Wants to Keep Issue Out of Party Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will publicly discuss the Kennedy administration's estimates of Soviet strength in Cuba on a radio-television broadcast today, the White House announced.

The broadcast was scheduled for 4 p.m. (Winona Time).

McNamara will head a group of Pentagon officials who will hold a news conference on the subject.

The White House indicated that McNamara and his colleagues would give a detailed accounting of U. S. intelligence findings.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Since last August, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating has been making charges about Soviet military strength in Cuba. In the following exclusive AP interview, he offers the White House some previously undisclosed Cuban information.

By JACK BELL and FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., offered today to give President Kennedy previously undisclosed information he has gathered about Soviet military activities in Cuba.

The New York senator, who has been involved in several disputes with the administration over his charges that the government had not told all of the facts about Cuba, made the offer in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

Keating said he would be willing to tell the President about reports he has received but on which he has made no public statements because he could not confirm their authenticity to his own satisfaction.

"I would welcome the opportunity to tell the President of the information I have, to tell him also of the information I've heard which I do not consider confirmed but which might be true," he said.

But Keating said he doesn't want to reveal even to Kennedy the sources of information the administration has often challenged in the past but which proved to be basically right.

Keating clarified one issue of conflict with the Pentagon. He conceded he was not talking about hard bases for intermediate range missiles when he said last week he had evidence offensive bases were being maintained by the Soviets.

As far as he knows, Keating said these concrete bases have been broken up. He said he was talking about gravel-based medium range missile sites. He conceded he has no information that launchers which could be used on the sites remain in Cuba. "I don't think they are posing any weapons or they're going to launch an invasion against the U.S.A.," he said.

Keating suggested that there may be a difference of opinion within the administration on what to do about Cuba and that "may account for the reluctance on the part of officials to give Americans all of the facts."

He said he wants to keep the Cuban buildup out of politics.

Here are questions and answers from the interview:

Q. The matter of the Soviet buildup in Cuba appears to be rushing toward an investigative crisis in Congress. Sen. Humphrey has suggested open hearings. Would you favor such hearings and would you be willing to appear before some investigating committee?

A. I would certainly favor open hearings but I think it should be left to the discretion of the Senate committee.

Q. Would you give such a committee any information you have as well as the sources of that information if the sources were held confidential?

A. They will call as witnesses, I am told, officials in the Defense Department and the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) and the State Department and they will have all of the information I have and a good deal more. I would be glad to confer with the members of that committee any time they wanted me to but I don't think it would be in the interest of anyone to have me as a witness because what I know is comparatively little compared to what they can get from these other witnesses.

Q. Sen. Humphrey said that any

Marshall Tells Committee of Road Attacks

ST. PAUL (AP)—In one of the understatement of the session, Highway Commissioner James C. Marshall told the House Highways Committee Tuesday that "there has been considerable criticism against the department and against me."

But Marshall, a retired Army general, good humoredly reported he wasn't particularly agitated over criticism about road construction, highway patrol practices or other matters.

"I don't relish the criticism. We expect criticism. We welcome constructive criticism. We try to endure the other kind."

"I have been a public servant for the federal government since 1915. A public servant must expect he cannot please all."

Rep. Leonard Dickinson, Bemidji conservative, re-opened the matter of highway department attorneys, who are appointed by Atty. Gen. Walter F. Mondale.

"Do we have to go into that again?" Marshall said, but then reiterated that he has too many lawyers and has no authority to hire or fire them.

Gov. Reynolds Submits Budget In Wisconsin

By HARVEY BREUSCHER

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. John W. Reynolds used words and film today to dramatize his appeal for legislative approval of the first installment of a liberal 1963-65 state budget that could total $161 million more than current appropriations.

The Democratic governor asked the Republican-controlled Legislature to approve $338.1 million, or $96.6 million more than the amount appropriated in the current two-year period.

The total represents a cut of only $2.7 million in department requests, but Reynolds called it about the most conservative budget you could have.

The second half of Reynolds' budget presentation is expected next Tuesday and will deal with state allocations of school and welfare aids, state contributions to teacher retirement, and other local assistance. Requests in that area total $326.4 million, or $67.3 million more than the sums currently appropriated.

A combination of the two increases would add $161.9 million to the present budget of $309.6 million for a record total of $671.5 million.

The governor said that last year a total of more than $1 billion in state and local taxes was collected by all governmental units in Wisconsin and that municipalities spent 81 per cent of it.

Of the $94.6 million increase for state operations, $46 million is earmarked for higher education and $20.4 million for welfare institutions.

Other increases include $5.4 million to enlarge the State Tax Department staff, $2.6 million for retirement benefits, and $2 million for vocational rehabilitation and retraining of unemployed workers.

Kennedy Bars U.S. Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today barred shipment of U.S. government-financed cargoes on any ship which has been to Cuba since Jan. 1.

The long-expected order is aimed at discouraging free world ships engaging in trade with Cuba.

The new regulation falls considerably short of more sweeping proposals first planned by the administration last fall.

Navy Balloon Carries Test Instruments

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP) — The Navy says a 188-foot balloon carried an instrument package 123,000 feet high in a test of the upper atmosphere.

The 123,000-foot package carried instruments designed to measure the air's ozone content, a factor regarded as important in missile and space programs.

The helium-filled balloon — launched Tuesday — landed at Will Rogers Beach State Park near Santa Monica, Calif., 45 miles southeast of this coastal launching site.

Canada Cabinet Falls, April 8 Election Called

Nation Told Of Minnesota Governor Race

By GERRY NELSON

ST. PAUL (AP) — Today marks the start of the fourth month since Minnesota voters lined up so evenly that the results of their balloting for governor haven't been untangled yet.

Hopes for a quick windup of the recount trial suffered another setback Tuesday when the three-judge panel supervising the recount set Feb. 25 for the trial of disputed ballots in the contest between Gov. Elmer L. Andersen and Karl Rolvaag.

This is a week later than the previous target date. Attorneys said about one day will be needed to argue on 24 categories of dispute ballots, which will be screened down to about 3,000.

After that, another week of arguments will follow on other alleged irregularities turned up during the recount.

The three judges Tuesday upheld DFL'er Rolvaag in a procedural dispute over 10 ballots in Maplewood, giving Rolvaag a 138-vote edge in the raw audit—which is not too meaningful until the disputed ballots are counted for one candidate or another by the court.

"It's been a long election night," quipped Karl Rolvaag, the Democratic challenger who initiated a recount after being declared the loser by 142 votes.

The only outward change in state government has been the furnishing of a 7 by 15-foot office in the Capitol basement for Rolvaag.

Some see a touch of humor in its location, almost directly below the ornately paneled office of Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen.

Although the 1962 election outcome was unparalleled in 103 years of statehood, framers of the Minnesota constitution might have foreseen it by providing that the former governor stays in office until a contest is settled.

The same election that left Andersen in doubt as to his new term blessed him with conservative majorities in both houses of the legislature, which began its biennial session last month.

Officially, the legislature is non-partisan. But most conservatives are allied with Republican causes while legislative liberals usually are elected with Democratic backing. House liberals call themselves the DFL caucus—the abbreviation standing for Minnesota's hyphenated Democratic-Farmer-Labor.

Gale warnings were flying from Cape Canaveral, Fla., to Nags Head, where residents of the Outer Banks bolstered a battered shoreline with sandbags.

Rough seas and tides of one to four feet above normal were predicted during the day, with considerable beach erosion and minor flooding at high tide.

Ships in the area reported winds during the night were 35 to 40 miles an hour. Winds were considerably less along the coast.

Rough seas battered the shoreline of the Carolinas Tuesday and some erosion was reported up the coast from Nags Head.

WILL HE REMAIN? . . . Gov. Elmer L. Andersen, a smiling optimist about his chances in the Minnesota recount, showed off his book of long range plans for state departments. He has remained in office while recount teams and the courts work to determine whether Andersen or Democrat Karl Rolvaag won the election three months ago. (AP Photofax)

New Storm Hits Atlantic Ocean Beaches

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP)—A fierce winter storm which has endangered shipping and has eroded Atlantic Ocean beaches from Florida to North Carolina, cut the North Carolina Outer Banks in two again today.

The Cape Hatteras Coast Guard station reported that the storm had widened a channel through Hatteras Island on the Outer Banks, cut by storms of last spring and fall. Until the channel is filled, residents and vacationers will have to make long detours by ferry.

