Cold Spell Grips Much of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A severe cold spell gripped much of the nation today, plunging temperatures to below zero in a dozen states and adding snow and freezing rain to stricken areas.

Temperatures were below zero from Washington State to Wisconsin and south to Nebraska. Cold-wave warnings were in effect for a 15-state area from Texas to Ohio to Delaware.

Rain fell along a band from the Texas coast to New England. Freezing rain and snow extended from central Texas through Kentucky to the eastern Great Lakes.

In Montana, ranchers estimated livestock losses in the thousands of dollars and the National Guard helped clear snow-clogged roads.

A herd of 1,000 sheep wandering aimlessly in a blizzard crashed through the ice of a lake south of Miles City, Mont. Montana officials said 250,000 calves and 320,000 sheep suffered through the snow and cold in eight disaster-area counties.

December cold records topped Thursday, with 38-below-zero marks in Butte and Helena. It was 51 below in West Yellowstone, Mont.

Temperatures began a slow rise in Washington State, which has experienced one of its worst prewinter cold spells in history.

The restaurant atop the 600-foot Space Needle used during the World's Fair in 1962 was closed because fire escapes were covered with ice after water pipes burst from the cold.

The Weather Bureau predicted a 4-inch snowfall for the western part of the state and severe freezing rain in other sections.

More than 200 sheep perished in a blizzard in North Dakota Thursday when they jammed up against a fence in 30-below temperature and a driving wind.

Auto, School Bus Collide; Driver Killed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An elderly car driver was killed and three school children hospitalized this morning when a car and a school bus collided on a narrow, icy road in central Minnesota.

Authorities identified the man killed in the car-bus crash near Rockville as Harry Hanson, 76, retired area farmer.

Bus driver Fran Voit, 35, Sauk Rapids, had picked up 15 high school students and was taking them to Cold Spring High School when the crash occurred on a county road 1 1/2 miles north of Rockville. Rockville is 15 miles southwest of St. Cloud.

Long Prison Terms for Spies

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — An American engineer and a Russian chauffeur convicted of conspiring to spy for Russia were sentenced to long prison terms today after again protesting their innocence in court. They could have received death sentences.

The engineer, John W. Butenko, was sentenced to 30 years imprisonment on the charge, and drew two five-year concurrent terms on other charges.

Critics Won't Push Him Out, Barry Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater was described by close associates today as saying angrily that the drive against Dean Burch is really aimed at him and critics are "not going to push me out of the Republican party."

The defeated GOP presidential nominee told influential Republicans who talked to him at his Phoenix home recently he is solidly behind Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican national committee. Burch's ouster has been sought by some elements of the party, including a majority of the 18 GOP governors and governors-elect.

Burch returned to Washington Thursday night after a conference in Phoenix with Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller of New York, who ran for vice president. The national chairman said after the conference he has no intention of resigning before a showdown vote of confidence before the National Committee Jan. 22-23 in Chicago.

Today he turns his attention to a meeting with the party's finance committee to take up the 1965 budget.

Leaders who have talked to Goldwater described the Republican nominee as an angry man who believes that he rallied all of the party conservatives in getting more than 26 million votes. Goldwater was said to be determined that Burch should not be ousted because he feels it would be repudiation of him personally.

Burch was hand-picked for his post by Goldwater.

Although congressional leaders had discounted the controversy over the chairmanship, Goldwater was depicted as feeling it is a test of whether "these people are going to push me out of the party."

15 Patients Rescued From 2-Story House

FOUNTAIN TOWN, Ind. (AP) — Fire roared through a nursing home in bitter cold today in this central Indiana community, taking a heavy toll among the aged patients.

Fourteen bodies were removed from the smoldering ashes of the two-story wooden and concrete block structure. One man died en route to a hospital and four persons were missing.

HEROIC work of three attendants at the McGraw Nursing Home saved 15 patients, one of them burned critically.

The cause of the fire was not known immediately.

Nurse's aide Myrtle Donahue, taken with 13 patients to Major Hospital in nearby Shelbyville, refused treatment for smoke inhalation until she had told nurses which were diabetics or needed special treatment.

"None of them wanted to come out," said Paul Whittington, a volunteer fireman. "It was just too cold."

He said one elderly woman escaped from a front door in her night clothes, walked around the building and re-entered through a back door. Firemen found her in the kitchen. She was among the survivors.

Dr. Lucian Arata, Shelby County coroner, said 11 bodies had been recovered from the ruins and one man died en route to a hospital after he was found lying unconscious inside the front door.

The coroner said five of the dead, all women, were found in the concrete block addition. Others died in their beds.

Little was left of the structure but the walls. A Christmas wreath still hung on the front door.

One survivor was taken into a private home and another to Greenfield, Ind. The latter was reported in critical condition.

Conrad Flight Off Few Days

PRETORIA, South Africa — Max Conrad, America's flying grandfather from Winona, Minn., said Thursday he plans to spend the next few days here before resuming his attempt to break his own long distance record in a light plane.

Conrad, 81, said he needs that much time to check the plane over. He took off from Cape Town enroute to New Orleans, La., Wednesday but an oil leak forced him to make an emergency landing at Alexander Bay.

He arrived here Wednesday in his twin-engine Comanche.

A Christmas Present

Canada Getting Maple Leaf Flag

Members of Canadian Parliament hold new Canadian flag

OTTAWA (AP) — A maple leaf flag should be flying over Canada's 10 provinces by Christmas, as promised by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson in his campaign against French-Canadian separatism.

The Senate voted 38-23 Thursday night for the red and white maple leaf banner. The House of Commons approved the new flag Tuesday. Only a routine proclamation by Queen Elizabeth II is needed to make the flag official.

It will have a single red maple leaf on a white background, flanked by two red panels. King George V, Queen Elizabeth's grandfather, proclaimed three maple leaves the emblem of Canada in 1921.

Since that time Canadian servicemen have worn the emblem as a shoulder patch on their uniforms. However, servicemen's organizations joined members of the Conservative party in a vigorous campaign against abandonment of the flag under which they had gone into battle in two world wars — the red ensign, which has the Union Jack in the upper left quadrant.

Although never proclaimed the national flag, it has been accepted internationally as such since a Liberal government in 1944 ordered it flown over all government buildings.

In a move to appease those still faithful to the Union Jack, the House of Commons by a vote of 182-25, approved Thursday a proposal to fly the Union Jack also as a symbol of allegiance to the crown and membership in the commonwealth.

At one time, Pearson said the fate of his Liberal party's control rode with the maple leaf.

Cattle Suffer In Awful Cold

By JERRY ROBBINS
GLEN DIVE, Mont. (AP) — The cattle stand unmoving, unseeing, literally frozen still.

The nose and mouth seem frozen shut by ice, but steam from warm breath tells you they still live, if only shortly. You wonder can they last another night of below-zero weather without food and some shelter.

The hair is caked with ice and snow. Many cannot see. Some look with one eye. They must have 100 pounds of ice on their backs.

It's a pitiful sight. There's no way to help them.

There is no way to know how extensive the loss of livestock may be. The roads and prairies are clogged with snow. From the air, the cattle, whitened by blizzard ice and snow, blend into the landscape and are lost. Government agencies are sending heavy equipment to clear paths through the snow, but this may be 72 hours away, and it would be too late.

In one place perhaps 50 head of cattle were stretched along a fence, now broken by the weight of the pressing animals. Twenty-three head were dead.

Those living looked pretty weak. They probably haven't eaten anything since the blizzard Tuesday. There's very little feed out there. Some ridge tops are blown free of snow, but these are crusted by ice. There's little forage on ridges anyway.

The cattle seem to fight the drifts, tire out and die.

Eternal Triangle

The eternal triangle, we're told, is a woman, a phone and a secret. . . . Definition of an antique: Junk that has come indoors. . . . Christmas is confusing to some men. They have to convince their kids there is a Santa Claus, and their wives that there isn't. . . . Sign in a Brooklyn bar: "Please Remove Your Tie — We Hate Showoffs." . . . Charm, according to the cynic, is the ability to make someone else feel he is as wonderful as you are.

Big Tanker Plane Crashes

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A huge Air National Guard tanker plane crashed, exploded and burned on an attempted landing at Greater Southwest International Airport Thursday night, killing 4 of the 11 men aboard.

The seven guardsmen who survived the fiery crash in sub-freezing weather were taken to Parkland Hospital in Dallas. Authorities said none was believed seriously injured.

American Soldier Defects to Reds

FULDA, Germany (AP) — A 20-year-old American soldier drove to the East German border with a girl and the two fled into Communist territory, West German police say.

U.S. Army authorities confirmed that a private first class was missing but would not identify him until relatives were notified.

Police said the young man, wearing civilian clothes, drove with a girl close to the Iron Curtain border near the hamlet of Mansbach on Wednesday.

Although grievously wounded, Skalmann managed to get back to his patrol car and radio a report on the shooting. The car he described was found abandoned 10 miles from the shooting scene on Highway 61 about three miles north of here.

Brown was reported to have hitchhiked into Minneapolis from the spot where his car was located. Skalmann was taken first to the Forest Lake Hospital but later was transferred to Ancker Hospital in St. Paul. He spent several hours during the night in surgery.

Police said they had been unable to establish a reason for the fusillade of shots directed at Skalmann. He was wounded twice in the face with other bullets striking the base of the skull and his neck.

CHRISTMAS SEALS fight TB and other RESPIRATORY DISEASES

Their KC97, a prop-driven craft, cracked up at the south end of the airport, which is midway between Dallas and Fort Worth. Fire units battled 2 1/2 hours to douse the flames.

The plane, from the 136th Air Refueling Group at Hensley Field in the Dallas suburb of Grand Prairie, was on a four-hour training mission.

Air Force spokesmen said the tanker apparently hit an embankment on a practice approach and this ripped away the landing gear.

Flames shot out 300 yards. Pieces of the plane, including its four engines, were scattered across a wide section.

