40 Killed in New Saigon Blast

Believe Many Americans Among Victims

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Two big terrorist explosions ripped through a crowded floating restaurant on the Saigon River almost simultaneously tonight and witnesses said they believed 40 or 50 persons, including many Americans, were killed.

The first police count showed 17 dead and 24 wounded. Officials expected this tally to go higher. Decks of the restaurant, the My Canh, and pavement on the riverside were slick with blood.

This incident is possibly the worst in terms of lives lost in South Viet Nam's capital in many years.

The riverfront normally is thronged with strollers seeking cool breezes in the evening. Mothers and their children were among the casualties.

The explosions cut into the floating restaurant about 8:15 p.m.—7:15 a.m. EST.

One was caused by a powerful shaped charge—possibly an American-made Claymore electric mine—planted in the bank of the river. The Claymore exploded in the direction it is pointed.

The restaurant, which is moored about 25 feet from the bank, has an entry over a gang-plank leading from the waterfront street. It is patronized mostly by Americans and wealthy Vietnamese.

A second blast, which investigators believed was caused by a bomb mounted on a bicycle, went off at a tobacco stall in the bank next to the restaurant. Investigators assumed they were planted in advance and timed to explode at the peak of the dinner hour on a weekend night. The restaurant was crowded to capacity and its glass walls were crushed under the hail of fragments.

Last year a bomb was set off across the street from the waterfront and several Vietnamese were killed.

Red Activity On Autobahn Puzzles West

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists threatened today to tie up barge and rail shipments to West Berlin. They also suggested that the four occupation powers give them control of air traffic to West Berlin.

The threat to barge and rail shipments was made by Transport Minister Edwin Kramer in a speech to the Communist party Central Committee published by Neues Deutschland, the party newspaper.

Kramer said permits for barge traffic between West Germany and West Berlin issued by the four occupation powers would not be acceptable after June 30.

He warned that East Germany would take necessary measures if the West German government does not reach agreement with the East German regime by then to establish new procedures.

This could mean that all barge traffic, averaging between 100 and 200 barges a day, would be stopped on July 1.

Concerning rail traffic, the East Germans want to increase freight rates by about 20 per cent, contrary to four-power rules. Kramer said if no agreement on this is reached between the Bonn and East German governments, all freight shipments will be issued new transit documents at the border stations instead of allowing shipments through on a single document as has been the practice.

Captured U.S. Soldier Shot By Hanoi Reds

Sgt. Harold George Bennett

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong has executed U.S. Army Sgt. Harold George Bennett in reprisal for the execution of several Red terrorists by the South Vietnamese government, Hanoi Radio announced today. It warned that other Americans might suffer the same fate.

"This is obviously a wanton act of murder if this is confirmed," the U.S. Embassy said after hearing the report of Bennett's execution.

On the battlefronts, U.S. spokesmen reported that three more Americans were killed over the past 24 hours, a fourth was missing and six were wounded.

Bennett, son of Pauline H. Bennett of Perryville, Ark., was captured Dec. 29 during the battle of Binh Gia, which cost an estimated 200 South Vietnamese lives.

Bennett was taken when the 33rd Ranger Battalion, to which he was attached as radio operator with the American advisory team, was attempting to retake Binh Gia from the Viet Cong.

Another American on Bennett's advisory team, PVT Charles E. Crafts of North Jay, Maine, was missing after the same action.

TWO DEMOCRATS . . . President Lyndon Johnson waves to the crowd as he and former President Harry Truman left the Hotel Muehlebach in Kansas City this morning.

Johnson Has Breakfast With Harry Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Johnson marked the 20th birthday of the United Nations today by conferring here with Harry S. Truman, who was chief executive when the U.N. was born.

Johnson told reporters he and Truman "talked about our problems in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic." He said they also reminisced about some of Truman's historic acts as chief executive.

Truman, beaming, said that "in my historic memory" no president ever made a greater impact than Johnson during his first months in the White House.

Before the two men got together for a private breakfast, however, Johnson took a Truman-style half-hour walk around downtown Kansas City.

From Missouri, Johnson was bound for San Francisco to address U.N. anniversary ceremonies.

The chief executive, rising early, visited the coffee shop of the Muehlebach Hotel, where he spent the night, about 6 a.m. He sat down for his morning coffee then embarked on a stroll.

Johnson personally greeted scores of shopkeepers and pedestrians during his stroll.

Today was the first meeting between Johnson and Truman since the President called on Truman at a Kansas City hospital last Oct. 21 while Truman was recovering from a fall.

Duplicating a journey Truman made 20 years ago, Johnson was bound for San Francisco to address the U.N. on its 20th anniversary.

LBJ Asks U.N. To Help Bring Viet Nam Peace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Johnson marked the 20th birthday of the United Nations today, calling on the U.N.

to help promote peace in Viet Nam, an "alliance for man" to fight poverty, the arms race and the population explosion around the globe.

Addressing a special U.N. Convocation in the city where the organization's charter was signed in June 1945, Johnson said, "Clear and present dangers in southeast Asia cast their shadow across the path of all mankind." He added:

"I call upon this gathering of the nations of the world to use their influence, individually and collectively to bring to the tables those who seem determined to make war. We will support your efforts as we will support effective action by any agent or agency of these United States."

Observers agreed that the atmosphere was far different from the optimism in San Francisco in 1945, but they noted a brighter outlook than that of a few months ago.

The secretary-general observed this improvement and said: "I am very hopeful of the future potentialities of the great organization I have the privilege to serve."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko may disclose his government's intentions when he addresses the delegates Saturday morning. He apparently wants to see what Johnson says before disclosing the Kremlin's position. He told a reporter he still had not prepared his speech and said he would speak from notes.

This was probably the major factor in Ky's decision to play rough. By closing all papers for one month, until they can be reorganized along lines satisfactory to the government, he avoids the risk of showing partiality to any faction.

Each newspaper is essentially the organ of a political faction or pressure group. Most publishers are also leading political figures.

The Roman Catholics, the Buddhists, the Cao Daists and the Hoa Haos also have their own newspapers.

Since Diem's overthrow in 1963, the Saigon government has changed five times. Each time, the press has played a big role. The bulk of the newspapers opposed each government.

Wreckage of Jet Found In California

EL TORO, Calif. (AP) — A Military Air Transport Service jet transport carrying Marines bound for Okinawa crashed and exploded after takeoff today. All 84 aboard were killed.

A report from an observer who flew over the scene in rolling hills 4½ miles north of here said the four-engine C135 jet cut a 100-yard swath as it skidded up a slope, exploded and burned.

The plane took off for Honolulu at 1:44 a.m. in low clouds and a drizzle and almost immediately disappeared from the radar screen at this Marine air base 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles. There was no indication what went wrong aboard the big plane.

It came down at the 600-foot level in foothills of the Santa Ana Mountains, which border the field.

The 72 Marines aboard were mostly enlisted men from bases around the country, heading for the Far East as replacements in various units there. The plane, a military version of Boeing's 707 airliner, and its crew of 12 were from the 18th Air Transport Squadron at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

A search helicopter spotted the wreckage shortly after dawn.

A fireman from the State Division of Forestry said the plane struck on a ridge and slid uphill, scattering wreckage, then went over the top and down the other side. After exploding, it burned.

Much of the widely scattered wreckage was blackened. Scores of sea bags were burst open. Smoke drifted up, blending with a light mist falling from a low overcast.

El Toro is 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles, just inland from the sea. The plane took off to the north. Planes doing so normally then bank left, away from the low-lying Santa Ana Mountains that border the field area. The wreckage was found in the hills almost due north of the strip.

The area is sparsely populated brushland. Because it is isolated, with few roads, search and rescue parties went to the scene in helicopters.

At Camp Pendleton, a spokesman said the Marines on the plane were part of a staging battalion, that processes individual Marines from throughout the country for shipment to various overseas units.

They had been processed through Pendleton within the last two or three weeks and were brought to El Toro by bus Thursday.

Fourteen hundred others in the staging battalion at Pendleton were ordered to wire or telephone their next of kin, to a sure them of their safety.

The spokesman said it probably would take all day and perhaps part of tonight to notify next of kin of the victims.

Two Women Supplied Liquor For Party Before 2 Drowned

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Two married women, one of them herself under legal drinking age, were charged Thursday with furnishing liquor to a junior high school party that ended in tragedy when two youths drowned.

