Kennedy Hailed At Boston Mass

BOSTON (AP) — The late President John F. Kennedy was eulogized in a pontifical solemn Requiem Mass Sunday as having a greatness "which will illumine the ages."

The Mass was sung by Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston. Mozart's "Requiem in D Minor" was performed in conjunction with the Mass by the Boston Symphony and a 180-voice choir.

"It was magnificent," the President's widow told Cardinal Cushing. "I'll never forget it."

Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, also was among the 1,800 invited guests at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston.

A number of Protestant ministers and Jewish rabbis attended.

Cardinal Cushing compared Kennedy and Mozart, the Austrian composer who died of typhus at the age of 35 as he was writing the moving "Requiem."

"The genius of art and the genius of leadership are joined together in this single event," the cardinal said.

"Separated by centuries, these two men were touched by a creative instinct uncommon in any generation; both thought out of their youth a shining light which will illumine the ages; both were summoned to eternity at a moment which to mortals must seem untimely."

Mrs. Kennedy, seated in the front pew with her mother-in-law and the President's young brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and his wife, occasionally wiped a tear during the two-hour service.

Behind her were Francis McDermott, chief of the Boston office of the Secret Service, and Mrs. Sargent Shriver, the late President's sister.

"No tribute... to our beloved President and his charming wife could be more appropriate than the spiritual, artistic and liturgical service of this morning," Cardinal Cushing said.

"No prayer to the memory of that scholarly, dedicated leader and to the cultural background of his bereaved wife and loved ones could be more fitting."

Mrs. Kennedy kept her eyes on the altar and the cardinal most of the time. The first tears slipped down her cheeks as the chorus sang the benediction—"Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."

After the Mass, Cardinal Cushing escorted her into the sanctuary to meet Erich Leinsdorf, conductor of the symphony.

Leinsdorf had selected Mozart's "Requiem" for the Mass as "the unfinished work of a genius dedicated to the unfinished work of another genius."

73 Arrested In Atlanta March on Jail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seventy-three persons face trial in Atlanta Municipal Court today as a result of a melee and protest march on city jail during the weekend.

The first group of 24 was arrested after Negroes picketed a segregated lunch counter in which several members of the Ku Klux Klan were drinking coffee.

The others were taken into custody at the city jail when they protested the earlier arrests. They were arrested for refusing to move when ordered to do so by a policeman.

A Georgia Klan leader demanded an investigation by the Justice Department of what he called a conspiracy between some Atlanta officials and civil rights groups.

Calvin Craig, grand dragon of the Georgia Klan, said the so-called conspiracy was "well illustrated by the mob rule in Atlanta Saturday night. The Atlanta police were undermanned either by orders from the mayor or police chief so as to let such proceed."

Craig said he considers the incident similar to Communist rioting in Panama.

Atlanta police have adopted a policy of refusing to arrest demonstrators at business establishments unless proprietors swear out warrants against demonstrators.

In other racial developments, the Civil Rights Commission in Washington said federal compulsion to breach barriers that continue to bar Negroes from skilled crafts and jobs probably is inevitable.

The Justice Department was advised of a series of cross-burnings in Negro communities in southeastern Louisiana. An anonymous telephone caller told the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate the incidents were a revival of Klan activity in that area.

The cross-burnings apparently were aimed at Negro voter registration activity.

Tax Cut Asked to Assure Record U.S. Prosperity

No Inquiry Planned At U. of M.

ST. PAUL (AP) — A legislative investigation of conditions at the University of Minnesota, if there is to be one, will have to await convening of the 1965 session.

That was the word from Rep. Aubrey Dirlam of Redwood Falls, chairman of the House Rules Committee, after the committee discussed two requests for inquiries informally Saturday.

Dirlam said the committee has no investigative powers unless they are specifically granted by resolution adopted by the House.

Early Summit Meeting on Malaya Seen

MANILA (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and President Diosdado Macapagal said today after a three-hour talk that prospects are encouraging for an early summit meeting on the Malaysia crisis.

Kennedy, here on the second leg of his peacemaking tour for President Johnson, briefed Macapagal on results of his talks with Indonesian President Sukarno, who has vowed to smash the new federation.

A statement said Macapagal told Kennedy the Philippines has tried all along to restore Maphilindo, the association of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines which broke apart when Malaysia was formed in September. Although the Philippines also has not recognized Malaysia, Macapagal promised to continue his peace efforts.

Kennedy has been urging a three-nation conference to seek a peaceful settlement of the quarrel between Indonesia and Malaysia. Macapagal noted that the Philippines had been seeking the same thing since September.

Kennedy told newsmen on his arrival from South Korea Sunday night there was a good chance the crisis can be solved.

"Some progress has been made," he said.

Macapagal appeared pleased with his meeting with Kennedy and said it bolstered his hopes for a peaceful solution of the crisis.

Asked whether he will meet soon with Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, he said, "It looks like it."

The Philippines has refused to recognize Malaysia because of a claim to the Malaysian state of Sabah, formerly British North Borneo. Sukarno claims Malaysia is a British plot to encircle Indonesia.

It then is expected to take about a week to write the bulky report and prepare the bill for floor debate.

If floor debate begins Jan. 29, there would be a chance to pass the bill by the Feb. 11 deadline tentatively fixed by Democratic Senate leaders.

Woman Balloonist Missing on Flight

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A huge search spread to Mexico City today as scores of planes and ships hunted an adventurous grandmother who vanished high above stormy Catalina Channel in a hot-air balloon.

Red-haired Barbara Keith, 42, disappeared in rain clouds at 10,000 feet some 15 miles from land.

She was one of eight balloon pilots who took off Saturday to race from Avalon on Santa Catalina Island to a main land California. One fell nearby. Seven left the island as small craft warnings were flying and rain came down. Only one made it to the coast.

Boats rescued the airmen, including actor Cliff Robertson, but Mrs. Keith's onion-shaped balloon went higher than the others, caught a stiff breeze,

$8.8 Billion In Tax Cuts Near Approval

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $8.8 billion in tax cuts for individuals voted by the House seem likely to be retained without change when the Senate Finance Committee finishes with the big tax bill this week.

This was the consensus of several members of the committee interviewed as the group completed its work on all sections of the House-passed measure except individual rates.

A Treasury official told a reporter privately that "we believe the rate schedule in the bill is the fairest that can be worked out. It has the strong support of many diverse groups in the economy. We do not believe it should be changed."

The heart of the 310-page bill is the $8.8 billion in cuts for individuals and the $2.3-billion reduction for corporations.

The average reduction for individuals is 13.8 per cent although the cuts will range from 30 per cent for those in the lowest taxable bracket to as little as 15.5 per cent for a taxpayer with $38,000 of taxable income.

The Treasury figures that a four-person family using the standard deduction and having $4,000 in annual wage or salary income would get a $100 tax cut. The $6,000 family would get $150, the $7,500 family $191, the $12,000 family $344, and the $20,000 family $595.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the committee said that he doubts the rate schedule will be changed.

Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., echoed this view. Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., said he would like to give some additional break to the middle-income brackets but does not know whether this can be achieved.

As a practical matter, some hold it is essential to make substantial cuts for the lowest income levels as the House bill does and also to reduce the extremely high top rates. These now soar to 91 per cent and would be dropped to a maximum 70 per cent by the House measure.

Byrd said he is hopeful the committee will finish with all amendments sponsored by members on Monday and Tuesday, take up the rates Wednesday, and complete action on the bill that day.

It then is expected to take about a week to write the bulky report and prepare the bill for floor debate.

If floor debate begins Jan. 29, there would be a chance to pass the bill by the Feb. 11 deadline tentatively fixed by Democratic Senate leaders.

and outdistanced its escorting boat below.

A widespread search Sunday found no trace of her at sea. Two balloonists consulted wind reports and decided that at 10,000 feet she might have hit gusts strong enough to push her across the coast near here before her four-hour fuel supply ran out.

Planes were ordered to search as far south as Ensenada, Mexico, 70 miles from here, and for a distance of 40 miles inland.

Hopes of finding her safe at sea were growing meager.

2 Escape Serious Injury in Crash

ALBERTVILLE, Minn. (AP) — Two men escaped serious injury in the crash of a small airplane Sunday on the Mait Lindesfelder farm near this Wright County community.

Ray W. Johnson, 31, rural Rogers, was listed in good condition in a Robbinsdale hospital. His passenger, Clayton Dean, 40, rural Rogers, was treated at Monticello and released.

Johnson Asks Russia To Ban Aggression

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev to broaden his proposal for a worldwide nonaggression pact to outlaw "indirect" as well as direct aggression and provide greater security for West Berlin.

In a letter made public today, the President proposed four "guidelines" for international agreement which he said would be "even broader and stronger" than Khrushchev's proposed ban on the use of force in territorial disputes.

Johnson did not specify Berlin or its access routes across Communist East Germany in his reply to Khrushchev's Dec. 31 message.

But administration officials said he had the Berlin problem in mind in asking agreement to prohibit the use or threat of force to change "arrangements or procedures concerning access to, passage across or the administration of those areas where international agreement or practice has established or confirmed such arrangements or procedures."

The President urged Khrushchev to join in taking "concrete action" both to end the nuclear arms race and bar the spread of nuclear weapons and to outlaw aggression and subversion.

Johnson's guidelines constituted an omnibus package not negotiation between the United States and Russia and among the nations of the world generally if Khrushchev is interested. The President stopped short of suggesting a new treaty specifically, though he did not rule one out.

About 50 U.S. government employees plus their dependents are in Tanganyika. The U.S. Embassy in London received a message that so far as was known, all Americans were safe.

The Americans include some 25 members of the Peace Corps, most of them engaged in a road-building project and a teaching program outside the capital.

Word reaching Nairobi, in neighboring Kenya, said troops of one battalion of the Tanganyika Rifles, the country's army, seized a barracks 10 miles from Dar es Salaam.

Police said the dead were members of two families returning on a rural road from a visit in the Freeport area to Apple River, Ill., and Shullsburg, Wis. The accident happened 10 miles north of Freeport under wet, foggy conditions.

Dead are Mrs. John Seffrood, about 34, her daughter, Lenora, 8, Ronnie Sigafus, 19, all of Shullsburg; and three brothers and a sister from Apple River, Peter Cosgrove, 8, James 6, Robert 5, and Cathy, 4.

But Johnson put heaviest stress on need for a reduction in taxes. Declaring he wanted the tax cut bill now, he also said it should be "not in diluted, but in strengthened form."

Army Mutinies In Tanganyika

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP) — Tanganyika troops mutinied today but returned to their barracks at the intervention of President Julius Nyerere, he told the nation by radio.

For a few hours the British feared an African nationalist revolution that recently swept the sultan from his throne in nearby Zanzibar had spread to Tanganyika, one of the most stable of the former British colonies in Africa.

A few hundred armed Tanganyika soldiers, demanding better pay and living conditions, had held their British officers as hostage for 12 hours. About 30 British officers were reported seized.

Johnson Sees Inflation in Price Rises

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson predicted today record-smashing prosperity in 1964 if Congress acts—"not in one or two or three months but now"—on the $11 billion tax cut.

Without it, Johnson warned the legislators, the rosy picture could become harsh—"dashed expectation could turn expansion into recession."

In his first economic report to Congress, the new President also cautioned against inflationary price rises.

"A series of specific price increases in recent months—especially in manufactured goods—gives me some cause for concern," he said, although he doesn't anticipate a renewal of the wage-price spiral.

He urged business and labor to continue their "excellent" record of price and cost settlements but said he is setting up an "early warning system" by government agencies to guard against potentially inflationary price and wage increases.

"In the face of a 44 percent increase in corporate profits in less than three years and the prospect of further increases to come with the tax cut, I see no warrant for inflationary price rises," he declared.

In the economic report to Congress, required annually under the 1946 Employment Act, Johnson made clear he was the new wagonmaster for the New Frontier legislative train. And he pointed with pride at the big steps the country made since 1961, years under Democratic administrations.

"Our record $100 billion expansion since early 1961 has carried us past important milestones in the march toward a better life," he said.

Turning to last year specifically, he said these advances were made for the first time in history:

—The Gross National Product (GNP) — The total output of goods and services—passed the $600 billion mark by year-end.

—Personal income (before taxes) reached an average rate of some $2,500 per capita by year-end.

—After-tax income of individuals exceeded $400 billion for the year.

—Corporate profits exceeded $50 billion before taxes and $25 billion after taxes.

—Residential construction passed $25 billion.

—Civilian employment exceeded 70 million for the year. Johnson said this $600 billion annual rate the GNP reached in the fourth quarter of 1963 is a 16 percent increase since 1961.

With the tax cut, he added, GNP should soar to a whopping $623 billion in 1964.

When fully effective in 1965, he asserted, the cut will "send well over $11 billion annually coursing through the arteries of the private economy."

Benefits will be reaped year after year, he said, and will lead "at long last to a balanced budget in a balanced economy at full potential."

But Johnson put heaviest stress on need for a reduction in taxes. Declaring he wanted the tax cut bill now, he also said it should be "not in diluted, but in strengthened form."

Faulty Heater Blamed

Pair Dead at Warroad

WARROAD, Minn. (AP) — An elderly rural Warroad couple died Sunday of asphyxiation as a result of a faulty fuel oil heater in their home, Roseau County Coroner Dr. J. L. Delmore reported today.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart, residents of the War-road area since 1915. Stewart, 81, and his wife, Carrie, 71, lived five miles south and a mile and a half east of here.

Their bodies were discovered about 1:30 p.m. Sunday by their son, Carl Stewart of Warroad. He also had visited them earlier Sunday.

4 Dead in Weekend Accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four persons died this weekend in Minnesota traffic accidents. The accidents raised the state's 1964 traffic toll to 26, compared with 27 through this date last year.

Gordon Rolfe, 16, Iona, died Saturday in a collision in Murray County. Six others were injured in the crash.

James L. Tarro, 21, Minneapolis, was killed Saturday when his car crashed into an underpass on an exit highway at the Twin Cities International Airport.

Charles W. Nelson, 22, Maplewood, died Saturday of injuries suffered when his car hit a bridge in Roseville, another St. Paul suburb, Jan. 5.

Howard Whitaker, 49, St. Paul, died in a hospital there Saturday night. He was injured Friday night when he was struck by a car.

Hint Dropped Car Price Cut Is Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's chief economic adviser, Walter W. Heller, dropped a broad hint today that the automobile industry was making enough money to warrant a reduction in car prices.

In the Council of Economic Advisers' report to the President, Chairman Heller said industries which have an unusually high rate of productivity could afford to pass along some of the financial benefits to consumers.

Asked specifically if this referred to the automobile industry, he said, "The automobile industry could well be one of those."

near Kingsville, Texas, were John A. Thatcher, 67, Duluth, and his wife. The accident occurred when the Thatcher car blew a tire.

David Gene Parriott, 24, Rochester, Minn., was killed Sunday when his car plunged into the Illinois sanitary and ship canal at Joliet, Ill. Police said Parriott apparently undertook to cross the canal, unaware that the bridge was raised.

Native of Cochrane Reports on Ghana

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — In Ghana, Africa, 35 percent of the seven million people are Christians, most of the others are Mohammedans and there are some pagans, but all believe in an overall creator, Mrs. W. J. Hazel told United Presbyterian Church Women here.

Mrs. Hazel, a native of Cochrane, Wis., and a former Galesville high school economics instructor, discussed Ghana and showed pictures of the country. She was on leave of absence from her missionary teaching post there to see her two daughters get settled to college life in the United States.

SHE SAID Ghana gained independence March 6, 1957. The country, the size of Minnesota but with seven million people, wanted freedom from colonial rule and a chance to rise or fall by making and correcting its own mistakes. Most men in control of the democratic government are English educated.

