Difference In Recount Is Reduced

ST. PAUL (AP) — The lead of Karl Rolvaag in the Minnesota gubernatorial recount was reduced by five votes today, leaving him with an edge of 133 over Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen.

The latest figure resulted from a meeting of attorneys for the two sides with the three-judge panel umpiring the lengthy contest. The five-vote difference was attributed to discrepancies during the re-screening of ballots.

After last fall's general election, Andersen had a 142-vote lead, according to the State Canvassing Board. But Rolvaag, the Democratic-Farmer-Labor candidate, pressed for a recount.

Today's conference was to lay ground rules for the final stages of the recount. It has boiled down to deciding in some cases the admissibility of a single vote in some counties.

Legislature Accused of 'Using Club'

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Legislature was accused today of using its power as a club to harass the State Board of Education and similar groups and then being niggardly in appropriations for education.

The statement was made by Sen. Leslie E. Westin, St. Paul conservative before the Senate Education Committee. The committee was considering a bill by Sen. Mel Hansen, Minneapolis conservative, to prohibit the State Board of Education from requiring a fifth year of preparation to obtain a teachers certificate.

Sen. Westin said he hoped the sponsors of the bill would not push it and added the statement about harassment.

"I hope this attack on the legislature will not go unnoticed," said Sen. Robert Dunlap of Plainview, chairman of the committee. "The state board of education has never been harassed in my time as chairman of the committee."

"In connection with your statement about appropriations, I'd like to remind you that you did not attend a single meeting of the subcommittee on education of the Finance Committee last session."

Westin was a member of the subcommittee, which prepares recommendations for money allotments for various education programs.

Sen. Raymond Bares of St. Cloud, a co-author of the bill, said he feared there was too much emphasis on educational theory.

Kennedy Welcomes Betancourt to U.S.

Warns Reds In Cuba Peril Hemisphere

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy welcomed Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt to Washington today with extraordinary words of praise.

"You represent all we admire in a political leader," Kennedy told the Venezuelan in a rain-dampened honor ceremony at the White House.

Kennedy and the Venezuelan leader and their wives stood under the north portico of the White House. They were sheltered from the rain and snow which fell during the ceremonies but not from the chill blast of Washington's increasingly cold weather.

The visiting South American executive, arriving from Puerto Rico, had just flown by helicopter from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., to the ellipse back of the White House.

The ceremony was planned originally for the helicopter landing pad but was shifted to the covered portico on account of rain. By the time Betancourt arrived, however, the rain had stopped and there was only a light mist.

After handshakes, a military honors ceremony was held with a review of U.S. troops by the two presidents.

Drawn up in front of the White House was an honor guard representing the U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

In addition, uniformed troops lined the semicircular driveway in front of the executive mansion.

On account of the rain, and the earlier snow, Kennedy had postponed plans for a ceremonial parade through Washington. That event was reset for Wednesday.

Betancourt, a friend of the United States, is the No. 1 Latin American enemy of Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

En route to his meeting with Kennedy, Betancourt received an enthusiastic welcome Monday when he stepped off at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Without mentioning Cuba by name, he told newsmen, "as long as the Communist beachhead in America is not eliminated, we will be exposed to the risk of sabotage."

He began his trip as headlines focused on the backing of the Venezuelan frigate, Anzoategui, and avoided Communist attempt to discredit Betancourt and his trip.

Russia to Pull Some Troops Out of Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has informed the United States that several thousand Soviet troops will be withdrawn from Cuba in the next three weeks, diplomatic informants reported today.

This word from Moscow is understood to have been given to the Kennedy administration Monday through the Soviet Embassy here.

It is understood that President

Kennedy's decision to call congressional leaders to a meeting with him Monday night followed that development. The bipartisan group, about a score of legislators, had only two hours notice.

The individuals slipped in and out of the executive mansion, avoiding newsmen. In spite of this secrecy, reports began circulating overnight that there had been some important development related to Kennedy's known effort to find out when Soviet Premier Khrushchev intended to pull more of his troops out of Cuba.

Official administration estimates are that there are about 17,000 Russians in Cuba.

Highly qualified informants said that there was "no deal whatever" involved and that the Soviet government had not proposed or demanded any price for the reduction of its Cuban force.

Kennedy was aided at the briefing by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Central Intelligence Agency chief John A. McCone and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"Just a general intelligence roundup on Cuba" and some other areas, said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., remarked he didn't hear anything particularly new about the Cuban situation and the Soviet military power there but "the general feeling was that things looked a little better."

It seemed like something big might be in the wind when the word leaked down from Capitol Hill that Kennedy had summoned 17 Congress members, mainly from the Armed Forces and Foreign Affairs committees.

Speculation centered on the possibility the President was advising them in advance of a major news announcement.

Before the session got under way Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, fended off questions.

There was some speculation that the session was an effort by Kennedy to slam the door on any charges that his foreign policy was more partisan than bipartisan.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., thundered in the Senate Monday that it was obvious "the Kennedy administration wants no part of a bipartisan approach to foreign policy—except when they get into trouble."

Not so retorted Democratic Leader Mansfield, Republicans, he contended, had been called to the White House for consultations on foreign policy more than 40 times in Kennedy's two years in office.

Navy Wants More Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy has steamed up to Capitol Hill, signaling a request for more ships. It has pointed to the Cuban crisis as a dramatic lesson of the uses of modern seapower in a nuclear age—a lesson, it argues, that the Soviet Union is "belatedly recognizing."

Previously, the Navy let it be known that it believes it needs more than the 41 ships provided for construction in the budget sent to Congress by the Defense Department and the White House.

Monday two of its top brass—Secretary of Navy Fred Korth and Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations—got a chance to voice their worries to the House Armed Services Committee.

Anderson said the American-Soviet showdown over Cuba "was an example of the present inability of the Russians to sustain an overseas venture when challenged by our overwhelming seapower in a particular area, as well as their apparent unwillingness to so attempt."

But, he cautioned, "If we permit our seapower to diminish, whether from motives of economy or lack of understanding of its importance, a vacuum would be left which the Russians obviously would seek to fill and which they could succeed in filling."

The big concern, as Korth and Anderson see it, is the number of coverage ships which will have to be replaced.

The problem of ship obsolescence, said Korth, will become critical about 1968.

Korth noted that the Navy plans to get 41 new ships and convert 35 old ones.

In the past the Navy has pointed to statistics showing that out of a fleet of 861 ships, 595 are 13 years old or older, and 362 are beyond the estimated age of reliability.

Navy men feel the problem is most acute in destroyer types, where 168 of the 226 are coverage.

Gov. Andersen has sent nearly 150 appointments to the Senate for confirmation. Three have been confirmed over the opposition of liberals and others are on their way to confirmation.

"My only desire," Gov. Andersen wrote Thiel today, "is to proceed in the manner the constitution and the laws of the state direct the governor to perform his duties and discharge his responsibilities."

Can't Let Vote Count Impede, Andersen Says

ST. PAUL (AP) — Gov. Elmer L. Andersen said today he believes it is important that government operation "in no way be impeded by the election contest."

That was his reply to a request from Sen. Paul Thiel of South St. Paul, the minority leader, proposing that the governor ask the Senate to withhold action on appointments until the governorship election contest determines whether Andersen or Karl Rolvaag, the DFL candidate, won the November election.

Federal Highway Work Near Tomah Included in Bids

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Apparent low bids totaling $6,765,560 for Wisconsin road improvement projects, including major interstate route work, were received by the State Highway Commission today.

Twenty-eight projects in 11 counties were on the list. The commission will review and confirm bids before approving contracts.

Interstate system work involves 94 and 1-94 in or between Milwaukee and Madison and 90-94 between Wisconsin Dells and Tomah.

Tornadic Winds Pound Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Thunderstorms packing tornadic winds tore into the Tampa Bay area from the Gulf of Mexico today, causing the death of a Wisconsin man, and then lashed into central Florida, where several persons were injured.

At Lake Wales, a tornado whipped across a six-block section. Unofficial estimate of damage was about $100,000.

