Cause Sought in $815,000 Fire

Magnusson Says He Won't Resign

ST. PAUL (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Magnusson sent a formal rejection today to Gov. Karl Rolvaag's request that he resign.

Rolvaag said he planned to meet with Atty. Gen. Robert Mattson this afternoon to discuss the next step, which presumably would revolve around an attempt to fire Magnusson. The governor asked for the resignation Saturday, one day after Magnusson and 16 others were indicted for alleged fraud by a federal grand jury.

Asked his reaction to Magnusson's refusal, Rolvaag said: "My reaction is one of disappointment, since I was careful not to prejudice his case but merely sought to restore public confidence in the insurance department."

In his letter, Magnusson echoed his statement late Saturday in refusing to resign. Magnusson wrote:

"In reply to your letter, I have no reason to resign as insurance commissioner and therefore refuse your request. I am innocent of any wrong doing and will be fully vindicated in court."

In a letter carried to Magnusson's home by a member of the governor's staff Saturday, Rolvaag asked the commissioner to resign "because it is imperative that public confidence in all matters pertaining to insurance be restored."

Within hours, the executive committee of the Minnesota Association of Mutual Insurance Agents endorsed the governor's action.

But Magnusson fired back the same day. "I can tell you without equivocation, I have no intention of resigning," he told The Associated Press. "I have done nothing wrong. A man is presumed innocent until found guilty."

The federal grand jury charged that the 17 defendants conspired to take $4 million from American Allied — which sold high-risk auto insurance in 32 states — and related firms controlled by Philip Kitzner Sr. of Chicago and his sons.

Magnusson is specifically accused of allowing American Allied to start operating in Minnesota in 1963 without proper financial backing and of allowing company officers to pocket 15 per cent of premium receipts without regard for its financial status.

"The charges contained in the indictment against me personally are extremely weak and innocuous," Magnusson said Saturday, "and they form no basis for a demand such as the governor has sent to my home today."

Earlier, Rolvaag had said he planned no action over the weekend. But a staff member said the governor's decision to seek Magnusson's resignation came after an all-day conference with the attorney general's staff.

The governor's letter said: "I hereby request your immediate resignation as commissioner of insurance for the state of Minnesota."

"I make this request because it is imperative that public confidence in all matters pertaining to insurance be restored. In my considered judgment, your continued presence as commissioner of insurance can no longer effectively serve that highly desired goal."

"The criminal matter now pending in the federal court will, of course, be determined in that proceeding, and I make no pre-judgment in that regard."

"Sincerely yours."

17 Dead in Minnesota Accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seventeen persons died from Minnesota traffic accidents over the weekend, raising the 1965 toll to 672.

That compares with 696 a year earlier. On Oct. 1, the figures were 580 and 616, a gap of 36.

Edward Benson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Benson of Crosby, was killed Sunday afternoon when struck by a car in Crosby.

Gary Lynn Davis, 24, Fergus Falls, died Sunday night, the Highway Patrol said, after the car he was driving rolled over on Highway 59 about five miles south of the Grant-Otter Tail County line, in western Minnesota. Alvina Mortenson of Fergus Falls, a passenger in Davis' car, escaped injury, as did three passengers in the other car. The other driver, Carroll Anderson, 24, Wendell, Minn., suffered minor cuts to the face.

Ralph Lange, 33, a suburban St. Paul father of six, and William J. Fenz, 21, St. Paul, were killed early Sunday when a car ran off a U. S. 61 curve and rolled over a bank in St. Paul. Passengers Thomas Johnson, 18, and Bruck Barkus, 17, both of St. Paul remained hospitalized today, Johnson in critical condition and Barkus in poor condition.

Anthony Schwegel Jr., 18, and Mark B. Walzing, 16, both of the St. Cloud area were killed Saturday night when Schwegel's motor scooter collided with a car on Minn. 152 south of St. Cloud, the Highway Patrol reported. The auto driver, Benedict Feld, 42, of Waite Park, was unhurt.

Six teen-agers were injured and Keith E. Briggs, 18, Spring Valley, was killed when Briggs' car ran off U. S. 63 and hit a culvert at Rochester Sunday.

Hospitalized at Rochester were David Theiss, 18; Mary Anderson, 18; Terrance Kerwin, 19; Karen Ann Koch, 18; Daniel L. Koch, 18, all of Spring Valley, and Rose M. Greenwood, 17, of Chester, Iowa. Theiss was listed in critical condition, the others as fair.

Douglas Schumacher, 11, of rural Stewart died near there Sunday when the tractor he was driving overturned and pinned his foot and gasoline ignited. The boy, burned beyond recognition, was the oldest of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Schumacher.

Albert Wirtjes, 65, of Herman died when his pickup truck collided with a semi-trailer truck south of that western Minnesota community late Sunday. The trucker, driving for Daggett Corp., of Frazee, was unhurt. The accident happened on Minn. 9.

Theodore A. Smith, 24, St. Paul, died when his car rolled off Minn. 95 south of Stillwater late Saturday. Nancy E. Wilson, 20, of Amery, Wis., his passenger, was hospitalized at Stillwater.

Mrs. Edward Kokes, 65, of Ord, Neb., died when her car collided with the rear of a truck on U. S. 59 south of Worthington Saturday, officers reported. Hospitalized were her two passengers, Mrs. Edna Whitmore, 30, Maywood, Calif., and Mrs. Whitmore's infant daughter Yvonne. Mervin Williams, 43, Worthington, the trucker, was unhurt.

Timothy Land, 18, Columbia Heights, died when his car hit a tree there Saturday. A passenger, Martha Patlock, 18, Columbia Heights, was hospitalized

$300,000 Loss In Downtown Rice Lake Fire

RICE LAKE, Wis. — Two buildings housing a barber shop, a shoe company, a hardware store and seven offices in downtown Rice Lake, were destroyed by fire which started Saturday night and continued into Sunday. Damage was estimated tentatively at $300,000. The cause of the blaze was not determined immediately but it was believed to have started in an unused coal bin.

Destroyed were the barber shop, the Sockness Shoe Co., Gamble's Hardware Store and the offices, including those of former Assemblyman Howard Cameron and Herman Friess, Barron County district attorney. No one was injured but Ronald Omdelton, 24, a fireman, was overcome by smoke. He was treated at the scene.

New York Klan Leader Kills Self

READING, Pa. (AP) — Daniel Burros, New York Ku Klux Klan leader, shot himself to death minutes after learning his Jewish origin had been made public, a fellow Klansman told police.

Burros, 28, died of two bullet wounds Sunday shortly after he had read a New York Times story detailing his long-hidden background.

The shooting was in the apartment of Roy E. Frankhouser Jr., 25, who has been named by the House Committee on Un-American Activities as grand dragon of the Pennsylvania Ku Klux Klan.

Frankhouser told police that Burros, after reading the Times story, said he had to go to New York to "wipe out" the Times reporter who had disclosed his secret and said he also would "wipe out" the newspaper staff.

Burros, whose death was listed by police as apparently suicide, had been identified at hearings of the House committee as New York State grand dragon of the Klan.

Detective Capt. Joseph Confora of the Reading police said Burros shot himself "as an aftermath" of the article published in the New York Times.

6 Reserve Divisions May Survive Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last six Army Reserve divisions — tabbed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara for elimination — may be saved after all.

It was learned today that Army planners are leaning toward a proposal that would preserve division structures and identities, although the outfits would be smaller than they are now and their members would drill without pay.

Such a solution might satisfy congressional critics of McNamara's plans to streamline the Army's National Guard and Reserve forces, although reservist groups still might object.

On Oct. 22, the Senate Armed Services Committee adopted a resolution formally calling on McNamara to postpone the elimination of 751 Army Reserve units until Congress can take a long look at the plan next year.

Asked what the Pentagon has done in response to this Senate action, the Defense Department said the resolution "is presently under consideration." Sources said orders to set in motion the elimination of the affected units have not gone out.

The six divisions account for about 500 of the 751 units which McNamara said on Sept. 30 are not required and would be "phased out as soon as possible."

Of the 55,000 reservists effected by McNamara's action at that time, about 42,000 are enrolled in the six divisions and their component elements.

The six are: The 63rd Infantry Division of California, the 77th Infantry Division of New York, the 90th Infantry Division of Texas, the 33rd Infantry Division of Ohio and West Virginia, the 102nd Infantry Division of Missouri and Illinois, and the 81st Infantry Division of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Army officials said these divisions average about 7,000 men each.

13-Inch Rain at Fort Lauderdale

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Torrential rains which ended one of the wettest Octobers in Florida history have brought flooding along the state's lower east coast.

The Miami Weather Bureau reported up to 12 inches of water running through houses near Biscayne Bay Sunday.

Civil Defense officials said 20 inches of rain fell in Boca Raton in 24 hours. Fort Lauderdale received nearly 13 inches, and at Coral Gables, 3 inches of rain fell in a single hour Sunday.

Pompano Beach reported 10 inches of rain in a 24-hour period and Miami had 4.54 inches.

The high school in Boca Raton was closed today as 18 inches of water swirled through ground-floor rooms.

Fort Lauderdale recorded nearly 43 inches of rain during October, the heaviest for any month in the city's history.

An intense storm over Quebec caused gale winds across the eastern Great Lakes. Syracuse, N.Y., was buffeted with 70-mile-per-hour winds Sunday and winds gusted at 63 m.p.h. through Buffalo.