The Air Force identified the dead as:

- M. Sgt. Roy R. Sybert, 33, of Hurst, Tex.
- M. Sgt. Robert E. Weeks, 26, of Arlington, Tex.
- T. Sgt. Emil J. Trojacek, 29, of Dallas.
- S. Sgt. Charles W. Elmore, 30, of Dallas.

U.S. Army authorities confirmed that a private first class was missing but would not identify him until relatives were notified.

Police said the young man, wearing civilian clothes, drove with a girl close to the Iron Curtain border near the hamlet of Mansbach on Wednesday.

Mother Gets Suspended Term On School Charge

A 30-day suspended sentence was meted out to a La Crosse woman who pleaded guilty in municipal court Thursday to keeping her 12-year-old son out of school.

Judge John D. McGill suspended the sentence on condition that Mrs. Doris Neumann enroll her son in a La Crosse school and have the principal send the court a letter to that effect within 30 days.

Mrs. Neumann had been living in Winona with her husband and children for some months but the family's legal residence is La Crosse. The family was packed Thursday morning for the return to La Crosse when Sheriff George Fort served Mrs. Neumann with a warrant to appear in municipal court.

County Attorney S. A. Sawyer represented the state in the action. Mrs. Neumann at first pleaded not guilty to the charge, maintaining that her son had been sick. But she changed her plea to guilty and received the suspended sentence.

The Neumanns left Thursday for La Crosse where they will be required to enroll the 12-year-old in school within 30 days, under the terms laid down by Judge McGill.

Mail Volume Down Slightly; Will Change

Mail volume at the post office here is down slightly from 1964 figures, but next week should change that situation, according to C. L. Wood, assistant postmaster.

For example, on Dec. 16 last year, 45,700 pieces of meter-canceled mail went through the post office, and another 75,000 pieces of machine-canceled mail (mail canceled at the post office) were handled. The total was 120,700.

ON THE SAME date this year, all cancellations totaled 69,500.

The reason for the somewhat slower pace, Wood said, is that Christmas is on a Friday this year, giving postal patrons two extra mailing days next week. Wood predicted that mail volume will hit a peak Monday.

The last year Christmas was on a Friday was 1959. Since then, mail volume is supposed to have increased about 2 percent. This was true here up until Thursday, Wood said; the rate of increase, in fact, was slightly greater than that.

THE VOLUME dropped Thursday (63,900 cancellations to Wednesday's 69,500), however, putting the increase at less than 2 percent.

In 1959—from Dec. 12 through 17—there were 293,972 cancellations at the post office. This year's figure is 296,248.

All cancellations (meter and machine) here during the same period totaled 416,100. There were 817,100 pieces of incoming mail handled, and outgoing pieces totaled 828,600.

The total volume—incoming and outgoing mail—came to 1,645,700 pieces.

IN ANTICIPATION of Monday's predicted mailing rush, Wood urged postal patrons to mail cards and parcels as soon as possible. He noted that it was too late now to mail early.

He suggested use of air mail and special delivery service to guarantee on-time delivery of late-mailed items. He suggested, too, that ZIP-codes be used, because they might assure bringing a package to its destination 24 hours earlier than one without the five-digit code.

The post office will provide all delivery services Saturday, and will keep its windows—normally closed at noon Saturdays—open until 5 p.m. The post office will be closed Sunday, however.

Cars Collide At Intersection

A collision at 4th and Center streets Thursday at 9:10 p.m. caused more than $200 damage to the two vehicles involved. No injuries resulted.

Frank E. Rhoden, 25, Denver, Colo., was driving south on Center Street and Georgianna C. Loomis, 22, Winona Rte. 3, was driving east on 4th Street when they collided in the center of the intersection.

Rhoden's car wound up on the sidewalk at the southeast corner. Damage was to the right front of his car and to the left front of the Loomis vehicle.

Patrolmen Lyle E. Lattman and George M. Liebsch investigated.

Cotter Lists Needs At New Senior High

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Daily News Staff Writer

Preliminary exploration of areas in which Winona Senior High School might serve Cotter High School students when a new public high school building is constructed here was made by representatives of the Winona Board of Education and the Cotter Advisory Board Thursday night.

The Cotter proposal, which members of the eight-member delegation from advisory committee pointed out could be subject to adjustments to accommodate future situations, was essentially this:

• Cotter curriculum offerings would include English, Latin, religion, social studies, basic sciences and mathematics.

• Cotter students would attend classes at the new Senior High School building for such elective courses as advanced sciences, domestic arts, industrial arts, physical education, commercial subjects, modern foreign languages, art and band.

ESTABLISHMENT of the shared time program would be contingent on construction of the expanded public high school plant, approval of the school board and solution of transportation and other problems that might be encountered.

School board President Lawrence Santelman, described Thursday's meeting as "most timely" since the suggested program, if implemented, would affect planning for the new high school now in its initial stages and suggested that after study had been given to factors discussed Thursday night a second meeting of the two boards be called. The Cotter and public school administrative officials agreed and another meeting was scheduled tentatively for late next month.

Santelman asked the Rev. James McCauley, Cotter principal, whether any estimate had been made as to how many Catholic parochial school students would be involved in the projected program.

BASED ON a projected 800 Cotter enrollment—the enrollment is now 700—Father McCauley replied, the Cotter board anticipated there could be 100 students enrolled in courses in the domestic arts, ninth and 10th graders would have 160 hours a week in physical education, 115 would be enrolled in art classes, 200 in commerce, 155 in physics and chemistry, 240 in modern languages and a like number in industrial arts.

It was estimated later that should such an enrollment develop, perhaps six additional teaching stations would have to be provided in the new high school to accommodate the increased student load—although this figure cannot be firmly established until a detailed study of enrollments has been projected.

Father McCauley's figures also included ninth grade students who, under the suggested program would be attending Junior High School and would not figure directly in Senior High building plan.

Cotter students, on the formula used, would attend an average of between 1½ and 2 classes a day in the public high school. In answer to a question by Director-at-Large David F. Wynne whether "virtually all Cotter students would come to the public schools (ninth graders would attend Central Junior High School) sometime during each day," Father McCauley said he believed that would be true.

THE RT. REV. Msgr. N. F. Grulkowski, pastor of St. Stanislaus Church and this year's chairman of the Council of Administration for Winona's Catholic parochial schools, explained that the possibility of inaugurating a cooperative program with Senior High has been under consideration for some time.

Father McCauley, who spelled out details of the proposal, noted that as presented Thursday it wasn't quite as broad as had been suggested informally to Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson earlier this year when there was thought that the request would be made to allow Cotter students to take virtually all of their elective courses at Senior High. The original proposal was presented informally to the school board last fall by a lay member of the Cotter board, Duane M. Peterson.

"The program was revised," Father McCauley said, "to assure continuance of Cotter as a high school and to make sure that nothing would hinder its continued existence or effect a loss of its identity."

As envisioned now by the Cotter board, English offerings at Cotter would cover the entire broad, general area for that course, including speech, contemporary literature and other related subjects. Instruction in social studies would include American history, American government, social science, world history, civics and economics and the course content for basic science would embrace biology and physical science.

THE DELEGATION was asked how Cotter's extra-curricular program would be affected by the cooperative instructional plan. Father McCauley said that it was anticipated that Cotter's athletic program would be maintained but that if the shared time program as outlined were to be approved band would be dropped. Glee club, choir, debate, forensics and other activities in which Cotter now participates would continue.

Noting that the Board of Education has "a keen interest in your future plans and projected enrollments," Santelman said that the ultimate action on the proposal would be a major factor in the size of the high school to be built.

"It will make a great deal of difference in whether we should plan for a school of 1,100 or 1,200 or one of 1,800 or 2,000," he commented. "It would be a sad mistake for us to overbuild, but even more serious if we were to underbuild. Now is the time for us to weigh these problems."

FOURTH WARD Director Franklin Tillman asked whether the Cotter board anticipated any problem involving transportation of students to the new high school since its site hasn't been determined and could conceivably be in the fringe area of the city.

"Basically, our proposal is concerned with education," the Very Rev. Msgr. James D. Habiger, superintendent of schools for the Catholic diocese of Winona and pastor of St. John's Church here, said, "and transportation would be a secondary issue. We could contract for transportation and this, like scheduling and other matters, would be things to be worked out after you have selected a site."

Nelson asked whether the Cotter board was thinking of having Cotter students grouped together in classes they would attend at Senior High. Members of the delegation said they could see no reason for not mixing students although the Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. W. Haun, pastor of St. Casimir's Church (who also mentioned that the term "shared time" program "is now giving way generally to a somewhat happier phrase, 'dual registration'") noted that scheduling of students traveling between the two schools might be more simple if they were kept in a bloc.

Msgr. Habiger added, "What we're interested in is the education of our children."

NELSON said that one problem that could arise if Cotter students were to participate in Senior High band activities involves a possible action by the Minnesota State High School League to embrace music activities in all public schools under league rules. That would mean that only full-time public school students would be eligible to participate in league-sponsored contests and other activities.

"This isn't a problem now because Winona's band doesn't participate in contests. The Cotter students would be able to play with the band at events not under league sponsorship."

Fourth Ward Director Daniel Sadowski asked who would be responsible for discipline under a dual registration program. Nelson said he felt that discipline would be the responsibility of the Senior High staff while the Cotter students were in the public school building but that reports of any disciplinary measures should be reported to the Cotter administration. The Cotter board agreed with such a policy.

TILLMAN said that he was concerned with the possibility that success of the proposed venture might be placed in jeopardy if a fullscale program were to be initiated immediately, without any experience in its operation.

Emphasizing that he was "only tossing this out as a suggestion," Tillman recalled that school board thinking had been directed toward construction of a core high school unit that would be adapted for future expansion and wondered whether the proposal suggested by the Cotter board might be phased out over several years to yield experience before the full program were to be implemented.

"I think we could gain some valuable experience if we go at this gradually and learn from this experience to allow us to expand the new high school in a planned way," he explained.

MSGR. HAUN questioned whether it might not be more difficult and costly to expand the high school to accommodate the larger enrollment a few years after construction and Msgr. Habiger commented, "I should think it would be difficult to tell the people of the community in two or three years that you have to enlarge the building."

