Third Marine Killed Fighting Rages Despite Dominican Cease-Fire

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Fighting raged on Saturday in the Dominican civil war despite a cease-fire agreement and a third U.S. Marine was killed by a rebel sniper's bullet increasing U.S. casualties to 28.

Rifle fire was intense in the predawn hours, slackened during the morning, then picked up again.

The Marine was killed on the U.S. Embassy grounds. Two others were killed and 17 wounded Friday. The U.S. 82nd Airborne Division, arriving in the city from the east, had eight wounded.

Marines established barricades on the borders of the international zone created with the approval of the Organization of American States to safeguard Americans and other foreign nationals. The zone is three miles long and stretches 15 blocks inland from the waterfront to the U.S. Embassy.

People coming from the area of the rebel stronghold east of the zone were thoroughly searched. A Marine sentry said some young Dominicans were carrying ammunition for snipers.

There were unconfirmed reports that the 82nd Airborne had crossed the Duarte Bridge over the Ozama River and had entered the eastern part of the city. There was no indication, however, that it planned to move all the way into the city.

The 82nd appeared at the bridge Friday, and there suffered its casualties in an exchange with rebel snipers. The bridge is several blocks north-east of the international zone.

Peacemaking efforts continued. An OAS peace team headed by Secretary-General Jose A. Mora arrived to start negotiations to end the fighting, that has claimed possibly 1,000 lives in Santo Domingo.

U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett met at the American Embassy with Papal Nuncio Emmanuelle Clarizio and Latin American diplomats.

It was reported that the papal nuncio was pleading for withdrawal of Marines and other American forces from near the central part of the city, where the rebels are entrenched.

During the discussions, a man claiming to be a spokesman for the rebels and who identified himself as Fulio Mesa was taken in to see the ambassador. Mesa told newsmen he had a plan he wanted to present to the OAS. He said it had the endorsement of Angel Nolasco, head of a splinter faction of the once-dominant Dominican Revolutionary party.

Mesa, who appeared annoyed by the thorough frisking given him by Marines, said rebel forces were "well-provisioned with food, water, ammunition and arms, and with high morale can continue to fight indefinitely."

Rebel forces fighting to restore ex-President Juan Bosch to power signed a cease-fire agreement Friday. But the civilians — some of whom Washington believes are Communist-trained — refused to bow to the order.

Thereafter, army units under Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin resumed the fighting, believed directed generally at snipers holed up in buildings in the downtown area. Wessin directed the coup that kicked out Bosch in September of 1963, and still opposes him.

The Soviet Union demanded a meeting of the U.N. Security Council, accusing the United States of armed aggression against the Dominican Republic.

A dispatch by the Soviet news agency, Tass, called the Marine landing "another attempt to keep in power a reactionary, an antipopular dictatorship regime which suits the U.S.A., and to suppress the strivings of the people for freedom and independence."

President Johnson met with his top advisers in Washington to consider the role of the Organization of American States in the crisis.

OAS Tackles Dominican Row

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States moved slowly Saturday toward selection of a special mission to seek peace in the Dominican Republic — a step President Johnson says should be taken as soon as possible.

While fighting continued in Santo Domingo despite a cease-fire agreement and more casualties were reported among U.S. military personnel, some OAS representatives voiced sharp criticism of Johnson's action in sending troops into the Caribbean nation.

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to the OAS, defended the troop movement as essential to the protection of American lives and offered a motion to authorize the naming of a five-member commission to be sent promptly to Santo Domingo.

It would be instructed to make the cease-fire effective and to take steps leading to the re-establishment of law and order under a legal government.

According to W. Tapley Bennett, U.S. ambassador in Santo Domingo, the current military junta and rebels seeking the return of deposed President Juan Bosch have agreed to OAS arbitration of the dispute which has brought death to possibly 1,000 and a general breakdown in law and order.

Observers here saw no doubt the special conference of 20 OAS nations will adopt Bunker's motion. But it is unlikely the committee's makeup will be decided until a report is received from Jose A. Mora, OAS secretary-general, who flew to Santo Domingo Friday night. Brazil, Chile, Argentina, Colombia, and Guatemala were considered as likely members.

U.S. officials' sense of urgency for action in the week-old rebellion was heightened Saturday by fresh reports of increasing Communist influence among forces battling the military junta under Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin which is resisting Bosch's return from exile in Puerto Rico.

So far U.S. officials have identified 58 prominent Communist and Castroite Dominicans as active in the fighting and in propaganda and organizational work among the insurgents. The United States is anxious that the OAS make its presence felt effectively and swiftly before these Reds take over completely.

Vietnamese Reds Getting New Weapons

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist forces are packing in sophisticated weapons — from light artillery to flame throwers — and seem to be building up for major offensives in South Viet Nam to coincide with the start in mid-May of the monsoon season. U.S. and South Vietnamese military informants said Saturday.

They reported South Vietnamese troops are bracing for attacks all the way from the Mekong River delta south of Saigon to the border of Communist North Viet Nam.

The rainy season, which runs until October or November, generally limits air activity and the movement of heavy armor on the ground.

Speculation on possible heavy Communist offensives came to light after South Vietnamese troops found a big cache of Red arms in coastal mangrove swamps about 60 miles south of Saigon.

The weapons included precision, lightweight flame throwers believed furnished by Communist China. There also were East German heavy machine guns, rifles, plastic explosives and tons of ammunition.

The informants said there is evidence the supplies for the Viet Cong guerrillas are being brought in by sea and through Cambodia and Communist-controlled sections of Laos.

Some senior military officers say there are signs that the Communist troops, reinforced by regulars from North Viet Nam, may try to make 1965 the year of decision in South Viet Nam.

Chinese Communist manufactured artillery and heavy anti-aircraft guns have shown up in significant numbers in the northernmost areas, the central highlands and the delta.

Patient Dead in Hastings Fire

HASTINGS, Minn. (AP) — Fire swept the geriatrics ward Friday in the Hastings State Hospital and one patient died.

She was Dorothy Gage, 66, believed to be in her 70s. Sixty-four other patients were evacuated.

Cause of the fire was not known. The hospital's medical manager, Dr. H. C. Zeller, estimated damage at $10,000.

Crest at Hannibal, Flattening Out Now

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — The Mississippi River lapped at store fronts in Hannibal Saturday as rivermen prepared for the last act in a flood tragedy which has run from Minnesota to Missouri.

Churning river water, which has claimed 12 lives in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois and caused almost $150 million in damage, is expected to flatten out in the wide river banks of the lower Mississippi.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the water would crest between 25 and 25.5 feet Sunday at Quincy, Ill., where the flood stage is 17 feet.

A crest between 24.6 and 25 feet will hit about midnight Sunday at Hannibal — a river town with no levees.

"About the only damage we expect at Hannibal — except for a little mud and silt — will be from tourists," a policeman said. The officer said the streets were jammed Friday by persons "who were just driving down to gawk at the river."

Almost a foot of water covers 15 square blocks of the downtown area — but no one is worried. Only about 25 families have been evacuated because of water surrounding their homes.

While businessmen in Hannibal sandbagged their doors and built wooden bridges four feet above the water, the grim fight against the backlash of the river continued upstream.

A critical spot is north of Quincy, Ill., where the northside of a levee at the Rock Creek drainage district is slowly being eaten away by the river. It is adjacent to a levee in the Indian Grave district which splintered earlier this week and sent the river rolling over about 10,000 acres of farmland.

Criticism of U.S. May Day Theme

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of thousands in Europe and Asia Saturday observed May Day — the Labor Day of the Socialists — and as usual Communist governments used the occasion to assail the United States.

The customary parade through Moscow's Red Square took second place to a new Soviet diplomatic offensive against the United States — this time a demand for United Nations action against U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic. It snowed during the May Day parade.

In Prague, capital of Communist Czechoslovakia, Communist party chieftain Antonin Novotny denounced America before a crowd of half a million. He accused the United States of aggression in Viet Nam and of supporting German ambitions to regain lost European territory.

Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Polish Communist leader, told more than 100,000 May Day celebrators in Warsaw that "the imperialist aggression of the United States in Viet Nam is a direct threat to world peace."

"We also," Gomulka asserted, "protest against the brutal American intervention in the Dominican Republic."

In Athens, 200 leftist workers attempting to march on the Greek Ministry of Labor with demands for higher wages clashed with police. Several were injured.

French workers observed the day quietly with a holiday from work and mass meetings of unions in some of the larger cities.

In West Berlin, 250,000 gathered to hear speeches from politicians and a special message from President Johnson. Police broke up a scuffle between labor union men and 50 Communist demonstrators, who carried signs saying "Peace in Viet Nam" and "No Bombs on Viet Nam."

In East Berlin hundreds of thousands from the Communist zone heard exhortations to boost industrial and agricultural output, with a few passing references to "American imperialists."

In Vatican City, Pope Paul VI urged an audience of 40,000 Italian workers and tourists to "pray for an assist the unemployed, underemployed, underpaid and insecure." He criticized those who exploit labor social struggle and hatred.

Boy, 13, Crashes In Stolen Plane

ST. PAUL, (AP) — A 13-year-old boy, who had worked airplane controls when flying with adults, stole a small private plane Friday and crashed after a 15-minute flight.

The youth took the plane from a South St. Paul airport. It was owned by Orville Brede of Rosemount and was valued at $12,000.

The youth was injured slightly, and after medical treatment was questioned by police. The plane, grounded in a field northwest of Rosemount, reportedly was heavily damaged.

4 Red Chinese Gunboats Sunk

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese patrol ship sank four Red Chinese gunboats in an hour-long battle in the Formosa Strait early Saturday, Nationalist Chinese navy headquarters announced Sunday.

The Nationalist ship damaged two other Red boats before returning safely to port without any casualties, the announcement said. It did not identify the Nationalist ship further.

The action began shortly after midnight when eight Chinese gunboats attacked the Nationalist ship near the Nationalist-held Matsu Islands at the northern end of the Formosa Strait, the navy said.

Churchill Downs Stands on Fire

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A fire broke out Saturday in the far west end of the fourth floor at Churchill Downs about one hour before the start of the Kentucky Derby.

Hundreds of fans fled that section of the sprawling stands as fire engines raced to the scene. The blaze was visible to most of the 100,000 fans at the track.

As the horses paraded to the post for the sixth race, track firemen struggled to drag hoses through the packed stands and by the time they had gotten into position to fight the blaze, smoke and fire poured from that end of the ancient, wooden structure.

Fans beneath the fourth floor quickly evacuated the area.

After the first fire truck arrived, several other pieces of equipment came and within a few minutes, the fire appeared to be under control.

A section of the stands about 25 feet long and all of the chairs in the box seats were burned.

Grass Fires Start in Two Badger Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Grass fires caused damage in two Wisconsin areas Friday.

A fire burned through several acres of woodland between the Rock County communities of Milton Junction and Janesville, causing major damage to a stock of 1,000 young evergreens on the Floyd Yeomans farm on the Janesville outskirts.

Ivan Rice and Stanley Hergert, firemen from Milton Junction, suffered minor burns and were released after treatment at a Janesville hospital.

Another series of grass fires burned along the Milwaukee Road right of way from Brookfield to Oconomowoc, in Waukesha County.

Kenneth Alberts, Delafield fire chief, said the fires charred wooden utility poles for most of the 20 miles between the two communities but did little other damage.

Child Killed On Skateboard

NEW YORK (AP) — Clarissa Carter, 5, was killed Friday night when she scooted on a skateboard into the path of a police car speeding to the scene of a bomb report. The bomb scare was unfounded.

Witnesses said the girl darted from between parked cars into the path of the car on west 63th Street near Central Park.

The accident followed a warning by the Greater New York Safety Council that parents control their youngsters in riding skateboards.

SECRET'S OUT:

Meter Maids Took 'Holiday' in Flood

By TERRY BORMANN
Daily News Staff Writer

Now it can be told. Probably the worst kept secret of the flood days was the fact that, since they were among the 34 women working for civil defense (CD), the city's two meter maids had not been tickling overtime parkers since April 9.

IN THE interest of keeping a few downtown parking spaces open — enough to accommodate the cars of Daily News reporters covering the flood, anyway — this interesting information was not published till now.

However, now it can be told — without disrupting Winona's downtown traffic and shopping patterns. One meter maid, Mrs. Vernon H. Hemming, 419 W. Howard St., was back on her "beat" Thursday.

The other meter maid, newlywed Mrs. Robert Nogosek, 1603 W. 5th St., returns to work Monday.

The meter maids worked with city teachers on their spring "vacation" women from the city welfare department and many working and non-working matrons and misses from throughout the city.

MRS. ROBERT Sexton, 735 47th Ave., Goodview, who set up a four-shift schedule to staff CD headquarters after the first hectic days of the emergency had shown a need for regular staffing, praised the work of all the women who worked with CD.

But she had special words of praise for Mrs. Fred R. Rettkowski, 676 E. 5th St., who did extra work for CD Director George K. McGuire and CD Communications Chief Roy E. Ell.

Most of the women answered telephones and kept logs of the requests for equipment and men. Mrs. Rettkowski did typing and other secretarial work as well, according to Mrs. Sexton.

MRS. WILLIAM E. Streng, 266 E. Howard St., Viola Bronk, 673 E. Howard St., Daniel S. Sadowski, 571 E. Broadway, and Victor A. Ronnenberg, 4335 7th St., Goodview, also were signaled out by Mrs. Sexton.

as having done yeoman work for CD. Miss Mary Reglin, 816 W. Broadway; Mrs. Fred R. Naas, 405 W. Howard St.; Miss Rosalyn M. Wenzel, 163 Laird St.; Mrs. Warren Faye, Homer; Mrs. Richard Kowalewski, 4615 8th St., Goodview; Miss Mary Schuch, Rollingstone; Mrs. James Kreidermacher, Rollingstone; Mrs. Lucille Jackson, 4055 4th St., Goodview; Mrs. Donald Gray, 67 E. Howard St., and Miss Dorothy Reys, Winona State College, all joined in staffing the CD headquarters.

In addition, three women from the city welfare department worked at CD headquarters in their off hours. Mrs. Alvin R. Beeman, 520 Wilsie St.; Mrs. Lawrence Breithbach, 528 Lafayette St., and Miss Diane Duellman, 460 E. Sanborn St., gave their time.

Arcadia Seeking Candidates for Festival Queen

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Queen candidates are being sought for the Arcadia Dairy Festival the last weekend in May. John Koetting is chairman and Clifford Nelson is his assistant.

All single girls 17 to 25 residing in the Arcadia trade area may submit their names to the committee. Candidates will be guests of the Lions Club at a banquet May 28 at 6:30 p.m. at Club 93 near Arcadia. Between 9:30 and 10 p.m. the 1948 queen and attendants will be introduced on the stage in the high school auditorium, preceding the coronation ball.

The queen will receive her crown from Miss Bonnie Feuling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Feuling, rural Arcadia. She will be presented a bouquet of red roses and a check from the club. Checks also will be presented to two attendants, succeeding Judith Kupietz, Arcadia, and Joan Konkelt, now of Milwaukee, last year's attendants.

OSSEO CUB SCOUTS — OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — Osseo Cub Scouts will have their pack meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Cabin-in-the-Pines. Mrs. Clayton Skoug, chairman, Mrs. Vern Neim and Mrs. Erv Olson will serve.

SCHOOL Superintendent A. L. Nelson sent nine of his women teachers to help at CD headquarters after school let out.

Miss Yvonne Carpenter, 512 1/2 E. Wabasha St.; Mrs. John R. Breitlow, Homer Road; Mrs. Robert E. Grover, 210 E. Wabasha St.; Miss Corinne Johnson, 125 E. Broadway; Kay B. Whelstone, 1026 W. Wabasha St.; Marian Kangel, 173 E. Sanborn St.; Maureen Van Heerden, 358 Johnson St.; and Audrey G. Gorcek, 452 W. Broadway, and Mrs. John J. Howrigan, 675 Olmstead St., took time from their spring vacation to help the city fight its flood.

Win Craft, Inc., 2nd and Lafayette streets, used four of its women employees to aid in the dike watch effort.

Mrs. Daniel J. Lilla, 726 E. 4th St., and Michael V. Breza, 479 E. 3rd St., signed up volunteers at Win Craft's offices. Mrs. Clifford J. Graczyk, 749 W. 4th St., and James Ludovissie, 1845 W. 5th St., worked at dike watch headquarters.

MRS. SEXTON pointed out that many of the volunteers, including the women from the city welfare department, worked without pay in their spare time. The teachers, the meter maids and the women from Win Craft were paid for the time they worked at CD — although their help was none the less valued on that account, Mrs. Sexton said.

As many as five women worked in the CD headquarters at once, during the period of flood crisis. Only one at a time was needed between Saturday and the closing of the headquarters Wednesday afternoon, however.

Finally, Mrs. Sexton expressed gratitude to the women who volunteered for duty with CD but were never called on. She no longer has their names, Mrs. Sexton said; but their presence as a reserve was a contribution also.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Don't Fight Child's Choice

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason: Our 13-year-old son is an eighth-grader. He recently completed a Differential Aptitude Test. In a conference with the Guidance Department of his school, I was told that he tends to be good college material and would make an excellent Political Science major in college, probably with a goal of going into the fields of government law or social study teaching. However, out of his own volition, has told me he is interested in becoming associated with the newscasting media of radio and television.

Which course should he follow?

Mrs. P. Teaneck, N.J.

Answer: Your son will succeed better throughout high school pursuing a goal of his own choice. Encourage him to enter high school activities connected with drama, public speaking and journalism. But most important, encourage him to meet college preparatory requirements. College education is essential for success in his chosen career. But a 13-year-old often changes his mind as he goes along. In that event, the college preparatory courses he will take will be satisfactory preparation for the college fields suggested by the counselor.

Dear Dr. Nason: We have a daughter in the third grade who likes someone to read to her, but is shy about reading aloud herself. At home she will read first-grade books and feels quite proud, but when she gets to her class she refuses to read.

What can we do to help her? Mrs. W.Y., New Rochelle, N.Y.

Answer: Read books of third-grade level to your daughter. Her teacher or the librarian will help you select them. After reading a story to your daughter, ask her to read it first to herself and then to you. You probably will have to help her with some of the hard words, but when she has read a third-grade story enough times to have mastered all the words, she will be proud of this accomplishment.

It may take time. Don't expect her to jump from first-grade to third-grade level reading in a few days.

Dear Dr. Nason: My son is a freshman in high school. He finds it difficult to settle down to doing his homework or to stay at it when he finally gets started. When I tell him that he needs to develop self-discipline he queries, "How is one to apply self-discipline to his thinking?"

How should I answer him?

Mrs. H.B., Scarsdale, N.Y.

Answer: Self-discipline in thinking parallels all other forms of self-discipline. It involves planning. When your son plans how he is going to study, study will follow. For example, he should plan to read his social studies so thoroughly that he can recite back to himself at the end of each section. He should expect to know at the end of his study period how he could express the ideas should he be called upon in class. When he has planned his thinking, his mind will follow his desires.

Arcadia Selects 4 Cheerleaders

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Four cheerleaders were selected at Arcadia High School Wednesday following tryouts. Four teachers chose two present cheerleaders, Peggy Persick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Persick, Waumandee, and Nancy Tyvand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tyvand Sr., Arcadia. Both were on the A team this year.

Kathy Koetting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Koetting, Arcadia, and Marlys Kolstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kostad, Rt. 2, were on the B squad. Rita Wozney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wozney, Arcadia, was chosen alternate.

The B team cheerleaders will be selected next fall. Miss Judy Bell, physical education instructor, is in charge. Judges were Junior Lager, Gerald Gleason, Miss Suzanne Sheehy and Mrs. Shirley Nelson.

Few Houses in City Had Water On First Floors

Water, water everywhere — but not many Winona houses got anything but seepage water.

Civil Defense Director George McGuire has estimated that only three or four houses in the city were actually flooded. Many others, of course, had wet basements.

A resident of the Adams Street area at the city's east end said flood water did not reach houses in the area. This was the story, too, in the low-lying area protected by the Crooked Slough dike, a resident there said. Although many houses had seepage water in basements, water never reached anyone's first floor.

Mrs. Mark Cada, however, who lives at 450 E. 2nd St., said two of her houses on East Front Street were flooded. The houses, situated between Vine and Hamilton streets, had water on their first floors.

Farther east, the Victor Bertel home, 507 E. 2nd St., had seepage water in the basement, but water did not reach first floor levels and there was no direct flooding.

The water was higher in the area around the intersection of 2nd and Kansas streets, however. Mrs. Carl Aune, 317 E. 2nd St., said at least three families in her block had water on the first floor of their homes. Water filled the basement of the Aune home, she said, but did not reach the first floor.

Some families in the block east of Liberty Street on 2nd Street also had water on the first floor of their homes, Mrs. Aune said.

The situation was different on Prairie Island, however. Out of a group of nearly 15 houses — all outside the city limits — at least eight had water on their first floors, a resident estimated.

Dale Gjerdrum, who said water stood four to six inches deep on his house's floor, said he actually knew of only three or four that escaped flooded main floors. All had water in their basements, however.

Mrs. Peg York, Red Cross disaster worker from Atlanta, Ga., who was here during the flood, said the city escaped with relatively light damage to dwellings. The situation would have been vastly worse, she pointed out, if dikes had not held.

$215 More Added To Flood Fund

Another $215 has been added to the City of Winona Flood Control Fund, bringing its total to $10,936.70.

The Daily News, which is administering the fund, will turn it over to the city for use in paying immediate expenses incurred in the fight against the recent flood threat.

might be in there with all the rest of the girls. At any rate, it proves that Fort Lauderdale has no monopoly on this kind of thing. This picture, taken Saturday afternoon in Lake Park, shows where the boys are — and the girls too.

City Enjoys Mid-Summer Temperatures

With the decline in the Mississippi River level, mid-summer temperatures took over the weather spotlight in Winona Saturday, sending the thermometer up to a pleasant 79.

This was the third day in a row that near 80-degree readings had been recorded for the city, the mercury having advanced to 81 on Thursday and 78 on Friday.

Fair to partly cloudy is the forecast for today with an afternoon high of 78-82. For Monday, the weatherman is predicting showers and a little cooler.

The thermometer rose to its Saturday afternoon high of 79 from a morning low of 56. The 6 p.m. reading Saturday was 75.

Late Saturday afternoon, the Mississippi dropped under the 15-foot mark with a 6 p.m. reading of 14.98. This was the lowest since April 13 and 5.77 feet under the crest of 20.75 on April 20.

River predictions for the next several days are:
Sunday . . . 14.7
Monday . . . 14.2
Tuesday . . . 13.3
Wednesday . . . 12.8
Flood stage at Winona is 13 feet.

Stages all along the Upper Mississippi from Red Wing to La Crosse were dropping sharply, a decline of one foot being registered at Lake City and nearly that much at other stations in the district.

Tributary streams were sliding off, too, with the Chippewa at Durand 6.8 feet Saturday, 9 of a foot lower than Friday. The Black River at Galesville was 7.6, down 1.8 feet from Friday.

A year ago today the high Winona temperature was 55 and the low 45. The all-time high for May 2 was 88 in 1910 and the low for the day 26 in 1911.

BASEBALL REGISTRATION

The city park-recreation department pointed out Saturday that advance registration for its youth baseball programs is required only for the Kneehigh (6 and 7) and T-Shirt (8) leagues. Only the parents of boys in those two leagues need to register at the park-recreation office in City Hall.

Big Clean-up Job Started

By FRANK UHLIG
Sunday News Staff Writer

With the flood threat past the city fought a rear-guard action at scattered points and began the long job of cleaning up battle debris.

Street department workers today are having their first day off in five weeks, said Arthur Brom, street commissioner. Their extended duty period began with a late-spring snowstorm that just preceded the developing flood crisis.

Tidying up the streets began at week's end and will continue next week until one complete round of the city has been made. Brom said crews will work two shifts a day until the first round is finished. He has assigned two sweepers, two front-end loaders, four trucks and one flusher to the job. Crews will work daily from 4 a.m. to 8 p.m. on this phase.

Largest remaining source of trouble is SWEAZEY LAKE. Standing at 15.92 feet Saturday, the pond level had dropped only a half-inch from Friday's reading. The lake preempted three of nine fairways at Westfield Golf Course and was responsible for heavy basement seepage in dozens of nearby homes.

Pushing against an emergency dike on 5th Street, the lake still was nearly two feet below the level of the Prairie Island ponding area, now draining through dike gates into Crooked Slough. When the pond level goes below that of the lake, the latter will fall substantially.

City Engineer James Baird singled out the Sweazey Lake situation as one in need of special attention when future flood defenses are mapped. While the 5th Street dike served a definite purpose in preventing wholesale surface flooding, this "is

All Highway Course Graduates Get Jobs

All of the 20 graduates of the first course for highway technicians offered by the Winona Area Vocational-Technical School under provisions of the federal Manpower Development and Training Act have obtained positions with the state Department of Highways or in private industry. Thomas W. Raine, director of the vocational-technical school, has announced.

Six of those who completed the 26-week course are working for the state highway department out of Winona, four through the Rochester office, six at the department's Golden Valley office and four were placed in private industry. George Wos was instructor for the class which began last Oct. 26 and provided 780 hours of instruction.

Training was provided in surveying and drawing necessary for technicians working with engineers in highway planning and design and in testing of soil, bituminous and concrete surfacing.

Warren Macemon, assistant director of the school and coordinator for the MDT program, said that another course is scheduled to start Sept. 1.

The course recently completed was organized with the assistance of the Minnesota Employment Service. Classes were held at the National Guard armory with the schedule calling for six hours of classroom instruction daily and one or two hours in the field.

For employment by the state highway department, graduates of the course were required to pass a Civil Service test for Technicians I.

Board to Open Bridge Bids at Monday Session

The Winona County Board of Commissioners will open bids on a bridge and highway maintenance equipment and supplies during its May meeting, which convenes at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

The bridge will carry County State Aid Highway 39 over the middle branch of the White-water River, 1.5 miles south of Elba. This project will also include grading a mile of CSAH 39 from Trunk Highway 74 westward.

Also to be opened are bids on a four-wheel drive truck equipped with a soils drill, two tractors with mowers, approximately 25,368 cubic yards of crushed rock and a supply of bituminous materials.

There is some possibility of confusion in the starting time of this month's meeting. The courthouse is officially remaining on standard time until the rest of the state adopts daylight saving time the last Sunday in May.

It has set its office hours one hour ahead, however, so that the effect is the same as actual adoption of DST. If the board sticks to its usual 1:30 p.m. starting time, however — using standard time, which is still official for the county — it will not begin its meeting until 2:30 p.m. DST.

St. Mary's Holds Spring Festival

St. Mary's College is celebrating its Spring Festival this weekend sponsored by the sophomore class.

Students and their dates attended a Mass and Communion breakfast this morning. The Brothers Four Concert will be held in the new gymnasium this evening from 8 to 10. Ralph Zito is the concert chairman and promotion manager.

Miss Mary Jo Wegman, sophomore at the College of Saint Teresa, who was crowned queen at the Friday evening dance, will be present. Her escort will be Rick Helderfor, St. Mary's College. She reigned throughout the festivities.

The Friday dance had as its theme, "Paris in the Springtime," with 175 couples in attendance. Music was provided by the Chaotics and the Gene D'Amour Quartet, both of St. Mary's. Committee chairman for the dance and decorations were Tom Harvick and Rocco Corso.

A pancake breakfast sponsored by the Alpha Psi Omega, drama fraternity, was held in the Union Building Saturday morning. In the afternoon, picnics were held. The Redmen of St. Mary's and the Gusties of Gustavus Adolphus played a doubleheader.

Many of the students attended the senior prom at the College of Saint Teresa Saturday evening. There also was dinner and dancing at the Oaks.

Class officers are: Ralph Zito, president; and Tom Harvick, secretary-treasurer.

SCOUT CHARTER

The charter for Boy Scout Troop 115 at Pickwick, Minn., will be presented to the troop sponsor, Pickwick PTA, Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the school basement.

Judge Suspends Sentences of 2

Guilty pleas to charges of disorderly conduct and passing a bad check brought suspended sentences to the two defendants Saturday in municipal court.