Although the storm lost strength during the night, upper air patterns at 6 a.m. indicated further intensification possible in the next 24 hours.

Army engineers and Outer Banks residents had dumped thousands of sandbags and 250 wrecked automobiles into the old channel cut. The 1,500-foot opening had been filled in to 100 feet before the new storm hit.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the storm center was estimated about 150 miles off the Georgia and South Carolina coasts.

So far as can be determined, neither President Kennedy nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk had a hand in producing the State Department statement which burst like a bomb in the middle of Canadian politics.

Indeed the statement evidently was not supposed to be such a bombshell at all, although its authors reportedly foresaw the possibility of angry Canadian government criticism.

Kennedy is understood to have been upset the day after the statement came out by the apparent failure of State and Defense Department authorities to judge its impact. It was understood to have been cleared by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs.

The statement was designed to clear up for the record U.S. government views on issues involving Canada's acceptance or rejection of U.S. nuclear warheads for U.S. weapons systems already in Canadian hands.

The idea of issuing a statement, informed officials say, originated in the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa and in the State Department here after a debate on nuclear weapons in the Canadian Parliament. The embassy is under direction of Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth and the State Department policy control is understood to have been delegated by Rusk to Undersecretary George W. Ball.

The issue essentially was simple. Diefenbaker had long been reluctant to equip Canadian forces with U.S. nuclear weapons under joint U.S.-Canadian control. Kennedy and his advisers believed, however, that the weapons are essential for Canada's role in the defense of North American and Western Europe. Canadian units are part of the European NATO force.

Adenauer Gives Pledge to NATO

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer pledged today that West Germany will cooperate in President Kennedy's plan for a multinational NATO nuclear force.

"Europe knows that it cannot defend itself without the support of the United States," West Germany's 47-year-old government chief told the Bundestag in a statement outlining the policy of his new coalition government.

Adenauer defended strongly the new French-West German treaty of cooperation as a step toward European unity. He vowed to keep working for Britain's entry into the European Common Market, vetoed last week by France.

Canadian Crisis Strain on U.S.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Seldom have U.S.-Canadian relations been more strained, mainly because of a State Department statement Washington insiders say wasn't intended as a bombshell nor read in advance by President Kennedy. Who cleared it at the White House and what lies ahead for "the good neighbors?"

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political crisis in Canada threatens to maintain for several months the severe strains on U. S.-Canadian relations.

There was no immediate comment here from the White House or State Department on the fall of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government Tuesday night. But U. S. leaders are sensitively aware that a State Department statement just a week ago sparked the tumult which now forces the Canadians into new elections.

Since Diefenbaker had made a major issue of what he called U. S. intrusion into Canadian affairs there is no doubt that Canadian-U. S. defense activities, nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces, and probably the whole range of political and economic relations between Ottawa and Washington will be hotly debated during the election period and in the new Parliament to follow.

So far as can be determined, neither President Kennedy nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk had a hand in producing the State Department statement which burst like a bomb in the middle of Canadian politics.

Indeed the statement evidently was not supposed to be such a bombshell at all, although its authors reportedly foresaw the possibility of angry Canadian government criticism.

No-Confidence Vote Brings Downfall

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's Parliament was dissolved today and a national election was called for Monday, April 8.

By MAX HARRELSON

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada headed today for an election campaign based on close-to-home economic issues as well as the U.S.-Canadian nuclear weapon dispute which toppled Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government.

Diefenbaker's government was the second in nearly 100 years of Canadian confederation to be beaten down by a no-confidence vote in the House of Commons.

The prime minister was to call today on Gov. Gen. Georges Vanier, the required prelude to dissolving Parliament and setting an election date.

The election probably will be set for April 8.

Although the nuclear weapon dispute brought down the government, chief opposition leader Lester B. Pearson said he believes the major issue in the coming campaign will be the need for economic and social policies to stimulate "our national growth to the point where we'll be able to give employment to all who are willing and able to work."

Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, apparently was trying to tone down the defense issue. He, too, has been attacked for advocating that Canada live up to commitments to accept nuclear weapons and then negotiate to get rid of them.

Diefenbaker's Conservatives are certain to emphasize charges that the United States interfered in Canadian affairs by calling publicly on the government to accept nuclear weapons. They also are expected to accuse Pearson of taking orders from Washington, a charge the Liberal leader hotly denied when the Conservatives raised it in the nuclear weapon debate.

Diefenbaker's government was brought down by two votes, each 142-111, on no-confidence motions posed by the Social Credit and Liberal parties. Two deputies from the third opposition party, the New Democrats, voted with the government.

Plane Piloted By 2 Americans Lost in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Vietnamese air force fighter-bomber piloted by two U.S. Air Force captains crashed and exploded in jungle-covered mountains today while on a strike mission.

There was no immediate indication whether either of the two Americans or the Vietnamese observer with them survived.

It was the second crash of an American-piloted B26 fighter bomber in four days. Sunday a B26 crashed or was shot down on a strafing mission 110 miles southwest of here, killing both American pilots and the Vietnamese observer.

Today's crash, about 200 miles northeast of here, occurred while the B26 reportedly was strafing a suspected Viet Cong target. It was not known whether the plane had been hit by ground fire.

All B26 fighters in Viet Nam carry Vietnamese air force markings but are flown by American pilots.

Heavy Communist activity has been registered in various parts of Viet Nam in the past few days.

Workmen's Compensation Bill Prepared

ST. PAUL (AP) — The workmen's compensation benefit bill supported by the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, will be introduced today by its chief author, Rep. D.D. Wozniak, St. Paul Laborer.

Wozniak said it is basically the same bill passed by the Liberal-controlled House in 1959 and 1961, but which the Conservative-dominated Senate rejected.

There have been no increases in workmen's compensation benefits since 1957.

Highlights of the bill:

1. Occupational diseases would be treated in all cases as other industrial accidents.
2. The maximum weekly disability benefit would be keyed to the average weekly wage in manufacturing and set at 66 2/3 per cent of such figure.
3. The healing period limitation of 104 weeks is stricken and a permanent partial case would be compensated for the entire healing period whatever it might be.
4. Where a partially disabled worker is unable to obtain employment, his compensation would be based on a wage loss theory rather than a percentage of medical disability.
5. The old ceiling of $17,500 in fatal cases is removed and compensation would be paid to a widow during widowhood or other dependents during minority.

Need for Joint Effort at College Cited by AAUP

The various components of the college community should not be "battling among themselves" but should be working hand-in-hand, a spokesman for the American Association of University Professors told a college audience here Tuesday.

The speaker was Walter Mink, associate professor of psychology at Macalester College and former president of the AAUP. He is on the national membership committee for the AAUP and a candidate for its national council.

MINK SAID college faculties, administrations, student governments and boards of trustees "are concerned with the best possible way to communicate education and knowledge to the students and that is hard to do when they are fighting and bickering."

"There is an increased interest and concern in our society about higher education. A great deal is expected of the colleges and universities in our country as well there should be."

"Faculties and administrations and their colleges and universities are finding that things have changed. Their ivory towers have now turned into goldfish bowls."

"The free pursuit of knowledge must have the right type of situation in which to grow. No groups can be pressuring for any particular cause or point-of-view or to leave out anything important."

THE WINONA STATE College chapter of the AAUP was host to members of College of Saint Teresa and St. Mary's College faculties at the dinner meeting at the Williams Hotel. Dr. Douglas Stenson, president of the WSC chapter, presided.

He said the purpose of the meeting was to acquaint faculties with the aims and activities of the AAUP and its value for individual faculty members. The possibility of organizing a chapter at Saint Teresa was considered.

Dr. Augusta Nelson and Miss Alice Thurston were the committee on arrangements, assisted by Dr. Margaret Boddy, president of the one of the state conference committees.

Voice of the Outdoors

Where Are the Sunnies?

Small perch were the only thing that this pair of fishermen, seeking sunfish, could find when the thaw came this week to Lake Winona. Last spring, the shallow, weedy area just off shore was full of good-sized sunfish.

Despite the fact that his father is the champion sunfish fisherman on the upper river, Lambert Kowalewski has been unable to locate the school. During the past few weeks, he has been hauling his elaborate fish house up and down the lake and drilling holes—each time hopeful that he had hit the right spot—but only three keepers so far is his report.

