Illinois Pilot Dead in Crash Near Nodine

CRASH SITE . . . A Christmas flight to visit friends at St. Cloud ended in death in this hayfield near Nodine, 15 miles southeast of Winona Wednesday afternoon, for the plane's pilot, Cal Brown of Rosemont, Ill.

FATAL ENDING . . . The missing single-engine plane was discovered Saturday noon in a field on the Orlen Stoehr farm one mile north of Nodine. The Civil Air Patrol set up search headquarters in a bus at Max Conrad Field Saturday morning and conducted the air search in this area.

BODY PINNED INSIDE . . . The body of Cal Brown (arrow) was still pinned inside of his light plane when it was discovered by an air search party Saturday noon. Brown, a bachelor and an electronic engineer from Rosemont, Ill., had radioed La Crosse Flight Service for information Wednesday afternoon and was not heard from again. Brown also was a flying instructor. (Sunday News Photos)

Tremors Felt Near Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Sixty-six tremors, ranging from slight to strong, today jolted the tiny island of Oshima, about 100 miles south of Tokyo, Japan's Central Meteorological Agency said. No damage was reported.

Conrad, Short of Gas, Lands Plane in Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Max Conrad, the famed light-plane flyer from Winona, Minn., landed here Saturday, stretched his legs wearily and claimed a non-stop, long-distance record for light planes.

The 61-year-old pilot, who left Cape Town, South Africa, at midnight (EST) Thursday, brought his Piper Twin Comanche down at 8:49 a.m. after more than 56 hours in the air.

He claimed a record surpassing the one of 7,668 miles he set in 1959 on a flight from Casablanca, Morocco to Los Angeles — and said he was "very, very lucky to make it."

He passed St. Petersburg this morning en route for New Orleans, La., got about 200 miles out over the Gulf of Mexico and then decided to turn back because he was low on fuel.

"I was down to about 40 gallons, which might have gotten me there," he said. "But I could just see myself pulling a boner, and I got cautious and turned back."

GROUNDING GRANDPA . . . Max Conrad, the flying grandfather from Winona, rests by his plane after landing in St. Petersburg, Fla. His flight from Capetown, Africa, to New Orleans, La., was shortened by a fuel shortage in his Piper Comanche. 7 in 2 Families Die In Road Tragedy

CUMMING, Ga. (AP) — The Rodgers and the Brown families left a hen cooking on a stove and set out for an orchard to get some apples to complete their Christmas dinner.

The hen was never eaten. Seven members of the two families died Christmas Day. Their station wagon, with John E. Brown, 24, at the wheel, smashed through a guard rail, crashed down a 30-foot embankment and plunged into Lake Lanier.

7 in 2 Families Die In Road Tragedy

"I knew we were going to fast," said Billy Rodgers, 20. "If I recall, I asked him to slow down. A tire gave way and went spinning around. We hit the guard rail and went over."

"That's the last I remember until I came to the top of the water. My wife was struggling, and I started pulling her out; she can't swim."

Mrs. Rodgers, 21, said her daughter, Amanda Lee, 3, was playing with a doll she had been given for Christmas just before she died.

State Trooper H.G. Pope said Brown had been drinking. He and his wife, 24, were drowned.

Also killed were three of their children, Thomas, 6; Brenda Sue, 4; and Joyce Ann, 1; and Billy Bradford Rodgers, 2.

Coroner Carlton Brooks said all the victims had drowned.

Officers said an unidentified couple apparently had pulled two children—Carroll Christine Rodgers, 3 months, and Linda Brown, 3—from the water. They were hospitalized in serious condition.

The Rodgers were treated and released.

Officers said the 1959-model auto had run off Brown's Bridge Road at Two-mile Creek, about nine miles northeast of Cumming.

Pope Paul Sends Buddhists Message

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese Buddhists published today a message from Pope Paul VI inviting Buddhists "to seek in Christianity those many good teachings which may enrich ever more their thought and their life."

The Rev. Biri Nakayama, president of the Japan Buddhist Federation, said he received the English-language message from the Pope during an audience at the Vatican Dec. 18.

Nakayama, who returned to Tokyo Dec. 24, said he had traveled to Rome, after attending the world Buddhist conference in Inchon, to meet the Pope at the behest of South Vietnamese Buddhists.

Saigon Orders Maximum Alert

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Vietnamese government ordered a battalion of paratroopers into Saigon Saturday and extended martial law for another month to head off further trouble in the wake of the Christmas Eve bombing of a U.S. officers' hotel.

All armed forces in the capital were placed on maximum alert.

U.S. authorities put stringent new security measures into effect. Bomb squads opened all Christmas gift packages for patients at the U.S. Navy Hospital.

Special demolition teams roamed all 67 U.S. installations in Saigon in search of terrorist bombs as a precaution against a repetition of the Brink Hotel bombing that killed two Americans and injured 68 others. Less than a dozen of the injured Americans were still hospitalized.

Buddhist leaders resumed their campaign against Premier Tran Van Huong's civilian government. They charged that the government instigated an attack Friday night against Buddhist headquarters. The attackers, armed with gasoline-filled bottles, were driven off.

The religious sect had suspended its criticism of the government since the military, led by officers called "Young Turks," dissolved the nation's provisional legislature — the High National Council, last Sunday.

The United States demanded restoration of civilian authority and charged that the purge amounted to "improper interference by the military." Vietnamese generals have refused to yield.

The deadlock has precipitated a crisis, with mounting hostility between the Vietnamese military and the United States.

An Air Force officer reported that air force commander, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky called U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor "a colonialist" in a bitter anti-American address to his staff four days ago.

CAP Finds Lost Plane

By FRANK BRUESKE
Sunday News Staff Writer

A veteran pilot with more than 1,000 hours logged under his belt was found dead Saturday noon near Nodine inside the wreckage of his small plane which had been missing since Wednesday afternoon.

He was 40-year-old Cal Brown of Rosemont, Ill., who was on a flight from Roselle, Ill., to St. Cloud, Minn. He was the lone occupant of the single-engine Piper plane.

The wreckage of the plane, which had plowed into a hayfield on the Orlen Stoehr farm about a mile north of Nodine, was spotted by one of 12 Civil Air Patrol planes operating from Max Conrad Field conducting the search in the area. (Nodine is in Winona County about 15 miles southeast of Winona.)

The plane apparently hit the top of a small knoll and then went through the air about 100 yards before coming to a stop. The body of Brown was still pinned in the wreckage Saturday afternoon. The plane was not visible from a nearby farm road.

THE CAP had been conducting a search for the missing craft in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

First word of the missing craft came Friday noon, said Robert Dunn, manager of Winona Aviation Service. Dunn said the La Crosse Flight Service Station called to see if the plane had stopped at Winona. Dunn said he heard a pilot talking to the La Crosse station about 3:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Brown did not file a flight plan. He apparently left Roselle, Ill., at about 2 p.m. Wednesday en route to St. Cloud for a Christmas visit.

At 3:47 p.m. Wednesday the Federal Flight Service Station at the La Crosse airport received a radio call from Brown. The station said the pilot radioed and the station confirmed the radio contact.

ACCORDING to the station, the flyer said he was over La Crosse at 2,900 feet, his gyro compass had tumbled and he wanted to find a hole in the clouds so he could land at La Crosse.

The La Crosse station affirmed his message and tried to call him back and tell him to proceed to Rockford, Ill., where he could land. However, the La Crosse station did not know if it had made contact with the pilot. The station tried to raise the pilot several times but failed. This was the same conversation Dunn had heard on his communications radio at Max Conrad Field. Rockford is about 160 air miles from La Crosse.

La Crosse station said ceiling was 500 feet at 4 p.m., the sky was obscured, it was foggy and visibility was less than two miles. A plane left La Crosse airport shortly after 4 p.m. and reported the top of the clouds at about 3,000 feet. It wasn't known whether the pilot was above the clouds or in them when he called the La Crosse station.

THE PILOT gave his location as La Crosse and was apparently following his VHF (very high frequency) radio which has its La Crosse tower near Nodine. The Nodine tower is about

Toll Mounts In Holiday Traffic Count

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The count of deaths in Christmas weekend traffic climbed higher Saturday.

The tally reached 290 in the holiday period that began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and will end at midnight tonight.

Many multiple death accidents swelled the total.

The toll ran well ahead of the daily 1964 average of about 110 motor vehicle fatalities per day — a pace that indicated a record total for the year.

Rain, fog and snow increased driving hazards in many areas. The National Safety Council has estimated the final count at the end of the long holiday weekend at midnight today would be between 550 and 650.

Nine separate accidents took the lives of at least 36 persons. Included were seven members of two families in Georgia, families of four in Illinois, Michigan, and Arkansas, and families of three in Ohio and Tennessee.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued by the Weather Bureau for much of the Midwest as snow fell in areas from the western Great Lakes to the Rockies. Rainfall in sections of the southeast and fog shrouded areas in the East.

The record traffic death toll for any three-day holiday period was 609 during the Christmas of 1955. The all-time high toll for any holiday period was 706 set during the four-day Christmas weekend in 1956.

An Associated Press survey made during the non-holiday 78-hour period from Dec. 10 to Dec. 13 as a basis for comparison for this weekend's toll showed 396 traffic deaths.

Politics Big Story of '64

NEW YORK — Editors of AP member newspapers and radio and TV stations voted the campaign and landslide election of Lyndon B. Johnson as the top news story of 1964.

For the Republicans, the campaign started with Henry Cabot Lodge, who wasn't even in the country, winning the New Hampshire primary. The polls showed Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York moving ahead after he won the Oregon primary; then Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania announced his candidacy. But it was Barry M. Goldwater, a conservative, who swept to a first-ballot nomination at the convention in San Francisco.

The only suspense for the Democrats before their convention in Atlantic City was the question of whom Johnson would name as his running mate. Not too surprisingly, LBJ chose Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Johnson, after a particularly rough campaign, won by the greatest plurality and percent of the total vote in U.S. history. Goldwater carried five Southern states and Arizona.

The editors voted the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev as Communist Party secretary and U.S.S.R. premier the No. 2 story of the year.

On Oct. 15 Tass announced that Khrushchev, 70, had requested his release from his two jobs because of advanced age and bad health. Leonid Brezhnev, 57, was named secretary and Alexei Kosygin, 60, premier.

The stunned West, which viewed Khrushchev's ouster largely as the result of his ideological split with Red China, waited to learn whether Mr. K's brand of peaceful co-existence would continue or be replaced by a new, tougher line.

The No. 3 story was the continuing Civil Rights struggle. The story had many highlights. Early in the year Northern cities organized school boycotts to protest racial imbalance caused by housing patterns. In April, a 26-year-old Cleveland minister lay down in the path of a bulldozer during an integration demonstration, was crushed to death and rioting spread through the city.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama entered presidential primaries as a segregationist, did better than even he had expected and Americans learned the phrase "white backlash."

Malcolm X left the Black Muslims and founded his own black nationalist group. The Rev. Martin Luther King received the Nobel Peace Prize for "consistently asserting the principle of nonviolence."

After an 83-day filibuster, the far-reaching Civil Rights Bill passed Congress. The law banned discrimination in public facilities.

The bodies of three young men, two white, one Negro, volunteers in Mississippi voter registration drives, were found buried near Philadelphia, Miss. on Aug. 4. The FBI investigated and on Dec. 4 arrested 21 men, most of them on federal conspiracy charges.

In St. Augustine, Fla., 283 persons were arrested in Civil Rights demonstrations between March 28 and April 1. On July 16, in New York's Harlem, an off-duty policeman shot a 15-year-old Negro boy in a scuffle. Rioting started and spread to a Negro neighborhood in Brooklyn. The riots ended, the toll was one dead, 141 injured and 319 arrested. There was still more rioting in Rochester, N.Y., Paterson and Elizabeth, N.J., a Chicago suburb and Philadelphia.

And on Aug. 31 in Biloxi, Miss., while elementary schools peacefully admitted Negroes, the first schools in Mississippi below the university level to integrate.

The earthquake which rocked Alaska at 5:36 p.m. Good Friday, March 27, was the strongest ever to hit North America and the second strongest recorded anywhere, next to Chile's quake of 1906.

DEAD numbered 114; 4,500 were homeless; downtown Anchorage was a shambles and damage in the 49th state was estimated as high as $750 million.

5. The limited war in Viet Nam got hotter Aug. 1 when three North Vietnamese PT boats fired on the U.S. destroyer Maddox, patrolling in the Gulf of Tonkin, 30 miles off the North Vietnamese shore. The raid against the Maddox, joined in the bay by the U.S. destroyer

Turner Joy, was renewed Aug. 4.

At the order of President Johnson, U.S. carrier planes then bombed the torpedo boat's bases and a petroleum depot. Red China threatened to retaliate but did not.

In the often-changing government of South Viet Nam, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh came to power in a bloodless coup Jan. 30, was the target of a short-lived coup himself in September and in October a civilian government took over with Tran Van Huong, mayor of Saigon, appointed premier.

6. Red China on Oct. 16 exploded its first atom bomb, and immediately called for a world conference to discuss banning atomic weapons.

American nuclear scientists said the blast was small, about the force of the first U.S. A-bomb. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara said it would be many years before Red China could mount a nuclear attack.

But the achievement could strengthen China's prestige in Asia and Africa and even in Russia.

7. The commission under Chief Justice Warren that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy made public its report in September. It found that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, killed President Kennedy. It found no evidence that either Oswald or Jack Ruby, who shot him to death, acted as part of any conspiracy.

8. In the Congo, Communist-supported rebels overran the northeast part of the country and placed some 60 Americans and 800 Belgians under house arrest "until U.S. and Belgium halt military aid" to Leopoldville.

THEN ON Nov. 24, 250 white hostages were lined up in Lumumba Square, Stanleyville, to be shot, just as Belgian paratroopers arrived. Among the several score murdered was Dr. Paul Carlson, a U.S. missionary. By the end of the day, 790 terrified hostages were saved by the paratroopers and flown to Leopoldville. After five days of U.S. and Belgian rescue operations in the area, more than 2,000 white persons had been evacuated. Ninety-seven were known dead and 500 or more were missing.

9. President Johnson promised, less than a week after the assassination of his predecessor, that the tax cut and Civil Rights bills be enacted as memorials to President Kennedy. They were. On Feb. 26 LBJ signed into law the biggest single tax reduction in American history, a $11.5 billion cut in individual and corporate levies. And on July 2 he signed, after a bitter fight in Congress, the country's most sweeping Civil Rights bill.

10. Legislative reapportionment is what they called it when on Feb. 17 the Supreme Court ruled, 6 to 3, that congressional districts within each state should be substantially equal in population, to end voting inequities.

What would it mean? Wholesale redistricting by the states, giving cities greater representation and shaking up the structure of many state legislatures.

Mr. Smith chose Electric Heat

Mr. Jones chose Natural Gas Heat

Both lived comfortably ever after!

Mr. Smith wants his new home modern throughout. That's why he chose the most modern method of home heating available today—electric heat. Mr. Smith wants individual thermostats in every room to assure perfect climate for every need (standard with most electric heat systems), he wants even heat from floor to ceiling, no cold spots and no drafts. With electric heat he's got it. And, says Mr. Smith, "The cost is much less than we expected."

Like most new home owners, Mr. Jones chose clean, economical and dependable natural gas for heating—it's the first choice in 9 out of 10 new homes. He wants a fuel that burns clean, is low in price, is dependable from chilly fall through freezing winter, and never needs to be reordered. What's more . . . he wants a fuel that's as up to date as his heating plant. With natural gas he's got it. "Yes," says Mr. Jones, "the best doesn't cost any more."

Both of these home heating systems have special advantages. Now choose the one (or even a combination of both) that fits your family best! See your heating dealer, electrical contractor, or:

Chorus Against U.S. Rises Across World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The chorus of protest against the United States has risen in many parts of the world since the Vietnam war began. In the weeks of Christmas, the chorus of protest has grown louder. In the weeks of Christmas, the chorus of protest has grown louder. In the weeks of Christmas, the chorus of protest has grown louder.

Khmer, who had threatened the government as premier and president from January until August. He was forced out then in favor of Sihanouk's military government. Now he was back, leading with U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and army backing an anti-American position.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said from behind Taylor called for a return to civilian government in South Vietnam and limited a cut in American aid to Khmer and the military did not back down. The whole course of American policy in Southeast Asia hung in the balance.

The anti-Americanism seemed contagious. In Cairo, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic continued Khmer's defiance of the United States. He said a rally in the United States could take place and he would be there.

In recent weeks, Egyptians had burned the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library in Cairo, shot down an American airplane, and spent years in the Congo.

In the face of this, Nasser had asked for $100 million in American aid to feed his hungry people. While the United States hesitated, Nasser stepped to a cheering crowd. The Americans want to give us aid and dominate our country, I say we are sorry. We are ready to cut our aid and maintain our daily consumption to that we keep our independence.

Uncle Sam's face was red from laughing, but there was more.

In the United Nations the refrain was becoming monotonous. Following a string of other African officials, Foreign Minister Charles-David Guebo of the Congo Republic — the ex-French Congo — denounced not only the United States and Belgium for their recent mercy rescue of hostages from the Congo rebels. He also denounced everybody who had not denounced the United States and Belgium. Then the foreign minister of Kenya, Joseph Murumbi, denounced the United States and so it went on. It was a bad week for Uncle Sam.

But of the political stage there was no mistaking the season. Pope Paul VI, in his annual Christmas message to the world, said "Hunger and misery increase and ignorance still cry out for remedy." He deplored the continuance of nationalism, racism and militarism. He pleaded for gradual disarmament and the diversion of military money to humanitarian ends.

President Johnson directed a special message to the Senate that 22,000 Americans serving in Vietnam. "Those of us who are at home full of joy and thoughts of peace are ever grateful to those thousands of men who today where there is no peace," the President said.

As of the time he spoke, 300 Americans had been killed in combat in Vietnam.

Across the nation, merchants reported spending was at record levels. For many workers it was a four-day holiday as work stopped on Wednesday, and for nearly all others it was a three-day holiday. Planes, trains and buses were crowded, and in one day 4,000 people called from New York to Christmas. Christmas was the season to be joyful.

There were, as always, overtones of tragedy and crime.

The worst flood in years descended on the West Coast. A blizzard followed by two days of wind and rain struck California, Oregon and Idaho. Rivers rose throughout the area and thousands of persons were driven from their homes.

This is the greatest disaster ever to hit Oregon, said Gov. Mark Hatfield, and the governor of California and Idaho called on the National Guard to help with rescue and relief. As thousands fled their homes, the death toll rose.

On Monday morning, three masked men entered the rectory of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church in Paterson, N.J., methodically bound four priests and waited. Soon, an armored car arrived, making its rounds for the First National Bank of Passaic County.

The two guards locked their vehicle and entered the rectory. "Come in," said the thugs, and bound the guards with Venetian blind cords. Then the masked men took the keys, easily unlocked the vehicle without setting off its automatic alarms, and removed bags containing $511,000. It was one of the largest cash thefts ever recorded.

Shots Fired at Mississippi Church Worker

RIPLEY, Miss. (AP) — The Council of Federated Organizations reported Saturday shots were fired into a house where two white Oberlin college students were staying while working with other volunteers to rebuild a burned-out Negro church.

Law enforcement agencies in the Ripley area could not be contacted about the report.

COFO said that one student, Dick Cooper, tried to follow the car from which the shots were fired. Cooper late was arrested for running a stop sign, a COFO spokesman said.

The other student, Jerry Van Korman, attempted to follow the assailants in another car. He said several shots were fired at his auto and he returned to the Negro home where he had been staying.

The band of white volunteers — mostly students from Oberlin — planned to resume their work of rebuilding the Antioch Baptist Church following Christmas worship services.

The church was destroyed by fire last Oct. 30 following a civil rights rally.

Hudson-Ellsworth Railroad Proposed

DURAND, Wis. — A 21-mile section of railroad track between Hudson and Ellsworth has drawn the interest of a Waukesha promoter.

Clint Jones is asking the Chamber of Commerce to support his efforts to acquire the line. He needs no money, only assurance that businessmen would ship by rail.

With a used diesel engine Jones says he could haul freight cars. With a steam engine locomotive he could operate the line as a tourist attraction. He believes he could make a financial success of running trains from Hudson to River Falls and Ellsworth.

Slain Officer Quit Dentistry For Army Post

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Lt. Col. James R. Hagen, 43, gave up a successful dental practice for an Army career, his widow says, because he tired of shoveling snow from the sidewalk of their northern Wisconsin home.

Hagen, an Army dental adviser, was one of two persons killed Christmas Eve when a bomb shattered a Saigon hotel. The bomb, believed the work of terrorists, wounded 107 persons.

His wife, Joy, left Viet Nam two weeks ago and was at the home of an aunt here when she was notified early Christmas Day that her husband was dead. It was her 42nd birthday.

"He was very easy going," Mrs. Hagen said as she sat in the darkened living room of her aunt's home, watching television films of the bombed Brink Hotel where her husband died. "I don't think he had an enemy in the world."

"He was selected to be the first dental adviser to Viet Nam."

"His job didn't involve politics. He was there to further dental health for the Vietnamese — and heaven knows they need dental health."

Mrs. Hagen and her husband met when he was stationed in Oklahoma during World War II. They were married in 1944. He received his dental degree from Marquette University in 1950.

"He had a very successful practice in northern Wisconsin," the widow said, "but he tired of shoveling off the walk in the winter to go to work, then shoveling it off again to get in for lunch."

"We talked it over, and we decided to give the Army a try for a couple of years. He decided right away to go into the regular Army and make it a career. We've never had any regrets about that decision — until now."

The Casual Observer

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON
LAST week, after 14 weeks of bed care in Community Memorial Hospital, I was transferred to St. Anne Hospice where I shall stay for a period of less intensive bed care and more intensive rehabilitation and therapy. I have a lovely un-hospital room looking over the former Saint Teresa woods golf course and over the hills of Gilmore Valley.

Twilight was just coming on when my sister got me settled in my new room. The sky faded from peach to deep gray to midnight blue over the long line of hills, and the lights began to twinkle on all over. Warm yellow lights blossomed in all the houses edging the old golf course, the red and green traffic lights flashed on Highway 61-14, and the red and green lights from highway hamburger stands and restaurants were lovely in the dark distance.

A thin line of brilliant diamond lights outlined the top of a distant hill. At first it puzzled me, then I realized it was the street lights of the hilltop community of Wincrest — lovely in the night as a necklace of diamonds on black velvet. In the daytime the sun drenches the hills and the tree-dotted golf course. It's an altogether lovely view for the hill-starved person.

At St. Anne's people are treated as guests rather than patients, and there is much sociable visiting back and forth in the sunny corridors and little solariums scattered all over. Most of the guests are elderly or retired, but I've not come to know many because I am trying so hard to concentrate on the rehabilitation and therapy program. It's quite a job learning all over again to walk and perform simple functions one always took for granted. My dear family gave me a Christmas present that I'd like a little advice on. I had requested "Please, no things. After months in a small hospital room there is no room for things."

So I was presented with a card that had a dog picture on it. The message read, "Whether it's long or whether it's fluffy, our gift to you is a little puppy when you're ready for it. Signed, Dare and Bill."

What breed has character and humor, is affectionate, loyal and fairly easy to care for? No fooling, I'd love ideas from my readers. Please send suggestions in care of this newspaper or just to me c/o St. Anne Hospice, Winona.

Welfare Board Hears Report

Actions completed by the welfare department during the last month were reported Wednesday to the Winona County Welfare Board.

William P. Werner, welfare director, told the board that his department has opened three new old age assistance cases and closed seven, opened three new aid to dependent children cases and closed one, granted one new aid to the blind allotment and approved 15 new medical aid to assistance to the aged cases.

He told the board that there were six new referrals to University of Minnesota hospitals and that his department has completed three placements of retarded persons in private institutions.

The department is currently involved in nine cases involving hearings on allegations of mental illness, and is working on a referral of a case involving tuberculosis, he said.

Werner told the board that it had been awarded temporary custody of four children.

The board recommended relicensing of three boarding homes.

Arkansas Man Ordained as Oblate Father

ARKANSAS, Wis. — Among 11 young men ordained into the Oblates of Mary Immaculate at Waveland, Miss., was Brother Bruce Heit of Arkansas.

Brother Heit was born at Arkansas Aug. 7, 1937, to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Heit, members of St. Joseph's parish here which was served by Oblates many years until assimilated last fall by the La Crosse diocese.

Heit was graduated from Elmwood High School and the College of Our Lady of the Ozarks at Carthage, Mo. He entered the Oblate order in 1958 and spent a year as a novitiate at Godfrey, Ill. The last 5 1/2 years he has received philosophical and theological training at Our Lady of the Snows Scholastic at Pass Christian, Miss.

He will celebrate his first solemn high Mass at Arkansas Jan. 3.

Fillmore Co. Board Opens Bids Jan. 5

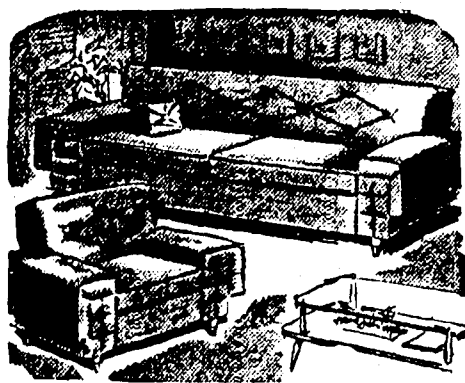

PRESTON, Minn. — The Fillmore County Board of Commissioners will open bids Jan. 5 at 2 p.m. on gasoline, diesel fuel and furnace oil for the storage tanks at the eight county maintenance sheds. Bids on county printing will be opened at the same time.

WHITEHALL VETERINARIAN
WHITEHALL, Wis. — Whitehall Packing Co. has a new federal veterinarian, Dr. Alfred J. Leopold came from Springfield, Ill., and succeeds Dr. Nikola Jaksic, who was transferred to Milwaukee after 2 1/2 years here.

Thoughts at Random — From Editor's Notebook

GENERAL JAMES C. Marshall has a reputation for being "hard nosed," anything but diplomatic, but one of the best state highway commissioners in a long time. He has stated he will continue in his post until his term expires in April, giving him time to press for his broad legislative program.

We don't agree with the retired general on some points, but we're certainly all for him in his upcoming program, salient points of which are:

- Laws regulating advertising along highways. (Billboard control).
- Authorization for the highway commissioner to acquire by purchase, gift or condemnation lands containing road building materials.
- Elimination of the present "depreciation with age" feature of car registration taxes (tax cars according only to their weight).
- Revision of state laws regarding veterans' preference provisions to require a passing grade on civil service examinations before any preference points are applied.
- Authorization for a police officer to make an arrest without a warrant for a traffic offense at the scene of an accident even though the officer did not witness the accident.

Amending the present implied consent law (which provides that if a suspected drinking driver refuses to take a sobriety test he "consents" to the suspension of his license) so that both municipalities and the state can use the implied consent law.

Making certain traffic offenses gross misdemeanors, including drunken driving and driving without a license when an accident occurs involving injury or death.