John Weideman, 59, 1063 E. 5th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct made by his wife Friday at 11:22 p.m. at their home. Judge John D. McGill told Weideman that it is his practice to grant a suspended sentence in domestic cases as a means of promoting harmony in the home.

He sentenced Weideman to serve 20 days in jail, suspended on condition that the defendant keep the peace during the next six months. Violation of this condition would get Weideman a doubled sentence, Judge McGill warned.

Donald J. Cierzan, 36, 450 Mankato Ave., pleaded guilty to a charge of cashing a check with insufficient funds to cover it March 5 at the Red Owl supermarket, 5th and Lafayette streets. Jack Thompson, manager of the store, brought the charge.

Cierzan explained to the judge that he had been out of work until the flood emergency but that Friday afternoon he had paid the bad check issued to Thompson. He is working now and endeavoring to pay back other outstanding checks, Cierzan said.

Judge McGill imposed a 30-day jail sentence, suspended on condition Cierzan pay all checks outstanding against him within 30 days and that he have no further check violations within six months.

Students From Five Schools to Tour Courthouse

Students from the five Winona County high schools will tour their courthouse Tuesday, then will hear two Winona attorneys discuss county government.

About 125 students are expected to be at the courthouse for the program, according to Alois Wiczek, deputy county auditor and chairman of the American Legion-sponsored event.

They will come from St. Charles, Lewiston, Rollingstone, Holy Trinity, Coter and Winona Senior high schools.

Their morning will be spent touring the courthouse offices and the county jail, then visiting the Winona County Board of Commissioners, which will be meeting throughout the day.

A luncheon will be served the participants at 12:15 p.m. at the American Legion Club, Wiczek said. Speaker at the luncheon will be Jesse B. Jettus, county superintendent of schools.

The group will spend its afternoon hearing county government, discussed by Winona attorneys Harold Libera and Leo Murphy Jr.

Childress Waits Below No. 7

DRESBACH, Minn. — The L. Wade Childress towboat rode out the Mississippi River flood above Lock & Dam No. 7, La Crosse, and is waiting in the Dresbach area for navigation to open again.

The Childress is a sister boat of the W. S. Rhea floating downriver from Alma dam; they are owned by the same company.

Deward E. Swensky, lockmaster at Trempealeau Lock & Dam 6, said he expects the lock there to be ready for navigation in about 1½ weeks, when the Childress can go through. Lock 6 is third on the repair priority list with the U. S. Army Engineers because damage isn't expected to be heavy. The flood went half a foot over the upper guide walls.

WSC Fraternity Initiates Eight

Eight new members were initiated into Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity of Winona State College Saturday at the YMCA.

The ceremonies culminated 10 weeks of pledging activities on the part of the new members and brings the Beta Xi chapter membership to 67.

New members are Thomas Stover and Duane Murray, Winona; Gary Lauder, Chicago; Thomas Cook, Oaklyn, N. J.; Paul Povosnik and Michael Matsch, Hastings; Rodger Doty, Clinton, Iowa; and Edward Mendham, Philadelphia, Pa.

The outstanding pledge award will be presented this evening at a banquet at the Holiday Inn, La Crosse.

not the place to fight the flood," Baird explained.

WATER ENTERS Sweazey Lake by seepage through railroad grades at its north end. Baird, pointing to the sieve-like qualities of these grades, said a layer of clay soil should be placed along the riverward side of the embankments. This would convert them into effective dikes, he said.

While it was perhaps not possible to stop the lake buildup this year, future plans should be drawn to prevent its happening, Baird said. In this way, much damage to surrounding homes can be avoided with comparative ease, he believes.

At LAKE WINONA, levels dropped another inch, according to Saturday readings. The Saturday elevation was 7.82.

A growing volume of equipment, brought in from outside the city, is now being taken out of service and returned to owners.

Most of the 20 four-inch pumps loaned by 5th Army Headquarters, St. Louis, Mo., are being crated for shipment, Brom said. These were used chiefly to help lift overflow from sanitary sewer mains to the storm sewer system for direct discharge into the river. Only a few were still operating Saturday.

Brom said 67,500 unused burlap BAGS were returned Friday under terms of a rebate agreement with manufacturers. The bags were billed at 13½ cents each, with a return credit of 10 cents each given for each unused bag. Another 50,000 to 60,000 will be returned Monday, Brom said. The city had an estimated 1.3 million bags on hand at the flood's peak.

Filled sandbags cannot be reclaimed, the commissioner said, because they rot quickly after exposure to moisture. These will be used to help re-fill borrow pits from which earth was scooped to build dikes. The seven-block secondary dike on 5th Street is being dismantled and the sandbags hauled to a large borrow pit in the Chicago & North Western switch yards.

Two emergency generators, loaned by the Waseca County Civil Defense organization and the city of Waseca, were returned Saturday. They had provided power for lighting and standby capacity for electrically-driven pumps at the Mankato Avenue dike.

Meanwhile, the CORPS OF ENGINEERS, through its St. Paul district office, praised efforts of Winona and South St. Paul in staving off heavy damage by the flooding Mississippi.

In Winona's case, estimated Lt. Col. Leslie Harding, district engineer, damages totaling $17,000,000 were prevented.

Erection of eight miles of dikes was "an enormous undertaking, requiring combined efforts of hundreds of volunteer workers," said Col. Harding. He added:

"While such barriers can only be used for short periods during critical high-water stages, these served the immediate purpose very well."

"The Corps has begun construction of a permanent flood control project for the City of Winona. The work will consist of raising, strengthening and lengthening existing dikes and levees from Minnesota City along Dam 5A dike to Prairie Island, along the Prairie Island dike to the mainland and along Crooked Slough levee to Huff Street."

"In addition, the present levee between the lower end of Lake Winona and the river will be raised, strengthened and lengthened."

"Two pumping plants and more than a mile of intercepting drains will remove seepage and rainwater from behind the levees."

"Present estimated federal cost of the project is just under $2 million. Costs to local interests are estimated at $177,000. If another flood like the one of 1965 should occur in Winona, the Corps project would prevent an estimated $16,800,000 in damages."

WALL-TO-WALL PHOTOGRAPHY . . . The staff of the Winona Daily & Sunday News this week is making preparations for publication of a documentary edition reviewing highlights of the 1965 spring emergency in the Winona area. The tabloid-size edition will have stories and pictures recalling the fight waged in Southeastern Minnesota and West-

State Entitled To Full Share Of Court Fines

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Supreme Court ruled Friday that a municipal court cannot skim off court costs before remitting fines and forfeited bail money to the county and state.

The court said that such costs must be borne by the county and that the state must get its full five-eighths share of all such court revenue.

The ruling came in an appeal by Beltrami County from a lower court ruling in favor of the state.

Under state law, the county keeps three-eighths of the fines and bail money and sends five-eighths to the state.

The case in dispute involved highway patrol cases handled by the Municipal Court of Bemidji, which deducted court costs first.

The State Highway Department then deducted $3,107.46 from the county's state highway aid monies paid to Beltrami County.

The Supreme Court said the state can pay no money without an appropriation, so cannot allow the costs of court proceedings to come out of its five-eighths share unless the legislature changes the law.

Stalled Driver Tried to Take Wire; He's Fined

A rural Lamoille man pleaded guilty today in municipal court to a charge of damaging state property and paid the $10 fine imposed by Judge John D. McGill.

Judge McGill also granted the request for a delay to May 11 in the trial of Jane Melby, 46, 352 Mankato Ave., on a charge of stocking liquor at the Gold Mine Tavern, 315 Mankato Ave. The continuance was given to allow time to assemble a six-man jury requested by Defense Attorney Dennis A. Challen.

Albert I. Severson, Lamoille, told Judge McGill that he had damaged his car's transmission April 11 while extricating it from about a foot of mud on a rural road. As he drove on U.S. 61-14 near Lamoille, Severson related, he found that the clutch was not engaging.

He needed a piece of wire to make a temporary repair and stopped at the side of the highway to clip a strand of wire from the roadside guard cable. It was raining at the time, and he was three miles from home, Severson said.

As he attempted to clip a strand of wire, a Minnesota Highway Patrol car stopped to find out what was the trouble. The patrolman charged him with damaging state property (worth less than $100), Severson said.

He didn't get the wire and had to walk home, the Lamoille man concluded. Judge McGill imposed the $10 fine as the alternative to three days in county jail.

Jill Growing Up To Starring Roles

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The freshest, prettiest bundle of woman at a recent party at Gracie Mansion was a 3-foot-1, 95-pounder named Jill Haworth who's still a teen-ager and delighted about it.

Suddenly this blonde prodigy, who was graduated from high school in England at 15, is moving into starring roles, and one day there'll be confusion about Jill Haworth and Rita Hayworth as there has been about Katherine Hepburn and Audrey Hepburn.

With her ringleted blond hair way up, and her décolleté way down, little Jill looks real womanly... she's dating old guys like George Maharis.

"Do you still feel like a teen-ager?" I asked her. (She'd just flown in from Los Angeles alone after talking a starring picture involving Elvis Presley.)

"Yes, and that's all right, because teen-agers are good! I just don't believe some statistics that 59% of the crime is caused by teen-agers," Jill said.

"Otto Preminger doesn't scream at you, does he? I asked her, thinking that she seemed so delicate and fragile, he wouldn't dare.

"Oh, sure, he screams at everybody," replied Jill, whom Preminger discovered and put in "Exodus," then used in "The Cardinal," and now in "In Harm's Way."

"WHAT DOES he scream about?" I asked.

"He just screams. You usually don't know what he's screaming about when he's screaming. In the last picture, he didn't scream at me until the last day.

"I was crammed up against a wall. The camera couldn't seem to get me in range. So he screamed that I was moving away from my marks. But I wasn't moving — I couldn't!"

"So why did he scream at you?"

"Maybe he didn't care to scream at John Wayne, Kirk Douglas and 200 extras!"

Jill hastily said, though, that Otto's no coward about screaming.

"In 'Exodus,'" she said, "a ship got in the way of a camera. He screamed to the captain. 'Get that ship out of the way!' Then he called Ben-Gurion on the phone and said, 'Get that ship out of our way. Fire the head of the Israeli Navy!' They got the boat out of the way."

"IN HAWAII, it was the opposite. He needed a destroyer for a shot. The island was put on an alert and no destroyers were available. He screamed and screamed. He got his destroyer."

Jill, who came here four years ago for the premiere of "Exodus," intending to stay three weeks, hasn't been back to England since.

"My father, who owns a lot of cotton mills and is also a racing car driver, a real maniac, has two homes there that

Durand Men Hurt En Route To Station

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Two volunteer firemen were injured in a collision while hurrying to the fire station to answer a call Thursday at 6:20 p.m.

John Pittman Sr., 53, is in St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, where he was reported to be holding his own, according to his brother, Pepin County Clerk Martin Pittman.

John received a skull fracture, apparently when he fell from his vehicle to the concrete. He appeared to be semi-conscious at the hospital Thursday night, responding to relatives by a slight movement but not talking. He is in the intensive care department.

Pittman had proceeded west on 3rd Avenue in his late model car to the intersection with Prospect Avenue at the four corners where Highway 10 turns west in the middle of town.

Lieffring, in an old model car, was driving north on Prospect. His vehicle hit the grill and front part of the Pittman car as Pittman was entering Prospect to make a right turn, also to drive north to the fire station.

Pittman's car was turned by the impact so it faced south on Prospect. The driver's door was open when the vehicle came to rest. He was lying about 10 feet from his car. No glass was broken except the headlights. The entire front was extensively damaged.

Lieffring's car went out of control and veered left to hit the car of Donald Hartung, Elmwood, who was driving south.

PITTMAN and Lieffring were taken to St. Benedict's Hospital. Riehl ambulance transferred Pittman to Rochester. The ambulance had to take the long way to Rochester, via Red Wing, because the Wabasha bridge has been closed since the Mississippi flood.

Firemen proceeded to the Benny Swanson Jr. residence about seven miles southeast of Durand in Town of Maxville, Buffalo County. Mrs. Swanson was burning rubbish in a burner near the barn. A gust of wind carried sparks and ignited weeds, but firemen stopped the spread of flames.

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Because work was started by S. J. Groves & Son on Interstate 90 up Dakota Valley Thursday, Postmaster A. L. Sanford said Roland Papenfuss, rural carrier, will have to make some changes on Rt. 1.

Beginning today mail will be delivered a few minutes later than usual to Dakota Valley, Nodine area, Apply Valley south of Dakota, Highway 61 and boxholder on part of the route toward Ridgeway.

This will be in effect as long as work is in progress on the new highway or until further notice.

The school bus transporting children to Dakota won't be delayed although it will take an 11-mile detour from the place where the old Dakota school stood to Nodine.

Groves is running one shift and will go on two later. Crews have encountered ice and mud problems.

Area Lawmen Meet at Durand

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Lawmen from 14 counties attended a meeting of the Northwest Peace Officers Association at the Durand Country Club Thursday afternoon.

Clark LaVron, special agent in the criminal investigation division of the attorney general's office, Madison, explained new investigation procedures.

$5 Million for Flood Aid Voted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The federal government allocated $5 million Thursday for use in disaster relief in Minnesota, and 14 Midwest senators said they will introduce a bill to assist individual victims of recent floods and tornadoes.

In a telegram to Gov. Karl Rolvaag, President Johnson said the $5 million was an initial allocation and that the Office of Emergency Planning will continue to consult with Minnesota officials about use of the funds.

Rolvaag has estimated that floods caused $88 million damage in the state.

The governor Thursday asked that Pope County be included in his list of disaster areas in Minnesota. This was the 60th county for which he asked federal disaster aid. Forty-six of the counties have been approved for aid. Carver County farmers Thursday were approved for government feed grains under the short-term feed grain donation program of the federal government.

The Midwest senators said in a joint statement their bill is designed to aid persons hard hit by recent natural disasters.

The bill would provide emergency disaster aid for elementary and secondary schools, highways and communities not now protected, and would authorize the president to provide dwelling and shelter accommodations for victims of disaster areas.

The bill was developed by Sen. Douglas, D-Ill.; Jack Miller, R-Iowa; McCarthy and Mondale of Minnesota, and the senators from Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Also in Washington, a Senate banking subcommittee Thursday approved a bill extending the disaster loan program for areas hit by floods and tornadoes.

The measure would extend the time period for 3 per cent disaster loans by the Small Business Administration to home owners and business men from 20 years to 30 years.

In cases of extreme hardship, the bill would authorize a five-year suspension of disaster loan interest and payments.

The cast chosen will include Tom Davis, Dean Jones, Greg Dahlen, Lynn Sorum, Mary Kelly, Leanne Turner, Steve Johnson, Linda Hayes, Lowell Olson, Lois Schultz, Sharon Gilbert, Norman Gillund, Hallie Russell, Carmie Safford and Jane Ehler.

Sentenced Suspended On Bad Check Case

LaVern D. Hungerholt, 36, 456 E. Sarnia St., pleaded guilty Friday in municipal court to a charge of petty larceny by check and received a suspended $50 or 17-day sentence.

Judge John D. McGill imposed the sentence after hearing Hungerholt's guilty plea to the charge of cashing a $35 check brought by Richard Cole, manager of the Piggly Wiggly supermarket, 5th and Lafayette streets, Feb. 24. Hungerholt admitted he had insufficient funds to cover the amount of the check.

The $50 bail posted by Hungerholt on his arrest Thursday at 12:35 p.m. at his home was refunded.

24 States on Teresan Summer Institute Roster

Participants from 24 states, Canada and Colombia, have been selected for a College of Saint Teresa summer institute for secondary school chemistry teachers.

Sponsored by the college in cooperation with the National Science Foundation, the institute will open June 21 and continue through July 30. It will deal with chemical bonds.

Winona and area teachers selected as participants include Sister M. Stefan, OSF, St. Mary's School; John Brose, Lanesboro High School, and John Pongratz and Sister M. Celeste, who teach in the high schools of Caledonia.

Six of the participants are from Minnesota. The other states represented are Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Nebraska, Alabama, California, Michigan, Maine, Kansas, Maryland, Washington, Iowa, New Jersey, Illinois, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Indiana, Texas, North Carolina, Kentucky, Delaware, Florida, Ohio and Louisiana.

Eighteen men and 22 women have been selected for the institute, which is directed by Sister M. Clarus, OSF.

Woman Injured In Collision

A Winona woman was discharged Friday from Community Memorial Hospital following a collision Thursday at 9:45 a.m. (CDT) on U.S. 14 near Stockton, the sheriff's department reported.

Jack Overing, Stockton, was driving west on the highway when he signalled a left turn and began to slow down to make the turn into a farm driveway. Looking into his rear-view mirror, Overing saw a car driven west on the highway by Marcela Schaefer, 34, 151 E. 5th St., bearing down, authorities said.

Realizing she could not stop for him, Overing stayed in the westbound lane to allow the Winona woman to pass him. However, the Schaefer woman stayed in the westbound lane also.

The Winona woman was shaken up in the mishap and was admitted to the hospital complaining of neck pain. Her injuries are not believed to be serious, according to a hospital official.

Damage was $500 to the front of the Schaefer car, and Overing's 1951 model car was totally wrecked. Deputy Lamar Fort investigated.

Student Reports Theft From Home

Gary Mayer, 717 W. Broadway, a student at Winona State College, reported the theft of a Royal portable typewriter and $100 worth of S & H green stamps while he was out of town on Easter vacation. Police Chief James W. McCabe said.

The police detective division is investigating the theft, which Mayer said occurred sometime in the past two weeks. Winona State College held classes through April 15 before recessing for the spring vacation.

Thoughts at Random — From Editor's Notebook

EASTER 1965. Who will ever forget Easter Sunday 1965 in Winona? The city was fighting for its life in the most devastating flood in its history. No one knew what was going to happen. Grim-faced men and women were hoping they could attend Easter church services — but most of them were on the dikes or working for disaster services. It was just two weeks ago and the city is beginning to relax — but it was a period we would not want to relive.

We noticed this headline in a Twin Cities newspaper the other day: "Mississippi Too Strong For Levees — Iowa, Illinois Cities, Farms Inundated." Telling about "The Winona Story," we could reverse the headline to read: "Winona Levees Too Strong For Mississippi — No Homes In City Inundated."

Our circulation department, incidentally, is pretty proud of our truck drivers. Although deliveries during the height of the flood were late — and there were many, many detours — every paper, to our knowledge, was delivered to every community in our circulation area throughout Southeastern Minnesota and Western Wisconsin with the exception of one bundle which was overlooked by a substitute driver last Sunday.

LOTS OF PEOPLE are wondering how to dispose of the sand used to fill the hundreds of thousands of bags. Here's a suggestion: Why not take the bags to Lake Park and dump the sand on the beaches which are in need of rebuilding.

There is much discussion as to the future of our temporary — but sturdy — dikes. Should they be removed or be rebuilt and made permanent. This is a matter for the engineers — federal, state and city — and we'll wait for their decision. Floods, however, usually come in cycles of two, as they did in 1951 and 1952 — so we should be thinking of next year.

THE MINNEAPOLIS STAR gives Winona the credit we deserve for our "tremendous fight against the Mississippi River." Here is an editorial you will enjoy which appeared last week in the Star:

"WINONA'S TREMENDOUS fight against the Mississippi River has earned new respect for this important urban community in Southeastern Minnesota. It was timely, then, that as flood waters rushed past great dikes that Winona had thrown up at a cost of more than $3 million an important industrial announcement was being made elsewhere in the city, an announcement that will mean jobs for Winonans and an outlet for area farmers.

"A New York company said it will take over the closed Swift & Co. meatpacking plant and re-open it. The Swift shutdown earlier this year had been the most serious economic loss by Winona since the closing of railroad shops some years ago. The new operator, Charles A. Sayous, Inc., expects to employ some 100 persons in a few weeks and eventually up to 200.

"The announcement was indeed good news for a city that had battled vigorously and efficiently to save itself from impending natural disaster — a battle which revealed something about the caliber of Winona's governmental leadership. The response of this community to a critical problem surely will not go unnoticed by those in industry weighing alternative sites for plant locations in the upper Mississippi valley.

"And if the same determination and cooperation among various Winona groups in the flood could now be applied to such important community questions as urban renewal — an issue that has divided Winona up to now — Winona could find itself carried quite a way by the momentum built up in the great flood of 1965."

EDITOR PHIL DUFF of the Red Wing Republican-Eagle, writing with tongue in cheek, had a little fun with Wabasha in this piece in his newspaper last week:

"HOLD ON, this isn't what I bargained for!" Wabasha's Ray Young may well be saying to any voter who will stop and listen.

For when the editor of Wabasha's newspaper patriotically filed for mayor some weeks ago, Wabasha was safely and firmly attached to the rest of Minnesota. Before Young could take office, however, his community became a full-fledged island in the swollen Mississippi. It's one thing to be mayor of a city firmly rooted in the state of its birth, and quite another to be captain of a floating town that just a bit more rain and flood might send drifting off with the current to become Wabasha, Wisconsin; Wabasha, Illinois; Wabasha, Arkansas; or Wabasha, Louisiana.

Or if the flood tide runs even stronger, is it possible that Young's drifting ship could go all the way and become a new Caribbean Isle? Certainly that would enhance its tourist potential, about which Young is rightly concerned. It would also relieve Wabasha of the necessity of observing American law and leave Mayor Young free to introduce the Sunday liquor, horse racing, and pari-mutuel betting which he urges editorially.

On the other hand, there'd be portentous political repercussions should Wabasha drift into the Gulf of Mexico, beyond the limits of U.S. jurisdiction. It would rob assorted Foleys, Quigleys, Lunds, Heals and others of a political base from which to operate, and the Democratic party would find itself sorely wounded. Some prominent public officials (LBJ's small business chief, Gov. Rolvaag's state business manager) would be hard pressed to produce either a certificate showing native birth or naturalization papers as U. S. citizens. Could they then continue in office?

Wabasha's new mayor-editor will hopefully find some way to moor his city fast to the Minnesota mainland. Highway 61 is a mighty uncertain lifeline. Ray, but take a good, hard grip there on your island and the rest of us Hiawatha Valleyites will do our best to hold you in place.

TODAY IN WORLD AFFAIRS

LBJ Emphasizes Desire for Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — President Johnson felt that it was necessary to reiterate the American government's desire for peace negotiations to end the Viet Nam war, so he used a televised press conference on Tuesday — especially called for the occasion — to dramatize the issue.

For there is no doubt that the situation in Southeast Asia is causing anxiety and a feeling throughout this country that the war might be widened as well as lengthened. Mr. Johnson is well aware of the apprehensions that emerge as young men and their parents begin to wonder if troops will be required in larger numbers. So the President is wisely explaining the Viet Nam problem to the American people even through repeating what he has said many times before.

The United States finds itself criticized as an "aggressor" by the Communist countries, and it is necessary to emphasize the truth. This is that the Communists are continuing their aggression in South Viet Nam despite opportunities to settle the war by a peace conference. As the President says, there can be an end to the war and a peace agreement the moment the Communist countries decide not to send troops and supplies from North Viet Nam into South Viet Nam.

MR. JOHNSON IS careful to point out that the United States has no alternative to the bombing of bridges and supply lines in North Viet Nam. The President stressed the fact that the bombing is being conducted primarily against bridges and installations and that there is a minimum loss of life. The United States, therefore, is not waging a war in which it is going to extremes. In fact, Mr. Johnson ruled out any possibility of using nuclear weapons to achieve the present objectives and declared at his press conference that no steps involving nuclear weapons had ever been suggested by anybody in the government here.

The whole purpose of the administration is to present to the other peoples of the world a true exposition of American policy in Viet Nam so that public opinion everywhere will begin to put pressure on both Red China and the Soviet Union to initiate the necessary steps to withdraw their guerrilla henchmen from South Viet Nam.

To a certain extent the President is also aiming at critics in this country who seem indifferent to the high principles of American policy and who would prefer to see their own government make peace at any price.

South's Hold on Congress Broken Over Civil Rights

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Southerners in Congress hold more power positions today than in President Truman's time, 15 years ago. But their actual power has been dented and, on civil rights, broken.

The two main reasons — besides the obvious one of new times, attitudes and faces — are the Supreme Court decision of 1954 and conservatism's smashing defeat in the 1964 election.

This shows the irony in the Southerners' predicament: In 1950 Southern Democrats held only 40 percent of the prized Senate committee chairmanships, or 6 out of 16. Today they have 62 percent, or 10 out of 16. It's similar in the House.

Yet, in the Truman years, when their power position was smaller, they could stop him and Congress dead on any attempt to put through a civil rights bill. They had one big weapon, the filibuster, and one price-less ally.

This was the much more conservative attitude of the Congress of those days, which meant lack of enthusiasm or perhaps even interest in civil rights or choking off the Southerners.

Then some of the most important figures in Congress, all of whom had lived through the depression but refused to adjust to the new era ushered in by the New Deal of the 1930s, were conservatives.

Their only difference was in party labels. This made a tacit alliance with the Southerners — to the extent of not frustrating them on civil rights — a lot easier and more natural since the Southerners were conservatives, too.

At the same time the old Supreme Court decision of 1906 — saying it was constitutional to segregate Negroes — still stood and thus put a respectable constitutional cloak over those in both parties not fighting for civil rights.

The great change began with the court's 1954 ruling which overturned that of 1896 by declaring the very principle of segregation unconstitutional. This deprived all forms of segregation of legal blessing and congressional inertia.

It broke Southern resistance, although it took many Southerners a time to realize it, since they put on a show of defiance, and took the spirit out of it.

Within three years, in 1957, Lyndon B. Johnson, then Senate Democratic leader, was able to pilot the first civil rights bill of this century to passage. Southern resistance in Congress couldn't stop it, and it has been growing weaker since. The result: Two more civil rights bills, in 1960 and 1964, were passed.

Now, under President Johnson's prodding for a strong measure to protect Negroes' voting rights, Congress will pass another civil rights bill and this time Southerners haven't even planned a filibuster. But other forces were at work to reduce conservatism in Congress. The big example came last year in the presidential race between Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater.

He made conservatism versus liberalism such an issue it gave the country its first clear choice on this since the 1936 race between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas.

Goldwater not only suffered shattering defeat but carried his Republican party to disaster. The election gave the Democrats 68 Senate seats to 32 for Republicans and 295 House seats to 140.

Now Republicans must adopt a more liberal look to restore their fortunes. This means they can't line up with the Southerners, particularly on civil rights. A good insight came recently from Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

This Republican Senate leader, who backed Goldwater in 1964 after the latter voted against civil rights legislation, says now in support of Johnson's civil rights bill:

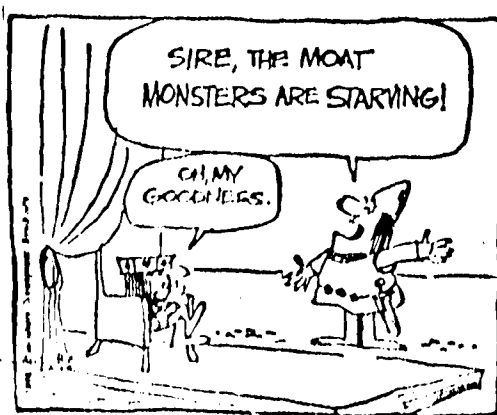

"We're thinking of people with dusky skins who for 100 years have been denied the right to vote." Dirksen himself voted for the 1964 civil rights bill.

Infants Can Have Diabetes

By J. G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our grandson, born last fall, seems unable to handle any form of sugar. Do babies that young have diabetes? Can it be detected at such an early age?

Sugar seems to cause a rash on his bottom. Diabetes is very prevalent on my side of the family and my dad was among the first to take insulin. (He lived to be 83.)

I am worried for fear our grandson might wind up in a diabetic coma before they can find out if he has the disease. — MRS. W. D.

Yes, infants can have diabetes, especially those with a strong family history of that disease.

I doubt, however, that his rash is a result of diabetes, or even of sugar. That isn't one of the classical symptoms.

When babies this young develop diabetes, it is usually abrupt and severe in onset. Their symptoms progress swiftly to acidosis and diabetic coma. The younger the child, the more one must be alert to act quickly in case diabetes signs appear.

IN THIS case, I doubt that the little fellow is in trouble, but with his family history one must be aware of the possibility.

It is a simple process, with a baby as with anyone else, to test the urine for sugar, or to use the precise blood sugar tests.