The other fisherman with the pole is Paul Brandt, 604 Lafayette St.

Boat Licenses

Minnesota boat owners will have to renew their small boat licenses this year. The present license purchased in 1961 with the alphabetical suffix ending in AA through AZ is renewable during 1963. If it is not renewed a complete new application must be made.

Minnesota boat licenses good for two years cost $1.50 for a boat 16 feet or under. Over 16 feet, it is 50 cents additional for each foot of length. The bigger the boat the greater the cost. The present license expired Dec. 31, 1962.

The state Conservation Department has also announced some changes in registration procedure.

1. Auditors and agents can only issue renewal and transfer licenses when the applicant presents the previous license copy. If the previous license copy has been lost, a "Watercraft License Application" must be completed in full and submitted with the required license fee directly to the Department of Conservation, Bureau of Boat and Water Safety, 304 Centennial Office Building, St. Paul 1, Minn.

2. Auditors and agents cannot issue licenses for unregistered or new boats and duplicates of lost licenses. All registrants who failed to renew their watercraft license during the renewable year (following year after expiration) have forfeited their right to obtain the original number assigned. A new license must be obtained and a new number affixed to the watercraft. All of these licenses must be obtained by application directly to the Department of Conservation.

3. Applications are available from the conservation department, county sheriffs, boat dealers, county auditors and agents throughout the state and can be obtained upon request.

Raccoon Dog Meeting
An organization meeting of the Hiawatha Raccoon and Fox Hunting Club will be held at the Golfview Restaurant on Highway 16 near Rushford, Minn., Sunday afternoon. The club, with membership open to coon and fox hound owners in Southeastern Minnesota, Western Wisconsin and Northern Iowa, is for the purpose of promoting coon trials and fox hunts.

Sunday's meeting will open with a Dutch treat dinner in the basement dining room of the restaurant, followed by a meeting there. Notices of the meeting have been mailed to 65 coon dog owners, but it is open to any one interested in the two sports. Coon hunters from Whitehall, Wis., Winona, Root River Valley, St. Paul, La Crosse, and several Northern Iowa points have expressed interest in the development of such a group.

Running coon dogs in the off season has developed into a popular sport in Western Wisconsin, especially in Trempealeau County where we attended a demonstration last summer of a control trial across a water area. It was a popular celebration, plus a means of keeping dogs in condition.

Rushford FFA Asks For Foreign Student In School Next Year

RUSHFORD, Minn. — In the next few weeks the FFA at Rushford High School will contact organizations asking for support to bring another foreign student here next school year.

Students at the school feel Florina Albano was such a good influence on the community when he was here in 1958 that the project should be undertaken again. The sum of $700 or $800 will be needed, plus a place for the student to stay.

Eleva Discusses New Log Cabin; $5,000 Allocated

ELEVA, Wis. (Special)—A move is under way to replace the Log Cabin community building which burned last fall.

At a meeting of Eleva clubs Monday evening at the elementary school, the members voted to supply $5,000 toward a replacement. Women of the Civic Club, it was announced, have voted to give about $400 toward kitchen equipment.

Milo Whipple, Leonard Nyssen, Clarence Craven, Gale Forsythe, Mrs. Raymond Lebakken and Mrs. John Skogstad were named to a committee to meet with the village board to discuss the new building.

In other business, Mrs. Clarence Craven reported on books she purchased for the Eleva library with the $200 advanced from Broiler Festival funds.

Mr. Craven, president of the Broiler Festival committee, presided at the meeting.

Rod Higley, president of the Commercial Club, reported the Roadside Park has been graded and leveled and is ready for seeding in the spring. A sum of $500 has been allotted for this. Victor Wenass reported on the Commercial Club's discussion of erection of a fallout shelter. A member of the Civil Defense office will be invited to meet with club members and discuss this further.

Historical Unit Almost Loses County Support

The Winona County Historical Society almost didn't get an appropriation from the County Board of Commissioners Tuesday afternoon.

George M. Robertson Sr., a society director and finance committee member, discussed the society's financial needs and asked for at least the same $1,200 appropriation as last year plus a little more if possible.

AFTER HE LEFT, the commissioners discussed the proposal briefly. Then Leo R. Borkowski, Goodview, 2nd District, moved that the society get $1,200 for the museum receptionist's salary, the same condition as last year's appropriation.

Silence followed. Chairman James Papenfuss, Dakota, 5th District, rapped his gavel.

"Do I hear a second for this motion?" he said.

The other commissioners studied bills and other documents on the table and did not appear to have heard Borkowski's motion or the chairman's inquiry about a second.

BORKOWSKI scanned the faces of the commissioners. Papenfuss held the gavel. Minutes passed.

"Is there a second?" the chairman said a second time.

More silence. More paper shuffling.

After eight minutes had elapsed since Borkowski made the motion, Leonard J. Merchlewitz, Winona, 1st District, seconded the motion which was passed without dissent. Carl O. Peterson, Fremont Township, 4th District, said about the society:

"As far as I'm concerned, you can close it up."

IN HIS REPORT, Robertson said the society operates on a tight budget, that the river museum, aboard the Steamer Julius C. Wille was self-supporting because of generous aid from the Wilkie Brothers Foundation, but that the museum at the society's headquarters and other society installations needed support.

He said the headquarters museum had 3,500 visitors last year while 10,000 persons visited the steamer. These visitors came from throughout the nation and abroad.

Robertson said the county's previous $1,200 allocation left about $2,100 in expenses not paid for. The balance was finally paid with the help of local businessmen. He emphasized the society's value to the city and county and said the group had 350 members through out the county.

"Our society is one of the best in the state and in the Middle West," Robertson said.

School District Valuation Rises At St. Charles

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special)

The assessed valuation of St. Charles school district increased $125,000 this year over last. The new valuation for tax purposes is $1,125,000 compared with $999,000 in 1961.

The increase is due partly to an increase in city property valuations, which are up $51,000 — from $674,000 to $725,000. Annexation of Kaehler District added $78,000.

WINONA COUNTY agricultural property in the district increased $4,000, and Olmsted County property in the district decreased $7,000.

The school board made a tax levy of $17,000 on property in the district, an increase of 3.27 mills over the previous year. The levy is 28 percent of the total operating costs this school year, which is estimated at $424,000.

Other income supporting the district: State and federal aids, $166,000 — 38 percent of the budget needs; nonresident county tuition receipts, $121,000 — 27 percent, and the balance from tuition and transportation for other nonresidents, sale of school lunches, etc.

All the above figures cover only the present St. Charles district. The seven districts involved in the court appeal, which was denied, would have added another $500,000 assessed valuation.

THE ASSESSED value of the 10 districts on the new consolidation plan which has been sent to the state Department of Education at the request of St. Charles school board includes an assessed value of about $1 million.

The increase in the assessed value of the city was due to the addition of two gas companies to city property.

The tax increase of 3.27 mills imposed on the district this year is the lowest increase in the past six years, according to the board.

By Commissioners

No Action Taken On Mental Health

No action was taken this week by the Winona County Board of Commissioners to appoint a board for the County Mental Health Center, pick a site for the center or determine which county agency will get the former quarters of the county highway department in the courthouse basement.

Last year when the commissioners decided to establish the center in 1963, there was informal discussion about using the basement quarters of the highway department for the center, but no agreement was reached. The two-room quarters were recently vacated when County Engineer Gordon M. Fay and his engineering department moved to a new building in Goodview.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON the commissioners inspected the basement vault of Joseph C. Page, clerk of district court. Page told the commissioners his department had inadequate vault and office space and needed more room. He suggested that the center area in the corridor outside his office be expanded by closing one of the two upstairs stairways.

After visiting the basement vault, the commissioners inspected the combination vault and office in Page's department on the main floor of the courthouse.

Then the commissioners inspected the highway department's former quarters in the basement. The quarters are being painted and renovated by city relief recipients.

WILLIAM P. WERNER, director of the county welfare department, told the board his department's present basement quarters were overcrowded and that he needed the two rooms. He emphasized the confidential nature of phone calls and conferences conducted by his department and said expansion in the former highway department quarters would provide needed privacy.

Commissioner Adolph Spitzer, St. Charles, 3rd District, who favors use of the former highway department quarters for the mental health center, asked Werner why the center couldn't occupy the two rooms.