Substantial strengthening of the state highway patrol.

Laws requiring inspection of all motor vehicles at least once a year; eye and road tests for drivers before license renewals, and the elimination of the power of the courts to order the issuance of limited driving licenses after conviction of some traffic offenses.

Laws to control junk yards along trunk and county-state roads.

The elimination of the "two types of speed limits" on state roads so that "all speed limit signs will have the same meaning." (This would eliminate the "absolute" signs now dotting state roads).

The establishment of a single age at which an individual can be licensed, thus eliminating "certain restrictive licensing" at an age prior to the eligibility age.

A law making it impossible for anyone under 18 to get a license until he has passed classroom and behind-the-wheel driver training.

A CUT IN EXCISE taxes is high on President Johnson's list of things to be done in the next session of Congress. Removal of some of these taxes also has a high priority with the consumer. Women have protested bitterly for years that taxing handbags and cosmetics as luxuries merely proved that male legislators didn't know a necessity when they saw one.

Perhaps it is the feminine pressure that makes such items as jewelry and furs the most likely candidates for the first tax relief. But if either the ladies or the legislators pause to reflect a minute, they can find a better outlet for their zeal.

Thus far, the proposals to remove the "emergency" taxes imposed so long ago have skipped over the tax on telephone calls. Wartime excise taxes on other utilities have been repealed, but the average telephone user still pays about $22 a year for the privilege of talking and listening.

There may have been a time when the telephone was a luxury. There may still be occasions when a part of its use falls in that category — ask any father of teenagers. But day in and day out, the telephone is a basic necessity of mid-20th Century living, as anyone who has ever called a doctor, the police, or the fire department will readily testify.

Removing the tax on telephone calls surely should be as important as the proposed cuts on luxury goods. If the lawmakers don't know it yet, they should be told — by telephone, of course.

FOR A TIME, THERE was fretting about whether our own Hubert Humphrey would have enough to do when he became vice president. Those who set high store by his abilities, and were aware of his prodigious energies, worried lest he find the vice presidency boring and frustrating.

Now it begins to appear that, far from having to twiddle his thumbs in the vice president's luxurious offices, Humphrey may turn out to be one of the busiest men in the government. President Johnson already has tossed enough assignments into his lap to keep him thoroughly occupied.

This began with the announcement that as vice president Humphrey would be expected to coordinate and stimulate all of the federal government's activities in the field of civil rights. He also has been charged with responsibility for coordinating the "war on poverty," an effort in which he will work closely with the poverty program director, Sargent Shriver, and various Cabinet members. His role as co-

TODAY IN WORLD AFFAIRS

1967 Year to Watch in China

By DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — Red China is the most populous country in the world today, yet probably is the least known. When the news came recently that Red China had exploded her first atomic bomb, people everywhere wondered how soon the Peiping regime would make more bombs and perhaps increase the threat to neighboring countries. But because few news correspondents have been permitted to enter the mainland of China, very little is known even about the essential facts of the country's growth and economic development — or how soon the terror of her bombs may be widened.

Professor Chu-Yuan Cheng, who is research economist at the Center for Chinese Studies conducted by the University of Michigan, is recognized as a top authority on Communist China's internal affairs. In a copyrighted interview this week in "U.S. News & World Report," he answers a number of significant questions about what is going on in Red China — a country of more than 700 million people.

"China's economic condition," he said, "is very poor now and will not allow her to make ambitious moves. In fact, China is still on the brink of starvation. But, in the longer run, this could be a different story . . . in about three years, things could start changing. By 1967, Red China will be a much more threatening power to her neighbors than she is now."

"FIRST, SHE will start accumulating a nuclear stockpile at about that time — not only A-bombs, but we may start seeing the first Chinese rockets then. Secondly, 1967 will mark a target date that Mao Tse-tung set, back in 1949, for the completion of China's industrialization program. I think 1967 could well be a turning-point year for Peiping, and it is a crucial year for the West to watch."

Professor Cheng was asked how it was possible for him to know as much as he does about Red China, from which he fled in 1949 to escape the Communists. He replied:

"Espionage is one way, and, of course, the U-2 planes were very effective in the case of the atom bomb. But that is not my area. In my field — research — we can get much information from their own official documents. In Communist China they now have about 200 technical periodicals published by various institutes in the Chinese Academy of Sciences and by various academic associations."

IN YEARS GONE BY

Ten Years Ago . . . 1954

Total occupancy of the 160-unit Arthur C. Thurnley Homes has been achieved. Although somewhat whiter than a year ago, Christmas weather in 1954 isn't up to par. Much of the snow that had fallen earlier this month is gone, and temperatures are above freezing. The high Christmas Day was 42.

Twenty-Five Years Ago . . . 1939

Karl F. Conrad was re-elected president of the Winona Association of Commerce at a dinner meeting of the board of directors at the Arlington Club.

The Mississippi River was frozen over to depths ranging up to four inches in most places following continued cold temperatures.

Fifty Years Ago . . . 1914

Dr. J. W. Taylor of St. Paul, the new superintendent of Winona District Methodism, paid his first Sunday visit to Winona and preached in the morning at Central Methodist Church.

Winona blacksmiths met for the purpose of starting the organization of a journeyman blacksmith's union in the city. Herbert King was elected temporary president.

Seventy-Five Years Ago . . . 1889

Matt Corcoran, Bluffton, Ind., is in the city making arrangements for a butter tub and creamery supply distributing house in Winona. A party of 30 Masons went to Lewiston to attend the public installation of officers of the Masonic Lodge.

One Hundred Years Ago . . . 1864

James C. Campbell, former Winonan, has received the appointment as a clerk in the Patent Office in Washington.

ordinator also will extend to the several agencies involved in the space program.

Humphrey is to serve as a presidential advisor on foreign affairs, and as the administration's chief agriculture expert outside the Department of Agriculture. Most significantly of all, perhaps, the President has now assigned the Number Two man to be his chief agent in Congress — to ride herd, as it were, on the administration's legislative program.

Whether Mr. Johnson also will encourage Humphrey to perform some of the ceremonial functions heretofore carried on by the chief executive remains to be seen. This would be one of the most effective ways of freeing the President for more substantive tasks. But in any case, Hubert will have little time on his hands.

In all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. Romans 8:37.

Guantanamo Base Open to Dependents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military men and civilian employees assigned to the Guantanamo naval base in Cuba may bring their families with them — effective immediately.

The Navy said Friday that "effective immediately, U.S. military and civilian personnel ordered for duty to the naval base, Guantanamo bay, Cuba, may be accompanied by their dependents."

It had been disclosed earlier at Guantanamo that the United States was reversing its policy of gradually withdrawing American dependents from the base.

The change followed completion by the Navy of a plant which can convert 2.2 million gallons of salt water to fresh water each day, making the base self-sufficient. Last February Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro shut off Guantanamo's fresh water supply, forcing the Navy to bring in water by tanker until a large enough desalination plant could be completed.

Wisconsin Capt. Bombed BOQ

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Capt. Archie C. Juntze of Sheboygan, Wis., is the commanding officer of the military billet where two Americans were killed and 65 injured by a terrorist bombing Christmas eve.

Kuntze said Friday the bomb containing some 200 pounds of plastic explosives "was probably wrapped inside either a jeep, a Nash Rambler or a Volkswagen."

He said the bomb, with a timing device, apparently had been hidden in a vehicle driven into a carport under the "Brink Hotel" quarters. He added the vehicle, smashed with several others in the blast, presumably had official plates.

"You just can't stop everything, but it is our practice to check everything," Kuntze said. "We permit any vehicle to pass that has either official American plates or Vietnamese military plates. The drivers of any other vehicles have their papers checked."

There were 120 Americans living in the hotel and most were there when the bomb exploded about 6 p.m. Kuntze said that one wing of the seven-story building would be back in use within a month. However, he said extensive rebuilding would be necessary.

Blood Donors Give 106 Pints

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special) — Mondovi and area blood donors gave 106 pints when the bloodmobile unit visited here Monday, with headquarters at Central Lutheran Church. The Buffalo Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was in charge. Mrs. James Lightfoot, president, was chairman of the drive.

There were 135 volunteers and 29 rejects; 13 were first-time donors. Gallon donors were: Ronald Helwig, Mrs. Melvin Rutschow, Mrs. Chester Knecht, Mrs. Helen Switzenberg, George A. Benning, Charles Accola and Jack Cook.

Auxiliary members and volunteer workers were: Mrs. Blanche Fisher, Mrs. Frank Norrish, typists, Mrs. Harold Hargland, Mrs. Geo. Weiss, Miss Jeanne Weiss; laboratory reports, Mrs. Myrtle Wright; registered nurses, Mrs. W. E. Wright, Miss Irma Heck, Mrs. James Heike, Mrs. Robert Stoughton, Mrs. Dale Johnson. Donor room aides: Mrs. Galen Sather, Mrs. David Johnson, Mrs. Norman Hanson, Mrs. Lloyd Tomlin, Mrs. Harley Hesselman, Mrs. Anna Tanner; bottle labelers, Mrs. Howard Peck, Mrs. Fred Puhl; loading, Gordon Solberg; telephone, Mrs. Gordon Kjentvel.

The American Legion Auxiliary had charge of the canteen. Assisting were: Mrs. Charles Giese, chairman, Mrs. Alma Ward, Mrs. Petra Jacobson, Miss Yvonne Hagen, Mrs. Blanche Lahrson, and Mrs. Harry Hartley.

Joyous Holiday For Windsor

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Being confined to a hospital took little joy out of Christmas for the Duke of Windsor.

The 70-year-old former king of England awoke early and took a walk down the hall from his fourth-floor suite in Methodist Hospital where he is recuperating from abdominal surgery performed Dec. 16.

After breakfast the duke and the duchess exchanged gifts.

La-Crescent Boy Going to Burn Center

LA CRESCENT, Minn. — An air force ambulance plane will fly Billy Kistler, 6, from a hospital in La Crosse to Cincinnati Monday for special treatment of burns.

The La Crosse Shrine Club obtained admission for Billie to the Shrine burn center in Cincinnati.

The child suffered extensive burns in mid-September when his clothing caught fire from a lighted match. Billie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kistler of La Crescent, has been hospitalized for more than three months.

Rolvaag Plans Address to Legislature Jan. 6

ST. PAUL (AP) — Gov. Karl Rolvaag said here he hopes to address the state House and Senate in joint session on Jan. 6, the second day of the 1965 Minnesota Legislature.

He said necessary formalities have not been completed, however, because he has not had an opportunity to talk with legislative leaders.

Until this year the second day of the session has been inauguration day, but governors now serve four-year terms and Rolvaag is in mid-term.

Instead of an inaugural message, his address will be a sort of "state of the state" speech and an outline of his recommendations to the Legislature.

Helping Hand Leads to Row And Man's Death

NEW YORK (AP) — What started out as an attempt to lend a helping hand on Christmas Day ended in a man killed and another held in the slaying.

Police said John Perrineau, driving a taxicab, offered to push a stalled car driven by Mitchell Gotch, 37. He did, and Gotch claimed the push damaged his auto transmission. The argument ended in a police station where, it developed, Gotch was employed as a taxicab washer and, police said, had no driver's license. Perrineau got a summons.

Police said Perrineau later returned to where Gotch and his car were still stalled, and stabbed the motorist in the chest. Gotch died in Bronx hospital.

Perrineau was booked on charges of homicide and violation of the Sullivan anti-weapons law.

Four Killed in Crash in N.D.

VERONA, N.D. (AP) — Four persons were fatally injured in a near-head-on crash on icy N.D. 1 seven miles north of here during a Christmas Day snowstorm.

Dead are Ernest Trautmann, 40, and his wife, Leona, 35. Fargo parents of five; and Robert Peterson, 4, and his sister Debbie, 2 or 3. Hospitalized at Oakes were the children's parents, Kenneth Peterson, 32, Engelvale; his wife, Donna, 27, and another daughter, Bonnie, 5.

Hordes of visitors proved Thomas Jefferson's undoing. The steward at Monticello, his estate near Charlottesville, Va., groaned: "I have often sent a wagon-load of hay up to the stable and the next morning there would be enough to make a bird's nest. I have killed a fine beef and it would all be eaten in a day or two." After Jefferson's death, his daughter had to sell Monticello to pay his debts.

DeLaSalle Favored to Cop Cotter Invitational Tourney

By GARY EVANS

Sunday News Sports Editor

Minneapolis DeLaSalle, a tip-of-the-tongue familiarity with associated with powerful Minnesota parochial basketball teams, highlights the field for the Second Annual Cotter Invitational Tournament, which debuts at Winona State's Memorial Hall at 7 p.m. Monday.

The Islanders, ranked behind defending state champion St. Louis Park Benilde and out-state power Austin Pacelli through the early going, hit the pinnacle of parochial fame with a 50-45 victory over Benilde last week.

But though his team has swept past four opponents after a slow start and losses to Pacelli and St. Cloud Cathedral, Dick Reinhard, veteran DeLaSalle coach, isn't particularly enthused with the favorite's tag his group will command.

What does he expect?

"Trouble," he snapped, "trouble pure and simple! I suppose after 30 years of coaching, being the favorite shouldn't make any difference. But we still need a lot of experience."

But one think Reinhard couldn't hide was his feeling of joy with his team's progress.

With only one starter back from the team that lost to Cotter 52-45 in the battle for third place in last year's state tournament, Reinhard anticipated a much slower start.

"Up to this time, I have to admit I'm well pleased," he said. "The kids are coming along real good."

Monday night's pairings will send John Nett's Ramblers against Winless Minnehaha Academy in the 7 o'clock kickoff with DeLaSalle following against Rochester Lourdes.

The losers will meet in the consolation finals Tuesday at 7 with the championship game scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Cotter, buoyed by two important victories over St. Paul Hill and Lourdes in its two final pre-Christmas appearances, will make no changes for the tournament.

The starting five made up of 6-3 Dan Pelowski at center, 6-0 Bill Browne and 5-11

Chuck Kulas at forwards and 5-11 John Nett Jr., the captain, and 5-10 Bob Allaire at guards will remain intact.

Nett is another pleased coach at this stage of the season, his team compiling a 4-2 record over a tough early schedule.

"I had hoped we'd do this well, but we're coming a lot better than I thought we would," admitted Nett.

Minnehaha Academy, except for the fact that the club has dropped its first six games, is an unknown quantity.

"They haven't done too well up to now," said Nett. "But that's about all we know about them."

Cotter is the defending tournament champion. The Ramblers spilled Lourdes 32-28 in last year's finale, the Eagles electing to hold the ball in the championship contest.

IN FIRST-ROUND games a year ago, Lourdes ripped past Minnehaha Academy 66-51 while Cotter was ambled past St. Paul Cretin 83-56.

Nett expects the Lourdes-DeLaSalle game could be a fine one.

"That should be a good one," he said, refusing to pick his team over Minnehaha Academy.

If things go according to form, the Ramblers will make the championship, however.

Buffalo Bills Belt Chargers For AFL Title

Reid Hits FG As Blue Tips Gray 10-6

By KELSO STURGEON

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gary Wydman's 30-yard touchdown pass and an alert Blue defense led the North to a 10-6 victory over the South Saturday in the annual Blue-Gray All-Star football game.

Wydman, a cool quarterback from Penn State, threw the scoring pass to end Bill Cronin of Boston College with 8:14 left in the third quarter to give the Blues a 10-0 lead.

Virginia Tech quarterback Bob Schweickert, who provided most of the offensive spark for the Gray, put the Rebels on the scoreboard midway through the fourth period when he connected on a five-yard touchdown pass to end John Brotherton of Texas A. & M.

Schweickert gambled on a two-point conversion attempt but was stopped short of the goal line by Gus Otto of Missouri, leaving the game at its final margin.

The rugged, quick-reacting Blue defenders intercepted two key passes and recovered two fumbles in crucial situations to kill the South's scoring opportunities.

The play that most likely put the victory away for the North came with about four minutes to go in the game. The South gambled on a fourth-and-one situation at the Blue 47 and failed to make the first down.

The Blues scored the first time they got the ball when Mike Reid of Minnesota kicked a 28-yard field goal with 8:14 left in the first period.

The Yankees controlled the game throughout most of the first half and killed the Grays' biggest scoring attempt by recovering a fumble by Schweickert on the South nine.

Wydman and Bill Symons of Colorado tied in the voting for the game's most valuable player award. Named the outstanding offensive player for the Blue team was Wydman. Schweickert got this honor from the South.

Voted the outstanding defensive player for the North was tackle Ed Ozaen of Ohio State. Guard Bob Finamore of Memphis State claimed this honor for the losers.

BLOCKING A BUFFALO BILL . . . San Diego tacklers swarm over Buffalo Bills' Cookie Gilchrist in first period play of AFL championship game at Buffalo as he picks up several yards gain. 1st Title for Bills; Kemp, Carlton Tally

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Cookie Gilchrist, Buffalo's repentent bad boy, gained 144 yards and combined with revenge-minded Jackie Kemp to bring the Bills their first American Football League championship with a 20-7 victory Saturday over San Diego's defending champions.

Gilchrist and Kemp, who was claimed from San Diego in 1962 for the $100 waiver price, thus ended a long title search for this football crazy city that supported the now defunct All-American Conference in the late 1940s and began looking again when the AFL was formed five years ago.

Gilchrist, the prime mover in Buffalo's grind-it-out defense, gained 122 yards rushing and grabbed two of Kemp's passes for 22 yards. Kemp, meanwhile, completed 10 for 20 passes for 168 yards.

Oddly Gilchrist did not score and Kemp did not pass for a touchdown but the 29-year-old signal-caller managed to sneak a couple of inches for the final touchdown in the last quarter.

Wray Carlton, Gilchrist's running mate, scored one touchdown on a four-yard run and soccer-style Pete Gogolak kicked a pair of field goals from 12 and 17 yards out.

Gilchrist made his rushing yardage on 16 carries before being forced out of the bruising game with banged up ribs in the fourth quarter.

Then, with 26 seconds left, Buffalo's impassioned fans broke through police restraining lines, took down both goalposts and continued to run and circle the field while San Diego tried to get off its last play.

Despite the heroics of Gilchrist and Kemp, the key play of the entire game may have come early in the first quarter when Buffalo's All-Star line-backer, Mike Stratton, broke through and nailed San Diego's hard-running Keith Lincoln.

Lincoln, who gained 339 yards rushing and receiving in last year's 51-10 walloping of Boston in the title game, was smeared just as he turned to take a pass from quarterback Tobin Rote.

He was immediately separated from the ball and lay with his back on the ground in obvious pain.

Stratton's jarring tackle had broken the 10th rib on Lincoln's right side and, although it wasn't evident then, apparently broke up San Diego's vaunted offense.

Lincoln rambled 38 yards on the first play from scrimmage and gained 17 more before Rote

9 HOURS FOR ARMCHAIR VIEWERS

Millions Await Friday's Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Nine hours of solid football viewing, with no time out for dinner, provides a glutinous fare Friday for the millions of arm-chair quarterbacks.

Already limp from the past weekend's professional title playoffs, the hardy dial-twisters turn to college football's blue-ribbon bowl spectacles in Miami.

The only time any juggling of the stations will be necessary will be at the start of the afternoon where there is a conflict between the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, pitting undefeated Arkansas against once-beaten Nebraska, and the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, sending Louisiana State (7-2-1) against Syracuse (7-3-0). Both games start at 2 p.m., EST.

After that, it's clear sailing through the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, matching Michigan and Oregon State at 5 p.m., EST, and the Orange Bowl at Miami, played the first time at night with national champion Alabama and Texas as the principals. The Miami kickoff is at 8 p.m.

This New Year's marathon was made possible by a staggering of the schedule by NBC, telecasting three of the attractions — Sugar, Rose and Orange. CBS has the Dallas game.

Miami wound up with the day's top offering — a match between the No. 1 unbeaten and untied Crimson Tide of Alabama and the team which won the national title the year before — Texas. The Longhorns, whose only loss was a one-point defeat by Arkansas, finished No. 5 in the final Associated Press poll.

The Cotton Bowl brings together two other teams with gaudy season records. Arkansas won the Southwest Conference title and finished with a perfect 10-0 record while Nebraska, the Big Eight champion, bowed only to Oklahoma late in the season.

In the Rose Bowl, Michigan led by All-America Bob Timberlake, is an 11-point pick over Oregon State, the surprise team of the Pacific Coast and a controversial choice over Southern California.

Ralston Now Ranks No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., has replaced Chuck McKinley at the head of the United States Lawn Tennis Association men's rankings.

McKinley, from St. Ann, Mo., and San Antonio, Tex., dropped to second in the ratings released Friday. Ralston and McKinley, members of the U.S. team that lost the Davis Cup to Australia last September, were ranked No. 1 in men's doubles.

The women's division also had a new leader, Nancy Richey of Dallas. She replaced Darlene Hard, who turned professional. Miss Richey, a loser in the semifinals of the national championships at Forest Hills, N.Y., was third this past year.

Ranked second was Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., who also was listed first with Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of San Antonio in women's doubles.

Veteran Boxing Ref Dies While Shoveling

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Julius Fidler, 73, who claimed to have refereed 10,000 boxing matches, collapsed and died Saturday after shoveling snow from his sidewalk.

Fidler had 135 bouts as an amateur boxer and turned to refereeing in 1927.

Fidler said recently, "10,000 bouts seems like an awful lot but, remember, I've refereed as many as 30 a night at the social centers."

WILL ATTEMPT TO PRESERVE BIG 10 PRESTIGE

Michigan is Favorite In New York Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Mighty

Michigan, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, stands as the favorite in one of the finest fields in the 13-year history of the ECAC Holiday basketball festival in Madison Square Garden.

The Wolverines, led by Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin, take on Manhattan in a first round game Monday night.

The tourney, trimmed from 12 to eight teams, has only one entrant with a losing record — Syracuse, and the Orangemen, 1-5, were among the Top Ten in the pre-season ratings.

"We lost one in an upset to Penn State, then a one-point loss to Cornell, and the boys simply never recovered," Coach Fred Lewis of Syracuse said. "They didn't recover on that three-game trip to Kentucky but may be about ready to come back."

The tourney opens with two games Monday afternoon — Cincinnati, 6-1, vs. Temple, 5-2, and St. John's, N.Y., 4-2, vs. LaSalle, 5-1. The other first rounders Monday night have Michigan, 6-1, vs. Manhattan, 5-1, and Princeton, 5-2, vs. Syracuse.

Semifinals are scheduled Wednesday, and the final will be part of a triple header Saturday.

Michigan was picked by the participating coaches as the most likely to succeed while St.

John's was made the favorite in the upper half of the bracket.

Should Michigan make the finals, it would make the sixth straight year that a Big Ten team has been in the championship game. Ohio State won in 1960 and Illinois in 1962. Iowa in 1959, Wisconsin in 1961 and Minnesota in 1963 were runners-up.

Russell, the Wolverines' all-around backcourt man, was tabbed by the coaches in the informal poll as the top candidate for Most Valuable Player award but should get stern competition from a flock of outstanding individuals.

Included are Princeton All-America Bill Bradley, brothers Bob and Ken McIntyre of St. John's, Michigan's Buntin, Curt Fromal of LaSalle, Chuck Richards and Dave Bing of Syracuse, Ron Krick of Cincinnati, Henry Chlupka of Manhattan and Jim Williams of Temple.

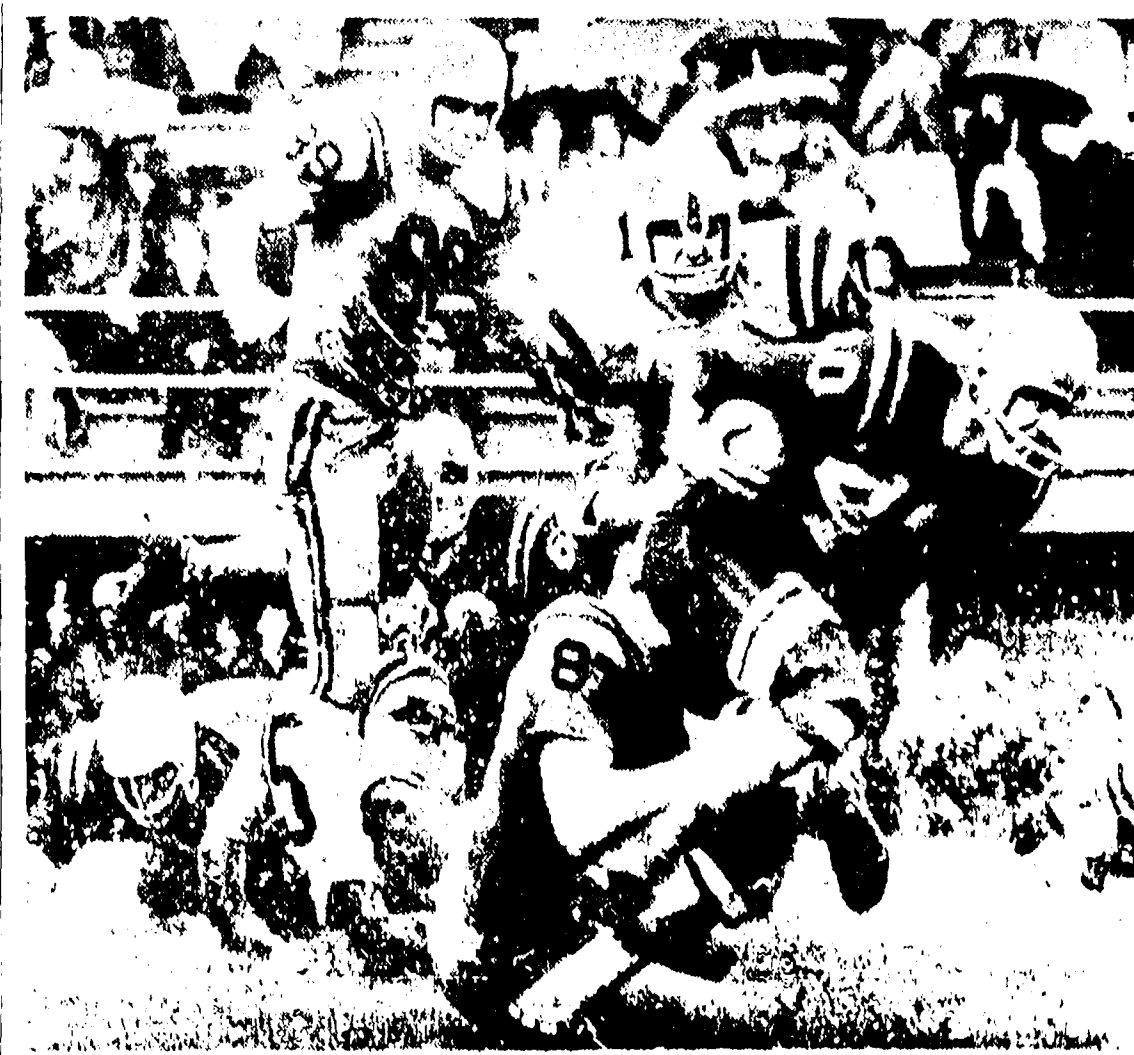

The year 1949 saw the largest win of National Football League champions over College All-Stars, 38 to 0, with Philadelphia winning.

