U.S. Won't Be 'Parched Out' of Cuba

Beckwith Case Mistrial Ordered After 12 Hours

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A mistrial was declared today in the trial of Byron De La Beckwith, a crusading segregationist charged with murdering a Negro civil rights leader.

Circuit Court Judge Leon Hendrick declared the mistrial after the all-white jury, called for individual polling at the end of about 12 hours deliberation, declared themselves hopelessly deadlocked.

Beckwith sat quietly, his hands clasped in his lap as the judge asked individual jurors if there was any hope of a verdict. Early predictions had been that the case would end in quick acquittal because of the deep passions due to racial aspects.

The 43-year-old fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, Miss., was charged with shooting Medgar Evers in the back with a high-powered rifle. Evers was state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The courtroom was under heavy police guard. Spectators were searched before being allowed to sign in. Judge Hendrick thanked the 12 jurors for their services, dismissed them and remanded Beckwith to the sheriff's custody.

Dist. Atty. William Waller commented after hearing the verdict: "Well, that was our second expectation. Our first was a guilty verdict."

No immediate date was set for the retrial. The next term of Circuit Court opens in March.

During the morning, one-time Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, who resigned from the Army in a quarrel over politics, walked into the courtroom. Beckwith rose from the defense table and walked to the railing to shake hands with Walker, now a right-wing political spokesman.

Smith said the Democratic leadership had promised that no effort to cut off debate would be made if the bill could be finished by next Tuesday. Halleck said he had an agreement with the Democrats to finish the bill by Saturday night.

After Williams blocked an early session Halleck said "if motions are made to terminate debate, I'm going to support them."

"If efforts are made to violate solemn agreements," replied Smith, referring to the arrangement to finish by next Tuesday, "some unpleasant things can happen."

Longshoremen May Hold Up Russian Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The export of about $70-million worth of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union faces the threat of being bogged down on American docks by a longshoremen's boycott.

President Thomas W. Gleason of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association made the threat at a frequently stormy Maritime Administration hearing.

Charging that foreign-flag vessels that had been "dealing with the enemy" were being given precedence over U.S. ships in the wheat deal, Gleason said: "Let the Russians go to hell. Let them starve. Tell them to take it the way we send it, or don't send it at all."

Gleason said Thursday he would recommend to the union's Executive Council that the 55,000 longshoremen refuse to load any of the wheat being exported by Continental Grain Co. unless more U.S. ships are used.

Acting Maritime Administrator Robert E. Giles told Gleason: "What you are saying is that you and your Executive Council should make foreign policy instead of the President."

The hearing was held to consider Continental's application for a waiver permitting shipment of less than 50 per cent of the nearly 1 million tons of wheat in U.S. vessels.

PANHANDLE STREET SCENE . . . This was the scene in Borger, Texas, Thursday after the city suffered a record snowfall of 26 inches. The area was just beginning to dig out when a second blizzard swept into the area. Rescue workers were out trying to rescue trapped motorists and stockmen started moving their livestock to feedpens. ### Court Upholds Retirement of Police Officer

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Supreme Court ruled today that St. Paul officials can legally require Dominick Fabio, St. Paul police officer, to retire at the age of 65.

Fabio, who began employment with the police department in 1925, continued in that position until he became 65 Jan. 5, 1963.

He appealed from a ruling by Judge Edward D. Mulally in Ramsey county district court entering judgment in favor of the city.

Associate Justice James C. Otis said in the unanimous decision that Fabio's compulsory retirement does not deny his constitutional rights.

In other decisions, the Supreme Court:

Upheld a $5,285 judgment in favor of the Butch Levy Plumbing and Heating Co., Minneapolis, for labor and materials furnished to John O. Sallblad, Minneapolis general electrical contractor.

Denied the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Thayer, Rochester, who sued for $70,000 personal injuries and consequential damages resulting from a fall into a cistern on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Silker, Rochester.

Judge Leo F. Murphy in Olmsted County ruled in favor of the Silkers, based on affidavits and depositions. Mrs. Thayer sued for $50,000 and Thayer asked $20,000.

Minneapolis Man Killed Crossing Street

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota traffic toll moved to 49, three ahead of last year, with the death of Richard Frick, 82, struck down by a car as he walked across an intersection near his Minneapolis home Thursday night.

Police said the driver was a 17-year-old youth. Frick's body was thrown and carried on the hood of the car for 61 feet, officers said.

Cypriots Burn Turkish Village

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A chain reaction of violence threatened Cyprus today after Greek Cypriots burned a Turkish village, claiming the Turks had ambushed Greeks from a neighboring town.

Seven Turkish Cypriots and four Greek Cypriots were killed Thursday in the heaviest fighting since the cold feud between the two factions erupted again during the Christmas holidays.

The six-hour battle left the village of Ayios Sozomenos, 10 miles south of Nicosia, in flames. Its ramshackle huts were ablaze when British forces won a cease-fire.

The walls of Turkish women and children filled the air after the rattle of machine-gun fire died down.

Texas Storms Back-to-Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temperatures as low as zero were expected today in large areas of the nation's Southwest, where unusual back-to-back blizzards have paralyzed entire communities and marooned thousands of travelers for nearly a week.

The new cold air mass, with snow-whipping winds, complicated attempts to clear highways of as much as 30 inches of snow and to get supplies to isolated towns.

Temperatures should rise sharply during the day, however, the Weather Bureau said.

Three counties in New Mexico were declared emergency areas — San Miguel, Union and Quay counties — and about 100 National Guardsmen worked with M42 tanks to take ranch families to town.

Unless the new storm keeps temperatures below 20 degrees the economic damage was expected to be light.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said the over-all effect of moisture in long-parched areas greatly offset any immediate damages.

The biggest losses so far come from cattle being slaughtered when they wandered onto railroad tracks. Other livestock were being taken feed in six-wheel drive trucks and were expected to survive the weather unless the freeze intensified.

At last 10 persons were known dead, five in Texas and five in New Mexico. Helicopters from Cannon Air Force Base scoured the countryside for families who needed help and other possible victims.

Skies cleared Thursday night over New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle, after the new blizzard's blast of snow ended in mid-afternoon.

The only road still reported closed in the two states was U.S. 66 from northeast of Amarillo at White Deer, Tex., to the Oklahoma border.

Activity on highways was still at the crawling stage, however, as blowing snow drifts kept the icy roads dangerously narrow. One-lane traffic only was permitted in some areas.

Mastrian Lawyers Win Round in Duluth Court

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Attorneys for Norman Mastrian have won another technical point in advance of his Feb. 17 trial on first degree murder charges in the Carol Thompson slaying.

District Judge James K. Underhill ruled Thursday that any evidence procured by authorities in searching Mastrian's home last April 18 will not be admissible in court. Sheriff's officers broke into Mastrian's suburban Twin Cities home in the early morning after he refused to open the door, and arrested him.

Earlier this week, his counsel won the right to examine all 120 exhibits introduced at the trial last fall of T. Eugene Thompson, 36, St. Paul attorney and husband of the victim. Thompson, convicted of arranging the slaying, is serving a life term in Stillwater Prison.

Mastrian is accused of being the middleman who paid off the confessed slayer, Dick W.C. Anderson, former Minneapolis salesman who has not gone to trial yet.

Senate Set To Give OK To Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appeared ready today to give its final approval, by an overwhelming margin, to the $11.6 billion tax cut bill.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield, calling his colleagues in two hours early for the sixth straight day, said he was confident the passage vote would come this afternoon.

Practically all individuals and corporations would get a break under the bill. Most individuals would get reductions of about 19 per cent.

One major hurdle remained for Johnson administration forces who have been in control throughout the long debate.

It was an amendment of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to clamp on a $100 billion government spending ceiling so that the individual and corporate tax cuts in the bill would be rescinded any time federal outlays exceeded that figure.

The spending total for the current year ending June 30 is estimated at $98.4 billion. President Johnson has submitted a $97.9 billion budget for the year starting July 1.

Democratic leaders expected to beat down the McClellan proposal with arguments that it would be inflexible and unworkable.

Johnson Meets With Advisers For Two Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson met with his top military and diplomatic advisers for nearly two hours today on the Cuban crisis, and scheduled another session for the afternoon. There were signs the government might be contemplating specific actions.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the morning conference was devoted to "an examination of the facts as they are now in the possession of the United States government."

Salinger added, without elaboration, that Johnson and his key aides "obviously were doing more" than simply looking at the facts.

The President scheduled a second session for 4:30 p.m. EST.

It was believed that, out of this meeting, might come decisions on specific steps to be taken by the United States in response to the Cuban government's cutoff of fresh water to the Guantanamo U.S. Naval Base.

Johnson and his advisers, it was understood, were exploring the possibility that the Cuban government might have arranged the crisis by deliberately sending four of its fishing vessels inside American territorial waters off the Florida coast.

Johnson reported last week that the captains of the vessels, which were seized by American authorities, radioed Havana that they were inside American waters just before they were intercepted.

The Cuban government contends that the water cutoff was a response to the seizure of the fishing boats.

It was understood that the U.S. government, contemplating the possibility of a water cutoff, studied the feasibility of equipping the Guantanamo base with a plant to convert sea water into fresh water.

At the Capitol, meanwhile, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, expressed full confidence Johnson will see to it that the United States is not "parched out" of the Caribbean base.

It is obvious "we have no intention of being pressured out" of Guantanamo, Mansfield told the Senate.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, acting Republican leader, commended Mansfield's statement.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara headed the group of advisers who met with Johnson on U.S. counteraction.

Cuba cut off the base water supply Thursday and first advised the United States it would remain off until 36 Cuban fishermen seized off the Florida coast last Sunday are released. The men are charged with illegal fishing in U.S. waters.

Johnson, in a speech in New York Thursday night before flying back to the capital, said the Castro government's cutting the flow of fresh water to the U.S. Guantanamo Naval Base had been expected sooner or later and contingency plans are already in force to keep the big base supplied "indefinitely."

"Our troops in Cuba and their families will have the water they need," he declared.

Originally Havana announced it was shutting off all water to the big base until the United States released all of the 36 Cuban fishermen arrested for sailing into U.S. territorial waters.

But at a news conference Thursday night, Prime Minister Fidel Castro declared Cuba had no desire "to harm civilians, including women and children" and would therefore supply the base with water for their needs for one hour a day, from 8 to 9 a.m.

But he stressed the cut-off would remain in effect for the rest of the time and that "we are ready to fight before accepting humiliation and blackmail." Seemingly a greater threat than a water shortage was the danger the dispute would grow and involve prestige and cold war rivalry of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson advisers were said to be studying evidence that the penetration of U.S. territorial waters by the Cuban fishermen was staged by Havana to provoke an incident.

McCone leave the White House today after conferring with President Johnson on how to deal with the new Cuban crisis over the cut-off of water to the Guantanamo Naval Base. ### 29 Fishermen Held in Jail At Key West

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The 29 Cubans, on whose fate the water supply to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, appears to depend, are in a 10x20-foot cell without bunks.

Their conversation, heard outside the two-story red brick jail Thursday night, indicated they were unhappy.

"All Yankees to the firing squad," one said. After some laughter came the reply: "Yes, everybody practice shooting."

In Tallahassee, State Atty. Gen. James Kynes said Florida would not drop charges of fishing illegally in Florida waters against them because of Fidel Castro's threats. The Cubans could be fined $500 and sentenced to one year in jail.

But Kynes emphasized that Florida would cooperate with the U.S. State Department in handling the case.

Cuba says it will partially cut water service to Guantanamo until the fishermen are released.

The Cubans were held incommunicado in Monroe County jail. They spent the night on the floor and benches after eating a meal of Cuban "picadillo" — a spicy hash — prepared by the jail's Cuban cook.

Seven juveniles in an original group of 38 caught fishing off Florida's Dry Tortugas, 65 miles west of here, occupied a separate cell. They awaited U.S. Immigration instructions for deportation. They were ordered freed because of their age.

Two other adults were granted political asylum.

Committee OKs Peace Corps Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill authorizing $115 million for the Peace Corps in the fiscal year starting July 1 has won 21-3 approval from the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The total is $13 million more than the budget for the current fiscal year. Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver says the increase is needed to boost the number of volunteers to 14,000 by August 1965. The corps now has 10,200 volunteers.

BUSINESS MIRROR

U.S. Consumer Credit Growing

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Americans have embraced instant debt along with all the other modern conveniences of family living. Consumer credit has been growing at a record rate. Mortgage totals have swelled, with remortgaging to raise cash an increasing item. All of this helps boost the statistics that show the general economy is bigger and better than ever. Since savings and other family assets also have been rising—in total, if not in your particular case—financial experts pronounce the growing personal debt as still below the danger line.

It does raise some questions for bankers, manufacturers and merchants. One is the direction of interest rates. The strong demand for consumer types of credit, added to rising borrowing at all levels of government, and to the possibility that business will be seeking more loans, too, should keep the money markets firm. A little more oomph by any of the three might send demand for credit high enough to increase interest charges. This is even more likely since the Federal Reserve has indicated it would restrain credit if economic growth and a federal tax cut combined to threaten another round of inflation. A second question is how much of today's general economic prosperity depends on the big expansion in credit demand. Could any reversal of today's trend to borrow more and more for the purchase of goods, services and homes spiral into a business slump? Bankers doubt that the credit demand will slacken. And they cite as a strong point the increase in repayment of consumer credit. They say this proves both that family budgets are on the whole safely handled and that there'll be plenty of leeway for still more buying on time. Repayments rose in most months of 1963 to a high of $4.8 billion in December from $4.6 billion in November. But extensions of new installment credit was well ahead of that rate throughout the year. The expansion for the year over 1962 came to a record $5.7 billion, bringing the total outstanding to $53.7 billion. Total personal assets are far above personal debts. Only a catastrophe or national emergency could upset the books. But even so the financial experts will keep an eye on the trend of instant debt for a clue to what's ahead for business and the individual.