Werner said the rooms would be adequate if they were partitioned.

COMMISSIONER Leonard J. Merchlewitz, Winona, 1st District, quoted Assistant County Attorney Richard H. Darby as saying the Red Cross would be willing to give the county upstairs space in Lucas Lodge for the mental health center.

County to Buy Trucks, Grader

Winona County Auditor Richard Schoonover was authorized Tuesday by the county commissioners to advertise for bids for three three-ton trucks and one motor grader for the County Highway Department.

A homestead classification was granted to Nancy B. Kieffer and Margaret E. Flanagan, Lewiston. Assessed valuation of the property they jointly occupy was reduced from $1,065 to $735.

BUDGETS PRESENTED

Quick State College Enrollment Gains Seen

State College enrollments are expected to zoom from the current 16,179 to 21,000 by the 1965-66 school year, the House Appropriations Committee was told in St. Paul Tuesday.

By 1970-71 the five enrollments may reach 29,000.

THOSE statements were made by Dr. Roy Prentis, executive director of the State College Board, in presenting a $43 million dollar budget for the biennium to the committee. The Legislature approved a budget of 24 million in 1961.

Funds for Winona State are included. Details of the budgets for the individual five colleges will be presented before a Senate committee in St. Paul tonight and before a House committee later.

Dr. Prentis said that cost of education in the state colleges has increased more slowly since 1957 than the cost in public high schools.

The reason for the saving: A lag in state college faculty salaries, and an increase in teacher load to the point where there is only 1 faculty member per 20 students, up from 1 to 13 a few years ago.

"I DON'T BELIEVE it's right to go on year after year soaking up the increased cost of education through putting an extra load on the faculty," Prentis said. "Programs need to be offered that can't be."

"We are asking a reduction in student-faculty ratio from 20-1 to 18-1, so we can handle the kind of dynamic on-going college program we ought to have."

The actual teacher-student ratio, coming out of the faculty members who have administrative jobs other than teaching, runs around 25 students per teacher, the committee was told.

THE STATE's cost per student, deducting tuition, ran $468 in the state colleges in 1961, compared with $535 for educating a Minnesota high school student.

"Many educators feel more money should be expended per student in the state colleges if the quality of education is to be maintained," a leaflet detailing the budget requests said.

"Recruiting and retaining teaching staff in an intensely competitive market is the greatest single problem facing Minnesota state colleges," it went on.

Civil Service For Deputies Wins Backing

The Winona County Board of Commissioners approved proposed state legislation Tuesday to put Winona County's seven full-time deputy sheriffs under civil service.

Last March, Sheriff George L. Fort recommended the plan to the board so the deputies wouldn't be fired if a new sheriff took office.

This morning Sheriff Fort said he understood that such a bill might be introduced by Sen. Roger Laufenburger, Lewiston.

"Civil service gives a man more security," Fort said. "If I had been defeated in the last election, the law could not have stopped a new sheriff from letting the men out."

"I've got good men, every one of them, and they have been doing a nice job of it."

The deputies' service ranges up to 17 1/2 years.

Fort said the only nearby county with a civil service system in the sheriff's department was Olmsted County. He said Fillmore, Houston and Wabasha counties couldn't qualify for this plan even if they wanted to because the required minimum number of deputies is seven.

Goodview Council Interviews Four Clerk Candidates

The Goodview Village Council interviewed four male candidates for the full-time job of village clerk at a special meeting in Village Hall Tuesday night but has not yet hired one.

The salary has not been set. The council will discuss grading and setting of village streets at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 13. At Tuesday's meeting the council discussed proposed repair of the village liquor store.

The state has not yet given village officials a final report on the quality of the water in the village's new waterworks. Pending that report, service is given only on a limited basis.

Accident Driver Forfeits Deposit

Jacob J. Overing, 561 Garfield St., was charged with following too closely as a result of a two-car accident on East Sarnia Street about 600 feet west of Mankato Avenue at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday.

His car struck the rear of a car driven by Luigi Camera, La Crosse, according to police. They said that both cars were going east on Sarnia Street and that Camera signaled and slowed down to turn into a service station on the left. Overing was following too closely and hit the rear of Camera's car, police said.

Damage was more than $50 to Camera's car and more than $100 to Overing's car.

Overing forfeited $10 bail in municipal court today.

work. He said out-of-county contractors often do not hire local labor for county road jobs and that these payrolls therefore do not benefit Winona County.

Also attending the meeting were these members of local 49: Leo D. Olson, Melvin E. Gainey, Arden F. Tripp, Donald K. Richter and Edmund H. Steinhoff.

THE COMMISSIONERS approved two final estimates for road projects:

County State Aid Highway 1, La Crescent Ridge, Freeman Construction Co., Spring Valley; final estimate, $123,558.61; total cost, $123,370.49; grading and surfacing, Ben Erwin & Son, Caledonia, CSAH 26, Whiskey Hill, final estimate, $22,068.80; total, $162,983.23; grading and crushed rock base.

for all faculty members was asked.

Top pay for a full professor was proposed at $13,000, for an instructor at $8,500.

"MOST OF THE raising of our state college faculties has been done by the states lying just east of us, which offer substantially better retirement benefits to faculty members," the committee was told.

"A generally accepted goal for a faculty retirement program is retirement at 50 percent of earnings. The present program falls far short of this goal, and is one of the poorest in the United States."

A 25 percent state matching fund program to expand the self-liquidating dormitory program without further increases in board and room was asked. Some 12 million dollars worth of state college dormitory construction is required in the coming biennium, the board reported.

"Second only to good teachers, the excellence of a college is measured by its library," said a report submitted by F. Keltner Gage, chairman of the State College Board legislative committee.

"The reason for the saving: A lag in state college faculty salaries, and an increase in teacher load to the point where there is only 1 faculty member per 20 students, up from 1 to 13 a few years ago."

Sheriff Leads County Officials for Income

Winona County Sheriff George L. Fort topped the list of county officials whose 1962 reports of salaries and fees were filed by the county commissioners Tuesday afternoon.

Fort received $28,716.95 and had expenses of $12,968.85, leaving a balance of $15,747.10. In his report Fort said he would have to buy two new cars this year as he didn't buy them last year. The county board recently bought a patrol car for the sheriff which hasn't been delivered yet. All cars presently used by the sheriff are owned by him. He gets 10 cents a mile for their use from the county.

THE EXTENDED forecast for the next five days says temperatures will average 8-12 degrees above normal. Normal highs are 22-28 and nighttime lows zero to 8 above. Very little precipitation is indicated.

Former Inspector Decides Against Filing Petition

Erford G. Ham, 69, St. Charles, Winona County's former weed and seed inspector, told the county commissioners Tuesday afternoon when he presented a petition seeking his reappointment for one year.

Ham, who was replaced last December by Charles R. Smith, 40, Winona, has returned to the board several times in a vain effort to get his job back.

Chairman James Papenfuss, Dakota, 5th District, glanced at Ham's petition and said:

"Well, if you don't think it'll do any good there's no use filing it. You'd better take it back."

Ham pocketed the petition, containing names of Fred Prigge and 15 other county residents, and left as Papenfuss added:

"I don't think it will do any good at any time."

When Ham had appeared before the county board in December to seek reappointment, he was told he was too old for the job. He asked for a few more years on the job to qualify for higher pension benefits but was turned down.

Lewiston Board Approves Plans

LEWISTON, Minn.—Preliminary plans for the new junior-senior high school to be built on the east edge of town were approved at a special meeting of Lewiston school board Friday night.

The board also approved a contract with Springsted, Inc., bonding consultants, to prepare data preliminary to a bond election, which is planned for the near future.

The board hired Supt. Donald B. Nelson and Robert Riege, Rochester, high school principal, for the 1963-64 term.

HERB SPELTZ, Secretary

Judge Beilfuss Man for the Job

THERE SEEMS to be considerable unanimity of opinion in Wisconsin as to the qualifications of Bruce F. Beilfuss of Neillsville, present Circuit Judge of Clark, Jackson, Juneau and Sauk counties, for a seat on the Supreme Court.

Five candidates are seeking the job with the primary set for March 5 and the election April 2.

Within the past week, two of Wisconsin's leading newspapers have endorsed Judge Beilfuss. They are The Milwaukee Journal and the Wisconsin State Journal, Madison.