Georgia Tips Texas Tech in Sun Bowl

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Georgia controlled the ball capably on the ground and scored in the second quarter on a crash from five yards out by Frank Lankowitz to defeat Texas Tech 7-0 in the 30th annual Sun Bowl game here Saturday.

The Bulldog's only touchdown followed a 52-yard pass play. A kick from placement gave Georgia its seventh point.

An interception by tackle Vance Edwards nullified a Tech drive late in the fourth period.

DESPITE AWESOME PRESENCE OF JIM BROWN

Colts One Touchdown Favorite Over Browns

By JACK HAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Johnny

Unitas and Lenny Moore, a lethal one-two punch, make Baltimore a favorite over the Cleveland Browns today in the National Football League championship game despite the awesome power of Jim Brown. If the out-of-control edge could vanish in the rain or snow.

The Colts' well-balanced attack, built around Unitas' pinpoint passing and the running of Jerry Hill, Tony Lorick and Moore, helped Coach Don Shula's men clinch the Western Conference title over a month ago.

The explosive Browns went down to the wire, routing New York 52-20 in the last game to nail down the Eastern championship. Baltimore finished with a 12-2 record and Cleveland with 10-3-1. They did not meet in regular season or exhibition games.

A standing room throng of over 82,000 will jam Cleveland Stadium on the lakefront, assuring the players of record winning and losing shares of about $8,000 and $5,000. The gate receipts of $635,000 will be increased by a large portion of the $1.9 million television money.

Game time is 3:35 p.m., EST, with a national (CBS) network radio and television coverage. The Cleveland area will be blackout on television.

If the score is tied after regulation play, they will continue on a sudden death basis until somebody scores.

Cleveland banks heavily on Brown's ground thrusts, as usual, but Coach Blanton Collier has improved his air game with the addition of rookie Paul Warfield of Ohio State as a top receiver for Frank Ryan's passes. With Warfield at split end, Gary Collins at flanker and Johnny Brewer at tight end, Ryan has thrown 25 touchdown passes.

Brown, who rumbled through enemy lines for 1,446 yards and boosted his career total over the 10,000 mark, also is used often as a pass receiver on screens.

The Colts were manhandled by Minnesota in their opening game and then proceeded to win 11 in a row before they were beaten by Detroit 31-14 after the conference had been clinched. Baltimore wound up first in scoring, 428 points, and first in defense, 225 points.

Moore topped the league in scoring with 20 touchdowns and 120 points. He scored 17 times running and only three times as a receiver.

Unitas did not pass as often as usual, having a stronger running attack behind him. His favorite target was Raymond Berry but he also went often to flanker Jimmy Orr, tight end John Mackey, Lorick, Hill and Moore.

It is on defense that most observers believe the Colts have the big edge. Their front line, anchored by Gino Marchetti and Ordell Braase, is the best at rushing a passer. Cleveland's defensive line has a good statistical record at pass blocking but they will be hard pressed to protect Ryan from the rush of Marchetti and Co.

Cleveland's defensive line plays a more passive game, seldom blitzing. In fact, the Browns have thrown the enemy passer only 28 times all season, compared to Baltimore's 57. Cleveland's total defense is 14th and last in the NFL statistics and Baltimore's is first.

Basketball Activity Highlights Relaxed Holiday Season

Several top basketball games, in the form of tournaments and "doubleheaders," highlight this week's area prep cage activity.

Only one tourney in the immediate area will crown a "champion" as such. That is the tournament at Mabel involving the host school, Preston, Lanesboro and Rushford. The Mabel tourney gets under way Tuesday and crowns its titlist Wednesday night.

Doubleheaders at Alma-Cochrane-Fountain City, and Wabasha St. Felix get under way Monday and end Tuesday. The other doubleheader in the area is set for Plainview and starts Tuesday and finishes Wednesday.

The tourney at St. Felix seems to be the best balanced. Besides the host school, Arkansaw and Pepin of the West Central Conference and Rollingstone Holy Trinity of the Bi-State league are involved.

St. Felix mentor Duke Loretz is skeptical when it comes to Stone.

Shared sites at Alma and Cochrane-Fountain City involve five schools, four from the Badger state and one from Minnesota.

Cochrane-Fountain City tackles Taylor of the West Central loop in the 7 p.m. game Monday at Rivermen gym, while Arcadia and Alma will meet in the 8:30 p.m. contest.

Tuesday, the tourney site switches to the C-FC fair where Alma and Harmony will match court wits at 7 p.m. and C-FC and Arcadia will go to it in the nightcap.

Tuesday's host coach, Jim Danielson of C-FC thinks that the tourney will have some top games.

"Of course, the Alma-Harmony battle will be THE game," says Danielson, "with both teams unbeaten and with Meulemans (Tom, the Harmony coach) hailing from Alma and all, but our games should be fine to watch."

Monday's game with Taylor should be a bit closer than the Arcadia-Alma game and Tuesday's game with Arcadia should also be pretty balanced. Our story this year has been the fact that we can't match any team in height. We aren't that bad a ball club really (0-5), but we still can't win. We're crossing our fingers for that first win."

The Mabel tournament, tipping off Tuesday, finds Lanesboro and Rushford meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the first tilt, and Mabel and Preston clashing at 8:45 p.m.

Wednesday the losers of the first two games will meet at 7:30 for the consolation title.

and the championship match will follow.

In the other tourney in the immediate area, this one also of the "doubleheader" type, Lewiston, an independent, and Wabasha of the Centennial loop bang into each other at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Plainview Holiday opener. The host Gophers and St. Charles, both Hiawatha Valley league entries, take the court at 9 p.m.

Wednesday's lineup finds Lewiston facing St. Charles in the first game and Plainview against Wabasha in the finale.

Several other tourneys are on tap for this week. Monday in the Ellsworth, Wis., Doubleheader, Red Wing of the Big Nine meets River Falls at 7:30 p.m., and Prescott meets Ellsworth at 9 p.m.

The teams switch opponents Tuesday, with Prescott tackling River Falls and Red Wing testing Ellsworth.

Goodhue and Milan meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Cannon Falls tourney, and the host Bombers battle Appleton in a 9 p.m. contest. Wednesday, the consolation finals are set for 7 p.m., and the championship game at 9.

Other games Tuesday find Caleclonia playing its Alumni, Albert Lea at Wells and Owatonna in the Janesville Holiday tournament, which extends until Wednesday.

Bangor of the Coulee Conference is hosting a one-day doubleheader Wednesday. Cashton meets Onalaska Luther at 7 p.m., and Bangor tests Brookwood in a 9 p.m. contest.

Winona State, St. Mary's Set for Action

Warriors in Carleton Meet

By ROLLIE WUSSOW
Sunday News Sports Writer

A brand, spanking new gymnasium is the setting for the Carleton Holiday Tournament, Tuesday's destination for Winona State's cage squad.

The tournament, an annual affair with the site switching each year among the four regular tourney entries, Carleton, Beloit, Carroll and Winona, gets under way Tuesday and crowns its champion Wednesday at Northfield, Minn.

A year ago in the same tourney, coach Bob Campbell's Warriors captured the consolation championship from Carroll, a 71-70 decision, which sparked the Warriors to a five-game win streak. Host Beloit captured the tournament championship a year ago.

ONCE AGAIN this year, Campbell's charges drew the host school in the opening round. The Warriors face the Carls at 7 p.m. Tuesday on the Midwest Conference entry's new floor, an architectural masterpiece, and one of the finest in the state.

"I don't know if I like to meet the host school in the first round all the time," jested Campbell Saturday, thinking about his team's 85-79 loss to Beloit in the opening round a year ago.

Campbell has been kept in the dark as far as knowing anything about his tournament foes.

"As far as making any predictions, I have to go on the basis of last year," says Campbell. "Judging from that, any team could win the tourney, because I think we're all pretty well balanced."

THE WARRIOR head is almost as much in the dark about his own team as he is about the other. He broke practice for the Christmas holiday Dec. 17 and won't see his troops until tonight.

"It seems like a year since I've seen them," said Campbell. "I really don't know what kind of shape we'll be in. We'll just have to wait until tonight to tell." The Warriors will hold a 7 p.m. practice today and have morning and afternoon sessions Monday.

Campbell invited 12 men back for the workouts prior to the Northfield trip. The dozen includes Dave Rosenau, Dave Goede, Tom Stallings, Gary Petersen, Tim Anderson, Dave Meisner, Bill Werner, Dallas Diercks, Keith Asleson, Dennis Morgan, Jack Benedict and Jim Kasten.

Meisner is a questionable for the tournament. The 5-8 sharpshooter from Cloquet has been pestered by foot ailments all year, but the topper came shortly after the South Dakota State loss in which Meisner scored 16 points.

After complaining about his foot after the game, Meisner was sent for X-rays, which revealed a hairline fracture on his foot. "He was told he could play some if he taped it before the vacation, but we'll just have to wait and see how it turned out. If we could get him whole again, we'd be in good shape."

ABSENT FROM the tournament team is 6-3 guard Jack Kelly, who was injured in the Plateville game. He will be lost until after the vacation, says Campbell.

A year ago, Carleton was 7-12 in the Midwest circuit and 8-14 overall. Youth and inexperience earmarks the Carls for this year, so say the press releases.

The team is led by co-captains Ron Sanders, a 5-11 senior guard and John Kirby, 6-2 senior forward. Sanders was the team's second leading scorer a year ago with a 14.0 showing, while Kirby had an 8.7 scoring ledger. This year, Sanders is boasting a 24.5 scoring average.

Height wise, the Warriors and Carls should be pretty even. Rosenau at 6-5 will lead the Winona rebounding corps, while Carleton will probably counter with a front line of 6-3 Clayton Russell and Kirby at forwards, with 6-7 Clark Marshall at center. Marshall is a sophomore.

HUARTE IS TOP QUARTERBACK

North Rally Subdues South

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Huarte won the battle of the quarterbacks handily, but his North team had to go through a hair-raising fight before it finally conquered the South in the most exciting game of the Shrine Christmas football series, 37-30.

Only five seconds were left when Huarte, Notre Dame's Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback, whipped a five-yard clutch pass to his teammate, Jack Snow, to break a 30-30 deadlock the South had forged with a gallant comeback just two minutes earlier.

This and a magnificent game-long performance won Huarte the vote as the outstanding North player. And he clearly outshone the two South quarterbacks, Navy's Roger Staubach and Tulsa's aerial record-breaker, Jerry Rhome.

On the South side, Bob Hayes, Florida A&M's Olympic sprinter, stole the show from the quarterbacks to be voted the outstanding player on his team. Hayes operated as a split end.

After a mild first half that ended with the North in front 6-6, the Yankees exploded for 23 points in the third period on a 25-yard sprint by Penn State's Tom Urbanik, a 20-yard pass from Huarte to Army's Carl Stichweh and a 44-yard runback by Rudy Kuechenberg of Indiana with a pass stolen from Rhome.

It looked utterly hopeless when the South trailed 30-6, but the Rebels picked themselves up off the rain-swept field and launched a 24-point bombardment of their own to even the count.

It was Staubach, the 1963 Heisman winner, who brought the South alive with a great running exhibition in a 62-yard scoring surge. Staubach ropedanced 34 yards to the one to set up a touchdown by Auburn's Tucker Frederickson, the man the South depended on all day for its clutch yardage.

Then Hayes, pushing slower blockers out of his way, blazed 39 yards for a touchdown on a reverse. Finally, Staubach shot across from the one with 2:08 left and passed to Baylor's Ken Hodge for two points that squared it up.

It was the North's first victory since 1960. The South leads 10-6 and one tie.

Viking Rise Is State's Best Story, Twins Skid to Sixth Place Second

By LEW FERGUSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

The year 1964 has to be classed as the year of the underdog in Minnesota sports.

The Vikings, for four years relegated to the role of poor second cousins while the Twins basked in the sunshine of popularity with the fans, emerged to truly capture the fancy of the paying customer and the sit-at-home TV watcher.

The Gopher basketball team, in recent years deemed to second-class status at the University of Minnesota because of football dominance, blossomed into the most exciting in Gopher history.

And underdogs like the Laverne High School basketball team, the Concordia College football team, and — of all things — the Gopher cross country team had their moments of glory.

These were most prominent among the 1964 sports news makers as compiled by The Associated Press:

1. Vikings rise to contender status in National Football League.
2. Twins slump to sixth despite bulging power.
3. Gopher basketball team rises to national prominence.
4. Laverne wins state basketball championship.
5. Gopher baseball team captures NCAA title.
6. Gopher football team surprises with five victories.
7. Concordia ties for NAIA grid championship.
8. Augsburg dominates small college basketball.
9. Gopher cross country team wins Big Ten crown.
10. Northern League weathers severe, survives shrinking of minor leagues.

The Vikings, lop-eared ragamuffins of the NFL for three years, reached maturity in 1964. They tied the haughty Green Bay Packers for second place in the Western Division, narrowly missing a berth in the NFL's Miami Playoff Bowl.

The Vikings zoomed to stardom at the turnstiles, too. They played before 274,026 in seven home appearances — an average of over 39,000 — and were watched by 645,959 in their 14 league games.

It turned out for Tom Franckhauser and Jumbo Jim Marshall to gain the bizarre individual attention, but for widely divergent reasons.

Franckhauser met a bruising rookie fullback head-on in training camp at Bemidji, then collapsed. He suffered a brain hemorrhage, but pulled through. He'll never play football again, but he's alive — thanks to Viking trainer Fred Zamberletti and his doctors.

Marshall, the pixie-like defensive end, won national attention — and perhaps everlasting ribbing when he scooped up a fumble in San Francisco and loyed 67 yards for a touchdown. Not until he had tossed the ball high into the air and turned to see his teammates did the horrible truth hit Marshall. He had run the wrong way to score a safety that gave the 49ers two points!

The Twins had perhaps the greatest array of power ever assembled on one team from top to bottom of the lineup. Yet they folded in a July losing streak and got progressively more lackluster in a season that could be called nothing less than disappointing.

The bright spots were Tony Oliva, the broad-smiling Cuban rookie who won the American League batting championship and was named Rookie-of-the-year, and Harmon Killebrew who won his third straight American League home run championship by crashing 49 homers.

Yet Twins attendance fell off for the second straight year, and the fans clamored for winter trades. Stoic Calvin Griffith stood his ground, however, and maintained he would not be stampeded into trading.

Three out-state imports put more life in the Minnesota Gophers' basketball team than it has known since the days of Dick Garmaker a decade ago. Lou Hudson, Archie Clark and Don Yates, with speed to burn and class to spare, have shoved the Gophers into the national limelight.

Minnesota won 17 of 24 games in 1963-64 and won their first six titles of the new season to give promise of a possible Big Ten championship.

Laverne became the second straight southwestern Minnesota high school to earn the state's most prized prep bunting — the basketball championship. Led by poker-faced Delbert Jensen, the Tigers beat favored Rochester 66 in the finals.

Gopher basketballers, with Dick Siebert still at the helm, won their third NCAA diamond title at Omaha in June. First baseman Bill Davis, who will scrap for the first base job with the Cleveland Indians next spring, led the Gophers.

Coach Murray Warmath's Gopher footballers also had a few surprises. Ranked near the bottom in pre-season Big Ten prognostications the Gophers — led by their best passer in history, John Hunkinson — surprised everybody by tying for fourth in the conference and had an overall record of 5-4.

Winona Hotel Cops Fifth Win

PEE WEE LEAGUE

Winona Hotel	W	L	T
American Leg.	4	1	2
Coca-Cola	3	2	3

Coca-Cola, Winona Hotel and the American Legion Pee Wee league squads posted wins in play Thursday.

Coca-Cola dealt Sunbeam a 34-16 licking, American Legion tripped McKinley Methodist 19-9 and Hotel stayed in first place with a 22-13 win over the Paint Depot.

Bob Fallman netted 20 points for Coca-Cola, while Mike Rodgers led Sunbeam with seven.

Jim Nelson counted nine for the Legion, and Jeff Lueck topped McKinley with four.

Steve Wiltgen led the way with 16 for Winona Hotels, while Pat Wadden had six. Greg Fischer totaled four for Paint Depot.

Redmen Off For Nebraska

Dana College, a pint-sized Nebraska College, will furnish the first round of opposition for St. Mary's Redmen in the Fremont, Neb., Holiday Tournament starting Monday night.

The Redmen and coach Ken Wiltgen will board a bus at 3 p.m. this afternoon for the trek to Fremont and return home after their game Tuesday night, which could either be the championship game or the consolation tilt.

DANA, of Blair, Neb., has been scouted by Al Svenningson, former Winona High and University of Minnesota athlete now coaching Wayne, Neb., State. Wayne and Dana met in the first game of the year for both clubs and Svenningson's club walked away with the decision.

Svenningson's sketchy report to Wiltgen was that Dana had one capable scorer and not too much height. Dana's biggest man is reportedly 6-4. A pair of 6-3 gents round out the front wall.

The other teams in the tournament are Kearney State and host Midland.

Wiltgen has nominated a ten-man crew to make the journey to Fremont. The list includes co-captains Mike Maloney and George Valaika, Rog Pytlewski, Jerry Sauter, George Hoder, Jim Buffo, Dennis Ludden, Jim Murphy, Tom Keenan and Jeff Arnold.

WILTGEN'S squad boasts a 5-2 record, the only losses coming from Augsburg and Stout, the first game of the year.

"I just hope that the trip down there is worth a couple of good ball games," says Wiltgen. "Sure, I'd like to win the title, that's always nice. But the purpose of it is to get in some good competition before we get back to the regular schedule. I hope they're a couple of fine teams."

The Redmen held a workout Saturday night at Terrace Heights and one this morning before departing for Fremont.

WILTGEN is left in the dark as to his second round opponent, which will be either Kearney or Midland.

"AL (Svenningson) didn't know anything about either of those teams," said Wiltgen. "We'll know more Monday."

The team will stay overnight in Ames, Iowa, then travel the rest of the way Monday morning and hold a workout that afternoon.

Lucas Gives Demonstration Of Cage Skills

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry Lucas of the Cincinnati Royals, is in the top ten in four categories in the National Basketball Association. He's third in rebounds, fourth in foul shooting, fifth in field goal percentage and seventh in scoring.

The former All-American at Ohio State demonstrated Friday night why he is considered one of the top professional players. He scored five points in an extra period to give the Royals a 130-125 victory over the St. Louis Hawks before a Christmas night turnout of 6,441 at Cincinnati. Overall, Lucas scored 29 points and grabbed 28 rebounds.

The Boston Celtics beat the Detroit Pistons 118-106 and the Baltimore Bullets defeated the New York Knicks 114-108 in a doubleheader that drew 17,012 to New York's Madison Square Garden. No other NBA games were scheduled.

Oscar Robertson scored 30 points and Lennie Wilkens 30 for the Hawks in the second Cincinnati St. Louis struggle. The Royals led at one point 75-50 then St. Louis 92-91 and the regulation game ended 118-118 and set the stage for Lucas in the overtime.

LET'S TALK SPORTS

with Gary Evans

The post-Christmas period is always a vacant one, everyone wishing there was something to do.

If you happen to be a sports fan, why not drop over to Winona State's Memorial Hall Monday and Tuesday to help break the boredom.

Winona Cotter, Rochester Lourdes, Minneapolis de La Salle and Minneapolis Minnehaha Academy will be on hand for a holiday tournament—a tournament on which members of the Cotter Booster Club have spent a great deal of time.

De La Salle is one of the finest parochial powers in the state. Cotter is always tough as anyone who follows Region Six knows.

Perhaps there are those of you who figure John Nett's Ramblers would experience a "let down" after an all-veteran team compiled a 22-3 mark a year ago.

This hasn't been the case as the Ramblers have built a 4-2 record thus far against outstanding competition, coming into their own in wins over St. Paul Hill and Lourdes in their last two outings.

Lourdes—and if you saw last Tuesday's game, you know what we're talking about—has a fine club, a team that is given a strong chance of upsetting the Ramblers in the Region Six Tournament.

At any rate, two fine evenings of entertainment shape into the schedule. Why not get out and enjoy yourself?

Then, too, the admission charge goes into a fund to help Cotter athletic teams.

If you attend, you will be serving a twofold purpose. No. 1, you'll be having fun, and No. 2, you'll be helping a worthy cause.

WINONA HIGH has jumped from 11th to tenth in the ratings drawn weekly by Mankato sports analyst John Kolb.

St. Louis Park, Willmar, Luverne and Rochester occupy the first four spots in that order.

Says Kolb: "Looks like the Winhawks are on the move. If they can sweep tough games coming up with La Crosse Logan and Central and Eau Claire Memorial, the Hawks will be the greatest."

HERE'S AN ITEM in a Minnesota Vikings news release that will make you sit up and take notice:

Says the story: "The Vikings have signed fullback JIM Brown to a 1965 contract! And, as a free agent, at that!"

No, fans, it is not Cleveland's bone-crushing record setter Minnesota's P.R. man John Thompson is talking about.

This happens to be 6-3, 220-pound James Anthony Brown from Marshall University in West Virginia.

This Jim Brown also is a letterwinner in track there, having competed in the high hurdles and 440-yard dash.

DAVE McCLUNG, a salesman at St. Clair's Inc., is a pretty happy fellow these days for an unusual reason.

His brother Merle, a 21-year-old Harvard senior, is rated the best basketball player Harvard has ever had by his collegiate coach.

But his athletic prowess slipped into the background this week when he was named a Rhodes Scholar.

Naturally his older brother, Dave and athlete himself at Montevideo, Minn., high school and later at St. Cloud State College from which he was graduated, is proud.

Dave hopes to be on hand when Merle makes his trip for the sheepskin at Cambridge, Mass., in mid-June.

"We haven't definitely made up our minds yet," said Dave, referring to his wife Camilla and the McClung's three young "basketball players" Barry, 5, Bobby, 4, and Steve, almost 3.

But we are planning on it."

THE SWAMI IS BACK, refreshed after a large turkey dinner. He has hit 171 of 249 for a .687 percentage without hand-cups and has guessed right 145 of 249 times with for .582.

Now for the holiday action. He says he will pick first-round games in all full-fledged tournaments, listing the winner unofficially in parentheses.

Their opponent is expected to be DeLaSalle.

THE ONLY starter Reinhard has back in 5-9 senior forward Mike Riney. Tom Ihnot, 5-10 junior guard, is the only other player with varsity experience prior to this season.

Rounding out the starting five will be 6-1 Mark Reiger at forward, 6-5 Pete Froelich at center and 5-10 Mike Leonard at guard. Also expected to see action are 5-11 guard Dave Baillargeon and 6-1 center Bob Taylor.

Lourdes will counter with 6-3 Dexter Reisch and 6-2 Larry Koshire at forwards, 6-2 Jim Reardon at center and 5-10 Jim Galuska and 6-0 Joe Lindberg at guards.

The two top reserves are 5-9 Steve Osborn and 6-1 Tom Krebsbach.

REISCH is the leading scorer with a 22.1 per game average. Galuska is hitting at 10.6. Koshire at 8.8 and Reardon at 8.4. As it stands today, the teams arrive Monday and will be quartered at St. Mary's College for the two-day tournament span.

Little Ranger, Big Red Wing Key Men in NHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The littlest Ranger and the biggest Red Wing were the key men for New York and Detroit in important National Hockey League games Friday night.

Camille Henry, whose slight frame belies one of the NHL's deadliest goal-scoring touches, put two shots past Boston netminder Ed Johnston as the Rangers snapped a seven game winless string with a 3-0 victory.

Gordie Howe, who has scored about four times as many goals in his 19-year NHL career as Henry weighs pounds, found the range twice as Detroit tied Montreal 2-2 to remain four points back of the front-running Canadiens.

Chicago still shares the runner-up spot with the Red Wings after Eric Nesterenko's late goal produced a 3-3 tie with Toronto.

Henry, a 145-pound left wing who is at his best in close, beat Johnston twice with Rod Gilbert assisting both times as the Rangers handed the Bruins their sixth loss in the last seven starts. The goals were Henry's 13th and 14th of the season.

Howe, who has scored 632 goals since coming into the league, earned Detroit its tie against Montreal with an early third period goal. Gordie gloved a high pass from Ed Joly and Canadian goalie Charlie Hodge stopped his first shot but Howe poked in his own rebound.

When Johnny Pesky was dropped as manager of the Boston Red Sox three of his coaches went. They were Bob Turley, Al Loken and Harry Mahanberg. Third base coach Billy Herman became manager.

Steers Lose Lead, But Tie Russians

ST. PAUL (AP)—The St. Paul Steers ran off to a 3-0 first-period lead but had to settle for a 3-3 tie with the Russian national hockey team in St. Paul Friday night.

The Russians are undefeated on their American tour but suffered their second straight tie. They tied Rochester, like the Steers members of the U.S. Hockey League, 1-1 Tuesday night.

The Steers ran up three goals in the first 14 minutes. But the Russians had tied it by 17:11 of the second period, during which

Cotter Tourney Tickets Remain

Plenty of tickets still remain for the Cotter Invitational Tournament to be played at Winona State's Memorial Hall Monday and Tuesday night.

Advance tickets are on sale at Emil's Menswear or from any member of the Cotter Booster Club, the group promoting the tournament.

That was the word Saturday from Dr. Bob McGill, tournament chairman. Tickets also will be on sale at Memorial Hall Monday and Tuesday nights.

The first-round pairings send Cotter against Minneapolis Minnehaha Academy in Monday's 7 o'clock kickoff with Rochester Lourdes, coached by Gene Biewen, following against tournament favorite Minneapolis De La Salle, the team that knocked off defending state champion St. Louis Park Benilde last week.

Tuesday night, the consolation title will be decided by a 7 o'clock meeting between Monday night's losers with the championship tilt taking the court at 9 o'clock.

Starts Tomorrow 9 a.m.!

Hunters Bag 93,300 Deer In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. — Near final figures from the Conservation Department on this year's Wisconsin deer hunt show it to be one of the most successful on record.

Hunters bagged about 93,300 animals, better than any season since 1959 when the take hit 105,000. The year 1964 will go into the books as the sixth best in Wisconsin history.

Credit for the excellent harvest goes to a forest-deer policy designed for an annual take of 70,000 to 100,000 animals implemented by strategic use of the variable quota coupled with regulations tailored to local fawn production. This year's excellent weather was also an important factor.

BOTH SPORTSMEN and department employees everywhere in the state were enthusiastic about the quota system in its first full-scale field trial. Aim of the quota is to pinpoint harvest and prevent overshooting but at the same time take surplus deer that would otherwise be wasted. Most important effect from a game management standpoint was that quotas attracted hunters to remote localities where deer populations are high but lightly hunted. The 12-county northwest area with traditional hunting pressure problems reported a 30 percent increase in pressure over last year, opening day. Not too dramatic, this amounted to an increase of only three hunters per square mile of deer range, up from six to nine. However, it illustrates the potential of the system.

