CHRISTMAS HAS MANY FACES

Charity, Love Break Through Hard Shell

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer
The festival has many faces. Some are sad. Some are funny. Some are loving and generous. Some are cynical. They are the faces of Christmas.

By deeds and words, people traced their imprint on the occasion. It was a mixed image, mirrored in little episodes here and there, in attitudes, circumstances and incidents. They formed a varied tableau, breaking through the general mass mantle of decorations, crowded stores, singing carols, holiday time off, bulging traffic and parties.

There was the rushing woman shopper in Waterville, Maine, who piled armloads of gift purchases in the back seat of someone else's parked car, then drove home in her own, a similar model.

A newspaper account of the unexplained cargo of packages enabled Mrs. Louis Carey to get them back. In Providence, R.I., there was the buoyant and benevolent bus driver who veered off his route, in a burst of yuletide chivalry, to take passengers directly to their destinations.

Most everyone aboard was laughing as the bus rolled on its zig-zag course, the driver grandly puffing a cigar.

A pair of small boys, Psewee, age 7, and Fatty, age 9, got themselves locked in a Cambridge, Mass., department store overnight, in a world of whirling toys and goodies.

Next morning, they were found laden with treasures filled with candy. One was clomping about in a pair of huge new shoes.

There wasn't only humor in the Christmas countenance. There were also the marks of sorrow, the empty chairs at the family tables, and sometimes the slim fare.

In Carmichael, Pa., where 37 men died in a coal mine explosion three weeks ago, 65 children are without their fathers this Christmas, and 34 wives without their husbands.

Many of the families were going on, in their grief, with efforts to observe the day. "Mom said dad would like it that way," said Delcie Boyd, 13.

In Vineland, N.J., it was a time of agony for Mr. and Mrs. William Jones Jr., whose boy, Billy, 3, clad in his blue snowsuit, disappeared Dec. 19.

His gifts lay in the attic. There will be Christmas for the two other small children. "But I won't bring down Billy's gifts," Mrs. Jones said. Unless, unless—

In Philadelphia, a 16-year-old boy will spend Christmas, somberly aware that on the day afterward, he will be confined in a youth disciplinary house for an indefinite term.

A court prescribed the prospect, because the boy had struck a school teacher. Sentence was deferred until after Christmas.

Traffic Deaths Over 400-Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll passed the 400 mark in the first 2 1/2 days of the long Christmas weekend, a pace far below pre-holiday estimates by safety experts.

"If the present trend continues, this will be the safest Christmas holiday on record," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

The council, based on previous holidays and the record traffic toll for the past year, had estimated 650 to 750 deaths on the highways during the long holiday period.

"If the trend holds," Pyle said, "the final toll could be as low as 550."

The count, which started at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Christmas, showed 304 traffic deaths throughout the nation. Fires had killed 44 persons and 37 others had lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for an over-all total of 385.

VFW Club at Mankato Burns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Minnesota communities cleaned up today in the wake of downtown fires in which damages totaled more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Damage was estimated at $100,000 from a fire that broke out Sunday night at Mankato, damaging a three-story business building owned by the Mankato post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Only the walls of the structure were standing today.

At Granite Falls, the Keegan Hotel building, a landmark since the 1890s, took fire early today. Firemen, unable to control the blaze in the unoccupied structure, kept wary eyes on an adjacent lumberyard. However, there was no wind, the flames did not spread.

The hotel building, unused for about a month, had been scheduled for dismantling. There was no immediate estimate of the Granite Falls loss.

Loss was estimated at $50,000 in the destruction by fire Sunday of the building of the B&B Barossa and Sons Construction Co. in St. Cloud. Loss included construction equipment.

The building destroyed at Mankato had been built by the VFW post, and the post commander, Bernard Goettl, said only $10,000 was owing on it. He said the post had planned to sell the structure and already had one undisclosed bid on it. He said insurance of $100,000 was carried on the building.

Loss in the Mankato fire included Holton's Cafeteria, which had a location in the VFW building. There was some smoke and water damage to adjacent buildings. Some 250 patrons of the Town Theater, next door to the VFW building, were evacuated without incident. Some smoke damage was reported in the theater.

Vietnamese Plane Shot Down, 5th in 2 Days
SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Communist ground fire shot down a Vietnamese air force spotter plane today—the fifth government aircraft downed in two days.

A U.S. Air Force captain flying as an observer in the L19 suffered two bullet wounds and a broken arm. The Vietnamese pilot escaped injury. Fighter planes covered the rescue of the two airmen by helicopters deep in guerrilla territory 140 miles southwest of Saigon.

Air Force Fears New Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some key Air Force officers indicated today they are waiting for the other shoe to drop in the Anglo-American agreement to arm Britain with Polaris missile-firing submarines.

They told a reporter they expect that agreement, reached by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, to have some impact on the Air Force's Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile program, possibly in next year's military budget.

The budget now is in close to final shape, but could be changed before it is printed and sent to Congress next month.

There is general agreement that the budget, as it now stands, provides for another wing of the 6,300-mile Minuteman. Informal sources said it may be a 100-missile wing, rather than the 150-missile wing previously reported.

Some officers said there has been discussion of a possible boost to two more wings—as many as 300—of the advanced, quick-firing Minutemen ICBMs in the new budget.

Others, speaking with a pessimism stemming from a series of setbacks to the Air Force, suggested the Kennedy-Macmillan agreement might jeopardize the one added Minuteman wing already ticketed for the new budget.

Longshoremen Out on Strike

By BERNIE GOULD

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by longshoremen—the dock workers who load and unload ship cargoes and baggage—has tied up shipping operations all along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

President Kennedy's plea to postpone the walkout for 90 days went unheeded.

Some 81,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), by estimate of the union's president, are involved in the strike, affecting major ports from Searport, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

The walkout began promptly at 5 p.m. Sunday, the very minute an 8 1/2 day federal court strike injunction against the ILA expired.

The government, acting on Kennedy's orders, obtained the injunction early last October to give the longshoremen 80 days to cool off under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. The injunction was issued after the ILA pulled a four-day strike.

Key issue is the ship owners' demand that longshoremen cut their work gangs from 20 to 17 men, saying a larger number is "feather-bedding." The ILA says it will not "negotiate our men out of business."

As soon as the current walkout began, pickets appeared at such ports as New York; Newark, N.J.; Houston, Tex.; and Lake Charles, La.

No picket lines were planned

Five Dead in Minnesota Car Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five persons died in Minnesota traffic accidents during the first two days of the extended Christmas holiday weekend.

The deaths raised the state's traffic toll for the year to 667, or 51 behind the pace through this date one year ago.

The dead: Miss Deloris C. Manderfeld, 18, rural Medford. Rudy Duenn, 77, Minneapolis. Ronald H. Shreeve, 20, Tomah, Wis., who was a student in St. Paul.

Mrs. Leo Braun, 64, Fergus Falls. Thomas O. Strom, 71, Kensington.

Miss Manderfeld was a passenger in a car that collided with another one late Saturday at a Fairbault intersection. She died a few hours later in a Fairbault hospital.

Duenn was struck by a car in Minneapolis Saturday evening. Police said Miss Margaret J. Bangert was driving the vehicle.

The Highway Patrol said Shreeve died Saturday when his car went out of control on an icy patch of U.S. 61, about four miles south of Wabasha. The car skidded sideways into the path of another car driven by Alvin Kroells, Waterloo, Iowa.

Kroells, his wife and two sons were hospitalized at Wabasha. A daughter, Valerie, 7, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester with a skull fracture.

Mrs. Braun was riding with her husband Saturday when the car went off an icy road near Fergus Falls and hit a tree. Braun, 66, was hospitalized in serious condition.

Strom's pickup truck skidded on a slick stretch of Minnesota 29 near Flenning Saturday and slammed into a ditch.

The feeling obviously has not been obliterated entirely by his October success in forcing Soviet Premier Khrushchev to withdraw offensive missiles and bombers from Cuba.

The freeing of the invasion prisoners, however, may clear his record of one of the worst aspects of the 1961 fiasco—the imprisonment of Cubans under what has been described by their fellow refugees as almost inhuman conditions.

There obviously is going to be discussion in Congress, when it convenes next month, of the role the administration played in arranging for the exchange of medicine and food for the release of the men.

Joyous Reunion Of Fathers, Wives, Children

BULLETIN

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro was quoted today as saying he will let mothers of freed Bay of Pigs prisoners join their sons in the United States—even if they lack visas.

Castro went to the docks to watch the unloading of medicines and food sent as ransom for the 1,133 prisoners.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Operation Ransom roared into action this Christmas Eve to continue an airlift of 1,133 prisoners of Cuba's communism to freedom and wildly joyous family reunions on free U.S. soil.

All the indications were for a full-speed ahead to wind up the job begun Sunday. The day's first planeload—109 more survivors of the unsuccessful April 1961, Bay of Pigs invasion—touched down at Homestead Air Force Base at 10:24 a.m.

It seemed possible the whole job would be completed in the afternoon.

Today's first flight brought the total on free soil to 535.

The airlift brought 426 men to Florida from the San Antonio de los Baños military airport outside Havana in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its human-for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas Eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, prayerful campaign to free the 1,133 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of wan, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DC's supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom planeloads of men exchanged by Fidel Castro's regime for $53 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba.

The first plane landed at 6:08 p.m., EST, Sunday, carrying 108 pale, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

By 8:55, the fourth plane load had arrived, bringing the total number delivered to 426.

There the flights seemed to be suspended, although officials in Miami said they could not explain it. Anxious relatives who had waited since early morning until long past midnight slowly began to drift off, in deep disappointment, from the Dinner Key Auditorium reception center. Some simply dropped from exhaustion in their chairs.

Crowds waiting for the prisoners since early Sunday morning had, through eight hours of tense, fear-laden vigil before a firm announcement was made that the first liberation aircraft had taken off from San Antonio de los Baños military air base, 25 miles southwest of Havana.

The men were processed after landing at Homestead Air Force Base, 30 miles from Miami, fed a hearty roast beef dinner and then brought by bus to the auditorium in Miami. For hours there after the building was swept by gales of emotion.

Young fathers showered kisses on infant children whom they had never seen. Gaunt veterans of fighting in the swamps of Cuba wept tears of joy. Wives plunged through the milling crowds to throw themselves into the arms of husbands they had not seen since Brigade 2506 departed for

Deadly Fumes Force Evacuation of 500

GASPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Deadly fumes seeping from a burning railroad car and fanned by high winds forced the evacuation of approximately 500 persons from a five-block area in this Niagara County community Sunday.

State police said carbon bisulfide, a chemical contained in the New York Central freight car, leaked through a split seam and ignited on an overheated journal box. An explosion threatened for a time.

The fire was discovered by crewmen as the train neared here.

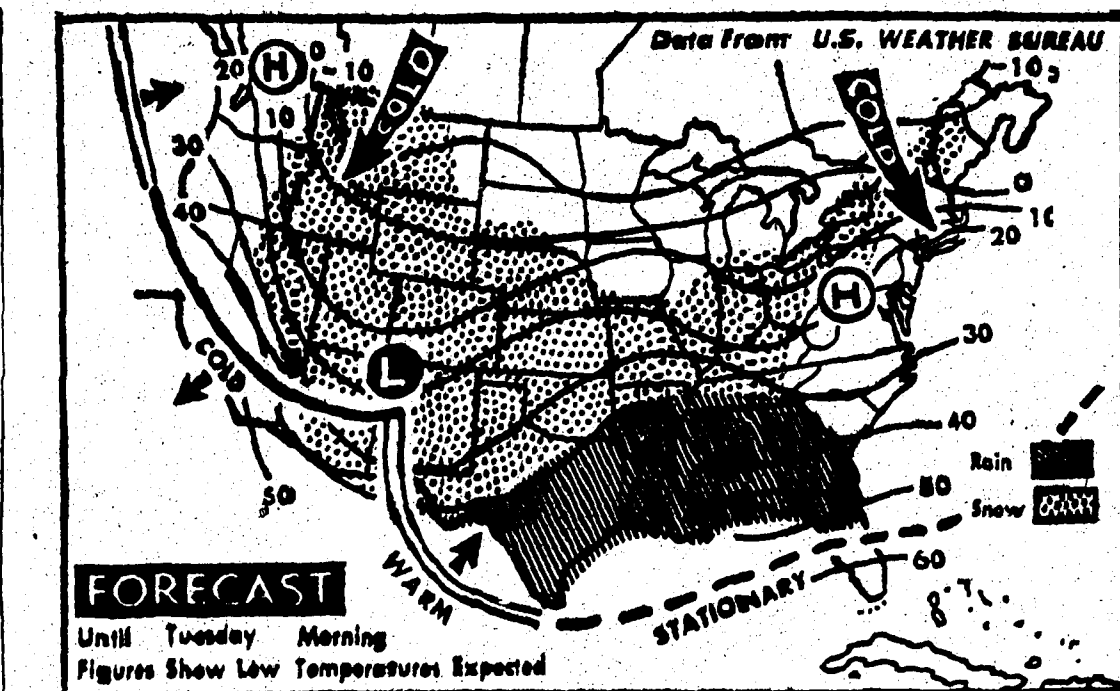

Residents were evacuated, and fire-fighting equipment from Niagara Falls Air Force Base covered the car and surrounding area with foam.