The heat wave in California continued without letup over interior sections of the state. In the Los Angeles basin, cooling winds swept the heat and smog out of the city Sunday.

Heavy fog on Los Angeles area freeways caused 150 cars to smash together Sunday in a series of chain-reaction crashes in which 28 persons were injured, 30 cars were demolished and damage was estimated at $100,000.

Nugent Silent On Plans to Marry Luci

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luel Johnson's boy friend, Pat Nugent, 22, of Waukegan, Ill., refused today to confirm or deny that he and the President's daughter have sought "the Johnsons' permission to marry."

The tall blond, 22-year-old Nugent said, "My private life is my own and so is Luci's."

He did reveal that he is going on active military duty next month and his current draft status is 1D, which indicates he is already a member of an armed forces reserve unit.

Nugent said he had enlisted, but he would not say in which branch because he hoped his military service could be a private matter.

Nugent was at work today as administrative assistant to the executive director of the District of Columbia Commissioner's Advisory Council on Higher Education.

He and Luci flew back to Washington Sunday night after spending a weekend at the LBJ ranch in Texas.

Planes Blast Missile Sites Near Hanoi

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Battling their way through heavy missile and conventional antiaircraft fire, U.S. Navy and Air Force planes hit three surface-to-air missile launching sites Sunday about 35 miles northeast of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman said.

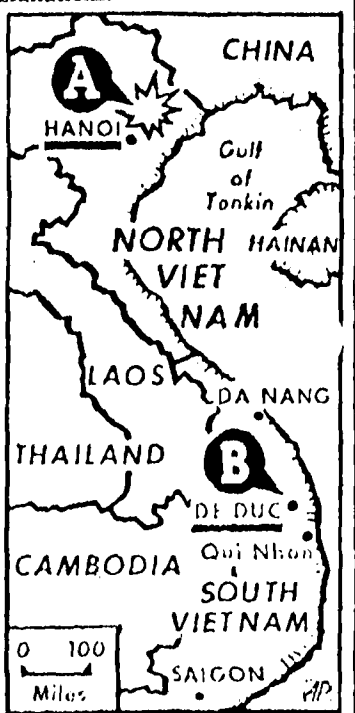

One Navy plane was shot down and the pilot was listed as missing.

Pilots reported they counted 17 missiles fired at them during the attack.

They said they observed hits on launchers and vehicles in the target areas of all three installations.

A highway bridge in the midst of the missile installations was destroyed during the coordinated Navy-Air Force strikes, the spokesman said.

The attacks on the missile sites were ordered after missiles were fired at planes from the carriers Oriskany and Independence during an attack on the key highway bridge. It was in the center of the missile installations.

Volunteer Dies After Attack At Fire Scene

Local and state fire marshals were probing today for the cause of a fire Sunday which destroyed Randall's Super Valu here and resulted in an estimated $815,000 damage.

A member of the Goodview volunteer fire department, Roland J. Limpert, 36, 840 35th Ave., died Sunday evening at Community Memorial Hospital after suffering a heart attack at the fire scene in the Westgate Shopping Center.

ONE OF THE four Winona firemen injured in fighting the blaze was expected to return home from the hospital Tuesday. Capt. Lamar W. Steber, 1171 W. 5th St., suffered a muscle spasm in his back. He was the only fireman hospitalized.

Lambert S. Bronk, Rollingstone, received a cut on his hand while working with the Rollingstone volunteer fire department in support of the Winona firemen. Minnesota City volunteers also responded to a call for help from Fire Chief John L. Steadman.

Steadman, although currently on sick leave, was at the fire scene to aid Assistant Fire Chief Edward M. Lehwica in directing the fire fight.

LEHWICA said today, "It wasn't a matter of lack of fire equipment or manpower. We just had to contend with that false ceiling and lack of ventilation in the Randall's building."

The first fire rig arrived from the West End fire station at 2:22 p.m., two minutes after the fire call from Randall's manager, James Hogue. By the time Lehwica arrived three minutes later with two other rigs, "the smoke was so thick, you couldn't see your hand in front of your face," he said.

This smoke was to play a key role in limiting the ability of firemen to get at the fire's "base," according to all the officers involved.

The West End hose company laid a 2½-inch line from a hydrant northwest of the building to the door at the building's northwest corner where the fire started. The firemen were able to open this door to get inside where, according to a Randall's employee, a whoosh and gush of smoke had preceded the blaze.

THIS HOSE company proceeded to a hydrant southwest of the burning building, according to Lehwica, and laid two more 2½-inch lines. With these, they attacked the blaze along the west end of the building.

However, Lehwica said, at no time was he able to get more than four or five men into the building at once. The smoke was so dense that entry was impossible without breathing apparatus.

Inside the burning building, one fireman said, it was nearly impossible to find the fire. Brands did come down and ignite merchandise in the meat and bakery sections of the store.

The fires on the ground floor could be located and extinguished, but the firemen had to locate the ceiling fire which was devouring the building — and could do so only by shooting water up onto the ceiling.

If the water came back down hot, they knew there was fire in the space between the false ceiling and roof.

BUT FIRE Marshal Cleo Kelper said today that the smoke was so dense that firemen never did locate the "base" of the fire. He added that flames were probably spreading over the whole false ceiling by the time firemen arrived on the scene.

Hogue told Lehwica at the fire scene that the fire had spread so quickly after he reported it that, by the time he had herded

NASON ON EDUCATION

A Lazy Student Needs Motivation

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern Calif.

The average American high school student is faced with greater-than-average problems.

In many cases, when he reaches the middle of his high school years, his grades tend to go downhill rather than improve. His instructors say he has greater capabilities and that his low marks are the result of lack of effort. They say he is lazy and needs motivation.

His parents are concerned that his grades are not up to college admission requirements. They say he is morally good and that his procrastinating tendencies leave them in doubt as to whether he will get into college. But there usually is no doubt in his own mind in this regard. At some future time, he expects to pull the whole thing out of the fire.

His parents put special pressure on him when he approaches the falling point in a subject. And what success he does attain is partially due to their constant urging.

THE BOY'S major interest is centered on games of competition: football, basketball, baseball, golfing, swimming and so on. It is not that he has been overdoing sports but that he has been underdoing learning.

This all-American boy has had excellent coaching in athletics. He knows how to condition himself and plan his play. However, instruction in learning techniques has often been neglected. He has had no coaching on proper approaches to his studies and he has been allowed to drift into inefficient learning habits.

If he is to expend the same effort in planning his studies, he must have coaching as expert as that provided him in athletics. Motivation follows a feeling of competence. Show him how and he will do it!

FOR EXAMPLE, it takes only short applications of the principle that minutes of study before class will increase learning during the class period and thus save hours of work and study after class.

A few such demonstrations will convince him that how he studies is more important than how long he studies.

Having specific plans as to how he is to study will aid him in overcoming the habit of procrastinating.

When a boy becomes as familiar with the procedures of learning as he is with the rules of football, learning takes on enough interest to obviate the need for undue parental pressure. Often it has the additional effect of preserving friendship between the boy and his parents.

While in our present school setup, the average boy is more of an underachiever than the average girl, the same principles of learning and interest apply to girls as well as boys.

Methodists Place Cornerstone for Durand Church

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Several items from the 1916 cornerstone, as well as new material, were placed in the cornerstone of the new Methodist Church Sunday during 11 a.m. services conducted by Supt. Herbert Thompson, Eau Claire.

A Bible and Discipline, which appear to have been placed in the 1916 cornerstone from the original 1886 stone, were retained and will be on display for the church's centennial observance next May.

Moved from the old to the new were copies of 1866 and 1916 church officers; copies of the Pepin County Courier; Entering Wedge, and the Link, a monthly newspaper devoted to the interests of Eau Claire District Methodism.

New material placed in the cornerstone includes copies of the Methodist Visitor; Durand-Eau Claire-Arkansas News; Courier Wedge; the congregation's annual report; church history to date; current coins; copies of the ground-breaking service, building brochure and paragonage dedication listing the Sunday school children who likely will be older adults when the stone is opened again; a 1866 conference yearbook provided from a private collection by Sept. Thompson; a picture from the C. G. Branch scrapbook of two young men who entered the ministry in 1905, the Rev. John Rodewald and the Rev. George Austin; a yearbook of the local church from 1941-43 with a picture of the old church on the cover, donated by Ruth Prissel, and excerpts from the quarterly conference minutes of Ed Doughty, Circuit Rider preacher, 1861-1875.

Rolvaag and Knowles Sign Boundary Pact

ST. PAUL (AP) — Govs. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin and Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota put the Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters compact into effect in a signing ceremony in Rolvaag's office today.

Knowles said it "makes good common sense" for the states to join in a planning group that will study development of the border area, especially the St. Croix and Mississippi River valleys.

The governors said there is a chance Iowa may join the compact later.

The compact provides for a 10-member commission—five from each state, a 20-member technical advisory committee and an advisory panel of legislators from each state.

Rolvaag refused comment on what the group might have done had it been in effect prior to the dispute over building a Northern States Power Co. plant on the St. Croix. Knowles said the compact would have provided a better public forum for discussion of the plant's effects.