KWNO SPEAKS ITS MIND

- Frankly, since we first began editorializing back in 1961, we've never had such spontaneous response to any editorial as the one we ran on Monday and Tuesday of this week on the David Brinkley program — "Our Man on the Mississippi."

Our phones have been unable to handle the calls we received — mostly complimentary. We've had many, many requests for printed copies of this editorial so they may be mailed to friends all over the country.

So that everyone may have at least one printed copy of this editorial, we are reprinting it below. We'll supply additional printed copies of this editorial to all of the people who wrote in and asked for them. If, after reading this editorial, you would like additional copies, please send a postcard to:

(On Echo) KWNO SPEAKS ITS MIND

An editorial feature of KWNO News - this is Ed Allen - and this is an open letter addressed to:

Mr. David Brinkley
NBC News
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Brinkley:

Sunday evening hundreds of us in Winona, thousands of us in the area, and probably millions of people across the country settled ourselves comfortably in our chairs at 9 o'clock to watch your TV documentary program - "Our Man on the Mississippi". We re-membered your visit to our city last summer, we thought of the hours of help volunteered by our local people to enable you to get some films of our city and the area, we had tried to be both gracious hosts and helpful assistants in this project.

In return, we had expected a documentary on the Mississippi River which would truly portray its importance to the vast central United States - would show how its people lived - what they thought - what their problems were. As broadcasters, we can appreciate the almost impossible task of trying to cover this great river from Lake Itasca to New Orleans in just one hour - we wouldn't have been too surprised if, in editing this program, it had been necessary to skip over Winona entirely in order to devote the proper amount of time to Minneapolis or New Orleans.

But, we didn't expect the parade of the horrors we saw Sunday night. It seems you went out of your way to locate characters as untypical of this great river valley as possible. It started with the girl in pin curls who fell in the water at Lake Itasca, proceeded to an Indian gathering wild rice and, according to you, spending his money on beer, picked up the grasshopper catcher at Trempealeau, you added the artifacts collector at Dubuque, showed us that girls to the south of us smoke cigars in night clubs, and wound it up with an old Louisiana politician. Mr. Brinkley, these people are not typical of the people who live along the Mississippi River - any more than a study of the beatnik population of your Washington would tell us anything about the Potomac River.

Mr. David Brinkley - 2

Feb. 3, 1964

Even more important, in concentrating on these characters, you didn't tell the story of the River - actually, we saw very little of it. You skipped Minneapolis, St. Paul, New Orleans, the nine-foot channel, the operation of our locks and dams - in favor of grasshoppers, carp, and cigar smoking women - in short, you made us look pretty foolish in the eyes of a lot of our friends all over the country.

We do appreciate your saying that the Winona area is the most beautiful area on the River - but, if our fair city were to have been handled like some of the others you did touch on - we're glad you didn't spend much time talking about Winona - because we like it here.

Might we suggest this - leave that half sardonic smile in Washington and come out here again next summer. We may have a little trouble getting the same people to help you again - but, we're a friendly people and we can find someone. We'll give you the tour all over again - but this time please have your eyes open. You'll find that the people of Winona are good normal people and typical of other people all up and down our great valley - and not at all like the people you showed in your film. You'll find that the Mississippi River is a great economic influence on all America - not just two shorelines populated by some rather queer people.

We aren't a lot different from people all over the United States - yet we think we are a little special and we'd like to show you why.

But, don't bring your camera crews - we couldn't take that again. Next time you might focus on our crab grass and May flies.

Sincerely (but disappointedly) yours,

KWNO

Clergy Busy Marrying Potential Draftees

By FRANK BRUSKE
Daily News Staff Writer

There's a new theme song for Uncle Sam's selective service board these days. It goes like this:

"Where have all the young men gone? They've gone off to the altar . . ."

And this leaves a problem for the local Selective Service boards in trying to fill their monthly quota.

MISS Gladys Duxbury, Winona County Selective Service officer, reports she had 10 men ready for the February induction. These men had passed their pre-induction physicals in December.

But of the 10 ready for induction when they passed their tests, only three of them will be leaving for the armed services Tuesday.

What happened to the other six?

Two of them, after passing their physical, enlisted in other branches of the service.

Three of them are married now and two more will be getting married Saturday.

Miss Duxbury says she doesn't know if she will have any men remaining by the time the bus arrives Tuesday to take the inductees to Minneapolis.

Causing the trouble is the legislation signed into law by the late President Kennedy deferring young married men from the draft.

Miss Duxbury sees nothing but headaches. She says 43 men were called for pre-induction physicals in January. These were suppose to fill her quota of 10 to 15 for March.

ABOUT HALF of the 43 didn't pass their physicals, she reported. Presently she has enough men to fill her March quota. But she knows of several weddings coming up that will change the picture.

"Some churches are having three weddings every Saturday," she said.

For April's quota 45 men have been sent to Minneapolis for physicals and 20 more are going. She hopes by the time April rolls around there will be enough eligible men remaining to fill the county's quota. Average age of men inducted is 21-22.

But the young men, whether they are greeted by Uncle Sam or take the long walk to the altar are still hooked.

Upper River Pollution Held Critical

ST. PAUL (AP) — A 107-mile stretch of the Upper Mississippi River is so badly polluted it requires immediate remedial action, a federal sanitary engineer reported today in St. Paul.

J. M. Rademacher of Chicago, with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, gave that assessment to the Conference on Interstate Pollution, involving rivers and tributaries common to the Minnesota-Wisconsin border.

The session was under auspices of HEW and attended by officials of the two states including Govs. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota and John Reynolds of Wisconsin.

Rademacher submitted a detailed report covering examination of the Mississippi from the junction with the Rum River above Minneapolis - St. Paul, to the interstate waters of Lake Pepin.

The report said 17 industries dump treated and untreated wastes into the river along the 107-mile stretch. It added that 12 industries empty waste into the Minnesota River from Mankato to the mouth.

Rademacher also said high levels of bacterial contamination were found in the interstate length of the Mississippi River below Prescott, Wis., and Hastings, Minn., at Diamond Bluff and at Red Wing. He said this presented a health hazard for swimmers, boaters and fishermen.

Rolvaag told the conference earlier that the significance of water conservation cannot be overemphasized.

Preston Co-op Receipts Gain

PRESTON, Minn. (Special) — Receipts at the Preston Creamery Association increased $67,991 over 1962, the association's annual report revealed.

Receipts for 1963 totaled $3,675,270. Included in this was $3,537,258 from dairy operations and $138,012 from produce operations.

A total of 2,878,068 pounds of butter was manufactured, an increase of 266,180 over 1962.

This and other information will be reported Saturday at 1 p.m. at the high school auditorium at the creamery's annual meeting.

Ralph Godin, chief auditor of the Department of Agriculture, will be the featured speaker.

Three directors will be elected. Those whose terms expire included Elton Redalen, Fountain; Charley Winter, Wykoff; and Eugene Scheffel, Preston. Norman Storhoff, Lanesboro, is the association president.

Virgil Grover is general manager and Aymour Gabbert is manager of the produce department.

65 Eagle Scouts To Get Badges

LA CROSSE, Wis. — A total of 65 boys will receive their Eagle badges at the annual Gateway Area Council Eagle banquet at Holiday Lanes, La Crosse, Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

About 350 people, including parents, boys, leaders, sponsors and wives, are expected.

A. L. Nelson, superintendent of the Winona public schools, will be speaker.

Truck Sideswipes Parked Automobile

A semi-truck sideswiped a parked car on Mankato Avenue early this morning doing more than $125 damage.

The truck, owned by Rosen Livestock Co., Fairmont, Minn., was going north on Mankato Avenue. Driver Milan E. Nagel, rural Welcome, Minn., told police he was crowded to the curb by an approaching car.

He said this caused him to sideswipe a parked car belonging to Herbert Paul Albrecht, 414 Mankato Ave. More than $100 damage was done to the left rear and side of the Albrecht blue Chevrolet sedan. The truck had an estimated $25 damage to its right front fender.

Durand Man Named To Legion Board

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Upon the recommendation of American Legion department officers, Robert Blair, Durand, has been appointed as a general member of the national rehabilitation advisory board. His term will run until the close of the 1964 fall meeting.

Blair received the appointment from Daniel F. Foley, Wabasha, Minn., national commander.

HONOR STUDENTS . . . Eleven students inducted into Delta Epsilon Sigma, national Catholic honor fraternity, receive tokens of their election from the founder of the organization, the Most Rev. ## 6-County Bank Meeting Slated Here on Feb. 26

Bank officers from six counties will attend a district workshop here Feb. 26, sponsored by the Minnesota Bankers Association.

G. M. Grabow, president of the Merchants National Bank, arrangements chairman for the event, said the all-day meeting would be at Hotel Winona.

The workshop, one of 14 being held in the nine MBA districts, will be for the 56 banks in Goodhue, Wabasha, Olmstead, Fillmore, Houston and Winona counties.

On the agenda will be: State and federal legislation, competition, banking education, bank operations and association business. Association officials attending will include MBA President Thomas E. Olson, Starbuck; Vice President G. A. Ugen, Wells; Executive Secretary Kenneth A. Wales and Assistant Secretary Truman L. Jeffers, Minneapolis.

Whitehall Site For Elderly Housing OKed

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — Farmers Home Administration has approved the site of the proposed Brookside Apartments here for elderly citizens, Keil Blank told a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night.

If enough area residents signify they would like to reside in the 28 apartments planned, construction may begin in the spring, according to Blank, who is one of the promoters and corporation president.

THE LOCATION approved is on the N. L. Fredrickson farm property on the south edge of town. Present plans call for a 24-apartment building plus two duplexes. These may be changed.

A new survey will be made to determine definitely whether senior citizens prefer one-bedroom apartments or two-bedroom single cottages. Rental for the apartment, including heat and lights, would be $60-$65 a month. Rental for the two-bedroom cottage is estimated at $85 a month.

If enough people sign up and the loan is approved, this will be the first senior citizen development in the state under the FHA.

According to original plans, the living quarters in the apartment building would have one bedroom, with living and dining room combination, kitchen and bath. The building would be two stories high. Application for a $200,000 loan was made last summer by the non-profit corporation.

TO QUALIFY for living here, a single person or either husband or wife or both must be 62. Income qualification for living here would be less than $6,000 per year.

Kenneth Swenson, chamber president, asked members to help in the survey.

The Beef and Dairy Day chairman will be announced in March.

Winona GOP Caucus

Mrs. A. L. Kitt, West Burns Valley, and Dr. George Joyce, Stockton Hill, will be Winona Township delegates to the Winona County Republican convention next month. They were elected at the township caucus Wednesday night at the Gilmore Valley School. Alternates are Bernard Wagnild, Gilmore Valley, and Mrs. Joyce.

Caucus at Ettrick

ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — A village of Ettrick caucus will be held at Ettrick Community Hall March 12 at 8 p.m. to nominate candidates for trustees of the village to be voted at the election April 7. Trustees whose terms will expire are Henry Knutson, Donald Belme and Bennett Onsrud. Robert Wall is village clerk.

St. Mary's Scholastic Unit Inducts Students

The founder of Delta Epsilon Sigma, national Catholic honor fraternity, was recognized during ceremonies Thursday inducting 11 St. Mary's College seniors into the organization.

He is the Most Rev. Edward Fitzgerald, bishop of Winona.

Also honored Thursday was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Julius W. Haun, now pastor of St. Casimir's Church here, who founded the Beta Chapter of the fraternity at St. Mary's College.

This was the second chapter organized in the nation.

The 11 seniors were inducted during ceremonies conducted by Dr. William E. Blass, new chairman of the Beta Chapter. Bishop Fitzgerald delivered an address in which he encouraged Catholic scholarship and leadership.

Also present at the ceremonies were the Most Rev. George H. Speltz, auxiliary bishop of Winona, a member of the honor fraternity, and the Rev. Richard DeGrood, new secretary of the chapter here.

Talks were given by Bishop Speltz, Msgr. Haun and Brother Gregory, FSC, president of the college, at a banquet after the ceremonies.

Railway, WIDA Discuss Land For Industry

Reports are expected within six weeks on availability of several acres of railroad track for development as industrial area by the Winona Industrial Development Association.

WIDA officials said the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. is expected to make lease or purchase proposals soon on parcels of land it owns at the city's north edge. Included in the 35-acre area under consideration is the site of the old roundhouse, now abandoned and deteriorating.

Conferring with WIDA and city officials at a Wednesday luncheon were Eugene Cermak, Chicago, C&NW vice president in charge of industrial affairs, and Charles Towle, with the company's Minneapolis industrial development office. They will report findings of their conference and a tour of the property to the C&NW president, Clyde Fitzpatrick. WIDA expects to be advised within a few weeks on what part of the land may be made available for development as industrial park area.

Cermak said such studies are valuable to communities seeking industrial prospects. Cities which cannot furnish, at a moment's notice, information on land location, availability, price and services, frequently lose prospects, he said. He said the present airport industrial park is an asset to the city because it meets these qualifications.

WIDA officials said the area is needed because none of its present industrial acreage has such convenient access to railroad right of way.

First National Asking for Bids

Construction bids for the new First National Bank Building will be opened next Friday, according to A. E. Stoa, bank president.

Stoa said contractors were asked last month to prepare bids for the new two-story building at 4th and Main streets, formerly the post office site. Construction costs alone are estimated at $500,000. Total cost of land acquisition and development, building and furnishing is estimated by bank officials at about $750,000.

Lake City Plans Sky Diving Club

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — A dozen men at a meeting at the city hall Wednesday night decided to start a sky diving club here.

Dave Bremer, member of the Minnesota Sky Diving Club, was the speaker. The state Aviation Agency must approve the plan before training can start. It is expected training can start in about 1 1/2 months. Training schedules and other problems will be decided at another meeting.

30 SATURDAY

Winter Return To Be Brief

Winonans, who probably have forgotten what Winter's like, got a refresher course today, but it won't last long, the weatherman says.