The Neillsville jurist has attended several meetings of the Tri-County Bar Association at the Deer Island cottages above Pepin and at its annual meeting at Fountain City in January he was given unqualified endorsement, by that group.

AT 48, SAYS THE Milwaukee Journal, Judge Beilfuss presents a rare combination of maturity and experience with a prospect of further long service on the high court. The experience includes seven years as Clark County district attorney (including a wartime re-election while in service overseas) and 15 years on the circuit bench, with much sitting outside his own circuit, frequently in Milwaukee. He has earned praise for his exceptionally skillful handling of some notorious and very difficult trials.

A telling measure of a judge is what his fellow judges think of him. All Beilfuss' colleagues freely admire him and concede his to be one of the finest judicial minds in their ranks. He is among the most in demand as a discussant in their shop talk meetings.

THIS IS WHAT THE Madison paper had to say about the man:

On April 2, 1962 The Wisconsin State Journal said in an editorial after the tedious seven-week trial of the Sauk police slayers, "Certainly Judge Bruce Beilfuss proved himself an able jurist, of the caliber that one day should sit in the Wisconsin Supreme Court."

On April 2, 1963 the voters of Wisconsin will have the opportunity to promote Judge Beilfuss to the high court to succeed Justice Timothy Brown who is retiring at the end of the year.

Five men have filed nomination papers as candidates for this important office. The only one among them with judicial experience is Judge Beilfuss and as we said in 1962 he is the caliber for the state's highest court.

The people throughout Wisconsin will remember his calm, judicial manner that brought the Sauk murder trial in the face of extreme provocation to a conclusion through the many pitfalls of a mistrial.

People should not forget the name of Judge Bruce Beilfuss in the March primary and the April election as they select a justice for Wisconsin's Supreme Court.

WE AREN'T endeavoring to tell our friends in Wisconsin how to vote but we know a good man when we see him.

Asks Immediate Repeal Of Gumperson's Law

WITH THE current publicity regarding legislation that the start of new sessions of Congress and state legislatures always brings, we'd like to go on record as favoring the immediate repeal of that old bugaboo, Gumperson's law.

In case you've forgotten, Gumperson's law is the law of perverse opposites. It neatly explains a number of irritating events that might otherwise be put down to mere chance. It is Gumperson's law, of course, which caused the grass to grow in the cracks of your sidewalk last summer but refused to let it grow on your lawn.

It accounts, too, for the fact that you can drive along the road in a rainstorm, throw a match from the car and start a forest fire while you must use two boxes of firesticks and an entire edition of the Sunday Milwaukee Journal to ignite the dry wood in your fireplace.

The law, stated simply, is that the contradictory of a welcome probability will assert itself whenever such an eventuality is likely to be most frustrating. Readers familiar with these matters will perhaps recognize another version of the law: The outcome of a given desired probability will be inverse to the degree of desirability.

A brief elucidation of the law, with details on its origin and development, is presented herewith for the benefit of the day reader.

DR. R. F. GUMPERSON, internationally famous divinit, began serious work in 1938 on a phenomenon long known to scientists but up until then considered as a mere curiosity. This was the fact that the forecasting record of the Weather Bureau, despite its use of the most advanced equipment and highly trained personnel, was not as good as that of The Old Farmer's Almanac. After four years of research, Dr. Gumperson enunciated his now famous law and was able to make a series of predictions later confirmed by other scientific workers in the field. Some of the better known of these include the following:

- THAT AFTER a raise in salary you will have less money at the end of each month than you had before.
- That children have more energy after a hard day of play than they do after a good night's sleep.
- That the person who buys the most raffle tickets has the least chance of winning.

- That a child can be exposed to the mumps for weeks without catching them but can catch them without exposure the day before the family goes on vacation.

- That the dishwasher will break down the evening you give a dinner party for ten people.

- That good parking places are always on the other side of the street.

- GUMPERSON'S LAW, we suppose, also explains why when one looks at the Union Bank sign in an effort to determine the time of day, he sees only the thermometer; and when he wants to check the temperature, only the clock can be seen.

Dr. Gumperson served as a consultant to the armed services during World War II and evolved the procedure whereby the more a recruit knew about a given subject the better chance he had of receiving an assignment involving some other subject.

THERE IS NO knowing to what further glittering heights Dr. Gumperson's genius would have led him had it not been for his untimely death in 1947. Strolling along the highway one evening, he was obeying the pedestrian rule of walking to the left facing traffic. He was struck down from behind by a Hillman-Minx driven by an English visitor hugging the left side of the road—"From Over the Coffee Cup" Column in Blair, Wis. Press by Don Huibregtse.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Groucho Marx, in town for a TV show, was asked what particular bit of stage business he recalled with the greatest pleasure. "There were so many different acts over the years," he admitted, "that it's virtually impossible to single out individual lines or situations."

He did remember a skit where he and his brother Chico served as opposing lawyers. Chico became tongue-tied when it was his turn to question a witness. The judge thundered, "Confound it, ask your witness a question." "All-a-right," said Chico. "What's a big-da animal with four legs an' a trunk in front?" "That's irrelevant," screamed Groucho. "Dat's a-right," agreed Chico.

Groucho thereupon rushed across the stage, planted his portfolio on the judge's lap, and snapped, "I rest my case."

Old Moneybags owned half the town, but looked like an accident on its way to happen. Girls recoiled in horror at his touch. Ten in a row refused to marry him despite his wealth. When still another contemptuously snapped "No," Moneybags whined, "You're the eleventh girl to whom I've proposed without avail."

"Try wearing a good thick one next time," advised Number Eleven, "and you may get a better break."

Miss Something-or-Other from away down South appeared at a cotillion in a new gown which, her beau informed her, looked just right on her. "Sho' nuff!" she purred. Blushing, he replied, "Sho does."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Truman, Roosevelt Criticized De Gaulle

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — These are days when Americans are inclined to remember all the harsh things about Charles De Gaulle. However, I would like to recall both some harsh and some kind things about a man who is, after all, not without some virtue.

Perhaps the harshest recollection comes from Harry Truman's memoirs, when, during the closing days of the war, French troops had crossed into Italy and seized part of the border for what De Gaulle described as "making minor frontier adjustments."

I sent a message to General De Gaulle, wrote President Truman, "in which I expressed surprise at the language used by his commander, Gen. Doyen, to Gen. Critchfield."

The French commander had actually threatened to have his troops fight the American troops who had come into the area under orders from the supreme command.

"I notified De Gaulle that no more supplies would be issued to the French army until its withdrawal from the Aosta valley. I prepared a public statement for release to the press declaring that I was stopping shipment of supplies to the French because of their threat to use these munitions against American soldiers."

TRUMAN NEVER issued the press release, but later reported the incident to Winston Churchill.

Churchill, replying, told Truman that "he considered De Gaulle one of the greatest dangers to European peace. No one has more need than Britain of French friendship," Churchill said. "But I am sure that in the long run no understanding will be reached with Gen. De Gaulle."

Churchill was prophetic. Last week De Gaulle disrupted Western European unity more than any other man since the end of World War II.

It was not done, however, as some critics have said, because De Gaulle smarted over the snub given him by the British during his days of exile; or because Cornell Hall referred to his struggling band of Frenchmen as the "so-called free French"; or because Tony Biddle, the tennis star, was the only American, devoted any time to De Gaulle; or because Churchill threatened "no come, no pay" unless De Gaulle attended the Casablanca conference and posed for a photo with Vichy French leader Gen. Giraud.

These, it is true, did humiliate De Gaulle, and it is also true that he is a proud leader of a proud people.

BUT HE SUFFERED far greater humiliation when he came to Washington, almost hat-in-hand, in 1960, to ask the United States to share with France the secret of atomic energy and was spurned by the Eisenhower administration. De Gaulle was ready at that time to call off French development of its own atomic weapons, also proposed that all atomic weapons be destroyed, argued that mankind could not upset the balance of nature, that continued saturation of the world with radioactive activity could bring disaster to future generations.

He got nowhere. And that was primarily why he turned down the Polaris submarine recently offered him by Kennedy.

There was another humiliation in 1956 when French paratroopers were poised for a great victory at Suez, a victory which would end the sting of losing Indo-China, Syria and Lebanon; but then suddenly they were stopped dead in their tracks by a telephone call from a man in Washington — a man named Eisenhower.