Rolvaag also named the five Minnesota members on the river compact commission. They are:

A. Harold Peterson, attorney and former state representative from Chicago City; Mrs. R.H. Thomssen of St. Paul, representing the "Save the St. Croix Committee"; Richard J. Thorpe, chairman of the Egan Township Park Board; William D. Klapp, president of the First National Bank of Stillwater; and Richard Cool, Lakeland, member of the St. Croix Yacht Club.

Knowles said he expects to name Wisconsin members this week.

Rolvaag also named the Minnesota members of the technical advisory committee, all from various levels of government. They include university President O. Meredith Wilson, Highway Commissioner John Jamieson, Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson and Dr. Malcolm Hargraves of Rochester, chairman of the Water Pollution Control Commission.

3 Slightly Hurt In Durand Crash

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Two passengers in a car that went into a ditch and hit a tree at midnight Saturday southeast of Durand were taken to St. Benedict's Community Hospital and kept until Sunday for treatment of their wounds and for observation.

Bradley Andre, driving a 1955 car, told Bruce Stafford, traffic officer, that as he came around a corner there was a deer in the road. In trying to miss it, he lost control, went off to the right and into a tree. He wasn't injured, but Mary Ann Poeschel and Anton Schuh received multiple cuts and bruises.

Damage to the car was extensive. The right front fender of the car hit the tree, windows were broken and a wrecker was needed to haul it away. The accident happened near Dorwin's Mill.

Friends Divided On Plan for Red China in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The leading boosters of Red China for U.N. membership are reported split over what to propose to the General Assembly.

Diplomatic sources said the division had developed among the 11 delegations that got the 17-nation assembly to agree to debate an item calling for "restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

They said Cambodia suggested a resolution proposing to seat Communist China on all U.N. bodies without expelling Nationalist China.

Albania, Red China's chief ally in its feud with the Soviet Union, urged that the resolution call for expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists in favor of the Communists and meet some of Communist China's other conditions for joining the United Nations.

$50,000 Fire At Kenosha

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — Fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $25,000 damage Sunday to a chain food store on the city's North Side.

Fire Chief Jerome Gumbinger said one-third of the city's fire-fighting force worked to put out the blaze, which burned nearly three hours. Gumbinger estimated the damage.

First Silverless Quarters Issued

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — The first silverless quarters go into circulation today.

Their use originally hadn't been expected until next month, but President Johnson said mint production has been faster than anticipated.

Silverless quarters and dimes were authorized by Congress this year because of a diminishing supply of the metal and the resulting increase in its price.

Silverless dimes are scheduled to be issued in January.

Trempealeau Mental Health Unit to Meet

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special) — The Trempealeau County Mental Health Association will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the nurses' lunch room at Tri-County Memorial Hospital, Whitehall. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

New Yorkers Voting for Mayor Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrat Abraham D. Beame and Republican-Liberal John V. Lindsay end one of the city's longest, costliest and closest campaigns for mayor today.

But Tuesday's election may hinge on the size of the vote for William F. Buckley Jr., 39, the Conservative party candidate.

Beame, 59, city comptroller under outgoing Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner, and Lindsay, 43, a Republican congressman, reportedly have spent $1.5 million each. Lindsay has been on the hustings since May 14, Beame since June 29.

Lindsay says Beame bears much responsibility for what Lindsay calls the failures of the 12-year Wagner administration.

Wagner is not seeking re-election. Moreover, Lindsay says Beame is allied with Democratic bosses whom Wagner failed to purge, and will open City Hall to "a parade of party hacks."

Beame, trying to capitalize on a 7-to-2 Democratic voter registration advantage, appeals to party loyalty, and says he can work better with the administration of President Johnson, whose outright endorsement he got only last Friday.

Buckley says he is surprised at the response to his candidacy. He renounced further political ambitions, saying he will return to his job as editor of the magazine, National Review.

Polls show Buckley with as much as 18 per cent of the vote, while Beame and Lindsay have around 40 per cent each, give or take a few points.

Pranksters Block Pepin Co. Road

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Halloween pranksters put road blocks in two places across Pepin County Highway P, the lower road between Durand and Arkansaw, Saturday night.

Pepin County Sheriff Roger Britton was called about 11 p.m. when a large tree had been felled across the highway near the second bridge. A county highway crew was called out with a power saw to remove it.

Nearer Arkansaw 25 bales of hay had been taken from the Wilfred Hartung barn adjacent to the highway and stacked across the road. The owner removed them.

The sheriff received a call concerning damage to a fluorescent light outside the White House Cafe at Pepin. Juveniles involved were questioned this morning.

Winners Named In Trempealeau Poster Contest

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — Entries in this year's Trempealeau County conservation poster contest were judged Thursday.

Winners in order: Richard Nelsestuen, Ettrick Elementary; Patty Kujak, Arcadia Public school; Susanne Intensen, Blair public school; Hazel Jane Gunderson, Osseo Community Schools; Robert Wagner, Trempealeau school, and Louanne Thompson, Blair.

Judges were Nic Jensen, president of the Trempealeau County Associated Conservation Clubs, Arcadia; Odell Schansberg, chairman, Whitehall, Trempealeau County Soil and Water Conservation District supervisor, and Mrs. Mildred Stenberg, art instructor for the Whitehall and Blair school districts.

The posters will be on display in the hall on the first floor of the courthouse at Whitehall for two weeks. Prizes will be awarded to the winner at the public conservation recognition banquet, Arcadia Country Club, Nov. 12.

Farm Bureau Women Meet at Independence

ETTRICK, Wis. (Special) — Rupert Kurtzweil of Edgar, field representative for the Wisconsin Farm Bureau, and Mrs. A. J. Baumann, Cottage Grove, state president of Farm Bureau Women, were speakers Friday at a meeting of District 4, Farm Bureau Women, at Club Midway, Independence.

Each of the six counties in District 4—La Crosse, Monroe, Jackson, Eau Claire, Trempealeau and Buffalo—was represented. La Crosse County received the attendance prize, having nine members present for the opening at 10 a.m.

MRS. ALDRED Sexe, Town of Ettrick, presided. She is chairman of Trempealeau County Farm Bureau Women and district committeewoman.

Kurtzweil described the Farm Bureau as a free, independent, nongovernmental, nonpolitical, voluntary organization designed to analyze the problems and formulate action to achieve educational improvement, economic opportunity and social advancement of farm and ranch families. It is nonpartisan, nonsectarian and nonsecret in character.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, Kurtzweil said, is organized in 48 states, Puerto Rico and Hawaii, and is the largest farm organization in the United States. More than 800 new members have been enrolled in Wisconsin the last year, he said.

He compared the Farm Bureau with the Farmers Union, Grange and NFO. He said the Farm Bureau affords farmers opportunity to determine and establish agricultural policy. Farmers are provided with a voice and can say what they want or don't want.

Mrs. Baumann stressed the part that women play in the Farm Bureau program. "Know first," she said, "that freedom of the individual is indispensable to man's well-being and development. Freedom and dignity of the individual is the basis of Farm Bureau policy." She urged the women to take an active part in politics. "Remember your rights, and remember that with every right there is responsibility."

Mrs. Baumann also showed color slides and told of her recent trip to Dublin, Ireland, where she was sent as a delegate to the 11th triennial conference of the World Association of Country Women.

Mrs. Manley Hendrickson, Mindoro, state vice chairman, discussed "The Farm Bureau Women's Role in Good Government." Mrs. Sexe spoke on "The Farm Bureau Women's Role in Public Information and Understanding."

VOCAL selections were contributed by a Trempealeau County Farm Women's quartet comprised of Mrs. Sexe, Mrs. Arnold Brovold, Town of Ettrick, Mrs. Louis Halderson, Town of Gale, and Mrs. Richard Lettner, Centerville, with Mrs. Roland Ekern, Town of Ettrick, accompanist. The invocation and table prayer were by Mrs. Leonard Zeman, Melrose.

Announcement was made of the national Farm Bureau meeting, in Chicago Dec. 14-15 and of the state convention in Milwaukee beginning Nov. 13. Arrangements are being made for a chartered bus to travel from Eau Claire to Milwaukee for the state convention, with Arnold Brovold, director of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau, in charge.

Mrs. Prosper Schank, Arcadia, was elected district secretary, and Mrs. Cecil Meyer, Sparta, was named district treasurer. Mrs. Sexe will serve on the state resolutions committee.

the college problem
won't go away

It won't until we do something about this crisis in higher education.

Some colleges predict that they soon may have to turn away qualified high school graduates.

If they do have to turn away these potential leaders, it will be because of shortages—in buildings, facilities, and especially qualified teachers.

But we need leaders, more and more. Leaders manage and make wise use of our manpower, resources and human skills.

Good leadership protects our high level in jobs, opportunities and living standards.

This is everybody's concern. Make it yours. Give to the college of your choice.

Other Firms Survive; Rebuilding Planned

Aside from the Randall Super-Valu building, destroyed in Sunday's fire, none of the neighboring Westgate businesses suffered damage enough to force a shutdown.

All are open and operating, although owners are looking forward unhappily to the upcoming Christmas buying season when customer traffic will inevitably be cut back by loss of the supermarket.

JAMES HOGUE, Randall manager, estimated today that five or six months will be needed to reconstruct the store.

Owners of the building had assured him, Hogue said, that it will be rebuilt "bigger and better than before." The facilities are owned by Second Consolidated Investment Fund, Huron,

S.D., a commercial real estate holding company.

Put out of work by the fire are the store's 55 employees, representing a weekly payroll of $3,000, said Hogue.

