Big Inaugural Gala Entertains 11,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The show was late in starting and producer Richard Adler was nervously whispering to an aide: "Remember, protocol-wise, Sally Ann Howes has to first shake the President's hand, then present the flowers to Mrs. Johnson, then just greet the Humphreys."

A few minutes later a man no one knew and many thought was smashed suddenly announced over the PA system: "George O'Doyle, will you please raise your hand?" Among the 11,000 Democrats present Monday night for the inaugural gala at the National Armory it was difficult to see a hand go up or find out who O'Doyle was.

Churchill Has Restless Night

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's doctor said just before noon — 7 a.m. EST — today there had been no further deterioration in the former prime minister's condition. Churchill's physician, Lord Moran, said he would issue another medical bulletin about 9 p.m. — 4 p.m. EST.

Lord Moran had been called to Churchill's bedside at 2:10 a.m. and spent five hours there. He reported shortly after 7 a.m. that Churchill had spent a very restless night and his condition had deteriorated. At 11:45 a.m., the 82-year-old physician issued this bulletin after another visit to his patient: "In the four hours since the last bulletin, there has been no further deterioration."

No Snow, But Cold Weather For Inaugural

WASHINGTON (AP) — The celebrating for President Johnson's inaugural hits top speed today, and anyone with enough energy — and enough tickets — can keep partying until late at night.

With luncheons, receptions, dinner dances and an inaugural concert by the National Symphony, there isn't an open moment on the schedule. Almost everything, including the weather, seems set for the whole point of this business: the taking of the presidential oath in front of the Capitol at noon Wednesday. Only the inaugural address remains unfinished, and Johnson is expected to keep putting it off until a few hours before delivery time.

On that most important item, the weather, Johnson's luck appears to be holding out.

After hinting that it might snow on Johnson's great day, the weatherman backtracked and now sticks to the prediction that none is likely to fall. But the bitter cold will remain, making it rough on those who are in, or who are out watching, the 2½-hour parade.

Today's highlights include a reception for Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey, a reception for governors that will be so crowded the guests will be herded in three hourly shifts, and a dance and reception for Young Democrats.

MANILA (AP) — Philippine police seized 75 boxes of ammunition allegedly stolen from Clark Air Base today and arrested a 29-year-old American airman and five Filipinos. The airman's name was not announced. He was turned over to American authorities and is being held for investigation.

An Air Force spokesman said other ammunition was missing from the base.

SEATTLE (AP) — Sheriff James G. Clark jailed more than 60 Negroes today when they refused to go through an alley entrance into the Dallas County Courthouse to apply for voter registration. "All the registration business is being done in the alley," the hefty club-carrying sheriff told the Negroes lined up on the sidewalk in front of the courthouse. When the group refused to go into the alley where Negroes voted Monday waiting to take voter tests, Clark told them they were under arrest.

Watching from across the street was Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who again led the Negroes to the courthouse. Today, however, the Negroes merely circled the block or turned back and returned to a church meeting rather than enter the courthouse through a back door. Among persons arrested by Clark was John Love, Negro project director for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in Selma.

Knowles Asks Legislature to Face Problems

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles asked the Wisconsin Legislature today to establish a reputation for hard and fast work on the "tremendous" problems facing the state. The Republican chief executive told politically divided majorities in the Assembly and Senate the voters had disregarded party labels in the Nov. 3 election, "and it is evident that they expect that we do likewise."

"We are not here to blit one another's programs," Knowles said. "Differences of opinion — in approach and philosophy — are to be expected, but the people also expect these differences to be resolved, with progress as the result."

The governor told the legislature's first joint session Wisconsin's economic condition is generally good but that the gap between state revenues and expenditures remains a "matter of major concern."

"We must increase opportunity in Wisconsin," Knowles said. "And, hand-in-hand with this is my conviction that the solution to the closing of our revenue gap in state government is the increased revenues that will derive from a higher level of economic activity."

Knowles attentioned lawmakers to the need for action in no less than 21 government areas and offered legislative proposals in about half of them. "I am hopeful that we will have a reasonably short, business-like and fruitful session," he said. "I urge that you devote your attention to this commitment and that we, together, try to end our work within 100 legislative days."

Most of the governor's proposals bear the scars of previous legislative debate. But he did call for complete removal of personal property taxes on farm livestock, a $500,000 addition to Wisconsin's tourist promotion budget, and legislation that would allow localities to tap additional sources of tax revenue.

Fast and favorable action was recommended on a legislative council bill that would revamp the method of picking supervisors in 70 of Wisconsin's 72 counties. The State Supreme Court has dictated a charge by Nov. 1 to bring the procedure more in line with the "one man, one vote" principle of the federal Constitution.

Estes Behind Bars in Texas

Deputy Marshal Bill Black and Billie Sol Estes

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Federal authorities put Billie Sol Estes, described by a judge who tried him as "the most gigantic swindler in history," behind bars Monday night. Unless further appeals meet with unexpected success, it apparently was the end of a tight-lipped, nearly three years to keep the toppled farm tycoon and former lay preacher out of prison. He marked his 40th birthday just nine days ago.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to hear Estes' appeal from a 15-year prison sentence for mail fraud. U.S. Dist. Judge H. E. Thompson, who presided for the 1963 trial in El Paso, then revoked the bankrupt promoter's $100,000 appeal bond. Armed with a bench warrant from Thompson, Deputy U.S. Marshal William C. Black arrested the black-haired, round-faced Estes at his comfortable Abilene home and escorted him to the county jail here. Officers arranged to transfer him to El Paso today. They said Estes might stay there as long as five weeks before being moved to a federal prison. He has 25 days to ask the Supreme Court to reconsider and it could be 10 days longer before the tribunal ruled.

Gemini Test Shot Proves Successful

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Gemini two-man spacecraft, partly controlled by a pair of "black boxes" simulating astronauts, made a blazing suborbital test flight today and cleared the way for Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young to ride a similar capsule into orbit in April.

After the 16,600 mile an hour flight, the 6,900-pound spacecraft plummeted into the Atlantic right on target 2,150 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy. It landed only about 25 miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain, 19 minutes after the blast-off here at 9:03 a.m.

Within minutes, a helicopter from the carrier dropped two Navy swimmers who secured the spacecraft with an inflatable flotation collar. Then the swimmers waited in a life raft for the Lake Champlain.

The Lake Champlain pulled alongside the capsule and a crane lifted it from the sea, depositing it on the deck at 10:48 a.m. First reports said the capsule had survived the journey in excellent condition.

Grissom, 38, is an Air Force major. Young, 34, is a Navy lieutenant commander.

Grissom and Young, who monitored progress of the flight from the flight control center here, were reported extremely happy over the results.

They have been waiting while the space agency overcame numerous development, technical and weather problems which had put the program 16 months behind its original schedule.

Officials reported that preliminary study of data indicated that both the rocket and spacecraft performed flawlessly today. They said that two mechanical devices called crewmen simulators worked effectively in performing tasks which astronauts will perform on later missions.

A Titan 2 rocket hurled the spacecraft to an altitude of 105 miles.

Then mechanical black boxes riding the seats automatically sent signals to the control system to flip the capsule around 180 degrees so that its blunt protective heat shield was in position to absorb the re-entry heat.

These electronic crewmen then sent signals to separate an adapter section at the base of the capsule and to trigger four braking rockets. On orbital flights these rockets will serve to slow the capsule from orbital speed so it can return to earth. They were not necessary on today's flight but were fired for testing purposes.

At an altitude of 10,600 feet on the way down, an 18-foot diameter stabilizing parachute opened. The 84-foot main chute unfurled at 9,000 feet and lowered the craft into the sea at about 30 feet a second.

Stillwater

People Want NSP Plant

STILLWATER, Minn. (AP) — Stillwater area residents made an earnest pitch Monday for locating the proposed Northern States Power Co. plant near their community on the St. Croix River.

One of the proponents to appear at another in the series of hearings by the State Water Pollution Control Commission and the Conservation Commission was Probate Judge John C. McDonough. He comes from an old St. Croix Valley family.

He said that the only issue for those state agencies to determine is whether the water used by the coal-burning generating plant would pollute the water.

The judge criticized Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., for suggesting in testimony last week that a court test be made of the Conservation Department's rights to interpret its "health and welfare" powers in the NSP case.

"This river is part of our bloodstream," said McDonough, "if there was any chance NSP was going to pollute it, we'd be against it."

Lyle J. Eckberg, attorney for Oak Park Heights, where NSP wants to put up the $63 million plant, said most of the village's adult population of some 300 favors the project. He said the St. Croix Valley has had industry and that high costs make any thought of using the valley only for recreation or residences out of the question.

House hopper Monday and were channeled to committees which will open hearings this week. The Senate got a handful of measures as both houses of the legislature met briefly after a three-day weekend.

One of the House bills would lengthen the term of representatives from two to four years, the same as senators now have.

It appeared the Senate Finance Committee would postpone for several days a hearing on a proposal to restore the school aid cut. That delay was due to the illness of chairman Sen. Val Imm of Mankato.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag had ordered the $6.6 million cut in school aids as part of his general cutback which he said was necessitated by a prospective deficit.

"Don't put any in Red Wing," said Langley at this point. "Put them as far away as possible."

Langley then related instances in which he said runaways from the training school or from foster homes had stolen cars, damaged property and attacked people with monkey wrenches, automobile axles and bottles.

Langley criticized the vocational training program. He said he had visited the shop in which boys are supposed to learn auto mechanics and found eight boys reading comic books.

The Red Wing senator declared cigarettes are used as rewards at the institution, yet "under our law sale of cigarettes to anyone under 18 is forbidden."

"The vast majority of the boys are getting something out of the school program," Turnbladh replied, "but some programs need beefing up."

He said there is need for strong staff, better staff training and a major overhaul of the vocational training program. The department has proposed a study aimed at improving this program.

Joseph Rowan, deputy corrections commissioner in charge of the youth division, said a citizens' committee had studied the disciplinary situation at Red Wing and reported it was satisfied with what is being done. Rowan added that at least half the boys assigned to foster homes do well.

Severe Cold Wave Hugs East Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A severe cold wave hugged the Atlantic Coast today, sending cool air into normally balmy Florida where part of the vegetable crop was ruined.

In an unusual turn-about, Scottsbluff, Neb., established a record for Jan. 18 Monday with a mild 62.

The midwinter chill pushed temperatures well below freezing across northern Florida and down to the low 40s even in the far south. Tallahassee, in the north, registered a low of 23 and it was 43 at Miami.

The Midwest was struck with near-zero weather and officials in Indiana struggled to recover from a 12-inch snowstorm that virtually paralyzed the state over the weekend.

Wicked weather in central and southern Florida damaged the state's sugar cane, but 45 per cent of the 229,000 acres had been harvested. Dade County was hardest hit, losing 30 per cent of its tomato crop, 60 per cent of the pole bean crop and 80 per cent of the squash crop.

Citrus fruits escaped with superficial damage, officials said. The cold struck north along the Atlantic Coast, sending temperatures to zero and below. The mercury was below zero in Atlantic City and elsewhere in New Jersey.

Stocks Pushing In New Highs

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — As popular stock price averages strive to climb to higher ground than they reached in setting records in the middle of November, particular issues again set the pace. Big advances by a few can do the trick even while the majority could be dallying, and some slipping.

And last year's star performer may not be this year's favorite, while a once drowsy issue may capture the investor's attention. This is a truism in brokers' offices that the public often ignores. The trick, even in a bull market, still is to find the favorite.

For 1964 as a whole the popular averages staged good gains. That is, the averages did. Some of their components far outshone the list as a whole. Others even declined in price.

The same is true, in percentage of change, for the performance of the averages over a 10-year period.

Take just one. The average price of the 30 stocks on the Dow-Jones industrial list rose 14.6 per cent during 1964. But one issue gained 65.5 per cent, while another lost 10.5 per cent.

Compare the same 30 stocks with their prices at the end of 1954, with adjustments for all splits and other capital changes in the 10 years. The best performing issues gained 412 per cent in market value in the decade, while a laggard dropped 3.9 per cent from its 1954 price.

Statisticians at the brokerage firm of Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. put it this way: If you had $10,000 to invest at the start of 1964 and you could have used that to buy equal amounts of each of the 30 stocks, you would have ended up the year with $11,460.

If you had second sight, and had invested just in the five best performers, your holdings at the end of the year would have been $13,810. But if you were unlucky and invested only in the five worst performers your $10,000 would have ended up as just $9,350.