Storm, Fires Claim Lives of 7 in Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A rural Crookston farm woman and her daughter froze to death and two Blue Earth, Minn., men drowned in Leech Lake when a car crashed through the ice as a blizzard played a grimly fiendish role in both tragedies Saturday.

The victims were Mrs. Clara Hudson, 42, and her daughter, Dianne, 2.

Delmer Lawrence, 48, and Lyle Stewart, 40, both of Blue Earth, were among six fishermen from southern Minnesota who had been out on Leech Lake and were returning to shore at Walker in a 1952 model car with the driver.

The other four and the driver, David Schultz, 20, Walker, scrambled from the icy water after the car plunged through. Apparently Lawrence and Stewart came up under the ice and couldn't get out.

Those who escaped with Schultz were Leslie J. Hilgert, 30, Fairmont; Edward Hensel, 73, Winnebago; and M. Peterson, 54, and Louis Wiesse, 46, both of Blue Earth.

The owner of the Walker marina who rented the car, Norman Pittstick, said that Schultz helped to save three of the men and get the four to a cabin on shore before he trudged about two miles to Walker for help. The others kept warm as best they could at a gas stove in the cabin.

Pittstick said Schultz had been confused by the blinding snow, whipped by winds of about 50 m.p.h. He could not see an inverted heavy-a dip in the ice—and the car tipped, crashing through.

The water is about 140 feet deep at the point one-quarter mile from shore where it sank.

Cass County sheriff's officers tried Sunday to locate the car by lowering a heavy magnet on a line, but were unsuccessful.

In the double deaths near Crookston, Harold Hudson and his wife and daughter had left their farm home some six miles north, to drive to the city.

But the car stalled on U.S. 75 about a mile from the house. While Hudson worked on it, his wife and daughter started back home in the blizzard, but got lost as they took a shortcut across fields.

When Hudson got the car going and returned home at noon, 2½ hours after the trio had left, he found the others missing and notified the sheriff's office.

Polk County Sheriff Carl N. Knutson said a search by farmers and sheriff's deputies in the swirling storm failed to locate Mrs. Hudson and Dianne until just before 8 p.m. Their lifeless bodies lay in a plowed field, at the mercy of temperatures that dipped to zero or below. They had dropped about a mile from the car and a half mile from home.

Meantime, fires claimed the lives of three children in Minnesota during the weekend.

Darriek J. Ziebarth, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ziebarth of rural Altin, died when fire swept the family farm home Sunday night. Mrs. Ziebarth, who thought Darriek had gone to visit a neighbor with his father, escaped with two other children, Dennis and Deanne.

The third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dickinson of Anoka to die of burns and smoke inhalation expired early Sunday in a Robbinsdale hospital.

She was Toni Dickinson, 2. Her 3-month-old sister Fern died in the hospital Saturday and 18-month-old Pamela died shortly after taken from the family house by firemen Friday.

Fire Kills 5 Children After Sitters Leave

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—A fire that broke out in a farm home shortly after two babysitters left Sunday took the lives of five children.

The frame tenant house, which was almost completely destroyed, was on a large tobacco farm near here. State police said the fire began in an overheated wood stove.

The victims were identified as Linda Vanessa Harper, 2; Clinton Louellen Harper, 3 months; Wayne August Thomas, 7; Early Borden Thomas, 9; Sheila Louvenia Thomas, 6.

Castro Observes 'Day of Peace'

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro observed what he called a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States today in jovial accompaniment to the prisoners deal.

Relatives of the freed captives blunted an edge of sadness at not being able to see them before their departure by drinking champagne toasts to their health and future in the United States.

As the swap of 1,113 invasion captives for food and medicine began Sunday, Castro drove unannounced to the dock where the freighter African Pilot was unloading the $11-million down payment on the deal.

The boarded Cuban leader showed only casual interest in the food and medicine but he declared the one-day "state of peace" in good-natured jesting with the skipper of the vessel and personally escorted a group of Americans on a tour of Havana.

The fast-driving motorcade paused at a big apartment development so Castro could point out to the visitors a low-rent product of his revolution.

Driving by government buildings, Castro confided: "I don't like bureaucracy." Granting a wish of one of the party, Castro conducted the Americans to the home of the late Ernest Hemingway and through the narrow streets of old Havana.

In the party were E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., a Washington attorney who supervised part of the shipping operation; former U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Schee; the African Pilot's skipper Capt. Alfred Boerum and this correspondent.

Clasping the Americans' shoulders, Castro joshed with them, declaring, "Whatever you want here is yours" and, "Whatever is done for friendship is useful."

The African Pilot steamed into Havana harbor at 2:05 p.m. Sunday after taking on a Cuban pilot and four Cuban Red Cross officials. Not long afterward, the airlift of prisoners to the United States got under way.

"We're up in the clouds," a mother of one of the prisoners told a reporter by telephone. "We are all drinking French champagne."

"My only regret," said another mother, "is that I could not embrace my son before he left." She had not seen him in seven months. A crowd tried to see the captives as they were leaving Principe Prison but officials interfered.

About 25 trucks rolled up to the fortress prison and carried the 900 prisoners held there to the military airport.

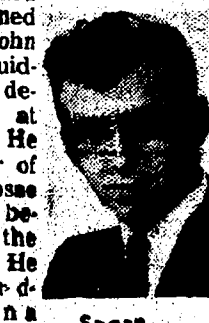

Others held on the Isle of Pines off Cuba's south coast were flown to the airport.

Cuban officials promised to try to unload the African Pilot's 1,400-ton cargo in 24 hours.

"We know you want to go back for Christmas so we'll work as fast as possible," an official said.

Earl's 'Top 20' Stars for 1962

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — So here they are, folks, just in time for Christmas, my 1962 "Broadway Bests," the new Top Twenty of Show Biz, people who will be either famous or forgotten—next year this time. Right now they're hotter than Hades.

Top of the Tops: Robert Goulet!
And: Carol Burnett, Vaughn Meader, Allan Sherman, Anthony Newley, Peter Dinklage, Jane Fonda, Peter O'Toole ("Lawrence of Arabia"), Mill Kamen, Guy Marks, and also:

Parents and 5 Children Die in Auto Accident

CLARKS, Neb. (AP) — A sudden skid on an unexpected patch of highway ice brought a swift and tragic end to a young Iowan's trip home with his wife and five children for a Christmas time family reunion.

The bodies of Dennis Randall Dewey, 28, of Des Moines; his wife, Patricia, 26; and their five sons, Randy, 10, Steven, 9, Dick, 7, Kevin, 5, and Dennis, 2, were found Saturday in their overturned car in a roadside water-filled ravine.

County attorney William H. Norton said the accident occurred Friday night just south and east of Clark. He said he didn't know who was driving. Clark is about 100 miles west of Omaha.

The Deweys were bound for Broken Bow and a big family gathering at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Dewey. They left Des Moines about 2 p.m. Friday, leaving behind a Christmas tree with presents neatly stacked beneath it. Neighbors said they planned to return Christmas night.

Pope Pleads For Peace, Unity Of Christians

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, in his annual Christmas message to the world, appealed anew Saturday for peace among all men and unity of Christians.

It was the 81-year-old Pontiff's fifth Christmas message and came just 3 1/2 weeks after he became seriously ill with anemia and a stomach disorder.

This was an urgent plea for world peace, as were his other four.

But it also contained the theme of Christian unity, recalling the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council, now in recess.

Pope John spoke from his private library in the Vatican. His speech was recorded Friday and broadcast Saturday night by Vatican radio and many national networks.

The pontiff recalled his recent appeals to the rulers of the world to negotiate for peace and said: "Of all the blessings that life and history have to offer for individuals and families and nations truly the most precious and important is peace. The existence of peace and the zeal to preserve it are the assurance of the world's tranquility."

"But a necessary condition of peace is the good will of each and every one. Where this is lacking it Susan Kohner, Christine Kaufmann, Merv Griffin, Frank Fontana, Edie Adams, Peter Falk, Sandy Stewart, of course Natalie Wood who's becoming the Sex Symbol, Eddie Fisher for his comeback, and Teddy Kennedy. (Oh, he's not in Show Biz? Pardon me).

JAYNE MANSFIELD was all atwitter as she phoned from Hollywood that she was flying here to meet her Italian lover-boy Enrico Bomba, who was rushing in from Rome. "Was to be their first rendezvous in America, at the Astro. Jayne frankly hopes to marry the director if he can unburden himself of a narrow-minded wife."

Charlie Chaplin often gives friends homing pigeons for Christmas. (It is not true, as has been said by a non-friend, that they fly home to him after Christmas. Homing pigeons don't work like that.)

Strange, isn't it, that many New Yorkers would be happy if they could have for a Christmas present just one copy of their favorite newspaper? "I'm so anxious to read, Red Buttons said. 'I've been reading the print on ketchup bottles.'"

STAR HALFBACK Alex Webster of the N.Y. Giants got so much hand-clapping and back-slapping in P. J. Clark's, it took him 15 minutes to progress from the front door to the back room. "Honey," said his wife, "if it took you that long to gain 10 yards on the football field, we'd be unemployed."

Ed Sullivan — on the way to Guantanamo with his troupe — stopped off in Coral Gables to help his old friend, Benny Gaines, open his beautiful new Holiday Inn. Gaines had received the first bar license granted by Coral Gables in many, many years.

They're talking about the "Texas art lover, accustomed to giving Picasso paintings, who outdid himself for Christmas this year. He didn't order Picasso originals this year — he ordered the original Picasso — Pablo Picasso, himself."

EARL'S PEARLS: "To make a man happy, treat him like a dog," says Cyd Charisse. "Plenty of affection and a loose leash."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Little dresses" are recommended by a fashion writer. Evidently, "the little dress, the bigger the evening" — DUZ in the Augusta, Kan., Gazette.

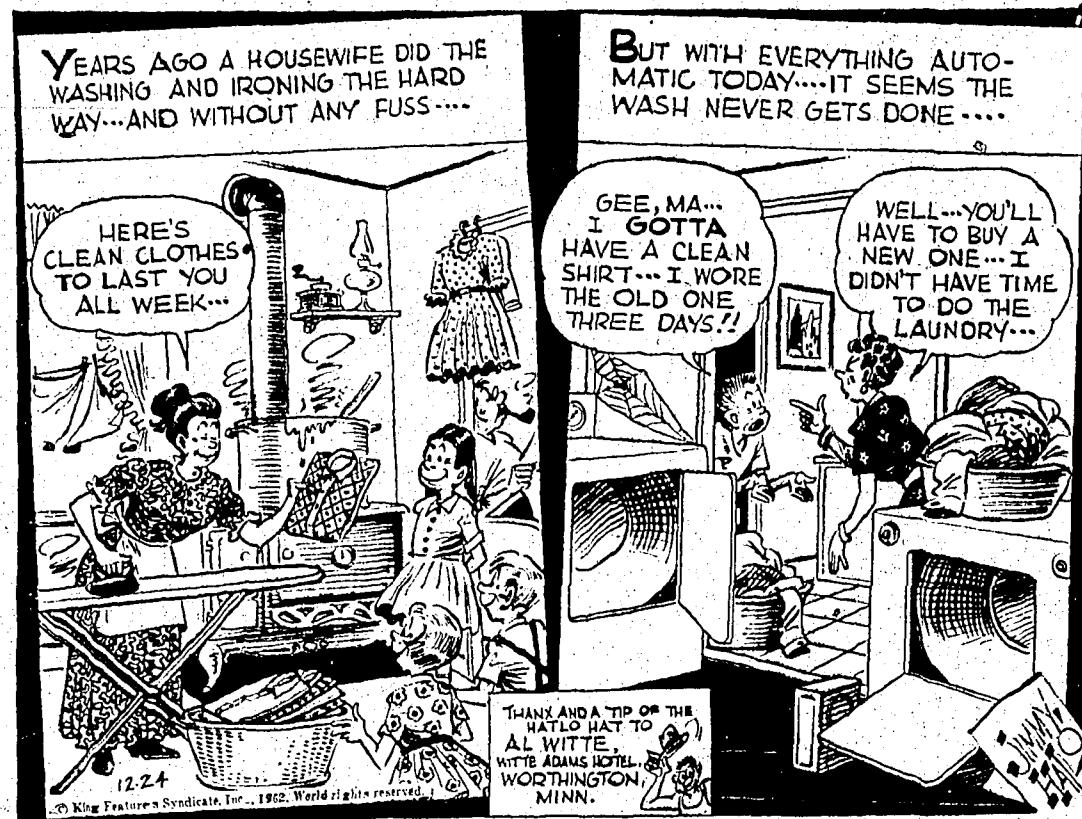

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Epitaph of a Failure: He went around all his life trying to find a boss as smart as he was" — Laugh Book.