STOCKS OF merchandise are mostly unsalvageable, according to Millard Chab, 1872 W. 5th St., of the state Department of Agriculture division for agricultural products inspection. Chab said the department's function is to rule on whether foodstuffs are safe for human consumption. Canned goods were almost all damaged beyond safe limits. Some fresh produce might be washed up and thus technically usable, he said, but it would probably carry a heavy smoke taint.

Losses are covered by insurance, Hogue said. An incompletely installed sprinkler system did not affect coverage. Had it been finished, it would have meant lower premium rates, however.

A heavy pall of smoke, carried northeast by a 25-mile breeze, apparently did little damage to nearby homes and businesses. Homeowners in the Clark's Lane area, about two blocks east of the burning store, credited the fact that most windows were tightly shut with storm sashes in place.

CARL RUGE, whose Ben Franklin store is next door to the Randall building, said the fire was worse than its predecessor, five years ago. On Aug. 2, 1960, he recalled the store suffered a serious fire and was out of business until Nov. 1.

This time, said Ruge, the situation may be worse because the shutdown may last longer. Merchants have their Christmas stocks on hand, he said, and no cutbacks are possible. Ruge is the only merchant in the area who was in business when the 1960 fire occurred.

Kenneth Wurch, operator of Ken's Hardware, said his store suffered no damage but that he also thinks business prospects for the next few months have taken a sharp blow.

Robert Von Rohr, Westgate drug store owner, said he was forced to close his store when the fire began. Each time his door opened, a cloud of smoke billowed inside, he said. Von Rohr said he is still trying to determine the extent of his smoke damage. He opened at the regular hour today.

NO PLANS for restoration of the Gold Bond trading stamp redemption center have been made yet, according to Mrs. Donald Schaefer, manager. Company officials, expected to arrive today, will probably decide soon whether or not to set up temporary facilities, she said.

The center, carrying a stock of some 1,200 to 1,500 items, was a total loss. Estimated value of the equipment and inventory was $15,000.

Volunteer Dies After Suffering Heart Attack

Fire Department Captain Lamar Steber turned to Goodview Volunteer Fireman Roland J. Limpert, 36, 840 39th Ave., Sunday evening, at the site of the Randall's supermarket fire and noticed that Limpert looked ill. "Don't you think you could use some oxygen," Steber asked Limpert. "Yeah, I think I could," Limpert replied.

STEBER himself later an injury victim in the fire fight, beckoned to ambulance man Melvin Praxel and a helper. They immediately put Limpert on a stretcher and rushed him to the hospital, administering oxygen on the way.

Arriving at the hospital at 6:03 p.m., Praxel turned his passenger over to two doctors. But their labor was in vain; he could not be revived, and Limpert's body was removed to Fawcett Funeral Home at 7:25 p.m.

Praxel said that he knew Limpert had had heart trouble and so wasted no time getting the man to the hospital. Limpert was near collapse when they put him on the stretcher and may have died en route to the hospital.

STEBER, 1171 W. 5th St., later became the only other fireman to be admitted to the hospital. He stepped in a hole while carrying a back-pack breathing apparatus and fell on his back. Acting Fire Chief Ervin Laufenburger said today.

The 50-pound apparatus apparently contributed to the muscle spasm Steber suffered. He is expected to go home Tuesday. X-rays showed that the hair-line fracture of his spine which had been feared did not occur.

Fireman Clem O. Huff, 1780 Gilmore Ave., was at home today with an apparently sprained back. Fireman Arthur D. Johns, 1286 W. 2nd St., received a minor hand injury as did Lambert S. Bronk, Rollingstone, a member of the Rollingstone volunteer fire department.

Fireman Alvin J. Malotke, 910 E. Sanborn St., was treated for face burns at Community Memorial Hospital Sunday night and released. He is on duty today with a tender face, Laufenburger said.

Malotke was working with two other firemen to break open the rear door of the Gold Bond redemption center in the Westgate Shopping Center Sunday evening. When they got the door open, a "flashback" — mixture of hot air and flames — struck Malotke in the face, according to Assistant Chief Edward Lelwica.

MR. LIMPERT had been employed the past 10 years as a special agent for the New York Life Insurance Co. He was born Dec. 10, 1929, at Altura, Minn., to the Rev. William C. and Helen (Pfaff) Limpert. He had lived in Winona since 1948.

Mr. Limpert

Mr. Limpert married Deloris Kratz Oct. 6, 1951 at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Winona. He served with the U.S. Army 1947-50. He was a Lewiston High School graduate and a 1953 graduate of Winona State College.

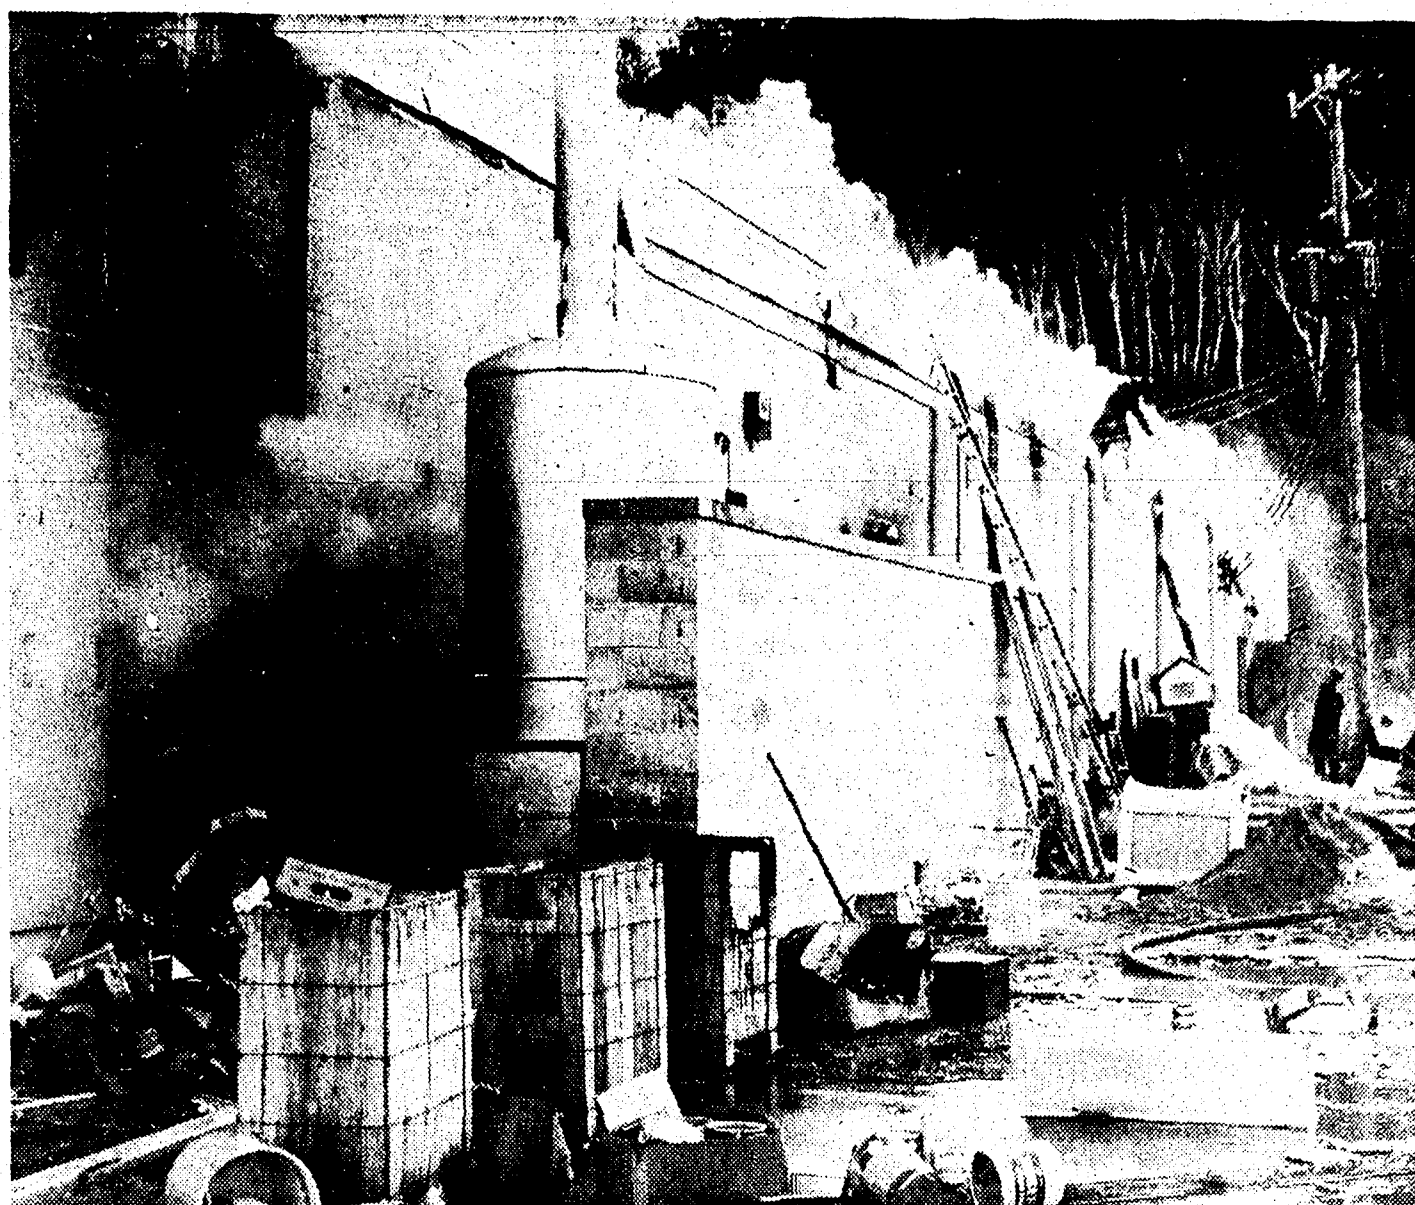

Mr. Limpert was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Goodview, the Goodview volunteer fire department, Winona Bow Hunters, Minnesota City Boat Club, Izaak Walton League and Winona Association of Life Underwriters.

