Gen. Wessin Changes Mind About Resigning

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin changed his mind Monday night about resigning as a peace overture to the Dominican rebels. The U.S. government apparently hoped the loyalist junta head, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, would talk him into resigning. "The question of Gen. Wessin's resignation is a matter between Gen. Imbert and Gen. Wessin," a U.S. Embassy official said in a statement. "We did understand from official sources that Gen. Wessin was going to resign at 4 p.m. Monday. We now understand that he is reconsidering his decision," the statement said. The United States had pressed for Wessin's retirement as a peace gesture toward the rebels, whose forces he fought with planes and tanks before the arrival of U.S. troops. Many Dominicans held him responsible for the air bombardments of Santo Domingo that took more than 1,000 lives.

Col. Francisco Caamaño Domo, proclaimed provisional president by the rebels, has been demanding that Wessin leave the country. The general commands the San Isidro training base 20 miles from Santo Domingo, one of the country's key military posts, and was a leader of the military revolt that overthrew President Juan Bosch in 1963.

U.S. sources said Wessin sent a letter Sunday to U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. in which he expressed his willingness to resign from the army for the good of the country. The letter was written after he met with Bennett and Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of the 21,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers in the Dominican Republic.

Preliminary estimates placed fruit crop losses at more than $10 million, conservation and state officials said. Hardest hit was the lush apple and peach country of the Northwest where subzero December cold and spring frost all but wiped out the production of many orchards.

The weather's victims included peaches, apricots, cherries, apples, pears and strawberries. Washington State officials said pear and cherry crops had been heavily damaged and the apricot and peach crops ruined. The strawberry crop in the western half of the state was expected to be 50 per cent below last year's yield.

Oregon reported extensive damage to strawberries and cherries in the Hood River, the Dalles, Freewater and La Grande areas.

Utah, where one county has suffered an estimated total of $4 million in fruit loss, has asked President Johnson to declare five counties disaster areas. Most of the damage to peach, apricot, cherry, apple and pear crops came during a cold snap last week.

NATO Leaders Pleading for Understanding

LONDON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson opened the North Atlantic Alliance's annual spring meeting today with a warning to President Charles de Gaulle that military nationalism is a dangerous delusion.

Wilson avoided mentioning the French leader by name. But his target was clear to the foreign ministers from the 15 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The prime minister said the keynote of NATO "must be interdependence" and added:

"Indeed our willingness to accept the implications of interdependence must grow, not diminish, as we work to make the alliance more effective and bring it into line with changing world requirements."

"There is no greater delusion than the feeling we can solve our common problems on the basis of adventures in military nationalism."

Wilson, the leader of a country with nuclear power, asserted that there are only two major nuclear nations in the world — the United States and the Soviet Union. With this he downgraded the nuclear power of France and Communist China as well as Britain's.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, president of the NATO Council, and NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio of Italy joined Wilson in calling for a new dedication to unity within the alliance.

Boy Drowns in Albert Lea Lake

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP) — Michael Scott, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott of Albert Lea, drowned in Fountain Lake Sunday. Firemen said the boy apparently had gone swimming.

Reds Kill 5 Americans in Viet Attack

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong occupied a town of 15,000 persons 74 miles north of Saigon for seven hours today, killing 5 American military advisers and wounding 11 others in one of the heaviest onslaughts of the Vietnamese war.

In another operation, a U.S. Marine was killed and six were wounded when a company of leathernecks shot their way into a complex of Communist-controlled villages near the Da Nang Air Base.

The casualties raised the total of U.S. combat dead in Viet Nam to 372 since December 1961.

The heaviest American casualties were suffered in Song Be, a provincial capital near the Cambodian border. Government forces reoccupied the town under cover of a heavy air attack by U.S. Air Force jets, but the Communists dug in along a river northeast of the town. A major battle appeared to be developing.

Communists groundfire hit one American propeller-driven fighter-bomber in the engine, forcing it to land. An Army helicopter picked up the pilot unhurt 15 minutes later.

"We're really pouring the air on them. We're giving them everything we can lay our hands on," a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

The Vietnamese defenders were believed to have suffered heavy casualties in the attack, which was the first Red seizure of a provincial capital since last fall.

Song Be first came under heavy mortar attack at 1:55 a.m. The Communists followed up at 2:30 a.m. with an infantry assault in regimental strength on the town where about 30 U.S. advisers were stationed with a force of some 1,000 Vietnamese.

During the fighting helicopters were unable to land reinforcements because Red fire in the landing zones was too hot.

NEA Puts Oklahoma on Blacklist

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association blacklisted the State of Oklahoma today.

It warned teachers from out of state not to accept teaching positions in Oklahoma, and said it would establish relocation centers to help Oklahoma teachers find jobs elsewhere.

The NEA imposed national sanctions in protest against alleged "subliminal" conditions in almost every area of the Oklahoma school program.

Ike's Car Looted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Someone has stolen a spare tire, portable radio, emergency oxygen kit, drugs, a box of candy and a .38-caliber revolver from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's car.

Eisenhower's chauffeur, Ruden Brechbill, told police Monday the theft occurred while the general was staying overnight at Walter Reed Army Hospital for a routine examination.

prod of the draft in the back-ground. "The Army is the only one of the services now drawing on the draft and just last Friday the Pentagon ordered the biggest monthly draft call in 20 months — 17,000 men for the Army in June.

The services need about 500,000 men a year to fill the slots left by the turnover of men whose terms of service run out or who retire.

Most men now drafted average 22 years of age. There is discussion of dipping down and drafting youths younger than that, possibly at the minimum age of 18. This might spur youths in those brackets to enlist.

Calculations by the group of 30 specialists, conducting the draft study suggest that the U.S. forces will remain at about the present level — 2.7 million — at least until 1970.

A hefty across-the-board pay increase which might attract and hold a force of career servicemen apparently ranks fairly well down in the list of proposed recommendations because of the cost involved.

At present levels, the Defense Department spends about $12 billion a year in military pay and allowances.

Among the possibilities now being considered is the substitution of civilians for thousands of military men in such jobs as supply clerks, clerical staffers and hospital attendants, among others.

Legislators Get Big Money Bills

ST. PAUL (AP) — The major money committees of the Minnesota Legislature recommended Monday that appropriations totaling $596.9 million be authorized for administration, welfare, corrections and aid to local schools.

The figure proposed for 1965-67 would be about $12 million less than Gov. Karl Rolvaag requested last January. On the other hand, it is about $73.4 million more than was appropriated for the current biennium ending June 30.

Other proposals may be made today. The Senate planned to take up appropriations for welfare and corrections, state departments, highways and semi-state departments. The Senate Finance Committee expects to act on the full education program.

The House likely will pass two major money bills today. The Senate and House differ on the five major money packages, and the differences will be threshed out in conference committee.

These were the major developments Monday:

—The House Appropriations Committee approved a welfare spending program of $172.6 million that includes 600 new positions in the hospitals for the mentally retarded, even more than asked by Gov. Karl Rolvaag.

—The House group okayed a state departments money bill totaling $80.8 million, including a state-paid insurance plan for state employees and pay raises due to cost $13.5 million in the next two years.

—The Senate Finance Committee approved a school aid formula as the final stage in wheeling out its education money bill, with floor action scheduled today on four other appropriations measures.

Here is how the money bills shape up as reported out of the Finance and Appropriations Committees:

Education Bill Starts Moving

ST. PAUL (AP) — A bill calling for expenditure of $498.6 million for education during the next two years was proposed today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The total is $84.1 million more than was appropriated by the 1963 legislature, but $16.2 million less than recommended by Gov. Karl Rolvaag.

Largest single item is the $358.2 million proposed for school aids, an increase of $52.1 million over the 1963 allotment.

These are other allotments proposed: University of Minnesota, $96.6 million, up $20.2 million over two years ago; state colleges, $26.9 million, up $8 million; state junior colleges, $6.6

million, up $2.6 million, and Department of Education, $5.8 million, up $390,937.

The House bill raises salaries for state college presidents to between $17,000 and $21,000. Present salaries are $17,000 at the five schools.

Rep. Richard Fitzsimons, chairman of appropriations, said it was assumed in allocating funds that the state colleges would have to increase tuition rates to bring in more funds locally.

The House bill provides a 6 per cent salary increase for college faculty members the first year of the biennium and 5 per cent the second. At the university, the bill would boost faculty pay 5 per cent each year.

Poll Tax Ban Faces Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders expected to defeat today a drive led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to write a state and local poll-tax ban into the Negro voting-rights bill.

Kennedy's amendment has divided supporters of the legislation and kept the Senate from making much headway since debate on the bill began April 22.

The Massachusetts Democrat claimed Monday at least 42 of the 100 senators would back the amendment.

Administration leaders from President Johnson down have said that a constitutional problem is raised by attempting to outlaw poll taxes as a requirement for voting in state and local elections.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois also has attacked the constitutionality of the amendment, offered by Kennedy and 38 other senators. Civil-rights organizations have strongly urged its adoption.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in Selma, Ala., Monday to push a Negro voting drive, told a news conference that defeat of the anti-poll-tax amendment would be a national tragedy.

Once the poll-tax issue is resolved, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he will try to get an agreement to limit Senate debate on other amendments in an effort to pass the bill by the end of the week.

La Crosse Man Who Lost House Set to Rebuild

LA CROSSE, Wis. (A-E. H. (Boss) Schultz, who lost his house in a fire, is not ready to surrender.

"We've set about making our home a bigger and better place to live in," said Schultz, whose $100,000 showplace house at French Island was swamped at the crest of the flood.

"It was a shame to get murdered at the peak," said Schultz, who had the river whipped until the flood undermined his dykes and water spouted up through his living room floor.

The wealthy beer distributor said Saturday he plans to install steel sheeting underground to prevent water seepage. He has torn out carpeting and tile in his home already in his rebuilding task.

"We couldn't get along with out the river," said Schultz.

Dull Character

Description of a dull character: "He's about as interesting as a peanut butter canope." . . . If women really dressed to please their husbands, they'd be wearing last year's clothes. . . . College, says the cynic, is like a laundry. You get out of it only what you put into it — only sometimes you don't recognize it. . . . Bernard Baruch said it: "We didn't all come over on the same ship, but we're all in the same boat." . . . It's the politician's credo: "If you can't convince them — confuse them."

The Senate bill provides 242 new staff members and the governor recommended 578.