Tillman, who said that he was concerned about the transportation problems that might be involved, said he found it difficult to go into planning for a fullscale program when present information about probable enrollments is "totally nebulous."

Msgr. Habiger replied that in a good many courses enrollments from Cotter would probably turn out to be close to estimates.

Santelman said that he thought one approach might be to begin any such program with offerings for Cotter students in areas where instruction is not now given—such as in industrial arts and vocational courses—or where a more or less minimal program exists.

HE SAID HE thought that in physical education some problems might develop with numbers of students to be transported. Father McCauley replied that perhaps if transportation costs appeared to be excessively high Cotter could continue to conduct its physical education program.

Peterson, who with John Widenborg were the two lay members of the Cotter board at the meeting, said he'd be interested in seeing some estimated building costs for a building geared only to public school students, compared with cost of a building to accommodate the Cotter enrollment.

Other members of the two boards felt this would be valuable and Wynne said he felt that in the interim between the two meetings Cotter and public school administrative officials could "delve into the many administrative and mechanical problems involved."

SADOWSKI'S suggestion that St. Matthew's and St. Martin's Lutheran School officials should be consulted to determine whether they might be interested in any type of shared time program (this would apply only at the junior high level) also met with approval.

Santelman raised the question of finances, noting that as part-time students, Cotter pupils attending the public schools would not be counted in the determination of certain state aids.

"There are other communities that have this same problem and I think we probably should contact them and see if we can't stimulate some interest and support for legislation that would bring us some relief here," Santelman said.

The Most Rev. George H. Speltz, auxiliary bishop of the Winona diocese and pastor of St. Mary's Church here, said he felt that transportation posed one of the major problems in the proposed program and was hopeful that consideration could be given in site selection to reducing this problem to the greatest extent possible, if the shared time program were to be undertaken.

HE ALSO SAID that the proposal as presented Thursday was drafted by the Cotter board "so that you as members of the school board would have something to work with. It's certainly understandable that you might feel it necessary to make some adjustments in this program."

"I also look on this as a noble experiment," he continued, "an experiment in coming together in Winona on an educational venture. We presented this proposal tonight because we didn't want you to be in the darkness on what we were considering and if you feel there should be some adjustments we will understand that."

Acknowledging that the Cotter group "also has some selfish interest in this," Bishop Speltz said that private schools are finding it increasingly difficult financially to expand secondary school facilities to keep up with swelling enrollments.

"WE HAVE to face the fact," he said, "that there is a possibility that eventually the point may be reached where we can't continue to expand indefinitely our secondary school and it would seem to me that if there is no shared time program you eventually will have more students than under your care. Personally, I look on this proposal as a fine experiment in community cooperation, although I know there are a lot of practical problems."

Attending Thursday's meeting were Bishop Speltz; Msgr. Habiger; Msgr. Haun; Msgr. Grulkowski; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Harold J. Dittman, rector of Cathedral of the Sacred Heart; Father McCauley; school direc-

Driver Guilty Of Holding Up Ambulance Run

Fred Bambenek, Winona Rte. 1, was found guilty of failing to yield to an emergency vehicle after a trial today in municipal court.

Judge John D. McGill told Bambenek that he believed the defendant's testimony that he hadn't intended to block a Praxel ambulance Nov. 25; but the judge concluded that he had blocked it, nevertheless, endangering his own and the ambulance driver's lives in the process.

JUDGE McGill fined Bambenek $15 with the alternative of five days in jail, telling the defendant that he would not impose the maximum fine of $25. Bambenek paid the fine.

Melvin Praxel, 507 E. Sanborn St., testified under questioning by City Prosecutor James W. Soderberg, that he had been driving west on Gilmore Avenue Nov. 25 at 6:35 p.m. in answer to a call from Sheriff George Port that two persons were pinned in a wreck near Minneiska.

His two sirens and three flashing red lights were on, Praxel said; and both east- and west-bound traffic was pulling over to let him pass. Suddenly a truck driven by Bambenek, also moving west, pulled from the right-hand lane to the left-hand lane in front of Praxel.

Praxel said he was forced to stop dead, nearly colliding with Bambenek, while the latter paused, then drove off Gilmore Avenue to the left.

BAMBENЕК TOOK the stand to tell his side of the story. He said that he never heard the ambulance's sirens and was unaware of its approach as he slowed down to make a left turn off Gilmore Avenue into the driveway of his home.

He saw two oncoming (east-bound) cars that had forced him to stop pull off the street into a parking area in front of his home, Bambenek said, and thought it was now safe to make his left turn.

As he did so, he heard the ambulance slam on its brakes behind him, Bambenek said. He was "shook up" and thought it would be better to continue his left turn rather than swerving back to the right-hand side of the road. He admitted that he was wrong not to have checked his rear-view mirror before making his turn.

Judge McGill said that he was imposing a minimum fine because Bambenek had not intentionally blocked Praxel's right of way. However, he admonished Bambenek to be more careful. The fine was satisfied out of $25 posted bail.

Give Guests Ride Home, Says Chief

Police Chief James W. McCabe suggested that hosts provide free transportation home for their guests at holiday festivities, especially if "cups of cheer" are included in the party fare.

"A cup of coffee for the road isn't enough or even practical. Only time eliminates alcohol from the blood stream," he said. Such thoughtfulness is more likely to insure a safe and happy holiday season for everyone concerned, he added.

Weather to Moderate Slightly; Still Cold

Moderating temperatures are predicted for Winona and vicinity tonight, Saturday and Sunday, but the extended forecast for the area indicated that no real warmup is in sight for the next five days.

Fair tonight and Saturday is expected with a low of 2 to 8 below tonight and a high of 10-15 above Saturday. Sunday's outlook is for a little warmer with no important precipitation.

THE temperature dropped to -8 overnight, slightly warmer than Thursday morning's -12. The high Thursday afternoon was 4 above and at noon today, under a fair sky, the reading was 8.

Temperatures through Wednesday, said the weatherman in his extended forecast, will average 10 to 15 degrees below normal daytime averages of 23-28 and nighttime lows of 5 to 11.

Warmer at the start, colder late Sunday or Monday and warmer again by midweek is the forecast. Precipitation averaging .10 of an inch (melted), occurring as snow mostly about the middle of next week, is forecast.

A year ago today the Winona high was 11 above and the low 11 below with 6½ inches of snow on the ground.

All-time high for Dec. 18 was 54 in 1923 and the low for the day -20 in 1884. Mean for the past 24 hours was zero in contrast with a normal mean for this time of the year of 20.

Hibbing reported 30 below zero this morning, lowest in the U. S., to show the cold wave had plenty of bite left.

Below zero readings were reported from a 11 Minnesota weather stations this morning with -26 at International Falls, Bemidji -22, St. Cloud -19, Duluth -18 and Redwood Falls -14.

At Rochester this morning the low was -13 after a high Thursday of -2. La Crosse posted figures of -9 and 5 above for the same times.

WISCONSIN'S numbing cold wave also began easing slightly today, giving promise of somewhat warmer weather during the weekend.

But the mercury still hovered near the zero mark in most parts of the state after plunging below that level during the night.

The Superior region set the state low of 18 below zero. Eau Claire had 10 below. Other minimum readings: Wausau -8, Lone Rock -6, Madison -3, Beloit -2 and Milwaukee -1.

A HIGH OF 9 at Burlington Thursday set the pace for the entire state. At Wausau the peak reading for the day was 1 below.

Hurley reported snow during most of Thursday afternoon and evening.

McAllen, Tex., set the national high of 85 degrees Thursday.

IN NORTH DAKOTA, vestiges of the blizzard left a few roads still blocked in the southwestern counties. Two deaths were linked to the storm in North Dakota, one of them a Minot man who died of a heart attack while shoveling snow Thursday.

Overnight lows in North Dakota were mostly in the 10 to 15 below range. In South Dakota, Aberdeen tallied -24 overnight.

WWI Vets Install New Officers

Philip Kaczorowski, county veterans service officer, reviewed provisions of a new veterans pension law to become effective Jan. 1. Loyde Pfeiffer, former mayor, also talked briefly to the group.

About 125 people attended the dinner meeting and ceremonies.

NO SNOW THERE EITHER... Just as Southeastern Minnesota, the beaches of Florida are without snow this winter. However, the appropriate outdoor garments differ slightly, as evidenced here by a couple of make-believe people who are getting burned on the beach and Mrs. Robert Lark, 501½ Harriet St. She was walking happily along 4th Street when the Daily News photographer persuaded her to come inside the warm AAA office for this photo.

It Happened Last Night Talk of Jolson, Sophie Tucker

By EARL WILSON

BEVERLY HILLS — Groucho Marx invited me to lunch at the Hillcrest Country Club — an event I always revel in... because the talk is usually about comedy... and these are the masters speaking.

"Let's don't take our wives," Groucho said. "I can't stand women at lunch. In fact I can't stand women."

So it was a stag table. Groucho said he hasn't learned to keep his mouth shut. The night before, at dinner, a woman guest of his had quoted her little boy's funny saying — and Groucho bluntly told her he wasn't interested. Realizing he'd hurt her feelings, he sent her roses and an apology.

"I don't go around quoting my kid's funny sayings," Groucho said. "And he says some pretty funny things, too, considering he's only 40."

George Burns sat down and ordered fish — "very hot" — and George Jessel came in, in a khaki uniform for his USO tour in Europe, and with Groucho, they quickly got to talking of Al Jolson. They said that Jolson would hear an unknown comedian tell a joke — and immediately burgle the leg.

"Jolson would send the comedian a telegram saying, 'Eliminate so-and-so from your act at once. It belongs to me.' And he was big enough to get away with it," George Burns said.

"IN THOSE days you tried to protect your jokes," Burns added. "Today, if they don't steal your jokes, you fire your writers."

"I played a trick on Sophie Tucker when we were playing the Latin Casino," George Jessel said. "I introduced her, and I knew she couldn't hear what I said about her."