Of the 24,000 variable quota permits issued, nearly 20,000 were filled for a success figure of 80 percent. About 4,000 permits for quota zones in the northwest went begging and deer in these areas still remain underharvested despite quota system success. The department will study this problem and make recommendations to the Legislature for its solution. Based on this year's excellent record, hunters can also look for refinement and expansion of quotas next season.

MAIN WORRY now is how Wisconsin's big deer herd will winter. Heavy snow and cold temperatures will mean crowded yards and browse shortages that could spell lower productivity and possible starvation. With the law of averages calling for a severe winter this season, conservation department field workers are keeping their fingers crossed.

Not Difficult to Catch Muskrats

By RAYMOND E. KYRO
District Game Manager
La Crosse

It is not difficult for the beginner to catch muskrats. If a marsh or larger body of water is to be trapped, a boat or skiff may be necessary. In small creeks, hip boots will do the trick.

Trapping stakes are usually cut from brush willow thickets. Eight foot stakes are not too long, as shorter stakes may be hard to locate when checking the trapline.

Several types of sets can be used to take muskrats during the open water trapping period. One is the common house set. Inspection of a muskrat house will show the paths muskrats are using to carry materials for house enlargement. A good place for a set is the point where one of the paths meets the water. The trap should be placed on a firm foundation and just barely under the surface of the water. The chain should be staked out as far as possible toward deep water for speedy drowning of the rat.

ANOTHER GOOD set is the feeding station set. Muskrats have favorite feeding areas that can be easily identified by the collection of partially eaten plants. Again, the trap should be placed just under water in a spot where muskrats approach the feeding station.

A third type of set is the trail set. Bank muskrats often have easy-to-spot trails leading from the bank burrow to the water. Traps can be set under water where the trail meets the water. Where bank dens or entrances to plunge holes can be located, traps can be set at the mouths of the holes. The new conibear trap is exceptionally well suited for this set.

WHEN COLD weather puts an end to open-water trapping, the beginner can turn his efforts to the more valuable mink. A field guide of animal tracks will be invaluable here in learning to identify mink tracks in the snow. Many of the mink's habits can be learned by a careful search for tracks.

Probably the greatest thrill for the new trapper will be the sight of that first mink caught in a set that he made with his own hands.

Don't Pity Poor Angler

If you think all fishin' closes down with the onslaught of winter, you'd better look around.

To a great number of anglers, fishing really doesn't begin until a thick sheet of ice caps the lake. Many of these individuals, in fact, care little about fishing at any other season.

What makes a man desert the cozy chair-and-television routine for a day out in the elements when the temperatures nudge the freezing mark and the wind makes it feel twice as cold?

First off, winter fishermen fare far better in the comfort department than many suppose. The so-called "shacks" that dot the river and sloughs leave little to be desired. Heaters, cooking gear, all the amenities of home — even portable TV's — are in evidence.

Secondly, companionship. The intimacy and seclusion that exist in this private world of bitter white are conducive to warm, friendly relations with one's neighbor, providing a chance to cuss, discuss and settle world problems with dispatch.

The third factor — which we suspect to be quite significant — is that while comfort and companionship are being enjoyed, the fishing is good. Proof? Well, in one area which was under Wisconsin Conservation Department study, each fisherman caught an average of 44 yellow perch on each trip during the winter. How's that for fishing?

If you might be inclined to take up this sport, here's one word of advice: follow the crowd. Ice fishermen are a friendly lot, the techniques are simple, and you won't go begging for helpful advice.

So don't scorn the winter angler — envy him. The fishin' fine and the fun just can't be beat.

Badger '64 Fishing Tags Expire Dec. 31

MADISON, Wis. — Wisconsin's 1964 fishing licenses expire Dec. 31 and new regulations approved by the Conservation Commission in September become effective Jan. 1.

Major changes impose a bag limit of 50 in the aggregate on crappies, bluegills, perch and pumpkinseed or sunfish; lengthen the trout season by one week to September 15; establish a continuous open season on trout in Lake Superior with a size limit of 13 inches and a bag limit of five, only two of which may be rainbows; and reopen a two-day sturgeon spearing season on Lakes Poygan, Winnebago and Koshong.

Opening day for the game fish season next year will be May 8. Approximately one million persons are licensed to fish in Wisconsin each year, including about 325,000 nonresidents and nearly 675,000 residents.

Resident fee is $3 and all persons between the ages of 16 and 65 must purchase a license. All university or college students and servicemen going to school or on duty in Wisconsin are eligible as residents.

Individual nonresident fee is $5 and the 15-day combination husband and wife nonresident license costs $6.

Another change in regulations for 1965 will prevent waste in winterkill lakes by allowing the Conservation Director to authorize net fishing on any water threatened with oxygen depletion. Such open seasons will become effective upon posting of a notice. Limit on game species will be 25 pounds plus one fish.

A final change makes rules on unattended lines and the number of hooks and lines allowed in outlying waters conform to inland water regulations.

Melrose Fishing Contest Jan. 3

MELROSE, Wis. — The annual ice fishing derby sponsored by Neil S. Lewison Post 439 of the American Legion will be held on Stebbins Lake, two miles south of here, Jan. 3 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Holes will be drilled prior to the derby. There will be entertainment throughout the day and prizes awarded during the contest. The post Auxiliary will serve lunch.

Prizes include three dressed quarters of beef, six dressed half hogs and 100 dressed broiler chickens.

Helping Child Set Own Goals

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:

Too many students in high school seem to have no ideas or, are very vague, as to what they want to do when they leave school. With so many good opportunities available to our young people, why should they be so confused? Are parents and/or the schools at fault?

How can I, as a parent, help my elementary children along this line?

Mrs. C.P.G.,
Livingston, N.J.

Answer:

There are many opportunities for young people, but our world is rapidly changing. This has resulted in a feeling by some that children should not be too specific in choosing a goal; that the opportunity might not be there by the time they have finished their schooling. However, it is a fact that students who have goals learn faster and make higher grades. As a parent, you can help your elementary school children form the habit of being goal-minded.

Simple goals like improvement of handwriting, neatness and more perfect homework; development of physical skills and good posture; an accurate knowledge of world geography; all help develop the habit of working toward a goal.

Dear Dr. Nason:

If a young child has a low I.Q. in a test he takes at school, is he necessarily limited intellectually later in life?

A.H., Culver City, Calif.

Answer:

A low I.Q. as determined by testing a young child may indeed indicate low innate ability. However, it may indicate only that the child has low verbal ability. Perhaps he has not had enough chance to develop the use of words. Perhaps he has not had enough experiences in his life outside his home to meet with and understand the things that come up on tests. Or he may just be emotionally "tight" in taking tests.

Such a child may raise his I.Q. if someone talks to him a lot and gives him a chance to talk, provided he is corrected in his use of words and gets precise meanings. He should be taken to various places around town so that he gets to know and see lots of things, and should have a chance to play with other children. If he is of nursery school age, get him into a nursery school. These things all tend to raise the I.Q. He probably won't become a genius, but he can be helped.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I am 26 years old, married, the mother of two children ages 7 and 3. With nothing but a high school diploma (B average), I have decided to enter the business world when my daughter enters first grade in September, 1966.

In high school, I completed the college preparatory course with the intention of studying music, and also the commercial course with the exception of shorthand, in case college didn't materialize.

I have other interests — interior decorating and music. I might like to teach piano lessons, but would need some further schooling before I could do this.

Can you advise me as to which direction I should proceed?

Mrs. W.C.F.,
Brookville, O.

Answer:

You are very wise to start preparing early for re-entry into the work situation. After you choose your field, don't hesitate to change if it proves uninteresting. Plan for part-time work, since the most important task you have is raising your children and you should be home when they return from school.

Jap Gangster Setup Hunted

TOKYO (AP) — A police drive against crime launched in 1964 has struck a severe blow at Japan's gangster organizations, Bunhei Hara, chief of metropolitan Tokyo police, said Saturday.

However, organized crime could not be expected to disappear in one year, he told a year-end news conference.

He estimated Japan's gangs have a membership of 180,000. They control such things as dope traffic, prostitution and extortion rackets. Chief Hara said 20,000 gangsters were arrested in the Tokyo area alone this year.

Russia Will Extend Profits 'Experiment'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has decided to extend its experiments with the capitalist-style profit motive to heavy industry and mining.

The government newspaper Izvestia reported Friday that four enterprises in the Ukrainian city of Lvov will begin such an experiment on Jan. 1. Three are plants producing coal-loading machines, television sets and textiles and one is a coal mine.

Two textile plants in Moscow and Gorky were given such a

There's Nothing Like New Clothes to Lift the Spirits!

By JEAN HAGEN

Sunday News Women's Editor

A LAS! Christmas is over! That most delightful, magic day of all the year has slipped into the past again, perhaps leaving us with a let-down feeling and a little bit of a cold shudder, thinking of the two bleak and chilly months that are coming.

Why not stage a new clothes project for these weeks after Christmas? There's nothing like new clothes to lift the spirits, as every woman knows.

LET'S CLEAR OUT THE closets and go on a wardrobe freshener binge! Let's get wild and reckless and buy something giddy, like a shifty, lacy knit slip of a dress, with the ultra-new crocheted trim around the neck (just like grandmother used to make, relaxing in her rocking chair in the afternoon).

Or how about a really lush and feminine something out of velvet? (Is there anyone who doesn't love the touch of that soft fabric?) It could be a demure little dinner dress, perhaps trimmed with lace-edged white collar and cuffs, for the winter parties that are coming. Or maybe a velvet hostess gown for receiving guests on cold blustery winter nights. It could be in elegant black, or maybe vivid red or shimmering green. There would be nothing like it for leading off a good bridge game at home!

How about being silly and buying or making a cuddly-soft bed jacket of velvet, maybe in a raspberry pink or baby blue? Let the wintry winds howl outside, you'll be cozy and warm, snuggled up in your bed against the pillows, reading the books you got for Christmas.

FOR THE GAL'S THAT are always on the move (and there will be some lucky ones who will be taking off for Florida and other sunny climes in the coming weeks), the fashion indispensable is knits.

NEW CLOTHES

LOVELIEST LEISURING IN VELVET . . . The tomboy look for lounging has been completely vanquished at the first exposure to the delightfully feminine new leisure robes in velvet. This luxury-loving robe trio has the new above-the-ankle length and shortened sleeves for practical comfort. On the left is a rhinestone-buttoned robe with an empire drawstring waist. A fringed braided sash ties the ruffled-sleeved robe in the center and the one on the right has dainty lace ruffles at the neckline and sleeves.

SHOVEL BRIM HATS . . . The flattering new shovel brim swoops out to a romantic awning in this lovely velvet hat, which can be bought in such glowing colors as shocking pink, sapphire and pixie green. It's a nice compliment to face and costume for the dull winter months.

DATE DRESS . . . Here's what to wear for that big date, whether for New Year's Eve or later in the winter. It's a tree-bark brocade, woven of acetate and rayon. The sleeveless top with its squared neckline definitely spells after-six excitement and paves the way for the A-line skirt that is under the influence of an inverse pleat.

Women's SECTION

Sunday, December 27, 1964

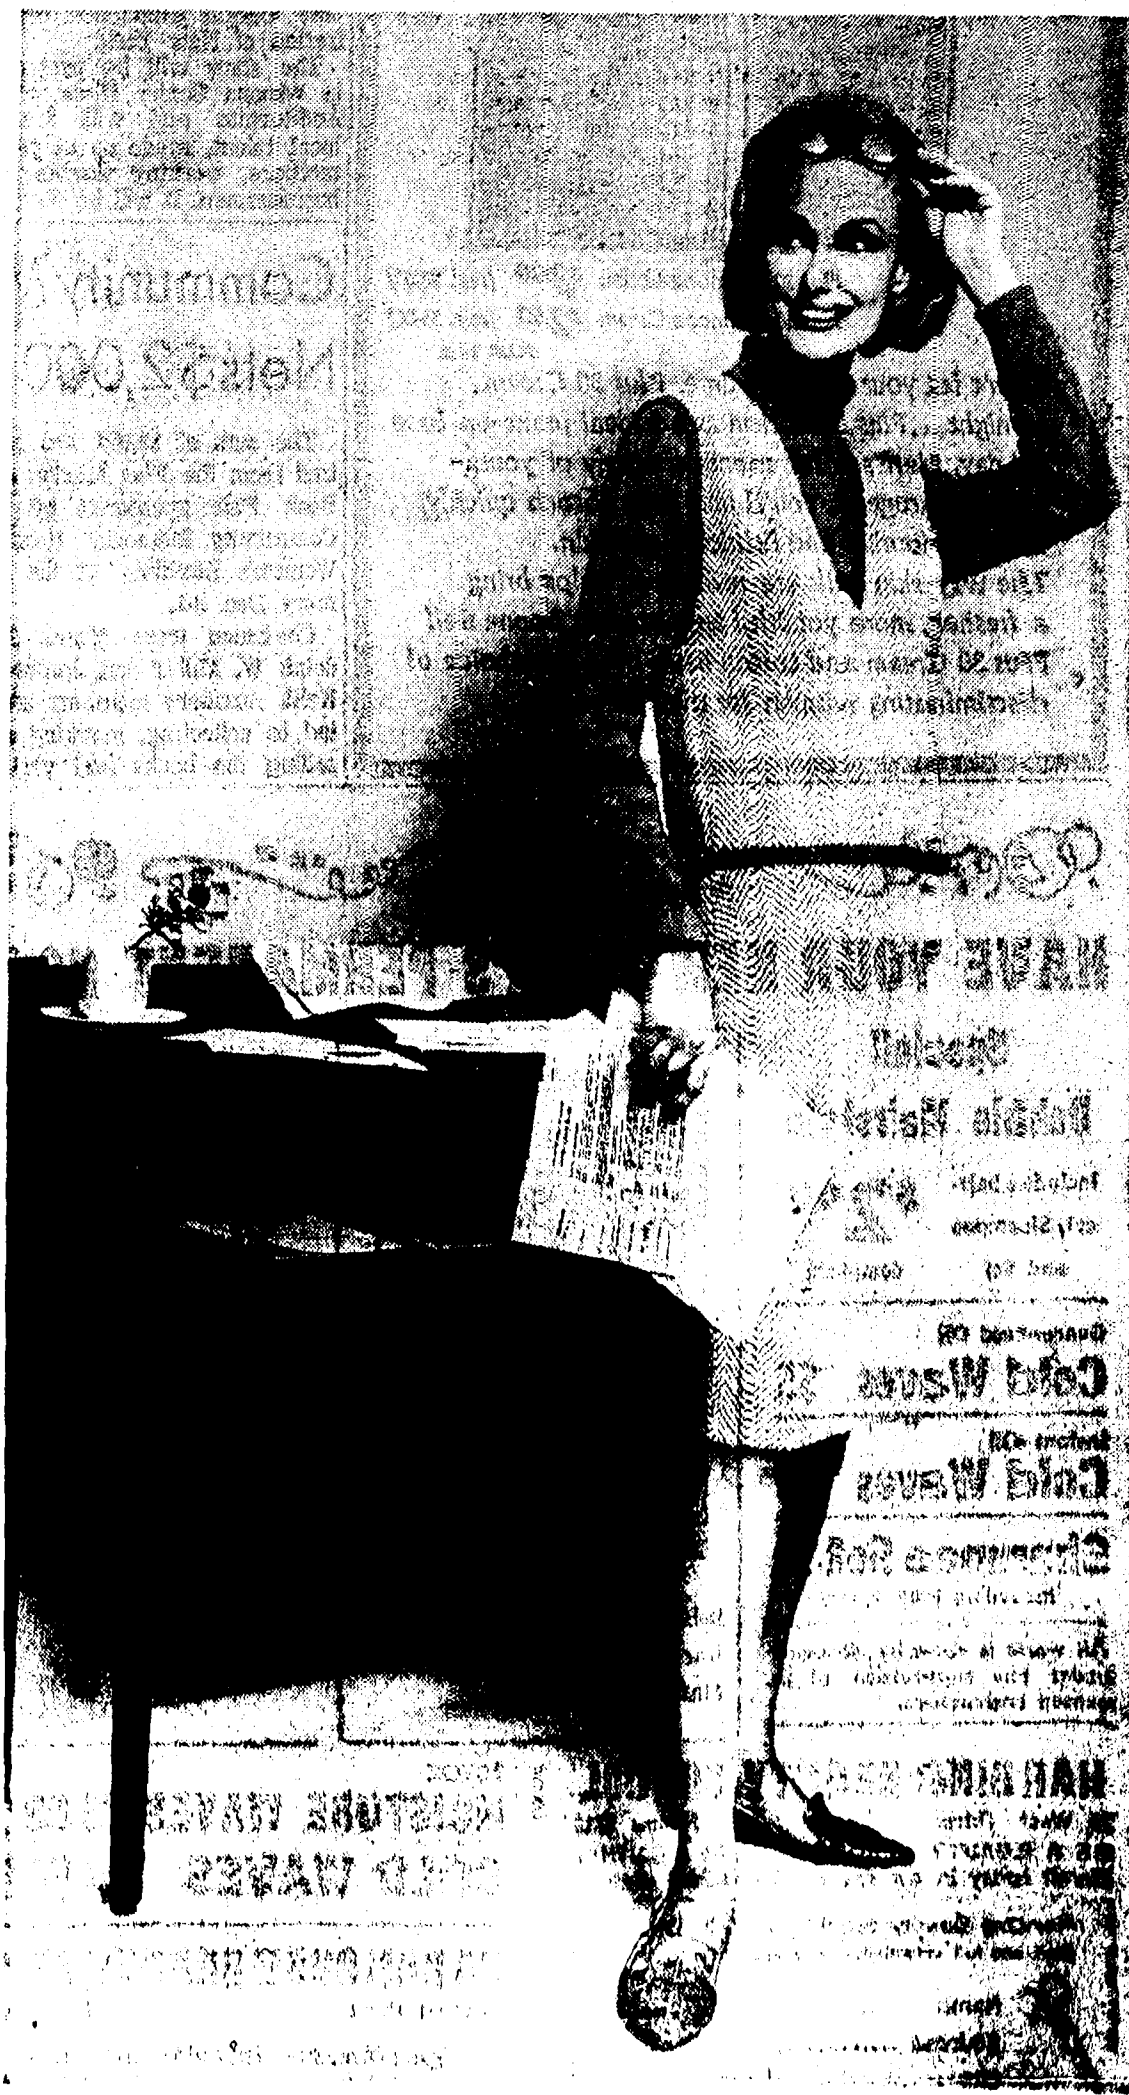

LINK AND LINK . . . This zippered cardigan sweater is knit with a link and link stitch that looks crocheted. The feminine pleated-front cotton skirt worn with it has a fetching turn-back collar with string tie. The fitted wool plaid pants are red and green with an ivory background; the sweater's olive green; the shirt, eggshell. What could be more fun on a cold winter day?

CARDIGAN CRAZE . . . A version of the classic cardigan that is a perennial favorite with most young moderns of all ages is this jacket, knit of full-bodied all-American wool. The clever woman could will her wintertime leisure hours knitting it herself, while others could find the manufactured article in some shops. It comes in natural color only.

JUMPER LOOK . . . The lively young jumper look that has made such a big fashion splash this season, gets a three-part treatment in this attractive costume, knit of soft fur-blend wool.

The deeply V'd sleeveless pullover and slim-lined skirt are in a distinct herringbone weave. The solid color shirt is styled with long sleeves and turtle-neck.

REMEMBER WHEN? . . . It was several years ago when this group of young Winona women took part in a "What Goes Here" show, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Community Memorial Hospital. A similar extravaganza is being planned by the auxiliary for next spring. These "show girls" are from left, Mrs. Ted Biesanz, Mrs. R. J. Harkenrider, Mrs. Laird Lucas, Miss Maxine Kohner (now Mrs. Thomas Berghs of Findlay, Ohio), Mrs. C. Robert Stephenson, Mrs. T. H. Underdahl and Mrs. David Wynne. (Harriet J. Kelley photo)

Big Musical Show To Be Repeated

Repeating a venture that proved highly successful eight and ten years ago, the Women's Auxiliary of Community Memorial Hospital will bring back to the stage some of its talented performers and introduce new ones. The picture above shows an act from one of the previous shows.

THE AUXILIARY'S third benefit show, featuring musical numbers, skits and humor, which turns Winonans into musical comedy stars is being planned for next spring, according to the general co-chairmen, the Mmes. Everett Edstrom and Douglas B. Robinson.

The "Follies," a musical similar to those put on in larger cities by Junior Leaguers or civic organizations and the Winona auxiliary in 1955 and 1957, will be directed by the Jerome Cargill production organization of New York.

The show will be presented in Winona Senior High School Auditorium and will feature local talent, made up of young mothers, working women and businessmen. It will be directed by a professional representative of Cargill, who will arrive in Winona three weeks prior to the performance.

THE AUXILIARY announced that an all-out effort will be made toward the financial success of the show. It, with the traditional Birthday Ball, are the only money-making projects of the auxiliary planned for 1965.

Proceeds will be used to furnish the new Convalescent and Chronic Case Unit addition to Community Memorial Hospital.

Winonans will fondly remember the "What Goes Here" shows of 1955 and 1957. A gala talent party was held at Hotel Winona one month before the show and all interested couples dusted off their tap shoes, limbered up their vocal chords for the informal casting.

Young mothers bundled up their pre-school children and left them at the free nursery, provided for that purpose at First Congregational Church, when they later went to morning rehearsals at the YMCA.

Community Memorial Auxiliary Nets $2,000 From Flea Market

The sum of $2,000 was realized from the Flea Market and Book Fair sponsored by the Community Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary at the Armory Dec. 3-5.

Chairmen were Mmes. Rudolph W. Miller and James V. Kahl. Auxiliary members assisted in collecting, marking and selling the books and various items donated by Winona and area persons.

Proceeds will be used for nursing scholarships for five local girls.

The Holiday Glitter Showing at the Community Memorial Hospital Gift Shop which was sponsored by the Auxiliary, continued through Christmas day. Proceeds will be reported at a later date.

Job's Daughters Honor Fathers At Banquet

Fathers were honored by Bethel 8, International Order of Job's Daughters at a father-daughter banquet Monday evening at the Masonic Temple.

Tables were decorated with Santa Claus boots filled with pine boughs, miniature tree cakes and Santa Claus nut cups. There was a candy cane tree.

Sheila Fleming, Cochrane, Wis., gave the invocation. "A Tribute to Dads" was read by Terri Krause, Fountain City, Wis., and Linda Johnsrude, Fountain City, read, "Be Thankful." The closing prayer was given by the honored queen, Susan Fried.

The 80 fathers and daughters present sang Christmas carols.

MEETING CANCELED

Richard Horst, director of the Winona Duplicate Bridge Club, announced the club's Tuesday meeting has been canceled. Next meeting will be Jan. 5 at the Elks Club. Winners at 4½ tables of Howell movement bridge Tuesday were: Richard Sartz and Dave Nelson, La Crosse, first; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Horst, second, and Mmes. Willard Angst and Joseph Kaehler, third.

There's Nothing Like New Clothes

They come in shirtwaist dresses, suits, slim skirts and overblouses, shifts. Many are in winter-whites and others are in delectable pastels, such as canary yellow, pale blue and turquoise. They are tops for under-coat wear now and later for the warm days of spring.

Here are some quick tips from the New York fashion world on what's coming. Silhouettes are soft and very feminine, with bias cuts. Chiffons will be good. Coats are slender "skimps." Suit jackets will be long. You will see long tunics over short skirts. White organdy bows are used on navy and white pin-stripe dresses.

HEMLINES REMAIN ABOUT the same, but for evening a mid-calf length is popular. Some evening gowns are short in front, long in back. Bold geometric prints are good, some in unexpected color combinations like peach and raspberry. More lady-like just-barely-there colors are palest willow, mushroom and pearl. Eggnog's another. Navy dresses are back in high favor.

Handbags are smaller, some swinging niftily on a short tether over the shoulder. Shoes have cut-out backs or sides. Textured or colored hosiery is still in. Hats are more feminine, including huge floppy brimmed ones that look right with the soft cling of new dresses.

Doesn't it all sound exciting? So let's have fun in January and February getting some new winter things and planning ahead for the spring.

Miss Murray, Dr. Judson Say Vows

Miss Floretta May Murray, daughter of Mrs. Timothy William Murray, 501 Harriet St., and Dr. Lyman S. V. Judson, 401 Olmstead St., son of Mrs. William Pitts, Hollywood, Calif., were married Saturday forenoon.

THE DAY-after-Christmas ceremony, attended by close friends and relatives, took place in Norton Chapel, Central Methodist Church. It was the first wedding to be solemnized in the new church building. Dr. E. Clayton Burgess officiated.

The bride wore a cocoa-colored lace and satin sheath gown with a bateau neckline and a matching jacket. Her hat was of camellia-rose crushed satin and she carried a nosegay of rose-colored camellias.

FOR HER daughter's wedding, Mrs. Murray was attired in a blue dress with a matching feathered hat. Her corsage was of pale pink camellias. A bridal dinner was held in the Captain's Room at William Hotel, after which the bridal couple left on a week's wedding trip to California.

Upon their return, they will be at home at 501 Harriet St. The bride is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, where she received her masters degree, the University of Chicago, Minneapolis School of Art and Chicago Art Institute School. She is currently working on her Ph. D. degree. She is head of the art department at Winona State College.

DR. JUDSON, who is on the WSC faculty speech department, is a graduate of Albin (Mich.) College, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he earned his masters degree, and the University of Wisconsin, where he got his Ph. D.

Prenuptial showers honoring the bride were given by Mrs. Harry Jackson and Mrs. Glenn Fishbaugh at the Jackson home; by Mrs. James L. Browning and Mrs. Donald Clark at the Browning home; and by Mrs. James Cole and Mrs. Herbert Haack at the Cole home.

Eagles Auxiliary Plans Two Events

The Eagles Auxiliary is planning two public events. A meat loaf dinner will be held Jan. 9. Serving will be from 5 to 8:30 p.m. The Mmes. Edson Hazelton, Bernard Smith and Gerald Cook are in charge. A games party will be Jan. 11 at 7 p.m. Mrs. John Kozlovski is chairman.

The Mmes. Arthur Bard and Smith reported to the auxiliary on the party at the Golden Frog Supper Club, Fountain City, at which 52 members were present. Gifts were presented to the Mmes. Henry Muras, Helen Brandt, Mamie Meska, Walter Hoppe and Elaine Kline. Mrs. Laverne Heickley acted as Santa Claus and gave each member an exchange gift.

Mrs. Herbert Leska was Santa Claus at the party at the Lamberton Home For Children, 211 Huff St. Mmes. Heickley, Kline and Harold O'Dea were in charge of arrangements. Hostesses were the Mmes. Walter Blum, Hazelton and James Stanek.

Child Star In Big Money

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donna Butterworth, 8, moved into the big money with a 10-week contract from Paramount Pictures that impressed a judge. The contract to play in a Jerry Lewis picture is for $250 a week, plus $5,000 and a series of options up to five years. Superior Court Judge Ben Koenig, who approved the contract Thursday for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Butterworth of Kailua, Hawaii, had this comment: "You must have talent. This is one of the most lucrative contracts I have seen for a girl your age."