Goodview Fire Chief Joseph Trochta said of Mr. Limpert today, "Rollie was one of the first to join the fire department. He was a darn good man." Mr. Limpert served as first aid and public relations man for the department.

He was national vice president of Lutheran Pioneers and past president of the Winona Association of Life Underwriters.

SURVIVORS: His wife; his mother, Mrs. W. C. Limpert, Winona; four sons, Roland Jr., David, John and Jeffrey, all at home; two brothers, William and Gerhard, both of Minneapolis, and three sisters, Mrs. Lenora Wolfe, La Crosse; Miss Gertrude Limpert, La Crosse, and Mrs. Harry (Adeline) Bryan, Albany, Ga. His father and one sister have died.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Winona, the Rev. Larry Zessin officiating. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Wednesday at the church from 1 to 2 p.m. A memorial is being arranged.

Smoke Was Problem

his 50 to 60 customers and 12 employees out of the store, he was unable to get at the cash registers.

Lelwica, meanwhile, was getting the maximum number of hose lines laid. Two additional lines were laid from the hydrant near the Westgate motel to the north and east sides of the building.

Since all the doors to the supermarket, with the exception of the front one and the door at the northeast corner, were locked and bolted, firemen were attempting to get water into the building through the large plate-glass windows at the east and north sides. These had cracked in the intense heat.

THEN THE wind shifted to the east, and Lelwica realized that fire could break into the Gold Bond stamp redemption center to the southeast.

To counter a spread of flames in that direction, Lelwica set up a water tower at the southeast corner of the Randall's building and ran two more 2½-inch lines up it. With their commanding view of the surrounding store roofs, firemen in the water tower were able to knock down firebrands.

However, flames were spreading to the redemption center by another route — the connecting roof of the two buildings with its flue-like space between the false ceiling and roof.

An eighth hose line was laid from the hydrant at the northwest corner and split into two 1½-inch lines so that the building could be surrounded by streams of water.

PART OF this surrounding action included the placing of men on the roof of Randall's. They shared the 1½-inch lines from another split hose line and attempted to cut holes in the roof.

The steel-beam construction of the roof at Randall's made this slow work, however.

If they could have made some large holes in the roof, the smoke would have had a chance to escape upwards, Lelwica pointed out, making fire-fighting possible inside the building.

As the north edge of the roof began to buckle, he had to pull his men back to the center of the building, Lelwica said. There, they got a hole opened and shoved a line with a whirling nozzle down inside to get a spray action going.

The men were removed entirely, however, when the Gold Bond stamp center erupted in flames late in the afternoon. The wood-joint ceiling of the adjoining building had let its roof collapse more quickly.

THE COLLAPSE of the roof at the Gold Bond center provided the needed ventilation; but too late, a fireman said.

Lelwica said that it was nearly 6 p.m. before he knew for sure that the fire had been contained. Keiper mentioned that the men set up a "water curtain" shielding the other stores in the Westgate Shopping Center from possible spreading of the fire.

It was late in the afternoon, Keiper mentioned, when the department turned its efforts to confining the blaze and gradually reducing its intensity.

A measure of the heat produced, he noted, was that steel beams lose about 70 percent of their strength at 1,000 degrees. The steel beams at Randall's are all either buckled or warped, he pointed out.

Actually, Keiper said, temperatures of 1,200 to 1,500 degrees are not uncommon at big fires

ATTACK FROM ABOVE . . . When firemen found that they couldn't locate the "base" of the fire in the dense smoke of the Randall's interior, they attempted to open holes in the building's roof. They hoped by doing this to both clear smoke out of the interior and clear a path to the flames that were raging in the space between the false ceiling and roof of the store. (Daily News photo) of this kind. The fire department rigs returned to station at 9:30 p.m., Lelwica said, leaving four men at the scene with four hose lines to combat flareups in the wreckage.

ACTING FIRE Chief Ervin R. Laufenburger said today that there were several flareups overnight but nothing unexpected. He arrived at the scene about 9 p.m. immediately on his return from an out-of-town trip. Laufenburger and Lelwica joined in commending the action of the many people who aided the Winona fire department at the scene.

The Salvation Army and several private businesses provided free coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches for the firefighters, and

Vandals Break Two Windows

Halloween vandals destroyed an auto windshield and a house window during the weekend, according to city police.

Elmer Doerr, 460 Wilsie St., told police that someone smashed the windshield on his auto parked at his house about 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

A back window at the barber-shop at the L. J. Welch residence, 301 Chatfield St., was broken during the weekend.

According to Chief James McCabe it was a quiet Halloween weekend. There were a few reports of minor vandalism, he said.

Why Chris Kept Her Clothes On

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Brace yourself for a little Broadway sermon. Blonde, beautiful, bouncy little Chris Noel had come to New York from West Palm Beach to model . . . it was a bitter cold winter . . . she needed a heavy coat . . . but the rent was overdue . . . and while nobody could say she was flat, she was broke.

"I can get you $5,000 if you'll pose nude," said a photographer who'd noticed her non-flatness.

"No," she said. "I couldn't do that."

"Oh, don't be so square," the photographer said. "You think about it."

"I don't need to think about it," she said, bravely for 18.

"But I did think about it . . . for three days, in my apartment that needed furniture, about what I could do with $5,000."

"I kept remembering a story I'd read when I was a little girl. There was a little school-boy whose mother had posed nude. The other little boys told him about it, but he wouldn't believe that about his mother. They brought him the paper with the proof and it broke his heart."

"A corny story, but I kept thinking about how I would disappoint my mother."

"I went to my agents, told them I just couldn't pose nude — and asked them to lend me $200. They did — and I've been working ever since!"

CHRIS, NOW 23, and a Hollywood star, is the star of two films, "Beach Ball" and "Wild, Wild Winter."

And she's the special girl friend of increasingly popular Jack Jones — and next spring, when he gets his divorce, there might be some news about that.

"It's very easy," she says, "to lead a life that can hurt the people you care for. So if you ever see me nude in a film, you can be sure it's my double, or that I'm wearing flesh-colored tights."

Vice President Humphrey rode up to the Hotel Americana in a Lincoln convertible, with a N.J. license and just one man besides the driver — astonishing a reception committee which thought he'd have a fleet of bodyguards. He found time here to visit Jacqueline Kennedy.

There were some wonderful moments when Christopher Plummer opened in "The Royal Hunt of the Sun." John Caradine, quite shattered, he said watching his son David in a major role, said David's name isn't really David, but John, and that his name isn't really John, but Richmond. You have that now???

One viewer, bothered by the frequent references to the Incas, said the title should be "Inca Dinca Don't!"

One angel, broker Bob Wittenstein, went to the cast party at La Fonda del Sol, leaving his mother-in-law, Stella Katz, of the Bronx, to flash him what the TV reviewers said. Mrs. Katz phoned him excitedly, "They said Christopher Columbus was wonderful!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow explained that he and his wife have a 50-50 relationship: "Half the time I cook dinner, the other half we eat out."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Jackie Kahane discussed a B'way character: "He's not too bright. In school he needed two years of tutoring before he could qualify as a drop out."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The mistake a lot of politicians make is in forgetting they were appointed, and thinking they're been anointed." — Mrs. Claude Pepper.

Henny Youngman, displaying his new tie, said, "Like it? I have six more just like it — the salesman didn't have change of a dollar." . . . That's earl, brother.

DEAR ABBY:

Goat Farmer Protests Jokes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A while back, someone wrote in asking you which was worse, a married woman going with a single man, or a single woman going with a married man. You replied, "One goat doesn't care if another goat smells," or words to that effect.

Abby, that might have been a good answer, but the belief that goats smell bad has done an awful lot of damage to us folks in the goats' milk business. I admit, the buck does smell pretty bad, but the doe is as odorless and clean as any other farm animal. Other rumors about goats, such as goats will eat anything, including tin cans, garbage, etc., have given goats a bad name.

Goats' milk is recommended by many doctors for ulcer patients, but some people refuse to touch it because they think goats are dirty animals. I hope you print this in defense of goats.

DEAR "IN": I never thought I'd be defending old goats, or young ones, but here I am! I, too, was guilty of harboring all the prejudices you mentioned about goats. Forgive me. I didn't realize I was butting into your business.

DEAR ABBY: What should a girl do when she is nice-looking, has a good education but she lives in a small town and nobody lets her forget that she lives on the wrong side of the tracks?

DEAR GIRL: When the train comes through, she should get on it!

DEAR ABBY: We have two teen-aged daughters. One has started college this fall, which brings up something we'd like your opinion on.