A tourist is a chap who travels because he finds home a big bore, then complains that in other parts of the world, things aren't the same...

And a very Merry Christmas to every reader from the Beautiful Wife, Gorgeous Mother-in-Law, son Sluggo, dog Sammy and... That's earl, brother.

It is vain to hope for happiness and blessing. Let peace then be our objective at all times; let us aim at creating peace around us so that it may spread throughout the entire world; let us shield it from all that could harm it and take care not to endanger it by anything that could disrupt or compromise it."

They'll Do It Every Time

Warren Youth Convicted in Fatal Shooting

WARREN, Minn. (AP) — Paul Wangberg, 19, was convicted Saturday of second degree murder in the shooting of a Thief River Falls police officer last Feb. 17.

A jury of eight men and four women deliberated nearly 12 hours after receiving final instructions Friday.

Wangberg faced the jury alone. Drifting snow prevented his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Reuben Wangberg, and his attorneys from returning here from Thief River Falls.

The youth is expected to be sentenced next week. He did not testify and spoke his first words of the trial when he asked that the jury be polled.

The youth was charged in the death of Sgt. Donald D. Myers, who had chased Wangberg's car to a road 15 miles north of Thief River Falls. A fellow policeman was the chief witness against the youth.

The father said the youth had gone berserk after a family discussion during which psychiatric care was mentioned. The boy attacked him, then left the house with a rifle, the Rev. Wangberg said.

Psychiatrists called by the prosecution and defense differed on whether the youth was mentally ill at the time of the shooting.

S. African Christmas Cards Are Political

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Christmas cards have taken a political slant in South Africa this year.

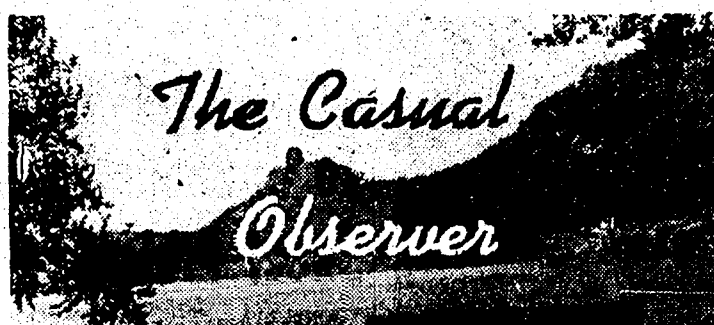

Thousands have been sold bearing photographs of Albert Luthuli, president of the banned African National Congress and five other congress alliance leaders. Luthuli is a Nobel Peace Prize winner.

State Woman Killed In Spain Car Crash

SEVILLA, Spain (AP) — Elsa Louise Filsh, 35, of Minnesota was killed Friday in an auto crash near Guadalema De Los Quinteros, south of here, police announced. Her hometown was not available.

Her husband, Stanley M. Filsh, 33, suffered serious injuries. Their car and a truck collided head on. Cause of the crash apparently was a heavy fog.

The Filshes were holidaying in Spain.

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

EVERY night before he beds down in the house my big gold retriever Shoshoni likes to run up the hill and sniff around for half an hour or so. Sometimes I can hear him giving muffled yips as he chases rabbits, and sometimes he barks far up the hill as though he had treed something. About a week ago I heard him barking unusually excitedly quite far up the hill; in fact it sounded almost like his snake-bark, the high hysterical bark he gives only when he sees a snake.

About half an hour later he scratched at the door to be let in, and he was panting excitedly and his nose was dripping blood. Dabbing away the blood I saw four broad and deep parallel claw marks across his nose where some animal had raked him. It was far too broad and deep for cat-claw marks, and besides Shoshoni doesn't mind cats and gets along well with them.

Last Thursday night about 11 o'clock he came back from a run up the hill and stood on the back porch panting and shivering, with head hanging and dripping blood all over. His face was swollen almost double, his muzzle was gashed all over, his eye was torn open, and his nose dripped blood from deep broad parallel gashes. Examining him I found that the inside of his mouth and his gums had been badly clawed too, and his front paws had been deeply bitten. I cleaned the blood and mud off him with old towels wrung out of hot water, then tried to ease his badly swollen head with a cold wet towel.

Early the next morning I got him to the veterinarian who gave him penicillin, a rabies shot and treated his injured eye. We decided Shoshoni had tangled with a coon or possibly a badger. For several days he hardly moved off of his rug and wouldn't touch food, but now he's getting back to normal.

Emil Liers said he thought Shoshoni might have chased an old buck coon that turned on him. "I've seen an old buck coon bite and claw up a dog something terrible. They're mean fighters," said he. Talking with Andrew Lipinski of the Refuge, he thought it was either a big coon or a badger. He thought the very deep broad parallel scratches might indicate a badger. Said he, "Badgers have such long sharp claws that they can kill a dog. When attacked they sometimes turn over on their backs and lash up at a dog and can disembowel him. There are lots of coons around the area, but there are some badgers too."

I'm delighted to see that this week Winona is to have a marvelous Walt Disney true life adventure film called "The Legend of Lobo, the Wolf". This extraordinary movie will be shown at the Winona Theater from Dec. 25 to 29, and I'm going to see it for a second time.

When "The Legend of Lobo" opened in New York last month I took four boys and girls of varying ages and they were spellbound. So was I. How on earth these wild wolves can be so wonderfully photographed playing with their cubs, fighting for their lives, fleeing across deep abysses over fallen tree trunks, and so on, is a mystery to me. Anyway, it's a memorable picture and it's nice to have it run during Christmas vacation.

Merry Christmas!

Castro Gave Prisoners Poor Food

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — What kind of food did Fidel Castro give his Bay of Pigs prisoners? "It was not fit for pigs," said Tullio Diaz, 22, one of the returning prisoners Sunday night.

"For breakfast we usually had one cup of very bad alleged coffee and a slice of bread."

"The next two meals usually consisted of one or two of the following, macaroni with a watery flour sauce; a Chinese grain that we called 'fatherland or death' which tasted like dirt and squash."

A former photographer in Havana Diaz was asked what he planned to do in the future.

"Eat," he answered.

Six Russian Subs Spotted In Cuban Hunt

U. S. NAVAL BASE, Guantanamo, Cuba (AP) — The Cuban crisis antisubmarine search by the U.S. Navy covered a 3.5-million-square-mile area and located about six Soviet submarines, Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, says.

Resulting directly from the biggest search since World War II and Korea were four deaths, occurring in two helicopter crashes from the antisubmarine carrier Essex. There were other casualties, however, not related to the antisubmarine warfare operation, including the crash of an Air Force C-135 transport plane at Guantanamo while bringing in supplies.

The approximate six Soviet subs were observed visually and photographed when they surfaced to recharge batteries. Anderson said they were standard, diesel-powered submarines, not atomic-powered.

The nearest such observation was about 200 miles off Cuba, Anderson said in an interview. To a question, he said also he knew of no Soviet submarine being found close to U.S. shores. The antisubmarine operation extended from the U.S. coast eastward as far as the Azores and Canaries and southward off the northeastern coast of South America.

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The merger of the G. Heileman Brewing Co., of La Crosse, and the Kingsbury Breweries Co., of Sheboygan, became official Friday.

Stockholders voted at meetings in La Crosse and Sheboygan to approve the merger agreed to some time ago when the La Crosse firm acquired 92 percent of the Kingsbury stock.

The Kingsbury vote was announced as 325,195 for the merger to 7,831 against. The Heileman stockholders voted 368,500 for the merger and 303 against.

White Christmas In Antarctica

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — It will be a white Christmas for sure for U. S. scientists and sailors in Antarctica — the snow and ice are 7,000 feet thick. The holiday will be celebrated Tuesday with as many as possible of the trappings of the season. Christmas trees have been flown 2,000 miles to the ice continent from New Zealand. Ships have brought gifts from families in the United States and men stationed on the ice of Antarctica have responded with presents. The Navy reports the most popular items sent home this year are penguin jewelry and stuffed toy penguins in honor of the continent's famous bird. FRENCH CREEK CAROLING ETTRICK, Wis. Problem Youths Are Put To Work—and With Pay

A REPORT FROM Philadelphia says the city is convinced that it is edging closer to a solution to the problem of juvenile delinquency. And Philadelphia has been particularly plagued by the problem for a long time.

The plan is based on a combination of elements, the most important of which is putting delinquents to work and paying them for it. The report puts it this way: "Vital to the plan's success is concentrating the energies of school men, police and welfare workers on rehabilitating the young people in the program; on correcting the family problems that could lead to delinquency again, and on holding the program to a size that insures intensive effort on each case."

The program is called the Youth Conservation Corps and has been functioning for three years. It claims positive results.

ONE OF THE MOST unusual aspects of the corps is held to be the way the boys are paid. Under an incentive wage system, the boys get 60 cents an hour for excellent performance, 40 cents for good work, 20 cents for satisfactory effort and no pay for surliness or laziness. The stay in the corps is for a seven-month stretch, and most boys are said to be earning the top wage of $13 a week before their stay is over. In most cases the boys leave with a new outlook.

The boys work in groups under group leaders. Here is a summation of the type of work: "To see the corps in action, stroll through the woods of Philadelphia's Fairmount Park. Several 10-man teams of corpsmen hack away at vines and dead trees.

SOME OF THE BOYS, the newer members of the group, still bear marks of juvenile gangs—elaborate hair treatment, tight fitting clothes. But impressive piles of firewood attest to the enthusiasm of their efforts. The boys perform other jobs, too, such as washing down the walls of subway stations and pulling weeds at the city water plants. The work groups are drawn from many parts of the city to get the boys out of their congested neighborhoods and into association with boys of varied backgrounds."

There is more to the report, but what is related here gives the approach.

WHAT Philadelphia is doing might not be the answer in other less-populated areas. But the idea, in some measure, might be utilized in any sizable population center. And all Americans cannot but be interested in the fact that one great metropolitan center has found a method that has been marking up accomplishments.

Christianity Needs To Promote Itself

A COMMENT made by Bishop Edward Fitzgerald of the Winona Catholic Diocese on his return from a meeting of the Ecumenical Council in Rome deserves emphasis.

"The trouble with Christianity today," said Bishop Fitzgerald, "is that there are too many splinters and the world is not impressed with it because its own members cannot agree. What Christianity needs now is not so much to fight communism as it does to promote Christianity."

This is a thought that may well be pondered by all denominations of the Christian church. The division that exists among them in the world today is not attributable to basic beliefs, but to differences in man-made rules that have developed in the centuries following the days Christ was on earth.

IF THE Christian church is to grow and to exert the influence it deserves, it will have to emphasize the similarities in the various denominations and not their differences. The strength of Christianity will be heightened by a positive approach. It will be weakened if the many branches of the Christian church stress inter-denominational competition rather than their uniform purpose.

There have been two significant Ecumenical conferences during the past year, one in India and the other in Italy. It is evident that much work remains to be done. However, the mere fact that such conferences were held is a bright spot on the horizon of Christian church unity.

IF CHURCH leaders everywhere can keep their eyes on the central goal the ultimate result will be a unified Christianity. It will continue to have its denominations representing varying interpretations of church ceremony and tradition, but they will emphasize the uniformity in basic belief rather than the divisiveness of non-essentials.—Mankato Free Press.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A co-ed at Baylor University paraded around the campus with two silver bars conspicuously pinned to her sweater. "I take it," commented an observant English professor, "that you have an Army captain for a boyfriend."

"No, sir," said the co-ed cheerfully. "Two lieutenants."

HOW DO YOU STAND, SIR?

Thinks U Thant's Advice Ridiculous

By SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

Almost immediately after his election as secretary general of the United Nations, U Thant began spouting advice to the United States about how to handle its cold-war problems.

By and large, that advice was ridiculous and should be promptly forgotten by American policy makers.