"I told the audience, 'Be especially nice to Sophie. You know she's had some family trouble. Her daughter, Christine Keeler, got in that trouble, and

Mexican State Governor Dies In California

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — The sheriff's office said Gov. Eligio Esquivel Mendez of Mexico's Baja California died here Thursday night after suffering an apparent heart attack. He was 55.

Sheriff-Coroner Herbert Hughes said Esquivel became ill at an El Centro restaurant and was driven to a motel by his chauffeur. When he arrived at the motel, he was having trouble breathing and the driver attempted to call his physician but could not locate him, the sheriff said.

Fire department efforts to revive the governor were not successful.

"From what I can gather, he had just decided to take a ride," Hughes said of Esquivel's presence in El Centro.

His residence is in Mexicali, the capital of Baja California.

Californian Admits Killing Minnesotan

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Clinton P. Sumrall, 36, pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting of Marvin W. Clark, 34, a cement contractor from Austin, Minn.

Superior Judge Jerome H. Berenson ordered Sumrall, a San Jose, Calif. plumber, to appear Jan. 6 for sentencing. The charge resulted from a barroom shooting last Nov. 10.

Clark, who had come to California several days earlier in search of work, was shot at close range in the stomach. He died 11 days later. Police said Sumrall fled the bar, but surrendered after 36 hours.

Voice of the Outdoors

Deer Rescuers
Deer were not made to run on glassy ice. Often when they run on ice, they are unable to stop and slide into open water. Getting out of the water back onto the ice becomes a life and death struggle. If the ice edge is brittle, it is the end unless a human comes to the animal's aid.

Conservation wardens and Wildlife refuge rangers are good deer rescuers. Along this sector of the river, several such events are narrated in their reports annually. Most often, the rescued animal, after given the full treatment, dies. However the ones that survive make the effort worthwhile.

Mike Neelson, Wildlife Refuge ranger assigned to the Winona area and who lives on the Trempealeau Migratory National Refuge, saved a deer. Here is his account of the experience as recorded in his daily report to the refuge office here:

"About 11 a.m., Dec. 13, Mr. Arnie Odegaard of Winona stopped at the house and told me about a deer floundering in the icy waters below the Trempealeau River bridge. Mr. Odegaard accompanied me to the river and located the deer which was just about exhausted from trying to break ice and get out.

"After lassoing the deer around the neck we pulled it onto the ice and ashore. We then carried it to the car and hauled it to my garage where we dried it and covered it with a heavy blanket. It was almost lifeless. I built a fire in the garage but was wondering if our efforts had been wasted.

"Some time later he, a buck fawn, showed some improvement and was lifting his head. After a couple of hours he had completely recovered and without appreciation for his care, left the garage by going directly through the door window. Oh well, I guess that is wild life."

Strong Smelling Fish
Annually each winter as the ice fishing season advances we receive reports from certain areas complaining about the fish caught there smelling and tasting strong. Here is a release from one of our fishing authorities on the subject:

Fish too strong to suit your taste?
Then skin 'em.

Actually, the objectional flavor—commonly associated with game species is caused by three different factors. (1) Care of the fish between the time it's caught and the time it's cooked. (2) Diet and water conditions. (3) The skin.

Reasonable care of a catch to prevent spoilage is generally practiced by most anglers. Either keep them alive by using a stringer or other device, or kill immediately and keep them cool and separated.

Turbid water due to mud or plant growth may impart undesirable flavors to fish. This can be removed by soaking the meat in milk for several hours before cooking. The main source of bad taste, however, can be traced to the skin.

With fish that are particularly suited, such as bass, walleye and pike, filleting should be the regular procedure. One simple operation results in skinless, cleaned meat ready for the frying pan.

To fillet out a fish, make a cut down along the backbone toward the tail. Then cut forward along the underside up to the gills, keeping the blade close to the ribs. Lift this slab off, and tackle the other side in the same manner.

To separate the skin, simply slide the knife between skin and meat. These strips of pure meat are now ready for rolling in batter and frying, or baking with any one of a dozen sauces.

If strong taste has plagued your fish platters, take this advice: Switch to filleting. Who knows? Maybe the wife will urge you to go fishing next time.

School Officials Have Their Problems

WISCONSIN TOOK an important step to improve the quality of elementary and secondary education just a few years ago. Not without expressions of sorrow on the part of sentimental friends of the one-room school and criticism engendered over use of existing buildings and facilities and location for new schools, all territory in the state was placed into high school districts.

In Minnesota, similar action is being urged. The state Board of Education is currently proposing a consolidation bill that will be presented to the legislature when it meets in January. The bill would require the elimination of districts which have closed their schools and are transporting their pupils. It would require districts operating only elementary schools to combine with districts operating high schools.

The general purpose of such legislation is to provide a wider financial base for future building needs and greater capacity to assume burdens arising from demands for educational expansion. It is obvious that a smaller number of stronger districts with ample tax sources can do the job better than many smaller units.

THIS LINE OF reasoning has received strong support from a study of the country's public schools by Dr. James Conant, former president of Harvard University. Conant concluded that the proper preparation of youth for college or good job opportunities on graduation from high school could be provided only through a curriculum offering both quality and variety.

He determined that a high school that numbered less than 100 in its graduating class could not provide such a curriculum—except at an excessive cost. He, therefore, advocated an effort aimed at eliminating small, financially weak schools and their inclusion in larger units capable of sustaining a better educational program.

Few Minnesota high schools in purely rural areas qualify on this basis of enrollment. Up in Wabasha County, only the Lake City school district, with 637 boys and girls in its junior and senior high school classes, has the required size.

THERE ARE also public high schools at Elgin, Mazeppa, Plainview, and Wabasha. These districts, together with Lake City, account for six-sevenths of the entire primary and secondary enrollment of 4,181 in county schools.

Both the Elgin and Mazeppa school systems are way undersized by Conant's measure. And if rural population continues to decline as presently forecast, per pupil costs may force these districts to consider merger movements.

The county's second largest district, Plainview, is clearly aiming for the future. At a meeting held there recently, representatives of five common school districts in the area were asked to consider merging with Plainview in the interest of giving their children opportunities they cannot now provide.

PLAINVIEW school officials are planning on adding vocational and technical training courses. This would undoubtedly entail a building program. Such a venture would be easier to project with an expanded tax base resulting from the inclusion of present common district territory.

Common school district board members will probably take their time at making decisions regarding the future of their institutions. But they cannot help but see the handwriting on the wall.

Ten years ago Wabasha County counted 80 school districts. Now the number is down to 31, and ten of that number have closed their schools. The 21 remaining operating districts will have to reevaluate their continued existence in the light of increased schooling costs and reluctance on the part of taxpayers to foot larger bills. Wabasha is only one of a number of counties in the state with similar situations.

Nibble Grows Into Big Bite

A NIBBLE grows into a big bite. That is the story of many taxes. State and federal levies on motor fuels show the progression vividly, as related in the current edition of Oil Facts, published by the American Petroleum Institute.

How many motorists remember that the first tax on gasoline was enacted in 1919? Oregon began it by collecting a mere penny a gallon.

Other states followed Oregon's example, mainly to raise money for road-building. Rates rose over the years until they now average more than 10 cents a gallon nationwide. In Minnesota and Wisconsin, actually, the tax is 10 cents a gallon — six cents for the state and four cents for Uncle Sam.

American motorists are now paying well over $18 million a day in state and federal motor fuel taxes. And not all of this money is invested in streets and highways. Gasoline turned out to be a handy source of government revenue, and the taxers have made the most of it.

The Christmas decorations are delightful, as always — except that, as always, they remind us how much Christmas shopping lies ahead.

Ringo Starr, one of the Beatles, has his tonsils removed. Unfortunately, he can still sing.

The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it, John 1:9.

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Mark Motel Decision Well

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A fateful day in history is Dec. 14, 1964. On this date what many historians will describe as a federal dictatorship was established in the United States. For the constitutional provision which has declared that the people retain all powers not specifically delegated to the federal government or denied to the states now has been altered. Under the guise of regulating "interstate commerce," the federal government may hereafter step in and prescribe whatever restrictions on American life it pleases and the judiciary can call it "the law of the land."

The decree was handed down by nine men comprising the Supreme Court of the United States. No amendment to the constitution authorizing such a change had been adopted by the people, and the court's ruling now must be obeyed until such time as the people, by constitutional amendment, may repeal or revise the decree.

The Supreme Court edict puts virtually no limit on what can be called "interstate commerce" or on the power of Congress to regulate it. The decision not only applies to racial discrimination in restaurants, hotels or other places known as "public accommodations," but it also covers almost any act or activity within the states which has hitherto been regarded as subject only to local regulation by the states, counties or cities of the country.

A RESTAURANT owner may think that he can refuse to serve a person who looks to him intoxicated or who is in some other way obnoxious to him or his customers, but, under the new ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States, he will have to prove that this was the reason for his "discrimination." It will be very difficult, if not impossible, to set forth persuasively what was really in the mind of the hotel keeper or the restaurant owner. For all practical purposes, it means that not only is racial discrimination of any kind prohibited and under virtually all circumstances, but that the federal government may step in and regulate human behavior inside the states as it never has done before.

There are many businesses which claim to be local in nature. Under the new ruling, however, if they obtain from another state materials, ingredients or products of any kind which have a bearing upon the work in a particular establishment, then they some day may be also adjudged to be engaged in "interstate commerce."

THE NEW DECISION is far-reaching that it may affect employment throughout the country. Up to now, there have been many businesses inside the states which have been considered outside federal jurisdiction. It is doubtful whether any business hereafter will be free from federal regulation of its labor relations and all other phases of its activities.

The net effect is bound to be a feeling of consternation when the public really finds out that the new ruling by the Supreme Court doesn't just cover racial discrimination but establishes the power of the federal government to intrude in almost every activity that has hitherto been called local in character. For the only criterion necessary now to establish what is or is not "interstate commerce" is whether the goods, materials or equipment or food used in the operation of the local facilities in any way originates or is derived from or has moved in "interstate commerce."