De Gaulle is determined that France shall not suffer similar humiliation in the future, and most Frenchmen agree with him.

DE GAULLE IS almost blind today. His liver gives him trouble and he has difficulty sleeping at night. But he has pulled France out of the doldrums. It was a divided, disrespected nation, whose army almost overthrown civil government, whose cabinet officers sometimes fled for their lives pursued at breakneck speed by fascist ruffians through the streets of Paris; a nation which lost millions in treasure and thousands in lives in Algeria. This nation De Gaulle has pulled up by its own bootstraps to be one of the most respected and powerful in Europe.

For this, the erect and irascible old man of France must be given great credit. And if his new-found friendship for Germany permanently wipes out the blood and sorrow and bitterness of three wars, then Charles De Gaulle will rate above Clemenceau and on a par with Joan of Arc, which he once confided to Franklin Roosevelt was his secret ambition.

DURING THE war, FDR regulated a meeting of congressmen at a White House stag party with the story of his difficulty in getting De Gaulle together with Gen. Giraud, of the French Vichy government, as Casablanca. It was at that time that Roosevelt derisively referred to De Gaulle as wanting to be a cross between Georges Clemenceau, World War I premier of France, and St. Joan of Arc. De Gaulle had confided to Roosevelt: "What France needs is a great soul in this hour of defeat. I am that soul."

De Gaulle first rose to fame by writing two books on military strategy. The first was "Edge of The Sword," the second "Towards A Professional Army." He was against the Maginot Line, the heavy concrete fortress along the French-German border, urged highly mobile blitzkrieg divisions instead. The Germans organized exactly that, used them to run around the Maginot Line.

During the war, De Gaulle wrote a letter to the British and American governments comparing Allied strategy to the beating of a drum. "No man is beating the drum," he wrote, "but a host of beetles are bouncing up and down on it and they are beating it." He offered to take over the entire military command in North Africa.

Killing Monroe Doctrine Hurts

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy may not have realized it, but he threw away a very important piece of diplomatic leverage when he scrapped the Monroe Doctrine in his pronouncements last autumn about the Soviet occupation of Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy unfortunately drew a distinction between "offensive" and "defensive" weapons. Now the Soviets are back again with two "chips" of what they call "defensive" arms.

But the Monroe Doctrine forbade any European power from setting up any kind of military base or establishing its "system" in this hemisphere. Mr. Kennedy ignored the word "system" and, in effect, said it was all right for the Soviets to impose the Communist system on Cuba so long as they didn't try to take over any more Latin-American countries.

While Premier Khrushchev took back his big missiles, he left some ground-to-air missiles. He didn't withdraw his troops, now estimated by some officials at 16,000 and by others at a figure considerably higher. But why should Soviet troops be stationed in Cuba at all? Why should the people of the United States, especially in the southern region, be subjected to potential threats from military bases 90 miles away from our shores?

Sen. Kenneth Keating, Republican of New York, told the Senate on Thursday:

"In his press conference of last week, the President said that we have had evidence of only one large vessel carrying predominantly military equipment into Cuba since October. The very next day, on Friday, Jan. 25, a second large vessel arrived. Under the highest security conditions, it unloaded a cargo of armaments."

"FURTHERMORE, while evidence mounts of new equipment pouring in from Moscow, there is continuing, absolutely confirmed and undeniable evidence that the Soviets are maintaining the medium-range sites they had previously constructed in Cuba. There has been no Soviet move to dismantle these sites or withdraw the launching equipment, as one would expect if the Soviets intended in good faith to keep these missiles out of Cuba in the future."

The United States maintains aerial surveillance of the island. But this means that, while the Soviets have direct access to Cuba and know what arms are concealed there, this country—historically the guardian of peace in this hemisphere—is confined to periodic looks from the air depending on what the weather happens to be.

THE ARGUMENT made against all this is that the President, by taking a "firm" position and mobilizing our forces last October, saved the American people from a war. But more important now is whether this has saved us from a sudden attack on the southeastern part of our country by order of an irresponsible dictator in Cuba.

The policy of the United States toward Cuba has been a series of blunders, starting with the indifference of officials of the Eisenhower administration to the Soviet infiltration of Cuba and including the unexplained delays of the present administration, particularly its refusal to invoke the Monroe Doctrine against the military build-up by the Soviets on the island.

The President and the attorney general have insisted recently that no United States air cover was promised the patriotic Cubans who risked their lives in the Bay of Pigs invasion in April 1961. But the question now is why adequate air cover of some kind wasn't provided and why the President himself, without consulting the members of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, forbade the Cubans to use their own air cover and then gave permission when it was too late, as the schedule had already been upset.

THE AMERICAN people have never been given all the facts. Congress is debating the question of doing this now. The cry of "politics" is being raised by the administration supporters, who naturally want to prevent any comprehensive inquiry. But it doesn't look as if they will have their way. For there are many Democrats as well as Republicans who think the whole story should be exposed.

All Need Smallpox Shots

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I note with approval that the American Medical Association is urging a long-term drive to get people vaccinated against smallpox, a subject which I have been discussing periodically.

One expert, Dr. Raymond L. White, said that "the low level of immunity that now exists is deplorable," and he is so right.

The government goes to great pains to keep smallpox out of this part of the world, but if a few cases did get in, or even one, the result could be disastrous.

There is so much foreign travel that the possibility of some cases slipping through is very real, no matter how careful we are.

The trouble, I suspect, lies largely in the fact that people don't realize that a smallpox vaccination doesn't last forever.

I recollect a fairly recent instance of a woman of mature years, remarking contentedly that she wouldn't have to be vaccinated. She was sure, she said, "because the scar is still there from my vaccination."

YES, A LARGE scar may remain permanently but it doesn't mean that immunity also remains. For that matter, with vaccinations as they are now given, the scar, if any, can be so small as to be virtually invisible. We don't get scars the size of a nickel, such as used to be the case when I was a boy.

But we do need boosters, or the protection wears off. The lady planning the trip abroad has doubtless learned by this time that she had to get a fresh vaccination or not be allowed to return to this country after her trip.

However, the great majority of people who DON'T travel abroad are much too likely to depend on the vaccinations they had when they were children. And they shouldn't.

By the disclosure of testimony taken in secret by congressional committees two years ago but new hearings which will permit cross-examination of the military men at the Pentagon who were involved. The impression has been given by administration spokesmen that the U.S. joint chiefs "cleared" or "approved" the Bay of Pigs invasion plan without U.S. air cover. This is only part of the story. They were not told until too late that the President had interfered with the use of the Cuban exiles' own planes at a critical moment, which meant the difference between victory or defeat for the brave Cuban army.

Is the impression to be allowed to continue that the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff didn't know the importance of air cover and approved an expedition which could at any moment be upset by word from the President himself? Surely this isn't the feeling that the people have about the role of the nation's military leaders in a nuclear age. The idea all along has been that decisions would be reached with the military chiefs present. Anyway, a clearing-up of the facts wouldn't hurt anybody and could help the administration to deal with crises in the future.

Charles de Gaulle Is Doomed Man

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK — You know, one of these days, Charles de Gaulle is going to die.

Just like you and me, Charles of France will die, and when he dies he will be just as dead as another Charles with impermanent delusions of grandeur — Charlemagne.

This is going to leave the French in rather a peculiar position — more or less that of a tail with no dog to wag it. Le Grand Charles today is France. No matter how democratic the procedure which he allows to keep him at the helm, he is quite possibly the most absolute dictator, barring a few fever-and-banana republics, that the modern world has known.

Big Charlie's dictatorship is quite possibly much more absolute than was that of, say, Hitler, because Hitler was a noisy, rather stupid man, who allowed the evil brains around him to pamper him into a sense of superiority. Not so Mr. France.

De Gaulle is surrounded literally by no one save himself. He is a non-delegator. He does not even permit himself the luxury of court fools or stooges. He even denies himself whipping boys, and the thought of a second man — mon Dieu!

This uneasily a bsolutism is great while it lasts, but it occurs to me that where there is absolute solism there are generally assassins, and if there are no assassins there is always senility and its gray-faced partner, death.

Ruark

DE GAULLE is touching on an age—the top seventies—in which it is sometimes difficult to distinguish haughty autocracy from the kind of age-and-power-engendered infantilism which is generally de-

the time for practicality in the name of dictatorship — peace at any price in Algeria, and a cessation of the crapshooting kind of floating governments which kept France in a state of frothy dither before 1958.