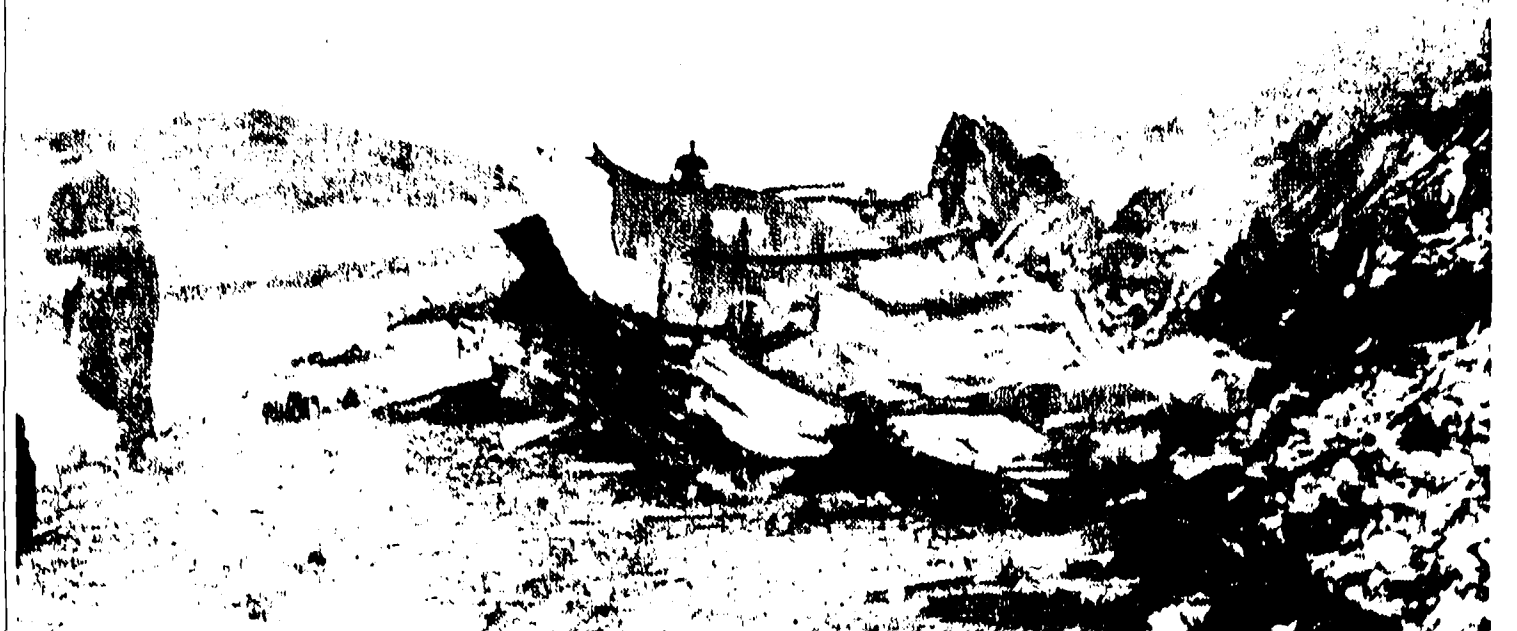

Hennepin County Atty. George Scott said complaints were filed against Mrs. Barbara Johnson, 28, and Mrs. Bonnie Sue Lukner, 18. Both are to appear in Juvenile Court Tuesday on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The charges followed the drownings of Ronald Holvett and James Hatcher in Lake Hiawatha during a party attended by two dozen youngsters a week after completing classes at Sanford Junior High.

Police said Mrs. Johnson was accused of furnishing five pints of vodka to a teen-age nephew who sold the liquor to others for $2 a bottle. Mrs. Lukner was charged with buying vodka, beer and wine for a teen-age sister-in-law who collected $15 from classmates to pay for the bottles.

Police said not all the youths at the party were drinking. Ten who were involved went to Juvenile Court this week.

Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA
This Is Summer

THE last part of June is the period of many flowers with the roses, lilies, clematis and some of the shrubs brightening up the greenery of the landscape. The peonies and irises have largely bloomed away and all that remains are the spent flower heads which, of course, should be cut off now.

The only lilac in bloom now is the Japanese tree lilac of the variety amurensis japonica. This lilac may grow with a single stem, or several. Our specimen has two trunks and has reached a height of about ten feet with an umbrella-like head. The individual flowers are small and white, but are massed in large flat plumes that are very showy. We like it and have it planted in a rather open space where the large flower heads make a good display.

This may be an example of the old saying that, "there is no argument in the matter of taste". One author on trees and shrubs for landscaping the home states that this lilac is "too hideous a shrub for home landscaping." We have never reached that state of mind when we could call any plant "hideous" even in the case of weeds in which some beauty in one form or another can always be found. This author further says that "Landscaping architects specify this lilac rather freely; that they seem to like it — but who can fathom their minds."

WRITING OF the Magnolia koulangeana this same author states that, "It is the most showy of flowers which lights up the scenery with its large rose tinted blooms." He further adds, "It is a handsome tree, or large shrub, when in bloom, but for the rest of the summer only a coarse-leaved thing that is rather out of place in the home landscape." We prize our magnolias very highly and feel that they would make a fitting adornment in any yard.

A lady phoned a few days ago and brought up the perennial question of what to do about aphids. They are often massed on the tips of new growth on a number of plants such as spiraea, roses and even on fruit trees on which they curl and deform the leaves. They usually work on the under side of leaves.

APHIDS CAN be controlled by the use of nicotine sulphate and other insecticides containing rotenone, pyrethrum, or malathion. Starting control measures early with an all-purpose dust, or spray, is usually effective. The use of DDT is not desirable, since it kills the lady beetles, aphids and some other insects that prey on the aphids.

Offtimes the gardener overlooks the benefits that are derived from the activities of these predatory insects that are so valuable, as well as the birds. The aphids would be much more numerous, if it were not for the presence of lady beetles, or lady bugs, as they are often called.

THE THRIPS are noted for the damage that they do to glads, rasping the foliage and spoiling the blossoms. A ten-day schedule of dusting, or spraying, will generally keep them under control. They often work on rose buds and other flowers as well. As soon as the enlarged rose buds show color, or even before, the minute thrips may start to work on the tips of some of them and considerable damage may be done by the time the petals begin to unfold.

The rose snout-beetle, also, damages roses by drilling holes in buds during the early stages and may injure them to such an extent that at times they fail to open, or become imperfect blooms.

Therefore, do not neglect your regular dusting, or spraying, schedules, if you hope to have your flowers and vegetables as free from insect damage as possible.

Disbursements totaled $1,393.36. The working capital on hand is $1,720.10.

James Holtan, area representative, complimented the county unit on its campaign and urged members to attend the annual state meeting at Waukesha Oct. 22-23. He spoke of the society's Camp Wawbeek near Wisconsin Dells. It opened Sunday and was filled to capacity.

Members voted to purchase two wheelchairs to be stored in the office of Mrs. Mabel Kroch, county nurse, and made available to county residents. They are making arrangements to send three handicapped children to Camp Wawbeek for two-week vacations; appropriated $200 for hospital expenses for two families; donated $200 to Camp Wawbeek, half to be used in the general fund and half for building up the camp-out area, and voted to purchase 500 brochures explaining the work of the Easter Seal Society to distribute throughout the county.

Lord Assails Magnusson in Insurance Case

ST. PAUL (AP) — The major role of U.S. Atty. Miles Lord in the investigation of American Allied Insurance Co. continued to overshadow other developments Wednesday, with Lord himself showing up in court to openly criticize Insurance Commissioner Cyrus Magnusson.

Lord said a federal grand jury had begun an investigation of the firm and its owners and will continue that probe once the current state court matter is finished.

Also disclosed was a possible visit to Minnesota by Dean Sharp, an investigator for a subcommittee of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Committee.

Emphasis in the court battle shifted late Wednesday from the company side to the state's side. The company is seeking an injunction against further investigation by Magnusson's office; he in turn is seeking to put the firm into receivership — an action he says was forced by Lord and Atty. Gen. Robert Mattson.

Lord, who has been subpoenaed but not called as a witness, showed up in court and announced he would be pleased to appear as a witness. He said his actions and those of Mattson were for one purpose:

"That was to elicit from Cyrus Magnusson why he did not properly enforce his own regulations and laws and why these defendants benefited from this."

Lord apparently used the term "defendants" to apply to Philip Kitzner and his son, Philip Jr., owners of American Allied.

Customs Bureau Collections Up

Blair Council Buys Insurance

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — Blair's common council has updated its insurance coverage.