Rolvaag issued a statement praising the House welfare bill for recommending 29 new positions for the Red Wing Training School, where he said the need for improved program "is of critical importance."

The Senate Finance Committee action in approving a school aid formula came on an 8-7 vote after committee chairman Val Imm of Mankato broke a tie.

Sen. Stanley Holmquist of Grove City said the bill would bring school aid costs to $403 million for the next two years, an increase of $53 million over the current biennium.

Both the House and Senate money committees adopted Civil Service recommendations for a four per cent pay boost for the 17,000 state employees. But the House bill goes further by providing $14 a month worth of state-paid insurance and two $9 monthly across-the-board raises in the second year of the biennium.

The House Education Committee rejected, 20-7, a bill to provide school bus transportation for pupils in private and parochial schools. The committee backed a proposal to let the voters decide the issue by voting on a constitutional amendment.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill to repeal the county option liquor law. Under the bill, communities, rather than whole counties, could decide whether they wish to authorize sale of liquor.

The Senate passed and sent to the House bills giving the State Commission Against Discrimination the job of enforcing public accommodation laws and eliminating the section of present law which exempts employers of fewer than eight from the law against job discrimination.

The Senate Commerce Committee approved a bill empowering the state banking commissioner to set the interest rate state banks may pay on deposits. The law now sets the maximum at four per cent, the national banks have been authorized to pay up to four and a half per cent.

Also given preliminary approval by the Senate was a bill to suspend for two years land trades between the state and federal government in the Superior National Forest area in St. Louis, Cook and Lake Counties. Backer of the bill said it would have no effect on the proposed Voyageurs National Park. They said the delay would make possible a thorough study of land exchange policies.

Committee OKs Slate of Regents

ST. PAUL (AP) — A slate of five candidates for the University of Minnesota Board of Regents was endorsed today by the House University Committee.

Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, chairman of the board and a regent since 1951, failed to win endorsement for re-election.

Gerald Heaney of Duluth, Mrs. C. E. Howard of Excelsior and Lester Malkerson of Minneapolis were endorsed for new terms.

New names on the list are those of Robert Johnson, William attorney, and Albert V. Hartl of Fergus Falls, president of Otter Tail Power Co.

It is expected Dr. Mayo's name will be submitted to the Senate Education Committee meeting.

DEAR ABBY:

No Right to Pick Husband's Pockets

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am just an average housewife. My husband works steady and we get along about as well as any other married couple. We have a fight about once a week. I run my house, raise my children and do not have an outside job, so I have to depend on my husband for every dollar I get. He is the stingiest man in creation. He thinks all the kids and I need are clothes on our backs, shoes on our feet and food on the table. He never gives me an extra penny. He is my husband and he is supposed to support me. Right? So where am I supposed to get money if not from him? Now for my problem: For years I have been taking loose change or a dollar or two out of his pants pocket while he's sleeping. I think I am entitled to it, so would you consider this stealing?

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: Whether you are "entitled" to it or not, taking something without the owner's permission is "stealing." Every wife should get an allowance, no matter how small. But you have no more right to pick your husband's pockets than he has to pick your purse.

DEAR ABBY: Everyone has heard of problem children, but you don't hear much about problem mothers. Well, I have one. Mom and I have always been very close and I've always told her everything. I am 18 and a freshman in college, but you'd think I was four years old the way my mother treats me. I know she means well, but I wish she would quit trying to "help" me with my love life. I had a little misunderstanding with a young man who was getting interested in me and my mother called him up and tried to "straighten it out." I was so embarrassed I nearly died. He never called me after that and I don't blame him. Another time my mother called a young man's mother and told her that if her son would ask me to the Charity Ball she was sure I'd accept. Naturally, he never called. I know Mom loves me but she's doing more harm than good. What does a girl do with a mother like that?

MOTHER TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Tell your mother more emphatically please to resist trying to live your life. And if that doesn't work, tell her less.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wife and four daughters and with all the yelling, squealing and arguing, the place is like a madhouse. I can't get into the bathroom because one of them is always in there doing her hair, taking a bath or painting her face on. Every time I sit down I sit on rollers or curlers. And I can choke from the hair spray. How does a father manage to live through something like this? And if a father is lucky enough to get his daughter married off, I hear the girl's father has to put on the wedding. Aren't there any advantages to having girls?

FATHER OF GIRLS

DEAR FATHER: Yes. Someone once said: "A son is a son till he takes a wife... but a daughter's a daughter all her life."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LITTLE NELL": "Morality is moral only when it is voluntary."

Council OKs Borrowing $1 Million for Flood

Without fanfare and with minimum discussion, the City Council quietly made history Monday night as it adopted a resolution to borrow a million dollars.

It was the first time such an amount has been borrowed on a straight loan basis, without employment of bonding procedures.

THE CITY will receive the amount from the First National Bank of Minneapolis at the rate of 3 percent annual interest. Term of the note is one year.

Authority for the unprecedented action was contained in a special bill, passed recently by the state legislature, allowing the city to raise up to $2 million by such means for emergency use.

City Attorney George M. Robertson Jr. said bills in the city recorder's office now total more than $1,123,000 but that the million-dollar loan should suffice for the present. Quick action on the city's application for disaster funds has been promised by the federal Office of Emergency Planning, he said, and the interim borrowing probably will tide the city over.

Application forms for a preliminary OEP grant were to be completed today. R. B. Van Dame, OEP natural disaster coordinator, was to be here for conferences with city officials. The preliminary request total has been put at $1,832,434. As soon as OEP endorsement is given, an advance of 75 percent of this sum can be tendered to the city, Robertson noted.

ROBERTSON indicated the first request may be higher than the above figure. It would be well, he advised, to include all possible costs in the application so that the 75 percent advance will be adequate for immediate needs. Supplementary applications, covering such things as sewer and street repairs, can be filed later when damages are fully appraised, he added.

Under terms of the special legislation, the city need not levy the entire indebtedness in its next tax year, Robertson said. The city is required to levy an amount equal to 5 percent interest on the amount, unless the debt has been paid before budgeting time.

Terms of the loan allow the city to retire 1 or part of it at any time prior to the maturity date. Any unpaid balances after maturity can be funded by a bond issue under provisions of the permissive act.

ROBERTSON said the municipal boat harbor on Latsch Island appears to have been damaged but that repairs might not be eligible for federal funding.

Some recreational facilities are excluded, he said, if leased by the municipality to private operators. Clarification of the question was to be requested today by Van Dame.

Council Supports Referendum on Renewal Plans

The City Council reaffirmed its position Monday night that urban renewal proposals should be subject to approval of the electorate.

A letter will be dispatched to City Rep. Frank Theis to this effect.

Rep. Theis had asked the council's opinion of a bill passed last Friday by the House committee on municipal affairs requiring referenda on renewal proposals.

If the bill passes, explained City Attorney George M. Robertson Jr., present powers of councils in cities other than first-class will be reduced in some respects. It would require three published notices of public hearings instead of the single notice now mandatory, Robertson said. The question of whether to proceed on a project would be held either at a special election or at a forthcoming general election.

No vote by the public is now required. The council, under present law, may authorize its local housing and redevelopment authority to proceed with a renewal project after a public hearing is held.

Among the bill's authors is Rep. Alfred Schumann, Eyota, rural Olmsted County, member of the Conservative majority.

Public Schools To Continue Until June 11

Two changes in the public school calendar — one for this spring and the other for the 1965-66 school year — were approved Monday night by the Board of Education.

The first formally extends the current school year from its originally planned closing date of June 3, a Wednesday, to Friday, June 11, to make up days of school lost during the spring flood emergency.

CLASSES will remain in regular session through June 10 and children will return to pick up their report cards on June 11.

The Senior High School graduation date remains the same, Tuesday, June 8, and traditionally there are no regular class sessions scheduled the final week of school in Senior High.

The other calendar change results from the scheduling next fall of conventions of two teachers' organizations, the Winona Education Association and the Winona Federation of Teachers, on successive weekends.

The biennial divisional meeting of the Southeastern Minnesota Education Association will be in Rochester Oct. 14-15 and the following weekend the state convention of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers will be in session in the Twin Cities.

REQUESTS had been made for school closings on both weekends to afford all teachers opportunity to attend conventions of their respective groups.

The board had objected to closing for two two-day periods and Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson proposed what turned out to be an acceptable compromise Monday night.

To be used for next fall only, the plan calls for closing of five schools on Oct. 14-15 while the WEA teachers — who are the majority group — attend their convention in Rochester. Two schools, to be selected, will remain in session those two days and will be staffed by WFT teachers.

The following weekend these two schools will be closed and WEA teachers will fill in for WFT teachers who are attending their convention. The five schools closed the previous week will be in session.

THE BOARD requested the superintendent to notify all teachers that this plan would be followed this fall only — since arrangements for rescheduling conventions could not be made at this date — on grounds that the plan is considered educationally unsound on a continuing basis.

It will be up to the teachers organizations, directors agreed, to get together on the state level to plan their convention sessions in the future in such a way as to require only one school closing period.

Hawaii Changes Divorce Law

HONOLULU (AP) — Circuit Court Judge Samuel P. King granted 13 final decrees of divorce Monday, unaware that a new divorce law had been signed by the governor last Saturday.

"Oops!" said Judge King when he learned the new law was in effect.

Crash Victim 'Satisfactory'

A 41-year-old Winona man was in satisfactory condition today at Community Memorial Hospital, still undergoing tests to determine the extent of his injuries, following a collision between his fuel oil truck and a Milwaukee Road passenger train Monday afternoon at the Garfield Street crossing.

It is not protected by automatic signals.

Conductor J. W. Fredrickson, Minneapolis, told Patrolman Willis H. Wogan that Paul B. (Platt) Plachecki, 419 Vine St., appeared to be either just entering or just backing out of a dirt lane paralleling the railroad tracks as the eastbound train swept into the crossing at 2:40 p.m.

Plachecki may have been looking for an address, railroad observers said.

THE ENGINEER, a man named York from Minneapolis, was unable to stop the train in less than the space of a block and his engine struck the right rear of the small tank truck behind the rear wheels.

Impact hurled the truck from the southbound lane facing south to the northbound lane facing north. The truck landed on its back; and its port and drain valve broke open, bathing the street and Plachecki in fuel oil.

Plachecki was partially thrown from the cab, landing on the pavement just before the cab and hood of his truck rolled down on his left arm and leg. Firemen and policemen arriving on the scene were able to pry the hood section off Plachecki's leg almost immediately. They used a large 4-by-6 plank.