THE GRINDING WAR

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Time to Make Reynolds Answer for His Stories

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The closed door testimony of Don Reynolds in the Bobby Baker case has not been made public, but it has had FBI agents scurrying all over the place trying to check on his sensational charges.

Reynolds let loose some eye-poppers when the press and public were barred, but so far investigation of his charges has led only to dead ends. Here are the most tantalizing accusations Reynolds made in the secret session: Eye-popper No. 1 — He testified that L. J. Evans, senior vice president of Grumman Aircraft, delivered $100,000 in a brown bag to Bobby Baker as the "pay-off" for the TFX fighter-plane contract. Grumman joined with General Dynamics to present the winning bid.

AFTER THE money was delivered, Reynolds testified, Baker told Evans, "the big boys want to see you," and took him in to see Lyndon Johnson, then vice president.

A thorough investigation by the FBI hasn't produced a shred of evidence to back up Reynolds' story. Eye-popper No. 2 — Reynolds charged that American Telephone & Telegraph had arranged for its executives to contribute to Lyndon Johnson's campaign and collect a rebate from the company disguised as "expenses."

The FBI found the company has encouraged its executives to contribute to the candidate of their choice but had made absolutely no offer to reimburse them from company funds.

Eye-popper No. 3 — Reynolds claimed that the famous hi-fi set which he gave Bobby Baker for Johnson's residence in a General Services Administration truck.

THIS, TOO, HAS been disputed by everyone concerned. Reynolds' favorite tales, however, have to do with the sex foibles of Washington vip's. He accused various senators and White House aides of consorting with call girls.

He testified, for example, that he once walked in on a big-name official and found him making love to a secretary. Both angrily denied to the FBI that the incident ever took place.

Reynolds also claimed that a White House aide, so close to the Kennedys that he once posed with an arm around Senator-Elect Robert Kennedy, was a boy friend of the departed German call girl, Ellen Rometsch.

THE FBI DUG up the picture of the aide in a friendly pose with Kennedy but could find no evidence that he ever knew Miss Rometsch.

Some Justice Department officials have recommended that Reynolds be called before a grand jury to repeat his charges. This would give the grand jury an opportunity to pin him down on details and compare them with the FBI's findings, then indict whoever is lying.

Note — The talkative Reynolds got his Capitol Hill start as an informant for the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, has made a career of bringing accusations against people high and low. He made complaints to the FBI against so many people, charging they were Communists and sex deviates, that the FBI finally investigated him in 1952. This led a Security Review Board to conclude that Reynolds was "a security risk."

His confidential file, which the Senate Rules Committee has belatedly voted to make a part of the official record, declares that the board "concluded in 1953 that Reynolds' past led to a reasonable belief that he was a security risk. This judgment was based on his habits, activities, attitudes, associations, trustworthiness, discretion, and loyalty."

"In June 1953," the file adds, "Sen. Joseph McCarthy attempted to intervene in the review of Reynolds' security."

SECRETARY OF Defense Robert McNamara, assuming ex-head of the Ford Motor Company, has two important documents in his files to bolster his position regarding "weekend warriors."

These are the congressional men who have the unique privilege, which other reserves don't enjoy, of serving in both the armed services and Congress at the same time and taking junkies at government expense while on active duty. They even collect double pay, both as members of Congress and as reservists.

One document McNamara has up his sleeve is the Constitution of the United States which reads: "No person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office."

ANOTHER document is an opinion by the Justice Department written at the request of President Roosevelt when he wanted Rep. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Rep. Warren Magnuson of Washington, and other naval officers to come back to serve in Congress.

The Justice Department ruled that they could not serve in Congress and the armed forces at the same time.

The senators who are gnashing their teeth over McNamara's order both abolishing the reserves and against unnecessary junkies are Maj. Gen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.; Maj. Gen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, now a Republican; also Maj. Gen. Bob Sikes, a congressman from Florida. On the other hand, Sen. Ralph Church, D-Idaho, a reserve major, went on record publicly supporting McNamara.

Foreign Aid Fight Growing

By MARQUIS CHILDS

KARACHI, Pakistan — In the annual wrangle in Congress over the foreign aid appropriation, the whole subject sounds like a dreary exercise dreamed up for the benefit of bureaucrats. But in the underdeveloped part of the world it is a vital reality on which the future turns.

Vast projects are being carried out by aid from a half-dozen countries and the World Bank. The United States is supplying considerably more than half of the financing for the consortium building the Mangla Dam, which on completion will be probably the largest earth-filled dam in the world. American aid is the spur for dozens of projects scattered about the country.

In Pakistan and elsewhere throughout the underdeveloped area of Asia, American engineers and administrators seem to have an excellent working relationship with their opposite numbers in the receiving country. These are practical men anxious to get on with the job in friendship and cooperation. As at Mangla, they work side by side and in the process learn much about getting along together.

But at the same time political frictions are eroding the political ties. While the need for cooperation is as great as it ever was, the politics of national rivalry, suspicion and fear can cut across the whole effort.

The American dilemma in Asia is rather like that in Europe: How to get on with a job essential to security and stability as the fires of nationalism flare up and are exploited by politicians at home and by Peking and Moscow for their own ends.

EACH ACTION produces its reaction and the flames that rise from U.S.I.S. libraries burning in Cairo and Jakarta will touch off new hostility to America's involvement in Asia. If that's the way they feel about us then we'd better get out. Such a reaction in Congress and public opinion is hardly surprising.

So far there has been only one minor incident here — slight damage to the library in Dacca in East Pakistan that was quickly checked by the police. This occurred after American planes bombed North Viet Nam bases on the Gulf of Tonkin. The government apologized and made good on the damage.

In the first presidential contest now coming to a climax, there have been charges and countercharges involving America's alleged betrayal of her ally, Pakistan, by furnishing military aid to India, Pakistan's enemy. Miss Fatima Jinnah, the 74-year-old sister of Pakistan's founder, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, who is opposing President Ayub Khan, charged him with such incompetence as to lose "the only foreign friend it had, namely the United States."

THIS CAUSED an angry uproar and it did Miss Jinnah no good in the current anti-American atmosphere. The Pakistan Times observed in an editorial that China was the only power giving unequivocal support to Pakistan on Kashmir and rated "China's friendship which has manifested itself in many forms" as "the choicest fruit of Ayub's foreign policy."

The 10th anniversary of the American aid program came up recently and the total outlay was computed at over three billion dollars. Yet there was scarcely a mention of it in the public prints. At the same time, and this is a source of deep frustration to Americans here, the slightest gesture of help from the Communist powers gets a big play.

American military aid through most of the decade has supported five and a half of Pakistan's six and a half divisions, furnishing virtually everything for defense except pay and rations. Similarly, the Air Force's 12 squadrons of 12 planes each is owed largely to the United States. This is the reality of the aid program as it has functioned under treaty agreements with Pakistan.

THE REALITIES of the aid program for the future — President Ayub says that not until 1965 will Pakistan be independent of foreign aid — are equally clear. In 1960, after long and patient negotiation, Eugene Black, then head of the World Bank, got India and Pakistan to sign an agreement dividing the waters of the Indus Valley. On the Pakistan side this called for an immense diversion and irrigation project attacking the problems of waterlogging and salinity. That project, eventually to cost well over one billion dollars, is moving forward with the indication that in the first developed tract of one million acres rice production can be nearly doubled. How important this is in a nation that is, next to India, the largest recipient of American food under Public Law 480 needs no underscoring.

It is almost literally true that the life of West Pakistan's 38,000,000 people depends on its being pushed to completion. The alternative is a reversion to slow starvation in an ever-encroaching desert.

AT THE GREAT Mangla Dam project between Rawalpindi and Lahore an American town has come into being, housing 2,000 engineers and technicians and their families, complete with schools, bowling alley and motion-picture house. In part, it is shared by Pakistanis and their families. These are the men — many of their wives are nurses and social workers — and women who are getting on with the job. Whether the whole far-reaching effort can be carried through is a question ultimately for the politicians.

Answers To Your Questions

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son has an undescended testicle. Do you recommend hormone shots? He is 11.—MRS. L.

They should be tried first. If they don't bring success, then surgery is indicated.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain Morton's neuroma. I have been having foot pains for years, and surgery seems to be the only solution. Is there any other treatment?—MRS. B. D.

Surgery is the only way. This is a defect (usually a tumor) affecting nerve tissues in the foot.

Dear Dr. Molner: Will severe scarlet fever in childhood cause insanity?—J. C.

No, that's another old wives' tale.

BILL MERRILL'S Something to Live by

GOT a moment? Let's give some thought to the age-old subject of love and affection. I'd like to suggest that love and affection should both prove enduring; that romance can live in marriage, and to gain this concept is to have your feet on the ground — not to have your head in the clouds, as you may suspect.

The gent that endeavors to keep romance alive with bouquets of flowers, expensive outings, and trips to the park, in search of moonlight and a special magic, is heading for a dead-end street, and an abrupt awakening. These were actions synonymous with courtship for the lack of more meaningful adventure. But, once a young lovely takes the names of her special one-in-a-lifetime man, and locks arms with him in the walk of life, that walk can become enhanced with an element of romance that will make those days of courtship look almost trivial with their selfish views of togetherness.

True romance is expressed in love and affection for a mate and a family that has endured some hardships, heartaches, and mixed them with the joy that comes with togetherness. I like to see a dad that has the zest for life that enables him to come from a day's work and greet the kids as if they were something special, giving Mom a hug and kiss, proving that she is something very special, and that romance is alive.

I ENJOY seeing a woman whose teen-age beauty has matured with age, to that extra something that only life can instill through the years of realistic living with its goals, plus the victories awarded the vigilant. A woman that has captured this beauty and exploited it by planning her day to the end that at evening time, the house is neat, the meal is in the making, she is freshened up, her attitude is good, as she anticipates the homecoming of the family, with some special attention directed toward her sweetheart whom she's come to know better than anyone else in the world. She knows his charms; she knows his failings; she knows his ambitions and his discouragements, and she loves him still. Yes, and more so, for he knows her equally well, and together life is an adventure and the secret of this lasting romance is the affection for a mate extended to a family climaxed in common effort, based on physical and spiritual values.