Copper Country Limited Derailed

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP) — The Milwaukee Road's Copper Country Limited, carrying 50 passengers, derailed near this Michigan-Wisconsin border city Friday night. No one was injured.

Michigan state police said the second of two diesel engines pulling the six-car train hit a split rail, tearing up 700 feet of track. Railroad officials said the train remained upright.

Robert Kennedy Visits Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., made a pilgrimage Friday with his wife and children to the Arlington National Cemetery grave of his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy. The family spent three or four minutes at Kennedy's grave.

Georgia Man Kills Estranged Wife

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Police said a Douglasville man, James L. Purcell, 56, killed his estranged wife in Florida after she had mailed him the skeleton of her dog as a Christmas present.

Police Capt. J. C. Hicks said Purcell had been charged with murder Friday and returned to Ocala, Fla., to await grand jury action.

Mrs. Purcell, 48, was found dead in her home at Magnolia Haven, Fla., Wednesday. She had been struck in the chest by a shotgun blast.

Officers said Purcell had killed his wife's dog several months ago.

One of every two South Americans lives in Brazil, the National Geographic Society says. Brazil's territory covers almost half the continent.

50 Cows Lost in Georgia Tornado

COVINGTON, Ga. (AP) — "There were 62 cows in that barn. I knew each one by name and wouldn't have taken a thousand dollars apiece for them."

Tearful farmer J. T. Pope Jr. made this observation Christmas Day as he surveyed the wreckage of his tornado-destroyed barn in which 50 of the cows had died. A Christmas Eve twister had slashed a 400-yard path across Pope's farm.

Pope and his brother and partner, Charles Pope, had worked since 1946 to develop the herd, described by Newton County Agriculture Agent Ed Hunt as "one of the best in the county."

Pope said the barn was insured for $5,000 but the loss would be at least $60,000. There was no insurance on the cows.

Aid to Children Sharply Higher

ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota this year is spending about 250 per cent of what it spent in 1963 on aid to dependent children.

A Public Welfare Department report Friday said the costs rose from $10.9 million to $26.9 million.

The number of families aided has risen from 7,664 to 12,245 and the number of children 20,030 to 34,847.

"In general the caseload has displayed a general rising trend for the period," said the department, "with an accelerated rise between October 1963 and October 1964."

"This may stem from a greater public awareness of the benefits and services available for families and children who have been deprived of parental support by death, incapacity and absence of parent."

"It is interesting to note that families with divorce parents are utilizing this program at an increasing rate."

Reporting on public assistance costs for October, the Welfare Department said the start of cold weather brought an increase in caseloads.

The caseload for all programs in October was 121,162 cases, an increase of 9 per cent from September and the total cost rose 8 per cent to $8,398,274 for the month.

The number receiving assistance under the Old Age Assistance for the Aged program. But most other program showed cost increases.

No Suppression Of Viet Reports, Officials Say

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military officials said Saturday there had been no suppression of critical reports written by an American Army officer before he was killed in action against the Communist Viet Cong.

The officer, Capt. John King, 32, of Bradenton, Fla., said in a letter made public by his parents that his immediate superior refused to forward King's evaluation of the Vietnamese battalion to which he was attached.

The report said the Vietnamese battalion commander and his unit were ineffective.

The unit was the 3rd Battalion of the 31st Regiment of the 21st Division. King was assigned to it on Oct. 20 and died less than two months later, on Dec. 12.

An Army spokesman said King's criticism "was no new revelation. Reports certainly have not been stifled."

The spokesmen acknowledged that the unit had been rated "combat ineffective" in September but added that King had been informed of the status of the men and equipment before he was assigned there.

He said the combat ineffective rating placed on the unit had been cleared by Brig. Gen. William E. De Puy, chief U.S. operations officer.

Durand Masons Install Officers

DURAND, Wis. — Officers of the Durand Masonic lodge were installed Tuesday night at the temple by Eri Sankey, Oconto Falls, assisted by George Drake, installing marshal.

Sankey is a brother of the new worshipful master, Levi Sankey, who succeeds Leslie Thomas. Other officers are: Eugene Brack and Kenneth Rinhold, Jr., senior and junior wardens; Everett Vradenburg, treasurer; Ed Grippen, secretary; Leslie Thomas and Jacob Bauer, senior and junior deacons; Dave Cronk; Howard Stafford and Everett Biles, senior and junior stewards.

Christmas Tree Blinks on Top of Durand Elevator

DURAND, Wis. — A Yule attraction here is a lighted Christmas tree at the top of the elevator at Durand Cooperatives. Workmen climbed to the top of the tall structure last week and put it up. A brilliant white light at the top blinks constantly. It can be seen for miles.

Durand Area Churches Install Rev. Langholz

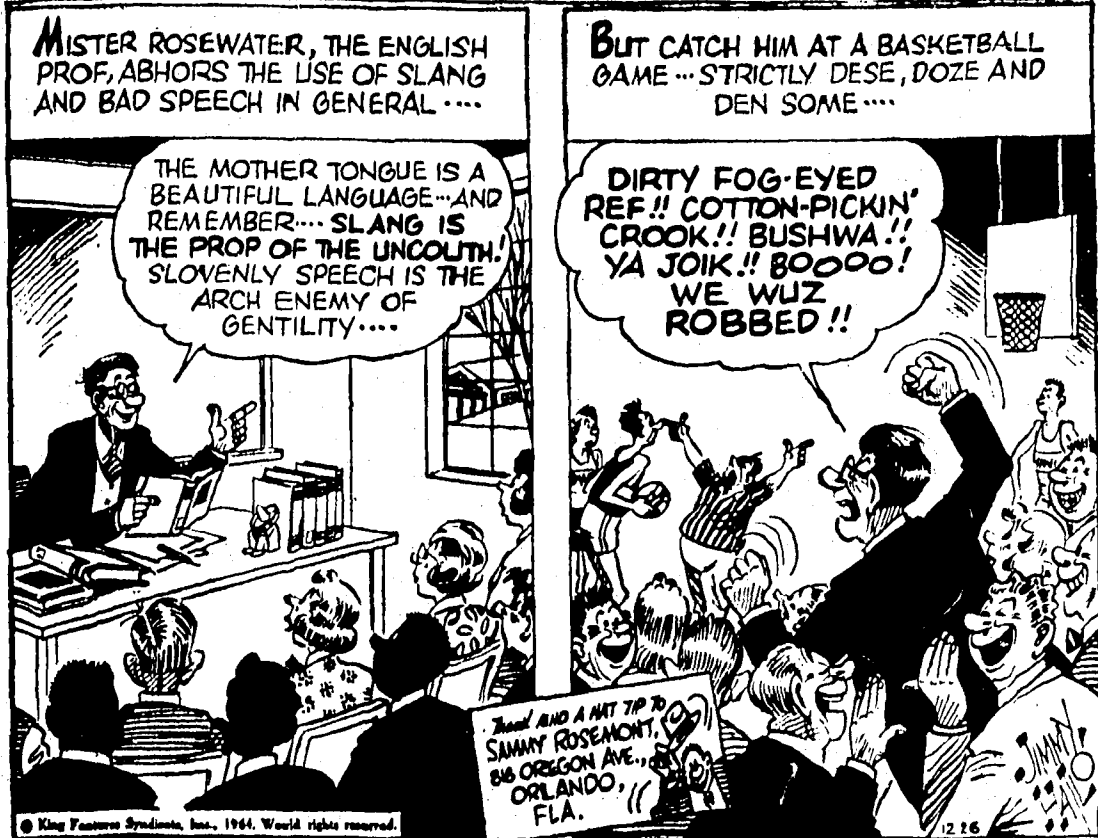

DURAND, Wis. — The Rev. W. O. Langholz, formerly of Tripp, S.D., was installed Sunday as new pastor of Rock Creek and Spring Brook Lutheran churches. Following ceremonies at Caryville, the congregations had lunch and a social hour. Rev. Langholz is a graduate of Luther Seminary, St. Paul.

It Happened Last Night Carroll Baker Was Magician

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — It came through the mail, a leaflet 12 years old, going back to 1952, exclaiming about a baby-fat brunette ten-age magician who called herself "Karol Carroll" . . . to be known later as Carroll Baker, Sex Symbol.

With the leaflet were fascinating photographs: As a brunette with shoulder length hair and bashful schoolgirl smile, Karol Carroll looked strikingly different than the Carroll Baker of whom we see rather much today on the screen and in Playboy magazine.

"You are the same girl?" I asked Carroll Baker.

"Oh, sure!" Carroll Baker has nothing to hide — anymore . . . (does she, Playboy readers?) "It's even been printed in my studio biographies. It was such a sad little act on a sad little circuit that I don't think about it anymore, but it was me!"

Q: You were a brunette?

Carroll: I had bright auburn hair most of the time. All the girls on 'Kemp time,' as they called that circuit, had auburn hair. I guess it was the easiest color.

Q: You really did magic?

Carroll: Certainly! I came on stage in underwear, then instead of producing rabbits, I produced an evening gown, brooches, rings, a necklace.

I BROKE into to mention that the leaflet proclaimed that "Miss Carroll" was "a de-lovely dancer," the "Southlands prize-winning beauty," "an absolute novelty," "dancing and conjuring with sparkling jewelry" — "only act of its kind in the history of show business" — presented by magician Burling Hull of Deland, Fla., who called himself "The Great Volta."

Carroll: Yes, I was born in Greensburg, Pa. . . . my parents separated . . . I went to St. Petersburg to live with my mother . . . I'd been dancing since I was very young . . . one night in a night club I was a big success and got paid $25 . . . then I met "The Great Volta" and he taught me magic and we went on tour.

Q: Did you like it?

Carroll: How could you? It was one of the hangovers of vaudeville. It was young kids getting started or old timers who'd had it. I got $40 a week.

Q: You were heavier then?

Carroll: I probably weighed about 125. I'm 112 now. I must have looked horrible!

Me: You did not! How long were you a magician?

Carroll: Just a few months. We worked our way from Charlotte to Washington, Volta had hopes of us playing Radio City Music Hall. I showed my act to Leon Leonidoff. He thought I did it beautifully, but he said, "Do you know how big the Music Hall is?" I didn't. I'd never been in it. He said, "It's a whole block long. If you could make your jewelry as big as you are so you could see it a block away . . . And that's when I abandoned the act!"

Q: Carroll, when you play

Top Buddhists Renew Attacks On Gen. Huong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Buddhist hierarchy, inactive since the military purge of the High National Council, served notice Saturday it soon will resume the campaign to oust Premier Tran Van Huong.

"The government continues to oppress us," spokesman Thich Nhat Thien told a news conference after the Buddhists seized a youth and said he had tried to burn down their headquarters. "We have only one weapon. That is to sacrifice ourselves."

Thien was asked if the Buddhists would resume their hunger strike and demonstrations, held earlier in December to protest Huong's government.

"If we have to, we will use every method to achieve our aims," he replied.

TRAILER OFFICE

DURAND, Wis. — A trailer has been moved onto the front lawn at Durand High School. It will be used as an office by Supt. Gordon Heuer. His present office will be converted into a lounge for teachers.

Jean Harlow, are you going to be as naked as in recent pictures?

Carroll: Well, Jean Harlow didn't wear many clothes. She never wore a stitch of underwear. I've got 150 pictures of her plastered around my bedroom and I should know. But we're making it here and though the scenes are very daring, they're of a different type.

Q: You mean, they might be with clothes on?

Carroll: I mean that when we make "The Tropic of Cancer" . . . well, here in Hollywood you're very carefully watched and supervised . . . but in the spring, we'll do "The Tropic of Cancer" . . . in Paris!

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Milt Kainen discovered how the producers of "Bajour" (which is about gypsies) raised money for the show: "They told fortunes."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Today's snob is the fellow who asks the liquor store clerk to recommend the proper wine to go with a TV dinner.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The thing that keeps men broke isn't the wolf at the door — it's the mink in the window." —Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: Singer Dick Roman hears that a certain movie starlet is really improving — she's been marrying a better actor every year.

David Raskin, who wrote "Laura" and the title tune of the Carroll Baker film "Sylvia," says: "I used girls' names for songs long before they used 'em for hurricanes." . . . That's earl, brother.

Saint Teresa Sets Summer Theater Course

The College of Saint Teresa has announced its first annual summer program in theater arts.

The college drama department will direct the program, which will open June 14 and close July 23. John E. Marzocco is department chairman.

As planned, the program at the college will provide an opportunity for instruction and practice in the dramatic arts with a professional company. It will offer courses with credit in theater arts.

The summer program is designed to develop, through actual practice and study, the high school, college and graduate student who is interested in theater. The academic program is fashioned to develop a philosophy of theater and to provide experience in drama as literature.

Practical experience in play production will be provided by a professional producing company.

At least three plays are scheduled for presentation. All will be directed by members of the college drama department.

Each summer, emphasis will be placed on a specific form, style, or production procedure and will range from the staging of a classical drama to an analysis of the "anti-play" of Ionesco. The 1965 summer program will focus attention on directing procedures and Modern drama. Interested persons are asked to call or write the college drama department. Further details will be announced later.

Navy OK's Gifts From Customers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it's okay for its personnel to accept gifts from people doing business with the Defense Department — provided it is a "customary exchange of social amenities between personal friends and relatives."

This ruling, issued earlier in the month, came in time to cover Christmas giving. However, it is intended to apply much more widely than that.

In effect, the Navy relaxed a bit a stern "standards of conduct" directive put out by the Defense Department in late September.

The Defense Department order took away virtually all individual discretion in the matter and just about banned all gift-accepting by military and civilian personnel from persons or firms doing business with the Pentagon.

Questions were raised at the time as to whether the Pentagon order didn't deal rather harshly in cases where people on the defense payroll happened to have old friends or relatives working for defense contractors.

After pondering this, officials told newsmen that a military man or civilian employee would have to decide for himself whether the donor of a gift or entertainment was "a person of integrity."

The Navy allowed its people some leeway when it formulated its own instructions to carry out

Town, Country Art Show Slated

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Entries in the creative writing competition of the annual University of Minnesota's Town/Country Art Show on the St. Paul campus are now being accepted, according to A. Russell Barton, art show coordinator.

Entries are limited to original, unpublished, short-short stories of not more than 2,000 words. The contest is open to amateur writers of high school age or over who are residents of Minnesota communities of 25,000 population or less. Manuscripts will be accepted until Jan. 11, 1965.

Ten stories selected by the judges will be multithreaded in a limited edition and offered to the public at the time of the annual Minnesota Town/Country Art Show in March. A writers' seminar will be held during the last week of the show to discuss problems of creative writing.

The creative writing competition is sponsored by the Department of Rhetoric of the University's College of Agriculture, forestry and home economics. Judges will be Richard O. Horberg, Andrew King and William M. Marchand, members of the department.

Rules for the writing competition may be obtained from the Department of Agricultural Short Courses, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn.

Trailer Interior Destroyed by Fire

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special) — The interior of a 10-by-50-foot metal trailer house which had been just redecorated and refurnished, was destroyed by fire here early Saturday morning.

The structure was owned by Mrs. Esther Johnson who was staying with friends when the fire was discovered by a neighbor at 4:20 a.m.

Fire apparently started in the area of the gas heater, according to fire authorities. The trailer is located about three blocks from the fire station.

Durand Driver Skids Into Houseyard

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — A Christmas Eve accident left Thomas Rutherford, 20, uninjured as his car went off icy pavement and down a six-foot embankment.

Rutherford, driving east on Madison Street about 8 p.m., Thursday, slid down the slope into the yard of the Everett Biles home. Car damage was slight.

He told Pepin County Traffic Officer George A. Plummer another car forced him off the road.

the over-all defense "standards of conduct" directive.

It excluded from the ban on gratuities "customary exchange of social amenities between personal friends and relatives when motivated by such relationship and extended on a personal basis."

Also excluded were "specialty advertising items of trivial intrinsic value."

At the same time, the Navy declared: "No person shall allow himself to be placed in a position in which a conflict of interests might arise or might justifiably be suspected."

"Where there is a reasonable doubt as to the propriety of accepting favors, gratuities, or entertainment or of attending functions or accepting other invitations of a hospitable nature, naval personnel shall refrain therefrom."

Boy Regains Speech for Happy Holiday

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP) — There will never be another Christmas for Mrs. John Stewart like that of 1964. That was the day her 14-year-old son came back from a world of silence.

"It was the only Christmas present I ever prayed for and I got it!" she exclaimed after son Douglas said to her: "Merry Christmas!"

"It's out of this world. I can't believe it. This is the best Christmas ever in my life," Mrs. Stewart said as she stood by her son's bed at the Beatrice State Home.

Since last spring, Mrs. Stewart had lived with a knowledge that her son might never speak again.

She was told this could be one of the results of injuries suffered in March when Douglas was thrown from a tractor and dragged under the wheels.

There was brain damage and when no improvement was shown after several weeks, Douglas was believed to be a hopeless paralytic case. In June he was sent to the Beatrice State Home. Clinical Director Dr. H.M. Hepperlin said, "We were told there was no hope of recovery."

Douglas remains bed-ridden and has only partial use of his arms.

Yet recovery there was, although, said Dr. Hepperlin, "there was nothing special that we did medically."

"I'm sure the main thing was tender, loving care and having other youngsters around. The entire staff took a special interest in this boy. Somehow he became inspired and motivated," Dr. Hepperlin said.

A nurses aide, Hazel Gaines, said: "Every day I'd go into his room and talk to him. It must have been about three months before there was any indication he even noticed me. Then I noticed he followed me with his eyes."

"Later he responded with little whine-like sounds. 'I told him, 'Douglas, if you can make those sounds, we can make words instead.' 'We just kept working and slowly he did.'"

For about a month the fact Douglas could speak was kept a secret from Mrs. Stewart — in preparation for Christmas.

For Mrs. Stewart it was a hard starting day — first a snowstorm delayed her departure from home, in Lynch, Neb., then car trouble on the way caused more delay.

At the end, though, there was "the only Christmas present I ever prayed for."

Incest Suspect Asks Court to Appoint Attorney

A Winona County man, charged with incest at a Thursday afternoon appearance in municipal court, requested that an attorney be appointed to represent him.

Lyman Plank, 45, Uta township, is scheduled to appear Jan. 11 at 11 a.m. before Judge John D. McGill to decide whether he wants a preliminary hearing on the charge. The alleged felony took place Aug. 24.

Plank is in county jail today under $2,500 bond, awaiting appointment of an attorney for his defense by District Court. County Attorney S. A. Sawyer represents the state in the case.

The complaint was sworn out by Sheriff George Fort who apprehended Plank Thursday morning. The sheriff questioned the man before his appearance in municipal court, but Plank refused to make any statement concerning the charge, Sheriff Fort said Saturday.

Hits Tree; Fined For Drunk Driving

A one-car accident in Goodview Christmas day resulted in a guilty plea to drunk driving by the driver of the car Saturday.

Leon A. Brown, 53, Minnesota City, was driving west on the Service Drive when he lost control of his car at the intersection with 40th Avenue and smashed into a tree at the northwest corner. The accident occurred at 9:15 p.m.

Brown pleaded guilty Saturday morning in Goodview Justice Court to drunk driving and paid a $100 fine and $5 costs levied by Justice Lewis E. Albert.

Brown was bruised in the mishap and the front of his car received more than $200 damage. The accident was investigated by the sheriff's department.

Bethlehem today is a town of towers and domes, but has few hotels.

Are You Roasting Chestnuts This Year?

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — It's the Christmas season, and some will be singing "Chestnuts roasting by the fire."

They may never have seen a chestnut — millions haven't. American chestnut trees were ravaged by blight in the early part of this century, all of them in the eastern part of the U.S. being affected.

ONE OF THE largest chestnut groves in Wisconsin, however, is thriving. Einar Lunde, Galesville, the owner, says the blight that ruined them was carried across the U.S. by moving air, and his farm is north of the prevailing winds.

Many of his trees are more than 90 years old; 35 still are bearing. Lunde has transplanted small trees which grew from nuts buried in the ground by squirrels. One of the trees in a row he started five years ago bore nuts this year.

His crop last fall exceeded

200 pounds. He had competition from squirrels and blue jays, but not from small boys. "The jays really go for them," he said.

The burrs are off base for the boys, because they're well protected with hard, prickly spines. Lunde wears leather gloves to pick them up.

Each burr holds an average of three nuts. Good raw or roasted, they were food for early settlers and also for the wild turkeys which once were plentiful.

LUNDE AND his wife have lived on their 270-acre farm near Galesville 12 years. They purchased it from Orrie Beardsley, whose father planted the trees.

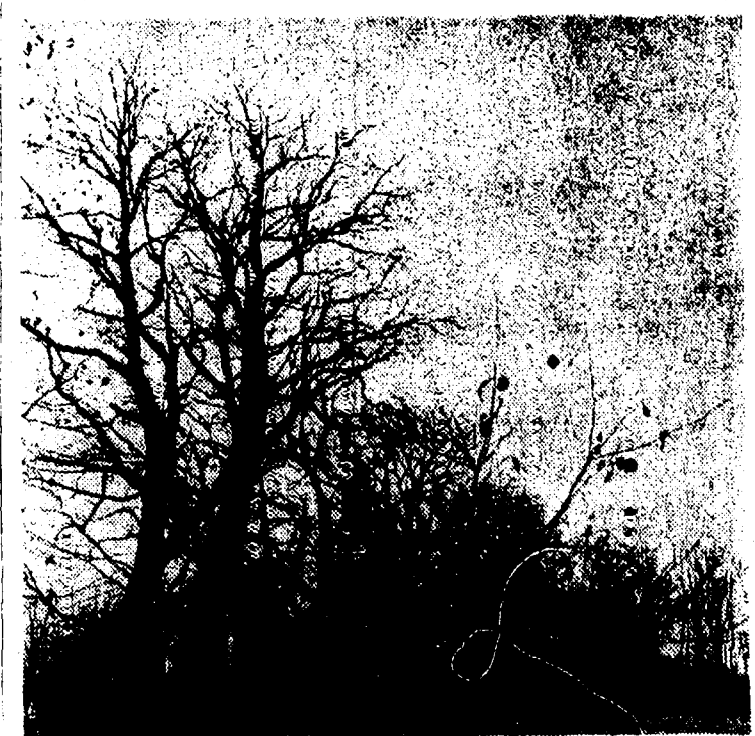

Retired from the Trane Co., La Crosse, where he worked 34 years, Lunde is nearing 70. The farm is his hobby, but the chestnut trees and flowers are his special interest. The trees bloom in July; then they are covered with long yellow flowers.

Lunde has a lawn 80 rods long which he keeps mowed, but there's no cutting under the trees, for the mower may take a shoot that might grow into a stately chestnut like the trees in the old grove, some of which are 11 feet in diameter.

Another area resident, Charles Ecelberger, PEPIN, originally from Pennsylvania, remembered the chestnuts of his native state and began looking for them in this area. He has planted a grove at his home and delights relatives and friends back east with gifts of them at Christmas. He hopes they'll spread, but doubts if chestnuts ever will be plentiful again.

SPREADING CHESTNUT TREES . . . Although most of this variety of chestnut trees were killed by blight 40 years ago, the grove at Galesville is thriving, both the 90-year-old trees, and transplants, right. (Mrs. Frank Dahlgren photos)

RAW OR ROASTED, THEY'RE GOOD . . . Einar Lunde holds a tray of the prickly burrs which he picks with kid gloves, but it's worth it, with three nutmeats (foreground on tray) in each one.

Secretary Hired For Blair School

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Miss Marilyn Small, Black River Falls, has been hired as a secretary in the Blair High School office, according to Donald Jacobson, administrator of the district.

Miss Small, currently employed in the Twin Cities, will begin her work Jan. 4.

She will replace Mrs. Gene Johnson, who has served in that capacity since 1957.

Dimes Finance Student's Trip

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Clayton Day Jr.'s Christmas wish, a visit with Megan Waldo, was fulfilled Saturday.
Day, a Yale freshman from Arlington, Va., flew into Reno late Christmas night on an airline ticket paid for largely with dimes he collected from fellow Yale students.

Day, 18, and Megan, 16, met on the liner Queen Elizabeth last summer returning from Europe. Megan invited him to visit her.
Determined to make the trip over the Christmas holiday, Day took his mug and began going from room to room in Yale dorms, saying:

"My name is Clayton Day. I'm trying to get a dime from every guy at Yale so I can visit my girl."

The gimmick paid off and his mug ran over. Day received a number of letters with contributions as the fund-raising drive became known around the country. The total take was more than $300.

Day spent the early part of the Christmas vacation with his parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Clayton Day, in Arlington before flying here.

U.S. Servicemen Restricted to Manila Base

MANILA (AP) — American servicemen at Clark Air Base have been restricted to the base during this holiday weekend because of a protest demonstration scheduled in Angeles City, adjoining Clark.

A U.S. military spokesman said the order was issued in hopes of avoiding possible fresh incidents between Filipinos and Americans.

Shooting of two Filipinos by guards at American military bases in the Philippines, plus a reported attempt to bomb an American school at Clark Air Base, prompted the demonstration at Angeles City.

Russia Seen Wanting U.N. Dues Ruling

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Recent developments have led some U.N. diplomats to conclude that the Soviet Union has decided to force a U.S.-Soviet showdown on the controversial issue of peace-keeping assessments.

The Russians are still going through the motions of meeting with negotiators, but there is a widespread belief at U.N. headquarters that chances for a compromise settlement are becoming more and more remote.

The current speculation is that the Soviet Union has become convinced that it can win in a U.N. General Assembly confrontation and would like to embarrass the United States by forcing a test of strength.

Those who hold this view reason that the Russians may have interpreted U.S. willingness to bargain as a sign of weakness. Until Tuesday night it had been taken for granted that both the United States and the Soviet Union wanted to avoid a confrontation in the assembly and that a formula would be found.

Then the situation suddenly changed.

Just as the negotiators were predicting agreement, the Russians announced they had received instructions to inject a series of conditions which obviously were unacceptable to the United States.

At the heart of the controversy is Article 19 of the U.N. Charter which says that any country loses its assembly vote when it is two years in arrears in paying its assessments. The Russians and six other Communist countries are in this position. They contend the assessments for the peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East are illegal.

The United States was prepared to settle the issue if the delinquent governments would make voluntary contributions to a fund to stabilize U.N. finances in sufficient amount to put them in good standing. It was spelled out, however, that no voting would take place in the assembly until

Girl Killed Protecting Her Mother

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A pretty high school sophomore gave her life Saturday in an heroic attempt to drive off a crazed assailant who attacked her mother with a carving knife.

Gayle Sterne, 15, was dead on arrival at a hospital. She had massive, multiple wounds in the chest and back.

Her brother, Michael Barry Sterne, 13, suffered deep cuts on the hands and wrists when he, too, struggled with the attacker who forced his way into the Sterne apartment shortly before 4 a.m.

The mother, Jean Sterne, 38, was stabbed repeatedly in the arms and body by a man she had known for three years and whose attentions she spurned.

Police arrested Alfonso Robles, 29, a Puerto Rican chef, and charged him with first-degree murder. Lt. Albert Bibbo said Robles told police he stabbed the girl's mother and then turned on Gayle and her brother with the same carving knife with an eight-inch blade when they tried to stop him.

pledges actually had been made.