Do you think parents OWE their children a college education? We believe that parents should "lend" their children the money for college, with the understanding that it will be paid back as soon as possible.

Our daughters contend that educating children is the parents' responsibility, and should be anticipated by them through a program of saving as soon as the child is born. We welcome your comments and those of your readers.

DEAR C. J. P.: Some parents could not, if they wanted to, provide for extensive college educations for all their children. (Medicine, law and other fields require 7 to 15 years of college.) Other parents can well afford to educate their children and do so willingly without strain. However, I go along with your daughters. Educating children, along with feeding and clothing them, should be the parents' responsibility if circumstances permit. However, many students have managed to continue their educations beyond high school with no help from home.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BRUCE: Cast the first "stone." And make it a diamond. If you are indeed her first love, YOU are lucky. If SHE is your last romance, SHE'S lucky.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Another Swift Plant Closed

MONTEVIDEO, Minn. (AP)—Management of the Swift and Co. dairy and poultry processing plant announced to its 50 employees Saturday that the plant will close Nov. 28.

The announcement was made by B. C. Kvanli, plant manager, who said lack of volume resulted in the management decision. Employees will be offered severance pay or transfer to other Swift plants.

The plant, which opened in 1929, processes cream, butter and poultry.

LBJ Sends Birthday Greetings to Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Johnson was among foreign chiefs of state who sent birthday greetings to President Chiang Kai-shek who was 78 Friday.

Johnson Turns To Study of U.S. Spending

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson eases into a new work week today emphasizing efforts to both earn and save money for the federal government.

Johnson ordered a Washington conference today to explore the possibility of selling off 1.4 million short tons of surplus stockpiled aluminum — a deal that could enrich the Treasury by several hundred million dollars.

The President was said to be prodding special assistant Joseph A. Califano Jr., back at the White House, to encourage trimming of budget and legislative requests that will go to Congress next year.

Johnson and wife Lady Bird were alone again at the LBJ Ranch — as alone as they ever can be — following the Sunday departures of both daughters to return to college classes.

The Texas White House still was keeping mum about reports that the younger daughter, 18-year-old Luci, had made a roundtrip weekend flight from Washington with 22-year-old boy friend Pat Nugent to seek Johnson's blessing for marriage.

James H. Moyers, filling in for his brother Bill as press secretary, told reporters he understood Luci and Pat left the ranch for Washington before Sunday lunch — and apparently before a lay minister of the Christian Church arrived to conduct family services. Both Luci and Pat are Roman Catholics.

She is a freshman at the Georgetown University School of Nursing.

After Moyers announced the departure of Luci and Pat, he was asked if the chief executive's daughter had left in a huff.

"Oh, no," he said.

Moyers did his best, in fact, to knock down any speculation that Luci's Friday night flight here with Pat had led to any explosion within the family.

"The family has enjoyed being together this weekend," Moyers said.

Johnson was described by Moyers as still suffering from back pains attributed to the incision through which surgeons removed his gall bladder and a kidney stone on Oct. 8. However, he added, Johnson "feels that each day brings more progress" and both President and physicians are satisfied with his recovery.

The chief executive was said to have relaxed, worked a bit, walked about a mile and worshipped privately Sunday.

Let's Get Growing

By A. F. SHIRA

Some Additional Fall Suggestions

THIS is the first November, a time when most of the glories of the autumn season have departed with the last days of October. A time when the leafless trees tell us that the remaining garden tasks should be completed without further delay.

Our grape vines were laid on the ground last week and covered with several inches of soil, after they were given the necessary pruning. While listed as being hardy, the good table varieties such as Concord, Niagara, Fredonia, Caco and others are not always dependably so in our area, especially if the vines are young. After once becoming established, any of these varieties may go through our winters without any protection.

The University of Minnesota has developed several varieties of grapes that will survive the winters without any covering, but they are not as large and flavorful as the above mentioned varieties. The Alpha and Beta varieties, also, are hardy without any winter protection, but they are inferior in size and flavor.

GENERALLY, we cut back our grape vines in the fall before covering them, as this makes them easier to handle. When pruning grape vines, the long canes of the past season's growth which bore fruit should be cut back to within four or five joints of the stems from which they grew. From the buds at these joints new growth will start in the spring that will produce the succeeding crop of grapes. By cutting back the long canes, the new spring shoots will be stronger and a better crop of fruit produced, than if left untrimmed.

Peonies that were newly planted this fall should be protected the first winter with a three or four inch mulch of leaves, marsh hay, straw, or similar materials. Established peonies do not require much, if any, mulch, although a light covering will do no harm.

BEFORE mulching peonies in the fall, it is a good garden practice to cut off all of the old stems at ground level and destroy them, if there was any evidence of peony blight during the growing season. Otherwise, the tops can be cut down to about six inches. This saves doing the work in the spring and the stubs help to hold the snow as well as any mulch that is applied.

We always receive some inquiries at this time of the year as to whether clematis vines should be cut down in the fall, or spring, and how close to the ground it should be done. If the gardener does not object to having the dried vines on the trellis during the winter, they can be cut down in the spring which is usually more advantageous. Otherwise, they can be cut off now.

HOW FAR to cut them down is a matter of individual preference. We leave our vines on the trellises until spring and wait until new shoots appear on the old stems. Then the top of each stem is cut off just above the uppermost new shoot. This may be four feet, or more, above the ground, thus adding height to the vines. Some of the weaker stems may not show any new growth and they can be cut off at ground level. Old clematis vines are quite brittle and may appear to be dead, so they should be handled with care to avoid breakage.

If all of the old stems are cut off at ground level, new down to about two feet. If handled in this way, the vines can be cut down either in the fall or spring. In the last analysis it becomes a matter of the owner's preference.

Action Against Baccalaureates Being Considered

The Minnesota Civil Liberties Union (MCLU) will consider next weekend bringing court action to bar state operated schools from holding a baccalaureate service as part of their graduation exercises, the organization's executive director said here Sunday.

This is being done, according to Director Lynn S. Castner, in accordance with the U.S. Supreme Court's decision on school prayer.

CASTNER, with two members of the MCLU's board of directors and an attorney who worked on civil rights cases last summer in Florida, appeared on a panel at Kryzsko Commons of Winona State College.

The panel discussion was organized to inform its audience of about 40 "how the CLU makes decisions and how it takes action on those decisions," according to Dr. Margaret Boddy, board member of MCLU and an English professor at WSC.

The question of MCLU's efforts to preserve separation of church and state came up in a question from the audience after presentations by two of the panelists.

One audience member wanted to know whether the MCLU might not have been aiming at a rather insignificant target when it won withdrawals last spring of a pledge for graduating teachers to "seek to build strong in their (pupils') minds and souls reverence for God."

THE QUESTIONER said that she had attended many graduation exercises and never been morally offended by the admittedly watered-down version of religion which was often a part of the ceremonies.

Panelist Dr. Matthew Stark, MCLU board member and assistant professor at the University of Minnesota, vigorously opposed the idea that the MCLU's concern with oaths to teach about God and baccalaureate religious services is insignificant.

Stark noted that the MCLU was alerted to the oath originally by students who had complained about it. If there was even one student offended by such practices, Stark said, it would be reason for MCLU to step in and secure that person's rights.

Castner noted, in answer to another question, that MCLU has hired a young attorney who is touring northern Minnesota to study possible infringements of the civil liberties of Minnesota Indians.

His report will be ready in a few weeks, Castner said. The MCLU board would take action after studying this report.

Stark said he believes that Minnesota Indians suffer the same "kind" of problems as do Negroes in the South. Castner, however, asserted that the Indians' situation is not as severe. He added that the availability of more money to the poor counties in which the Indians live would solve a lot of the problem.

THE AUDIENCE had received an exposition of the Negro's situation in the South earlier from Henry W. Pickett Jr., an MCLU volunteer attorney who represented Negroes in civil rights cases for two weeks last summer in Florida.

Pickett said he believes that the problem is no longer primarily with integrating schools and public accommodations. The next stage of civil rights activity will concentrate on law enforcement in the small-town and rural South.

The "high sheriff" is the law in these rural areas in a way that Northerners can't imagine, Pickett said. And Negroes are deathly afraid of him.

Pickett cited several cases which he, personally, learned about although he was not able to verify all details of them. Each involved the placing of a Negro on the chain gang after "trials" which didn't even pretend to be fair, according to Pickett.

What goes on in the county jails is largely unknown to the "many decent white people" in the South, Pickett said. But what goes on there is designed to keep the Negro where he belongs, supporting a rich agricultural system of big farms.

Pickett said that the methods used actually impose a modified form of slavery on the Southern Negro.

Bus Falls Into Nile, 48 Killed

CAIRO (AP)—A Cairo trolleybus fell into the Nile River today and 48 persons perished. Rescue operations were being supervised by Deputy Premier Mahmoud Yunes and other high-ranking officials.

Rescue squads still were searching for bodies under water while others tried to lift up the bus.

Cause of the accident is unknown.

NEW MEDICAL CLINIC . . . This new medical clinic, built by Drs. E. C. Bayley and David W. Sontag, opened near the Lake City (Minn.) Municipal Hospital this morning.