IF YOU are saying "that guy Merrill has his head in the clouds — our marriage is anything but bliss" — I suggest you look first to self to find the fault. And, if need be, see a counselor, but don't kid yourself into believing that romance died somewhere in the first year or so of marriage. It more likely never lived, in its true sense, if the trials of life and the grasp of material have overcome love and affection in the home. And, in such a case, it is well to re-evaluate your life, for within you yet, there is the ability to be romantic in the ever-unfolding adventure of life. You see, life can be beautiful; marriage a constant romance. But — it all starts with your desire to have it this way.

DEAR ABBY:

Ex-Wife Writes Endearing Letters

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a confirmed coward and do not have the nerve to confront my husband with the letters he is receiving at his place of business from his ex-wife. She discarded him for her own convenience, and when things did not work out for her she decided she wanted him back. In the meantime he had met and married me. I cannot prevent this woman from writing to my husband, but her letters begin, "My Darling, I received your letter," which means that he is writing to her, too. That is what is breaking my heart, Abby.

We have been married only six months and he professes to love me deeply, yet he continues to deceive me by corresponding with his ex-wife. Her letters are love letters, complete with lipstick prints over her signature. How can I let my beloved husband know that he is torturing me without admitting that I invaded his privacy?

BROKEN-HEARTED BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: You can't. But don't let that stop you. Wait until you are both relaxed, unhurried and in the mood to talk, and then tell him exactly what you have told me. The next move will be his. And if he doesn't respect his marriage vows by forsaking ALL others, the next move is yours.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine had a bridal shower three weeks prior to her wedding. Right after the shower she broke her engagement. What should be done concerning the gifts? Thank you. WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The gifts should be returned.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a dinner party at someone's home. The table was set with place mats! I thought place mats were correct for luncheons, and table cloths were used for dinner parties.

The food was all dished up on plates in the kitchen and served directly to the guests, starting with the hostess first. There was a POTTED PLANT in the center of the table instead of the traditional cut flowers. Have the rules for entertaining properly changed? Please print this with your answer for others who are ignorant when it comes to etiquette.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: We are all "ignorant" on different subjects. Anyone who would criticize a well-meaning hostess who has done her best to entertain her guests is, in my opinion, more guilty of ignorance than the hostess.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. P.: Grief can take care of itself. But in order to get the full value of poy, you must share it with someone.

Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

The Pine Family (Pinaceae)

WHILE talking with a gardener one day last week, he suggested that some articles on the families of trees be written along with the families of other plants. In response to this, the evergreen trees will be discussed today as they stand out so prominently during the winter months and are so intimately associated with the Holiday Season.

The pine family contains more than 250 species of trees and shrubs comprising the largest group of ornamental evergreens known to the world. Most of the species can be grown outdoors in practically every part of the United States where there is sufficient rainfall. These evergreens are generally known as conifers because the flower and fruit clusters are formed as cones.

First, in importance should be mentioned the genus Pinus which includes some of the most magnificent trees of the entire family, nearly all of which are found in the north temperate zone. The trunk of nearly all of the pines is straight and continuous with the branches growing out in tiers, or whorls. Probably the most notable species is the white pine, the foundation of the lumbering industry of former years. The mugho pine so valuable in low ornamental plantings for mass effect belongs to this genus.

Next, comes the different species of spruce many of which are large majestic trees towering up to 150 feet. The Norway spruce is a great example and is probably the most widely cultivated evergreen tree in America, growing to a height of 100 feet, or more.

THE BLUE spruce, sometimes called the Colorado blue spruce, is often seen in large landscaped grounds and about homes. The variety, Koster's blue spruce, is a smaller form, but has the bluest foliage of all. The small specimen we have is distinctly so.

Next, there are the firs of which there are about thirty species, including a number of the well-known cultivated forms. The cones of the firs grow erect, while those of the spruces hang down from the branches.

Like the spruces, some of the fir species will reach a height of 150 feet, or so. The giant fir A. grandis of the west coast will grow to a height of 300 feet under favorable conditions. One of the best for horticultural purposes is A. concolor, probably the finest of all evergreens for use as a lawn specimen. This is one of our favorites.

Next to be considered are the junipers comprising a large genus of evergreen trees and shrubs, varying from tall, slender trees down to low-growing ornamental types. They include the red cedars and the many varieties that have been developed for strictly ornamental purposes. It should be mentioned here that the red cedar and some of the ornamental forms are hosts to the red cedar rust that may be damaging to apple trees growing in nearby areas.

TWO OF the most valuable of the small junipers for landscaping uses are the savin and pfister varieties, one or both of which are commonly seen in the foundation plantings of many homes. They are very hardy and very adaptable to a variety of situations, including general landscaping designs.

The arbovitae, of the genus Thuja, are of great value in all landscaping work where tall columnar forms, or low bushy types are desired. The common native tree form is the American arbovitae from which have been developed many low-growing ornamental varieties, some with yellow foliage and others of a silver hue.

The several species of the hemlock and the larch are other members of the pine family that should be mentioned. The hemlock is evergreen, but the larches on the other hand drop their leaves, or needles, in the fall. Our local representative of the larches is the American larch commonly known as the tamarack.

Area Planners See Switch From Farming to Recreation

TREMPEALEAU, Wis. (Special)—The planning committee of the Mississippi River Regional Planning Commission expects that eventually, the seven-county area in the group will be a predominantly recreation area instead of a leading agricultural area as at present.

This is the opinion of David Brunkow, member of the program committee, which met at the courthouse in La Crosse Wednesday night.

JOE ROSKOS, Independence member of the executive committee, met with his group at La Crosse Wednesday afternoon and adopted by-laws. They call for annual meetings of the entire 21-member commission in June, plus quarterly meetings.

The commission will operate in 1945 on a $10,000 county budget raised by county boards. The commission anticipates $15,000 help from the state Department of Resource Development and $50,000 from the federal government for its planning program.

Brunkow said the next meeting of the program or planning committee will be Feb. 3.

area hasn't grown enough to absorb those who have to leave the farms.

Feeling that major development problems should be handled on a regional rather than county and local basis, the commission will study maps of soils, water, topography, land uses, historic sites, etc.

As they progress in their program they will take inventories of public facilities including highways, bridges, publicly owned land, camping facilities, state institutions, and major county and local facilities that enhance prospects for recreation, industrial, housing or other types of development in the region. In addition they will get:

city of development problems faced by the region; to deal effectively with these problems, and identify the role that governments at various levels should play in dealing with them.

John Thomas, La Crosse, is chairman of the commission; Tony Polzer, Durand, vice chairman, and Lawrence Weber, Elmwood, secretary-treasurer.

ON THE EXECUTIVE committee with Roskos are: Arthur Hitt, Alma; Paul Weber, Durand; Al Hoffman, Prescott; Ray Power, Westby; Harold Lochner, Prairie du Chien; and Don Medinger, La Crosse.

Members of the program committee with Brunkow are: Harold Ristow, La Crosse; Charles Colburn, Prairie du Chien; Walter Buros, Viroqua; Russell Hase, Maiden Rock; William Weiss, Pepin County; Gaylord Schultz, Mondovi.

ECONOMIC AND population data to reveal the region's economic strength and weaknesses, the characteristics of its more basic resources, the population, and prospect for changes in these factors.

Data regarding uses of land and development trends, past and present.

Data regarding highway travel and highway and road needs, with special attention to the potential of the Great River Road and Interstate routes, plus other transportation systems — air, water and rail.

Data regarding recreation resources and prospects for making greater use of them, including an analysis of the relationship between this area of supply and population centers within and beyond the limits of Wisconsin.

AFTER ASSEMBLING and analyzing data, action proposals will be prepared. They will include economic development opportunities; land use and water regulations; highway construction; public works, and organization for carrying out the programs planned.

The commission feels planning is an essential first step toward preservation and protection of the region's great natural assets; to deal effectively with the great multi-

NASON ON EDUCATION

Night Classes Help Career

By L. J. NASON, Ed. D. U. Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:

Last June I graduated from high school with a general course. I know, because of the subjects I took, I will never be able to get a college degree, but I would still like to increase my education.

I am now employed and like my work very much, but my chances for advancement would be greater if I were able to go to a local college at night and take courses in the two subjects I was weak in at high school; mathematics and English.

Later, I would like to get into the selling field and want to know whether I can take courses that would help me toward this goal.

Your advice in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

J.C.L., Boonton, N.J.

Answer:

Don't let your selection of high school courses handicap you. You have a long life ahead. Make some inquiries at the local colleges or make up your deficiencies in high school evening classes. Get a solid foundation in the basic skills. Learn to understand what you read and express your ideas both verbally and in writing. If necessary, start with a remedial course in mathematics so you will be prepared to move ahead to whatever you want to do.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I have a problem. I don't know what vocation to work toward. I don't like science, art or math. I do like to draw up house plans for fun, and remodel rooms in my mind.

I want to get into architecture or interior decorating. My father thinks I am not creative. He says one needs mathematics, including calculus, to be an architect. Is this true?

W.C.M., Sacramento, Calif.

Answer:

Your case is not unusual. You are to be commended for struggling with the problem.

Your father is correct in one respect. Schools of architecture do require mathematics up to calculus, and some include calculus. He is, however, wrong in stating positively that you are not creative. Everyone is somewhat creative, and you appear to be developing your talents along that line.

Talk your problem over with your art and home economics teachers as well as your school counselor. Try to find someone in the field you plan to enter and seek his advice in planning your future.

Dear Dr. Nason:

My daughter has received the Guide to Correspondence Study which you recently mentioned. However, it does not help to identify schools which accept such courses. Would you be kind enough to give me some colleges in the East which accept such credits?

Mrs. H.S.F., Cliffwood Beach, N.J.

Answer:

The colleges listed in the Guide as offering the courses also accept them for credit.

