Standby OAS Military Force Urged

$20 Million Loss In Tornado Area

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Work crews, supplemented by nearly 500 national guardmen on patrol, kept up a steady pace of cleaning out tornado debris Saturday as damage estimates mounted to at least $20 million.

The death toll from Thursday's vicious storm remained at 13. Nine other persons were on hospital critical lists, of the estimated 400 who were injured.

Authorities said some 4,000 persons were homeless as a result of half a dozen tornadoes that swept in from the southwest and raked the western and northern suburbs of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Cyrus Magnuson, state insurance commissioner, said that $20 million would be a conservative figure of estimated damages.

As it became apparent the stricken areas would attract hordes of sightseers during the weekend, Gov. Karl Rolvaag ordered 130 troops of the 133rd Air Transport Group of the Minnesota National Guard to patrol in the western Minneapolis suburbs. They supplement 355 Air National guardmen assigned to duty earlier.

Rolvaag said persons not having legitimate business in the battered areas would be turned away.

It became apparent that the damage toll would soar as effects of the storm were assessed in greater detail.

At Spring Lake Park and Fridley, school superintendents estimated the loss to school buildings at $10 million. Northern Ordnance Co., which turns out missile launching equipment for the Navy, suffered $1 million in damages, a spokesman said. About 2,000 persons are regularly employed there, but some will be temporarily out of work.

A huge cleanup cost accompanied the property damage.

Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. assigned 800 workmen to restore service to an estimated 20,000 customers. Thirty outdoor booths were set up where sheltered places like garages could be found amidst the demolished areas. Northwestern Bell summoned men from Austin, St. Cloud and Rochester.

The American Red Cross said it had had 850 inquiries from relatives or friends of persons who may have been affected by the tornadoes. It had been able to dig up replies for 150 of them.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the agency said it received only a small number of requests to shelter persons whose homes were destroyed or badly damaged. As of Saturday, 13 persons were being cared for at Red Cross-sponsored shelters in a church at Fridley and a training center at Arden Hills.

"The American tradition of good neighborliness seems to be coming through, and people have been taken care of by friends and relatives," said Frank Fidler, public relations official for the Red Cross.

He said many insurance firms, too, had stepped in quickly to provide funds for families.

President Johnson has extended wind-disaster status to Minnesota, where 46 counties already have qualified for relief under flood-emergency measures authorized by the federal government.

Meanwhile, brooding spring weather that breeds tornadoes continued to threaten Minnesota. Friday night, a small twister overturned a car and knocked over the postoffice chimney at Waterville in LeSueur County. Three hours later a funnel cloud was seen at LeSueur.

Sherman and his four children were in the home when it disintegrated in Thursday's Twin Cities tornado. But all escaped injury even the Sherman twins, Mike and Kelly, 2, who were asleep in a section of attic tossed into a neighbor's yard. Sherman found the twins still in their bed. (AP Photo-fax)

Rusk Suggests New Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged Saturday that the Organization of American States consider setting up a standby military force and political machine able to deal instantly with any future Western Hemisphere crisis like that in the Dominican Republic.

The Dominican crisis has shown, Rusk said in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, that the OAS is not presently organized to keep pace with the speed of actual events.

He replied to a series of questions submitted and answered in writing.

His replies developed the U.S. government's view that both the rescue operation, originally announced for U.S. forces, and the political mission of blocking an asserted Communist plan to seize the country, had to be carried out with a speed impossible for the OAS to achieve as it is now set up.

The Dominican rebellion broke out April 24 and President Johnson sent in U.S. Marines on April 28. Additional troop reinforcements have now raised the number to about 21,800.

Johnson declared last Sunday night in discussing Communist involvement in the Dominican rebel movement that the United States would not allow the establishment of another Communist government in this hemisphere.

The United States had not sent troops into a Latin-American country in a generation. The last Marines on Latin-American soil were withdrawn by President Franklin D. Roosevelt as he developed his "good neighbor policy" in the hemisphere.

Here are some of the questions and answers:

Q. When the decision was being made to send U.S. Marines into the Dominican Republic last week, was consideration given to the fact that this would break a precedent dating back about half a century?

A. The gravity of the decision to send U.S. Marines into

KNOWLES AT LA CROSSE

Urges GOP to Work Harder

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles urged his fellow Republicans Saturday to take a lesson from this area's flood victims and work together to stem the rising tide of the Democratic Party.

"This should be our goal as Republicans," the chief executive told the 1965 Wisconsin GOP convention.

"If we can focus on the results for the common good, rather than allow our view to be clouded and narrowed by the blinders of rigid dogmatism, we will build a better and stronger party," Knowles said.

The governor, Wisconsin's first Republican chief executive in six years, addressed the one-day convention at the afternoon session opened.

Knowles said it takes only common sense to realize the Republicans "must broaden, not narrow the base of our appeal as a party in order to attract all possible support."

"This is the only way we can regain majority control of the state Legislature, return Republicans to the Constitutional offices and Congressional seats, and keep a Republican in the Governor's office," Knowles said, adding:

242 Planes Bomb North Viet Fields

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The United States hurled its mightiest air blow of the war at Communist North Viet Nam on Saturday. A military spokesman said at least 242 warplanes rained 300 tons of bombs and rockets on an airfield, military barracks and warehouses, road convoys and railroad boxcars.

U.S. Air Force and Navy carrier pilots reported seeing many secondary explosions and raging fires as they turned for home.

Communist antiaircraft fire downed two U.S. Navy Crusader jets. One pilot parachuted into the sea and was rescued; the other apparently perished as his plane plunged into the mouth of the Song Ca River, 20 miles east of the Red military air base at Vinh.

Hanoi radio claimed that the North Vietnamese brought down five U.S. fighter planes, including one jet. It said this report was based on initial information.

"If the party begins to be philosophically narrow and provincial, becomes peevish, petulant and parochial, it will soon lose its appeal to the majority of the electorate, and condemn itself to a perpetual minority status."

Knowles made a reference to GOP Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater in his remarks, but did not name the former Arizona Senator, saying:

"It may be all right for an individual candidate to decide that he would rather be right than win, but a party does not have the luxury of that choice."

Former U.S. Gov. Jack Olson picked a brief appearance before the 1965 Republican State Convention Saturday to announce that he will be a candidate for the nomination again in 1968.

Olson was introduced by State Sen. Jerris Leonard, himself considered a likely candidate for the party's nomination for lieutenant governor. Olson had given no previous hint that he would again seek the office from which he was ousted last fall by Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, former Democratic state chairman.

In all, the planes, which included Navy A4 jet Skyhawks, F4U Corsairs and propeller-driven Skyraiders as well as U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs, funneled out over Communist territory in eight separate attacks.

The previous most massive attack by U.S. planes on the North was in a series of raids by 220 Air Force and Navy planes April 9.

Two of the attacks were against the military air field at Vinh, about 160 miles south of Hanoi, the Communist capital. These were the heaviest raids of the day. On each of the strikes 40 attack bombers were covered by 30 support planes, mostly fighter interceptors, military spokesmen said.

The U.S. spokesmen in Saigon declined to say whether there were any Communist planes on the ground at Vinh. They said no Communist MIG jets came up to meet the raiders.

The spokesmen quoted the Navy pilots as saying the airfield was left 70 per cent destroyed by the two attacks, one in the early afternoon and the other just before sundown.

Excise Tax Cut Urged On Congress

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Administration officials disclosed Saturday that Congress may be asked to eliminate some $5 billion of excise sales taxes in a series of repeals and reductions over the next several years.

Plans under study would include the 10 per cent tax on both new automobiles and telephone service in the midyear legislation, but provide for only small annual cuts — perhaps one or two percentage points annually for the next five or 10 years.

West Protests Red East Berlin Parade

BERLIN (AP) — East German and Soviet troops staged a mammoth parade Saturday in East Berlin commemorating the 20th anniversary of Hitler's defeat, bringing a protest from the Western powers.

In identical letters, the U.S. French and British ambassadors to West Germany told the Soviet envoy in East Berlin the Soviet Union violated the status of Berlin by letting the East Germans parade.

The parade of 5,000 troops included Russian missiles. The letters said "The Soviet missile displays themselves contributed to the creation of unnatural tension in the city."

The Western powers termed the East German military display provocative and a "flagrant violation of the quadripartite status of the city," and said it "expressly contravenes the provisions of the Potsdam agreements and of subsequent four-power legislation in Berlin."

The agreements state that no German troops will be allowed in Berlin. These provisions continue to be in force in Berlin, the protests said, and "it is incumbent on the four powers to insure that they are observed."

The protests were similar to those sent in the past when East German troops paraded in East Berlin during May Day celebrations. These protests never were accepted by the Russians, who said the East Germans can do as they please since East Berlin is their capital.

Russians Hail Stalin, Mao

MOSCOW (AP) — A Kremlin audience at V-E Day celebrations applauded Saturday the World War II roles of the late Joseph Stalin and of Mao Tse-tung, who have been reviled here recently as dictators.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, a successor of Stalin as first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, appeared surprised by applause at his mention of Stalin. He hurried on with a 12-minute speech that praised the Western Allies for their wartime role but denounced the United States with allegations of imperialistic aggression today. Brezhnev assailed the U.S. role in Viet Nam, the Dominican Republic, the Congo and Cuba.

He said the Soviet Union is aiding North Viet Nam in its defense and added: "This aid will be increased, if necessary."

That drew no applause.

Brezhnev also denounced West Germany with standard Soviet accusations that militarists there are plotting revenge for the defeat 20 years ago.

The rally in the Kremlin came on the eve of a military parade expected to be the largest here in years — through Red Square to celebrate V-E Day. The occasion was part of a quiet rewriting of Soviet history books.

Stalin, who used to get most of the official Soviet credit for victory, has been pictured more recently as a personal coward and blunderer who made victory harder to achieve. This followed the "secret speech" denunciation of him by former Premier Khrushchev in 1956.

The next year Khrushchev banished Stalin's top military commander, Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, on charges of obstructing Communist party control of the armed forces. Zhukov emerged from obscurity Saturday. The heavily bearded marshal was given applause that interrupted Brezhnev's recital of a list of military commanders prominent in the war.

Mao, the chairman of the Chinese Communist party and chief Soviet antagonist in the current Moscow-Peking dispute, was named as the leader of "a genuine peoples war" against Japan during World War II.

Applause came again from the audience of 6,000 persons.

Khrushchev went unseen and unmentioned at the celebrations. Since his fall into oblivion last October, his role as a political commissar during the war has been considerably downgraded from the upgrading that he gave it during the 1950s.

Dominican Rebels Refuse New Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The rebel regime Saturday denounced as "completely unacceptable" a new civilian-military junta put forward with U.S. backing in the hope of ending the Dominican civil war.

As a spokesman charged that the establishment of the junta even violated the cease-fire, the Americans reported another U.S. Marine was killed and three paratroopers were wounded by rebel sniper fire.

Hector Aristy, minister to the president in the rebel regime, was asked by reporters if he considered the cease-fire, signed Wednesday by the insurgents and a military junta, was broken as a result of establishment of the military-civilian junta.

"We consider this so," Aristy replied, "but before we come to a decision and actually say that it is broken, we are going to meet with the Organization of American States."

The military junta went out Friday night in favor of the civilian-military junta as a rival to the rebel regime. Since the military junta no longer exists, Aristy said it was questionable whether the cease-fire still was in effect, because it was that body that signed it.

Aristy spoke with newsmen on a street corner in the downtown rebel territory. He fingered a rifle as he criticized the United States for letting the civilian-military junta be sworn in inside the international zone for refugees it controls.

"The neutrality of the zone was violated by allowing the junta to meet there," he said.

Formation of the civilian-military junta was seen by its backers as a peace bid. One of its members is Julio Postigos, 61, a lawyer who was mayor of Santo Domingo under ex-President Juan Bosch. He is a friend of Bosch, around whom the rebels rallied in starting their revolt April 24. Kicked out by a military revolt in September of 1963, Bosch is in exile in Puerto Rico.

Aristy said the civilian-military junta is "completely unacceptable."

Aristy also charged that eight truck loads of Dominican troops were allowed to enter the international zone and said, "We are fortifying all our posts in case of troubles."

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass, the Soviet news agency, reports excellent reception on the first telephone calls relayed by satellite between Moscow and Vladivostok, on the Pacific coast. The satellite used is Molniya Lightning II.

Secretary Rusk Urges Standby OAS Force

the Dominican Republic was fully appreciated. It was not, however, an action which broke "a precedent dating back about half a century."

Our decision to send troops to the Dominican Republic was aimed at saving lives. The situation in the Dominican Republic was one of anarchy; there was no authority able to accept responsibility for law and order and the protection of foreign nationals.

Police and military authorities normally exercising such functions told us that they were unable to carry them out. They asked for our assistance.

Under similar circumstances governments from time immemorial have been recognized to have not merely the right but the obligation to take whatever action is necessary to save the lives of their nationals. It had nothing to do with 19th century types of intervention.

Q. What elements of the situation in the Dominican Republic could justify such a departure from long-established policy?

A. I have already indicated that the action taken in the Dominican Republic was not "a departure from established policy."

The situation in the Dominican Republic contains unique elements which in a time of revolution contributed to chaos.

Decades of dictatorship had stunted the development of a genuine civic order. It had been impossible to develop solidly based institutions for the expression of the national will and to build the basis for an effective national political life. Thus at a time of sudden crisis there were no elements in the country that could take effective responsibility for law and order. The result was total chaos.

Pierre Salinger To Wed Young French Writer

LONDON (AP) — Pierre Salinger, press secretary to the late President John F. Kennedy, announced his engagement Saturday to a 26-year-old French journalist.

She is Nicole Helene Gillman, who met Salinger in California last year when he was campaigning for a seat in the Senate.

Salinger, 39, made the announcement at a hotel here shortly after arriving in London by air. He left soon afterward for an address in the country but plans to return Sunday evening for a television show.

Salinger said the marriage would take place in Paris this summer. He plans to leave for Paris Monday morning.

Two months ago, Salinger termed premature a report that he was to marry Miss Gillman, saying, "I'm not divorced yet."

Opera Listening Party on Tuesday

This season's final opera listening party will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the upper lounge of the College of Saint Teresa's Loretto Hall.

Dr. Elizabeth Holloway of the college music department, as well as some of her students, will discuss Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman" and "Menotti's 'The Last Savage'."

These are two of the operas to be presented by the Metropolitan Opera Company in Minneapolis later this month.

Students providing commentary along with Dr. Holloway will be Miss Suzanne Kane and Miss Mary Anne Seidl. Excerpts from "Madame Butterfly" will be sung by Miss Elizabeth Twomey, Miss Patricia Coughlin and Miss Marguerite Coughlin.

Members of the college's Club Musicale will be hostesses.

Previous listening parties dealt with the other operas to be included by the Metropolitan group in its Minneapolis series.

St. Mary's Adult Art Students Exhibiting Today

Works by members of the adult art course taught by Sister M. Jeffrey of St. Mary's Catholic school will be on display from 2 until 4 p.m. today in the school gymnasium. About 16 persons participated in the course during most of its 10-week duration.

Independence Council Names Policeman To Replace Mickelson

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special) — Independence City Council released Thomas V. Mickelson from his position as night policeman Monday night. He had come from Waukesha Jan. 1 and was replaced by John Rombalski, 33, Waumandee, who began working Wednesday.

The law enforcement committee, Ivan Stendahl, chairman, interviewed several applicants before recommending Rombalski. Magried with three children, he plans to move here soon.

The council raised the mayor to $25 a month, aldermen to $12; clerk to $125 and treasurer to $75 monthly.

CHAMBER AT HOUSTON — HOUSTON, Minn. (Special) — The Houston Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Community Kitchen Monday at 6:30 p.m., Sherman Cole, secretary, said.

Week in Legislature

Big Issues Get Hearing

ST. PAUL (AP) — Big issues came to the fore in the Minnesota Legislature last week.

The first major appropriations bills came from the Senate Finance Committee, school aid formulas emerged from committee and a big unemployment compensation bill was readied for Senate passage.

The appropriations bill covered Senate finance recommendations for spending for state departments, welfare programs and institutions, semi-state activities and Highway Department maintenance and buildings.

The four spending proposals run to $279 million — $12 million less than Gov. Karl Rolvaag recommended, but $37 million more than the 1963 Legislature appropriated for the same purposes.

The first House spending proposals are due early next week. A start toward determining the final size of the big education bill came when the respective Education Committees came up with their school aid plans.

The House unit agreed on a bill calling for $345.4 million for foundation and basic aids for the next two years. This proposal drew criticism from Rolvaag.

The Senate committee submitted a program costing about $6 million more than the House program. Both said their plans could be financed without raising tax rates.

The Senate gave preliminary approval to a bill to update the unemployment compensation law. It provides maximum benefits of $44 a week compared with the present $38.

The bill was attacked by Liberals because it includes tougher eligibility requirements which would cut off about 19,000 persons who now qualify.

Preparing to draw a tax bill, the House Tax Committee at two long hearings heard both advocates and opponents of sales taxes during special evening sessions.

The Senate Tax Committee completed hearings on Rolvaag's tax proposal and then voted 12-3 to reject one of them — calling for a three per cent tax on the sale of new cars and trucks.

Daylight Savings bills moved back into the picture after the St. Paul City Council voted to adopt fast time two weeks ahead of the May 23 statewide start.

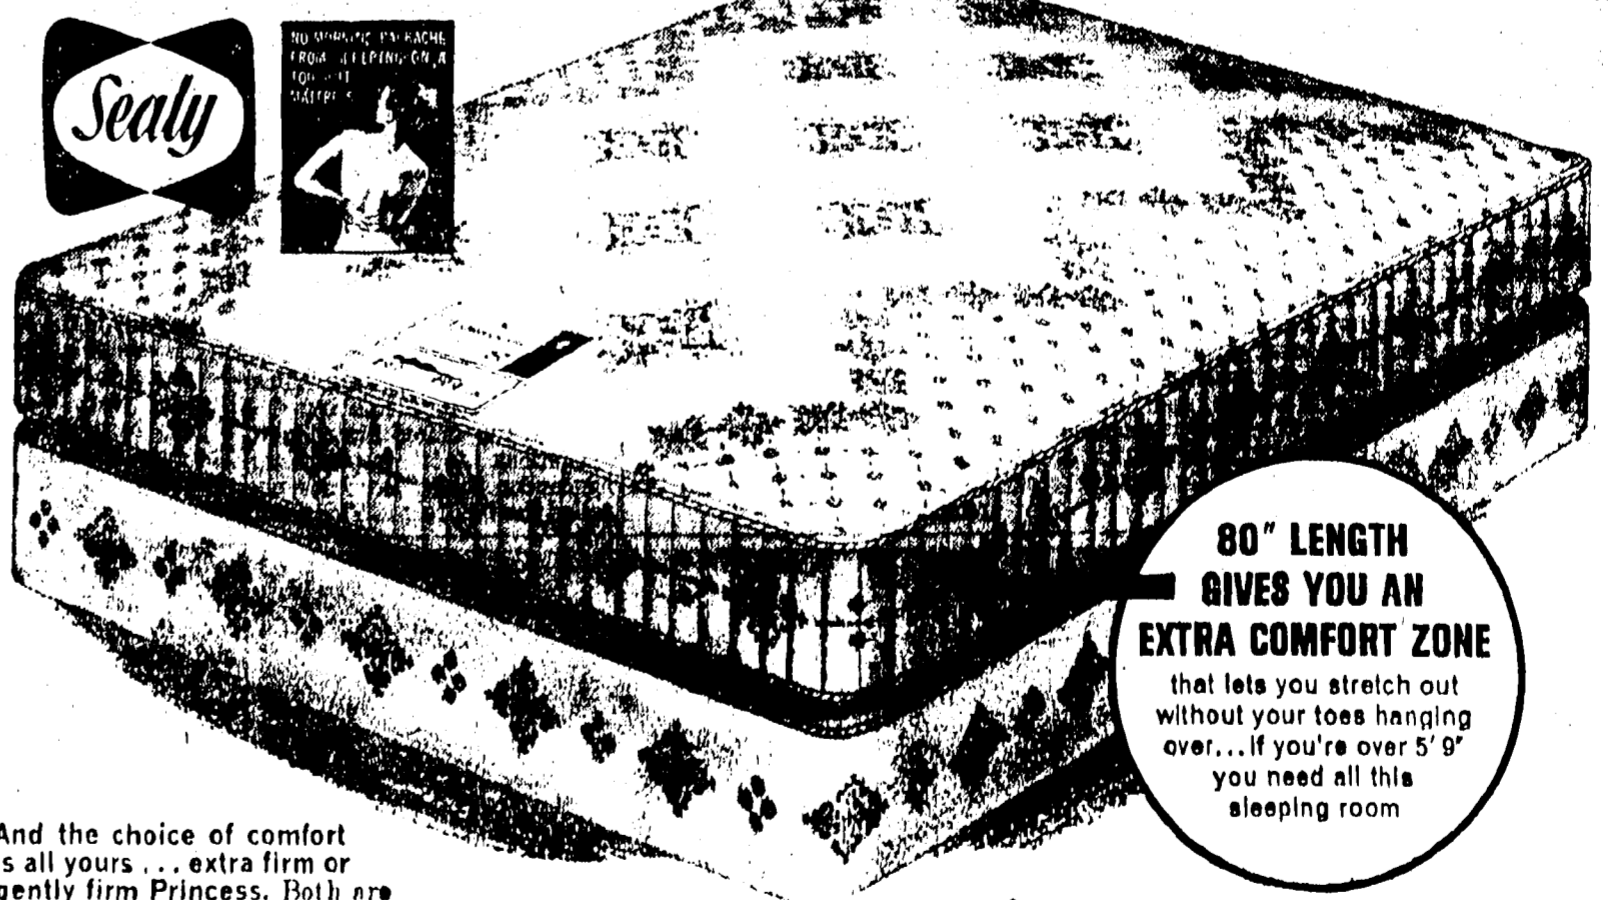

The Senate General Legislation Committee, which had approved a DST extension bill earlier in the session only to see it die on the floor, approved a broader one this week. It would provide for fast time from the end of April to the end of October.

But the House General Legislation Committee, divided 12-8 against DST, took no action and there was no indication of a change of heart on the part of the Senate.

The record at the end of the 18th week — with but two to go — showed 367 new laws enacted, 56 of them in the last week. The preponderance still were of a local nature.

River Dragged for Worker Spilled From Capsized Boat

By TERRY BORMANN
Sunday News Staff Writer

Construction workers tried to close off a washout on the Burlington Railroad right of way two miles east of Winona Junction Saturday in an effort to cut off the swirling current which hampered men dragging for the body of a Lindstrom, Minn., construction worker.

Gilbert Erickson was believed to have drowned Friday at about 6:45 p.m. when the 16-foot runabout in which he was riding was swept against debris in the washout and capsized.

Erickson's son-in-law came to the scene Saturday morning from St. Paul. He said that the dead man is survived by his wife and three daughters. Two of the daughters are married, and one is at college. Erickson was about 55 years old, the son-in-law said.

BUFFALO COUNTY Sheriff Myron Hoch said Saturday that the account of the accident he pieced together from the three survivors of the boat's capsizing indicated that none of the boat's four occupants were wearing life jackets, although the jackets were available in the boat.

Three men, from the railroad, including an assistant vice-president, and Erickson had been attempting to drag felled trees to the washout Friday evening. The swift current through the washout was carrying away fill as fast as it was dumped in, and the men hoped to hold the fill by partially plugging the gap with debris.

About 6:45 p.m., as they were pulling a log toward the washout, the 40-horsepower outboard engine on the boat failed. Sheriff Hoch said that the gas line on the engine came apart.

Hoch said that as the boat drifted toward the washout it came in close to the railroad right of way. The occupants of the boat threw their anchor line into shore, but the end of the line was not tied to the boat.

WHEN THE boat drifted close to the right of way, the three railroad men jumped into the water and made it to land. Erickson apparently froze, and he was thrown into the swirling current of the washout itself when the boat capsized as it was swept against a post lodged vertically in the water.

Ivan C. Ethington, the assistant vice president, and William Fox, both of Aurora, Ill., and David Hubbard, Prairie du Chien, Wis., were the railroad men who escaped the drifting boat.

Ethington returned to Illinois Saturday morning. Hubbard was driving the boat when its engine stalled.

A railroad official called the Winona police and fire departments at about 6:55 p.m. to ask for help in searching for Erickson. The Lindstrom man had been held momentarily against the rails which sag near the water's surface at the washout, but he did not hang on and soon went under.

Ethington told Sheriff Hoch that he shouted to Erickson to hang onto the rails, but the drowned man apparently was not able to hear Ethington.

Ethington also told the sheriff that he, personally, had not been wearing his life jacket because he is a strong swimmer and feared that, if he did go overboard, the jacket could snag in debris and hold him under.

Patrolmen John A. Erickson and Lyle E. Lattman brought the police boat to the scene and dragged futilely till about 8:30 p.m. Sheriff Hoch and Deputy John Marsolek got dragging equipment on the scene about that time and continued the dragging till 10 p.m.

A Winona fire department boat also was rushed to the scene with resuscitation equipment. Assistant Chief Ervin Laufenburger and Fireman William Heitman brought the resuscitator, and Fireman Wilfred Hohmeister brought the boat.

As it turned out, neither the resuscitator nor the fire department boat was used.

Game Warden Elliot Peterson, Trempealeau, Wis., took over dragging duties Saturday at noon while construction workers labored to fill in the washout. Sheriff Hoch held out little hope of finding Erickson's body before the washout was plugged — probably Saturday evening.

THE CURRENT, from the river toward the Wisconsin shore, prevented effective dragging in the area where Peterson expected to find Erickson's body.

Sheriff Hoch said that Erickson was wearing a belt with assorted heavy tools in it when he went down. The motor and a power saw and cutting torch with tanks also went down; the boat was recovered.

Erickson was a 15-year employee of Markham Bros., a St. Paul construction firm. Markham is a major sub-contractor to Foley Bros., another St. Paul construction company, on the repair of the Burlington right of way in this area.

Peterson and Elmer Goetz, Fountain City, Wis., were dragging Saturday afternoon. Sheriff Hoch said he hoped to add more boats by late Saturday.

Bicycle License Sale to Begin Tuesday Morning

Bicycle licenses for 1965-66 will go on sale Tuesday after the City Council votes on Police Chief James W. McCabe's proposal to make the licenses valid for two years, the chief said today.

Sgt. Martin H. Prigge said Saturday that licenses will be sold at city schools so that young bicycle-owners will not need to come downtown to get their new licenses.

Schedule for the first three days of license sales is as follows, according to Prigge: Tuesday, Jefferson School from 9 a.m.; Wednesday, St. Mary's School from 9 a.m. until noon; St. Casimir's School after 1 p.m.; Thursday, St. Matthew's School from 9:35 a.m. until noon, and St. Martin's School after 1 p.m.

Prigge said that the schedule of license sales at other city schools would be worked out by Monday. Price of the new bicycle licenses has been tentatively set at 50 cents, pending action by the city council.

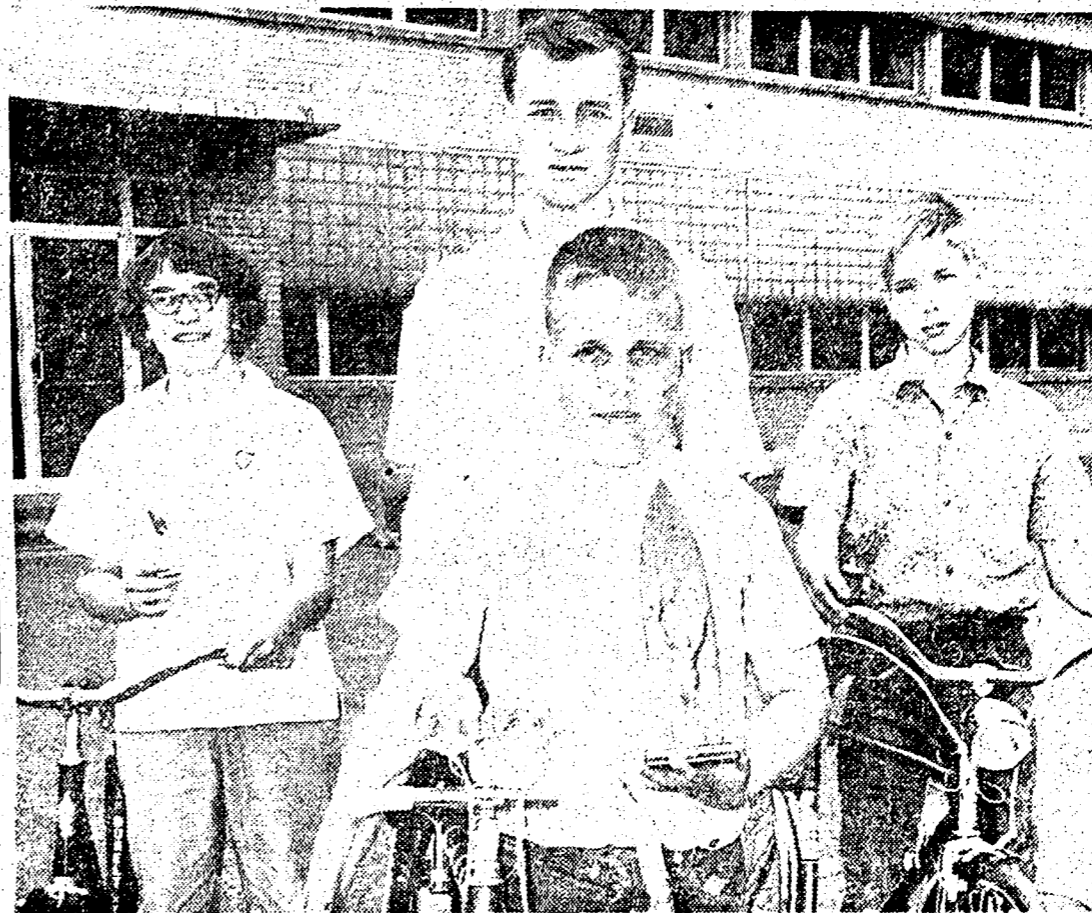

Elba Switches To Fast Time

ELBA, Minn. (Special) — Elba Village Council followed the area trend at a special meeting Friday night, voting to go on Daylight Saving Time this morning and stay on until Wisconsin changes back to standard time Oct. 31.