Insurance proposals from the Halverson Agency, Blair; Leonard Ellison Agency, Whitehall, and the Danielson and Guberud Agency, La Crosse, were reviewed. Representatives of the architectural building firm and the financing agency working on the nursing home discussed progress. No results of the soil boring tests were available, but they were assumed to be satisfactory. The financial consultants reviewed the amount of money needed, the amount to be provided locally, and the total raised by the bond sale.

Oswald Slette, Edward Gunderson, Julius Erickson and James Berg Sr., representing the nursing home corporation were urged by the council to deposit locally raised funds with the city treasurer and be prepared to sign an operating lease with the city.

Will Weekend Be Another Wet One?

Another weekend coming up and you guessed it... rain is forecast for Winona and vicinity.

A quick look at the records since May 1 reveals that some precipitation has fallen on all but three of the past 11 weekends.

AND FROM the looks of the Weather Bureau's official forecast for Saturday and Sunday, this weekend will be no exception.

Showers and thunderstorms tonight and Saturday, the forecast says, with a little warmer weather tonight and continued warm weather Saturday. A low of 60-65 is predicted for tonight and a high of 70-82 for Saturday. What about Sunday? Mild with showers or thunderstorms likely, the weatherman says. Since May 1 weekend weather has been like this:

May 1 and 2 ..... No rain
May 8 and 9 ..... .02
May 15 and 16 ..... .44
May 22 and 23 ..... .14
May 29 and 30 ..... No rain
June 5 and 6 ..... .29
June 12 and 13 ..... No rain
June 19 and 20 ..... .08
June 26 and 27 ..... ?

THE EXTENDED forecast for the next five days indicates temperatures for Southeastern Minnesota and Western Wisconsin will average a little above normal daily highs of 73-83 and nighttime lows of 50-61.

Precipitation may amount to as much as an inch and a half through Wednesday, the forecast said, with showers over the weekend and again on Tuesday. Under clear skies the Winona (temperature rose to 78 Thursday afternoon, dropped to a cool 53 overnight and was 76 at noon today.

This contrasts with a high of 85 a year ago today and a low of 58. All-time high for June 25 was 96 in 1873 and 1901. Low for the day was 47 in 1926. Mean for the past 24 hours was 63. Normal for this time of the year is 72.

The temperature dropped to 51 at Duluth and International Falls this morning. Rochester posted a low of 56 after a Thursday high of 76 and La Crosse had figures of 53 and 78 for the same times.

The Weather Bureau revised its predictions for the MISSISSIPPI in the next several days with a smaller drop than predicted previously. The stage was 8.1 down 3 of a foot since Thursday and slated to go to 7.7 Saturday, 7.4 Sunday and 7.1 Monday.

Fair and pleasant weather prevailed over all of WISCONSIN Thursday and there was no precipitation during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today. Temperatures Thursday ranged from a high of 81 degrees in the Beloit-Rockford area to 71 at Park Falls. The lowest during the night was 47 at Madison.

The national extremes were 103 at Presidio, Texas, and 34 at Pellston, Mich.

Nelson Railroad Light Installation Delayed to July 19

NELSON, Wis. — The order of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission that the Milwaukee Railroad install and maintain a light above the tracks at the Highway 35 crossing in Town of Nelson within 30 days has been amended.

Upon request from the railroad, the time for erecting the light has been extended to 45 days, or July 19.

A suitable light to illuminate the crossing, where a Peppin girl was killed in a collision with the Milwaukee freight last fall, was ordered May 20 by the commission following a hearing at Durand at which petitioners for the light were heard.

The commission will hold a hearing at Madison July 19 at 10 a.m. on application of GENERAL TELEPHONE CO. of Wisconsin for authority to establish a surcharge of $5 a month for foreign exchange service when extended-area service exists between the normal exchange and the foreign exchange.

The application would cover 17 Western Wisconsin exchanges, including Fall Creek, Eau Claire County.

Planners Wait Reports on Parking, Sites

The City Planning Commission said Thursday night it will await feasibility reports and cost studies before it makes recommendations on downtown parking and vocational - technical school sites.

Commissioners looked over reports by the Chamber of Commerce parking committee and by B. B. Chapman, city planner. The chamber's study of downtown off-street parking needs suggested two new half-block lots be created in the retail business area. The Chapman report outlines factors involved in locating the proposed vocational school near the downtown business district.

THE CHAMBER report endorsed purchase and clearing by the city of the west half-block bounded by 3rd, 4th, Walnut and Market streets and the south half-block bounded by 3rd, 4th, Center and Main streets. Financing would be by revenue from the parking meter fund which, commissioners said, is theoretically dedicated to improvement and maintenance of parking facilities.

James Foster, commission member, said he doubted the value of such an expenditure when downtown buildings are in generally rundown condition. These should be remodeled, he argued, in order to attract people, at which time the request for additional parking could be justified and met.

William F. White said it is a chicken-or-egg situation where, if parking facilities were expanded, businesses would be impelled to spruce up their premises. The project is not primarily for merchants' benefit, he added, but is one of enlightened self-interest for the city.

"THE CITY," said White, "gets much more taxes from places which do much more business. The better we make it for potential customers, the more of them we will have in the downtown core area." White said the core area is the "vital necessary heart of the city."

E. J. Sievers, commission chairman, pointed out that the chamber had committed itself to induce merchants to upgrade their own facilities in connection with expanded parking programs.

Boat Grounds Near Whitman

Changes in Mississippi River channels caused by spring floods were blamed for the grounding of a towboat and six barges above Whitman Dam Thursday night.

The St. Joseph, with a cargo of corn, was freed today about 11:30 a.m. after spending more than 12 hours jammed crosswise in the river, three miles above the dam. It was helped back into the channel by the towboat Arrowhead, according to officials at the Whitman Dam.

Traffic was effectively blocked by the grounded tow. This morning four towboats waited upriver and two towboats were held up downstream while the St. Joseph was being worked loose.

Dam officials said the tow suffered no visible damage. It was locked through on its way downstream shortly after being rocked free of the sandbar.

Singer Given Sentence With State Youth Unit

A one-year reformatory sentence was voided for Donald Singer, 21, Minnesota City, Thursday afternoon in District Court; instead Judge Arnold Hatfield imposed an indefinite term with the Youth Conservation Commission.

Singer was sentenced June 14 to serve one year in the St. Cloud Reformatory after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarizing Fiberite Corp., 515 E. 3rd St., Feb. 28.

HOWEVER, the youth was sent back from the reformatory when officials there learned that his sentence actually amounted to less than one year, after credit was given for 90 days Singer had spent in county jail.

On Singer's return, moreover, it was discovered that he had been erroneously given the prison term. He was only 20 at the time of his arrest for the burglary, and state law requires sentencing to the YCC for youths under 21 who have been convicted of felonies.

Consequently, Judge Hatfield voided the original sentence and ordered Singer sent to Lino Lake, Minn., the YCC's reception center.

The law requires that a youth be turned over to the YCC for the full length of the prison term that would be imposed on an adult. In Singer's case, the term is five years.

HOWEVER, Judge Hatfield noted that Singer would probably spend less time with the YCC than he would have spent at St. Cloud, since the commission has full discretion to release youths assigned to it whenever it is thought the youth is ready to re-enter society.

"They determine then whether you should be kept in the institution or put out on a forestry farm or should be released on probation immediately," Judge Hatfield told Singer.

The judge said he was sorry for the mistake in sentencing, but he noted that Singer's sentence would not be lengthened as a result and that he would be better off with the YCC. Singer agreed.

County Attorney S. A. Sawyer represented the state, and Attorney Dennis A. Challen represented Singer.

Town Board Votes More Insurance; Hall Burns Down

The Wilson Township hall burned down early today after the township board had agreed Thursday night to buy more building insurance when the present policy expired next month.

The one-story frame building on Highway 76, a mile east of Wilson, was discovered burning about 4:50 a.m. by workers on their way to an I-90 construction job.

THE WORKERS stopped at the Robert Hornberg farm to call Sheriff George L. Fort and the Winona fire department. However, the tank truck sent out arrived too late to save the building.

Sheriff's deputy Lamar Fort drove to the scene and interviewed members of the board about 5:30 a.m.

Fort found that the fire had begun in an outhouse attached to the hall. The township board had met Thursday night and adjourned between 10 and 10:30 p.m., the deputy learned.

Among business discussed was a motion to raise insurance coverage on the town hall from $4,500 to $5,000. The motion was approved and would have been put into effect with the expiration of the present policy July 10.