OTHER FIREMEN, meanwhile, were hosing down the street in an attempt to reduce the hazard of a spark turning the street into a sheet of flame. A tow truck called to the scene lifted the cab enough to free Plachecki's arm, and he was rushed by ambulance to the hospital.

While Police Chief James W. McCabe, Fire Chief John L. Steadman and Assistant Police Chief Marvin A. Meier attempted to clear crowds of curious out of danger, three hose companies of firemen worked to remove the fire danger.

Under the direction of Assistant Fire Chief Edward M. Lelwica, firemen laid down a blanket of foam over the spilled oil which coated the street in spite of efforts to hose it all off. The truck was put back on its wheels and towed away without striking a possible ignition spark.

FIREMEN concluded their operations by hosing off the foam. Street department men followed up by coating the street on the south side of the crossing with sand. Oil on the street surface continued to make the area, near the intersection with Mark Street, slippery.

The fire department sent three hose companies, one ladder company, the chief's car and a trailer full of foam.

La Crosse Woman's Body Is Recovered

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The body of a woman who apparently drowned in the Mississippi River at its all-time record crest of 17.7 feet was recovered today.

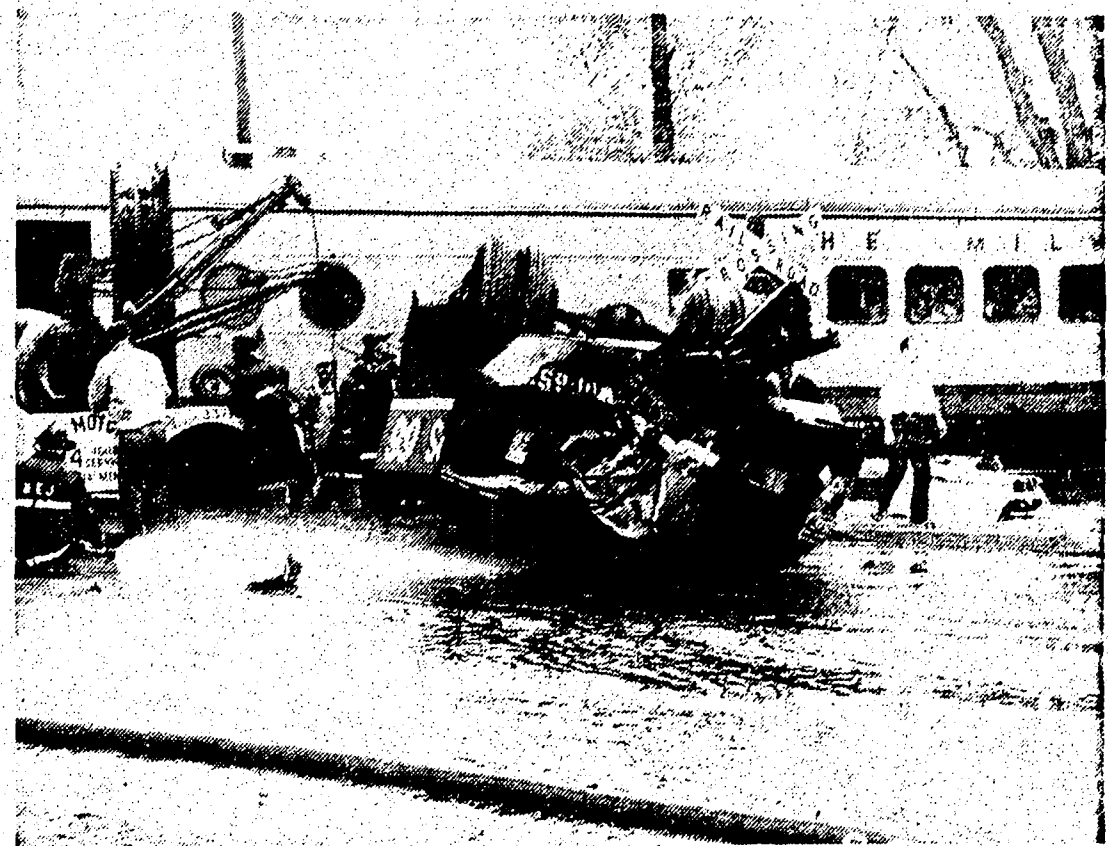

La Crosse police said it matched the description of Mrs. Beulah Mae Sturh, 52, who disappeared April 20.

Couples who are still technically married," he said.

The new law prevents couples with minor children from obtaining final decrees until a year after a divorce is granted.

LEFT ARM PINNED ... An unidentified man, back to camera, studies the situation around Paul B. (Platt) Plachecki, 419 Vine St., following a collision Monday afternoon which pinned Plachecki's left arm beneath the cab of his truck. Minutes later, Plachecki was freed by a tow truck lifting the cab off his arm, and he was rushed to Community Memorial Hospital where he is in satisfactory condition today. (Daily News photo)

FIRE DANGER ... Firemen attempt to hose spilled fuel oil off Garfield Street to reduce the danger of fire engulfing the area while other firemen and workers arrange to lift the cab of the smashed fuel oil truck off its driver Monday about 3 p.m. Train in background struck the truck at its right rear, spinning it completely around and landing it on its back. ## Merchants Post Flood Pictures In Show Windows

Flood workers who were within Daily and Sunday News camera range may find that having been photographed means a gift for them when Winona merchants observe S.O.S. days this weekend.

All participating stores will be posting photographs of flood activity with one individual on that picture being circled. If you are one of these persons, the store in which your picture is displayed will present you with a gift.

Thursday, the first day of the event, has been designated as "Identify Your Face" day; stores participating will be open until 9 p.m. to give everyone an opportunity to seek out his or her face.

Participating merchants noted that many photos being used were not published in the newspaper, so if you were photographed there is a possibility your picture is posted in one of the stores.

La Crescent Plans School Roundup

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — A roundup of children who will attend kindergarten at La Crescent next year will be held at the public school Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Parents having children who will be 5 before Oct. 1 should come for registration. Children don't have to be there but are welcome.

Students attending Lincoln High School this year but coming to La Crescent High this fall are beginning to enroll today at the public grade school directly after returning from school at La Crosse. Because of the large number, students with surnames A-G are coming today; those with last names from H-P Wednesday, and the remainder, Thursday.

Carnival Slated For Park Again

With visible relief, the City Council voted Monday night to permit use of Levee Park as a Steamboat Days carnival midway for the second year.

Dates of the four-day festival sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce are July 8 through 11.

In its request for use of the park, the Chamber asked that any damages to parking lot surfacing or park facilities would be repaired. Adermen observed that all restorations had been made satisfactorily last year.

Location of the carnival in other years had been a sore spot, both to the council and to business operators whose access ways sometimes were blocked when midway occupied downtown streets.

Red Men's Wigwam. A movie will be shown and a buffet lunch will be served.

Fruit-ful story about flavor

There'll be smiles and lip-smacking to spare when you treat your tyke or toddler to a delectable Gerber Fruit. There are 11 strained and 10 junior varieties ... all brimming with luscious, true-to-nature flavor. That's because they're flash-cooked in seconds to preserve the natural flavor-goodness so appealing to little ones. Each has a smooth, nice-to-the-tongue texture, too. # Claim of $523,000 Filed By Contractor for New Dike

Costs of the city's all-out flood-protection fight slowly began to take shape Monday night as the City Council acted on some of its bills.

Five claims, the largest of which was for $523,000, were turned over to the city attorney. A series of vouchers for dike labor was approved for payment and an advance estimate awarded to one contractor.

ALBURN approved a bill of $100,000, submitted by Northwestern Bag Co., Minneapolis. The payment was for 600,575 bags at 13 1/2 cents each. John Carter, city recorder, said it was a partial settlement and that adjustments for returned unused bags are $1111 to be made. A credit of 10 cents is allowed for each bag returned. Officials now estimate that about 60,000 bags are returnable or have been shipped back.

The list of claims was led by the demand of Park Construction Co., Minneapolis, for $523,000. The firm holds a contract for construction of a permanent flood-control system from Dam 5A to bluff Street. The contract was let last October and work was to begin this spring. Included are these items:

- Earth moving, Prairie Island and Crooked Slough—175,000 cubic yards in place; plus 30 percent increase for swell, or 227,500 yards, at $1.60, for a total of $364,000.
- ("Increase for swell" is an engineering factor. The assumption here is that four yards of fresh earth becomes three yards of earth when compacted. The Park Construction figure varies somewhat from OEP team estimates of 144,100 yards in place or, with 30 percent increase for swell, a total of 174,000 yards.)
- Total yards to replace material taken from slopes, 307,000, at $1, or $307,000.
- Cleaning materials off riprap, $25,000.

- Re-cross section survey, $4,000.
- New estimate costs, including attorneys and engineers, $40,000.
- Delay of work and increased wage costs therefrom, $25,000.
- Damages for subcontractor, Winona Plumbing Co., Inc., $35,000.

A NET CLAIM of $8,000 was filed by Glen Acres, Inc., a development company whose property was a major borrow pit site. Items included $6,000 for four hillside lots, "now destroyed and inaccessible," at $1,700 each; $900 for regrading of other lots and sites; $100 for amendment of present plat, and $400 for survey fees. The total is $8,200, but the company's letter offered to settle for $8,000. It was signed by Philip Baumann, secretary-treasurer.

Miller Waste Mills, Inc., asked restoration of material taken from two lots in Block 2, Athletic Board Addition, and two lots in Schroth's Addition, or payment for costs of replacement. No amount was specified.

A claim for $425 in sidewalk and yard damages was lodged by William T. Pehler, 876 E. 2nd St.

No cash amount was listed by Herman Gille, 877 E. Mark St., whose letter informed the council that dike construction had ruined eight wash lines, his rhubarb and asparagus beds, two fences and a garden plot, 130 by 50 feet.

AMONG VOUCHERS approved for payment were those for sandbags on Prairie Island totaling $40,226.63. Some duplications of hours have shown up in cross-checking of these payrolls, a factor which may alter the final total. Such instances are subject to individual examination by personnel of the city recorder's office.

An advance estimate of $2,000 was paid to Fred Fidler, contractor, against a total bill of $39,313.