For the benefit of others who are worried about diabetes, may I call attention to the enlightening remark in today's letter: The grandfather who, with insulin, lived to the age of 83 in spite of a disease which, before insulin was discovered in the 1920's, would have been tragic.

Dear Doctor: I have had hemorrhoids for a long time and would like to be operated on, but I have heard so much about them coming back afterwards. Do you think surgery is successful? — F. M.

I know it is successful — and I don't know of anything else that will do more than postpone the day of reckoning when you just can't put up with the trouble any more.

Hemorrhoids are like small varicose veins. In fact, they ARE varicose veins in a sensitive location. The swollen veins, once removed, are gone for good. This does not mean, however, that other veins may not subsequently become swollen. Let's put it like this: If you have a leak in the roof, you can get it fixed, but the roofer cannot guarantee that you won't eventually find a leak somewhere else.

The majority of people who have surgery for hemorrhoids are through with the trouble afterwards. But some may have new hemorrhoids develop later.

Following the surgery, it's of particular importance to return to the doctor for a limited time for "dilation." This will prevent scar tissue from building up and inciting future trouble. The avoidance of constipation is also important.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother, who is a waitress at night, stops after work and drinks beer with her friends. After she gets home she very soon visits the bathroom once and sometimes twice. Does lots of beer affect bowel action? — MRS. W. F.

Yes, for some people beer can cause diarrhea.

Dear Dr. Molner: Why is it when my 14-year old daughter eats ice cream it gives her stomach cramps and then a loose bowel move-

We Should Qualify For All-American City Honors To the Editor

It has been proposed that Winona seek to be named an All-American City in 1966. They cite the building of a new high school, obtaining a new industry to replace one that left, fighting the mighty flood, and knowing where we're going on urban renewal, as accomplishments that would give Winona the boost to be named an All-American City in 1966.

I think Winona has a number of nice things for its size: its good streets, its fine fire department, and its wonderful park system, just to mention a few. Winona did a tremendous job fighting the flood and I agree wholeheartedly that we deserve national recognition for our efforts. I think we should try to be named an All-American City. But I doubt if we will make it on our accomplishments up to this time.

Why? Many cities are building new high schools. The new industry that located here merely replaced one that left. This is not the economic growth that has been characteristic of cities receiving the All-American award. Indeed, we may know where we're going on urban renewal by 1966, but what if Winona doesn't get urban renewal? We must show growth and progress. Our only solid added claim to All-American City status at this time is our flood prevention effort. I doubt if this is enough. I only hope that others will become interested enough to bring about the changes that would give us a REAL chance at becoming an All-American City.

Spring Grove Woman Takes Singles Title

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — Mrs. Hayward Bentley, farm wife and helper to her turkey raising husband, captured top singles honors in the state bowling tournament held at Colonial Lanes in Rochester. The meet ended last week.

Mrs. Bentley bowled 682 — or a 632 actual — with a 50-pin handicap. Her games were 213-215-204, giving her the first prize of $150. She has bowled about six years and Mrs. Bentley competes for Spring Grove Hatcher in league action.

Second place was won by Ida Krtnick of Minneapolis with 677.

This was the first time Mrs. Bentley has bowled in the state tourney. She stated that her husband played first, the first time he bowled in the state tourney in Minneapolis in 1956 when he bowled 742.

Reidelberger Heads Winona State's Faculty Association

New president of the Winona State College Faculty Association is Jacques Reidelberger, assistant professor of speech. Other officers:

Vice president, John Kane, State College Board and the Phelps Junior High School supervisor. Secretary, Susan Day, instructor of physical education, and treasurer, Rod Henry, instructor of social sciences. William Emmons of the mathematics department was re-elected representative to the IFPC, the inter-faculty policies committee.

The faculty association, through the IFPC, serves as spokesman for the college faculty in matters of faculty welfare and other concerns to the State College Board and the state legislative bodies. Membership in the organization is voluntary. (Seventy-five percent of the faculty are affiliated with the association.)

YM to Explain Leader Program Monday Evening

Information about the YMCA junior leader program will be given seventh and eighth grade members at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Each year 24 boys in eighth and ninth grades are picked to be members of two junior leader clubs. In these clubs, boys serve the YMCA which, in turn, trains them in leadership skills.

Conducting the meeting will be Henry Maly, physical director, and Larry Schiller, youth work secretary. They will explain selection of next year's clubs which will be accomplished this summer.

Club members serve in the grade school game room, craft shop, archery range and in gym and swim classes as teaching assistants. The 12 boys in each of the two clubs work about two hours a week in these posts. They attend weekly meetings and acquire a general familiarity with all YMCA activities.

Thirty-six African nations now shape their own destinies. There were only four countries ruling themselves in all of Africa at the end of World War II.

Strum Girls Sell Buttons For Festival

STRIUM, Wis. — The Women's Civic Club again is sponsoring a queen contest in connection with Strum Steam Engine Days, Aug. 13-15.

All girls between 16-19 with Strum address are eligible to enter. There is no deadline except contestants must be 16 when they enter.

Candidates will be selling commemorative coins depicting a steam engine. The winner will be selected at a banquet at Club Midway Aug. 10 from among five girls who have sold the most coins. Judges will be from out of town. All girls who enter will be honored at the banquet.

The queen will be crowned Aug. 13. She will receive a $25 savings bond. All entering will receive a gift.

Girls wishing to get into the contest should contact Mrs. Gerald Bergerson and receive coins to sell. The contest opened Saturday.

Rollingstone Youth Held on $1,000 Bond

A Rollingstone youth was held in county jail Saturday morning under $1,000 bond following his not guilty plea Friday afternoon in District Court to a charge of check forgery.

Gregory Pfremmer, 18, appeared with his attorney, Robert G. Hull, to hear the check forgery charge read by County Attorney S. A. Sawyer. Judge Arnold Hatfield heard Pfremmer's plea and set trial for not before May 17.

Sawyer, in reading the complaint against Pfremmer, added the charge of "uttering" a forgery to the actual forgery charge made in the written copies given to Hull and Judge Hatfield.

Hull objected to this, and Sawyer indicated he would submit an amended complaint at a later date. One section of the Minnesota criminal code encompasses the actual signing of a false name to a document. This is in the charge read to Pfremmer.

Another section extends the crime of forgery to include the passing of a forged document. It is this section which Sawyer wants included in the complaint.

The youth, of course, cannot be charged twice for the same alleged act. Sawyer's amended complaint will broaden the one charge. The maximum penalty on conviction of a forgery charge is 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Giel to Speak At 'Y' Banquet

Paul Giel, former Winona athlete, will speak at the annual YMCA banquet for fathers and high school-age sons May 12.

Giel will address the 6:30 p.m. banquet on the Tokyo Olympics. All high school members of the YMCA, whether Hi-Y members or not, are invited to attend with their fathers.

High school members will be recognized for scholastic and athletic achievements in the past year. The Hi-Y award, honoring an outstanding senior boy, will be given by Ted Biesanz, chairman of the YMCA youth committee.

Heading the banquet planning committee is Thomas Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Knollwood Lane.

GALESVILLE, Wis. — The Public Service Commission of Wisconsin announced it will investigate without hearing application by the city of Galesville for authority to install a well and water treatment plant and make main extensions. Estimated cost of the project is $116,523.

Station Wagon Burns at Bethany

BETHANY, Minn. (Special) — A 1956 station wagon and contents burned in a fire of undetermined origin Friday night at Bethany.

Flames swept by an easterly wind threatened the garage but the vehicle was moved out of the way before they spread.

Mrs. Carroll Tolstad, glancing out of her residence on the main thoroughfare, discovered the fire in the family vehicle. With another vehicle, Tolstad moved the wagon to the street to save the garage. Lewiston firemen put the fire out before the gasoline tank exploded.

Destroyed with the wagon were an antique bed and mattress and transistor radio stored in it.

Widow Sells Harmony News

HARMONY, Minn. (Special) — The Harmony News has been sold by Mrs. Ila McGenty to Obed Borgen, Rochester, who took possession Saturday.

Mrs. McGenty has published the paper 42 years since the death of her husband, Jim, in 1900. The McGentys owned the Harmony News 11 years. Borgen plans to move his wife and three sons to Harmony after the close of the school year. Mr. Borgen will make no change in employees. Mrs. McGenty will remain during May.

Sunday Liquor Bill Back Before House

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota House has voted down the Sunday liquor bill again and a reverse parliamentary twist put it back on the calendar again.

The proposal first was defeated by a vote of 86 to 44 on April 1. It was amended, however, and returned to the floor Friday. It was rejected again, 85-36.

At this point, the usual maneuver is for opponents to move that the bill be reconsidered, then they shout down the motion. This, under House rules, serves to kill a bill for the rest of the session.

The motion to reconsider was made by Rep. Gary Flake of Minneapolis, who has opposed it throughout the session. On a standing vote, the motion carried, 47-45. Thus the bill was revived and probably will appear on the floor Monday.

Before the vote to reconsider, Rep. Richard Richie of St. Paul offered an amendment which was accepted. It provides that any municipality which licenses private on-sale liquor stores could issue a Sunday license to a bar-restaurant seating 50 persons or more.

Thus the bill now legalizes Sunday sales but the matter of issuance of any licenses is up to local governments.

Before the amendment was adopted, the bill provided that Sunday licenses could be issued in large cities unless banned by local ordinance.

Rep. R. W. Johnson of St. Paul, the principal author of the liquor bill, appearing as started as anyone when the bill was revived again.

Before the vote, Johnson had appealed for votes on grounds

Examination for Postmaster Set At Rollingstone

ROLLINGSTONE, Minn. — Applications for the position of Rollingstone postmaster will be received until May 25, the Civil Service Commission has announced. Salary is $5,735 a year.

A written test will be given at a date and place to be announced. Applicants for the vacancy must have at least one year of experience; education above high school may be substituted for six months of experience.

Applicants also must show they are of good reputation, can meet and deal with the public agreeably and effectively, and must have resided within delivery of the post office one year immediately preceding the closing date. They must be 18. Persons over 70 can't be appointed.

Application forms must be filed with the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C. 20415. Complete information may be obtained at the post office for which the examination is announced.

Richard Reiland is acting postmaster.

Bookmarks Presented To Patrons of Independence Library

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special) — In observance of National Library Week, Miss Mildred Cripps, librarian, presented bookmarks to patrons and displayed posters and books.

Circulation was 14,434 books and periodicals last year. A total of 324 books was added, making 6,143 adult and 2,850 juvenile books available.

The librarian answered 602 reference questions. The library carries 44 magazines and three weekly papers.

The library received a gift of 60 LP records. For those not wishing to borrow them, there's a record player at the library.

Turnblad Cleared by Grand Jury

ST. PAUL (AP) — A grand jury found that Will C. Turnblad did nothing originally wrong in claiming higher academic qualifications on a civil service application.

The grand jury heard four witnesses Friday, then decided not to issue an indictment.

Robert Mattson, Minnesota attorney general, who had instituted the falsification of academic records charge, said "my office considers that this matter is now closed."

Turnblad said he was extremely gratified with the grand jury's action.

Turnblad, 54, was named Minnesota corrections commissioner in August 1959, but Gov. Karl Rolvaag declined to name him again in January. He applied in February for the post of supervisor of delinquent control in the Corrections Department and was relieved of the job early in April when Mattson's office claimed Turnblad's academic record had been falsified.

Mattson said Turnblad claimed degrees from the University of Minnesota and from the University of Southern California, when in fact, he had none.

The grand jury session Friday lasted 2½ hours. Appearing as witnesses were Ray Lappegaard, Turnblad's successor as corrections commissioner; James Alexander and George Rowan, Corrections Department employees; and Lawrence Barry, of the Civil Service Commission.

Mattson said in a statement after the jury announcement: "The evidence has been presented to the grand jury and I am satisfied with its determination. I wish Mr. Turnblad and his family well in his future endeavors."

Turnblad said he has made no plans for the future.

Lake City Sixth Graders Present Science Exhibits

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Fifty-eight sixth graders at Jefferson School presented their annual science fair Tuesday.

Three blue ribbons were awarded. Diane Duncan and Marsha Smith received a blue for their project, "You Are What You Eat," featuring three white rats, Tom, Dick and Henry.

A study of six simple machines drew a blue ribbon for Jerrold Alkinson and Marlin Greer. Duane Schumacher received a top rating for his project on the human eye.

Judges were Henry Finney, William Holmes and Miss Edwina Schlueter, science instructors at Lincoln Junior and Senior High School. The fair was directed and supervised by Mike Corrigan, Jefferson principal, and Mrs. Gertrude Munger, sixth grade teacher.

Lake City Flour Mill Reopened After 1st Closing

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Tennant & Hoyt flour mill, closed April 13 because of the flood and no train service, opened again Friday. This was the first time in its 34-year history the mill wasn't operating.

Full passenger service on the Milwaukee Railroad was restored here Wednesday. Freight service began on a limited basis.

Trempealeau Deputy Holds Safety Check

TREMPEALEAU, Wis. (Special) — A car safety check was conducted in Trempealeau Saturday by Oliver Landers, village marshal and county deputy sheriff.

Anyone missed and wishing a check of his vehicle should contact Landers. Checks will be conducted from time to time in the village this summer, he said.

Employe Stops Break-in Effort

Police investigated an attempted break-in and a case of possible vandalism Friday night and Saturday morning. Police Chief James W. McCabe said Saturday.

James Langowski, an employee of Nelson Tire Service, 4th and Johnson streets, was locking up Friday about 10 p.m. when he observed what looked like a youth standing outside a rear window of the shop, apparently preparing to break in.

Langowski ran outside and across the street to a service station where a police patrol car was standing and told them about the youth. The patrolmen conducted a search, but the youth had apparently fled, Chief McCabe reported.

A smooth stone was thrown by a person or thrown up by the wheels of a passing vehicle against a window at the front of the Williams-Wilbert Vault Co., 1635 W. 5th St., Friday night, according to Chief McCabe.

The stone shattered the outer pane of the two-pane window, causing $150 damage.

Eleva Planning Broiler Festival

ELEVA, Wis. (Special) — Committees working on the annual Broiler Festival June 11-13 reported Tuesday night at a meeting in Community Hall.

Committees include: Daniel Van Pelt and Walter Gehring, advertising; Stan Amundson and Arthur Kelley Jr., purchasing; Ronald Peterson, fireworks; Gordon Semington, Ronald Peterson, Mrs. Donald Nelson, Mrs. Ronald Semington and Marvin Koser, parade; LaVerne Engen and Walt Gehring, tickets; Leonard Nysven and Mel Skogstad, prizes; Victor Wenaas, entertainment; Gary Hagness and Dan Van Pelt, carnival; Mrs. Palmer Christianson and Mrs. Walter Gehring, queen committee.

Dennis Peterson and Palmer Christianson, dug out; Mrs. Merwyn Spangberg, Mrs. Victor Wenaas and Mrs. Duane Semington, talent contest; Mrs. Rodney Gunderson, Mrs. William Tollefson and Mrs. Gary Hagness, kiddie parade; Merwyn Spangberg, Marvin Koser, Leonard Nysven and Victor Wenaas, finance and Rodney Higley, Ronald Peterson, Mel Skogstad and LaVerne Engen, restrooms.

Members voted to build a permanent shelter to be used for a chicken stand during the celebration or as a picnic shelter. It will be back of the hall.

Two new restrooms are to be erected in Randside Park in the next two weeks.

June 3 has been set as a tentative date for the broiler queen's banquet at Club Midway, Independence.

Mel Skogstad, committeeman for the annual firemen's ball held Saturday night at Community Hall, and Arno Bollinger, fire chief, said funds raised by the dance will be used to buy a smoke ejector.

Broiler festival committees will meet again May 11.

Sheriff Reports Two Crashes

Two accidents occurred on county highways Thursday and Friday, according to reports by Sheriff George L. Fort.

The most serious accident occurred Friday at 9:45 a.m. on Highway 43, three-fourths of a mile south of Hart, between a truck hauling a two-wheel trailer and a passenger car.

THE TRUCK, driven south on the highway by Leland Stensgard, Rushford, Minn., was attempting to make a left turn into a driveway when the driver saw a passenger car, also moving south on the highway, attempting to pass a pickup truck and also the Stensgard truck.

Stensgard decided to remain in the southbound lane to allow the car driven by Alfred M. McNamer, 24, Puyallup, Wash., to pass. However, McNamer had applied his brakes and was skidding out of control, according to the sheriff's report. His car clipped the two-wheel trailer attached to the Stensgard truck.

No injuries resulted. Damage was $300 to the left front and side of the car owned by Martin McNamer, 147 Fairfax St., and $25 to the trailer. Deputy Helmer Weinman investigated.

$100,000 Fire At Madelia Hits Bowling Alley

MADELIA, Minn. (AP) — Fire destroyed an eight-lane bowling alley Friday, did heavy damage to the adjacent Veterans of Foreign Wars Club and destroyed or damaged a dozen pieces of farm machinery displayed in an open lot next to the bowling establishment.

Loss was estimated at about $100,000.

Madelia is 20 miles southwest of Mankato, in southern Minnesota.

The blaze was touched off with explosive force at 3:45 a.m. 15 minutes after the alley proprietor, Kent Tatro, had left. He had worked into the morning hours resurfacing the alleys, and apparently lacquer fumes trapped in the building ignited, according to firemen.

Tatro said he had taken precautions to air out the building and shut off furnace controls. In addition to the bowling alley, the building had a Veterans of Foreign Wars hall and an American Legion hall and club room.

Fire Chief Joe Marturano said he had never seen a building consumed as rapidly. The roof caved in less than half an hour after the blaze started.

Group Promoting Root River as Canoe Trail

By RUTH ROGERS
Sunday News Area Editor
CHATHFIELD, Minn.

The Root River, which floods each spring, has long since returned within its banks and for the Trailblazer canoe trip from Chatfield to Houston over the Memorial Day weekend, you'll find the smooth, lazy water that characterizes the river most of the year.

This year, from May 29-31, the Root probably will look different than ever before in history. There'll be 100 canoes riding down the stream. And people taking the trip will see nature's wonders as they never saw them before on this exciting route through the Minnesota Hardwood Forest.

THE MOST picturesque part is from Chatfield to Lanesboro: 22 miles of steep hillsides along which there's an old dam, still standing sturdy, which was privately built years ago and furnished the first electric power in Southeastern Minnesota.

The canoeists will be going through area that to the Sioux Indians was the "Hokah," meaning Root. This meant the area where everything started, comparable to the concept of the Garden of Eden.

In their folklore, the Sioux believed the creator began his handiwork in this peaceful, wooded area. Later the Houston County village of Hokah got its name from the Sioux Garden of Eden.

Another translation of Hokah, the name of an Indian chief, is heron. This is apt, because in the quiet backwaters of the Root, the canoeists will catch a glimpse of the many blue heron which make the Root and adjacent forests their domain.

THE WOODS abound in game: Deer, rabbits and fox. Bass and trout fishing will be good, and those who are lucky will see the spawning grounds of rough fish: Redhorse, carp and suckers. They'll surprise muskrats from their houses and see mallards watching their nests. Many wild ducks make their home here.

The water won't be over waist deep on the Root, which in many places resembles a little Switzerland. Fast drops in the stream, shallow rapids, limestone boulders that cover the riverbed, and quick turns, with branches tangled overhead, make the stream all the more interesting.

Boy Scout troops will clear out hazards before the Trailblazer. Traveling with the canoeists on their virgin trip will be six resource personnel to point out the high points of this primitive trail.

The excursionists will see picturesque the old Irish village of Lanesboro, settled in 1868, from a new vantage point. At the bottom of its surrounding hill instead of from the top looking down. It will pass the quaint village of Whalan, edge Peterson, and travel through the tremendously beautiful Root River Valley with its towering bluffs, breathtaking at all seasons of the year but prettiest when green.

BRUCE Humrickhouse, district forester, and Robert Rislove, Fillmore County game warden, both of Preston, will be among the resource guides, plus Phil Ham, La Crescent, Houston County game warden; Phil Vieth, Caledonia, district forester; Harold Dineen, Caledonia, Houston County work unit conservationist, and Skip Painter, of the U.S. Division of Fisheries, Lanesboro.

Arland Ellstad will coordinate overnight camping at Lanesboro Saturday, downstream from Chatfield. On the campsite laid out by the Lanesboro Sportsman's Club there'll be a chicken fry from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

There'll be sunrise Catholic and Protestant church services Sunday morning, shuttle service provided and informal attire acceptable, ham and eggs at 7 p.m., and departure for Rushford, 20 miles downstream, at 8 a.m.

Following a riverbank chuckwagon meal from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Rushford, canoeists will camp out there Saturday night.

Canoeists will start for Houston, 12 miles downstream, at 8 a.m. Sunday following a Texas breakfast at 7. A ham and scalloped potato dinner will be served at Houston at 2 p.m. Shuttle service back to Chatfield will be provided from Houston. One driver per car will be shuttled back. No canoes or gear may be transported by bus.

Cars and canoes will be guarded during shuttle service. Brunch will be furnished in the form of box lunches from Chatfield, Lanesboro and Rushford. All campsites will have toilets, drinking water and firewood.

SUGGESTED equipment to take along: Three paddles per aluminum or fiberglass canoe or other small portable craft; motors not recommended; length of light rope; one life jacket per person; tent, stakes and poles; sleeping bags and pillow; ground tarp; air mattress; rain gear; packsack; warm jacket; sturdy pants; sun glasses; waterproof bags for critical items, with billfold in plastic; plastic or canvas wash basin; camera and film; canteen; toilet articles; toilet paper and face tissues, and handkerchiefs.

Guitars, ukes, banjos and players and singers will be welcomed.

Stan Chiglo will be coordinator at Whalan; Earl Hoff at Peterson; Tom Jensen at Rushford and Miles Summers at Houston.

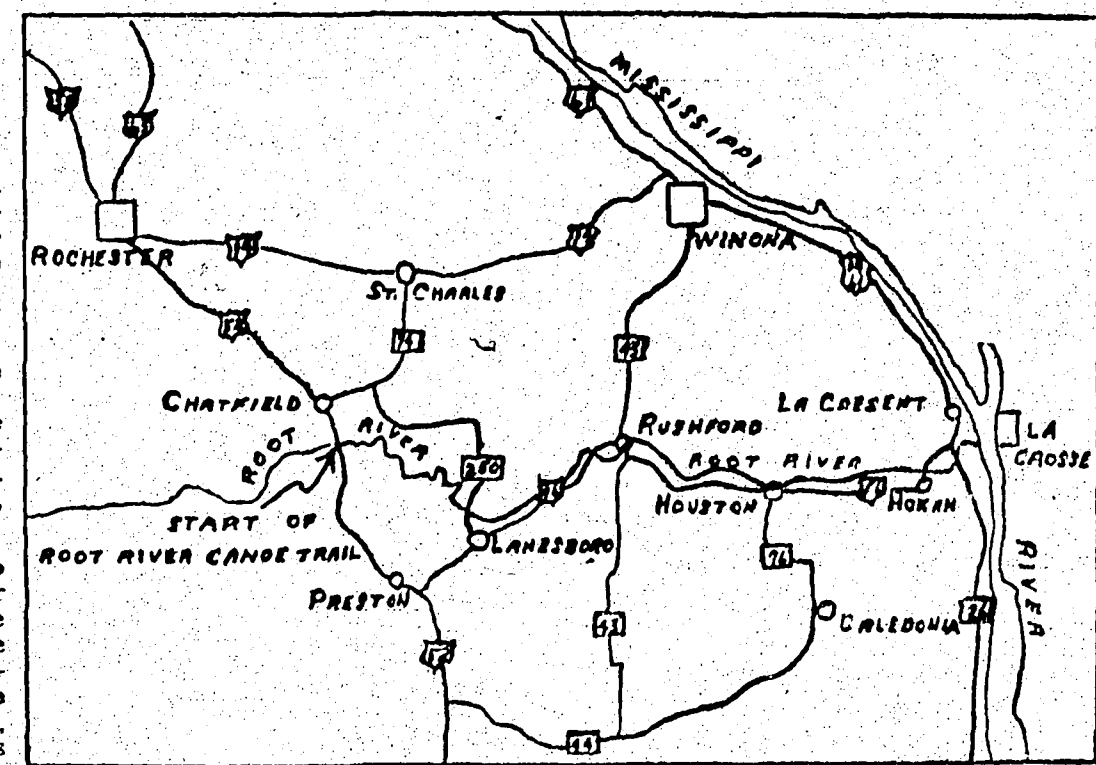

For those who continue on downstream to complete 70 miles, Robert Becker will be coordinator at Hokah and Chester Lachek, La Crescent. Coordinators are making arrangements for serving of meals by local sportsmen's and service groups. Earl Bunke, Rushford, has canoes for rent.

RISLOVE, Humrickhouse and Ham suggested the canoe trip in connection with the Area Rural Development program.

Trailblazer Canoe Trip May 28 to 31

Editor's note: Want to take a weekend canoe trip? Contact Roger Lynn, Houston, for details on the 54-mile Root River Trailblazer canoe event over the Memorial Day weekend.

It'll start at Chatfield Friday night, May 28, or Saturday morning, as you prefer, and reach Houston Monday, May 31.

Canoeists wishing to go farther may continue to Hokah and La Crescent, where the Root empties into the Mississippi. That will make the trip 70 miles.

There'll be campsites in Chatfield for Friday night. Information will be available at the sign-up tent in Chatfield Municipal Park. Willie Eppen, coordinator for the Root River Canoe Trails Association at Chatfield, will take care of your needs there.

A big ceremony for the maiden trip is being planned. There will be two starting points Saturday morning.

The sign-up tent will open at 6 a.m. Canoeists will be guided to the starting point at Parsley bridge on Highway 52 just south of Chatfield at 8 a.m.

Those who can't start until noon Saturday will launch their canoes some 5 to 6 miles below Chatfield.

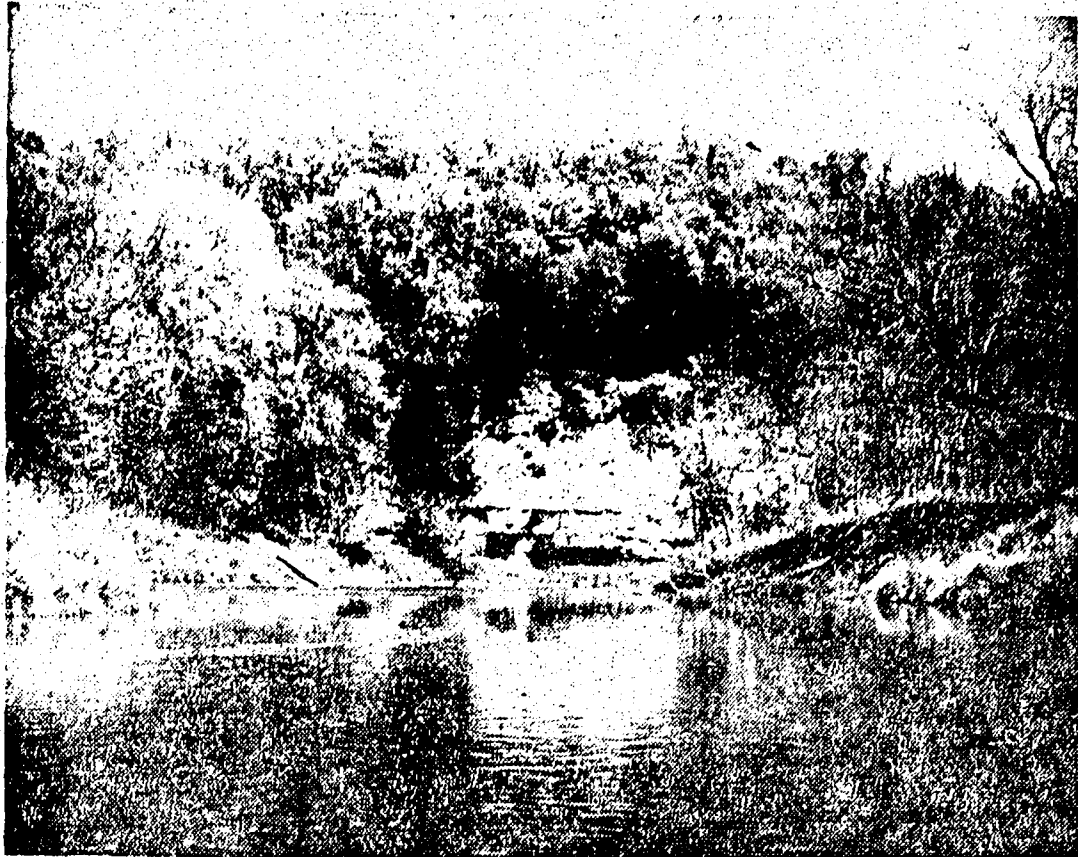

The trip will be made regardless of the weather. Contact Lynn or any officers of the association for additional information.