If your daughter is interested in finding out about other colleges that might accept such courses, she can obtain the information from the college catalogs. Many of these will be on file in your high schools or local library.

Do Experiments Mean Surprise for Hill?

By ROLLIE WUSSOW
Daily News Sports Writer

A message to those folks living near St. Stan's gym: If you have noticed a figure clad in black strolling in slow cadence back and forth outside the gym, carrying a crystal ball under one arm, a chemistry set under the other, and seemingly talking to himself before entering the structure — don't worry!

It's only Cotter basketball coach John Nett going through an unusual early-season ritual in an attempt to come up with something to get his team on the winning trail once again against St. Paul Hill Saturday.

The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. at St. Stan's.

If you haven't gotten the picture yet, Nett is experimenting, as one might guess after last Friday's 50-42 loss to St. Felix of Wabasha that broke a Cotter dominance.

"I hope we're recovered from last week's game," says Nett. "We've been doing a lot of experimenting this week. I hope it pays off."

Just what kind of experimenting? Answers Nett, like a 13th Century black magic man, hovering over a cauldron: "Oh, we've been working on a little of this and a little of that. Specifically, we might change a little bit in our offensive and defensive pattern. I'm not sure of anything just yet."

In short, Nett isn't revealing anything that might spoil a surprise for Hill Saturday. Little is known about the St. Paul club except that they have only one loss, to De La Salle. The Twin City Central Catholic Conference entry has beaten Cotter's Tuesday opponent, Rochester Lourdes, by a sizeable margin.

"They're a good outfit," says Nett. "They'll be tough. They have good size, as well as five or six men back from a year ago when we beat 'em twice."

The Ramblers will be attempting to bring their record to 3-2 before encountering the Eagles Tuesday. Cotter will host its second annual Invitational at Memorial Hall Dec. 28-29.

"Nett is 'not sure just who Saturday's starters will be. That's all part of the experiment,'" he purrs.

It is assumed that the Cotter mentor will more than likely choose his starting quintet from the likes of Dan Pelowski, Bob Allaire, Dave Pellowski, John Nett Jr., Bill Browne, Tom Leaf, Jim Holmay or Chuck Kulas, who has been involved in Nett's mysticism during the past week.

A junior varsity preliminary involving the Little Ramblers and Hill's "B" team will take the court at 6:15.

A Real Battle: Winona High Vs. Red Wing

Hardin Out, But No New Coach Picked

ANNAPOPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy answered one question Thursday with the dumping of Wayne Hardin as head football coach but left unanswered the name of his successor.

Doug Scovill, administrative assistant to Hardin and coach of the Navy quarterbacks, was believed to have had the inside track for the job and still may have.

But the Naval Academy, shaken by the publicity over Hardin's obviously forced resignation in a personality clash with superiors, appeared in no hurry to designate the new mentor.

Capt. William S. Busik, director of athletics, said candidates would be interviewed during the next several weeks and would include any from outside the academy as well as those on the present staff. An announcement will be made after the first of the year, he said.

It is believed an insider would have the edge if for no other reason than the job now carries a collateral administrative post in the Navy athletic recruiting system, which the present staff is familiar with. The additional job was written in for Hardin in a new five-year contract signed last Feb. 18.

Hardin's case also raised a question as to what a five-year contract means at Navy. Capt. Busik said all academy contracts are open to renegotiation each year, regardless of length. The renegotiation of Hardin's led to his ouster. Hardin, resisting dismissal, found he did not have the contract he thought he did. It was believed that the final settlement worked out with lawyers paid him not much more than a year's salary of the four remaining, at $19,000 annually on his contract.

Both the 37-year-old coach and Busik, speaking for the academy's Athletic Board of Control, referred to it in separate prepared statements as a "just" and "mutually-satisfying" settlement. But it was known Hardin was not completely satisfied.

Hardin formally resigned after 10 years at the academy as an assistant and head coach with the reasons still left to speculation.

The best guesses were that the coach and Capt. Busik, now completing his third year as athletic director, just didn't hit it off personally although publicly their relations appear cordial.

Hardin's recent losing season of 3-4-1, including his first loss to Army in his six years as head coach, also didn't enhance his position any when it came around to discussing his future.

Hawk Tankers Tackle Rockets

A dual swimming meet with Rochester John Marshall in Mayo City highlights a slim holiday tapering off schedule involving Winona High tank and grappling teams today.

The Winona swimmers meet the Rockets in a 6 p.m. meet tonight and will attempt to put the skids to an impressive JM dual-meet win streak which totals 44.

The 44-straight wins run over a five year span, and Winona has been the victim of the Rockets several times in that period.

Coach Lloyd Luke will send his "B" team against the Rockets in a 6 p.m. contest, with the varsity competition due shortly after.

Wrestling action spotlights the Red Wing gym starting at 6:30 p.m. tonight.

Coach Dave Moracco's grapplers will be shooting for their second dual meet win of the year. The Hawks have beaten St. Charles and lost to Albert Lea and Rochester.

Moracco, who has seen his Hawks compile a 1-2 dual-meet record with losses to Albert Lea and Rochester in the Big Nine Conference, will use Doug Breza at 95, West Streeter at 103, Doug Lange at 112, Steve Miller at 120, Jim Dotzler at 127, Ron Fugelstad at 133, Larry Pomeroy at 138, Ray Spies at 145, John Degallier at 154, Pete Erickson at 165, Paul Erickson at 175 and Bob Haeussinger at heavyweight.

Indoor Contest Set for Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The first major bowl game ever staged indoors and the passing arm of Jerry Rhome, chosen the outstanding back of the year in the Associated Press' poll, highlight Saturday's post-season college football action.

Defense-minded Utah and West Virginia meet in the Liberty

Bowl which will be played in Atlantic City's Convention Hall. Rhome, who set 17 collegiate offensive records, leads Tulsa against Mississippi in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston.

Utah, co-champion of the Western Athletic Conference, had the sixth best defense against scoring in the country this season, permitting just 6.2 points per game. The Utes picked off 23 passes, seven by safety C. D. Lowery.

That aerial defense figures to get a stern test from West Virginia's Allen McCune, who piloted the Mountaineers to a 7-3 mark and the Southern Conference title, after they had split their first four games.

McCune, who took over in the fifth game, completed 60 of 99 passes for 10 touchdowns.

When it comes to passing though, it will be Johnny Vaughn's Mississippi Rebels who figure to have their hands full Saturday. They will be up against the collegiate passing champion, Rhome of Tulsa, in the Bluebonnet classic.

Rhyme, with Howard Twilley doing most of the catching, sparks one of the most pass-minded offenses in the country.

Mississippi allowed 10 opponents an average of 115 yards per game through the air and nine of the 14 touchdowns scored against the Rebels came on passes.

RUSSIAN ICEMEN COP WINNIPEG (AP) — Russia's National hockey team combined effective shooting and precision passing for a 6-1 victory over Canada's National squad in an exhibition game Thursday night.

RUSSIAN GYMNASIANS WIN MALMOE, Sweden (AP) — Russia defeated Sweden, 283.55 to 279.05 in an international men's gymnastics meet Thursday. Russia's Valery Keremelydy was top scorer in four events.

Falcons Fall, But Lee Scores 29 Points

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Superior and Oshkosh, gaining stature as the most serious challengers to La Crosse in the State University Conference basketball race, posted victories Thursday night in the final round of action before the Christmas holiday break.

Superior pushed its record 4-1 by defeating River Falls 93-78 at Superior and Oshkosh traveled to Stevens Point to beat the Pointers 79-62 for its second victory in three league starts.

In other conference games, Stout beat winless Eau Claire 91-63 and Whitewater posted its first league victory by beating Platteville 85-82.

La Crosse, undefeated in defense of its SUC crown, entertains Mankato in a non-conference game tonight. Lakeland is host to Rockford and St. Norbert welcomes St. Ambrose in tonight's remaining games that will complete preChristmas action by the state's small colleges.

Superior, led by the 38 points of Chuck Barnard, scored 10 straight points late in the first half to go ahead of River Falls, 2-3, to stay. Ken Lee scored 29 points for River Falls and Nate Schilling added 23.

Braves Promise Great Things

ATLANTA (AP) — The Braves promised big things Thursday for their 1965 standing in the community's new $18 million stadium — the Atlanta Crackers of the International League.

The Braves had planned to shift to Atlanta for the 1965 season but were told by the National League to honor their contract to play all of their home games in the next campaign in Milwaukee County Stadium and move to Atlanta in 1966.

IN MOVES after the league decision was announced, the Braves purchased the Atlanta club in the Triple A International League.

At a get-together with news- men Thursday, Cracker and Braves spokesmen indicated the 1965 Atlanta club will be better than special.

"The Crackers are going to outdraw anything in Triple A baseball," said Atlanta general manager Eddie Glennon, who was seconded by field manager Bill Adair.

"BESIDES coming to witness the best in three-A ball, the fans will flock in to see Atlanta's new stadium and the future Braves," added Glennon.

The reinforced Crackers will be seeking a new home when the Braves make their shift in 1966. Possible locations might include Memphis, Richmond, Louisville or Evansville, Ind.

ANOTHER HISTORIC WIN

Violets Don't Miss Milestone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York University Violets, regarded as the flop of the college basketball season a year ago, don't miss when it comes to historic milestones. They played the 1,000th game in the school's history Thursday night and won it just as they did their 600th game against Baylor, their 700th game against Duke, their 800th against Rutgers and their 900th against Toronto.

This time they whipped Penn State 82-73 in the feature of a doubleheader at Baltimore's Civic Center. It ended a five-game winning streak of the Nittany Lions and was the Violets' second triumph in three starts of the young season.

Ray Bennett, with 29 points, paced the Violets to their 636th victory against 364 defeats in their 1,000 games.

Tenth-ranked St. Louis, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, spoiled what amounted to a homecoming for All-America Bill Bradley by defeating Princeton 90-71. Bradley, a native of nearby Crystal City, Mo., scored 34 points for the Ivy League champs, but got little help as the Tigers suffered their second defeat in seven starts.