A dozen homes lost roofs, wings, corners or carports. About one-half inch of rain fell in 10 minutes.

Wind gusts estimated up to 75 miles an hour lashed the downtown St. Petersburg area.

Tornado-like winds demolished one home in Lakeland and damaged several others. Ten planes were battered at Dade Field.

Boy Arrested in Slaying of Five

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy accused of shooting his father, stepmother and three other children to death in the family home Monday night was taken into custody about noon today.

Each had been shot in the head. Police Chief Elmer Madison said that the five were slain before the dinner hour Monday night, but were not discovered until a friend of Hebard's, Darold Aebescher, passed the house on his way to work and noticed lights on but no signs of activity.

The elder Hebard, 38, his 35-year-old second wife Joyce, and her three children by a previous marriage — 15-year-old John Rudell, and 11-year-old twin sisters, Janice and Judy — were found dead in their secluded home on the outskirts of Green Bay about 7 a.m.

Aebescher was a fellow employee of North Central and also drove with Hebard, whose stuning name was Lucky Jack O'Hara, during the summer.

Madison said that the family's evening meal still was on the stove and the television set was turned on. The two family cars were at home, one in the garage and one outside, both with their keys in the ignition.

Boy Dies Saving Girl in Traffic

By DIAL TORGERSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "He was my first serious boy friend," said Paulette Lewis, 15. "We had been going steady one month and 12 days."

Then she began to cry.

Paulette told Monday, between tears, of the moment David Brimley sacrificed his life for hers as they walked, hand-in-hand, across an avenue near their homes.

Suddenly a car roared through a red light, glanced off another auto, and hurtled, brakes squealing, at Paulette and David.

"David shouted, 'Look out,' and he gave me a push," Paulette said. "I think he tried to run, but when I recovered my balance, I couldn't see him."

David, 17, who had just gotten his first job and enrolled in his first college course, was hurled 150 feet to his death.

The careening car slid into a power pole and halted. Three young men jumped out and ran. "I looked around," said Paulette, "and saw where the car had hit the pole down the street. I walked down there." Again she cried "and found him lying at the curb."

Police drove her home after the accident Sunday night. Her mother, Jean Lewis, called a doctor. He treated the pretty, blonde 16th grader with sedatives.

Police also went to tell David's mother, Lillian Armstrong, a few doors away.

She told a newsman later how her son had just enrolled as a math major at Santa Monica City College and had obtained a part-time job, his first, as a drug-store delivery boy.

"His first check, $20, was due today," she said.

The tragedy reached into other homes, too: into the homes of the divorced parents of Raymond Garcia, 17.

He walked into a police station Monday night, flanked by his father, Raymond Sr., and his mother, Rose Cheva. He told officers that it was his car which was in the accident. The auto had been abandoned at the scene.

He said he remembered hitting that other car but not the boy. He said he ran from the scene and spent most of the day hiding in an alley behind his mother's home, watching police come, looking for him. Finally he went in the house. His mother telephoned his father. They convinced him it was best to surrender.

He was booked on suspicion of manslaughter.

Mrs. Armstrong, the dead boy's mother, said she had no feelings against him.

"It has happened," she said. "David is gone. We can't undo it."

U.S. Forgets Home Charity

NEW YORK — The United States of America has been so busy of late in its attempt to reform the world that it has forgotten the hoary old axiom that the better charities begin at home. We might even forget the Peace Corps and concentrate on Congress.

There seems to be a wilful watchdog available in Cliff Case, the able senator from New Jersey, and also in Sen. Joe Clark from Pennsylvania. Case says the public is losing confidence in Congress, and Clark allows as how our legislative apparatus is still walking a 19th Century beat.

One of the first things to remember about reforming Congress is that a lot of people who don't like the way it works haven't been able to control some of its more unsavory aspects according to their own wants. It is amazing to see how a dedicated backscratcher changes his mind about the Congressional procedure when the rules fit his individual game.

Congress, apart from a basic procedure of conduct, has several faults which can be changed. One major one is conflict of interest, which is frowned on in appointive political jobs but which flourishes like the greenest of bay trees in the houses of legislation. Morally, a Congressman should not be allowed to have interests in oil wells, stocks, or a flourishing legal practice back home if we say that a Cabinet member must divest himself of his outside holdings.

I DOUBT very much that we will ever be able to pay a Representative or Senator enough money to make him abandon his hog farm or sell out his timberlands back home. But we could make him list his holdings for keen scrutiny, in the sense that we record income for revenue boys to assess, and thereby prevent a self-serving public servant from serving himself too well.

We could, with a majority vote of the Congress, at least smoke out the penny-stalers and the more obvious perverters of their position. We could stop people like Adam Clayton Powell from junketing abroad with female help at public expense. We could prevent people like Adam Clayton Powell from employing their own wives at fabulous salaries, and we could enjoin other Congressmen from the kind of nepotism which won Vance Trimble a Pulitzer Prize for uncovering front-porch employment of next-of-kin.

We could permanently forbid the filibuster, which is almost never used for a noble purpose, so that people like the late Kingfish, Huey Long, would not be able to abuse public faith with a lengthy oration on the virtues of pot licker and turnip greens.

BUT MOST important, I think,

Polaris A3 Missile Blown Up in Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Polaris A3 missile veered off course during second-stage flight Monday and was destroyed by the range safety officer.

The missile darted off a land launching pad and performed normally through first-stage flight. But shortly after the second stage separated and ignited it began to corkscrew out of control and the safety officer sent a radio signal to detonate explosive charges in the vehicle.

Pieces of the rocket fell into the Atlantic several miles offshore. The rocket was intended to cover an 1,800-mile course. Test firings on Feb. 7 and Feb. 11 were successful. The first six shots in the series failed.

The A3, which eventually will have a reach of 2,875 miles, is scheduled to be ready for operational deployment aboard nuclear submarines in about 18 months.

As someone has pointed out, politicians are people, and reforming people in the mass is a rough proposition. But you can kick 'em a little bit to keep 'em in line, and what our Congress needs very badly right now is an over-all boot in the backside.

New Entrance For Landfill Area Planned

City Council members Monday night barreled over a hurry-up request to the city engineer to lay out an entrance road for the city's new sanitary landfill area.

Aldermen directed Engineer James Baird to furnish plans and specifications for bridging the Lake Winona outlet near the present city dump. This will provide access to the Shive Road sanitary landfill area, south of the ditch, from the present Louisa street entrance to the dumping grounds. The Mankato Avenue entrance to the Shive Road area will not be used because heavy traffic creates a hazard at that point.

The engineer said plans would be ready for Council approval at the next regular meeting, March 4. As now contemplated, they will probably specify a five-foot corrugated steel culvert and fill, Baird said.

Copies of specifications for the new landfill were distributed to aldermen by the engineer for study. They will be the basis on which bids will be asked for operation of the landfill. A Council vote to advertise for bids will be asked at the March 4 regular meeting.

Specifications for combined collection contract bids will be ready at the next meeting, City Attorney George M. Robertson said. Because no collector now has enough equipment to serve the entire city, he said, it may be necessary to divide the work into manageable lots.

The new sanitary landfill and combined garbage-rubbish collection system goes into effect July 1 upon expiration of the municipal garbage pickup contract with James R. Keller.

Railroad, City Share Cost of Moving Signals

Automatic grade crossing signals on West Broadway will be relocated at the joint expense of the city and the Milwaukee Railroad, the City Council voted Monday night.

The signals are to be set out to conform with the upcoming westward extension of the Broadway widening project scheduled for this year. They will be moved laterally about five feet on each side.

Estimated costs of moving the signals were set by the Milwaukee division engineer's office at $2,000.

Aldermen agreed with the railroad's position that the city should in fairness pay half the cost of relocation. They were installed in 1939 in compliance with a city ordinance, the company noted, and now must be moved to fit the city's new widening plans.

Costs of widening the crossing will be borne by the Milwaukee. Present at the meeting was Russell Peacock, an official of the Milwaukee division engineer's office in La Crosse. He said he would furnish cost estimates for a possible combination of signal relocation at both Mankato Avenue and Broadway. Substantial state aid may be available for a proposed signal installation at the Max Conrad Field grade crossing, he told aldermen.