Clyde Ryberg, administrative assistant to Sen. Henry T. McKnight, met with the group and encouraged promoting the trip by describing a similar one that attracted thousands of sightseers along the Minnesota River last year.

E. E. (Ray) Bentsdahl and Earl Bunke, Bentsdahl, Rushford, are co-chairman of the group; Larry Belongie, Houston, treasurer, and Robert Bunke, Rushford, publicity chairman.

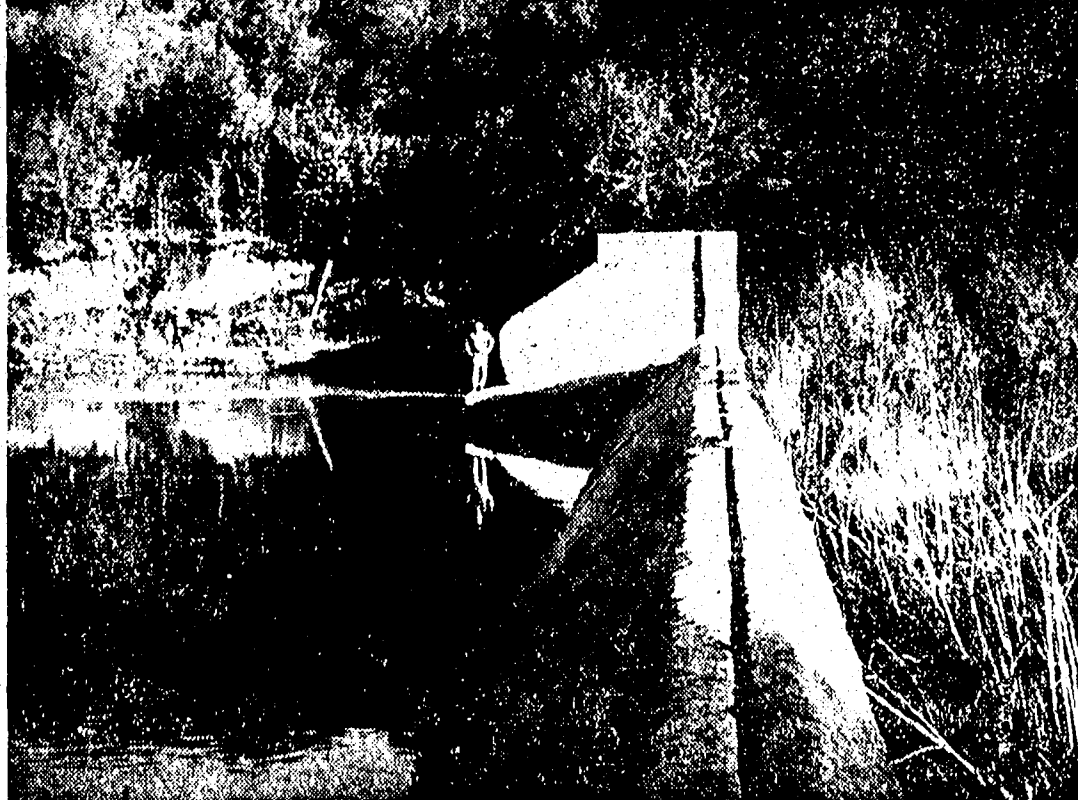

William Shakespeare Jr. of Michigan in 1897 invented the level-wind fishing reel. His device, which made casting practical, assured the even winding of the line on the spool.

SHARP BEND AHEAD ... Root River is full of sharp turns such as this one. There's something new around each one. Resource men along on the canoe trip will explain nature's wonders.

SWALLOW NESTS ... Nothing but birds would attempt to build so precariously along this "Little Switzerland" route along the Root between Chatfield and Lanesboro. Along the 22 miles there are towering cliffs.

OLD DAM ... If you weren't floating down the Root River, you'd never see this historic old structure near Chatfield, long since out of use.

BOYS AND THEIR DOG ... It's hard to tell which like the lazy Root River best, the boys or the dog. This is the Root River near Rushford.

Thank You from the RED CROSS

To all the volunteers, individuals, schools, churches—and all who were so generous with their time, money and food during the flood emergency.

We'd like to thank you all personally but that would be impossible because so many were involved ... so we take this means to express our gratitude.

Weeks News in Review

Johnson Moves Fast To Save Americans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the lives of Americans endangered, Lyndon Baines Johnson called in the Marines, and dispatched them to the Dominican Republic — reversing in one quick action a generation of Washington policy towards Latin America.

It had been more than three decades since the Western Hemisphere had witnessed anything similar, and there were immediate shouts of "gunboat diplomacy" from governments which didn't like it.

But President Johnson let the criticism bounce off, and shipped in the Army to aid the Leathernecks in their job of evacuating and protecting Americans caught in the civil war which had torn Dominica apart since last weekend.

Combined with the U.S. determination to fight communism in Southeast Asia, and a toughening policy on foreign aid, it appeared that Johnson was finally getting his point across to the rest of the world.

The United States is fed up with having its citizens threatened, its embassies attacked, its interests violated, either by lawless mobs or hostile foreign governments.

The Dominican revolt broke out last weekend. It toppled the government of Donald Reid Cabral, who had received U.S. support.

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, Juan Bosch, who had once been president, started packing his bags. But there was to be no quick, triumphant return. At week's end, a struggle for power continued, waged by various branches of the armed forces.

In its wake came deaths for hundreds, injuries for hundreds more, anarchy, a complete break down in law and order, and looting.

Among the dead were two U.S. Marines, killed by sniper fire as they advanced side-by-side with Dominican forces to set up an "international safety zone" in Santo Domingo. At least four Leathernecks were injured and an unknown number of paratroopers were hurt.

Johnson told a radio and television audience Friday night that the Organization of American States had worked out a cease-fire formula with the help of the papal nuncio in Santo Domingo. But Johnson said some elements were ignoring the peace effort and added: "There are signs people outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control."

In Cuba, Fidel Castro was certain to take note of the U.S. action in case he had ideas of trying to take advantage of the Dominican upheaval. At the United Nations, Cuba asked Secretary-General U Thant to start action there to prevent occupation of the Dominican Republic by U.S. forces.

Cross the world in the jungles of Viet Nam, the dirty little war continued on its inexorable way.

U.S. officials claimed that the bombings of North Vietnamese communications routes were beginning to show results.

"Now we're slowing them down," said an American military officer. In 12 weeks of bombing, 24 North Vietnamese bridges were knocked out, and photographs showed destroyed bridge spans, looking like so many missing teeth.

But — and in Viet Nam there always is a but — the South Vietnamese Air Force commander declared: "The raids against communications are not really effective. The Communists can always find ways of moving through the jungle."

As the King of Siam said in the Broadway show: "It is a puzzlement."

Despite his intervention in Dominica, President Johnson held out the olive branch in South Viet Nam. He repeated Tuesday that the United States stands ready to meet anytime with any government, anywhere, without preconditions, to find ways to end the war in Viet Nam.

This was the fervent hope expressed in an unexpected encyclical letter issued by Pope Paul VI. The pontiff named no names, but his remarks were directed at both sides.

"We beg all who hold responsibility in public life not to remain deaf to the unanimous desire of mankind which wants peace."

"We ask that they do all in their power to preserve the peace that is threatened, and continue at all times to foster and encourage conversations and negotiations at all levels, that the dangerous report to force with all its lamentable consequences, material, spiritual and moral may be halted."

Tenaciously, the veteran of many union battles clung to his post. "I am president of this union until the first of June," he said. But tellers of the United Steelworkers Union had made the final count and declared that I.W. Abel was the new president, and that David J. McDonald, despite his 40 years guiding the union, was out. McDonald said the teller's report was "the first, not the last, word."

Steel also made headlines in Britain where it goes beyond the chaos of a possible strike or a struggle for leadership. In England, the government could change over the issue. For Prime Minister Harold Wilson wants to nationalize the steel industry. His labor government gave some details of its controversial nationalization plan Friday. Both opposition parties — the Conservatives and the Liberals — flatly oppose national-

Winonan Who Became Governor To Be Discussed

Ben C. Van Sant

Winona's only governor, Samuel R. Van Sant, will be discussed by a relative at a public meeting of the Winona County Historical Society May 11.

Ben C. Van Sant, Pequot Lakes, Minn., will discuss "Family Memories of Governor Van Sant" at the society's museum, 125 W. 5th St., at 8 p.m.

Ben wrote of his research, "I have been collecting information, especially from my father who spent summers as a boy on Uncle Sam's riverboats. Dad has told me of many interesting experiences he had with Uncle Sam during their lives."

Ben Van Sant pioneered the first ski areas in the Midwest in 1936 as a sideline to his public relations work for department stores. He is retired now, but engages in the part-time business of "Skiing Unlimited" at Pequot Lakes.

Samuel R. Van Sant was governor 1900-04.

Coady Double Villain, Hawks Fall

By GARY EVANS
Daily News Sports Editor
Jim Coady, a rawboned right-hander, wears the tag of villain very well — so well in fact that he was totally responsible for a 2-0 La Crosse Logan victory over Winona High at Jefferson Field Friday afternoon.

Firing a dipping fast curve, fastball and tantalizing "roundhouse" curve, Coady fashioned a one-hitter in dropping the Hawks below the .500 mark at 1-2 on the season.

But the afternoon was not entirely gloomy. Plagued by cold weather and sore armed pitchers, Hawk Coach Ed Spencer brought Ron Fugelstad up from the "B" squad.

He got his chance to use the 5-7 sophomore when son Todd's arm tightened up after one and one-third innings. Fugelstad came through admirably. He was tagged with the loss after giving up two third-inning runs (only one earned), but surrendered only five hits while striking out five and walking none.

While "B" squad Coach Jim Elliott fidgeted on the bench, Fugelstad came in in the second with the bases loaded, struck out the first man to face him and got the second to ground weakly to the shortstop.

Lanesboro Tops Cards

HARMONY, Minn. — Lanesboro ripped Harmony 7-3 in a non-conference baseball game here Friday.

State Raps Dragon '9' In League

MOORHEAD, Minn. — Winona State shot to the top of the heap in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference Friday by posting an easy 17-7 victory over host Moorhead State here.

The Warriors, now 3-4 on the season, smashed 15 hits in the win as they pummeled three Dragon pitchers.

Styba Fires No-Hitter, Saves Second Game as Ramblers Take Two Wins

By GARY EVANS
Sunday News Sports Editor
Cotter High School's baseball team got its first extended action under ideal weather conditions Friday, and Coach Jim Muellen had to like what he saw.

To begin with, Steve Styba, the staunch ace of the Rambler pitching staff, was in mid-season form, flashing a no-hitter in the first game of a double-header against Wabasha St. Felix and being credited with a save in the second.

The Ramblers won both games behind a mauling attack that started Chuck Kulas. Kulas came up with five hits in six times at bat in the two five-inning contests and drove in five runs.

SLUGGERS THREE . . . Cotter hitting leaders are, from left: Chuck Kulas, John Nett Jr. and Bob Allaire. They helped pull the Ramblers to a double-header victory over Wabasha St. Felix Friday. Kulas was 5-for-6 in two games. Nett was 2-for-7 and Allaire 1-for-4. Both Nett and Allaire hit at crucial points in the second game. (Sunday News Sports Photo)

Hawk Tennis Team Wins

Winona High's tennis team emerged with a 6-1 victory over La Crosse Logan Friday. It was the Hawks' second win of the year.

"The boys are playing real well," stated Coach Lloyd Luke. "We made fewer mistakes and we won." Winona hosts Red Wing Tuesday at 4 p.m. in its next match.

KOUFAX PULLS LEG MUSCLE

'Charlie Hustle' Hammers Spahn, Mets

Charlie Hustle dashes to first base even when he gets a walk. Sandy Koufax, on the other hand, might do well to slow down on his way to first.

Koufax, Los Angeles ace making his fourth start with an arthritic elbow, pulled a muscle in his left leg while racing to first for an infield single in the fourth inning of the Dodgers' 6-3 victory over San Francisco Friday night.

The 29-year-old southpaw remained in the game but finally was forced to leave after getting into pitching trouble in the sixth inning. Dodger officials said the injury was only slight, but it was said the muscle pull definitely affected Koufax' pitching effectiveness.

SHUTS OUT WHITE SOX 7-0

Is Grant All Washed Up? Not After 3-Hit Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Song - and - dance man Jim Grant went out to face the music and wound up calling the tune.

The Minnesota Twins' right-hander, who heads a musical combo during the off - season, took a rock-and-roll earned run average — 18.92 — into Friday night's game at Chicago and came away with a 7-0 three-hit triumph over the White Sox.

City 4-0 behind Marcelino Lopez and Bob Lee and three-run homers by Boog Powell and Curt Blefary led Baltimore past New York 10-4 in other AL games.

The Twins treated 20-game winner Peters roughly in the first inning. Zoilo Versalles led off with a double; Tony Oliva singled him in and Bob Allison delivered another run with a single. All three drove in runs later in the game and Grant ignited a three-run ninth-inning burst with a triple.

Aguirre reeled off his third straight victory, with only a pinch-homer by Chuck Schilling hurting him. (Gate Brown's two-run double in the third paced the Tigers' offensive.

TWIRLS THREE-HITTER . . . Jim Grant throws baseball against Chicago White Sox Friday night in game which he walked only three hits as Minnesota Twins beat White Sox, 7-0. (AP Photofax)

The victory, eighth for the Twins in 11 starts this season, snapped a five game Chicago winning streak. It probably saved Grant's spot in the Minnesota pitching rotation as well. Grant, traded from Cleveland to Minnesota last June, won 11 games and posted a 2.82 ERA in 166 innings with the Twins. In two previous 1965 starts, however, the 29-year-old fireballer had been shelled for seven runs and 11 hits in 3 1-3 innings.

Sam Mele, the Twins' manager, hinted before the start of the White Sox series that another bombing would knock Grant out of the club's starting corps. Jim responded by retiring the first 12 men he faced and allowing only one hit — an opposite-field bloop double by Pete Ward over the first 5 2-3 innings. The Twins, meanwhile, clipped Chicago southpaw Gary Peters for three runs in the first inning and won going away.

Left-hander Hank Aguirre of Detroit also fired a three-hitter as the Tigers topped Boston 4-1. Cleveland trimmed Washington 5-2 on Ralph Terry's four-hitter; Los Angeles blanked Kansas

OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — Tonight will mark the opening party of the 1965 golfing season at Osseo Golf and Recreation center. This will be the kick-off for a two week membership drive with the hope that the majority of the 1965 membership will be signed up during this time.

As an added bonus to those attending, anyone present with a membership will receive a golf ball.

The tournament committee composed of Willie Sieg, Erv Olson, and Andy Hunchak met recently to form plans for the club golfers.

Janice Neitzke Clobbers 575

Janice Neitzke and Lee Bisek shared honors in Friday night bowling action.

Janice blazed 575 for Dorn's IGA in the Hal-Rod Pin Dusters League and also clubbed a 225 game to finish one pin behind Esther Pozanc's 226-548 as a sub for Steve's. Shorty's tumbled 973, Winona Rug Cleaning 2,611, Orlane Kittle 516 and Jo Billgen 509.

Bisek topped 626 for East-side Bar in the Hal-Rod Legion League. Williams Annex picked up team high of 1,000-2,920 and Robert O'Neil tipped 250 for Mutual Service. Erv Scheve leveled 608 and Gene Kaehler 601.

IRENE POZANC bombed 562 for Warkowski's in the Westgate Satellite circuit. Cozy Corner Bar tumbled 923-2,604 and Yvonne Carpenter of Sugar Leaf Inn 215-537. Virginia Schuminski wired 542.

Home Furniture won the second-half championship in the Winona Athletic Club Major League although Nelson Tire—the first-half king that Home Furniture will meet in a roll-off — clubbed 1,037-2,931. Clem Rozek toppled 231-617 for Peerless Chain.

Bernice Kratz led Schmidt's Beer to 887-2,577 with her 206-525 in the Red Men's Club Ladies League.

AT WESTGATE BOWL, in the Braves and Squaws circuit, Leona Lubinski topped 205-519 and Joe Knopp 219-557 as the pair paced Knopp-Lubinski to 800-2,198. Peg Streng tipped 501.

Ruth Kukowski with 208-502 and her Coca-Cola team with 703-2,016 swept honors in the Winona Athletic Club Nite Owl League.

Bob Nelson's 231 paced Watkins Min-Vites to 1,054 in the Westgate Lakeside League. Rich Moham clouted 588 for Brem's Sign Co. and Kline Electric dipped 2,821.

'Quality of Heart' Is Kundla's Banquet Topic

CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special) — Emphasis on the "quality of heart" in an athlete and not size or stature of the individual was the keynote theme of John Kundla's speech at the Caledonia High School athletic banquet.

Kundla, head basketball coach at the University of Minnesota, spoke before 250 guests at the sixth annual banquet.

Some of Kundla's thunder was taken away when it was announced that Jim Wiegrefe was named the year's most outstanding athlete at the school.

Other awards went to Dean King as the outstanding football player, Jon Ask the outstanding basketball player and Blaine Schult the outstanding wrestler.

Kundla explained that he was glad to see young men taking part in various sports because of the benefits they derive from such participation. "There are many advantages to athletics," he said, "sound mental attitudes go hand in hand with a sound body; a self discipline, both mental and physical, is established, ready to serve in later years.

"Size and athletic ability are important," he continued, "but they are not all important. The desire to play hard and win (the quality of heart) — makes

Park-Rec Loops Will Organize, Pee Wee Monday

Organization dates have been set for summer Little League baseball by the City Park-Recreation Department.

All organizational meetings will be held at Lake Park Lodge. Knee-High Tee Ball and T-Shirt League boys must be registered by their parents at the Park Recreation Office in advance of the meeting date.

Parents must also make certain boys attend their organizational meeting dates.

The Pee Wee league for boys ten and 11 years old, will meet Monday at 7 p.m. The Midget National league, for boys 12 years old, will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. May 13 is the date for the Midget American league, for boys 13 and 14 years old. It is also at 7 p.m.

The Bantam league, for nine year olds, will meet May 15 at 9:30 a.m., and the T-Shirt, for boys eight years old, will be at 9:30 a.m. May 22. The Knee-High Tee Ball loop, for six and seven year olds, will meet June 5 at 9:30 a.m.

INDIANS FALL TO MAZEPPA

WABASHA, Minn. — Mazeppa captured a 6-3 victory over Wabasha here Friday in a Centennial Conference baseball game.

The Indians and Mazeppans each had five hits, but Mazeppa shoved across runs in the first, second and one each in the fourth, fifth and sixth to win.

Dennis Iverson had 2-for-3 and a home run for the losers. Pete Ekstrand had a triple to drive in two runs.

Mazeppa is now 2-0 in the league, while Wabasha is 0-1.

BLAYNE ONSGARD FIELD AT FOUR

SPRING GROVE, Minn. — Spring Grove High School will be host to the first annual Blayne Onsgard Invitational track meet Wednesday.

The meet will be held under the lights, starting at 7:30 p.m.

WEST SALEM PITCHER NO HITS MELROSE

MELROSE, Wis. — West Salem pitched five runs in the first three innings to walk off with an 8-1 Conference victory over Melrose.

West Salem's Dan Bina pitched — no hitter against the Eagles. He also had a triple, home run and sacrifice fly. He picked up 15 strikeouts.

GOODRICH PULLS U.S. TEAM PAST RUSSIANS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gail Goodrich found the range in the final minute and pulled the United States national basketball team to a 69-65 victory over the Soviet Union national team Friday night.

Mathews' Homer All Braves Need to Climb Back to .500

MILWAUKEE — One mighty blast by Eddie Mathews was virtually all the Milwaukee Braves needed to climb back to the .500 mark in the National League race.

Mathews connected for one of the longest homers of his career and settled down Tony Cloninger, as the Braves evened their record 6-6 with a 7-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night before another wee crowd of 2,923 at County Stadium.

Cloninger, surviving a shaky start, fired a masterful five-hitter, allowing only three runners to reach base after Mathews gave him a 4-1 lead with a tremendous three-run homer, a clout which Braves and stadium workers measured at 485 feet, in the third inning.

Mathews leaned into a high fast ball from Phil starter Ray Herbert and hit a towering drive, which cleared the wall near the 360-foot mark and landed at the base of a barrier atop the 31-row right field bleachers. The homer was Mathews' fifth of the season and No. 450 of the slugging musclemans' career.

The first of two doubles by Frank Bolling and Lee Maye's first homer, a line drive into the bleachers in right, provided Cloninger two more runs in the fourth. The Braves added another run in the sixth on Bolling's double and an error by former Milwaukee outfielder Wes Covington, who dropped Ty Cline's short fly.

The Braves picked up a run in the first on singles by Maye, Aaron and Joe Torre. Philadelphia tied the count in the second on Clay Dalrymple's triple and Tony Taylor's single. The Phils loaded the bases on a pair of walks and a hit batsman in the third, but Cloninger got out of the jam and settled down after Mathews' homer.

Cloninger struck out five and walked four in evening his record 2-2. He said his "timing was off" early in the game, but he "knew where the ball was going from the fourth inning on."

"I also managed to work up a fair sweat with the temperature around 50 degrees," Cloninger said. "It felt almost like a heat wave after the brutal cold weather we had in my two previous starts. My fast ball was exceptionally alive. It was moving all over the place."

"I'm real loose again and swinging natural for the first time in three years," Mathews said. "I'm off to one of my best starts ever and feel wonderful. I just hope nothing goes wrong."

Good Opening Day for Many Despite Flood

Biggest Area Trout Caught Is 8-Pounder

By LEFTY HYMES
Sunday News Outdoor Writer

It was a beautiful day, trout were plentiful and thousands of May Day fishermen were happy throughout Southeastern Minnesota Saturday. Most of them took a creel of trout, many of the creels held limits.

On top of this bountiful trout fishing, river fishing was better than most fishermen expected. The river is still above flood stage, few boat fishermen ventured in the powerful current below the dams, but they were catching strings of walleyes off shore, and some big northerns. Panfish predominated backwater fishing.

Whitewater fishing records collapsed when Elmer Hodeen, Winona dam area, an ardent fly fisherman camping in the Whitewater State Park, walked into Mauer's in midafternoon with a giant rainbow trout — one of the largest ever entered in a contest there. It tipped the scales at exactly eight pounds, two ounces and measured 24 inches. Hodeen, fly fishing, got it on one of his own home-made squirrel tail flies.

Second trout of the day was a six-pound, two-ounce rainbow caught off the White Bridge at Crystal Springs, ten minutes after the season opened. The lucky fisherman was Leonard Bruesch, Rochester. He got it on a big night crawler.

Fishing pressure on the Whitewater "put and take" areas was heavy throughout the day from the 10 a.m. (Central Standard time) opening until almost dark.

DALE PETERSON, district warden supervisor, Owatonna, who flew over the area in a state plane, at 9 a.m., counted 473 cars in the immediate Whitewater area centered around Elba. This figure was slightly lower than in some recent years. However, George Meyer, superintendent of the Whitewater refuge, estimated that there were 5,000 fishing at the opening gun.

Warden Peterson stood on the Crystal Springs bridge with his watch in his hand for the countdown. With minutes to go, fishermen, fishermen and fishing youngsters lined the creek bank for two blocks in each direction with their eyes on the uniformed warden.

"One minute, a half minute, a quarter of a minute, go," he said, and a hundred baited lines hit the water. It was not a minute until the first trout was landed. They came fast after that. The trout, all-browns, ran about seven inches long, four to the pound. There were few, if any, carry-over or fall planted trout caught there.

AT THE stone bridge on the North Branch of the Whitewater at Fairwater, it was also shoulder to shoulder fishing with nearly everyone landing fish. Most of them were spring-planted browns. Only a few ran over ten inches. Similar catches were made on the Middle and Upper South branches. Highway 74 was closed and few fishermen got to the Beaver.

Down in Fillmore County, fishermen jammed the shores of Duscree Creek at Lanesboro for a quarter of a mile. They found fishing very satisfying with many limits of spring-planted fish taken the first half hour. The big fish there was a four-pound brown. Camp creek fishing was good, Russell Hanson, Lanesboro fisheries supervisor, reported.

River Reports

Fishermen below the Winona dam from the Wisconsin shore, during the hours immediately following dawn, got some excellent walleyes, four to six pounds, but as the day developed carp moved into the area and spoiled the walleye fishing. Some big northerns were pulled out of the flooded tree areas.

NO ONE ventured in the flood-driven current of the main channel. The only boats out hugged the Wisconsin shoreline. One bold, or foolish fisherman, rowed across to fish along the dam wall.

Buffalo City fishing areas were cut off by blocked highways. Along the Cochran-Buffalo City road, groups were spearing large buffalo — ten pounds or more — and big carp. At Alma, Wis., the Banta float was in operation with small boat transportation from Alma's water front. The Jones' float has been acquired by the Banta operators.

Best walleye fishing of the day that we saw, was off the area just below the lock of the Alma dam. Good strings of walleye were being taken there. At

PLENTY OF ACTION . . . The big rainbow trout of the day caught off the Crystal Springs bridge over the South Branch of the Whitewater ten minutes after the season started, gave Leonard Bruesch, Rochester, a real battle. In the picture to the left, Bruesch, not shown, is holding the fish with a stiff line from the bridge as a friend engineers a landing net over the fish's head. In the center picture the fisherman is exhibiting his victory smile and the fish. At Mauer's, Elba, Leonard watches the scales pass the six-pound mark. Just three hours later, Elmer Hodeen, Winona dam, walked into Mauer's with his eight-pound, two-ounce rainbow to claim the fish of the day reward.

THE STARTING GUN . . . Dale Peterson, district warden, called the countdown for the 10 a.m. opening at the Crystal Springs bridge on the South Branch of the Whitewater Saturday. This view shows part of the shoulder to shoulder fishing crowd about to drop their lines into the water.

OLD TIMERS RETURN . . . The beautiful weather and the lure of the jumping trout brought Mrs. Otto Biltgen, center, and Mrs. John Granzow, Winona, and Walter Schneider, Rochester, to their favorite spot above the bridge at Crystal Springs. The Biltgens have fished this place for nearly 25 years.

FLOOD SPEARING . . . Flood fields provided real sport for spear fishermen on the opening day along the flooded Buffalo City-Cochran road. Here Robert Zeller with big buffalo on spear, and Michael Benusa of Waukegan are patrolling a flood ditch seeking big ones. Zeller just landed the one on the spear. (Sunday News photos)

THE WABASHAN RIVER . . . The flood was still closed from the flood. Fishermen were fishing crappies off its bank. It was flood fishing at Wabasha.

At Bass Camp, near Whitman, fishermen were able to drive into the area below the tracks over the new road and were fishing from the high land. Some visitors were renting boats and fishing along the rock walls. The float has not yet been put in position.

Deer Season Dates to Stay

ST. PAUL — The House Game and Fish committee has approved a bill in effect keeping the status quo for deer season dates.

The measure keeps a 9-day season and specifies the two weekends prior to Thanksgiving Day each year. This year it would be Nov. 13-21, the dates already planned.

The committee rejected a Senate deer bill which calls for an 11-day split season.

If the House approves the 9-day plan, the Senate could reject the change and call for a conference committee to work out a compromise.

Palmer Takes 2-Stroke Edge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gaffer Arnold Palmer, who has not visited the victory circle in one year, took a two-stroke edge in today's third round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions.

Hot weather and a second straight day of wind was in prospect as Palmer, the 1962 winner, led his closest challengers, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Doug Sanders, with a 36-hole total of 135.

Back at 115 and ten strokes off the pace was defending champion Jack Nicklaus.