Occasional cloudiness tonight and Saturday is his forecast with a low of 5-12 tonight and a high of 30 Saturday. Temperatures Sunday are expected to be near or a little above normal with no precipitation of any consequence.

THE EXTENDED forecast for the next five days expects temperatures to average a little above normal. The normal daytime highs for this time of the year are 22-28 and nighttime lows are zero to 8 above.

Generally only minor temperature variations are expected from day to day with very little if any precipitation.

Today's snow, limited to a very light fall was slated to stop during the afternoon. No appreciable amount was expected.

Hospital Driving 4 Test Pilings

Four test pilings are being driven at the site of a proposed convalescent and long-term care addition to Community Memorial Hospital.

Test results obtained will form part of the basis for bidding on construction of the 100-bed unit, hospital association officers said. H. S. Dresser & Sons, contractors, is conducting the test driving operation.

County DFL To Meet Sunday

A meeting of the Winona County Democratic-Farmer-Labor committee will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at Hotel Winona, according to Duane Peterson, county chairman.

Peterson said plans will be made for precinct caucuses, scheduled for March 3. No date has been set for the county DFL convention, which will be held in April.

auditorium were Dr. Roger Anderson of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, who presented the advantages of a larger secondary system, and W. E. Hanson, consultant on reorganization with the state Department of Education. He discussed the need for an expanding curriculum to meet the changing world and answered questions following the talks.

Superintendent Johnson explained that currently the six classes in junior-senior high school bring the district 1 1/2 units in state aid, which will be reduced to 1 1/4 units for only the four classes in senior high school after the withdrawal of the low students and reduction in enrollment to under 150.

HANSON recommended enlarging of the school to meet the needs for more specialized training. He pointed out, however, that the district can't be forced to do anything by the state department.

Questions and remarks from the floor indicated the sentiments of some in the district that if Canton should join Harmony or Mabel, those districts would have to build to take care of additional students so why shouldn't Canton build for itself.

Some members of the district also had been to Peterson, which is operating a small high school on a four-year state aid. No formal vote was taken. About 250 attended.

Canton to Vote On School's Future Soon

CANTON, Minn. (Special) — Following an informational meeting at Canton High School Thursday night, taxpayers were told they will soon be asked to cast their vote in a formal election to determine future school plans.

No date for the election was announced.

Superintendent O. E. Johnson explained three facts bulletins written by a local citizens committee and published by the school board.

BULLETIN I, carrying a picture of the North Wineshiek High School under construction, said 25 tuition students would be withdrawn from Canton High School to this Iowa district this fall.

Their withdrawal would mean a per pupil increase in costs here from the present $397 to $440, Johnson said.

"You as taxpayers must pay the $15,000 loss in tuition and the $6,500 loss in state aid when Canton High School becomes reclassified," the bulletin said. Withdrawal of the Iowa pupils would bring enrollment here down below 150 for the first time in years, reducing the Canton district to a four-year high school.

"This will be the additional cost on the taxpayers of District 226 to just maintain the school as is," the bulletin said. "Are you willing to pay this 50 percent more in school taxes?" "We recognize our children must have the best possible education. How can we best provide it?"

THE SECOND bulletin gave three possibilities of continuing to operate a high school here: Continue as at present; try building to bring the departments up to state requirements, and try operating in the same building and add to the staff and courses of study.

Any one will increase taxes 50 percent or more, the bulletin said.

The present budget is $164,000. The district school tax is about $11,000. Iowa students bring in $15,000; food and other auxiliary services add $16,000, and county tuition and state and federal aid add $92,000.

"To continue the school as is will cost the taxpayers an additional $21,000 in school taxes," the bulletin said.

A building program would cost about $250,000. "This would mean a levy of an additional $12,500 per year," the citizens committee found.

"To increase the staff, using the present building and offering more courses, which our students need, would add an estimated $5,000 per year."

"Any of the plans would increase local taxes 50 percent or more. It will take more taxes to educate fewer people."

VERLE RAMLO, chairman of the school board, presided at the meeting. Speakers at the open forum in the high school

It Happened Last Night Ethel Merman Is Going to England

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Ethel Merman told us at Carol Channing's big swingin' party for George Burns at Gallagher's that she cuts out from her fiancé Ernie Borgnine for about a month (Feb. 13 to March 18) to star at the Talk of the Town in London. "I won't see him for a month unless he can come over, but I'll return the first day I'm finished," she promised. She confirmed that Borgnine, who'll be visiting her here this week, is giving her — instead of an engagement ring — a Basset hound. "Ernie wants to be married at his house in Beverly Hills out in the garden, and I'd love it," Ethel said. (The date: Approximately June 23.) "The Merm" is a miracle woman and only she could get away with wearing a big floppy-eared Basset hound on her third finger left hand instead of a diamond.

Jack Benny said he left CBS "because I was going to quit for good, and MCA told me I could go to NBC and do a year at a time. That suited me fine." He's off to Australia for a month, for cafes and concerts down under. . . . Carol Channing kept it quiet but she left off the stage at "Hello, Dolly!" the other night and got a big scare.

ELLA FITZGERALD was at her very, very best — and so was Enzo Stuarti — at their opening at the Americana and Waldorf Monday night. . . . Ella really got warmed up once and flung her jacket into the lap of ring-sider Eva Six to hold for her. Miss Six, size 40, was one of the few who could wear it. . . . "I tried to be glamorous tonight but I couldn't make it," Ella said. She even danced, reminding folks that as a girl, she was a dancer rather than a singer. . . . Stuarti's biggest number at the Waldorf Empire Room was: "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Joyce Mathews and Billy Rose surely did look close to their third marriage for a few hours — but it's blown over and Joyce has flown back to Switzerland after two days here as Billy's house guest on sort of a "trial run." Joyce says she loves Billy, but also loves Switzerland. Some people think Billy will marry wealthy Doris Vidor and, if he does, the judge will say, "I now pronounce you both very rich."

CASSIUS CLAY watched Milton Berle at the Miami Beach Eden Roc and recited a "poem" like this: "If you want to lose your money, be a fool and bet on Sonny." Cassius then told Berle, "People are paying $250 to see me fight. I'm sure nobody's paying that kind of money to see you." Berle replied: "You don't know these prices at the Eden Roc!"

Abby Baker started in the Senate as a mere page," says Joe E. Lewis, off to Montreal to open at El Morocco, "now he's the whole book and they're gonna throw it at him." "You gotta say this for the NY school system," says Marty Allen. "It keeps the children on the streets."

BEAUTIFUL TINA LOUISE, one of the most voluptuous gals anywhere, was one of 19 candidates just voted into the Actors Studio by Lee Strasberg, Cheryl Crawford and Geraldine Paige. It's the biggest, most variable class ever taken in and includes Lesley Warren, 17, of "10 in the Shade"; Betsy Palmer, Celeste Holm and John Strasberg, brother of Susan Strasberg. Tina Louise did a scene from "The Goddess," the Chayefsky movie about Marilyn Monroe; in her exam, and is so excited about this major recognition of her acting ability that she even requested this columnist to quit printing sexy pictures of her (for a week or two).

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Comic London Lee tells of a B'way character famed for his penny-pinching: "In fact, he wouldn't even get into a fight unless it was a free-for-all."

EARL'S PEARLS: The money you saved for a rainy day buys a much smaller umbrella than it once did — Worcester (Mass.) Telegram.

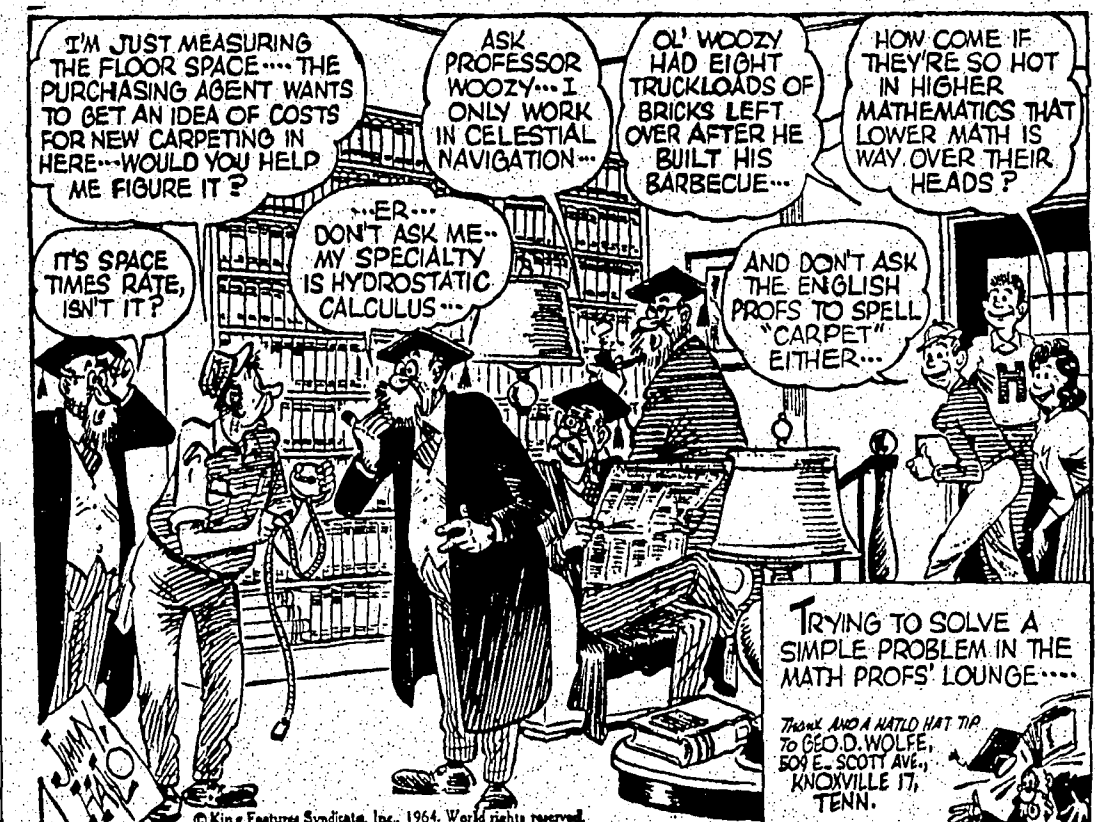

Woody Allen, very funny in his Blue Angel return, explains that his father didn't work often: "He was a tree surgeon — and he wouldn't make house calls." . . . That's earl, brother.

Fillmore County ARC Plans for Activity Center

PRESTON, Minn. — The Fillmore County Association for Retarded Children hopes to make a day activity center a reality this year, officers have announced in expressing their appreciation to county, township and village chairmen and co-chairmen and block workers for conducting the fund drive and community chests and united funds for their efforts.

The association is looking for a site for the center. Increased membership in the association and more activities for the children are anticipated this year. Of the estimated 127,000 retarded children born in the U.S. this year, some may be born in Fillmore County. The association extended an invitation to its meetings and solicited help in local and national projects.

Fishing Contests

Four fishing contests are on our calendar for this weekend. One is on boundary waters, the other three are on Wisconsin inland waters, requiring for a Minnesota fisherman who desires to attend a Wisconsin non-resident license. All contests apparently are being held on areas of perfectly safe ice despite the past week of thawing weather.

Bruce Reed, Park-Recreation Board superintendent, checked the ice on Straight Slough where the Winona Rod and Gun Club contest is to be held Sunday, and found 18 to 20 inches of solid ice. The board's crew will drill holes using a heavy tractor on Saturday.

"There is nothing to worry about as far as the ice on Straight Slough is concerned," he said. "Fishermen will be able to park on the ice as in the past. In fact, the thaw did not even loosen it along the island shore."

This Winona contest is in the river zone where fishermen of either Minnesota or Wisconsin with resident licenses may fish. Fishing hours are from 1 to 4 p.m. Fishing has been fair on the slough the past week.

Another contest that will attract a lot of fishermen, including some from Winona, is the Dodge Sportsmen's Club event at Dodge, Wis. Here fishing is from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Dodge Lake is a backwater of the Trempealeau River. This contest differs in that prizes will be given for rough fish. A charcoal broiled chicken dinner will be served at the club's tent on the lake starting at noon. The lake was stocked last fall.

A midweek check of the ice on Lake Henry, Blair, Wis., where the Blair Lions Club will hold its sixth annual contest from 1:30 to 4:30, shows 22 inches of good ice. Tagged northerners have been put in the lake with a $25 price on their heads. The committee also announced that buckets will be checked.

The other inland Wisconsin contest is that of the Black River Falls Sportsmen's Club on the backwaters of the Hatfield canal which will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The area is in the rear of the Hatfield cemetery just off County trunk E. It is reported to be a good fishing spot.

With the change in the weather prevailing, it is rather difficult to guess what fishing conditions may be for the weekend. However up to Thursday, crappies have been hitting and big northerners have been taken on tip-ups out of the backwaters. There have been a few fishermen on Lake Winona. The park board crew reports safe ice here.

More Bald Eagles
Some 155 bald eagles are spending the winter in Wisconsin according to a count in January by federal and Wisconsin observers. Of the total, 135 are adults and 20 juveniles.

The largest number, 103, were spotted along Pool 11 of the Mississippi River which stretches approximately from Cassville, Wis. downstream to Dubuque. Another 18 were counted from Trempealeau to Nelson, Wis. The Petenwell and Castle Rock flowages on the Wisconsin River hosted 28 bald eagles and six were working the river in Dane County.

Good vantage point for sight-seers is Highway 21 where it crosses the Wisconsin river south of the Petenwell flowage. Last year, because of the heavy freeze, only 137 bald eagles wintered in the state. In 1961-62 there were 226.

All-Out 'War' On TB Planned In Pepin Co.

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — A two-part testing program for tuberculosis will be conducted in Pepin County as the third area in the state to participate in "Operation KO-TB," the biggest single campaign ever launched in Wisconsin against the disease.