'Richard III' Termed 'Colorful' and 'Fast'

By GEORGE McCORMICK
Daily News Staff Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Tyrone Guthrie Theatre's "Richard III" is probably one of the most theatrical versions to riot across a stage since Burbage's first playhouse was razed.

Directed by Sir Tyrone, it is colorful, a l w a y s -entertaining and fast-paced — even though its opening night performance Monday took 3 1/2 hours.

THE COMPANY milks every bit of melodrama and pageantry from the play, and it produces a version that would have pleased the groundlings in the days of the first Elizabeth — and probably would have earned the professional respect of Shakespeare himself, who never held a casting satisfying an audience was beneath his dignity.

It all depends on Richard, of course, and Hume Cronyn was more than equal to the responsibility Monday night. His Richard is not an evil monster, but is instead a thoroughly amoral man — a pragmatist who does not enjoy murder for its own sake, but who has no objection to it when it furthers his ends.

Cronyn tended to play Richard for the easy laughs at times
Monday night, but with an audience that was looking for what Hollywood would call a "laff riot," it would have been difficult to do much else.

ONE COULD not help but like Richard despite his villainy, and one could hardly get worked up about the deaths of the paper characters who stood between Richard and the crown.
After all, Shakespeare wrote this play early in his career, when he was still learning his craft. He delineated the character of Richard in detail, but he sketched the others in light pencil strokes only.

Probably for this reason,
when Richard and young Richmond, who was to become Henry VII, fight it out on the field of Bosworth, one finds oneself rooting for the former. Richmond is simply too unbelievable an Upstanding Young Nobleman to be taken seriously.

There were some good performances in supporting roles Monday. Particularly notable were Robert Pastene's conniving Buckingham, Alvah Stanley's ambitious Catesby, Ellen Geer's easily-won Lady Anne and Helen Harrelson's stricken Elizabeth.

SPECIAL mention must be made, too, of Nancy Wickwire, who carried off the role of the half-mad Margaret of Anjou with a theatrical gusto that fell a bit flat only when Richard turned her curse back upon her own head.

To call the play fast-paced really does not do it justice.
Scene follows scene without break, and one fails to notice
the passing of time.

Other things help to hold one's attention: There are some gorgeous ceremonies on stage. The battle on the field of Bosworth is a kaleidoscope of sound and fury. The costumes are magnificent; the properties, even more so.

The Guthrie Theatre production does not bring "Richard III" to life — it is not meant to do so. But it does make full use of what the play offers, and it ends up as very good theater.

Saint Teresa Completes Summer Theater Plans

Plans for the Winona Summer Theater project at the College of Saint Teresa are well on the way, according to John E. Marzocco, director.

The 1965 summer program will emphasize comedy. Marzoc-co said. "Charley's Aunt" by Brandon Thomas — a "never-say-die" frolic of the 1890s will open the season June 24 through 27.

The second production, "Physician in Spite of Himself," by Moliere's farcical romp will open
July 8 and run through July 11.
Final production of Winona

Summer Theater will be a musical comedy spoofing the 1920s,
Sandy Wilson's "The Boy Friend," which will play from July 22 through 26.

THE FIRST meeting of the company was held May 1 in the college theater.

Marzocco said "There are still openings in each of the productions for straight and character actors and actresses from the age of 25 to 50."

Interested persons may call Marzocco at the college. The producing company of the summer theater is made up of theater professionals, college students and other qualified persons.

All three productions will be given in the Teresan auditorium which has recently been air-conditioned.

Tickets will be sold singly for each production or on a subscription basis for all three productions. All seats are reserved.
Tickets will be available by June 14.

Faculty and staff of the Winona Summer Theater program, in addition to Marzocco, include J. Weiland, Eileen Whalen, Robert Larka, Bernard Johansen and Paul Parthun of the College of Saint Teresa; Warren C.
Magnuson, director of drama,
Winona Senior High School, and
James Tiplady, Fontana (Wis.)
High School.

"The College of Saint Teresa has planned the Winona Summer Theater as a community service to Winonans to the neighboring areas, to parents, alumnae, friends and devotees of the theater," said Sister M.
Camille, college president.

"WE BELIEVE that the college and the community are necessary for one another, and we are pleased to share our facilities with the community. Winona has a long and justifiably proud record in theater interest.
We know that the Winona Summer Theater will increase and deepen this interest."

Directors of each production and the company, including guest actors, will be announced later.

Boys Break Windows

Four boys who broke out an undetermined number of windows at Central Junior High School Sunday night escaped when police were called by a neighbor, Chief James M. Mc-Cabe said. Chief McCabe said that Wendell Moore, 252 W.
Broadway, spotted through his window, the youths smashing windows on the west side of the building at 10:43 p.m. He called police, but the squad car which answered the call found that the boys had fled.

Richard Percy, 1421 W. 3rd
St., told Sheriff George L.
Fort Sunday morning that his drifted away from their mooring on the Mississippi River bank near Bay State Milling Co. over the weekend.

Board Names Architect for Tech School

The Winona firm of W-Smith
Architectural & Engineering Services Monday night was retained by the Winona Board of Education to draft plans and specifications for a building to house the Winona Area Vocational-Technical School.

Estimated to cost around $1-350,000, the new school will be erected on a site still to be selected and will be financed by bonds.

A $5.78 million bond issue which also will provide funds for construction of a new Senior High School at the west end of Lake Winona.

MOST OF an extended meeting with W. Wayne Smith and W. W. Ward, partners in the architectural firm, Monday night was devoted to a detailed discussion of contractual agreements. W-Smith will receive the standard fee of 6 percent of the cost of the work for their services.

The architects indicated that consultants will be retained

School Board

for specific areas of the project and there will be full-time supervision of the work during the construction period.

The board has been planning the construction projects with the goal of occupancy of both the vocational-technical school and Senior High School buildings in the fall of 1967.

After discussing working agreements with Smith and Ward Monday night the board voted to retain W-Smith for the vocational school project subject to the drafting of formal contracts following consultation with attorneys.

SO FAR there has been discussion but no decision made on a site for the new building.

Directors agreed that they should get together sometime later this week for a tour of various areas which might be suitable for location of the vocational school.

There have been recommendations that a site should provide around 20 acres but board members have indicated that they may have to settle for something less than this.

Potential for future expansion of facilities and parking accommodations will figure in the final site choice.

Charge Dropped; Judge Rules Double Jeopardy

Agreeing with the defense attorney that a child abandonment charge against the defendant violated his constitutional protection from double jeopardy, Judge Arnold Hatfield granted a motion to dismiss the charge Monday in District Court.

However, Judge Hatfield noted that if Victor J. Schultz, 34, Savage, Minn., did not make the court-ordered support payments for his six children in the future he would stand in danger of a prison sentence.

SCHULTZ was bound over to District Court April 2 on the child abandonment charge, over the protest of Defense Attorney Dennis A. Challen that the charge constituted double jeopardy. Challen referred to Schultz's guilty plea two days earlier to a non-support charge. County Attorney S. A. Sawyer pointed out at that time the non-support charge had been made for the period Feb. 1 to March 11, 1963. Since the abandonment charge covered the period Feb. 1, 1964, to March 31, 1965, Sawyer argued before Judge John D. McGill, double jeopardy was not involved.

Challen, who advised his client to plead guilty to the misdemeanor of nonsupport, moved for dismissal of the felony charge of abandonment when Schultz was arraigned in District Court April 19.

The hearing Monday, in which Challen cited a portion of the revised 1963 Minnesota Criminal Code which orders that all alleged offenses arising from a person's conduct must be included in a single complaint, affirmed Challen's reasoning that Schultz, by pleading guilty to one charge arising out of his continuous non-support of his children since Feb. 1, 1963, could not be charged again with a similar offense for the same period.

HOWEVER, in granting dismissal of the felony charge, Judge Hatfield warned Challen that any violations by Schultz occurring after his March 31 guilty plea would be subject to a new prosecution.

Sawyer had argued that the separate charges could be brought because they arose from different periods of time. But Judge Hatfield pointed out that this would make Schultz subject to six separate felony charges—for each 120-day period he had not paid support.

It was excessive prosecution such as this that the 1963 Criminal Code aims to prevent, Judge Hatfield said.

Schultz is free of the felony charge but is under 60-day suspended sentence, provided he makes his court-ordered payments, for the misdemeanor nonsupport charge to which he pleaded guilty in municipal court.

Country Needs More 'Gunboat Diplomacy'

THIS NEWSPAPER is solidly behind President Johnson in our intervention in the Dominican Republic and we feel that this country needs is "gunboat diplomacy" — in fact, lots more of it.

There have been demonstrations — and there will be more — but the American people must not become disheartened. We would do well, as in the present instance and as we are showing in Viet Nam — not to heed the opinions of nations which are not really our friends anyway, and to not care less what their statements are on our positive actions.

Teddy Roosevelt's admonition to "speak softly but carry a big stick" in foreign affairs has been ignored too long and we agree with the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, when it says that "there is something satisfying about the use of the 'big stick'" even though we may be accused of being old-foggy and reactionary.

ONE THING IS certain. Because of the action of the administration through the quick orders of President Johnson, a communist coup has been prevented in the Dominican Republic. Hemispheric security was involved and we could not tolerate another Cuba.

We don't propose that it is the duty of the United States, now that the anguish of power has become ours, to act as policeman for the entire world but as leader of the free world, we do have far reaching obligations. There is a limit, however, as to our involvements.

THE ORGANIZATION of American States has now assumed — as well it should — the responsibility in Santo Domingo and elsewhere so that policing the hemisphere against communist intervention from Havana, Peking, or Moscow becomes not just the U. S. A.'s job but the job of all the non-communist Americas. We must give the OAS our unmitigated support.

Farmer's Voice Getting Weaker Every Year?

WITH THE EXCEPTION of a few border cities such as Duluth and Winona, Minnesota is not joining 20 other states in the nation which began daylight saving last week.

Although we have no personal preference, and could easily side with the minority which likes the status quo, we think it would have been to the best economic interests of the state (and that includes the farmers' benefit) if fast time had started now and continued until later in the fall.

It is not hard to understand why farmers dislike DST or why mothers with little children oppose the measure. But to the woman who writes letters to her legislator or to newspapers referring to standard time as "God's time" (although we think it poor taste to bring God into such matters), we can only say, "You have every reason to be satisfied, you have all the sunshine you can absorb."

The farmer's work keeps him outside until his skin is blistered and tanned. While little children play outside, mothers, most of whom have a flexible work schedule, can get a great deal of sunshine, too.