Hunters Spend $132 Million

WASHINGTON — A record 34,342,176 hunters and fishermen spent more than $132 million, also a record, in the United States on hunting and fishing licenses and permits during the year ending last June 30.

The Interior Department reported today there were 20,219,457 fishermen listed as paid license holders by the 50 states, 307,813 more than in the previous year. They paid $60,213,427 for licenses and permits, a record by $2,433,168.

Licensed hunters increased by 123,284, to a total of 14,122,659. They spent $72,071,094 for their licenses and permits, an increase of $3,965,071.

State game and fish departments certify the number of paid hunting and sport-fishing license holders to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. The data is used as a basis for distribution of federal aid funds.

The New York Mets set a new record for winning a game early in the season. After two defeats the National League tailenders of the last three years beat Houston 4-3 in the Mets' third game of the spring.

Braves President Refuses to Speak

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Braves threw up an iron curtain for Board Chairman Bill Bartholomay Friday night as he became the club's first top official to attend a game at County Stadium this season.

Bartholomay slipped into the Braves' mezzanine box at the start of the game with the Philadelphia Phillies and refused a written request from writers for an interview. However, he posed for photographers.

Girl Rescued in California Lagoon

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Angelo L. Galli happened to be looking through his binoculars man Bill Bartholomay Friday night as he became the club's first top official to attend a game at County Stadium this season.

Galli quickly telephoned police, jumped in his car and raced to the lagoon. He pulled Sydney Houghton, 12, out of the water and was giving artificial respiration when police arrived. "He saved her life," police said.

Hospital Auxiliary Resumes Activities for Benefit Show

The show must go on! That is the consensus of all the spirited women of Community Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, who momentarily forgot the Paint the Town Pink show in the urgent flood crisis.

AT THE HEIGHT OF THE emergency, when most of them were working valiantly with other women of the city, doing their bit to save the city, they wisely postponed the show from May 7-8 to May 21-22.

Now, with the flood danger past, they have returned with renewed enthusiasm to the auxiliary's major fund-raising event of the year. Armed with thankfulness that their beloved city has been spared the ravages of a flood, they prepare for what they anticipate will be an entertainment event of magnitude for all Winonans.

Winona and area people themselves will perform in the show, to be staged in the auditorium of Winona Senior High School.

A CLIMAX OF THE PREPARATIONS will be the talent party Tuesday evening at the Country Club. Everybody with a talent who would like to be in the show is invited, according to Mrs. R. W. Miller, talent chairman, who will be hostess.

"You are wanted!" Mrs. Miller said.

The Pink Lady Rockettes will dance, Fred Heyer's Combo will play, there will be refreshments and everyone who attends will have an opportunity to show what he can do before the New York City director from Cargill Players.

Some of the other committee women are: Mrs. J. E. Krier and Mrs. N. J. Fischer, finance; Mrs. Mark Kolter, chairman, and the Meses, William Wernz, Joseph Poblocki, Mark Yahnke, Mark Joswick and Mark Modjeski, makeup; Mrs. R. J. Harkenrider, nursery; Mrs. Bettie Hunter, ushers; Mrs. William F. White, chairman, and the Meses, Roger Brosnahan, B. A. Miller, Roger Selover, Rod Hurd and William Lindquist, publicity.

Below is a verse which appeared in the bulletin of the auxiliary. It cleverly expresses the sentiments of all auxiliary members in their wish to have everyone feel welcome to participate in the show, which is for the benefit of everyone in the community. Funds will go toward the furnishing of the new Convalescent and Rehabilitation Unit at the hospital.

TALENT COMMITTEE

... Mrs. R. W. Miller, chairman of the talent committee for Paint the Town Pink talent show, (at the top of the stairs) entertained members of her committee at her home, 51 W. Sarnia St., to discuss the exciting business of searching out talented people in the community to try-out for the show at the talent party next Tuesday night at the Country Club. In the foreground, from left, are Mrs. Leslie R. Woodworth and Mrs. Robert Steffen. Others on the stairs, from left are the Meses, Harold Edstrom, Fred Burmeister, Fred W. Naas and James B. Goetz. ### You Are WANTED at the TALENT PARTY Winona Country Club

7:00 P.M.

An evening of jolly surprises is planned, There'll be dancing and fun the night long. Fred Heyer will be there—and so will his band, There'll be nibbling, and sipping and song.

We'll be looking for talent of every description, To help us all paint the town pink.

If you're long, short, or tall, a Scot or Egyptian,

If you skate—or you paint—or you think,

If your most secret longings to be a magician, Or if you've a passion to sing.

If swallowing swords is your burning ambition,

Or if you just can't do a thing.

If your voice is a basso or mezzo-soprano, (A monotone also will do.)

If your hobby is checkers—or tuning pianos,

The one we want mostly is YOU!

The booth borrowed from the Salvation Army and painted pink by members of the Hospital Auxiliary will be placed at the corner of Third and Center starting Thursday for ticket sales to the upcoming show, "Paint the Town Pink." Mrs. Cecil Baldwin will man the booth.

Belated April in Paris Luncheon to Be May 8

"Belated April in Paris" might be the theme for the luncheon to be held at First Congregational Church Saturday. Originally scheduled for April 24, the date had to be changed because of flood conditions.

GUESTS WILL SEE a Parisian flower cart with gay spring flowers as they enter and be greeted in French by Mrs. Henry Lacher. The Fireplace Room will be decorated with eight hanging baskets filled with pink and white roses.

A focal point of interest will be the fireplace, banked with tiers of pink geraniums and arbor vitae branches. A hedge of huckleberry greens and a waterfall will complete the garden scene. An outdoor sidewalk cafe with a pink and white awning, pink tablecloth and fresh white geraniums will be the setting for the buffet table.

Each guest will receive a souvenir menu which will be in pink and green and printed in French.

This will be the third annual staging of the luncheon and one of the most popular features will again be repeated - the serving of a choice of home-made French pastries. French waitresses, costumed in black, with frilly white aprons and headbands, will bring pastry trays to the tables.

ONE BOTTLE OF French perfume will be given at each of the two servings - at 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Those who wish, may play cards after both servings, however, it is necessary that reservations be made for tables with the card chairman, Mrs. Lloyd Steinhilber.

There are no longer any tickets available for the 1 p.m. serving, but tickets for the 11:30 a.m. serving may be obtained from Mrs. Carl Ruge at the Ben Franklin Store, Mrs. John Pendleton, at the church office or from women of the congregation.

APRIL FLOWERS IN MAY . . . Women of First Congregational Church, undismayed by having to postpone their April in Paris luncheon until May, because of the flood emergency, work at the church in preparing gay floral arrangements for the luncheon.

Westfield WGA, Guests See Spring Styles, Play Cards

Members of the Westfield Women's Golf Association opened the season's activities with a dessert style show and card party, attended by 100 members and guests Thursday evening.

PRESIDING at the spring buffet table, which was decorated in pink and green, were Mrs. Walter Greden and Mrs. Hugo Tornow.

"Tee Up Your Personality," theme of the show, was pointed up in the smart spring fashions from Nash's store. These included sports and casual wear, as well as tailored and dressy fashions.

An outstanding number was called "Flower Fantasy," a white silk sheath, splashed with orange flowers. Also notable was a nautical knit outfit, which was a two-piece navy blue with a V-neckline and a red and white striped dickey.

THE AUDIENCE was impressed with a shirtwaist-style dress of white tulle with orange coin dots. A swanky casual sports ensemble was a deck coat of daring red, worn with white pants and a turtle-neck shell.

The amusing climax of the show was the appearance of Miss Carolyn Gerth in what could be called a "wild explosion of colors, styles and fads." Her funny outfit included red boots, textured stockings, gay makeup, and the Madras look and "wet" look in her uncoordinated plaid coordinates and rain coat.

Other models, all members of the club, were the Mrs. William Lang, Warren Wunderlich, William Gans, Al Howard, Lloyd Stehn, Myron Mosser, A. Grant Burleigh, Al W. Smith Jr., and Frank Uhlir.

Mrs. John Barrett was commentator and Mrs. Erna Epstein did the makeup. Fashion coordinators for the store were Miss Gerth and Mrs. Fern Haugen.

After the show, cards were played at 22 tables. Winners were the Mrs. Elmer Stuhler, Sig Jeresek, Louis Feiten, Stehn, Van Kahl, Arthur Hittner, M. W. Lund, Leonard DuBois, Ollie Davies and Tornow. Mrs. Robert Podjaski won the attendance prize.

Mrs. Wunderlich was general chairman. Mrs. Henry Dotterwick and Mrs. H. M. Kowalczyk, dessert chairmen, and Mrs. Herbert Hultgren, decorations chairman.

Father to Rate High at PTA

Fathers will rate two points for attendance at the final meeting of Madison School PTA at 7:45 p.m. Monday. The room with the highest attendance points will get special recognition, as is usual.

The 1965-1966 officers will be installed and the program will feature a "Chicken Fat" act by the third graders.

St. Charles Prom Set for Friday

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — The theme of the St. Charles Senior High School's annual junior-senior prom dinner and dance to be held Friday is "Sayonara," featuring a Japanese garden scene.

Susan Saathoff is general chairman. Sharon Decker is in charge of the ceiling decoration. Sheri Smith, the stage, and Roger Holm, rock garden and bridge.

Food for the dinner preceding the dance will be supplied by the juniors' parents and served by members of the sophomore class. Diane Heim is student chairman. The mothers' dinner committees include Mrs. James Henry and Mrs. Robert Kalmes, kitchen; Mrs. Fritz Wilson and Mrs. Gerald Haas, hors d'oeuvres, and Mrs. Don Schultz, clean-up.

Jim Casey's Dance Band will provide the music.

Former Winonans To Note 40th Year

Former Winonans, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Kaiser, 230 6th St. S.E., Huron, S.D., will observe their 40th wedding anniversary Wednesday at a High Mass at St. Martin's Catholic Church, Huron.

The Kaisers, who have been residents of Huron since 1909, have four children. They are: John R., Huron; James B., Highmore, S.D.; Mrs. Earl Foster Jr., Watertown, S.D.; and Mrs. Allen Schoels, St. Charles, Minn.

Lewiston Women's Bowling Banquet Set for May 19

LEWISTON, Minn. — "Bowery Days" will be the theme of the Lewiston women's bowling teams banquet to be held May 19 at City-Mar Bowl.

The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7. Trophies will be awarded for individual high game, individual high series, high team game, high team series, most improved average and other special awards.

Banquet committee members are the Mrs. Gene Schumacher, Nick Meisch, Lyle Blanchard and Jack Rainey. Mrs. Gordon Jones in charge of publicity. Mrs. Fred Nihart, Mrs. Ernest Ellinghuysen and Mrs. Sharon Kilmer, trophies; Mrs. Leo Miller, decorations, and Mrs. Walter Grutzmacher, entertainment, which will be provided by various team members.

Mrs. Richard Bonow and Miss Edith Manion make up the nominating committee.

NOMINEE AT BLAIR

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Jacqueline Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Thompson, has been nominated for the annual achievement awards program sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Sweet Adelines' President Is Mrs. Karsten

Mrs. John Karsten was elected president when the Sweet Adelines, Steamer City Chapter, met Wednesday evening.

Others elected were: Mrs. Andrew Buggs, vice president; Mrs. Francis Farrell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Meryle Nyseth, recording secretary; Miss Karen Nowlan, treasurer, and Mrs. Elmer Carney, junior council member.

A public "Sing Fest" will be held May 22 at 8 p.m. at the Lincoln School. The Ripcord Quartet, Region 6 champions, will be the featured attraction. There is no charge for the tickets which are available from any Sweet Adeline.

Chairmen for the event are: Mrs. Roger Roling, invitations; Mrs. Roger Pronzinski and Miss Karen Nowlan, theme and decorating; Mrs. Roger Roling and Mrs. Norma Haas, programming; Mrs. LaVerne Lawrence and Mrs. William Wiech, refreshments; Miss Karen Nowlan, tickets, and Mrs. Gerald Masyga, publicity.

Presbyterians To Hold Mother-Daughter Banquet

Final plans for the mother-daughter banquet were made when the Women's Association at Grace Presbyterian Church met Wednesday.

It will be held at 6 p.m. May 11 in the church dining room. Reservations must be made with Mrs. Paul Griesel Sr. by May 9.

All who wish to may create original hats to be shown at the banquet. These may range from the sublime to the ridiculous. This part of the program is voluntary.

MRS. ELMO Andersen presided at the business meeting. Circle reports were given and meetings announced.

Two circles will meet Wednesday at 2 p.m. Circle 1 meets with Mrs. Thomas Lightfoot, 703 1/2 E. Broadway, and Circle 2, at the church with Mrs. M. E. Schellhas as hostess. Circle 4 will meet Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Schaffner Homes. Circle 3 will meet May 12 at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Lamar Fort, Minneapolis City, Minn.

May Fellowship Day, sponsored by United Church Women, will take place Friday at Central Methodist Church. Those planning to attend the 1 p.m. luncheon should turn in their reservations to Mrs. Elmo Andersen by Tuesday.

The Fellowship of the Least Coin was dedicated by Mrs. Fae Griffith who also presented a filmstrip on "The Meaning of Ecumenical." The word, Greek in origin, is 2,500 years old and basically means the whole world. It has come to mean the whole Christian church taking the Gospel into the whole world. With one Lord and one mission we are united in Christian love, concluded Mrs. Griffith.

Hostesses were the Mrs. Rose Haefner, Thomas Lightfoot and Paul Griesel Sr.

MISS PEGGY ANN BAR-ENTHIN'S engagement to Mark Arthur Byron, son of Mrs. Marvin Pyron, Wewoka, Okla., and the late Mr. Pyron, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Howard Barenthin, Galesville, Wis. The wedding will be June 19 at First Presbyterian Church, Galesville. The bride-elect is an honor student in secondary education at La Crosse State University. She will attend Oklahoma State University as a senior this fall. Her fiancé is a senior at OSU, majoring in business administration. He is employed by Tesco Corporation.

Mrs. Martha Jordahl

Blair Woman, Trempealeau County's Eldest, is 102

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Father Time has dealt kindly the past year with Trempealeau County's oldest resident, Mrs. Martha Jordahl, Blair, who observed her 102nd birthday Thursday.

Mrs. Jordahl doesn't look a day older than she did a year ago, her friends say. Mrs. William Nelson, whose husband is Mrs. Jordahl's nephew and with whom she makes her home, says the former's health is better now than a year ago.

She has a remarkable memory and eats and sleeps well. Mrs. Jordahl remains in bed until 9 a.m. and spends most of the day in a rocking chair by a window. Mrs. Nelson helps her get dressed but Mrs. Jordahl takes care of her own hair.

MRS. JORDAHL walks with a cane and reads without glasses at 7 p.m., after spending most of the day looking at the old family album, she goes to bed. Mrs. Nelson says the old album is getting pretty worn.

Her birth date was April 29, 1863. She married Gunder Jordahl and they purchased a farm in Jo Coulee. Mrs. Jordahl has been a widow nearly 60 years.

When Mrs. Nelson got her ready to be photographed, Mrs. Jordahl remarked about the stole she was wearing. "I received this for my 100th birthday." When looking at the photograph taken at that time she said, "I am not very pretty."

Mrs. Nelson says Mrs. Jordahl is very much concerned about her appearance.

The Faith Lutheran Church

Women, rural Ettrick, entertained in Mrs. Jordahl's home when she reached the century mark and presented her with the white stole. Mrs. Jordahl still retains her church membership.

Wenonah Players Exhibit at NCTA Meeting, St. Paul

Wenonah Players, Winona State College, were represented in two categories of the theater exhibit of the North Central Theatre Association convention at Macalester College, St. Paul, last weekend.

Players exhibited a scale model of "Caligula" in formal classic style with an accompanying program. The play was presented during the tri-college drama conclave at WSC last spring. The model was designed by William Zenker, a graduate student in speech at WSC last year.

In a second category, two photographs of make-up used in the fall production of "Othello," directed by Miss Dorothy B. Magnus, also were exhibited.

While in St. Paul, Miss Magnus was the guest of Theatre St. Paul at a production of "Julius Caesar."

ST. JOHN'S AID — LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Ladies Aid of St. John's Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in the church's social room. Hostesses will be the Mmes. John Ehlers, Vincent Heise, Harold Hosteltter and Vernon Haglund.

Children to Rehearse for Mother's Day

Elementary age children of members of Winona Country Club, who will be performing at the annual Mother's Day luncheon May 9, are to register at the club and attend both rehearsals being planned.

MRS. C. Robert Stephenson requests that the children, who are called Choralaires, meet for rehearsal in the club ballroom at 3:30 p.m. today and at 3:30 p.m. May 8.

At the Mother's Day luncheon the Choralaires will sing a group of Mother's Day songs and selections from the award-winning movie, "Mary Poppins."

Members are urged to make reservations immediately by the May social committee: Messrs and Mmes. Ted Biesanz, R. W. Johnson and Fred Burmeister.

Episcopal Women To Present Skit, Discuss Luncheon

When St. Paul's Episcopal Churchwomen meet in the Ladies Parlor of the church Wednesday, the program will consist of a skit recognizing past presidents of the organization.

The 1:15 p.m. dessert will be followed by the program and the annual business meeting. Members of St. Elizabeth's Guild will be hostesses. There will be a discussion on the forthcoming luncheon, one of the highlights of the year.

Since May is Salad Month, St. Paul's Episcopal Churchwomen will sponsor their annual Spring Salad Luncheon May 13. An addition to the perennially popular basic salads, chicken, shrimp, and German potato, there will be a "pretty-as-a-picture" basic fruit salad, prepared by members of St. Hil-da's group. Dozens of colorful and delectable salads will tempt the appetites of all who attend, say committee members.

Luncheon tickets are available from all women of the church, at Ted Maier Drug Store and at the church office. Cards will be played in the Ladies Parlor with Mrs. Robert Selover in charge. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Harold Richter or the church office.

WSCS Breakfast Scheduled at Central Methodist

The Central Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold its final meeting of the year Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. in the Fireside Room.

A breakfast will be served by members of the May unit with Mrs. Donald Doumas and Mrs. Robert Winters as co-chairmen. Reservations may be made by calling the church office or circle chairmen by Monday.

The program will be an evaluation of the year's work and will be dramatized with a skit by some of the society members. Special music is being planned and there will be a nursery for small children.

Mrs. Robert Beadles will give devotion. Birthdays for May, June, July and August will be given recognition.

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — Three 50-year members of the Alma Order of Easter Star will be honored at a program and dinner Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Mississippian in Buffalo City, Wis.

The program will be held at the Masonic Hall here. Members to be honored are H. F. Thach, Madison, Wis.; Mrs. Olga Kirchner, Fountain City; and George Ulrich, Alma.

RESERVATIONS for Fountain City are to be given to Mrs. Wallace Haussinger; Mrs. Howard Achenbach, Buffalo City and Cochrane, and Mrs. Glenn Turton, Alma.

Galesville Club Sets Guest Night

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — "Latin American Fiesta" is the theme for the annual guest night banquet of the Galesville Music Study Club to be held in St. Mary's Catholic Church parlors at 6:30 p.m. May 10.

Mrs. Dean Helstead is planning the fiesta presentation. Her committee consists of the Mmes. Ray Andersen, Henry Lease, Lloyd Lippert and Lester Danuser.

Reservations for members and their guests must be in by Wednesday.

FORT PERROT DAB — ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — Fort Perrot Chapter DAB will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Wadleigh, Galesville, Wis. "The Sound of Freedom" will be topic presented by Mrs. R. E. Mossberg. Dessert will be served at 7:30 p.m.

MISS ROSE ANN KOETH'S engagement to Frank J. Adamczyk, son of Mrs. Dorothy Adamczyk, 611 W. King St., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Koeth, 320 E. King St. The wedding will be June 12 at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart. Miss Koeth is employed at Bolland Manufacturing Co. and her fiancé works at Peerless Chain. (Edstrom Studio)

500 Women Have Fun 'Swinging Into May'

By VI BENICKE

Sunday News Women's Writer

Hurray! Hurray! It's the first of May.

Thus agreed the 500 enthusiastic women who were present for the Mrs. Jaycees 13th annual breakfast held Saturday morning at the Cathedral of Sacred Heart.

The large basement dining hall, filled to capacity, was trimmed in a springtime atmosphere. Iris flowers and tiny maypoles graced the tables. On the stage stood an artificial blossoming tree with a large doll seated on a swing to carry out the theme, "Swinging Into May." The basement pillars served as maypoles and were trimmed with shades of yellow and lavender crepe paper.

Jim Hutton, personable TV personality from Chicago, was master of ceremonies for the third consecutive year. Formerly of KSTP in the Twin Cities, he is now doing a show for NBC in Chicago. All present enjoyed his ready wit and warm smile.

GRAND PRIZE winner in the hat creation event was Mrs. Lambert (Doc) Bronk, Rollingstone, Minn. She wore a hat which was made by her mother-in-law. Mrs. Thomas J. Bronk, 706 E. 5th St. Mrs. William (Yvonne) Lindquist, commentator, entitled it "Swinging Into May," since it appropriately tied in with the theme. Some of the many things anchored to her large hat which was covered with green crepe paper were: A baby on a swing, a peacock with a nest filled with tiny eggs, butterflies and a boy seated in a boat with a fishing pole and a fish.

Three other prize winners in the hat contest included Mrs. Martin Johnson, Utica, Minn., who wore a hat with an Easter theme. It was trimmed with Easter lilies, a yellow bow, Easter green grass and a Toucan bird with real feathers. Mrs. Clarence Halverson, Goodview, modeled an orange-apricot-colored hat which signified the opening of trout season. It featured sea shells and a mermaid with fishing pole. Real dried fish which were purchased in Florida surrounded her concoction. Mrs. Gordon Ballard, Goodview, devised a Mickey Mouse hat with large styrofoam ears which were centered with red artificial roses. The base of it was a boy's baseball cap.

OTHER participants wore hats which were trimmed in various ways. One of the women had a sign posted on the top of hers which read, "If this ain't fun, I'll eat my hat." Her bonnet was made of artificial fruit which rested on an aluminum pan.

OTHER WOMEN participating in the hat contest were: The Mmes. Jack Oevering of Stockton, Sam Adank of Goodview; Edward Chick of Goodview; Clarence Prigge of Lewiston; Robert Frank, Gerald Bruns of Minnesota City, Milton Underkoffler and George Meyers.

Lovely Miss Sharon Kreher, a 1964 Steamboat Days attendant who is currently teaching kindergarten in Stockton, Minn., contributed a pantomime dance routine to the tune of "Thirteen Men" and assisted Mr. Hutton with the drawings.

The grand prize winners were Mrs. E. T. Jacobsen, 1767 W. Mark St., who won a gift certificate; Mrs. Dale Pittelko, 417 Carimona St., stained glass ceiling light fixture; Mrs. Herb Speltz Jr., Rollingstone, Minn., the grand prize of a four-piece silver coffee server which was purchased by the Mrs. Jaycees; Mrs. Martin R. Peterson, 1311 W. 5th St., transistor radio, and Mrs. Robert Krick, 420 Center St., stacked hassock cushions.

Over 100 prizes were donated by local merchants. Three women who celebrated their birthdays Saturday and who received special awards were the Mmes. Lars Granberg, Wallace Viestenz and Howard Hengel. Other special awards for various contests were won by: Mrs. Lydia Neitzke, pink pills contest, bottle of brandy; Mrs. Leonard Kreidermacher, Minneapolis, Minn., longest last name, pen set and stationery; Mrs. Gale Haase, newest bride and mother, fruit basket; Mrs. Gordon Ballard, Goodview, lady with largest feet, shoe shine kit; Mrs. Ray Faber, Rollingstone, and Mrs. Walter Clow, women with most cats (more than 23 cats), gift certificates, and Mrs. Tom Stevens, St. Charles, oldest woman, she will be 86 in July, dozen red roses.

MRS. FLORIAN BECK was awarded a prize for having the most children; 14 in all ranging in age from 10 months to 20 years; Mrs. Robert Krick, who celebrated her 11th wedding anniversary Saturday and Mrs. Jack Thompson, elimination contest, spray perfume. Mrs. Florence Bedore won

Mrs. Kuhlmann Re-elected by VFW Women

Mrs. Floyd Kuhlmann was re-elected president of the auxiliary to Neville-Lien Post 1287, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at its annual meeting Thursday evening at the post meeting room.

Mrs. Roman Weilandt was elected senior vice president to succeed Mrs. Blanche Kaczowski and the latter was elected guard. All other officers were re-elected. They are: Mrs. Harry Harris, junior vice president; Mrs. Harold Myer, chaplain; Mrs. Paul Fenske, patriotic instructor; Mrs. I. J. Datta, conductress; Mrs. Philip Hicks, treasurer, and Mrs. Arthur Bard, trustee and treasurer.

The Department of Minnesota Veterans of Foreign Wars convention will be held June 16-19 at Grand Rapids and the following were named as delegates and alternates: Mrs. Floyd Kuhlmann, Mrs. Ervin Rose, Mrs. Edward Holehouse and Mrs. Weilandt, delegates and Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Datta, Mrs. E. W. Evans and Mrs. Myer, alternates.

The following funds were voted: Sandwiches for dike relief fund (Winona Daily News), $25; cards for veterans at the Minnesota Soldiers Home, $7.50; birthday gift to auxiliary-adopted student at Eaton Rapids National Home, $2, and national cancer fund for grants to members with cancer, $110. Twelve thousand, three hundred-fifty dollars in grants were paid to 67 members and $11,015 collected in the state of Minnesota. Two hundred seventy-four cancers pads were made by six members. Members reported $126.49 donated in food and cash for flood relief.

EACH YEAR the Veterans of Foreign Wars celebrate May 1 as Loyalty Day. This day was set aside by President Eisenhower to combat the Communists who on May 1 have parades and marches. Veterans of Foreign Wars held local demonstrations and radio programs Saturday. A parade was being held at Albert Lea, the home of First District Commander Delmar Frederickson, Saturday and Winona had a float in the parade.

Mrs. Shirley Rose, Loyalty Day chairman for the auxiliary and Milton Knutson, Loyalty Day chairman for the post, planned and worked on the float. Betsy Ross was represented in the float with a 13-star flag and a Veterans of Foreign Wars emblem made of poppies, made by Mrs. Floyd Kuhlmann. She also made the clothes for Betsy Ross. This float will also be in the Steamboat Day

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the engagement of Miss Sara Sue Koscianski, daughter of Mrs. John VonMoos, La Crescent, Minn., and the late Mr. VonMoos, to Ralph F. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Anderson, Houston, Minn. A July wedding is being planned. Miss VonMoos is a senior at the Methodist-Kahler School of Nursing, Rochester. ## Scientists Want To Leave Egypt

BONN, Germany (AP)—A German rocket scientist working in Egypt said he and 17 other Germans working with him would like to return to West Germany if their security could be assured.

Prof. Wolfgang Pilz, whose work in Egypt long has angered Israel, told a television interviewer he and his friends had been subjected to crimes and slander and it seemed inadvisable to return to an atmosphere of insecurity.

parade in July Jerry Van Pelt, assisted with the making and drove the float to Albert Lea.

Poppy Day for the post and auxiliary will be May 28 and 29. Miss Bertha Miller is poppy chairman for the auxiliary and Milton Knutson—for the post. Volunteer workers can call Miss Miller. She will be glad to have assistance.

The sewing chairman has asked for men's jackets, shirts and sweaters for Minneapolis Veterans, Soldiers Home and old costume jewelry and pocket novels for the veterans at St. Cloud hospital.

A potluck supper will be held at the post clubrooms before the installation of new officers May 19. Mrs. Holehouse is chairman of this event.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Datta and Mrs. Evans after the meeting.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Kronebusch to Dennis M. Speltz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Speltz Sr., Rollingstone, Minn., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Kronebusch, Plainview, Minn. A July wedding is being planned.

The United States Mint cannot change a coin's design for 25 years without Congressional approval. The Jefferson nickel has been in use since 1938 and may be legally changed, but officials say the Mint has been too busy meeting coin shortages to switch to a new nickel design.