THE FIRST PART will be skin testing of children in the schools, with parental consent. The total schedule isn't ready yet but this is so far: Monday, Durand Elementary School, 8:30-10 a.m.; Durand High School, 1-2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Eau Galle School, 9-9:30 a.m.; Urne, 1-1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Grandview School, 10:30-11:30 a.m. Adults and pre-school children will be tested in the second part of the program scheduled to begin March 2. Adults will be given both the skin test and a chest X-ray by a mobile unit.

"The importance that all 2-600 Pepin County school children avail themselves of this opportunity for this simple test cannot be over-emphasized," said Mrs. Lois Von Holtum, county nurse.

"Newly reported cases in the state increased from 953 in 1961 to 987 in 1962, and there were a total of 94 deaths in Wisconsin from TB in 1962. "The success of wonder drugs with comparatively short periods of care and treatment of the disease if identified in early stages, makes it important that every resident of Pepin County, both old and young, be tested at this time."

THE SIMPLE, painless allergy skin test indicates if TB germs are present in the body, but a positive reaction does not mean the child has the disease, the nurse said.

X-ray follow-ups, to determine if they have the disease, are necessary for children of school and pre-school age only if they are positive reactors.

The total testing program is sponsored by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association with the approval of the medical society and the public health committee of the Pepin County Board of Supervisors, composed of Irwin Mattson, Wayne Kosok, Jonathan Wayne, Donald Sommers and Merton Gates.

Role of Negro In Wisconsin Is Discussed

RIVER FALLS, Wis. (AP) — Gov. John W. Reynolds said Thursday night that the Negro in Wisconsin "is denied an equal opportunity to vote, to learn, to work, to relax and to live."

He held an opening meeting of a two-day Grassroots Political Conference that while Wisconsin law does not discriminate against the Negro in voting, education, jobs or public accommodations, there is discrimination "by practice."

Warren Knowles, the Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, said the basic problems of the state's non-white citizens are economic and educational. Knowles told the conference at River Falls State College that "the single most effective contribution state government can make is by assisting in a program of skill training and vocational education" that will enable non-whites to hold better jobs.

Lloyd Barbee of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, joined in a panel discussion and said that Negroes are "ghettoized" in the southern part of the state. He said that the rest of the state soon will be forced to deal with Negroes.

Reynolds said that in confronting the issue of discrimination, an element of fear arises "when we discuss the claim of minorities to decent housing and to education in schools integrated in fact as well as in theory."

He said the role of government is to aid in the achievement of a peaceful revolution.

No Indictable Offenses Over Traffic Tickets

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Alterations of Minneapolis traffic violation tickets involved no indictable offenses, the Hennepin County Grand Jury decided Thursday after hearing evidence from the state public examiners office.

The examiner said several hundred tags showed erasures but there appeared to have been no monetary loss to the city. He recommended tightening of administrative procedures relative to tag-handling.

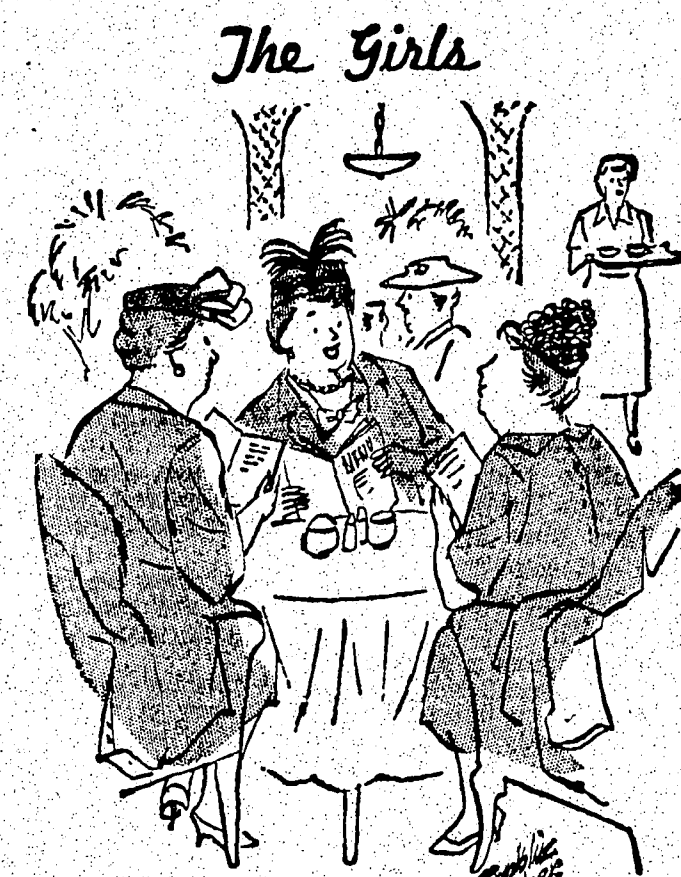

Jurors did return two indictments in connection with violent deaths in the city over last weekend.

Kenneth Woodson, 35, was charged with second degree murder in the shooting death of Matthew Johnson, 59. The second true bill accused Carl W. Layole with second degree manslaughter in the fatal beating-kicking of Orville Knutson, 45.

Janitor Fired in Ash Tray Flareup

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Douglas Aircraft Co. says it has fired a janitor who refused to empty ash trays for fear of developing cancer from contact with cigarette butts.

A spokesman said the janitor was concerned by a U.S. surgeon general's report on health hazards of cigarette smoking.

Compromise Tax Deal Rejected

ST. PAUL (AP) — A compromise offer of $1,500 to settle $4,685 in back state income taxes owed by a former Minneapolis man was refused Thursday by the State Executive Council. Miles O. ## Marshall Loses Ouster Fight in District Court

ST. PAUL (AP) — State Highway Commissioner James C. Marshall was overruled in Ramsey county District Court Thursday in the discharge of a state highway patrolman accused of "moonlighting."

Judge Harold W. Schultz directed that Richard S. Webster, fired last September for carrying on a side job as a truck driver, be reinstated to his position, subject to a four-month suspension.

The court held that Marshall's action was arbitrary, unreasonable, capricious and discriminatory and that the penalty against Webster was too harsh.

The ruling invoked a suspension against Webster from last Sept. 28 to Jan. 31 and decreed that he be reinstated to duty and pay status as of Feb. 1.

Webster, 35, of Richfield, was fired Sept. 27 after a hearing. Highway Department regulations permits patrolmen to hold some outside jobs but forbids them from working as truck drivers. Webster was picked up in Wisconsin on a weight violation. Webster has been with the patrol about 10 years.

Telephone Lineman Killed at St. Paul

ST. PAUL (AP) — A telephone company lineman was killed Thursday when hit in the head by a cable which was being installed under a downtown street.

He was John Forette, 27, an employee of Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. the past eight years.

State College Board To Fill Prentis Post

ST. PAUL (AP) — The State College Board has called a special meeting for Monday to discuss the matter of a successor to Dr. Roy C. Prentis, executive director for the board who died this week of a heart attack.

Call for the session was issued by Erling O. Johnson, state education commissioner.

Minnesota Milk Clear in January

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota milk samples showed no iodine-131 during January, for the seventh consecutive month.

Dr. Warren R. Lawson, chief of the Minnesota Department of Health's radiation section, said each of 15 samples collected during December and January had less than 10 micromicrocuries per liter, the detectable limit.

The average value for strontium-90 in eight samples collected in January was 32.6 micromicrocuries per liter. The peak period for strontium-90 in milk sampled during 1963 occurred in June when the average value was 45 micromicrocuries per liter.

The daily average intake of strontium-90 from all sources which should not be exceeded without careful consideration of the reasons for do so is 200 micromicrocuries, Dr. Lawson said.

BLAIR WOMAN HURT

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Mrs. Edwin Mickelson received an injury to the thumb on her right hand in a car door. She was a patient three days at the Black River Falls hospital. The nail had to be removed.

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

WHEN you're lucky enough to find a car that's comfortable, gives you no trouble and whose color you love you're inclined to stick with it and cherish it. For perhaps too long. So after eight and a half carefree years, reluctantly, I started looking at new cars. And what an ordeal!

Up to now I had paid no attention whatever to cars. I recognized a Volkswagen when I saw one and sometimes a Lincoln Continental, but between the two extremes they all looked alike to me. I used to recognize a Cadillac by its fins, but when a good many other cars added similar fins they again all looked alike to me. But now I set out to learn about cars and began wandering around immense store-rooms filled with acres and acres of shining new cars. Then I'd visit vast icy steppes where the wind howled around row upon row of shiny new cars. They all looked perfectly gorgeous. But they all looked alike to me, and to save my life I couldn't tell one make from another.

The more I looked the more confusing it got. All the models had impressive and beautiful names. There were astronomical names like Meteor, Comet, Starfire, Jetstar, Polaris, Galaxy, etc., and bird names like Lark, Falcon, Skylark and Thunderbird. There were Wildcats and Impalas and Cobras and Grayhounds (or is that the bus?).

There were some exciting names like Fury and Tempest and Thunderstorm (or am I mixing it with Thunderbird?). I also got the weaponry models thoroughly confused — Sabre, Cutlass, Dart and Dagger (or is that rum?). But worst of all were the geographically named models — Biscayne, Malibu, Montclair, Delray, Riviera, BelAir, Newport, Bonneville, New Yorker and I don't know what all.

As though all this weren't confusing enough many of them had import-sounding numbers attached to their names. There was the 404 model and the 202, the 88, the 66, and the 44; there was a 100 and a 200, also a 300; a 98, an 85 and an 800. I never did learn whether this had to do with the horsepower, the miles per gallon, the zip code or what.

Then in desperation I took to skulking around super-market parking lots and studying the different makes and trying to get them straightened out. After I got one make of car identified by a group of five chevrons on the front fender I discovered with dismay another completely different make with seven chevrons, then still another one with nine chevrons. And so it went — a hopeless task.

The situation got increasingly foggy and I couldn't identify models, let alone choose one out of the horde. Another baffling factor: The sportiest and most popular cars all had bucket seats and floor stick-shifts just like the ancient chariot I first learned to drive at the age of 14.

So in an unhappy fog, I just let the whole thing drift until the other day when my children said firmly, "All right, mother. Today we're all going to have lunch downtown and then guess what we're going to do! We're going out and decide definitely on a car."

So we did, and it was like having a bothersome aching tooth out. I hope I'll remember what make of car we bought.

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D., University of S. C.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Could you please help me? I am desperate. I have very slow perception and understanding when anyone tries to explain anything to me. I always have to have someone break instructions down into simpler directions, and sometimes even draw pictures.

I am always the one who has to be taken aside and explained to over again patiently and with more details. My bosses and teachers do not like to have to take this extra time. I don't know why I'm so slow to catch on.

Mrs. M. W., Washington, D. C.

Answer: The affliction you have is usually a mere matter of habit. While a person is talking, you are planning to have the matter repeated. You put off understanding until this repetition takes place.

The next time, listen to the teacher or other person. Think about what he is saying. As soon as he has finished, repeat to yourself what he has said. Practice this every time you get a chance and you will soon find yourself understanding the first time through.

This will also help you to remember what has been said.

Dear Dr. Nason: Could you please send me some help on mastering a foreign language. I think my son has a mental block or blank when it comes to studying any foreign language.

He started conversational Spanish in junior high and did well and liked it, but when he continued Spanish in high school with a grammar book, he could not learn it, managing to pass with very low grades.

Mrs. H. N. W., Raleigh, N. C.

Answer: It is probably not a mental block!

Procedures for mastering conversational Spanish differ from those required for the learning of Spanish grammar. Grammar must be mastered one rule at a time.

Have your son understand a rule and construct one or two short sentences several times and say them aloud over and over until they slide easily off his tongue and feel right to him as he says them.

He should let a little time elapse, even half an hour, before he starts on another rule.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I have a 10-year-old son whose IQ is average or a little above. He is normal in all ways except he doesn't care whether or not he gets good grades.

For example, he will fail to put the remainder up in to the answer of long division problems. In spelling he'll make m's for n's, etc.

He is repeating the fourth grade but doing no better than before. How can I help him?

N. M. W., Peoria Hts., Ills.

Answer: Your son must learn to eliminate careless errors. Help him see that writing a perfect paper takes something more than just knowing the answers, or how to solve the problems.

Encourage him to go through his papers a second time looking for just such errors as you mention. With his mind centered on the errors he'll find them.

The desire to improve his work by giving full attention to each task must stem from him. If he tries the scheme suggested, the satisfaction of success will carry over to other portions of his school work.

Nothing Has Really Changed at U. of M.

ECHOES OF the controversy between the University of Minnesota's Professor Sibley and Ramsey County's Commissioner Rosen still are being heard, although — mercifully — less shrilly than has been true in previous weeks. In large measure this improved state of affairs is due to the eminently level-headed statement issued by Dr. Charles W. Mayo, chairman of the Board of Regents, after announcement had been made of the forthcoming investigation of university employment policies and procedures by a state Senate subcommittee.

Dr. Mayo's statement welcomed the investigation as an opportunity for the regents to demonstrate to the people of the state that their university is in good hands — as, indeed, it is. He reaffirmed the truth that responsibility for the university lies with the regents, and that they are conscious of that responsibility and ever-watchful to see that it is being met.

The most unfortunate thing about the whole affair is that it ever got started. There is always an irresponsible role-player such as Professor Sibley, who will jeopardize such an important thing as freedom of discussion at our university in order to cast himself in the satisfying role of martyr. By the same token, there is always some person — more evangelical than wise — such as Commissioner Rosen, who will misperceive his target and fling mud on a great institution in an excess of zeal.

WE AGREE with our friends at the university who point out that the Twin Cities news media, by their dogged pursuit of the charges and countercharges that abounded in the Sibley-Rosen affair, blew the entire dispute out of proportion and created a public climate in which suspicion of the university could find a breeding ground. Moreover, the same media, by their seeming inability to judge the worth of the issue, played into the hands of those charlatans who always are ready to exploit mass communications for their own purposes.