INSTEAD OF MINORITY groups being so positive in urging opposition to daylight time, they might be more considerate and have understanding for the majority whose work keeps them inside all day. A farmer forced to work eight hours a day, five days a week, inside his barn would surely welcome an additional hour of daylight every evening and he'd be plenty irked if the city people opposed it. This is exactly the way the factory workers feel after laboring over a hot machine all day. To the multitudes behind counters, at desks, at sewing machines, in canneries, or in hundreds of other confining inside jobs, daylight saving time is very important.

How could failure to go daylight time hurt the economy?

THE FARMER'S VOICE is getting weaker with every election. Two-thirds of the U. S. representatives now are from areas predominately urban. With reapportionment coming, the trend is the same for state legislatures.

Even though urban legislators control farm legislation, they have been fair and given the farmer much that he has wanted and much that is in his favor. Although they may not pass, the current legislative lopper is full of proposed bills more favorable to rural tax structures than to urban property. It would seem that those measures in the end are more important than the inconvenience in rural areas by daylight savings time.

It does little credit to a state where mining and industry are important as well as agriculture, a state which is making a bid for tourists, to have rural legislators try for votes or attempt to gain publicity by criticizing actions of border towns adopting DST in line with their Wisconsin neighbors. It is little wonder that some State House workers get dubbed "cow legislators." Nor is it surprising that big city people say, "The sooner we get reapportionment, the better."

IF LEGISLATORS FROM rural areas wish city representatives to play ball with their bills, the favors need to operate on a two-way street. DST is a small price to pay for other benefits which may be received. — Lake City Graphic.

Let them that suffer according to the will of God, commit the keeping of their souls to him in well-doing. — 1 Peter 4:19.

Any Change in Half a Century?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Do international problems really change very much in a half-century? Are the basic issues that inflame the passions of peoples around the globe any different now than they were five decades ago?

Just 50 years ago — On Friday, May 7, 1915 — a submarine of the navy of the imperialist government of Germany torpedoed without warning the Lusitania, an unarmed merchant vessel of a British steamship company, and caused the death of 1,198 persons, of whom 124 were Americans.

THE ACTION was in total disregard of international law and in defiance of warnings which the United States had issued to the belligerent powers not to endanger American lives and property on the high seas. To torpedo unarmed vessels without warning was contrary to the accepted rules of civilized warfare.

Most perplexing of all was the problem which faced President Wilson. From Friday to Monday, no word came from the White House except that a protest note was being prepared. On Monday, May 10, however, Mr. Wilson made a speech in Philadelphia in which he conveyed an impression of restraint. Although he made no explicit mention of the Lusitania tragedy, many of his listeners believed that he was referring to the sinking of the ship when he said:

"The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world and strife is not. There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

THESE REMARKS caused a wave of protest inside the United States, although those who were on the pacifist side applauded enthusiastically. But in the next few weeks, public opinion developed heavily in favor of the idea that the United States should take a firm and resolute position because the phrase "too proud to fight" had been misconstrued abroad.

Consequently, the second American note, which was sent on June 9, was so strong that the secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, considered it too belligerent and resigned. The net effect of the American stand, however, was to prevent a recurrence of such episodes as the sinking of the Lusitania. President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 as many of his political supporters publicized the slogan: "He kept us out of war."

But on Feb. 1, 1917, the Berlin government announced that it was resuming unrestricted submarine warfare against all neutral and belligerent shipping.

PRESIDENT WILSON promptly broke diplomatic relations and asked Congress to give him authority to arm merchant ships in order to resist attacks. But Congress got involved in a filibuster and debate, led mostly by the "liberals" of those times, and the session adjourned on its fixed date — March 4 — without granting the requested authority. Mr. Wilson went ahead, anyhow, believing that he had the constitutional power without action by Congress. When American vessels were sunk, the President immediately asked Congress to declare war, and it did so on April 6, 1917 — not even six months after the 1916 election.

'WELL, THAT'S THE WAY THE BOMB BOUNCES'

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Champs of Democracy Helped LBJ in Crisis

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A policeman lolled beside the steps of the Dominican embassy on 22nd Street. He looked bored. There may have been Communist-inspired snipers and gunfire and hand grenades in the streets of Santo Domingo far to the south, but no Communists upset the quiet calm of embassy row in Washington.

A lavender wisteria, dazzling in the May sunshine, was the only excitement in the street.

A block away on R Street, another policeman lolled in front of the residence of the Puerto Rican commissioner. The former governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, a frequent target for assassins' bullets, was inside. But the policeman outside looked bored.

He sauntered down the street to confer with the other cop guarding the Dominican embassy. A small boy, aged about five, from the Pakistani chancery across the way, was the only excited person on embassy row. "You got two guns," he chortled with glee. And he kept repeating it, "you got two guns, you got two guns."

PAKISTANI, whence the small boy came, receives annually from the United States $700,000,000 of American aid and military hardware, which is more than all the foreign aid going to all of Latin America under the Alliance for Progress. Part of that hardware is being used to fight an active war against India. No wonder the Pakistani boy was interested in guns.

The two policemen compared notes, then sauntered back to resume their boring vigil. They had been instructed to look out for bombs and there were no bombs. The two officers did not know it, but behind them as they stood in R Street was the house where A. Mitchell Palmer, Woodrow Wilson's attorney general, had his front door blown off by an alleged Communist bomber in the months right after World War I.

TWO BLOCKS up the street, past dainty pink crab

apple trees, stood the Costa Rican embassy. No policeman was outside. Costa Rica is a democratic country which doesn't believe in armies and apparently no one around it worried about being bombed. One man inside certainly wasn't worrying.

He was Jose "Pepe" Figueres, former president of Costa Rica, hastily summoned to Washington to help straighten out the mess in Santo Domingo.

"I'm a farmer now," he said. "Today I'm like the Catholic gardener who got a call from the Pope—and the Pope is a lot more important to a Catholic than President Johnson—I can't go," he said, "I'm only half through my wedding."

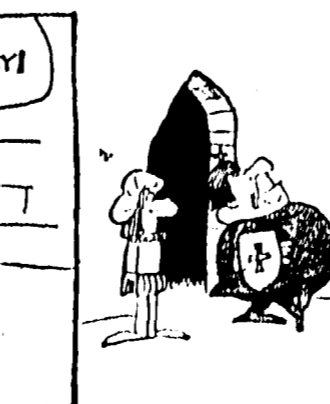

"I was only half through planting my corn when I got a call to come up here."

PEPE FIGUERES has long been called one of the "three Caribbean horsemen of democracy," the other two being Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico and Ex-President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Just three blocks away, on Massachusetts, was Betancourt. He too had turned up in Washington to use his influence to turn the U.S. Marine Corps occupation of the Dominican Republic from another "Bay of Pigs" fiasco to constructive cooperation for Pan America.

"I was up in the woods outside New York in a hide-away not even Drew Pearson could find," said Ex-Governor Munoz of Puerto Rico, "when I got word to come down here."

All three know Santo Domingo well. Betancourt of Venezuela knows it best, still bears the raw, red scars on his hands where a bomb, touched off by the henchmen of Dominican Dictator Trujillo, trapped him in his limousine and almost roasted him alive.

"In 1958," said Ex-President Figueres, "I wrote a report recommending a U.N. trusteeship for the Dominican Republic. Juan Bosch, who later became president, read it and said, 'Yes, it will happen in 25 years, but not now.'"

The memory of John F. Kennedy is strong. This is still Kennedy country. His academic admirers speak of his American University speech calling for a peaceful settlement of differences with the Soviet Union and the nuclear test-ban treaty that followed as they ask whether the current of promise set in motion is forever cut off.

ON INNUMERABLE campuses across the country, judging by all reports, this same phenomenon is evident. The alienation of the intellectual community, if that is what is happening, can be easily discounted. A cartoon in the Boston Traveler summed it up — LBJ as an anguished Hercules holding the world on his shoulders while beatniks and the "better Red than dead" chip away at his ankles.

But among serious young students there is a genuine fear of what the intrusion of the Communist issue can do to student attitudes. They are especially concerned over the effort to brand certain phases of the civil rights movement as Communist-infiltrated or Communist-dominated and then linking this to the anti-Viet

WASHINGTON CALLING

Extreme Views Being Hardened

By MARQUIS CHILDS

BOSTON — For a President who dreamed of uniting the country behind his policies Lyndon Johnson seems well on the way to dividing opinion along intensely partisan lines. In this center with its 13 universities and colleges and the complex of new industries grown up around advanced research in these institutions the division is strikingly evident.

The President's sudden action in sending Marines into the Dominican Republic seems far more than the rapidly increasing American commitment in Viet Nam to have aroused student opposition and the deep concern of the academic community. From the perspective of Boston it is possible to see two poles of opinion sharply alienated coming into being with attitudes hardening at each extreme.

At a "teach-in" at Boston University the other night with most of the area colleges represented an overflow crowd of 2,000 warmly applauded Barrington Moore Jr., a Harvard sociologist, when he said: "We have to stop the enemies of freedom at home and let's be blunt about it, Johnson is one of them. It is my careful and sober judgment that Johnson is one of the most dangerous men in politics today."

TURNER A. Shelton, a spokesman for the State Department, got some cheers but far more boos and catcalls when he said, "If you're afraid to fight I don't know how to help you." At one point a faculty adviser took the microphone from Shelton to appeal to the students to allow Shelton to be heard. The "teach-in" went on without interruption until 7 a.m.

More significant than this uproarious outpouring was the earlier "teach-in" at Harvard. By comparison it was sober and, according to all reports, well-balanced. Distinguished professors such as J. Kenneth Galbraith, a former ambassador to India, analyzed the Johnson policy on Viet Nam and while Galbraith and others opposed the bombing in North Viet Nam they argued the case for sustaining a position of strength that would permit a negotiated settlement of the war. The unilateral intervention of the United States in a small, troubled Caribbean republic has been the trigger for a more unrestrained and vociferous reaction among students.

FACULTY members with whom this reporter has talked speak with deep concern of the trend of American foreign policy. They see President Johnson resorting more and more to the emotional appeal of anti-communism to win support for his actions. As the recent past has shown, such an appeal gets a response from a large segment of opinion. But such an appeal, the fear is, will create a war psychosis defeating all hope of easing tensions and threatening a nuclear confrontation down a dead-end road.