Announcing earlier this week to switch to DST today were Lewistown, Rushford, St. Charles and Rochester. In an informal vote Caledonia people, village and rural, favored DST but no action was taken by the Commercial Club to change its ruling to stay on standard time.

150 Compete In Circle K Bike Road-race

Mitchell Klagge, a student at Madison School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klagge, 412 W. Sanborn St., Saturday was named grand champion at the fourth annual bicycle safety road-race sponsored by the Circle K Club at Winona State College.

About 150 children of elementary grade school age participated in the day-long event.

Sessions were held in the morning and afternoon with Circle K members first checking bicycles of entrants prior to competition in which riders negotiated an obstacle course to test their driving ability.

Mitchell won the grand trophy after posting the top total point score while individual winners from each school represented in the contest were awarded smaller trophies.

School winners were: Madison — Dave Woodworth, first; Becky Barth, second, and Karen Finkelburg, third.

Lewistown — Mary Schramm, first; Joan Cotton, second, and Rev. Hanson, third.

Washington-Kosciusko — Paul W. Goetzman, first; Larry Stanek, second and Mark Kinowski, third.

Winners in junior division races for children 10 and under were Dean Soren, first; Jim Reed, second, and Vicki Lahmann, third.

Rev. Hanson was the senior division race winner among girls and Roger Holbeck was the senior boys winner.

$1.8 Million Asked In Federal Flood Aid

A preliminary application for $1,832,434 in federal disaster funds will be filed with the Office of Emergency Planning, city officials said Saturday.

The requested amount covers protective expenses and estimated debris removal only. Supplementary applications will be filed later for OEP funds to repair flood-related damages to sanitary and storm sewer systems and to streets.

Two elements make up the preliminary request amount. They are $1,407,434 for costs of building temporary defenses and $425,000 for cleanup. The first figure is based on bills submitted by contractors and those for auxiliary services. The debris clearance figure is an engineering estimate.

Studies made by an Army Corps of Engineers team and the city engineer's office yielded the figures.

City Engineer James Baird said city streets and sewage systems will be thoroughly examined before repair costs are determined and fund applications filed. Inspections now are being made by the engineering firm of Tolt, King, Duvall and Anderson, St. Paul. The firm was employed by the City Council for the purpose.

The application will be discussed at a conference among city officials and R. B. Van Dame, natural disaster coordinator for the Mankato OEP office. Van Dame is expected to be here Tuesday.

Man Killed In Fall From Hotel Window

Winona police Saturday night were investigating the death of a man who fell out of a third story window of Hotel Winona at about 5:50 p.m.

He was tentatively identified by police as Herbert V. Larson, 1110 Sturdevant St., Red Wing, Minn.

He reportedly fell from a window on the northeast corner of the building facing 3rd Street.

James Goetz Names District GOP Chairman

James B. Goetz, 557 W. 5th St., former Winona County Republican chairman, Saturday was elected 1st District GOP chairman at the district convention in Austin.

Goetz, president of Gem Radio Stations, which operates KAGE in Winona, will succeed Arthur Swan, Rochester, who had served for nine years as district officer.

Mrs. Marshall Torrey, Red Wing, was elected district chairman succeeding Mrs. Russell Sather, Albert Lea.

Goetz had been serving as district first vice chairman and had been succeeded this year by Robert Olson, Winona, as Winona County chairman.

Johnson Has No Travel Plans For the Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has no travel plans this weekend and did not intend to join in the dedication of the Rayburn Dam at Jasper, Tex., Saturday, the White House said Friday night.

There had been persistent rumors that the President would attend the dedication. White House press secretary George E. Reedy scotched them by saying Johnson did not plan to travel over the weekend.

State May Give '64 Tax Benefit On Flood Losses

Hearings will be held Tuesday by the House tax committee in St. Paul on a bill granting state income tax relief to persons suffering disaster losses.

One of the bill's authors is Winona Rep. Frank Theis. The bill would allow taxpayers to deduct losses suffered this year from taxes paid in 1965 on 1964 income. To make such an election, the taxpayer also must have made a similar election for his federal income tax return.

Such an election relating to a disaster loss occurring in the first 3½ months of 1965 must be made no later than Dec. 31, 1965.

Since the April 15 tax deadline is past, such an election would be made by filing an amended return.

Rep. Theis predicted quick passage of the bill by the legislature.

Fines Paid on Road Weight Limit Charges

A school bus driver and another driver, pleaded guilty Thursday and Friday to charges, brought by Sheriff George E. Fort, of driving overweight vehicles on county highways.

Robert Roroff, 19, Lamolite, pleaded guilty Friday at 7 p.m. in Homer Justice Court to a charge of driving a school bus 1,000 pounds overweight Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. on CSA 17 in Wilson Township.

The charge was reduced to 700 pounds rather than 1,000 pounds at the request of Special Deputy Raymond Ham, the arresting officer. Roroff paid a $10 fine and $4 costs imposed by Justice Donald Cummings.

Richard A. King, 425 W. Sanborn St., was charged by Ham Thursday at 8:30 a.m. with driving 1,500 pounds overweight on CSA 17 in Wilson Township. King appeared Thursday at 1 p.m. in Goodview Justice Court to plead guilty to the charge. He paid a $15 fine and $5 costs imposed by Justice Lewis E. Albert, according to Sheriff Fort.

Young, Old In Court For Drinking

A youth charged with violation of the open bottle law got an object lesson Saturday in municipal court; a bench warrant was issued for another youth who failed to appear to answer a speeding charge.

Thomas A. Gunn, 19, 4146 9th St., Goodview, pleaded guilty to the charge of having an open bottle in his vehicle at West Sarnia and Olmstead streets Saturday at 12:02 a.m. He followed an elderly man charged with intoxication before the court.

Judge John D. McGill referred young Gunn to the old man — who had been led from the court room — as an example of the "end of drinking. The court wonders if that's the way he got his start — thinking that drinking was fun," Judge McGill told Gunn.

The judge fined Gunn $35 with the alternative of 12 days in jail. The youth paid the fine. Richard J. Podgorny, 21, White House Trailer Court, was charged with speeding 45 m.p.h. in a 30 zone on Broadway from Lee to Junction streets Tuesday at 1:50 a.m. He gave his prom-

Planning Study Report Tuesday

Preliminary reports on downtown renewal studies will be given at a special meeting of the Winona Housing and Redevelopment Authority Tuesday.

The meeting will be at the Arthur C. Thurley Homes community room, 1600 Kraemer Dr., beginning at 7:30 p.m. Members of the City Council, Planning Commission and Citizens Advisory Commission will attend.

Preparing the plan for downtown renovation is the Minneapolis firm of Nason, Law, Wehrman & Knight. An accompanying survey of marketability of lands involved is being prepared by Larry Smith & Co., Seattle, Wash. Both studies are financed by a federal grant to the city of $77,600.

Kappers Construction also received the contract for furnishing maintenance requirements of bituminous materials at $5.45 per ton. Bids called for furnishing 10,000 gallons in carload lots of one type and 10,000 gallons each of two other types in transport lots. Northwest Refining Co., St. Paul, bid 11.98, 10.98 and 14.20 cents per gallon for the three types, and L. N. Sickles, St. Paul, 11.12, 10.95 and 13.98 cents. Hydrocarbon Specialties, Dakota, bid 10.73 and 10.98 cents on two types. The board passed a resolution authorizing the commissioner of highways to take the necessary steps to get federal aid for CSAH 27 southeast of the north county line over Rush Creek and a portion of CSAH 30 east of Granger.

BIDS FOR county assessor will be received by the auditor to May 18. The board appropriated $25 to each American Legion post conducting Memorial Day services. If done cooperatively with a VFW post, the appropriation will be $12.50 to each organization. Beer licenses were renewed for Jerome Stennes of Towney Store, Preble Township, and Root River Country Club, Bloomfield Township, near Spring Valley.

Blair Plans for Area Festivals

BLAIR, Wis. (Special)—Immediate plans will be made to have Blair represented at the Osseo and Arcadia summer celebrations, the Chamber of Commerce decided Wednesday night at a meeting in the NSP building.

William Sosalla suggested renovating the booster signs to place greater emphasis on the cheese industry here. President Ray Norberg appointed Donald Stanford, Gerald Sisto and Carl Lokken to work with him on the project. Ardell Matson is chairman of the float committee. Members are Freeman Benedict and James Davis.

O. I. Slette, inquiring about the $1,505 pledged from receipts of the Egg and Cheese Festival last year toward the proposed nursing home, was told it would be forthcoming as soon as financing is approved.

Tom Briggs was appointed to replace Peter Karlinsky who resigned from the retail trade committee. Other members are Matson, Ray Bluske, Robert Aubart, Miss Alice Stumpf, Donald Stenberg and John Roettger.

Gordon Schaeffer, representing an investment firm in Eau Claire, explained the stock exchange and brokers.

It Happened Last Night Steve Lawrence Junior Bob Hope?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Steve Lawrence, in person, has a leisurely, easy-going charm that's as warm as Bob Hope's... he may be turning into a junior Bob Hope next September on CBS when he becomes the youngest guy to have his own TV series.

"You're sure you're the youngest guy to have his own show?" I asked him the other day.

"Yes, Patty Duke, fortunately, isn't a guy," he said, lighting a cigarette.

"I'm still 29 — till July. Andy Williams must be two albums older than I am."

"And Eydie isn't going to appear with you on the show — except on some special occasion?"

"My wife says I can't afford her on my show," Steve smiled. "And that's true... not only on the show... but also around the house!"

"Still, you had your own show years ago, didn't you?"

"Eydie and I had our own in '57... Summer replacement for Steve Allen's Sunday show. I did so good, I was drafted."

For 18 months he was in uniform in Washington attached to the Army band. He and Eydie lived in Fort Meyer, Va., and started their family.

EIGHT YEARS later, Steve opened in a Broadway show, "What Makes Sammy Run?" that didn't please the critics.

Steve's record, "Go Away, Little Girl," was booming toward the million mark. He disc-jockeyed and Broadway-columned the show into a hit. NBC asked him to do a TV special.

"NBC had commitments with Dean Martin and 'Hullabaloo' — CBS had a greater opening for a musical variety show. They made me an offer and I was quick to accept."

"Can you do anything different, do you think?"

"How different can you be? Maybe we can be individuals."

STEVE AND Eydie and their manager, Ken Greengrass, are producing records for Don Cornell, Julius La Rosa, Chris Connors and others under the name, "G.L.G." which stands for Gorme, Lawrence and Greengrass.

"I'm an I, surrounded by a couple of G's," Steve says.

Steve, while not exactly a Bob Hope rapid-fire gag-spouter, has become a clever quipster, and he'll indulge that ability often on his TV series.

"It's such a nice change," he says, "when people laugh at something you say instead of something you sing."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Joe E. Lewis watched a man stumble at the bar, and announced: "That's either a new dance step or an old drunk."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Of course two can live as cheaply as one. We know a couple living as cheaply as their daughter at college. — Arkansas Baptist.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A bachelor is a man who has failed to complete his education." Zsa Zsa Gabor.

EARL'S PEARLS: A local cab driver has a gimmick for getting bigger tips. He tells patrons, "Where are you from?" We're conducting a survey to learn which city's people are the most liberal.

Frankie Avalon offered to make the parachute jump himself for a scene in "Bench Blanket Bingo." "I'm not worried," he said, "I read the script and I know I come out safe."... That's earl, brother.

Blair Award Winners To Hear College Dean

BLAIR, Wis. (Special)—Miss Stella Pederson, dean of women at Stout State University, Menomonie, will speak at Blair High School's annual awards banquet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. First Lutheran Church Women will serve. The program is sponsored by Knudson-Mattison American Legion Post 231.

500 Hear NFO Head Speak at Spring Valley

SPRING VALLEY, Minn. — "We must carefully analyze and give serious thought to our farm problems and recognize the really big problems in farming," Oren Lee Staley, national NFO president, told more than 500 NFO members at the Fillmore County NFO ham dinner here.

"Farmers live in a changing world and can no longer tell themselves it will be all right because it always has been," he said.

AMONG THE problems Staley said is the price-cost squeeze. "What we purchase goes up and what we sell goes down," he pointed out.

"Although gross farm income was $42 billion last year net income was only $7.7 billion, an actual profit of 3 percent with an entire family's labor thrown in."

"Our problems today are different than they were before. One farmer is no longer isolated; what one farmer does affects all farmers."

"THERE HAVE been many changes in the retail and production. Today you see vast supermarkets and chain stores are taking over the wholesale operations. They impose their economic power on the processors saying, 'this is what we will pay,' and they control the price the farmer gets for his product."

"Nothing can be done as individuals, but we must organize and join together all our production for efficient sale."

"The farmer must take over his own business and a holding action must be used when necessary."

He asserted that the object of the NFO is to get contracts with processors. The processors must prove they can meet marketing responsibilities of production.

"There must be a power to change base price and change the price differential on cattle and hogs to reduce tonnage when necessary," he continued.

"WE MUST establish a surplus disposal program by taking production from normal market channels and feeding it back to the market at a later date. We must be able to use surpluses to our advantage such as selling to newly developing nations around the world and to underprivileged groups."

"By the last holding action NFO raised price of hogs 50 cents to one dollar per hundred-weight in interior markets in Minnesota and Iowa."

"Now we must have a grain program and then set up a dairy program," Staley said. "By selling together we will get more net dollars."

The meeting was May 1.

Immunization Clinic Slated at Lewiston School Next Friday

Lewiston, Minn. (Special)—The annual immunization clinic sponsored by Lewiston Public School and St. Charles Community Medical Center will be Friday in the gymnasium from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

This clinic is especially for grades 3, 5, 9 and 11, although other students, pre-school children and adults are welcome. Rural schools are requested to send their children between 1 and 2 p.m. All rural and parochial schools were urged to attend.

Children attending Lewiston school should return their permit sheets immediately with the small fee required. Others may present their sheets the day of the clinic or fill out the form at the gym.

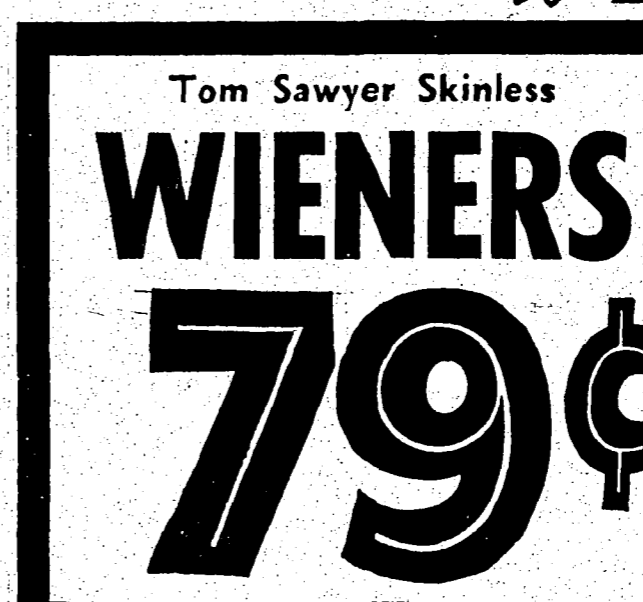

The clinics are planned so all children may get their necessary shots during the 12-year school period.

Memorial Day Unit Meets Monday Night

The Winona County Memorial Day Association will hold a planning meeting Monday at 7 p.m. at the Winona Daily News. Plans for the Memorial Day observance will be made. All associated organizations are to have representatives present.

Plainview School Election Develops 4-Candidate Slate

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special) —There'll be four candidates for two three-year terms expiring on Plainview School Board. John McHardy, attorney, and Francis Kottschade, farmer, filed by the deadline Thursday. Norman Kruger, who runs a welding shop, and Nick Shriver, furniture store operator, had filed previously after John Boehlke and Fred Gerber, incumbents, announced they wouldn't seek re-election.

Ed Evans, appointed to fill out the year when Dr. D. G. Mahle moved to Wabasha, has filed for his one-year unexpired term.

Polls will be open from 4 to 9 p.m. in the school May 18.

Plum Creek Shed Work To Create 129-Acre Lake

ELLSWORTH, Wis. — Federal appropriations for the $1.2 million Plum Creek Watershed program has been approved, according to Robert Klinge, Plum City, president of the watershed association.

He said he was notified by Rep. Vernon Thomson of the congressional approval of the appropriations.

The five-or six-year project is in southeastern Pierce and southwestern Pepin counties. It involves 89,000 acres. Five soil and water erosion control structures will be built. The largest, a dam about 3 1/2 miles north of Plum City, will be 1,500 feet long, 70 feet wide and will create a lake of 129 acres averaging 45 feet deep.

Complete park and recreational facilities will be installed on an additional 500 acres surrounding the lake. Picnic facilities, camping grounds, boating, fishing and swimming will be included in the park.

Pierce County will purchase the land for the lake and park and turn it over to the state of Wisconsin which will grant the county a permanent easement to the land, in effect making it a county park.

Financing of the entire project will follow: Pierce County and other local contributions, $170,000; state of Wisconsin, $122,000, and the balance by the federal government.

Contracts are expected to be let this fall for work on two stabilization structures, one in Maiden Rock township and the other in Siefert Coulee in Pepin County. Work on the large dam probably will not begin until 1968.

The Plum Creek Watershed Association started preliminary planning of the project in 1957. For the project to win federal approval, at least 50 percent of the land involved must be under good soil conservation practices.

Freedom Party Member Speaker Here on Monday

A representative of Mississippi's Freedom Democratic Party will give a public speech at 8:15 p.m. Monday in the St. Mary's College auditorium.

She is Mrs. Victoria Gray, Hattiesburg, her party's candidate for Mississippi's 4th Congressional District seat.

She will discuss the Freedom Democratic Party's challenge of the results of last November's Congressional election in Mississippi. The party contends that the election was not valid — and the winners were not duly elected — because Negroes were being systematically denied their right to vote.

Mrs. Gray, who is trying to gain Northern support for her party's position, will make several other appearances in Minnesota. Her lecture here is being sponsored by an ad hoc student group.

2 East Germans Flee to Freedom

BERLIN (AP) — While Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kossygin extolled the virtues of communism in an address in East Berlin Friday, two young East Germans disarmed a Red border guard and skipped to West Berlin.

West Berlin police reported the two youths were restoring the roof of an East Berlin church adjacent to West Berlin.

When one of the two guards left the work area for a few minutes, they disarmed the other. They crawled over the barbed wire barricades, asked for political asylum, and turned the submachine gun over to West Berlin police.

Thoughts at Random — From Editor's Notebook

ENGLISH IS A wonderful, but sometimes baffling language! For example, you've heard the line about a flock of geese, a covey of quail, a herd of cows, a pride of lions, a pod of whales and so on!

It's that way with rope, too. Aboard a boat, rope isn't just rope. Depending upon how it's being used, it's called by a variety of well-established terms.

In good nautical parlance, the word rope applies to cordage generally, of all sizes and types. You go to a store to buy a supply of rope.

But aboard your boat, each piece of rope is correctly referred to as a line! There is an anchor line, a mooring line and so on. You pull a water skier with a tow line.

But there's an exception! A piece of rope affixed to the bow of a boat for the purpose of making it fast to a dock or another boat is called a painter.

Rope of substantial size used on large vessels for towing and mooring is called a hawser.

When he lets out a line, the well-versed boater says he "pays it out." When he releases it from a deck cleat or other part of the boat he "casts off."

Ropes used to control and manipulate the sails of a sailboat are not called lines, they are called sheets!

The terms used to describe rope and its varied uses almost form a new language: to belay a line means to make it fast by turns around a pin, without hitching or seizing it. Fake is a noun refers to a turn of rope in a coil. When used as a verb (fake down) it means to coil a line down with ends overlapping so it will run freely without fouling.

A bend is a knot by which one rope is made fast to another. The familiar sheet bend and fisherman's bend are typical examples.

For the boater who is in earnest about learning true seamanship, the study of knots and their terminology promises some fascinating hours.

A SURVEY to determine political trends among young Americans was recently taken by three universities and U.S. News and World Report among American high school juniors and college juniors. Among the students surveyed:

71 percent would deny an accused person the right to confront his accuser.

40 percent believe certain groups should be denied the right of peaceful assembly.

41 percent believe that freedom of the press should be canceled.

34 percent favor denying free speech to certain persons.

26 percent would allow search and seizure without consent.

53 percent believed in government ownership of banks, railroads and steel companies.

56 percent voted for close government regulation of all business.

62 percent said that the government has the responsibility to provide jobs.

62 percent thought a worker should not produce all he can.

61 percent rejected the profit incentive as necessary to the survival of free enterprise.

84 percent denied that patriotism is vital and plays an important part in our lives.

A number of writers, analyzing these figures, believe they provide additional proof that doomsayers are not far wrong in their predictions of a welfare state in this country. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful that among political leaders today even those who lean most heavily toward the welfare state, would go along with most of the views expressed by the majority of the students polled.

TRAFFIC FATALITIES in West Germany were up only 6 percent in the first nine months of 1964 compared to increases of 10 percent in the United States, 11 percent in Britain and 13 percent in France, but authorities acted vigorously nevertheless. Stiff new penalties for traffic offenders went into force last week.

Drunk drivers and those who drive without licenses now face a year in jail. Drivers who ignore right of way regulations, pass improperly and make U-turns on the Autobahn risk prison terms of up to five years. Fines are increased for lesser offenses, and courts are empowered to impose driving bans for dangerous or careless driving.

THE GERMAN Automobile Club, speaking for the nation's drivers, has condemned some of the new penalties as unreasonable. But the club also declared that it was up to each driver to keep out of trouble by strict observance of the traffic laws.

TODAY IN WORLD AFFAIRS

U.S. Authority Declared Legal

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Whether or not some of the countries in Latin America disapprove of the sending of United States military forces into the Dominican Republic, the realistic fact is that basic international law approves such rescue measures when the lives of foreigners are endangered and no other police force to protect them is available.

The charter of the Organization of American States provides, in effect, that, where there is an established government capable of discharging its international obligations, "no state or group of states has the right to intervene, directly or indirectly, for any reason whatever, in the internal or external affairs of any other state." But this does not exclude intervention when the local government has broken down. The United States has openly declared that it has no desire to participate in the political affairs of the Dominican Republic.

There are indeed, even more pertinent articles in the charter of the Organization of American States on this point. Articles 7 and 8 say:

"EVERY AMERICAN state has the duty to respect the rights enjoyed by every other state in accordance with international law."

"The fundamental rights of states may not be impaired in any manner whatsoever."

These provisions are in complete accord with precedents of international law, which have always held that the lives of foreigners resident in a country must be protected against any violence and that, if the existing government is incapable of giving such protection, the state or states whose nationals are threatened may take appropriate action in defense.

Another article in the charter provides that "the territory of a state is inviolable" and that "military occupation" or other measures of force must not be taken against it even temporarily. The plain objective of such a provision, however, is to prevent territorial acquisition. The United States has no hostility toward the Dominican people and, of course, has no intention of annexing a single foot of territory or of interfering with a government once established.

AMONG THE principles affirmed in the charter of the Organization of American States are the following:

"International law is the standard of conduct of states in their reciprocal relations."

"An act of aggression against one American state is an act of aggression against all the other American states."

In the present instance, the United States had detected an effort on the part of the Communist imperialist regimes to take over the Dominican Republic. This has precipitated a situation which not only endangers the lives of all foreigners, but also could extinguish self-government altogether in the Dominican Republic.

—And They Wonder Why Crime Costs $27 Billion A Year!

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Johnson Action Tough On OAS Independence

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It was at 11:01 p.m., May 7, twenty years ago, that the giant German war machine ground to a complete stop with the formal cessation of hostilities. The war in Europe had come to an end.

At the very moment the cease-fire was being signed, Allied statesmen, meeting in San Francisco, were drawing up another document, calculated to preserve the future peace of the world.

During most of the 20 years that have passed, the United Nations has done an amazingly good job. Adlai Stevenson once tallied up 22 cases where the U.N. had stepped in to negotiate ceasefires; and some diplomats contend that had the U.N. been in existence at the time of the Sarajevo assassination in 1914 there would have been no World War I. Austria-Hungary and Czarist Russia would have been persuaded to sit down at the conference table instead of mobilizing their armies.

Wars, or the preparation for wars, seem to come in 20-year cycles. And this week, 20 years after the end of World War II, many diplomats believe the United States is nearer to the brink of major hostilities in the Far East than at any time since 1945.

How then do we guard against further drift into World War? In general by doing two things:

1. Building up the machinery of peace by using it ourselves and by encouraging others to use it.

2. Building goodwill and friendship so that a potential enemy will know that, if attacked, we will not stand alone.

HOW HAVE we done this? The answer is that we haven't. We have alienated friends and allies from Europe to Asia, and the United Nations has become so deadlocked over a financial argument that it has never been so paralyzed.

This is a condition inherited by President Johnson, and when it was explained to him that the United States was quarreling with France and Russia over the payment of $60,000,000 dues, he exclaimed, "we've got more than that invested in it ourselves."

Nevertheless the paralysis continues. And we have contributed to it by ignoring the United Nations in our war over Viet Nam. The U.N. charter provides that when a nation becomes the aggressor, the matter is to be submitted to the United Nations. Instead we have declared North Viet Nam an aggressor on our own, and have undertaken to bomb it almost daily in retaliation.

True, Russia would have vetoed us in the Security Council, but we would have strengthened our position and the U.N. by not ignoring its peace machinery.

MORE RECENTLY, the United States ignored another peace organization, the Organization of American States which we helped to found, nurse, and develop.

If President Johnson had waited two hours to confer with the OAS before landing marines in the Dominican Republic, he would have had OAS support and thus avoided a wave of indignation all over Latin America.

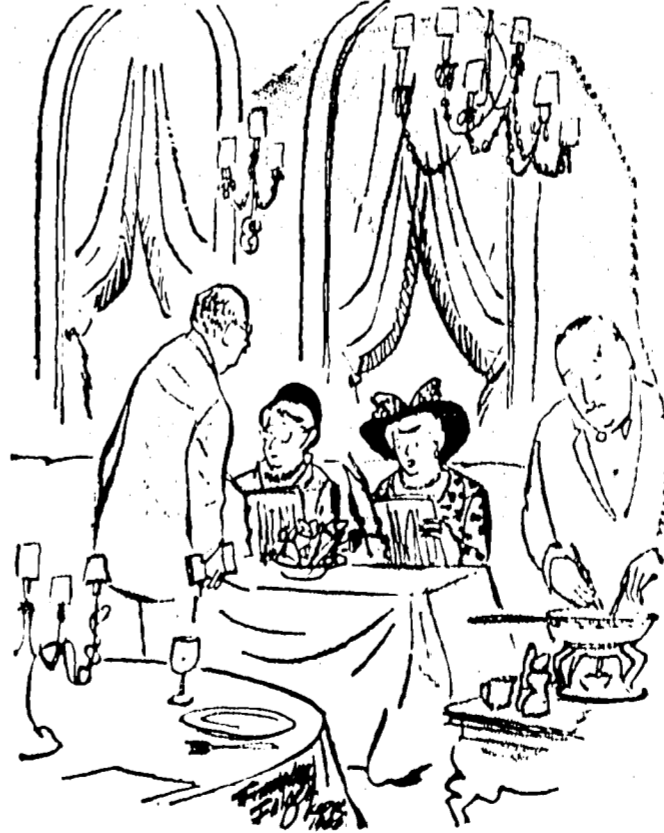

Most Latin leaders are just as anxious as the United States to combat communism in this hemisphere. Former President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela fought off Castro subversion for years, had to quell street rioting and constant bombing. He is vigorous against communism and Castro, was in Washington personally at the time Johnson moved in to the Dominican Republic and would gladly have lent his powerful prestige to the idea of a Pan American military force to establish order in the Dominican Republic.

Most other Latin leaders feel the same. All except Mexico have signed the drastic economic boycott of Castro.