For either the U.N. secretary general is wearing rose-colored glasses, or he is deliberately playing into the hands of the Russians. Either way, it behooves us to keep a close eye on U Thant in all future negotiations to which the United Nations may be a party.

Thant aired his naive or dubious views at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore where he delivered the George Huntington Williams memorial lecture. He called on the United States and the Soviet Union to follow up their "Cuban compromise" with give-and-take solutions on Berlin and other cold-war issues. He said he was convinced that Premier Khrushchev does not want war and is sincere in his desire for peaceful co-existence. As though this weren't enough, Thant went on to chide the western powers for failing to "appreciate the full significance" of the changes in Moscow's thinking since the death of Josef Stalin. He added:

"MR. KHRUSHCHEV, who is now in control of the reins of government, belongs to a different category of leaders, with a coherent philosophy of the world based on the thesis, not of the inevitability of war but of the imperative of competitive co-existence. We may or may not agree with his philosophy or his aims, but we have very good reasons to believe that he does not want war."

It perhaps would have been more accurate if Mr. Thant had said we have very good reason to believe that Khrushchev does not want—if he can manage to enslave the world without going to that extreme.

I suggest that if we adopt the Thant thesis that Khrushchev doesn't want war and is sincere in his desire for peaceful co-existence, we have to erase the Cuban experience from our memories. Just how the clandestine build up of an offensive missile and bomber complex on our Southern doorstep fits into a sincere desire for "peaceful co-existence" is difficult to understand. What does it mean if it doesn't mean that Khrushchev believes in the inevitability of war and wants the Communist world to be prepared?

AND WHAT GREAT and vast change has there been in Moscow's thinking since the death of Stalin? Does Mr. Thant want us to believe that Mr. Khrushchev's gregariousness, compared with Stalin's taciturnity, has changed the basic aim of the Kremlin to dominate the world? Are we to think that because Khrushchev is glib and talkative, where Stalin was close-mouthed and silent, that his intentions are more honorable? Demeanor and talk have never been anything to the Communists but weapons with which to confuse their enemies.

If we ever begin basing our attitude and our policy on what Khrushchev says rather than what he does, we'll be in deep and lasting trouble. But that is what Secretary General Thant would like us to do. He apparently wants us to forget that it was Khrushchev—not Stalin—who crushed the spirit of freedom in Hungary with tanks and guns. He apparently wants us to overlook the fact that it was Khrushchev—not Stalin—who built the Wall of Shame in Berlin and began shooting down people who tried to escape. He apparently doesn't count the fact that it was he who said, "We will live with you."

REFLECTION FOR TODAY

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Some Folks Lax in Spreading Yule Cheer

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — All over the country there are people who are making Christmas happier for others, some who are making it unhappy, and those who could make it happier. Here is a Merry-Go-Round roll call of these three categories:

Those who are giving Christmas presents in reverse: Haverford Township, Pa., which made things so hot for the Grey Nuns of the Sacred Heart that they have decided to move their convent, given them by John F. Connelly of Crown Cork and Seal. They were booted out of an ordinance banning more tax-exempt religious establishments in the area, and in view of this resentment, are moving out.

Rep. Floyd Breeding of Kansas, who presented his wife with $1,900 in salary, paid by all the taxpayers, and had three regular employees "quit" in order to give her this Christmas present. A defeated Democrat, Breeding had only two months to serve, so dropped three staff members to hire his wife for the last two unproductive months.

The National Association of Broadcasters, who are out to fire their president, Leroy Collins, because he put the health of children ahead of broadcasting profits. Collins wants radio and TV stations to concentrate cigarette advertising in the evening hours when children aren't watching or listening.

The New York newspaper strikers, who are wiping out all newspaper profits for the current operating year and may put two papers out of business.

Gulf, Texaco, Cities Service, and American Oil companies, which are pushing the location of a 50-million-gallon oil tank in the middle of suburban Little River Mills, Va., whose citizens moved there to escape the oil and industrial fumes of the city.

IN CONTRAST, here are those who are making Christmas happier and more peaceful for others:

Renner, Inc., of Philadelphia, which has been organizing a Christmas clean-up of surplus material located in cellars or attics for distribution to charitable institutions. It started when Renner cleaned up his unused paper stock, and Renner's Gordon Lange conceived the idea of both reducing the fire hazard and spreading good will by similar clean-ups among all the companies of Philadelphia.

John F. Kennedy and Secretary of Defense McNamara, who have built up the missile strength of the USA so that we are safer than ever and no longer in danger of becoming a second-class power.

Parade Magazine and Clayton Wallace, who pushed the White House for a direct phone or teletype connection between Kennedy and Khrushchev in order to prevent war by accident.

Here are some people who could make Christmas even happier for others:

Peter Lawford — By letting his mother see her grandchildren and paying her more than an allowance of $150 a month.

Harry P. Davis, lobbyist for the Sun Oil Company — by withdrawing opposition to the confirmation of the Pennsylvania air pollution board in a state which has to worry about industrial fumes.

Maj. Gen. Arno Lehman, commander of the U.S. Air Force in Turkey—by getting rid of your recreation director in Ankara and the hard-drinking WAC who commands him. While you didn't appoint them, their departure will help the otherwise fine job you are doing in the Near East.

'Equal Time' Debate Opens

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Republicans and Democrats have begun to quarrel over whether "equal time" should be granted for a rebuttal to President Kennedy's interview on radio and television last Monday night.

The Republican National Committee is planning to ask for similar privileges on the air, but hasn't quite made up its mind who the actors in the show would be. Emanuel Celler of New York, Democrat, has urged the networks to refuse "categorically" any requests for "equal time," as he says it would "set a most dangerous precedent." Besides, he argues, Mr. Kennedy is not a political candidate.

Technically, of course, the 1964 political campaign hasn't started and there are no formal candidates, but actually the campaign is already under way.

President Kennedy really has begun to campaign actively for re-election. Almost every move he makes nowadays is based on its possible impact on the voters during the next 22 months. Every opportunity for publicity is sought. The latest example is the unprecedented interview on radio and television over all three major networks for a full hour last Monday night. The President could have given every bit of this information at a regular news conference, but it wouldn't have been dramatic enough nor subject to previous editing.

Mr. Kennedy evidently felt sure that the newspapers would use the interview rather fully, anyway, so it would also get wide publication in the press. The biggest advantage of all to Mr. Kennedy, however, is that he manages by this method to prevent any rebuttal on the same night that he gets full coverage of his views over the television networks. It is not like the "great debates" of the last presidential campaign, when the opposite candidate was at least given a chance to answer point by point.

ALL THE provisions of federal law about "equal time" with reference to television and radio programs that concern speeches by major candidates in politics seem to have become meaningless under the new procedure. The President can always argue that his speeches aren't political, though almost everything he said in the broadcast on Monday, for example, had to do with major political subjects which are current issues before the country.

The arrangements made by the three networks for the President's interview precluded any opposition speaker following closely on the President's remarks. It is said they did try to invite national personalities to talk, but there was no way by which the latter could prepare themselves for rebuttal the same evening, though the President himself had 24 hours in which he could change the transcript in whatever way he pleased.

THE manipulation of news now is an administration policy, and the manipulation of network facilities has become a valuable instrument in the "arsenal of weaponry" on the political battlefield. Almost everyone who knows anything about politics is aware that what is said during a campaign is only half the battle, and that a substantial number of votes have already been won or lost by what is said or done prior to the actual beginning of a campaign.

A one-sided presentation of what the government is doing appeals to some politicians as fair, but the people resent the obvious use of public office for political purposes. The newspapers have a circulation of nearly 80 million copies, and these reach an even larger number of individuals in the homes. The number of homes with television sets is around 47 million, but not everybody stays home for every program. Yet those who miss a President's utterances on the air can generally get a copy of a newspaper and read about them there.

So the President is certainly an astute press agent in his own behalf in giving the television networks a special program which they can advertise in advance.

WHAT'S MORE important is whether this sort of thing can become a "brainwashing" operation through which the people are led to form impressions based on incomplete and inadequate presentation of controversial subjects. Opponents have virtually no chance to refute presidential statements.

In the Soviet Union such things are handled by forbidding all counter-comment or criticism of the top executive. If there is criticism at all, it's usually at a later date, long after the initial speech. Maybe that's going to be the net effect in America, where the networks are under direct government supervision and usually try to maintain independence, but many nevertheless find it desirable to play ball

To Your Good Health

See Your Dentist For Help

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

A number of dentists, as well as dental hygienists and even a medical student tell me I erred in some remarks that I published concerning Vincent's angina, or "trench mouth," and I hasten to set the record straight.

My error, they assert, was in attributing the spread of the ailment (which can be a serious one if neglected) to such things as kissing and the use of common drinking cups.

This is not so, they assert; kissing is not the cause, as I stated. My error was in attributing the spread of the ailment (which can be a serious one if neglected) to such things as kissing and the use of common drinking cups.

Trench mouth germs, in the words of one communication, are "transmissible but not communicable," meaning that you can transfer the germs (of which there are several varieties) but cannot automatically give the disease thereby. It adds that the germs can be found in the mouths of 80 percent of us—but not the disease.

So I guess I'd better withdraw the remark about drinking cups and kissing. (There are other reasons for getting rid of the old community drinking cup, however, and as for kissing, I've never felt that opposition to it on my part would have any effect, even if I were so disposed. And I'm not.)

In any event, back in the days when I was a director of School Health Services, we often noted that outbreaks could occur in localized fashion, in a class, a school or dormitory. We made hundreds of laboratory cultures of the germs, and found them to be present in healthy mouths as well as in mouths of people with the disease—but more prevalent in the latter, which is not surprising, of course.

WE ALSO noted that other factors seemed to be involved: factors lowering of general physical resistance to infection, and maybe some psychosomatic elements, because there would often be more trouble during periods of strain, such as during examination week.

The basic treatment (today is the same as that in the days when I had a good deal of contact with the disease: Cleaning up the infected areas of the gums, removing debris whether trapped food particles or calculus (tartar) along with the use of a foaming agent—hydrogen peroxide or sodium perborate.

WHERE THE infection has had a chance to penetrate more deeply into the tissues, penicillin is used, but I am told by dental experts that this or other antibiotics will not permanently end the trouble unless the cleaning-out process also is performed.

Treated promptly, Vincent's angina can be cleared up in a short time, say two or three weeks. Neglected, it can lead to loss of teeth and the infection can spread to other tissues of the mouth area.

So however it manages to attack, the basic burden of my song remains the same: Don't dabble, and don't try to treat it all by yourself. Get dental care.

with the administration in power. That's why the newspapers become the last available source for the prompt and continuous presentation of both sides of controversial questions in a comprehensive manner in their news pages.

Norma Anderson, Wallace Tranberg Exchange Vows

ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — Miss Norma Jane Anderson and Wallace Eugene Tranberg were married Saturday at Faith Lutheran Church, rural Ettrick.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. E. Olson at 7:30 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church, rural Ettrick. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Anderson, North Beaver Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tranberg, Upper French Creek.

Mrs. Roger Anderson, Blair, sister-in-law of the bride, was organist, and Mrs. Roger Dahl, sister, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." White flowers on the altar and a Christmas tree decorated the church chancel.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Diane Ellen Anderson, Miss Amy Tranberg, Minneapolis, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Nancy Nelson, Minneapolis. Chynelle Dahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dahl, and Nathan Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ringbearer.

Richard Martin, Blair, Harold Terneson, Minneapolis, and Gerald Everson, Blair, attended the bridegroom. Edgar Anderson and Larry Tranberg, St. Paul, brothers of the couple, were ushers.

The bride's floor-length gown of lace and taffeta had rounded neckline dipping to a low back, and long sleeves. A crown of pearls held her veil and she carried red roses and stephanotis.

The bride's attendants wore red velvet street-length dresses made with three-quarter length sleeves, rounded necklines with deep V at the back. They had white fur headbands and carried white muffs with white carnations and holly. The flower girl was in white velvet with headband and miff like those of the bridesmaids.

A reception was held in the church dining room. Tables were adorned with Christmas decorations. Gifts were opened by Mrs. Stanley Tranberg, Milwaukee, Mrs. Donald Tranberg, Osseo, Mrs. La Verne Tranberg, Blair, Mrs. Larry Tranberg and Mrs. Ralph Anderson. Guests were registered by Miss Lolaraye Johnson, Minneapolis. Punch was served by Mrs. Steve Sviok, and the wedding cake was served by Mrs. Ralph Wood, Town of Gale. Pouring coffee was Miss Sharon Servais, Arcadia.