Winona Objects To TV Tower

Winona's objections will be added to a protest raised against erection of a 1,600-foot television tower near Galesville.

The City Council voted Monday night to direct City Attorney George M. Robertson Jr. to file a petition to intervene with the Dane County Circuit Court Branch 1, Madison, Wis. It will be filed in connection with an action asking vacation of an order by the Wisconsin Aeronautics Commission granting permission to build the tower. The structure, which will be 2,449 feet above sea level, is planned by a La Crosse station.

Petitioners for voiding the permit are four Eau Claire residents who charge the tower will be extremely hazardous to private flying in this area. If the tower is built, they charge, it will prompt competitors to do likewise. The end result may be a deadly forest of steel spikes poking into flyways as high as 3,000 feet, they predict.

Robertson told the Council the proposed tower is in line with the instrument approach pattern for Max Conrad Field for pilots leaving the Mississippi River air corridor and flying directly to the runway. With addition of proposed new navigation aids at the field, this practice will be common, Robertson said.

No date has been set for hearings by the court.

The tower also has been approved by federal authorities.

SUPERVISOR, ASSESSOR

Goodview Gets Full-Time Clerk

Henry C. Elmcke, 320 Olmstead St., was sworn in Monday night as Goodview's first full-time clerk appointed by the Village Council under the Optional Plan A of village government approved by the voters at last December's election.

Elmcke, who will take office March 1, also was appointed Monday night as village assessor, another appointive post set up under Optional Plan A. The posts of clerk and assessor previously had been part-time and elective.

His salary for the two jobs will be $350 a month.

THIS NEW OFFICIAL, a native Winona, is a graduate of Winona Senior High School and has had 20 years of bookkeeping and office experience. He was secretary of a local club 12 years; field office man for Power Service Corp., Minneapolis, five years, and a bookkeeper for H. J. Dunn Black Top Surfacing Inc., Winona, three years.

Elmcke, 48, is married to the former Antoinette Bittner, Winona. Their son, Paul, 22, is with the State Public Examiner, St. Paul. Elmcke is a member of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. He has been the church's treasurer two years and was president of the congregation last year. He is a former member of the church council. His hobbies are hunting and fishing. Elmcke will attend an assessor's school at the University of Minnesota March 6-8.

IN ADDITION to being clerk and assessor, Elmcke will be the village's supervisor of zoning in which capacity he will issue building permits. His office will be in the pump house of the village's new waterworks. Used furniture is being bought today for the office from Peerless Chain Co.

Elmcke was sworn in by Dr. E. G. Callahan, retiring clerk, who will serve through Feb. 23. In last December's election, Dr. Callahan was defeated in his bid for re-election as clerk by Norman Nelson. However, under Optional Plan A, the results of the election for clerk were nullified since the post will be appointive from now on.

Therefore, the Village Council appointed Nelson a trustee, making him the fourth trustee on the Council which numbers five members including Mayor Rex A. Johnson. Nelson took the council seat formerly held by Dr. Callahan as clerk.

BY A 4-1 VOTE Monday night, the Council voted to give Elmcke the additional post of assessor, the election for which was also nullified under Optional Plan A. Mayor Johnson dissented, favoring appointment of Reuben Kaste, to the assessor's post. Kaste, the former assessor, had been re-elected without opposition last December.

The Council declared the posts of justice of the peace and constable vacant and appointed Floyd Farnholz justice of the peace and Willis Norton constable. They were sworn in and will serve until Dec. 31, 1964. In the December election, constable Iver Odgaard Jr., who didn't file for re-election, was re-elected by write-in without opposition. He wasn't sworn in. The same situation prevailed in the race for justice of the peace. Incumbent Mark Schneider, who didn't seek re-election, was re-elected by write-in without opposition.

Goodview now has two justices and two constables. Already in these offices are justice of the peace Lewis E. Albert and constable George Kohner.

THE COUNCIL discussed but did not act on a proposed ordinance governing activities of the village's park board.

Villagers were reminded they may use the Rollingsstone village dump Saturdays pending establishment of a proposed area dump. The village dump is also being used by residents of Minnesota City and Rollingsstone Township until further notice.

Water service is still being provided on a limited basis since the state has not yet sent written approval of the village's new waterworks. Informal approval was given recently following an inspection.

Presiding at the council meeting was Mayor Johnson.

City Turns Off Light on Short Airport Runway

Obligation of the city to light the 2,600-foot north-south secondary runway at Max Conrad Field has been terminated, City Council members learned Monday night.

A resolution adopted Jan. 7 by the Council had requested permission from the Federal Aviation Agency to discontinue the lights no longer necessary. FAA permission was formally noted Monday.

At the same meeting aldermen voted to accept the $1,650 bid of Electronic Lights Inc., Chicago, for high-intensity threshold lights at each end of the 4,000-foot main runway. The bid had been held over from the Feb. 4 meeting.

William Galewski, former mayor, told aldermen the installation was a vital safety factor. The lights are enthusiastically endorsed by airline and private pilots, he said.

OTHER COUNCIL actions:
• Moved by Ward Ald. Lloyd Deike, a resolution was approved asking the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission to intervene on behalf of the city in opposition to abandonment of passenger service by the Chicago & North Western Railway.

• Council President Harold Briesath appointed a five-member committee to study and prepare a minimum housing code. Members will be: Ald. Daniel Bamken, Clarence Tribell, Henry Parks, Mrs. Muriel Ollom and Briesath. Work on a code has been under way more than a year.

• Four new experimental street lights are ready for installation on 3rd Street, the city's downtown street lighting laboratory. Mrs. Muriel Ollom said. The new 1,000-watt, 52,000 lumen lamps will be about six feet higher above street level than lights currently in use. They are of the same intensity as four lights being field-tested between Lafayette and Center streets on 3rd street.

They will be placed on the block between Center and Main streets. Installation costs are to be paid by the city.

• A revival of interest in the city's Master Plan appeared. Recalling that $33,000 was spent for the plan drawn in 1959 by Ladislav Segoe & Associates, aldermen agreed it was time to take a fresh look at it. The topic will be discussed next Monday following a meeting of the airport committee called by the committee chairman, Ald. Daniel Bamken.

• Development of property on East Sarnia street justifies the early construction of sidewalk from Franklin Street to Mankato Ave., Ald. Lloyd Deike said. This would make it convenient for persons who wish to walk rather than ride to Community Memorial Hospital, he added. No formal action was adopted.