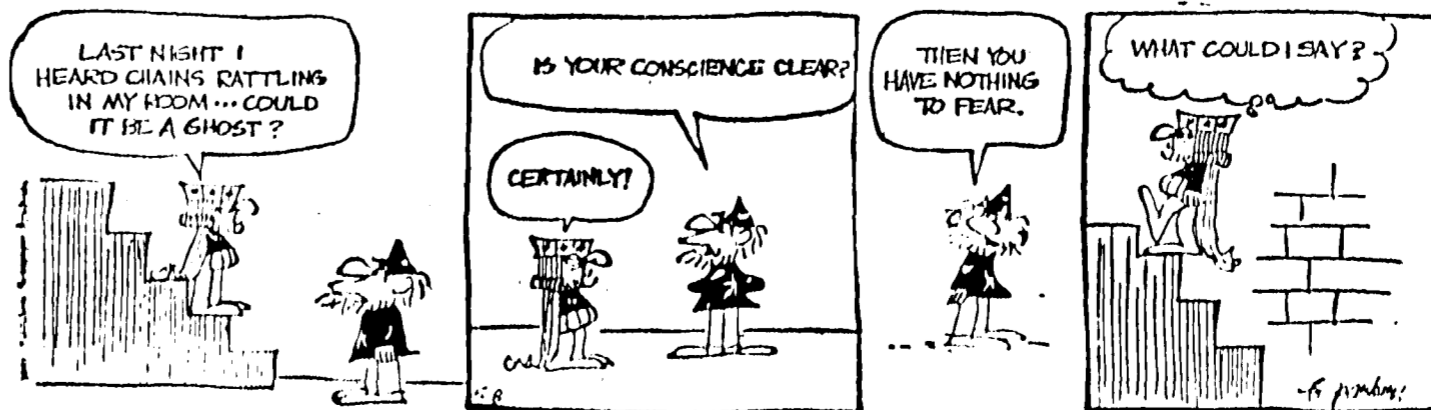

BUT AFTER Johnson had sent troops into Santo Domingo without consulting the OAS, Latin presidents were reluctant to cooperate in a Pan American army to bail him out. He had violated the time-honored pledge of the United States not to intervene without prior consultation, and political reaction at home was sour. Many Latins wanted to know who was now "trigger-happy" — Goldwater or Johnson? They thought the non-trigger-happy candidate had been elected — yet Johnson would not wait two hours to confer with the OAS before dumping a huge army into the prostrate Dominican Republic.

Asks About Respect for Law

To the Editor:
"What's with our teenagers. They seem to have no respect for the law." How often do we hear that remark made when teenagers have disobeyed the laws or gotten into trouble? Shouldn't we say the same thing about our border towns and cities? Our Minnesota government passed a law during the last legislature that, Minnesota and border cities, should remain on Standard Time until the fourth Sunday in May. Many of our border towns are changing their clock to correspond with Wisconsin. Shouldn't they be fined as well as teenagers for disobeying the law? How would our towns like it if the Stop signs were disregarded as our DST law is disregarded? What if people threw their garbage on the street, or farmers, who are opposed to it, should bring all their tin cans, or other junk, and dump it on main street? We are opposed to DST at any time, and certainly don't like it dumped on us before our Minnesota government allows it.

People in favor of DST say they like the extra hour in the summer. I would like to know where they find that extra hour, as my clock has only 12 hours and it goes around twice for one day. They also say they have an extra hour in the evening but meetings are usually scheduled for 8 DST which is 7 CST, then where is that extra hour in the evening?

Answers To Your Questions

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother's feet are as hard as rocks on the soles. She is now getting cracks in her heels and I am afraid she will have them all over her feet. Even bathing them daily does not help. Have you any suggestions? — L. S.

Use of bath oils nightly may help soften the skin, but the cracks you mention are obviously avenues for infection to enter. Half-strength Whitfield's ointment reduces the scaling of the skin and is often helpful. But advice is for your doctor to take a look and guide you. When the problem becomes as severe as you describe, minutes of medical guidance are worth more than months of fiddling with home remedies.

Dear Dr. Molner: Whether it is my body, arms, legs or any other part, after I bump myself I am left with big black, blue and dark green spots. They stay for several weeks. Am I lacking in something? — MRS. A. K.

Calcium, maybe. This is one of the reasons why I keep emphasizing the value of milk (skim or regular) or cottage cheese, spinach, greens, etc. for adults. In other cases these easily-acquired but hard-to-lose bruises mean that the capillaries, or very tiny blood vessels near the surface, are unusually fragile. And in a few cases some fault in the blood, a shortage of the constituents which encourage quick clotting, can be involved. For this, careful blood tests may be required. A bruise means bleeding beneath the skin.

thrill to adjust to a new baby in your home? I'm sure you'll agree that the adjustments are many. Could you then adjust to go to work an hour earlier by the clock and come home an hour earlier in the evening? Then you would have that extra hour to spend with your family before you would have to go to that 8 o'clock meeting.

Position of Boards Discussed To the Editor:

Presently Winona is being served by a system of municipal government known as the "weak mayor-council" form established under a legislative charter. This means just what the name implies, that our mayor is virtually a figure head with no actual administrative authority. That makes for little or no central leadership in community affairs. This form also grants to the council the power to initiate and determine policy. That would be fine except in Winona certain policy decisions are delegated, by charter provisions, to non-representative, appointed administrative boards such as the water board, fire and police board, library board, park-recreation board, etc. I am not attacking members of these boards, but I am saying that men not elected by the people can determine public policy, a power that rightfully belongs only to elected representatives. Actually these administrative boards constitute a local bureaucracy and can lead to inefficient, unqualified, expensive, and non-representative local government.

It's always easy to make accusations but never so easy to state solutions. Our city is on the right track by favoring a study group to determine the advantages of a home rule charter that puts more power in the hands of the citizens and allows a city to decide what form of government to adopt.

There are three alternatives to the weak mayor-council form. They are: A commission form, strong mayor-council and council manager. The latter two offer central leadership in either a strong mayor or a city manager. In both systems advisory boards replace the administrative boards and have no power to make policy.

A major concern in Winona is the problem of high taxes, the highest in fact of all second class cities in Minnesota. Effective administration has been proven to reduce the cost of government as it consolidates departments, eliminates duplication of services and avoids wasteful spending caused by lack of information and poor implementation.

No system promises to have answers to all the problems but it's time we start a constructive search for a system that has the answer to our biggest problem, poor local government.

Ike Asks Man To Work for World Peace

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, on the 20th anniversary of World War II victory in Europe, called upon mankind Friday to rededicate itself to the advancement of humanity rather than its destruction.

The five-star general who led the invasion that brought an end to European hostilities, and later served his country as president through eight years of relative peace, issued an anniversary statement from his farm home near Gettysburg.

Eisenhower's comments came on the eve of the actual cessation of hostilities in 1945.

The former president's statement said in part:

"May 8, 1945, saw the end in Europe of the devastating war that had begun in the late summer of 1939, and involved practically the whole of the European area."

"With Hitler and his cruel practices swept away, the victory on V-E Day inspired new hopes in weary and terror-stricken populations for some assurance that governments would find a way to eliminate the possibility of future war."

"In an effort to give realization to these hopes, a number of governments cooperated in the founding of the United Nations organization and for a time there seemed to grow and flourish a promise of an enduring and just peace."

"But soon disappointments ensued; mankind again began to experience the uneasiness and tensions that always accompany every threat to general peace."

"On this 20th anniversary of V-E Day, it would seem that all of us — every private citizen and governmental official throughout the world — should unite in renewing our faith and re-enforcing our determination that the intellect of man will concern itself more with humanity's advancement than its destruction."

NASON ON EDUCATION

Spelling Is More Than Memorizing

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:

Please advise me regarding my sixth-grade son. His problem is spelling. He gets good grades in spelling if the test is on the words he has studied. However, if the teacher presents the test in the form of sentences, he seldom passes. We have spoken to the teacher. He said the boy is doing well and not to worry, but we know he should be reading and spelling better than he is.

He is attending a reading clinic and I can honestly say I don't see any improvement. The clinic suggests that most of his problem is spelling.

Mrs. G. W. A., Westbury, L.I., N.Y.

Answer:

Students who memorize merely for the sake of passing a spelling test have difficulty spelling the same words in other situations. Your son should study his spelling with the idea in mind that he is learning to spell each word once and for all, so that for the rest of his life he will know how it is spelled.

He should practice seeing in his mind how the word is spelled as he hears it pronounced. And he should also practice writing the word, while at the same time fixing in his mind its correct spelling. In the beginning, he may have to go back over his work once it is written, checking each word individually for spelling. Eventually this will be unnecessary.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Perhaps you can help me with my problem. Schoolwork has always been hard for my sixth-grade son. He went to a little country school his first year. In the second year, we knew he hadn't done as well as he should. He didn't even know the alphabet, so we sent him to a town school. After six weeks in the second grade, the principal told me my son didn't know basic fundamentals of the first grade. So we put him back in the first. But he has had problems every year.

He's slow to understand, reads poorly and doesn't seem really interested. The teachers each year say he can do the work if he would just try. He gazes around a lot.

Mrs. R. Y., Tahlequah, Okla.

Answer:

Habits are difficult to break. Your son started right off coasting. He didn't learn the alphabet; he didn't acquire the basic fundamentals in the first grade. A solution that has worked in similar cases is to have someone spend the whole summer taking your son through all of his schoolwork from the beginning. This time it must be made certain that he actually grasps all of the fundamentals.

Although this procedure works, it is hard to find a tutor who understands the process and, at the same time, can inspire a boy to make an effort. Good luck!

Dear Dr. Nason:

What can you suggest for a first-year college student who wants a college education but who feels he hasn't much ability? His parents both have M.A.'s, his father a law degree. He remarked to a friend that his parents were both smart, but that he wasn't.

Seeing his parents study rather nonchalantly, seemingly, he doesn't realize that years of hard study brought them the ability to drop into concentrated study easily. I think this is why he feels he must work part-time and prove himself in the working world. He has an excellent vocabulary, talks well on history, current events, and the like.

A Grandmother—
Sacramento, Calif.

Answer:

You have answered your question. Your grandson must be made to realize that study is not nonchalant reading. He must understand that to learn anything new, his parents, like himself, must concentrate and study as they read. And they may have to study the material over two or three times before they get a firm grasp. He then will know that they are not born smart but developed skills. This realization will help him to lose some of his inferiority complex.

Ministers to Plan Whitewater Rites

Ministers from Lewiston, St. Charles, Dover, Eyota and Plainview have been invited to attend a planning meeting for conducting services at Whitewater State Park this summer.

The meeting will be at 10 a.m. DST Monday at the state park office. Services will be conducted Sundays from May 30 to Sept. 6 at the park.

Services were conducted at the park last year with an average attendance of 300 to 400, according to the Rev. Walter Meyer, Lewiston.

The idea is being adopted by the Minnesota Council of Churches.

Winona County Elba Loses Mental Health Drive Slated

Winona County Mental Health Association will conduct its annual "bellringer" campaign Monday through May 21 in rural areas of the county and surrounding towns.

Residents of Winona and Goodview support the association's campaign through the Community Chest.

Funds collected in the drive are used to support the treatment and rehabilitation of the mentally ill, according to the Rev. Walter H. Meyer, Lewiston county chairman.

Workers in charge of collections in county communities are invited to a tea at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Karl Lipsch, Stockton. Materials they will need will be distributed then.

Community chairmen of the drive are as follows: Altura, Mrs. Steve Kronebusch; Minnesota City, Mrs. Roger Church; Stockton, Mrs. Arthur Wacholz; Rollingstone, Mrs. Richard Reiland; Wilson, Mrs. Chris Oech; Elba, Mrs. Robert Maurer.

St. Charles, Mrs. Roy Ham; Mrs. Walter Neitz and Mrs. Dan Burke; Lewiston, Rural Ramblers 4-H Club, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ahrends; Pickwick, Pauline Wershofen; Minneka, Frank Schultz; Dakota, Mrs. Bruce Bearwald and Mrs. Ruby Jankowski; and Saratoga, Mrs. Wayne Dabelstein and Mrs. Kirk Murray.

Workers are also invited to attend a regional rally to discuss ways to make the bellringer campaign successful. It will be conducted at 6 p.m. CST Monday in Kasson. Speaker will be Clifford C. Sommer, Owatonna, state chairman of the drive.

Elba Loses Post Office Designation

ELBA, Minn. (Special) — Elba lost its post office Friday and was placed on an Altura rural route.

When the new U.S. Official Postal Guides come out, there'll be no Elba, Minn., post office in the listing for the first time in more than 70 years.

When Mrs. Ervin Loppnow retired five years ago after being postmaster 45 years, the office was changed to Elba rural station, with mail delivered from Altura. Mrs. Loppnow's daughter, Violet, was placed in charge. People in this historic village on the Whitewater River continued to have all the conveniences of postal service just down the street from the business section. Now they'll have to get rural boxes and get along with rural service.

Miss Loppnow, a member of the village board, now is working for a St. Charles greenhouse. She'll continue as Daily and Sunday News correspondent.

Elba was notified of the post office closing April 1 and was unsuccessful in attempts through legislators in Washington, D.C., to retain the service.

"HOW DO YOU LIKE THE NEW PAVING JOB? THAT CONCRETE SURE BRINGS US CUSTOMERS!"

A business area paved with concrete has a clean and substantial look, that says progressiveness.

Laid flat, concrete stays flat and smooth-riding . . . doesn't demand frequent repairing. Upkeep costs are low. Over the years, the savings of tax dollars can be considerable.

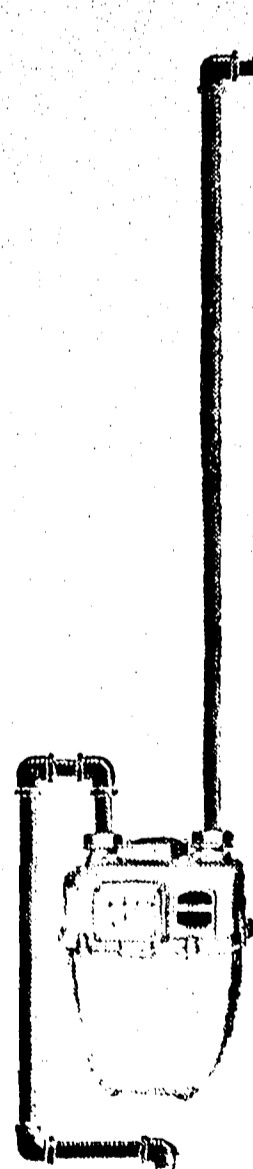

Recently, the biggest, most scientific pavement study ever made confirmed again the unequalled durability of concrete for streets. This was an unbiased test, sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials, with your state sharing in the cost.

You can see why so many cities—large and small—are choosing modern concrete for streets. Because there's no substitute for strength, there's no substitute for concrete.

Why are so many people

It's just this simple.

Gas comes to you clean and pure through a pipe, just like your drinking water. No fuel tanks. No delivery dates to remember.

It ignites instantly, burns cleanly and completely, without waste. Gas is economical, too . . . costs less today than it did just two years ago. And, with NSP's 12 Month Equal-Pay Plan, you can spread your gas and electric bills over 12 even payments. That really helps on the budget.

Find out what it would cost to convert your present heating system to natural gas heat. Arrange for a free estimate by calling your heating dealer or NSP.

It's just that simple.

STATE OFFICIAL WRITES:

No Plan for 3 Schools
In Trempealeau County

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special)—The president of the Independence school board, in an effort to allay rumors which have been circulating that eventually Trempealeau County will have only three high schools compared with its present seven, has written to the state Department of Public Instruction and received a negative reply. Ignatz Sossalla received the letter from Archie A. Buckmiller, former Blair principal now assistant state superintendent. Buckmiller said the rumor sounded familiar to him: It was the current topic when he came to Blair in 1950.

"I know of no plan, either locally or at the state level, which would lend any support to saying that finally there will be three high schools in Trempealeau County," he wrote.

"I do suspect that the small high school will be under increasing pressure in the years ahead. However, the organization of school districts is dependent on the will of the people within the area the districts are located."

He said no consolidation of school is possible at this time except through action of the county school committee on petition of the people of the areas affected.

Secondly, he wrote, any consolidation action suggested is always subject to referendum by the people.

"Thirdly," he wrote, "other information notwithstanding, I don't believe anyone can produce a document or authoritative plan which lends any substance to a three-school district organization."

"I think you also are aware that if there were to be significant changes in enrollment and decreases in students in a number of high schools, this might cause local people to evaluate the adequacy of a small high school. If consolidation were to take place, it would be accomplished on an individual district basis."

7 Missing in Ship Sinking
Feared Dead

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. — Boats and planes searched Saturday for more survivors of Friday's freighter collision, but rescue workers believed that the seven seamen still missing had perished in the frigid waters of the Straits of Mackinac.

Three men were known dead as a result of the mishap in the fog-shrouded straits, the narrow stretch of water which separates Michigan's two peninsulas.

"None could survive the cold water this long," said Dr. Nicholas Lentini, chief of surgery at Cheboygan Community Hospital where five injured men were treated.

All the victims were members of the 35-man crew of the U.S. Steel Corp.'s 388-foot Cedarville, a limestone carrier.

A Coast Guard inquiry was called for today at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Cedarville and the 424-foot Norwegian freighter Topdalsfjord collided in thick fog four miles east of here.

Ripped in her port side, the Cedarville tried to make a dash for shallow water but sank within 24 minutes.

Fog was so thick that visibility was reported at barely 50 feet.

A foghorn signal by the Cedarville was not answered by the Topdalsfjord before the vessels collided, a survivor said Friday.

James Lietzow, 18, of Rogers City, a wiper on the Cedarville, said "We blew for the boat (the Topdalsfjord) but the boat didn't blow back."

Battery, Aerial
Taken From Cars

A car battery worth $20 and a radio aerial were missing from two Winona cars after a theft and vandalism last week. Police Chief James W. McCabe reported Saturday.

The battery was stolen from a car owned by Michael T. Repinski, 875 E. Sanborn St. Thursday night while the vehicle was parked in the Repinski backyard. Repinski valued the 12-volt battery at $20.

The radio aerial on a car owned by David Schultz, 1402 W. Broadway, was broken off Monday night while the vehicle was parked in front of his house. Schultz reported to police. Damage from the apparent act of vandalism was not estimated.

Atmosphere
'Right' for Tornadoes

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Large cold air masses over northwestern regions of the continent provide "the perfect setup for tornadoes," the Weather Bureau reported — and twister sightings, came for the third night in a row in Minnesota Friday night, just to prove it.

One funnel overturned a car and knocked down a Post Office chimney at Waterville, southwest of Faribault.

Another funnel was sighted in the LeSueur area.

But there was nothing like the damage that plagued Minneapolis suburbs Thursday night or southeastern and northwestern parts of Minnesota Wednesday night.

The head of the Weather Bureau in Minneapolis, Philip Kenworthy, explained the tornado situation this way:

"We've had an awful lot of cold air retained over the northwestern part of the North American continent. It provides the perfect setup for tornadoes when this cold air comes down and clashes with milder, humid air from the south."

Kenworthy added that there are signs of a breakup in the cold air, although he wasn't ready to make definite predictions about it.

Weather Bureau records recalled other tornadoes far more severe than the one that took more than a dozen lives in Minneapolis suburbs Thursday.

One twister killed 74 and injured 136 at St. Cloud and Sauk Rapids on April 14, 1886.

Another killed 59 and did $3.5 million in damage at Fergus Falls on June 22, 1919.

Bids Opened

OSSEO, Wis. — Projects connected with Interstate I-94 construction in the Osseo area were among bids on 33 highway improvement projects in 22 counties opened by the Wisconsin Highway Commission at Madison Thursday.

Among the major projects in the bid opening were in the development of I-94 in Trempealeau and Eau Claire counties. Apparent low bidders in development of 4.297 miles of new interstate roadways through the northeast corner of Trempealeau County here:

Grading and base course of 1.145 miles above U.S. 10 to the Eau Claire County line immediately northeast of Osseo, Hoffman Construction Co., Black River Falls, $206,909.

Grading, base course and four drainage culverts for 3.152 miles of new I-94 through the intersection with U.S. 10 east of Osseo and southeasterly to County Trunk G at the Jackson County line, Hoffman Construction Co., Black River Falls, $448,205.

Twin bridges for joint overpassing of County Trunk NN and the Chicago & North Western Railway and twin bridges to carry I-94 roadways over Buffalo Creek, Nelson Construction Co., Black River Falls, $233,563.

Single bridge to carry U.S. 10 over I-94 roadways, Nelson Construction, $85,301.

Apparent low bidders on I-94 development in Eau Claire County were L. G. Arnold, Inc., Eau Claire, $324,372 for roadways and overpass approaches of Highway 93, plus bituminous paving for No. 93 approaches; Hammersley Construction Co., Madison, $176,791 grading and base course on I-94 easterly of Highway 93 overpass; H. F. Radandl, Inc., Eau Claire, $139,096, twin bridges to carry the interstate over Lowes Creek, and Nelson Construction Co., Black River Falls, $60,102, single bridge to carry Highway 93 over I-94 roadways.

Two Arcadia Fires

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Several hundred dollars loss was reported by Arcadia firemen in two fires.

A garage and workshop on the Eugene Weaver farm, in Meyers Valley, was damaged. A total of 100 six-week-old chicks housed in the corner of the garage suffocated. Origin of the fire wasn't determined. Extensive damage was done to a tractor on the Mrs. Eleanor Wolfe farm 1½ miles south of town. A spark apparently ignited gas fumes and caused the blaze.

Arcadia Club Discusses Promoting City

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — The link between industry and recreation was discussed by the Businessmen's Association at a dinner Monday night at Arcadia Country Club.

Special guests were wives and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vogel Sr. Vogel retired recently after 50 years in business here.

The group affiliated with the state Chamber of Commerce. It deferred endorsement of Buffalo Valley, Inc., until the June meeting. Jake Zecher, chairman, president, asked support of its proposed 700-acre year-around recreational area between Cochrane and Alma.

SHELDON WINNIE, civic committee chairman, will investigate recommending adoption by the City Council of the Green River ordinance which would require consent of the council for door-to-door selling.

Paul Halverson, development committee chairman, will meet with directors of the Country Club to discuss incorporating an adult gymnasium in the proposed new building.

Paul Sylla, public relations committee chairman, reported on a meeting at which improving the city's public image was discussed. A questionnaire is planned to ascertain what area residents like or dislike about Arcadia. The committee welcomes suggestions.

John Killian reported a representative of the Wisconsin Industrial Development committee said industry will follow recreation. He recommended making a self-survey of natural resources and possible expansion, a copy of which will be kept on file at Madison as reference for industries seeking relocation.

Gerald Myers, publicity chairman, read the letter he receives annually from Milwaukee inquiring about recreational facilities in the area. His committee approves publishing a brochure and distributing it at the Milwaukee Sports Show, among other places. LeRoy Woychik estimated between $2,500 and $3,000 would be needed to finance a brochure. He suggested raising money for it by selling ads, postcards with local scenes and buttons.

THE ASSOCIATION voted support of the committee's work. Mrs. Russell Fried of the Farmers Home Administration, Whitehall office, explained the functions of this branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Spanish Honor Society Inducts At St. Teresa

Initiation ceremonies for the Gamma Beta Chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honor society, were held at the College of Saint Teresa last week in the north lounge of Lourdes Hall.

Ceremonies were conducted by the chapter officers, Miss Catherine Norton, president; Miss Shirley Lyn, vice president; Miss Nancy Bird, secretary; and Sister M. Ricarda, chairman.

Sister M. Helen, OSF, honorary chairman, led the procession of the neophytes. Three classes of members were inducted, honorary, associate and active.

Honorary members were the Rev. John Cody, Geneva, Minn.; Brother David, FSC, St. Mary's College; Sister M. Baylon, OSF, college faculty member; Mrs. Charles Anderson, language coordinator at John Marshall High School, Rochester; Miss Juliana Brondial, John Marshall High School; and Miss Rheta Speltz, Winona State College.

Initiated as associate members were Sister M. Amparo and Sister M. Elisa, both of Peru, and Sister M. Imelda and Sister M. Virginia, both of Colombia.

Active members are students of the College of Saint Teresa, St. Mary's College and Winona State College, who maintain a "B" average in Spanish, who have taken one course in literature and who have a C average in general courses.

Students inducted from Winona State were David Cheney and Robert Hunger. St. Mary's inductees were Brother David Stephen, FSC; Robert Frey; Victor Proaza and Gus Valadez. Nine Teresas were inducted — the Misses Mary Clare Albrecht, Virginia Bianchi, Kathryn Boeckers, Michele Gentry, Carole McFadden, Bernadine Morse, Zenaida Resurreccion, Mary Simons and Virginia Vaughn.

The address was given by Brother David, associate professor of Spanish at St. Mary's.

Thai Paper Warns Of Red China Peril

BANGKOK, Thailand, (AP) — A leading Thai paper warned Saturday that Red China may use neighboring Cambodia in its announced plan to launch a guerrilla war in Thailand.

The Daily News said Cambodia's diplomatic break with the United States would give Peking, already influential in Cambodia, more latitude in its operations.

New Red Power Grabs Will Be More Difficult

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — "We don't propose," said Lyndon Baines Johnson, "to sit here in our rocking chair with our hands folded and let the Communists set up any government in the Western Hemisphere."

Matching words with deeds, the President poured more troops into the Dominican Republic to halt what he said was a Red grab for power. Thus on both sides of the world, in Vietnam and in the Caribbean, U.S. fighting men were engaging the enemy.

In a quickly arranged television speech Sunday night, President Johnson told the nation that 14,000 Army men of the 82nd Airborne Division were even then flying into Santo Domingo.

He said that what had started as a "popular democratic revolution" on April 24 had been seized by "a band of Communist conspirators." In what was quickly dubbed "the Johnson Doctrine," the President said the United States would not allow that to happen.

Some Latin-American nations opposed the American intervention, and the Soviet Union ran to the United Nations, demanding an emergency session of the Security Council. In San Juan, Puerto Rico, exiled ex-President Juan Bosch, in whose name the revolt had begun, rallied bitterly at American intervention.

Nonetheless, it continued. But by Wednesday, a formal ceasefire had been arranged by an Organization of American States delegation headed by Ricardo M. Colombo of Uruguay. But gunfire repeatedly punctured the agreement, and on Thursday killed four U.S. Marines whose Jeep took a wrong turn into rebel territory.

By week's end, the United States had almost 20,000 troops engaged and the uneasy truce continued. The cost thus far has been 13 American lives. For the Dominicans, the cost had been far higher. With the capital city in chaos, estimates of the dead run up to 2,000.

In a surprise move Friday night, the three-man military junta opposed to the rebel regime resigned, giving way to a new civilian-military junta of five men calling themselves a "government of national reconstruction." This appeared to be a bid for popular support by the antirebel forces.

In Washington, the United States won a victory when the OAS voted early Thursday morning, 14-5, to ask Latin-American nations to contribute troops to keep peace in the Dominican Republic. It was the first time the OAS had ever voted such a force. And it was also clear that the United States would not withdraw until the OAS force was in firm control.

At the United Nations, another American victory was shaping up. After a week of acrimonious debate between the Soviet Union and the United States delegates, it seemed certain that a Soviet censure resolution would be defeated.

But there was bitterness aplenty all around. In Paris, President Charles de Gaulle denounced the American intervention, called for a quick withdrawal. Throughout South America, wherever W. Averell Harriman went, demonstrations and riots followed. Johnson had sent him, as ambassador at large, to gain support for the U.S. position.

During the week, Viet Nam erupted in bombs and bullets.

On Tuesday, President Johnson asked Congress for $700 million more to press the war effort in South Viet Nam. He asked for a prompt and overwhelming vote, and he got it. The House passed the bill Wednesday, 408-7; the Senate passed it Thursday, 88-3, and bright and early Friday morning, Johnson signed it, with the declaration:

"It is not the money but the message that matters. And that message is clear — that whatever must be done to ensure the safety of South Viet Nam from aggression."

But there were murmurs of unhappiness and concern. Some legislators didn't like the way the President had gone about asking for the money and some others were quick to point out they didn't want approval of the money appropriation to be considered a "blank check" for the use of land forces at Johnson's will.

In the short space of a few weeks, American strength in Viet Nam had zoomed from 15,000 to 45,000.

A high military spokesman said the Americans and the South Vietnamese now had the initiative and "the initiative is paying off." Almost everywhere the Red Viet Cong, according to American and government sources, were being forced over to the defensive.

There had been similar optimistic statements in the past, many of which had fallen flat afterwards. The Viet Cong was still a foe to contend with.

On another front, the council of SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, held its annual meeting in London and solidly backed the American initiative.

A disgruntled France abstained from the proceedings, and Pakistan hedged, but backing was voted by Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and the United States. Promising to increase their support for the Viet Nam operation, the council members declared: "Defeat of this Communist campaign is essential not only to the security of Viet Nam but to that of Southeast Asia."

Norman Brokenshire, pioneer radio announcer and personality, Tuesday in a hospital at Hauppauge, N.Y., at 66.

Oren E. Long, U.S. senator from Hawaii from 1959 to 1962, Thursday at his home in Honolulu, at 76.

By the margin of two jury votes, a young Ku Klux Klansman escaped conviction in the slaying of a white woman civil rights demonstrator.

For more than 24 hours, an all-white, all-male jury held the power of life or death over Col. Leroy Wilkins Jr. His five-day trial at Hayneville, Ala., ended late Friday when the jury was discharged after reporting it was deadlocked 10-2 for conviction.

The testimony had been simple: Gary Thomas Howe Jr., 34, a paid FBI informer, testified that Wilkins, 21, emptied his pistol from a speeding car on the night of March 25 and killed Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39. The incident occurred 10 miles outside the village of Hayneville, Ala., on the road between Selma and Montgomery. The FBI experts testified that a bullet found in Mrs. Liuzzo's head came from Wilkins' pistol.

Mrs. Liuzzo had come from Detroit to take part in the Negro march from Selma to Montgomery, chattering demonstrators. When slain, she had a young Negro marcher with her in the car. Wilkins, a white youth nervously chain-smoking, did not take the stand. He was defended by Matt H. Murphy Jr., 51, chief counsel of the Ku Klux Klan.