Special Day For Mother of Football Stars

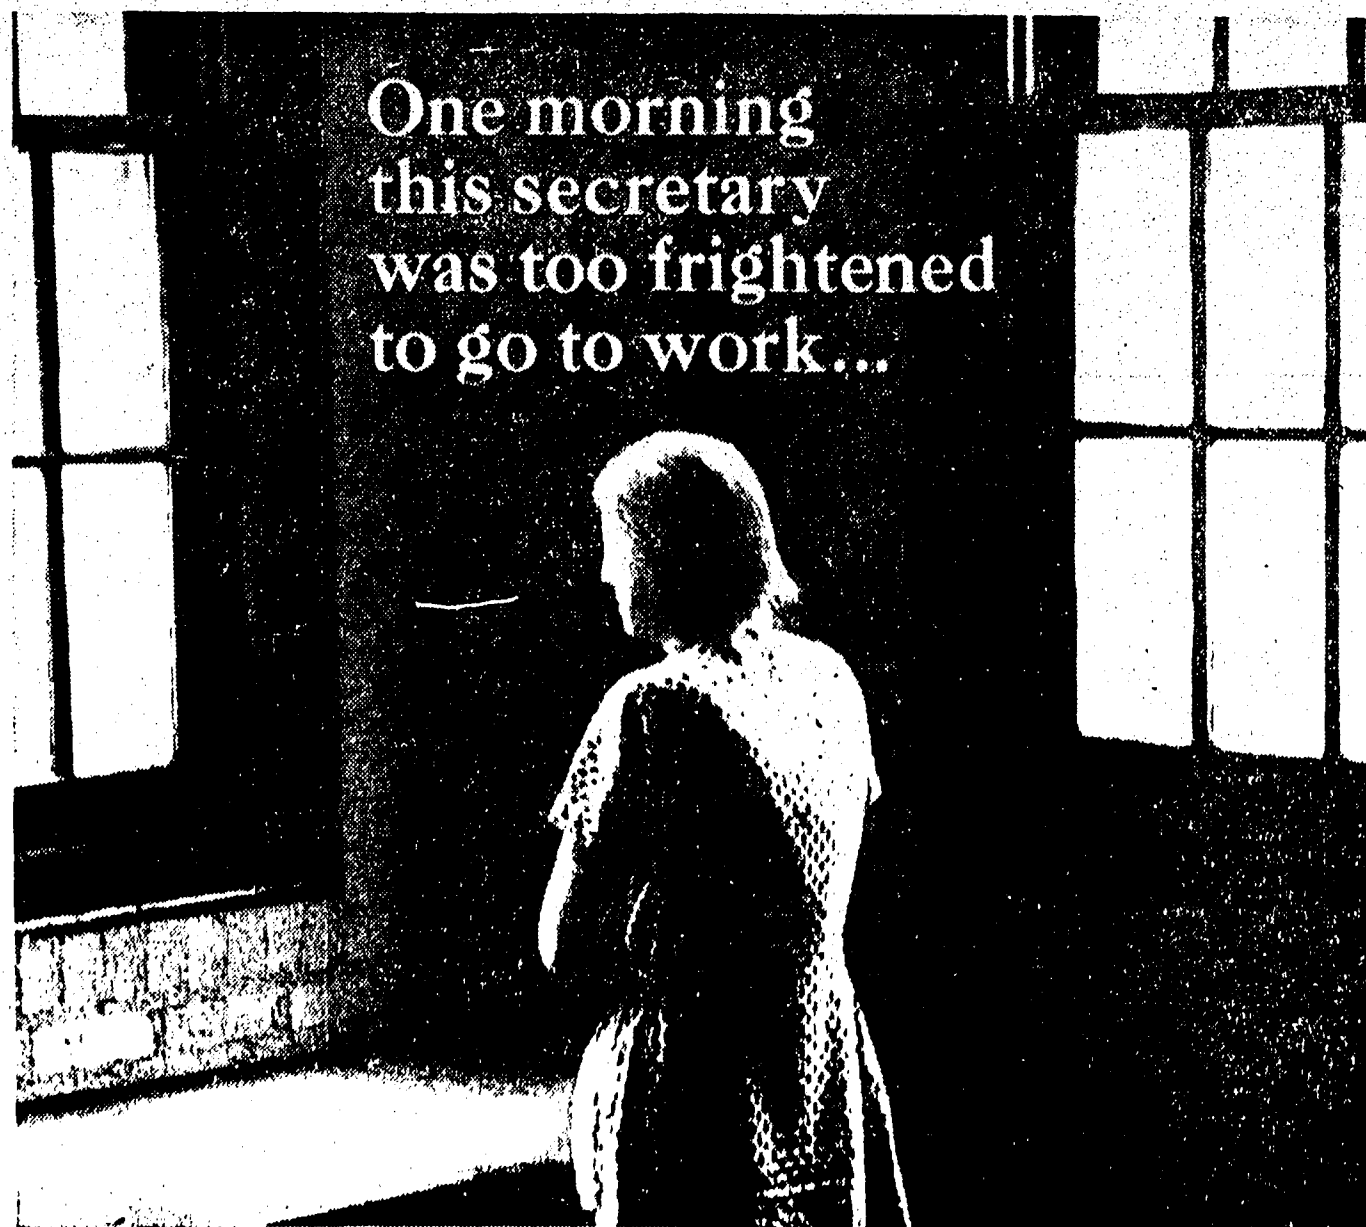

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Mothers Day, May 9, will be extra special for a lady from Gary, Ind., who has watched her sons play more than 100 football games, not counting those she saw on television.

She is Mrs. Emmeline Karras Schofield, mother of three National Football League stars. She was named the pro football Mother of the Year today at the pro football Hall of Fame here.

Mrs. Schofield's sons, Alex, Ted and Lou Karras will be here and will join other pro players, high school and college gridders in saluting their mothers during a special program.

Alex, Ted and Lou Karras played tackle, were all-state in high school and played at Big Ten universities.

Alex, who attended Iowa, has been with the Detroit Lions since 1959 and All-NFL three times. Ted went to Indiana, was with the Pittsburgh Steelers 1958-59 and has been a Chicago Bear since 1960. Lou, a Purdue man, played with the Washington Redskins 1950-52 and now is a city councilman in Gary.

One morning this secretary was too frightened to go to work...

22 years ago she began coming to the office late. Some days she didn't show up at all. Little by little her absenteeism became chronic.

Finally, one morning, she was too frightened to go to work. That was the day her mental illness really showed itself.

Ever since, she has been in a mental hospital.

In the time she has been there, many thousands of other mentally sick people have come and gone, helped by new methods of psychiatric science. But for many mental patients like her, there is no help yet.

The treatment methods which work for some patients do nothing for others. And for many forms of mental illness, no effective treatment has yet been found.

This is a tremendous challenge to medical science—and to all the people of America. If we know enough to help some of the victims of mental illness, why can't we find the way to help all?

The answer is research. Meanwhile, there is much that needs to be done to ease the suffering of those already afflicted.

You can help by joining and supporting your mental health association. Fight mental illness. Help the mentally ill.

Boxer Mothers Squirrels

By TERRY BORMANN
Sunday News Staff Writer

"We wonder what'll happen when she discovers they are squirrels because she doesn't like squirrels worth a darn," Mrs. Donald Blake, 1620 Kraemer Dr., said Saturday.

She was speaking of the warm mother-child relationship established over the past two weeks between the Blake's female boxer dog, Kelly, and four baby squirrels made homeless by the Mississippi River flood.

THE BLAKES got the squirrels more than two weeks ago when it looked as if the deer on Prairie Island might have to be evacuated. Mr. and Mrs. Blake offered to take the deer into their back yard with its six-foot fence, but their friend, Game Warden Bart Foster, gave them the young squirrels instead.

The Blakes see that the squirrels, now about four weeks old, are fed but it is Kelly who is forever giving them baths and who serves as guide in the great outdoors of the Blake backyard.

In fact, Kelly is a little bit of a doting mother. When any of the young gray squirrels is brought out of its box, Kelly hustles over to give it a "bath" with her tongue.

One of these bath sessions gave Mrs. Blake quite a start one morning last week. She came home from a shopping trip to find two of the squirrels in the living room and no sign of the other two.

MRS. BLAKE was afraid Kelly had discovered the squirrels' true identity (the dog once almost cleared the backyard fence while chasing an adult of the hated species, Mrs. Blake reports) and had eaten the missing two.

As it turned out, Kelly had merely decided it was bath time again. She had lifted all four squirrels out of their box, carried them into the sunny living room and given them their bath. The missing two babies were out of sight under some furniture.

Foster has told the Blakes that the squirrels probably can make semi-pets when they are old enough to go out on their own. They have a tendency to bite when kept in captivity into adulthood, but Foster said that he once had a squirrel pet which came to his home every day for a bowl of corn flakes, a short nap and a quick goodby.

THE BLAKE'S squirrels are not to this stage yet. Mrs. Blake still feeds them baby formula in a doll baby-bottle, pabulum and, lately, puffed rice. She has reduced feedings to three times a day as well.

At first, the squirrels had to be fed with an eye-dropper every three hours, a time-consuming operation.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. Blake took the largest and most active of the babies outdoors and put it on a tree in the backyard. The squirrel "looked up, looked down, then jumped back into my hand," Mrs. Blake said. She repeated the maneuver several times with the same result.

The squirrels are considerably less shy about climbing on the Blakes, however. (They have three young daughters and an older son.) "Ouch, he's going down my back," cried one of the girls Saturday, as a reporter interviewed Mrs. Blake.

BLAKE, who is court reporter to District Judge Arnold Hatfield, said that his son plans to build a house according to instructions furnished by Foster, which will be used in a backyard tree when the squirrels grow old enough to crack their own walnuts.

By that time, too, the grown squirrels and Kelly may no longer be on licking terms.

Caledonians For Daylight Time

CALEDONIA, Minn. — Whether Caledonia residents favor a switch to daylight saving time remains the secret of a few businessmen.

One of the businessmen, however, said most Caledonians favor adopting DST now, instead of waiting for the rest of the state to do so May 23.

The community's residents had an opportunity to cast ballots Saturday in an advisory poll conducted by the Commercial Club.

Last year, Caledonia was the first community in the area to join Wisconsin when it switched to DST a month ahead of Minnesota.

Polling places were Rice Pharmacy and Renner Drug Store.

Donald Rice, proprietor of the pharmacy, counted the ballots at the end of the business day, but he said the results had been turned over to the publisher of the weekly Caledonia Argus and would not be released until the newspaper is published Wednesday.

The newspaper's publisher, R. E. Ryan, had asked that the results of the poll be withheld until Wednesday, Rice said.

Drivers Strike 7 Minneapolis Milk Plants

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Some 1,200 Teamsters Union members went on strike Saturday against seven Minneapolis area creameries, cutting off milk deliveries to homes and stores in the region.

Len Fahlin, secretary-treasurer of the union's Local 471, said the principal issue was wages. He said negotiations had gone on for three weeks but ended Thursday. Drivers and inside production workers are involved.

The union's contract with the creameries expired last midnight. Fahlin said negotiators for the creameries had offered a base pay of $125 a week for drivers. He said this left Minneapolis drivers "still about $3.40 a week under what St. Paul drivers get a week."

The commission rate for Minneapolis drivers also is an issue. Fahlin said no milk will be delivered in Minneapolis and its suburbs this weekend. He said the "Hastings Cooperative Creamery and the Polka Dot Creamery have indicated they will meet our terms."

Pickets appeared at the creameries shortly after midnight.

Patrolman Paul Kapustik investigated.

Driver Cited in Two-Car Crash

A Winona driver was cited for failing to yield the right of way and causing an accident after being involved in a two-car collision last Saturday morning.

The mishap occurred at 11:45 a.m. at the intersection of Clark's Lane and Trunk Highway 61.

Cited was John Kiral, 80, 521 Grand St., who was driving north on Clark's Lane. He told police he thought he could get across the intersection in time to avoid an accident.

Instead, however, he struck the left side of a car driven west on TH 61 by Robert E. Dalke, New Lisbon, Wis.

Fire Fighters in Double Duty Act

Winona firemen did double duty Saturday afternoon.

The fire department received a call at 4:59 p.m., notifying them of a garage fire at the Allen Justin home, 626 E. Sanborn.

When they arrived there, however, a neighbor told them that the garage at the Lester Jonsgaard home, 622 E. Sanborn St., was also burning.

Using one line, firemen extinguished the blaze in the Justin garage, where the fire apparently started in some rubbish that was inside the building. Cause of the fire was not known.

Damage to the garage was minor, firemen said.

The fire in the Jonsgaard garage was apparently started by children playing inside the structure, according to firemen. There was no damage, they said, and the blaze was put out with a hand pump.

The fire department crew worked a total of 22 minutes in fighting the two fires.

Youths Questioned In Theft of Wire

Two juveniles are being questioned about the theft of two rolls of barbed wire from Altura Hardware, Sheriff George Fort said Saturday afternoon.

The wire, valued at $20, was taken from the store Wednesday night, the sheriff said. The boys were apprehended Saturday, he said.

THE INVESTOR

Progress on Stocks Slow

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE
Q. I've tried to follow your advice. I have enough insurance and savings. I researched many stocks and finally picked out four. I am investing $180 every three months in E. I. du Pont de Nemours, International Business Machines, Procter & Gamble and Sears, Roebuck through the Monthly Investment Plan.

So far I have made seven payments — for a total of $1,260. I calculate that the value of my stocks is now about $1,310. It seems that I haven't progressed too far.

You feel that these stocks will grow enough in value over the next 10 to 15 years to help put three children through college. Or am I expecting too much from the stocks I picked?

A. You may be expecting too much, too soon. But, over the period of time you have in mind, they should accomplish your investment goal.

That, of course, is an opinion, which is what you ask for. But I doubt that too many people would disagree. You picked four solid, blue-chip stocks, with good growth records and potential. Many other stocks might do the job equally well. But you did your research well and liked those four. Fine, stay with them. It can't be stressed often enough that "sticktoitiveness" is the key to any really successful investment program.

It's wise to check your investment results, every so often. However, don't worry, if it seems that you're not making a bundle in a hurry. It's a safe guess that, over the years, your investments will provide a big help in getting the kids through college.

Q. You had a letter from a man who wanted to swap some stock he owned with a friend, with the aim of avoiding any capital-gains taxes. You explained that the Internal Revenue Service would consider this a sale and purchase by each man and that they would have to report their "profits" as capital gains and pay taxes.

What is to prevent these men from selling their stocks to each other at the prices each originally paid, so that neither one of them would have any profit?

A. Frankly, there's nothing to "prevent" them from doing just that. But, when the IRS found out about it, they would both be in hot water.

Normally, if one person sells stock to another person at less than the going market value, the difference between the sale price and the market price would be counted as a gift. And that can bring on gift tax consequences.

But, if two people did as you propose, you can be sure that the revenue men would consider it as a device to evade taxes. Evasion is much different from avoidance. They could be in real trouble.

Q. Considering the great strides the mutual fund boys have made since the end of World War II, why don't you inform your readers of the actual average net return of all those mutual funds for the past five years?

A. Considering that you write under an insurance company letterhead, why don't you stop fanning the fires of feud? There are no actual "average" figures available. For 1964 mutual funds paid out dividend income ranging from about one percent to better than five percent. For the past five years different funds have shown "performance" (growth in value for each shareholder) varying from below 30 percent to better than 200 percent.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

21 in Area To Get State FFA Degree

Twenty-one area FFA members, including three from Winona, will receive the state farmer degree at the Minnesota FFA convention at St. Paul this week.

They are: Gary Votter, Lake City; John Koepsell, Plainview; Richard Jostock, Wabasha; Dean Jones, Canton; David Kiehne, Harmony; Michael Carpenter, and Richard Snow, Houston.

Lyle Kiral, Jerry Mueller, Lowell Mueller, Larry Rupprecht and Jerry Simon, Lewiston; Greg Hagen, Mabel; Leon Helleland, James Highum, John Kinneberg and Lyle Rustad, Rushford; Darol Lawrenz, St. Charles, and David Belter, Leon Bowman and James Hobbs, Winona.

Spike Jones Dead at 53

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bandleader Spike Jones, 53, the zany musician who entertained millions with his offbeat arrangements, died in his sleep Saturday at his Bel-Air home.

Jones had been released from nearby Santa Monica Hospital three weeks ago following treatment for an asthma attack and subsequent respiratory complications.

Pete James, his agent, said the bandleader had apparently recovered from his lengthy sickness until he suffered a slight relapse Friday afternoon. His personal physician was called and remained with him until he died, James said.

Also at home were Jones' widow, Helen Grayco, a former singer with his City Slickers band, and their three children.

Born Lindley Armstrong Jones at Long Beach, Calif., in 1911, Jones started his musical career as a drummer in swing bands of the early 1940s.

He said he got the idea for his

Flooded Homes At La Crescent To Check Wiring

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — La Crescent Mayor William Mishler has received notice from Northern States Power Co., Winona, that all persons affected by the flood are required to have an electrical inspection before service will be turned on again.

The NSP representative said inspection must be by a qualified licensed electrical contractor. Water, may have seeped into the conduit or rodents, muskrats or beavers may have damaged wiring.

The council also points out the threat of fire. Water still is over roadways to Shore Acres, which would make fighting a fire particularly hazardous. Damage to the road can't be assessed until the water is down.

New Post Office Quarters Sought For Brownsville

BROWNVILLE, Minn. — The Post Office Department is seeking competitive bids for an improved building to house its postal operations at Brownsville.

A contract will be awarded to the bidder who designates a building within the general business area which is suitable to its needs, agrees to improve it according to department specifications, and then rent it to the department.

The department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bidding documents will be available from M. W. Clem, 512 Nicollet Ave., Minneapolis. Bids must be submitted to him by June 14.

noisy style of music when he attended a classical concert and heard the conductor's shoes squeak.

"I kept thinking how funny it would be to substitute an outrageous sound for a musical note," he said.

World War II Vet Has New Career

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Bill Flynn, a combat veteran of World War II and 40-year-old father of three, has embarked on a new career as a student at the University of Maryland.

Hitting the books again after a 22-year lapse is hard enough, but Flynn is also doing some hitting as a member of Maryland's freshman baseball team.

The new career was borne of necessity when Flynn's Army service was cut short by a Department of the Army policy that all officers have college degrees. He was retired as a captain last August after 20 years of duty.

The thought of this forced retirement gnawed away at Bill Flynn. It was partly responsible for his taking a whirl at baseball with players half his age and not much older than his 15-year-old son.

"I guess I went out for the team to prove I still had the capacity to perform physically with younger people, as well as the mental capacity to stay with them in class," Flynn said. Neither the class work nor baseball has come easy, but Flynn is enjoying the challenge.

Woman Dies in St. Paul Fire

ST. PAUL (AP) — A grass fire resulted in the death Thursday of Mrs. Marie Priebe, 79, West St. Paul.

Dr. R.W. Marks, Dakota County coroner, said Mrs. Priebe's clothing ignited when she tried to burn rubbish, but she died of asphyxiation. The flames spread quickly and burned over several acres of grassland.

Flynn is majoring in business education, with his future set on a teaching career. He wants to minor in history.

During the Christmas vacation, Flynn began thinking of a baseball comeback. He had played the sport in high school at Easton, Pa., and for 14 years in the Army—where he also managed teams for nine seasons.

"I talked it over with the varsity coach, Jack Jackson, and he sort of chuckled," Flynn said. "But after pumping me with questions, he found out I knew a little bit about the game."

Flynn's wife, Marjorie, who has resumed her elementary school teaching career while Bill goes to college, and who is expecting in June, didn't object.

"After laying off from baseball for about three years, I had trouble getting into shape," Flynn said, "and the day after a game, I knew I had been in one."

Flynn, a left-handed batter, has collected four hits in 12 tries for the frosh while playing first or second base. He also helps direct the squad when Coach Whitey Stevens goes on the road with the varsity.

Severe earthquakes in Chile, Greece and Japan have killed and injured hundreds of people this year. Such heavy loss of life is rare but quakes are common.

Flood Damage to La Crosse City Is $1,158,000

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — A preliminary report on Mississippi River damage to city-owned property in La Crosse fixed the total at $1,158,000, including $225,000 spent in the fight to keep most of the record crest out of the city.

The figure was supplied Thursday by City Engineer Robert Schelbe, who said it probably would go higher when inspections are completed on five miles of streets still under water.

The river hit a record crest of 17.7 feet, or 5.7 feet above flood stage, last week. It was expected to drop to 15.3 feet today.

Schelbe said damage counted so far included $655,000 to streets and sewers, $150,000 to area wells and $93,000 to park property.

The Burlington Route has resumed normal two-daily train service through La Crosse of trains on the Chicago to Minneapolis run. Back in service are two passenger trains—the afternoon Hiawatha and the evening Pioneer Limited.

Northern States Power Co. said it expected to complete the restoration of gas and electric service to north side customers today.

At Prairie du Chien and Cassville, among other communities hard hit by the flood, sewage disposal plants were still being bypassed.

Only two or three of Cassville's evacuated families have been able to return to their homes even though the river has dropped to 22.7 feet from the crest of 24.1 feet.

The river was two feet below the 25.3 foot crest at Prairie du Chien, but still more than five feet above flood stage.

Highway 35 was opened Thursday at Hudson on the St. Croix River. The bridge to Stillwater, Minn., was expected to be opened Friday.

2 Wabasha-Kellogg Directors to Be Named

WABASHA, Minn. — The terms of Martin J. Healey and John Danckwart will expire this year on the Wabasha-Kellogg School Board. Filings for the election May 18 will close Thursday.

Osseo OKs Storm Sewers For $41,553

OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — Osseo City Council let a contract Monday night for two sections of storm sewer, deferring the decision on a third.

H. F. Radandt, Inc., Eau Claire, received the contract at $41,553.08 for the two sections. The company was low among nine bidders.

The approved sections are the line along Highway 10 and the part of town north of the highway, including three blocks which were the scene of much flooding this spring.

The section in the area of the new hospital was tabled for the present.

Radandt said work could begin immediately, but the council requested the project be delayed until after the spring festival May 21-23.

The council voted to sell two tracts of land, one east of the school known as the shale pit to the school for $1,500 and the other to the Osseo Golf and Recreation center. This includes the softball diamond and area adjacent to the creek.

An ordinance was amended to raise house trailer parking permit fees from $3.50 to $8 per month.

Lawrence Larson reported water in the new well was considered safe by the state Board of Health.

New Zealander To Spend Year At Whitehall High

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — James Olson, Whitehall High School principal, has been advised by the American Field Service that Garry E. Harpur, 17, North Island, New Zealand, is the exchange student who will attend the school here next year.

Garry will live at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ausderau.

Garry will be a senior. His father is assistant superintendent in a timber yard. He has one brother, 14.

Some Sketch Pad Observations of The Flood Fight

IT'S A SANDBAG
FOR THE DIKE

MEN COME AND GO — SOME HURRY — SOME LINGER
— SOME STAY

Ralph B. Rydman during the past few weeks was pretty close to the flood emergency. His home at 1074 Marian Street is only a few minutes walk from where the battle against the rising water was being fought . . . material for building dikes was being scooped out from an area just down the street from his house . . . and during the day Rydman, as a member of the Winona Daily and Sunday News photo engraving department, was at work on the processing of the hundreds of flood pictures that would appear in this newspaper.

Ever since he was a kid Rydman has had an interest in drawing and sketching and in the course of his work in the engraving department he's frequently called upon to do certain lettering jobs and other art work. Drama such as that involved in the recent flood fight invariably stimulates people with an artistic bent to creative activity and Rydman was no exception. He made several trips to where dike building operations were in progress and on his sketch pad he recorded his impressions of some of the scenes as he saw them.

Seen today on the Sunday Magazine cover on the dike structure near the Prairie Island Road, Rydman emphasizes that his drawings aren't finished works done during long hours at the flood fronts. Rather, they're sketches he made on the basis of observations he made during the critical days of the struggle to contain the river and during the more recent days of watchful waiting while the waters slowly began to recede.

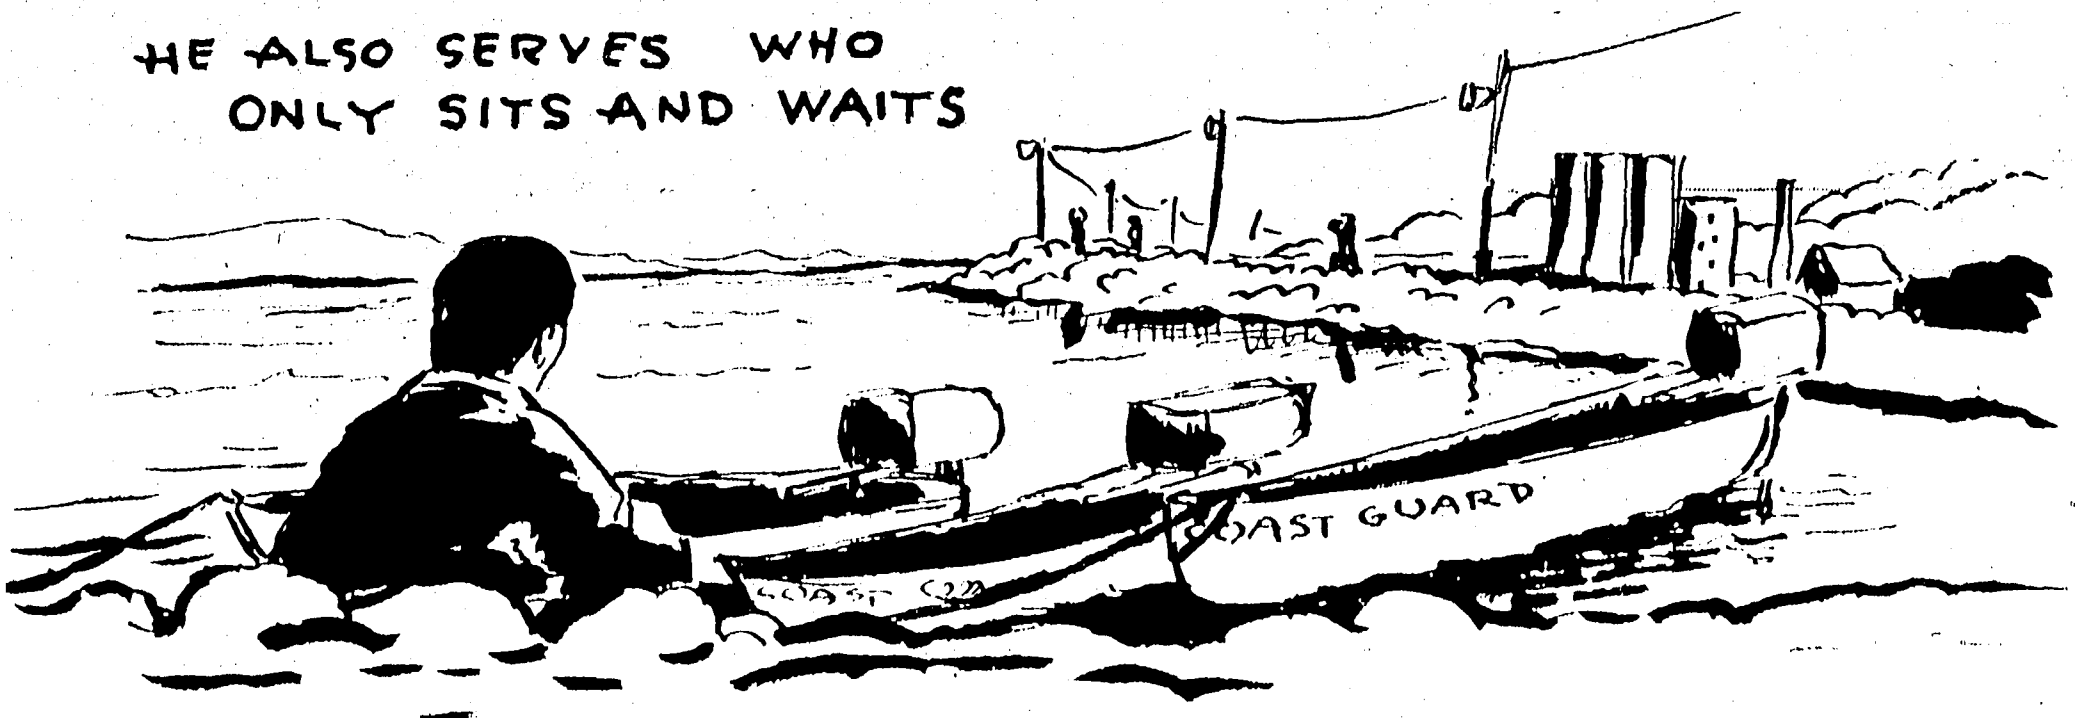

The atmosphere of the period is captured, however, in these rough drawings and a few of them are featured on these pages today to show how the great community effort to protect this city from a record river crest was seen by one person.