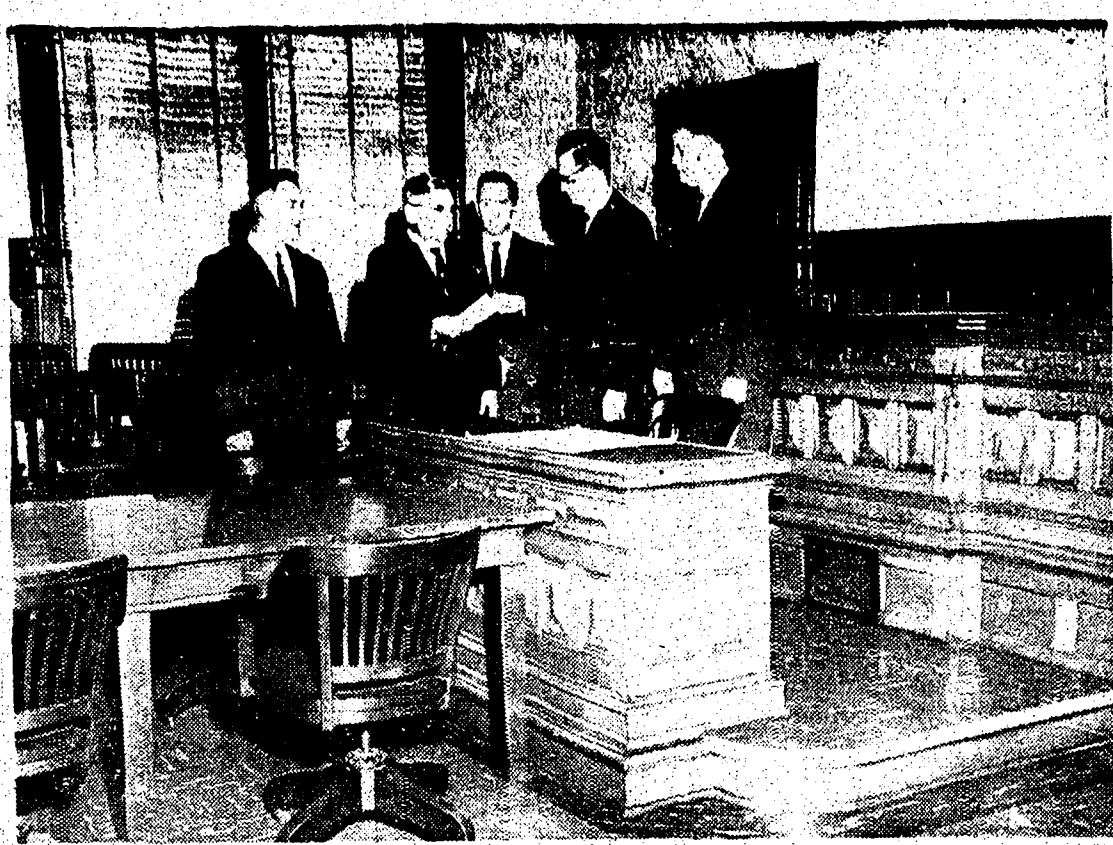

• The city engineer was directed to furnish plans and specifications for drainage and improvement on Gilmore Avenue from Sunset Drive to Highway 61. Estimated cost is $30,000 for the project which will include storm sewers, catch basins, curb and gutter, widening the roadway to 44 feet and covering with bituminous mat.

• President Briesath said he was concerned about possible violations of burning ordinances in connection with junk yard operations. He recommended a tightening of licensing requirements and enforcement thereof. City Attorney George M. Robertson Jr. said enforcement can be made adequate using existing ordinances.

• A letter from Winona TV Signal Co. was read and filed, advising the Council formally of the company's intent to contribute $2,000 for navigational aids at Max Conrad Field. The money will be available upon request when such devices are installed, according to Edward M. Allen, president of the firm.

Huff St. Dike Gets Going Over

The City Council Monday night cranked up one of its favorite vehicles for aldermanic speculations, improvement of the Huff Street dike road.

After a promising start, though, the tires blew out on the same old rock: Lack of money.

MEETING AS A committee of the whole, the Council agreed that the street's condition is deplorable.

Makeup Vaccine Clinic Saturday
A Sabin oral polio vaccine makeup clinic will be held Saturday afternoon, it was announced today. It's for those who didn't attend Sunday.

The Winona County Medical Society was prompted by two factors in deciding to hold the clinic even though none had been planned.

First, the percentage of teenagers participating was low. The committee in charge urged parents to have their children participate.

Second, sufficient vaccine for about 2,000 persons remains.

The clinic will be held at Central Elementary School from 1 to 4 p.m.

Registration forms are available at drug stores and supermarkets.

Houston Co. Gets More Federal Court Furniture

The newly remodeled and redecorated District Court room in the Houston County courthouse at Caledonia soon will have new furniture.

Two members of the county board — Chairman George Bissen, Houston, and Joe Wieser, La Crosse — were here this morning to formally receive from First National Bank of Winona officials the federal courtroom furniture in the post office which the bank acquired in purchase of the building.

Houston County, which previously had received from the federal court administration the jury and other chairs and benches, now owns the handsome judge's and clerk's desk, the platform on which they and the jury chairs are placed, and the ornate railing separating the court from the audience area.

Formal presentation was made by A. E. Stoa, bank president, and Kermit Bergland, vice president.

Houston County officials expect they will have the new furnishings in about two weeks. The bank received the furniture from General Services Administration when purchasing the building and has made a gift of it to the neighboring county.

Gas Station Burglarized
Mike's Standard Service, Highway 61 and Pelzer Street, was burglarized during the night, according to police.

Police discovered the burglary at 4:47 a.m. today when they noticed a west overhead window open in a door at the station. The cash register and cigarette machine inside were forced open and an undetermined amount of coins were taken, they said.

Later at 5:30 a.m., they found a burglary had been attempted at the Texaco Service Station at Vela Street and Gilmore Avenue. A front door was tried, but no entry was made, said police.

Nothing was taken from the station. The owner is Charles Puterbaugh. Mike's Standard is operated by Merlin G. Richardson.

Frank L. Lilla's death was the first traffic fatality in Winona since William Vondrushek, 16, was killed at the Chicago & North Western Railway underpass on Latsch Island May 13, 1962.

The driver of the truck which struck Lilla, Robert G. Thimmaray, 42, 7001 E. Sanborn St., has not been charged with any traffic violation, according to police.

The fatality occurred on Mankato Avenue between 5th Street and Broadway at 7:36 p.m. Saturday.

Light Snowfall Makes Area Driving Risky

Nearly an inch of snow which fell in the Winona area Monday evening made area highways slippery and caused hazardous driving conditions.

Although no serious accidents were reported to authorities, several area mishaps were attributed to the snow and ice late Monday afternoon and evening.

State highway department and city sanding crews were busy today sanding hills, curves and city intersections. Rising temperatures and moving traffic was rapidly cutting down the ice, traffic authorities said.

THE SNOWFALL measured .6 of an inch with a water content of .04. The temperature started dropping from a high of 35 shortly after noon Monday to 21 this morning. At noon today it was 26.

Mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday is the forecast for Winona and vicinity with a low to night of 5 to 15 above and a Wednesday afternoon high of 28.

Thursday, says the weatherman, will see temperatures a little below normal and little or no precipitation.

Some communities in the area reported heavier snowfall than Winona, with three to four inches of heavy, wet snow falling between 3 and 7 p.m. Monday at Mabel, Minn.

TEMPERATURES here were slightly higher than a year ago today when the high was 25 and the low 11. Five inches of snow was on the ground at that time, All-time high for Feb. 19 was 57 in 1890 and the low -20 in 1929. Mean for the past 24 hours was 28, as contrasted with a normal figure for this time of the year of 21.

Snow was general over Minnesota but temperatures especially in southern Minnesota continued above the zero mark. Rochester had a reading of 14 this morning after a high of 34 Monday and La Crosse posted figures of 20 and 35 for the same times.

An unofficial report to the U.S. Weather Bureau in MILWAUKEE indicated that about four inches of snow fell in the Oshkosh area with similar amounts in the vicinity of Sheboygan and Fond du Lac.

Up to 6 a.m., two inches had fallen at Lone Rock, one inch at La Crosse, a half inch at Green Bay, Eau Claire and Park Falls and about three-fourths of an inch in Milwaukee.

Light snow also was reported this morning at Superior-Duluth, Ashland and Beloit-Rockford.

Temperatures fell considerable in the northern sections overnight. The lowest reading was 1 above zero at Superior-Duluth.

HIGH IN the state Monday was 45 in the Beloit-Rockford area and Racine.

The nation's warmest spot Monday was Thermal, Calif., where it was 80 degrees.

Damage $900 In 2-Car Crash
Two cars received approximately $900 damage in a collision at Junction Avenue and West Broadway at 1:15 p.m. Monday.

One driver, Donald D. Martin, 29, Lake Blvd., was slightly injured, but was treated and released at Community Memorial Hospital shortly after the accident.

The other car involved was driven by Robert J. Christopherson, 519 Main St. He was driving north on Junction Avenue and Martin was driving east on Broadway, according to police.

Christopherson was cited for failure to yield the right of way causing an accident, said police. Damage was about $500 to Martin's car and about $400 to Christopherson's car.

Sue Gets Chance To 'Die' Again

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Susan Strasberg came bouncing vivaciously across the bare stage of the Winter Garden — looking very unlike somebody who's going to die fairly soon.

"Do you realize how many times I've died?" the snapping-eyed little brunette, who's suddenly become quite a sex symbol, asked this visitor with a light laugh.

