retraining courses are being considered in the area. The courses are being considered to help workers who have lost their jobs due to changes in the economy.

The courses will be offered by the local vocational training center. They will be aimed at skills development and will cover a range of topics, including

- Tools and equipment maintenance
- Computer skills
- Basic math

The courses will be free of charge and will be offered on a part-time basis. Students will have the opportunity to earn credits that can be used towards certification.

Applications for the courses will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

The story of Cesar Chavez is one of determination and struggle. Chavez was a labor organizer who worked to improve the lives of farm workers. He founded the United Farm Workers Union (UFW) and led a series of successful strikes against large agricultural employers.

One of Chavez's most famous campaigns was the grape strike in California in the 1960s. Chavez and his supporters organized workers to demand better wages and working conditions. The strike lasted for several years and ultimately led to a significant improvement in the lives of the workers.

Chavez's legacy continues to inspire people today. His commitment to social justice and his willingness to fight for what he believed in are examples that we can all learn from.

The UFW is still active today, and it continues to work to improve the lives of farm workers throughout the United States. Through their efforts, they have made significant progress in improving working conditions for farm workers.

The story of Cesar Chavez is one of hope and possibility. It reminds us that even in the face of great adversity, we can make a difference. Chavez's legacy continues to inspire us to fight for what is right and to work towards a more just society.
DEAR ABBY:

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I have lived together for 15 years and have always gone to church, concerts, dances, etc., together. Now I must face the fact that she has to go alone. We have mutual interests and have always gone to church, concerts, dances, etc., together. My sister has been married for 10 years and has two children.

DEAR ABBY: I have been thinking about my marriage and I turned them down because my sister did not have the same interests. We have mutual friends and have always gone to church, concerts, plays, etc., together.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband brought home a collie puppy. I love dogs, but I have no yard to speak of, and it's too chilly to leave him out. I have no yard to speak of, and it's too chilly to leave him out. I don't know how to convince my husband.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband brought home a collie puppy. You are wrong. Your sister had every right to marry, and so did you. Don't be bitter. Perhaps now you will be plucked out of the gar-

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband brought home a collie puppy. It is cute and all that, but how about when he grows up? I don't know anything about training a dog and you should see him (and three other neighborhood children). My husband says he will train it. But he is gone all day and it's my job whether I like it or not.

The families of the injured had planned to ask President Reagan to name the National Memorial to the Victims of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks. The memorial would be located in Lower Manhattan, where the World Trade Center stood until it was destroyed in the attacks.

"The families have always wanted the memorial to be in Lower Manhattan," said John D. Breslin, a lawyer who represents many families of the victims. "They believe it is a symbolic location where the attacks began and where the community can come together to remember those who lost their lives.

The memorial was originally proposed by the Families of Survivors of Suicide Attack in Iraq (FSSAI) and approved by Congress in 2002. However, the US Department of Defense (DOD) has yet to allocate funds for its construction.

"We are still waiting for a decision from the DOD," said Breslin. "But we remain hopeful that the memorial will be built soon.

The families are also seeking to have a plaque dedicated to their loved ones placed on the memorial. This plaque would include the names of all those who were killed in the attacks.

"We want to ensure that our loved ones are remembered forever," said Breslin. "The memorial will be a place where their memories can be honored and respected.

Warriors' coach Jerry Lucas, in his third year of leading the school's basketball team, is one of the top basketball coaches in the nation. He has led the team to two national championships and has been named the nation's top coach three times. Lucas is known for his high-energy style of play and his ability to get the best out of his players.

Lucas said after the game, "They're about the same size as we are, but rugged and rough," he said. "They have fast guards as we are, but rugged and rough," he added.

"When you have players like Jerry Lucas, you have to be prepared," said one of the Warriors' opponents. "He's a great coach, and he knows how to get the best out of his players."

Lucas said his team was prepared for the game and was ready to play. "We have been working hard in practice and we are ready to play," he said.

The Warriors' next game is scheduled for tomorrow night. "We are ready to go," Lucas said.

AAU Draws Fire for Ban Of Trackmen

DETROIT (AP) — The AAU action is a huge group of unsanctioned meets by top-flight athletes from track clubs across the country. The action is spreading rapidly, and the next step could be for the American Athletic Union to go into the Olympics, the AAU executive secretary said today.

It was the first hard blow in the battle between the AAU and the United States Track and Field Federation over the eligibility of top-flight young men merely because they did not compete in the AAU meets.

"The international rules do not require this. It is an internal decision of the AAU as to whether or not the athletes should compete," said the AAU's executive secretary. "They are the ones who control the power and prestige of the AAU.

The AAU has no action to take that will change the situation. The athletes are a self-appointed body."

The athletes were found ineligible for the AAU to rule with the U.S. Track and Field Federation.