Most newspapers and radio and television stations recognize the duty they have to report the news objectively. There are occasions, however, when simply reporting events as they occur is not enough. This was one of those occasions. A university official rightly pointed out that "... one ingredient of newspaper responsibility is to gauge the total dimensions of an issue as well as the absolute facts."

By faithfully and unquestioningly reporting every irresponsible statement made during the Sibley-Rosen dispute, the Twin Cities media allowed the persons making the statements to add themselves to their staffs. Anything could be said, and it would be spread throughout the state by the media. The whole unsavory affair is uncomfortably reminiscent of the heyday of Joe McCarthy.

IT SEEMS to us that the Twin Cities media, in the Sibley-Rosen affair, would have done well to ask three questions: 1. How representative of the university is Professor Sibley? 2. How valid are the charges hurled by Commissioner Rosen? 3. How important is this matter as news, compared with the vital place our university has in the social fabric of the state?

One friend at the university has reminded the news media, newspapers in particular, that they have a selfish reason to avoid overplaying disputes of this kind, in addition to their duty to their readers to avoid doing so. Damage to freedom of discussion at the university, he warned, might eventually extend "into the newspaper world where the issue of freedom of discussion is as vital as in a university."

Returning to Dr. Mayo's statement, it is worth noting some points, made by him, that we have tended to overlook in recent weeks.

"Ours is a great university," Dr. Mayo writes.

"Our teachers do stand for open, responsible communication with their students and fellow staff members. They affirm constantly in their classroom practices, and in their opinions, their responsibility to students and the public. Our teachers are not advocates of the distasteful notions which have been discussed in recent weeks."

Our friend at the university puts it this way in speaking of the great institution he represents:

"NOTHING HAS really changed. It's still a wonderful place for people to get their children educated. Their children are not in danger of being corrupted any more today than they were a year ago, 20 years ago, or 100 years ago."

My soul doth magnify the Lord. Luke 1:46.

ROBERT C. RUARK

He Remembers 'Melachrinos'

Shhh!
I just crept out of the washroom with tobacco on my breath, and made it just in time to the clove grove before the boss caught me. You know, some of us are just weak. We're not vicious, we're sick. We are a product of our time — deathseekers, if you wish, but basically weak. And if you work for a bank, like the one in Mineola, N. Y., which has sent its smokers to the restrooms, or if you live in a Texas town which won't let you light up in the streets, you're not only weak. You got to sneak, as well.

Now I have an agent who doesn't smoke and although I am mostly in Spain or London or Africa, I can feel the Big Brother coming through the correspondence. He is not, never was, and never will be a member of the Communist Party, but he's bugging me.

"Look at me!" he writes. "I haven't smoked for 12 years and I feel great day in and day out — for as many as three days in a row." I haven't felt great for three days in a row in 30 years, so there must be something to this non-smoking mania, which is making about as much sense as the usual fads, like yo-yos and hula hoops. Yo-yos sprain your wrist — a national health menace — and hula hoops slip your discs, or something.

My agent is old enough to remember Melachrinos, and so, come to think of it, I am I. I remember Patimas. I remember Three Kings. I remember smoking Turkish Trophies behind the parsonage. I remember practicing being nonchalant by lighting up a Murad. I remember rabbit tobacco. I remember mama. How old can you get?

Back in my youth I heard words such as "cigarette fiend" and "coffin nail." Coaches suspended athletes who were caught smoking in the company of known gamblers (pre-TV) and everybody knew that smoking stunted your growth.

CUBES? GRANDMA was a Cubes fiend. For her asthma, of course, but poor thing, she lived in a depressed area where there wasn't any marijuana. A little bit of governmental help and she could have grown a small stand of pot in the rose garden, but nobody used to send you any directives in those days. I think morphine got her in the end. In our neck of the woods it was cheaper than Cubes.

I had another grandma who smoked a pipe, until grandpa beat her up, severely contusing her, because she was smoking HIS pipe. She also attempted to play his fiddle and drink his hand-hewn corn likker. We had a gay time around the house in my youth, when I was out behind the barn practicing up on cornsilk so I could get to be a Lenny Bruce some day.

THE FUNNY thing is that since I have switched to straight hashish (once in a while I munch that special hashish halvah they export via the World Bank from Tangier) I have never looked lovelier. I even smell good, like a cigarette should.

Hashish (from which the word assassin is derived) is GOOD for you. All the harmful irritants have been removed. They have a new patented filter-tip — you hire a small Arab boy to smoke it for you, and blow the fumes in your face — and they have mixed a delightful blend of goat-glands and old memories into the basic stuff. We call it "stiff" — not weed.

I do not mind smoking hashish in public, because it puts the John B. Cornsilk Society off the trail, and I am free to sneak behind the barn from time to time for a puff at one of those massive killers that all the athletes used to endorse before Whitey Ford took the veil.

BUT THE latest communique from my agent has greatly unsettled me. He says that our lawyer has to smoke, because it keeps him from being nervous about smoking, but he has said that he detects a definite nicotine stain in my latest offering, a book which I have decided to call "So Little Time" and use the pen name of John Marquand.

I suppose he'll find fault with that, too, and get me to change it to "Gone With The Wind," the only difficulty being that up to now, cigarettes have not managed to change my sex, and I'd look silly as all hell being called Margaret Mitchell.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Johnson Should Arm Self With Reynold's Record

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration has been criticized for being too Madison-Avenue minded. But the truth is that, when it comes to protecting themselves from Senate attacks the Johnsonites are about as impotent as a bunch of lame tadpoles marooned on a dry mudbank.

It has been four months since the resignation of Bobby Baker made it certain that he and his ex-associate, Don Buck Reynolds would be in the headlines. Reynolds was a close friend of Rep. John McMillan, D-S.C., a leader of the South Carolina group with which Bobby Baker, the former Senate page boy from South Carolina, consorted. Despite the time lapse, neither the administration nor the Senate Democrats on the Senate Rules Committee, who knew they would do the investigating, ran a cursory check such as digging into the newspaper morgues regarding the man known to be the chief witness-accuser in the case.

Pearson

LOOKING THROUGH THE

files of the Washington Merry-Go-Round, I found that on July 5, 1953, Don Reynolds was a witness before the Senate Judiciary Committee regarding the admission of 240,000 Iron Curtain refugees proposed by President Eisenhower. That column read in part:

"Key witness was Air Force Major Don Reynolds, an ex-State Department official, who launched into charges that the staff which screened immigrants overseas was larded with Communists, sex deviates, and Jews. At one point he started reciting off the names of staff members he regarded as sex deviates. Sen. Arthur Watkins, R-Utah, indignantly called a halt on the grounds that the names were hearsay. This brought Sen. Herman Welker, R-Idaho, into the fray, angrily insisting that the names be put on the record. As chairman, however, Watkins overruled him."

WELL, YOU KNOW THE OLD SAYING, ALL WORK AND NO PLAY—

MAYBE IT'S ANOTHER STATUS SYMBOL!

ed nearly 11 years ago, indicated that the man whom the Senate Rules Committee used as the key witness against President Johnson might be anti-Semitic and certainly was careless in leveling wholesale charges at other people.

The President of the United States is supposed to have access to all files in the executive branch of the government. Senate committees, within reason, are supposed to have access to most files.

Certainly the Senate Rules Committee would have access to the old files of the Senate Judiciary Committee and to the State Department personnel records and Air Force records regarding Maj. Reynolds. A careful search of these files would have unearthed the story of how the Air Force tried to throw out Reynolds but was overruled by powerful solons on Capitol Hill.

THE STORY illustrates the manner in which the brass hats sometimes cover and retreat before the politicians.

"Sen. McCarran and other congressional leaders," stated one Air Force report, "interceded directly with top Air Force officials, including Secretary Talbot and Gen. Thomas White, on Reynolds' behalf. The secretary approved the board's findings (that he was physically fit and able to return to active duty)."

"According to the records, Major Reynolds then exerted intense political pressure. At the same time, Major Reynolds was eligible normally for separation under the then current RIF policy, as an excess officer."

"Finally, following an inquiry from a congressman to the Assistant Secretary White concerning the willingness of the Air Force to accept an unequal resignation, Major Reynolds voluntarily submitted his request for separation under AFR 36-12, on Nov. 19, 1953, with the understanding that, if accepted, his resignation would be under honorable conditions. On recommendation of the Air Force personnel board, the secretary of the Air Force accepted the 'unequal resignation' submitted by Major Reynolds and he was discharged effective Nov. 20, 1953."

THIS IS HOW political pressure sometimes operates in high places. Incidentally, the No. 1 man who yielded to that pressure, Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbot, was later forced to resign himself because he was caught using the Air Force on behalf of his personal business interests.

That is also how records of Senate witnesses either get lost in the cavernous labyrinth of government bureaucracy or else are deliberately ignored by investigating senators.

Mrs. Sargent Shriver was dashing to a birthday cruise down the Potomac with her late brother, President John F. Kennedy, when she stopped in at Charlie Kohen's antique shop at the last minute for a present. Charlie recommended a book on Boston given by Woodrow Wilson to his son-in-law, William Gibbs McAdoo, then secretary of the Treasury, with an inscription: "I always thought Boston was a state of mind." . . . The book remained one of JFK's most cherished mementoes . . .

President Johnson borrowed heavily from the pioneering of Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, Ark., in urging Congress to investigate the chain stores. It was Patman who first warned of chain store impact both on the public and on the farmer. He persuaded Congress to pass the Robinson-Patman act to regulate the chains. . . . One American singled out for recognition by Queen Frederika of Greece was Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. There are more women's clubs in Greece than in any other country outside the U.S.A. (It was the Federation of Women's Clubs which helped to launch the first freedom balloons behind the Iron Curtain in 1951.)

WHILE GIVING FIRST AID

LOUISVILLE — Richard Humphrey, a tree surgeon, went to the hospital when he was yanked out of a tree by an auto.

Humphrey tied a rope around his body then climbed into the tree and went to work.

A car came along, struck the dangling rope, and toppled Humphrey from his perch. He suffered cuts and bruises.

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

March Spreads Demonstrations

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The "civil rights" question may prove the "sleeper" of the 1964 presidential campaign. Predictions are being made that the measure pending in the House will be enacted within a few weeks and that, when the problem is debated in the coming campaign, both presidential candidates will, of course, support the principle of non-discrimination.

But when it comes to the enforcement of the new law, there is hardly a community in the United States which could not be affected by the possibility of legal action to be taken by the U. S. Department of Justice, instead of, as heretofore, by local authorities.

There is evidence already that public opinion on the issue may not, in many instances, be openly expressed during the campaign, but will be reflected in the voting.

Two important polls which have just become available indicate that the undercurrent of opposition in all sections of the country is far greater than has been generally realized.

One poll, taken in a canvass of members of the Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO), showed that the "civil rights" issue was considered to be likely to have an adverse effect on the Democratic ticket. More than 60 percent of the voters surveyed by the labor-union pollsters said they felt that the administration was moving too fast on the issue. When an inquiry was directed as to how, in their opinion, the community would vote if the presidential election were held at the time, the answer was that the people would split almost 50-50 between the Democratic and Republican candidates and that this was due primarily to the attitude of the voters on the "civil rights" question. The poll was taken last summer but results were not disclosed until a few days ago.

THE SAME general result was reflected in a poll taken by MacFadden-Bartell Corporation and just published. The two directors of the survey — Everett R. Smith and Lloyd C. Jamieson — have conducted many polls over the years among workers. This poll on the feeling of voters about the "march on Washington" last August revealed that the majority reaction of workers throughout the country afterward was one of disapproval of the "march" itself as a means of achieving racial equality. The poll also produced a sharp negative regarding all mass demonstrations.

The MacFadden poll showed that three-fifths of the workers disapproved of the "march," one-fourth was uncertain, and only one-sixth approved. Disapproval was strongest in the south, of course, while approval was strongest in the east.

One-fifth of those who disapproved of the march considered it "a futile gesture at best, with overtones of a setback at the worst." One in nine persons believed that the "march" was "the wrong approach to the problem, or that with it Negroes were pushing their aims too fast." Among other views were "fear of violence" and "disapproval of Negroes discriminating against whites."

AS FOR the long-term effects of the "march," the response was largely pessimistic. One-fifth believed the "march" would do more harm than good. Other responses foresaw "white resentment, even bloodshed." The report added: "Half of all respondents think mass demonstrations of any type will harm the Negro cause."

The demonstration idea unquestionably received considerable encouragement by the orderly way the "march on Washington" was conducted. Because there was no violence and nobody was injured, this was widely taken to mean that the device was a good one.

Today, five months after the "march on Washington," the demonstrations are even more numerous in the North than the South. Within the last 24 hours, the news dispatches have told about demonstrations and boycotts in New York City which have resulted in the closing down of more than one-half of the city's public schools. One of the Negro leaders, who warned that he could not guarantee that there would be no violence in the demonstrations, declared that any trouble would come from "outsiders" and not from demonstrators, and he urged parents to keep their children home.

TO MEET this situation, James B. Donovan, prominent lawyer and president of the school board in New York City, warned that, if violence erupted during the boycott and any child was injured, he would hold one of the Negro leaders responsible before the law.

There are more and more plans being made for boycotts of schools in northern cities. A second "civil rights" boycott is scheduled for Feb. 25 against the public schools of Chicago. Other boycotts were scheduled for this week at Chester, Pa.; Cleveland, Ohio; Omaha, Neb.; Cambridge, Md.; Atlanta, Ga., and Boston, Mass.

It seems unrealistic to assume that all the commotion in the northern cities will not have an impact on the presidential campaign. In a recent election in Philadelphia, for instance, there were surprising results. The white vote was cast almost solidly against the candidate supported by virtually all of the Negro vote.

IF THE public-opinion polls among the workers of the country are borne out by the attitude of voters in other segments of the population, the country may be in for a real surprise next autumn in both the presidential and congressional contests.

OUT OF THE BLUE
LOUISVILLE — The new addition to Bob Westmeier's household literally fell out of the sky.