Rushford Sets Plans for Homecoming

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — Bumper stickers have arrived for Rushford's Homecoming celebration July 16-18 and will be available at various places around town, it was reported at a meeting of the committee at the American Legion hall.

Civic or church groups interested in sponsoring a lunch concession are to contact Vince Miller, Carol Julrud, Forrest Smith or Burdell Smith. Plans are almost complete. Events include the coronation ball at the high school Friday night, children's activities, tractor pulling contest, Saturday parade, alumni roundup and dinner at the high school and giant street dance Saturday night, Sunday morning golf tournament, special services in all the churches, Sunday afternoon talent show, whistler judging contest, canoe derby finish, band concert Sunday night and fireworks from Magelssen's Bluff.

Committee coordinators are Ted Robertson, Winton Christenson and Robert McCluskey.

St. Mary's College Honors Former Science Teacher

St. Mary's College has announced that the dedication of its science building to the memory of Dr. John J. Hoffman will be held Thursday.

The day-long ceremonies will feature a symposium on "Recent Advances in Space Research," at which two of Dr. Hoffman's sons, John and Robert, along with Dr. Robert Wagner, will speak.

DR. JOHN H. Hoffman is working in space research at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C. Dr. Robert A. Hoffman is at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

Dr. Robert Wagner, associate professor of physics at St. Mary's, is consultant to the chief of the Army's research and development department.

Following the symposium, which begins at 2 p.m., Brother J. Gregory, F.S.C., college president, will preside at the official dedication.

At 5:45 p.m., the widow of the doctor will unveil a portrait of him and a bronze plaque J. J. Hoffman dedicated to his memory. They will be placed in the lobby of the science building, which will bear his name.

Dr. Hoffman joined the faculty at St. Mary's in 1920. During his 44 years at the college, he taught a broad spectrum of courses, including biology, mathematics and German. He originated the physics and chemistry departments.

HE SERVED as chairman of the chemistry department until 1960. He was teaching quantitative analysis when he suffered the stroke that led to his death June 19, 1964.

In February 1959, Dr. Hoffman was given recognition for his contributions to the Roman Catholic Church when Pope John XIII bestowed the title of Knight of St. Gregory upon him.

Following the dedication ceremonies, a dinner will be held. The Hoffman family and the St. Mary's faculty have been invited to it.

LAKE CITY STAG NIGHT — LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Lake City Chamber of Commerce will entertain at the second annual employees' stag smoker Wednesday night at the VFW clubhouse near town. Free refreshments will be served. The entertainment formerly was planned for April but postponed because of the flood.

Souvenir Flood Edition Offered

Orders are coming in by the thousands for the special Winona Daily News souvenir edition of the 1965 flood which will be published soon.

The Daily and Sunday News staff now is completing the edition; it is almost ready for the printer. Copies should be in the mail the week of May 16.

In the tabloid-size edition 32 pages of photographs and stories will tell of the flood fight in Winona and nearby cities in Southeastern Minnesota and Western Wisconsin.

There will be separate sections on weather conditions that were responsible for the flood and the story of the river's rise; the measures taken to combat the record river levels; the impact on industries, business, transportation and residential areas; the role of Civil Defense, Red Cross, Salvation Army and other agencies in the flood fight and a section on the flood period in the Winona area.

The special edition will not be distributed as a part of this newspaper. It will not contain advertising.

To make sure that you will obtain your copy (and those you wish to send to friends and relatives who reside elsewhere) fill out the following order blank and send it to The Daily News today. Send 50 cents (which includes postage) for each copy you want and your copies will be mailed to the destinations you indicate. This special publication will be entitled "The City That Saved Itself."

2 Firemen Hurt In Appleton Blast

APPLETON, Wis. (AP) — Two firemen were injured and several other persons were hurt slightly by flying debris Friday in an explosion touched off in a man hole by a break in a natural gas main.

Firemen Glenn Swick, 35, and James Coenen, 25, were taken to an Appleton hospital. They were reported in good condition.

Authorities said that workmen digging apparently caused the break in the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. line. The gas ignited and flames shot 15 feet into the air. The gas was shut off shortly before the explosion.

Child Drowns in New Lisbon Slough

NEW LISBON, Wis. (AP) — Glenn Darnell, 2½, drowned Friday in a slough of the Lemonweir River near his home.

The boy's body was found in a foot of water shortly after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emlo Darnell, reported him missing from the yard.

LAREY ALSTON

By GARY EVANS
Sunday News Sports Editor

For two years the powerful National Softball League — the svelte circuit that kicks off what is expected to be its most successful year Monday — has been a personal duel between Sunshine Bar and Cafe and Hamernik's Bar.

It has been more than that, really, as veteran managers Max Kulas of Hamernik's and Larey Alston of Sunshine have matched wits and the city's pitching elite Jim Langowski and Jim Sovereign have matched talent.

For two years, Sunshine has won the title, the first in a playoff with the black-clad Hamernik's corps, the second by sweeping both halves.

"This year's rivalry will be no exception, although Kulas, who doubles as president of the Winona Softball

Association, and Alston agree that it should be the best softball year the city has seen.

Both clubs appear strengthened over a year ago as do the remaining five teams — Mankato Bar, Sportsman's Bar, Watkins, Bell's and the new addition, Louise's.

"The league will be better," shoots Kulas. "Bell's has improved with the addition of several young players and Jerry Dureske's Louise's team is going to bounce someone who doesn't expect it."

Alston carries one step further: "Watkins has added some new ballplayers like (Davis) Usgaard and (Mike) Leahy, and could be very tough. Without a doubt this will be a peak softball year — the strongest and most even league."

Alston also points the finger at new league addition

Louise's, the Bluff Siding team that swept through the Centerville Softball League a year ago.

Dureske, a fireballing righthander, could be one of the major figures in determining who will win the title.

While Sunshine gets Monday off, games will have Sportsman's Bar against Watkins at Athletic Park Infield and Hamernik's going against Bell's at Athletic Park Outfield. Both games will be played at 6:30. Wednesday, Mankato Bar plays Watkins at Athletic Park Infield at 6:30 with Sunshine and Sportsman's playing the same place at 8 p.m. Hamernik's meets Louise's at 6:30 on the outfield.

Kulas frankly admits Hamernik's expects to win

IF YOU SEE MAX MOLOCK walking around with his head down these days, it is not because he is unhappy.

On his way into Gabrych Park Wednesday after a mid-morning shower forced a switch in sites of the St. Mary's - Macalester doubleheader, Molock found a penny.

In a conversation with the Scot coach prior to gametime, Molock found another penny.

"I figured that had to be good luck, so I kept them," said Molock. "I even told Macalester that playing the game was of little good for them because of the charms."

The Redmen swept two games to run their win string to five. The second game was won behind a seven-run sixth inning.

"I wasn't worried," claims Max. "I knew those pennies would come through."

JUST A WORD for Murray Warmath, University of Wisconsin assistant coach Dave Brown told the people at the Alma High School athletic banquet Thursday that the Badgers just loved small schools.

"Had you come down to the state tournament," he said to the Rivermen, "you would have taken the town by storm."

Now figuring that the Badgers always disrupt good Gopher seasons, it might be wise for Warmath to suggest that only the football players come back for fall quarter.

TODAY BEGINS PHYSICAL fitness week in the state of Minnesota.

In proclaiming the week, state governor Karl F. Rolvaag said: "We urge that long-range plans be developed to ensure that every Minnesota child be given the opportunity to make and keep himself physically fit — fit to learn — fit to understand — to grow in grace and stature, to fully live."

A COPY OF THE Winona senior high school basketball report, submitted by Coach John Kenney, arrived here this week.

Included in the 15-page booklet is a copy of the Hawks' 1965-66 schedule. We find that non-conference foes will be Harmony, Minneapolis Roosevelt, La Crosse schools Central and Logan, Coon Rapids, Eau Claire Memorial and St. Paul Mechanic Arts.

In looking over the records from the past season, Bill Squires, who recently announced his intention of attending Winona State, led the team in eight of the 15 categories and tied with Gary Addington in two others.

Squires was: The leading scorer (301 points), the high scorer for three years (600 points), the top average performer with 15.8, the best offensive (86) and defensive (143) rebounder. In addition he had the greatest number of plus points under Kenney's evaluation system and was the leader in most categories. He tied with Addington in most number of assists (29) and most number of recoveries (31).

John Brandt led in shooting percentage with 52.0, least number of bad passes (4) and least number of violations (4). Addington had the best free throwing percentage with 66.0. Tony Kreuzer had the least number of fumbles.

State Enjoys Sunshine, Little Else

By ROLLIE WUSSOW
Sunday News Sports Writer

It was a beautiful day for a ball game Friday at Gabrych Park, and Winona State's baseball team got a nice suntan.

But that's about all. Righthander Joe Harmala and the rest of the St. Cloud State Huskies clawed their way to a 7-5 Northern Intercollegiate Conference victory over the Warriors.

Pitching once again proved Dr. Luther McCown's dilemma, while it was St. Cloud's strong point.

Harmala, a crafty showman, felled the hometown Warriors with relative ease, rolling along with a no-hitter until the top of the sixth inning, when the Warriors finally collected their baseball knowledge and met Harmala.

But the damage was already done.

It all started when Huskies Larry Miller and Bill Larson greeted Warrior starter J. D. Barnette with back-to-back doubles for a 1-0 lead at the end of the first inning.

In the second, a third double — this time a leadoff hit by Don James off the left field fence — and a single by Kenny Hamen produced a 2-0 St. Cloud lead.

The third was the last frame for Missouri transfer Barnette. Lloyd Pollansch rapped a single to start things off and Charlie Whittier flied out to Ted Kelly in left. After this, Barnette allowed an infield hit to Miller and threw a wild pitch. A hit to Dave Proro and a walk shoved three additional runs across.

At this point, McCown lifted Barnette in favor of freshmen Dick Peters, lanky righthander from Wabasha St. Felix.

Peters, in his first tour of duty in Warrior white and purple, saw shortstop Jim Conner blow an easy grounder and then got an out on a fielder's choice hit by Hamen. Jack Riley smacked a single, which drove in two more runs and the damage was done.

Harmala, jerking along on his no-hitter, found rough going in the bottom of the sixth, when pinch hitter Tom Nast (for Peters) poked his first loss to left field for the first hit.

Conner and Larry Anderson obediently were out and Kelly got an infield hit. Davis Usgaard then belted the Warriors only extra base hit of the day, a double to right center, driving in Kelly. Kelly had knocked in Nast.

George Benedict was safe on an error by first baseman James and Dean Bailey pounded a hit. Dennis Morgan then was safe on an error by third sacker Hamen, which allowed a fourth tally in. Mark Houghton grounded out to end the threat.

Bob Isbell, a freshman lefty, relieved Peters, and lasted only one-third of an inning. Roger Roepke was up next.

Roepke, plagued with inconsistency all season after a pair of sparkling freshman and sophomore seasons, showed signs of improvement Friday as he went two and two-thirds innings and fanned three while walking two.

The Warriors collected two hits in the ninth when Houghton led off with his first hit of the day and eventually scored the fifth run. Kelly got the other hit, his third of the day.

Trempealeau Cops County Track Meet

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—Despite strong winds, a powerful Trempealeau track team swept seven first places and took six seconds to easily win the Trempealeau County track meet Friday afternoon at Eau Claire Regis field.

Trempealeau scored 71½ points to bury second place Arcadia, 36½, and third place Eleva-Strum, 30½.

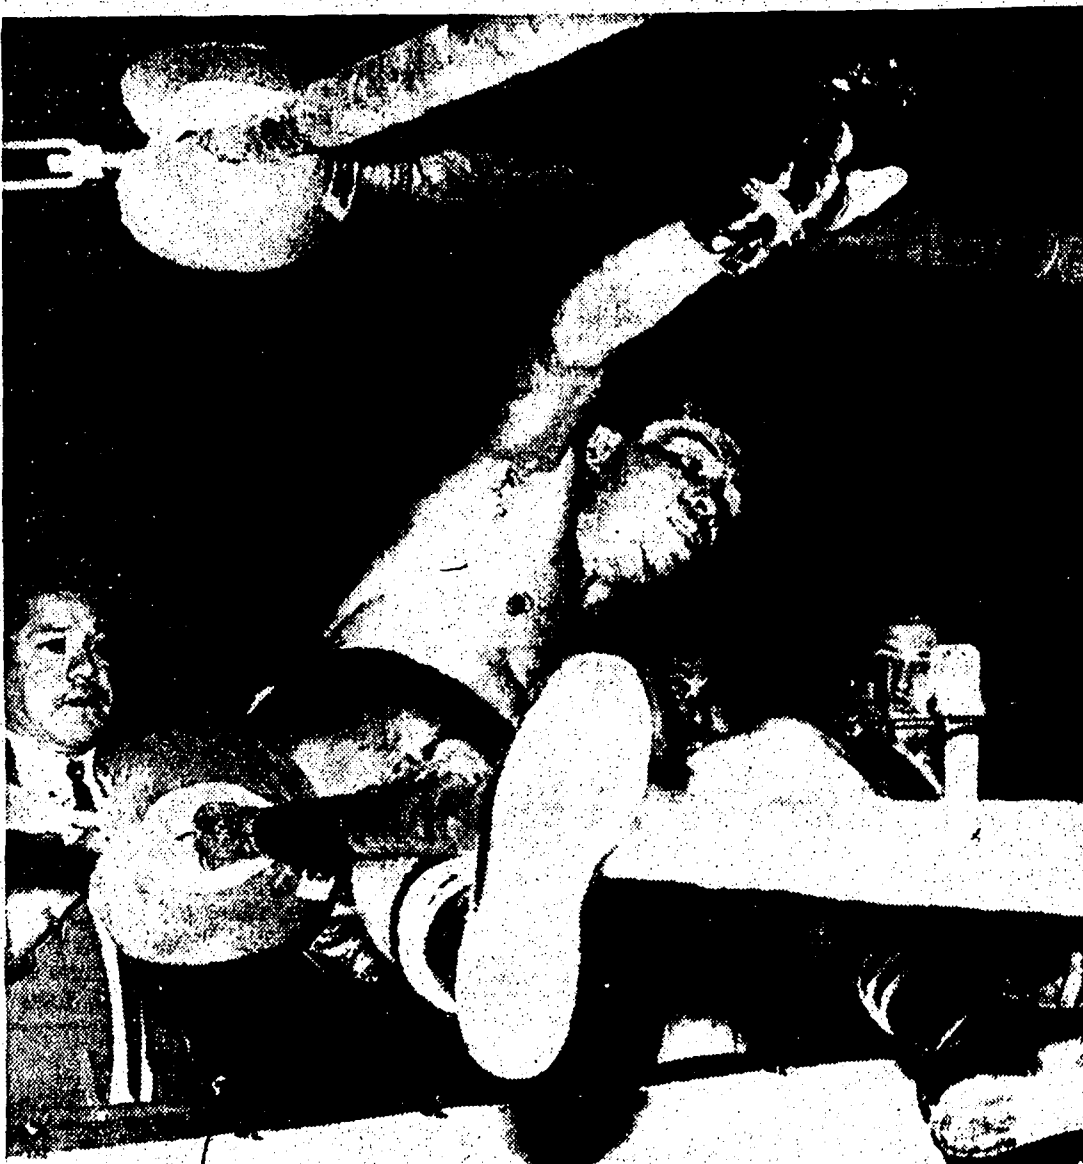

Dennis Benusa, Arcadia, won the pole vault with a leap of 10 feet 11 inches. He cleared the bar by a considerable margin, although the wind hampered his efforts.

Dan Leavitt, Trempealeau, took the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 11½ inches.

Despite running headon into the wind, Bob Forsythe, Arcadia, won the 220 in the time of 24.6.

In the mile run, Dave Emmons, Gale-Strick, who won the state meet in class C last year, pulled away from the field during the third lap to win in a time of 4:40.65.

Whitehall's 880-yard relay team won in 1:40.25, despite

Mays Goes on HR Binge, Hits Five in Four Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Mays, Willie Mays.

Yes, that guy has National League pitchers seeing double again.

Mays, who gets $105,000 a year to parade his talents for the San Francisco Giants, put on another one-man show Friday night by hammering two solo homers in a 4-3 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

That gave Mays five homers in the last four games and a major league-leading total of 10 in just 22 games.

Meanwhile, Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, another quick starter, pitched a one-hitter in a 2-0 victory over Philadelphia allowing only a fourth inning single by Johnny Callison as he posted his fifth victory without a loss and his third shutout.

Houston's Dave Giusti also brought his record to 5-0 by grabbing the victory in the Astros' 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. In the only other game played, Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 5-4 on Manny Mota's decisive single.

Mays is hitting .356, but in the home run department he's exactly where he was on May 4 last year.

The Giants could have used another big bat against the Dodgers with Mays' homers off Claude Osteen in the second and fourth innings providing a 2-0 lead that Jack Sanford was unable to hold.

The Dodgers eventually cracked a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning on John Roseboro's third hit, a sacrifice, and Dick Tracowski's single. That made Osteen the winner with a six-hit ter.

Gibson, working effortlessly, struck out eight and walked three while allowing only Callison's clean single to right center with one out in the fourth.

Gibson was locked in a scoreless duel with Chris Short, now 4-2, until the seventh when two Philadelphia errors proved his undoing.

Julian Javier beat out a hit to get things started for the Cardinals, raced to third on Cookie Rojas' wild throw and scored on Lou Brock's single. Curt Flood then grounded out but Dick Stuart tried to nail Brock going to third, threw wild, and Brock scored.

The Cubs got started quickly against Giusti and the Astros with Ernie Banks hitting a three-run homer in the first. But Houston took over after that.

Giusti drove home two runs with a double in the second and the Astros wrapped it up with Bob Aspromonte's three-run homer in the fifth.

Trailing 4-2 in the ninth, the Pirates jammed through three runs to beat the Reds. Mota's two-out single drove in the clincher after pinch hitter Gene Freese slapped a run-producing single and Roberto Clemente knocked in the second run with a sacrifice fly.

The first of three junior high track meets featuring athletes from Jefferson, Washington-Kosciusko and Central junior highs is scheduled for Friday at 4 p.m. at Jefferson Field.

The other meets will be held May 20 and 28 at Jefferson Field.

In order to make competition as fair as possible, boys taking part are divided into two classes. Class A consists of boys in ninth grade and those eighth graders weighing more than 115 pounds; class B, seventh graders and those eighth graders weighing less than 115 pounds.

Coaches are Iver Odgaard, Jefferson; Duane Bucher, W-K; and Ronald Kruse, Central.

Events include: 100-yard dash, class A, 75-yard dash, class B; 400-yard run, class A, 220-yard run, class B; shotput, eight pounds, class A only; high jump, broad jump, and pole vault, both classes competing; 100-yard low hurdles for class A, 75 yards for class B; 880-yard medley relay for class A; 440-yard relay for class A; and 440-yard and 220-yard relays for class B.

Defense? Twins Horrify Mele With Seven Errors in 13-5 Loss to White Sox

ST. PAUL (AP)—For Sam Mele, who has expressed himself as pleased with the Minnesota Twins' defense in early games this season, the final two innings of Friday night's 13-5 loss to Chicago were a nightmare. While the six errors in the eight and ninth frames actually did not contribute to Minnesota's defeat, they constituted a horror chamber for Mele.

The best that could be said for the display was that it provided some comic relief for the smattering of fans who stayed around until the tortured ending.

The White Sox had wrapped up the game in the seventh when Danny Cater smacked a three-run homer to wipe out a 5-4 Twins lead. After that, knuckleballer Eddie Fisher came out of the bullpen to retire the last nine Minnesota batters in order and claim the pitching victory.

Harmon Killebrew, who belted his third homer of the season in the first inning for a 3-0 Minnesota lead, started the drop-drama.

He dropped Ron Hansen's foul pop in the eighth and Hansen then singled. Throwing errors by Zoilo Versalles and Earl Batley later let Ken Berry score from first as the White Sox padded their lead to 10-5.

In the ninth, Rich Rollins and Jerry Kindall kicked ground balls to let the first two batters reach base. A single and Pete Ward's homer scored three more runs, but the Twins weren't finished yet.

With two out, Versalles bobbled Berry's grounder. Rollins finally ended the misery, throwing out Fisher.

Rollins had booted another grounder early in the game for the Twins' seventh miscue—the total believed to be a club record, although the Twins don't keep hook on such embarrassing matters.

The total was far shy of the major league record of 12 errors committed by Detroit in 1901 and the White Sox in 1903.

That leaves the Twins something to shoot for.

After Killebrew's homer, Minnesota took the short-lived 5-4 lead in the sixth on two walks and singles by Batley and Kindall. They spent the last three innings trying to find Fisher's knuckler. They never did.

DROP TWIN BILL

Yanks Flounder To 9th Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees, resembling anything but a team that is seeking an unprecedented sixth straight pennant, tumbled to ninth place Friday night, dropping a doubleheader to Washington 4-3 and 7-3.

The double defeat left the Yankees with five defeats in their last six games and an 8-12 record, 6½ games from the top and nine percentage points behind the eighth-place Senators.

Startling is the Yankees' team average of .213. That's 10 points better than the Senators' mark but only one point above the worst batting mark ever recorded in major league history. The Chicago White Sox dipped that low in 1910.

Elsewhere in the AL Friday night, Chicago trounced Minnesota 13-5, Cleveland defeated Boston 5-1 and Los Angeles edged Kansas City 5-4 before losing 6-3. Rain washed out Detroit at Baltimore.

Jim King won his third game in a week as a pinch hitter for the Senators, cracking a two-run homer in the seventh inning. That wiped out a 3-2 lead Cleve Boyer gave the Yankees with a homer in the fifth. Ronnie Kline, in relief of Mike McCormick, set down a New York threat in the ninth.

The Yankees led the nightcap 3-2 until the seventh when Washington exploded for five runs. Frank Howard drove in the first three with a bases-loaded triple off Pedro Ramos and scored on Woodie Held's homer.

Luis Tiant pitched a five-hitter as Cleveland handed the Red Sox their fourth straight defeat. Tiant lost his shutout in the eighth on doubles by Lennox Green and Dalon Jones. Lon Wagner singled in a Cleveland run in a three-run third and homered in the eighth.

The Angels extended their winning streak to five before losing the second game. Reliever Bob Lee came on in the seventh inning and saved Dean Chance's third victory. Willie Smith drove in three Los Angeles runs.

Fred Talbot stopped the Angels in the nightcap with John Wyatt's relief help and belted a three-run triple in the fourth inning. Jim Gentile added two solo homers for Kansas City. Paul Schaal connected for Los Angeles.

Cotter Golfers Bow to Lourdes

Cotter High School's golf team was beaten 298-307 by Rochester Lourdes Friday.

Taking medalist honors for Lourdes was Dan Corcoran and Steve Majerus with 73s. John Zimhard shot 75 and Tim Higgins 77.

For Cotter, Tom Leaf carded 75, John Leaf 76, Ted Bambecek and Dick Losinski 78s. Other Ramblers scores had Steve Gentling hitting 78 and Ken Lanik 79.

Ray Gady's 631 Paces City Keglers

Ray Gady, rolling for Emil's Menswear in the Westgate Lakeside League, speared 248-631 to take top honors for Friday night's bowling warfare.

In punching the 631, Gady led Emil's Menswear to 1,016-2,880. Jerry Nelson poked 539 errors.

In the Pin Dusters League at Hal-Rod Lanes, Marge Poblacki led Teamsters to 925-2,650 with her 214-536. In other action, Cornelia Podjaski wired 526, Jo Biltgen 517 and Suzanne Schneider 508.

Mike Deep hit 592 for Bunke APCO in the Hal-Rod Legion League, while Mutual Service was tipping 1,002-2,959 and Harley Greenwood 230 for Mayan Grocery.

IN MAINE

Title Fight Finds Refuge

LEWISTON, Maine (AP)—The storm-tossed Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight—banned in Boston and committed to a May 25 date—has found refuge in this Maine textile center.

With about $4.5 million in ancillary rights at stake and time running out, backers of the rematch ended a court battle Friday by pulling it out of Boston. They needed a stage quickly, whatever the size, to rescue their closed circuit television commitments around the country.

Gov. John H. Reed of Maine stepped forward and within a few hours the site was shifted to this community of about 41,000.

The locale is now the Lewiston Youth Center, which seats 5,000 instead of Boston Garden with a 13,909 seating capacity. Lewiston is 140 miles north of Boston and 30 miles from Portland, Maine.

Suffolk County Dist. Atty. Garrett Byrne had sought an injunction blocking the fight in Boston, charging Inter-Continental Promotions Inc. of Chester, Pa. was promoting the fight without a Massachusetts license.

Inter-Continental said the promoter was local veteran Sam Silverman.

The litigation was in its third day before Judge Felix Forte Friday when attorney Paul T. Smith, appearing for Inter-Continental, announced to the court that "This case now has become moot because the fight is not going to be held in Boston."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jack Zalkind indicated the fight still could be staged in Boston "under auspices other than Inter-Continental."

The Maine Boxing Commission rules permit an outside promoter to hold fights in Maine after obtaining a permit and making an agreement with a Maine-licensed promoter, in this case Sam Michael of Lewiston. Silverman also is licensed to promote boxing in Maine.

SPRING VALLEY, Minn. — Preston lost its first Maple Leaf conference game Friday to Spring Valley 5-4, after forcing the game into one extra inning.

Spring Valley leaped off to a four-run lead in the first inning off Preston starter Mike Knies.

Then Preston chipped away at Spring Valley pitchers Rod Ness and Steve McGhie, who relieved Ness in the sixth, to tie the score in the seventh on Jerry Rislove's double with two men on.

Spring Valley's Clayton Larson singled in the bottom of the eighth and Harold Hintze doubled him home.

Preston is now 2-1 in the conference. Spring Valley is 3-1.

McGhie gained the victory. Rislove was charged with the loss.

Bragan: 'Still a Six-Team Race in National'

NEW YORK (AP)—You can't prove it by Milwaukee's 9-8 win and lost record but Braves' Manager Bobby Bragan believes his team's pennant chances are just as good, if not better, than they were at the start of the season.

"I still think it's a six-team race," Bragan said Friday after rain forced the postponement of the scheduled night encounter with the New York Mets. "But I've revised my thinking in some respects.

"I must say the Los Angeles

Dodgers have surprised me. I didn't think they would be this many games above .500 at this stage of the race. However, they suffered a terrible blow when Tommy Davis broke his ankle. I think this is the biggest single factor in the race so far. It's bound to have a telling effect."

During spring training, it was Bragan's contention that the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies would be the teams to beat. Now the Cincinnati midable to him.

"The Reds have the deepest pitching in the league," he said. "And they've got some hairy-chested guys up there at the plate, too."

Bragan is convinced his club is better than it has looked.

"We didn't have Henry Aaron the first two weeks of the season," he said. "He's back now and he's better than ever. He appears to have fully recovered from his ankle operation."

Bragan said the biggest improvement on the club has been in the pitching department, especially in the bullpen.

"Billy O'Dell and Dan Osinski have done a wonderful job for us, as well as Bob Tiefenauer. The bullpen presented us with our biggest problem last year. "Our starters have done well. Wade Blasingame, Bob Sadowski and Tony Cloninger have been great. Dennis Lemaster hasn't kept up with the others but he pitched well in his last start."

The lame duck Braves, who will be playing in Atlanta next year, have performed before some of the smallest gatherings in Milwaukee's 12-year major league history. Not including the opener, which attracted about 34,000, the team has averaged under 3,000 a game at home. Had this had any effect on the players?

"No," said Bragan emphatically. "A big audience is a stimulation regardless of whether you're at home or on the road but a real performer will perform to the utmost of his ability before 2,000 just as he will before 20,000."

Mabel First, But Homuth Cops 4 Wins

SPRING GROVE, Minn. — Mabel walked off with the title on the strength of its 79-point showing in the First Annual Blayne Osgard Invitational held here Friday.

Right behind was Spring Grove, which got four firsts from Mel Homuth, with 67 points. Caledonia was third with 40 and Rushford fourth with nine.

Homuth, District One's outstanding performer, came up with wins in the 100 with a time of :10.7, the 440 at :55.4, the 220 at :25.3 and the broad jump with a leap of 17-3½.

Burl Haar swept a pair of firsts by winning the shot and discus for Caledonia.

Badgers Topple Northwestern 20-7

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Wisconsin's baseball Badgers, led by shortstop Joe Romary, exploded for 12 runs in the seventh inning and belted hapless Northwestern 20-7 Friday as senior southpaw Lance Tobert tallied his sixth victory without defeat.

Romary had a two-run homer and a single in the 12-run outburst. He collected three of Wisconsin's 17 hits, drove in five runs and scored four as the Badgers boosted their Big Ten record to 3-4.

Tobert, who has earned all three of Wisconsin's conference triumphs, was touched for 12 hits, but was in command after his mates' big inning and dealt Northwestern its seventh straight Big Ten defeat.

Western Wisconsin Trout Opener Successful

Fish More Plentiful Than Usual

By LEFTY HYNES
Sunday News Outdoor Editor

Western Wisconsin enjoyed a successful opening of its 1965 trout season and inland river season Saturday, despite a showery early morning with sufficient rain to get most fishermen at least damp.

The midnight opening saw the usual number of trout anglers on the streams. Some of them had been there for some time waiting for the hands of their watches to say it was starting time. A few bonfires marked the shorelines in popular fishing areas. Wardens checked few reports of before midnight fishing.

Trout seemed plentiful on the better creeks. Most of them were six-to-eight inch browns and brooks, depending on the stocking recently.