AND MAY HAS COME,
THE MONTH OF GLADNESS.

The nice thing about this month—it usually says what it has to say with flowers.

Most small children are fascinated by flowers. They can hardly wait for them to come up—roots and all.

Some of our friends boast early gardens. But methinks they must have been planted on the pray-as-you-sow plan.

You can say one thing for those fellows who insist on love at first sight—it's a tremendous time and money saver.

There is no real substitute for intelligence. But surely silence comes close.

An antique is a curiosity no one would want in his living room if there were more of them.

Manners in small fry are like the zero in math class. They may not be much in themselves, but they are capable of adding a lot of value to everything else.

Einstein and Newton may have been geniuses, but the fellow who made the first egg-beater deserves a few votes of thanks, too.

If only we had the gift to think for ourselves as easily as we can think for others.

The belief that a man is only as old as he feels is responsible for a great many pulled muscles and aching joints this spring.

All things considered, I'd still rather be a female. If a woman cannot get what she wants by being smart, she can usually get it by being dumb.

Distinctive Air in the Highlands

Scotch Popularity Up in European Markets

Take a good deep breath in the Highlands of Scotland and you'll notice a difference in the air.

It's whisky.

Evaporation during the maturing process accounts for some 10 million gallons a year of the stuff. That's an awful lot of scent on the wind.

At this moment there are about 425 million gallons of Scotch maturing throughout Scotland.

LINES OF HUGE oak wood casks, thousands upon thousands of them, lie in silent, dark warehouses across the land.

Their value is estimated at a staggering $3,360 million. And it's all going to be drunk within the next few years.

An average Scotch takes up to six or seven years to mature. Some of the classic malt whiskies, however, are kept up to 30 years. So they become collector's pieces, like an old brandy or a famous champagne.

But most Scotch has a quick turnover.

People the world over like an ample supply and a sobering fact for Britons these days is that four fifths of all Scotch produced is drunk by people outside Britain.

TIME OF ALL Scotch exports go to the United States. But the beverage is now sweeping through Europe.

NO SHORTAGE HERE . . . Sixty-eight varieties of Scotch, pictured in Fortnum and Mason's wine cellar, are inspected by Arthur Lunn, 67, who was once a featured guest in the Jack Paar show and is still asked for by American tourists in London.

Exports to the six Common Market countries (West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg) have trebled in about four years.

Scotch producers are particularly pleased at their success in the French market.

Advertising of Scotch is banned by law in France. Despite this, sales there have shot up from $9.5 million in 1959 to $30.2 million in 1963.

Exports to Scandinavian countries, with Sweden in the lead, continue to rise.

What is Scotch?

ITS ORIGINS are buried in antiquity. But there's no doubt that for centuries a spirit distilled from a fermented barley mash has been made in the Scottish highlands.

The oldest reference to whisky occurs in a Scottish document dated 1494, where an entry says: "Eight bolls of malt to Friar John Cor where with to make aquavite."

The term "whisky" is derived from the Gaelic "uisquebaugh" or "uisge beatha," meaning "water of life."

from malted barley only. Scotch grain whisky is normally made from malted barley, together with ordinary barley and maize.

The manufacturing of Scotch is pretty straightforward.

Malted barley is taken and mashed with hot water to exact the sugar. This sugary liquid is then fermented with yeast in a vat and distilled twice. The whisky is then put in casks and allowed to mature.

THE SCOTCH most people drink is a blend of malt and whiskies.

But the straight malt whiskies, a heavier drink with a more pronounced flavor than the blends, are gaining ground.

Glenlivet, Laphroaig, Glenfiddich, Strathisla, Glenmorangie, Aultmore, Talisker . . .

The list seems endless. In fact there are 2,000 different Scotch whiskies, and more are being added all the time.

Four new distilleries are planned for Speyside, the Highland area where most of the Scotch is produced.

It has been written of whisky: "It sloweth age; it strengthenneth youth; it helpeth digestion; it cutteth phlegm; it abandoneth melancholy; it relishes the heart; it lighteneth the mind and it quickeneth the spirit; it keepeth and preserveth the teeth from chattering and the throat from rattling."

And it getteth you drunk.

Beer Adds Tangy Zest To Lamb Stew

MOST homemakers are aware of how the addition of beer as an ingredient can add a subtle, tangy flavor to a great number of recipes. Recently we received a recipe for the preparation of lamb stew with beer and we're passing it on to you today.

Germans enjoy beer and wine with their meals and the hausfrau combines beer, wine and elderberries for "suppen" (soup) with delectable results. Lamb stew with beer is not strictly German in character but, served with pumpernickel, sauerkraut with caraway and washed down with beer, it makes for a dinner with a German flavor. The canned tomato sauce in the stew is a compliment to the beer quality.

When using beer in cooking, incidentally, you should remember to open the can or bottle before starting preparations so the foam will subside for easier measuring and mixing.

Lamb Stew With Beer

- |                                |                               |
|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup flour                  | 1 bay leaf                    |
| 1 teaspoon salt                | 1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce    |
| 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt     | 1 (11 oz.) can beer           |
| 1/2 teaspoon pepper            | 12 small white onions         |
| 2 1/2 to 3 lbs. boneless lamb, | 6 carrots, peeled and halved  |
| cut into 2-inch cubes          | 6 potatoes, peeled and halved |
| 1/4 cup pure vegetable oil     |                               |

Combine flour with salt, seasoned salt, and pepper; roll lamb in mixture. In large skillet or dutch oven, brown lamb in oil. Add bay leaf, tomato sauce and beer. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours. Add onions, carrots, and potatoes. Cover and cook an additional 30 minutes or until vegetables are done.

You'll remember that a few weeks ago we presented a number of European recipes furnished us by Mrs. Walter Grunwald, 313 Laird St. At that time space didn't permit inclusion of two interesting Hungarian dishes from Mrs. Grunwald's file. One is for Hungarian goulash and the other for Hungarian oxtail ragout and here they are:

Hungarian Gulyas

(Goulash)

6-8 servings

- |                                                         |                        |
|---------------------------------------------------------|------------------------|
| 1 1/2 pounds boneless pot roast of beef, chuck or blade | 1 tablespoon paprika   |
| 2 cups beef broth (made from beef bouillon cubes)       | 1 1/2 teaspoons salt   |
| 4 slices bacon                                          | 1/4 teaspoon pepper    |
| 1 1/2 cups onion, chopped                               | 1/8 teaspoon marjoram  |
|                                                         | 3/4 cup dry white wine |

Set out a Dutch oven or a heavy 3 quart sauce pot having a tight-fitting cover. Wipe the beef with a clean, damp cloth, cut beef into 1 1/2 inch pieces and set aside. Dice bacon and place into the sauce pot. Cook slowly, stirring and turning frequently, until bacon is lightly browned. Remove bacon with slotted spoon to small bowl and set aside.

Add the onion to the bacon fat in the sauce pot and cook over medium heat until transparent, stirring occasionally. Remove onion with slotted spoon to bowl containing bacon and set aside.

Add meat to the bacon fat and slowly brown on all sides, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle evenly over the meat paprika, salt, pepper and marjoram. Stir in the bacon-onion mixture. Slowly pour in the reserved meat broth and wine. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat, cover sauce pot and simmer 2 to 2 1/2 hours, or until meat is tender when pierced with a fork. Remove meat with slotted spoon to hot serving dish. Thicken cooking liquid if desired.

To thicken cooking liquid—

Pour into 1 pint screw top jar 1/2 cup water, sprinkle onto the liquid 1/4 cup flour. Cover jar and shake until mixture is well blended. Slowly pour one-half of the mixture into the sauce pot, stirring constantly. Bring to boiling. Gradually add only what is needed of remaining flour-water mixture for consistency desired. Bring to boiling after each addition. After final addition, cook 3 to 5 minutes longer.

Melt in a small skillet 1 tablespoon butter. Remove from heat. Blend in 1/2 teaspoon paprika and stir in 1 tablespoon water. Immediately add to liquid in sauce pot, stirring until well blended. Pour this sauce over meat.

Serve the above meat and sauce over boiled noodles.

Okorfarok Ragu

(Hungarian Oxtail Ragout)

(about 6 servings)

- |                                |                                |
|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1 carrot diced                 | 1 teaspoon paprika             |
| 2 large onions, chopped        | 1 clove garlic, minced         |
| 8 whole peppercorns            | 1 cup canned tomato puree      |
| Salt                           | 3 cups water                   |
| 1/8 teaspoon poultry seasoning | 4 cups diagonally-sliced,      |
| 2 cups Burgundy wine           | pared carrots                  |
| 2 oxtails, cut up              | 1 8-ounce package wide noodles |
| 3 tablespoons shortening       | 2 tablespoons butter           |
| 3 tablespoons flour            |                                |

EARLY ON DAY BEFORE SERVING:

In bowl combine diced carrot, onions, peppercorns, 1 teaspoon salt, poultry seasoning and wine, as a marinade. Add oxtails, then refrigerate covered, 3 hours.

Remove oxtails from marinade and dry them on paper toweling; then, in hot shortening, in Dutch oven, brown them well. Stir in flour and paprika then add marinade, garlic, tomato puree, water and 1 tablespoon salt. Simmer, covered 2 to 2 1/2 hours or until oxtails are fork-tender. Cool; then refrigerate, covered.

ABOUT ONE HOUR BEFORE SERVING:

Remove fat from surface of oxtail mixture; then simmer over low heat, covered, for 40 minutes or until carrots are fork-tender.

Meanwhile, cook noodles as label directs. Drain and toss with butter, keep warm. On heated platter arrange noodles; spoon oxtails, carrots and some of gravy over all, pass rest of gravy.

Mrs. Grunwald also had a recipe for butter cream icing she was willing to share with our readers and here it is:

Butter Cream Icing

- |                          |                        |
|--------------------------|------------------------|
| 1 cup butter             | 1 teaspoon vanilla     |
| 2/3 cup soft shortening  | 1/2 cup scalded milk   |
| 2/3 cup granulated sugar | (keep hot while using) |
| 2 egg whites             |                        |

Cream butter and shortening together until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar beating thoroughly. Add at once egg whites and vanilla and beat until well blended. Add gradually scalded milk (return milk back to heat while not in use) beating thoroughly after each addition. Beat until fluffy. This is enough icing for an 8- or 9 inch layer cake.

Skintone Shades in Underfashions

'Good Nudes' in Fashion Headlines

IT seems a controversy is currently brewing amongst manufacturers and retailers over the near-nude skintone shades in underfashions. Not whether they're acceptable or not. Far from it. They're in — no mistake about that. They've already boomed in sheer bras and portend big things in lingerie.

And not so much as a replacement for white, but as a third basic shade mediating between white and outright color. They have, though, been cutting into sales of whites — for, if nothing else, skintones overcome white's biggest problem: Discoloration.

So what's the question being so hotly discussed? Simply: How can a woman decide which particular shade out of nearly 50 different skintones now available to choose? And on what basis should she make her choice? Good question! And the answer? Standardizing skintones into three or four basic shades of which all others would be variations. Good solution! But for the wrong reason!

The reason most of the debaters put forth is that women rarely buy the same brand of girdle and bra — and they purchase still another brand of lingerie. The result is that the however-slightly-varying nude hues usually do not match one another exactly. And this, obviously, wreaks havoc with aesthetics and the concept of the total coordinated look — and with inventories.

Now let's get down to the core of the matter without any nonsense. Goodness knows that color, texture, and line coordination are swell ideals. And the underworld should be no exception. But the question here is "Why?" And the answer should not be expressed in visual terms.

It is not so much a matter of your looking better for it. Because let's face facts: Once you put on your unmentionables (remember that word?) you don't see them any more until it's time to retire, and nobody else sees them on you either — except for perhaps a brief frantic moment or two — and at such times color coordination isn't the main topic of interest.

So what's the reason and the answer? Something underfashion merchandisers should have come up with a long time ago. They're trying to sell you a look — when in fact you are buying a FEEL. That's right. It's more psychological than visual. You buy skintones because THEY MAKE YOU FEEL MORE NUDE — less restricted, more natural, and, hence, sexier.

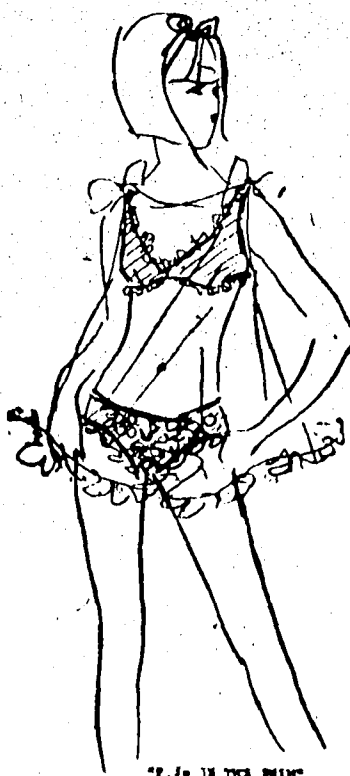

What it all boils down to is that skintone underfashions should be thought of as INTIMATE COSMETICS for the essential woman. And if any standardization is attempted, it should be along the lines of a cosmetic approach.

The color of a woman's foundations and lingerie should be as compatible with her natural skin coloring as her makeup. And the three or four skintone basics proposed should take their cue from cosmetic science in which a fundamental neutral shade is given an added dollop of tint. To wit: A drop of pink or of peach to compliment fairer complexions; a drop of beige for medium complexions; a drop of tan for women with darker complexions or sun-kissed skins.

But not for the purpose of making the seller's job easier by cutting down inventory (and, I might add, inventiveness) — but for the sake of helping a woman FEEL more natural, more daring, more sheer.

FASHION MIRROR

The bikini will not only be gracing our seashores and resorts this summer, but may also be expected to participate in the boudoir's somnolent bacchanals. The pajama which takes its inspiration from the beach and its rationale from pre-autumnal heat will abound in and on the beds the country over, and will also serve the intimate requirements of one's loungeful life when topped by a cagey, see-through coverup or frilly, transparent brief-coat of organdy or fish-net weave. Underneath, the bikini pajama can be of tricot or cotton, printed or flowered or ribboned or laced.

FASHION TIP

True, I've already reported that scarf hats will be making their presence mightily felt in the months to come, but that's no reason for you to abandon your penchant for the simple scarf — on the beach, at home, or for casual wear, wrapped or knotted or ingeniously tucked. On second thought, it needn't be so simple, either. In fact, why not snap up the snazziest scarf you can lay your head on — with bold, bright, splashy prints or designs or even catchy slogans like: "Help Stamp Out Bubonic Plague."

Headgear for Astronauts

Her Hat Designs Will Be 'Way Out'

United States astronauts who go to the moon will wear headgear designed and produced by a ladies' milliner.

Anne Sary, for 33 years proprietor of a hat shop in Hartford, Conn., where her originals sell for $15 and up, has won a National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) contract for the protective headgear to be worn by the Project Apollo astronauts under their bubble helmets.

Mrs. Sary can't say much about the headgear or what it looks like because "the Apollo program is all in the future." But, she explains, it meets three basic NASA requirements: It's comfortable, durable and not too warm.

ABOUT SIX MILLINERY designers were asked to submit ideas, and Mrs. Sary won.

"I'm just as proud as I can be that it was awarded to me," she says. "It was lots of hard work while I was designing it."

That alone took six weeks, she says. And that was just a beginning.

"I thought all I'd have to do was design a helmet — a cap type thing that fastens under the chin," she says. But after she sent in her prototype, back came "a sheaf of papers listing changes they needed."

"NASA is terribly exacting," she explains. For instance, NASA told her some of her stitches were off by a thousandth of an inch. She had measured with an ordinary tape measure.

"Good heavens, do you measure these things with a . . . micrometer?" Mrs. Sary asked.

"As a matter of fact, we do," NASA told her.

MRS. SARY WORKS on the headgear by herself in a locked room in her home. She says she makes them with a regular professional sewing machine, a "special machine," and a lot of hand work.

At first she used her son, Winfrid, 16, as a model, but his head hasn't developed enough yet. So she asked NASA for a model, and received a "Yul Brynner" — a wooden block model of a man's head.

She works on the NASA contract only at night and on weekends, because during the day she has her millinery business to attend to. She says she stays up all night sometimes to get a model finished.

"I have to have a model ready when they have a space suit ready," she says.

Mrs. Sary, a native of Luton, Bedfordshire, England, a millinery center, worked in high fashion shops in Paris and Boston before coming to Hartford to establish her own shop.

She says she likes designing spacemen's hats. "It's a challenge to do something different. I'm quite elated that my creations may end up on the moon, and very, very proud."

WINONA SUNDAY NEWS

Sunday, May 2, 1965 WINONA SUNDAY NEWS 7

WEIGHING IN . . . "Melina Mercouri's Greece" is a Monday night television special which takes a look at the Greek people and their customs. Farm produce is still delivered in many areas in Greece by donkey and here's actress Melina Mercouri weighing in a sale for a customer in Athens.

'Melina Mercouri's Greece' Next Television Tour Special

By HARVEY PACK

When producers Phil D'Antoni and Norman Baer produced the highly successful TV show "Elizabeth Taylor's London" and then followed it up with "Sophia Loren's Rome," their future projects in this general area became a sort of comical parlor game as showbiz pundits came up with titles ranging from "Frank Sinatra's Hoboken" to "Nikita's Moscow."

Two weeks before the Loren show went on the air I asked Norman Baer whether they had given any thought to a logical choice for their next effort such as "Melina Mercouri's Greece." He had, they did and it can be seen Monday over ABC.

"We realize that Melina does not have the same boxoffice draw in the United States as Sophia and Elizabeth," explained Phil D'Antoni, "but we'd like to get away from doing a show which depends on the personality to a rating. We think 'Greece' is the most entertaining of the lot because it deals more with people than places."

MERCOURI, according to Phil, became very much a part of the show when she realized how many Americans would see it and what it might mean to her country as a public relations film in the United States. She would call them at all hours of the day and night, Phil said, with suggestions or changes for the program.

"In one of our opening sequences," continued D'Antoni, "we have a bit which is based on our own experiences with past shows. Melina is sitting in a Taverna and she mentions that she's doing a TV program about Greece.

"She is immediately besieged by all the customers who tell her she won't really be showing the country unless she incorporates their particular idea. Then, as they all leave, the waiter shouts, 'Do my village,' and this sums up what we've heard after every show."

Phil pointed out that after the London show no matter where he went somebody would criticize the program by saying that it failed to show his or her favorite spot, and, therefore, was not a true picture of the city.

"ROME WAS even worse," he went on. "Americans who had enjoyed a dish of spaghetti at a specific restaurant accused us of not knowing anything about the city because they hadn't seen that place on camera. So, when the waiter in the Taverna says 'Do my village' he's just keeping us one jump ahead of all second guessers."

I had asked Phil's partner, Norman Baer, which of the two film queens, Loren or Taylor, he had preferred working with and he had hedged a bit, but under pressure had given the nod to Sophia. In Phil's case I included Mercouri and asked him which of the three women he would like to be marooned with on a desert island, but to base his decision on personality not looks.

The father of five thought a moment and then said, "I'd have to go along with Sophia, although I doubt whether Ponti is giving her up. Seriously, all three girls were wonderful, but Loren is the easiest to be with and, at least for our purposes, probably the most co-operative. Oddly enough,

TAKE OUT YOUR OWN APPENDIX?

If someone handed you a scalpel and roll of gauze, would you try to do it yourself? Of course not. You'd use a professional. After all, you want to live!

And we want you to live comfortably, sensibly. That's why we offer professional service when you buy a house. We know what to look for in construction, condition, zoning, taxes, etc. We'll find you a "healthy" house... at a fair price. May we serve you?

CONFLICT . . . Torn by loves, united by hates, Eugene O'Neill's strange family is portrayed by Katharine Hepburn, Dean Stockwell, Ralph Richardson and Jason Robards Jr., in LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT at the State Tuesday.

'Long Day's Journey' Next Art Film Feature

The first film in history in which all four stars received Best Acting Awards at the Cannes Film Festival, Eugene O'Neill's LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT is an Art Film Festival feature booked Tuesday only at the State Theatre.

The Pulitzer Prize winning play mirrors a portion of O'Neill's life with biographical candor and was first produced on Broadway in 1956. The movie version stars Katharine Hepburn, who was nominated for a "Best Actress" Academy Award, Jason Robards Jr., Ralph Richardson and Dean Stockwell. The period of the action actually covers the time between his return home from a tour with his actor father and O'Neill's commitment to a sanatorium for treatment of tuberculosis.

The story telescopes the action of several months into one single super-charged day during which his father's sloth and frustration combine with his brother's alcoholism and his mother's narcotics addiction to build up to a dynamic climax.

Richardson portrays the frustrated father, Robards is O'Neill's brother and Miss Hepburn his mother.

Sellers Comedy At Sky Vu

Peter Sellers appears again as a bumbling French police inspector in THE PINK PANTHER, also starring Capucine, Claudia Cardinale and Robert Wagner and playing through Tuesday at the Sky-Vu. The story takes its name from a jewel which is stolen and the action centers on Sellers' efforts to catch The Phantom, a master thief and a chase that ends up with the finger of suspicion being turned on Sellers.

Ernest Hemingway's THE KILLERS, with Lee Marvin, Angie Dickinson and John Cassavetes, plays Wednesday through Friday at the Sky-Vu.

The plot focuses on a young racing car driver who is seriously injured during a spectacular

A Siren Kindles an Old Flame

The role of a torrid temptress who tries to revive a romance a man joined the Navy to forget is played by Ann-Margret in BUS RILEY'S BACK IN TOWN, opening Wednesday at the Winona Theatre.

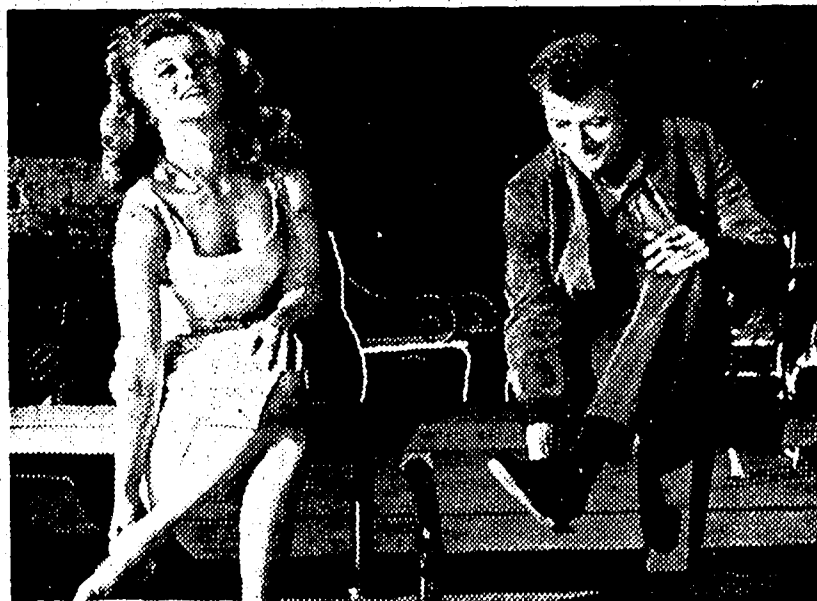

Michael Parks is cast as the boy who returns home after his hitch in the Navy bearing the "bleeding heart" tattoo in token of his broken love. Parks on his return encounters his former girl friend and falls agreeably for her beguilements before apparently heading off in another direction for another charmer, Janet Margolin, on the rebound. Others in the cast include Brad Dexter as a hotshot salesman who tries to mold Parks into his own image, Larry Storch, the amiable bartender to whom both the boy and girl confide, and Jocelyn Brando as Parks' ever-understanding mother.

Playing through Tuesday is BEACH BLANKET BINGO, another in the "Beach Party Gang" series starring Frankie Avalon, Annette Funicello, Harvey Lembeck and Jody McCrea. In this musical comedy the gang gets involved in the sport of sky diving in addition to the drag racing, muscle building and surfing in which they participate.

Paired as a double-feature program for Saturday matinees at 1:15 and 3 p.m. only are FERRY CROSS THE MERSEY and A DAVE CLARK 5 SHORT.

A closeup look and listen to the British musical aggregation known as Gerry and the Pacemakers is provided in FERRY CROSS THE MERSEY.

This is the first motion picture in which the Liverpool pop quartet has appeared and its sound includes seven songs written especially for the film by Gerry Marsden, leader of the Pacemakers. There's the title tune and "Think About Love," "Fall in Love," "Why, Oh Why," "I'll Wait for You," "My Love Forever," and "It's Gonna Be All Right."

race. Following the fiery accident he is persuaded to drive the getaway car in a million dollar holdup but is then betrayed by those closest to him and his life is threatened when he is suspected of hiding the money for himself.

Two horror films, EVIL OF FRANKENSTEIN and NIGHTMARE will be seen Saturday night only at the Sky-Vu.

Peter Cushing plays Baron Frankenstein who, with his assistant, come upon a creature that has been preserved in glacial ice through the ages. They free and reanimate the monster only to have it go on a killing spree under hypnotic control.

NIGHTMARE stars David Knight and Moira Redmond in a story about three murders and a woman who is haunted by dreams to the point where she wonders whether the murders are a part of her nightmares or whether they actually were committed.

Marlowe's Life, Work Explored

CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE.
His Life and Work. By A. L.
Rowse. Harper. $5.95.

Dr. Rowse is the historian specializing in Elizabethan times, who moves with ebullient self-confidence into the delicately murky realms of the literary specialists, sometimes to the flustered discomfort of the latter gentry.

In his recent biography of Shakespeare he gained attention for the blithe way in which, by invoking the historical method, he pronounced the Sonnets to be of certain dates, and presumably solved all the literary questions involved, except that of the Dark Lady's identity. He plunked heartily for the proposition that the Earl of Southampton was the poet's patron. In the literary set, some agree, some do not.

THE AUTHOR speaks of this work as "in some sense, a sequel" to the Shakespeare volume. In part, it offers the idea that Marlowe was the "rival poet" of Shakespeare's Sonnets, and goes further to identify Leander in Marlowe's "Hero and Leander" as "recognizably a portrait of Southampton." These are the chief justifications he offers for a new biography.

The historian's viewpoint has some merit in an examination of Marlowe's plays as well as his life story. Fortunately this historian is esthetically sensitive to the literary quality of his subject's plays.

Some of the most interesting passages in the book are those in which the author compares and contrasts the talents of Marlowe and Shakespeare, examines many specific examples of Shakespeare's inspired borrowings from his fellow dramatist, and comments on what the abbreviated Marlovian career might have become.

DR. ROWSE rises above the plodding, polysyllabic, obfuscated mumbblings of the academic, ivory-tower set.

His frank opinions and assertions may seem at times a little rash by scholarly standards, but certainly he arouses the essential spirit of his subject, and opens to the reader a livelier vista of another age than you will find in many a printed page.

Reasons Become Obscure

Story of a Flight To Never-Never-Land

VISA FOR AVALON. By Winifred Bryher. Harcourt, Brace. $3.50.

Miss Bryher's previous specialty has been a poetic, misty, imaginative evocation of ancient scenes. But this time she has taken an equally misty view of a modern scene.

The Avalon of her title is a never-never-land of peace and quiet (in death?), where legendary figures retreat into a sort of Nirvana, or whatever, in escape from mortal stress.

THE FIRST setting of the story is a present-day British fishing village, where a man named Robinson, retired from some vague business, is boarding with a widow named Lilian Blunt, who suddenly is thrown out of her cottage by a highway development. They decide to escape to Avalon.

So they apply for visas at the very odd Avalon consulate, while all around them there are scenes of socialistic revolt. Something called "The Movement," a barbaric surge (like the population explosion) is taking over from the current bureaucracy, and it is a good time to flee.