Others assisting were Mrs. Carl Nelson, the bridegroom's sister; the Mmes. Theodore B. Johnson, Hans Morken, Sam Legreid and Alton Tjersdal, all of the North Beaver Creek area; Sharon Broval, Beach, Dawn Berg, Blair, Trudy Tidestrom, French Creek, and Martha Engestrom, Blair.

Mrs. Anderson, mother of the bride, wore a green wool sheath, and Mrs. Tranberg, mother of the bridegroom, was in a brown and gold jersey print. Both had black accessories, and red and white carnation corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Tranberg will live in Upper French Creek, in the former Henry Hoff home. The bridegroom is employed at the ETCO Factory in Ettrick.

James Fischer Wed in Australia

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weekes, Sidney, New South Wales, announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to James R. Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Fischer, 126 E. Wabasha St. The marriage took place Dec. 22 at 3 p.m. in Carlingbah Presbyterian Church, Sydney. At present the couple is at home at 54 Seaview St., Cronulla, New South Wales, but late in January they expect to go to Rumbai, Sumatra, Republic of Indonesia, where he will continue with Caltex as an electrical engineer.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN
The Women's Association of Grace Presbyterian Church will meet in the church social rooms at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

MR. AND MRS. FLOYD KIPP, Harmony, Minn., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Darlene Iris, Charles City, Iowa, to Keith Kay Crooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crooks, Charles City. The wedding is planned for Feb. 10 at the Little Brown Church, at Nashua, Iowa.

1,500 Cards A Day for President

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A deluge of Christmas cards with greetings from the warm hearts of Americans—and even from people in other lands—has been pouring into the White House at a rate of 1,500 a day.

They offer President Kennedy words of prayer, confidence and encouragement. They give him thanks and praise.

Those from important people—and there are many—and a sampling of those from ordinary people have been forwarded direct to the chief executive at his holiday hideaway in Palm Beach, Fla. He doesn't have the time to see them all. Yet every one is counted and catalogued at the White House.

They come from as far away as Hawaii and Tokyo. A 15-year-old Japanese girl sends a lovely card on rice paper and a bit of poetry to "Dear President Kennedy."

"A merry Christmas, a joyous day, then a year that's happy in every way."

In words which a number of adults echoed, a 14-year-old boy in Victoria, British Columbia, penned on his card "best wishes for a peaceful new year."

About one out of every three cards was from a child or teenager.

From youngsters and adults there were expressions of approval of the President's handling of the Cuban crisis written beneath or opposite the formal greetings.

One posted posted on the USS Forrestal, an aircraft carrier, pictured four jets hauling Santa's sleigh. On it a member of Fighter Squadron 103 told his commander in chief: "Thanks for your stand in the Cuban crisis. It makes me proud to be an American."

In a beautiful, clear hand a San Diego, Calif., girl who said she was a fourth grader wished the President a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year and then assured him: "I liked the way you managed during the Cuban crisis."

Some of the cards are completely impersonal. Others are signed as if the President were a member of the family. A sailor on a destroyer escort mailed a card signed simply "Jim and Betty."

There is a generous sprinkling of "spiritual bouquets" and cards from religious groups. A Camden, N.J., woman promised the President, "You will be remembered in 5,000 holy Masses, 12,500 holy Communions, 15,600 holy Rosaries."

A Jewish family in the Bronx sent in a Hanukkah greeting card with a written prayer: "May the good Lord keep, safeguard and protect you and your loved ones. You are indeed a fearless and dynamic leader—God bless you."

BOYLE'S COLUMN

Santa Claus Is on His Way at Last

(Editor's Note: "Will Santa Claus really come to our house?" That is the most anxious question in America today. It is answered in the following column, written for parents to read aloud to their children. Since its first appearance in 1948, it has become a scrapbook favorite in many homes.)

By HAL BOYLE
NORTH POLE (AP)—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last.

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The northern lights switched on to a clear, steady green—the "go-ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lines in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky. For his big red sleigh was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying haystack as it raced through the cold crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of the presents fall out and bear some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Donner to Vixen. "He's only riding in the sleigh. We have to pull it."

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said. "Never mind," replied Santa. "I don't need it. This year I'm going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. It'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sofie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip

3-Day Holiday In Vote Count

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota's vote recount teams were in the middle of a three-day holiday today before returning to the job of winnowing mistakes out of the million-plus votes cast last Nov. 6.

Only clear fact gleaned from the first few days of the recount is that the job will take much longer than expected, with a bigger-than-expected pile of dispute ballots for the court to rule on.

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen, declared the winner by 142 votes by

Zorin Out as Russ Delegate To U.N. Post

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Valerian A. Zorin, veteran hard-line Russian negotiator tripped up by the Kremlin's soft-line switch in the Cuban crisis, was removed Sunday as Soviet delegate to the United Nations.

Zorin Fedorenko

Nikolai T. Fedorenko, now ambassador to Japan, was named his successor, Tass reported.

In announcing the change, Tass mentioned no new assignment for Zorin and left unclear whether Zorin's rank as a deputy foreign minister was affected. When a senior Soviet official loses his rank, this normally is made clear.

(Newsmen's inquiries at Soviet U.N. delegation headquarters in New York brought only expressions of surprise. Callers were told no official word of the change had been received.)

Zorin was at the delegation's country house in Glen Cove on Long Island. U.N. acquaintances of Zorin suggested that health might be a factor in the change. They said Zorin, who is 60 years old, was tired and seemed somewhat unsure of himself at a news conference Saturday reviewing the U.N. General Assembly Session.)

Fedorenko, 50, is a Far Eastern affairs expert who also has served in the Soviet Embassy in Peking. The standing of Zorin apparently suffered because of the Cuban crisis. In the United Nations, he flatly denied U.S. charges in October that Soviet missile bases were being built in Cuba, only to have Premier Khrushchev admit their existence shortly afterward.

U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson exhibited aerial photographs of the missile sites and then—in one of the most dramatic confrontations in the history of the U.N. Security Council—demanded to know if Zorin denied the existence of the sites.

Zorin replied, "I am not in an American courtroom. In due course, sir, you will have my reply." To this Stevenson retorted, "I am prepared to wait for my answer until hell freezes over."

Zorin eventually denied existence of the sites.

in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying: "Wait! Please wait!"

It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

"Why, Cluny?" said Santa. "This is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker-tick on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frost air.

"Ho, ho, ho! Here we go!" he roared. "Ho, ho, ho! Here we go!" The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sleigh began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air. Santa was on his way. And tonight, if you go to bed, he will come to your house, wherever you are.

the state canvassing board, will remain in office past Jan. 8 start of the new term, barring an unexpected speedup in the process.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag asked for the recount after the board's declaration of a winner.

As usual, each side went into the weekend claiming to be in the lead on the basis of recounted votes.

And, neither side explained satisfactorily how they could report two different versions of the recounted vote totals.

Republicans claimed Andersen ahead by 188 votes with 1,401 precincts checked. The DFL claims a lead of 219 votes for Rolvaag from 1,326 voting districts.

The claims of both sides will hold little validity until the statewide totals are reported to the panel of three judges supervising the recount.

Only then will Minnesotans learn how many uncontested votes are listed for each man and how many challenged votes hang in the balance for each man.

The total of these figures—undisputed and challenged—for each side will offer the first figures which can accurately be compared with the official totals reported by the canvassing board.

Study Habits Insure Success

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

My article stating the shortage of engineers and scientists is due to the failure of teachers and educators to show students HOW to study mathematics and science has brought a flood of letters asking for help in this matter.

In response to these requests from students, parents and teachers, I will discuss the learning of science in this article and the learning of math in a second article.

To be successful in learning science the student must concentrate on a SINGLE idea until he has gained thorough and precise understanding.

Each person adopts habits of learning. The way he reads is a habit. Whether he thinks about what he reads or merely memorizes is a habit.

These habits persist throughout the life of an individual. However, any time the learner has a strong desire to change, a definite and more efficient procedure can be substituted.

HERE ARE several examples of students who made changes in their learning habits:

A high school senior was failing physiology. Her method of study was to read a chapter 10 or 12 times. The number of hours spent in study certainly should have been sufficient!

But she was memorizing words rather than grasping ideas.

"This," she said, "is the way I study all of my subjects."

In her desperation as a failing student, she was willing to try a new approach. The following procedure proved highly successful.

Her assignment was cell and muscle structure. She read one paragraph describing a type of cell. She pictured this cell in her mind. She practiced sketching the cell structure as shown in her text. She thought about the different parts of the cell.

NOT UNTIL this paragraph was thoroughly understood did she proceed to the following paragraphs which described other types of cells.

Never before had she taken the trouble to gather an idea from a textbook exactly and completely. Thus ideas were taken one at a time, with a break for a walk or some other activity between the study of ideas. As she walked she pictured the cells in her mind and recited to herself the information about them.

A chemistry student, under urging, took the necessary time (about 10 minutes!) to think through the process of balancing a given chemical equation. When he understood exactly how this one equation was balanced, he understood the balancing of all chemical equations.

He made the concentrated effort necessary to understand atomic weights in ONE chemical formula. When he actually understood the concept, he could apply it throughout the course.

A FALTERING physics student was persuaded to restudy the course from the beginning. He was willing to concentrate, think, sketch and study until he understood the structure of an atom as it was presented in his text.

He recognized one idea at a time. Studying each carefully and thoroughly, he did not leave a principle until he could solve a numerical problem involving it.

Resistance to this type of precise thinking may start early. A second grade student who resists reading a paragraph to find answers which require an exact understanding of what is said already is developing a pattern of learning which will bring him to grief in the study of science and mathematics.

It is not always the dull student who drifts into these habits. Unfortunately, our more gifted students often insist on "thinking for themselves." I have no wish to discourage creative thinking. There is no conflict between thinking creatively and concentrating on understanding what someone else has said.

We must encourage both types of thinking—each in its place.

Barges Beginning To Move Out Of Cairo Area

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Boats and barges are starting to move on the Mississippi River between Cairo and St. Louis.

"The barges are moving slow but sure," reported Bob Skaggs, a dispatcher for the Cairo Marine Terminal.

Barges have been stranded in Cairo by shallow water since last Saturday.

A river rise of four-tenths of a foot at Cairo and seven-tenths of a foot at St. Louis is aiding the barges, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

Three dredges operated by the Army Corps of Engineers have been working in the area to keep an eight-foot deep, 300-foot-wide channel free of silt.

Skaggs said barges with eight-foot drafts are moving. He said barges at Cairo now number about 200.

Tour for '63 'Aircade For Citizenship Action'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Chamber of Commerce announced Friday that its 1963 "aircade for citizenship action" will visit 15 cities from Feb. 4 to March 1.

The flying caravan headed by chamber president Ladd Plumley was described as an effort to inform businessmen on major issues in Congress and arouse them to take "an active vocal interest."

The schedule of day-long meetings includes:

Feb. 4, Fargo, N.D.; Feb. 5, Des Moines, Iowa.

Newspaper Prints Letters For Santa

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Santa Claus: I am 8 years old and I have tried to be a good boy all year long. For Christmas I would like you to bring me—"

So runs a letter typical of those the Peekskill Evening Star has been printing by the column for three weeks. If the youngsters up the Hudson don't find what they want under their trees Tuesday, it won't be the newspaper's fault.

It could be the jolly old elf himself will slip up. Unless he has been monitoring television on a North Pole channel he could be completely baffled by the steady parade of well-advertised toy names—in a variety of spellings—from his hopeful correspondents.

Whatever trouble, if any, the ad-oriented requests give him, Santa must be pleased by the children's deep concern with the virtuous life. Most say flatly they've been good all year—or at least have tried to be.

Frankest statement on the subject came from a group of four: "We've tried to be good boys and girls all year, especially the last couple of days (ever since we saw you in the store)."

Along with being little paragons in deportment, the youngsters are kind, real kind.

They remember Santa: "There will be milk and cookies for you on the kitchen table (or mantel-piece)" crops up in many letters. They remember reindeer: The milk and cookie offer is extended to Santa's friends, or carrots will be put in stockings for them. One youngster, with more kindness than knowledge of natural history, plans to leave a bone.

They remember others: Most lists, no matter how lengthy, end with a plea for gifts for mommy, daddy, little brothers and sisters, pet dogs and cats, grandparents, remote relatives or poor children. Some in the junior set are born diplomats. "Most sign off with 'love,' but one small boy ends with an irresistibly charming 'your pal.' An 8-year-old girl starts off on a gracious note: "Dear Santa: How are you and Mrs. Claus?"

Day after day the most remarkable thing exhibited in the letter columns is the precocity of our younger generation.