Township Clerk Henry F. Meyer said that no records were destroyed in the fire since he keeps them at his home.

THE BUILDING contained nothing of great value, Meyer said, listing such articles as benches, chairs, a table, an old desk and an old piano.

The wooden building measured 24 by 40 feet, according to Meyer. It was built about 75 years ago, he estimated.

The two Winona firemen at the scene laid 200 feet of hose-line and worked more than an hour to control the blaze. The call was received at 5:06 a.m., and the truck returned at 6:30.

City Assessed $1,804 in Inn Appeal Expenses

Included in the Minnesota Supreme Court decision reversing a District Court decision in the Holiday Inn case last month was an order entitling appellants to recover the costs of their appeals from defendants, the City of Winona.

The authorized costs amount to $1,804.78. The Supreme Court order lists these charges as recoverable from the city: Trial transcript, $1,270; printer, $494.78; statutory fee, $25; and clerk's fees, $15.

Appellants, a group of Winona landowners who claimed they would be damaged by the building of a proposed Holiday Inn at U. S. 61-14 and Huff Street, have not yet submitted a bill to the city for their appeal costs, however.

Another Youth Arrested With Stolen Motor

Apprehension of a second youth who had used a stolen motor to power a homemade vehicle was reported today by Police Chief James W. McCabe.

The chief said that a 2½-horsepower gasoline motor stolen from the car of Dan Finucane, Galesville, Wis., June 13 was taken by a 16-year-old youth who wanted it to power a homemade go-cart.

THE YOUTH and a companion who cooperated in building the cart, were apprehended Thursday night by Patrolman James L. Bronk who stopped them for driving the brake-less vehicle in the street.

Bronk found that the motor fitted the description of Finucane's missing motor, and the boys were turned over to juvenile authorities for further action. The motor is worth $45, according to Finucane.

The motor was taken from the Galesville man's car while the vehicle was parked at the municipal marina the weekend of the 13th.

A SIMILAR theft and apprehension occurred last week. A youth was discovered in his theft when the woman victim of it saw him riding past her house at 215 Kansas St., on a motorbike powered by the motor from her missing lawnmower.

The 15-year-old had pried the lock off Mrs. Walter Haase's garage to steal the lawnmower last week. By the weekend, he had his motorbike ready, but he didn't enjoy it for long.

Father Receives Suspended Term

Judge John D. McGill gave a Winona man 20 days to make up the arrears in his child support payments or face 60 days in county jail after the man pleaded guilty to a non-support charge today in municipal court.

Daniel Borkowski, 727 W. King St., was charged by his divorced wife with failing to make court-ordered support payments of $50 a month for his 8-year-old daughter since May 1.

Borkowski told Judge McGill that he gives his wife $20 or $30 whenever he can. He hasn't been working steadily lately, Borkowski said; but he gave his former wife $30 Thursday night.

Judge McGill sentenced the defendant to serve 60 days in county jail, suspended on condition Borkowski keep up in his future support payments and make up the arrears from May 1. The judge gave him 20 days to make good on the unpaid May support allotment.

Common School Districts To Meet Tuesday Evening

Winona County common school districts will join those around the state in holding their annual meetings Tuesday.

The business at these meetings will include setting levies for the coming year (fiscal 1966) and electing one officer—either clerk, treasurer or chairman, depending on what term is expiring in a particular district.

IT WILL BE the last such meeting for seven of these districts, all of which fall under a state law that provides for the automatic dissolution of any remaining closed districts July 1.

These districts are not required to meet, however, and some will not.

Most closed districts in the county—a closed district is one that does not operate a school—voluntarily merged with other districts prior to the deadline, but these seven waited.

Their fates will be decided by the Winona County Board of Commissioners at its July meeting. Commissioners have indicated, however, that they will follow the wishes of district residents whenever possible.

Common districts that will fall under the law July 1 are 2548, Clyde district; 2571, Faber district; 2577, Richmond district; 2605, Silo district; 2621, Gordes district; 2624, Frisch district; and 2628, Richmond Ridge district.

OTHER CLOSED districts in the county will remain in existence because of three exceptions for which the law provides. A closed district may continue to exist if its children are educated in a special district with which the common district has a contract, if its children are educated under a contract with the State College Board or the University Board of Regents, although this does not apply to any districts in this county) or if at least 75 percent of its children are served by a private elementary and secondary school.

Many closed districts around Winona send their children into special District 5 here. Pupils from Goodview (CSD 2606) go to Phelps school, operated by Winona State College. Hollingsworth (CDS 2566) is one of two districts in the state to which the third exception applies. Most of its children attend Holy Trinity School, operated by Holy Trinity Catholic parish.

With 22 working days remaining, all parts of the current Mankato Avenue widening project have been completed except paving, sidewalks and sodding, the city engineer's office said today.

General contractor for the $43,664 project is Winona Plumbing Co.

The project extends from 3rd Street to Broadway and will provide a 64-foot street, comprising four traffic lanes and two parking lanes.

Sinatra Gets Family Together

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Frank Sinatra's daughter Tina had been celebrating her 17th birthday for a couple of days . . . so Frank got together a family group consisting of Nancy Sr., Nancy Jr., and himself . . . they went to the Colony for dinner . . . to Basin St. East to rock with Trini Lopez . . . then to Jilly's on W. 52nd St. to end the night and greet the morning.

Tina's birthday celebration had started in St. Louis where Frank did a big charity show . . . then Frank, Tina, Big Nancy and Little Nancy flew to N. Y. in Frank's new jet.

They sat on the back mezzanine at Basin St. Frank across the table from Nancy Sr., and beside Nancy Jr. The whole Sinatra clan clapped hands and shook their shoulders in tempo to Trini's beat.

Trini, now an international celebrity himself, gives Frank credit for getting him his first big-time job: at Cal-Neva at Lake Tahoe.

And Frank huddled at the table with him last night, talking business, it sounded like to me, concerning Reprise Records.

Trini's now 28. "How old were you when you hit?" I asked Sinatra. "Twenty-three . . . 24," he said.

"Without a guitar," I said. "I'm gettin' him a mandolin next week so he can get some place," said Jilly Rizzo.

Senator Bobby Kennedy brought out his lighter side at the testimonial to Mayor Wagner. "Here's a telegram, received by Paul O'Dwyer," he said. "It reads: 'I don't think any man should be qualified to run for office just because he has a well known name.'"

He also said, "It was planned to have all candidates for Mayor speak for 2 minutes. Unfortunately, it couldn't be done, as the hotel management had to close the room at midnight."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Johnny Carson explained how Dean Martin acquired a deep tan: "Dean found a bar with a skylight."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Bobby Goldsboro complains that his wife is overly emotional: "She even cries when she reads knitting instructions."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A bookie is just a pickpocket who lets you use your own hands." — Henry Morgan.

AT SAINT TERESA

Summer Theater Off to Good Start

By GEORGE MCCORMICK
Daily News Staff Writer

Summer theater at the College of Saint Teresa got off to a good start Thursday night as a well-directed cast romped through "Charley's Aunt."

Of course the plot is nothing but an impossible string of coincidences. Of course the characters are cardboard. These, however, are but the conventions of this Brandon Thomas period piece. Accept them, and the three-act farce becomes delightful fun.

AFTER A necessarily slow start, during which the characters identify themselves and set the situation, in comes Robert Carr, playing Lord Fan-court Babberly, playing the aunt. (It'll all quite simple, really. Jack Chesney and Charley have invited the objects of their affections to tea, ostensibly to meet Charley's aunt from Brazil, but really to get them alone for a while. The aunt, however, fails to come, and the young men must produce one from somewhere in order to provide a chaperone so that the genteelly-reared young ladies will stay. Their friend Babberly, in the clothes of an old woman, becomes the aunt.)

Things are never the same after this, and Carr walks off with the show in the palm of his lace-fringed hand. Everything that happens is predictable, true, but Carr carries it off so well that one never cares.

The high point must be the second act garden party when Carr, presiding at the tea table in the guise of the aunt, accidentally begins to pour tea into Mr. Spettigue's hat. He notices and — keeping his head when all about him are losing theirs — calmly continues to pour, adds sugar and cream, stirs, empties the hat into the teapot and returns the sodden bowl to its by-now speechless owner — all without even raising an eyebrow.

THE REST of the cast provides a perfect collective foil for Carr's antics. Steven Anderson is the reasonably resourceful Jack, and Nicholas DeMartino is the mindless but amiable Charley.