Ghana was the first in Africa to gain independence, she said. It is the second wealthiest per capita, although it is poor by American standards. The Ghanaians are the best educated people of Africa. Presbyterian missionaries from Scotland were the first to come to the country.

There are no jungles in Ghana, she reported. Students go to zoos to see elephants, tigers and lions. There are snakes and a few wild deer.

DURING HER talk Mrs. Hazel selected three people from the audience and had them model African clothing. The old-fashioned idea of barefooted, half-naked natives is not true there, she pointed out.

These people form true friendships with all people. The things they do come from the heart, not from a sense of duty, she said.

Mrs. Hazel showed slides of Accra and Ho, two of the seven regions of the country. Ho reminded her of the bluff country along the Mississippi River.

In school some of the cooking classes do pit cooking similar to barbecues in the states. Sewing classes use treadle and electric sewing machines.

All upper classes of people are well educated, Mrs. Hazel said. There are some poor people who live in mud huts and their living conditions would be as bad as our slum areas.

AMONG HER slides were pictures of the Volta River dam and the lake behind it. A bauxite smelter is near the lake. She showed a slide of the American service station in the country.

The black star is the symbol of Ghana. The country has libraries, hospitals and a state laundry for commercial washing. The mission schools have been taken over by the government, but the policies of the schools haven't changed, she added.

Another Barn Burns at Taylor

TAYLOR, Wis. (Special) — Taylor had its second major fire within 12 days Sunday when a barn was destroyed on the Richard Gearing farm about seven miles northeast of here in Curran Valley.

No estimate of damage was available. The loss was partly covered by insurance. Gearing farms with his father, Roland, and his brother, Kent, who live about a half-mile from his place. The milk

Destroyed with the 50- by 50-foot, two-story structure were 1,000 bales of straw and 3,500 bales of hay. The barn had been used for young stock which came and went as they pleased. They weren't in the barn at the time.

Mild Week Forecast; Snow May Disappear

Despite the sleet and snow which fell Sunday evening, icy highways and walks, continued mild weather is forecast for most of the week in Winona and vicinity.

Occasional cloudiness tonight and Tuesday is predicted with warmer weather tonight and slightly cooler Tuesday. A low of 18-25 is predicted for tonight and a high of 30-35 for Tuesday. Temperatures are slated to continue above normal Wednesday with no significant precipitation.

EVEN THE five-day forecast predicted continued mild conditions with the daily temperature averaging 10-15 degrees above seasonal normals. A colder turn is expected late in the week. Normal daytime highs this time of the year are 19-25 and nighttime lows 2 below to 6 above in the south.

Precipitation for the five days is expected to average little or none.

The Winona temperature rose to 42 Saturday afternoon and 36 on Sunday. Low Sunday morning was 20 and this morning 21. At noon today the reading was 33.

The sleet and snow measured less than one inch but made driving miserable. Highways became icy around 6 to 7 p.m. and several vehicles were stalled on Stockton and other area hills until sanding crews could go into operation.

WINONANS returning from the north on Highway 61 reported the road clear as far as Kellogg when the first snow appeared. From there, southward the highway was snow-covered and slippery. The snow extended below La Crosse and both west and east for some distance. West of Rochester on Highway 14 more than half a foot of snow fell.

The Minnesota and Wisconsin highway departments reported roads in the northern part of both states in good winter driving condition. Roads in the southern portions of the state and the southern half of Wisconsin were slippery, demanding drivers proceed with caution.

Cold weather returned to some sections of the state today with Benidji reporting a morning low of 4. It was 8 above at International Falls and 9 at St. Cloud.

Rochester had a low of 18 after a Sunday high of 35 and La Crosse posted figures of 25 and 36 for the same times.

Winter came back to parts of WISCONSIN in the form of light snow early today, but the January thaw resumed a few hours later.

Temperatures today pushed toward the 30s and skies were sunny.

Most of the snow was confined to the southern and southeastern parts of the state, with about an inch reported at Milwaukee.

Mild weekend temperatures were topped by the 45-degree Sunday at Milwaukee, Beloit and Burlington. Racine reported 43, Madison 40, Lone Rock 38, La Crosse and Superior 36, Park Falls 35, Green Bay, Wausau and Eau Claire 34.

MINIMUMS early today ranged from 13 at Superior to 33 at Milwaukee and Beloit. Eau Claire had 15, Park Falls 18, Wausau and La Crosse 21, Lone Rock 27, Green Bay and Madison.

Mild weather is predicted to continue through Wednesday. Benidji and Hibbing, Minn., set the national low of 1 below early today, compared with 85 Sunday at Laredo, Tex.

Wabasha County YDFL Organized

WABASHA, Minn. (Special)—Temporary officers were elected by the Wabasha County Young Democratic - Farmer - Labor organization at its first meeting here Saturday night. Larry Schulz, Plainview, chairman of the YDFL at St. Cloud State College, assisted.

Francis Hall was chosen chairman and Alice Goetz, secretary-treasurer. Both are of Plainview.

Chosen as a temporary advisory committee until permanent officers are elected Feb. 1 at Millville were: Hall, Plainview; Miss Phoebe Yaeger, Wabasha, student at the College of Saint Teresa, Winona; Miss Joan McMillan, Kellogg, and John Henning, Lake City. Twenty young people attended.

Schulz discussed the state YDFL Federation, organized in 1962. Comprised of 20 groups in colleges and counties, it includes young people 16-25. Purpose is to educate and interest them in the party.

Burglars Get Over $1,500 At Preston

PRESTON, Minn. (Special)—For the second time in 4½ years, the Gartner Supermarket here has lost a substantial amount to burglars.

Between 1 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. today, when Joe Kingsley, store employee, came to work, between $1,200 and $1,500 in currency was taken from the safe.

SEVERAL THOUSAND dollars in checks were scattered over the floor. The burglars didn't take the silver but may have taken some of the rolls of coins, according to Leo and Howard Gartner, brothers who operate the supermarket.

The lock on the front door had been pried off, and a sledge hammer and wrecking bar were used to pry the safe open. The red painted tools, trimmed in aluminum, were left on the premises. It appeared they might have been from a fire department.

The burglars left by the back door, where there is an alley. The sheriff's department believes at least two people were involved in the break-in. No merchandise was taken.

Howard Gartner, who had been on a fishing trip to Winona Sunday, entered the store about 1 a.m. today to put his fishing equipment away and check the refrigerator. There was no sign of the burglary then.

The fluorescent lights were left on in the front of the store as usual. The burglars turned them off.

FILLMORE COUNTY Sheriff Neil Haugerud is taking fingerprints from the tools and doors and expects after his preliminary investigations to get in touch with the state Bureau of Criminal Apprehension.

About $1,400 was taken in a burglary in July 1959.

Housing Code To Be Discussed

Proposed adoption of a new city housing code will be a central item of business at tonight's meeting of the City Council at City Hall.

The code was first read, and minor changes were made, two weeks ago at an early meeting of the aldermen. In all but a few details, it was informally approved at that meeting.

Passage is considered essential by proponents because of its importance in the downtown renewal picture. Federal government regulations require the city to have a comprehensive housing code to qualify for issuance of a Certificate of Workable Plan for Community Improvement.

The Workable Plan certificate must be granted so the city can become eligible for federal grants for downtown renewal and additional public housing projects.

District DFL chairman, discussed what a liberal party is and the necessity for participation for the effectiveness of the party and for the politician.

Eustis also discussed the accomplishments of Sens. Eugene McCarthy and Hubert Humphrey and Attorney General Walter F. Mondale.

Others attending were Margaret Thompson, Rochester, state executive board member at large; Rep. Thomas Miller, Kellogg, who will talk at the Millville meeting; Miss Mary Flatlie, St. Olaf College, state federation secretary; Miss Marilyn Wilmes, chairman of the St. Mary's and Saint Teresa organization, Winona; Paul Flies, Wabasha County DFL chairman, and Donald Tantis, county secretary.

Alma Man Ruled To Have Broken Auction Contract

ALMA, Wis. (Special)—In Buffalo County Court Friday afternoon, Judge Gary Schlostein found that William Brunkow, rural Alma, defendant, had broken a contract with Chippewa Valley Finance Co., Chippewa Falls, and awarded the plaintiff $270.

Brunkow had signed a contract with the Chippewa Falls company to conduct an auction sale. The contract stated that Brunkow could have the auctioneer of his choice.

He requested Francis Werlein, Mondovi, who was not available because Werlein said he worked only for Northern Investment. According to testimony, Brunkow then shifted the sale to Northern Investment and Werlein conducted the sale.

The award represented 2 percent of the sale receipts, the amount ordinarily charged by the auctioneer, the rest of the usual 7 percent representing costs of advertising, preparing for and putting on the sale.

Roger Hartman, Alma, was attorney for the finance company and LaVern G. Kostner, Arcadia, for Brunkow.

Pepin Church Used 1st Time

PEPIN, Wis. (Special)—About 350 attended the first service in the new Immanuel Lutheran Church here Sunday. Construction of the church started in 1960.

The Rev. Philip Kurtz installed the following officers: Raymond Marks, president; Gerald Skelton, financial secretary; Leonard Olson, Rene Sass, and Charles Serene, deacons, and Paul Brantner, Howard Brentholt and Wesley Miller, trustees.

Certificates of recognition were presented to Mrs. Esther Miner treasurer of the Sunday school; Miss Fern Marks, secretary to the treasurer; Clarence Hileatt, trustee; Vernon Hince, deacon, and Lynn Barber, financial secretary.

The dedicating of the new building will be sometime this spring when the church will celebrate its 75th anniversary.

College Singers Take 1st at Show

A folk singing group from Winona State College captured first prize in the talent contest held during the Winter Carnival stage show Sunday night.

The winning group was the Blue Water Four. They will appear on Ernie Reck's television show over Channel 13 at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Parade Incident Costs Him $10

Bernard L. Winestorfer, 61, 462 Sioux St., paid a $10 fine in municipal court this morning after pleading guilty to a charge of failure to comply with a lawful order.

Winestorfer was arrested at 2:45 p.m. Saturday at 3rd and Johnson streets after he disregarded a policeman's signal and drove across the Main and 3rd streets intersection while the Winter Carnival parade was in progress.

He told the court that he did not see the policeman, and crossed the street because the traffic light was in his favor.

The court imposed the usual $25 fine, but suspended $15 of it because of what it termed extenuating circumstances.

Charges against two men of driving without valid drivers licenses in their possession were dismissed this morning because the two produced their licenses within 48 hours of their arrests. State statutes now provide that the charges automatically be dismissed if the person arrested can produce his license within 48 hours.

The cases dismissed this morning involved Richard M. Butler, 21 670 Mankato Ave., and Raymond B. Martin, 33, 1050 E. 3rd St. Butler was arrested at 10:40 a.m. Sunday on Trunk Highway 14-61. Martin was arrested at 12:05 p.m. Saturday at Wall and Wabasha streets.

$125,000 Case Slated for Jury

The trial of a $125,000 personal injury suit was scheduled to begin before a jury in District Court here this afternoon.

The action is brought by Harold Page, Adams, Wis., agent against the Chicago & North Western Railway for injuries Page allegedly suffered while working for the railroad at Madison, Wis., July 30, 1962.

This was to be the first jury case called for trial at the winter term of court. Judge Leo F. Murphy is presiding.

Two Plainview Places Entered

WABASHA, Minn. (Special)—Two breakins at Plainview early Sunday are being investigated by Wabasha County Sheriff Ed Lager and Deputy Officer Krohn.

At Riverside Elevator, owned by the J. G. Dill Co. of Wabasha, $300 in cash and checks were taken from the safe. The break-in was reported Sunday by Manager Marvin Peterson.

At Plainview Produce Co., where the rear door was pried open, apparently nothing was taken, according to Manager Gerald Danielson.

City Allocated Money for Mankato Job

State maintenance and construction aids for city streets, allotted to Winona for 1964, will total $119,415.

The money represents the city's share of state collected road user funds allocated for use in fiscal 1964. The gross amount is made up of $22,845 in maintenance funds and $96,570 in construction funds. Total amount to be divided among 77 municipalities of 5,000 population and above is $10,967,128.

Last year state maintenance and construction aids for street purposes totaled $101,159. These were devoted to the 9-block Broadway widening project from Sioux to Vila Street. The funds almost exactly met the total cost of the widening project and a sealcoat from Mankato Avenue to Sioux Street. Total expense was $101,360.

Aids are up this year because of a one-cent increase in the state gasoline tax imposed by the 1963 legislature. The tax was raised 20 percent, from 5 to 6 cents per gallon.

State aid funds this year will be allocated entirely to the 9-block Mankato Avenue widening project now in the planning stage. Plans and specifications for the project were ordered two weeks ago by the City Council. City Engineer James Baird said today that a firm estimate of costs for the Mankato Avenue job is not yet available.

Parents of Ninth Graders Invited To Guidance Meet

Parents of ninth grade students at St. Martin's, St. Matthews and Central Junior High schools have been invited to attend a program arranged by the public school guidance department Tuesday evening at Central Junior High School auditorium.

Ernest Buhler, counselor at Central, said that the program is designed to give information on the Senior High School curriculum, testing program and scholarship opportunities. Briefing of parents on the high school program is done in anticipation of their children's enrollment next fall at Senior High.

Consultants at Tuesday's program will be Lewis Schoening and Miss Pauline Utzinger of the Senior High School guidance department; Robert Smith, principal of Senior and Central Junior High schools, and Thomas Raine, director of the Winona Area Vocational - Technical School.

Coffee will be served at the Senior High School cafeteria after the program. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Buhler said that parents will have the opportunity to arrange individual conferences to discuss their children's high school program and future plans on a more personal basis.

Mother's March Planned Sunday

The Mothers' March for the March of Dimes will be held, Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m., according to Clyde Myers, 626 E. Bellevue St., Winona and Goodview chairman.

He has named these area chairmen: 1st Ward, Mrs. Ervin Laufenburger; 2nd, Mrs. Clarence Smith; 3rd, Mrs. Robert Sawyer; 4th, Mrs. Robert Pollock; Glen Mary and Glen Echo, Mrs. James Robb Jr.; Glen View, Mrs. Thomas Lindquist; Wincrest, Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins and Mrs. Albert Miller; Goodview, Mrs. Donald Morgan, and business, Mrs. Charles Kubicek Jr.

Block workers are needed, said Myers.

Workers are to make returns to their ward chairmen as soon as possible. Chairmen may deliver them to N. W. Schellhas at Merchants National Bank from 6 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Man Hospitalized After Collision At Bluff Siding

BLUFF SIDING, Wis.—A 20-year-old Waumandee man is a patient at Community Memorial Hospital, Winona, as the result of a collision a quarter-mile east of the Heuer & Johnson apple barn here Sunday at 2:30 a.m.

Kenneth Salwey, employee of H & F Roettiger, Inc., Fountain City, lumbermen and contractors, has extensive facial cuts and lost considerable blood, according to Henry Zeichert, Buffalo City, county traffic officer. Salwey also lost some teeth.

The other driver Philip Uhl, 35, Galesville, has a broken nose.

Salwey was proceeding west in a 1959 car and Uhl was driving east on his way home from the Winona Winter Carnival, he told Zeichert.

The officer said he is continuing investigation to see who was in the wrong lane of traffic. The impact threw both Salwey's and Uhl's 1955 car into the ditch south of Highway 35 toward the North Western Railway tracks.

They landed about 100 feet from the point of impact. Zeichert said, and were about 100 feet apart. Salwey's car was facing south toward the river and Uhl's stood with one end over the bank with the back toward the bluff side of the highway. Zeichert said. Both vehicles were completely wrecked.