"And now I'm to do the 'Camille' death scene which is supposed to be the great tear-jerker of all time. I'm beginning to get nervous. Why is it that so many people want me to die all the time?"

Susan led me across the stage and introduced me to black-bearded British actor John Stride and brilliant Italian director Franco Zeffirelli, her colleagues in the new Camille. "The Lady of the Camellias," due Mar. 18.

"And now you're going to match your dying ability with Greta Garbo's," said somebody who remembered G. G. had done "Camille."

"I won't match her but I've had lots of experience dying," she said. "In 'Anne Frank' they led me away to die, and besides, that, I've been electrocuted. I've been shot through the heart by the Nazis. I've been bombed to pieces."

"I am not from the country," he bristled. "I'm from London."

"In New York," she flipped back. "We call that the country."

"Ohhh, thank you very much, Miss Strasberg," he growled good-humoredly.

"That's why," Susan laughed. "people want me to die all the time."

POP SINGER Brook Benton was beaten up in a St. Louis night club where he was working—and was flown back to NY with a punctured ear, swollen lip and bruised eye. His manager suspected robbery as a motive but Benton had also quarreled with some customers and had objected to the club's supporting music. Benton was ascending a stairway when attacked.

Eddie Fisher—now extraordinarily attentive to Edie Adams—changed his show routine at the Las Vegas Desert Inn so he could catch Edie's opening at the Las Vegas Riviera. Going on first to 10:30, he was followed by comedian Joey Forman who took the closing spot.

"Following Eddie Fisher," Forman said, "makes me feel a little like Richard Burton."

Kaye Ballard had trouble with a doorknob when playing the Roz Russell role in a revival of "Wonderful Town" at City Center. She pulled on a door, the doorknob came flying off. Kaye simply shrugged her shoulders, tossed the doorknob away, and went on with the show—and the crowd was delighted.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Every city has its canal or river that joke about and Brooklyn's is the Gowanus Canal. Earl Benham says, "It has still water in it. They call the water still because they can't get it to move."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Meyer Davis, the big band maestro, was being introduced at the Lambs by Walter Kiernan who said: "He plays like Arthur Murray dances."

EARL'S PEARLS: "You think you're neglected? Ignored? How about Grandpa Moses and Whistler's Father?" (Irwin Kramer)

REMEMBERED QUOTES: "The American public's taste is impeccable. They like me." (Noel Coward)

An elderly woman, groping to remember the name of a medicine, said, "It's named after a type of bad woman." The clerk finally figured out (as Neil Morgan tells it) that she wanted "cortisone." ... That's earl, brother."

Objects seen in the sky resembling two huge silver cigars joined in a V shape are probably balloons that Goodyear Aircraft Corporation is building for scientific research. The novel design gives the helium-filled balloons unusual stability in all kinds of weather.

Venezuelan President Our Friend and Ally

PRESIDENT Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela, who is having his troubles, arrived in the United States today to confer with President Kennedy and high officials on mutual efforts to keep Venezuela moving forward.

Presidents of democratic countries do not usually regard completing four-fifths of their term as a major milestone, but President Betancourt has served longer than any elected president in Venezuela's history.

The fourth anniversary of his inauguration in 1959 was not entirely joyous. The Armed Forces of National Liberation, which has sworn allegiance to Fidel Castro and Soviet Russia, launched violence and bombs. Terrorism is a fact of daily life in this country which is the prime target of subversion from Communist Cuba. Then there was the recent case of the hijacked freighter.

BUT IT IS A paradox in Venezuela that the Betancourt government, sorely beset by enemies, is probably stronger than ever. The balance sheet shows progress toward building a strong democracy that can survive the tactics of Communism's dupes.

Since taking office President Betancourt has given land to almost 50,000 homeless peasants, not by expropriation but by opening new areas for development. Industrialization has made the country almost self-sufficient in textiles. Automobile manufacturing has begun. Food processing is well established.

HUNDREDS of communities have electricity and dependable water supplies for the first time. The number of children attending schools has doubled.

It is Dr. Betancourt's success that has brought on the violent reaction from those who preach that democracy is the wave of the past.

HE WILL BE welcomed in the United States as a friend and ally. There will also be an extra warmth in greeting the man whose highest aim is to turn over his government to a freely-elected successor dedicated to continuing the present progress.

Freedoms Foundation Notes Annual Roll Call

MOST Americans pride themselves, and rightly so, on being a free people. Freedom, we tell ourselves, is part of the great heritage of America, a proud distinction which sets us apart from other nations less favored.

Is there not, at times, just a touch of smugness, of complacency, in our attitude? Do we not, perhaps, sometimes take our freedoms too much for granted?

Today, with the free world beset on all sides by the freedom-killing forces of communism, should we not re-examine our attitudes, and ask ourselves what we as individuals are doing to preserve our freedoms?

A LITTLE soul-searching, we fear, may reveal the unpleasant truth that few of us do anything specific for freedom. We talk about freedom, of course, and — put to the question — righteously proclaim that, of course, we are willing to fight to preserve it, should occasion require.

But do we, as individuals, actually take any steps in defense of freedom?

The fight for freedom is not a "let George do it" affair. Freedom is everyone's concern, and each of us should strike a blow in its cause.

True, it is not always easy for the average individual to know what, specifically, he can do to help. However, there is an organization dedicated solely to the task of preserving America's freedoms, and one of its functions is to detail ways whereby individual citizens can help to maintain the American Way.

ITS NAME: Freedoms Foundation, a non-profit, non-sectarian organization with Dwight D. Eisenhower as chairman and Herbert Hoover as honorary president.

Next time you visit Valley Forge, drop in at the Foundation's American Freedom Center. Here are catalogued outstanding examples of what has been done and is being done in the cause of freedom by individual Americans — by students, teachers, business and professional men, ministers, members of the armed forces, civic leaders, Americans from every walk of life.

THEIR contributions are available to anyone for research, study, and guidance. We think you'll find them both instructive and inspirational. The Foundation's 1963 Roll Call is being held this week.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Unhappy Row With Canada

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Behind the unhappy controversy with Canada threatening to make anti-Americanism an issue in the upcoming election is a series of irritants that has contributed to an increasing sense of frustration with the Diefenbaker government.

What has altered the brotherly relationship with the neighbor to the North illustrates with painful clarity the problem of managing the massive nuclear deterrent as war and the threat of war seem to recede. It also shows what this means in the rise of a new isolationism that can disrupt, if it does not shatter, the Western alliance.

At the beginning of the crisis over Cuba last October the Department of Defense, with the Air Force taking the lead, began a series of emergency moves to deploy nuclear weapons in forward bases around the world. Completely screened by secrecy from the public, this was one of the most remarkable operations in American military annals. So successful was this massive movement, involving thousands upon thousands of flights to every corner of the globe, that some of the President's advisers urged him to make the facts public. They argued that the Soviets, thanks to radar and other detection devices, had learned most of the details.

NATURALLY CANADA figured largely in the advance planning for such a move. It became necessary with the onset of the Cuban crisis to get the permission of the Diefenbaker government for polar flights crossing Canadian territory far in excess of the four day (the figures used here are all approximate for reasons of security) normally allowed. According to military sources, the following occurred:

The request to Ottawa for 640 overflights with nuclear weapons the Air Force considered essential for deployment of the deterrent.

The Royal Canadian Air Force responded immediately that approval would be recommended but that final action could come only with the okay of Prime Minister Diefenbaker himself.

FOUR DAYS passed as the Cuban crisis deepened following President Kennedy's quarantine speech and as the two nuclear giants seemed poised on the brink of all-out war.

At the end of that time the Diefenbaker government notified Washington that eight overflights with nuclear weapons would be permitted for the duration of the crisis.

It would be hard to exaggerate the anger in the Pentagon at this outcome. Both the delay and what appeared as a higgling and almost obstructive response had the look, to those managing the deterrent during what was certainly the gravest crisis since the end of World War II, of deliberate refusal on the part of an ally and nearest neighbor to cooperate in the mutual defense of North America.