Their girls are prettily played by Nancy Ackels (Kitty) and Patricia Coughlin (Amy). Gayle Viehman is properly strong-minded as the real aunt and Patrice Patterson is suitably lovestruck as Elsie. Lord Babberly's beloved, who, naturally, shows up to complicate things further.

Warren Magnuson plays Sir Francis Chesney with a good sense of theatrical balance. Alfred Wolfram Jr., is just ridiculous enough as the old blusterer, Spettigue, and Victor Borgerson is the amused servant, Brasset.

John Marzocco's direction has produced a taut play that moves rapidly and gracefully. It is well staged, with sets by Marzocco and John Tiplady and costumes by Eileen Whalen.

VOICE of the OUTDOORS

Airport Lake Bass Each season a few big lunkers of largemouth bass produce exciting fishing for a dozen bass fishermen who really fish bass on Airport Lake. Ben Allen, a retired fisherman, used to win all the bass prizes a few years back with bigmouths taken there. So far this season, we have not heard of many good catches there. The water has been too high to get in among the trees.

However, Leo Wiggins, 477 Hiawatha Blvd., beat the bass at their lure cracking when the six-pounder he is holding in the above picture hit the popper. It was a beautiful fish and put up a good battle.

Fishing generally has improved over the last few days with the river approaching a normal stage. The predicted stage for Sunday is 6.9 feet or just a foot and a half above normal.

So walleyes should be hitting on the flats in the evening and early morning. Boat fishing over such areas should be quite productive. Panfishing in the backwaters continues good. Here is the dope from the Wisconsin wardens along the river.

BUFFALO COUNTY — Wardens Stanley Apel and Elliot Peterson: Fishing down a little from the past week, but some good catches still reported. Water falling and clear.

LA CROSSE COUNTY — Wardens Carl Erick and David Hammes: Good catches of sunfish and northern bass below Onalaska and Dresbach dams. Bass fair in both Pools 7 and 8 on weedless lures and in stump areas. Panfish fair. Walleyes still spotty. Water high and clear.

TREMPEALEAU COUNTY — Wardens Frederick Gardner and Harold Kubisiak: Panfishing fair to good in backwaters, worms and poppers best producers. Catfish fair to good on blood bait in Trempealeau and Black rivers. Walleyes and northern poor. Water conditions, high, but falling.

PIERCE COUNTY — Warden Maurice Black: Some activity on white bass. Fishing slow on Mississippi River and Lake Pepin. Water conditions above normal.

PEPIN COUNTY — Warden Marion Kinnear: Walleyes and sand pike slow on Lake Pepin. White bass hitting well, but small. Some northern bass being taken on spoons. Chippewa River producing some channel catfish, but generally slow. Lake Pepin has dropped in the last week.

JACKSON COUNTY — Wardens William Barton and Werner Radke: Nice bags of walleyes taken on Black River flowage, also several 4-inch northern and 3 to 5 pound black bass taken on minnows and artificial baits. Panfish and catfish good on Lower Black River. Trout fishing fair. Waters normal.

ST. CROIX COUNTY — Warden Norman Hicks: Bass hitting plugs on Bass Lake and Willow flowages. Panfish fair to good on Willow flowages and Bass

Burning Plane Guided to Safety

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — "My wife said it was one of the softest landings I ever made," smiled a Milwaukee pilot after guiding a burning plane to a blind emergency landing that saved the lives of four people.

The single-engine plane, its cabin clouded with smoke, was landed safely on a school playground by Frank Hessler, 55, a professional engineer, after it erupted in flames 2,000 feet above the city Thursday night.

"I couldn't see anything during the final stages of the descent," said Hessler.

The rented plane, involved in fire, rolled to a gentle stop on the playground as the four leaped out. Police Sgt. Joe Hebl said, "He did a tremendous job of landing the plane. Otherwise, all of them would have been killed."

Hessler, his wife, Marie; Dr. Melroy Kane, a South Milwaukee dentist, and his wife, Joan, were on a sight-seeing flight above this city of 68,000 when the unexplained fire broke out in the plane.

DEAR ABBY:

Fewer Wardens, But More Games

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I particularly enjoyed and appreciated your recent column on the need for hunting to preserve and improve many species of game. As I recall, there has been an open season on men ever since Eve opened up the fruit farm.

Yours for fewer game wardens and more game.

RED HUNTER

DEAR RED: You're confused. Eve did not open up a "fruit farm." She tempted Adam with a single apple. History is somewhat fuzzy concerning what followed, but I think Adam must have made appellation of it, because since that time, whenever a man yields to temptation, he discovers it's just a lot of appellation.

DEAR ABBY: In the past, when my husband and I would go to a party, he'd get tired around 11 o'clock and want to go home. I wouldn't be ready to go home that early, but I'd have to go with him and miss the best part of the evening. Now I'm not criticizing my husband, Abby. He works hard and has to get up early in the morning. But it isn't fair to me because I can sleep until noon if I want to. Well, we solved our problem by each driving his own car to the party. Now, when he's ready to go home, he goes. And I stay until I'm ready to go. Recently I was told that it didn't "look well" and I should cut it out. I'd like your opinion.

ABBY

DEAR OWL: If your husband doesn't care, the criticism of others is unimportant. But I agree, it doesn't "look well" and a lady should go home with the guy what brings her.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both elderly and not in the best of health. We live in a wonderful neighborhood with mostly younger married folks who are very kind. So many of the younger men have come over and offered to do odd jobs, and none of them would ever accept any pay. I am a good bread baker and have sent freshly baked bread to the various homes in appreciation of their help. Now a little "bird" has told me that I am causing some resentment because the husbands are nagging their wives to make bread. I don't want hard feelings, and wonder what I should do. Can you give me some advice?

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Keep right on baking that bread. Those who resent it could easily bake their own... they just wanna loaf.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the person who doesn't like people to sit beside her on a piano bench while she's playing. I share her sentiments.

The best way to get rid of them is to lean over very far in their direction to reach either the very high notes, or the low notes, depending on where they're sitting — and let them know they are in your way.

"SUBTLE"

DEAR SUBTLE: Subtlety is a waste of time with the denser set. I still say trade in the piano bench for a stool.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LBJ Says 'No' To Two Autos For $522,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — At President Johnson's request, a provision of $522,000 to buy two special limousines for his use has been stricken from an appropriation bill.

The action was taken Thursday by Senate and House conferees working on the annual Treasury-Post Office appropriations bill.

The limousines, with bullet-proof glass and other special protections, were requested by the Secret Service, which has the job of guarding the President's life.

When the plans for the special cars came to light several months ago, Johnson said he didn't want them.

Clash Over Control Of Military Intensifies

CONGRESS HAS demonstrated again its propensity to outdo the administration when it comes to spending. The House Armed Services Committee overwhelmingly approved a military pay raise more than double the amount the President asked.

It would, if finally enacted, add $1 billion to the annual cost of government and eventually go much higher when increases are reflected in retirement and other benefits.

There is little dispute that some adjustment is called for. In these troubled days the need for a military establishment based on highly-trained career men is obvious.

The administration proposal was designed to attract that kind of personnel and encourage re-enlistment by narrowing the pay gap between military and civil services.

The House committee chairman, South Carolina's Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, found the proposal "woefully inadequate." Members agreed, 33 to 1.

Unfortunately the committee's concern was not wholly for the servicemen. Involved in a sharp clash between Congress — and the House Armed Services Committee in particular — and the executive branch over control of military decisions.

THE HOUSE, recently whipped through committee a bill giving Congress veto power over the closing of unneeded military bases. If it becomes law either branch could protect any and all of the 669 unessential bases due for phasing out, if any member complained it would hurt him back home.

The Pentagon's economy program would be stopped cold.

The committee's over-generous pay raise is in the same category. It is a kick in the shins for Defense Secretary McNamara who urged the administration's scale of increases as adequate and in line with those proposed for other government employees.

IT IS A HABIT to play recklessly with tax dollars in these disputes and the committee members forget there is only one place for these to come from. The scrapping of guidelines, for whatever reason, only encourages others to seek a larger slice of the pie and the spiral of spending whirls ever more dizzily.

Another Method Of Press Control

IT HAS BECOME a newsroom cliché that any letter which begins by reminding the editors of their "responsibility" is a bid for the slanting of news in their behalf. "Distinguished newsmen" are those, then, who allow themselves to be influenced by such cliché mousers.

But there is larger and more serious side to the notion. Acceptance of a "socially responsible" press must in time lead to government control of the news media. And this is the opinion of an eminent journalist, Dr. John C. Merrill of the University of Missouri school of journalism.