"I am 18 months old and I have tried to be a good girl this year." "I am 1 1/2 years old and most of the time I'm a good little boy." "My name is Diane Timmons and I will be 1 year old on Dec. 29."

Who says Johnny and Susie can't read or write? Or at least dictate fluently for transcription by a 6-or 9-year-old brother or sister?

Hearing Jan. 24 On Nuclear Power Reactor at Genoa

WASHINGTON (AP) — A public hearing was scheduled by the Atomic Energy Commission on a proposed nuclear power reactor near La Crosse, Wis.

The ABC announced that the hearing before an atomic safety and licensing board would be held Jan. 24 in the post office and district court building, La Crosse.

The 50,000 net electrical kilowatt power plant would incorporate a boiling water reactor and would be built by Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., under contract with the AEC. Ultimately, the plant would be used by Dairyland Power Cooperative to produce electricity.

DEAR ABBY:

Let Children Deliver Gifts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My married daughters and also my daughters-in-law live in the same city with me. They have made a habit of bringing gifts to my home, intended for other members of the family, and asking me to give them to the persons they were bought for. Their excuse is that I will see the other party before they do. I don't see why they can't either MAIL them directly to the persons for whom they are intended or deliver them in person. It has become a burden to me.

FREE DELIVERY SERVICE

DEAR FREE: You will continue to be a "free delivery service" until you speak up and tell the offenders that you have gone out of the delivery business. When they realize you aren't kidding, they'll deliver their own gifts.

DEAR ABBY: Football season is over and I am glad. I was on the team and got pretty beat-up, but that wasn't the worst of it. I played lousy. I know the reason, too. My Dad came to every game and, afterwards, all he could tell me was what I did wrong. I didn't have the nerve to tell him I would have played better if he weren't watching me, but now I wish I had. I could have stood a half-dozen six-foot, 250-pound guys coming at me a lot easier than my father's criticism. Print this, Abby. But don't sign my name. NO GUTS

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced last summer. We have two children, 5 and 8 — much too young to know why their Daddy isn't living in our house any more. I think they are too young to understand what a divorce is, so I tell them Daddy is on a trip. I want the children to enjoy Christmas Day with their Daddy so I invited him to have dinner with us. I asked him to back me up on the story about his having to be gone on long trips. He said I should quit kidding the children and tell them the truth. Don't you think they are too young to be told about divorce?

DEAR BEVERLY: Your husband is much more realistic than you. Don't underestimate the "understanding" of children. Tell them the truth before somebody else does.

DEAR ABBY: I am the "poor wife" who is going to lose her husband to a woman who understands Mr. Brown better than his wife. Would you mind slipping in a little "confidential" to his lady friend:

"Well, you can have what's left of Mr. Brown after I get through taking him to court, which is exactly what I intend to do after the holidays. It will take more than YOU to spoil my children's Christmas."

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Farm Program Facing Three Big Objectives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's farm program faces three prime "make-or-break" objectives in 1963. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman has told President Kennedy.

Favorable action would put the Democrats in a good position in 1964, the next presidential election year, Freeman said.

The policies attempt to stabilize agriculture through supply-management and control programs approved by farmers.

The three objectives listed by Freeman are:

- (1) A favorable vote next spring in a nationwide grower referendum on the administration's new wheat control program.
- (2) Agreement on fair competitive arrangements with the European Common Market on key U.S. farm export products.
- (3) New legislation to deal with surplus and marketing problems facing feed grains, cotton and dairy products.

"The year ahead will be critical in determining whether we consolidate the gains made during 1961 and 1962 in food and agriculture and in rural affairs," Freeman told Kennedy. "If we can succeed, we can have this sector in good condition in 1964; if not, we could lose two years' gains."

Views Freeman related to the White House—which aides supply to newsmen — were expressed against a 1960 election background which placed or kept major Midwestern farm states in the Republican column.

The secretary placed great emphasis on the wheat referendum, which faces what he described as a "tough fight." He said it is being opposed by the "American Farm Bureau Federation, right wing elements in general, most chambers of commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers and some of the business community associated with agriculture."

The Farm Bureau is leading a fight against the wheat program and is picturing the referendum as a battle that could end administration efforts to set up broad controls not only for grain but for many other farm commodities.

Long Holiday Death Toll in Wisconsin 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The holiday traffic death toll in Wisconsin reached 10 today as the state prepared to observe Christmas. And the state total of highway fatalities for the year was 938 compared with 850 on this date a year ago.

One man was killed and two persons injured at 1:30 a.m. today when an automobile skidded on a curve on a Kenosha street, clipped off a telephone pole and uprooted a tree. Dead was Henry Carlson, 23, Racine. Hospitalized were Mrs. Carol Ann Pargisik, 22, Racine, who suffered a fractured skull, broken arm and broken leg, and the driver, Manuel Yost, 23, Racine, who escaped with minor injuries.

Stanley Cieslewicz, 63, a resident of Rosholt in Portage County, died Sunday in a Stevens Point hospital of injuries sustained when he fell out of an automobile near Stevens Point Saturday.

William Jones, 28, of Readstown, was killed early Sunday when struck by a car as he helped a companion change a flat tire on a town road near Soldiers Grove in Crawford County.

Edward Schmidt, 35, of rural Markesan, was killed Sunday when his automobile overturned at a curve on Highway 24 about eight miles west of Fond du Lac.

Mrs. Gerald Krueger, 42, of rural Abrams in Oconto County, was injured fatally Saturday when the car in which she was riding left Highway 41 near Green Bay and struck a tree.

Raymond Koorn, 46, of rural Burlington, was killed Saturday afternoon in a head-on collision on a town road in Walworth County.

Donald R. Kreckel, 19, of Brookfield in Waukesha County, was killed early Saturday when his car left a highway and struck a utility pole and a culvert near his home.

John DeVriend, 35, Sheboygan, died Saturday of injuries received a week ago in the collision of his car and a truck on a Sheboygan street.

Army Pvt. Dennis G. Eble, 19, of South Milwaukee, was killed early Saturday when his car left an Ozaukee County highway at a curve and plowed into a farm field.

Gerald Wisniewski, 30, Oak Creek, was killed Friday night in the collision of this automobile and a fuel oil truck at an intersection near his home.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch-Relieves Pain

Preparation H® — The Only Hemorrhoidal Remedy In World That Contains New Healing Substance.

Every Claim Verified By Doctors and Proved By 4 Leading Clinics.

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop burning rectal itch and relieve pain — without surgery or painful injections.

In one hemorrhoid case after another prompt relief was reported — also a "striking improvement" in from 2 to 4 days. These reports were verified by a doctor's observations and proved by four leading clinics.

Pain and itching were promptly relieved. And while gently relieving this distress — actual reduction (shrinking) of hemorrhoids took place. Most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astounding statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this was accomplished at home without surgery, injections, narcotics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world famous research institute. This new healing substance is offered in ointment or convenient suppository form called Preparation H. And Preparation H is the only hemorrhoidal remedy in the world containing this truly magical healing substance.

Magic Healing Power Discovered By Accident

Like many great discoveries — the effectiveness of Preparation H was also discovered quite by accident. In the laboratories of a famous research institution in Cincinnati, Ohio — renowned scientists were conducting advanced medical tests.

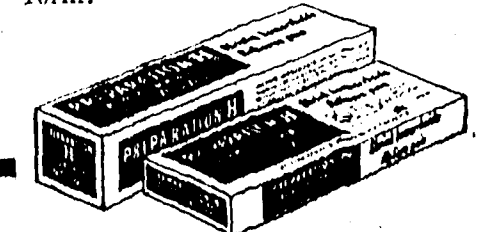

During an ether-extracting procedure, there was a sudden explosion. An assistant was severely burned. As an emergency measure, large quantities of an ointment (still in an experimental stage) were smeared on. To everyone's amazement — pain ceased immediately and the skin healed remarkably fast without scarring.

Later tests revealed this ointment was full of a new substance which has the astonishing power to heal injured skin. This substance was then scientifically combined with other effective medical ingredients into a product called Preparation H. And here's why this remarkable hemorrhoid remedy is so successful — Preparation H promptly relieves pain and burning rectal itch. Shrinks hemorrhoids without surgery. Heals injured tissue back to normal and helps prevent infection of hemorrhoids.

Every claim made for Preparation H has been verified by doctors. This is the only hemorrhoidal remedy containing Bio-Dyne. Just ask for Preparation H at any drug counter in ointment or suppository form.

In Ointment or Suppository Form (Convenient to use when away from home)

IT'S TIME AGAIN: Pull to right and stop when you see a blinking red light or hear a lawn.

Spaciousness in Small Package

By JULES LOH

In order to be a small house—or a “modest sized” one, as most developers choose to say it—each room clearly has to be scaled down, and the feeling of spaciousness so important to modern living simply goes by the boards in the face of plain reality.

But is this always the case?

IN TODAY'S House of the Week, a four-bedroom side-to-side split level, an open feeling is preserved in both the formal and informal living areas yet each room is clearly defined and privacy isn't overlooked.

Size of the house: A mere 1,325 square feet on the living and bedroom levels, plus the bonus slab level (the portion raised above ground from the basement to make it livable) of 356 square feet.

The home is design J-53 in the weekly series. The imaginative architect who accomplished the paradoxical feat of bringing the open spaces into a small area is Rudolph A. Matern.

THE EXTERIOR lines of the house are a tipoff to Matern's method of doing this. The gently sloping roof forms a similarly sloping ceiling above the living room, dining room and foyer.

Exposed beams, running front to rear, not only create interest in their own right but also serve to link the three rooms in one massive formal expanse.

All three rooms are clearly separate, the rear of the fireplace shields the main entry and a protruding wall makes a visual division between the living and dining rooms.

The informal area—kitchen, family room and den—are treated with a similar technique. Railings and a six-step separation divide kitchen and family room, and a folding partition makes the den either a cozy study or an integrated part of the open informality.

ARCHITECT Matern's ingenuity extends in equal measure to other less noticeable parts of the design. For example, note the “piggy back treatment” as Matern describes it, of the coat closet in the foyer. Above it is a generous medicine cabinet in the upstairs bathroom, and below it a 27-cubic-foot laundry storage closet. This is typical of the careful attention paid to full use of every square inch of the house.

The exterior of the house is attractive beyond the measure usually found in homes of this size.

Many split levels, especially small ones, have the dull silhouette of staggered boxes; this one has the graceful lines of a far more pretentious and expensive home.

IT IS BUILT of brick veneer and vertical V-grooved boards. The attractive front entrance is made of four-by-eight wood frames and includes the door, glass panels, hardwood panels and a sliding window.

To appreciate the exterior fully, you can look at a 35 millimeter slide of the artist's original full color drawing. Matern will mail one free to all who ask. His address is on the J-53 study plan.

The kitchen of this home—which is the “home within a home”—in the opinion of many—is a particularly well ordered arrangement.

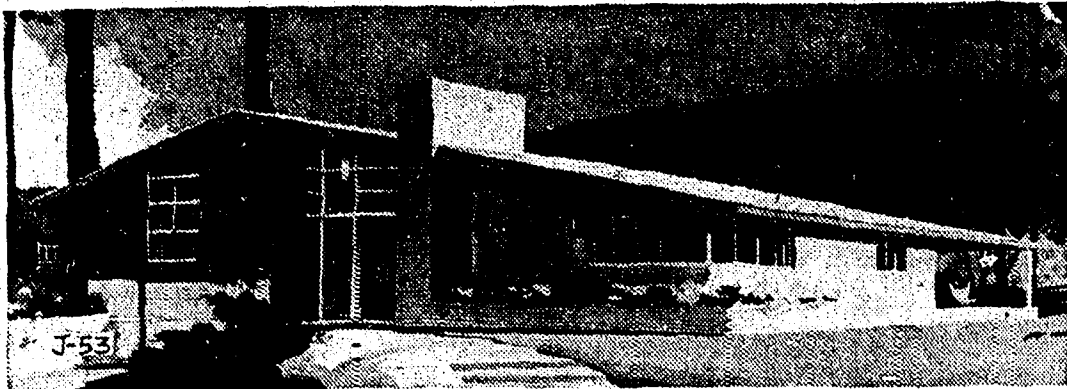

LARGE windows overlook the rear porch and backyard, offering adequate supervision as well as plenty of light and air. The room is large enough for a breakfast table, out of the way of the work area. There is plenty of counter space, 18 linear feet to be exact, and there is a separate counter adjoining the refrigerator.

Aside from its practical economy, this home offers a number of luxury touches—such as the balcony porch adjoining two of the bedrooms. This is an equally interesting feature from an exterior design standpoint.