The Russians now are insisting that voting take place immediately after the plan for the fund is approved and that there be no deadline for contributions. U.S. officials say this is like "buying a pig in a poke."

Since the assembly opened its session Dec. 1, it has been operating under a no-vote truce. This permitted the assembly to proceed with its general debate, but it was unable to take any decisions unless they could be taken on a no-objection basis.

Many countries are becoming impatient with this arrangement, and some year-end decisions now become urgent. One of these is the election of non-permanent members of the Security Council to fill seats becoming vacant Jan. 1.

Further talks are scheduled this weekend. If no agreement results, the showdown could come next week.

With 15 million television sets in operation, Japan ranks second only to the United States in television ownership.

Youth Killed During Outing

GREENBUSH, Wis. (AP) — A church group's holiday outing ended in tragedy Saturday when a gun discharged accidentally, killing a 15-year-old Sheboygan boy.

Ronald Vinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Vinson, died almost instantly in a wooded Kettle Moraine area on the Thomas Cudworth property 3 1/2 miles west of Greenbush.

Sheboygan County authorities said two youths were carrying guns. One of them slipped and fell and his weapon discharged. The Vinson boy was about 10 feet away.

The youths were members of the AWANA Boys Club of the Christian Youth Center of Sheboygan.

No Survivors Reported in 'Copter Crash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A ground party Saturday reached the wreckage of a Coast Guard helicopter which crashed Tuesday—believed to be carrying six persons—and reported there were no survivors.

The Coast Guard said it was impossible to tell immediately how many persons were aboard the helicopter when it crashed during a flood rescue mission.

The crash scene, in a wilderness section north of Arcata, is more than 300 miles north of San Francisco.

Minnesota Had 'Gold Rush': It Was Over Fertile Acres

By P. N. NARVESON

The crowds that will begin establishing "squatter" rights before midnight Dec. 31 along the route of the New Year's Day Parade of Roses at Pasadena, Calif., or the people who stand in line for a rummage sale have nothing on the U. S. Government land offices when this country was being settled.

With much more at stake than a few hours of pleasure or a bargain in used clothes, the land offices were disorderly, and the one at Brownsville in Houston County in 1854 was no exception.

ENTRANCE to the office sometimes was made by brute force, and land buyers often waited from midnight to first when the office opened in the morning. An early history of Winneshiek County, Iowa, tells of the extreme confusion that prevailed at the federal land office in Decorah, especially on days when there were land sales.

One frantic land buyer who got hold of the door knob the day before the sale and hung on all night so as to be first when the office opened in the morning froze both his feet; it was bitter cold.

Brawls and street fights were common. Crowds were so great in land office towns that hotel rooms and beds were at a premium.

It was said that "you even had to pay for an opportunity to lean against a sign post." This kind of pandemonium was typical of all land office towns.

MUCH OF THE turmoil was caused by claim jumpers. Persons who had staked out claims had pre-emption rights to that land, but there always were greedy and dishonest persons trying to dislodge squatters from their claims. First arrivals in this area were sometimes intimidated by threat of violence by persons claiming ownership to the lands.

Other tried to prevent squatters from securing ownership by calling the land office's attention to some trifling neglect in living up to the rather complicated details stated in the pre-emption act.

Another trick of claim jumpers was to get a squatter drunk so he was unable to be present or know what was going on when his claim came up for sale.

Prior to 1854, no unsurveyed land in Minnesota was open to legal settlement. When squatters began staking out claims in Southeastern Minnesota in 1852, there was no way of locating it by any legal description such as township, range or section.

A squatter placed a stake in each corner of his land with his name posted on it and located it approximately in reference to natural objects such as trees, hills, rocks, streams or trails, a method known as the Metes and Bounds system.

AFTER the survey was made, squatters found their stakes hardly ever lined up with any cardinal points of the compass. Their lines overlapped those of neighbors and often straddled township and county lines.

A few squatters near the Iowa border discovered when the Minnesota-Iowa line was surveyed officially between 1849 and 1853, that their claims were on the state line or wholly within Iowa territory, and so outside the jurisdiction of the Root River Land District.

On Aug. 4, 1854, Henry Mower Rice, territorial delegate to Congress, secured passage of an act which extended pre-emption privileges to unsurveyed land in Minnesota. Settlers who staked out claims before passage of the act were trespassers and liable to prosecution. However, settlers had arrived in increasing numbers and by the end of 1854, most of the land in this area had been pre-empted.

By the end of 1854 four land districts had been established in Southeastern Minnesota, all fronting on the Mississippi River. The Root River District, five townships wide north and south, took in all of Houston County and the southern tier of townships in Winona County. It extended to the western boundary of the territory of Minnesota.

The office for this large district was established at Brownsville on the Mississippi. At that time it was the most important town in Southeastern Minnesota and was designated the Houston County seat.

Here the register, J. R. Bennett, accepted filings for land and made most of the entry records and J. H. McKenny, as receiver accepted money paid for fees and land.

When land cases were tried, a land commissioner made the decisions if testimony of register and receiver disagreed.

Under the pre-emption act a settler within 30 days of staking a claim had to announce publicly his intention of pre-empting; within three months after receiving the survey plat, file with the land officers information as to where the land was located; and in 12 months, pay for the land.

IF THE LAND came up for sale, he had to pay for it before the day advertised for sale of the land.

In due time, the settler received a patent by the President of the U. S.

Many real estate agencies, law and banking firms sprang up in land office towns, eager to assist and profit from the exchange of large amounts of land. The financial end of the sales at Brownsville was handled by the banking firm Dexter & Ripley.

The land office accepted only cash, script or land warrants as payments for land. Most of the bank's business was to furnish purchasers with money.

Simon Waller & Co., Charles McIlraith, Thompson & Marshall, M. G. Thompson and Brownsville Real Estate Co. were the agencies in Brownsville while the land office was there.

MUCH LAND in Houston County not pre-empted by 1855 appears to have fallen into the hands of Waller, for his name is found on many land abstracts in this county. Apparently a shrewd speculator, he was able to dispose of all his land before the money panic of 1857, when land prices went down to or less than the government price of $1.25 an acre.

First entry in the Brownsville land office register was Samuel Chase, Fillmore County squatter.

On Aug. 7 that year, Francis Aikens, Spring Grove Township, became the first Houston County purchaser.

The first entry from Winona County was made by William Bunzell, who on Aug. 20 filed his declaration of intention as a squatter.

In 1855 the first government land was placed on public sale at the Root River office. Time and conditions were set by presidential proclamation but the mode of conducting the sales was left to the land officers. Because they received a commission on land sold, it was to their advantage that it brought a good price.

THERE WERE no restrictions on how much land a person could buy, but pre-emption was limited to 160 acres.

The number of acres offered for sale at Brownsville that year was 2,481,395. By October 1855, the Brownsville office had sold 39,807 acres, probably not including land sold to pre-emptors.

The following year the land office was moved to Chatfield, and with it went the real estate firms depending on the exchange of large amounts of land for their existence.

The closing of the land office ended the bustle, excitement, activity and unruly crowds associated with it in Brownsville.

HOWEVER, Brownsville remained a thriving village for some time and became the great wheat market of Houston County. Long lines of teams stretched beyond the town, waiting their turn to unload at the warehouses along the Mississippi River.

The village had four newspapers in succession: The Southern Minnesota Herald, the "Free Press," "Western Progress" and the "Brownsville News."

If it hadn't been for the coming of the railroad, Brownsville still might be the metropolis of Houston County.

As the Milwaukee road built up the river, it also sent branch lines from Reo to Preston and easterly from the La Crescent area through Houston and Rushford, leaving little necessity for farmers to take their produce to river towns like Brownsville for shipping.

Happy Christmas Story

Spirit of Kindness, Spreading of Joy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A rabbi doing the job for the police chief. A couple married 70 years. Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong's Christmas tree in Tokyo. A baby named Noel. Two colonels with big hearts in South Viet Nam—all of them played a part in spreading the joy and happiness of Christmas.

The rabbi, Philip H. Weinberg, filled in as police chief of Reno, Nev., permitting the regular chief, Elmer Briscoe, to spend Christmas with his family.

Rabbi Weinberg enjoyed the work, saying it seemed fitting to do it "because of the new ecumenical spirit." He hoped his goodwill gesture would serve as an example to other rabbis.

In Hartford, Conn., 80 Jewish volunteers took over menial tasks at five hospitals, giving the day off to Christian employees.

Italy Still in Deadlock on New President

ROME (AP) — Italy's parliamentary factions conferred Saturday in an effort to break the two-week deadlock in the elections for a new president.

They met separately around Rome before Parliament convened for the 17th ballot in the marathon election.

The strongest remaining contenders were Deputy Premier Pietro Nenni, a veteran Socialist, and Foreign Minister Giuseppe Saragat, a Democrat Socialist.

Nenni led the 16th ballot Friday night with 349 votes. A simple majority of 482 is needed to elect a successor to Antonio Segni, who resigned the presidency because of ill health.

A post-midnight meeting of almost 400 Christian Democrat lawmakers was the most important party gathering. They were trying to decide whom to back after their official candidate, former Premier Giovanni Leone, withdrew Christmas Eve.

Political sources saw such a move as a way for the Christian Democrats to get around their own intra-party rivalries and mend cracks in Premier Aldo Moro's coalition, seriously weakened by the presidential election.

A Saragat candidacy backed by the Christian Democrats probably would be strong enough to break the deadlock, providing Nenni's Socialists return to the ranks of Saragat supporters.

Moro, a Christian Democrat, heads a coalition of his own party, the Saragat Democratic Socialists, the Nenni Socialists and the Republicans. The four parties failed to agree on a single candidate when the presidential election opened Dec. 16.

Boys Run Down 'Most Wanted' Thug

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Running down one of the FBI's "10 most wanted" criminals was as dangerous a game of cops and robbers as has ever been played by a bunch of boys.

One of the dozen boys who pursued Alfred Oponowicz, a fugitive from arrests for counterfeiting and bank robbery, said they did it because, "It was a dead night anyway. We didn't have anything else to do."

That was Arthur Bryant, 16. He and other neighborhood youths had left a dance at a public recreation center Wednesday night and were headed home.

One of them, John Peacock, spotted Oponowicz, who had been shot twice the night before during a gun battle when he tried to escape from law officers. He was captured and escaped again, this time from a hospital. The fugitive had sworn he would never be taken alive.

Peacock saw part of the stranger's pistol and ran, yelling to his scattering friends. The boys thought it was a joke, at first. But, as they explained, it was a dull night, and if Peacock wanted to play television games they "might as well go along with a gag."

Then Bryant and part of the gang saw Oponowicz standing atop a railroad overpass a few blocks from the boys' homes.

"There was a train coming, and I could see him clear in the headlights," Bryant recalled. "We knew who he was. We recognized him right off. Somebody yelled, 'Let's get him.'"

Oponowicz ran, the boys following from different angles.

"It was kind of like I think a night combat patrol might be," said Arthur Dowdy, 17. "Like it looks on television, anyway."

The youths said they were not as frightened during the chase as they are now, in retrospect.

"We would have fallen to the ground if he had turned around and looked like he was starting to shoot," explained James Baford, 16. "Besides, we tried to stay behind trees. It was dark, and we were spread out."

Oponowicz finally was arrested when a neighbor called police, and the boys led them to their man. He surrendered meekly.

Would the boys do it again? "I guess so," said Bryant. "If there wasn't anything good on television."

Warm Clothing For Sufferers In Appalachia

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — A full meal, some warm clothes, a new toy, pieces of candy—all gifts from strangers—made this Christmas stand out for families in Appalachia's poverty pockets.

Food and clothing were still being distributed today by volunteers through eastern Kentucky.

Rain pelted those who worked Christmas Day in Letcher County.

"We were drenched but those children couldn't have been happier if it had been Santa Claus himself," said Fire Chief Remious Day.

Toys, food and clothing were collected by Asheville, N.C., college students. Hams and turkeys came from Bloomington, Ill. A truckload of goods arrived from Garden City, Mich. Cincinnati sent 2,000 new toys.

The program is coordinated by the Salvation Army.

Week in Business

Christmas Trade in Most Lines Good

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It was a merry Christmas for business. Stores' cash registers jangled a happy tune right up to the closing hours Christmas Eve.

Automobile and steel production was at record levels. Corporations have issued glowing dividend and earnings declarations.

And predictions by businessmen and economists generally were for continued growth, at least in the early part of 1965.

Christmas sales reached record levels in many sections of the nation. An exception was the Pacific Northwest where widespread floods cut into business.

Expectations were that December retail business had topped the record total of $25.6 billion in December 1963.

The volume for 1964 was estimated at $26 billion. Some retail industry sources predicted a rise to $27.5 billion next year.

The automobile industry topped the 1955 record of 7,410,000 new car sales with 10 days still to go in this year. The first eight-million-car sales year, including imports, seemed assured.

Sales in the middle 10 days of December totaled 217,017, bringing the number for calendar 1964 to 7,439,000.

The holidays cut work schedules of most car assembly plants in half. As a result, output during the week was estimated at 122,800 passenger cars, off 44 per cent from the previous week's 219,658 and down 6 per cent from 131,165 a year earlier.

John F. Gordon, president of General Motors Corp., the world's largest manufacturing company, reported its sales and earnings will set records this year and that 1965 looks like another good year. GM earned $1,591,823,000 on sales of $16,494,818,000 in 1963.

Steel production during the week climbed to the highest level since March 1960. Mills turned out 2,645,000 tons, up 0.6 per cent from 2,629,000 the previous week. The holiday sliced production this week but the industry already had exceeded the 1957 record.

Inland Steel Co. initiated a $5-a-ton increase in the price of galvanized sheets and coils. U.S. Steel Co., the No. 1 steel-maker, and Republic Steel Corp., third-ranking, followed and other companies were studying the move.

Industry sources indicated the action might be the industry's most significant price rise in more than a year.

Corporation dividend payments rose 1.5 per cent in November to $488 million. In the first 11 months of the year they totaled $14.2 billion against $12.9 billion in the like period of 1963.

Every industry group showed higher total payments this year with the largest gains being made by the finance, automobile and oil-refining industries.

Wildcat strikes of dock workers hampered shipping in the New York and Baltimore ports for two days. The men went back to work when a new contract obtained by the International Longshoremen's Association covering New York was explained.

ILA members from Maine to Texas will vote on the new contract Jan. 8. The New York port contract is supposed to set the pattern for contracts in other ports.

A federal court in Chicago denied an injunction to prohibit a nationwide strike by three railroad shop unions but arranged to delay a workout indefinitely.

The volume for 1964 was estimated at $26 billion. Some retail industry sources predicted a rise to $27.5 billion next year.

The automobile industry topped the 1955 record of 7,410,000 new car sales with 10 days still to go in this year. The first eight-million-car sales year, including imports, seemed assured.

Sales in the middle 10 days of December totaled 217,017, bringing the number for calendar 1964 to 7,439,000.

The holidays cut work schedules of most car assembly plants in half. As a result, output during the week was estimated at 122,800 passenger cars, off 44 per cent from the previous week's 219,658 and down 6 per cent from 131,165 a year earlier.

John F. Gordon, president of General Motors Corp., the world's largest manufacturing company, reported its sales and earnings will set records this year and that 1965 looks like another good year. GM earned $1,591,823,000 on sales of $16,494,818,000 in 1963.

Steel production during the week climbed to the highest level since March 1960. Mills turned out 2,645,000 tons, up 0.6 per cent from 2,629,000 the previous week. The holiday sliced production this week but the industry already had exceeded the 1957 record.

Inland Steel Co. initiated a $5-a-ton increase in the price of galvanized sheets and coils. U.S. Steel Co., the No. 1 steel-maker, and Republic Steel Corp., third-ranking, followed and other companies were studying the move.

Industry sources indicated the action might be the industry's most significant price rise in more than a year.

Corporation dividend payments rose 1.5 per cent in November to $488 million. In the first 11 months of the year they totaled $14.2 billion against $12.9 billion in the like period of 1963.

Every industry group showed higher total payments this year with the largest gains being made by the finance, automobile and oil-refining industries.

Wildcat strikes of dock workers hampered shipping in the New York and Baltimore ports for two days. The men went back to work when a new contract obtained by the International Longshoremen's Association covering New York was explained.

ILA members from Maine to Texas will vote on the new contract Jan. 8. The New York port contract is supposed to set the pattern for contracts in other ports.

A federal court in Chicago denied an injunction to prohibit a nationwide strike by three railroad shop unions but arranged to delay a workout indefinitely.

Card of Thanks

COCH—A sincere thank you to my many friends, relatives and neighbors who kindly remembered me with cards, prayers, gifts and flowers while I was a patient at Community Memorial Hospital. Special thanks to Father, Winifred, Dr. Paul Halse and the wonderful staff of nurses for their loving care. To all the personnel who were so kind, may God bless you always, you will long be remembered.

Mrs. Alvin Koch.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of Mrs. Arthur Jung, who passed away 2 years ago Dec. 24. More and more each day we miss her. Friends may think the world is healed, but they little know the sorrow that lies within our hearts concealed. Sadly missed by Husband, Children, Grandchildren.

Mother, Son Dead in Fire Near Duluth

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A woman and her young son perished in a fire at their home five miles north of here Saturday.

Authorities identified them as Mrs. Edward Appel, about 30, and Kim, 3.

Appel had closed his restaurant-lavender at French River about 1:30 a.m. and returned home and was outside checking the pump when he noticed the fire inside the one story frame house, he told authorities.

He tried to get in a front door but was driven back by flames and went to a bedroom window where he was thwarted again. Appel telephoned the Clifton Volunteer Fire Department, which arrived to find the place burning out of control.

Firemen had to use blow torches to keep their lines operating in the 10-degree below zero weather and strong wind. They had to make round trips of six miles to fill their tanks.

Charred bodies of the mother and child were found in their beds.

School Land Rented for Crops

WABASHA, Minn. — The Wabasha School Board has voted to rent the surplus land of the Kellogg Elementary School sites to Gus Wehinger for $50 for the 1965 crop year on condition he mow the weeds on the entire site.

Insurance on school properties has been increased $33,060. The replacement insurable value was placed at $1,475,408; 90 percent, or $1,327,867, is covered. It will be apportioned among the agencies in the same proportion as previous insurance.

The grain elevator formerly used to convey coal into the school plant will be offered for sale.

The board moved to assume responsibility for trainable children from 7-15 years in the district. Efforts will be made to obtain a qualified teacher for them.

Members also voted to provide for supplemental instruction of handicapped children at the junior high school level.

Skills learned by a retired Fountain Citian in his native Germany haven't been forgotten and now during the holiday season.....

His 'Candicraft' Delights the Kids

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday News Editor

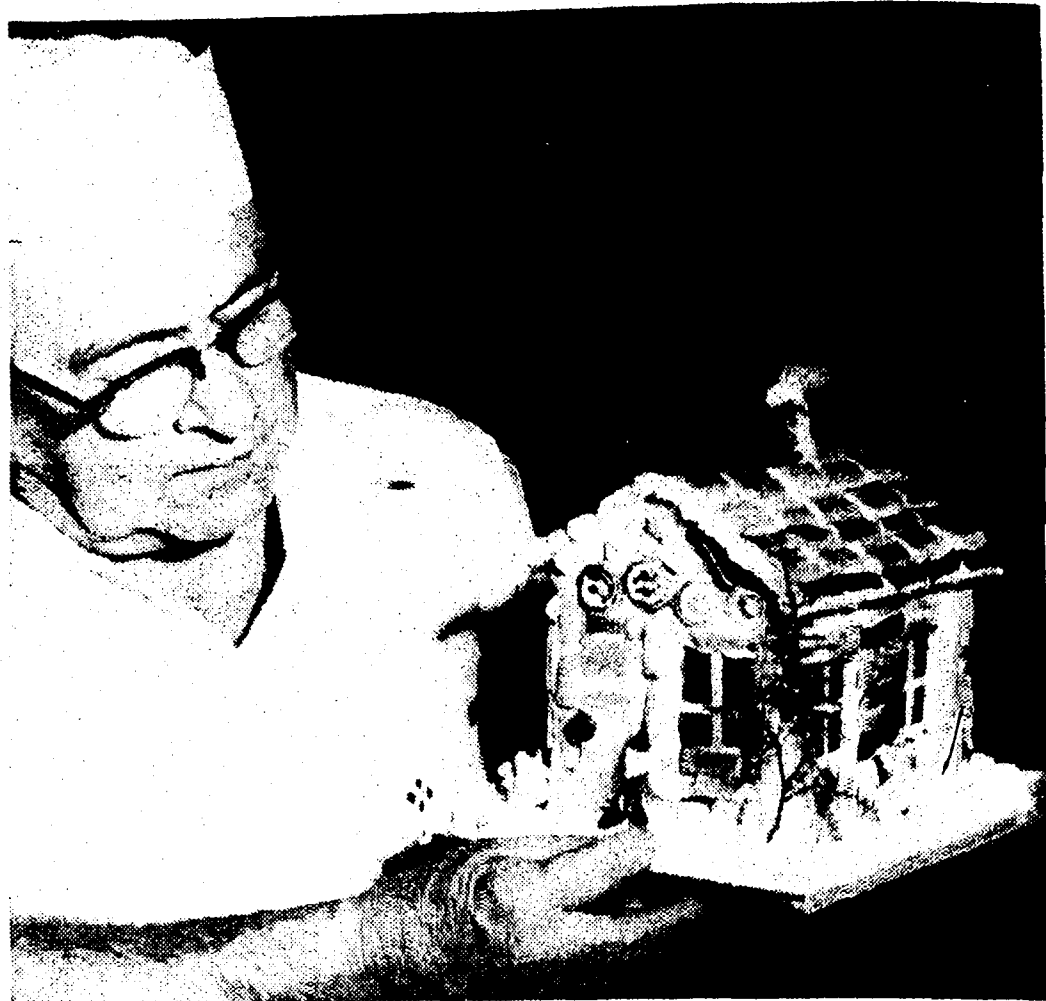

WHAT started out as "some puttering" for Fred Klingseisen, Fountain City, Wis., Rt. 2, turned out to be a king-size Christmas holiday season job — but one that Klingseisen says was worth every hour of work he put into it.

For a number of years the onetime pastry cook, bakery operator and tavern owner, now retired, spent spare moments prior to Christmas fashioning miniature candy houses and churches in a continuation of a tradition that began in his native Germany.

This year Klingseisen took on a really ambitious project: Construction with hard candies of a replica of a church that stands some 2½ to 3 feet tall from base to the top of the steeple. He figures that about 25 hours of work and at least 20 pounds of candy went into this endeavor and when it was completed the church went on display in the dining room of Fountain City's Golden Frog Supper Club operated by Klingseisen's son-in-law.

On Christmas Day the church was brought to Winona and presented as a gift to the children at the Lamberton Home for Children, 211 Huff St.

After he'd finished the church, Klingseisen thought that he should do something for the children of employes at the Golden Frog so he set about constructing 10 miniature candy houses. Word got around, though, and by the time Christmas rolled around he'd assembled closer to 35 of the houses for children of neighbors and other friends in the community.

Klingseisen estimates that at least 2½ pounds of candy went into each of the small houses, each piece held in place — as was the case in the church — by sugar frosting.

How did he get started on such handiwork?

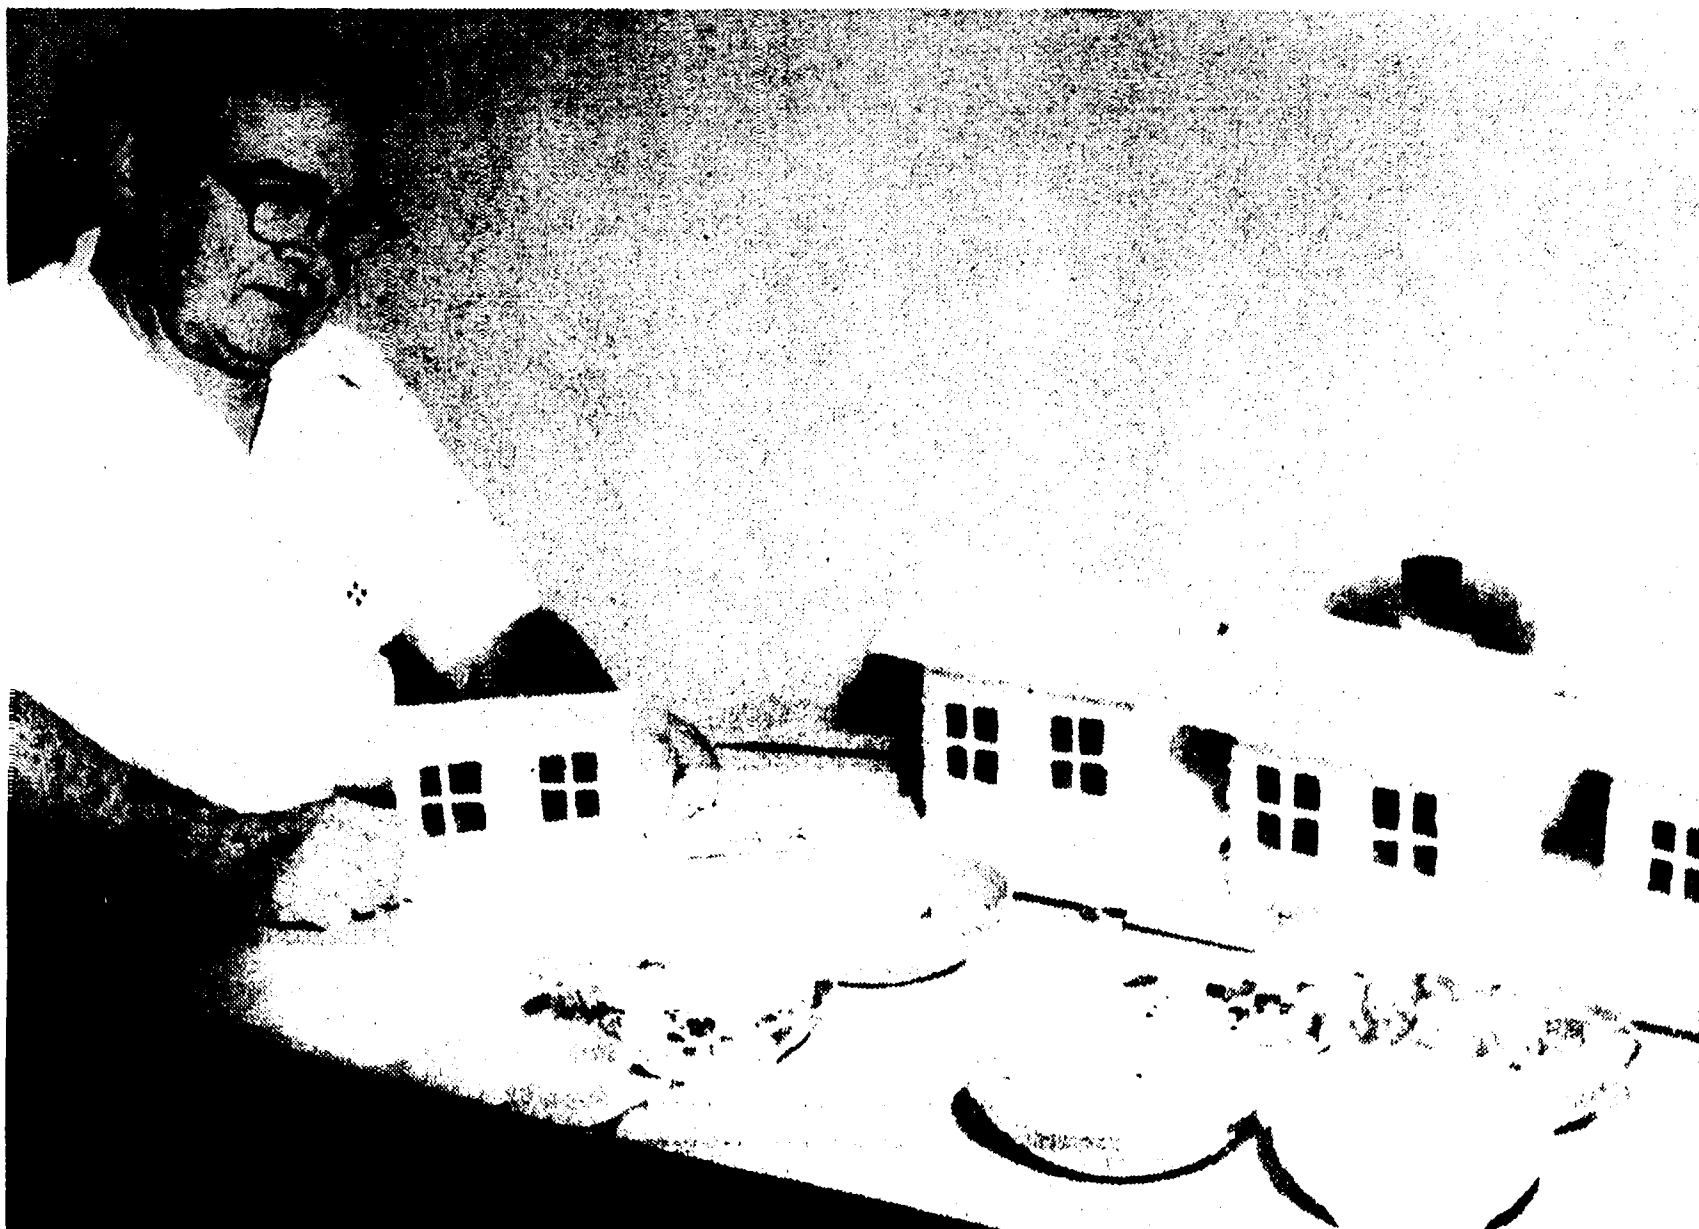

"Well, I learned the trade over in Germany when I was a boy," Klingseisen explains, "and worked in a bakery where they didn't make any bread but just specialized in fancy things like cakes, pastries and cookies. On Christmas we'd make gingerbread houses, on Easter fancy eggs and the like."