Iowa State, playing at home, scored the surprise of the night. The Cyclones, beaten in five starts, won their first game by upsetting Drake 82-75.

Houston beat Texas A&M 58-49 and with two straight victories won the unofficial championship of the Bluebonnet Bowl Classic. Auburn rebounded from its Houston defeat on Wednesday night to whip Rice 94-71 in the other half of the Bluebonnet doubleheader at Houston.

Pete Coker's jump shot with eight seconds left gave North Carolina State a 63-64 victory over Fordham in New York while Ron Krick's 22 points led Cincinnati to a 76-72 home court triumph over Kansas.

Utah State opened a road trip by losing to Bradley 75-69 while the touring Colorado State University team went down before Duquesne 75-66 at Pittsburgh. Providence fared better on the road, defeating Creighton 95-90. Unbeaten Connecticut also won on the road, making it six in a row by defeating Maine 89-62.

Pete Marr Paces Keglers With 644

Bowlers in the Westgate Classic League really had themselves a time Thursday night, but it seemed all the marks posted were just several pins short of top ten departments.

Pete Marr led the way, scoring 233-236-178-644 to pace Clark & Clark to 1,075-2,854.

RICH Chuchina, also of Clark & Clark, hammered a 254 after coming up with 161 and 200 in his first two games to wind up with a 615. Bill Gemienhardt, another Clark & Clark member, slammed 161-188-196-545 errorless.

Elect Gamoke to Arcadia CC Board

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Robert Gamoke was elected to the board of directors of the Arcadia Country Club, Inc., at the annual stockholders' meeting held Saturday night at John's Clubrooms. Gamoke is replacing Stanley J. Sonsalla. Re-elected to the board was Howard Reedy.

The three-year terms of Reedy and Sonsalla had expired. Officers were elected at a board of directors' meeting immediately following the general session. Re-elected were Lyman Maloney, president; Gile Herick, secretary-treasurer. Reedy was elected vice president succeeding Sonsalla. Holdover director is Donavan Berzinski.

Committee assignments will be made at the next board meeting.

Discussion at the general session centered around construction of a new club house late next year. Bids on a club house were called last December and rejected because of excessive cost. A restudy of plans will be made and bids called again. No definite plan of action was decided upon.

Mike Mravik, manager of the Farmers Home Administration office, Whitehall, attended the meeting and expressed satisfaction with the club's operations since it obtained a $91,500 FHA loan for improvement and enlargement of facilities early in 1963.

Spring Grove Stars Named

Overlooked when the Root River all-conference football team was named were three first-team players from Spring Grove and two honorable mention selections.

The bulk of the team was forwarded through league secretary Dave Zimmer, but a mailing conflict bypassed the five members of Coach Fred Kuss' team that finished behind co-champions Rushford and Peterson with a 4-2 record.

Named to the first team were crumpling fullback Wayne Gulbranson, quarterback Lowell Trehus and center Rolf Hanson, such a defensive standout that Kuss called him "a fifth man in the opponents' backfield."

Gulbranson, a senior, weighs 180 pounds. Trehus is a senior and 165 while Hanson is a junior at 165.

The honorable mention selections were senior guard Dean Gulbranson, a 175-pounder, and Ken Halverson, 140-pound senior halfback.

Wild Scoring Display Helps Boston Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way that red light kept going on in Detroit's Olympia Stadium, the fans who had come to see a National Hockey League game between the Red Wings and the Boston Bruins might have thought the goal judges were trigger happy.

But those three goals inside of 59 seconds of the second period were all legitimate and the two scored by the Bruins helped Boston to a 5-3 victory. In Wednesday night's other NHL game, Montreal rallied with two third period goals and tied Toronto 2-2.

Cotter Gives 25 Letters In Football

Cotter High School football Coach Bob Welch presented 25 letters to Ramblers gridders at an awards assembly today. And when he did, chances are he was smiling.

Only nine of the 25 were seniors, leaving 16 to form a nucleus for the 1965 team.

In addition to the letterwinners, John Nett Jr. received the First Annual Ben Czaplewski Memorial Award for being voted the most valuable player and Don Kukowski was introduced as the '65 captain-elect.

Senior lettermen are: Nett, Steve Wiczorek, Chuck Thompson, Mike Schoener, Jim Gunderson, Dave Steadman, Steve Breza, Roger Eichman and Bob Foster.

Bradley Clips High-Flying Utah State

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bradley took some of the starch out of high-flying Utah State Thursday night and the Minnesota Gophers hope to deflate the Aggies a little more Saturday night in Williams Arena.

Utah State, which had averaged 98 points a game in reeling off five straight victories, lost 75-69 to Bradley at Peoria, Ill., Thursday.

But the Braves didn't stop 6-foot-8 Aggie forward Wayne Estes. He scored 28 points to run his total for six games to 202 and a 33.7 average, and also grabbed 11 rebounds.

If anybody has a better player than Estes, Gopher Coach John Kundla would like to see him.

"I'm sure we'll be playing against one of the best in the nation in Estes," Kundla said.

"We hear he can do everything."

Utah State guard LeRoy Walker maintained his average with 20 against Bradley.

The Gophers will go with a lineup of juniors Lou Hudson (6-6) and Dennis Dvoracek (6-6) at forwards, senior Mel Northway (6-8) at center, and juniors Don Yates (6-3) and Archie Clark (6-1) at guards.

Minnesota will be after its fifth straight victory in a bid to retain its No. 4 national ranking.

Snell Named AFL Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Matt Snell, the fine fullback of the New York Jets, collected one title today—Rookie of the Year—and aimed for another.

"I'd like to get that ground-gaining title," Snell said. "I'm behind right now, but you never know—one good run and I'll be right in the race."

Snell, a 6-foot-2, 215-pounder from Ohio State who was the object of some spirited bidding between the Jets of the American Football League and the long-established New York Giants of the National League, said being named AFL Rookie of the Year "proved I made the best choice with the Jets."

Boston Setting Torrid NBA Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At the pace the Boston Celtics are moving in the National Basketball Association schedule, a travel day has become a day of rest.

The weary Celtics got that day of rest today while moving on to St. Louis for a Saturday night meeting with the Hawks, their fourth game of the week.

Boston had its seven-game victory string snapped Thursday night by the Knickerbockers in the "neutral" Rhode Island Auditorium in Providence. The Knicks beat the Celtics 113-112 for their first victory over the defending champions in five meetings this year.

Len Chappell scored three points with 32 seconds remaining to put New York ahead 111-110. And then a home town hero, Johnny Egan, combined with the veteran Tom Gola to pull off a typical Celtics' tactic, a steal, and Gola fed Egan for the basket that led the verdict.

Rough Tactics? No Say Officials

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association players aren't going out of their way to hurt one another this season. That's the essence of a report of the NBA referees released by league president Walter Kennedy.

The 10 referees conferred with Sid Borgia, supervisor of officials, at their annual mid season meeting and Kennedy's statement followed. Ben Kerner, owner of the St. Louis Hawks, and Jack McMahon, coach of the Cincinnati Royals, had been critical of roughhouse tactics they said were endangering players.

"It was the consensus of the staff," Kennedy said, "that the injuries sustained were the primary result of the fast-moving nature of the highly competitive games played thus far."

Augsburg Whips Pacific Lutheran

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Augsburg used superior height for a 79-66 non-conference basketball victory over Pacific Lutheran U. at Tacoma Thursday night, while St. Thomas was claiming a 73-63 verdict against Carleton on the former's court.

The Aggies dominated play with leads of 17-13, 38-28 at the half and 54-49 midway of the third period. Dan Anderson hopped an impressive 37 points for the winners with Pacific U.'s Carl Garmann counting 20.

Emmett Terwilliger hit 17 for losing Carleton to take scoring honors in that game while Nick Lapointe and Fred Korba had 15 apiece for the Toms.

Court action tonight finds Montana State at Duluth, Hamline playing at Simpson (Iowa), Montana U. at Bemidji and Mankato playing La Crosse State.

Wooden Doesn't Like Favorite Tag for UCLA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "I guess the coaches picked us because we traveled the farthest," said UCLA Coach John Wooden when he learned his Bruins had been made the favorites in the Milwaukee Classic Basketball Tournament opening tonight in the Arena.

UCLA, the defending National Collegiate Athletic Association champion, has a 3-1 record and will begin tournament action against Marquette, 2-3, in tonight's first game.

Wisconsin, 3-1, and Boston College, 4-1, meet in the nightcap.

"By all odds and everything on paper, UCLA is the team to beat," said Wisconsin Coach John Erickson.

"UCLA should win it," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire. "I'm just hoping the weather gets even colder. It might slow down UCLA's fast break."

"Obviously UCLA is the strongest team in the tournament," said Boston College Coach Bob Cousy, the former professional star with the Boston Celtics.

But Wooden insisted on disclaiming the favorite's role in third annual tournament. "According to our records, you'd be just as justified in picking either Boston College or Wisconsin as the favorite," he said.

Stocks Move Ahead in Active Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its rebound in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were made in a broad range of key stocks. Selected issues gained 2 or more.

Brokers saw the move as a resumption of a technical recovery based on an easing-up in year-end profit taking and tax-loss selling. The business news background was regarded as spotty, as it included a sharp drop in housing starts and a delay in steel industry labor contract bargaining.

Steels, motors, rails, utilities, farm implements, aerospace issues, airlines, electrical equipments, chemicals and nonferrous metals showed a higher trend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.2 at 323.1 with industrials up 2.1, rails up .6 and utilities up .5. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.54 at 868.11.

Fractional gains were made by the top four steelmakers while Wheeling common recovered about a point of Thursday's 3 1/2-point loss.

Wheeling preferred, however, sank another 4 points.

Chrysler, up a full point, and General Motors, ahead nearly a point, were the strong features in an automotive group. Caterpillar posted a 2-point gain.

Comsat was off about 2 points, shading its worst loss that exceeded 3. Gains of about 2 were made by IBM, Xerox, U.S. Smelting and Control Data.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds weakened on reports of further financial difficulties in Britain.