Neither driver was pinned or thrown.

Zeichert said he will question Salwey later. Kenneth lives with his father, Willard Salwey, Waumandee.

NSP Employees To Be Honored

Among Northern States Power Co. employees to earn recognition tonight in Minneapolis for public service are Gale G. Hunn, Winona, and Howard H. Holmgren, Wabasha.

Hunn, 852 Gilmore Ave., is a technical aide in the Winona division engineering department. Holmgren, attached to the Red Wing division, is a utility service man in the operating department.

The award dinner, honoring 15 employees from the company's 14 divisions, will be at Leamington Hotel, Minneapolis, tonight. Each will receive a "Citizen of the Year" certificate and a share of NSP stock.

HUNN, who has been with the Winona division since 1946, has been active in Red Cross, Community Chest, Scouting and junior baseball. He is a county chairman of first aid for the Red Cross and has organized classes throughout the city and county. He also is a Red Cross director and has served as co-ordinator of Red Cross and Civil Defense activities.

He was captain of the utilities section of Community Chest solicitations last year, coached a park-recreation baseball team and served as a counsellor for Boy Scout merit badge candidates in first aid.

HOLMGREN is president of Education for District 811 and has been active in Boy Scouts, church work and Chamber of Commerce projects.

'Come Late, Leave Early'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Groucho Marx invited some Hollywood friends to dinner at his home. Then — after declining to give them his address — he told them: "I don't care how late you get there as long as you go home early."

Jane Fonda did a nude scene for Roger Vadim's Paris movie, "La Ronde." She's 26; it was her first nude scene (that's pretty old for that nowadays). In the original version of the film, Danielle Darrieux wears a nightgown, which was considered pretty daring. Producers told Jane, however, that "the French cinema has now greatly minimized the importance of nightgowns."

A famous athlete was pointed out to some girls at Lindy's by Comedian Marty Allen. "He's handsome!" squealed one girl. "I thought he was short, fat and bald," Marty replied. "That's his wife."

BURL IVES sliced off 55 pounds on the rice diet at Duke and is determined to take off 45 more. Zsa Zsa Gabor, at John Mills' cocktail party at 21, said that one ex-husband always called her "Georgia Gabor" instead of "Zsa Zsa."

She added: "Who was I to correct him?" Her sister Magda, looking lovely after her illness, is out again. Sexpot Elke Sommer's "The Prize" goes into the Music Hall this week; it's outgunning Liz Taylor's "The V.I.P.s."

Liz Taylor's chums say the big holdup in the divorce is that Eddie Fisher wants the cash instead of stock in the "Cleopatra" rights. Atty. Louis Nizer persuaded Eddie to say "no comment" even to such insinuations. Sammy Davis insisted on appearing for a Fight-for-Sight benefit at Carnegie Hall, and maintained he would leave the Latin Casino at Camden, N.J., after 10:30 p.m. to fly to NY to do the special show for a good cause.

"Vis-a-graphic spelling," invented by P. K. Thomajan, includes words like these: "dreadline... applause... depilate... petwrid... pashonova... almoany... snuburbia... bon joyage" and, for Cadillac, "Fadillac."

RODDY McDOWALL found that scandal-tinged stars get box office preference (for example, his friends, Liz Taylor and Richard Burton). So when a Hollywood columnist chided him for a dull life, he whispered, "I never mentioned this before, but 35 years ago I had quite a thing with Theda Bara. We had a love child who grew up to be Jerry Lewis."

Preview crowds leaving Arthur Miller's new play "After the Fall" are vociferous in insisting that "Maggie," played by Barbara Loden, is strikingly reminiscent of Marilyn Monroe though Miller maintains it isn't autobiographical. The self-destruction theme, the father who deserts her, the strong language of the Sex Symbol star who's under analysis, will make Miller the most discussed playwright of the season. I forecast that the critical appraisal will be TREMENDOUS.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A local fellow boasts he's taken the first step toward giving up cigarettes — he's quit buying them. Next step is to quit borrowing 'em.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Into each life a little rain must fall — but any frozen New Yorker can tell you that it's better than snow.

REMEMBERED Q U O T E: "Often the difference between a successful marriage and a mediocre one is three or four things a day left unsaid." — Harlan Miller.

EARL'S PEARLS: Joe Silver reports his toaster is so old, the toast comes out gray. Allen & Rossi added this to their act: "Hello, dere" "Sen. Goldwater, what should we do about Panama?" "Send them all our cigarettes." That's earl, brother.

Foreign Aid Far Too Big, Solon Thinks

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—"If you drop a needle in the bathtub, you can find it," says Rep. Otto Passman, D-La. "But if you dropped it in the Potomac you'd never find it."

This is Passman's reaction to various administration proposals to give the foreign aid program a new look. One idea is to absorb the present aid organization into other agencies of the State Department. Another is to separate the military assistance and the economic aid components of the controversial program.

Passman heads the House Appropriations subcommittee that handles the foreign aid money bill. He thinks the program is far too big and he more than anyone else was responsible for slashing it down to $3 billion this year—$1.5 billion less than President John F. Kennedy had asked for.

Nevertheless, Passman is dead set against any change in the program's setup, as are many other key congressmen and senators who have the most to say about foreign aid.

"If it is fragmented you will never be able to find the total cost," said Passman in an interview. "I'm for keeping foreign aid in one package where the American people can see it. I will oppose any plan to break it up."

Under President Johnson's orders, a blue ribbon panel of administration officials has been conducting a reappraisal of the foreign aid program. Their aim is to change it into something more acceptable to Congress.

David E. Bell, administrator of the semi-autonomous Agency for International Development, reportedly has opposed breaking it up.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, who heads the committee reviewing the program, is said to favor absorbing the aid function into other parts of the State Department.

Sister M. Bernetta, chairman of the English department at the College of Saint Teresa, is the author of an article, "A New Approach to Early American Literature" in the January issue of "College English."

Sister Bernetta's article suggests that a course be planned on the college level which will relate American letters and painting. She writes that this teaching approach will cause the traditional subject matter to be reconsidered in a fresh light. The article assumes that such a course would be ideal for the beginning of American studies at the college level.

The Teresian faculty member's publications include "The Metamorphic Tradition in Modern Poetry" and articles on Stevens, Auden, Tate, Pound and other American authors.

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

THE papers are full of good natured jesting accounts of the thousands of people who are struggling to give up smoking. The smokers may joke about it but it's really not funny, for actually they are in misery. Not only is there a physical craving for cigarettes brought on by long use and established habit but there is a mental torment brought on by a number of factors.

One factor is the pang one always has in giving up a deep-seated habit associated with pleasant relaxation. But even worse is the way one makes all these good resolutions, then breaks them and feels guilty and no-account. A person makes up far-fetched excuses as to why it would be all right to have just one cigarette, he puffs it and then feels like a weak-willed heel. I know, because I went through it some 20 years ago.

I think the best way to stop is to cut off clean all of a sudden, rather than try to taper off. I used to give up smoking every Lent, with much backsliding and misery, and I also tried to taper off. Then one day some 20 years ago in a consultation room at the Mayo Clinic a doctor took away the cigarette I was smoking and said, "That's the last cigarette you'll ever smoke in your whole life."

It was. And there were a few days of acute torment. Later on the very rare occasions when I lighted a cigarette just to see how it tasted it seemed so loathsome that I stubbed it out quickly and couldn't see how

I could ever have stood so vile a flavor. For about a month after being so drastically cut off I chewed gum like crazy, and then that got boring and I stopped.

One hears many ideas that are supposed to help one stop smoking. I know of one that really broke four people in my own family and also several of their friends of the habit. You buy a certain kind of fine-cut chewing tobacco, pinch off a tiny piece and keep it tucked between your upper lip and gum. The flavor of it and the feeling of having it there seem to satisfy some need and do the trick after a while. You just naturally quit the tobacco habit after a while.

My Indiana son and his wife and several of their friends wanted to give up smoking but weren't having much luck, so they decided to try this method which has worked with some Winona people. But they couldn't buy this particular kind of chewing tobacco in Indiana. So every week or two I would march into a local pool hall and ask for a carton of this tobacco. The proprietor would blink and say, "Did you say a CARTON of X chewing tobacco?"

"Yes, please," I'd say pleasantly. Baffled he'd hand me the carton and look after me as I left. I would then ship it to my son. Last week came word that they've all finally broken the habit and I could stop sending this chewing tobacco.

One thing that seems calamitous is that some people are switching to cigars. Maybe it's purely personal because the smell of cigar smoke has always made me acutely sick. I have to ask any cigar-smoking guest if he'd please mind not smoking it while he's in my house. It's embarrassing, but there's just nothing I can do about this nausea and headache that cigar smoke brings on.

But even if the smell didn't make me sick, I still think the sight of anyone chomping on a big black cigar is both ugly and awkward. I've seen only one woman smoking a cigar, and to me it seemed most unladylike, coarse and smart-alecky. It will be interesting to watch the stepped-up advertising campaigns of the cigar manufacturers.

Leonard described the Thompson youngsters as "wonderful kids."

"These children have already been the object of a great deal of public attention," the lawyer said. "They deserve a chance for normal lives."

Wallace Thompson said the Gesches "only want what is best for the children."

"We have reached an agreement and we all hope that this will be the end of it," he said. "We all want to see the children now enjoy quiet, normal lives."

Clearly, he stands out as the strongest GOP contender with the total electorate.

However, Nixon still is running 59-41% behind Mr. Johnson today, and this is a wide lead indeed for the Democrats. To close the gap, the former Vice President would have to find issues on which he could build support well before next summer.

A run-down of all key issues, on which people were asked to say which man, Lyndon Johnson or Richard Nixon, would do a better job, the size of the task which would face candidate Nixon is immediately apparent:

Would Do A Better Job
Nixon Johnson
Percent Percent

Keep spending in check 50 56
Handle Castro and Cuba 47 53
Handle Khrushchev 45 55
Handle extremists at home 41 59
Give leadership to allies 41 59
Work for peace 39 61
Keep country prosperous 39 61
Keep U. S. military strong 38 62
Move country ahead 37 63
Handle civil rights 36 64
Handle farm problems 36 64

The key to analyzing these issues is to examine those on which Mr. Johnson runs over and under the 50% mark; he polls generally among the electorate.

In the case of Cuba and dealing with Khrushchev, both foreign policy issues, Nixon appears to have a potential of doing quite well. The other Nixon issue is that of spending, an area in which Democrats have been vulnerable for some time, but which has commanded a major share of President Johnson's attention.

On a whole range of domestic issues, however, Nixon does not do well today.

In 1960, Richard Nixon ran a late campaign — but from the position of an incumbent. In 1964, he would be running as the challenger. His dilemma is that it may already be none too soon to strengthen any soft spots in his appeal to American voters.

Thompson Custody Case Is Settled

ST. PAUL (AP) — The four children of convicted murderer T. Eugene Thompson are together again, reunited by an out-of-court agreement among the relatives who had sought custody.

Under the settlement disclosed Saturday night, the children will live at home and will be under the joint guardianship of their maternal grandparents and their father's sister and brother-in-law.

The agreement canceled a custody hearing which had been scheduled for this morning at Blue Earth, Minn.

Thompson, 36, a St. Paul lawyer, was convicted Dec. 6 in the slaying of his wife, Carol, 34. He was sentenced to life imprisonment and sent to Stillwater Prison.

Subsequently the dispute developed over custody of the children. Involved were Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Swoboda of St. Paul, and Thompson's sister, Mrs. Freeman Gesche, and her husband, of Elmore, Minn., in Faribault County.

On Jan. 6 the Faribault County probate judge, John Wasgatt, appointed the Gesches as guardians of the Thompson girls — Patricia, 12, Margaret, 10, and Amy, 6. The action came on a petition signed by Thompson. The Gesche took the girls to their home. Thompson's son, Jeffrey, 14, attends a military academy here and was not taken to Elmore.

On Jan. 7, the Swobodas were appointed special guardians by Andrew H. Glenn, judge of Ramsey County Probate Court here. That order enabled the Swobodas to ask that the Faribault County order be set aside on grounds the children were not residents of that county.

This was the matter that would have been argued at the hearing today, if the out-of-court settlement had not been reached.

The girls returned home late Saturday and a spokesman for the family said they were "happy to be back."

Under the agreement, the children will be under the physical care of a housekeeper and the Gesches and Swobodas will have free visiting access to the children.

The settlement was announced by the Gesches' lawyer, Wallace A. Thompson of Blue Earth, a brother of Mrs. Gesche and Eugene Thompson, and by Richard J. Leonard, St. Paul lawyer representing the Swobodas.

The attorneys said the Gesches and Swobodas have deep respect for one another and the agreement was reached in a friendly, amicable manner. No further legal action was planned by either side, the lawyers added.

Leonard described the Thompson youngsters as "wonderful kids."

"These children have already been the object of a great deal of public attention," the lawyer said. "They deserve a chance for normal lives."

Wallace Thompson said the Gesches "only want what is best for the children."

"We have reached an agreement and we all hope that this will be the end of it," he said. "We all want to see the children now enjoy quiet, normal lives."

Clearly, he stands out as the

HARRIS SURVEY

GOP Likes Nixon Best

By LOUIS HARRIS

Of all the names in contention for the Republican nomination for President, that of Richard M. Nixon consistently receives more support from rank-and-file Republicans than any other.

The former vice president has broadly hinted at his availability, including a statement that he would "sacrifice" for his party in 1964.

Today, Nixon is the only Republican who is capable of keeping President Johnson's current lead over a Republican opponent below the 60% mark. In the foreign policy area, where the new President has yet to prove himself to the American people, Richard Nixon shows some promise of appeal as the prospective Republican nominee.

Nation-wide among GOP voters, in a three-cornered race against Rockefeller and Goldwater, Nixon now holds a decisive lead:

National GOP primary:
GOP Voters
1st choice would not vote for percent percent

Nixon 43 10
Goldwater 23 19
Rockefeller 22 22
Not sure 12 49

The deepening schism is Republican ranks is evident by the fact that roughly four in every 10 GOP voters feel that either Rockefeller or Goldwater is now unacceptable to them.

These results also highlight a tough decision now facing Nixon. If he were to enter, and run as well in the primary in New Hampshire against Goldwater and Rockefeller as he does in this nation-wide testing, Nixon would probably find himself in a dominant position for the Republican nomination.

In our first New Hampshire sampling back in November, Nixon did run ahead of the other declared candidates among Republicans. But once Nixon casts the dice and enters primaries, he faces the risk of all front-runners: How to avoid the state where he might come a cropper.

Nixon's decision on whether to enter the primaries could also affect the kind of run he might ultimately make in the fall, if nominated.

Against President Johnson, Nixon today is the only Republican to score over 40% of the vote:

Republicans vs. Johnson
Total Voters
Percent

Nixon 41
Romney 34
Goldwater 33
Scranton 32
Rockefeller 29

In direct pairing against President Johnson, with the undecided vote allocated, Nixon runs eight percentage points stronger than Goldwater and 12 points ahead of Rockefeller.

Clearly, he stands out as the strongest GOP contender with the total electorate.

However, Nixon still is running 59-41% behind Mr. Johnson today, and this is a wide lead indeed for the Democrats. To close the gap, the former Vice President would have to find issues on which he could build support well before next summer.

The key to analyzing these issues is to examine those on which Mr. Johnson runs over and under the 50% mark; he polls generally among the electorate.

In the case of Cuba and dealing with Khrushchev, both foreign policy issues, Nixon appears to have a potential of doing quite well. The other Nixon issue is that of spending, an area in which Democrats have been vulnerable for some time, but which has commanded a major share of President Johnson's attention.