The top five gainers for the year were: United Aircraft, up 53.2 per cent; Chrysler, 46.5 per cent; Swift, 32.4 per cent; Sears, Roebuck, 32.1 per cent; and Du Pont, 26.3 per cent.

The unlucky five were: Alcoa, down 10.5 per cent; General Foods, off 10.3 per cent; Allied Chemical, lower by 5.7 per cent; U.S. Steel, by 4 per cent; and American Telephone & Telegraph by 2 per cent.

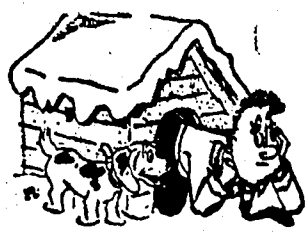

Hartl Urged for Regents Appointment

ST. PAUL (AP)—Albert V. Hartl of Fergus Falls, president of Otter Tail Power Co., will be proposed as a candidate for the University of Minnesota Board of Regents, the Otter Tail County delegation in the legislature said Monday.

The legislature will elect five regents later in the session, probably in March.

Rep. Roy Dunn of Pelican Rapids said Hartl's name would be offered as a candidate to succeed A. I. Johnson of Benson, who is retiring because of ill health.

2 More Liquor Licenses Asked; For 2 Motels

A resolution asking the Legislature to authorize two additional on-sale liquor licenses for Winona was passed Monday night by the City Council.

The resolution was aimed specifically at providing licenses for two proposed new luxury motels. In its language, the request specified that the license would be issued to motels with no fewer than 75 guest rooms and having dining facilities.

City Council

BOTH proposed motels, the Holiday Inn and Linahan's Inn, are planned as 80-room structures. Both plan to offer complete dining, banquet and cocktail lounge facilities.

At present the city charter authorizes 15 private on-sale licenses, all issued. Legislative approval is needed for amendment of the charter to permit the proposed change in limits.

Mayor R. K. Ellings said the council may be reluctant to transfer a license from the 2nd Ward to the 4th Ward and added that a license would have to be provided for the Holiday Inn if its developers win their current Supreme Court fight for permissive rezoning at Huff Street and Highway 61.

The transfer is one the council assumes will be asked by William Linahan, downtown restaurateur, president of the Linahan's Inn Corp. When the Mankato Avenue motel is completed — this year, according to announced plans — Linahan is expected to discontinue his 3rd Street establishment and assume personal management of lounge and dining facilities at the new motel.

ASKED BY Ald. Clarence Tribell why licenses are requested for locations not yet built, Mayor Ellings replied that holders do not own licenses and therefore are not automatically entitled to renewal or to transfer them at will.

License Charge Plea Changed

Milton Dahl, 22, 524 Wilsie St., first pleaded not guilty, then changed his mind and pleaded guilty today in municipal court to a charge of driving after revocation of his license.

Dahl told Judge John D. McGill that he had been driving with a Wisconsin license, which, however, he had lost in 1960. Judge McGill set trial for Feb. 2 and ordered Dahl to post $100 bail.

The Winona man unsuccessfully tried to raise bail, then returned to municipal court to change his plea. He was fined $50 with the alternative of 17 days in jail. The charge was made Thursday at 12:53 a.m. on Sarnia Street by city police.

Dahl was trying to arrange payment of his fine today at noon.

Watkins President Speaks to 130 NSP Employees

James Doyle, president of Watkins Products, Inc., addressed 130 Northern States Power Co. employees and their wives at an "information program" at the Hotel Winona Monday night. He discussed present operations and future plans of his company.

The NSP employee information program was started on a company-wide basis five years ago. It enables employees to obtain first-hand and current information concerning company and divisional operations along with discussion of problems facing the utility industry today. Periodically, company officers are invited to meetings to discuss their area of responsibility. The program is conducted by division employees who go through an intensive training period. Winona Division leaders during the current series are Theodore Boosals and Charles G. Brown, Jr.

S. J. Peiters, division manager, said NSP has received national recognition for the program.

PROPOSAL MADE

Christ Statue On Sugar Loaf?

City Council approval for a proposed 110-foot statue of Christ atop Sugar Loaf was asked by a Chicago man Monday night.

The plan was described by its author, Will Kohner, as an "inspirational idea that will put the city of Winona in the eyes of millions of people across the country." Kohner said his plan had tentative backing from several church leaders in the city.

THE STATUE would be called the Christ of the Mississippi, said Kohner, a travel agent who told aldermen he plans to return to Winona, where he was born.

Kohner said the statue's purpose would be to "beautify Sugar Loaf with an inspirational theme, provide a landmark for Christianity in the West and reflect the ecumenical spirit." The figure would be a non-denominational representation, he said, and would attract nationwide attention.

It would be made of concrete or highly durable fiberglass, he said, and would be lighted at night. Nationally circulated publications, such as Life, would probably give extensive coverage to the project, he predicted.

Industrial Land Rezoned for Home Building

Rezoning problems for an East 2nd Street property owner finally came to an end Monday night at the City Council meeting.

The council voted to rezone three lots from M-1 (light industrial) to R-2 (one- to four-family residential) classification, upon the request of Carl Zaborowski, who wishes to build a house on one of them, at 666 E. 2nd St.

In previous appearances before the Board of Zoning Appeals and the City Planning Commission, Zaborowski had been told that no variance from zoning regulations could be granted and that creating a small R-2 enclave in the industrial zone was contrary to good zoning practice. Homes may not be built in nonresidential zones, nor may existing ones be replaced, once they are removed.

The Planning Commission, after listening to Zaborowski's request and to objections from his neighbor, the Winona Monument Co., tossed the problem in the council's lap. The commission suggested that, since Zaborowski owned a previous house on the site and wished to replace it, the rezoning be ordered. Special conditions might be attached, the recommendations added, so that rights of all parties would be preserved.

In ordering the rezoning, the council attached no conditions. It was informed by Dennis Challen, Zaborowski's attorney, that Winona Monument Co. had withdrawn its previous objections. Challen said the parties had drawn a private agreement that none would contest any existing rights of the others, despite the permissive rezoning.

Zaborowski had dismantled the house, then learned he was prevented by the zoning code from building a home in the M-1 district. Other addresses included in the rezoned area are 670 and 678 E. 2nd St.

Vose Named Housing Code Administrator

The City Council appointed an administrator to implement its housing code Monday night but deferred consideration of salary adjustments to another time.

The new administrator will be Roy Vose, city sanitary inspector who recently completed a detailed code implementation program at council request.

ALD. JIM Mohan, chairman of the committee for new projects and industrial development, asked and got council approval of a procedural program. In the vote to appoint Vose, Ald. Neil Sawyer and Clarence Tribell voted in opposition.

Sawyer said the council should investigate the possibility of other departments being charged with program enforcement. A majority of the council saw it as an appropriate function of the health department since the code's objectives are basically those of improved public health standards.

The committee program read by Mohan calls for: Appointment of an appeals board; addition of a full-time inspector, or equivalent; establishment of a public-education program; a complete system of records; additional supply purchases (about $1,000); training periods for all personnel involved; and steps to prevent use of public relief funds to pay clients' rents in properties judged "unsuitable for human habitation."

THE COUNCIL turned down Ald. William Holden's suggestion that a salary advance be set immediately. Mayor R. K. Ellings observed that other inspectors may become involved to an extent and that these, too, may merit salary adjustments. The whole problem should be considered at one sitting, he said, when the new apportionment of work has been determined.

The much-belabored housing code, adopted a year ago, became the object of still another debate as Ald. Sawyer suggested a 60-day delay in enforcement. When a city planning coordinator is hired, he said, this might be the office in which to vest responsibility.

Ald. Holden objected and demanded that "we do something now instead of continually reopening this matter." Council President Harold Briesath said the sanitary inspector is the logical appointee because of his familiarity with the topic.

THE CITY may lose out on urban renewal assistance, Holden observed, if it dallies further. Ald. James Stoltman said this might be "a good idea." He gets many phone calls, he said, from persons who don't want a housing code and who sometimes consider the idea of home inspections as "Communist."

The city has needed such a code for years, Briesath said. Moreover enforcement is always tempered with judgment. Ald. Mohan reminded the group that Winona is not the only city with a housing code. The ordinance was drawn up from many examples of similar codes in operation elsewhere, he added.

Stoltman protested that Winona hasn't any slum areas, anyway, and Mohan replied that the code provides means of preventing slums from developing. Stoltman said he "doesn't like the government telling us what to do."

MAYOR Ellings reminded him that all inspectors are local personnel. Whether there's urban renewal or not, the mayor continued.

Officers elected were: Ragnar Segerstrom, Mondovi, chairman; Alger Marum, Gilmanton, vice chairman, and Theodore Buehler, Alma, secretary and treasurer.

Members of the executive committee met following the annual meeting. With the officers there are Margaret Segerstrom, Harold Moy, Mrs. Melvin Rutschow, Charles Rutschow and Royce Quarberg, Mondovi; Mrs. Ellsworth Anderson and Mrs. Dean Helwig, Gilmanton; Arthur Hill, Alma; Elton Suhr, Oliver Weindandy and William Thaldorf, Fountain City; Elmer Steiner, Belvidere, and William Staak, Cochrane.

CLUE NO. 2

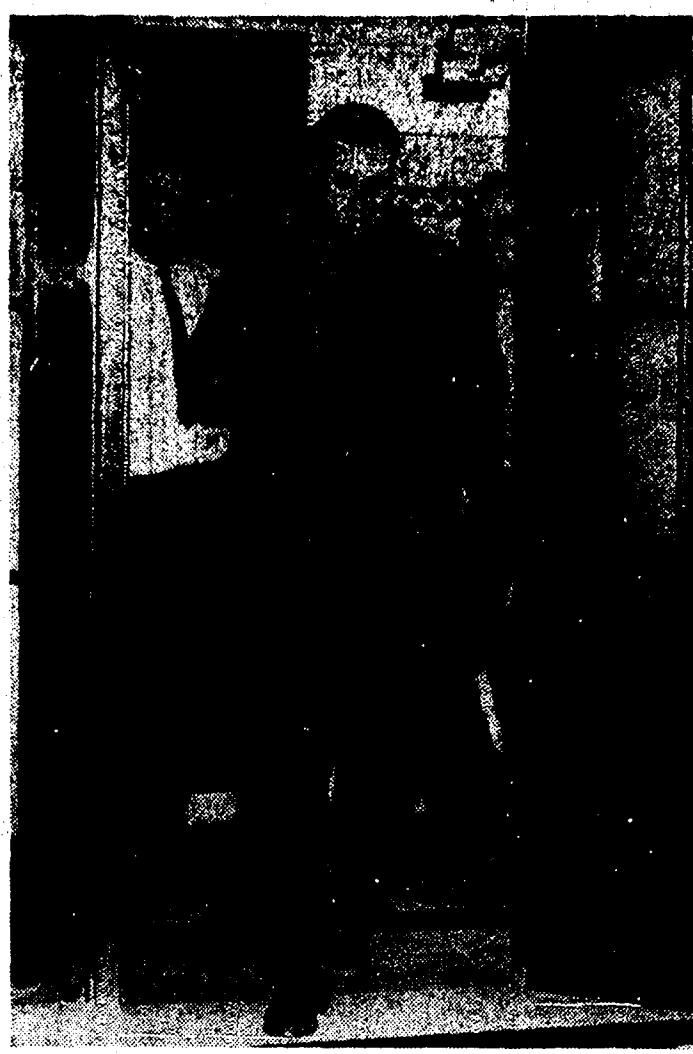

Children's Treasure Hunt

Second item for Winona and trade area youngsters to obtain for the Winona Winter Carnival Scavenger Treasure Hunt is a newspaper picture of the girl who will sing at the Winter Carnival stage show Sunday. Cut out her picture and put it into the container.