The theory of "social responsibility" of the press, first raised in 1947 by the Hutchins Commission on Freedom of the Press and explored again in the book "Four Theories of the Press" in 1956, holds that the press should be free but that moral and ethical restrictions exist which impose on the media "responsibilities" to society. Some type of government regulations, the Commission suggested, might be needed to insure, for example, that a "responsible" press reports facts accurately and in meaningful context.

ACTUALLY, Dr. Merrill argues, the concept of social responsibility is meaningless. "A nation's social-political philosophy determines its press system . . . It follows that every nation's press system is socially responsible." The Communist press considers itself responsible because it always supports the party and government — the correct position under Marxist theory. Under the "authoritarian" system found in Spain, the press supports the state. Since the state is supreme, to support the state is to be responsible.

In fact, says Merrill only under a "libertarian" system (e.g., U.S., England) can people criticize the press and call it "irresponsible." Therefore he hypothesizes—the more social responsibility in the press, the more control of the press by outside groups.

Merrill contends that this "libertarian" or "press pluralism" concept, as found in the U.S., is much sounder and more meaningful than the "social responsibility" concept.

"ALL PRESS SYSTEMS are responsible to their societies, but the idea of a pluralistic media system injecting a variety of opinions and ideas into the social fabric is one which only the libertarian system can reasonably claim."

Politicians, of course, would like to control the press if only to keep their mistakes from being made public. They could make sure that only flattering news, comment and photographs of them would ever appear in public print. And, as happens in Russia, if the "outs" ever got control from the "ins" then history could be rewritten and all newspaper files destroyed that were in conflict with the new rulers' opinions.

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Baruch Gave Good Advice

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It is hard to realize that Bernard M. Baruch has passed away and that his constructive advice to presidents of the United States during the last half-century and the flow of comment to his friends on current topics are at an end.

Mr. Baruch's point of view on international questions is illustrated by a letter he wrote this correspondent on June 4. Lamenting the position which President De Gaulle has taken in world affairs, Mr. Baruch called attention to a memorandum he himself had written in January 1963, in which he had said:

"The fact is that France today seems to have forgotten not only America's part in two great wars, and our contribution to France's recovery from them, but the burdens we have been bearing for the past 15 years so that she and the rest of the world might continue to enjoy freedom and prosperity, so much of which is owed to us."

"THE DANGER of nuclear war, whether by design or accident, would also grow in proportion to the number of nations armed with atomic weapons. Every thoughtful person must recognize this, and De Gaulle deludes himself and his people by insisting that France's security requires her to build nuclear weapons."

"If France is to be an atomic power, why not Germany? And if Germany, why not Italy? And if Italy, why not every other nation? There is no longer any secret to the making of atomic weapons and there are few nations who could not find the resources to build them. Let the atomic arms race become a free-for-all, and we can abandon all hope for the future."

"De Gaulle is a strong-willed man, and it will take the most persuasive arguments to make him revise his views. But we must do everything possible to induce him to make room in his thinking not only for the glory and grandeur of France, but for the strength and unity of the free world and the safety of all men."

MR. BARUCH was especially helpful behind the scenes during the two world wars. He gave to the government from day to day the benefit of his intimate knowledge and experience in organizing the industries of America to supply the Allies in the crucial months of World War I. He once said to this writer: "If you understand raw materials, you understand the politics of the world."

Shortly after President Wilson appointed Mr. Baruch to serve as chairman of the War Industries Board, this correspondent wrote on Aug. 3, 1918:

"Mr. Wilson was impressed by the alertness of mind, ingenuity and daring shown by Bernard M. Baruch in gathering together raw materials and the suave and stimulating manner in which he had completed voluntary agreements with the lead, zinc, steel and copper producers at a saving of much money to the government. Mr. Baruch himself made millions in the stock market and in the development of mineral resources by keen prevision, but he resigned his seat on the New York Stock Exchange and, catching the spirit of national service, applied his talents with the same zeal to the cause of his country. The president has absolute faith in Mr. Baruch's integrity, his rare courage and qualities of instant decision."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Decades Have Placed Tarnish on U.N. Hope

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Twenty years ago, many of the world's statesmen were in San Francisco to sign the charter of the United Nations.

It was a period of great promise and they signed a document of great hope.

I was in San Francisco during part of the formation of the U. N. and I remember vividly the enthusiasm, the feeling that, despite the mistakes following the 1914-18 "war to end war," we would not make the same mistakes after World War II.

The United States this time would not welsh on the United Nations as it did on the League of Nations. The Senate would not become isolationist again, never would permit a little band of willful men to block the will of the majority in setting up the machinery of peace.

Twenty years have passed since then and today the lustre of the U. N. charter is tarnished, the earlier hope has dimmed.

There has been no time since the launching of the United Nations that it has been so frustrated, its staff members have felt so sterile.

THE REASONS are many and the faults are two-sided. They range from a haggle over money to the bypassing of peace-keeping machinery in Southeast Asia to the initial reliance on force in the Dominican Republic.

All of these, with the exception of the Dominican crisis, were inherited by the President. But in the eyes of history that makes no difference. If he fails, all the dream programs he has launched at home — education, anti-poverty, improved labor relations — come crashing to the ground.

After Bernard Baruch died, I went out in Lafayette Park and sat on a bench where he used to sit, looking at the White House. The park hadn't changed much — a rotund lady tourist stretched out on the grass taking a nap; a couple of stenographers snatched a sandwich in the shade; old men snoozed behind their newspapers; and the pigeons Baruch used to feed were still hungry.

AROUND the White House a new, temporary mesh wire fence was being erected. The old one was getting wobbly and rusty. There was a day when Baruch was in his prime and when I first came to Washington you could stroll through the White House grounds and up to the front door on your way to and from lunch. No guards challenged you on the stroll.

But no more. The problem of guarding the President has become too complex, the risks to his life too great.

This, to some extent, illustrates the complications of guarding the peace of the world, a far more complex job than it was 20 years ago.

Sitting on the bench I recalled one of the last stories told by Baruch to Elroy McCaw, the New York-Seattle TV magnate about the most important advice he had ever given to any president.

Shortly after the end of World War II, Baruch said, he got a telephone call from Gen. George Marshall, then chief of staff, later to become secretary of state and secretary of defense. Marshall said he would like to talk to Baruch right away.

"I'll come down and see you," Baruch replied.

"No, I'll come up and see you in about an hour," said Marshall.

WHEN HE arrived, Marshall told the elder-statesman that President Truman had been worried about the increasing friction between the United States and Russia. There had been shooting between American and Russian troops in Germany and trouble over the access to Berlin. Truman wondered whether the United States might not have to fight Russia eventually and therefore whether it was not better to do so now. At that time the United States had the advantage of the atomic bomb.

Baruch's advice was negative.

"I would be against it for three reasons," he said. "In the first place, the American people are not ready for such a war. They have just finished a long war, with Russia as an ally.

"Second, the world is not ready for such a war. World opinion would never understand it if the United States should attack its ally now."

"Third," concluded Baruch, "it is my opinion that history will line up the United States and Russia on one side and the Chinese on the other. Our eventual enemy will be the Chinks."

It is obvious from history that Truman and Marshall took Bernard Baruch's advice. And the present drift of history has shown that the chief problem facing Lyndon, the chief stumbling block to peace, is as Baruch put it in his Manhattanese, "the Chinks."

The Girls

"I'll take the mountains to the beach any time. You don't have to reduce for THEM."

WASHINGTON CALLING

Baruch's Life Great Triumph

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The career of Bernard Manner Baruch was, above all, the triumph of a personality. Behind the imposing facade that he presented to Senate committees and on the steps of the White House was the skill of an actor who if he had chosen to go on the stage, as one of his brothers did, would have been the greatest of his time.

In relaxed moments he enjoyed doing imitations of men he had known in public life. A classic, as he acted it out, was of a senator of huge girth irately trying to get into an upper berth. Baruch would do the voices, the senator, the pullman porter, the conductor — with the gestures.

His height and his imposing presence contributed greatly to the impression he made on everyone he met. Even after he had become almost totally deaf — a deafness which his hearing aid modified a little — he was a formidable witness in the many hearings at which he appeared over the years. There were those who felt his deafness was a positive help, since he could never hear a question he did not want to be bothered with.

PROFESSIONAL economists would rail at his conventional views on balancing the budget and holding down inflation. But while they could compete with him in terms of professional opinion they could never touch him in putting across a viewpoint.