SOME CARRY-OVER of last year's plantings were taken. The biggest one that Fred Gardner, Trempealeau County warden, saw measured 16 inches. There were quite a few 12-to-15 inch fish. The 16-inch one came out of the upper Beef.

"Fishing was real good on the streams I visited," Gardner said. "It was better than a year ago, although a lot of fishermen got rained on. It was all pretty well over with by 6 a.m."

There was little river fishing on inland waters of Trempealeau or Buffalo counties. Some fishermen were out for bass or catfish on the lower Beef and Trempealeau rivers. However, most of the river fishermen had gone to the Mississippi to take advantage of the good fishing resulting from the high water. The river has become more fishable in the past couple of days. Popular river fishing spots below the dams were crowded with shore fishermen.

THE RAIN helped early morning fishing along the river. Two Winona State College students who came to our office just before noon Saturday to show their string of fish had a fine catch. The top fish on their string was a 6-pound largemouth bass caught by Gene "Red" Miller, 1537 Gilmore Ave. The other student was John Lyon, 558 W. Howard St.

On their stringer were, in addition to the 6-pound bass, one largemouth that weighed four pounds, four more bass, five nice walleyes, three big crappies, and a sheepshead. They got them all on white jigs.

Minnesota's Largest Fish

Taken by Angling

MINNESOTA IS NOT only the land of 10,000 Lakes, but it is the land of big fish, according to the above drawing by Ken Haag, Minnesota Conservation Volunteer artist, who did the drawing that answers a common question: "How big do they get?" It is being reproduced here from the current issue of the magazine.

Stories of larger fish have appeared in state newspapers, but the sizes and weight given here are official and verified from the files of the Minnesota Conservation Department. The drawings should also be helpful in fish identification.

Voice of the Outdoors

Spring Outings

Early picnickers will find that the recent flood still has closed most of their riverside picnic areas. In fact, quite a number of favorite spots such as Pettibone Park, most of Merrick and lower areas of Perrot Park still are submerged. It will take a couple of weeks for these and other riverside places to dry out.

So our best picnic tip is to go on land for your weekend outing, such as to Whitewater Park, small parks along the Root and Zumbro rivers or Beaver State Park down near Caledonia. Locally the best bet is Lake Park and Bluffsides. Prairie Island still is inaccessible. The road is officially closed. Lake City parks still are flooded.

As to the river it is now usable. All the locks in this area are in operation for both towboats, pleasure boats and fishing craft. The gates still are up at all the dams and there is a very powerful current in the main channel. Only a few fishermen are using boats in the areas immediately below the dams. Fishing is mainly from boats hugging the shoreline or lock wall.

Walleyes and northerners are being caught but not in abundance. A fisherman has to work for his fish. Jigs and sonars seem to be the more popular lures. The minnow situation is not good. Most dealers here have some minnows but minnow wholesalers say there is a shortage of minnows everywhere in the Northwest. The heavy winter ice froze out many of the ponds and oil and detergents in the sloughs have wiped out some of the natural sources. With the opening of the northern lakes the shortage will be more pronounced. Fishermen will find good minnows hard to get.

Here and There
A total of 276,000 deer license

holders bagged 121,000 deer last fall for a success average of 44 percent, the Minnesota Game and Fish Division reports.

The Legislature turned down the hunters who wanted a later deer season, despite such a request from 70 percent of the hunters. Ted Shields, state game and fish commissioner, recommended a 16-day season.

A bill that would give the commissioner of conservation authority to set all seasons and bag limits was killed by the Minnesota Legislature.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy asked Congress for an appropriation of $80,000 to save Minnesota's official bird, the loon, from becoming extinct. The species has undergone heavy losses in the past two years.

A law making the walleye Minnesota's official fish now is pending in the Legislature.

The Durand Rod and Gun Club will again sponsor the John Harmon chicken dinners on Thursday evening at their club house on the Chippewa River. The first one will be May 20.

Motorists going into Houston and Fillmore counties to look at the storm damage will find most of the big farm wrecks off the main highways. Clean-up work already is under way.

Retriever Trials Set Near Weaver

A new location, the Whitewater Wildlife Refuge near Weaver, has been selected as the place of the 17th annual All-Breed Retriever Trial of the Tri-State Hunting Dog Association. Ralph G. Boalt, secretary, announced Saturday. The dates are June 4, 5 and 6.

Damage done by the flood to the Prairie Island area and the digging of a big borrow pit in the middle of the former grounds are the reasons for the change, he said. The new location has all the advantages of the former Prairie Island site.

As in the past, many of the top retrievers of the nation will be entered in the three-day event which will open Friday with the Open-All Age stake and run through Sunday.

The other three stakes will start with the qualifying event at 8 a.m. Saturday. The derby stake will follow the Open-All-Age and the Amateur All-Age will follow the qualifying stake. Judges for the Open-All-Age will be John Van Bloom of Lincoln, Neb., and James A. Robinson of Hutchinson, Kan., and for the Amateur All-Age and Qualifying, Jeffery W. Whitehill, Milwaukee, and Carl Cornelius, Mason City, Iowa.

Another change made is that the annual banquet will be held at the new Westfield Golf Club, instead of at the Isaak Walton League cabin on Prairie Island. Officers of the local club are Nick Schneider, president; Philip Conway and C. H. Safrank, vice presidents; Boalt, secretary, and Clifford Murray, treasurer.

Hawk Golfers Stop Indians

OWATONNA, Minn. — Winona High School eked out its fourth victory against a single loss here Friday by defeating Owatonna 333-334 in golf.

John Pendleton's Hawks had trouble with a strange course and strong wind.

Medalist for the meet was John Ebling of Owatonna with 39-38-77.

Tom Miller turned in 38-43-81 for Winona. John Walski 45-38-83 and Bob Speltz 44-39-83.

Both Miller and Walski ran into trouble with out-of-bounds strokes. Walski took a ten on one hole and Miller an eight.

The Hawks' next activity comes Tuesday against Northfield at Westfield.

FOUNTAIN CITY, Wis. — A horse-pulling contest will be the feature of the celebration to be staged by the Fountain City Rod and Gun Club at Hilltop Tavern Sunday, May 23. There will also be a dance and charred broiled chicken.

Funds raised will be used for the club's pheasant and trout project.

Wolves Score 1-0 Triumph In 11 Innings

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan's Wolverines remained undefeated in the Big Ten baseball race Friday when they scored their seventh straight victory in extra innings, but Ohio State stayed in the thick of the battle with another extra-inning triumph.

Carl Cheryrek eluded a home run in the bottom of the 11th inning to give Michigan a 1-0 triumph over Minnesota. Ohio State needed a two-run rally in the last of the 12th to edge Purdue 6-5.

The victory was the sixth in seven games for Ohio State, leaving the Buckeyes a scant one game behind the Wolverines.

Elsewhere, Michigan State edged Iowa 4-3 with a 3-run rally in the ninth inning. Wisconsin scored 12 runs in the seventh to hammer winless Northwestern 20-7 and Indiana came from behind to beat Illinois 9-6.

Cheryrek's hit was only one of three Michigan collected off

Nicklaus Warns Short Hitters: Beware of Masters

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Masters champion Jack Nicklaus flew into St. Louis Friday for a friendly round of golf with an old rival, but he took time out to warn entrants in the U.S. Open golf tournament.

"The short hitters might just as well not show up," he said after shooting in the 70s on a windy day over the sprawling 7,191-yard, par 70 Belleview Country Club course.

Belleview will offer the open's longest test in history June 14-20.

"There are four to six par four holes that short hitters can't reach in two," he said. For the power-hitting Nicklaus, this would be ideal. He reached the green in two on most of the 13, 400-plus yard holes.

"I can see a 200 winning this tournament if conditions are adverse," he said.

The round was one of four or five Nicklaus plans to play on the course before the tournament.

Minnesota's Joe Pollack, Michigan's Bob Reed went the distance. Reed gave up nine hits but fanned 14 and was helped by three double plays.

Wildlife Habitat Needs Improving

By RAYMOND E. KYRO
La Crosse District Game Mgr.

Wildlife habitat improvement is the most important single game management principal. Talking about it and putting it into practice, however, are very definitely two different things.

Unfortunately the deterrents to widespread habitat restoration are real whoppers. These include (1) cost of initial development and maintenance, (2) lack of immediate results, and (3) limited knowledge of habitat requirements of many game species.

The high cost involved in establishing large-scale private habitat improvement projects usually scares off most interested parties. Quail habitat projects on some southern plantations have been known to cost as much as $50 per bird. There are records of some projects costing $1,500 for each bird bagged.

LACK OF patience has doomed many private habitat improvement programs. If results aren't immediate and spectacular, projects are often dropped. Wildlife technicians have found that it often takes 5 years or more for improved habitat to really start producing.

Lack of knowledge of habitat requirements of game species is still a bottleneck to better game production, but progress is being made. As a result of research, we can now make sound recommendations for quail, rabbit, and pheasant habitat improvement, for example.

Many state conservation departments — Wisconsin is a good example — are involved in the first stage of habitat improvement programs on public lands. Through the O.R.A.P. (cigarette tax) program, many widely scattered acreages of fish and game lands are being purchased in Wisconsin. Some habitat improvement is being carried out on these lands but in many cases the more costly improvements will come later on.

Anyone who has seriously studied habitat improvement programs and problems soon realizes that state purchase of wildlife lands is only part of the answer to better hunting and fishing.

THESE PROGRAMS will affect only a small percent of the total land acreage of the state and are aimed at preserving only the better wildlife areas. They will provide some elbow room for sportsmen, but in many cases their greatest value will be as demonstration areas, to show what can be done to benefit wildlife on private lands.

Perhaps the most promising programs for widespread habitat improvement are the government land retirement programs. Their original purpose was just to take land out of production and any wildlife benefits were purely unintentional.

In many areas retired soil-bank and feed-grain acreages did boost game populations. In other areas, later than normal disturbance of these fields and mowing probably did more harm than good.

Present land retirement programs recognize wildlife values and are being tailored to give wildlife a break. It is hoped that in the future these programs will play a major part in bringing back small game populations.

In the final analysis, the fate of small game in Wisconsin is in the hands of the farmer. Show me a farmer who tolerates or encourages grassy, weedy, brushy areas on his farm and I'll show you some wildlife.

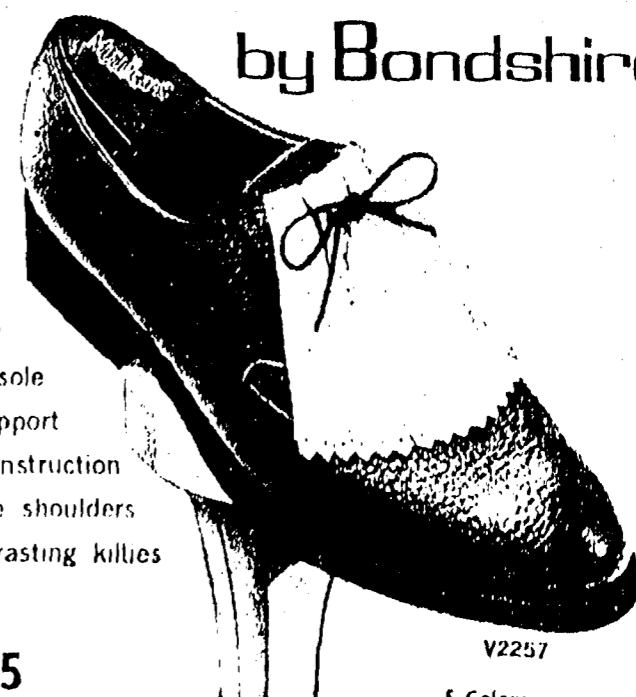

Elba Sportsmen To Meet Monday

ELBA, Minn. — "Should fall planting of trout be discontinued?" will be a question before the meeting of Whitewater Valley Sportsmen's Club when it meets at its clubhouse here at 8:30 p.m. Monday. The results of such planting this spring has been disappointing.

Improvement at Whitewater State Park this season will be discussed by Waino Kontolla, park superintendent. The Neighborhood Youth Corp detachment there at present is planting 1,000 ash trees on the Hilbrandt property recently acquired as part of the park lunch and refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Walter P. Merhoff in Her Garden

Rose Expert to Tell Story of Old Roses, Living Antiques

Winona area gardeners who love and grow roses will be interested in a special presentation of "Old Roses — Living Antiques of the Rose World" Wednesday in the auditorium of Pasteur Hall on the Winona State College campus, at 7:45 p.m.

MRS. WALTER P. Merhoff, New Berlin, Wis., a director at large and national membership chairman of the American Rose Society, will give a delightful illustrated lecture on "re-discovering old garden roses".

Winona Rose Society members, who are inviting all rose lovers to this May meeting of their group, will be privileged to hear the same lecture Mrs. Merhoff gave last fall at the American Rose Society convention in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Merhoff began growing roses about 17 years ago when her doctor recommended gardening as post-operative therapy. Her interest turned to the old garden roses. The search for plants and information about them has led her to correspondence with other growers all over the world. She has become a national authority on the history and varieties of the old garden roses and grows some 200 of them.

IN THIS part of the country, early settlers brought slips from roses that grew around their homes back East or in Europe and planted them in their new locations. Many rare varieties are still to be found in farm yards and along the country roads.

Mr. Merhoff has supplemented his wife's interest in her roses by taking hundreds of color pictures of them, many of which will be seen Wednesday evening.

Refreshments will be den at Lake Park. A number of members have planted their first old roses in the past year or two.

Many of the new introductions of the old garden roses do not take up any more room in the rose garden than some of the hybrid teas, floribundas and grandifloras, a member of the WRS pointed out. This is an important factor for those rose growers with a limited space. Many of the old roses, also, bloom more than once a year as many of the earlier varieties did, and old roses are in one of the beds in the Winona Rose Society Memorial Rose Garden at Lake Park. A number of members have planted their first old roses in the past year or two.

They're saying . . .

. . . that the clever posters displayed around town to publicize the cabaret party at the Winona Country Club after the closing performance of "Paint the Town Pink" were made by Truman Hickethier's sixth grade class at Madison School.

. . . the many Winonans who journeyed to Minneapolis by devious flood routes to see Mary Martin in her sell-out performance of "Hello Dolly" were almost unanimous in their enthusiasm for her version of "Dolly."

At midweek the lightning struck, the thunder roared and the lights went out at one of Winona's business firms which had made careful flood plans. Cries of "Get out the Coleman lanterns!" and "Start the emergency power!" were heard throughout the building. One minute later the lights came back on — and everyone went on about his business.

THE ENCHORDS . . . Ready to sing out some of their famous harmonies at the Paint the Town Pink show are the Enchords of the Sweet Adelines Chorus.

Paint the Town Pink Excitement Runs High

As the magic dates of May 21-22 approach, excitement runs high among participants in the Paint the Town Pink benefit talent show of the Community Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Dozens of talented Winona and area persons start practicing under the guidance of Craig Atkinson, New York City, director for the Cargill Players, who is in charge.

The show, which will follow the Follies plan with many glamorous show girls, dancers and singers and exciting music, will be staged in the auditorium of Winona Senior High School. The entire community is expected to attend.

Proceeds will go toward furnishing the new Convalescent and Rehabilitation Unit at the hospital.

General chairman are Mrs. Douglas B. Robinson and Mrs. Everett Edstrom.

MAYOR GETS BUTTON . . . R. K. Ellings, mayor of Winona, was one of the first to be pinned with a Paint the Town Pink button, a handsome ceramic with splashes of Pink Lady pink on a palette with artists' brushes. The two co-chairman of the show, Mrs. Douglas B. Robinson, left, and Mrs. Everett Edstrom, make the presentation.

Oriental Mother Topic Given by Missionary

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — "A Trip to the Orient" was the theme of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church mother-daughter banquet Monday. Mrs. Philip Luttio, missionary to Japan, spoke on "The Oriental Mother." She taught the children who were present how to sing "Jesus Loves Me" in Japanese. She and her daughter, Miriam, sang other songs in Japanese and Miriam played two selections on the violin. Mrs. Luttio explained the kimono they wore and said the average cost is about $40. Mrs. Luttio said that the kimono looks simple but that it is an intricate piece of clothing. If a woman is going some place special, it sometimes takes her two or three hours to get dressed, she said.

THE ORIENTAL mother often rises early and puts a large pot of rice on the charcoal stove to serve steaming hot along with fish or a special soup for breakfast. Often for dinner, the fathers eat alone after the children have eaten. In Japan, Mrs. Luttio said, the father rules the household and is often feared by his wife and children. She said it is sometimes said the Japanese fear three things: Fires, earthquakes and the father of the house.

Mrs. Luttio said that when they become Christians they realize this is not desirable and they share the responsibilities of raising their family. She said missionary children seldom live at home because they attend church schools and live at dormitories. This is the first time Miriam has attended public school. The Luttios are staying in Minneapolis while they are on furlough from Japan. Mrs. Luttio's husband also is a missionary. Next year, Mrs. Luttio will be a house mother for about 25 missionary students at a dormitory.

MRS. Luttio told of the hardships encountered by students in Japan. She said entrance examinations into high school are very difficult and for college are almost impassable. She said many mothers live in fear their children will not pass. If they fail, the mother feels at fault, and sometimes takes her life and the life of her child.

In conclusion, Mrs. Luttio said, that mothers must be examples for their children. She said mothers cannot expect their children to be good working Christians if they are not.

Mrs. Roger Ulrich, chairman of the event, presented gifts to: Wendy Barge, youngest guest; Mrs. Al Hellsten, for having a child nearest the age of three; Mrs. Tikal, for having four daughters present; Mrs. John Welch, oldest mother; and Mrs. Herb Barge Jr., for having four generations present.

Mrs. Paul Franson introduced Mrs. Luttio and Miriam. Mrs. Glenn Heeter gave the prayer and Mrs. Alice Whitbeck, ALGW president, gave the welcome.

Documents Read At Fort Perrot DAR Meeting

ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — Mrs. Mabel Anderson, Ettrick, read "The Red Influence on the Campus," by David Lawrence, when members of Fort Perrot Chapter DAR met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Wadeigh, Galesville.

She also read the speech made by the president, general of the NSDAR, Mrs. Robert V. H. Duncan, at the Continental Congress in Washington, D. C., April 19, entitled, "A Time for Evaluation," regarding the 75th diamond jubilee of the DAR.

Pictures of new national and state officers were displayed, including one of Mrs. Lester J. La Mack, president of the Wisconsin DAR, Racine.

A RESUME of the state conference held recently at Waukesha was read by Mrs. Delbert Pickering, Town of Caledonia. "O. Say Can You See?" by Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, chaplain of the U.S. Senate, was read by Mrs. John Kopp as a national defense topic. Mrs. Pickering read "A Lesson in Socialism" from a publication of the Minnesota Education Association.

"The Sound of Freedom" was the subject presented by Mrs. R. E. Mossberg, an article proposing the ringing of bells over the entire nation at the same time of day, to mark the Fourth of July.

A COMMITTEE appointed to arrange a program for the coming year is comprised of Mrs. John Kopp, Mrs. Mossberg and Miss Edith Bartlett. Since the chapter is comprised of members from Galesville, Ettrick, Whitehall, Centerville and the Town of Caledonia, it was decided to hold afternoon meetings during the winter months. Evening meetings will be held during September, October, April and May.

The Flag Day picnic will be June 14 at 12:30 p.m. at Mrs. Anderson's home here. Meetings will be discontinued during July and August.

Norman Thomas Raps Activities In Dominicans

LOS ANGELES (AP)—United States activities in the Dominican Republic, says Norman Thomas, are "a flagrant violation of the principles of self-determination."

The veteran Socialist called for immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops.

"Such big-stick diplomacy," he told a news conference Friday, "is incompatible of any concept of democracy among nations. It can only serve to undermine any trust or friendship held for this country within the American hemisphere."

Blair Entry Receives First at Eau Claire

BLAIR, Wis. (Special)—Cynthia Berg received a first rating for her bass clarinet solo at the state contest in Eau Claire. John McAuliffe received a second rating on his bass horn solo.

Three groups participated in the district event at La Crosse Saturday. The band is directed by Everett Berg and the vocal groups are directed by Shirley Eisch.

Beer Spills From Truck

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A trailer truck's load shifted at a slight downgrade and 1,900 cans of beer spilled onto the intersection.

Before the driver could stop, motorists and pedestrians scooped up all the beer and fled. "I thought they were going to help salvage the load," Edmund Vandercaester, Jr., said Wednesday, "but by the time I got the truck out of the line of traffic, there was nothing left to salvage."

About five minutes before popovers are ready to come out of the oven, insert the point of a sharp knife into the side of each popover. This jabbing helps the popovers to emit and to crisp.

Former Pilot Steals Plane For Thrill Ride

HONOLULU (AP)—Former fighter pilot James A. Ashdown, 34, now an advertising salesman, had an urge to fly again.

Police said he satisfied that urge Friday morning by stealing a World War II B25 bomber and making a tree-top flight along Waikiki Beach that had hotel residents quivering in their pajamas.

Ashdown was charged with plane theft when he landed the craft at Honolulu's airport. Police said the bomber, which had been used for a Hollywood film, belonged to Ashdown's former employer.

Police said Ashdown buzzed a beach hotel, just clipping the tree tops, before roaring off 30 miles northwest of the city where the old bomber snapped 20 feet off a 110-foot radio station tower.

The impact ripped a gash in the fuselage and smashed the glass bubble of the gun turret. Ashdown was cut in the cheek, police said.

At the airport he gave officials a scare before setting the plane down safely.

"He was headed right into the tower," said McCoy, FAA information officer. "We thought he was coming through the glass but then he pulled out and came in for a landing."

Police detective Jacob Yoon quoted Ashdown: "I just had an urge to fly again."

Teresan Students Honored

The Most Rev. Bishop Edward A. Fitzgerald presided at the convocation of the seals at the College of Saint Teresa at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the college auditorium.

A gold replica of the college seal was conferred on 140 members of the senior class by Sister M. Camille, president.

The traditional ode was sung by the sophomore class. The 1965 ode, "A Light in the Darkness," is dedicated to the intentions of Dr. Martin Luther King. Words of the ode were written by Miss Sally Strecker, Dallas, Tex., and the music was composed by Miss Patricia Coughlin, Chicago.

Also honored at the seal day convocation were 21 seniors and 15 juniors who were elected to the three college honor societies — House of Gold, Seven Fair Pillars and Tower of Ivory. Electees were announced by Sister Camille.

Named to HOUSE OF GOLD were 14 seniors: Miss Susan Bowar, Hopkins, Minn.; Miss Kathleen Drew, Waukegan, Ill.; Miss Mary Ehrhardt, Austin; Miss Florence Gorman, Oak Park, Ill.; Miss Michele Kohl, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Miss Patricia Laux, Clintonville, Wis.; Miss Jean Loftus, Glencoe, Minn.; Miss Kathleen McKay, Minneapolis; Miss Betty McCormick, Harpers Ferry, Iowa; Miss Carol Meehan, Westchester, Ill.; Miss Mary Nilles, Rollingstone; Miss Mary Stranik, Dickinson, N. D.; Miss Mary St. John, Appleton, Wis., and Miss Cheryl Uccellini, Westport, Conn.

Membership in SEVEN FAIR PILLARS is based on academic excellence. The top seven graduating seniors class receive this distinction. Seniors are listed in the order of their academic rank.

Honored Saturday were Miss Mary Ann Cyphers, Bethel Park, Penn.; Miss McCormick; Miss Nilles; Miss Marlene Drometer, Cannon Falls, Minn. (who completed graduation requirements in December, 1964); Miss Bonnie Schroeder, Morton Grove, Ill.; Miss Nancy Chuchel, formerly of 456 East 3rd St., and Miss Uccellini.

New members of TOWER OF IVORY are Miss Maxine Borg, Elmhurst, Ill.; Miss Kathleen Brynaert, Assisi Heights, Rochester; Miss Mary Carroll, Rosemount, Minn.; Miss Kristin Prodesen, Superior, Wis.; Miss Jane Gust, Crookston, Minn.; Miss Susan Haeny, Austin; Miss Susan Johnson, St. Paul; Miss Kathleen Malarkey, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Miss Judith Moothart, Waterloo, Iowa; Miss Suzanne Posch, St. Cloud; Miss Ann Schwarz, Sauk City, Wis.; Miss Sheila Selz, St. Paul; Miss Jean Trumbauer, Battle Lake, Minn.; Miss Kathleen Walsh, Rochester; and Miss Ann Westhoven, Toledo, Ohio.

Basic eligibility requirements for all Teresan honor societies include leadership, respect for the observance of all regulations, loyalty to the college and an active interest in furthering its aims.

Warnings Help Hundreds Flee Tornado's Fury

By GEORGE MOSES
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—So the air raid siren begins that wailing, wall that means "take cover." You know it's no test. What do you do?

A lot of people found out when tornadoes dipped out of black skies in the Minneapolis area Thursday night to kill 13, injure more than 400, and leave 4,000 homeless in 18 suburbs.

It was the first time the chilling Civil Defense warning signal had been sounded in earnest.

Many persons did what the book says—got down to their basements and stayed there. Some stayed all night, with only candle light, as power failed.

The sirens went off about 6 p.m., when the Weather Bureau spotted funnels on radar, and the alert lasted six hours.

Radio and television stations poured out news of the alarm, and homeowners left without power discovered why Civil Defense people recommend transistor radios.

There were, inevitably, some disbelievers—for a time. One man heard the sirens, stepped to his front door and looked at the black sky lit up by almost continuous lightning.

"Lightning short-circuited the sirens," he told his family, without adding that he was guessing. He learned by radio in a few minutes he had guessed wrong.

Drivers caught on busy streets saw behavior that in some cases verged on panic. At least one motorist raced through red lights, his eyes on the sky. Another ran stop signs, his horn blasting.

Police herded loop shoppers into stores. Patrol cars blared the sirens' meaning.

In the entire sprawling area hit by the storm, most persons knew why the sirens were blowing, and reacted sensibly.

That is, if their jobs permitted. Police, firemen, Civil Defense workers, doctors, nurses and others needed in the emergency had to assume the sirens were warning for others.

Civil Defense officials credited the warning system of some 250-300 sirens—and sounded by a control at the Weather Bureau—with saving a lot of lives.

U.S. and Canadian Students in Session

TORONTO, (AP)—More than 300 U.S. and Canadian students are spending their weekend in meetings at the University of Toronto with the avowed aim of relating civil rights movements to Canadian Indians.

Most delegates are affiliated with the Canadian Friends of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee who took part in eight-day demonstrations outside the U.S. consulate here in March.

Elections to House of Gold and Tower of Ivory are made on the basis of academic record and participation in extra-curricular activities.

"Creation," a pageant written by Miss Margaret Bateman, a South St. Paul junior, was presented Saturday on St. Michael Field.

Results of campus queen elections were announced during the afternoon.

No Changes in Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee stood pat Friday, advising against any drastic revision in the foreign program.

Previously, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had recommended that the administration submit a new approach to foreign aid by the middle of next year. Its chairman, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., wants the economic and military portions of the bill separated.

Said the House group: "We cannot agree that it would be desirable, or possible, to terminate the program in the near future."

Next time "the girls" come to lunch, you might serve Spoon Bread with bacon and broiled tomatoes. Add a tossed green salad and you'll have a wonderful menu.

Dr. Judson's 15th Book Published

Dr. Lyman Judson's 15th book, a scientific textbook in the fields of speech and hearing has been published. He is on the Winona State College speech staff.

Published by Appleton-Century-Crofts and bearing the title, "Voice Science" the new volume, which has been two years in the writing, began its existence as a doctoral dissertation when Dr. Judson was a post-graduate research student for two years in the medical schools of the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin.

HIS graduate studies in embryology, anatomy, physiological chemistry and neurology, and his research in the conductivity of stimuli in nerves and muscles resulted in articles in such journals as "Science," the "American Journal of Psychology," "Quarterly Journal of Speech" and "Speech Monographs."

Dr. Judson's thesis was later published as a textbook under the title of "Basic Speech and Voice Science." Four years later, when he was chairman of the department of speech at Kalamazoo College, he revised the book completely and it was published under the shorter title, "Voice Science," by another publisher.

At that time Dr. Andrew T. Weaver, chairman of the Department of Speech at the University of Wisconsin, and an editor of F. S. Crofts Publishers was named co-author. The Johnson & Weaver book was the pioneer publication in the broad field of speech, voice science and phonetics, and has remained for 20 years the definitive textbook, used in advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in colleges and universities in the United States and abroad.

THE NEW BOOK includes chapters on respiration, phonation, articulation, resonance, phonetics, embryology, neurology, the physics and psychology of sound, and on the ear and hearing. It contains more than 100 illustrations.

The original research notes, bibliography, typescript, galley proofs, page proofs, index blueprints, and final bound copies of "Voice Science" will be on display in the library during May and June.

Eau Galle Dam Bid Opening Planned June 22

EAU GALLE, Wis. — The U.S. Army Engineers, St. Paul, will call for bids about May 20 for dam, spillway and outlet works on the Eau Galle River project. Bids will be opened about June 22, with work to be completed Sept. 1, 1968.

The project will include an earth and rock fill dam, excavated spillway, and reinforced concrete outlet works consisting of a morning glory intake structure, diversion and low flow structure, horseshoe conduit and stilling basin.

Extensive foundation drilling and grouting will be required, plus coffer dams and temporary bypass channels for care and diversion of water and wellpoint systems for dewatering foundation areas.