The 28-by-78-foot brick structure includes a two-bedroom apartment on the lower level in addition to the clinic facilities, which consist of six examining rooms, laboratory, X-ray and emergency rooms, plus reception room, general office, storage and utilities. LeRoy Sprick was the contractor. (Mrs. Meta Corleus photo)

Railroad Accident Survivor Discharged

Miss Margaret Lyndahl, Winona State College student from Harmony, was discharged from Community Memorial Hospital Sunday.

The 21-year-old student was the survivor in a car-train collision Oct. 22.

She plans to return to classes a week from today.

Young Motorist In Court on Counts 17 and 18

A Winona motorist who has had 16 traffic violations in the last five years added two more to the total today.

He is Dennis E. Johnson, 21, 71 Mankato Ave., who pleaded guilty to charges of speeding 70 m.p.h. in a 55 mile zone, and for driving after suspension of his driver's license. He was arrested by the Highway Patrol at 9:20 p.m. Oct. 24.

JOHN, MCGILL, municipal court judge, fined him $25 or eight days in the county jail on the speeding charge and $100 or 60 days in jail on driving after suspension of his driver's license. He also ordered that Johnson surrender the registration plates and the registration card of the vehicle he was driving.

Johnson asked the judge if he could work and serve out his jail term under the Huber Act. McGill said he would not allow it because of Johnson's long list of violations.

Jacob J. Overing, 43, 561 Garfield St., pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving. He was arrested at 7:12 p.m. Sunday at East 3rd and Franklin streets after being involved in an accident. He was sentenced to pay $100 or serve 60 days in the county jail and was ordered to surrender his vehicle's registration plates and registration card.

Richard R. Wrycz, 702 E. King St., pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to dim the headlights of his vehicle, and paid a $10 fine. He was arrested on 3rd Street at 12:30 a.m. today.

TWO MOTORISTS pleaded not guilty on charge of failing to stop for a stop sign.

Arthur D. Huebner, 18, 479 W. Mark St., was arrested at 9 a.m. Saturday at West 5th and Hilbert streets, and Michael C. Creeley, 19, Lake Boulevard, was arrested at 3:40 a.m. Saturday at the same intersection.

Huebner will appear in court at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. He posted bond of $25. Creeley will appear in court at 11 a.m. Friday. A second charge against Creeley — driving without a driver's license — was dismissed after he produced his driver's license in court. He posted bond of $25.

Sheriff Notes Quiet Halloween; Vandalism Light

Halloween weekend in Winona County was one of the quietest ever, according to George Fort, Winona County sheriff.

His office had six cars patrolling Saturday and Sunday night. The vehicles logged 1,667 miles, he said.

Sheriff Fort said the only incident which could have been serious was a dummy someone had placed along Highway 14-61 south of Winona.

"It looked like a person and could have caused a serious accident if a motorist would have stopped quickly to investigate," he said.

There were a few incidents where corn shocks were tipped over and reports of minor vandalism.

Fort said he wanted to "commend the boys for holding things down during the weekend." He said his office usually employs extra personnel to help patrol during Halloween but didn't this year.

In 1805, the White House Christmas party was so gay that Thomas Jefferson was moved to play lively tunes on his violin.

4 Lanes Opened On Highway 61 At Minneiska

About 4.5 miles of four-lane roadway on Highway 61 to the north was officially opened to traffic today.

The 4.5 miles include a mile at Whitman Dam and the remainder at Minneiska.

The opening of the four lanes results from a 13-mile surfacing project extending from near Minnesota City to a point just south of Weaver. Previously there had been temporary surfacing on two lanes and the other two lanes were not in use.

At the northern terminus of the present project, the old concrete is used for northbound traffic and new bituminous, at a higher elevation, for southbound traffic.

Minor work, such as seeding, remains on the summer project. Some of it will carry over to spring.

Bids for the Weaver-Kellogg project may be opened next year.

State Building Total Gains

The total valuation of building permits issued in Minnesota in September increased from $35,015,915 in 1964 to $49,575,841 this year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis reports in its monthly survey of building data for reporting centers in its district.

The state's cumulative total for 1965 is $389,381,118, compared with $413,290,895 for the same period last year.

For the district as a whole, the valuation of permits for repairs, alterations and new construction in the first nine months of this year was $529-

1960 Fire Knocked Out Store for Three Months

The fire that swept Randall's Super Valu store in Westgate Shopping Center Sunday broke out almost exactly five years after repairs and renovations were completed following another costly fire in the same building.

Then operated as Paul Farley's Super Valu supermarket, the store was damaged extensively the morning of Aug. 2, 1960, by a blaze that erupted in the meat-packing room at the rear of the store.

DAMAGE TO the building and contents in that fire ranged around $175,000, with $50,000 listed as the estimated cost of work for which a building permit was issued after the fire.

The store was closed for about three months, with the grand reopening of the supermarket observed on Oct. 26, 1960.

Unlike Sunday's fire, the blaze five years ago didn't cause extensive structural damage to the main portion of the store building.

The fire, in a building that had been opened in November of the previous year, was confined for the most part to the rear portion of the store with the remainder of the building and contents sustaining heavy damage from the dense black smoke that billowed out from the rear.

Work done after the fire involved reconstruction of the fire-damaged rear area, repair and replacement of fixtures and general cleanup and renovation of the smoke-damaged store.

THE FIRE in 1960 was discovered by the manager of the bakery department who arrived at the store about 12:45 a.m. and discovered smoke rolling out from under the front doors.

Harleigh Swanson, 1537 Gilmore Ave., didn't open the doors but went to a nearby public telephone and called the Winona fire department. It was believed that the fire had started within a half-hour prior to Swanson's arrival at the store.

The time of the outbreak of the blaze was estimated on the basis of observations of a maintenance man who had inspected the store around 12:15 a.m. and saw no evidence of fire or smoke at that time.

Some 30 firemen were summoned to the scene and battled the blaze for approximately 3½ hours.

As far as fire damage was concerned, the meat-packing room was burned out, a refrigeration unit destroyed and some roof beams buckled as a result of the intense heat.

Elsewhere in the store damage resulted mostly from smoke and water.

The exterior of the building sustained relatively little damage and nearby stores in the shopping center were saved.

AS IN Sunday's fire, the fire department was hampered in its firefighting efforts in the other blaze by the intense heat and thick black smoke that issued from the building.

An investigation by the state fire marshal, with local fire department officials and insurance adjusters, resulted in findings that the fire probably started in an electric defrosting cable in the refrigeration unit.

Fountain City Contract OKed

FOUNTAIN CITY, Minn. — The Fountain City Common Council has let the last contract for its new water system.

Layne Northwestern of Milwaukee got the contract for pump controls and chemical feeder at $8,123. McCarthy Well Co., St. Paul, also bid but for a higher figure.

The pumphouse still is under construction but the reservoir and water mains are completed. The city anticipates having water available for fire fighting this winter.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Luverne Editor 'A Tired American'

(By Alan McIntosh, Editor and Publisher Rock County Herald, Luverne, Minn.)

I am a tired American.
I'm tired of being called the ugly American.

I'm tired of having the world panhandlers use my country as a whipping boy 365 days a year.

I am a tired American — weary of having American embassies and information centers stoned, burned, and sacked by mobs operating under orders from dictators who preach peace and breed conflict.

I am a tired American — weary of being lectured by General DeGaulle (who never won a battle) who poses as a second Jehovah in righteousness and wisdom.

I am a tired American — weary of Nasar and the same group which subscribes to a "no win" policy in Viet Nam.

I am a tired American — real tired of those who are trying to sell me the belief that America is not the greatest nation in all the world — a generous hearted nation — a nation dedicated to the policy of trying to help the "have nots" achieve some of the good things that our system of free enterprise brought about.

I AM AN AMERICAN who gets a lump in his throat when he hears the "Star Spangled Banner" and who holds back tears when he hears those chilling high notes of the brassy trumpets when Old Glory reaches the top of the flag pole.

I am a tired American — who wants to start snapping at those phoney "high priests" who want us to bow down and worship their false idols and who seek to destroy the belief that America is the land of the free and the home of the brave.

I am a tired American who thanks a merciful Lord that he was so lucky to be born an American citizen — a nation under God, with truly mercy and justice for all.

I am a tired American — who is getting madder by the minute at the fifth peddlers who have launched Americans in an obnoxious race — who try to foist on us the belief that fifth is an integral part of culture — in the arts, the movies, literature, the stage, and the mobs who see Lenny Bruce as brightly amusing, and Norman Mailer as compelling.

I'm tired of these artists who scavenge in the cesspools for inspiration and who refuse to look up to the stars.

I AM A TIRED AMERICAN — weary of the bearded bums who tramp the picket lines and the sit-ins — who prefer Chinese communism to capitalism — who see no evil in Castro, but sneer at President Johnson as a threat to peace.

I am a tired American — who has lost all patience with that civil rights group which is showing propaganda movies on college campuses from coast to coast. Movies denouncing the United States. Movies made in Communist China.

I am a tired American — who is angered by the self-righteous breastbeater critics of America, at home and abroad, who set impossible yardsticks for the United States but never apply the same standards to the French, the British, the Russians, the Chinese.

I am a tired American — who resents the pimplly faced beatniks who try to represent Americans as the "bad guys on the black horses."

I am a tired American — who is weary of some Negro leaders who, for shock purposes, scream four-letter words in church meetings.

I AM A TIRED AMERICAN — sickened by the slack-jawed bigots who wrap themselves in bed sheets in the dead of night and roam the country-side looking for innocent victims.