He came to America in 1925, lived in Milwaukee for 20 years and for 14 years of this time operated his own bakery before moving to Winona and, more recently to the Fountain City area.

"Now that I'm retired I've got time for puttering around," he says in explanation for his work on Christmas confections.

Long before actual work on the church — seen on today's Sunday Magazine cover — began, Klingseisen was looking around for an edifice from which he could make a replica.

"I went all around Winona looking for one that would make a good model but didn't come up with anything so I just used my

FIRST STEP . . . Klingseisen begins construction of his candy houses by erecting a basic structure of cardboard. In front of the line of recently started houses are bowls of candy and marshmallows that will be used to decorate the miniature structures.

SWEET MORTAR... Sugar frosting applied from a paper cone through a pastry tube is placed on the cardboard before the colored candies are set in place. Klingseisen emphasizes that timing at this point is important so that the frosting doesn't get a chance to set before the piece of candy is applied. About 2 1/2 pounds of candy was used to decorate each of the houses.

First, the basic structure was built from plywood. Then he made notches of sugar frosting concocted from sugar and egg whites and applied this to the plywood to provide an adhesive on which to place the multi-colored candies.

The same general procedure was followed in the construction of the candy houses — each about five or six inches high — except that cardboard was cut out to provide the framework.

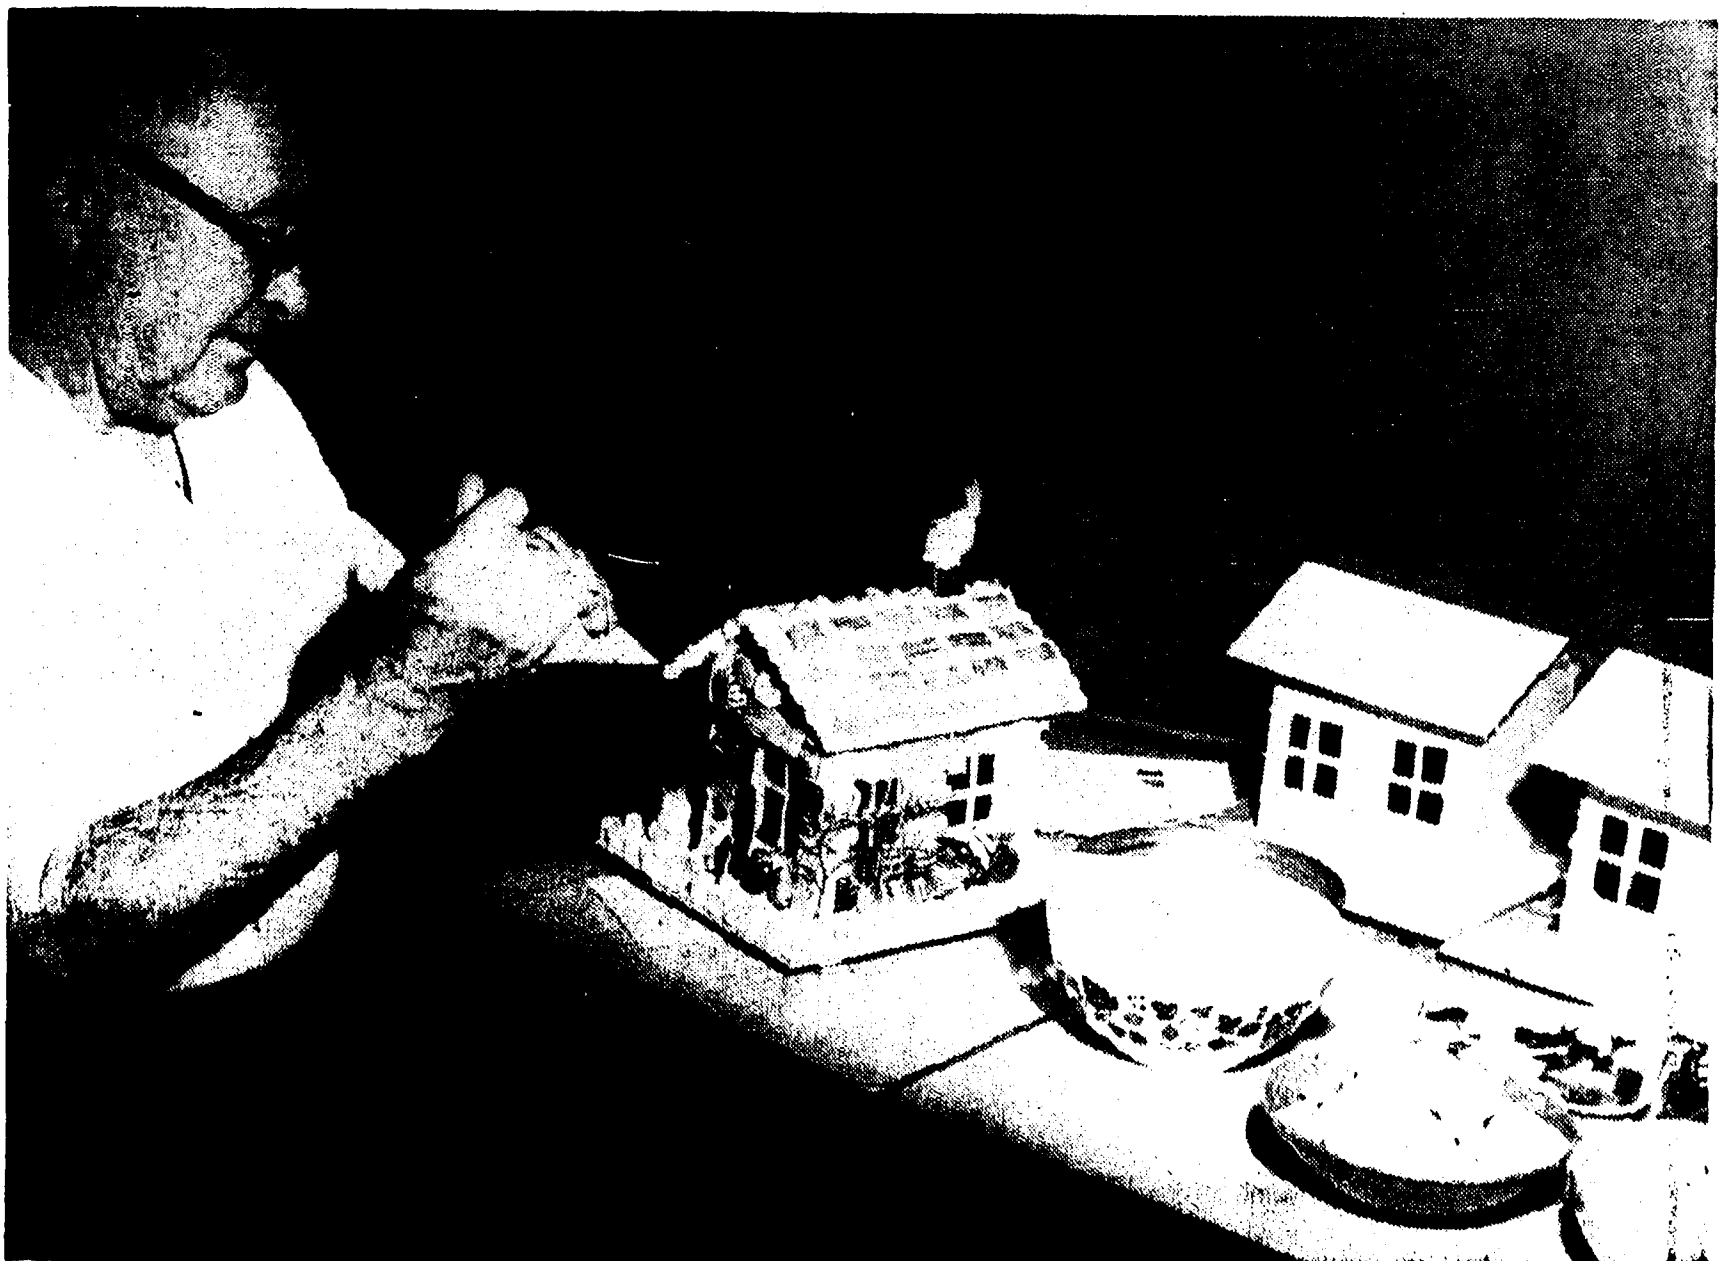

The finishing touches were done with a pastry tube at the end of a paper cone filled with frosting. Gables and other trim were embellished with decorative frosting from the tube, marshmallows were placed around the base of each house to represent snow and whisks of cotton in the chimney gave the illusion of smoke billowing out.

The former pastry cook apparently has come up with one of his better recipes . . . one whose ingredients call for close to 100 pounds of candy, long hours of work, a love of children and a bent for decorating things.

The end product of this recipe is a confection to delight any kid and what cook could hope for anything better than that?

FINISHING TOUCHES...

One of the houses is near completion as Klingseisen squeezes decorative bits of frosting through the pastry tube to decorate the edge of the roof and give the appearance of snow. Santa Claus figures, miniature replicas of trees and other devices are used to decorate the base of each house.

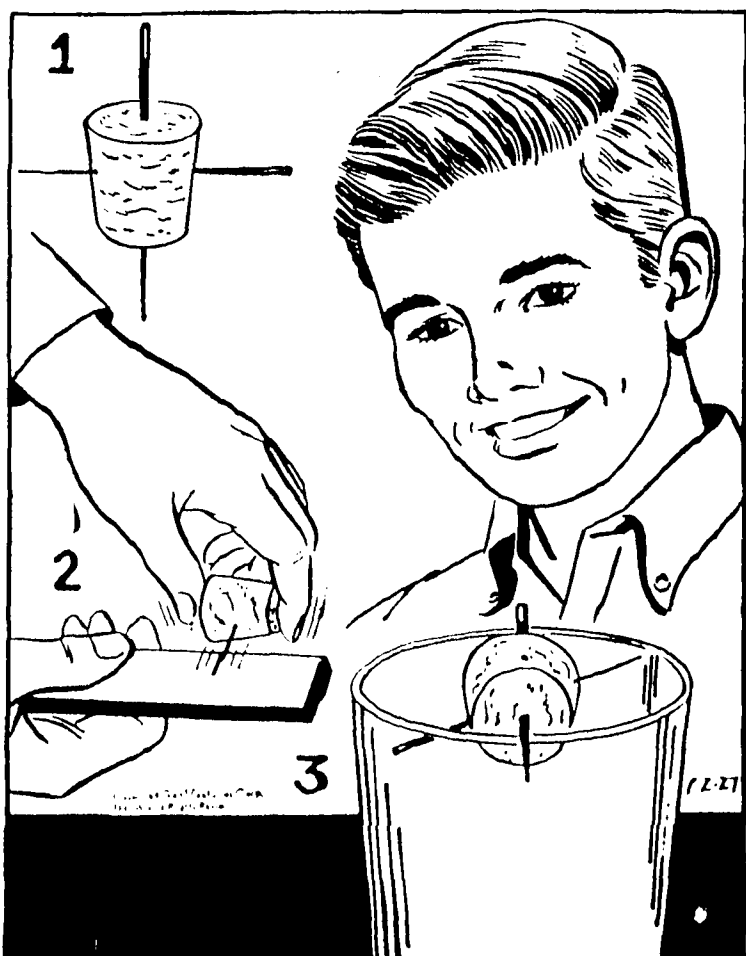

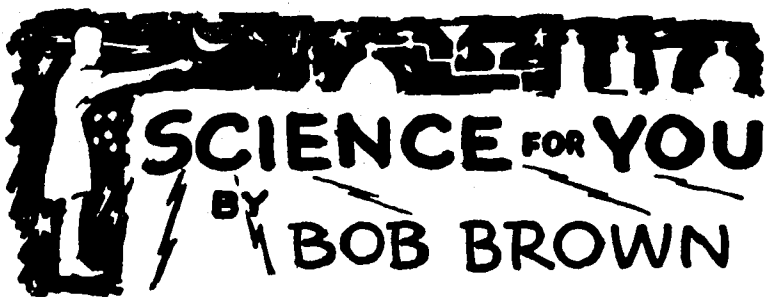

His Hobby Is One to Suit Every Child's Taste

READY FOR DELIVERY . . .
Klingseisen pushes a piece of cotton into the chimney of one of the houses in the final step in the construction of this group of six. Giving the appearance of smoke spiraling out of the chimney, the cotton is one of several materials used to enhance the appearance of the little houses. Originally intending to build only 10 this year, Klingseisen ended up with around 35 to satisfy requests of friends and neighbors who wanted them for their children.

A Needle Points To Magnetic Lines

PROBLEM: The Dip-Needle

NEEDED: A long needle, a short needle, a cork, a drinking glass, a magnet.

DO THIS: Stick both needles through the cork and make them balance exactly on the rim of the glass. Magnetize the small needle by rubbing the eye of it on one end of the permanent magnet. When the needles and cork are again placed on the glass, with the small needle in a north-south direction, they will not balance level as before.

HERE'S WHY: The needle will dip, to show that the earth's magnetic lines do not run parallel to the surface of the earth, but extend downward to a point inside the earth. The amount of dip will vary according to the locality on the earth in which the experiment is tried. There is no dip at the equator.

The dip of the magnetic needle of a small compass may be seen.

Holiday Recipes With a Flare For Hospitality

DURING this holiday season you like to be prepared to greet surprise guests (as well as expected company) with gay, unusual treats that are in step with these festive days. And it isn't hard to do with the many ready-made "fixin's" on hand at your store and recipes that have been developed for preparing ahead of time for serving just when you want to.

Featured today are several recipes for holiday "specials" that will be remembered long after the season is over. The first is for Holiday Nut Tarts that you can bake early, freeze and serve in just minutes when guests arrive. They'll earn you a reputation as a brilliant hostess for whipping up such a beautiful dessert, seemingly out of nowhere.

Holiday Nut Tarts

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Pastry for 2-crust pie | 1/2 teaspoon baking powder |
| 3 eggs | 1 cup chopped pecans |
| 1 1/4 cups brown sugar, firmly packed | 1/2 cup flaked coconut |
| 2 tablespoons flour | 1/2 cup chopped candied mixed fruits |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt | Ready whipped cream |

Line 3-inch tart pans with pastry, prick with a fork and bake at 400° for 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Reduce heat to 325°. Beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored. Add brown sugar, flour, salt and baking powder; mix until thoroughly blended. Stir in pecans, coconut and candied fruits. Spoon filling into partially baked tart shells, filling them almost to the top. Bake at 325° for 20 to 25 minutes, until dark golden brown on top. Let cool 10 minutes before removing from tart pans. Serve, topped generously with ready whipped cream. Makes about 15 small tarts.

French Filled Cookies and French Antoinettes

French Filled Fried Cookies

- | | |
|---|---|
| 2 egg yolks | 2 teaspoons sherry flavoring |
| 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted | 1/4 cup water |
| 3 tablespoons sugar | 1 3/4 cups flour |
| 1/8 teaspoon salt | 1/3 cup mincemeat, marmalade or preserves |

In mixing bowl, beat well egg yolks, butter, sugar and salt. Stir in sherry flavoring and water; with a spoon and hands, work in the flour completely until the dough rounds into a ball. Roll out half of dough at a time on floured cloth-covered board thinly as for pie crust. Cut into rounds about 2 1/2 inches in diameter. Place about 1/2 teaspoon mincemeat or other filling on each round; fold over and moisten edge — seal firmly on both sides, top and bottom with a fork. Fry in 1/2 inch hot fat (375°) about 1/2 minute on each side or until golden brown. Drain and sprinkle with confectioners sugar. Serve warm or cold. Makes about 32 cookies.

French Antoinettes

- | | |
|--------------------|------------------------------|
| 1 cup soft butter | 2 1/2 cups flour |
| 2/3 cup sugar | Raspberry preserves |
| 3 egg yolks | Thin Chocolate Icing (below) |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla | |

Heat oven to 400°. Mix butter, sugar, egg yolks and vanilla thoroughly. Work flour in with hands. Use a cookie press with wide fluted opening to make long strips of dough on ungreased baking sheet. Cut strips into 2 inch lengths. They will separate easily when baked. Bake 7 to 10 minutes, until set but not brown. Immediately remove from baking sheet. Cool on racks. Shortly before serving, spread the flat side of half the cookies with raspberry preserves. Place another cookie on top of each. Frost top with Thin Chocolate Icing. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

THIN CHOCOLATE ICING: Melt over hot water in top part of double boiler, 2 tablespoons shortening and 1 square semisweet chocolate (1 ounce). Remove from heat and blend in 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and 2 tablespoons boiling water. Beat until smooth. Icing may be made ahead of time and thinned over hot water. If icing is too thick to spread easily, add a few drops hot water.

Peach Glow Angel Cake

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 package angel food cake mix | 1 No 2 can (2 1/2 cups) peach pie filling |
| 1 package (4 oz.) vanilla pudding and pie filling mix | 1 cup whipping cream, whipped |
| 2 cups milk | |

Prepare cake according to package directions; bake in 10-inch tube pan. Cool and remove from pan. Slice entire top from cake about 1 inch down; set aside. Hollow out center of cake leaving substantial 1 inch base and sides. Prepare pudding mix according to package directions using 2 cups milk; cool. Mix half of pudding with peach pie filling; spoon into cavity of cake. Replace top of cake; chill. Fold remaining pudding into whipped cream and frost cake. Chill until serving. Yield: 12 to 16 servings

Get Ready for the 'Skinny Look'

It's Time to Look Ahead to Spring

SUMMING up before I really get started, the look this coming spring in coats will be skinny, the look in suits will be soft, and in dresses softer still with bias cuts, blousing, and freed pulsating pleats and flares.

The coat of choice, is long and lean — practically straight from the shoulder to hem. There is shape, though — all around, but particularly at front. Shoulders are a toss-up. They can be narrow with high-up set-in sleeves or they may revel in easy "room at the top" bulk with low, deep armholes. In either case, count on belting light and low.

But underneath it all is the easy supple suit with none but the subtlest of seams which barely define the shape. Jackets will be wont to level off at the hip — or even higher — still with a shaped front and easy back, even though the shoulder line may be smaller and narrower. Belting also makes an appearance in this realm, still well below the waistline and oh, so gentle.

Granting that the suit is soft, it stands to reason that so must be the skirt. And soft it is — but not quite so overwhelming as of late. Mobile it is and pleated, but somewhat lower and with a greater semblance of control. And don't overlook the skirt that wraps.

The penchant for the costume look keeps growing. Chiffon blouses, especially with soft neckline bows and ties, turn the trick of turning suits into attractive feminine costumes. Another trend to watch is the tunic jacket over tunic blouse, and, based on a similar philosophy of over and under silhouettes duplicating one another practically line for line, the skinny dress under the skinny coat.

So far as coat and suit fabrics are concerned, the flatter the better. Hard-finished worsteds, for example: Gabardines, sharkskins, herringbones, and the like. In dresses, it's the softer, suppler silk crepes printed with abstract patterns, the snob rayons, and feather-weight wools by day, and even more feathery organza, chiffon, and lace by night.

The colors for spring match the stylings in softness. Gentle tints of shrimp, peach, aqua, and willow green are abundant, the grays are omnipresent, and white — off-white and bone as well — has never been stronger.

FASHION MIRROR

But THE color for spring is navy — and lighter and brighter than you've ever seen it before. You'll find it everywhere, in every aspect of milady's wardrobe: In the over-blouse dress, the pleated skirt, the soft suit, the three-piece costume, the jumpsuit, and the coat; in silk, cotton, linen, wool, crepe, and knit; checked, plaided, polka-dotted, or striped — boldly or pencil-thin — with chalky white, or stunningly solid and set off with the crispest, briskest white of a chiffon blouse or lacy collar or cuff. And don't be surprised to find the navy hue played against another color such as raspberry or deep green. It's the latest way of being delightfully different.

FASHION TIP

Time for some constructive, creative thought. Such as putting two fashion ideas I've been harping on for quite some time together and coming up with still another way of adding distinction and individuality to your appearance. First of all, you'll recall the technique of adding interest above the wrist by either availing yourself of a pair of gloves with handsome embroidered cuffs or crushing down a "too-long" pair. Secondly, there was the device of wearing a number of dissimilar rings — two to a finger, three or more to a hand — and, in summer, of wearing several Cleopatra-like bracelets high up on the arm. So now, with the wide-cuff bracelet in fashion, why not try wearing a COUPLE on one of your lower arms, contrasting them, of course, for texture, color, and design? For example, a dazzling one of encrusted rhinestones and another of antiqued mesh.

DEAR ABBY:

Fashion Starts To Feel the Pinch

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently came across a picture in the paper of three women as they stood in the receiving line at a tea honoring Lady Bird Johnson. They were Mrs. Frank Lausche and Mrs. Stephen Young (the wives of Ohio's senators) and Mrs. Anthony Celebrezze, the wife of our Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. They were all beautifully dressed and bedecked with orchids. Both Mrs. Lausche and Mrs. Young were standing in their stocking feet! Now if this doesn't convince the shoe industry that their shoes are killing our feet, I don't know what it will take. I would appreciate your opinion. RUTH CHASE

DEAR RUTH: Amen! The senators' wives should have urged Mrs. Celebrezze to get the message to her husband in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Stylish, but uncomfortable shoes, are certainly affecting our health and welfare. And the answer could be "education."

DEAR ABBY: I would like a few opinions on a problem I've been having. I was going with a man of 60. I am 47. I was very fond of him and he led me to believe that the feeling was mutual. Three weeks ago he asked me to move into his house and live common law with him until we found out if we were compatible. He says at our age there is nothing wrong with it. If we were teen-agers, it would be different. Of course, I flatly refused. He said if all I wanted out of him was an escort, I could count him out. I enjoy his company. Should I go out with him again if he asks me? He has money and could get plenty of other women. TROUBLED

Abby

DEAR TROUBLED: I say let one of the other women have him. She can also have the pleasure of moving in (to find out if they are compatible) and perhaps wind up being a housekeeper with sleep-in privileges. Respectable couples (at any age) still get married before they live together.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if I have a right to be resentful. Apparently my husband's mother doesn't know I'm alive. She writes letters to him and they all begin, "My dear son, Bertram." She never mentions my name, but she does inquire about our children. Her letters are always 10 or 12 pages long. If she would send a small "regards" to me in her letters it would mean a lot to me. I never did anything to hurt her. I am a good wife to her son, and a good mother to her grandchildren. She lives a long way from here and we don't see her very often, but she remembers the children with gifts, and my husband, too. I wonder if she knows her son's wife is living? I asked my husband once, and he said, "Mother is a little peculiar." Should I write and introduce myself to her? IGNORED

DEAR IGNORED: No. Perhaps your husband was being kind. By "peculiar" he might have been trying to tell you that his mother's mental horizon is pretty narrow. Don't demand that your husband account for his mother's actions. He's probably as uneasy about his mother's attitude as you are — and equally helpless.

WINONA SUNDAY NEWS

Sunday, December 27, 1964 WINONA SUNDAY NEWS 7

FIRST SHOW . . . Peter Sellers is the King of the Me's, a wild, uninhibited character in the world of Christmas Future. Here he's being carried on the shoulders of a group of his motley admirers in a scene from Joseph L. Mankiewicz' 90-minute production of Rod Sterling's "Carol for Another Christmas," an all-star film which will be seen on ABC-TV Monday night.

Christmas Allegory

First Show of New U.N. Series Monday

By HARVEY PACK

During the early days of World War II, President Roosevelt tried to push Lend-Lease through a Congress which found a good part of its mail favoring complete neutrality in Europe's war.

The "arsenal of democracy" appeal was falling on deaf ears because most Americans found it difficult to identify with out British cousins who, at that time, were being put to the test by the German air force.

Then, along came a motion picture entitled "Mrs. Miniver" and America wept as a brave British housewife, portrayed by Greer Garson, made sacrifice after sacrifice for her country. Mrs. Miniver's tears melted the Congressional mail and its propaganda impact helped pave the way for public acceptance of Lend-Lease.