But the French are with practical, and the French also hate the Germans. First the French love themselves. Then they love France. Then they hate Germany. By spurning the nuclear capability of NATO, and by cruelly, cynically, throwing Britain to the dogs in the Common Market business, De Gaulle winds up all by himself except for an implicit partnership in arms with Germany. Les sales Boches For a Frenchman, a German friend?

THE FRENCH, above all, comprise a practical nation. When they had to put up with a Vichy government in World War II they put up with it, and then speedily set to work to tear it down from within.

They have put up with De Gaulle until now. I do not think that the French will wait for death to remove le Grand Charles from his imperial scepter. I think the French will not long permit a Big Charlie to stomp his heavy foot in the path of what is clearly a practical progress, nor will the French long permit an open love affair with the hated Boche, the Hun, at the expense of friendship with England across the channel.

Charles de Gaulle is not a united Europe. And a united Europe is what salvaged the wreckage of World War II. De Gaulle is great, perhaps—but in prize-fight, erms, he may be great but he ain't all that good. No single man is good enough to rise above his people and their friends to force-feed his own insatiable vanity. Remember a man named Napoleon?

Rusk Walks in Kennedy Shadow

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since President Kennedy took office his secretary of state, Dean Rusk, has been an almost shadowy figure. Kennedy casts the shadow. Rusk walks in it. Kennedy makes the pronouncements. Rusk echoes them.

It's startling when his State Department—meaning Rusk — does something he says Kennedy didn't know about and, to boot, winds up in effect apologizing for it. This just happened with Canada.

Rusk took the responsibility for the embarrassment. If Kennedy took the responsibility it would be twice as embarrassing, and harder to explain.

Because so little is known of Rusk's behind-the-scenes role in making foreign policy — or how much Kennedy listens to him—it would be unfair to say he is a negative secretary or the opposite.

It can be said that his public statements, either on television or in news conferences, are usually dull and uninspired. Some newsmen have gone to sleep listening to them. Try concentrating on his words some time if you're watching television.

The dullness is in his accumulated generalities or his repetitions of what is already known about the administration's position on some phase of foreign policy or on some American policy position established long before Kennedy.

Some typical examples of Rusk in action:

It is important to continue talks with the Soviets about Berlin "to see if we can't find some way to manage that problem without a crisis." When he said that last November it was already old stuff.

In short, when Rusk rubs two sticks together he doesn't make a fire.

Since Kennedy promised to be a take-charge president, and dominates his entire administration anyway, it's no surprise that Rusk has been in the background, looking more like a foreign policy technician than a creator.

But Kennedy would have had an inducement anyway to boss the show after watching President Eisenhower for years get criticized for letting his secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, a very self-asserting man, dominate foreign policy.

There was no middleman between Eisenhower and Dulles, no middleman to make life a little more difficult for the secretary or even frustrating him. Whether Rusk has to contend with one isn't clear.

McGeorge Bundy, former Harvard dean, is Kennedy's highly trusted special assistant on national security affairs. It can't be said precisely how much part he has in making foreign policy or whether Kennedy listens to him more than to Rusk.

Last week the State Department publicly criticized the Canadian government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker for not doing enough to defend North America. This country wants Canada to put nuclear tips on Canada's main weapons.

Diefenbaker bawled out Americans for interfering in Canadian business. Rusk apologized. He said no offense was meant. This was odd and can be looked at from a couple of directions:

1. That the State Department fumbled in the use of language

although it had plenty of time to figure out the effect of each word it used and what the Canadian reaction might be.

2. Or, Rusk was so anxious to get the Canadians moving that he was willing to risk Diefenbaker's wrath, since he could always explain his intention was good if the wording wasn't.

Rusk got action but it's too soon to say he'll get the result he sought.

In the past decade the United States has lost about one million acres of agricultural land each year to urbanization.

U.S. Hopes to Trace Drugs Sent Castro

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Footnote to history:

Some of the drugs sent to Fidel Castro as ransom for Cuban prisoners carry a special marking.

They were labelled this way as a means of learning whether Castro sells or barter them abroad rather than using them in Cuba, a pharmaceutical manufacturer says.

Drugs accounted for about half of $53 million in goods for which Castro made the price for releasing 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners at Christmas time.

Makers of the drugs, surgical instruments and baby foods contributed their products to make up the ransom figure. They were convinced Cuba was in desperate need of such items, with drugs in short supply there, and health problems becoming very serious.

But some items requested by Castro made them wonder whether the Cuban government really intended to use them all in Cuba, or exchange or sell them for other products his economy—or his military establishment—needs, this informant said.

So, as a tracer, one pharmaceutical manufacturer put a special mark on the packages of drugs he supplied. The drugs were not altered in any way.

"We'll be able to tell if they show up in Russia or South America, or even eventually in the United States," said this source, who asked not to be identified.

Drugs are a big seller in black markets, he explained.

The choice of pharmaceuticals as a main item in the prisoner barter is interesting, he added. U.S. medical experts visiting the Soviet Union have gained an impression that the Soviet Union is not producing all the drugs it would like to produce for its own citizens, he said.

Artist Wife of Sportsman, Pilot Dead in Crash

OCALA, Fla. (AP)—The artist wife of millionaire sportsman Peter A. B. Widener died in a crash after their private plane made a low pass over the airport where Widener was waiting for her.

In addition to Patricia Widener, 35, the crash killed the Widener family pilot, Robert G. Staab, 40, Ocala.

The plane flew over the airport Sunday night, then disappeared during an apparent attempt to return to this central Florida town in the murky darkness.

The wreckage was found late Monday, nine miles south of the airport in scrub oak woods.

Widener, son of a Philadelphia family and widely known in Kentucky and Florida, went to the crash area, but not to the wreckage.

He asked John Henderson, a helicopter pilot, "If it had been found last (Sunday) night, would it have made any difference?"

"No, sir," Henderson answered. "Absolutely not, and let me say this, sir: your wife did not suffer."

"All right, sir," Widener said. "Thank you, sir."

Mrs. Widener was known for her art work and held several exhibitions. The Wideners maintained homes in Palm Beach and at Ocala, where Widener has a 1,000-acre thoroughbred farm.

Widener, 35, is a great-grandson of Peter A. B. Widener, Philadelphia traction magnate. His grandfather, the late Joseph E. Widener, built Hialeah Park race track at Miami in the 1930s. Widener is a director.

Sanborn Approves $310,000 Bond Vote

SANBORN, Minn. (AP)—Voters in the Sanborn school district approved a $310,000 bond issue Monday for a new high school. The building, including a 900-seat gymnasium, will replace a structure built in 1901. The vote was 350-40.

DEAR ABBY:

Getting Rid of Extra Homemaker

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About four months ago a friend of ours came to us with a hard luck story. She wanted a divorce, so my husband paid for it. Then he invited her and her two small children to move in with us "for a while." We have a small house, three children and I am expecting again, so you know we are crowded. I go out to work every day and this friend stays home and cares for all the children. I keep telling my husband we have to get this woman out of the house, but he says she's like a sister to him. People are talking. How do I get rid of her without hurting her feelings?

NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: Since your husband invited her to live with you, he should tell her to make other arrangements. Remind him that he has enough family without adopting a "sister" and her two children. If you don't insist that this friend make her home elsewhere — and immediately — you'll wind up the working "sister" while she assumes the role of homemaker for your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old boy is our problem. He won't do a thing unless he is paid for it. He worked last summer at a garage and we heard all over town what a good worker he was, but if we try to get him to mow the lawn or clean the basement or even his own room he will sneak out of the house before we can catch him. He is too big to spank and too young to throw out of the house bag and baggage (which is what his father thinks will cure him). Should we just put up with this kind of behavior until he is 18 and then let the Army train him?

CORNERED

DEAR CORNERED: Your son needs some affection and real understanding. Do you "order" him to do things, or do you ask him properly? I have yet to meet the normal 15-year-old boy who wouldn't respond to a little praise, a lot of love and a modest incentive.

DEAR ABBY: Since I don't care especially for diamonds, I do not want a diamond engagement ring. Is that the only official kind of ring to symbolize an engagement? Any suggestions?

SOON TO WED

DEAR SOON: It's the most traditional engagement stone, but ANY ring can symbolize an engagement. Since you don't like diamonds, how about an oyster's best friend — the pearl?