On a whole range of domestic issues, however, Nixon does not do well today.

In 1960, Richard Nixon ran a late campaign — but from the position of an incumbent. In 1964, he would be running as the challenger. His dilemma is that it may already be none too soon to strengthen any soft spots in his appeal to American voters.

Clearly, he stands out as the strongest GOP contender with the total electorate.

However, Nixon still is running 59-41% behind Mr. Johnson today, and this is a wide lead indeed for the Democrats. To close the gap, the former Vice President would have to find issues on which he could build support well before next summer.

A run-down of all key issues, on which people were asked to say which man, Lyndon Johnson or Richard Nixon, would do a better job, the size of the task which would face candidate Nixon is immediately apparent:

HARRIS SURVEY

GOP Likes Nixon Best

By LOUIS HARRIS

Of all the names in contention for the Republican nomination for President, that of Richard M. Nixon consistently receives more support from rank-and-file Republicans than any other.

The former vice president has broadly hinted at his availability, including a statement that he would "sacrifice" for his party in 1964.

Today, Nixon is the only Republican who is capable of keeping President Johnson's current lead over a Republican opponent below the 60% mark. In the foreign policy area, where the new President has yet to prove himself to the American people, Richard Nixon shows some promise of appeal as the prospective Republican nominee.

Nation-wide among GOP voters, in a three-cornered race against Rockefeller and Goldwater, Nixon now holds a decisive lead:

National GOP primary:
GOP Voters
1st choice would not vote for percent percent

Nixon 43 10
Goldwater 23 19
Rockefeller 22 22
Not sure 12 49

The deepening schism is Republican ranks is evident by the fact that roughly four in every 10 GOP voters feel that either Rockefeller or Goldwater is now unacceptable to them.

These results also highlight a tough decision now facing Nixon. If he were to enter, and run as well in the primary in New Hampshire against Goldwater and Rockefeller as he does in this nation-wide testing, Nixon would probably find himself in a dominant position for the Republican nomination.

In our first New Hampshire sampling back in November, Nixon did run ahead of the other declared candidates among Republicans. But once Nixon casts the dice and enters primaries, he faces the risk of all front-runners: How to avoid the state where he might come a cropper.

Nixon's decision on whether to enter the primaries could also affect the kind of run he might ultimately make in the fall, if nominated.

Against President Johnson, Nixon today is the only Republican to score over 40% of the vote:

Republicans vs. Johnson
Total Voters
Percent

Nixon 41
Romney 34
Goldwater 33
Scranton 32
Rockefeller 29

In direct pairing against President Johnson, with the undecided vote allocated, Nixon runs eight percentage points stronger than Goldwater and 12 points ahead of Rockefeller.

Clearly, he stands out as the strongest GOP contender with the total electorate.

However, Nixon still is running 59-41% behind Mr. Johnson today, and this is a wide lead indeed for the Democrats. To close the gap, the former Vice President would have to find issues on which he could build support well before next summer.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Don't Study
By HalvesBy LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
U. of Southern California

The semester system, in many ways, is a millstone around the neck of education. Established when we were primarily a rural society needing the students' help with summer harvest, it has long since become outmoded.

Students are no longer needed for farm work and for two summer months are thrown into the labor market. A large majority remains unemployed.

The quarter system would satisfy more closely our present day living. Under the quarter system, with each school period lasting 12 weeks, time off for work or recreation could be staggered throughout the year.

REGULAR PROGRAMS, alternating work and school for high school and college students could be greatly increased. In addition to taking pressure off school building programs, more youths could EARN their education.

For example, programs such as that at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio:

Since the introduction to a full 12-month operation, Antioch, for all practical purposes, has become two small colleges using one campus, one set of buildings and one faculty.

The study-plus-work program and the year-round operation enables Antioch to split its student body into two groups. During the quarter when one group is studying, the other is working at jobs secured by the college in more than 30 states and about 15 foreign countries. At planned intervals the two groups switch places.

THE FOUR-QUARTER calendar does not shorten the Antioch program. Basically a five-year plan, about 20 percent of Antioch students make it in four years.

The University of California has announced its campuses will one by one, change to the quarter system.

The tremendous tasks of adjusting courses of study, catalogue, student admissions and degree requirements are already under study.

Change to the quarter system in high schools and junior colleges would have educational advantages in addition to the freer flow of students into the university.

OUR SYSTEM of National holidays, centered as it is about Christmas-New Year, and the Easter seasons, interrupt the school semester just at the wrong times.

Christmas vacation interrupts the learning of a subject. It takes a few days after returning to school in January for a student to get back into the swing of learning.

Just when instructors are presenting materials rapidly the student is not at his best to absorb it. Reviews and final examinations for the semester come all too quickly.

Under the quarter system final examinations would be completed just before the vacation. The student could go home for the holidays free to relax and enjoy them.

New Panel
Urged in Voting Rows

ST. PAUL (AP) A legislative interim commission studying Minnesota election laws recommended late Friday that all statewide election contests be settled by a three-member panel of district judges.

The winner of the 1962 gubernatorial recount, Gov. Karl Rolvaag, was determined by such a panel. There was no precedent for the procedure, but it was agreed to by Rolvaag and former Gov. Elmer L. Andersen.

The recommendation was one of a number submitted by the public members of the study group on election laws, and approved.

Among the non-legislative members are Clayton Nelson, New Prague, and J. Neil Morton, St. Paul, attorneys for Rolvaag and Andersen, respectively in the long recount battle.

Other recommendations urged by the public members and approved by the commission were:

Amendment of the election laws to require inspection of ballots and returns of any precinct could be made only on order of a district judge, to eliminate pressure on county canvassing boards.

Fixing the site of a statewide election contest in Ramsey County, and making the venue of legislative contests the county of residence of the contestee.

The commission deferred action on two recommendations from the public members. One would have changed the law to provide that expense of a guard over ballots should be borne by the county involved. The other proposes all absentee ballots be mailed to the county auditor and that they be in his hands the day prior to election.

Are you driving
to poor health?

Remember when youngsters walked to school, ran errands, and got the exercise they needed? If parents insisted on more walking—and less riding—our youngsters would benefit. The automobile, however, is only one factor that deprives them of activity. Television is another. The average high school student now spends 15 to 30 inactive hours a week watching it. These are some of the reasons why all schools should have a daily period of planned, supervised, vigorous activity for all boys and girls. And out of it our school gives sufficient time to your child's physical development. For information about a program that many schools have adopted, write for the free booklet offered by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

What's Reason for Voter Apathy?

IT HAS LONG been said that the fact that millions of eligible citizens fail to vote in our elections, all the way from the local to the federal level, constitutes a "national disgrace." And the common reason given for this failure is voter apathy.

That, no doubt, is an important element. But there is another facet to the problem as well. Alfred Balk deals with it in an article in the January issue of a national magazine. He finds that outmoded registration and election laws are to blame for keeping millions of eligible voters from the polls.

To quote him directly, "In 1960, it is estimated, at least 20 million Americans — half of all those of voting age who did not vote — were disfranchised in this manner."

"They included persons who were ill, confined to nursing homes or other institutions, were traveling on business or vacation, or were victims of racial discrimination. But the largest groups — an estimated eight million persons — had done nothing more unusual than move in the weeks and months preceding election day, and then found themselves denied an opportunity to register and vote in either their old or new places of residence."

According to Mr. Balk, a "shocking proportion" of Americans — perhaps as much as a third of the whole electorate — will not vote in the next presidential election. Past statistics bear him out. The 1960 presidential election was one of the closest in history in terms of popular vote — Mr. Kennedy's margin over Mr. Nixon was under 200,000. And only 63.9 percent of all Americans of voting age participated in it. The record is still worse in elections in which the presidency is not involved. For instance, less than half of the electorate voted in the last off-year congressional elections.

In his attempt to find the reasons for this sad state of affairs, Mr. Balk interviewed leaders of both the major parties, various public officials, and interested organizations and groups. What seems to be a typical view came from the executive director of the American Heritage Foundation: "Despite modern communications and active party organizations which quickly make citizens aware of the issues, 37 states still require one-year residence in the state, one demands two years and 12 call for six months. County and precinct requirements often are just as unreasonable. In Philadelphia, where our constitution was born, for instance, and in other cities you can lose your vote merely by moving across the street to a new precinct a month or so before election day. This situation, to my mind, is a national scandal!"

MR. BALK ALSO points the finger at horse-and-buggy registration procedures which may have made some sense long ago but do not now. By way of example, most states restrict registration to a central office in each county, at designated hours, and most close the rolls from a month to nine months in advance of the election — long before interest in a campaign has reached its peak.

The moral would seem to be that stepped-up campaigns to eliminate voter apathy and disinterest are needed — but, along with them, there must be determined movements to bring registration and election laws into line with the age we live in. As of now, in too many cases, they belong to an age which is forever gone.

Will Be Wild And Woolly Campaign

WILLIS DONLEY, well-known Menominee lawyer, is out for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator from Wisconsin. He'll be opposing Wilbur Renk, the Sun Prairie hybrid seed corn man, and 1962 governor contender whom Badger Republican leaders have persuaded to run for senator this year.

Renk is a Republican moderate who fits well into Wisconsin's Progressive tradition. That's one reason the GOP leadership wanted him to run — to balance the more conservative Warren Knowles whom the party is backing for governor.

Donley, on the other hand, will appeal to those Wisconsin elements who backed the late Joseph McCarthy. The keynote of his campaign, he says, will be "the infiltration of atheistic communism in the American way of life." And the tone of Donley's announcement indicates that his campaign will be wild, woolly, and exciting, if nothing else.

DONLEY IS NOT a man given to understatement. Why sell wheat to Russia, he wants to know, when "millions of our friends throughout the world are starving, including 50 million of our own citizens in depressed areas throughout America." Donley's sworn foes, the Communists, are the only other people we know who assert that one American out of four is starving today.

Pepin County's one-time assemblyman also goes all-out for farmers. He wants legislation to fix all farm prices at 100 percent of parity. At the same time, he favors "substantial reduction in the cost of government." And he'd like to legislate against imports from "cheap-labor" countries abroad. Maybe in due course he'll explain how we are to keep selling our farm products abroad if we won't buy abroad. And how the federal budget is to be cut at the same time as the farm program is expanded to guarantee 100 percent of parity. — Red Wing Republican Eagle.

U.S. Policy Too Timid

By SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

The trouble in the Panama Canal Zone, I believe, stems directly from our policy of timidity and accommodation toward the entire problem of a turbulent Latin America.

To say that the disorders were "spontaneous" and unprovoked — as some of our officials and news correspondents contend — is to ignore the issues this government itself has made explosive by a program of humiliating retreat before the illegal and unreasonable demands of Panamanian nationalists.

Those who have studied the course of American foreign affairs long have known that the policy of accommodation now in effect can lead only to the sacrifice of freedom and independence. It was this weakness in our dealings with the Communists in the 1940s which led to the enslavement of the Chinese mainland.

And in this decade it allowed the Communists to deny the West its rights of free access within the city of Berlin through the erection of the hated wall.

It permitted the poorly-equipped army of Fidel Castro to deliver a crushing defeat to U.S.-sponsored invaders at the Bay of Pigs. It caused our government to equivocate following the October Cuban confrontation and sanction a powerful Soviet military base for subversion and revolution in the Western Hemisphere.

I suggest that anyone acquainted with the State Department's vacillation with the Panamanian issue could have easily predicted the rioting, bloodshed and death which has taken place in that area. I pointed to this obvious development in my book, "Why Not Victory?" which was published in 1962. On page 49 of that book, I said:

"HUMAN BEINGS and nations being what they are, altruistic behavior by a great power is never honored beyond the first flush or surprise that it has happened. The would-be beneficiaries of our concession and self-denials soon construe them as weakness and want more."

"Does anyone seriously suppose, for instance, that our generous decision to permit the Panamanian flag to fly over American territory in the Canal Zone will placate the Panamanian nationalists? The gesture is bound simply to whet the mob's appetite and transfer its sights to bigger targets."

Today, of course, there is no longer any doubt that this prediction was an accurate assessment of the inadequacies of State Department softness in its handling of our foreign affairs.

THE STATE Department made its first concessions to Panamanian nationalists in 1960, agreeing to allow the Panamanian flag to be flown as visual evidence of Panama's "titular" sovereignty at a few points in the Canal Zone. This concession ended the 57-year-old policy of firmness which had governed our relations with Panama and opened the door to further questions, as such actions always have done and always will do.

The late President Kennedy made further concessions in decreeing that the Panamanian flag be flown at 56 points in the zone where the American flag was displayed. Mr. Kennedy further agreed to allow Panamanian representatives to handle affairs concerning their nationals inside the zone.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Johnson Plans Encouraging Business Report to Congress

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — Those who have watched President Johnson work say that he's set a constant example of frugality.

The other day he remarked to a friend whom he had phoned in North Dakota: "My secretary didn't tell me you were out there or I wouldn't have wasted the phone charge."

For several days, his naval and Air Force aides have been standing outside his door wanting to talk to him about his new policy of getting along with only one military aide — Gen. Ted Clifton. However, Johnson doesn't want to argue the matter and hasn't seen them.

The Air Force and Navy are up in arms over the economy figure they now lack a voice at the White House. Also the naval aide is Capt. Tazewell Shepard, son-in-law of Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala. Shepard is a good-looking, not-too-bright clothes-horse whose relation to a distinguished senator hasn't hurt him a bit. The President, however, hasn't listened either to the Air Force or the Navy about this economy and Sen. Sparkman is too smart to intervene.

These are only token economies but they indicate the Johnson look around the White House.

MEANWHILE THE President has been studying the basic economy of the nation in preparation for his economic message to Congress. Dr. Walter Heller, his top economic adviser, has produced some very encouraging figures. They show:

That during the three years of the Kennedy administration, the Gross National Product has increased $100 billion or at a rate of 5 1/2 percent a year. This put the United States ahead of the Russian GNP, which three years ago was generally considered ahead of the USA.

Heller also reported that personal income was up last year 17 percent, corporate profits were up 44 percent, net income per farm during the last year was up 12 percent.

cent, and industrial production up 23 percent.

Residential construction topped $25 billion during 1963 and is still going strong, Dr. Heller reported to the President. He also laid on his desk a lot of other encouraging figures.

CHIEF SOUR note was the unemployment figure of around 5 1/2 million, and the President plans to devote part of his economic message to Congress to this problem. He plans to emphasize a fairer distribution of economic growth among consumers, producers, employers, and workers, and especially equality of opportunity for everyone regardless of social standing, race, color, or creed.

Note — A recent survey published by "The Public Opinion Index for Industry" shows that in December, Johnson scored 90 percent with business executives. A total of 58 percent said they considered him "fairly helpful" to business; 32 percent considered him "very helpful." In contrast, the late President Kennedy in April, 1962, had been voted by about 2 percent of business executives to be "fairly helpful."

Five congressmen are sponsoring legislation aimed at warning the American public of cigarettes. But they are not too hopeful of getting their bills through Congress. The tobacco lobby, they admit privately, is too strong.

WHAT THE congressmen propose is to amend the Hazardous Substances Labeling Act to make it apply to cigarette labels and advertisements.

Last year, Rep. Bernard Grabowski, D-Conn., introduced such a bill. Reps. John Rhodes, R-Ariz., Morris Udall, D-Ariz., Paul Fino, R-N.Y., and John Dingell, D-Mich., are now sponsoring similar legislation.

They point out that recent Public Health Service report on cancer-causing cigarettes shocked Congress as no other report in history. Despite this, the frustrating fact is that the senators and representatives from leading tobacco states, notably North and South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, are probably powerful enough to prevent any action for the protection of the public.