Westmeier was walking downtown when a young canary fell at his feet. It obviously had been flying for some time and its strength was gone.

Westmeier pocketed the bird took it home and warmed it up. In time the canary began to peep a little and, when no one claimed the singer, Westmeier decided to give it a home.

"Well," the clerk explained, "they run A, B, C and D."

The woman thought for a moment then replied: "I better take size B. His name is Bernard."

Winona Flower-Garden Club Holds Annual Dinner Event

By JEAN HAGEN
Women's Editor

An innovation this year for its annual meeting was a dinner party of the Winona Flower and Garden Society, attended by 84 persons Thursday evening at Richards Hall, Winona State College. It was the largest attendance in the eight-year history of the organization and because of its success will probably set a precedent for future annual meetings.

A three-tiered birthday cake frosted in swirls of white and pink roses and topped by eight candles centered the head table, where small candles down its length were surrounded by white sweet pea vines and studded with pink roses. Small bud vases at all the tables contained ed gilded lemon leaves, white carnations and sprays of French heather. These were given as prizes at the close of the evening. Place cards were decorated with violets and figures of 8.

GUEST SPEAKER was John (Tim) Morris of Westgate Gardens, who talked on landscaping. Because of the sandy soil of this area, special attention should be given to fertilizing trees and shrubs, Mr. Morris said.

"The soil in Winona is really a great sand bar, so one should get something around the base of plants to keep them growing well," he said. He made suggestions about planning the design of landscaping around a house, such as considering the shape of the house and lot, and studying the pattern of adjacent yards in the neighborhood for unity.

Girl From Finland Talks at PTA Event Attended by Students

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special)—A specially arranged program at Gale-Ettrick PTA meeting Tuesday was attended by a number of students from local schools. Mrs. Howard Blankenhorn, Ettrick, was program chairman.

Vuokko Pykalainen, Finland, American Field Service student, Whitehall High School, was guest speaker. She was accompanied by Mrs. Willie Johnson, faculty representative of Whitehall AFS chapter.

Ray Erickson, Ettrick, master of ceremonies, introduced the Rev. and Mrs. Mark Rönning who entertained with piano, vocal, guitar and trumpet selections.

In introducing the guest speaker, Mrs. Johnson explained the work of the student exchange program and noted that Whitehall is the southernmost city in this AFS region. Eau Claire is region headquarters. Vuokko described her country as about the size of Montana. She explained that her country is a neutral nation. The president of Finland is elected by the people, but does not have the power of the president of the U.S., she said. The parliament of 200 is elected by the people. Voting age is 21, the state religion is Lutheran although there are many denominations. Religion is a part of the schools, the speaker said.

She explained that elementary school is of four-year duration with the best students advancing to high school for a period of eight years. After a series of tests at the close of the high school training, tests are given to determine those who go on to college.

Swedish is taught in the first grade and continues through school. German and English are taught in second and third grades and advance with the students' education. Vacations are longer than in the States, the speaker stated.

She told of living conditions in her home and of athletic and outdoor activities of students attending Finnish schools. At the close of the school year, Vuokko will join other AFS students for tour of the U.S. before returning to her homeland.

PTA officers were re-elected to serve for 1964-65. A scholarship board of one teacher and two PTA members was elected: Mrs. Henry Grover and Fred Nelson, Galesville, and Arnold Olson, Ettrick.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Starts Today

Local Girl Scouts will begin taking orders for Girl Scout cookies today, and will continue through Feb. 15.

This year there are five different kinds of cookies. There will be no re-orders after Feb. 15.

Mrs. Elmo Andersen, cookie chairman, asks that leaders get their orders in to her by Feb. 20. The orders will be delivered during the week of March 16-23. Cookie stations, where leaders will be able to pick up their cookies, will be at the home of Mrs. Andersen, 471 Wayne St., and at Grace Presbyterian Church, 222 E. 6th St.

The annual cookie sale is the only area-wide project in which all Girl Scouts on the Council have an opportunity to contribute to the support of their own program. Cookie sale profits are used to improve and maintain camps, to provide campships for many girls who otherwise could not go to camp, and to cover certain operating expenses of the camp program. In addition to the profits which go into the camping program for the benefit of all Scouts, the troop receives 5 cents on each box it sells. A girl selling 36 boxes receives a $3.60 camp bond which she may apply to the camp fee, and 10 cents per box after the 36.

Dr. Zoe Swecker To Address AAUW Members

Dr. Zoe Swecker will speak at the American Association of University Women's meeting in Richards Hall at Winona State College at 8 p.m. Thursday. Dr. Swecker, who teaches European, Russian, Asian and Latin American history at Winona State College, will speak on "Occident and Orient—Some Basic Considerations." Reservations are to be made by Sunday night.

The talk is one in a series of programs in the AAUW branch study of Occident and Orient. Dr. Swecker received an AAUW fellowship for study leading to her doctorate from the University. She has taught at WSC since 1957 and during a leave of absence she did work on Asia at the University of Michigan.

The music listening group will meet at 8 p.m. Feb. 25 at the home of Mrs. James Spear, 717 Main St.

Winona Public Schools Music Department to Present Concert

The music department of Winona Public Schools will present four bands in a Festival Concert Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

EACH BAND will present a short concert of varied interest. All of the bands will join together in a massed band of 280 student musicians, to play three final numbers as a grand climax to the program.

Complimentary tickets for the concert are being distributed by band members to parents and friends. Tickets are not necessary, however, for admittance to the concert.

PARENTS of participating students are being urged to attend. For parents planning to start their children in the band program, this is an excellent opportunity to see the band program in action.

Following is a list of members in each band:

Message on Lent Given to WSCS, McKinley Church

The Rev. C. Merritt LaGrove presented a Lenten message at the Wednesday evening meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service, McKinley Methodist Church.

The pastor stressed the real meaning of Lent, turning it a time of repentance and self denial in order to "have the right spirit within." The spirit of Divinity, he said, is the greatest power in the world.

MRS. CLARE Kreckow assisted by Mrs. Andrew Wally presented the devotions. Miss Beverly Coe sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. George Kerkow at the piano.

The business meeting was opened by Mrs. Charles Lowe, president, with reports given by Mmes. Ervin Laufenberger and Bruce Reed.

Hostesses at the coffee hour were members of Circle 6 with Mrs. James Knopp, circle chairman, in charge.

PLAINVIEW'S NEW CHURCH... The Church of Christ at Plainview is nearing completion. The congregation, under the guidance of its pastor, the Rev. Dale Robertson, has done most of the construction work on the new building. Currently meeting in the basement of the new church, the congregation expects to be using the new altar in the near future. (Mrs. Timm photo)

Pigeon Falls Probes Parish Realignment

PIGEON FALLS, Wis. — The Pigeon Creek Evangelical Lutheran congregation here, of which the Rev. E. B. Christophersen was pastor until his death in November, is exploring the possibility of forming a two-point parish with the other American Lutheran Church of this village of some 200 people, the Evangelical Lutheran Church, served by the Rev. David M. Bey.

AT A RECENT congregational meeting at which an American Lutheran Church representative talked, three alternatives were suggested: consolidation with the other Pigeon Falls church, which the synod favors; the two-point parish with the other church here, served by the same pastor, and a three-point parish with the Upper Pigeon and Hixton Lutheran churches, also served by Rev. Christophersen.

The fourth church he served, South Beef River, has reportedly joined the South Valley and Price churches near Osseo in one parish.

As the largest number of people favored the two-point parish in Pigeon Falls, the boards of both churches are studying the merger possibility. Before action is taken, each congregation must approve it by a two-thirds vote.

Meanwhile the Pigeon Creek church currently is served by the intern at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Whitehall, by courtesy of the Rev. O. G. Birkeland, pastor.

AT THE ANNUAL meeting three new officers were elected: Rolf Christophersen, son of the former pastor, was elected a deacon succeeding Gustav Lundberg. Henry Tangen was re-elected deacon. Karl Anderson was elected trustee succeeding James Hagen, and Daniel Peterson, trustee succeeding Erling Elmon.

Holdover officers are Arthur Hanson, Howard Olson and Kenneth Johnson, trustees; Arthur Ringling, secretary; Melvin Anaas, treasurer, and Newland Berge, financial secretary.

Pigeon Creek congregation has a membership of about 240 and the Evangelical Lutheran, Pigeon Falls, about 400.

Plainview Church Nearly Completed

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special) — Through the dedicated volunteer work of its parishioners, the Plainview Church of Christ is nearing completion. The congregation, which celebrated its 100th birthday in 1961, broke ground for its new church June 16, 1963, at 1st Street Northeast, and 2nd Avenue Northeast.

TWO DAYS later the congregation started dismantling its old church building on Broadway. Lumber and other items were salvaged.

The Rev. Dale Robertson, pastor, and two parishioners in their 70s, Grover Ately and Earl Ferguson, did much of the dismantling.

The new church is located on what was known as the Moravian Church property. It was purchased from the Moravian church in 1961. The property consists of six lots and a house that will be used as a manse by the pastor.

The Church of Christ began here in 1861 with the Rev. Abraham Shoemaker as first pastor and organizer of the Society of Christians. Services were held the first year at Wilcox Hall, then in the Plainview School. In 1866 the church purchased the school building and moved it onto Church Street south of the Community Presbyterian Church. Services were conducted here until the site became railroad right of way. The building was then moved to West Broadway where it stood until a second structure was erected in 1895. The chapel was remodeled into the manse. Later the parsonage was sold and then repurchased in 1918, when it was rebuilt and remodeled into the larger manse.

THE CHURCH has about 30 families, who have built and furnished their new church by themselves, except for a small loan. The congregation has been conducting its services in the basement of the new church since November. The only work remaining now is the plastering of the walls and installing an outside cross.

Mill City Pastor To Be Speaker at Lenten Services

Dr. Arnold T. Olson, Minneapolis, president of the Evangelical Free Church of America, will speak at the united Protestant Lenten services at First Congregational Church from Sunday evening Feb. 16, through Thursday, Feb. 20. Services will be at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Olson is serving his fourth three-year term as the head of the Evangelical Free Church of America. Prior to that he served 23 years as a pastor in rural, city and suburban congregations. While serving as a chaplain in World War II he was decorated twice for outstanding and meritorious service.

He is known for his Bible-based preaching and dynamic challenges to today's Christian in the light of current conditions.

Author of two books, "Pace-makers" and "This We Believe," he also is contributing editor to "The Evangelical Beacon" and is seen in other religious periodicals. His best known booklet is "Neither Right Nor Left."

He has been to Europe seven times as well as on extensive trips to South America, Congo, Hong Kong, Formosa, Japan and the Philippines. In 1959 he was received by President Eisenhower as the Evangelical Free Church of America marked its 75th anniversary. Dr. Olson serves on the advisory council of the American Bible Society, and on the executive board of the National Association of Evangelicals. He is chairman of the program committee for the 1964 NAE convention in Chicago.

Bible College Head to Speak

Dr. Harry Poll, president of Minnesota Bible College, Minneapolis, will speak at both morning and evening services at First Church of Christ Sunday.

Dr. Poll has held ministries in Minnesota, Ohio and Indiana. He served four years as professor of Old Testament at Midwest Christian College, Oklahoma City, Okla. He is a member of the board of trustees for Milligan College in Tennessee and the Christian education committee of Standard Publishing Foundation, Cincinnati, Ohio. He also serves on the continuation committee for the North American Christian Convention.

With him Sunday will be Mrs. Poll and six students from the Bible College. They will be conducting an "MBC Day" at the church. They will teach all Bible school classes, sing special music and conduct the entire evening service.

Dr. Arnold T. Olson.

Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

How to Use Vines

In a previous article we stressed the value of vines in landscaping and described the various ways that some of them, attach themselves to supports as they climb. Today, let us talk about the way certain kinds can be used to good advantage about the home.

The location where a vine is to be planted should determine to a great extent the kind to be used. If it is desired to have a vine at one, or more corners, large-flowered clematis is an attractive one to use, in fact, indispensable. The colors can be determined by the color of the house, since the clematis can be secured in such colors as white, red, rose, blue or purple. Of course, a suitable trellis should be provided for each vine.

We have grown clematis vines on all four exposures, north, south, east and west, although they may not bloom so freely on the north side. The upper part of the vine should have plenty of sun, but the roots should be kept cool with a mulch, or ground cover such as shallow rooted annuals. There is room about the average home for three, or more, large-flowered clematis vines. They are considered to be the most beautiful of our flowering perennial vines.

THE CLEMATIS with small white blossoms that flowers in late summer and fall is a vigorous grower, up to 20 feet or more. It is more suitable for use about the garage than the house, unless it is kept pruned.

If it is desired to have a vine to climb up masonry such as an outside exposure of a large fireplace chimney, the Boston ivy can be used. It climbs by means of disk-tipped tendrils. The small leaves are bright green, or purplish in color when young, and turn to crimson in the fall.

Our native woodbine, or Virginia creeper, has little use about the average home, since it is a rampant growing vine with heavy foliage. It is often seen on large institutional buildings of brick or stone.

THE WISTERIA vine with its long panicles of fragrant lavender-blue flowers seems to be decreasing in recent years, since it is not seen as frequently about homes as in days past. The varieties offered for sale by nurseries are usually of Asiatic origin with blossoms larger than those of our native kinds. They can be secured in colors of white, pink, blue and purple.

If this vine is used about the low type house, a suitable trellis should be provided and kept pruning be practiced to keep it within reasonable bounds. Such a vine is suitable, also, alongside of a garage. A good place to plant a wisteria vine is on a fence bounding the lot where it will climb along the fence at considerable length.

The silver-lace vine is one that should be used sparingly about the house unless kept pruned. It is also known as fleece-vine, or lace-vine, and is more adaptable to a garage or fence. It is a rampant growing vine with fragrant, greenish-white flowers from midsummer to late fall.