J-53 Statistics

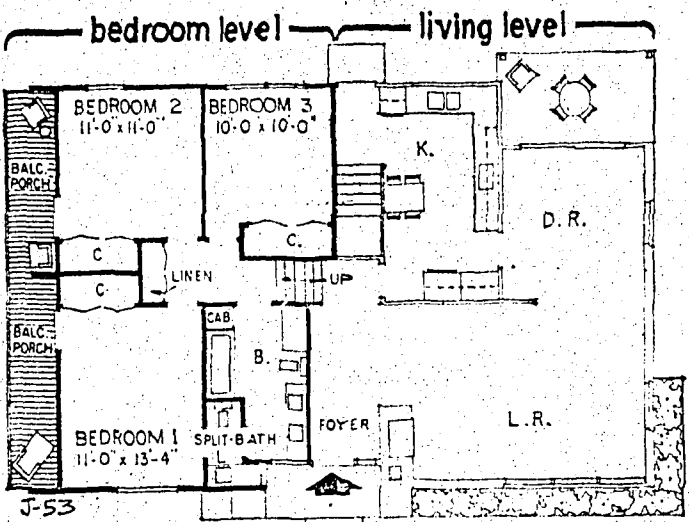

A three-bedroom side-to-side split level containing 1,325 square feet of living area on the living and bedroom levels and 356 square feet on the lower level not counting the garage. Dimensions are 46 feet 5 inches wide by 32 feet 7 inches deep.

The nickname of the American League Constitution, “Old Ironsides,” came from a gunner who saw solid shot bouncing off the oak sides during a battle with the British “Guerriere” in the War of 1812.

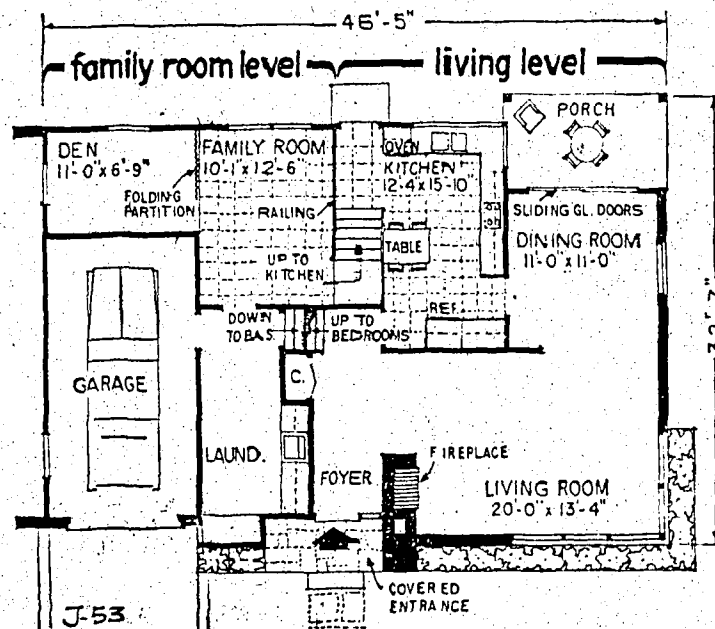

MODEST LUXURY: The gracefully sloping roof of this three-bedroom split level is a tip-off its floor plan is out of the ordinary. A similarly sloping ceiling extends over the living room, dining room and foyer, with exposed beams running front to back. The exterior is of brick veneer and vertical V-grooved boards.

FLOOR PLANS: The living and bedroom levels of this home contain only 1,325 square feet. The slab level, containing the family room, laundry and garage, contains 356 square feet not counting the garage. Overall dimensions are 46' 5" wide by 32' 7" deep.

Boy Winner In Plainview Lighting

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special)—Kenneth Lance, son of Mrs. Neil Lance, was the winner of the home decorating contest conducted by Plainview Jaycees. Judging was done by Wabasha Jaycees.

Kenneth, 12, has made the nativity scene for the past two years. It was started by his father the late Neil Lance. A scene of the holy family in a large window was painted by Kenneth and his sisters and brother, Cheryl, Susan and Scott.

Second place winner was Maurice Kroenig whose decoration included a “Merry Twisnmas.”

Third place went to Vincent King. Prizes were a gas light, an electric knife sharpener and a towel pole.

Honorable mention winners were Floyd Nicnow, Ardell Schultz, Howard Steffen and Edward Bordutha.

Richard Bennett was chairman of the contest.

Old Storage Shed Damaged by Fire

A one-story frame storage shed owned by Bud Todd Jr., 1023 E. Wabasha St., was almost demolished in a fire Sunday afternoon.

Firemen said that the old, small wood shed was badly damaged. The inside was burned out, the roof was damaged and one side was burned. The fire was out of control before firemen were notified at 4:04 p.m.

Twelve men fought the fire with two 2 1/2-inch lines after two pumps and a ladder truck had responded to the call. Old beds, space heaters and other used articles were stored in the shed.

Firemen estimated that the monetary loss would be small.

Student Learns How to Budget His Study Time

By G. K. HODENFIELD

AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the time of year when college students home for the holidays receive a sad tale to their parents: “There just isn't enough time in the week to attend classes, study, sleep and take care of all the other essentials.”

This is more than a complaint; it's often an excuse for grades that aren't as good as parents think they ought to be.

Charles R. Holloway Jr., a Portland, Ore., businessman, heard the familiar complaint from his oldest son, and got to wondering if the boy had any real idea of where his time was going.

“During the winter vacation after his first term in college,” Holloway said in an interview, “we sat down with pencil and paper. Taking a seven-day week of 168 hours, we discovered that after we had given him 8 hours of sleep, 3 hours a day for meals, time for church on Sunday, class time and dates on Friday and Saturday nights, he still had 65 hours of time for which he could not account.”

Holloway asked his son if he would be willing to complete a form each night, jotting down how each hour had been spent from 7 a.m. through 11 p.m.

The forms were simple, one-page affairs with little boxes marked for each hour. With a supply of these forms Holloway also gave his son a batch of stamped envelopes to be sent home daily.

“Frankly,” Holloway said, “I was not at all interested in where his time had gone. But I was interested in the necessity of my son realizing where and how he had wasted his time.”

The first reports, Holloway said, left much to be desired. So father and son sat down again to talk it over.

“His reports immediately improved,” Holloway said, “and from a very low grade point average in the fall term, his grades rose spectacularly and continued at a relatively high level until he graduated last June. He will tell you, and I'll back him up on it, that were it not for his diligence in budgeting his time he never would have finished college.”

When Holloway's second son started college he went on the same program of daily reports right away, and his grades have remained high.

“I am not sure this technique will work with ‘all youngsters,’” Holloway said. “But certainly for those who have the capacity but lack the ability to make the best use of their time, it works wonders.”

Jordon-Israel Gate Opened

JERUSALEM, Jordanian Sector (AP)—The ancient Mandelbaum Gate, astride the no man's land separating hostile Jordan and Israel, was opened today in an annual Christmas gesture to permit Christian Arabs from Israel to visit loved ones in Jordan.

Armed guards stood at each end of the barbed-wire corridor. The government of Jordan this year granted 36-hour passes to 26,686 Israeli Arabs. They are taking cakes, cheeses and wines to relatives who fled across the frontier in the Palestine war. Many are living in refugee camps.

Some have not seen their kin for 14 years.

The Mandelbaum Gate will swing shut for another year at sunset Christmas night.

Tokyo Records Russian Nuclear Explosion

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese Meteorological Agency announced today it has recorded atmospheric pressures “believed caused by a Russian nuclear explosion of about one megaton strength.”

A spokesman said a blast probably was set off shortly before 7 a.m. EST Sunday about 3,000 miles north-northwest of Japan in the Soviet Union's Novaya Zemlya testing ground.

Vibrations were felt at observation posts in Japan for 20 to 50 minutes starting at 11:30 a.m., the spokesman said.

In southern China the Salween, Mekong and Yangtze rivers follow parallel canyons only a few dozen miles apart before fanning out to distant seas.

Preston Federal Building To Be Occupied in January

NEW OFFICE BUILDING . . . Built by Victor Wubbels of Preston Cashway Lumber Co., this is said to be the only place in the state where all federal offices will be under one roof. The Fillmore County SCS, ASC and others will move in next month or Feb. 1.

PRESTON, Minn. — What is believed to be the first building in Minnesota housing all federal offices under one roof is nearing completion here. Constructed by Victor Wubbels of Preston Cashway Lumber Co., it will be ready for occupancy Jan. 1.

It will house five of Fillmore County's six federal offices and also provide an office for Roger Johnson, Southeastern Minnesota district supervisor for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Administration.

THE 90-BY-60-FOOT, one-story building also has a basement which provides a meeting room and furnace and rest rooms. It is located near the lumber yard on Highway 52 near the northwest outskirts of town. The exterior is beige rock-faced brick.

Most of the private offices are paneled in oak, stained blond. Fluorescent lighting is recessed in acoustical tile ceilings. Floors are covered with asphalt tile.

The ASC, of which Paul Ness is office manager, will have 2,500 square feet. Arnold Aakre and his SCS staff will have 700 square feet. These offices will move the first of the year from office space shared in the uptown business district.

Earl Freheit, in charge of federal crop insurance, and the state forester each will have 250 square feet. They also plan to move about the first of the year.

The FHA, headed by John Ryberg, has been assigned 500 square feet and will move Feb. 1.

THE MEETING ROOM downstairs covers about 700 square feet. Additional office space of about 300 square feet so far will be vacant. The selective service office will remain in its present quarters.

The building will be heated with natural gas and cooled in summer.

Wubbels anticipates five-year contracts with the government agencies by the first of the next fiscal year, July 1. Construction of the building was prompted by the ASC, which was looking for additional space.

Millville Native Named Catholic Physician of Year

MILLVILLE, Minn.—A native of Millville, now of Monrovia, Calif., has been named Catholic Physician of the year by the executive board of the National Federation of Catholic Physicians Guild.

Dr. Edward W. Hayes Sr. is a 1913 graduate of the University of Minnesota medical school and has been a leader in the fight against tuberculosis 40 years.

Besides supervising TB work in Imperial Valley, Calif., and construction of a sanatorium there, he serves as medical director and adviser to other sanatoriums and is devoting much time, effort and money on his private charity project, bringing crippled and handicapped Mexican children to an orthopedic hospital in California. These children spend months undergoing surgery, treatment and rehabilitation.

ALMA, Wis.—A total of 323 pints of blood was collected by the Red Cross mobile unit when it was in Buffalo County last week. Over 60 persons were rejected for health reasons.

A total of 108 pints was given at Mondovi Wednesday; 95 at Fountain City Thursday, and 120 at Alma Friday. Seventeen persons qualified for one-gallon pins. Mrs. John S. Burg, Alma, earned a two-gallon pin.

WISCONSIN TEAM ARRIVES LATE

Trojans, Badgers Get Down to Serious Work

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Southern California and Wisconsin, a couple of football teams with reputations to uphold, got down to serious business today for the Rose Bowl meeting New Year's Day.

The Badgers, rated the nation's No. 1 power after 10 straight victories this season, went behind closed gates to prepare for the invasion of the Big Ten champions from Wisconsin.

The Badgers, edgy and anxious for work after a tiring trip to Pasadena, planned a two-hour muscle-flexing workout for West Coast observers, before hanging out a "no visitors" sign for the last six practice sessions.

The Badgers, rated just behind Southern Cal in The Associated Press poll after an 8-1 campaign, found a day of mere sightseeing too much to take. They finished by doing some impromptu jogging—without a football—to rid themselves of "plane" legs.

Wisconsin's 44-man traveling squad arrived at Pasadena more than four hours late Saturday because of plane trouble and national weather conditions which delayed a chartered flight from Madison. The players were in an unhappy mood despite smiles flashed for the official welcome by tournament of roses queen Nancy Davis and six princesses.

A good dinner and several hours sleep changed things. There were plenty of smiles—unforced.

John McKay, USC coach spent some time reviewing films of Wisconsin games. He said that one of the Trojans' biggest jobs will be to stop All-America end Pat Richter, who at 6-foot-6 is a favorite target of quarterback Ron VanderKelen.

"I don't know what we're going to use on him—maybe a gun," McKay said.

"Everyone feels a little better today after a good night's rest," Milt Bruhn said as his charges left on a Sunday afternoon sightseeing tour. "It was a long wait, but we made it here and we're ready for the job."

"It was a long, tiring journey and we can use this day of rest before getting down to some hard work," said Co-Captain Richter.

Bruhn admitted that the day off "could be a blessing in disguise." He noted that the players awoke early Saturday morning, had a long wait for a plane in Madison and then landed in nearby Burbank, hungry, tired and a little irritated.