There are all kinds of laws on the books banning harmful foods, drugs, and cosmetics, as well as laws requiring honest labels and advertising for other products, such as deter-

TODAY IN WORLD AFFAIRS

People Need All the Facts

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most constructive step taken by the United States government in the debate over the "cold war" was the recent decision to let the Central Intelligence Agency come out into the open and give the world — including the American people — the facts about the economic difficulties confronting the Soviet Union.

Naturally there has been some criticism. But even in the face of expected comments of an adverse nature — particularly from Moscow newspapers — the CIA has disclosed some valuable information about the Soviet economic crisis. This presumably couldn't have been done without the consent of the President.

Discussion of the CIA's scope of activities, however, didn't arise for the first time under the present administration. It has been up again and again. Obviously, the CIA has to operate in secrecy, but the image of the agency given to the American public has been primarily of the "cloak and dagger" type.

It has always been assumed generally that espionage is the main function of the agency. The most valuable service performed by the CIA is to gather and analyze information from different parts of the world which the press cannot always collect or which the American embassies and consular officials are not equipped to gather without a substantial increase in their staffs.

As for actual "intelligence" — the data relating to military matters — this is collected not only by the CIA, whenever possible, but to a considerable extent also by the intelligence units of the U.S. Army, the Air Force and the Navy. Respectively, The Central Intelligence Agency would probably have been better named "The World Information Agency," because its time and money are spent for the most part in getting information from foreign countries that isn't military at all.

PERHAPS ONE of the least known functions of the CIA is to maintain contacts with the intelligence agencies of friendly governments so that data can be exchanged or verified. All intelligence units occasionally make mistakes and are sometimes misled, but the longer they are in operation, the better they function. America's experience with intelligence activity has covered a relatively short period. In foreign intelligence agencies, however, there is today a healthy respect for the American CIA.

Some criticism has come, incidentally, from the press here about the CIA's news conference, inasmuch as the questions asked by the reporters were not always answered. The CIA cannot serve usually as a vehicle of information for the press, but it can at times give out that which it is in the interest of the United States government to make public. In the past, the directors of the CIA have made speeches discussing various aspects of the "cold war," but these have not been as specific as the type of information given out at the recent news conference.

THE VALUE of economic information about what is going on behind the Iron Curtain can hardly be overestimated. Thus, it has been revealed that the Soviets have not made in recent years the progress often attributed to them. It is apparent also that, if the Moscow government is to develop, for example chemical fertilizers on a large scale to improve Soviet agriculture, chemical production for use in nuclear weapons and other explosives will have to be cut down. This could mean a favorable turn in the "cold war" for the United States, and certainly it could reduce some of the pressure here to spend billions for the accumulation of unnecessary armament.

To Your Good Health

You Can Control Fungi

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Thank you for your article about fungus growths beneath the fingernails and toenails.

I took 500 units of Griseofulvin pills, four units a day, and used an ointment.

I had this infection for about 20 years and had been to hospitals and clinics with no luck and gave up hope of ever getting it cured until I read your article about Griseofulvin.

It really did the trick and I can be proud of my nails again. Pass the good news on to others who have this condition. — J. K.

This drug (which is available under a variety of trade names) has cleared up cases which have defied every other known treatment.

I don't suppose anybody ever died of fungus of the nails but it can be an annoying, unsightly, embarrassing condition.

To my way of thinking (shared, no doubt, by most doctors), it's the physician's task not only to save lives but to make lives happier and more comfortable. So I'm delighted that J. K. benefited, and I've had notes from others telling the same story.

It's important to let people know about the newer treatments that have come along since a few years ago when, like J. K., they quit trying because nothing then worked.

You can't get Griseofulvin at the drug store without a prescription. The amount taken has to be rather carefully calculated by your physician.

Griseofulvin is an antibiotic which works on fungi rather than bacteria. It isn't a sensational life-saver, and hence hasn't had the publicity that the "wonder drugs" merited. In its way, it is just as remarkable a scientific achievement, though.

A WORD OF caution: It doesn't control all fungi, but then, neither can the antibiotics control all germs.

DEAR ABBY:

It Could Be Kiss of Death

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his wife live a few blocks from us and are very friendly. They have a precious 22-month-old daughter who is being taught to kiss everyone in sight. If there are 25 people in the room, the child is dragged around to kiss each one "hello" and "goodbye." The other day my daughter-in-law stopped by my house for five minutes to borrow something. She had the baby with her and, before they left, she had the baby kiss me and also the television repair man who was there working on my set. I think it is fine to teach children affection, but shouldn't they be taught to save their kisses for special people? I would enjoy the child's kisses much more if her mother would leave her alone and let her kiss me because she wanted to, not because she was told to. What do you think? GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I think you are right. But be careful how you tell your daughter-in-law this, or it will be the kiss of death for your friendship.

DEAR ABBY: I know that first cousins can't marry in the State of Illinois, but in which state near here is it allowed? This cousin of mine needs to have a husband and fast. Thank you. HELPING OUT

DEAR HELPING: I don't know what state your cousin is in, but I can guess. Marriage between first cousins is legal in the State of Kentucky.

DEAR ABBY: You gave good advice to the girl who was ashamed of her mother because she spoke broken English. If you publish my letter, perhaps it will keep others from making the same mistake I made. While I was working out of the city, my mother came to visit me. I loved her dearly, but she was not educated. She spoke with a heavy accent, and I was ashamed to introduce her to any of my friends. I let her stay alone in my apartment day after day while I went to work. She busied herself cooking and baking (as only she could bake) for my freezer. She stayed a month. After my mother left, a girl in our office invited me to a Sunday brunch in honor of her visiting mother. Well, this girl's mother spoke the same kind of broken English: my mother spoke, but she was sweet and warm and friendly — like my own mother. Everyone loved her. I realized then how small and selfish I had been, and I promised myself that the NEXT time my mother came to visit me I would make it up to her. I never got the chance. She died in her sleep a few months later. TOO ASHAMED TO SIGN MY NAME

Force of 3,000 Will Help Police N.Y. World's Fair

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP)—The "biggest security assignment in history."

That is how Pinkerton's National Detective Agency describes the job it has been given at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

A force of 3,000, including patrolmen, detectives, police-women, medical and fire department personnel, turnstile operators and clerks, is being organized for the task.

The agency said about half will be hired as guards, money handlers and other personnel by individual exhibitors.

The other 1,500-member division is being set up as a general security force.

It will function much like the public safety and service branches of a big city, watching over the daily crowds of visitors. There will even be a 33-bed emergency hospital.

Estimates put the daily fair-ground population at from 250,000 to 750,000 during its running seasons, mid-April to mid-October, in the two years.

The security forces will be under over-all command of John J. Manning, assisted by Alfred

Mankato State Coed Sentenced

WASECA, Minn. (AP) — A Mankato State College coed, charged with three counts of forgery, was sentenced to up to 10 years with the Youth Conservation Commission here Friday, in Waseca County District Court.

Judge John Cahill, Waseca, sentenced Sandra Kay Oppgaard, 18, Faribault, to three terms of up to 10 years but said they will be served concurrently.

The defendant was accused of writing and cashing forged checks.

B. Novak. Both are veteran former FBI men.

Members of the 750-member police department will wear a specially designed uniform of light blue with visored cap and white gloves. They'll have a Pinkerton patch on one sleeve, a World's Fair patch on the other.

The force will include an honor guard of 110 officers, and a number of other special sections — 30 detectives, 18 uniformed policewomen, plus matrons to attend lost children.

Describing its planned operations, the Pinkerton agency said:

"Apart from emergencies and critical incidents that are bound to arise, fair police officials expect the major security problems will arise from concentrated crowds."

"Experience at past fairs indicates that runaway teen-agers and petty thieves will demand police attention. The entire security force will carry nightsticks and many of them will be armed."

Under special state legislation, the fair police are empowered to arrest violators, and hold them in custody to take them to the appropriate courts for disposition of their cases.

TEEN-AGE CIRCLE OFFICERS . . . Girls who lead the Debra Circle Bible study group of Taylor Lutheran Church as officers are, from left, Cheryl Stevens, president; Gail

Koxlien, vice president; Karen Olson, secretary; Barbara Larson, pianist; Betty Simonson, treasurer; and Laurie Gathje, reporter. (Mrs. David Lund Photo)

Taylor Teen-agers Have Own Church Circle to Study Bible

TAYLOR, Wis. (Special) — Taylor has the distinction of having the only active high school girls church circle in the Mondovi Conference of the American Lutheran Church. It is comprised of teenage girls who take time once a month from their active lives to meet together and study the Bible.

The girls, members of the Taylor Lutheran Church, call themselves the Debra Circle.

THE GROUP HAS been a very active one. They join at the age of 12 and continue until their graduation from high school. The interest remains high and the group has never had less than 20 members.

Originally known as LDR (Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation) the circle was started in 1936 by Mrs. A. B. Bringle, wife of the pastor of Taylor church at that time. Their daughter, Irene Bringle, was the first treasurer of the organization. After the death of Mrs. Bringle the pastor's sister was the adviser until 1940.

Oct. 9, 1945, it was reorganized by Mmes. B. J. Hatlem and Howard Jacobson. The first president was Avis Amundson. Bible study and devotions were given at each meeting and then a business meeting was held. Following the meeting the girls hemmed dish towels, mended church books, embroidered, crocheted and even learned to tat and knit. A recreational period was held, followed by lunch.

THE SAME pattern was followed for several years. During this time the girls made toys for the Lutheran Welfare Society and one year they made up a large box and took it to the Chippewa State Home. At the end of each year the group goes caroling and holds a Christmas party.

Times changed and after the merger of the churches LDR became Debra Circle. The group meets once a month, has its own Bible Study and usually works on some project or has a special recreational period. This year the girls sent gifts of material, thread, needles, pins, and tape measures to a mission in New Guinea.

IN MAY THE girls entertain their mothers at a banquet. Present advisers are Mmes. Wilbert Winkler, Algen Larson and Howard Jacobson.

Last October the circle held a Pioneer Night at which time pioneer members were honored. Mrs. Jacobson read minutes from meetings of years gone by and guests told of their experiences as members.

Men's Night at Kellogg PTA

KELLOGG, Minn. (Special) — Men's Night was the PTA feature meeting Thursday in the school auditorium.

Men were in charge of the meeting. A film, "Land of White Alice," sponsored by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. was shown by Robert Fitzgerald, Wabasha, Minn., manager. Mr. Fitzgerald stated that the telephone company has several such films for public meetings. They may be secured by calling him.

The Pledge of Allegiance and PTA prayer was led by the Rev. Robert Dunn. The business session was conducted by Eugene Behrens, president.

Mr. Dunn reported on the winter activity recreation for local youngsters. He and Mayor Victor Holland are chairman of the committee. Rev. Dunn commented on the outstanding volunteer supervision system being done by parents and supervisors at the municipal auditorium and skating rink.

Kellogg Sportsmen Club and the American Legion Post have furnished the sports equipment for the auditorium.

The attendance prize was presented to the first grade pupils and their teacher Miss Audrey Funke.

Clemens Heins was program chairman. Lunch was served in the school cafeteria following the meeting by PTA men with Edward Law, chairman.

Golden Years Club Sees Travel Slides

Golden Years Senior Citizens Club members meeting Friday at Lake Park Lodge, were entertained by Mrs. Frank Mertes, who showed slides taken on a trip to Europe.

The president, Otto Pietsch, presided and led the group in community singing, with Mrs. Harriet Stahmann as piano accompanist.

Persons honored for their birthdays included Mmes. Stahmann, Elsie Dobberman, Harry Wachs, Andrew Theis, Annette Smith, Lydia Neitzke, Miss Ruth Miller and Robert Fleming. A birthday cake served was baked for them by Mrs. Irwin Bittner.

It was announced that at the next meeting Feb. 21, members are to come dressed as George and Martha Washington and are to bring prizes to be awarded for attendance.

Assisting Mrs. Bittner, chairman, in arrangements for the meeting were Mmes. Paul Griesel Sr., Cletus Moore and Harold Reed.

Eaton Rapids Home Films Shown to Veterans Auxiliary

The Auxiliary to VFW Neville-Lien Post 1287 at its meeting Wednesday evening saw films of the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

The home is for veterans' children up through high school age and the films were of their home life, activities and bus facilities for going to school in Eaton Rapids from the Home. The films also pictured the hospital and community center on the grounds and showed how the children have their own special chores to do each day.

It was announced the first District will have a meeting Feb. 2 at Northfield, Minn., at which time Gold Star Mothers will be honored and a joint memorial ceremony with the Post will be held.

The 61st annual banquet and mid-winter conference will be held at the Leamington Hotel Feb. 7-8, it was announced.

A committee reported seven baskets were delivered to shut-ins at Christmas, and cards were sent to the children at the National Home.

On the lunch committee were Mmes. Jack Curtis and Olga Theis.

Auxiliary to WWI Veterans Elects Officers for 1964

Election of officers were conducted at the meeting of Winona Auxiliary to WWI Barracks 1002 Thursday evening at the Teamsters Union Club.

Elected were Mrs. Victoria Eastey, president; Mrs. Alfred Halverson, senior vice president; Mrs. Adolph Olson, junior vice president; Lydia Cierzan, treasurer; Mrs. Louis Giese, chaplain; Mrs. Robert Verchota, conductress; Mrs. Arthur Bard, guard; Mrs. Elmer Hammann, trustee for three years.

Announcement was made of the first Dis. meeting of WWI to be held at Rochester at the VFW Club Feb. 16.

Members are to bring handkerchiefs which are to be sent to the women at the Soldiers Home in Minneapolis for Easter.

After the meeting games were played with prizes going to Mmes. A. M. Madigan, G. A. Erickson, John Grass, Olson and Halverson.

The Auxiliary joined the Barracks members for lunch at the VFW Club. On the committee were Mmes. Verchota and Mrs. Minnie Schellhas.

Lip Reading Class Being Offered Here

The YWCA is offering a class in lip reading on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. under the experienced direction of Mrs. Florence Harrington. This instruction has been of great benefit to those with either mild or severe hearing loss.

The course is a response to popular demand, especially by people who are just beginning to miss out on daily conversation because of hearing loss. However, those with hearing aids can also benefit from this useful skill.

The series of lessons is available to anyone, and is not limited to Y members. Information about fees and registration can be had by calling the Y office.

EVENING ART STUDENTS at Arcadia High School have completed a year of classes. Later in the season they will hold an art show in conjunction with the high school. Students meet Mondays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. under the direction of J. G. Lager, high school art instructor. All work in oils. Shown with a sample of their work from left are

Mrs. Hugo Schlagenweit, Miss Donna Literski, Mmes. Jack Benusa, Della Gamoke, Richard Gamoke and Miss Gertrude Stempel. Mr. Lager is standing at the back. Four members of the group were absent at the time the picture was taken. (King's Studio)

Pepin Girl Weds Richard Lee Meiser

PEPIN, Wis. (Special) — The marriage of Miss Judith Ann Kircher, West Bend, Wis., and Richard Lee Meiser, Port Washington, Wis., was solemnized Jan. 11 at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Pepin. The Rev. Philip Kurtz officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kircher, Pepin, and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Meiser, Cedarburg, Wis.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of delicate satin fashioned with princess bodice, oval neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A large back bow with helmine streamers topped the flowing brush train of her contrail skirt. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a single crown of iridescents and she carried a bouquet of deep pink roses accented with white leaves.

MRS. ROGER Ebersold, West Bend, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Nancy Meyers, West Bend, bridesmaid. Vicki Ebersold was flower girl and Jeff Gerkin, Rubicon, Wis., was ring bearer.