In cubic yards, estimated common excavation will be 976,000; rock excavation, 287,000; borrow excavation, 1,013,000; earth fill, 1,715,000; rock fill, 182,000, and concrete, 6,000.

The 1965 public works appropriation bill included $400,000 toward the $9 million federally financed flood control project on the Eau Galle River. In December, Underground Dewatering, Inc., La Crescent, Minn., was awarded a $19,623 contract for foundation exploration of the river dam site at Spring Valley.

The dam is expected to form a lake of 120 acres. The Eau Galle meanders some 50 miles through St. Croix, Pierce, Dunn and Pepin counties. Spring floods frequently sweep everything in the river's path. State legislation has given Spring Valley authority to acquire necessary land by condemnation and allow it and other municipalities to assume liabilities for the federal flood control project, which is the first of its kind in Wisconsin.

National Theater Set for Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia. (AP)—Architect F. Silaban reports Indonesia's President Sukarno has approved designs for a modern 11-story national theater building with a main auditorium seating 5,500.

Silaban said it will be completed in five years as part of Sukarno's capital-beautifying program.

Twin Cities Area Man Killed in Truck Accident

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A man identified by the Hennepin County medical examiner's office as Vern B. Talon, Route 1, Osseo was killed Saturday when he was riding struck a tree along a road in suburban Brooklyn Park.

Five other men were injured, three not seriously. Albert Blackburn, 57, Minneapolis, was admitted to a Robbinsdale hospital and reported in critical condition, and John Culp, 50, Minneapolis, was admitted in fair condition.

Talon's death raised Minnesota's 1965 traffic fatality count to 179, compared with 238 a year ago.

Buffalo Court Calendar Lists Six Jury Cases

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — The calendar for the spring term of Circuit Court for Buffalo County will be called by Judge Robert G. Varnum Monday at 10 a.m.

Six cases are listed on the calendar, all for the jury.

Two condemnations are scheduled — Lloyd J. and Dorothy E. Wilbur, and Russell C. and Shirley Smith, both against the State of Wisconsin.

A criminal case was appealed from county court by Larry Hilliard against the state.

The three civil cases for the jury are: Charles Conrad vs. Mondovi Canning Corp.; Rebecca and Richard Reed, infants, by George Reed, guardian, and George Reed on his own behalf, vs. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., and Louis B. Komro and Louis Komro, Jr., vs. John C. Bauer and American Family Mutual Insurance Co., also known as Farmers Mutual Automobile Insurance Co.

Defer Action on Vocational School

DURAND, Wis. — Action on providing a vocational school for Pepin, Dunn, St. Croix, Pierce and Polk counties has been postponed while the Legislature considers other school bills.

County boards have been advised by their committeemen to delay action on the proposal pending outcome of legislation which could change the organization of vocational and technical training in the state. Representatives of the committee attended a legislative hearing on Bill 501A which would make it possible to organize area vocational schools by combining municipalities and school districts without following county lines.

The bill would make it possible for areas near existing vocational and technical schools to join that district while the rest of the county might elect to enter an area vocational school organization.

Another bill, 220S, would place all areas of the state into community college districts which would provide both technical and academic training.

Town of Naples Has New Clerk

MONDOVI, Wis. (Special) — Town of Naples reportedly has a new clerk, although Martin Wulff was reportedly re-elected April 6 by one vote.

The night before election friends of David Nyre asked permission to write his name on the ballot. He consented.

When all the ballots were counted, the official tally reported was Wulff, 31, and Nyre, 30.

In studying the ballots, friends of Nyre discovered that 71 votes had been cast for Elmer Brenn, chairman, according to the unofficial returns, and he wasn't opposed.

James Franzwa, resident of the town, contacted Brenn, who said he was present at a recount of votes for clerk, because the tally was so close. Ballot clerks, however, had discarded a number of ballots on which the name Nyre had been written, because no "X" had been placed beside the name.

Franzwa consulted the district attorney and was told he was legally counted, an X should appear after a write-in. Another town clerk told Franzwa the statutes stated an X wasn't necessary after a write-in.

Franzwa's attorney informed him the three-day deadline for calling for a recount had expired and the matter would be expensive to reopen.

Since the discarded votes would have given Nyre the election, Wulff resigned, and Nyre now has the clerk's books in his possession.

It is said that such a situation hasn't come up in a town contest in Wisconsin since 1892.

Lutheran Church here. The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1963.

She was a member of Fountain City Unit, American Legion Auxiliary 56, and a past president of the Bi-County American Legion Auxiliary. For the past 25 years she was church organist at Christ Lutheran Church, where she was a member of the Ladies Aid.

Her husband, who survives, is a retired Cochrane and Fountain City funeral director.

Also surviving are: A daughter, Mrs. Paul (Rhoda) Fishman, Cherokee, Iowa; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jeanette Florin, Ft. Collins, Colo.; five grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. A son, Duane, has died.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Christ Lutheran Church, the Rev. Theodore Kuske officiating. Burial will be in Buffalo City public cemetery.

Tornado Alert In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A cold front racing northeast across metropolitan Milwaukee area Saturday afternoon touched off a series of tornado reports, one of them in the heart of the city.

The Weather Bureau put its alert system into effect shortly before 3:30 p.m., asking police and radio stations to spread a "take cover" alarm after the first sightings were reported in Waukesha County, just west of Milwaukee.

Seven parked airplanes were heavily damaged at the Waukesha County airport when high winds broke them loose from their moorings. Two were blown some 250 feet across a highway.

Fund Drive Set To Aid Area Tornado Victim

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — Residents of Rushford and the rural area have organized a fund drive for Edwin Hallum, whose farm buildings were completely destroyed by the tornado which hit Yucatan and adjacent areas Wednesday night.

Contributions may be delivered or mailed to the Rushford State Bank or First National Bank of Rushford. Checks should be made out to the Edwin Hallum fund.

Meanwhile the Red Cross is asking for contributions of furniture, appliances and miscellaneous household furnishings, because everything was destroyed. Persons having donations should contact Mrs. L. J. Wilson, in charge of the Red Cross at Rushford.

THE RED CROSS, meanwhile, is assisting the family. The Hallums have been settled on the Clarence Thompson farm in Yucatan Valley. Neighbors rounded up their cows Thursday, moved their hay, and retrieved Hallum's seed corn, all largely intact.

Gil Gaiser, Rochester, manager of the Fillmore-Olmsted-Dodge County Red Cross chapter, surveying Fillmore County damage Friday, said Hallum and Robert Trouten, Iowa farmer living about four miles south of Harmony where the storm started, were among the farmers who didn't have wind insurance.

Trouten and Claude Willford, two miles northeast of Canton, also lost all their buildings. Willford's loss included seven prize Brown Swiss cows and two heifers. Gaiser said.

The Red Cross manager said he found parts of the buildings shattered on the Charles Fravel farm northwest of Newburg seven or eight miles from the scene.

THIS SAME storm traveled from Yucatan to Oak Ridge, Houston, and from there to Looney Valley, Store Valley, South Ridge, Pine Creek near La Crescent, then across the hill to Dakota and Lamolite and over the Mississippi River to Brice's Prairie and Holmen, according to Bud Johnson, Houston.

"You could just follow the path of the storm by the debris," Bud said. It traveled northwesterly.

He says the tornado which dropped down at Fremont and the Arendahl area came from a gaiser said still another funnel dropped down west of Chatfield, concentrating on six farms in the unincorporated Fillmore and Washington areas on County Roads 4 and 5. Barns were heavily damaged or destroyed on six farms but there was minor damage to homes.

On one farm in this area, a family pet, was rescued from under debris and came out without a limp.

On another farm in this area, 22 head of cattle were lifted by the wind, carried about a block and deposited on a hill. They escaped with minor scratches.

A Red Cross disaster center has been opened at the American Legion clubrooms—in Houston, where persons may apply for assistance.

Liquor License Additions Gets OK of Committees

An amended bill to authorize one additional on-sale liquor license for Winona now has passed temperance and liquor control committees in both houses of the legislature.

In its original form, the bill would have provided City Council authority to issue two new licenses for luxury motels having restaurant facilities and a minimum of 75 guest units. It was drawn to furnish licenses for the new Linhan's Inn, now building at Mankato Avenue and Highway 61 and for a Huff Street Holiday Inn, if one is erected.

After the House committee

HELL BROKE LOOSE . . . 1,900 mink were tossed into freedom when the tornado hit the Robert R. Taylor farm in Pine Creek Wednesday night. Five sheds holding the pens were tossed about like match sticks. Thursday many returned to the feeding area, some were killed by wreckage, and some shot by neighbors not happy with mink raiding hen houses. (Mrs. Tony Foegen photo)

PICTURE OF DESOLATION . . . It took three minutes of whirling wind to leave devastation on the James Loken farm on Oak Ridge near Houston. There isn't a whole tree on the place. All buildings were felled but the house. Although standing, it's wrecked. Dishes were blown from the kitchen cupboards. Loken's 25 cows wandered away after the storm but returned Thursday morning. Several were injured and died or had to be killed. (Hazel Olson photo)

Rushford Pastor To Join Missions

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — Members of Rushford Lutheran congregation received the resignation of the Rev. M. Eugene Foehringer in the mail Saturday.

A congregational meeting has been called by Dr. Melford S. Knutson, president of the Southeastern Minnesota District, for Friday at 9 p.m. to accept the resignation.

Pastor Foehringer, who has been here eight years, asks to leave July 31. He plans to become a missionary in Brazil with the American Lutheran church.

Dr. Knutson will meet with the church council following the meeting Friday night to consider calling another pastor.

Services will be conducted by Pastor Foehringer in the all-purpose room of Rushford High School at 11 a.m. today. Services will continue in the school the remainder of this month while the church interior is being redecorated.

Friday the Senate committee, by a 5-4 vote, approved Sen. Roger Laufenburger's motion to bring the bill to the floor.

St. Charles Teachers Air Complaints

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — A statement of teachers' comments and complaints signed by the president of the local education association was read silently without comment by the St. Charles Board of Education, at its meeting last week.

It was requested by the board president at the April meeting when an audience of some 50 businessmen heard resignations from eight teachers, some citing pressures, insecurities and lack of board support as their reasons.

The statement noted lack of harmony between board and faculty. It said the board failed to live up to policies previous boards considered in the interest of good education. It charged that the board has removed some of the responsibility from the administration as outlined in the school policy book.

"SIMPLE administrative functions such as handling of discipline problems, absenteeism, etc., have suddenly become major board issues," the statement said, as individuals with gripes have found it more feasible to play "upon the sympathy of some board members."

"Constant intrusion by certain citizens has interfered with the local educational progress and process," the statement continued. "Pressure placed on teachers by these individuals has created an atmosphere not conducive to good teaching efforts."

Heavy Storms Skip Across Wisconsin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent weather, including heavy rain and hail as large as golf balls, skipped through Wisconsin Friday, but no injuries were reported.

Tornadoes spawned by the storms were reported seen in several communities, but only one twister apparently touched down. More than 300 pupils and teachers at an elementary school at Shell Lake in Washburn County escaped injury as the funnel cloud dipped to the ground. Most of the school's roof was ripped off by the wind.

"I was praying and reading at the same time," said Mrs. Naomi Beardsley, a first grade teacher. I thought the whole school was going to go. The harder the wind blew, the louder I read."

Funnel clouds were sighted in the Beloit area, Lyndon Station, Genoa City, Patch Grove and Fennimore. In Beloit, an all-out Civil Defense alert was sounded after the weather bureau's severe storm warning.

Sirens were sounded by fire department units, factories and police cruisers on the street. Police cleared the streets of pedestrians. All persons were advised to take shelter. Some headed for basements of homes. The alert was canceled after nearly three hours. The city received only a soaking from a thunderstorm.

Hail the size of golf balls fell in Hudson, a St. Croix County community in northwestern Wisconsin.

Drive for Oleo Repeal Planned In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs plans a drive to obtain 125,000 signatures on petitions urging repeal of the state's ban on colored oleomargarine.

Mrs. R. V. Anderson of East Troy, legislative chairman of the federation, said Friday the petitions will be circulated statewide and then presented to the legislature, probably in two weeks.

The petition says: "Yellow margarine stop smuggling and stop squeezing the bag. Let your assemblyman and senator know we in Wisconsin want the freedom to buy margarine tax free and yellow-colored. Let the consumer choose what he wants to buy."

A crucial vote on a bill to repeal the ban on colored oleo is scheduled in the Assembly this week. Another bill was sent to the opposition-controlled Assembly Agriculture Committee last week but Mrs. Anderson said she believes there will be sufficient votes to pass the second measure.

"I was very much surprised to see the bill sent to the Agriculture Committee," Mrs. Anderson said. "But the oleo bill isn't dead. It's far from it."

Why Traders Die Broke

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q You claim, "Traders die broke." What is your definition of a "trader?" Why does he die broke? Your statement defies the advice of learned Wall Street people. One such person, whose advice is highly respected, has written a book on the subject.

He has seen and handled thousands of customers' accounts. And he believes that "switching" is best—that a "position" of only six months or a year is workable. So where do you come off contradicting the experts?

A It's easy, because here is one thing I know I have learned in my years of covering what we call "Wall Street."

There is no such thing as an "expert." Nobody knows everything. There are only people with varying degrees of ignorance.

You want a definition of a trader, OK. It's a person who does a great deal of what you have been conned into believing is a good idea—switching. He buys one stock; sells it; buys another; sells it. He keeps doing this in search for a quick profit on each turnover.

I don't say this method can't work. Very often it does. But very often it doesn't. And the trader loses a bundle. The trader happens to all traders. When it happens, often enough, he dies broke.

Yes, there are successful traders. But, generally, they are Wall Street "professionals"—who can devote their full time, energy and a fat bankroll to following the stock market. The part-time trader invariably gets burned.

You cite a statement in a book claiming that a "position" (owning a stock) for "only six months or a year is workable."

It might be. But let me tell you that the vast majority of the estimated 26 million Americans who own stocks have held their positions for much longer than that and are very happy with their investments.

Q In 1949 I bought 50 shares of stock in a television film-producing company from a door-to-door salesman. It looked like a sure-fire proposition, as TV was just then catching on.

Now I am sure I was hooked. I have never received one thin dime in dividends. All I ever got from the company was one annual statement, showing that the company operated in the red.

Surely, the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission must have some regulation that covers this sort of operation. What can I do to recover all or part of my capital investment?

A Capital investment, indeed! That's about the worst misuse of words to come in for a long, long time. That is no investment. It was a straight gamble—a roll of the dice.

The SEC and state authorities have all kinds of regulations. But none is going to protect the Great American Sucker from doing what you did. Furthermore, Federal and state regulatory bodies don't act as collection agencies for people who have been "hooked."

There are many places to buy stocks, such as brokers, dealers and banks. When you buy stock from a peddler who comes knocking door-to-door you are asking for an opportunity to kiss your money good-bye.

Man Held in Hudson Slaying

HUDSON, Wis. (AP)—A man was held for further questioning by St. Croix County authorities Saturday in the fatal shooting of an elderly farmer.

The body of Walter Murphy, 74, was found in a pool of blood on the floor of his farm home six miles south of New Richmond Thursday night. His brother-in-law believed he had died of a hemorrhage and turned the body over to a New Richmond funeral director.

The funeral service discovered Friday that Murphy had been shot four times in the head and abdomen. Sheriff Charles Grant said two men were picked up for questioning a short time later. One was released, but the other was held at the county jail in Hudson.

Romania Opens Fair to West German Exhibits

BUCHAREST, Romania, (AP)—Ignoring objections from Communist East Germany, Romania has opened her fair grounds to a mammoth West German industrial exposition.

The fair, opening later this month will be the first solo exhibit of West German industrial might behind the Iron Curtain.

The exposition is part of a West German drive to boost trade with Eastern Europe. Over the past year the Bonn government has opened trade missions in Romania, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Johnson Will Accept Voting Bill Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says President Johnson will sign the Negro voting rights bill even if an amendment to ban state and local poll taxes is adopted.

But Mansfield is doing his best to defeat the amendment, agreeing with Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach that it is of doubtful constitutionality.

The drive to include a ban on poll taxes is being led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. The issue is to be voted on Tuesday.

In opening debate on the amendment Friday, Kennedy maintained Congress has the power to outlaw state poll taxes as a condition for voting. Congress in 1962 approved a proposed amendment to the Constitution outlawing the poll tax in federal elections. It was ratified by the states and added to the Constitution last year.

Still, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., suggested it would be "extremely embarrassing" to the President if he were called on to sign a bill his chief legal officer says may have an unconstitutional provision.

Johnson said recently he is opposed to the poll tax, but that there is a constitutional problem involved in trying to abolish it by federal legislation.

He didn't say what he would do if such an amendment were written into the bill he proposed after the Selma-to-Montgomery march protesting voting discrimination against Negroes.

The measure provides for suspension of literacy tests and the appointment of federal registrars in wide areas of the South.

Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia still require voters in state and local elections to pay a poll tax.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., who sponsored the constitutional amendment, assailed Kennedy's proposal as a short-cut attempt to deprive the states of their right to determine the qualification of voters.

"The trouble with the ultra-liberals is that they expect too much, too quick," Holland said. He said the poll tax ban in federal elections "already" is leading states to drop the levy for their own elections. "The matter is moving rapidly," he said, "but our evangelistic friends think it should move faster."

The voting rights bill included a ban on the poll tax when the Judiciary Committee sent it to the floor. But Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen introduced a substitute bill that included instead a provision declaring Congress has received evidence Negro voting rights have been abridged by state poll taxes and directing the attorney general to test their constitutionality in court.

Katzenbach said in a letter to Mansfield Friday the Mansfield-Dirksen provision is a surer and swifter path to the eradication of the poll tax than the Kennedy proposal.

The attorney general said the impact would be very damaging if any portion of the bill were ruled invalid. "For those who have waited so long, it is cruel to hold out what may be false hopes," he said.

Kennedy argued that his amendment was superior because it would immediately outlaw state poll taxes and strengthen the attorney general's hand in meeting a court test of constitutionality.

Lewiston Lions Banquet Tuesday

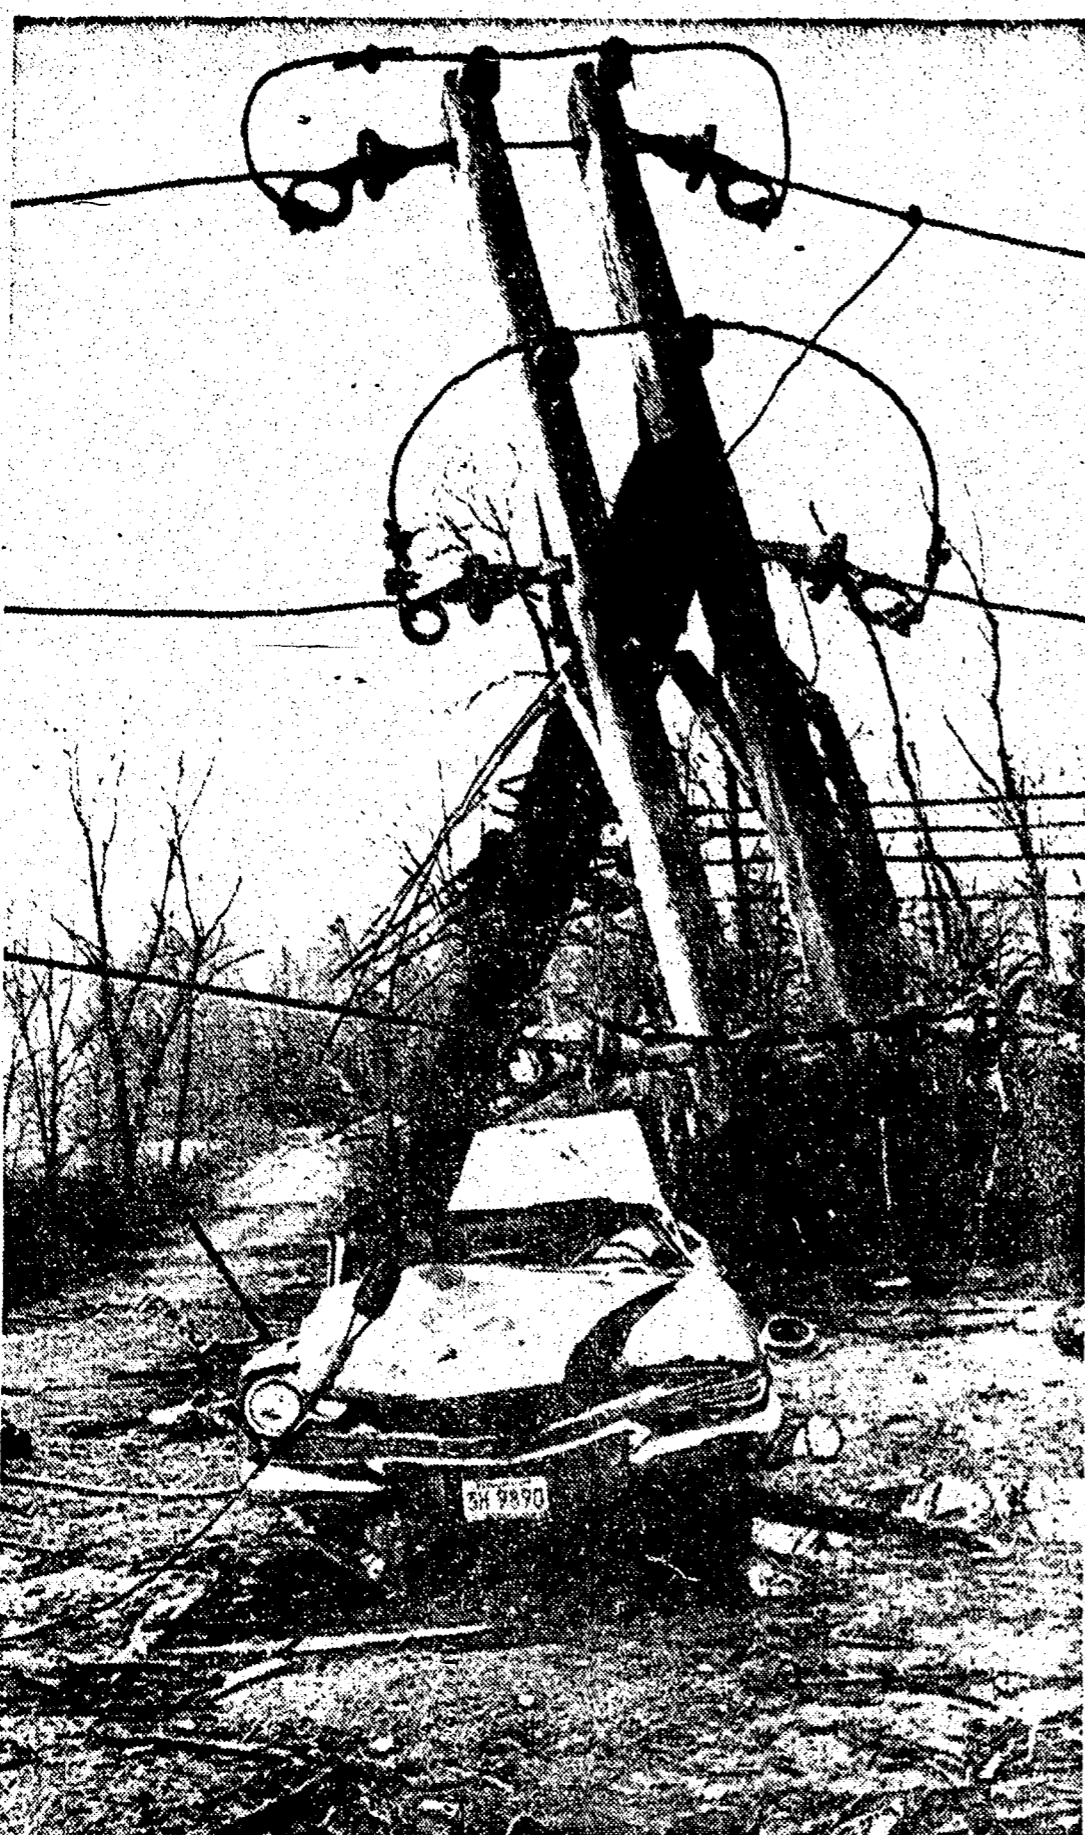

LEWISTON, Minn. (Special) — Lewiston Lions Club will hold its eighth charter anniversary at a banquet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at City-Mar Bowl dining room.

Lions, wives, and members of clubs at Winona, Rushford, Mahab, Harmony, Preston, St. Charles, Rochester, Wamamung and Fairbault are expected. Richard Hardy, Cambridge, international counsellor, will speak. Leo Rowekamp, president, will be in charge.

Numbering houses and business places in Lewiston is a Lions project. The Rev. Walter E. Meyer is on the state board of directors of the Minnesota Lions eye bank, soliciting donations of the human cornea so blind people can see again. To date, 117 blind have received sight in the state.

Officers will be elected May 26.

Oil-Rich Libya Likes Americans

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — U.S. trainer jets scream off the runways at nearby Wheelus airbase a couple of hundred times a day.

Nobody's yelling "Yankee go home" these days. The heat is off. It could be turned on again, as it was last year by neighboring Egypt's powerful President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

But for the time being, Libya is one of those countries where they seem to like the Americans.

King Idris I, the remote and patriarchal 75-year-old founder and ruler of modern Libya, keeps in frequent friendly touch with U.S. Ambassador D. Allen Lightner Jr. The queen often phones Mrs. Lightner. The austere royal couple recently invited them to a picnic in the desert.

Wheelus, the last major American military installation in Africa, has other attractions for the Libyans.

It is training Libya's fledgling air force. Together with British bases here, it provides a degree of internal support for the king's regime. It employs more than 1,000 Libyans and operates the only television station in this far-flung land the size of Western Europe.

The women of Libya live in strict purdah and only venture out in public wrapped in shrouded black veils. Many spend much of their time indoors watching Wheelus television.

The 5,000 U.S. Air Force men at Wheelus live in a sort of self-imposed purdah of their own. The 3,000-acre base, set in a fertile olive and date oasis five miles from Tripoli, has nearly everything they need, from movies and curio shops to schools, a block-long commissary and an 18-hole golf course.

Many of the men almost never venture into town. When they do, unless they're on duty, they go in civvies in order not to tread on the Libyan's new-won national sensibilities.

The United States pays $10 million a year in rent for Wheelus but this is peanuts compared to the oil royalties that started pouring into the national treasury three years ago.

Wheelus and the British bases in Libya contributed half the national budget before oil was discovered. The Libyan government expects to collect $250 million in oil revenue this year.

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Despite the Viet Nam crisis, there appears to be little chance that reserves will be called up for active duty.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Friday, "We haven't gotten to that point yet. At least for the foreseeable future, we have ample forces at our disposal."

Wheeler, here for Armed Forces Week, held a news conference about the attack-carrier Hanger, just back from delivering air strikes at North Viet Nam.

gain? Whether this is true or not, I fear Mr. John Q. Public is inclined to feel it is. Buffalo County Man Sentenced On Title Charge

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — In traffic court before Buffalo County Judge Gary B. Schlossstein Monday, Virgil Neis, Mondovi Rt. 4, was sentenced to pay a $50 fine and costs or serve 15 days in jail for failure to transfer title of a 1956 car he sold Mrs. Arleen Anderson, Mondovi, about a year ago for $200.

The arrest of Neis by Roger Sing, Buffalo County traffic officer, occurred after he received complaints that minors had been driving the vehicle. He found the car in Mrs. Anderson's yard and saw her bill of sale and learned she hadn't received the title.

Earlier Neis had pleaded not guilty. He said by mutual agreement both he and Mrs. Anderson used the vehicle. On motion of District Attorney Roger Hartman a charge of using borrowed license plates against Neis was dropped.

MARK CISEWSKI, Winona, Minn., was fined $45 each on two counts, plus costs. The charges were possession of muskrats during closed season and hunting without a nonresident license. A charge of shooting muskrats with a shotgun was dismissed. The boat, and motor he used were returned but the gun confiscated.

James Lukaszewski, Winona, in a case transferred from juvenile court, was fined $45 each on three counts: Hunting without a nonresident license, possession of muskrats in closed season, and taking them with a shotgun. The boys were together when breaking the laws April 10.

William Robert Stortie, 156 High Forest St., Winona, represented by Dennis Challen, Winona, pleaded guilty to driving too fast for condition, for which he was fined $35, and hit and run with personal injury, for which he was fined $100, both plus costs. He was arrested Feb. 8 at Fountain City by Charles Pehler, night policeman, pleaded not guilty, asked for a 6-man jury trial, then by his attorney, changed his pleas. Marvin Fugina prosecuted for Fountain City.

Armour Balk pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving without a license and forfeited $11 plus costs.

OTHER forfeitures on charges listed:
Keith E. Holden, Mondovi, 11-

Wayne D. Diller, Mondovi, 11- legal muffler, $10 plus costs.
Leon D. Plank, Mondovi Rt. 3, 10 m.p.h. over limit April 28 at Mondovi, $17 plus costs.

Alabama Jury 'Hung' 10-2 For Conviction

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers says a Ku Klux Klansman whose murder trial ended in a deadlocked jury will be tried again.

And, he said, "when people realize that this is not going to be swept under the rug as just another civil rights incident, that this is a murder trial, we may get a conviction next time."

Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala., was free under bonds totaling $60,000 after a jury trying him in State Court for the killing of a white woman civil rights demonstrator failed Friday to agree on a verdict.