"They can use this relaxation, but they are anxious to get back to practice," Bruhn said. "They tell me they've been riding planes and buses so much that now they want to do some running. They'll get it, too."

The Badgers arrived Saturday some four hours late when weather delayed their chartered plane. As things wound up, some 25 members of the "official" party, including wives of the coaches and publicist Jim Mott, had to settle for a flight aboard another plane, hurriedly supplied in Chicago, and arrived in Pasadena three hours later than the team.

"It was snowing when we finally left Chicago and we didn't know if we would ever get here," Mott said.

The Badgers' delay took some of the glamor from the usual welcoming ceremonies planned by the Tournament of Roses committee. At a poolside greeting in Pasadena, the long day was capped. An orange tossed by a tournament princess hit quarterback VanderKelen on the head. He wasn't even stunned.

"It's a good thing he's a passer and not a receiver," quipped one wag.

Rushford, Houston Quintets Triumph

Rushford and Houston captured victories Sunday in the Tri-County Basketball League.

Rushford edged Peterson 68-66 and Houston rolled over La Crescent 69-54.

Steve Johnson hit 24 points and Dave Rislove 21 for Rushford which led 21-12, 33-26 and 52-41 at the quarter turns. Dave Gorder caged 10 and Paul Skallek 12 for the Peters.

Houston led La Crescent 35-16 at the intermission paced by Dave Goede who finished with 22 points. Jeff Kremer added 17. For La Crescent, Jim Baiter collected 22.

In midweek games, Rushford beat La Crescent and Houston forfeited to Peterson.

Lanesboro and Dakota have dropped from the league, leaving a four-team circuit.

Snakes trimmed Hot Shots 33-28 after trailing 6-4, and 14-10 at the first two quarter turns.

John Atkins collected 13 points and Tom Becker 8 for the Hot Shots. Don Hazelton had 14 and George Hubbard 9 for the Snakes.

WILL PLAY IN DAVIS CUP

Laver's Pro Status Hit

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—A ruckus was raised today over Rod Laver's right to play Davis Cup tennis in view of the flagrant flaunting of his professional plans but indications were that there would be no official action.

The Mexicans said they planned no protest and the bigwigs of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia shrugged their shoulders and looked the other way.

So despite howls of "farce" and "flagrant professionalism" the Australian left-hander, who scored the second grand slam in history this year, will be in the line-up for the Australians when they go against Mexico in the Davis Cup challenge round Wednesday.

The Sydney Daily Telegraph said that a professional program listing Laver already had been printed for the projected pro tour with Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall starting in Sydney Jan. 5.

The controversy was stoked when Ken Rosewall, visiting Brisbane Sunday, disclosed detailed financial arrangements for the tour. He said he and the other pros were taking a cut down the line to meet Laver's contract.

The Sydney Morning Herald's tennis writer Alan Clarkson said the incident was a "farce for amateur tennis." Other reporters also raised the professionalism issue but both Laver and Harry Hopman, the Australian captain, insisted no contract had been signed.

Rosewall said he was being cut from 20 per cent of the receipts to 15 per cent and that Hoad was accepting a reduction from 17 1/2 to 15 per cent with the other pros absorbing similar slices in their paychecks.

CHAMPAGNE FOR THE COACH . . . Dallas Texan Coach Hank Stram gets a champagne shower in the dressing room after his Texans won the American Football League championship by defeating the Houston Oilers 20-17 Sunday. A 25-yard field goal by Tommy Brooker broke Houston's three-year domination of the AFL. (AP Photofax)

Beat Oilers In Overtime

HOUSTON (AP)—A slight drizzle ticked off Tommy Brooker's helmet. The clock showed 2 minutes, 54 seconds of the second sudden death overtime period. The opposing lines tensed as the ball was snapped back. Len Dawson put the ball down on the 25-yard line stripe.

Brooker kicked and the Dallas Texans were the champions of the American Football league with a 20-17 decision over Houston's two-time titlists in the longest game in professional football history.

The game turned out to be a three-part production. Dallas won the first half 17-0. Houston took the second half by the same score. Then they went to the finale, before an overflow crowd of 37,981 and a national television audience.

Dallas won the toss at the start of the overtime and it was Abner Haynes' decision whether to receive, kick off or take the option of selecting the favorable end of the field. Inexplicably Haynes gave the Oilers the first advantage when he elected to kick off.

That gave Houston the kickoff plus a 14-mile per hour wind at its back. Dallas coach Hank Stram said he had wanted to kick off since his defense had been strong. But wanted the favorable wind.

"The players were excited and tugging at Abner," explained Stram. "He just didn't understand the option. It was a mistake you don't like to make."

Fortunately for the Texans, the Oilers were unable to capitalize on the situation. As a matter of fact neither team could as they played out the 15-minute overtime session and went into round 2. Houston made its most serious penetration before the tide turned.

Bill Hull intercepted a George Blanda pass after the Oilers had moved to the 35. Hull lugged it back 23 yards. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes gained 10. Spikes rambled 19 to the Houston 19 and the Texans were in range. Brooker then booted the winner.

The game goes into the books as the longest game in pro football, and only the second sudden death championship game. Baltimore defeated New York 23-17 in the 1958 National Football League title game, scoring the winning TD after 8:58 of the first overtime.

Haynes, who scored two first half TDs before almost turning from hero to goat, said, "We were ready for them." Running mate Curtis McClinton chimed in, "We just wanted the championship. We waited three years."

Houston Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy trying to make it three consecutive titles for the Oilers, said the Houston story was simply "missed opportunities in the first half."

Brooker's three-pointer was worth a winning share of $2,261.80 for each Texan. Each member of the Oilers gets $1,471.09. Both figures are AFL records.

CAGE TOURNAMENTS SET

Bemidji, Huron Holiday Hosts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The annual bustle of college basketball holiday activity bursts out with three area tournaments this week.

The Paul Bunyan Invitational at Bemidji, Minn., will feature Minnesota Duluth against Minot and Gustavus Adolphus against Bemidji State in the opener Friday. The tourney winds up Saturday. Bemidji is defending champion.

In the Plainsman Tourney at Huron, S.D., Thursday's opening round will feature Huron at South Dakota Wesleyan, and St. Mary's against Northern State. That affair concludes Friday.

The Red River Classic at Fargo, N.D., running Thursday through Saturday, will have the following opening slate: Concordia - Augustana of Sioux Falls; St. Thomas-North Dakota University; Moorhead-Buena Vista of Iowa and North Dakota State-Valley City.

In other action, Hamline will be on the West Coast, playing Los Angeles State Thursday and Long Beach State Saturday.

Macalester plays South Dakota University at Vermillion, S.D., on Saturday.

In last Saturday's action, St. Cloud State beat South Dakota State 92-60 to gain their ninth victory in 10 games; and Morris branch of the University of Minnesota lost a 63-50 game to Northern State of South Dakota.

BEARCATS EASE UP

Busy Schedule For Top Quints

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Several of the nation's leading college basketball teams run smack into the heavy holiday tournament schedule this week. But it's likely to be a real holiday for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats.

While six of the top ten teams are engaged in tournament competition and three others have two games booked, the Bearcats play only once. They go against Ohio University (3-3) Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola takes on Arkansas in the opening round of Oklahoma City's All-College Tourney Wednesday. Mississippi State, No. 5, meets Houston in the Sugar Bowl Tourney Friday. Colorado, No. 6, plays Kansas Wednesday in the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City and 10th-ranked Seattle faces California Thursday in the Far West Classic at Portland.

West Virginia, rated seventh, and Illinois, No. 8, move into Madison Square Garden for the Holiday Festival Wednesday. The Mountaineers play Boston College while Illinois hooks up with unbeaten Pennsylvania.

Kentucky, ranked ninth, has regular games with Dartmouth and Notre Dame. Duke, No. 2, faces Princeton and Wake Forest while Ohio State, No. 3, hits the road to meet Baylor and Wichita.

The Bearcats had an easy time last Saturday night while rolling up their 26th consecutive triumph and eighth this season with a 72-40 conquest of Davidson.

Three top-ranked teams—Colorado, West Virginia and Seattle—were defeated.

Colorado lost to Arizona 60-52. Kentucky edged West Virginia 97-75 in the finals of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament and Loyola of Chicago, unbeaten in seven games, downed Seattle 93-83.

There were other surprising developments as Notre Dame and Virginia Tech were bounced out of the undefeated ranks. Butler, which had lost six of seven games, ended the Irish six-game winning streak 66-59 and Vanderbilt turned back Virginia Tech 60-72 in overtime.

Ohio State came through as expected in beating Detroit 101-66 and Illinois dumped Oklahoma 83-90. Duke and Mississippi State were idle.

Warriors Climb From Cellar; Celtics Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Warriors, who have streaked from the cellar into third place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, got a chance to gain ground on the No. 2 team, the St. Louis Hawks, Tuesday night.

The teams meet in the opener of a doubleheader in Madison Square Garden while the Syracuse Nationals and New York Knickerbockers clash in the second game. Detroit is at Cincinnati in the only other game.

No games were scheduled Sunday and none are on tap tonight. In Saturday night's action, San Francisco defeated Syracuse 123-118. New York turned back Boston 120-106 and Detroit defeated Chicago 122-110.

The Warriors-Nats game was not decided until the final 29 seconds when San Francisco trailed 113-117. At that point, Tom Meschery put the Warriors ahead to stay with a jump shot. Seconds later, he clinched the verdict with a three-point play.

Big 10 Fives Lose 30 of 67

By JOE MOOSHL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Ten basketball teams, getting walloped with unaccustomed regularity by intersectional foes, plunge into holiday tournament activity this week before settling down to the opening of the conference campaign Jan. 3.

By the time the conference race begins, Big Ten teams could very easily have a losing record against outside competition. Currently the Big Ten has a record of 37 victories and 30 losses for the season.

This advantage, however, could be wiped out this week since most of the Big Ten teams will be away from home where the losses pile up quickly.

Only Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan can point to their records with pride. Ohio State (6-0) and Illinois (5-0) are undefeated and Michigan has a 7-1 mark.

These three produced victories last Saturday night while five other conference teams fell in defeat. Ohio State slugged Detroit 101-66; Illinois squeezed by Oklahoma, 69-60, and Michigan defeated Texas A&M, 82-79. In the losing game it was Oregon State 61, Iowa 55; Kansas 62, Northwestern 57; UCLA 77, Wisconsin 63, Utah State 102, Michigan State 87, and Arizona State 98, Minnesota 79.

Minnesota, which is a solid contender for the conference crown, won its first three games at home and then lost four straight on the road. The Gophers will find the going tough this week since they play at Wichita Thursday and at Drake Saturday.

Coach John Kundla, perhaps mellowed by the sunny warmth of Arizona, found solace even in the 98-79 loss to Arizona State Saturday night.

"It was the best basketball we've played this season," he said, referring to the second half in which reserves Paul Pederson and Bill Davis sparked a Gopher comeback.

Minnesota trailed by a huge 29 points at halftime but nearly doubled their point production in the second half after the 36-27 intermission gap.

Illinois, Iowa, Northwestern and Wisconsin will play in various tournaments throughout the country. Illinois will be in the New York Festival, Iowa journeys to the Far West Classic and Northwestern plays in the Los Angeles classic. Wisconsin will engage in a tournament in Milwaukee.

Purdue will be home Thursday against Yale and the eastern invaders will play at Michigan Saturday. Ohio State is at Butler Thursday and at Wichita Saturday while Michigan State goes to Hawaii to play three games against service teams.

AARON NAMED MILWAUKEE MVP

Milwaukee (AP)—Outfielder Henry Aaron was named Saturday as the Milwaukee Braves' most valuable player in 1962, the third time he has been so honored by the Milwaukee chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Aaron, who hit .323 and was second to Frank Robinson in National League slugging averages with .624, will receive the 1962 award at the writers' annual Diamond dinner Jan. 20.

Steers Walk Away From Pack in ABL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's just no stopping Bill Bridges and the Kansas City Steers, thundering away from the pack in the American Basketball League with a 10-game winning streak.

The Steers, getting a 32-point performance and 22 rebounds from Bridges, won No. 10 Sunday night by defeating the Philadelphia Tapers 108-97 before a record Kansas City crowd of 10,228 lured by a doubleheader attraction also featuring the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Steers' triumph gave them a four-game lead over Long Beach. Each has lost seven games but Kansas City has won 22 to 14 for the Chiefs. In the only other game played over the weekend, fourth-place Oakland defeated last place Chicago 122-103 in overtime Saturday night.