The memory of John F. Kennedy is strong. This is still Kennedy country. His academic admirers speak of his American University speech calling for a peaceful settlement of differences with the Soviet Union and the nuclear test-ban treaty that followed as they ask whether the current of promise set in motion is forever cut off.

ON INNUMERABLE campuses across the country, judging by all reports, this same phenomenon is evident. ## Letters to The Editor

Appreciate City's 'Fighting Spirit and Courage'

To the Editor: A batch of mid-April Daily News papers just reached us via Woodford, Va., from our daughter Margaret (Mrs. Bob Yackel) with vivid details of your Mississippi disaster. Reports in the national dispatches carried comparatively little about Winona's troubles.

We now appreciate your fighting spirit and courage. You must be proud of Mayor Ellings and other officials for wise leadership which must have prevented even worse damage that could have occurred.

We Rethers have been away from the old home town 25 years and Mildred's mother (Mrs. G. F. Wruck) followed us six years later, but we always have kept a soft spot for the many friends we left there. You have our sympathy and prayers for quick return to normal.

William J. (Bill) Rother Seattle, Wash.

P.S. Special regards to our old friend Martin Beatty although I don't know what he is rebelling against.

Nam movement to discredit all student movements. It will harden attitudes, the belief is, and make it easier for the very small number of Marxist or Communist-oriented students to gain influence.

NOISY demonstrations to one side, many students feel a sense of deep responsibility to help the cause of civil rights. Four student editors of the Harvard Crimson are trying to raise money for a projected weekly newspaper to be distributed this summer in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. Their goal is to provide Negro readers in particular with a detailed and factual account of the civil rights movement in the South, and if they raise the necessary $56,000 they will devote their summer to the project.

As a straw in the wind the Crimson editorial board was virtually unanimous in support of an editorial condemning the Dominican intervention while the board was divided, roughly ten to nine, over a strong anti-Viet Nam editorial last November.

WASHINGTON — Do international problems really change very much in a half-century? Are the basic issues that inflame the passions of peoples around the globe any different now than they were five decades ago?

Just 50 years ago — On Friday, May 7, 1915 — a submarine of the navy of the imperialist government of Germany torpedoed without warning the Lusitania, an unarmed merchant vessel of a British steamship company, and caused the death of 1,198 persons, of whom 124 were Americans.

THE ACTION was in total disregard of international law and in defiance of warnings which the United States had issued to the belligerent powers not to endanger American lives and property on the high seas. To torpedo unarmed vessels without warning was contrary also to the accepted rules of civilized warfare.

Most perplexing of all was the problem which faced President Wilson. From Friday to Monday, no word came from the White House except that a protest note was being prepared. On Monday, May 10, however, Mr. Wilson made a speech in Philadelphia in which he conveyed an impression of restraint. Although he made no explicit mention of the Lusitania tragedy, many of his listeners believed that he was referring to the sinking of the ship when he said:

The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world and strife is not. There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right.

THESE REMARKS caused a wave of protest inside the United States, although those who were on the pacifist side applauded enthusiastically. But in the next few weeks, public opinion developed heavily in favor of the idea that the United States should take a firm and resolute position because the phrase "too proud to fight" had been misconstrued abroad.

Consequently, the second American note, which was sent on June 9, was so strong that the secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, considered it too belligerent and resigned. The net effect of the American stand, however, was to prevent a recurrence of such episodes as the sinking of the Lusitania. President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 as many of his political supporters publicized the slogan: "He kept us out of war."

But on Feb. 1, 1917, the Berlin government announced that it was resuming unrestricted submarine warfare against all neutral and belligerent shipping.

PRESIDENT WILSON promptly broke diplomatic relations and asked Congress to give him authority to arm merchant ships in order to resist attacks. But Congress got involved in a filibuster and debate, led mostly by the "liberals" of those times, and the session adjourned on its fixed date — March 4 — without granting the requested authority. Mr. Wilson went ahead, anyhow, believing that he had the constitutional power without action by Congress. When American vessels were sunk, the President immediately asked Congress to declare war, and it did so on April 6, 1917 — not even six months after the 1916 election.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Champs of Democracy Helped LBJ in Crisis

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A policeman lolled beside the steps of the Dominican embassy on 22nd Street. He looked bored. There may have been Communist-inspired snipers and gunfire and hand grenades in the streets of Santo Domingo far to the south, but no Communists upset the quiet calm of embassy row in Washington.

A lavender wisteria, dazzling in the May sunshine, was the only excitement in the street.

A block away on R Street, another policeman lolled in front of the residence of the Puerto Rican commissioner. The former governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, a frequent target for assassins' bullets, was inside. But the policeman outside looked bored.

He sauntered down the street, to confer with the other cop guarding the Dominican embassy. A small boy, aged about five, from the Pakistani chancery across the way, was the only excited person on embassy row. "You got two guns," he chortled with glee. And he kept repeating it, "you got two guns, you got two guns."

PAKISTANI, whence the small boy came, receives annually from the United States $700,000,000 of American aid and military hardware, which is more than all the foreign aid going to all of Latin America under the Alliance for Progress. Part of that hardware is being used to fight an active war against India. No wonder the Pakistani boy was interested in guns.

The two policemen compared notes, then sauntered back to resume their boring vigil. They had been instructed to look out for bombs and there were no bombs. The two officers did not know it, but behind them as they stood in R Street was the house where A. Mitchell Palmer, Woodrow Wilson's attorney general, had his front door blown off by an alleged Communist bomber in the months right after World War I.

TWO BLOCKS up the street, past dainty pink crab

apple trees, stood the Costa Rican embassy. No policeman was outside. Costa Rica is a democratic country which doesn't believe in armies and apparently no one around it worried about being bombed. One man inside certainly wasn't worrying.

He was Jose "Pepe" Figueres, former president of Costa Rica, hastily summoned to Washington to help straighten out the mess in Santo Domingo.

"I'm a farmer now," he said. "Today I'm like the Catholic gardener who got a call from the Pope—and the Pope is a lot more important to a Catholic than President Johnson—I can't go," he said, "I'm only half through with my weeding." "I was only half through planting my corn when I got a call to come up here."

PEPE FIGUERES has long been called one of the "three Caribbean horsemen of democracy," the other two being Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico and Ex-President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Just three blocks away, on Massachusetts, was Betancourt. He too had turned up in Washington to use his influence to turn the U.S. Marine Corps occupation of the Dominican Republic from another "Bay of Pigs" fiasco to constructive cooperation for Pan America.

"I was up in the woods outside New York in a hide-away not even Drew Pearson could find," said Ex-Governor Munoz of Puerto Rico, "when I got word to come down here."

All three know Santo Domingo well. Betancourt of Venezuela knows it best, still bears the raw, red scars on his hands where a bomb, touched off by the henchmen of Dominican Dictator Trujillo, trapped him in his limousine and almost roasted him alive.

"In 1958," said Ex-President Figueres, "I wrote a report recommending a U.N. trusteeship for the Dominican Republic. Juan Bosch, who later became president, read it and said, 'Yes, it will happen in 25 years, but not now.'"

Extreme Views Being Hardened

By MARQUIS CHILDS

BOSTON — For a President who dreamed of uniting the country behind his policies Lyndon Johnson seems well on the way to dividing opinion along intensely partisan lines. In this center with its 13 universities and colleges and the complex of new industries grown up around advanced research in these institutions the division is strikingly evident.

The President's sudden action in sending Marines into the Dominican Republic seems far more than the rapidly increasing American commitment in Viet Nam to have aroused student opposition and the deep concern of the academic community. From the perspective of Boston it is possible to see two poles of opinion sharply alienated coming into being with attitudes hardening at each extreme.

At a "teach-in" at Boston University the other night with most of the area colleges represented an overflow crowd of 2,000 warmly applauded Barrington Moore Jr., a Harvard sociologist, when he said: "We have to stop the enemies of freedom at home and let's be blunt about it, Johnson is one of them. It is my careful and sober judgment that Johnson is one of the most dangerous men in politics today."

TURNER A. Shelton, a spokesman for the State Department, got some cheers but far more boos and catcalls when he said, "If you're afraid to fight I don't know how to help you." At one point a faculty adviser took the microphone from Shelton to appeal to the students to allow Shelton to be heard. The "teach-in" went on without interruption until 7 a.m.

More significant than this uproarious outpouring was the earlier "teach-in" at Harvard. By comparison it was sober and, according to all reports, well-balanced. Distinguished professors such as J. Kenneth Galbraith, a former ambassador to India, analyzed the Johnson policy on Viet Nam and while Galbraith and others opposed the bombing in North Viet Nam they argued the case for sustaining a position of strength that would permit a negotiated settlement of the war. The unilateral intervention of the United States in a small, troubled Caribbean republic has been the trigger for a more unrestrained and vociferous reaction among students.

FACULTY members with whom this reporter has talked speak with deep concern of the trend of American foreign policy. They see President Johnson resorting more and more to the emotional appeal of anti-communism to win support for his actions. As the recent past has shown, such an appeal gets a response from a large segment of opinion. But such an appeal, the fear is, will create a war psychosis defeating all hope of easing tensions and threatening a nuclear confrontation down a dead-end road.

The memory of John F. Kennedy is strong. This is still Kennedy country. His academic admirers speak of his American University speech calling for a peaceful settlement of differences with the Soviet Union and the nuclear test-ban treaty that followed as they ask whether the current of promise set in motion is forever cut off.

ON INNUMERABLE campuses across the country, judging by all reports, this same phenomenon is evident. The alienation of the intellectual community, if that is what is happening, can be easily discounted. A cartoon in the Boston Traveler summed it up — LBJ as an anguished Hercules holding the world on his shoulders while bunnies and the "better Red than dead" chip away at his ankles.

But among serious young students there is a genuine fear of what the intrusion of the Communist issue can do to student attitudes. They are especially concerned over the effort to brand certain phases of the civil rights movement as Communist-infiltrated or Communist-dominated and then linking this to the anti-Viet

Letters to The Editor

Appreciate City's "Fighting Spirit and Courage"

To the Editor:

A batch of mid-April Daily News papers just reached us via Woodford, Va., from our daughter Margaret (Mrs. Bob Yackel) with vivid details of your Mississippi disaster. Reports in the national dispatches carried comparatively little about Winona's troubles.

We now appreciate your fighting spirit and courage. You must be proud of Mayor Ellings and other officials for wise leadership which must have prevented even worse damage that could have occurred.