His influence in Washington over the years was very great. One reason was his generosity with campaign contributions where they counted most. A close associate who had himself served a long period in Congress once said that he thought without much trouble he could compile a list of a hundred sitting Senators and Representatives to whom Baruch had contributed. He had a habit of phoning a favorite toward the end of a tough fight and saying:

"I've been following you and I just wanted to know if you needed any money."

SINCE THERE was never a politician who in the thick of a bitterly fought contest didn't need money, grateful sounds would come from the other end of the line and a check from Baruch for $5,000 would go into the mail that day. One of the remarkable aspects of his power and his personality was the wide range of his friendships. He was for many years close to Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, a notable conservative, and throughout most of his life he was a warm friend to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who was anathema to all right-thinking conservatives. He once, while still living in his five-story New York town house just off Fifth Avenue, told the following anecdote.

"Mrs. Roosevelt came to see me. There was a family crisis. For the first time I saw her cry. I went to my desk and wrote what I should think the largest personal check I ever wrote."

HE HAD A legion of friends in the press who found him a fascinating repository of events past and present. Whatever the crisis he always presented a front of serene confidence — confidence in his prescription if only the man in power would turn to him to find a way out of the trouble and confidence in the country. He liked to tell witty stories about his experience in Paris with Woodrow Wilson during the Versailles Conference.

His personality played a large part in the highly favorable press he almost always got. His critics, who were fond of calling him privately an old fraud, found this baffling and infuriating. At one point Baruch had on his payroll a long-time associate as a public relations adviser. His friends remarked that this service was about as superfluous as anything could be, since he needed no advice in this field. His occasional salty cynicism came out when he once remarked of this associate: "I'm afraid he's living beyond my means."

NOWHERE DID the man and the environment meet so perfectly as on his 50,000-acre South Carolina estate, Hobcaw Barony. It was a rare privilege to be invited to Hobcaw where Baruch presided with the antebellum

To Your Good Health

What to Do About The Hives

By J. G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: About a week before each menstrual period, bumps break out on my face, arms, chest and back. They itch terribly. I've tried different skin medications but they don't seem to help.

Can you suggest the cause and what can be done? I am not a teenager. — MRS. L. W.

This has the sign of being a form of urticaria or hives.

Hives is usually a result of an excessive release of histamine from the cells of the body — the basis of allergic reactions of many kinds.

While the precise chemistry of histamine behavior is extremely complicated, we can very often combat hives with judicious use of the antihistamine preparations. Counteract the excess of histamine, and you limit or prevent the bumps, rashes, itches and other manifestations.

The cause of this release of histamine? It can be a consequence of the change in body chemistry which takes place in the course of your menstrual cycle.

LET ME not be too positive about your case. After all, I am guessing sight unseen, but I do think you would do well to see your own physician. If his observation agrees with my guesswork, the use of an antihistamine preparation starting 10 days or so before your period might afford substantial relief.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am interested in learning more about douching. —MRS. A.J.

Douching is useful only if there is some purpose in applying heat or medication to that area. If you have any health problem, tell me what it is and I'll try to explain it and the treatment which applies to it.

Despite a considerable amount of folklore, the normal female doesn't need douching. There is no health aspect involved. The douche is useful medicinally for quite a lot of purposes, but is neither necessary nor helpful (and could at times even be harmful) for a healthy woman.

courtesy and kindness of the pre-Civil War past he treasured. This reporter has a vivid memory of sitting with him as he talked in a small garden enclosure at Hobcaw with several venerable Negroes from the nearby town. In this warmhearted exchange time stood still with the benevolent master of the plantation counselling his admiring dependents.

Evenings at Hobcaw often meant small-stake roulette. Baruch was the croupier, doing a perfect imitation of a Monte Carlo croupier calling in French for the end of the play as the wheel started to spin. In his day there was no one quite like him. And, given the extraordinary discipline he applied to a personality with a wide range, it is unlikely there will be again in our narrower and more conformist age.

Not a CENT for GOD!

What a story here! And it's all written down, too. The stub of an old check book! Here is part of the story of what one man wanted most in life. Here he selected and paid for the things dearest to his heart. Here is the measuring stick by which he determined things most valuable to him... his selection, then his check, his money. Mister, what would the stubs of one of your old check books reveal? Suppose in the future friends of yours should thumb through it. Would you be proud of your portrait there? Would you be ashamed of the relative importance it gave to the church on the corner? Don't kid yourself. As a good steward of the goodness of God, act on your better judgment today. Your church needs you, and you need your church.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET AGAIN . . .

The young people, who years ago attended the German Presbyterian Church, now occupied by the Winona Art Center at 5th and Franklin streets, met again Wednesday at a reunion luncheon at Hotel Winona. From left, seated, Mrs. N. A. Roettiger (Helen Gerson) 703 Main St.; Mrs. Jelmer Martinson (Olga Lafky), San Francisco, Calif.; Mrs. Anna Nissen (Uhlman), 355 E. Sanborn St.; Mrs. L. H. Hayenga (Esther Bar-kow), Orlando, Fla.; Mrs. Minnie Schell-haus (Brose), 508 Johnson St., and Mrs. Lydia Strachan (Figge), St. Charles, Minn., and standing, Dr. N. A. Roettiger, E. E. Lafky,

Jelmer Martinson and L. H. Hayenga.

There were about 30 in the original young people's group which was started in 1900. Mr. Hayenga's father, the Rev. L. H. Hayenga, was a minister in the old German Presbyterian Church here from 1890 to 1900. He left the church because he received a call from a German church in Lyon County, George, Iowa. The salary offered him was the tremendous sum of $500 a year. The letter to him read in part — "You will never want for any material things." Rev. and Mrs. Hayenga had eight children then. ## Rushford Organist Ends 40-Year Stint

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — Miss Rosa Knutson, lifelong resident here, has resigned after more than 40 years as organist of the Rushford Lutheran Church.

Rosa said she enjoyed serving as organist. "It is a rewarding job and one whereby a person is contributing to the congregation and to her Lord with the talents He has given." Although she has found the job confining at times, she said that one gets used to this.

When she first started playing, she did so intermittently. The church had a piano and a reed organ at that time. In 1914, an organ was given to the church in memory of the late Jens Jursrud by his family. This organ was rebuilt in the summer of 1957.

On her appointment Rosa did not know how to play the organ, so the trustees, as they were called then, paid her expenses to take about six lessons in La Crosse. The first years were quite difficult as she was self-taught from then on. She studied music at St. Olaf College.

She was the only organist for all services up until the last few years when two services were started. James Stephens, Sybil and Carol Betz and Naomi Julrud, Rushford High School youths, took over the first service on Sunday morning.

Most church organists are now on a salary but when Rosa first started, offerings were taken on special holidays to pay her.

BOUND FOR MISSION FIELD . . . Center are Pastor and Mrs. M. Eugene Foehring, Rushford, Minn., who will serve the Bra-

NASON ON EDUCATION

Getting Down To Fundamentals

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D. University of Southern Calif.

It's pretty hard to bluff your way through arithmetic without knowing the multiplication tables. This is just one of the things a student must know without thinking.

Elsie, for example, first had difficulty in arithmetic and in algebra. Her algebra teacher discovered the reason quite by accident. She was giving Elsie individual help after class. The problem they were working involved nine times six. Teacher waited patiently until Elsie came up with the correct answer: 54.

"How did you get it?" asked the teacher. "Well," said Elsie, "I have never told anyone this before but I didn't learn all the multiplication tables. I know nine times five and I count from there."

NO WONDER Elsie couldn't keep up with her class. By the time she had figured out answers she should have known automatically and instantly the teacher was already one or two steps ahead in the solution of the problem.

The number facts of addition and subtraction, as well as the multiplication tables, should be learned so well that answers come automatically. The student's mind will then be free to think about the problem at hand. For example, long division is difficult for students only when they lack a mastery of the simple operations.

When a student can look at nine and six and SEE 54 as the sum without any hesitation, he has a great advantage. The well prepared student needs only one two-hundredths of a second for the recall.

Perhaps the single effort during the summer that can best help a child catch up and get a head start toward learning arithmetic in the fall is practice with flash cards. There are cards on the market which the child can use unaided. He should practice until he knows the answers instantly.

AS A BONUS, a pupil who knows the answers avoids errors that creep in when the answers must be thought out.

Fortunate also is the student who has formed the habit of instant recognition of words; whether they be in arithmetic, science or general reading. Both speed and understanding are increased when the meaning and perhaps much more about a word pops into his mind without his having to struggle for recall.