Ten of the 12 male jurors had voted for conviction. The other two held out for acquittal. Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard declared a mistrial 24 hours and 20 minutes after he had put the life of Wilkins in the jury's hands.

The first-degree murder charge could have brought the death penalty.

Flowers, the state's chief legal officer, said he expects the crewcut Klansman to be called to trial again in the fall term of court in September.

Two other Klan members also charged with slaying Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, Mich., are awaiting trial. The charges against them also have been carried over to the September term. Those defendants are Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala.

The three Klansmen also are under federal indictment on civil rights charges. They are free on $50,000 bond each on the federal indictments and $10,000 on the first-degree murder counts in State Court. No trial date has been set on the federal charges.

Flowers expressed belief that even though the jury went home without a verdict in Wilkins' trial, it may serve as a deterrent to Klan members bent on racial violence.

"They know now that there was one FBI undercover agent in their ranks," the attorney general continued, "and there may be others. They're really going to have to reconsider and take inventory. They won't know who might be an FBI informer and who isn't."

Gifts for the Culturally Impoverished

Appalachia Children Not Forgotten

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday Editor

WINONANS during the next month will have an opportunity to enlist in one of the front-line forces in the nation's war on poverty by participating in a project launched this spring by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers . . . a campaign to provide books for the children living in an area known as Appalachia where "schools" consist of frame shanties set in scraggly clearings and isolated from all but the sketchiest community life most of us Americans know.

HELPING OTHERS . . . Checking their bookshelves for books to be donated to the "Books for Appalachia's Children" project are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ender, 524 W. Wabasha St., and their children, Brian, Scot and Michael.

The national goal set for the upwards of 46,000 PTAs across the nation is a collection of one million books to be sent to the Appalachian area where there are no school or public library facilities. Here in Winona the project is being sponsored by the Winona PTA Council which has organized committees for collection of book contributions, packing and shipment of the volumes.

Books donated by Winonans will be going to an area extending across the highlands that stretch diagonally across 10 states from northern Pennsylvania to Northern Alabama. Living in this area of 165,000 square miles are some 15 million persons.

Children here go to schools where winds whistle through cracks in the walls and a hot lunch program consists of potatoes boiled on a pot-bellied stove in the middle of the classroom. Most of these children have never had the opportunity to read childhood classics or discover the wonders of the world through the pages of an encyclopedia.

The area already is beginning to receive assistance so long and so desperately needed. College students from the Appalachian Mountains are working to repair the ramshackle school buildings.

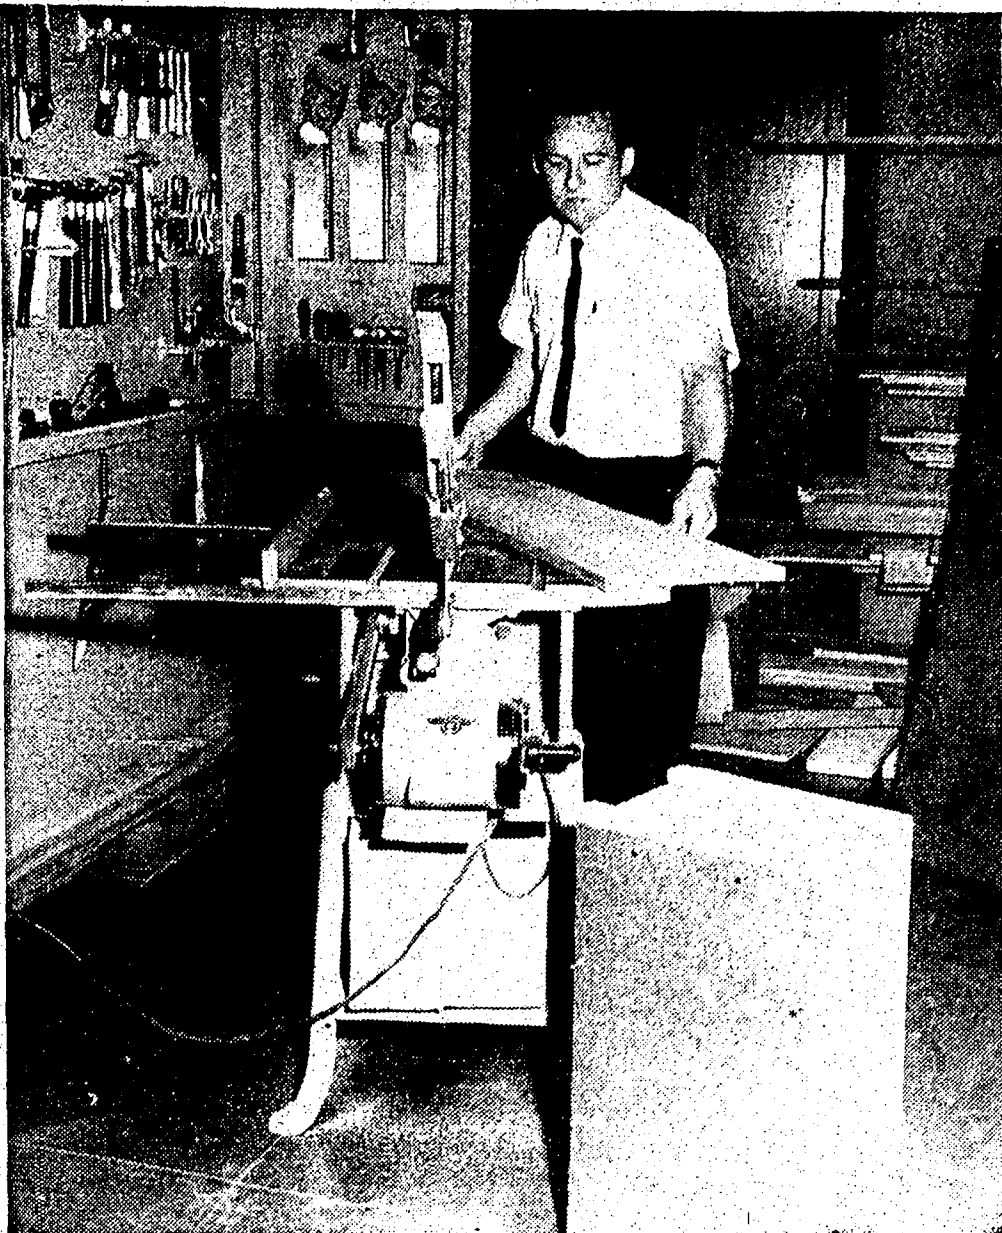

The next step is providing books for these children and it is to satisfy this need that the PTAs have initiated their "Books for Appalachia's Children" program.

It works like this:

Winonans and others throughout the nation have been asked to search their libraries, bookshelves, attics and basements for books they would be willing to send to these children of Appalachia. What kind of books are needed? Well, picture books, fairy tales, stories of science and history and how other people live, Bible stories, fiction, poetry, biographies, easy-to-read books, books about holidays, applied science, the fine arts. The PTAs also are looking for reference books such as dictionaries, atlases and encyclopedias.

Any book which a person would choose for a child in his family would be acceptable and lists of the 100 most wanted books and 300 most preferred books are available from the Winona PTA committee.

Collection centers have been established at Madison, Lincoln, Central Elementary, Washington-Kosciusko and Jefferson schools and assistance in the collection will be provided donors by the PTA committee.

As the books are collected they'll be sorted, mended and prepared for shipment in specially designed boxes being constructed by volunteers here.

The boxes are being built to exact specifications to permit their being used as bookshelves when the covers are removed.

Potentially, boxes of books can be shipped from as many as 8,000 Railway Express Agency (REA) offices in the 48 continental United States to Louisville, Ky., which has been designated as the concentration point.

There, REA will deliver the boxes in accumulated lots of 2,000 to the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and the L & N will haul the carload shipments to Barbourville, Ky., where college students, members of Appalachian Volunteers, will unload each car, transfer the boxes to a processing-storage center and then distribute them in their own cars to one- and two-room schoolhouses in Appalachia.

To obtain additional information about the project or to make arrangements for books to be picked up, the following may be contacted: Mrs. Walter Gilbertson, Mrs. Lowell Johnson or Thomas Mason, Madison PTA; Mrs. Donald Hittner, Lincoln; John R. Taylor, Washington-Kosciusko; Dr. E. O. Thompson, Frank J. Allen Jr., and Walter Grunwald, Central Elementary, and Mrs. Earl Laufenberger, Jefferson.

Because the final date for shipment of the books from Winona is June 15, the final date for collection of donations has been set for June 9.

Members of the PTA committee emphasize, however, that the sooner the books are received, the better job it can do in sorting, repairing and preparing the volumes for shipment.

Artistry in the Kitchen

Cooking Can Become a Creative Art

THE owner of one of New York's most unique art galleries is a person who contends that "fine cooking is as much of an aesthetic art as fine painting" and he's carried out his philosophy in such a way that visitors to his gallery can have twice as much enjoyment.

Larry Ingram is the owner of The Gourmet Gallery which during daytime hours is a showplace for modern art and at night turns into an intimate dining room. Ingram, who polished his cooking talent while studying art in Paris, serves as chef.

"Cooking is just like painting," Ingram asserts. "You begin by following directions and then you start to experiment on your own. The kitchen is the art studio, especially when it comes to the color and to the 'framing' or 'serving.'"

His menu is small, but choice, and created to please both the eyes and the appetites of sophisticated gallery diners. Since his kitchen space is limited, he invents dishes that are smashingly good but simple to prepare.

We've selected three of Ingram's recipes, using three different meats, for presentation here today.

Poulet-Fruite Curry

- | | |
|---|--------------------------|
| 2 two-lb. chickens cut into frying pieces | 1/2 cup raisins |
| 1/2 cup butter | 2 teaspoons curry powder |
| 3 small sliced onions | 1 teaspoon sesame seeds |
| 1 small green pepper | 1/2 teaspoon poppy seeds |
| 1 apple | 1/3 cup light molasses |
| | 1 cup chicken broth |

- | | |
|--------------------------|----------------------|
| 1/4 cup shredded coconut | |

Knead curry into softened butter and spread over chicken pieces. Fry chicken in large greaseless skillet about 15 minutes, or until partially done. Separate onion slices into rings. Cut apple from stem to bottom into about 20 thin wedges. Cut green pepper into 5 medium size strips. Add these and all other ingredients, except those reserved for garnish, to chicken in skillet. Simmer, covered, for 45 minutes. If more liquid is desired add chicken broth up to one cup, with 2 tbsp. molasses for each 1/2 cup broth. To serve, garnish with uncooked wedges of apple, green pepper strips, and sprinkle with coconut. Accompany with plain white rice and a salad of lettuce, grapefruit sections, orange slices, chopped almonds, with a yogurt, vinegar and oil dressing.

Gourmet Gallery's Lamb In Molasses and Red Wine

- | | |
|---|---------------------------|
| 4 pounds trimmed, cubed lamb or 8 pounds lamb riblets | 1 cup dark molasses |
| 2 large minced onions | 1 crushed clove of garlic |
| 1/2 lb. sliced mushrooms | 1 tablespoon oregano |
| 8 teaspoons soy sauce | 2 tablespoons basil |
| 1/2 cup pignola nuts (or slivered almonds) | 2 bay leaves |
| | 1 cup red wine |

Brown lamb in greaseless skillet, pour off fat. Add to lamb in skillet all other ingredients and simmer covered for two hours. To serve, pour over rice and ring with cooked green peas. You may top lamb with 1/2 teaspoon sesame seeds. Serves 8.

Montego Stew

- | | |
|------------------------|--------------------------|
| 4 pounds cubed chuck | 1 cup light molasses |
| 2 sliced onions | 3/4 cup water |
| 2 sliced green peppers | 1/2 cup slivered almonds |
| 1 lb. sliced mushrooms | 1 cup cooked green peas |

Brown chuck in skillet in small amount of oil. Put chuck into casserole and add all other ingredients. Cook in oven, covered, at 325° F. for two and one half hours. When done, add cooked green peas around rim of casserole for color. Serve with mashed potatoes. Serves 8.

If you're looking for perfect fare for a lazy Sunday morning you'll find it in Jam Crumb Cake. Made easily and quickly with biscuit mix, it has a spicy crumb topping of cinnamon, butter, brown sugar and biscuit mix that's sprinkled over the top of the coffee cake before it's baked.

Jam Crumb Cake

- |                                |                                          |
|--------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| 2 cups all-purpose biscuit mix | 2 tbsp. soft shortening or vegetable oil |
| 1/4 cup sugar                  | 1/2 cup thick jam                        |
| 3/4 cup milk                   | Crumb Topping (below)                    |
| 1 egg                          |                                          |

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease square pan, 9x9x2 inches. Mix first five ingredients; beat vigorously 30 seconds. Spread in prepared pan. Spread jam over batter. Sprinkle with Crumb Topping. Bake 25 minutes. Serve warm.

CRUMB TOPPING: Mix with fork until crumbly 1/3 cup brown sugar (packed), 1/2 cup all-purpose biscuit mix, 1/4 cup firm butter and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.

'The Long and the Short of It'

You...In the Eyes of the Beholder

Dear Abby:

Stop Complaining, Count Your Blessings

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman. He is young, handsome, warm-hearted and understanding. He is constantly being called upon to help poor frustrated women work out marital problems.

My problem: How do I handle love-starved women who transfer their affections to my husband? Women who feel that he can fill the need in their lives for affection and understanding. He never visits women in their homes unless their husbands are present. But some women stop him on the street, come to his office and even to his home. Everywhere I go, I hear how "lucky" I am to be married to such a wonderful man. What can I do?

PARSON'S WIFE

Abby

DEAR WIFE: Are you bragging or complaining? I once knew a clergyman who was all the things your husband was. Many women attempted to transfer their affections to him, but he was a past master at rerouting them. He told them in his most ministerial tone that they should emulate Benjamin Franklin, and go fly a kite.

DEAR ABBY: I dialed a wrong number by mistake and this man who answered had such a nice, friendly voice I talked to him for about an hour. He said he was 33 and not married. He also told me lots of other interesting things about himself. He's been in the service and has been practically all over the world. Toward the end he even got a little romantic and said he would like to meet me in person. I am only 17 but I look much older. I didn't give him my telephone number but I told him my name. He gave me his phone number and his first name, but not his last. Should I call him? I would really like to meet him.

"TELEPHONE SWEETHEART"

DEAR SWEETHEART: This man sounds as though he would make a lovely stranger. Keep it that way. Anonymous telephone trysts are shabby and dangerous. Unless you want to live shabbily and dangerously, forget you ever heard his voice.

DEAR ABBY: Why does my wife always take the kids' side against me? I told our older boy he couldn't have the car because he failed two subjects. The very next day my wife gave him permission to take the car. She said she wanted him to do some "errands" for her, but he kept the car all day and didn't get back with it until midnight.

This morning I told our 16-year-old daughter she could not go to her girl friend's slumber party because at the last one the police were called to pull the boys off the side of the house. Well, my wife told her she could go!

It looks like my wife is trying to cut me down in front of the kids just to be ugly. I would like your opinion on this.

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: No wonder so many children are confused about what's "right" and what's "wrong." Parents should NEVER fight in front of their children, even if one must give in knowing he's right. It's the responsibility of parents to make the "rules" for their children to follow, and to support each other in enforcing those rules. You and your wife need to iron out your own differences. She is probably punishing you for something that has nothing to do with the children.

DEAR ABBY: Is it still "in style" for a young man to ask the father of a young lady for her hand in marriage, or isn't that done any more? Our children, who are 19 and 21, tell us that this is "corny" and we are old-fashioned to expect it. We would like your opinion.

OLD-FASHIONED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: It may be "corny" but there's a kernel of good manners there. It is usually a friendly visit in which the young man tells the girl's father how he intends to provide for her. It's only a formality, however. When a fellow asks for a lady's "hand," he usually has both feet in the door.

OF the many questions constantly put to me by both readers of this column and ladies of my intimate acquaintance, the most persistent is probably: "How should I dress to compensate for excess?"

That is to say, what precautions — and positive steps — should a woman take in outfitting herself if she is (in purely relative terms, of course), either too thin or too heavy, too short or too tall?

As it turns out, by metabolic whim or glandular dictate, such extremes are more often compounded than isolated. And fortunately, such paired problems (however different in nature each may be) often permit of singular satisfying solutions. (Consider, for example, the lass who is both overly tall and overly slim.

Now this gal should set her sights on horizontal lines — because: 1. They help break up the vertical, lengthening flow of fabric and, hence, "shorten" the figure; and 2. at the same time they add fullness to the form.

Next, she should develop a preference for bulkier, perhaps more intricately knitted or woven fabrics — which again add "visual weight" and help interrupt the eye's rapid meandering from toe to top and back.

She'll also favor contrasting colors, preferably in horizontally-worked stripes or tiers and can well afford to avail herself of bold dramatic designs and prints — for the same purpose as stated above: to arrest the vertically-moving eye. Insofar as her accessories are concerned, they should be somewhat larger than average for obvious reasons.

Now how about the woman who is too short or too heavy — or both? Again, we find similar solutions for different problems — and here the solutions are just about the opposite of those suggested for her sister counseled above.

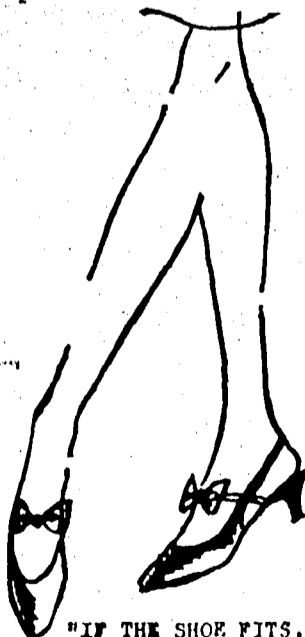

Vertical lines should be this woman's goal — to give her a trimmer, more elongated visual appearance. The fabrics she selects should be smooth of texture and the simpler in design the better — monochromatic, preferably, without eye-stopping contrast between shoulder and knee.

She can, however, add color interest by means of a scarf or piece of brightly enamelled jewelry. Her accessories, though, should be simple, conservative, and normal in size — never too dainty or too petite, which would only defeat the purpose by "under-exaggeration."

And that's the long and short of it for now.

FASHION MIRROR

Setting the pace in the foot relay race — before the baton is passed on to summer sandals — are such airy opened-up shoes

"IF THE SHOE FITS,

as slit-vamps, tie-fronts, button-straps, T-straps, sling-backs, open-backs. Mary Janes, and mules; in suede and patent and reptile, kid, and calf and in printed linen and uncolored straw; in black, beige, taupe, and bone and quite a bit of white; frequently two-toned, with heel and toe offering contrast to vamp and/or strap, or front not matching the back.

I have no drastic objections to such fleshy exposure — save in cases where blotches, bruises, and bunions are revealed and slippery backs go bump in the night. What I do take issue with, however, are the fat, squat, lowly heels and too-cute roundish toes which often tag along for the breezy ride. Make the toes more streamlined, whittle away, curve, and heighten the heels a bit, and I'll be pleased and appeased.

FASHION TIP

A full-length mirror is one of a woman's most important — and least appreciated — friends. Because, dear hearts, it tells the truth. You should no sooner consider buying an outfit without first having looked yourself over in it — in a true full-length mirror — than you would think of seeing a Doris Day movie without Rock Hudson in it. And not only outfits, but hats and shoes as well — for they must be proportionate to the full rise of your figure and form. And — now hear this — handbags, too, for even the length of the handle relates to the "total you."

BEWITCHED . . . Dick York is generally the fall guy for either his wife or mother-in-law in the hit series "Bewitched." Here York demonstrates the way to treat a witch — with love. Particularly if she's Elizabeth Montgomery, the co-star on the Thursday show.

Experts Guessed Wrong

'Bewitched' Keeps Its Top TV Rating

By CHARLES WITBECK

"Dear Darrin: Please send me a picture of you and your witch." This is the kind of mail actor Dick York of the "Bewitched" series receives. He's the fellow who plays husband to Elizabeth Montgomery, the beautiful witch with the puckering lips, who is getting all the attention these days. York doesn't mind being second fiddle — as a father of five kids, he's just glad to be in a hit. And he's rather proud fans believe in the character Darrin Stephens, a man strong enough to handle a bride with such devastating powers.

"Samantha is really trying to be human," says York. "That's part of her charm."

When "Bewitched" leaped to the top of the ratings early last fall, scoffers felt such popularity was only temporary. Weekly magic tricks, they thought, would soon pall and viewers would lose interest in the loving witch and her normal husband.

BUT THE cynics guessed wrong. In New York, for instance, viewers are considered sophisticated, yet the series has a huge following every Thursday.

"This surprises me," says York. "I thought we might catch the teenagers and young couples, but I didn't expect to snare the city slickers. They seem to love being taken in week after week."

Right now plans for next year are hatching. York was ruminating on what avenues the Stephens couple could travel. "There's the thought we should have a child," he says, "or perhaps twins with one inheriting her mother's witching skills."

"I like the idea," Dick continued. "Can you hear me as the proud father saying, 'Will your daughter stop turning my son into a toad?'"

Could a man handle a wife who is a witch?

"I think a man would like to try," answers York. "Life would never be boring. And the children would always be amused by their mother's talents."

MOST OF Samantha's tricks are done by wires coated with invisible paint, and they're impossible to see on film. The "Bewitched" special effects men have been remarkably successful in making objects look as if they're flying in space.

"Sometimes we have mishaps," says York. "In one scene, a tray, filled with sandwiches and rigged by wires, was supposed to pass between Samantha and her moth-

QUESTION — A girlfriend of mine said she saw one of Johnny Carson's sons on a recent "Tonight Show." I thought Johnny Carson was dead set against having his children go into show business. At least, that's the impression I got from an article I read a long time ago. — Mrs. G. F., Guilford, Conn.

ANSWER — Rick, one of Johnny Carson's sons, decided he liked singing and got a chance to try his hand at it on his dad's show. Although Johnny admitted he wouldn't push any of his children into show business, he isn't dead set against it.

QUESTION — I recently saw "The Grapes of Wrath" on TV and I was wondering if the actress who played the mother in the film is the same one who played the "bird woman" in the film "Mary Poppins." — L. C. B., Quakertown, Pa.

ANSWER — Jane Darwell, who won a Best Supporting Actress Oscar for her performance in "The Grapes of Wrath," was seen as the "bird lady" in Walt Disney's award-winning film "Mary Poppins."

Art Festival Feature

Freud Subject of Film

A study of Dr. Sigmund Freud, the Austrian physician and psychoanalyst, is presented in AN EVENING WITH DR. SIGMUND FREUD, booked as an Art Film Festival feature Tuesday only

Comic Cop Returns To Sky Vu

Peter Sellers appears again in the comedy role of police Inspector Jacques Closeau in A SHOT IN THE DARK at the Sky Vu Theatre through Tuesday. Sellers is called upon to solve a series of murders in which the prime suspect is a blonde French maid, played by Elke Sommer whose charms obviously distract the inspector. The chase leads through a French mansion owned by George Sanders, a nudist colony and a variety of Parisian night spots.

Turkey, Greece and Paris provide locales for TOPKAPI, a comedy about international jewel thieves playing Wednesday through Friday at the Sky Vu.

Melina Mercouri, Peter Ustinov and Maximilian Schell are starred in the story about a hilarious upside-down robbery of a sultan's jeweled dagger from Topkapi Palace.

Two suspense films are billed as a Saturday double-feature at the Sky Vu.

LADY IN A CAGE stars Olivia de Havilland in the story about a rich woman who becomes trapped in an elevator at her home. At first she experiences only discomfort and frustration. Then her home is invaded by a drunk, a prostitute and three teen-age hoodlums, all of whom want to burglarize the home. The climax is reached in an atmosphere charged with violence and murder.

The other feature, VERTIGO, concerns the involvement of a retired detective, James Stewart, in the affairs of an old school matron who talks him into believing his beautiful but neurotic wife (Kim Novak) is contemplating suicide. Complications arise when Stewart falls in love with Miss Novak whose mysterious behavior leads him into a number of strange predicaments.

at the State Theatre.

Recommended for adults only, the John Huston production stars Montgomery Clift in the role of the man credited with the first deep probing of the recesses of the human mind. Susannah York is cast as the personification of several of the controversial doctor's most famous cases. Susan Kohner appears as his wife and Larry Parks is a fellow physician associated with him during the crucial years of his career.

Hardships endured by a band of Cheyenne Indians on a 1,500-mile trek to their homeland are recounted in CHEYENNE AUTUMN, opening Wednesday at the State. More than a dozen stars, including Richard Widmark, Carroll Baker, Karl Malden and Sal Mineo are featured in the story set in 1878 when the group of Cheyennes who had surrendered to U.S. government forces slipped away from the Oklahoma reservation on which they were being held.

Heading north toward their homelands in Wyoming they were pursued by more than 10,000 soldiers on a flight through bitter winter weather before reaching their destination. Among those in the cast are Ricardo Montalban, Dolores Del Rio, Gilbert Roland, Arthur Kennedy, James Stewart and Edward G. Robinson.

AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW will be seen at 1:15 and 3 p.m. matinees Sunday only.

Featured through Monday at the State is THE TRUTH ABOUT SPRING. Hayley Mills is starred as the daughter of a Caribbean fishing boat skipper who comes on a Spanish treasure trove and then finds himself involved with a group of cut-throats also out after the same treasure.

'Agent 007' In Twin Bill

The late Ian Fleming's adventure figure James Bond — Agent 007 — as portrayed by Sean Connery will be seen in both features of a twin bill Wednesday through Saturday at the Winona Theatre when he appears in DR. NO and FROM RUSSIA WITH LOVE.

"Dr. No." is about a megalomaniac scientist who has discovered a way to blow the earth out of the universe with Joseph Wiseman starring in the title role and Ursula Andress supplies the female interest.

"From Russia With Love" is about an infamous Red plot to lure Bond to his destruction, using the beautiful and shapely Daniela Bianchi as the lure.

AGENT 007 . . . Sean Connery and Ursula Andress star in "Dr. No," part of a double-feature coming to the Winona.

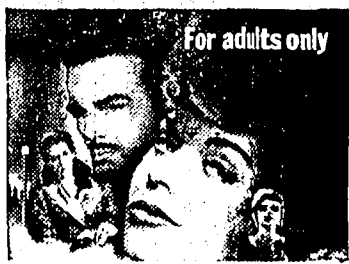

The British musical group known as Gerry and the Pacemakers are featured in FERRY CROSS THE MERSEY showing through Tuesday at the Winona. Seven songs written especially for the first film featuring the Pacemakers are featured. All are compositions of Pacemakers leader Gerry Marsden.

Also on the same program is a DAVE CLARK 5 short.

Culture From England in Arizona

"Shakespeare on the Desert" started with a dream in the spring of 1961.

Paul Emerson, of Tucson, Ariz., former producer for the Columbia Broadcasting System, decided one day that Tucson needed more culture — particularly of the Shakespearean variety.

But he told his wife, Margo, that just any Shakespeare group wouldn't do.

"I wanted the best and I knew in order to obtain it I would have to get British actors," Emerson recalls.

Then began lengthy negotiations with the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, one of the greatest schools for actors in the world, which has produced the likes of Peter O'Toole and Albert Finney.

AND EMERSON and his wife started talking to Tucson merchants, doctors, lawyers and retired residents to get the necessary backing. When these people discovered the Emersons were serious they gave them the hand they needed.

So this year, for the second straight season, 25 members of the Academy came to Arizona to present two Shakespearean plays — "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Tempest" — at Tucson and Phoenix.

"It costs us about $60,000 a year to bring the group over, but it's worth it," says Emerson. "This year the crowds were even better than last year."

After he obtained the necessary backing for the first venture last year, Emerson toured 80 per cent of the schools in the state, talking educators into bringing their students to the performances. They, too, responded.

"WE FELT if we could start ninth grade students seeing our plays, we would have regular customers by the time they got out of high school, said Emerson.

He now devotes full time to the three-week series. A corporation has been formed, called "International Shakespeare Festival of Arizona."

His wife stays at home with their two children, but occupies herself with ticket sales, correspondence, brochures and other things Emerson does not have time to handle.

Members of the British group are enthusiastic. Director John Fernald says he hopes his group can perform in other American cities in the future.

William Ellis and Helen

BRITISH ROMEO IN WEST . . . William Ellis and Helen Bourne, left rear, play Romeo and Juliet in the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art troupe which appears in Tucson, Ariz. They and their director, John Fernald, seated right, get together with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emerson who had the idea for "Shakespeare on the Desert."

Bourne, stars of this year's Romeo and Juliet," both said that performing Shakespeare before American audiences was a challenge, and that audiences here are more attentive than in England.

"THE AMERICANS are from one extreme to another," Ellis said. "The teenagers talk during a performance and make us wonder if they like it. But once the performance is over they run backstage for autographs."

"The adults sit in silence and when the performance is over they give us a standing ovation. It's hard to define."

Ellis said it was a particular thrill to come to the western United States. He explained it this way:

"Any European who watches the western movies in theaters and television wishes he could be a part of it. A real cowboy is what I mean. And that's how I feel in Tucson."

"It seems strange presenting Shakespeare in the middle of the Wild West."

Romping Up the Nouveau Art Ladder

NICE TRY. By Thomas Baird. Harcourt, Brace, $4.95.

If someone were to write a journalistic indictment of the looney fads that grip the world of contemporary art, together with the almost incredible lobbying in the realm of art politics, the general public wouldn't believe, and the author probably would be swamped with lawsuits.