THE trumpet-vine, or trumpet-creeper, is a coarse stemmed vine that should be radically pruned, if grown on a trellis near the house. It should never be planted where it can attach itself to the house siding, or to the shingles if the house is sided with cedar shakes. If the growth enters the joints or crevices, considerable damage to the siding may result. Its large, orange-red trumpet-shaped blossoms produced in terminal clusters in late summer are very attractive to hummingbirds.

The above are some of the more desirable perennial vines for use in this area. While they are attractive subjects for landscaping they should be carefully selected as to location, type of growth, height at maturity, bloom and foliage. A few well-chosen vines properly located can add greatly to the beauty of the landscape.

DEAR ABBY:

This Advice For the Birds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have had people tell me that their parakeets talked, but I have listened to these birds and never could make out what they were trying to say — until last night! I was at the home of a friend who has a parakeet that said, "Kiss me, big boy," "Bottoms up," and "What's your hurry, beautiful?" as clearly as any human. I asked her some questions about the parakeet and she said that you first must be sure you have a male because only the males talk. The females won't utter a sound. Then she said you must put the parakeet in a teapot and whisper down the spout whatever you want him to memorize. Was she kidding me? I was too convinced at the time to question her, but now I have my doubts. DOUBTING

DEAR DOUBTING: She must have been pulling your leg. Females of all species can outtalk the male — feathered, furred or human.

DEAR ABBY: I want to sound off about these salespeople who come into your office during working hours and take up your time trying to sell you cosmetics, insurance, vitamins, etc. Don't they realize that you are working for an employer, and your time is his time? I work in a six-girl office and someone is constantly barging in to sell something. It's rude to tell them to leave, but all the while you are wondering when your boss is going to come up behind you and ask you whose payroll you're on. PEEVED FROM CHARLESTON

DEAR PEEVED: It's dishonest for an employee to spend her boss' time on the receiving end of some sales spiel. It's not necessary to be "rude" in informing a salesperson that you cannot give him your time. But if one must choose between rudeness and dishonesty, rudeness is the lesser.

DEAR ABBY: A girl friend of ours dated a fellow for seven months. She fell in love with him, and he supposedly fell in love with her. Suddenly he dropped her like a hot potato. As a result, she will not accept a date with any other man and she even refuses invitations to go out with her friends. She isolates herself in her apartment practically every night. Is there anything we can do to help her? It's been this way for five months, but none of us can reach her. R AND C.

DEAR R AND C: It's impossible to "reach" anyone who does not want to be reached. Make no reference to her "sex" and continue to invite her out with you. When she WANTS to emerge, she will.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. D. W. IN WESTWOOD: Call your County Dental Association and ask for an appointment with the committee that determines if the chiseling you got was worth the chiseling you got.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GOODYVIEW SALESMEN . . . The 28 members of the Goodyview Lions Club will be selling light bulbs in the village Tuesday from 6 to 8 p.m. Proceeds will be used to aid the blind and for community betterment. Getting ready for the sale are, left to right, Ron Putz, club president; H. C. Kleyle, personnel director, and M. F. Sweeney, vice president. (Daily News photo)

Italy's a Land Of Learning, Student Says

An American Field Service exchange student from Italy was the speaker at this week's monthly meeting of the Winona Senior High School chapter of the Junior Classical League.

Renato Castellani, enrolled this year at Senior High, described his native land as "the country of art, of lawmakers, builders and thinkers." Referring to the earliest known inhabitants of the peninsula, the Etruscans, he cited their development of the semi-circular arch, the blending of their culture with that of the Greek colonists in southern Italy and the construction later of great Roman monuments like the Colosseum and the aqueducts.

In his discussion Wednesday he asserted, "The tradition of learning is deep-rooted in the Italian people. The oldest university in the world is that of Bologna, founded in the 11th Century. Those Italian universities which cover humanistic studies, law and fine arts are of a kind difficult to parallel elsewhere."

In a question and answer session that followed his talk, Renato was asked to tell in more detail about the Italian schools — the length of the school day, number and kinds of courses and how the school day is adjusted to the five-day meal schedule of the Italians.

Rochester's
Sunday Closing
Edict Signed

ROCHESTER, Minn. — Mayor Alex Smekta Wednesday signed Rochester's Sunday closing ordinance into law. The measure, which was adopted by the City Council Monday night, now has to be published in legal form. The first Sunday it will be effective will be Feb. 18.

The mayor said he signed the ordinance "for the welfare of the working people and the retail establishment in Rochester." Smekta added that since the measure has been under consideration he has received hundreds of letters, cards and phone calls in support of the selling ban, while only 10 were received in opposition.

"It's apparent that a large majority of Rochester citizens are in favor of the ordinance," he said, "particularly retail store owners and store workers."

The sale of a large number of items is prohibited on Sunday by the ordinance. Small, neighborhood grocery stores, however, can remain open. In this regard, the ordinance exempts the "sale of groceries, meats and other foods in business establishments at which not more than five persons are regularly employed."

Service Station

Theft Draws Fine

Steven Riedemann, 21, Minnesota City, was arrested by police detectives here Thursday afternoon and charged with petty larceny. He pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay a $35 fine or serve 12 days in jail by Municipal Judge John D. McGill this morning.

Riedemann was arrested on complaint of an Erickson Service station attendant, Donald Mitchell, who claimed that Riedemann stole two boxes of shotgun shells from the station while the attendant serviced another car Saturday.

Suspension Granted

On Two Sentences

Arthur E. Burmeister, 471 E. Sanborn St., pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to charges of careless driving and driving without a license. Judge John D. McGill sentenced him to 10 days in jail for careless driving and three days in jail for not having a driver's license.

Judge McGill added that sentence would be suspended if Burmeister enters a hospital for treatment.

DEPOSIT FORFEITED

William J. West, Comanche, Iowa, forfeited $25 bond by not appearing in municipal court this morning on charges of failure to display current vehicle registration and operating a vehicle without a valid driver's license. He was arrested Thursday at 7:48 p.m. at Main and Howard streets.

Galesville Lions
To Survey Housing
Needs of Elderly

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — The Galesville Lions Club is conducting a survey here to see how many people are in favor of an apartment house for the retired. The units would be available to older couples who don't want the burden of a large home after their children have grown and left.

A money-raising stunt was the sale of political party badges at the meeting Monday night. They were sold in honor of Hugh Ellison, nonpartisan candidate for county board supervisor at the election April 7.

The Lions will invite their ladies to a Valentine party to be held Feb. 17 or 18.

Lewiston Plant

Churns 883,702

Pounds Butter

LEWISTON, Minn. (Special) — A total of 883,702 pounds of butter, worth $507,222, was churned by the Lewiston Creamery during 1963, it was revealed Thursday at the creamery's annual meeting.

Buttermilk sales totaled $4,042 and skim milk $146,252. Payment to patrons totaled $552,132.

The creamery's name was changed from Lewiston Creamery to Lewiston Cooperative Creamery Association. By-laws and articles of incorporation that have been unchanged since the creamery was organized were discussed and revised.

Theodore Thesing was re-elected president and Lowell Barkheim was elected director for a two-year term.

William Dankers, extension economist in marketing from the University of Minnesota, was guest speaker. He was chief of food agriculture and forestry for the U.S. state department two years and has done extensive traveling in Europe.

Other creamery officers are: Lester Luehmann, vice president; William Neldner, secretary-treasurer, and Frank Miller, director. Operator-manager is Marvin Benicke. A lunch was served.

Exchange Student

To Be Guest Speaker

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — An AFS student from Thailand will be guest speaker at the Luther Ann Society at the First Lutheran Church, Lake City, Tuesday at 8 p.m. The program will be in the church parlors. Mrs. Henry Thor will lead devotions. Mrs. Arlan Johnson is program chairman.

NSP CUTS ELECTRIC RATES AGAIN!

Reduction will mean $2.4 million annual savings for residential, farm and commercial customers in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota

For the seventh time in less than three years, NSP is announcing good news for electric customers.

A new electric rate cut—effective on bills based on regular meter readings made on and after March 2, 1964—will save an estimated $2.4 million annually for residential, farm and commercial customers in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

This new rate cut brings to $8,800,000 the total annual savings for NSP customers announced by the company just since September, 1961. Naturally, the biggest savings will be made by those who use the most electricity.

A further electric rate reduction is already being planned by NSP

Hawks Meet Owatonna; Ramblers Host Lourdes

—WINONA HIGH— Boland Gets Forward Call

Winona High, complete with a revamped starting lineup, tonight seeks victory No. 5 in the Big Nine Conference when Owatonna rolls into the high school auditorium at 8 p.m.

The contest will be preceded by a "B" squad preliminary between groups from the two schools.

Coach John Kenney has called on Pat Boland for a starting job at forward.

BOLAND turned in a sterling job in last Friday's 53-28 victory over Northfield and will be opposite leading scorer Bill Squires at the front line tonight when the Hawks take the court.

"I knew Pat could play forward," said the coach. "But with all the height we have, I just didn't know about putting him in the front line."

Boland stands 5-11. He is a senior letterwinner.

"He's ready to go now," said Kenney.

A pair of sophomores will be at guards tonight. Gary Addington, a regular through much of the season, will be in the back court along with Don Hazelton, who moved up from the "B" squad and into a starting berth at Northfield.

ROUNDING OUT the starting five will be center Jim Kasten, a 6-3 senior.

"We won't substitute by platoons," said Kenney, who used that form of attack at Northfield.

Although the Winona coach hasn't seen Ken Bey's Indians this year, he expects a full court press of some type.

"They always like to pick you up," he said, "so we've worked on it this week."

The Hawks will be out to avenge a defeat suffered at Owatonna a year ago. After winning six straight through December and January, the Hawks were derailed 62-54 as Owatonna broke a 17-game Big Nine losing string.

EXPECTED TO start for the Indians tonight are: 6-3 Tom Russell and 6-0 Noel Jenke at forwards, 6-3 Bob Heinz at center and 5-11 Tim Braaten and 6-0 Dennis Yule at guards.

Following tonight's contest, the Hawks must travel to Rochester next Friday.

4 Changes On Tap for State Matmen

The Winona State grapplers give it a go against the La Crosse State Indians in a 7:30 p.m. tilt at Memorial Hall this evening.

Four major changes are on tap for the Statesmen as they take to the mats. Larry Marchionda hurt his arm in practice and may not see action at 123 tonight. At 130, Bob Gunner is having all sorts of problems. Chuck Hoiness was injured early in the week, so Gunner pulled Gene Horton in to give him a change of atmosphere from his managerial duties. Now Horton is injured, and the Warriors may go blind at this spot too.

Two additional changes find Dave Haines at 157 and Pete Blum at 167.

Moving over to Winona High, we find the Hawk wrestlers and mermen both busy on the road.

The wrestlers are at Owatonna tonight for a dual with the Indians and the swimmers journey to Rochester for an encounter with the Rockets.

St. Mary's Wins Again

COCHRANE, Wis. — The St. Mary's Grade School basketball team of Winona won its 16th straight game of the season here Thursday and remained unbeaten by humbling Cochrane 60-35.

St. Mary's led 15-3, 35-12 and 49-23 at the quarter turns.

Bob Greden meshed 24 points for the winners. Hans Meiers 16 and Pat Wilgen and Paul Schollmeier seven each. Tom Rosenow hit 17 for the losers and Tim Leahy 12.

'Youngsters' Form Powerful Warrior Swim Team

By ROLLIE WUSSOW
Daily News Sports Writer

With a team dominated considerably by underclass talent, it simply does not seem feasible that a rookie swimming coach could develop a winning team in such a short time.

Feasibility would have to be excluded in the case of Winona State swimming Coach John Martin, however. The Warrior mentor has developed a team that at the beginning of the year looked on paper like a group of unworthy landlubbers trying the sport for want of something to do. It now, perhaps, has become one of the school's finest swimming squads.

With five dual meets and the Northern Intercollegiate Conference and NAIA meets remaining, the Warriors have posted a 7-1 record.

Martin has eight "freshmen," four sophomores and one senior in his front line. There is a complete absence of juniors on the squad. The Warrior coach is extremely happy with the performances of his splashy young crew, and rightly so, for they have outpointed their opponents in the eight meets 503-249, and have broken several records in so doing.

Perhaps the most impressive of the performers is freshman Rich Childers, from Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Childers has broken the record for the 500-yard freestyle event all but one time he has donned his trunks. His current record stands at 5:41.6.

Sophomore Bill Kohler holds the varsity record in the 200-yard freestyle. He set the mark against Carleton with a clocking of 1:57.4. Carleton served as one of the Warriors' victories. They dropped the Carls 51-44. Carleton's first loss in 23 matches.

The other current record-holder in Martin's yearling flock is the 400-yard freestyle relay team. The group has a spicy sidelight, that being breaking the school and pool record formerly held by North Central College of Naperville, Ill., the team that finished first in the NAIA meet last year.

It seems that State's relay team, composed of two freshmen and two sophomores in the likes of Bob Miller, Gerry Rode, Frank Braun and Kohler at anchor, beat the time of a star-studded North Central aggregation. When Central set the Memorial Hall pool mark in 1961, it had a nucleus of Dick Blick, an Olympic gold medal winner, Rueben Rocca, a participant in the 1960 Olympics, Roger Kiekofer, the NAIA 100-yard freestyle champ in 1961 and 1963, and the fourth member of the unit was a former state of Iowa freestyle champ. Incidentally, the Warrior relay time is 3:34.1.

Is Martin delighted? "Of course, the kids have been doing a terrific job and I'm well satisfied with the improvement of the team," said the coach, "but you have to remember, this is a team effort all the way, not individuality."

The Statesmen held two-a-day practices for a month (December to January) and Martin feels this had something to do with the improvement of his teams' times.