"Automatic knowing" can be developed with practice. A pupil can develop this skill during the summer while reading magazines and newspapers. It might take work with a dictionary and repeated readings, especially at first, but having gained the habit through summer practice it will stand him in good stead when he returns to formal study in the fall.

At the start of school each new course has its new words. The sooner these are mastered to a "knowing" stage the easier will it be for a pupil to prepare his lessons and the more he will learn in class.

Rushford Pastor, Wife Leave for Brazil Soon

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — A commissioning service for Pastor and Mrs. M. Eugene Foehring, who are going to Brazil as missionaries, will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Rushford Lutheran Church by Pastor Alton Halvorsen, assistant to the executive division of World Missions, American Lutheran Church.

The community is invited to attend the service and a reception from 3:30 to 6 in the church parlors.

PASTOR Halvorsen, who has been a missionary in Madagascar, will deliver a sermon at 2 p.m. Mrs. Foehring attended his commissioning service at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Minneapolis while she was working at church headquarters prior to her marriage.

Pastor John Rockne will be liturgist. Pastors Percy Larson, North Prairie, and Richard Lee and Denny Brake, Houston, also will participate. At the 9:30 service Sunday, nine Rushford Boy Scouts will receive For God and Country awards. This will be the largest number of Scouts to have received the church award at one time at Rushford Lutheran Church.

The Foehringers will leave Rushford next week to visit relatives before boarding ship at New Orleans Aug. 11, reaching Santos, Sao Paulo, about Aug. 26. For a year they will live in Campinas, city of about 60,000, where they will study Portuguese with four other families at an American Lutheran School.

THE FIVE families will have 25 children with them. The Foehring children will study half-days each at a school sponsored by Americans working in the city and at a Portuguese school, where they will wear uniforms.

Earlier in life both Rev. and Mrs. Foehring dreamed of going to the mission field. However, since ordination in 1952 at Seneca, Ill., and subsequent duty at Zion Lutheran Church, Ruthven, Iowa, and Rushford beginning in 1957, they had given it up, particularly since the maximum age limit for accepting missionaries, 35, had passed.

A mission festival here last fall revived their interest, particularly when Missionary David J. Nelson, Brazil, said, "The great need in Brazil is not so much for men coming directly from the seminary but for experienced parish pastors to help in the already established Brazilian Lutheran Church of some 600,000 members."

When they promptly received application blanks, they began to think of barriers — the schooling of their five children: Paul 12; the twins, Mary Lorraine and Lois Marcella, who'll celebrate their 10th birthdays aboard ship, hoping the captain will give them a party; Mark Eugene, 7, and Ruth Ann, 2. But with their series of six immunizations completed, they're eager to go.

ONLY TIPPY, the family dog, will be left behind with Mrs. Foehring's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Egenmo, on their farm near Cylinder, Iowa. The children hope he'll still be there when they come back on furlough five years from now; he'll be about 10.

Mrs. Foehring dates her desire to be a missionary to girlhood when she was inspired by the story of the Apostle Paul; she named her first son for him.

Mrs. Foehring, the former Marcelle Lorraine Birkland, was born at Cylinder. Her father, Ray Birkland, died when she was 16 days old. While attending Lutheran Bible Institute and Minnesota Business College in Minneapolis she worked parttime in the Luther League office there. She met her future husband while attending St. Olaf College, Northfield. They were married in 1949, about a year following his graduation.

MURL Eugene Foehring was born Sept. 29, 1925, at Ashburn, Mo., to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foehring Sr. The family moved to Seneca, Ill., in 1931. He worked at the St. Olaf Boarding Club while putting himself through college. He made his preliminary application to the mission board while a senior at St. Olaf.

They've packed most of the things they'll take along in 55-gallon steel drums lined with plastic bags and the rest will go in steamer trunks. They've sold their furniture and many personal things but will take along a washing machine, sewing machine, heating stove, water heater, pasteurizer, electric appliances, kitchen equipment, linens, clothing and books.

Arcadia Physician Going to Canada

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Dr. Hugo Schlagentweit, Arcadia physician, will terminate his practice here next Thursday to establish a private practice in or near Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

Dr. Schlagentweit will leave Arcadia shortly after the first of the month to make arrangements for his new practice. He expects to return about the middle of July to take his family back with him.

A native of Germany, Dr. Schlagentweit joined Dr. Thomas Chisholm as a partner in the Arcadia Medical Center in December 1962, coming here from Goodsoil, Sask., Canada, where he had practiced 10 years. He is a member of the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital.

How Long Will Viet War Last?

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — How long will the war in South Viet Nam last?

The prospect is that victory still is an indefinite number of rice crops away and probably an indefinite number of billions of dollars.

That is, if it is fought to a military conclusion.

Some pessimists hold that victory on the battlefield can be won, if at all, only after decades of steady wearing struggle and that the only sensible solution will result from political negotiations. But no negotiations are in sight.

Some optimists think that a military verdict can be achieved in at most a few years by cutting off the Viet Cong from their supply sources and destroying their strength in the field by the attrition of many battles.

All agree, more or less, however, that military victory will be delayed or rendered impossible if the South Vietnamese fail to maintain a strong central government in Saigon which the people can respect and support. After being in the country six weeks and talking with scores of people at many levels I wonder if my judgment of the situation is any better than it was after I had been here six hours.

This is one of those places in which the more you study the less sure you are that you have all the key facts in hand.

I'd like to present the view of some of those I've discussed the war with.

An American colonel: "I thought it was hopeless. But now I have hope. I think our airpower has enabled us to turn the corner. It boosted the morale of the people. I don't know how long it will take but I believe now we can win."

A French businessman:

"You can't win with airpower and you can't win by running up and down the roads in armored cars. The French tried that and lost. You can't win except with masses of infantry. Until you do that we are all prisoners here."

An American major: "If we had enough artillery and mop-up units stationed along the Laotian border to intercept their supplies we could whip them in the field. I'd say we could do it in two or three years."

A veteran newspaperman: "The Viet Cong aren't getting weaker, they're stronger. They used to fight as squads, platoons or, at the most, as companies. Now they're organized at the battalion and even regiment level. They hold the countryside. We hold cities. Our airpower is hurting them but where are we going to get the manpower to whip them?"

An American sergeant: "If they (the South Vietnamese) can't win with their own guns we can't do it with dollars. This whole country to me isn't worth one drop of American blood. I get out of here in three months and I'll be glad to go."

An American captain: "We can win over here if the American people will just stick with us. If a guy is willing to lay his life on the line to what we're trying to do over here, the people back home shouldn't mind paying a little extra tax money."

Whatever the outcome of the war is, clearly it isn't a struggle for the sunshine soldier or the summer patriot. It's a grinding bewilderment in a quest for success.

80 Girl Scouts Conclude Week's Fun at Wi-Gi-Sco-Ca

Eighty Girl Scouts today concluded their week-long fun at Camp Wi-Gi-Sco-Ga, under the direction of Hubert Bambenek.

TILE GIRL SCOUTS were fortunate in having beautiful sunny weather most of the week. They left Winona by buses each morning at 9 o'clock.

"As the buses got under way song broke out and never ended until camp was seen," said Mr. Bambenek. Daily, the girls returned to Winona at 3:30 p.m., to be picked up by their parents at the Cathedral parking lot.

Mr. Bambenek reports that each day started with a flag ceremony by the group, after which the Scouts went to their separate camp units. They explored the camping area and got acquainted with camp rules the first morning. At noon they had lunch at the lodge and then all took a "siesta."

NATURE HIKES were taken when the girls were taught the identity of trees and bushes and cautioned against poison ivy. They observed turtles digging their nesting holes and some that were laying eggs.

Fish bones were found, to the wonderment of all, until it was explained that the reason the fish were so far from water was that they had been carried there by animals.

"It was a sight to see the girls on their hikes, each carrying a hiking stick, topped with an Indian corn-cob doll and little colored feathers waving in the breeze."

A highlight of the week was the Robinson Crusoe treasure hunt, in which the girls followed an arrow-head trail. At its end they discovered a huge chest sunk in the ground, in which was found silver and some goodies.

Another feature that proved popular Mr. Bambenek said, was the row boat, anchored in sand, in which the girls learned to row and about boating safety rules.

Indian sand painting was a learned and the Girl Scouts made Indian designs from legends they were told. Each day a Girl Scout story was recounted, as the girls sat under a huge Girl Scout emblem, posted at the lodge.

Other activities included cook-outs, an over-night for some of the older girls and water fights.