The matron of honor and the bridesmaid wore cocktail-length sheath dresses with removable floor-length skirts. The brides were styled with short sleeves and scoop necklines. Each carried a crescent shaped flower arrangement of pink carnations. Matching viva pillbox hats with tailored bows and circle veils completed the costumes.

A floor-length gown of white satin with tiers of lace, ruffles to the hemline was worn by the flower girl and she carried pink carnations.

DOUG LAPOINT, Port Washington, was best man and Robert Meiser, brother of the groom, groomsmen. Donald Kircher, West Bend, and Danny Kircher, Pepin, brothers of the bride, ushered.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the parish hall. Members of the Mary-Martha Circle had charge of the refreshments. Tables were decorated with frosted glasses, pink bows and lighted candles.

The bride is a graduate of the Pepin High School and the Eau Claire Accredited School of Beauty Culture.

The groom is employed by an electrical supply company in Grafton, Wis. The couple will make their home in West Bend.

Marlin D. Raddatz Weds Ruth Hammel

EYOTA, Minn. (Special) — Miss Ruth Hammel, Eyota, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hammel, and Marlin D. Raddatz, Joliet, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Raddatz, Dover, were united in marriage Saturday at St. Paul's United Church of Christ, north of Eyota, by the Rev. Philip Schowalter.

The attendants were Mrs. Duane Higgins, Eyota, sister of the bride, and Duane Higgins, Eyota.

Both groom and bride are graduates of Dover-Eyota High School.

The groom is employed at Joliet, where they will make their home.

Parents Hear Panel Talks On Home Work, Recreation

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — A panel discussion with audience participation was held at a PTA meeting at Durand High School last week. The need for outside school work of a constructive nature is an important essential, if not a necessity, in today's education, it was concluded.

"With 41 percent of this year's seniors planning further education, the need to develop proper study habits and responsibility toward outside classwork is a must in our system," stated Vaughn Hoffman, principal. "Surveys indicate that failure in college is due to poor study habits."

LESLIE THOMAS, parent, added that for the student not pursuing college, the need to develop traits of dependability and self-reliance also is important in finding positions in today's fields of employment.

"Homework helps develop these traits," Mr. Thomas said. The Rev. David Railsback, Congregational minister, pointed out the importance of proper motivation so the child can be ready for the load assigned him.

Truman Hickethier, elementary principal, cited the role of parents in helping motivate and cultivate the proper attitude toward school work by showing interest in the child's progress, listening to him read, and providing proper atmosphere for study at home.

UTILIZING available study time a student has at school would not only save much homework but also improve general discipline in study habits," commented Richard Dueterbeck.

In agreeing with other faculty members on the necessity of outside preparation, Russell Haigh said, "We can't get away from it if the job is to be done properly."

"With the amount of knowledge to be learned increasingly steadily since the beginning of mankind, homework is essential in order to keep up with the pace," said Dr. Joe Springer. In agreeing, Principal Hoffman quoted an article which said "Ninety percent of medical prescriptions could not have been written 10 years ago. The amount of work necessary to carry on a normal life is steadily increasing," he added.

THE REV. Arvid Morey, moderator of the panel, asked about extracurricular activities occupying students' time.

Coach Peter Adler said for the most part students who are outstanding in the classroom are also so in extra-curricular, church and civic activities.

The need for outside interests to keep a student busy was urged especially by William Lover, guidance director, who urged parents not to cut down on extra activities because of low grades.

"Give the child a chance for success in something," he said, "whether his interest is basketball, wrestling, hunting, fishing, scouts, or music."

Tax Changes
Important

(Editor's Note: There are some important changes in the method for filing your tax return on 1963 income. Here, in the first of five special articles, is a rundown of changes and a report on other principal points you should keep in mind.)

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

Main points in filing your tax return on 1963 income: Deadline—midnight, April 15.

Income—Report only the taxable kind; not the non-taxable, like Social Security payments, Dividends and Interest.

Something new has been added: Since Jan. 1, 1963 organizations paying you interest or dividends of $10 or more have had to inform the Internal Revenue Service. So be sure to report yours.

Social Security Number—List yours on your return. There's a $5 penalty for failing to do so.

W-2 Withholding Statements—These receipts for tax withheld from your 1963 pay must be enclosed with your return.

Return Forms—Generally the choice is between form 1040 and 1040A. Anyone can use 1040. But only people with less than $10,000 income can use 1040A and then only if, in that income, there is not more than $200 in dividends or interest and wages from which tax was not withheld.

Refunds—If too much tax was withheld from your income in 1963, you can get a refund but only by filing a return.

Something new has been added here. Now you can ask for your refund in U.S. Savings Bonds. Or, as in the past you can get it in cash or have it credited to your estimated tax on 1964 income.

Who must file a return? You must, whether or not you owe tax, if:

1. You were under 65—this includes children — and had income of $600 or more.

2. You were 65 or over before Jan. 1, 1964 and had income of $1,200 or more.

If you were self-employed you must file a return and pay a Social Security tax of 5.4 per cent on your net income from $400 to $4,800. The net is what's left after deducting business expenses.

Note: This self-employment tax is in addition to the regular income tax you pay, like everyone else.

Even if you're 65 or older, but are self-employed, you must pay the 5.4 per cent Social Security tax on your $400-to-$4,800 income although you may be receiving Social Security payments.

Since there are limits on how much income a person over 65 can earn and still draw Social Security payments, be sure you understand them.

There are two big helps in making out your return—the instruction sheet and the booklet: 1. IRS sends every taxpayer an instruction sheet with the tax rates, tax tables, and answers to questions.

2. For more detailed information than you find in this series or the instruction sheet, get "Your Federal Income Tax" from the nearest IRS office. It's a 144-page booklet, costs 40 cents, and is very good.

Deductions—Claim all you can to reduce your income before what's left is taxable. Examples: State income taxes, house mortgage interest, state gasoline taxes, charitable contributions.

Everyone, without the need to itemize his deductions or prove he had them, gets a standard deduction of 10 per cent of his income up to a limit of $1,000 for non-business expenses. Example: Charitable contributions, medical bills, interest on the house mortgage.

If your expenses were higher than the standard allows for, then itemize them and claim them in full.

Note this: When married couples file separate returns each is allowed a standard deduction of no more than $500 each.

Some examples of taxable income which must be reported: Wages, salaries, tips, bonuses, commissions, rents, profits from a business, profession or farm; interest on savings accounts, stock dividends, dividends (which are really interest) from savings and loan associations, profits from the sale or exchange of property, gambling winnings, severance pay, generally strike benefits paid by unions, income from estates and trusts, prizes for which you did something to win.

Some examples of non-taxable income which doesn't have to be reported: Federal Social Security benefits; veterans benefits from the Veterans Administration to veterans and their families, interest on state and municipal bonds, subsistence and rental allowance to members of the armed forces, public assistance payments to the blind, gifts in money or anything of value for which you performed no service, unemployment compensation paid by a state, although supplemental employment benefits from a company-financed supplemental employment fund are taxable.

Next: Which tax return form to use.

Sheriff Checks
2 Collisions

No one was injured and no tickets were issued in two accidents investigated by the Winona County's sheriff's department over the weekend.

Cars driven by Kenneth J. Tlougan, Plainview, Rt. 1, and Delores Mussel, Plainview, Rt. 1, collided on an icy corner on the Neuman Road, a township road, about 5 miles east of Plainview.

THE TLOUGAN car was traveling north on the road and was rounding a sharp curve to the right when it met the Mussel vehicle coming from the opposite direction. The driver of the Mussel car applied the brakes, but slid into the other car.

There was more than $200 damage to the left front of the Tlougan car, and the other vehicle's left front received more than $300 damage.

Investigating officers said that the road was very icy at the scene of the mishap.

At 8:15 p.m. Sunday, a car driven by Gary E. Gimble, 19, Eitzen, received about $50 damage when it struck a guard rail post along Trunk Highway 61 one mile south of Homer. Gimble said that his car slipped on the icy road, hitting the post on the right side of the highway. He was traveling north.

Gimble and his four passengers were uninjured.

FREDERICK E. Woodard, 18, Dakota, Rt. 1, paid a $5 fine and $4 in court costs when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Esther Dobrum in Dakota Saturday on a charge of having his car's windshield obstructed with a hanging "gadget."

He was arrested by sheriff's deputies at 9:30 p.m. Friday in Pickwick.

Sheriff George Fort said that all dangling windshield ornaments are illegal, and persons having them in their cars will be arrested by all law enforcement agents in the state.

2 Deputies Arrest
Rochester Juveniles
With Stolen Auto

Two juveniles who had stolen a car in Rochester earlier in the day were arrested by sheriff's deputies as the pair tried to return to Rochester Saturday night.

The deputies noticed the car's license number as they met it on Trunk Highway 14 near the Arches. They turned around and caught the youths at the top of Lewiston hill.

The pair, 15 and 16 years-old, drove to Winona after taking the car. They drove around the city Saturday night, then started to drive back to Rochester when they were arrested.

Rochester police had furnished a description of the car and its license number to area law enforcement agencies.

The youths have been turned over to the custody of Rochester police.

Coin Changer
Theft Checked

Police are investigating a break-in at the Westgate Laundry early this morning, which netted thieves $2 to $3 taken from a coin changing machine. The machine was damaged considerably in the robbery.

A report of two persons loitering around the self-service laundry came to police shortly after midnight. When patrolmen arrived at the Westgate Shopping Center, the prowlers were gone, but police now are acting on descriptions of the two furnished them by the person who reported them loitering.

Joan Schreiber, Winona, Rt. 2, reported to police around 11 p.m. Sunday that her purse had been taken from a car parked in front of Sammy's Pizza Palace, 116 Main St.

Two juveniles later were picked up with the purse in their possession.

It is possible to drive from Hamburg, the great northern port in West Germany, 500 miles south to Basel, Switzerland, without having to halt for a traffic light, intersection or railroad crossing.

House of the Week

Modified Split Has Two-Story Appeal

A seemingly slight but extremely significant modification of split level building technique gives this economical home a low and handsome silhouette while retaining to a large degree an advantage more commonly found in two-story designs.

The advantage is twofold: Ease of movement throughout the daytime activity areas; and clear separation of the sleeping area.

UNLIKE THE usual split-level pattern, only four steps divide the lower levels — and the most used portion of the housekeeping area is all on one floor. That means far less stair climbing.

The house, designed by architect Samuel Paul as H-12 in the House of the Week series, contains eight nice size rooms in a modest basic area of only 1,154 square feet and overall dimensions of 56 feet by 32 feet 10 inches. It would fit comfortably on a 75 foot by 85 foot plot.

An important feature of the house is its balance. It seems to contain just the right amount and disposition of all the elements necessary for comfortable contemporary living.

INCLUDED are four bedrooms (or three bedrooms and a den), two full baths, an additional lavatory, a kitchen with dinette space, attached garage, screened porch, and a private balcony off the master bedroom.

The exterior is crisp and streamlined with a rustic contemporary flavor. Because of the roof design it appears larger than it really is.

The main entrance is sheltered by a wide portico roof and is located at the ground-level, a full story below the bedrooms. This also gives the home a distinctive two-story appearance.

A large foyer with double coat closets flows indoors from the portico and funnels traffic neatly to all areas of the house. The living room is four steps above the foyer, and an attractive iron railing separates the two.

A GLAMOROUS cathedral ceiling stretches across both the living room and adjoining dining room. The two rooms also are well ventilated from three directions — the handsome bow window in front, the large window in the rear of the dining room, and the window on the side wall. An inviting stone fireplace, visible from the foyer, is the focal point of the formal area.

A second staircase links the kitchen and family room, joining the two in an integrated but clearly separated informal area.

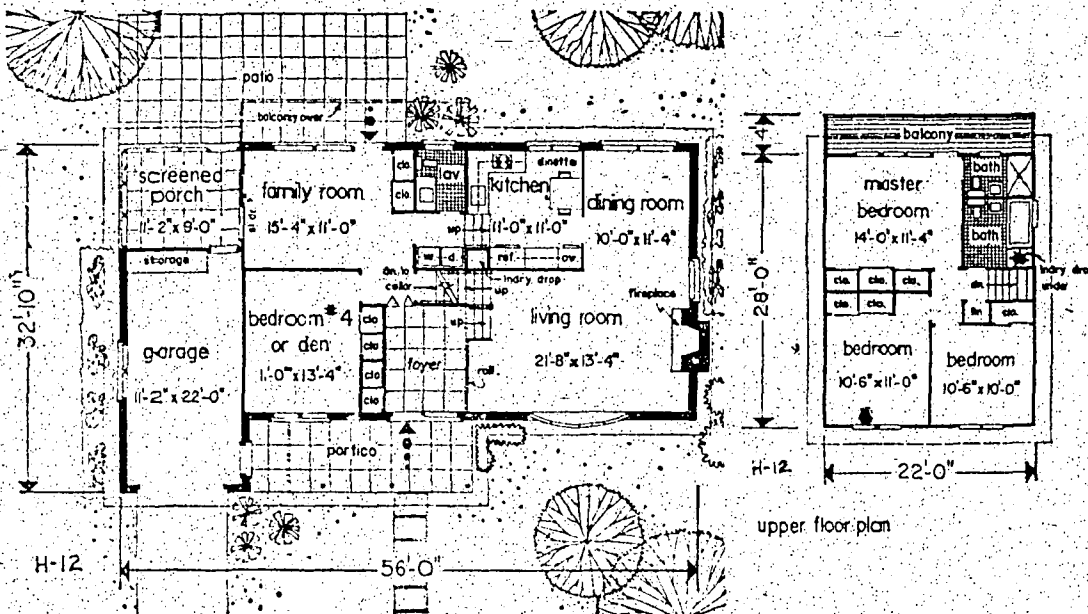

THE KITCHEN has ample space for a dinette. Architect Paul suggests that a built-in settee under the double window might be an interesting arrangement — giving the housewife a place to relax as she makes out the grocery list.

A downstairs lavatory is well placed near the kitchen, convenient to the backyard as well as the entire lower level. An alcove across from the lavatory is a convenient location for the laundry equipment — and note the handy laundry drop. Toss the soiled clothes in the bottomless "hamper" in the main bath upstairs, and they wind up with arms reach of the washer.

The family room has outdoor entrances on two sides. Adjoining the rear entrance is a double closet, placed in just the right spot. Sliding doors lead to the screened porch, extending the function of the family room as an all-weather play area.

THE EXTRA room downstairs is large, has plenty of closet space and is convenient to the lavatory — which means it could serve as a bedroom if necessary.

All three main bedrooms are nicely arranged upstairs, along with two full baths. The luxu-

$300,000 Apartment Building Job OKed

Permits for what is probably the largest single privately-financed apartment building development in the city's history were issued last week by the city engineer's office.

Three permits, each for 11-unit apartment structures and each carrying a $100,000 construction estimate, were drawn by R. V. Gisselbeck and S. J. Schneider for the projected development by Jay Investment Corp., Minneapolis, on the old Winona General Hospital site.

OF FRAME construction and each 2½ stories high, the three buildings will be erected on property formerly occupied by the hospital and adjacent nurses' home.

One will face Wabasha Street, as did the hospital, with an assigned street number of 660 W. Wabasha St., and will be 75 by 32 feet, and with gas-fired hot water heating.

The other two frame structures with similar heating facilities each will be 72 by 44 feet, one fronting on Ewing Street (359 Ewing) and the other at 360 Lincoln St.

Plans for the apartment complex, previously had been approved by the Board of Zoning Appeals and the city Planning Commission.

Each of the three buildings will have a 30-foot setback from the sidewalk and none will be less than 100 feet from neighboring residences.