BECAUSE PAUL Hoffman, now managing director of the United Nations special fund, was in Washington during those crucial days and on Monday night on ABC, TV audiences will be able to see the first of five high-budgeted motion pictures, designed purely as entertainment but with a subliminal message on behalf of the United Nations gently injected like a Greer Garson tear.

The credit sheet for the Monday film, "Carol for Another Christmas," reads like it belongs to one of those "three years in the making — five million dollar epics" with Joseph L. Mankiewicz as producer, screenplay by Rod Serling, music by Henry Mancini and a cast headed by Peter Sellers, Steve Lawrence, Eva Marie Saint, Sterling Hayden and Ben Gazzara.

Before the small percentage of our citizens who oppose the United Nations begin screaming that too much money has been wasted on this elaborate propaganda program, let's set the record straight. For one thing the talent on all these films (and the upcoming shows boast just as impressive an array) worked for union minimum wages even though producer-directors such as Mankiewicz and Hitchcock (who's completed one) can command salaries and shares in films which can gross them as much as a million dollars.

The cost of all five productions was underwritten by Xerox Corporation, which put up $4,000,000 while agreeing not to insert any commercial messages into the programs. This came about when Edgar Rosenberg, the man Paul Hoffman instructed to launch the project, mentioned the basic idea to an advertising executive while they were riding home together from a summer weekend. The next morning the ad man called to say Xerox wanted to underwrite the productions.

NOBODY HAS interfered with the talent which volunteered to create these programs, least of all the United Nations. The writ-

Love Finds The Way In Madrid

The romantic involvements of roommates Ann-Margret, Pamela Tiffin and Carol Lynley in Madrid provide the story line for THE PLEASURE SEEKERS, also starring Tony Franciosa, Gardner McKay, Gene Tierney and Brian Keith and playing through Wednesday at the Winona Theatre.

A singer-dancer, Ann-Margret by accident meets young doctor Andres Brions (Andre Lawrence) and falls in love with him while Pamela falls for a young and wealthy nobleman, Tony Franciosa. At a party Carol becomes involved with Paul Barton — whose wife is Gene Tierney. A short time later Ann-Margret and Lawrence meet, romance blossoms and they spend two days together before he sends her way, saying he can't afford a wife. Carol and Pamela also suffer disappointments in their romances.

They decide to return to America but before they leave each's problem is solved satisfactorily and the three couples go their separate ways.

Walt Disney's zany crime comedy, EMIL AND THE DETECTIVES, with Walter Slezak and Brian Russell, opens Thursday at the Winona.

Based on the Erich Kastner novel, the action involves efforts by youngsters in a detective agency to recover a young client's stolen money, leading to discovery of a plot to rob a large bank in Berlin.

The comic mystery opens with a pint-size pickpocket shadowing a young victim and develops into a slam-bang manhunt through West Berlin by the force of juvenile sleuths.

LISTEN HERE! . . . Cary Grant's anger fails to disturb the aplomb of his "uninvited" guest, Leslie Caron, in the romantic adventure comedy, FATHER GOOSE, opening Thursday at the State.

Rock 'N Roll Bonanza Scheduled at State

A teen-age music spectacular, THE TAMI SHOW has been booked for special showings at the State theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

The title is composed of the initials for Teen-Age Music International and the show features 12 of the best-known individuals and groups now recording popular music in America and in England.

The lineup includes: The Beach Boys, The Barbarians, Gerry and the Pacemakers, Lesley Gore, Jan and Dean, Billy J. Kramer, Rolling Stones, Chuck Berry, James Brown and the Flames, Marvin Gaye, The Supremes and The Miracles.

There will be special showings each day at 1:15 and 11:30 p.m. TAMI accompanies on Tuesday and Wednesday the feature continuing through Wednesday, GOODYE CHARLIE, the comedy about an unscrupulous and girl-chasing screen writer who is shot by an irate husband and is reincarnated as a beautiful girl. The reincarnation has the body of a woman but the mind of a man.

Featured in the film are Tony Curtis, Debbie Reynolds and Pat Boone.

There'll be a music bonus, too, for the program beginning Thursday at the State.

The feature will be FATHER GOOSE, with Cary Grant and Leslie Caron, and with it a film featuring quartet singing at its best, KEEP AMERICA SINGING.

In FATHER GOOSE, Grant is cast as an ex-professor of history who has rebelled against the strictures of society and escaped to the South Pacific where, in a one-man operated launch, he roves the tropical waters.

His idyll comes to an abrupt end when he is pressed into service as a coast watcher to report enemy planes and ships and in the course of his duties he finds his lonely outpost "invaded" by Miss Caron, who portrays the war-displaced daughter of a French consular official and her seven schoolgirl charges.

There will be showings New Year's Eve at 7, 9:10 and 11:30 p.m.

THE DETECTIVES . . . These are the good guys in EMIL AND THE DETECTIVES who are on the trail of the bad guys (called skinks). Bryan Russell, who plays the part of the detectives' client, is at the left, Roger Mobley, their leader, is next to him showing off his badge. The movie opens Thursday at the Winona.

Museum Avoids 'Mausoleum' Look

Running a great art museum and managing a big department store have a lot in common, says Dr. Evan Hopkins Turner, the dynamic new director of the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

He believes they call for the same ingenuity and inspiration in show-casing, in promotion, in originality, in appealing to all tastes. He intends to apply some merchandising techniques to the demands of his new job.

At 37 one of the youngest art museum directors in the land, Turner will have abundant scope for putting theory into practice, and for the development of his prolific ideas.

Many of these ideas, joined with swift, sure action, earned him the reputation of a brilliant innovator at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, where he served as director for five years before coming here a few months ago.

Turner, a realist, knows his work is cut out for him.

Attendance must be increased. More money must be raised, so that the museum will be able to expand its services, add to its treasures, and achieve a happier balance of permanent art collections, now dominated by the French school.

In 1962 the museum rejoiced in an all-time yearly attendance record — 914,096. No admission fee was charged then. Now the fee is 50 cents for an adult, and 25 cents for children, except when they come in special groups from city schools. They are let in free.

Visitors may enjoy 200,000 works of art housed in 270 galleries, spread over 10 acres. Guided tours in seven languages are conducted by volunteers augmenting a paid staff of 270.

The trouble is, says Turner "this museum has not reflected the talent, the thinking and the moods of the city. We are now in a curious, crossroads position. Here we must determine what our aims and philosophy are to be.

"A major task in the creation of a new image of vitality, as opposed to what we might call the mausoleum approach. People don't want to go into an art museum as into a cathedral or a tomb. They want an art museum to be a place of fun and excitement and vibrant experience.

"The purpose of the art museum — as surely as it is the purpose of a store — is to make people feel that they belong. That first impression is so important. I want it to be one of warm welcome."

The tall, husky, bespectacled Turner, a native of Orono, Maine, is all energy and ambition in his new job, a restless, reaching out type for whom nothing but the first rate will do.

"Of all the major museums," Turner continued, "we are the poorest. We haven't begun to realize our potentialities — and shortage of money is the reason."

"Right now donations amount to about $600,000 of our annual budget. The city contributes about $800,000 a year. Our acquisition funds, therefore, are very small. We must change this. We must greatly intensify our fund-raising efforts."

To stimulate interest, Turner plans a series of exhibitions on various themes, such as the child in art, the athlete in art, animals in art, and the like.

"Philadelphia is strongly oriented toward sculpture," he said, "so it is among my aims to have a major show of sculpture, contemporary as well as by old masters.

"There is a crying need for exhibitions of contemporary paintings, of what might be called the old masters of the last 10 years. We should undertake a serious objective study of pop art, for there is a great deal of interest in it, and its influence on various media, notably advertising," he asserted.

"Photography is a part of all this, too. A major photographic show has never been held in this museum. It is a show we must consider. Another show that has not been done is on the changing face of Philadelphia. It is also a must."

Photographer Plus Sexpot Is Boredom

THE SHY PHOTOGRAPHER. By Jock Carroll. Stein and Day. $5.

There seems to be a tendency these days to blend the formulas of the farce and the sex book into something that will catch the popular market. Carroll's book mixes formulas pretty wildly.

The principal gambit in this case is the incredibly naive male (a switch from scads of other books which feature the incredibly naive female, whose golden heart leads her into sexual sacrifice.) This creature blunders through bedroom scenes in pseudo - prissy fashion — and wouldn't this be a catchy formula that has been used for centuries in the pornography market?

THIS MALE is Arthur King, a corny critter from the Far North who thinks he is a photographer, and is thrown into the fetid world of American weekly illustrated journalism by a cynical and lecherous friend named Joe.

His first and final encounters with fame involved a bird-brained sexpot named Gloria (could this raise some echoes from "Little Me"?).

The gimmick is that in his primitive innocence Arthur stumbles into some great camera coups for his journal, usually with extravagantly orgiastic overtones.

Somewhere between these layers of sexual sweat there are supposed to be some bits of satire on photo journalism.

Can it be there is a saturation point for this sort of eroticism, dressed up as humor? On the other hand, can there be a jaded yawn-point at which the absurdities of sexual titillation become stereotyped?

'The Re-Readables'

Literary Trails Of 1964 Revisited

By JOHN R. BREITLOW

Each year at this time, it is our custom to examine the offerings of the past 12 months, calling attention to those particular volumes which we liked well enough to read again some day. This cannot be considered a "Best Reading List for 1964," since many worthy titles escape our notice during any year. Of those selections discussed this year, here follow the 17 of the fifty-odd titles reviewed. Considering that some offerings were reference books, this is slightly better than a .333 average, which is not bad for this league.

1964 was a big year for the spy story and related writings. Some new names "made the scene" showing promise of better things to come. Best of these was John LaCarre who hit paydirt with THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM THE COLD and scored critical success with THE INCONGRUOUS SPY. An odd thing called THE IPCRESS FILE by Len Deighton was also intriguing. The real world even got into the act with Joseph B. Donovan's firsthand account of the case of Col. Rudolph Abel — STRANGERS ON A BRIDGE.

IT WAS WELL that these newcomers began to make their mark, for 1964 was the end of an era in spy fiction — the era of the fabulous, indestructable James Bond, whose creator proved more mortal. The post-humous publication of Ian Fleming's YOU ONLY LIVE TWICE with its weirdly prophetic obituary of 007, took top honors for this category.

Professor C. Northcote Parkinson did not issue another law this year, but instead published a very worthy and thought-provoking work on world history — EAST AND WEST — which revealed the serious thinker that has always seemed to be lurking behind the humorist. An historical novel of value was the late Bruce Lancaster's last work, THE BIG KNIVES.

Modern history accounted for several worthwhile books, best of which was a long-awaited personal account of the near-legendary life of the late General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. His handwritten REMINISCENCES revealed the "Old Soldier" as magnificently typifying the end of an era which only a minority of the voting public seems unwilling to abandon.

Another rereadable product of modern times was Leon Uris' ARMAGEDDON, an overlong novel of postwar Germany that had its flaws but also had its moments of glory. The only good war story on the list was VON RYAN'S EXPRESS, saved from mediocrity by its magnificently hard-nosed lead character, who would really chew author David Wesheimer if they ever met.

The year's most fascinating selection was a psychic mystery by the versatile Paul Gallico. THE HAND OF MARY CONSTANCE was a neat combination of the space age, the cold war, and the occult. Gallico's ghostbreaker, Alexander Hero again revealed an interesting man beneath the fictional character.

AMONG THE re-readables is HERZOG by Saul Bellow, which still leads the best-seller lists. It needs re-reading, not only for its brilliant language and amusing asides, but mostly for another attempt to discover what it was actually about. Also re-readable, at least in part, is the old wordsmith Leo Rosten's compilation of his writing — THE MANY WORLDS OF LEO ROSTEN.

Odds and ends from the year include Max Gunther's fascinating semi-facetious, semi-sociological examination of manic modern leisure in THE WEEK-ENDERS, which was quite funny when not hitting too close to home, and Richard Jessup's well-written episode from the world of big-time poker, THE CINCINNATI KID. Honorable mention for amusement in a year shy of humor went to Paul Molloy's A PENNANT FOR THE KREMLIN.

We discussed only one major novel in 1964, the powerful RECTOR OF JUSTIN by the highly promising Louis Auchincloss, leading candidate for the high position in American letters left vacant by the deaths of Hemingway and Faulkner, and now occupied only by John Steinbeck. If in 1965 Mr. Auchincloss can manage to raise his sights somewhere above and beyond the insular world of the Eastern Seaboard and the American Establishment, he might well make it. Our wish for the New Year is that he succeed, and that a lot of others also make the effort.

13. We can usually tell from his PRI—E how much an artist values his paintings (C or D).

Prizewords nears the end of another year with a cash balance on hand, the result of failure of players of the weekly word game to come up with a winning solution to last Sunday's puzzle.

The cash book shows $50 carried over from last week when there wasn't a winner and the usual $10 bonus added today and each Sunday no one cracks all of the puzzle clues.

THAT MEANS THAT the one person who completes a perfect entry this week will be eligible for a $60 reward ... and remember that the events of the previous week show that it can be done.

It was last Sunday that we were able to announce that Mrs. Helen Zindel of Arcadia, Wis., claimed a $160 prize when she filled in the correct letters to complete each of the 16 words on the puzzle blank.

Because she didn't have a telephone we weren't able to talk to Mrs. Zindel about her good fortune but her friends at Arcadia tell us she was probably the happiest woman in town when she read about her winnings.

Elderly — but spritely — Mrs. Zindel, they say, was especially happy about receiving the check because it swelled her purse a good deal larger when she went Christmas shopping for her grandchildren and other members of the family.

THE FEW minutes that it takes to fill in a Prizewords entry could mean $60 for you this week if you turn out to be the only player with all of the correct answers.

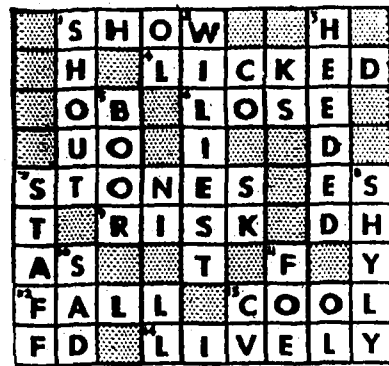

If there are two or more winners this week the prize money will be divided equally.

And, if no one is able to crack all of today's puzzle clues, the prize will be carried over to next week.

That would mean that we'd be starting a new year with a $70 puzzle prize.

Remember that your entry must be attached to a postcard with four cents postage and must be mailed with a postmark not later than midnight Tuesday.

Last Week's Correct Prizewords Solution

ACROSS

1. A SHOW horse is scarcely the sort you would expect to win a big race (Slow). — A Slow horse is out of the running in this answer. Scarcely is better with SHOW; such a horse might have the stamina to win.

4. The fact that a boy is frequently LICKED often indicates that there's something very wrong with his home life. (Wicked). — With Wicked, the word often doesn't go far enough. The restraint is better with LICKED. The clue doesn't say he is licked by his parents.

6. People who LOSE a lot of money are often harshly criticized (Love). — Love is open to question. Most of us would welcome the opportunity to Love a lot of money. LOSE is more to the point, but much depends on how it is lost. Often allows for exceptions where those who LOSE it are blameless.

7. As a rule, big STONES are likely to be worth more than smaller ones (Stores). — Stores isn't necessarily true; a lot might depend on the location and the goods sold. Size alone doesn't make for success. STONES is more likely; in most cases valuable stones are priced in accordance with their weight, other qualities being equal.

9. It's sometimes very hard to get applicants for a job in which there's little likelihood of RISK (Rise). — Most of the time there'll be applicants aplenty for a nice, safe job with little chance of RISK. Sometimes very hard goes well with RISK. It is never very hard to get applicants for jobs with little chance of Rise — promotion. There are always people desperate for any kind of a job.

12. When social climbers FALL it's often because they are overly ambitious (Fail). — Not Fail; there are many possible reasons for their failure. FALL goes much further; they have reached a certain point — and thus overreached their potential for social success.

13. A man who deliberately takes avoidable risks might well be described as COOL. (Fool). — COOL fits well with deliberately; he does so purposely and might well take all necessary precautions. To call such a man a Fool is too extreme an assumption.

14. It might well pay a storekeeper to employ LIVELY assistants (Lovely) — Lovely assistants might bring in the menfolk — but the store might cater only to women. LIVELY covers most business requirements.

DOWN:

1. His friends are usually understanding when adversity makes a man SHOUT (Short). — SHOUT applies better here; they are his friends and his nerves might well be on edge. There's less justification for Short. For him to be curt and abrupt with his friends at such a time can be very trying for them.

2. Legend has it that most women fondly believe the WILDEST man is no match for an intelligent woman (Wildest). — Wildest is out of character with the clue. WILDEST is better. Women in general believe they are craftier than men, or so folklore would have it.

3. It's often a shock to parents to discover that they are no longer HEADED by their children (Needed). — The process of children growing away from parental Need is all too apparent. It's the fact that they're no longer HEADED — listened to — that shocks parents.

5. Alas! Far too many of us tend to be intolerant of a person who is BOOR (Poor). — Not many of us are BOOR enough to be intolerant of the Poor. BOOR is better; the BOOR might not be to blame for his crudeness and ill-bred manner.

7. A conscientious store manager is apt to be very upset by complaints about his STAFF (Stuff). — Apt is not too restrained with STAFF; the complaints might come from people who complain habitually. As for Stuff, he might be well aware that the goods sold are inferior. The situation could be beyond his control, due to supply difficulties.

8. There's often more sincerity in a compliment when it's made SHYLY (Slyly). — SHYLY is more likely here; a shy person is more likely to mean what he says. This isn't the case with Slyly.

10. The singing of a tipsy person is often SAD (Bad). — Whether his singing is Bad depends on whether his voice is normally a bad one — which need not be the case. SAD is better; tipsy souls love melancholy ballads.

1. The more worldly wise a man the less likely he is to be little a feminine Foe (Woe). — The outright statement is better with Foe; he knows what an opponent a woman can be. As for Woe, he need not be hard-hearted!

Frost-Free Beauty

FACE up to winter with a climate-controlled complexion program. Whether your destination is a ski slope or a windy street, your make-up is a helpful ally to keep skin from chapping, as well as brows and lashes from becoming brittle. As Lyn Edgington discovered, a beauty barrier against rough and ruddy "skier's skin" is a protective coat of creamy foundation base.

ANOTHER WAY to keep your glamour guard up — right to your eyebrows — is using a wax-based make-up pencil. It not only weatherproofs against dryness and fading, but improves the brow shape. As the chart shows, the general rule is: A. The eyebrow should begin in a line directly above tear duct; B. The tip should never extend beyond the point where a pencil, held at a diagonal, bisects outer corner of brow; and C. The arch should peak above the iris of the eye when looking straight ahead.

LASHES, TOO, come in for a frost-free treatment. They remain soft and flexible by regular brushings with petroleum jelly. Latter separates hairs, giving them a mascaraed look, yet protects lashes from breaking. Lyn, who appears in the MGM film, "Girl Happy," reminds, it takes only a tiny drop of ointment, swirled on a cotton-tipped stick, to keep your beauty insurance paying dividends.

TEENS FRONT

John W. Morse

A hobby and his academic work at Winona Senior High School dovetail for John W. Morse, a senior who lists work on science projects as one of his hobbies and counts membership in the high school Science Club (of which he's vice president) and top prize-winning participation in last year's regional and state Science Fairs among school activities.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Morse, 1573 W. King St., John was awarded a Navy cruise for his science achievement, is a two-year member of the National Honor Society, an American Field Service candidate, member of the "Characters" drama club, and has participated in debate, Pep Club, basketball and track.

He's attending a Winona State College class in research in nuclear radiation physics, is a radiological monitor instructor, a former Eagle Scout, member of Hi-Y and, in addition to science projects, has hobbies that include camping and rock collecting. He's a member of the Methodist church and has one sister.

John plans to enroll at either Case Institute of Technology or the University of Minnesota as a major in solid state physics or physical chemistry.

Candee Meyer

This year's editor-in-chief of the Winona Senior High School year-book, The Radiograph, is Candee Meyer.

Candee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Meyer, Williams Hotel, and a high school senior.

Among her outside of school activities is membership in the TARS (Teen-Age Republicans), of which she is president. She's also a member of St. Martin's Lutheran Church.

Candee is secretary of the senior class, was treasurer of her sophomore class and served as director of the American Field Service talent show.

This year she's president of the Pep Club, served as its secretary-treasurer during her junior year and is a member of the "Characters" drama group. Modern Dance Group, Usher Squad and has participated in debate.

Her hobbies are stamp collecting, sewing and water skiing.

Candee plans to attend the College of Saint Teresa and study to become a foreign language interpreter. She has one sister.

U.N. Topic for TV Series

ers and directors were given story ideas by UN researchers designed primarily to familiarize them with the work of the world organization. Hitchcock, for example, was fascinated to learn that the UN is the only body which keeps track of communicable diseases which might spread from nation to nation. In true Hitchcock style, his show is an exciting chase story built around just such an incident.

Since "Carol for Another Christmas" is the opener and was set to be aired this month, Serling and Mankiewicz decided to deal in generalities and Rod has penned a wild allegory on the Christmas Carol which has his version of Scrooge seeing a world where man does not care for his fellow man. It's a powerful 90 minutes which only contains one brief reference to the UN, but paints a grim picture of a world without one.

THE INSPIRATION for the entire series was a survey taken among Americans to find out how we felt about the UN and what we thought were its functions. As with most polls, there was a small minority which was with the UN right down the line and a matching group ready to destroy the organization. Neither group will change its opinion after watching any TV show.

It is the large majority in the middle, who basically approved of the UN but thought its sole was peacekeeping and perhaps collecting money for UNICEF around Halloween, that programs want to reach. Paul Hoffman and Edgar Rosenberg agreed a mass medium was needed. Rosenberg suggested TV and Mr. Hoffman provided the format when he recalled the story of "Mrs. Miniver" and Lend-Lease.

If you're planning to attend an abolish the UN rally on Monday try and get your fellow conspirators to hold the meeting after eleven. It would be a shame to blow a chance to see an hour and a half movie on television, and, besides, you may find it as funny as "Mrs. Miniver."

ONCE UPON A TIME a New Year meant a new, fresh start. But installment buying at Christmas time changed all that . . .

Now Father can revert to his pre-Christmas, year 'round role of Santa Claus; but without the red suit, white beard, and jolly Ho! Ho! Ho!

Winter in the country is a clean and lovely thing. No city dweller, ankle deep in slush, can ever fully appreciate the real glistening beauty of snow.

Of course, if farmers had to shovel sidewalks three times a day to accommodate the populace they might have cause for concern along with their city brothers

The fellow who will be enjoying this new year the most on our street is the subtle salesman who convinced his wife at Christmas time that she actually looked a lot fatter in a fur coat.

It isn't always easy these days to tell just when one generation ends and another begins, but it is usually pretty close to 10 p.m.

We all were pretty poor in the old days, but at least the dime stores didn't have to bother with layaway plans.

A memorable night of restful terror: Nightmares suffered after a midnight indulgence of shrimp and pickled herring.

At least someone figured out the solution to the Sunday parking problem in small towns with big churches—one off-street auto parking space for every 120 inches of pew space. Ruler, clergymen!?

Fill the days of the New Year with the little homely things of love, and all the world will be a better place . . .

SPOT OF FAME — GUESS THE NAME

Although it had apparently been in existence for several centuries before the Christian era, today's spot of fame was not significant enough to have gained mention in the Old Testament. It was a quiet little hill town, inhabited by sheep-herders and farmers, out of the direct course of history.

It became important, of course, through its association with Jesus Christ. Joseph and Mary were both citizens of the town, and it was here that the Angel of the Lord appeared to Mary and told her of the forthcoming birth.

Here Jesus grew up, studied at the synagogue, preached in the temple and was proclaimed the Messiah. Angered by what they felt was blasphemy, the citizens drove Jesus from the town.

There is no record that Jesus ever returned to his boyhood scenes, but it was ever afterward revered by Christians, and during the Crusades was one of the main goals of the conquest of the Holy land.

During the century and a half that the western knights held sway in the Holy Land, the town changed hands several times, being finally destroyed by Beibars in the last half of the 13th century.

Name this spot of fame.

Furniture Talk

By Lavern Lawrenz

She glanced over the sofas and tables in our showroom and made her way confidently to a group that brought a smile to her face. She picked up the price tag and then let it fall, her smile falling with it. Too much. She looked around again, but nothing else brought back the smile. Back to that sofa; she patted the soft cushions, then ran her hands over the cool smooth wood of the end tables by it.

"This is what I'd really like to have in my home," she sighed, "but of course I can't afford it. I have to get a coffee table, chairs, lamps pictures . . . everything." She showed us her list, with each item carefully budgeted.

"I suppose I should be practical and get this dark brown set; I'm not too crazy about it, but it's within my budget," she said, expecting our decorator's agreement. "Don't buy it," he said instead. "Don't settle for anything less than that sofa with those tables."

"But what about the other furniture on my list?"

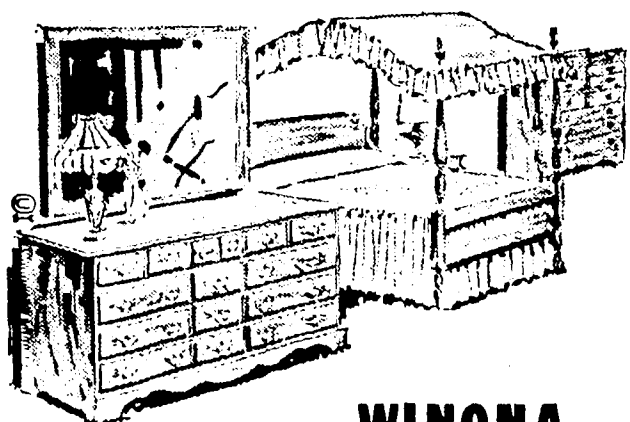

"Don't buy that either. Wait till you can get what you want and in a few years you'll realize your ideal. In other words, buy the best, even if you have to buy less. Quality is remembered long after the price is forgotten."

At Lawrenz Furniture we take pride in helping each of our customers find exactly the right furnishings for their homes. If you're planning on buying new furniture, be sure to come in and talk to us. Whether you like to mix or match, we'll be glad to help you in your selections. If you can't come in, just give us a call, and we will call on you. Remember, whatever you buy, the quality is remembered long after the price is forgotten.

Terms to Suit Your Budget

Needed Storage... With a Decorating Bonus

THE term "storage" is usually defined by the average housewife as something you never have enough of. Two ways of solving this ever-present problem are seen on this page today . . . and beautiful solutions they are, indeed. The combination of units above is exactly suited to individual needs and style preference. From a collection designated as "Custom Components," the units are based on a 33-inch module of storage cabinets and chests that can be grouped on a complementing base . . . single, double or triple size. The bench and units here have a Far Eastern feeling, others might appear more Spanish or simple contemporary. A choice of wood finishes and hardware decoration adds to the possibilities for originality.

The linen-fold carving on these cabinet doors dates well back into European antiquity. English, Spanish, Italian . . . all had their interpretation. The console chest is solid oak, is sculptured and highlighted with restrained brass pulls. The piece is from the "Talavera" collection.