We Rothers have been away from the old home town 25 years and Mildred's mother (Mrs. G. F. Wruck) followed us six years later, but we always have kept a soft spot for the many friends we left there. You have our sympathy and prayers for quick return to normal.

William J. (Bill) Rother Seattle, Wash.

P.S. Special regards to our old friend Martin Beatty although I don't know what he is rebelling against.

Nam movement to discredit all student movements. It will harden attitudes, the belief is, and make it easier for the very small number of Marxist or Communist-oriented students to gain influence.

NOISY demonstrations to one side, many students feel a sense of deep responsibility to help the cause of civil rights. Four student editors of the Harvard Crimson are trying to raise money for a projected weekly newspaper to be distributed this summer in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. Their goal is to provide Negro readers in particular with a detailed and factual account of the civil rights movement in the South, and if they raise the necessary $50,000 they will devote their summer to the project.

As a straw in the wind the Crimson editorial board was virtually unanimous in support of an editorial condemning the Dominican intervention while the board was divided, roughly ten to nine, over a strong anti-Viet Nam editorial last November.

State College Board Changes Mankato Stand

ST. PAUL (AP)—The Minnesota State College Board has decided to oppose university status for Mankato State College.

Meeting here Monday, the board took a view quite different from the position it adopted last December, when it asked authority to elevate its colleges to universities when it considers them ready.

The board, which governs the five Minnesota colleges, has undergone a major membership change since December, and the position taken Monday was more moderate than the previous stand.

The board approved a resolution by J. Cameron Thomson, Minneapolis, opposing all of the Mankato university status bill except for one section. The exception would allow the board to set standards for making colleges universities and to make recommendations on such changes to the legislature.

Voting for the resolution were Thomson, Marvin Campbell, Crookston, Frank Chesley, Red Wing, Mrs. Marian Clausen, Northfield, Charles Mourin, Aurora, and Herbert Olson, Bemidji. Opponents were Peter Popovich, St. Paul, and Education Commissioner Duane J. Mattheis. Mattheis was not present, however, when the vote was taken.

Norman H. Nelson of Moorhead, elected board president at the meeting, did not have to vote but he said he would have voted with the majority.

In other action, the board worked out procedures for investigating charges of "apparently unsatisfactory academic conditions" at Winona State College. The charges were made in complaints to the Minnesota conference of the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Kenneth Bjork of St. Olaf College, outgoing AAUP chairman, told the board he would discuss the complaints first with President Nels Minne of Winona State. Bjork added he has named a committee to investigate the allegations and is trying to head off a national AAUP investigation.

$13.5 Million State Pay Plan In Legislature

ST. PAUL (AP)—A new pay plan for Minnesota's 17,000 state employees that will cost an extra $13.5 million in the next two years was recommended Monday by The House Appropriations Committee.

The proposal includes a hospitalization insurance program for employees, pay increases of at least 4 per cent in the first year of the biennium, and two $9 monthly increases in the second year of the biennium.

The proposal would put the state's payroll at about $200 million for the next two years.

The pay plan is built into the five major money bills being approved by the Appropriations Committee. The Senate Finance Committee provides smaller pay increases in its bills.

WSC to Offer Psychology Minor Starting in Fall

A new bachelor of arts psychology minor will be offered next fall for the first time at Winona State College.

The minor involves five existing courses and seven new courses, according to Dr. George M. Christensen, head of the psychology department.

New courses are: Psychological measurement, introduction to learning, developmental psychology, differential psychology, personnel psychology, group dynamics and abnormal psychology.

Senate Confirms John R. Jamieson

ST. PAUL (AP)—The Senate voted unanimously Monday to confirm Gov. Karl Rolvaag's appointment of John R. Jamieson of Minneapolis as state highway commissioner for a term ending April 20, 1969. Jamieson succeeds James R. Marshall.

Small Business Aid

A new publication released today by Eugene P. Foley, administrator of the Small Business Administration, seeks to guide the small firm owner in his decisions on change.

"Innovation: How Much Is Enough?" by Edward L. Anthony, editor of the Harvard Business School Bulletin, offers standards that he should follow in making plans.

Hospital Auxiliary Conducting Tours for National Hospital Week

National Hospital Week, a public education event sponsored by the American Hospital Association and observed by hospitals throughout the United States, began Sunday.

THIS AFTERNOON the Community Memorial Hospital held open house for the people of the community who did not have the opportunity to become acquainted with the facilities offered in the new hospital when tours were conducted for the public before patients were transferred from the old Winona General Hospital.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary conducted tours of the hospital at 1 and 3 p.m. The special day had been set aside and definite times established for the tours, so there would be a minimum of disturbance of patients because of the increased activity.

"A hospital is a flexible and dynamic institution, responding and reacting to changing health needs of the community," says Earl W. Hagberg, administrator of Community Memorial Hospital. "National Hospital Week provides an opportunity for the community to learn more about the hospital services maintained to guard and restore health," Mr. Hagberg adds.

AN AVERAGE of one in every seven persons requires hospitalization each year. "This means that every person in the community has a vested interest in the hospital and it behooves everyone to become familiar with the hospital, its services and its objectives," advises Mr. Hagberg.

Although patient care is the primary function of hospitals, they have many other activities which affect health care now and in the future. Many hospitals are training grounds for doctors, nurses, and other paramedical personnel.

"At our own Community Memorial Hospital, we are participating in several educational and training programs," says Mr. Hagberg. "The Winona School of Practical Nursing is operated in conjunction with the Winona Area Vocational - Technical School. Students spend one year at the hospital where they receive both classroom instruction and patient experience."

STUDENTS enrolled in the baccalaureate degree course in nursing at Winona State College will begin their hospital experience at Community Memorial at the beginning of the spring quarter in their sophomore year in school.

Students from St. Teresa College have spent three months at Community Memorial Hospital before moving on to the degree course in nursing at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester. "Very recently," Mr. Hagberg said, "two students have begun a six-month hospital training course in the laboratory at Community Memorial, following six months of theoretical instruction at the University of Minnesota Hospitals. They will at the end of the 12 months take examinations to become Certified Medical Laboratory Assistants."

"SOME hospitals conduct medical and administrative research programs to find better ways of caring for patients and better methods of hospital operation and management. Among activities at Community Memorial Hospital have been a Work Measurement Program for the purpose of producing a more efficient operation and cutting down costs; the maintenance of follow-up records of all patients with tumors through the Tumor Registry and the establishment of a Perinatal Mortality Committee."

"Work is progressing on the new Convalescent and Rehabilitation Unit on the west end of our present hospital," Mr. Hagberg reports. "This will provide 100 beds for the care of long-term patients and an additional 16 beds for acute cases, 8 of which will be for isolation patients."

Hospitals are also concerned with the health of persons not hospitalized. Through public education programs and cooperation with allied health agencies they promote better health practices for the entire community.

Look to Community Problems, United Church Women Urged

"May Fellowship Day is a time for women to forget their denominations and look at the particular problems in their own community." With these words, Dr. H. Vardis Schwager, Davenport, N.D., began her talk on the theme, "People, Poverty and Plenty" Friday afternoon at Central Methodist Church.

THE OCCASION was the annual May Fellowship Day luncheon and program, sponsored by the Winona United Church Women.

About 125 women were privileged to hear Dr. Schwager, president of the North Dakota Council of United Church Women, a woman with a wide background of experience in the work of United Church Women. She has served on the national as well as state level.

At the luncheon which preceded the worship service and address by Dr. Schwager in the sanctuary, Mrs. P. Earl Schwab, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Central Methodist, welcomed the group.

The table grace was given by Mrs. E. Clayton Burgess, wife of the minister of Central Methodist.

THE SPEAKER used as a basis for her talk, the study booklet, "One-fifth of the Nation" which was published by the United Church Women by the National Council of churches in preparation for May Fellowship Day. She stated that one-fifth of our nation's families live below the minimum standard that has been set as a decent living.

"As a nation we are aware that the war on poverty is a moral issue, but for Christian women it becomes a moral issue, plus a concern for people. We are afraid to face poverty, but United Church Women are supposed to be doing something about it. In spite of free enterprise, we know it is not right when there are those who are suffering and in want," the speaker said.

"CHRISTIANS must realize that we don't all start equally as far as economics, cultural and educational opportunities are concerned and that each of us has different abilities. Jesus has asked us to be faithful to whatever talent has been given to us," she pointed out.

Dr. Schwager listed some standard statements often heard but which are no longer facts, such as:

- "Anybody with any gumption can do all right."
- "The poor you have always with you."
- "Step up the economy, and then there will be plenty of jobs."
- "Anybody can get a job and support his family if he really tries."
- "We provide for the poor."
- "Our poor here in the United States are better off than the poor in other countries."

BY WAY of explanation, Dr. Schwager observed that in contrast to Jesus' day, "we have enough to go around; we have the resources and the technical skills to eliminate poverty. Just as we always have sin with us and must fight it, so we must fight poverty."

Even if more jobs are created there will be those who cannot step into a job without special training in this day of mechan-

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN . . . ization and specialization, she said. The plight of the migrant workers who are plagued by worry, homelessness and poverty is a pitiful one. Likewise the Negroes and Indians are apathetic and broken by poverty. A sense of failure added to poverty brings a sting which is much deeper than poverty itself.

SHE CONCLUDED by saying, "Now that we know the causes, let's do something about it. Let us pray for the ingenuity and creativity of discovering where the trouble lies."

Mr. Iverson was born June 26, 1880, at Taylor to Iver and Mary Iverson.

He married Alma Olson of Melrose in February 1911. They had celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary this year.

Emergency Street
Work Approved;
Travel Authorized

Voting Monday night to authorize bid advertising for bituminous materials, the City Council also acted to meet immediate interim needs.

Ald. Henry Parks moved that the street commissioner be allowed to buy enough material for repairs that must be made before contracts can be let. The quantities can be purchased for the same prices as those in last year's contract with Dunn Black Top Co., Parks said.

Several streets, heavily damaged by truck traffic in the flood crisis, must be repaired quickly, Parks said, in order to forestall further deterioration.

Other council business:
• A wage adjustment for Mrs. Alvin Beeman, assistant welfare commissioner, was voted.

The council, which set wage scales last week, was reminded of the $20 rise previously agreed to in a letter from Mrs. Lawrence Breitbach, commissioner. Mrs. Beeman's salary will be $329.