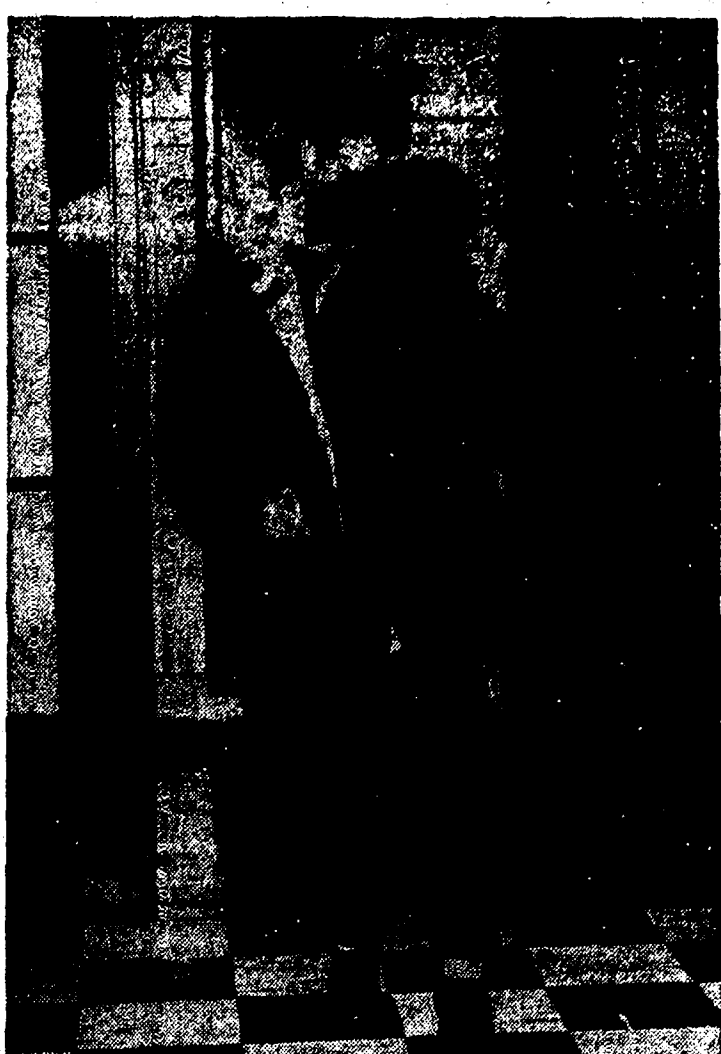

The sixth and final item will be announced Saturday morning at Lake Park. To be eligible to win, youngsters must have each of the first five items with them on Saturday morning and must be registered with the park-recreation department. Only youngsters from Winona and trade area who are 12 years old or younger are eligible for the contest.

The winner will receive a $25 U.S. Savings Bond. The first item announced Monday was a clean empty milk carton, or you can make your own. Children who wish to do so may decorate their containers. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated winning containers which will be displayed in the lobby of the First National Bank. Keep the container throughout the contest and place the other items of the Scavenger Hunt inside it.

All items of the Scavenger Hunt, with the exception of the final item (the one to be announced at Lake Park Saturday morning) are to be put into the container. The youngster who finds the final item must have all the other clues with him to be eligible to win.

SECOND SUSPECT . . . Irwin Jones, 46, Mankato, walks to court down second-floor corridor in City Hall. He was arrested Monday after being identified by police and sheriff officers as the man who escaped from the Winona Senior High School Jan. 7 after a gun battle with police. (Daily News photo)

'Irwin Jones' Name Found in Cozart Effects

City police and Blue Earth County Sheriff Emil Meurer arrested a rural Mankato man Monday afternoon after police and a deputy had identified him as the one who escaped from Winona Senior High School Jan. 7 after a gun battle with police.

Patrolmen Sylvester J. Rotering and William J. Gordon and Sheriff's Deputy Elroy Balk said they instantly identified Irwin Jones, 46, Mankato, as the man they exchanged shots with after an alleged burglary attempt at the high school by Jones and an accomplice who was shot.

JONES WAS traced to Mankato after the name of Irwin Jones was discovered in the personal effects of William J. Cozart, 27, Chicago, the wounded burglary suspect.

Police Chief James W. McCabe, Assistant Chief Marvin A. Meier, Capt. Marlowe L. Brown and William Bennyhoff of the State Crime Bureau conducted the investigation into the identity of the escaped suspect.

One of them recalled a crime bureau picture in the possession of Winona police when the name of Irwin Jones entered the investigation. Patrolman Gordon said he was pretty sure the man in the picture was the man he had shot at in the school.

McCabe, Brown, Gordon, Rotering and Balk went to Mankato Monday after advising the Blue Earth County authorities of their information. Jones was brought in, and the officers identified him through a window before he came into the sheriff's office.

THE OFFICIALS said the man was wearing the hat they had seen the night of the alleged burglary.

Sheriff Meurer arrested Jones and turned him over to the custody of McCabe and Brown. The group returned to Winona where Jones spent the late afternoon and all night in the city jail.

McCabe said Jones is a farmer and mechanic who lives about three miles outside Mankato. He owns the small farm he works and runs a small mechanic's shop on the place.

Jones has refused to give police any information, McCabe said.

Radcliffe Appointed

STRUM, Wis. — John Radcliffe, Strum, elected assemblyman from Jackson and Trempealeau counties in November, has been appointed to the agriculture, public welfare and engrossed bills committees in the legislative session just opened at Madison.

Radcliffe said the code is needed to forestall blight. There are still houses in the city which should have been wrecked but are tenanted, the mayor said, noting that a housing code could have prevented this.

Ald. Henry Parks said "the way taxes are going, people can't afford to keep up their houses." Ald. Briesath laid the blame on state taxes which, he said, are "the worst in the country."

Mankatoan Facing Two Charges Here

Irwin Jones, 46, Mankato, was accused of burglary with a tool and aggravated assault today in municipal court, in connection with the alleged burglary and gun battle at the Senior High School Jan. 7.

A safe in the high school superintendent's office had been cut into with an acetylene torch, and Patrolman Sylvester J. Rotering was wounded in the arm in a subsequent exchange of shots in the early morning of Jan. 7. The safe was not opened.

THE MANKATO farmer and mechanic appeared in court today at 9:45 a.m. after conferring 15 minutes with his attorney, Joseph R. Gunderson, Albert Lea. The defendant asked for a preliminary hearing in municipal court on both charges, and Judge John D. McGill set the hearing for Feb. 3 at 9:30 a.m.

Shortly before, William J. Cozart, 27, Chicago, waived a preliminary hearing on the burglary charge brought against him in connection with the same incident. Cozart was wounded in the gun play with police at the school, but the other man escaped.

Cozart is represented by a court-appointed attorney, William A. Lindquist. The Chicago man walks without crutches now but moves painfully. He answered in a firm voice, however, when Judge McGill asked him whether he had had time to confer with Lindquist.

COZART WAS bound over to District Court under $10,000 bail. The Chicago man will plead to the burglary charge in the higher court.

Jones, a tall, heavy-set man wearing green work clothes and a brown winter jacket, said nothing while in the courtroom.

He heard his attorney, however, ask that bail not exceed $10,000 on the two charges. However, Judge McGill added $5,000 bail on the assault charge to the $10,000 he had already set for the burglary accusation.

Maximum penalties for a conviction would be 20 years imprisonment or a $20,000 fine or both for the burglary charge and 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both on the aggravated assault charge.

JONES' preliminary hearing Feb. 3 will see the state lay its cards on the table, so to speak. County Attorney S. A. Sawyer must present enough evidence to convince Judge McGill that a burglary and an assault were committed and that there is reason to believe Jones did them. Otherwise, Jones would go free.

Neither Jones nor Cozart had posted bail by noon today. They are both confined in county jail, pending further court action.

Cozart's wife and sister were among about a dozen spectators who gathered in the municipal court room to watch the court appearances of the accused burglars.

PROTESTING that he didn't think "business should be concentrated in one end of town," Tribell advocated a "centralized" location.

Frank Allen, board member, said the new school, at Gilmore Avenue and Wilsie Street, would be almost at dead center of the school population, even though it would be away from the geographical center of the city.

There always will be a transportation problem, Allen conceded, but it will be less for greater number of people in the new location than in the present one.

Buddy Hackett's Blushing Again

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — This is the tale of some panties. . . . Comedian Buddy Hackett is the villain . . . or the victim. He and his wife Sherry and their children weekended at the Hotel Concord in the Catskills with Dr. Harold Shapiro, his wife and their children. . . . and the children's clothes got mixed up in the packing for home.

Twelve-year-old Robin Shapiro's panties wound up at the Hackett's home in Palisades N.Y.

"You're going to see the doctor," Mrs. Hackett apprised Buddy. "Take Robin's panties to him."

"Sure." Buddy stuffed them in his overcoat pocket. But you know husbands. . . . Nights later, after doing his show, "I Had a Ball," which has become a hit, Buddy pulled some gloves from his overcoat pocket at the Hotel Plaza checkroom. Steve Lawrence, Eydie Gorme and Mrs. Hackett were with him.

A pair of panties fell from his pocket onto the exclusive floor of the exclusive Plaza.

"A girl's panties!" shrieked Eydie. "They belong to my doctor," spluttered Buddy. "Your DOCTOR!" Steve Lawrence said. "Yeah, he's got a little girl," Buddy said, turning to his wife, he cried, "Sherry, you explain it."

"ME!" His wife had decided to rib him. "Where," she screamed, "DID they come from?"

LATER, SHE confirmed her husband's story . . . that's one way Buddy's having fun while making his show a success, though the critics rapped it.

Buddy, in his popular after-the-show monologue, no longer blasts the critics.

"Yuh see, I wrote letters to all the critics," Buddy explained. "I gave 'em absolute. I forgave 'em."

"You forgave them for they know not what they do?" I asked.

"Dat's right," grinned Buddy. "Duh critics don't know what the hell they're doin'!"

Yes, There Are Fish

This ardent ice fisherman at the Arcadia, Wis., Sportsmen's contest on Third Lake near Trempealeau Sunday, didn't get a bite for a long period so he decided to take a peek and see. By covering his head and looking through a hole cut in the ice, he could observe the movement of dormant fish below. They were there but were apparently too lazy to grab a minnow.

From a northern fisherman's viewpoint, the event was a success. Good-sized northerns were taken on big minnows, suckers off tipups. There were more tip-ups on the ice than usual at such contests. Third and Round Lakes at Trempealeau are normally good northern lakes in early winter.

When it is near the zero mark or well below as during the past week, tip-up fishing is more comfortable. One can park his car nearby, keep the engine running to provide heat, and sit back in comfort and wait for the flag to rise or dip, depending on the rig. The northern limit in the river zone is five a day.

Whitewater Refuge
Biannual reports are now being presented to legislative committees by various Conservation Department units. Occasionally, one of these reports is so flattering that the publicity man for the game and fish division reviews it, and mails it to all the newspapers in Minnesota.

For release today is the following summary of the past two years activities on the Whitewater Refuge. George Meyer, its superintendent, has apparently done a very satisfactory job.

"The 23,000 acre Whitewater Wildlife Management area in Southeastern Minnesota provided recreation for several thousand hunters, trout fishermen, trappers and others during the past two years.

"Game manager, George Meyer, said that during the 24-month period a total of nearly 10,000 game and fur animals were taken by hunters and trappers. Wildlife species taken included ducks, raccoon, squirrels, grouse, beaver and muskrat.

"Gross receipts from crop leases, timber sales, gravel and right of way amounted to $39,500. Wildlife food plots were planted on 80 tracts under terms of agricultural share-crop leases whereby farmers do the planting and harvesting and divide the crop with the state.

"Wildlife habitat improvement and management accomplishments included the planting of 30,000 trees, brushing and grading of access roads, maintenance of dikes and pools and planting of food plots.

"Development included hauling over 5,000 yards of fill on to the dikes inclosing water-fowl pools; brushing out more than 24 miles of road and removing nearly 2,000 rods of old fencing.

"Area work crews salvaged 7,000 feet of valuable black walnut logs and 12 timber sales were completed as part of the forest-game management program. Eight miles of boundary were posted. Four detention dams were built and four ditches closed during the period to provide additional marsh habitat for waterfowl.

"Another project Meyer is working on is an effort to establish flocks of wild turkeys in the area. During the past two years, 13 wild trapped turkeys from the states of Nebraska and Arkansas were released.

"The Whitewater Valley is one of the most scenic areas in Minnesota, featured by sheer bluffs crowned with thick stands of cedar and hardwood. Through the valleys flow many clear streams containing sizeable populations of trout."

Tighter Litter Laws
Towa and Missouri legislatures are about to enact new litter laws for the rivers in their states, including boundary waters, laws similar to those now in force in Wisconsin, said Donald Gray, Upper Mississippi River Wild Life Refuge manager, on his return from the winter meeting of the Upper Mississippi River Conservation Committee at Des Moines. Thus, the heat on dumping rubbish into the river goes southward. The conservation committee is composed of representatives of the states along the upper river and federal agencies dealing with river matters.

Pollution conditions have improved, it was reported. No mass oil slick, like that in the Red Wing area two years ago, was recorded. Closer checks are effective on navigation boats, the army engineers reported.