THAT ANGER, widely shared in the government here, may have been reflected in the State Department declaration of January 30 that touched off the controversy. It is rare that a friendly government says of another friendly government as the note did:

"... The Canadian Government has not as yet proposed any arrangement sufficiently practical to contribute effectively to North American defense."

That note was not approved by the President and an effort has been made to counteract its effect so the role of the United States will not figure too prominently in the election campaign. But Diefenbaker, as head of a minority government, has his own political problems that help to explain what otherwise appears as sheer obstructionism.

The Social Credit party, which picked up 26 seats in Quebec at the last election and comes close to holding the balance of power, is anti-nuclear and in a sense isolationist. This party that many Canadians describe as a know-nothing party can hardly be ignored. Along with this goes a long-simmering resentment over American insistence on Canada accepting the Bomarc missile with an investment of up to $1.5 billion. The usefulness of this weapon is now questionable.

THESE SAME irritants have inflamed the controversy with President de Gaulle. De Gaulle's decision to deny French bases to America's nuclear bombers, ostensibly a part of the NATO force, created problems in the management of the deterrent. And the exclusive Europeanism of de Gaulle is a form of isolationism.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Venezuela's Betancourt Has Had Many U.S. Rebuffs

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today is awarded to Romulo Betancourt, president of Venezuela.)

WASHINGTON—Romulo Betancourt, president of Venezuela, is probably the most courageous chief executive ever to call on President Kennedy. He has also come closest to death by assassination, is the most despised by Castro, and has been the most snubbed by the United States.

As he was leaving for his state visit to Washington, Castro followers in Caracas were hurling charges that Betancourt had sold out to the Yankees, and had been stepping up their campaign of terror to a fever pitch.

In a single 48-hour period, the Falm or "urban Guerrillas" held up and gutted the American Chamber of Commerce in Caracas; robbed its manager, Harold J. T. Horan; bombed one of the Rockefeller supermarket chain stores; and, a short time later, used more than 10,000 rounds of ammunition in an all-out assault on the chairman of the war council, who lives just two blocks from President Betancourt.

THE ATTACKS on the Venezuelan government are expected to be stepped up further while Betancourt is in Washington.

The reason is both very simple and very important: Venezuela is the most vital source of iron ore for U.S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel; and one of the great oil reserves of the world. Here are invested billions in wells, rigs, and refineries. Every day a dozen or so tankers stream out of Maracaibo laden with oil, while every day huge ore boats thread their way down the tortuous Orinoco River en route to New Hope, Pa., and Sparrows Point, Md.

If Castro and his cohorts could get their hands on these vast resources, they would deal the United States a mortal blow.

Yet, up until the Kennedy administration, the United States had snubbed President Betancourt, belittled his money on dictatorship in Venezuela.

During the Eisenhower administration, Betancourt had been sent into exile by Dictator Perez Jimenez. He was living quietly in Puerto Rico. Suddenly, Gov. Luiz Munoz Marin got a phone call from Henry Holland, Ike's assistant secretary of state, asking that the governor get Betancourt out of Puerto Rico. His presence was embarrassing, Munoz was told.

THE United States has always prided itself on being the haven for the politically oppressed, but the embarrassed Munoz explained the situation to Betancourt, and he departed. Kennedy, by inviting Betancourt to the White House, is now trying to make up for that snub.

The problem of the United States in Venezuela is more than merely making up for a snub. The problem is to help Betancourt make up for lack of progress during many long years of dictatorship.

"Our chief cause of unrest in Latin America," Betancourt once told me, "is the lack of a middle class. So we have to build a middle class, to get the wealth of Venezuela enjoyed by all, not just by a privileged few."

It was not merely the lash and the horror chamber which set back Venezuela during the days of dictators; it was the chasm between Latin aristocracy and Latin poverty.

Betancourt has made some amazing strides in closing this gap. He has moved faster than any other Latin country, save possibly Mexico and Costa Rica. But the chasm has been wide, and no man could move fast enough.

"Castro has been capitalizing on the twin problems of housing and land reform," President Betancourt told me. "We have moved to remedy both. I have made 2,500,000 acres of land available for distribution to small farmers in two years—which is more than Castro has done. However, we pay for it. We are not seizing the land of foreigners."

BETANCOURT HAS also increased the longevity of Venezuelans by five years, has built 23,000 classrooms, and enough highways to extend from Moscow to Madrid.

Romulo is quiet and matter of fact as he speaks of these things as he fills a large pipe. You can't help noticing his hands. They are scorched and scarred. You wonder what happened to them. Then you remember that terrible attempt on his life, when Dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic set one of the most diabolically clever traps in history to assassinate a president.

As Betancourt was about to review an army parade, an electronic signal touched off a bomb in a car alongside his car. His limousine became a blazing inferno. His aide, in the front seat, was cremated. The president himself, hampered at the stuck door, finally was liberated. But the ghastly scars of that narrow escape have been with him ever since.

That's the man who has been through hell's fire, who has suffered in exile, been snubbed by the United States, and who is now called a "sell-out to the Yankees" for trying against uphill obstacles to bring democratic reform to Venezuela. The big worry is whether Castro will upset his work.

TWO LANGUAGES

MIAMI (AP) — Signs of "se habla español" (Spanish spoken) abound on shop windows of metropolitan Miami, where one of every seven residents is a Cuban.

A restaurant operated by Cubans bears a sign, "English spoken."

Now an automobile parts rebuilding shop catering to a Cuban clientele says in a newspaper advertisement, "no hablan ingles" (we don't speak English).

HOT TIME

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Earl Smith should have trusted anti-freeze.

But instead Smith wrapped a blanket around the engine of the family car.

He forgot to inform his wife. Mrs. Smith took the car downtown. The overwarm engine ignited the blanket. Someone pulled an alarm box at the downtown intersection, the one that signals to prepare for a major blaze.

The high-pressure pumping system was turned on and three fire pumps, two 100-foot aerial trucks and a rescue squad arrived.

Damage was estimated at $25.

MYNAH CLAMMED UP

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — The only witness to a pet store burglary was a talking mynah bird, and he was no stool pigeon.

Officers tried to get the mynah to repeat words that the burglars might have exchanged as they looted a safe under his cage. But the bird wouldn't talk — although he usually talks all the time.

U.N. Aid for Reds Irks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The United Nations has reached a turning point in its history. Sentiment in the United States for withdrawal from the international organization has just been given strong new impetus. For the American people will be asked through Congress to decide whether taxpayers' money shall be channeled into Cuba through the U.N. to help Castro maintain his inhumane regime. Hundreds of innocent persons have been executed by the gangster government in Havana, yet the U.N. puts its stamp of approval on such a government by furnishing funds to sustain the domestic position of a cruel dictator.

Democrats as well as Republicans have denounced the U.N.'s action on the floor of Congress.

The point is made by President Kennedy that none of the money to be spent in Cuba will come directly from the United States. But funds can always be redistributed or reallocated to achieve a political objective. The fact remains that the American government is paying a large share of the expenses of the U.N., and it is no secret that the United States is trying to help liberate the people of Cuba by putting the squeeze on the island's economy.

When the U.N. flagrantly ignores the policy of the United States, it brings up the broad question of whether financial aid by American taxpayers shall be extended blindly and without any opportunity to keep the funds from being used to defeat the foreign policy of this country.

U.N. officials argue that they are not interfering in the internal politics of Cuba. But, realistically, anything that bolsters the Cuban economy is an intervention, especially at a moment when the United States is trying, by means of a shipping boycott, to weaken the Castro government and bring about its downfall.

IT WILL BE said that the United States cannot expect to influence the actions of an international organization in which it has only one vote. But neither is the American government obligated to supply money for an organization whose projects run counter to American foreign policies.

The U.N. has been in deep financial trouble lately, and this country has helped out by paying for more than its share of the expenses of the organization. Congress, however — and not the state department or the White House — has the final say as to how the taxpayers' money shall be loaned or given away. The U.N. bond issue had a tough time getting through Congress last year, and there are renewed expressions of doubt now even about the foreign-aid program in which the United States alone decides how to spend its money. This will cause Congress at least to examine more carefully any legislation that would appropriate money over whose distribution this country has no control.