THE TENSION of the flight involves their vacation-time friend Alex Magnus, a wavering member of the Avalon consulate; his superior Lawson, and Lawson's dumb, love-struck secretary. Most of the narrative is a nervous account of everyone's attempt to reach an airport for the take-off to never-never-land, past the barricades of the supposed barbarians.

Somehow it seems that Miss Bryher hasn't been too sure what the barbarians are about, and hasn't selected a very significant clutch of escapees. Or maybe the literary metaphors were too obscure for this reader. She builds to a climax, but we might wonder where these oddly assorted characters are going, and from what — other than the routine malaise of modern life — they are escaping. The book says they arrived miraculously in Avalon. And then what?

'Voices' Often Are Indistinct

VOICES OF A SUMMER DAY, by Irwin Shaw. Delacorte, 223 pages, $4.95.

By JOHN R. BREITLOW

With the appearance of VOICES OF A SUMMER DAY, Irwin Shaw joins the disturbingly lengthy list of "also-rans" for 1965. This slim novel is not nearly as bad as much of this year's literary dross, but it is still substandard, not for what it has, but what it lacks — development.

A long time ago, before the Second World War actually, Irwin Shaw showed promise of becoming one of the century's great writers on the strength of some almost perfect short stories he published. Since the early 40s, he has failed to kindle any such Olympian expectations.

His best known work is his version of World War II — THE YOUNG LIONS — epic in scope, bold in conception, but windy and shallow in treatment. Shaw has the knack of knowing an issue worth probing when he sees it, but displays a timidity for examination and involvement tantamount to aversion.

VOICES OF A SUMMER AFTERNOON illustrates this unfortunate trait only too well. It is not really a novel at all; more like an outline with a little padding. Smoothly written, it leaves the distinct impression of being a condensation. It is good enough to make a reader want to read the full treatment, but there is, alas, none available outside Irwin Shaw's unwilling imagination.

THE "VOICES" are incidents from the earlier life of one Benjamin Federov, a successful and seemingly contented middle-aged New York businessman. Federov is a likable fellow in whom the reader senses some worth and substance. This reaction holds despite little evidence in context either way.

While watching a sandlot baseball game involving his teen-age son, various things remind Federov of his past, which is sporadically traced from his immigrant Jewish family life, his adolescent adventures at summer camp, his wartime infantry exploits, his womanizing (this category spans much of his life including the war, and is still not dormant), and his family.

The device of the flashback is a familiar but still serviceable one, if properly employed. Its usual purpose, somewhat overdone by Hollywood, is to help understand the person of the present by examining his past. Irwin Shaw has chosen to use only half of this method, and one of the resultant weaknesses of VOICES is that he keeps Federov so busy flashbacking that we never get to know him in the present.

IN THIS REGARD, Shaw does his readers the greatest disservice. He has created a prototype mid-20th Century man whose background is not unlike many of his real-world present-day colleagues. That's fine as it goes, but Federov remains only a character sketch because there is almost no indication whether this past helps or hinders him in his present life. He encounters few current problems and we have no way of knowing when something does come along, whether he will field it or fumble it.

The "hero" of classic fiction is certainly familiar to all, from Beowulf and Roland to James Bond and Travis McGee. There is currently a vogue for "anti-heroes," among whom the brilliant but jumbled Herzog of HERZOG is chief. Irwin Shaw seems to have stumbled onto a third choice — the "a-hero," about whom we must continue to wonder, because we shall certainly never know, since our basis for insight is limited by the covers of VOICES OF A SUMMER DAY.

Novel Evokes Other World Atmosphere

NOT ALL OUR PRIDE. By Vokes Richardson. Braziller. $4.50.

There is an other-world air about this novel. Its setting is far removed from the casual, material, modern world; and its main theme, the adolescent love of two cousins, has a sort of timeless, ethereal quality.

The setting is in the plantation country of East Tennessee, where the imbred old families are proud of their Cherokee strain and always have lived close to the Civil War. It is a place where, after the war, planters and mountaineers carried on their bloody feuds. Now the time is the 1930s, when both the land and the people have gone to weeds.

THE BOY IS 10 and the girl is 8 when they meet, and they are six years older when the story closes.

Hugh is a youngster who fears and makes his sadistic father, Col. Augustus Alexander, a decorated hero of World War I, and loves his mother, Alicia, whom he resembles in many ways. She was a Sephardic Jewess who had been converted to Catholicism before marrying her Protestant husband.

Julie Hamilton, Hugh's cousin, is the daughter of a frustrated, bookish, tipting man who withdrew from the world after learning to be a doctor — Uncle Claude, whom everyone admires.

HUGH AND Julie grow up together, first discover sex and then discover love, even though they are under the taboo of incest. It is a leisurely story at first, filled with pictures of country life and hunting, and a whole gallery of odd character portraits, but it works toward some powerful scenes.

This is a first novel, and an unusual one. Richardson has a remarkable ability to create atmospheric effects and to translate emotions and moods into vivid scenes. His book is an adventure for the reader.

Prizewords Puzzle No. 532

Name .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

MAIL TO: Prizewords, Winona Sunday News,
Box 70, Winona, Minn.

One wrong guess on a clue in last Sunday's Prizewords puzzle cost Martin Manning, Arcadia, Wis., a $230 prize.

Manning chose "abuse" rather than "amuse" as the answer to No. 10 down on an otherwise perfect entry card and, since no one came any closer than that to a prize-winning solution another $10 goes into the jackpot today to bring this week's prize to $240.

There were a lot of others who were also close to the solution. Among those with only two errors were Ken Hoenk, 567 W. Broadway; Art Miller, Rushford, Minn.; and Clara Jacobson, Taylor, Wis.

IN THE PACKET of cards with only three mistakes were entries from Mrs. Val Kowalewski, Minnesota City; Mrs. George Vondrashek, 718 E. King St.; Mrs. Al Symick, 4235 6th St., Goodview; Francis Lanik, 506 E. Sarnia St.; Edmond Zabrocki, 1070 E. Broadway; Larry Schiller, 456 E. Sarnia St.; John J. Kokott, Arcadia, Wis.; Mrs. Franklin Andre, Arcadia; Clarence H. Wilson, Houston, Minn.; Tom Jennings, Caledonia, Minn., Rt. 3; Mrs. Henry Grabow, Morgan, Minn., Rt. 2; Maxine Kuehn-topp, 862 E. 4th St.; Francis Strom, 729 Wilson St.; and Mrs. Donald Hill, La Crescent, Minn., Rt. 2.

That $240 Prizewords cash offered this week will go to the one person who provides the perfect solution to today's puzzle.

Last Week's Correct Prizewords Solution

ACROSS

2. It's often a big disappointment to a producer when a SCENE fails to produce an exciting effect (Scent). — Not Scent with often. Experiments with Scents in connection with plays or movies have been very rare. SCENE is more true to actuality.

4. If a ball is traveling fast it's a good reason for a player being unable to HOLD it (Hole). — In the case of Hole, it might be a very long putt and he might need to hit it hard. There's more point to the sentence completed by HOLD.

5. Poor people often HATE to accept charity (Have). — They may be poor, yet able to get by. Often overstates with Have. The clue doesn't indicate they are destitute. That many of the poor HATE to accept charity is quite true. At that point, they are really down to rock bottom.

6. It's scarcely surprising when a rabble-raising orator becomes COARSE (Hoarse). — Hoarse isn't so applicable. He might be using a microphone. COARSE is more reasonable; such an approach is a standard rabble-raising technique.

13. Usually, the WIDER your appreciation of life the more likely you are to succeed (Wiser). — Virtually always is the case with Wiser. Exceptions are more likely with WIDER. To know life well does not guarantee wisdom.

14. SNARES can often be so well camouflaged that they are almost invisible (Snakes). — The reference to something that can be done applies better with SNARES. In the case of Snakes, they either are or are not already camouflaged.

15. As a rule, the worse payers an agent has on his list the less REST he's likely to get (Rent). — Rent isn't necessarily true here; he need not be a rent collector. REST covers all types of poor credit customers, or clients.

16. It's scarcely surprising that extra work should lead to MORE hands (Sore). — Not Sore; the extra work need not be manual labor. MORE is better here, with "hands" used in the sense of workers.

DOWN:

1. A BLANK day is apt to make you feel depressed (Black). — Surely a day that can be called Black is a very bad one; apt understates. BLANK isn't quite so serious — it's merely a "nothing" sort of day.

3. When CHECK is unexpected it's often all the more irritating (Cheek). — Cheek, insolence, is not by any means apt here; even when we know it's coming, insolence can be irritating. CHECK is better here — in the sense meant, of a hindrance or obstacle.

7. The FEWER a child's toys the more likely he is to appreciate them (Newer). — Not Newer; if the toys are quite unsuitable he might not be interested. FEWER is more to the point. He has little; therefore, he cherishes what he has.

8. It's often a big disappointment when a youth doesn't YARN as much as his father hoped he would (Earn). — Not Earn; he might fall just short of the mark, or he might be completely happy in his job. YARN suggests the father hoped for free and easy conversation with his son.

9. You might well expect a MINER to eat well (Diner). — Why should we expect a Diner to eat well? He might be on a diet, in hurry, or in a very poor restaurant. A MINER, because of his heavy work, is likely to have a big appetite.

10. The word usually gets round quickly when a boss is the type who likes to AMUSE his workers (Abuse). — Usually understates with Abuse. Exceptions are more likely with AMUSE. His reputation may remain untalked of so widely in this case.

11. The kind of life a man seems to LIVE often influences a woman in accepting his marriage proposal (Like). — LIVE is better here; she has an example to go by. Like is less to the point; he might never get the chance to LIVE such a life.

12. We seldom have very much admiration for a person who cannot make BEST of his troubles (Jest). — To make a Jest of your troubles is surely the exception rather than the rule, and not to be expected. However, custom decrees we make the BEST of them.

Exercise Homework

YOUTH AHEAD

By Bonnie
and Reba Churchill

TAKE the ho-hum out of housework, and whittle while you work. Such energizing routines make each bending, stepping, reaching chore pay off in figure-firming benefits. As actress Alana Ramsey discovered, the handle of a carpet sweeper provides ideal support for a flab-fighting hip workout. Grasp the handle, pull torso erect, and contract abdominal muscles. Swing the right leg to the side in a series of brisk, lateral kicks. Alternate limbs; rehearse 15 times.

IF YOUR DUTIES call for cleaning an upholstered chair, bend at the waist, keeping back straight, legs taut. As you stroke-brush over fabric, tighten the midsection, and really r-e-a-c-h with the upper torso and arms. Don't cheat by slumping shoulders and concaving chest. If you maintain proper posture, you'll find clean-up time less tiring.

FINALLY, when "homework" requires vacuuming rugs, turn task into a limb-contouring routine. While using an electric sweeper, practice taking elongated steps. Make swing movement from the waist, not the knees. Keep limbs straight and try to lift each foot at least eight inches from the floor with every stroke of the sweep master.

Taylor and Mercuri seemed to be more interested in the project while Loren just showed up at the appointed time and did the job."

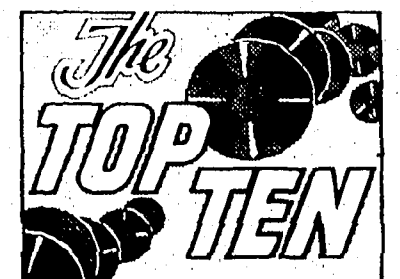

All three shows, D'Antoni insisted, carry the stamp of their hostesses but Mercuri's is the most national in flavor because she was given an entire country to work with rather than one city.

WHEN I SAY we'd like to get away from using our stars as attractions what I really mean is that we've run out of stars," admitted Phil. "There's nobody left after Loren and Taylor except one or two stars we've been unable . . . at this time . . . to sign. And anybody you're thinking of . . . we've already thought of," and with that he gave me a confidential rundown of all past and present negotiations.

"At this point we are approached by many personalities with suggestions that they might make perfect guides for certain countries," said Phil. "Also, countries approach us and suggest appropriate guides who might do the show. Almost all of them are publicity stunts, but a few seem interesting."

Watch "Melina Mercuri's Greece" Monday night on ABC and then play the Baer D'Antoni

Dear Abby

Answer to An Age-Old Question

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a Sunday school teacher. One of my pupils' mothers told me that a few years ago you had something in your column in reply to a child who had lost his baby brother. She said your answer explained death beautifully on a child's level. If you recall such a letter, I would appreciate your printing it again. Thanking you in advance, I am, Sincerely yours,
LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR LOVES CHILDREN: I do recall such a letter because of the many requests I had from clergymen requesting permission to reprint it in their church bulletins. And here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: My Sunday school teacher says that God is everywhere. Please put this letter in the paper and maybe he will see it:

"Dear God: Why did you let my brother die? When he was hit by the car my mother prayed to you to let him live but you wouldn't. My little brother was only two years old and he couldn't have sinned so bad that you had to punish him that way. Everyone says you are good and can do anything you want to do. You could have saved my little brother but you let him die. You broke my mother's heart. How can I love you?"
PETER"

"DEAR PETER: Your question is one that has troubled religious men for thousands of years. One great thinker wrote a book about it. It is called "JOB" and is part of the Bible. It says that the suffering of innocent people is something we cannot understand. But this much is sure: Death is not a punishment. It is one of life's mysteries. Speak to your minister, Peter. Communicate with God by praying, and He will help you in your search for wisdom and goodness and help make your Mommy happy again."

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about these Sunday pests who "drop in" unexpectedly and ruin your plans? My husband and I had a dinner date for Sunday evening when these pests dropped in about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. My knot-headed husband started playing the perfect host, and he poured them one Scotch after another. Naturally, they stayed and stayed. I was boiling mad at him, but he refused to help me get rid of them. I finally had to go into the other room and call the people we had a date with and beg off. After the pests left it was too late for us to go anywhere. My husband claims it wasn't his fault that those people dropped in. I would like your opinion as to whose fault it was that our Sunday was ruined.

STILL BOILING

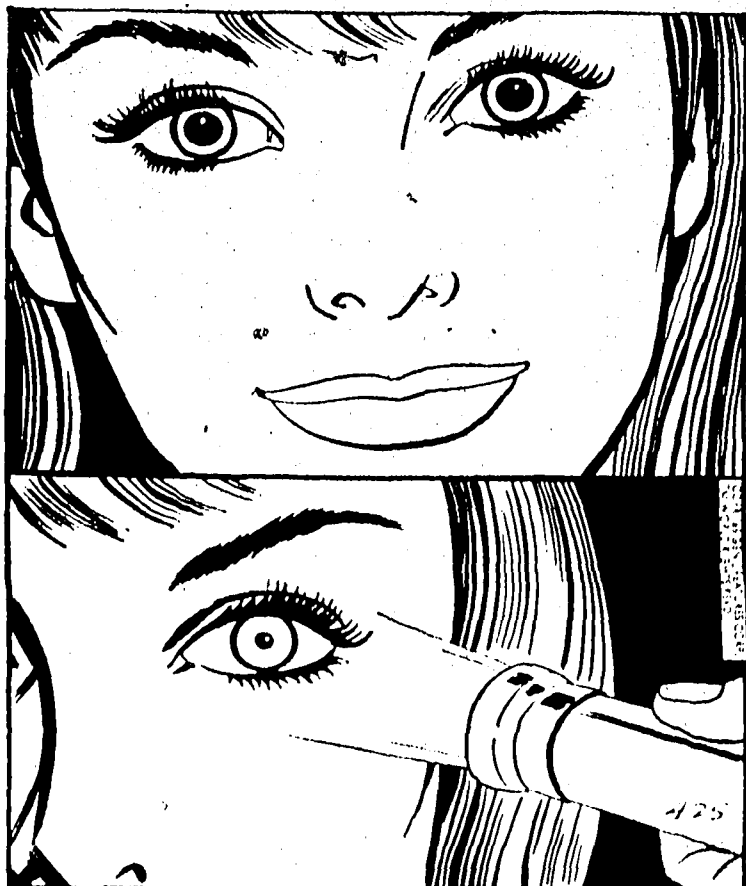

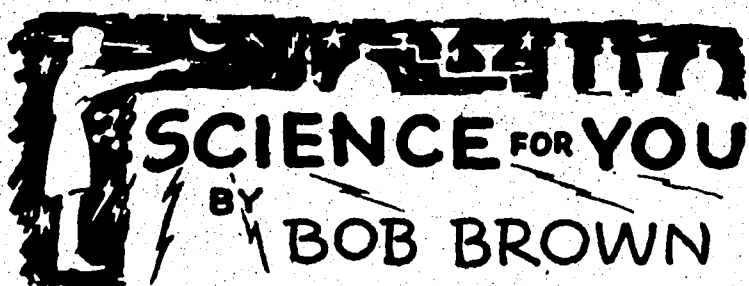

DEAR STILL: When unwelcome guests "drop in" and you want to discourage a prolonged stay, serve buttermilk or lemonade. (Let the kids make it.) Had your hubby been a little more Scotch with the Scotch, you'd have been scotch-free much earlier.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I would be writing a letter to you, but my wife always reads your column so I hope you will print my letter.

I have a lovely wife and three small daughters. BUT my wife wears PANTS seven days a week, from the time she gets up until she takes her bath and puts on her P.J.'s. I work in a plant with all men so I see pants all day and I would love to see my wife in a dress when I get home in the evening, and I hate those pants on Sunday. I know pants are nice for cleaning or doing the laundry, but she has so many cute dresses I wish she would wear them once in a while. Also, I don't believe it is a very good example for those small daughters. Please print my letter. I hope my wife will take the HINT. Sincerely,
MVI

DEAR MVI: Why "hint"? Just tell her that you don't mind her doing the laundry or housework in pants if she's more comfortable, but when you get home in the evening you would like to see her in a dress because YOU wear the pants at your house. (You do, don't you?)

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Your Eye Regulates Light Entering It

PROBLEM: The sensitive pupil.

NEEDED: A flashlight.

DO THIS: Notice the size of the pupil in a friend's eye. Then shine the light into the eye, and watch the pupil get smaller. When the light is turned off the pupil will go back to normal size.

HERE'S WHY: The eye sees better if the right amount of light comes into it. The pupil is the valve or door by which the eye adjusts itself so that it gets the right amount. In dim light the pupil enlarges; in bright light it gets smaller.

Various disorders of the body can stop the pupil from working properly. Also, the "drops" used in eye examinations cause a temporary condition in which the pupil is abnormally large.

Furniture Talk

By Lavern Lawrenz

Often we hear questions like this one: "My favorite color is purple, but my husband doesn't like it. Should I buy a purple sofa anyway?"

Even if purple is far from your favorite, here's good advice for using any bright color. Use it with discretion in your home, and of course in the living room, where your entire family and your guests will spend a great deal of time, better soft, pastel intense colors. Use them, yes. But use them as accents in a more neutral color scheme.

At Lawrenz Furniture we can help you find the bright color that pleases you in a pillow, predominant in a picture, a glass bowl or vase. Use that favorite color of yours sparingly, mixing it with softer colors and neutrals, and you may find that not only does it please you, it will please your husband as well.

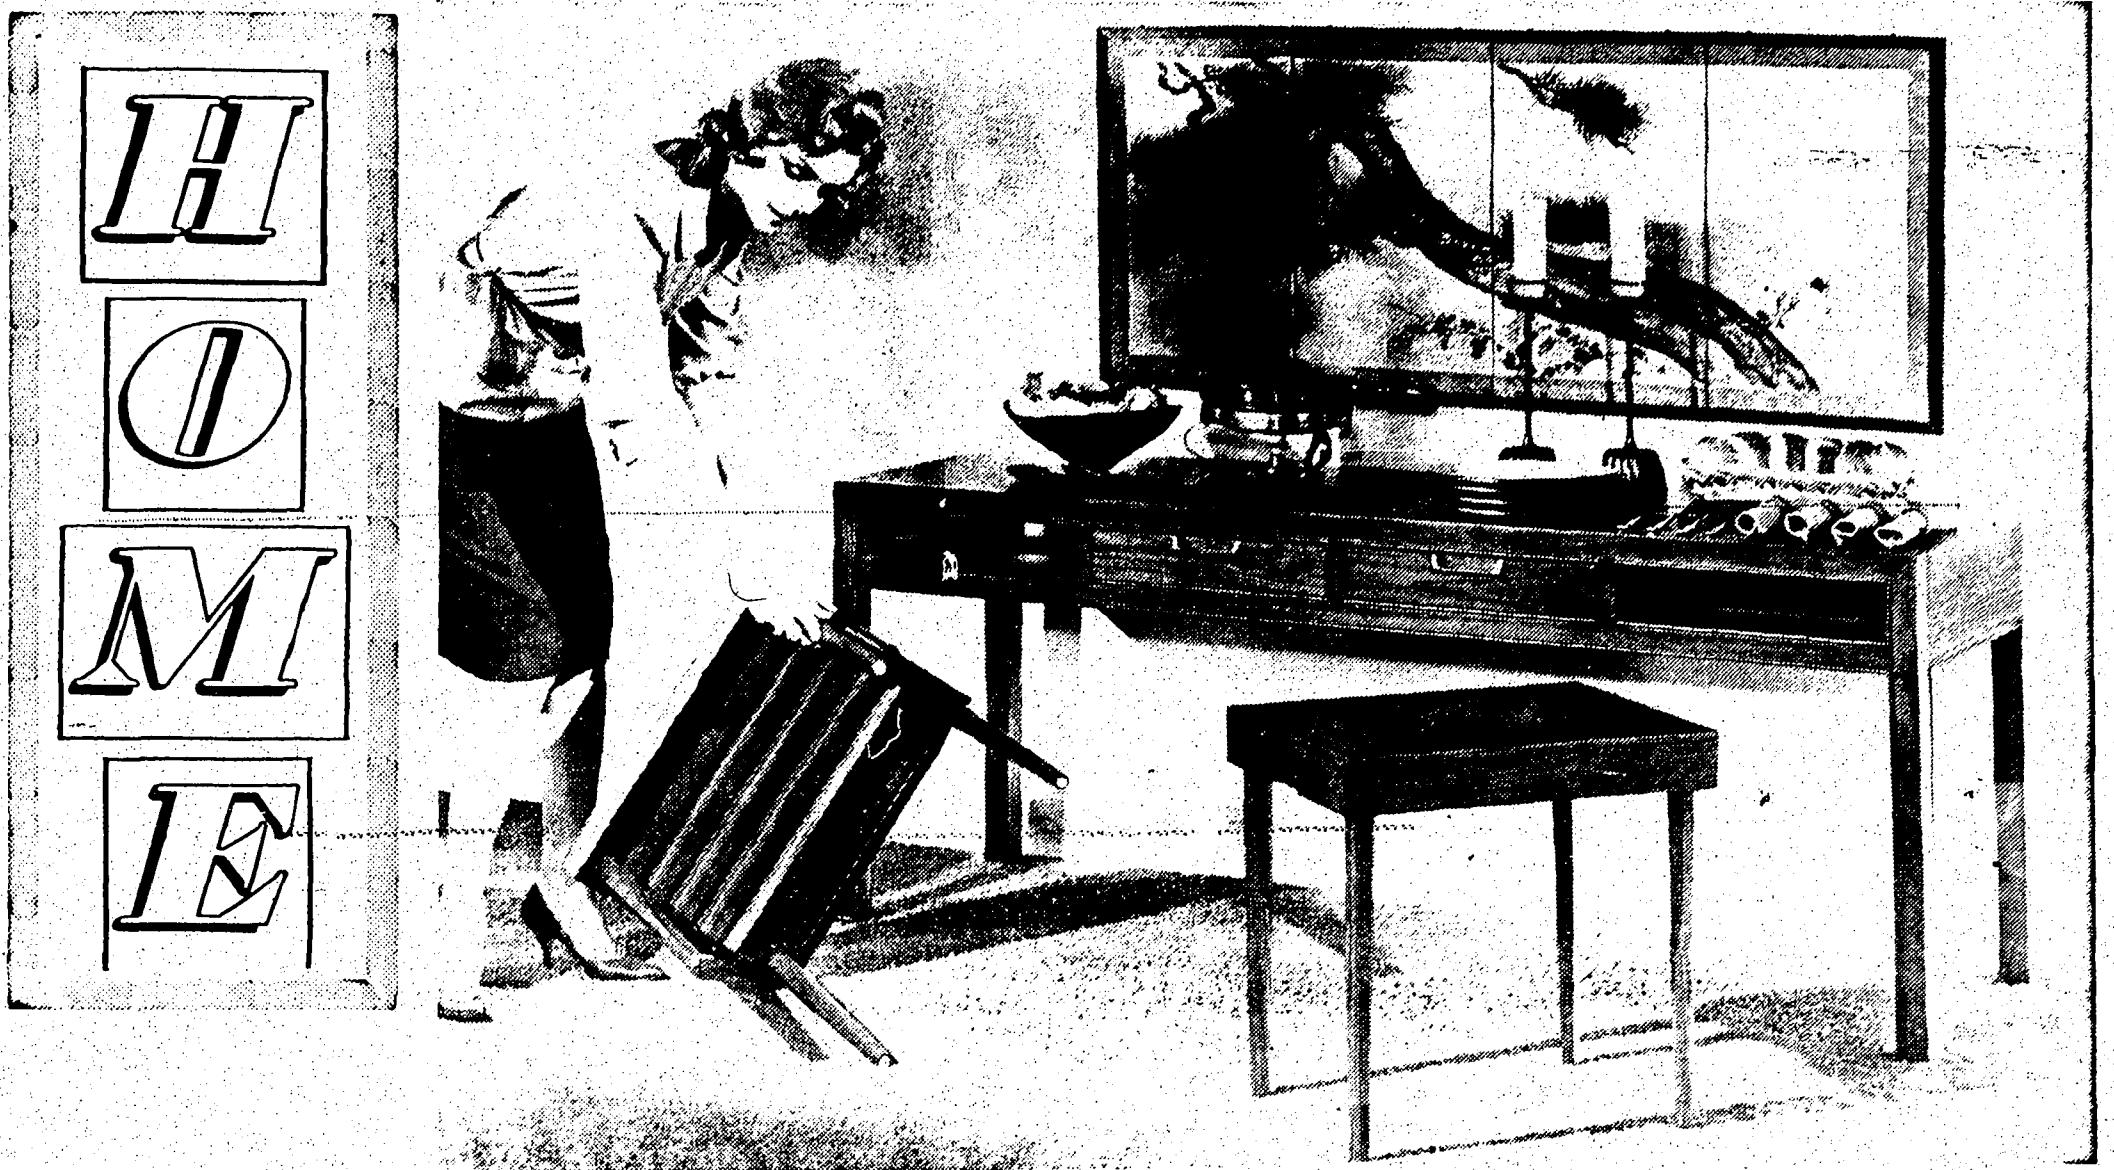

When you use a brilliant color against a neutral background such as off-white, you'll find that it is even more pleasing, since the contrast makes the color all the more luminous. But remember, not too much, or it becomes overpowering.

Whenever you have a question on color, or you need any advice for furnishing your home, we are at your service. Whether you like period or contemporary, mix or match, call on us for service. If you can't come in, call us, and our decorator will be glad to call on you. No obligation of course.

Drawers Become Serving Tables

There's More to This Table Than Meets the Eye

Something dramatically new that will have an instant appeal for the hostess entertaining in a small apartment or a large home has been introduced in a new furniture collection this spring. It's the striking serving table seen above which conceals four snack tables as drawers. When ready to serve just pull out the drawers which store legs in a felt covered rack, screw them into the corner and, presto, you have handy snack tables. The large table is in handsome walnut with simulated oil finish. Drawers pull out from either side, making it a piece that can be used as a room divider as well as a console or sofa table. Design is simple, handsome contemporary.

Small Touches Can Give Distinction to Furniture

HAND-TUFTING adds a touch of warmth to this three-piece sectional from an Italian Provincial collection. The companion sofa and chair complete the group which features distressed fruitwood finish on exposed wood and foam cushions.

TRADITIONAL styling is seen at its best in this generously proportioned chair. It features attached back, loose seat available in foam rubber or dacron, self-covered seat and back and spring edge. Add a skirt if you like or show the walnut finished legs.