Plenty of Cash In Unemployment Fund in State

By JACK MACKAY
Associated Press Correspondent

ST. PAUL (AP) — There's no danger of the unemployment compensation fund "going broke" before the Legislature meets next January, say state officials.

The fund is around the $30-million level today and indications are that it will drop to $20 million at year's end.

That's the word received by Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag from Frank Starkey, employment security director. The governor has requested that Starkey keep him informed periodically about the fund.

The governor vetoed a bill passed by the conservative-dominated 1963 Legislature, revising the state's jobless benefits law.

The conservative majority took the position that the bill would have strengthened the fund and increase individual weekly benefits.

To which Rolvaag replied in his veto message:

"These aims, while desirable, do not compensate for the serious defects of the bill."

Rolvaag claimed the bill would have excluded thousands from insurance protection, reduce benefits for countless thousands of other employees, discriminate against seasonal employers and employees, penalize smaller employers, perpetuate an "unsound financing system" and "tend to increase taxes on small property owners throughout the state."

Rep. William Frenzel of Golden Valley, a conservative who worked for passage of the bill, said in a speech last week the governor's veto would cost every worker now employed in the Twin Cities $6 a week in benefits.

"Besides preventing extra benefits for our working people," Frenzel said, "the veto will probably cost three-fourths of our state employers a contribution rate 4½ times greater than they pay today."

Rolvaag said he would recommend to the next Legislature ways in which the law should be modified.

"We're just putting off the evil day," Starkey said. "There is no 'if' another depression comes along like the '30s, we'd go broke in no time."

Starkey said indications were that "we'll still have about $20 million or $21 million left by January 1, 1965."

Asserting he was hopeful the Legislature will pass what he termed "an acceptable bill," Rolvaag said:

"There's no danger of the fund being depleted within the next two years."

LOOK AT YOUR STEPS . . . EVERYONE ELSE DOES!

Homeward Steps at the entrance of a house immediately exemplify the owner as a person of smart, stylish and practical tastes. These top quality Steps have proven themselves to be a wise investment because they need no ordinary maintenance, even after years and years of wear. They're constructed to a full 2" thick reinforced concrete. This is important to you because there are some "skinny" steps now on the market that are only a little over half as thick (and naturally can't be expected to last as long nor be as strong).

Homeward Steps are easier to install, too, because they are separate sectional construction instead of a cumbersome, awkward entire unit to wrestle into place. It is also important to remember that should a step be damaged (perhaps a truck backs into it or someone drops a heavy object on it) it is practical to replace ONLY the damaged section NOT THE WHOLE EXPENSIVE UNIT!

Through extensive testing and nationwide research it has been found that Homeward 6-inch risers are the best walking and climbing height for elderly people and children . . . with patented non-skid surfaces for increased safety. IN-SET ON THE FINEST — built on Union-Made HOMeward STEPS. Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

Some Notes On Plant Roots

While we are looking to the coming of spring and, perhaps, considering our gardening successes, or failures, of the past season in review, it may be well to consider some of the plant activities that usually go along unobserved. Let us take the root system, for example, through which most of the life giving elements for plant growth and well-being must pass.

Since the root is designed for absorbing water and nutrients from the soil, suppose we examine its nature and structure. Next to the leaves the roots are most important, for practically all of the water used by the plant and all of the nutritive elements, except carbon and oxygen, used in the manufacture of foods are absorbed by the roots.

In order to better understand the function of the roots, it is necessary to consider the root hairs. They are very delicate tubular outgrowths of the outer cells of the main roots, becoming irregular as they come into contact with the particles of soil through which they push their way. The root hairs can penetrate any opening and are so soft and delicate that they can surround any soil particles in their path of growth, thus permitting them to gather water and other materials in the soil. So firmly do they attach themselves to the soil particles that it is impossible to detach them without injury.

THE ROOT hairs are filled with organic acids and other substances which have an affinity for water and such elements in the soil that plants require for their growth. Thus, the materials in the soil are drawn through the delicate walls of the root hairs.

We may wonder how plants are able to survive during an extended period of drought. This is possible because all of the root hairs can be utilized to absorb water, even that which is drawn up from considerable depth by capillary attraction.

It seems remarkable that the roots of a large tree are able to take up sufficient water to supply its needs and at the same time replace the large volume of water lost daily through the transpiration of the leaves. This is possible because the root spread usually equals, or exceeds, that of the branches and the roots usually go down very deep into the ground. The total root system is enormous when the great lengths of the multitude of rootlets are considered.

ONE PLANT authority has estimated the total length of the roots of a corn plant to be 1,320 feet. These roots, in ordinary soil may reach a depth of from 3 to 5 feet, but in dry areas go to a much greater depth. The most important increase in the extent of the root system is due to the root hairs, by means of which the absorbing properties of the roots may be increased many folds.

THE STRUCTURE of the root is a very complex formation of cells through which the plant fluids are forced by the root hairs into certain cells and then into still other cells. Then, by some force, yet unknown, the fluids are drawn up the stem into the leaves.

THE FACT that roots grow downward is taken for granted by the gardener who may not even consider what forces are involved. Gravity is the stimulus that acts on the responsive cells to bring about a growth reaction which sends the tip of the root downward. This applies to the main, or tap, root, as the lateral roots tend to grow somewhat at right angles to this stimulation.

While the main function of the roots of plants is to absorb water and nutrients, they also, serve as a storehouse for foods as in the case of such plants as the potato. A very important function of the roots is to serve as supports and anchors of the stems of plants. Also, roots serve to bind the soil and protect it from water and wind erosion.

Sheriff Checks 135 Accidents

Traffic accidents which killed five persons, injured 75 and rolled up damages totaling $85,274 were investigated by the office of Winona County Sheriff George Fort last year.

There were 204 vehicles involved in the 135 accidents checked by Sheriff Fort's officers. Some of the accidents in the sheriff's summary were investigated jointly with the State Highway Patrol, but this list does not include those within the county where the patrol was sole investigating agency.

Property damage was recorded in 87 of the 135 accidents. The year wound up with a bang as accident and damage totals for December exceeded those of any other month in 1963. Damages in 18 accidents added up to $19,850 for the 29 vehicles involved.

October was the second worst month. Reports showed 17 accidents producing $10,476 for 23 vehicles.

Reynolds and Lucey Hold Badger Rule

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. John W. Reynolds and former state chairman Patrick Lucey made it clear Sunday they were the Democratic party's leaders in Wisconsin by securing the election of their choices to three important party positions.

They capped their show of prestige with the election of Lucey of Madison, as the state's new Democratic National committeeman.

J. Louis Hanson of Mellen, who succeeded Lucey as state chairman last year, and U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson and his followers were the losers in the election fight that publicly reopened old and deep conflicts in party ranks. The clash broke into the open at a meeting of the state administrative committee.

The selection of Lucey as national committeeman was the third of the contested elections. He takes over the post surrendered by David Rabinowitz when he was appointed U.S. District Court judge for western Wisconsin two weeks ago.

In other balloting, the committee put Robert Bittner of Green Bay, a former law partner of Reynolds, into the post of party treasurer, and elected Francis Rondeau of Mosinee as an at-large member of the administrative committee.

Here's Checklist For Buying That 'Dream House'

By VIVIAN BROWN

If your house doesn't fit family needs, no amount of money can make a good investment out of it, advises housing specialist Glenda Pifer, extension worker with the University of Illinois.

The safest way to get a reasonable facsimile of what you need is to know in advance what you require, she points out. We all know people who have bought houses for impulsive reasons — the swimming pool is in a beautiful setting, there is a marvelous workroom for the man of the family, or the lady of the house has at last found her dream kitchen.

BUT ONE bright gizmo doesn't make a house. This specialist suggests that once you've determined your family's living habits, activities in the household, furniture space and future housing needs, you can sit down and list your needs under subheads: Working, living, sleeping.

List necessary things first, and look for these things, regardless of whether the kitchen is pink or blue. Other things being equal, a small paint job could change a color that is distasteful.

Miss Pifer suggests this checklist:

- Does the amount of available space fit the family's size, possessions and activities?
- Is there circulation within spaces where it is needed? Is the space dead ending where no circulation is desired?
- Is the space flexible so that the house will fit the family's needs now and later?
- Will such features as heights and amounts of work spaces in the kitchen and utility room be sufficient and convenient?
- Is space readily available for recreational activities?
- Are bedrooms adequate in both number and size?
- Do storage spaces allow storage in terms of first use, clear visibility and accessibility?
- Is natural and artificial lighting controllable and direct to put general and specific lighting where needed?
- Can sound originating inside and outside be controlled?
- Do furnishings, equipment, materials and construction promote safety?
- There are other important considerations that should be well thought out before the family looks for a home in a particular area. These include being near transportation that suits working members of the family, and within a reasonable distance from schools and recreation facilities for children.

Assistant Named At Saint Teresa

Donald J. Guidinger, 350 W. Sanborn St., has been appointed assistant to the director of public relations and development at the College of Saint Teresa.

He will work with the director, Karl P. Lipsch. Prior to his appointment at the college, Guidinger was with Watkins Products, Inc., as division sales manager in the city marketing division of the company. He began with the firm in 1952 as a sales administration trainee and in 1955 was appointed division sales manager in Ohio.

Recalled to the home office in 1958, Guidinger was appointed to Wisconsin and Indiana as division sales manager. Guidinger was graduated from St. Charles, and earned his bachelor of science degree at Winona State College. After graduation he taught at Eden Prairie High School, suburban Minneapolis, for two years.

He is a member of the executive board of the Winona Catholic Recreation Center, the Cathedral Holy Name Society and the Cathedral Home-School Association.

Galesville Woman Knows About Panamanian Riots

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — A Galesville woman has been watching the situation in Panama with anxious eyes, for she has lived through rioting of the kind that has occurred there recently.

However, this is the worst, says Mrs. Gayle Fortner, who lived in Panama 30 years. Her son, Gayle, is currently with the Canal Zone police department.

THE CANAL ZONES hires hundreds of Panamanians, and money from the U.S. keeps the wealthy rich, she says. It is usually the poor who start the unrest, according to Mrs. Fortner, who says there are two classes in Panama, the very wealthy and very poor.

Mrs. Fortner taught in Panama 18 years; she was a fourth grade teacher during World War II. After the war she was given a chance to stay or return to the States. She chose to stay because her late husband had to remain. Now in Galesville, she is worried about her son and family.

Her daughter-in-law wrote that the police were the only ones to act against the rioters, trying to protect personnel and property for hours before the U.S. Army was sent in to restore order.

SHE SAID all businesses with an American connection were destroyed or damaged. Cars were overturned and burned, Braniff Airlines offices were completely wrecked, and a landmark hotel, the Tivoli, was damaged.

During riots, civilian women and children are evacuated. This time only wives and children of Army personnel have come out so far.

Mrs. Fortner here said, "The economy of Panama would collapse without American aid. The Panamanians who work for our people are disgusted with the rioters."

Mrs. Fortner, who lived in Ancon, said most of the riots are started there by persons coming from Panama City. Ancon is across famous Fourth of July Avenue, which separates the Canal Zone from the interior. Panama City is at one end of Fourth of July Avenue, which runs to Balboa at the Pacific Ocean end of the canal.

DURING WORLD War II the zone and country were under perpetual blackout, she said. No evening events were allowed. Only doctors could go out at night, on call. They used small flashlights covered with red paper to find their way. Zone personnel and citizens of Panama were well trained. She was supervising playground activity at school when the first plane to break the sound barrier went over. At the explosion, her fourth grade children fell flat to the ground.

Mrs. Fortner is awaiting further word from her son, his wife and their son. First order to the Army was to shoot only at snipers, she said.

Wabasha Child's Appearance on TV Show Delayed

WABASHA, Minn. — The appearance of Wabasha's 6-year-old whiz-kid on the CBS-TV network show, I've Got a Secret, has been postponed. She was to have been on the show tonight.

Tracy Malone, who first gained fame when she defeated Wabasha's checker-playing editor, Ray Young, has been playing checkers since she was 4 years old and is recognized as a community champion.

Her appearance has been delayed at least two weeks. Tracy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Malone.

Three at Meeting To Plan for Safety Workshop

Three Winonans, including two high school students, attended a meeting in Minneapolis Saturday to plan for a regional traffic safety conference here Feb. 12.

The statewide meeting was held to help plan for nine conferences, each of which will include a section on youth.

The Feb. 12 conference will be held in Pastur Hall, Winona State College.

Attending the planning meeting were Police Sgt. Martin Prigge and James Streater and Steven Cofield of Senior High School. Streater was there as acting chairman of the student council and Cofield as chairman of the council's traffic safety committee.

ALMA CENTER HONOR ROLL

ALMA CENTER, Wis. (Special) — Six students attained the "A" honor roll at Lincoln High School, Alma Center, the first semester, according to Principal John S. Bates. They were Helen Jacobson, senior; Susan Joos and Sharon Wachholz, sophomores, and Marie Martin and Sandra Sutton, juniors.

Hornets Stop Albert Lea 7-4

3 Winonans Score Two Goals Each

SMHL

Owatonna	W	L	W	L
Albert Lea	3	1	3	1

Using a sharp scoring attack that found a trio of performers hitting two goals each, Winona's Hornets evened their Southern Minnesota Hockey League record at 3-3 and knocked Albert Lea's Rangers from a first-place tie.

The final score was 7-4 and left Albert Lea with a 5-2 record and a half game out of first place. The Austin-Owatonna game was postponed.

ED RATAJCZYK, Roger Munson and Don Elmann each got two goals for the Hornets and helped make the victory easy.

Ratajczyk got the first two of the game, skating in and slipping the puck into the nets with 9:00 and 15:00 gone in the first period. Munson scored just 15 seconds after Ratajczyk's second to give the Winonans a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period.

Ehmann hit on an assist from Neitzke at 11:15 in the second period and Rog Neitzke scored at 11:00 and Skaar at 15:00 to run the score to 5-3 at the end of the second period.

WITH MUNSON and Elmann scoring in the third period, the Hornets pushed it out of reach. Madland registered 22 stops for Winona and Colstrup 52 for Albert Lea.

The Hornets journey to Owatonna Wednesday night before returning home to host the same team Sunday at West End Rink.

Hardike Raps 221-612 for City Topper

Ralph Hardike smacked a 221-612 series in the Kings and Queens' League at Westgate Bowl to cap light bowling activity over the weekend in Winona.

Hardike's total led Deuces Wild to 2,078. Janice Neitzke splattered 183-454 to top the distaff side for 4-Aces, while Alley Cats collected 725.

Elsewhere at Westgate, Ralph Hutchinson clipped 587 to pace Hutchinson-Lidke to 2,228. Anna Mathison helped Sundown Motel to 787 with her 202-528.

The Junior Kegler circuit saw Greg Schuchnick 138 and Patty Rose 121-239 as Blue Belts registered 628 and Four Aces 1,194. Harriet Kowalczyk rapped 121.

Ken Aune ripped 530 and Bob Foster 196 as the pair sparked Finks to 751-2,150 in the High School Boys loop at Hal-Rod Lanes.

Bev Biltgen topped the Girls League with 430 for Alley Gators. Annie Douglas boomed 147 Strikettes. Team honors went to Heats with 663 and Young Strikers with 1,850.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE AND ARNIE CAN'T GET OUT... Arnold Palmer, hitting into the Pacific Ocean from the 17th tee at Pebble Beach golf course, tries to get out after dropping a ball on the rocks. This was his third shot, counting penalty. He didn't get out. Palmer eventually holed out for nine on the par three 190-yard hole. (AP Photofax)

MANKATO RIPS NORTHERN MICHIGAN

NIC, MIAC Races Settle Down to 2-Team Affairs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Both the Minnesota Intercollegiate and Northern Intercollegiate conference basketball races appear to have settled down to two-team affairs.