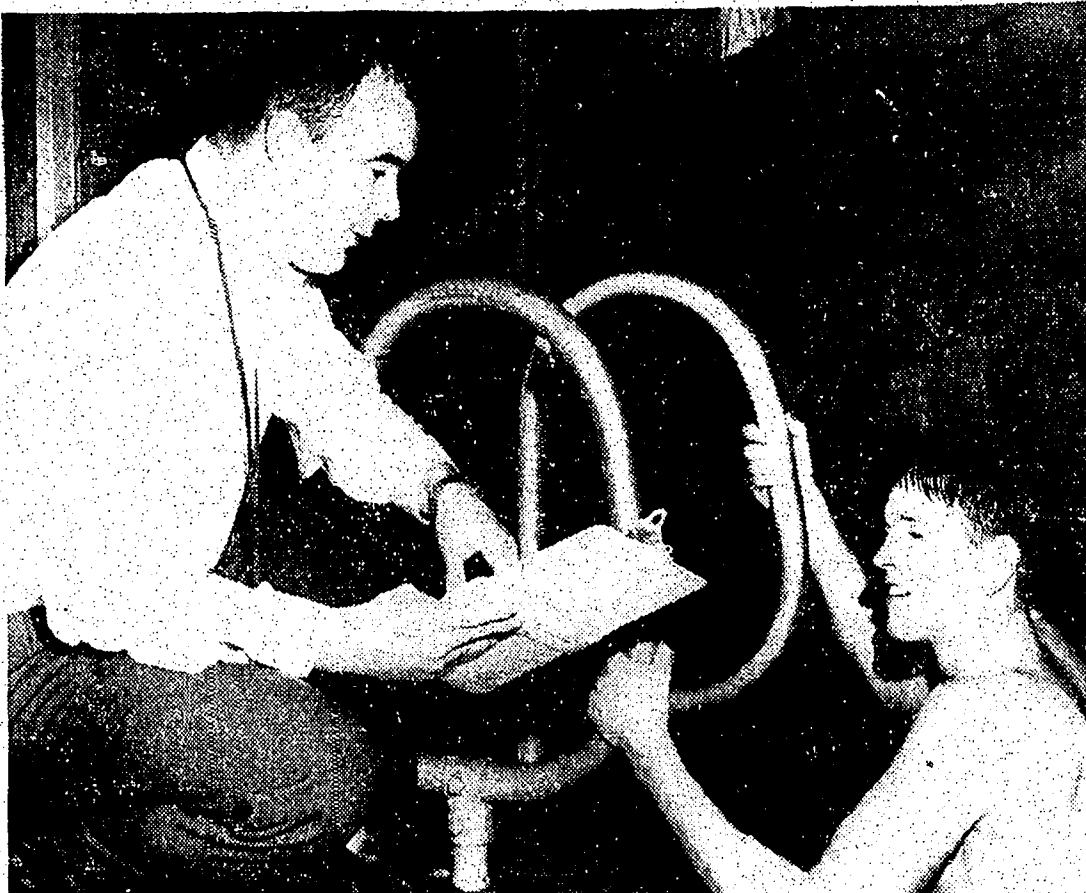

"The two-a-day practices (7 a.m. and 4 p.m.) helped," stated Martin, "but I attribute three things to the success of this team — attitude, conditioning and technique. This is the ticket. The kids have to want to swim, this is basic. When they develop this attitude, the rest comes naturally."

Martin, who coached at Kenosha, Wis., last year, had special praise for several members of his tankers. "Dwyer (John) is definitely improved. He's chopped lots of time off his specialty (butterfly), and will certainly help us. Alvin Takaki is another boy; against Plattville he swam a 3:24.6 and Monday he did a 2:48!"

The Warriors face St. Thomas Saturday in an effort to build their record. The time is 2 p.m. at Memorial Hall.

The Warrior coach does not take all the credit for developing the team. "Jim Davies, now at Wisconsin, was a tremendous help in building this team," commented the coach. "He had the squad when it was down and he stuck with it. He deserves a lot of credit."

COACH AND STAR... Winona State College swimming coach John Martin bends down to tell Rich Childers his time. Childers, a freshman, is one of the main reasons the Warriors have posted a 7-1 record thus far. Martin is in his first year at the helm of the Winona State tanksters.

—COTTER— Face Two Key Tilts

Cotter's Ramblers, rated third among Catholic High School basketball teams in the state and picked by at least one coach to be in the field of eight at the St. Paul Auditorium when the state tournament rolls around, face two major tests this weekend.

The first comes tonight when Gene Biewen's Rochester Lourdes Eagles invade the Ramblers den at St. Stan's gym. Tomorrow night the Ramblers journey to Austin for a battle with Pacelli.

"They are both tough," stated Coach John Nett, "we already have two wins over Lourdes, and they aren't going to forget that. Playing at Austin is always tough. They have an excellent team and a good record against strong competition. It'll be a good game."

Cotter dumped the Eagles early in the year at Mayo Arena 62-49, and had to work harder for a win over Lourdes in the championship bracket of the Cotter Invitational Tournament during Christmas vacation. The score of that game was 32-28 after an overtime period.

Nett will stick to his usual starting five in the two games, that being Mike Jerecek at Center, Gene Schultz and Rick Starzecki at guards and Bob Judge and John Nett Jr. at forwards. Biewen, former St. Mary's star, will put Dexter Reisch, Jim Marshall, John Van Cuyk, Jim Galuska and Tom Mason in the starting lineup.

Galuska has been the main gun in the Eagle offense — at least against Cotter. He slapped in 17 in the first meeting, but was held to six in the second, low-scoring affair. "They haven't got any outstanding scorers," said Nett, "so we'll just play them as we always have, pretty tight."

In the 17 games the Ramblers have played thus far, Schultz leads in scoring with a 14.1 average. Jerecek isn't far behind with an 11.3, and Nett is third ranked with a 10.5 count.

Both games, at St. Stan's and at Austin, start at 8 p.m.

Bruhn Will Have Badgers Two-Platoon

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin's football team will use a two-platoon system next fall because the new rules allow nearly unlimited substitution, coach Milt Bruhn said Thursday.

Appearing at the opening session of the Wisconsin Broadcasters Association convention, Bruhn said, "We're going to have badly individuals playing the defensive end positions and several other players will be developed as specialists." He predicted that the rule changes would result in keener competition and better balance among teams of the Big Ten Conference.

Bruhn said Wisconsin would have four weeks of spring practice, starting April 6, instead of the usual five weeks.

State Home, Redmen Travel

Warrior Reserves May Start

"This is the week of upsets. Ohio State did it to Michigan. Concordia did it to Duluth, maybe we can do it to St. Cloud."

That's how Winona State Coach Bob Campbell sums up his team's chances against the St. Cloud Huskies who move into Memorial Hall tomorrow night.

The Warriors have been busy all week trying to come up with something to put a kink in the Huskie victory string. St. Cloud is 6-0 in Northern Intercollegiate Conference play and in first place while Winona State is 2-4 and in fifth place.

Things still aren't too rosy in the Warrior camp after a couple of weekend losses to Bemidji and Moorhead on the road and a few frustrating practice sessions this week.

"Boy, things really are mixed up," said Campbell. "I won't know my starting lineup until game time Saturday night basically because the second unit has been looking sharp in this week's practices. Tim Anderson (a reserve) has looked real good this week along with most of the other reserves. It looks as though I'll have to choose a starting lineup from ten men."

The Warriors rank 9-11 on the season and Campbell would like nothing better than to upset St. Cloud — despite the week's complications. "Physically we're good, Petersen's (Gary) back is better now and everyone seems to be in good health. But we're going to have to come up with an all-around supreme effort," physically and mentally if we are to do any kind of a job," added Campbell.

Although the Warrior coach hasn't selected five men to start against the Huskies yet, his choice will probably center around the following: Petersen, Dave Meisner, Lyle Papenfuss, Dave Goede, Darrell Schuster, Dave Roseman, Rog Khome, Tom Stallings and Anderson.

St. Cloud will counter with Brad Johnson, Izzy Schmeising, Jack Harrison, Mike Forrest and either Dave Linehan or Norm Sechusen. Four of the Huskie starting five rank high in the NIC scoring column. Harrison is fourth with an 18.2 average. Forrest fifth with 17.0. Johnson is tied for third, averaging 16.5 and Linehan is ninth in the conference at 14.3 points per game.

Gary Petersen is the only Warrior among the elite, ranking eighth with a 15.3 mark.

Game time is 8 p.m., following a preliminary matching the Warrior freshman against St. Cloud's freshmen.

Burgman to Start for St. Mary's

Denny Burgman, a 6-5 senior from Chicago, Ill., has been instrumental in two St. Mary's basketball victories in the last week.

Saturday night he will get his chance to get in a contest at the opening tilt.

Coach Ken Wiltgen today ended a week of speculation by announcing that Burgman definitely would be in the starting lineup when the Redmen take the floor at St. Peter, Minn., against Gustavus Saturday night.

"I HAVE decided to replace Jim Rockers with Denny," said Wiltgen. "Denny has earned his chance."

Burgman came into last Saturday's game with the Gusties and, after captain Tom Hall had tied it in the second half, hit four straight driving hook shots to break it open.

At Macalester Monday, he was just as effective, pushing through 22 points and keeping the Redmen close in the first half.

"Jim is going to play a lot at St. Peter, though," said the coach, "and so will (George) Valaika and (Jerry) Sauser."

Wiltgen feels his team is ready. "We haven't worked too hard this week," he said, "but we have had some real good practices."

THE REMAINDER of the Redmen's starting lineup will have Rog Pytlewski and captain Hall at the forwards with Al Williams and Mike Maloney at guards.

The coach expects Gustavus to try and sag the middle Saturday.

"That's probably the only thing they will do differently," he said. "We hit some easy shots on them here, and they will try and do something about that. Other than that, it should be about the same. A team doesn't change much at this stage of the game."

After Saturday's encounter, St. Mary's will be busy Monday, returning to Terrace Heights to host Concordia.

Redmen Hockey Team Happy Again

MEET TONIGHT AT TAYLOR

Trojan, Dragon Heads Confident of Victory

Tonight's feature contest in the area pits Fairchild at Taylor in a battle vital to both teams' West Central Conference title hopes.

Fairchild is currently deadlocked with Alma, the Rivermen play at Arcadia in non-conference action, for first place. Both teams have 4-2 records. Taylor is just a half step behind at 3-2.

AN EARLIER meeting between the two schools resulted in a 6-52 come-from-behind overtime victory for Fairchild. But the Purple Dragons, who are coached by Oshkosh State grad Glen Durocher, have suffered their troubles recently after winning their first four Both Durocher and Taylor Coach Bill Ernst are in agreement on just why Fairchild may be skidding a bit.

"They are young and inexperienced," said Ernst. "Our leading scorer (Mike Laffie) was out with the mumps the last time we played Taylor, and we beat them then."

This is what Ernst has to say: "We should win. We will have our hands full, but inexperience should beat them."

Durocher will start a group consisting of two sophomores, two juniors and a single senior.

THE SENIOR, Duane Papke, is 6-4 and will be at center. He is averaging 15 points per game. The forwards are a pair of juniors, 5-11 Bernie Matysik and 6-0 Richard Gorkowski. The guards are sophomores 5-4 Laffie, who is averaging 18 points per game, and 5-9 Dennis Bland. Gorkowski will be making his first start.

Arlin Steien, a fine all-state prospect, will be at one forward spot for the Trojans. The 6-2 senior is averaging 26 points per game on the season.

The remainder of the staters will have 6-1 sophomore Maynard Kral at center with 4-0 junior Jerry Chrisinger opposite Steien. The guards are seniors, 5-6 Mervin Nordstrom and 5-10 John Pederson.

might be getting just a little tired now.

"I suppose we could be just a little tired," said Durocher. "The pressure is on us now."

FAIRCHILD will be out to snap a two-game conference losing streak. Pepin and Gilman own victories over the Dragons in the loop. But nevertheless, both coaches are confident of victory.

"I'm fairly positive we can win," said Durocher. "Our leading scorer (Mike Laffie) was out with the mumps the last time we played Taylor, and we beat them then."

This is what Ernst has to say: "We should win. We will have our hands full, but inexperience should beat them."

Tilts With Johnnies On

Winter is back and the St. Mary's College hockey players are happy.

The Redmen left this morning for a trip northward to St. Cloud and tonight's contest with St. John's.

Tonight's game, the first of a two-game series, will be played at St. Cloud with the teams making the short jaunt to Collegeville for a 2 p.m. contest Saturday.

"WE HAVEN'T heard from them," said coach Keith Hanzel this morning. "We expect that they are going to play them as scheduled."

Hanzel is hoping for hard ice and that's no joke. Bemidji, the only team to stop St. Mary's this year, fell to the Johnnies 4-3 Wednesday.

The contest was played in 40-degree weather and on soft ice. "Soft ice has about the same effect on fast skaters as a muddy football field has on fast

The St. Mary's coach will make no changes in his line alignment. The freshmen group centered by Dennis Cooney and featuring Brian Desbiens and Phil Reichenbach at wings will start with Andre Beaulieu's trio in reserve.

"ONE THING," said the coach, "Bob Magnuson has been skating (he has been out after knee surgery) and may be able to play. If he does, he will be at left wing on Andre's line."

Mike Bishop and Bob Paradise will be the defensemen with Jerry Archambeau in the nets. St. Mary's stands 8-0 in the MIAC and 10-1 on the season.

Stocks Edge Toward New Record Highs

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market flirted with new historic highs early this afternoon as selected blue chips again moved the averages higher. Trading was moderate.

The advance was an irregular one.

Outstanding among the blue chips was Du Pont, up about 10 points.

No particular strong group leadership was displayed although the trend was generally higher among chemicals, mail order-retails, airlines, rails and office equipments.

Several of the recently declining "glamour" stocks made moderate recoveries. Cigarette stocks declined as a sharp drop-off in cigarette tax receipts was reported among state governments.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 293.0 with industrials up 2.4, rails up .3 and utilities up 1.1. If the gain were to be held by the close, the recent all-time high would be bettered.

The Dow Jones industrial average also could make a new closing peak if it held its gain of 5.13 which put the indicator at 791.54 at noon.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged. Trading was light.