CONFIDENTIAL TO BRIDGEPORT: I am STILL disgusted with pointed-toe shoes. As one woman put it, "The only thing you can say for them is they are wonderful for killing bugs in corners."

What on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Answer Children's Dental Questions

(This is the third in a series of questions and answers on dental health published by the Winona Daily News, in cooperation with the Winona County Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week February 3 through 9.)

Does a decayed tooth ever heal itself?

No, it does not. Once decay has begun in a tooth, the only way the progress of this disease can be stopped is for a dentist to remove the decayed part and place a restoration in the tooth. If the tooth is not restored, the decay process continues until, eventually, the tooth must be removed.

Does fluoridated water really reduce tooth decay?

Fluoridated water is the most effective public health measure in reducing dental decay, as proven in more than 30 years of research. If your child drinks fluoridated water, he will have as much as 60 percent less tooth decay than he would have if he drank fluoride-deficient water.

President Kennedy and his family drink fluoridated water. So did the Eisenhower family when they lived in the White House. More than 40 million Americans, in addition to millions of people in England, Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and many other countries, drink fluoridated water. In Ireland, fluoridation is required by law. The American Medical Association found fluoridation safe and endorsed its widespread use.

The cost of this protection is often as little as a dime a year per person—less than the price of one ice cream cone. The cost of a single filling equals one person's payment for fluoridated water for about 30 years.

Will we have a vaccine against tooth decay some day? As dental researchers learn more and more about the role of mouth bacteria in causing tooth decay, a vaccine may become a real possibility.

Meanwhile research into the causes and prevention of dental diseases is being carried out on many fronts. Experiments with guinea pigs and hamsters are being conducted at the National Institute of Dental Research in Bethesda, Md. These experiments have led to the establishment of a direct cause and effect between certain bacteria and dental decay in the teeth of these animals. Laboratory tests have shown that germ-free animals which have been fed a diet that ordinarily causes decay do not develop caries in the absence of bacteria. On the other hand, these animals develop typical tooth decay when exposed to a single strain of bacteria taken from the mouths of animals that do have decayed teeth.

Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover, associate director of the Institute, said this is a "break-through in the fight to conquer caries. We are on the way to more adequate control measures."

Toastmistress Speech Contest Finalists Named

Mrs. Robert Ramonda who served as toastmistress told the group, "Speech is the most effective form of communication and should come straight from the heart." Mrs. Irvin Teasdale who represented the Winona club in two previous council contests spoke briefly on the value of such participation.

TELLERS WHO assisted Mrs. Somers were Mrs. Beatrice Florin and Miss Margaret McCreedy. Mrs. Hamerski acted as timer. Mrs. Addison Glubka said grace. Mrs. Henry Langowski led the pledge to the flag. Ben J. Meier, 73, Winona, county highway department mechanic who was discharged last Dec. 31 under the county commissioners' mandatory retirement at 65 rule, received $234.84 from the commissioners Tuesday as his January salary.

He got the pay because Phillip R. Kaczorowski, county veterans service officer, told a special board last week that Meier, a World War I veteran, had been discharged before a veteran's preference hearing required by state law.

The board upheld the discharge by a 2-1 vote on the grounds that Meier was incompetent to perform his duties.

There was no report yet whether Meier would appeal to district court.

Death of Farmhand In Fillmore Co. Ruled a Suicide

PRESTON, Minn.—The death of a 34-year-old Fillmore County man, found in his car two miles east of Racine near Hamilton Cemetery, has been ruled a suicide by the coroner's office.

The body of Karl Schultz, a farmhand who was most recently employed on the Raymond Kumm farm, rural Spring Valley, was found about 3:15 p.m. Monday by two Preston men. He had killed himself with a .22 caliber rifle, which he had just purchased in Spring Valley, the coroner said.

A passing motorist had seen Schultz alive in his car at 3 p.m. A note, found in the car, listed Schultz's relatives in the area.

The county sheriff's department said this apparently was his second attempt of the day to take his life. Earlier he returned another rifle to the same store complaining the firing pin wouldn't work.

SEN. KEATING

moved and had been seen on out-going ships.

A. I never mentioned IRBM's at any time. There are three kinds of missiles and three kinds of missile bases that should be differentiated in this connection. One are what are called the ground-to-air missile bases; one intermediate range missile bases. The intermediate range missile bases have a concrete base. I was at no time talking about that, no reference to that whatever. When the Defense Department replied, they got that into the picture. Now a great many of those have been bulldozed and broken up and perhaps all of them have, as far as I know. The anti-IRBM missile sites are there and there is no dispute about that. What I was talking about was the medium range missile sites, which do not have a concrete base at all. They are gravel or hard-top in character. The hard-top and gravel has not been ripped up, has not been removed, and is in the same condition and is being kept there right today ready for use if they so desired to use it.

Q. Is that significant really, unless there is evidence, and you may have evidence, that the missile erectors, the oxidizing equipment, the preparation buildings are also there?

A. As far as I know, the buildings and the so-called launchers are not on those sites. We don't know where they are. I don't think anyone knows.

Q. Let's get this straight. Is this a base which could be used offensively against us?

A. Yes, it could be.

Today's Student Described as 'Most Studied'

Today's college student is the most described and studied student in history, said Professor John E. Burkhardt, McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago.

When he spoke to students at Winona State College Tuesday night.

Guest speaker during Religious Emphasis Week at the college, Burkhardt said this generation is sometimes called the rowdy generation, the silent generation, and the perplexed generation.

THIS generation of college students might be called the concerned generation, he said. "Baffled by the world with its confusing problems, the students are looking for answers and trying to find places to help."

"For many students this has meant all sorts of various activities including political and social. But the basic responsibility of the student on the campus is to get an education of excellence."

Burkhardt opened the Religious Emphasis Week Monday evening at the college with a film concerning the World University Services. Tonight at 7:30 at Pasture auditorium, he will complete his series of talks with "The Responsible Student in Church." A coffee hour will be held in the Smog afterward.

PROFESSOR Burkhardt is an instructor in systematic theology at McCormick Seminary.

He also has served as a religion lecturer at University of Southern California and has been book reviewer for "Union Seminary Quarterly Review" and associate editor of "Christianity and Society."

Galesville Lions To Sponsor State Curling Tourney

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—"Aspirin, curling, aspirin, banquet, aspirin, prizes and fun."

This is what the entry fee for the state Lions Curling tourney, slated here for March 2 and 3 will cover, according to posters that were revealed at the Monday night meeting of the Lions Club.

Ladies night was set for 6:30 p.m. Feb. 18 at Watson's Supper Club.

Woman Facing Charge After Wabasha Crash

WABASHA, Minn. (Special)—A Wabasha woman was to appear in municipal court before Judge Kenneth Kalbrener this afternoon on charges of failing to stop at an arterial and operating a vehicle without a driver's license.

Mrs. Irene DuBoer was arrested about 8 a.m. today by Charles Gilbert, city policeman, after colliding with the car driven by Arthur Carlson, Carlson was proceeding on Highway 60 and Mrs. DuBoer allegedly failed to stop at the sign in front of St. Felix School on the highway. Damage estimates were $400 to her car and $300 to Carlson's.

Q. You said recently that the time will come when the U.S. would have to make the hard choice to get rid of the Communists arsenal "no matter how."

What is the hard choice? What do you mean?

A. The hard choice is either to get rid of it or let it stay there. I think it's intolerable to have a force of this kind there because Cuba is fast becoming, building up to, if it is not already arrived at it, the second strongest military power in the Western Hemisphere.

Q. Is it intolerable enough for us to take military action against Cuba?

A. I am not at this moment advocating a specific course of action. When I said, however, that we must get rid of them, I meant exactly that with whatever method is determined by those in authority to be the proper and most effective method. There are many alternatives to military action—many, and I would hope that no military action would ever be necessary.

Q. You said a moment ago that you would be glad to talk with the President about what you thought ought to be done in Cuba. Would you also be willing to clear up this dispute over what is actually there, to face the President himself with all the information that you have and the sources of the information so that the President could undertake to check this against the CIA and other sources?

A. I think I should protect my sources, just as the newspaperman would. But, I would welcome the opportunity to tell the President of the information I have, to tell him also of the information I've heard which I do not consider confirmed but which might be true.