Duluth is leading the MIAC pack with a 6-0 record, with defending champion Augsburg a half step back at 7-1. The Augies trounced Macalester 87-75 Saturday night while Duluth was idle.

St. Cloud State belted Winona State 92-59 Saturday night to establish the Huskies as the only team with an unbeaten NIC record at 3-0. Mankato, which ripped Northern Michigan 89-75 in a non-conference affair, is nipping at St. Cloud's heels with a 3-1 NIC mark.

Only conference games tonight have Duluth at Gustavus Adolphus and Concordia at Macalester in the MIAC. Moorhead of the NIC visits St. Thomas of the MIAC.

In Saturday's other action, Concordia drubbed St. Thomas 80-68 in the MIAC while Bethel of St. Paul ripped Morris 78-62 in the Pioneer Conference and both Minnesota entries in the Midwest Conference were beaten. St. Olaf lost 81-76 at Monmouth while Carleton bowed 88-79 at Knox.

Alan Redman scored 24 points and Dan Anderson 20 to pace the Augsburg rout. Jack Harrison paced St. Cloud to its lop-sided win with 23 points.

SPRING VALLEY Nips Stewies

SPRING VALLEY, Minn. — Spring Valley High School pulled out a 54-52 basketball win over Stewartville in overtime Saturday night.

The Wolves had to battle from behind, with Bob Olson's bucket with three seconds to play in regulation time tying the game at 52-52. Darrell Grabau hit the lone bucket in the extra period, to give the win to Spring Valley.

Grabau finished with point honors for the night with 17. Les Ernster added 16. Dennis Herick and Mike Weick each bagged 10 for Stewartville.

Spring Valley swept evening activities with a 27-21 decision in the preliminary tilt.

tion until Friday night when it hosts Mississippi Valley Conference power Mondovi.

Winona State Coach Bob Campbell wasn't happy with the score of the St. Cloud game, but he was encouraged by the Warriors record after two conference games.

"A split on the road against the two toughest opponents in the conference is fine," said the coach.

The Warriors tumbled to St. Cloud 92-59 Saturday night to event their NIC record at 1-1. St. Cloud is 3-0.

"We did a real good job the first half," mused Campbell, who saw his team trail by 37-30 at intermission. "If it hadn't been for a couple of our own booboos, we might have been ahead. And then Dyle (Papenfuss) had three fouls and we had to rest him."

But the post-intermission story was different. St. Cloud put in the long shots and pulled away to win.

"WE USED the zone," said Campbell. "We decided that we'd make them put the long shots in—and they did. We hustled well, but they had a good half."

Winona State also will be off until the weekend when it hosts conference foe Moorhead in its first NIC test at home.

"We don't know much about them," said the coach. "I will see them at Mankato Friday night."

Neither Winona High nor St. Mary's will be in action until later this week.

The Redmen return from exam break to journey to Stevens Point Thursday night before moving on to Dubuque, Iowa, and Loras College Friday night.

U2 Becoming Workhorse Of High Fliers

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The once-mysterious U2, a winged Mata Hari originally built to vault cameras across the Iron Curtain, is fast becoming a drab workhorse of near-space research.

Their "sky spy" function now largely taken over by Samos and Discoverer satellites, U2 pilots now spend many of their long, monotonous hours in the air on vital but unglamorous missions like these:

1. Laying eggs. From altitudes in excess of 60,000 feet, U2s drop 300-pound capsules which simulate the film-containing nose cones kicked away from reconnaissance satellites. Discoverer and Samos capsules are recovered over the Pacific. U2 capsules are dropped over land, and cargo planes from this desert base practice snagging them as they parachute to earth.

2. Missile tracking. For the past three years, U2s equipped with infrared (heat) measuring devices—they look like small pickle barrels mounted behind the pilot's cockpit—have monitored missile launches from Cape Kennedy, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. This study is aimed at improving Midas satellites' ability to detect missile launchings and warn U.S. defense forces.

3. Double-checking the X15. On many of its high-speed flights, the U.S. space agency rocket plane carries an Air Force camera package. Pictures taken from the X15 are distorted by air friction heat which sometimes builds up to 1200 degrees Fahrenheit on the X15's skin. These are compared with undistorted photos of the same area taken at much lower speeds and altitudes from a U2.

4. Hunting storms. With its unique ability to loiter for hours at heights reportedly up to 17 miles, the U2 not only can photograph hurricanes from vantage points unattainable by ground-based weathermen, it can watch them develop over long periods—up to eight hours at a time. U2 photographs, sharper and closer, frequently are used to pinpoint potential storms detected by the Tiro weather satellite.

5. High altitude research. U2 pilots don't always know the purpose of the black boxes carried on their planes, but it's a good guess some of them are instruments being developed for super-U2s which could police nuclear test ban agreements.

Under the heading of "high altitude research" also falls a project, calling for 500 hours of flying, to investigate a turbulence found at heights where there is supposed to be little air. U2s are measuring this turbulence to assist in the design of proposed supersonic transports which will cruise at altitudes above 60,000 feet. Flights in this study have taken U2s from Alaska to the equator.

For the past three years—ever since the destruction of a U2 over the Soviet Union, May 1, 1960 brought an official promise they would not be used again to spy on Soviet territory—U2s have been channeled into an increasing research-and-development role.

Some still are used for military purposes: photographic reconnaissance over Cuba, Red China and other areas.

The growth of the U2 as a scientific tool is indicated, however, by the establishment of a unit here at Edwards AFB, headed by Lt. Col. Harry Anderson, which is strictly for research. The unit has numbered as many as seven planes, currently has five.

Anderson says the three U2s normally based here and two others detached to Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., fly 25 to 30 missions a month, each lasting four to eight hours.

Anderson has a maintenance crew of 20, plus four navigators and three pilots. He is looking for more.

Volunteers qualified to fly U2s are hard to find. The pilots must be graduates of a test pilot school and like the navigators, who really don't do much navigating but usually concentrate on running research instruments, they must be emotionally stable enough to endure long hours in the air and long trips away from home.

Learning to fly the U2 is hard enough. Its glider-like wings so long they have to be supported by tip-wheels which drop away at take-off, carry much of the plane's fuel. This means the pilot must constantly be alert to pump fuel from one wing to the other in flight to maintain balance.

The really tricky part about flying the U2, however, is landing it.

"The big wings mean she can't land until she stalls," Anderson says. "The pilot has to make her stall just above the ground, and trained ground crews have to be on hand to grab the wing tips or she's likely to fall over."

"A new pilot coming up to the unit has to make at least 20 practice landings before we feel he's properly checked out. We all make at least 10 landings a month just to keep in training."

The U2's 80-foot wingspan means another hazard for its occupants. Designed primarily to soar, the U2 can't land quickly, even in an emergency. Astronaut-like pressure suits have been developed to keep pilot and navigator alive should the cabin pressure fail.

Duluth Man Killed, Police Arrest Second

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A coroner's jury will be called this afternoon to look into the shooting death of Ernest Leclair, 35, Duluth.

Leclair, formerly of Erskine, Minn., was shot twice in the head Sunday in Saginaw, a village about 15 miles northwest of Duluth.

George Willeck, 42, Saginaw, was jailed without charge. Lt. Peter Kurtych of the St. Louis County sheriff's office said Willeck admitted the shooting.

The shooting was witnessed by Willeck's divorced wife, Joyce, 33.

Dr. Cyril Smith, county coroner, said the woman related that Leclair was driving her to Saginaw when they saw Willeck in the garage at his home. Mrs. Willeck said she asked Leclair to stop because the divorce order had barred both the Willecks from the home pending a property settlement.

Mrs. Willeck said her former husband emerged from the garage with a rifle and said, "Get going or I'm going to kill you." Willeck told officers he fired first at the ground, to scare Leclair, and then fired twice to defend himself.

Mrs. Johnson Flies to N.Y. To See Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson arrived here today from Washington as a coach passenger on a regular airliner.

The nation's First Lady flew in aboard an American Airlines plane.

Mrs. Johnson will attend a preview performance of Arthur Miller's new play, "After the Fall," tonight and presumably will do some shopping.

At LaGuardia Airport, a limousine waited at the ramp to whisk Mrs. Johnson off to a Secret Service escort minutes after the plane touched down. There were about 40 passengers in the coach section.

Mrs. Johnson virtually was unnoticed as she boarded the plane in Washington. Only the presence of photographers at the New York airport called attention to her arrival. She was accompanied by her social secretary, Mrs. Bess Abell, and another staff aide, Wendy Marcus.

Robert Sims, a Navy lieutenant from Arlington, Va., who sat directly in front of the First Lady on the plane, said that even when the stewardess took coffee to her and addressed her as "Mrs. Johnson," he didn't realize who she was.

Edgar Stockman, James Nimeth and Gerald Wartman, all 21-year-old Milwaukeeans, were killed late Saturday night when their car went out of control on a South Side street, knocked down a utility pole and smashed into a tree. The car then burst into flames and firemen had to use pry bars to remove the bodies after putting out the fire.

WHERE WERE WE? Of 11 De Gaulle muscles into the Cuban tobacco market in return for our chickens, and the Danes — never forget the Danes, because they are invading the gammon field here and making a poor thing out of British swine — if the Danes sign a separate peace with China in return for the buses the British have sold to Cuba, we will be in devilish poor shape in Cyprus.

No, Cynthia, I will not allow you to smoke a pipe. They stink and your lips are unlikely enough already without the added impost of lip cancer, rare as it be.

How do I know what's going on in Cyprus, Cynthia? All the Cypriots I know live in Soho, and carry switch-blade knives. Really, So Makarios is a man of God? So was Rasputin. But I do not think that even Makarios or Rasputin was responsible for the recent cigarette scare. It has to be de Gaulle at the bottom.

WELL, DAMMIT, I won't see what has to do with the bus business in Cuba. We traded tractors for people, and financed Castro's missile bases which Khrushchev bought when he was trying to corner the filter-tip market. Or did we not trade tractors for people? We not only drugs and ransom money?

Uganda grows bananas, mostly, and the government did not throw out all those people for smoking on the sly. Uganda threw the people out for making a joke about African political competence, which is as it should be. African political competence is so great that I cite you the latest news from Ghana, where even the would-be assassins can't hit Nkrumah with any consistency, because they have to stop for the pause that refreshes and reload between shots.

My Lord, Cynthia, A horrid thought just occurred to me! What do you suppose will happen to the world if they put

3 Injured in Plane Crash

ELKHORN, Wis. (AP) — A small plane probing a thick fog for an airport bounced off a farm field and into power lines Sunday as the pilot attempted an emergency landing.

The plane flipped and crashed on its back, slightly injuring the three occupants.

Pilot Shirl Zimmerman, 55, and Robert Hoppa, 25, both of Delavan, and James McLeath, 55, of Lake Geneva, were taken to a hospital at Elkhorn. McLeath was released after treatment of face cuts. The others were kept for observation. Zimmerman suffering mouth, knee and chest injuries, Hoppa complaining of chest injuries.

ROBERT C. RUARK

Cigarette Scare 'Capitalist Plot'

LONDON — Oh, my God, out of cigarettes again! The Americans have now confirmed what the British knew earlier on, which is that cigarettes are bad for you, and now we have the paradox about people smoking too much because they're worried about smoking too much.

The big papers here bawled the story, in print as high as they used to employ news of Suez, and I get the decided impression that the tobacco trust has just knocked over the government in Zanzibar, rigged the riots in Panama, and is raising all manner of hell in Calcutta between the Hindus and the Moslems.

Got a match, Sweetie? This lighter is always out of flint. Thank you. Better send down to the tobacconist. Looks like there may be a run on gaspers.

The Cubans, are responsible, of course, for the findings of the panel. Everyone knows that Cuba's economy was specifically based on tobacco, as well as sugar, and that Castro's racing off to Russia to tell Khrushchev to tell the United Nations to tell Nkrumah to tell this cigarette scare is only a filthy capitalist plot to cover up for the riots in the Canal Zone.

This is known as double, or even triple, espionage, because if the Cubans backed the American panel on cigarette smoking, this clobbers the Virginia tobacco industry, which sends its products to London, and puts Cuba back in the tobacco picture. It also returns Turkey to the modern tobacco market, and Fatimas will rise again, together with Confederate money.

For heaven's sake, Cynthia, empty the ash tray! Don't you know that these things cause cancer?

Now, if the Panamanians knock over the canal, this puts the burden of transport on Suez, and you know that the Egyptians are not very happy about the usurpation of the old faithful Egyptian tobacco trade by the Yankee imperialists.

SUEZ WILL, in effect, have a monopoly on tobacco, because you see Castro can't use the Panama Canal to hustle hot perfumes, and this opens the door with Mao Tse-tung, who is really starting up a new tobacco industry in Ghana. That's why they had the purge, stupid.

Cynthia, for heaven's sake, must you leave the thing burning on the window sill? These things are bad for you!

Now as I see it, if Panama links up with Ghana, we will have no market for wheat with Russia, but the Chinese will make a deal with Algeria to push tobacco instead of grapes, which will throw the wine business back into France and that involves de Gaulle. This will directly affect the Common Market and de Gaulle will be selling our chickens to Castro in return for the tobacco monopoly in the Sahara.

Just one more time, Cynthia, I warn you. Either smoke it or put the bloody thing out. The place smells like a kernel.

Margaret Ann Steele, a 19-year-old Whitewater State College student from Ripon, was killed early Sunday when the small foreign convertible in which she was riding left Highway 59 between Milton and Whitewater and overturned.

George Brandt, 40, rural Itasca, was killed Saturday when his car and a milk truck collided at the intersection of Waukesha County Highways Z and D.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today the nation's economic growth requires improved commodity legislation this year for many major farm products.

In addition, he said, the Food for Peace program, which he described as highly successful in aiding developing areas abroad, needs to be extended this year by Congress. Authority for the program ends Dec. 31.

Furthermore, the President said, the government must provide the "research and development support necessary to the continued strength and growth of American agriculture."

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon, with aluminum and cigarette issues weak. Trading was active.

The aluminum trimmed recent gains as word came that Alcoa, the biggest producer, has decided not to go along with Reynolds Metals and other major producers in raising the price of aluminum ingot.

The cigarettes continued to decline with a week gone by since the report of the U.S. surgeon general's committee on the health hazards involved in cigarette smoking. Cigar manufacturers resumed their rise on balance because of the gentle treatment cigar-smoking received in the report.

Some market hesitation was ascribed to suspense over what President Johnson would say in his economic message to Congress. The President predicted an economic advance if the tax-cut legislation is passed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 209.7 with industrials up .9, rails up .5 and utilities up .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .53 at 776.22.

Alcoa fell more than a point on the price statement. Reynolds Metals slipped 1½ to 35½ on blocks of 3,000 and 2,000 shares, then halved the loss.

As the tobacco sped their decline, Liggett & Myers slipped more than a point. Philip Morris and Lorillard fell about a point and American Tobacco a fraction.

Prices on American Stock Exchange were higher in moderately active trading.

Corporate bonds inched upward in moderately active trading. U.S. government bonds were unchanged.

PROBLEM? A BTU is the amount of heat it takes to raise one pound of water one degree. Each pound of "COMMANDER" coal contains 14,500 BTUs. Lake Winona, according to careful calculations, contains $32,191,000 gallons of water. How many tons of "COMMANDER" coal would it take to heat all the water in Lake Winona to the boiling point? Find answer elsewhere in this paper. EAST END COAL & FUEL OIL CO., 901 E. 8th. "Where you get more heat at lower cost."