Progress has been made in the control of recreation on the river through a zoning system and closer supervision on the part of the states, Gray stated. It will be recalled that a license system became effective on the refuge last summer.

Part of Alley At Merchants Bank Vacated

An 82-foot portion of a downtown alley was ordered vacated by the City Council Monday night after neighboring landowners resolved a problem of adjoining approaches.

The alley is the east-west roadway at the rear of Merchants National Bank, opening on Lafayette Street. The bank requested the vacation to build three drive-in teller windows and provide access and egress.

Misgivings were voiced at the public hearing by representatives of the Winona National and Savings Bank, which owns the Jones & Kroeger building east of and adjoining the Merchants bank building. Unloading facilities at the rear might be blocked off, they suggested, as a result of the proposed vacation.

The council's vacation order was voted later when parties announced they had determined no adverse effects would arise from the proposed abandonment. G.M. Grabow, Merchants bank president, said the 82-foot segment taken out of service would not obstruct the Jones and Kroeger loading dock.

In exchange, the Merchants bank gave a permanent easement for a north-south alley entering the block from 2nd Street. It lies parallel to the west wall of the Northern Field Seed Co.

Ethrick Mutual Pays $171,572 In '64 Losses

ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — Ethrick Mutual Fire Insurance Co., largest commercial insurance company in Trempealeau County and second largest mutual fire insurance company in Wisconsin, held its 87th annual meeting here Saturday.

The report showed that insurance written in 1964 in Jackson, Buffalo, Trempealeau and Eau Claire counties amounted to $32,498,424. Re-insurance in force amounted to $12,712,737. Policies totaled 2,126, according to Ed F. Erickson, treasurer.

Losses paid out totaled $171,572. The financial statement showed that dwelling losses during the past year cost the company $23,374.31, and that barns destroyed or damaged cost $65,784.08. Horses killed during the past year cost $130, and cattle killed or injured cost $30,660.55.

The company conducted its business in 1964 at a total cost of $242,930.29, which includes salaries and equipment. According to K. A. Underheim, secretary, income during 1963 and 1964 reached an all-time high, but losses and expenses also reached an all-time high.

Officers are: William G. Henderson, president; Irwin Hogden, vice president; Underheim, and Mrs. Thomas Stellius, assistant secretary. Ed F. Erickson is treasurer.

Other directors are Lloyd Quammen and Stanley Herreid, Joseph Rindahl and Arthur Thompson are auditors, and Clayton Casey is building custodian.

Georgia Law Ruled Valid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled valid today a Georgia law requiring countywide election of state senators whose districts are composed of parts of counties.

The decision was given on an appeal by Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook of Georgia from a ruling by a three-judge U.S. District Court in Atlanta. The District Court had said the election requirement was unconstitutional because it discriminated between voters of single-senator and multidistrict counties.

Justice William J. Brennan delivered the 5-4 decision. Justice William O. Douglas wrote a brief dissenting opinion.

Red Cross Program Given New Names; Services Unchanged

Changes in terminology — but not in services — were announced at the meeting of the board of directors of the Winona County Red Cross Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Dorn, chapter executive secretary, said that the Red Cross home service program would now be called Red Cross service to military families (SMF).

In addition, she said, the office of educational relations would now be called Red Cross Youth.

Services included under SMF, she emphasized, would remain the same as under the home service title. Included are such things as aid to servicemen and veterans and their families. Others will continue to be aided when necessary, as in the past, she said.

Red Cross Youth, of which Mrs. Richard Callender is the local chairman, will continue to include Junior Red Cross for elementary pupils, High School Red Cross and College Red Cross.

Library Offers New Films; One on Seashore

A new group of films, now available at the Winona Public Library, may be taken by borrowers through Feb. 25.

Included is the Venice Film Festival prize winner "Between the Tides," which uses natural sounds and a musical score to capture the world of seashore life.

ALSO INCLUDED are "A Day in the Night of Jonathan Mole," a Canadian film dealing with causes and effects of bigotry, and "Language of Faces," a symbolic use of provocative questions and assertions, self-criticism by American citizens and a useful discussion starter.

"The Living Stone," which is concerned with Eskimo sculptors and how their lives are reflected in their work, and "What is Modern Art?" are two color films with similar subjects. The latter was photographed at New York City's Museum of Modern Art.

Travel films in the group deal with the Himalaya Mountains, France, Eskimo life in Alaska, Mexico, Ontario and Newfoundland. Another is concerned with "Quebec Handicrafts," and still another, with the St. Lawrence Seaway, while a National Film Board of Canada production covers an Indian festival in British Columbia.

"POLAND and the Soviet Power," an Encyclopedia Britannica film, explores the relationship of the two countries in an attempt to understand the exact status of the satellite that may not be precisely that.

The importance of marshes from conservation and economic standpoints is covered in a University of Minnesota film, "Marsh Waters — Waste or Wealth."

The group also includes "Andy and the Lion," an iconographic presentation of a children's book, and "Puss in Boots," in which the Grimm fairy tale is enacted by the Salzburg marionettes.

Borrowers must supply a clean projector and an experienced operator. Films are lent for 24-hour periods.

More information of the program is available at the library.

Blood Collection Next Week

By GEORGE McCORMICK
Daily News Staff Writer

Often, it is difficult to estimate a thing's value unless a price tag is attached to it. That seems to be true of blood. Most of us here, where the Red Cross blood program has long been in existence, take for granted that we will be given a pint of blood when we need it.

We might even complain a bit about having to pay costs of administering the blood.

MANY WINONA County residents, however, learn to appreciate the Red Cross program when they go to hospitals in other cities according to Everett Edstrom, recruitment chairman for the blood drive here.

There, a price tag is attached. For example, a patient in a

Rochester hospital is charged $25 for each pint of blood he receives, plus the administration fee, he noted.

The Winona County patient, however, is fortunate. The $25-a-pint charge is deducted from the bill as soon as the hospital gets word from the Red Cross that its chapter here has replaced the blood used by the county resident.

When a program has just put $25, or $50 or $75 — or $100 or more — back into your pocket, it becomes easier to appreciate its value, Edstrom pointed out.

THE TROUBLE is that appreciation of the program's value is important if the program is to continue. The Red Cross blood program, it must be realized, depends upon the public.

The public's opportunity to respond will come next week. The Red Cross blood drive will be in operation at the chapter headquarters, 276 W. 5th St., Monday through Friday. Hours Monday through Thursday are noon until 6 p.m. On Friday, the drive will run from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Unless a sufficient number of persons donate their blood to the Red Cross during blood drives, the program will have to end.

In recent years, fortunately, Winona County has done well in its blood drives. Quotas have been exceeded in the last few drives, in fact, the recruitment chairman said.

BLOOD HELPS — every day — in many ways. A jaundiced newborn baby can be given a complete new blood supply. A mother can get blood to replace that lost in childbirth.

Victims of accidents are given injections of serum albumin, made from blood, to fight shock or injuries. Blood is given to persons who are severely burned, who are anemic or who are undergoing surgery.

An elderly woman in need of a delicate operation can get as many units of blood as she needs to build her strength. She might have died for lack of blood 20 years ago.

No blood collected in a drive is wasted. As soon as a pint of blood is collected, its group and type are labeled, then stored until needed. Fresh blood will keep up to three weeks if it is refrigerated. An exception is blood that is to be used in open heart surgery. It must be used within 24 to 48 hours after it is collected.

ANY BLOOD NOT used within three days is used for blood derivatives, such as serum albumin, gamma globulin (which prevents and modifies measles and hepatitis), fibrinogen (for hemorrhaging in childbirth), vaccinia immune globulin (for complications from vaccination) and fresh frozen plasma (which controls bleeding in hemophilia).

Congress Gives Defense Program Warm Reception

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given President Johnson's $49-billion defense program a generally warm reception.

Some Democrats and Republicans, however, expressed misgivings on the lack of plans for new manned bombers.

Shortly after the message went to Congress Monday, the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee announced plans to invite Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to joint hearings, probably early in February, to present details not given in the message.

The huge program would cost $300 million less than the Pentagon's estimated $49.3 billion spending in the fiscal year ending June 30 and $2.3 billion less than last year.

The President attributed this to completion of many needed changes and increases in the military force structure, and cost-reduction programs which are starting to bear fruit.

The United States, he said, is "stronger militarily than at any other time in its peacetime history."

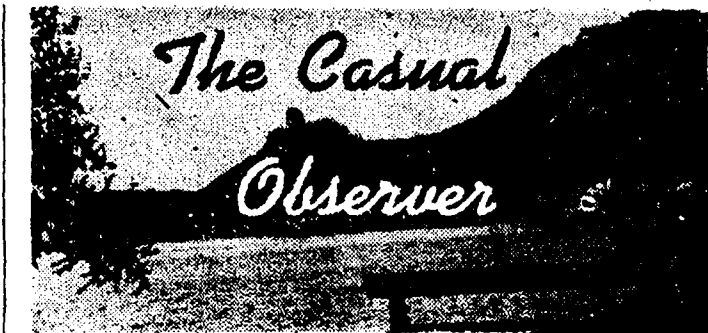

"Today we can walk the road of peace because we have the strength we need," the President said.

Johnson outlined three major new weapon systems designed to beef up this armed might.

— The Poseidon, a new missile system with twice the power of the Polaris A3, whose nuclear warhead can deliver a blast equal to 800,000 tons of TNT on a target nearly 29,000 miles away.

— A series of what Johnson called "remarkable new payload; for strategic missiles."

— A new short-range attack

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

HERE at St. Anne Hospice I am working hard twice a day on physical therapy so that I may again regain the use of my paralyzed left leg and arm and hopefully get back to leading a fairly normal life at home. In stroke cases involving both arm and leg, the limb farthest away from the brain (namely the leg) responds first.

For half an hour each morning and afternoon I work out in St. Anne's physical therapy room walking with a stout four-pronged cane, then a smaller four-legged cane, then an ordinary heavy cane. A metal shoe-brace is being made for me to keep my foot from dragging. Then comes practice in balancing (for all trunk muscles on the left side are affected) and exercise for various leg muscles. Increasing weights of sandbags are lifted on my foot. When I have kidded Sister Don Bosco, the fine therapist, about how she has to have me ready for the Inaugural Ball on Jan. 20 (wouldn't you know this of all years was the time I received this coveted invitation!) she tells me "Whoa, hold your horses and get a raincheck."

Meanwhile, though the walking is progressing it is still quite a problem to live one-handed. Handling a newspaper is like wrestling with a fighting octopus. However, at the hospital a neighboring patient, Margaret Wood, solved that problem rather well by simply slicing the entire paper up the center and peeling off sheet after sheet to read. It works fine.

At the hospital I got so I could butter a piece of bread with a cold hard pat of butter. With a knife I simply held the butter pat against the pot of hot coffee or tea and when it began to melt and run I smushed it over the flat slice of bread. But since I eat in the dining room at St.

Anne I mind my manners and let one of my table companions butter my bread and cut refractory meat.

A frustrating experience in one-handed living is to learn to button a button. Though one carefully holds the button in place and tries to lasso it with a buttonhole there is many a slip and sometimes some cussing. I haven't attempted to tie a one-handed bow yet, but I understand one can pick up that accomplishment as well as learning to type one-handed. An almost impossible feat is to tear a stamp out of a stampbook — try it one-handed. Also it's quite a feat to wrestle a folded sheet of notepaper into an envelope with one hand.

St. Anne Hospice is forever whipping up fun and entertainment for its guests' and patients' enjoyment. Last Sunday afternoon the Mrs. Jaycees came out in force and staged an Epiphany Party that had everything from the Three Kings bearing gifts (for the entire audience) to barber shop quartets and a college chapel choir. The audience ranged from eight-year-olds to very old patients in wheelchairs.

Among the more unique features were two that delighted me — the Mister Mississippi Barbershoppers singing a hymn, and the Junior Sisters Chorus of young nuns swinging from a beautiful Bach choral into some snappy barber-shop quartette numbers. Much enjoyed were the gifted Fred Hoyer family's ensemble with jazzy piano, bass fiddle and voice, also the PTA School Belles singing and having fun doing it. After the program all guests were served eggnog and luscious cookies made by the Mrs. Jaycees. It was quite a party.

missile — SRAM — which could be fired from B52s or other bombers.

The President said he would request more than $300 million to continue a program of extending the life and improving the effectiveness of B52 bombers. He announced plans to eliminate two squadrons of early model B52s which he termed the "least effective" of the eight generations of these jet intercontinental bomber planes.