THE argument that America, as a philanthropically minded nation, should help underdeveloped or backward countries will continue to make a certain appeal. At a time, however, when the American people are being asked to incur a treasury deficit of more than $20 billion, it will doubtless occur to many members of Congress that this presents a paradox which cannot be easily explained to the voters.

The whole amount to be spent in Cuba by the U.N. for the new project of agricultural development is comparatively small — about $12 million. It isn't, however, the sum allocated but the principle which bothers the American government at this time. The State Department tried to persuade the U.N. officials that it would be an unwise move, but the protest was of no avail. Furthermore, if this project goes through, it will cause a hesitation in Congress to approve all other appropriations for the benefit of the United Nations.

Coincidentally with the announcement of the pro-Castro action by the director of the U.N. special fund, a pro-Communist booklet issued by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization has come into the news. This publication extols the alleged social and political equality existing inside the Soviet Union and asserts that Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia "voluntarily joined the Soviet Union" in 1940. Everybody knows that early in World War II the Soviet army by military force seized those three countries, which were then incorporated into the Soviet Union, where they have remained ever since.

This action has never been recognized by the United States, Great Britain and many other countries. The assembly of captive European nations, composed of political exiles from the eastern European Communist bloc, has protested against the booklet and calls it "Soviet Propaganda."

Nervous Breakdown Crisis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is a nervous breakdown serious? What causes it? Does it ruin one's health? Is hospitalization required?

Today's letter is a combination of several, with the writers asking similar questions.

Nervous breakdown is not a true medical term. It is a catch-all phrase. And sometimes, frankly, it is used because somebody is trying to hide the truth — why, I even know of some people who use "nervous breakdown" when the patient really has tuberculosis. Fantastic, isn't it?

But generally speaking, the term really means an emotional crisis. The patient is unable to cope with some problem or combination of them. Physical ailments may contribute, and extreme fatigue is one notable condition which is reflected in emotional troubles. However, there may also be good physical health, yet a "nervous breakdown."

Frustration over a job, love or marriage, combined with worry or anxiety over any number of other things are among the frequent causes.

TYPE AND length of treatment depend on the cause. Rest, good nutrition and reassurance, along with helping the patient to look at his problems reasonably and refuse to be panicked by them, will bring an end to many a "nervous breakdown." In some instances, psychiatric care may be needed, possibly psychoanalysis.

Once the patient overcomes his problems, or learns how to cope with them, he can be counted as recovered and probably will have no more trouble unless new pressures pile up on him.

Hubert Humphrey declared that the statement in the U.N. booklet that the Baltic states had voluntarily joined the Soviet Union is "pure patent nonsense." He said that it was "intolerable" that such a report should be published by an international organization "dedicated to truth and scientific knowledge."

The United Nations is surely in for trouble with American public opinion. For it develops that UNESCO, which issued the booklet, is financed nearly one-third by the people of this country and less than one-sixth by the Soviet Union. Maybe Moscow should pay the whole bill.

Shareowners, Stocks Grow

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market has its own population explosion problem. The number of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange grows mightily. And so, too, during the 1950s did the number of shareowners.

The trouble comes when either a bullish or a bearish enthusiasm seizes so many shareowners that the exchange's recording system is swamped. This leaves all stock owners—some 15 million Americans now by the latest estimate—wondering what happened to the value of their holdings.

There is wear and tear on countless nervous systems and maybe even some marital spats over the hazy state of the family fortune. Newspapers can't get the quotations in time for the usual editions. And the more shareowners the greater the curiosity about how they and their neighbors are faring. Many of the public with a flare for thinking the worst decide the silence means the country may be going to pot.

There is nothing like the word that "the tape is running late," meaning the latest prices aren't available yet, to augment the trend of the market in whichever direction it may have been going when last reported.

The New York Stock Exchange assures its many kibitzers that it is turning to automation to speed the latest prices to the public. Hopefully, in a year or two there won't be any more long waits, as last May and June, to find out what really went on in Wall Street.

The exchange's stock ticker network serves more than 700 cities in the United States and Canada. In his annual report today the exchange president, G. Keith Funston, assures this wide audience that a new printer is being developed that is 30 per cent faster than the present one.

The Teletype Corp. machine may be able to transmit 1,000 characters per minute. This will get the latest prices, once they are recorded, out to the public at a speed that only an avalanche of trading could smother.

To record the transactions, International Business Machines Corp. computers equipment will be in operation early in 1965.

An optical reader will electronically speed sales and bid-asked information from the trading floor to the computer. This intricate system will continuously determine total volume, volume for each stock, open, high, low, last sale prices and bid-asked quotes.

The exchange says the new system will be able to handle trading volume in excess of 16 million shares a day. On May 29 the volume rose to 14,750,000 shares, and the tape ran long after trading closed.

The automated quotation service also will be able to handle 400,000 phone inquiries a day and respond to 150 inquiries for prices simultaneously.

Reaction to Reynolds Film Is Favorable

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds' controversial film, made during a budget tour of state institutions, was shown publicly for the first time Monday night at the Wisconsin Farmers' Union convention.

Reaction to the film, criticized sharply by Republican legislators for showing the faces of the mentally handicapped, appeared generally favorable. Gilbert Rohde of Chippewa Falls, president of the Farmer's Union, called the reaction "tremendous."

Reynolds, a Democrat, said before showing the film to some 325 delegates and guests at a dinner that conditions at some of the state colonies are "a disgrace to civilized man."

"People in Nazi Germany said they didn't know what was going on in their institutions," he said. "I know I'll have the support of the people if they know what the problem is."

Sen. Paul Thiel of South St. Paul, the minority leader, made only a brief statement before the vote. He mentioned that the chief justice and the attorney general participated in naming the three men but said liberals were voting against all three as a matter of principle despite the fact that one "shares our political philosophy."

The reference was to Rep. Nelson. Forty percent of the radios produced in the United States are for use in automobiles.

Confirmed today by votes that were straight conservative-liberal splits were the appointments to the Commission on Uniform State Laws of Maynard E. Pirsig of the University of Minnesota Law School, John Mooly of Minneapolis and State Rep. R. N. Nelson, Breckenridge liberal.

Vatican Approves Beatification of 2 U.S. Catholics

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican Congregation of Rites today approved the beatification of two American Roman Catholic figures, Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton and John M. Neumann, fourth bishop of Philadelphia.

Ceremonies for the beatifications were scheduled next month. Beatification frequently—but not always—is followed by the Church's highest honor, canonization, or sainthood.

Mother Seton, a convert to Catholicism, may become the United States' first native-born saint.

Born in New York in 1774, she turned after her husband's death to the education of youth and to charitable work. She founded the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph in America and died in Emmitsburg, Md., in 1821.

Her beatification is scheduled March 17.

Bishop Neumann was born in Bohemia in 1811. After studying for the priesthood in Budweis, he came to America in 1836 and was ordained in New York.

Pope Pius IX named him bishop of Philadelphia in 1852. He died there in 1860.

His beatification is scheduled for March 19, the feast day of St. Joseph.

NFO Conducting Member Drive In Trempealeau

TREMPEALEAU, Wis. — A "contact your neighbor" days, with members telling the story and accomplishments of the National Farmers Organization, is under way throughout Trempealeau County, according to Emil Skroch, county president.

Eighteen or more two-man teams in every organized NFO county will make contacts two days a week until the spring work begins.

"This is part of NFO's drive to get stabilized prices for its members at the earliest possible date," said Lloyd Fairbanks, national organizational director. "The current campaign will mean that more than one million farmers will be contacted before the plow goes into the ground this spring."

NFO President Oren Lee Staley said, "If every member went out today and secured another member, we could go to the market in the morning and get our price. Our progress has been steady, but now we are stepping up the pace."