• Replacement of a 25-year-old vacuum cleaner and scrubber for City Hall use was voted. Ald. Barry Nelson said the $390 price offered by Bambenek Hardware was $24 below a competing proposal and appeared reasonable.

• Expenses were authorized for city officials who attended the annual League of Municipalities meeting next month at Moorhead. The council also moved to pay Mayor R. K. Ellings expenses for a trip to St. Paul May 18 when he will accept a traffic safety award for the city from the state safety council.

• Aldermen listened to letters of commendation for actions of city officials during the recent flood crisis. One was from the College of Saint Teresa — St. Mary's College Young DPL Club and the other from the St. Martin's Lutheran Church council.

Hawks (BRRrr!) Top Lewiston in Tourney

By GARY EVANS
Daily News Sports Editor

Football weather, football score.

That was about the size of Winona High School's 8-3 (touchdown and safety for Hawks, field goal for the Cards) District Three Tournament victory over Lewiston at Jefferson Field Monday.

While some 200 spectators sat on their hands and shivered as Minnesota's weather exercised its ability to be the nation's crankiest (from 84 degrees Sunday to 54 Monday), the Hawks unleashed a six-hit attack that backed up John Ahrens' four-hit pitching.

THE VICTORY was the Hawks' fourth against two losses and marked a successful opening in defense of the District Three championship they landed last year.

It is not a good day for pitchers. Ahrens had trouble loosening up. He didn't, in fact, until five innings were completed.

"That's when his curve started to break," said catcher Bob Urness. "That's when it got easy."

Coach Ed Spencer had stated earlier in the week that he feared the opener. He got a chance to worry.

AFTER HOLDING the Hawks scoreless for two innings, the Cardinals broke away to a 3-0 lead in the third as the Winona defense played it casual.

Ron Gatzlaff was safe with one out as Gary Addington went down the line to take Todd Spencer's throw from short. The ball was knocked out of his glove. The next man slapped the ball at third baseman Jim Doyle, who had trouble getting it out of his glove and threw wildly to second. Both runners were safe.

Dean Wilde then followed with his second consecutive triple in the right centerfield hole to score two runs and came in on a looping single by Dave Tesch, his second.

WINONA, ANNOYED by the visitors' persistence and desire, got the lead in the bottom of the third.

Wayne Morris and Bob Urness drew consecutive walks and Doyle looped a single into right to score Wayne Morris. R. D.

Boschulte, who tripled in the first, then struck out and Morris came home on Addington's "suicide squeeze." Spencer then rocketed a tremendous line shot into left center. It bounced off the distant fence for a home run to make the score 4-3.

Three more runs scored in the fifth. Addington was hit by loser Jim Matzke and Spencer shot the ball on a line into center for his second hit, after Ron Fugelstad, running for Addington, was cut down on an attempted steal.

Loren Benz then clouted a twisting liner into left field. He gained second and the fielder let it go under his glove. Benz and Spencer both sashayed home.

GARY CURRAN then was safe on an error, stole second, third and came in when Card catcher Cal Kessler tried to get Morris stealing second.

A single run scored in the sixth when Spencer got on on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on a sharp single by Curran.

"It's a good one to have out of the way," sighed Spencer. "Now we can really go to work. It was a miserable day, but we proved that our hitting is starting to come around."

Winona must meet Mazeppa, which drew a first-round bye, in its next tournament start. No date has been set for the contest. The Hawks were to meet Northfield at Jeff today before heading to Mankato Wednesday. Wells will be here for two Saturday.

Tom May Monday night twirled a four-hitter as the National Softball League got underway. May's Watkins team scored a 4-3 victory over Sportsman's Tap.

Hamernik's defeated Bell's 6-1 in the other scheduled game.

May struck out six and walked five. Loser Roger Buege walked four and fanned one. He gave up seven hits.

For Watkins, Mike Leahy, and May each had two hits.

Leahy homered and doubled. Wenzel had two hits for Sportsman's and Brabitt doubled.

The Watkins team was credited with a top fielding performance.

Hamernik's got a triple from John Cierzan. All the other hits were distributed evenly. Winner Max Kulas struck out five and walked three with loser Pete Jerowski fanning three and walking two.

Bell's, which got five hits, saw Bob Hazelton slam two singles.

at 6:30 with three games scheduled.

Lang's, expected to be one of the league's powers, meets Fiberte at Franklin St. Field.

Runnerup to last year's champion, Marigold, Lang's has strengthened its team with the acquisition of a half dozen new players, including five from Marigold. Marigold is not entering a team this year.

MANAGER Leroy Anderson said Tom Kulas would pitch today's opener against Fiberte. Anderson is looking forward to a good season "if we start to jell early."

Fiberte manager Gene Brink has a good hitting team and this year has added depth in pitching. Clarence Hemmelman Jr. will hurl tonight. Don Schmanski and Mike Deep form the rest of the pitching corps.

Bob Ives, manager of Oasis, which tied for second during the first-half last year with Lang's, then slipped to third, is expecting improvement with a strengthened team.

"WE HAVE a better infield this year," Ives said, "and we should be stronger defensively."

About half of last year's team has returned, Ives said. In addition, Oasis gained pitcher Bud Lande from Hof-Brau. Other additions are infielders Ted Czaplowski, Charlie Olson, Bounce Olson, catcher Darryl Holzer and outfielders Earl Buswell and George Muth.

Lande will fire tonight for Oasis against Bakers' Local 390 at Athletic Park Outfield. He'll be opposed by the Bakers' Bob Larson, Manager Merlyn Hanson said.

HANSON expects his team to have a good season if the hitters come through. "We've got good pitchers," in Larson and Denny Landers, who played for Red Wing last year, he said.

The other game tonight finds Hof-Brau facing Biesanz Stone at Athletic Park Infield.

Hof-Brau Manager Kiki Williamson will pitch for his team. New additions are Tom Nelson, Jerry Nelson and Dean Suftrins.

Williamson expects his team to be stronger this year. Last season it placed fifth in the first half, then tied for third the second swing.

BIESANZ Manager Frank Drazkowski's team is new in the league this year.

Drazkowski will hurl tonight. Though inexperienced, his team will "surprise somebody" this year, he said.

In games Thursday, Biesanz and Lang's meet on the outfield and Oasis tests Fiberte on the infield at 6:30 p.m. Bakers' Local 390 tangles with Hof-Brau in an infield night game at 8 p.m.

Twins Back in First Place

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Twins are starting to raise a few eyebrows around the American League, but Al Lopez isn't among the surprised. "I've said all along Minnesota is a better club than a lot of people think," the Chicago manager said Monday night after the Twins had beaten his White Sox 4-3. It was Minnesota's third straight victory over Chicago and pushed the Twins into the league lead.

"The difference between this year and last year with Minnesota," Lopez added, "is they're getting pitching and they're playing defense."

Twins Manager Sam Mele doesn't expound on why his team is playing better than in 1964 when it tied with Cleveland for sixth place.

"If our defense holds up, we're going to do all right," he said. "We've got pitching this year and that's the key to being a contender. Camilo Pascual, Jim Grant and Jim Kaat are pitching great for us, and we've got a bullpen this year."

Mele may have found additional relief help Monday night.

Mel Nelson, a 29-year-old Los Angeles Angels' and St. Louis Cardinals' castoff, came out of the bullpen to preserve Kaat's third victory against two defeats.

Nelson was picked up by the Twins last year when the Angels' Hawaii farm team cut him and he was sent to Atlanta. He earned his first save by pitching the Twins out of a touch-and-go situation in the ninth.

The Twins built a 4-1 Monday night, then held on while Nelson fought off the White Sox in the ninth.

The southpaw had to protect the 4-3 lead with two runners on base and none out. He got one out on a grounder, but the runners moved to second and third. Then he coaxed a short fly which held the man on third, and pinch-hitter Smokey Burgess hit a soft liner to shortstop to end the game.

Tony Oliva doubled and Harmon Killebrew singled for a Minnesota run in the first. Rich Rollins' ground out drove in a run in the fourth after Jimmie Hall and Bob Allison singled. Minnesota got its winning

Logan Stops Ramblers 6-5

Winona Cotter outhit La Crosse Logan at Gabrych Park Monday afternoon, but in the all-important run column the visitors, who served as the home team because of a switch in game sites, held a 6-5 edge.

The loss even Cotter's record at 2-2 for the season.

Taking the loss for the Ramblers was Mike Schoener. Stuhrgot the victory.

AFTER SCORING two runs in the top of the first on a walk, error and passed ball, the Ramblers gave Logan a tie.

Tom Prinsen smashed a home run off Schoener from his lead-off spot and a walk, single and infield out provided another.

Cotter took a 4-2 lead in the second when Ron Quamen, who was 2-for-3, and Dave Christensen, who went 2-for-2, laced back - to - back singles and Logan helped out with a pair of errors.

IT STAYED that way until Logan tied it in its half of the third on doubles by Prinsen and Ron Rieber, two walks and an error.

Cotter made it 5-4 in the fourth as Quamen was safe on an error. Christensen singled and John Nett Jr. came up with a sacrifice.

Logan won it in the fifth on two walks, an error, a passed ball and a single by Bill Harlos.

Cotter has its next scheduled action here against La Crosse Aquinas next Tuesday.

harmful contaminants
(before they choke your fuel line!)

What does the American FINAL/FILTER really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER bars contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't) you stay out of trouble when you "fill 'er up filtered" with American, Regular or American, Super-Premium.

Galesville Golfer 2nd In Tournament

GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — A former Galesville golfing star won added laurels last week by becoming runner-up in a tough match.

Kurt Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Johnson, stationed at Sweetwater, Tex., AFB, missed his putt on the 18th hole in the Lake Sweetwater Men's Invitational golf tournament.

He was defeated by Rives Mc-Bee of Garland, Tex. McBee formerly was golf captain at North Texas State University. He now is a Garland High School physical-education teacher.

He agreed with 20-year-old Kurt that battling each other, and facing strong wind, made the match the toughest they had played.

The two finalists played on near-even terms throughout their 18-hole match, and went into the back nine even. Johnson took a two-hole lead when he won the 13th. McBee won the next two and they split 16 and 17. Both needed to sink an 18-inch putt on the 18th. Kurt had a downhill lie and his ball rimmed the cup and spun out. McBee, with an uphill lie, dropped his for the title. Johnson received a set of woods and McBee a set of irons.