In the field of conventional war preparedness, Johnson said he planned to start development of the C5A cargo transport, capable of carrying 750 men at a time. He also announced plans for large-scale procurement of both the controversial F111, formerly known as the TFX, as a standard fighter, and a new-type Navy attack aircraft.

He said construction of four nuclear-powered attack submarines and 10 destroyers also would start under the new program.

John Roussetot said Monday the $3.2 million collected came almost entirely from membership dues and contributions.

Of course, a gas clothes dryer does more than take care of the weather problems. It has quite a few other things to its credit, too. It's gentle. Makes towels fluffier, sheets softer. It's quick. Quick enough to keep up with your automatic washer so things don't get stacked up. It's dependable. It works longer with less trouble. It also works harder for less money. Costs you much less in the long run. See your gas company or appliance dealer. Live modern for less... with gas.

McCarthy Proposes Succession Stopgap

AN INTERESTING stopgap approach to the matter of presidential succession, pending adoption of a constitutional amendment, has been proposed by Minnesota's senior senator, Eugene McCarthy. He has introduced a bill to create the new office of deputy president.

Under his plan, this office would be filled — on the President's nomination, and with the approval of the Senate — only when the office of vice president became vacant. The deputy president would then be next in line of succession.

It is pertinent to think of what would have happened, for example, had this proposal been in effect at the time of the Kennedy assassination. When Mr. Johnson vacated the vice presidency to become president, he would shortly have nominated his choice for deputy president. That office would then have been filled, upon Senate ratification of his choice. This would have had the practical result that during the ensuing year the man next in line for the presidency would have been a leader chosen particularly with this in mind, rather than an aging congressional chieftain highly placed by seniority rather than ability.

"STOPGAP" is a key word to be considered when evaluating the McCarthy bill. It is not a substitute for the constitutional amendment proposed by Senator Bayh, but a means of dealing with the problem during the drawn-out procedure of getting such an amendment passed and ratified. As such it appeals to common sense.

There is one point about which a question should be raised. The bill now provides merely for Senate approval of the president's nomination to fill the office of deputy president. Perhaps ratification by both houses of Congress would be preferable. In any case, the McCarthy plan should receive thorough consideration as a practicable way to handle this matter while constitutional change is in the works.

Congressional Record Source of Wonder

THE APPENDIX of the Congressional record is a constant source of wonder. If not of delight. During a session of Congress it becomes the repository of a strange mishmash of the significant, the mediocre and the downright trivial — all printed at the taxpayers' expense, though not necessarily to their edification.

This springs from the fact that there is virtually no limit on what a member of Congress may cause to be printed in the Appendix as an "extension of remarks." If he wants to include the speech of the salutatorian at Podunk High School's graduation exercises, or Grandma Whortleberry's recipe for Johnny cake, or the full agenda of a program honoring Local 169 of the Pickle Briners' union, or a constituent's essay about bird watching on the shores of Lake Beanpod, in they go.

THE APPENDIX is off to the races in good form again this year. The Record for the convening day, though slim, regaled its readers with one member's tribute to "the former principal of the first school which I attended." It also devoted more than a column to another congressman's announcement of a dinner to be given honoring candidates for appointment to the military academies from his district, complete with names of all the candidates and their prospective interviewers.

By the fourth day of the session, a father Appendix was including such items (put in by no less a personage than the House speaker) as the detailed program of a luncheon and ceremony noting the 101st anniversary of the Gettysburg Address. Another tidbit was a Texas constituent's essay entitled "Autumn in Full Glory" and starting off, "Ever since I was a boy, I have wanted to write a discourse on autumn."

FINALLY HE DID, and the Congressional Record printed it. Isn't that nice?

Our optimistic friend keeps inquiring brightly, "If winter come, can spring be far behind?" Well, maybe not, but right now it sure seems far.

There's talk of 200-mile-an-hour mass transport between cities. The hot rodders welcome this as a challenge for drag racing on parallel highways.

"Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low, and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth; and all flesh shall see the salvation of God." Luke 3:5.

Tourism Booms In the Bahamas

By MARQUIS CHILDS

HARBOUR ISLAND, The Bahamas — A part of America's affluence is spilling over into these beautiful islands so close to the American mainland. An investment of several hundred million dollars in tourism and industry is going into Grand Bahama alone.

The Bahamas legislature has authorized gambling at the big Lucaya development on that island. Only 70 miles from Florida it will include what is claimed to be the largest duty-free port in this hemisphere. These are two powerful lures for trippers seeking a quick bargain and a go at the roulette wheel. For the Eastern seaboard it is a lot closer than Las Vegas.

ONE OBVIOUS reason for a 67 percent increase here in tourists in less than three years is Cuba. A part of the tourist trade that once meant so much for Cuba's economy is now headed this way. Many Americans escaping from the overcrowded shores of the mainland are finding refuge in the still-half-empty out islands with their unspoiled beauty.

Cuba can serve as an object lesson for the Bahamas. The spillover of American affluence helped prepare the way for Castro. First came the dictatorship of Batista who could be bought by powerful interests wanting their own way in investment and in every form of license for the adventurous tourist. In the corrupt Batista dictatorship the seeds were sown for Castro's savage dictatorship.

Actually, there is little room for comparison between the long corruption of Cuba and the stolid and unimaginative colonialism of the British prevailing here through an interlude of drowsy centuries. The lesson is rather for America and America's overflowing affluence.

IN HIS STATE of the Union message President Johnson said that America must not be an oasis of well-being in a desert of dire need. This is a noble ideal. But anyone who has traveled in the Far East, as this reporter recently has, knows that the United States is not so much an oasis as a plateau.

Most of the rest of humanity, the little peninsula of Europe alone excepted, exists on a level far below that plateau. Even the American poor live on a scale that for Asia and Africa would be affluence beyond the farthest reach of hope.

The plateau, and this is the heart of the matter, cannot last survive in splendid isolation. This is true if only because of a threat to the President referred to in a passing and timid reference. The population explosion is an even more menacing time bomb than the spread of nuclear weapons. The experts who should know talk about five or six years as the grace period before hunger and the diseases of hunger bring down any semblance of order and progress.

What to do about it, given the enormous disparity between the few on the plateau and the many in the gulf below, is the greatest single dilemma of the Johnson years. No one has yet found an adequate answer. Foreign aid is surely no more than a palliative.

TO BELIEVE that the line can be held in Viet Nam or anywhere else with American bombs and American guns is to live in a dream of the past. This is the dream of the pukka sahib, the British raj. It is the dream of a simpler era of order-keeping before the transistor radio and the nuclear bomb. The grim truth is that bombs in this era are not the equivalent of the British gunboat and the show of force that promptly quieted the natives.

On the sunny, almost-empty shore with the wide sweep of ocean where this is written, it is hard to believe that any approximation of the American dilemma exists in the Bahamas. But a black population with a high annual net gain in numbers has long subsisted here. At the top they are beginning to come into their own as the old colonialism is shorn away.

THE SPILLOVER of American affluence means many new jobs. But it also means a more evident contrast between the visitors from the plateau and those who live on another level. That contrast can no longer be taken for granted as a permanent fact of life. The fuse in the time bomb is the revolution of rising expectations that will not be denied.

Sharpening the dilemma of the vast mass of have-nots at the present moment is the state of the commodity market. The crops they raise — coffee and sugar are prize examples — are down, while the manufactured goods they must buy are up. This feeds a sense of injustice that, as hewers of wood and drawers of water, their bondage has no end.

Churchill Was 'Unflinching'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I am ready to meet my maker," Winston Churchill said. "Whether my Maker is prepared for the ordeal of meeting me is another matter."

That was on his 75th birthday, 15 years ago. It was a clear warning he intended to carry into eternally the same unflinching attitude he had on earth toward man and beast.

Unflinching was one of his favorite words.

It meant a lot to him all his life, and as it turned out, to the Western world and all mankind. For Churchill, a political failure at 65, by 70 had become one of the greatest figures in history.

How much he had come to mean was expressed as he neared his 90th birthday by C. P. Snow, the British scientist and novelist.

"We all hope he never dies. I think we have a superstitious feeling that, if he ever does go, something goes with him that Britain will not see again."

He was saucy all his life, from his youngest to his oldest day, always ready with advice and criticism, telling his contemporaries how to run their business, whether he was in the army or the government.

He knew how unpopular it made him, but this never stopped him.

Nobody ever summed up better the lifetime attitude of most people toward him — until he took command of the war against Hitler in 1940 — than Churchill himself, writing on his life in the British army when he was 23.

He said the army brass in India, in Egypt and in Britain began to take this attitude: "Who the devil is this fellow?"

But his life was built upon the three foundation stones of courage, romance and language.

Courage he had with him always, whether it was wandering around the Uganda lion country with a net, looking for butterflies in his 30s, wanting to take part in the Normandy invasion when he was almost 70, until the king stopped him because he was prime minister, or defying Hitler when all Europe was gone and England was alone.

He was a romantic from childhood to old age, dreaming of adventure but always of taking command. In many ways he was out of date most of his life because he dreamed of glorious tests while the world was undergoing change he sometimes seemed not to understand.

The British people themselves felt this way about him for, while they trusted him with their lives and the future of England in time of war, once it was over they threw him out to make way for the social changes Britain needed but which he himself admitted later he hadn't thought about.

And yet just because he was a romantic, as the war deepened and Britain edged toward despair, with him in command the impossible became usual, hope became a natural condition, and the British people suddenly felt that all the meaning of British history had been entrusted to them to preserve.

To the British he had suddenly become a sun shining in a dark and leaky cellar.

Although they threw him out in 1945, after Germany fell, and the British people let the Laborites run the country six years, they called Churchill back for another four in 1951.

He was getting old. He suffered two strokes. Finally in 1955 his own Cabinet suggested he resign. After that for him, physically, the road was all down although even then he went on writing his history of World War II until he finished it.

Words he used to express his feelings about Harry Hopkins back in the 1940s became a description of himself in the 1960s. Churchill and Hopkins, special emissary of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, had become friends.

But the American, in failing health, already was showing signs of the approach of a death which caught up with him in 1964.

In sorrow Churchill said: "A crumbling lighthouse from which shone the beams that led great ships to harbor."

Winonans Should Favor Home Rule Charter
To the Editor:

Winonans should favor a home rule charter because: 1. Home rule would greatly reduce legislative interference in city affairs. Such interference is especially troublesome when rural areas are overrepresented and urban areas are underrepresented in the legislature.

2. Home rule relieves the state legislature of the time consuming burden of special legislation for individual cities. At the same time, the state legislature can devote much more time to the problems dealing with the state.

3. Home rule also permits citizens to have a greater voice in determination of local governmental policies and thus encouraging more citizens to become interested in local affairs.

Deplores Obscene, Degrading Books
To the Editor:

A few days ago, I received in the mail, a long envelope marked "Personal." It was from a publishing company in Culver City, Calif. and contained advertisements for obscene books.

There were about a dozen hardcover books listed, each with a brief resume of its contents. The copy stated that they contained detailed pornographic illustrations, and were completely unabridged and uncensored. The descriptions alone were enough to demoralize impressionable minds.

Before the holidays, my daughter-in-law failed to designate her choice of books from a book club. Instead the club sent her their own selection. Since she hadn't found time to read it herself, she loaned it to a friend. Imagine her embarrassment when the book was returned with the statement that it was the most filthy book the friend had ever read including "Peyton Place."

It has become almost impossible to read anything written in the past few years that doesn't have at least one scene or whole chapter devoted to detailed descriptions of illicit love(?) affairs; even though it has nothing at all to do with the plot, and so often is obviously tacked in merely to sell the story.

Not long ago an author was being interviewed on television. He stated that an unknown writer cannot get anything published these days unless it contains a certain amount of filth. Then, after he becomes established, he can dare to write something decent.

I sent the advertisement to the sheriff, hoping that there is a law against advertising obscene material through the mails. My daughter-in-law sent her book back with a note telling them that she didn't want and wouldn't pay for that type of book.

If publishing companies can't sell their degrading books, they will soon quit printing them.

Individual Freedom Not Faring Too Well
To the Editor:

The tide of American democracy continues to falter and to retreat all over the face of the globe; and it is a matter of fact that with the exception of Turkey and Greece freedom has not scored one single victory over the communist tyranny since the close of the second world war. Not only is America losing the battle against communism's advance, but in the course of this struggle more and more nations, including allies like Pakistan, are turning away from U. S. leadership in favor of that presented by Soviet Russia and Red China.