Trempealeau County team captains appointed at the February NFO meeting are: Carl Koepke, Whitehall; Wilbert Selke, Trempealeau; Irvin Kriesel, Trempealeau; Arthur Hanson, Pigeon Falls; Ed Pryzbilla, Independence; Ted Swenson, Ettrick; Dominic Roskos, Independence; Hoesley Brothers, Dodge; Peter Slaby, Arcadia, and Bern Waldera, Independence.

Charged Comedian Draws Own Jury

CHICAGO (AP)—Comedian Lenny Bruce acted as his own attorney Monday in selecting jurors for his trial on a charge of obscenity in his act at a night club.

Bruce, 37, mentioned common obscenities to prospective jurors and asked them if the words were repulsive to them. He accepted as jurors those who replied no and rejected those who replied yes. A lawyer, Earl W. Zidens, is aiding Bruce at the trial.

A jury of eight women and four men was selected. Bruce was arrested Dec. 5 in the Gale of Hoon night club by police who said he used obscene language and gestures. The club's liquor license was suspended 15 days as a result of the police raid.

McNamara Quizzed In Secret Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told senators today that "the Communist threat in Europe is the largest single threat we face in the world."

He outlined his department's overall defense plans before the Senate Armed Services Committee, some members of which were anxious to ask him about a more specific problem, the menace of Soviet arms and troops in Cuba.

McNamara said the Communist peril in Europe is greatest "because Western Europe, aside from the United States represents the most important center of free world power."

"The loss of Western Europe to the Soviet Union would drastically alter the balance of power in the world," he added.

A censored version of McNamara's prepared testimony, covering some 163 pages, was made available to newsmen outside the closed session. It appeared identical to one supplied when he appeared before the House Armed Services Committee on Jan. 30.

McNamara was called before the Senate Armed Services Committee for testimony behind closed doors on the progress of the administration's program to build a flexible force of strategic weapons capable of absorbing a nuclear attack and then hitting back at the Soviet Union.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said McNamara will be "open to questions" about Soviet military strength in Cuba and seems likely to get plenty of them.

Stennis said the preparedness subcommittee he heads will begin a concentrated investigation of the Cuban situation later in the week, after McNamara has completed his report on the military posture.

Stennis' previous statements that another blockade of Cuba may be necessary if Soviet troops there cannot be forced out by economic means was topped by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in another furious round of congressional debate Monday.

Goldwater, an Air Force Reserve major general and a member of the Armed Services Committee, called for a blockade of all shipments of any kind to Cuba. He said the Kennedy administration ought to get up "enough gumption" to end the Communist threat to the hemisphere "once and for all."

Goldwater sailed into a statement by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, accusing Republicans of endangering Western unity by "divisive partisanship and irresponsible attacks on our nation's foreign policy."

Fulbright named Goldwater, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Goldwater said Fulbright's attack had "all the earmarks of an action hastily ordered by the White House in line with the current campaign to shut up all critics of the New Frontier's short-sighted and disruptive foreign policy and in particular, to silence all Republican opposition."

Asserting that Republicans were never consulted about foreign policy decisions before they were made, the Arizona senator said it was apparent "the Kennedy administration wants no part of a bipartisan approach to foreign policy—except when they get into trouble."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana retorted that this wasn't true.

"The Republicans have been very well informed by this administration," he said. "I for one have no apologies to make for this record."

Scott told a Huntington, Pa., audience Monday night he was "deeply troubled about the secrecy attending the negotiations between the White House and the Kremlin." He called for publication of all of the letters exchanged by Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev since last fall.

$116,000 Added To Teachers Pay By Austin Board

AUSTIN, Minn.—A new public teachers salary schedule calling for a $116,000 increase in the payroll for the 1963-64 contract year has been adopted by the Austin Board of Education.

The schedule provides a $200 increase in the starting base salary for teachers with a bachelor degree and no previous teaching experience.

The salary range for four-year degree teachers runs from $4,850 to a maximum of $7,850 to be reached in 12 steps and for instructors with master degrees, $5,350 to $8,350. There's a $400 differential for teachers with training beyond the master degree.

Two board members abstained from voting when the schedule was submitted at the fourth in a series of salary meetings. The increase is $50 more than that recommended by the Austin Education Association and $50 less than that asked by the Austin Federation of Teachers.

Part of Steuben Street Vacated; 2 Firms Get It

Noting for the record that no formal opposition was entered, the City Council Monday voted to vacate Steuben Street between King and Howard streets.

The action was taken pursuant to petitions by the Milwaukee Railroad and the East End Coal & Cement Products Co. The portion of street in question is ungraded and has never been opened to traffic. Milwaukee right of way occupies about half of the one-block segment.

Originally presented Jan. 7 by the railroad company, the petition was held over because it asked only for closing of 150 feet of the 300-foot length. Railroad-owned frontage on the streetway extended only that far, the company attorney explained. East End Coal & Cement then filed a petition to close the remaining 150 feet and both were allowed Monday.

Although no formal opposition was heard, 4th Ward Ald. James Stollman said he had some unspecified complaints from nearby residents. Ald. Clarence Tribble suggested the city lease the property to the two firms. Then if the city wanted the land sometime in the future, it would not be necessary to buy it back, he said.

Ald. Howard Baumann asked whether the companies would pay the city for the land they acquired through the street closing. City Attorney George M. Robertson Jr. said that by law such vacated property goes automatically to abutting property owners.

House Sends Implied Consent Bill to Senate

ST. PAUL, (AP)—A modification of the implied consent law enacted by the 1961 Minnesota Legislature has been approved by the House and sent to the Senate.

Under the law any person arrested on drunken driving charges is subject to revocation of his driver's license for six months if he refuses to take a test for drunkenness.

The House gave preliminary approval to a bill aimed at avoiding errors in vote counting. The measure provides for hiring a new set of election judges to count the ballots in any precinct where 225 votes or more are cast. The new judges would take over as soon as the polls close.

Also given preliminary approval in the House was a bill to ratify the amendment to the U.S. Constitution in outlaw the poll tax.

The poll tax bill was recommended for passage today by the Senate Elections Committee by a divided vote.

Proponents said it would bring Minnesota into line with all other states except Wisconsin and give recognition to Minnesota's soybean industry. They said millions of pounds of colored oleomargarine are being bootlegged into Minnesota every year from neighboring states.

Opponents argued that putting yellow oleomargarine into competition with butter would result in a sharp increase in the price of fluid milk by five cents a quart.

They said the dairy industry is far more important to Minnesota's economy than the soybean industry and that soybean growers are dependent on dairymen as a market for soybean meal.

Further hearings on the bill before the Senate Agriculture Committee are scheduled Friday. The committee also has before it bills to repeal the 10 cents a pound tax on oleomargarine.

It takes little to stampede a flock of turkeys. A paper fluttering in the wind may cause hysterical birds to dash to a corner of their pen and pile up in a fatal crush.

Mondovi Wrestler Choked on Food

MONDOVI, Wis.—Food particles lodged in the windpipe were blamed for the death of a youth in a wrestling match. Dr. Emmett Meli, Buffalo County coroner, has announced.

Leon Hoch, 17, collapsed Jan. 8 while engaged in a match with a Durand youth. He was pronounced dead after more than an hour of effort at revival.

Dr. Willard Aronson, a pathologist at Eau Claire, said a spasm introduced food into the glottis, a trapdoor between the throat and windpipe. Dr. Aronson said Hoch had a full stomach and apparently had eaten potato chips and other food shortly before the wrestling match.

It had been supposed that the youth might have suffered a heart attack.

That's $201.28 or 2 cents per capita higher than the allotment for the previous year—$5,739.33 or 57 cents per capita. SCRAMBLED HISTORY

The Talking Machine

By HAROLD KNOLL
Daily News Staff Writer

Eighty-five years ago today Thomas Alva Edison patented his phonograph, an action he would have regretted had he foreseen present events.

Edison's office boy, Silas Garritious, was the first victim of the age of sound. Silas picked his finger on the needle of Edison's first phonograph and became a compulsive talker. Silas was fired.

Edison's invention paved the way for juke boxes which blast diners' ears at restaurants and for such special services as records to sleep by and records to teach bashful parakeets to talk.