But there is a safer, much more deadly and far more amusing way of arriving at the same point. The author simply writes a novel full of grotesque satire and farce on this subject. The effect, instead of being controversial, is hilarious. Full of literary heightening, of course, but all the more devastating. This is what Baird has done.

HIS STORY is about a crisis in the guiding committee of an all-powerful something that Baird calls "The Museum of Twentieth Century Art" in Manhattan. Because a pompous billionaire expects to depart for an ambassadorship, his place on the committee has to be filled.

Baird carefully arranges a thoroughly nonsensical sequence of competition around two possible successors. One is a viciously cynical tycoon named Besarion. The other is a newcomer from Sioux City, a feed merchant pushed into esoteric mumbogumbo, named Harry Pickens. Each is manager by the combination art-adviser, image-maker and propagandist, with money-grubbing connections in the art hierarchy.

THE TWO rivals are caught up in the silly business of sponsoring nutty exhibitions, while they and their spouses go through the routines of catching gossip-column notice. Deft in his knowledge of cultural pretense, the author has given the full blast to the states gambit of the gallery circuit.

You may read this novel as fictional amusement, and find it full of acid comments on a whole host of fashionable fallibilities. Or you may enjoy it as a commentary on the absurdities in the frantic pursuit of contemporary art. Either way, it is a brightly venomous concoction.

Tale of Peacetime Military Effective

WHAT BECAME OF GUNNER ASCH by Hans Helmut Kirst. Harper & Row, 275 pages, $4.95.

By JOHN R. BREITLOW

My favorite German author is a delightful and sardonic fellow named Hans Helmut Kirst. I first encountered his works in their native tongue 10 years ago when his first novel was serialized in the "Wiener Bild-Telegraf." Since then my reading knowledge of German has sadly deteriorated while Herr Kirst's writing ability has survived. Fortunately, all his works are available in adequate if uninspired translations.

The English title for Kirst's first novel is THE REVOLT OF GUNNER ASCH, but it is known on the continent by its ethnic and more meaningful original: 08/15. This is a Wehrmacht term which has no exact English equivalent, but refers to a combination of GI and SNAFU. What became known as the "08/15 Trilogy" were three novels tracing the wartime experiences of a charming chap named Herbert Asch who combined the better qualities of Horatio Alger and Beetle Bailey to survive the war, serve his country creditably but not fanatically, and share the category seemingly applied to every aspiring young American politician of the past two decades," he went in a private and came out a captain.

FOLLOWING THE 08/15 Trilogy, Kirst produced a pair of searching novelettes critical of the German military system with overtones of mystery to them. THE NIGHT OF THE GENERALS, one of this pair, was examined favorably in these columns last year. His latest novel poses a question that has probably been in many minds over the past decade (most of them in Europe): WHAT BECAME OF GUNNER ASCH?

The question mark following the title is mine, not the publishers. The book's title seems intended to be declarative rather than rhetorically interrogative. Perhaps the translator wanted to avoid any comparison with WHATEV-ER BECAME OF BABY JANE? and I can't blame him.

At any rate, what became of Gunner Asch is that he now operates a popular hotel and cafe in a West German town adjoining a garrison of the new German Army — the Bundeswehr — and an airfield quartering a unit of whatever the Luftwaffe is now called. This now prosperous in-keeper, genial host, and substantial citizen, is also mayor of the town. In all his callings, Asch is respected and apparently successful.

While the plot of WHAT BECAME OF GUNNER ASCH definitely involves this affable in-keeper-diplomat, the book is not really about Herbert Asch but rather about two other men in particular and the Bundeswehr in general. The two main characters are Grenadier Martin Recht and Captain Klaus Ehlers, a local squadron commander. They are not, as their ranks might suggest, opposed but are rather co-belligerents against a system that Hans Helmut Kirst does not approve.

Both are well-meaning and good men. Recht has no business in the Army at all, which is puzzling since everyone in the Bundeswehr must be a volunteer. A sergeant with distinctly SS and Junkers tendencies is forever on his back. Klaus Ehlers, on the other hand, is a perfect Air Force type — a superb flyer and an understanding leader with a whimsical disdain for regardless regimentation. Both come to grief.

WHAT BECAME OF GUNNER ASCH is, by the author's own admission, a protest against the system. As such it is ineffective and inconclusive. As an understanding tale of the peacetime military whether in Germany or anywhere — it is quite enjoyable and often perceptive. Kirst has always shown great sympathy for his characters. The reader may not always know the characters, but it is certain their creator does.

MOST INTERESTING of these people is Corporal Karl Kamnitzer, a supporting character but a real wheeler-dealer. Kamnitzer is obvious in some spiritual kin of M Sgt. Ernie Bilko. The corporal's methods are often similar but his motives are higher. He is an intelligent, humanitarian con man who could be developed into the hero of another 08/15 trilogy. Those who knew Herbert Asch when he stood in ranks will easily recognize his spiritual heir, updated, under a different system, but still determined to live his own life and be his own man regardless of his uniform.

In the last analysis, Herbert Asch became the useful, successful citizen that his character potential indicated. If his creator does not lose his touch (and there is no evidence that H. H. Kirst is in any such jeopardy), 20 years from now we can expect to see Karl Kamnitzer operating a chain of luxury motels from Ostend to Oberammergau, serving in a minor cabinet post in the government, and helping the troops whenever his can.

CONTEST RULES

1. Solve the PRIZEWORDS puzzle by filling in the missing letters to make the words that you think best fit the clues. To do this read each clue carefully, for you must think them out and give each word its true meaning.
2. You may submit as many entries as you wish on the official entry blank printed in this paper but no more than one exact-sized, hand-drawn facsimile of the diagram. NO MECHANICALLY PRODUCED (printed, mimeographed, etc.) copies of the diagram will be accepted.
3. Anyone is eligible to enter PRIZEWORDS except employees (and members of their families) of the Sunday News.
4. To submit an entry, the contestant must attach the completed puzzle on a 4-cent POSTAL CARD and mail it. The postal card must be postmarked before MIDNIGHT TUESDAY following publication of the puzzle.
5. Entries with insufficient postage will be disqualified.
6. All entries must be mailed and bear a postmark. Entries not attached on a postal card will not be eligible. This newspaper is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail. Entries not received for judging by 4 p.m. Wednesday following the date of publication of the puzzle are not eligible. Do not enclose entries in an envelope.
7. The Sunday News will award $50 to the contestant who sends in an all-correct solution. If more than one all-correct solution is received the prize money will be shared equally. If no all-correct solution is received $10 will be added to the following week's PRIZEWORDS AWARD.
8. There is only one correct solution to each PRIZEWORDS puzzle and only the correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries become the property of the Sunday News. Only one prize will be awarded to a family unit.
9. Everyone has the same opportunity to win, for EVERY ENTRY WILL BE CHECKED and the winners announced. No claiming of a prize is necessary.

A compliment for Winona's flood-fighting efforts accompanied the entry of one last week's puzzle players from Rochester.

Ethel Lynch wrote at the bottom of her card, "Bought several of your papers to see the picture of my brother Elmer Hedeon who caught the large trout, so I wanted to enter your contest. Like your paper. Winona put up a good fight with the high water..."

Mrs. Lynch, unfortunately, wasn't as lucky as her brother as far as catching a Prize-words award was concerned but neither were any of the other entrants in last week's game. So the prize of $240 offered last Sunday remains in the jackpot and today we add the usual $10 that goes in every week there isn't a winner.

THAT means that if you're the only one to send in a perfect entry this week a check for $250 will be on its way to you by week's end.

Mrs. Gertrude Marsolek, Independence, Wis., wins last week's honorable mention for a card that was marred by only one mistake. Mrs. Marsolek would have claimed the $240 prize if she'd selected FADS, rather than FANS, for her answer to the clue for No. 6 down.

AMONG those who came within three letters of putting in a bid for the prize were Mrs. Emil Dorn, Arcadia, Wis.; Agnes Stephans, Minneiska, Minn.; Ken Hoenk, 567 W. Broadway; Mrs. Clarence Olson, 409½ E. 3rd St.; Helen Hooper, 327 Winona St.; and Albert J. Rohn, Arcadia.

Remember that that $250 prize is waiting for one person to solve all of today's puzzle clues.

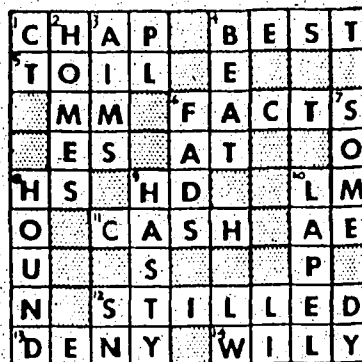

If there are two or more winners the prize money will be divided equally but if there isn't a winner this week the prize will be increased to $260 next Sunday.

Our contest judges have asked that we remind all of you again about the rule that specifies that entries must be attached to postcards with four cents postage.

They say that there have been an increasing number of entries, again, coming in in envelopes. All puzzle entries received in envelopes must be disregarded.

Be sure, too, that your entry bears a postmark of not later than midnight Tuesday.

Last Week's Correct Prizewords Solution

ACROSS:

1. A careless CHAP often gives away important information in wartime (Chat). — The restraint of often is better with CHAP; he might be careless without being talkative. A careless Chat more frequently than often is detrimental in wartime. All sorts of information is of value to the enemy.
4. A certain amount of rain is usually necessary for BEST crops (Beet). — BEST is better here; it applies to all crops. Beet crops could be produced with irrigation.
5. As a rule, the more stubborn a man the more likely opposition is to make him TOIL (Boil). — Boil is less to the point; he need not be quick-tempered. That it's likely to make him TOIL to prove his point is more in character.
6. We're often apt to regret it when we judge people merely by FACTS (Faces). — Often and apt are too restrained with Faces. FACTS is more likely, exceptions being when the FACTS are not presented in true perspective.
11. The fact that it published a libellous report is likely to cost a publication CASH (Case). — Not Case; the matter need not even reach the courts. CASH is more reasonable; exception: when a printed retraction satisfies the party libeled.
12. It often appears that we were being discussed when a group's conversation becomes STILLED by our joining it (Stilted). — Stilted is less to the point here; there might be many other reasons for conversation to become stiff. It's much more likely we were the subject when the conversation is STILLED, ceases.
13. Our friends are apt to ridicule our attempts to DENY our weaknesses (Defy). — They might well encourage us to Defy our weaknesses. DENY is better; we try to prove they don't exist.
14. Parents often have quite a problem with children who are WILY (Wild). — Often understates with Wild. It fits better with WILY; though WILY, crafty, parents may well be able to handle them.

DOWN:

2. A nation's development often depends largely on its people's HOMES (Hopes). — Hopes of itself signifies very little; they could hope and do nothing about it. But when their HOMES are satisfactory, they are likely to progress.

3. A cynic might well say that snobbish AIMS are rarely justified (Airs). — AIMS makes a more-to-the-point statement here. Snobbish Airs might be justified, if only to ridicule snobbishness in others!

4. We often tend to say unkind things about a man simply because we can't BEAT him (Bear). — When we can't Bear a man we more frequently than often tend to say unkind things about him. BEAT is better with the restraint of the clue. We don't necessarily dislike him. It's just that we're outclassed by him!

6. Probably most of us think that song group FADS are somewhat ridiculous (Fans). — Most of us beyond 'teen-age probably think the FADS somewhat ridiculous — long hair, etc. Fans isn't so apt — we might recall our own young days!

7. It's often hard to console a person who feels that SOME responsibility for a bad accident rests on him (Sole). — With Sole, stronger words than often hard are required. SOME doesn't go nearly so far.

8. It's often hard for a person who isn't HOUND to realize how difficult things can be for such a person (Sound). — A person who isn't Sound, who is in ill-health, often is able to appreciate others' troubles. The person who isn't a HOUND, a worthless type, usually has no conception of what a miserable life the man leads.

9. Good advice might well benefit a youngster who is HASTY (Nasty). — It's open to question whether a youngster who is Nasty would benefit by good advice — he needs discipline. A youngster who is HASTY might listen, heed, and act accordingly.

10. A wrinkled LAPEL often gives a bad impression (Label). — Surely we think very little about it when we come across a wrinkled Label. LAPEL is clearly better here; it's a mark of untidy dress.

YOUTH AHEAD

By Bonnie and Reba Churchill

HANDS up for a beauty inspection! Petal soft skin and tapering nails are within the glamour range of even nail biters! Instead of stubby, well-chewed "digits," which give away this nervous habit, treat yourself to an oil manicure. Submerging fingers in warm oil makes nails more flexible, hence harder to bite or break. As CBS-TV actress Carol Byron illustrates, wearing polish also signals "hands off" to chronic nibblers.

IF SKIN is freckled or stained, minimize discoloration with a mild bleach of lemon juice. Apply liquid to hands, allowing it to remain at least four minutes. However, since citrus is often drying, rinse then follow-through with an application of oil or lotion.

FOR THOSE self-conscious about spots on hands, cover-up with a cake type make-up base. Select a shade between the color of the skin and the sun dots. To keep make-up smear-free, powder then buff area with a clean piece of cheese-cloth or cotton.

Teen Front

Paul Tushner

The student director of the Cotter High School band is Paul Tushner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Tushner, 1721 W. Mark St.

Paul also is a member of the Pep Band, Cotter debate team, Science Club, National Honor Society and National Latin Honor Society.

English is his favorite subject and he considers attendance at the state Catholic high school basketball tournament one of his most memorable experiences at Cotter.

Paul plans to attend St. Mary's College where he'll major in physics.

His hobbies are listening to music, water skiing and reading and he's a member of Teen-Age Republicans.

Last summer he attended a six-week National Science Foundation institute in science and mathematics at the University of Kansas.

Paul is a member of St. John's Church where he's a Mass server and commentator.

Gaylen Meier

Gaylen Meier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Meier, 1129 W. Mark St., a senior at Cotter High School, served as class treasurer her freshman and junior years.

She was a Student Council representative as a sophomore and junior and an alternate this year. Gaylen has been an office assistant for two years, is secretary of the Young Democrats Club and a member of Sodality. She considers attendance at a National Latin convention at Bozeman, Mont., in the summer of 1962 as one of her most valuable experiences at Cotter and her favorite subject has been chemistry.

She's a member of the Latin Honor Society and National Honor Society and National Honor Society, plans to enroll at Lawrence College, will major in French and then travel.

Her hobbies are water skiing and sewing, she's a member of St. Mary's parish and says that during her years in high school she's enjoyed working on class projects with other Cotter students.

She spent two weeks last summer touring the Cape Cod area.

Plays Husband to Witch

er, Endora (Agnes Moorehead). But, just as it moved between the ladies something happened and sandwiches flew all over. At least it got a big laugh from the crew.

Actor York is in awe of the special effects men's talents. "Our tricks are becoming more complicated," he says. "The more bizarre the better says the public. We can't let up in the magic department."

However, stunts can lose their initial impact. "Most of the laughs are played off the people," says York. "And some stunts are not worth all the effort put into creating them."

"For instance, in one episode, Endora wished to help out in buying the couple a house. The two women stand in an empty room, and Endora says, 'Wouldn't a chair look nice here,' pointing to an empty space. Immediately a chair appears."

WELL, SHE goes through the house creating furniture and our crew is going crazy running in with chairs, tables and lamps. The idea was to furnish an empty house in a jiffy so a neighbor (Alice Pearce) could enter and do a double take. Then Alice comes on and does the take, but none of this surprised the audience - they were in on the stunt.

Playing husband to a witch is a big change from York's last series role, that of a social service worker in the ill-fated series, "Going My Way," starring Gene Kelly, which happened to be opposite "The Beverly Hillbillies" on Wednesday nights.

"True, we got shot down by the opposition," says York, "but we also had our story problems. Originally I was cast as a Protestant minister who had been boyhood friends with Kelly the priest. Friendly barbs about our youth were supposed to take place."

"I think the producers were afraid to make this comment between two ministers, so I became a social worker. Again, I'm only guessing, but I think Leo McCarey pushed the idea as far as it could go in the pictures 'Going My Way' and 'The Bells of St. Mary's.'"

Now safely ensconced in a solid hit, York can go home to a wife and five kids without worrying about where the next part is going to come from. As husband to a witch, he holds up his end firmly, and he's head man at home.

"With five kids in the house we always have confusion," he says, and he likes it. "But there are times when I'd like to borrow a few tricks from Samantha."

HOW TO CREATE A MOTHER . . .

TAKE several broiled lobster tails, a dustmop, thimble, box of band-aids, several pounds of flour and sugar, a bottle of perfume, two long-stemmed roses, and four days worth of dirty laundry.

ADD a baby, a toddler or two, several pets, many appliances, a diet list, some china figurines, a packet of garden seeds, a long-handled spoon, a friendly neighbor or two, and a rather large basket of clothes to be ironed.

BLEND all together with softness, bits of witchcraft, wicked weather, much laughter, a few tears, some hugging, and baffled looks from father.

SPRINKLE in streaks of orneriness, pride, contentment, courage, a little envy, lots of tease, forgiveness, constancy, understanding, and the inborn urge to move the living room furniture.

MIX with patience, potato salad, yarn from Norway, chocolate fudge, yards of lace, a scrub bucket, some outbursts of temper, and two disgraceful looking sneakers.

POUR into the washing machine, front seat of the automobile, over the ironing board, into a modern math classroom, on top of a rocking chair, with a little smidge left over for every front porch of the block.

ALLOW time to set in front of the television set, at a play, with a book, at the concert, on the back stoop, and in church on Sundays.

BAKE in a beauty parlor, supermarket, sewing class, at the beach, in a labor room, while weeding the garden, cleaning the attic, or in a hot kitchen on a summer day.

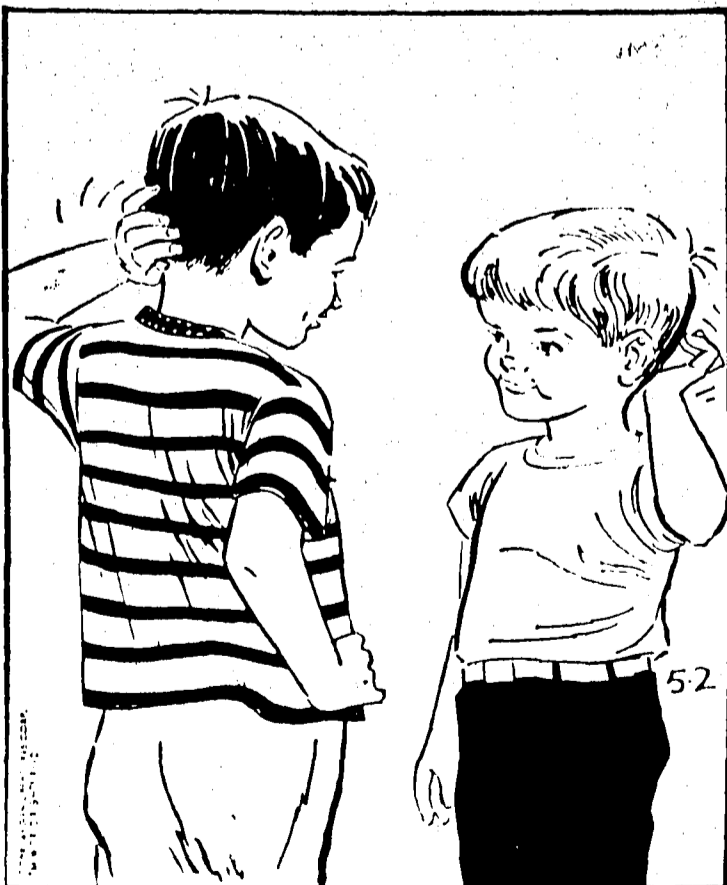

COOL with walks in the springtime, vacations in the silent north woods, Eau de Cologne, a baby's kiss, four quarts of diet-cola, strawberries with cream, bubbly sweet-smelling baths, or frolics in the snow with the youngsters.

CUT INTO PIECES just large enough to be sufficient for a husband, children, grandparents, the local PTA, church women, Girl Scouts, neighborhood coffee groups, Aunt Etta, the political convention, six loyal and steadfast friends, a hobby class, and the town's hospital

AND THERE . . . You've made a MOTHER. Well . . . almost!

SCIENCE FOR YOU BY BOB BROWN

Your Actions Can Influence Others

PROBLEM: The power of suggestion.

NEEDED: Two people.

DO THIS: Don't let the other person know that an experiment is being conducted. Scratch your head with a finger, and chances are the other person will do the same. Cough, and the other person is likely to clear his throat or cough.

HERE'S WHY: The power of suggestion is very strong. We are all subject to it. When the other person sees us scratch, he immediately thinks he needs to do the same. When we cough, we merely suggest it to another person, and he subconsciously acts on the suggestion.

Furniture Talk

By Layern Lawrenz

TESTING FURNITURE may not seem to make as much sense as test-driving a car, but the fact is you can learn a lot about furniture that interests you by "testing" it.

Don't be afraid to sit in a chair or sofa. Make sure its comfortable for you and your build. Different size people adapt better to different size chairs. Push the piece around, if its small enough. You may have to move it in your home.

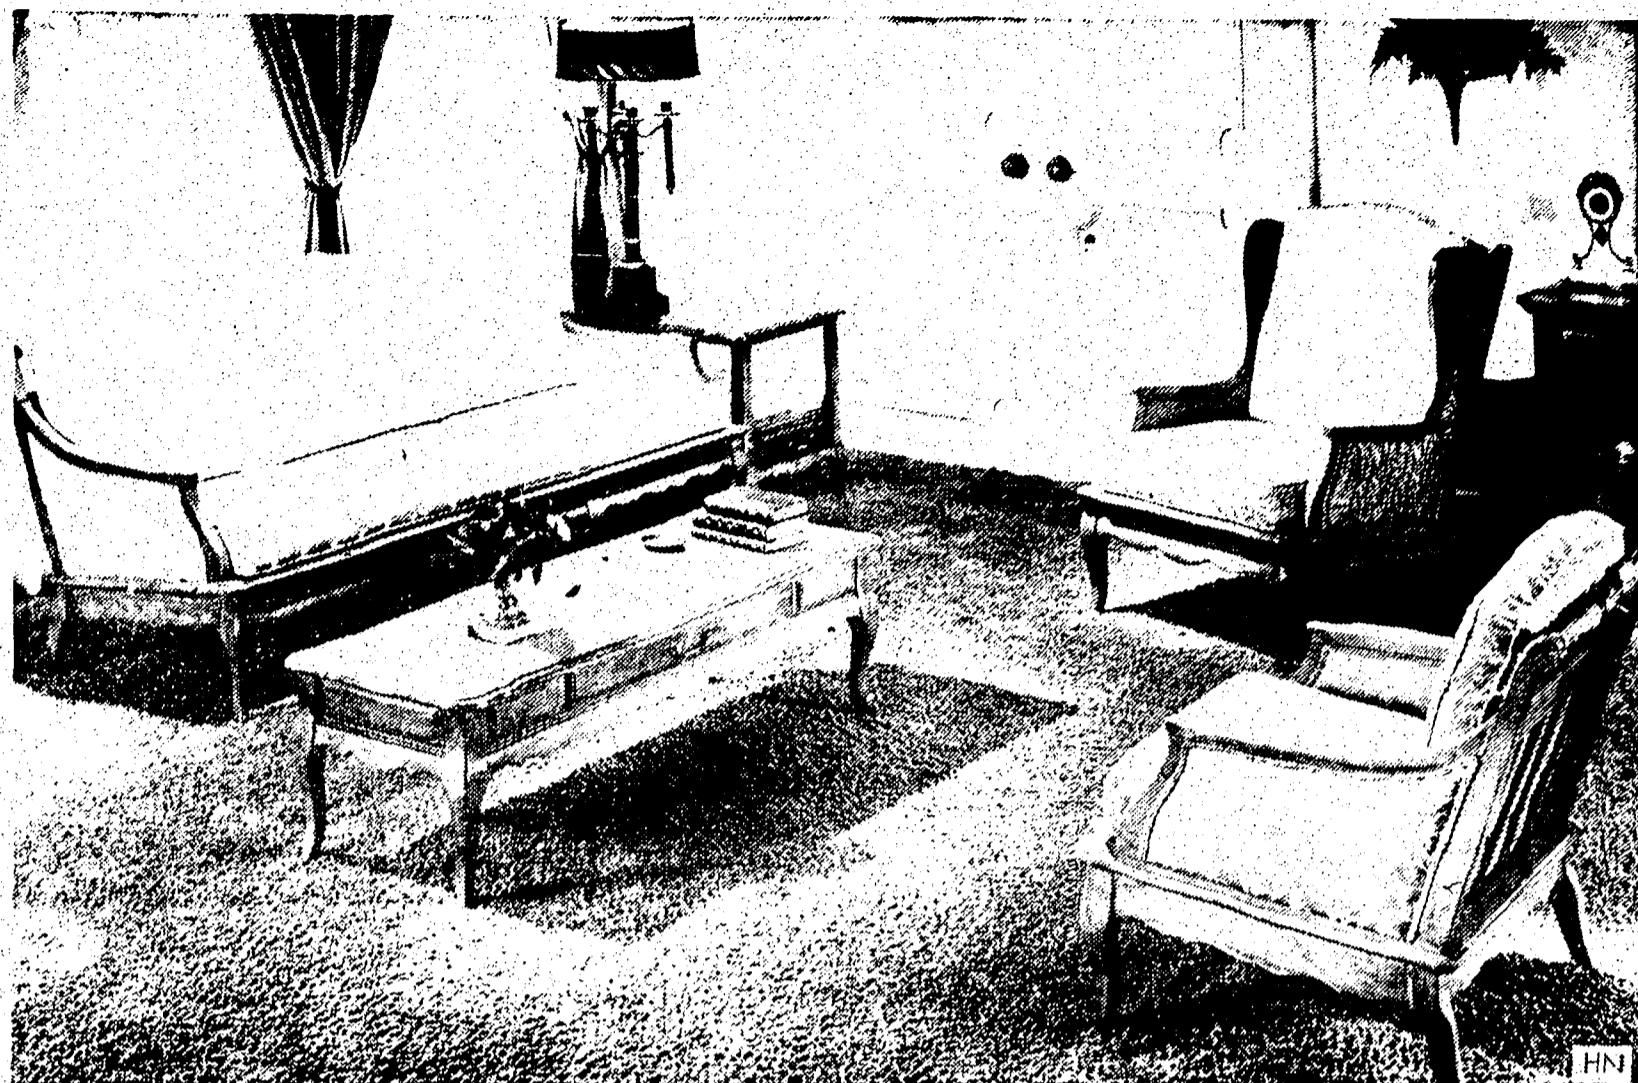

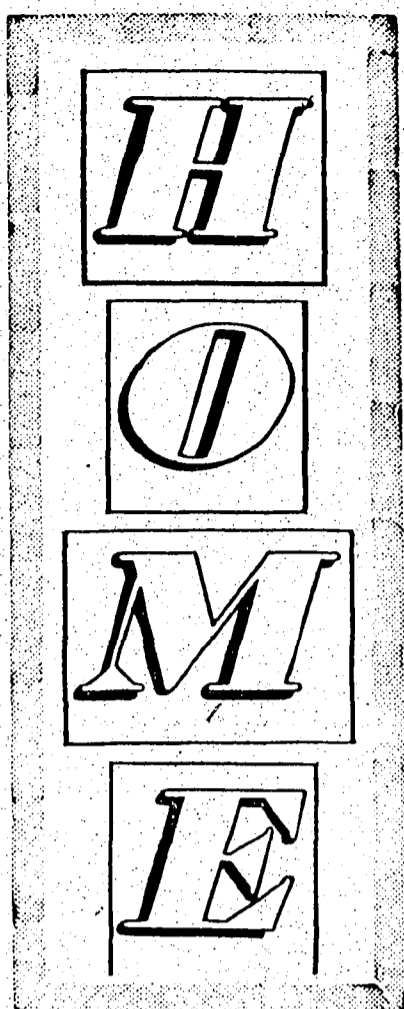

You don't have to be an upholstering expert to examine the tailoring of upholstered pieces. Fabrics should fit neatly and have a carefully tailored appearance. If you're looking at pieces with doors or drawers, open and close them. Drawers should be well made and they should slide easily. Doors shouldn't stick. Wood finishes should be smooth and even. Examine the hardware, too, for quality and good looks.

When you've exhausted what you can think of to inspect, ask questions. Ask about the materials used in upholstered pieces, the dirt-shedding abilities of the fabrics, color choice, and so on.

You'll find us always pleased to answer any of your questions. Finding the answers to your needs in home furnishing is our business. Come in and ask away.

Contemporary Scale, Practical Versatility

French Provincial With a Modern Flavor

For those of you who lean toward French Provincial in furniture styling, the pieces from a new collection seen above radiate its classic charm while combining it deftly with light, contemporary scale and practical-minded versatility. The seating pieces feature comfortable foam cushioning, upholstered side panels and easy-to-clean zipper covers in beautiful fabrics that carry out the provincial mood. The variety of accessory tables is wide and all have the same graceful Gallic lines. Of fruitwood finish they may be combined to fill the needs of any room.

DIGNITY of detail and modern day versatility highlight this cabinet which may be used singly or in a series, side by side, in a library or living room, for example. Highly figured walnut is accented by Carpathian elm burl in discrete inlay bands. The design and style permits it to be combined with more traditional pieces or to keynote a modern blend of colors and textures.

CHARM and service are the offerings of this Louis XVI Provincial table with exciting wood patterns that come from an artful blending of African Teak and Prima Vera veneers. It is finished in either French Antique or white Antique and is available with either Calcutta marble or wood tops.