We cannot in all fairness place the total blame for the many and varied failures and outright fiascos of our foreign policy (or is it a lack of one?) on either the Democratic or the Republican parties. Mainland China, Cuba, Laos, and Eastern Europe were lost to communism on account of who occupied the White House or which party controlled the Congress; rather at the slippery hands of those left of center who have chartered the course of our Republic over the past quarter of a century.

Modern liberals declare: "Let Us Continue . . ."; well, because they wish to continue their apparent blundership the responsible conservative minority knows where to lay the devious credit for today's sad state of affairs.

Individual freedom at home has not fared too well, either, under the administration of modern liberalism. And with the opening of the new Congress a shocking plan for a brand new power grab has been revealed: the repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act which gives to the states the right to adopt or to reject "Right to Work" legislation. The issue is not the merit or the demerit of "right to work" but who has the authority to decide the labor policies of the individual states, the people or the federal government.

Big labor has always been concerned over the possible enactment of a national "right to work" law. They claim, and rightfully so, that such a measure would be an encroachment upon the rights delegated to the states by the tenth amendment to the Constitution. Now they turn around and propose a national "non-right to work" law stamping upon the very same rights! What master hypocrites.

The citizens of 20 states, among them Texas, have by petition and in popular referendum adopted "right to work" laws. Business and labor did not make the decisions; it was the people. But along comes the so-called liberal who desires to take the basic freedom of choice away from the people and their responsibilities as citizens.

I ask: What right does the federal government have to dictate to the individual states what labor policies they should or should not follow? Could it be that the "few" seek even greater powers over the people and the 50 partner states? Perhaps the Democratic party by pushing extended compulsory unionization hopes to gain larger campaign contributions taken out of the pockets of the workers for use next year and in 1968.

Time is rapidly running out on those principles most Americans still hold to be moral and true. Yet, we have the ballot, the petition, the spoken and the written word to use as weapons against those who seek to wreck our way of life in order to impose their way. Let us defeat those who seek power for the sake of power; and those who seek greed for the purpose of securing control over the individual.

Give People Opportunity To Vote on Issues
To the Editor:

The people of Winona are going to lose again, lose the freedom of living in one's own home as he wishes. You are going to be ordered to keep your water at a certain degree, that you must have this, or that in your home, and the greatest loss will be entrance into your home without a search warrant, one of the principals this country was founded on.

If you haven't been following this urban renewal and housing code, you had better start, because each and every one of you will pay for, and be effected by it. This isn't the other fellow's problem, it is yours.

I wonder how many of the smaller businesses located downtown will be forced out of business or will be able to pay the higher rents on a new location? I am sure that they must realize that rents will be increased.

The federal dollar can be very expensive in the long run, much higher than your local dollar, with a volunteered local remodeling program.

It will be one way of getting some of your local smaller manufacturing companies to relocate out of town, as there are several of them located in the area scheduled for renewal.

I wonder what will happen to the two to 500 low income and reneager pensioned folks that are living in that area?

Winona don't be fooled by the explanations of the regulations that you have been getting, there are a lot of maybe, if, and could be and perhaps in them so far, and once the laws are on the books, they will be enforced like all the rest of them are or there would be no need for them.

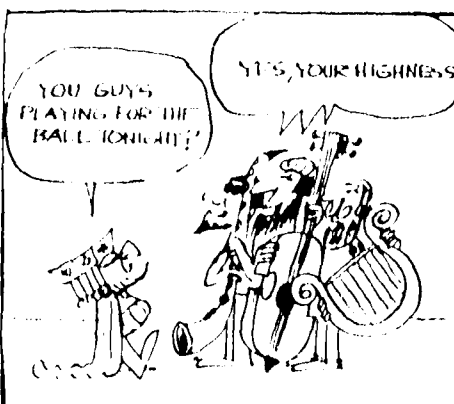

I suggest to the City Council that the people of Winona be given an opportunity to vote on the following important subjects. It will also be good practice on the new voting machines at no extra expense.

1. Yes or no vote on urban renewal.
2. Yes or no vote on school bond.
3. Yes or no vote on change of city charter.

Mexican Interns Seek Higher Pay

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A group of interns seeking higher pay from the government is threatening a nationwide doctors' strike in Mexico.

The Mexican Association of Resident and Intern Physicians says 5,000 of its members have been on strike since last Wednesday in 157 hospitals. They are employed mainly by the government.

The interns want a minimum $96 a month for the lowest paid student and an increase from $120 to $240 for third-year graduate resident doctors. The association says the present minimum salary is $20 a month.

KELLOGG PATIENT — Mrs. Frank Schouweier was admitted to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Wabasha.

BILL MERRILL'S
Something to Live By

I wonder whatever happened to that good old philosophy that taught, "Honesty is the best policy." The thought puts me in mind of a story out of my past.

A group of high school young people had ridden a school bus better than a hundred miles from home to attend a ball game between their school team and that of the community where they were guests. In the course of events, the young folks flocked into a restaurant for refreshments. Two couples had sat together and ordered the same things. When the bills came, they of course should have been identical. But, at the cash register, an error was made and one boy received quite a bit of change back. It took him a short time to realize what had happened. When the young people got outside the store, the first young fellow checked with his buddy and confirmed the fact that, while they had both purchased the same thing, the cashier had shorted himself quite a bit and the boy was the gainer.

"I'll go back and pay him the difference," he said. "No, no," replied the other. "Keep it. You're just that much ahead." Without a second thought, the boy with the extra change returned to square the bill.

Nothing more was said that night about it. Matter of fact, to the best of my knowledge, nothing else was said among the young people at all. That is, nothing was said until the school paper came out announcing the lad's name, and then stated that his motto was, "Honesty is the best policy." It gave an account of what happened and exhorted the school of several hundred people to follow his example. It was a complete surprise to him and convinced him that being right was never wrong, and that one never knows who is looking. He not only had a good conscience, but the respect of his society, as well, and these were two things that extra change couldn't buy.

CHEATING seems to be an ever-growing plague of society. It is the consensus of opinion that a large percentage of the youngsters in school these days are not above cheating; that business people, in many cases, will shade the truth, or go back on their word to get personal gain. And, while there are many honest young folks and business people, the cancer of dishonesty is still a malignant tumor of our day. And, like any ailing part, it needs to be corrected at the source.

The home — you see, too many homes condone, even teach cheating. The phone rings and Dad says, "Tell them I'm not home." That's a lie. "My mother isn't home." That's a lie, and the kids are learning, learning that under certain conditions it's all right to lie — if it's to your own advantage.

"A GOOD name is rather to be chosen than great riches," but all too few learn the worth of that statement. But those who do, believe also that "Honesty is the best policy." Teach it in the homes and the results will be rewarding.

In a true sense, this is "Something to Live By" and in that "Honesty is the best policy" it's a good bet to be honest.

DEAR ABBY:

Better Forget About the Ham

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I work for a fairly large company. Every year each employee is supposed to get an eight-pound ham. Last year my ham looked kind of small for eight pounds, but I didn't say anything about it. This year my ham also looked small, so I took it home and weighed it and it was only six pounds, four ounces. I took it back to the department head and told him if the company bragged that they gave their employees eight-pound hams, the hams should weigh eight pounds. He became very angry with me and told me I ought to be ashamed of myself, and I should have taken the ham and kept quiet. Do you think I did the wrong thing? Or was the department head in the wrong? What do I do now?

GYPPED

ABBY

DEAR GYPPED: If the ham had been labeled "EIGHT POUNDS" by the supplier, then the company was gypped and the department head should have used his and thanked you for revealing it. But if the company "bragged" that they gave eight-pound hams, and didn't, then the deal was something less than kosher. If I were you, I'd forget it.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a man who has a fantastic imagination? We are in our seventies and have known him all our lives. He will sit and tell folks all about his "experiences" in the war, and he has never been in the service. He also tells people that he helped bring elk to our state, and the elk were here before us.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: If he is only imagining these things, pity him. It is a sickness of the mind. If he is lying, pity him. That is a sickness of the soul.

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter signed "TROUBLE AT HOME" from the 19-year-old girl who was dating a 27-year-old man who said he was separated from his wife. That letter really hit home here. When I was 19 I met a man of 25. We dated a year before I found out he was married and had two children. He said he was trying to get a divorce because he and his wife couldn't get along. I continued dating him against my own conscience and my parents' wishes. I spent many sleepless nights wondering how much longer I would have to wait. He kept telling me it wouldn't be much longer. Well, I am 23 years old and six months' pregnant, and still no divorce. I haven't even seen him in three months. Oh, he calls me once a month to see how I am. Before this happened he couldn't get through a day without calling me. Also, he now has three children instead of two. So, Miss Trouble At Home, take it from someone who is in real trouble — Listen to Abby, and wait until AFTER the divorce to see him again. And then, don't rush into anything. It could save you a lot of heartache.

SHATTERED DREAMS

DEAR ABBY: Tell "HATES BASEMENTS" that I, for one, prefer to entertain my guests in my "basement" (we call it our "rec" room) because I am tired of having guests who, after a couple of drinks, will thoughtlessly set a high-ball glass down on my baby grand piano. Or place a lit cigarette on the edge of a table (or ashtray) and go off and forget about it while the cigarette rolls off onto the rug (or table) leaving a nice rectangular burn mark. At every party I have ever had, at least one drink was either spilled or accidentally kicked over. And if it happens in the rec room, it's easier on my nerves.

Congressional Reserve Units Ordered Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three blue-ribbon congressional Reserve units were abolished by the Pentagon Monday. Some 72 congressmen and several thousand top government officials were transferred from the ready to the standby Reserve.

The move was in accord with a recent directive by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to shift into the standby Reserve those officials, judges and congressmen who would not be available for military service in mobilization because of the importance of their civilian posts.

Of the 150,000 federal personnel in the ready Reserve, it is estimated that about 5,000 fall under McNamara's order.

City Primary
Judges to Get
$15 for Work

Election judges will receive $15 each for serving at the city primary election Feb. 1, the City Council ruled Monday night.

The motion was adopted over the objection of Ald. James Soltman who said judges would be extremely busy giving advice and instruction in the use of new voting machines. It will be the first time machines are used.

The council also appointed two substitute election judges. They are: Mrs. D. R. Kiral to replace Mrs. Robert Mahle in the 2nd precinct of the 1st Ward; Mrs. Gerald Turner to replace Mrs. Coter Stanton in the 3rd precinct of the 1st Ward.

OTHER council business:

• The council ordered specifications drawn and bids taken for a half-ton pickup and a three-ton truck for the street department.

• Ald. Harold Thiewes, temporary finance committee chairman, moved that the state Public Examiner be asked to audit city books for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1965.

• A proposed ordinance prohibiting parking on the east side of Huff Street, from Sanborn to Howard Street, will be investigated by 2nd Ward Ald. Neil Sawyer and Henry Parks. They will report at the next council meeting.

• A right of way easement agreement with Martin-Marietta Corp. was approved. The council will pay $265 for the rights in connection with flood construction this year. Martin-Marietta owns the Madison Silo Co.

• City officials who attend a University of Minnesota civil defense conference on lower-level government self-sustenance will have expenses paid. The local conference is at Wabasha Wednesday.

• Another 30-day extension of a business close-out permit was granted to Jay-Bee Clothing Co. for a $25 fee. It will be the third such permit.

Overhead Rights
At Parking Lot
To Be Discussed

At the suggestion of the city attorney, the City Council will meet soon to discuss possibilities of leasing overhead building rights at the Center Street parking lot.

George M. Robertson Jr. said Monday that a developer, Asp Construction Co., Moorhead, Minn., is interested in the project. The company wants to build an office building, he said, with 18,000 to 20,000 square feet of floor space. The building would be on slits, with the ground level still used for metered parking, as at present.

Robertson obtained a state attorney general's opinion last year in which he was advised that the city is authorized to undertake such leasing.

WITH A TOMAHAWK
WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Laws around the Sedgewick County courthouse are posted with "Keep Off The Grass" signs in 12 languages.

Although each sign contains an English translation, courthouse gardener Vern Pratt said pedestrians still ignore them. "I think I'll try Indian sign language," he concluded.

Royals Will Stop Here

The Royals move into the Winona State College gymnasium tonight.

In no way affiliated with the one-famous cage team located in Cincinnati, Winona State coach Dr. Robert Campbell will nonetheless have his hands full.

The Royals are from Bethel College in St. Paul, and making their first trip to Winona since Campbell took over the reigns four years ago. Bethel is a member of the Pioneer Conference and currently holds down the No. 1 spot.

Overall, the Royals are 7-4. The Warriors and Royals have met one similar club in River Falls State of Wisconsin. Both have lost to the Falcons.

Going into the 7:30 p.m. encounter, Bethel holds two wins each or Northwestern of Iowa, Sioux Falls College, Wabpeton (N.D.), University of Minnesota-Morris and Northwestern of Minneapolis.

The Royals will have a distinct height advantage over the Warriors. Don Moore, who sports a 23.2 points per game average, is one of the state's tallest collegians at 6-10. He will side against Winona's Dave Rosenau, who is 6-5.

Also starting will be 6-5 George Palke and 6-2 Jerry Moulton at forwards and 6-0 Dave Bjorklund and 5-10 Edgar Peterman at guards.

"They'll be tough," assures Campbell, who saw his charges go down to their ninth loss of the year Saturday 86-77 in overtime to Moorhead. Campbell and the team will be shooting for their fourth win of the year.

Starting for the Warriors will be Rosenau, Tom Stallings, Tim Anderson, Dave Goede and Dave Meisner. Jack Kelly and Gary Petersen will see top-flight reserve action.

How is Campbell going to stop Moore?

"Maybe we'll put Fudd (Goede) on him — and Meisner on top of Goede," jested Campbell.

Bethel will pit its freshman squad against the Warrior fresh in a 5:30 p.m. preliminary game.

Loser to Winner= Hard Work, Desire

By ROLLIE WUSSOW
Daily News Sports Writer

What makes a winner of a loser?

"Hard work, desire and good attitude," says Winona State wrestling coach Bob Gunner of his undefeated wrestling squad, which last year was a perpetual loser with nearly the same personnel.

Gunner's wrestlers are ranked eighth in the nation, according to Amateur Wrestling News, a publication which rates the country's collegiate grappling teams. The rating, along with the potential of this year's squad, are incentives for the Statesmen's return to wrestling prestige. Three and four years ago, the Warriors were at the top of NAIA wrestling polls.

What's the difference between the two teams, this year's and last year's, was the first question asked of Gunner in his Memorial Hall office Monday afternoon.

Before Gunner could kick out a comment, Larry Marchionda, the team's captain and 123-pound performer, piped up. "Desire to win. Our greatest asset is team spirit. We just didn't have much of it last year. This year everybody's got pride and it keeps building up more and more every day."

"There are a lot of aspects to consider," said Gunner, in his fourth year as wrestling coach. "Actually, we improved a lot last year, as you can tell by the tournaments. We're just picking up where we left."

The Warriors currently are 5-0 on the year, thanks to wins over Stout, La Crosse, Stevens Point and River Falls State of Wisconsin and Luther of Iowa.

"A good example of the hard work," suggested Gunner, "is the other night when we beat Luther (20-8). A year ago we got beat 24-7, this time we won. Larry (Marchionda) was beaten by (Leo) Gipp and this year he won 11-5."

"The boys really want to win," said Gunner. "They're willing to pay the price."

"You're forgetting one thing," interrupted Marchionda, who was pecking away at a typewriter, "the coaching's great too."

Gunner, shying away from this remark, cited examples of the "sacrifices" he was speaking of. Marchionda, Leo Simon and Perry King, all starters, work every night at jobs, and still are in shape on the mats.

"By night work, I mean that the hours are from 1-5 and 3-8 a.m., not just after school," said Gunner.

The Warriors are the winningest club on the Winona State winter sports scene. They'll shoot for No. 6 Saturday night at Memorial Hall when NIC foe St. Cloud comes to town.

"We've been getting excellent support from the fans too," says Gunner. "It's been proven in physiology that cheering and yelling has good effect on tired muscles, such as when someone is on the mat. The boys really enjoy the fan support."

Tom Caron, 177 pound performer, leads the team in pins with four. He is second in total points with 20. Heavyweight Larry Wedemeier, brother of Jerry, leads the point list with 21. He also has three pins.

Marchionda, Simon, Steve Baird, Larry Mikkelsen and Dan Scraback all have one pin to their credit.

LET'S TALK SPORTS

WE BEGIN THIS offering on a note of sadness.

Lyle Arns, former Winona State basketball coach, was stricken by a severe heart attack just after Christmas.

The present California resident is still hospitalized and not able to receive visitors or phone calls.

Ed Spencer, Winona High baseball coach, reports that it will be sometime before Arns is well enough to be up and around.

We know that our best wishes for a full recovery are joined by those of many city and area residents.

Arns NOW TO SOMETHING a bit more joyful.

Joe Hutton, the grand old coach in the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, will have his night at St. Mary's College Feb. 20.

It should be quite an experience for the 34-year veteran who ranks seventh in the nation in total victories with 590. It is a well-known fact that Hutton didn't particularly relish the thought of bringing his teams to play in the Terrace Heights gym. The scene of the Feb. 20 St. Mary's-Hamline contest will be the new college gymnasium.

Both colleges are inviting alumni, wives and friends within a radius of 150 miles to be on hand.

The evening will kick off with a one-quarter exhibition game at 7:15 between former all-conference players from Hamline and St. Mary's. Such former greats as Clint Wager, Russ Malloy, Tommy Barrett, Bill Skemp, Ken Jansen, Dave Thies, Cal Calabrese and Pat Costello will be on hand as well as former coaches Tom Skemp and Pat Twomey.

At halftime of the contest, Hutton will be awarded a plaque of appreciation by the St. Mary's Alumni Association.

Following the game a reception in honor of Hutton will be held for Hamline and St. Mary's alumni, wives and friends.

It should be a fitting tribute for a fine gentleman and a great coach.

BOXERS' NAMES HAVE long been a subject of amazement for sports writers. We're a member of the clan.

You always shudder after running a fight story, wondering just how many names might have been misspelled. Not everyone has a name as easy to spell as Liston or Clay, you know — and it seems there just aren't enough Smiths or Clarks to go around.

We slashed a couple of Winona Staters pretty badly in Sunday's Winter Carnival story. Our apologies.

The story should have said: Ed Kohler decisioned Mike McConnell of Rochester, Walt Maeser decisioned Don Bisagna of Rochester and Rich Mancuso decisioned Jim Haufhammer of La Crosse.

FRIDAY WAS A GOOD night for the Swami. He counted on 37 of 42 without handicaps and 31 of 42 with. In addition, Albert Lea-Northfield, Augusta-Blair and West Salem-Onalaska were counted on the nose.

The Old Boy now has hit 282 of 390 to run his total to .723 — 239 of 390 with handicaps for .613.

Barnes Seeks Career In Business World

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm through with football coaching," says former UCLA Head Coach Bill Barnes. "From now on I'll just be a fan."

Barnes, who spent 15 years on UCLA's coaching staff, resigned recently after learning he was not going to be offered a new contract. He announced Monday he's beginning a career in the business world.

UCLA Continues as 'King of the Hill'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The men who vote in The Associated Press' weekly major-league basketball poll had good reason to walk with chests expanded today.

So do the Top Ten teams, including streaking UCLA which has increased its first-place margin.

A week ago, the Bruins held a 58-point lead over Michigan. Wichita was third followed by St. Joseph's, P.; Indiana; Providence; St. John's, N.Y.; Davidson; San Francisco, and Duke.

The selections obviously couldn't be beaten because the ten put together a combined 18-0 record with Providence the only non-victorious team last week. The Friars, the only unbeaten major team, were idle.

As a result, there were only a couple of minor shuffles in the rankings. St. Joseph's moved into third place, switching positions with Wichita. Davidson, a three-time winner last week, advanced to seventh while St. John's dropped back a notch to eighth.

The regional panel of 41 writers and broadcasters gave UCLA a 90-point edge in the latest balloting. The Bruins collected 34 first-place votes and 401 points on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second whipped Southern Illinois 94-81 and St. Louis 75-64. St. Joe's record is 14-1 and Wichita's 12-2.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, and points:

1. UCLA (34)	451
2. Michigan	371
3. St. Joseph's (3)	374
4. Wichita	373
5. Indiana (1)	318
6. Providence (1)	181
7. Davidson	157
8. St. John's	121
9. San Francisco	121
10. Duke	88

Hernandez Upsets Perkins for Title

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Carlos Hernandez, a playboy fighter who had just finished a suspension for a drinking escapade, today held the world junior welterweight title after scoring a narrow, upset victory over defender Eddie Perkins of Chicago.

The tall, 24-year-old Caracas puncher, noted both for his clouting prowess and irregular training habits, surprised the home fans by finishing his first 15-rounder with plenty of bounce.

Hernandez won the 140-pound division championship on a split decision as the two Latin-American judges outvoted Henry

It didn't take Iowa long to catch up with Indiana's hurrying Hoosiers. Now the Hawkeyes are looking forward to a Bear hunt.

Iowa, beaten on its home court a week ago by the fifth-ranked Hoosiers, tracked them back to Bloomington, Ind., Monday night, scored a 74-68 upset and climbed into second place in the Big Ten Conference basketball race.

The surprising Hawks, ninth in last season's Big Ten windup, are right behind Michigan today with a 4-1 league mark. They visit Ann Arbor Feb. 8. Immediately ahead, however, is a Jan. 23 date in Chicago with UCLA's No. 1-ranked Bruins.

Indiana may make a pitch for a six-day week. The Hoosiers have been beaten only twice in 14 season starts—each time on a Monday night. The loss to Iowa dropped them into fourth place in the conference with a 3-2 record.

Gary Olson and Chris Purvall divided 40 points for Iowa, which blazed to a 34-20 halftime margin on .536 shooting and was never headed. Steve Redenbaugh and Dick Van Arsdale paced the Hoosiers with 18 points apiece. Indiana starter Jon McGlocklin sat out the game with a knee injury.

The evening wasn't a complete washout for the Hoosier state. Ron Iwema poured in 26 points, leading Butler to an 80-74 ambush of Bradley at Indianapolis.

Only a handful of major games were played as the annual semester break cut into the schedule. Kentucky and Tennessee won key Southeastern Conference tests and Nebraska whipped Iowa State in a battle of Big Eight tallenders.

Kentucky handed Auburn its first SEC loss 73-67 at Lexington, Ky., leaving idle Vanderbilt atop the league with a 4-0 mark.

Hull Piles Up Cash Awards as First-Half MVP

MONTREAL (AP) — Chicago's Bobby Hull continues to cash National Hockey League bonus checks almost as fast as he scores goals.

Hull, unanimous choice at left wing on the NHL first-half All-Star team and the top scorer in the league at the halfway point, also leads in the race for the Hart Trophy as the most valuable player and Lady Byng Trophy for gentlemanly and effective play.

The All-Star designation and scoring lead were worth $500 each to the Black Hawk star. His latest honors netted him an additional $500 — at $250 for each. This makes Hull's mid-season haul an attractive $1,500.

Should he lead all four races again in the second half of the season, Bobby's total bonus take for the year would be $7,000.

Hull's lead in the MVP voting was almost as complete as his unanimous All-Star designation. Bobby polled 88 of a possible 90 points in the Hart Trophy voting for a wide lead over Detroit's Norm Ullman, who had 22 points.

Hull collected 50 points in the Lady Byng voting with New York's Camille Henry second with 28.

Sophomore Louie Dampier and veteran Terry Mobley sparked the Wildcats with 22 and 18 points, respectively.

Tennessee, which beat Kentucky last Saturday night, moved into contention by flattening Georgia 76-57. The Vols are 4-1, Auburn 5-1, in league play.

Nebraska's full-court press and a couple of clutch baskets by Grant Simmons held off Iowa State 88-77 at Lincoln, Neb. Simmons, who scored 29 points, twice headed off Cyclone rallies in the second half. The Cornhuskers' first triumph in four Big Eight starts left Iowa State, 1-4, in the league cellar.

BASEBALL GROUP TO MEET SUNDAY

Max Molock, president of the Amateur Athletic Association (the group promoting Southern Minnesota League baseball for Winona), has scheduled a meeting for Sunday at Lake Park Lodge at 2 p.m.

Olympic Swim Team Named Year's Best

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — "This is the greatest swimming and diving team ever assembled for any Olympics. It may be years, if ever, before we see another like it."

So said Dr. Harold Henning, manager of the U.S. Olympic swimming team after his teenage stars had completed a series of unprecedented triumphs at Tokyo last October.

"We left swimmers at home who could win medals in these games," he added.

An Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters confirmed that judgment today by naming the Olympic swimming squad as the outstanding team on the year in The AP year-end poll.

In the voting, the Olympians outdistanced the St. Louis Cardinals, baseball's World Series champions, by more than 2-1 in first-place ballots, 123 to 51. In point scoring on a 3-2-1 basis, the swimmers collected 476 points and the Cards 316.

Notre Dame's football team was picked as No. 3 in the balloting with 16 firsts and 166 points although the Irish, upset by Southern California in their final game, finished third behind unbeaten Alabama and Arkansas in the collegiate football rankings. Alabama was No. 7 and Arkansas No. 8 in the Team of the Year voting.

NEW YORK (AP) — The new president of the Amateur Athletic Union, in response to an NCAA invitation, has asked for a meeting "on the highest possible level" and has sighted a possible solution to the long-standing and complex dispute with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The NCAA, however, all of a sudden, isn't quite so sure. "These things have to go through the right channels," said Walter Byers, NCAA executive director in Kansas City Monday after being informed of the AAU stand.

"Anyone who thinks this thing can be solved on a strictly NCAA-AAU level has to be ridiculous," Byers said. "The problem is much more far-reaching than that."

In New York, the new president of the AAU, Clifford Buck of Denver, who took office only a month ago, said:

"If the president of the AAU can presume to have a platform, mine would include two basic planks.

"1. To launch an improved program for athletics and athletes.

"2. A prime objective must be the satisfactory settlement — a mutually satisfactory settlement — of the difference of opinion between the AAU and the other organization.

"My personal feeling is that I'd be glad to sit down and discuss with anyone, a plan leading toward a solution.

Rostad Cops Second Place In Wisconsin

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Carlyn Rostad, Galesville, will spend an expensive paid five-day vacation at Slippery Winds Resort in Canada next summer because Rostad was named Wisconsin's second place winner in the Bowl-Down Cancer contest. Virginia Head Takes Job as Navy Coach

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Bill Elias of Virginia signs on today as the fourth civilian coach of Navy football teams since the Naval Academy decided to stop rotating officers in the job after World War II.

His immediate predecessors — Eddie Erdelatz and Wayne Hardin — had successful runs of nine and six years, respectively, before resigning under pressure after personality clashes.

The first civilian coach, George Sauer, formerly of Kansas, lasted only the post-war seasons of 1949-50.

Elias, head coach of the Cavaliers the past four years, was formally offered and accepted the Navy coaching job Monday.

The 41-year-old coach was due here today to sign his contract with Capt. William S. Busik, director of athletics, said would be for one year and is "in the vicinity" of the reported $19,000 annual salary paid Hardin.

Elias brings to Navy a reputation as an organizer and recruiter. An assistant at Purdue for seven years, he was named Southern Conference coach of the year in 1960 when he posted a 5-3-1 record in his one season as head coach at George Washington.

He achieved the same honor at Virginia in the Atlantic Coast Conference the next year when his team won more games than the Cavaliers had in four previous seasons.

His over-all record at Virginia was a losing one of 16-23-1, but the team is now regarded as a contender for the ACC title.

He also showed a flair last season for beating Army with a 35-14 upset that caught the eye of Navy brass.

City Asking New Plan on Vets Center

City Council members said Monday night they would wait until Feb. 1 to talk over a proposed change in Winona County Veterans Service Center appropriations with the County Board of Commissioners.

The service center committee, represented by Harold Libera, asked the council to request amendment of the statute by the state Legislature this year. The committee said limits should be raised to allow a $5,000 maximum contribution by the city and a $10,000 contribution by Winona County. At present the limits are $4,000 and $8,000.

COSTS OF expanding programs administered by the center have pushed the present budget to its ceiling, Libera said. Currently, the center's budget is $11,965, only $35 below the maximum legally allowable.

Income brought into the county by the center, in pensions and compensation secured for eligible veterans and dependents, totaled $430,215 last year, Libera said.

City Council

Led by Mayor R. K. Ellings, aldermen objected that a simple rise in limits would result in unfair distribution of the costs. Should the budget go over the $12,000 limit, they pointed out, the city's entire $5,000 allotment would be spent but the county's share would not rise in proportion.

Commissioners will be asked to approve a plan in which limits would be raised but which also would fix respective shares at one-third for the city and two-thirds for the county.

At present, the city pays all costs of the center operation, then bills the county for half. When the total budget goes beyond $8,000, the city's share still cannot exceed $4,000 and the county pays the balance.

MAYOR ELLINGS pointed out that if the center budget went to $13,000, for example, the city's contribution would rise to its full allowable amount — $5,000, or 25 percent above the present limit. The county's share, on the other hand, would still be $8,000, or no increase at all.

Under the compromise proposal, the city would contribute $4,333 and the county would furnish $8,667 to a hypothetical $13,000 budget.

Witnesses Heard On Zywicki Fire

Three witnesses testified this morning in District Court in the Zywicki Investment Co. fire case.

Although Zywicki has withdrawn from the case, the Great Central Insurance Co., Des Moines, Iowa, which had insured the Zywicki building destroyed by a fire in 1953, is pursuing the case as plaintiff.

PLAINTIFF claims that a faulty boiler was improperly installed by H. J. Kramer Plumbing & Heating and caused the destructive fire Nov. 28, 1959.

The insurance company, represented by Harry A. Stearns Jr., St. Paul, asks recovery of its damage payments from Kramer and the National Heating & Cooling Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio, maker of the boiler.

Charles Gerth, 216 E. Mark St., who helped Marvin Douglas, another Kramer employee, install the boiler, testified today that he didn't remember any manufacturer's instructions concerning installation.

He made the installation with instructions from Kramer, Gerth told the court.

Gerth said that an eighth-inch thick sheet of asbestos was placed under the boiler after installation as a precautionary measure. He didn't remember the floor feeling warm, Gerth said.

JOHN ZYWICKI, 753 E. Broadway, president of the company that bears his name, testified that he had bought the destroyed building in May or June of 1959 and proceeded with a remodeling. Five apartments were on the second floor, and a grocery and an automatic laundry were on the first, he recalled.

The utility room containing the new boiler opened into the laundry. It was on the east side of the building at about the middle, Zywicki said.

Zywicki told the court that he had confidence in Kramer's ability, so he let Kramer pick the kind of furnace and the best place to put it. The owner went on to testify that the workers noticed the floor was getting hot under the boiler and placed some asbestos under it.

The investment man said that he bought the building from an estate for $11,000. He said the premises were valued at $45,000 before the fire and were worth only $2,500 afterward. He said that he had been paid the amount of his policy, $35,000, by the insurance company.

THE MORNING'S testimony concluded with the calling of Harold E. Cartier, St. Paul, a mechanical engineer who was called an expert on fires and their causes. He investigated the Zywicki fire.

Cartier gave his opinion that the heating unit of the boiler was hazardous close to the floor, considering that the floor was wood. He added that the asbestos, though not itself flammable, contributed to the fire by trapping heat close to the floor.

The St. Paul man concluded by saying he believed the fire burned three to four hours before the boiler dropped through the floor to the basement.

WITH JURY selection complete by mid-afternoon Monday, Attorney Stearns was able to call three witnesses before court recessed for the day.

H. J. Kramer, 1060 E. Sanborn St., the plumbing and heating contractor who installed a boiler on the Zywicki premises, testified concerning the installation.

He told the court that he checked the job once or twice a day while Marvin Douglas, 1102 E. Sanborn St., and another man performed the installation. Kramer testified that the boiler was installed in one corner of a 10 by 15-foot utility room, about two feet from any wall.

HOWEVER, he admitted that the only separation from the floor were "nubbins" which raised the boiler about an inch. Kramer told Stearns and the court that he had installed three boilers made by National previously and that all had been put on concrete floors. The floor in the Zywicki utility room was maple wood.

The heating contractor said he wasn't sure how far off the floor the boiler's heating unit is, but he admitted the distance from the floor would be important.

"I didn't have any doubt in my mind it was safe as it was," Kramer said. "I didn't have any objection" to putting a strip of asbestos under the boiler, Kramer added. His employee, Douglas, had suggested placing the strip.

ROSS KRANING, 966 Gilmore Ave., was next called to testify. He explained that his heating business consists mainly of service. He sold Kramer the boiler, which Kraning also started for him after its installation Nov. 22 or 23, 1959.

Kraning said that the heating unit is 16 inches above the floor on the type boiler Kramer installed for Zywicki. Kraning testified that his man has standing instructions to check only the burner, controls and stack pipe when he starts a boiler.

"As far as we were concerned, it was all right," Kraning said, referring to the above three items.

Under cross-examination by his attorney, C. Stanley McMahon, Kraning said that he had never actually seen the boiler he sold to Kramer and that he has started "many" boilers for Kramer.

DOUGLAS was next called to testify. He said that he has installed plumbing and heating fixtures for Kramer for 10 years. He is given the selected fixture, told where to put it and then puts it in, Douglas said.

He didn't remember receiving any installation instructions with the boiler in question. He installed the boiler the same as he would any boiler, Douglas said.

The asbestos he used Kramer to have put under the boiler was "just a safety precaution against the wooden floor," Douglas said.

Attorney for Kramer Roger T. Sahr, St. Paul, cross-examined Douglas and found that the boiler had functioned two to three days with no malfunction before the asbestos sheet was placed underneath it. The sheet was an eighth to a fourth of an inch thick, Douglas testified.

THE FOUR women and eight men selected to hear the case are: Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Robert Engel, Arnold Weidt, Clarence McClymont, Henry C. Voss, Miss Rita Rompa, Clarence Elmhuyssen, LaVerne Johnson, Rollo C. Merrill, Mrs. Lewis Burt, Mrs. Ronald Drees and Edwin C. Schuppenhauer.

Household Tax Return Opposed In Goodview

Opposition to reinstatement of the household goods tax in Winona County was expressed in a resolution adopted by the Goodview Village Council Monday night.

A copy of the resolution will be sent to the Winona County Board of Commissioners, which earlier this month heard a group of township officers urge that the tax be re-established. The board is to consider the question at its February meeting.

TRUSTEE Herbert Kleyla, stepping out of his official capacity, asked his fellow councilmen for permission to move a number of house trailers onto land he owns east of the Shagunda Motel, which he operates.

Kleyla had kept the trailers, which he sells, on village land further east along Service Drive. The land is to be sold back to its previous owner, Brom Machine & Foundry.

The council postponed a decision until trustees — Kleyla excepted — can inspect the land in question.

Winona's three banks — Merchants National Bank, First National Bank and Winona National & Savings Bank — were named as depositories for village funds this year, and the council decided to deposit its new liquor store construction fund in First National.

The Daily News was renamed as official village news newspaper.

IN OTHER action, the council:

• Decided to buy stickers giving telephone numbers of the village fire department, constables and marshal. The stickers, which will be distributed next month along with the village's annual financial statement, are to be pasted in telephone directories.

• Heard Joseph Trochta, chief of the volunteer fire department, report that a school for firemen will be held soon. No date has yet been set.

• Authorized Elmer Obitz, deputy weed inspector, to attend the county weed and seed conference today in Lewiston.

• Gave Henry Ehmkke, village clerk, permission to buy a filing cabinet and storage boxes for his office.

• Received an order to change the sewer line to serve the new municipal liquor store, now under construction.

• Heard Ehmkke report that liquor store employees are covered by a blanket bond of $5,000 and that the manager of the new store will be required to post a $25,000 bond.

• Authorized payment of expenses for any village official who wants to attend the South-eastern Minnesota League of Municipalities meeting Thursday in Spring Grove, and also authorized Mayor Rex A. Johnson to attend a meeting on tourist industry promotion, to be held in Rochester later this month.

• Discussed the kind of beer dispensing equipment desirable for the new liquor store, and decided to meet with architect Wayne Smith to discuss it further. No date has been set for this meeting.

• Approved payment of monthly bills.

Woman Given Suspended Term

Mrs. MaryAnn E. Sorenson, 19, 860 E. 2nd St., pleaded guilty today in municipal court to a charge of assault against Lois Peterson Friday.

Judge John D. McGill ordered the customary $35 fine or 12-day jail term suspended on condition Mrs. Sorenson not appear on such a charge again within six months.

The suspended sentence was recommended by City Prosecutor James W. Soderberg who told the judge that there was some blame on both sides of the case.

Mrs. Sorenson spent about an hour in the city hall after she first refused to plead to the charge. When she did plead guilty, Judge McGill told her, "Now that you've had a sample of it, stay out of jail."