I am a tired American who dislikes clergymen who have made a career out of integration causes, yet send their own children to private schools.

I am a tired American who resents those who try to peddle the belief in schools and colleges that capitalism is a dirty word and that free enterprise and private initiative are only synonyms for greed.

They say they hate capitalism, but they are always right at the head of the line demanding their share of the American way of life.

I am a tired American who gets more than a little bit weary of the clique in our State Department which chooses to regard a policy of timidity as prudent — all the other blood sucking leeches who bleed Uncle Sam white and who kick him on the shins and yank his beard if he flows falters.

I AM A TIRED AMERICAN — choked up to here on this business of trying to intimidate our government by placard, picket line, and sit in by the hordes of dirty unwashed who rush to man the barricades against the forces of law, order, and decency.

I am a tired American — weary of the beatniks who say they should have the right to determine what laws of the land they are willing to obey.

I am a tired American — fed up with the mobs of scabby faced, long-haired youths and short-haired girls who claim they represent the "new wave" of America and who sneer at the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, integrity, and morality on which America grew to greatness.

I am a tired American — weary unto death of having my tax dollars go to die-

Only a Small Number Protest

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Protest movements by college students against America's Viet Nam policies are confined to a small percentage of college students, according to an Associated Press survey of top officials of 85 colleges and universities.

The immediate impression conveyed is that, since only a minute fraction of the student bodies is involved, the whole thing doesn't really amount to very much and need be given no further concern. It isn't, however, merely the number of Communists who are active inside the colleges that is important, but what they are actually engaged in doing today and will be doing in the future. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is convinced that the Moscow government has a devious purpose in furnishing funds to its agents, who utilize small groups of American students to persuade other students to engage in demonstrations which criticize American foreign policy.

The Soviet government does not openly send Russians to America to conduct this operation. It depends upon secret agents to inveigle innocent Americans into protest movements. Most of the students who participate in the demonstrations probably believe sincerely, as many pacifists do, that the only way to stop war is to protest against it publicly. Some of the earnest objectors to U.S. policy in Viet Nam think that they are merely exercising their constitutional right of free speech.

BUT, UNFORTUNATELY, there is no widespread knowledge among students as yet of Communist techniques and why it is important for college authorities from coast to coast to take seriously movements that are directed against American foreign policy at a time when American boys are sacrificing their lives in a war overseas.

Probably one of the most knowledgeable men in university life in America on the subject of Communist techniques is Dr. Stefan T. Posony, director of the program of international political studies at Stanford University. He is a recognized authority on communism and on psychological warfare. Among many assignments, he has been adviser to the U.S. Air Force and to the French air ministry. An excerpt from a copyrighted interview he gave to "U.S. News & World Report" this week follows:

"Q. How large a following do the Communists have in American colleges and universities?"

"A. IN TERMS of total enrollment, the Communist following is small. Most of the American college students are not particularly interested in politics. They may listen to a speech or two. But they certainly are not very 'activist.' The Communist following on any campus is always a minority."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Test of Bank Merger Comes Before Justice

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A private session is scheduled to take place in the chambers of U.S. District Judge Lloyd MacMahon in New York today which may decide the question of banking competition for years to come.

It will also decide whether Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach is a dishrag or a man of principle.

Finally it will climax one of the most amazing exhibitions of backstage wirepulling and secret congressional maneuvering that Washington has seen this year.

The basic issue is whether the banks of the United States shall be exempt from the antitrust laws. The specific issue is whether the merger of the Hanover Bank and the Manufacturers Trust Company of New York shall be allowed to stand; or whether the divestiture already worked out by the Justice Department shall be overruled by Judge MacMahon, an Eisenhower appointee, when he meets with the bankers and the Justice Department in his chambers today.

Gabriel Hauge, another onetime Eisenhower appointee, is now president of the two merged banks, a merger which the Justice Department previously had ruled must be modified.

LINING UP on Hauge's side against the Justice Department are the following potent forces:

Force No. 1 — Five senators who on Oct. 22, the last day of Congress, wrote a letter to Attorney General Katzenbach pleading for leniency toward two bank mergers — the Manufacturers Hanover merger in New York and the First National Bank with the Security Trust in Lexington, Ky.

The five senators pointed out that a bill exempting banks from the antitrust laws had passed the Senate and "it was our hope that by the conclusion of the first session of this Congress, action would have been completed." The five senators then took the unusual step of asking the attorney general to "refrain" from enforcing the antitrust laws against the two bank mergers in which he had already moved to force divestiture.

The five senators were:

Robertson, Va., Eastland, Miss., Democrats; with Dirksen, Ill., and Bennett, Utah, Republicans, all four friends of the banking industry; plus Mike Mansfield, Mont., who seemed like a fish out of water in this company.

Force No. 2 — Was a coalition of all Republicans on the House Banking and Currency Committee plus six Democrats, who sneaked one of their members into the locked committee room, on a pretense, unlocked the doors, then held a secret meeting unbeknownst to Chairman Patman and claimed to have a quorum present to OK the bill exempting banks from the antitrust laws.

HOWEVER, Rep. Frank Annunzio of Chicago, Democrat, began to realize what was happening and walked out of the committee, along with Rep. Henry Reuss of Milwaukee, also a Democrat. This broke up the quorum.

How carefully the bankers were following this meeting was indicated by that fact that, a few minutes after Annunzio walked out, he got a phone call from the Continental Illinois Trust in his hometown, Chicago, telling him to get back in the rump committee meeting.

"Hell no," replied Annunzio. "It's an illegal meeting."

Continental Illinois Trust is one of the banks involved in a merger which the Justice Department is opposing.

A more dubious force is Attorney General Katzenbach. He has wavered on this issue like a limp dishrag in the wind.

On Aug. 18 he appeared bravely before the House Banking and Currency Committee to call the proposed Robertson bill, passed by the Senate, an outrage.

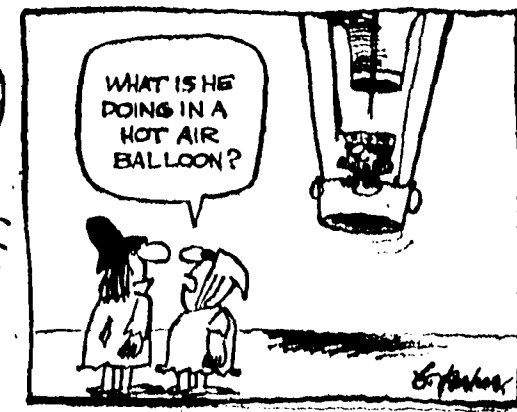

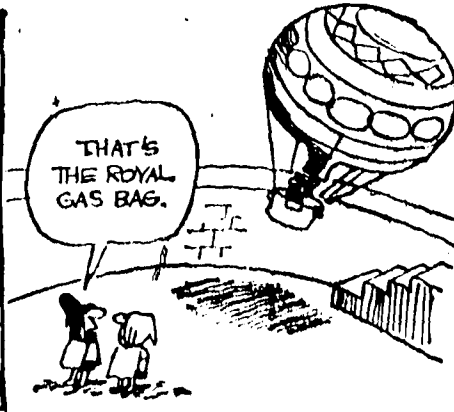

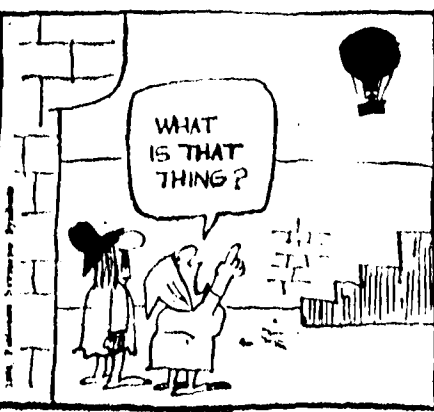

"I can see no justification for legalizing mergers already found to be illegal," Katzenbach said. "I appear to express the strong opposition of the Department of Justice. The central impact of this bill is that it would immunize six consummated mergers challenged by the department and now pending in the courts. Two of these already have been found to be illegal."

What About Auto Prices?

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — With economic indicator at go-go-go the auto industry expects to come up with another 8 million car year and it might go to 9 million which would be an unprecedented fifth boom year in a row. Only one slight cloud mars this glowing horizon as seen from here.

That is whether the new models are in fact higher priced and whether these higher prices could be inflationary. When Chrysler, leading the pack, committed the indecency of announcing that new models would cost more the White House took alarm and Sen. Phillip Hart of Michigan rose on the Senate floor to view with concern. Hart's antimonopoly subcommittee has been delving into concentration, monopoly control and administered prices.

Then came General Motors and Ford announcing that they were lowering prices and Washington cheered. The White House called the Bureau of Labor Statistics demanding to know where the truth lay. But there is no quick answer to that one and the bureau is sending a team to Detroit to try to discover if new equipment on 1966 models is the reason for price "adjustments" that can be rated as higher or lower than the prices for 1965 cars.

THE WALL Street Journal in an analytical article called it sleight of hand and awarded high marks in public relations to GM and Ford. All prices are higher and it is only a question of how skillfully the increases were masked, according to the Journal analyst. Whether the Labor Statistics team, measuring safety devices and improved performance with their slide rules, will support this is important since their findings will enter into the cost of living index, and a lot turns on the index, including the wages of auto workers.

The flap over prices is a dramatic illustration of how the auto industry dominates the American economy and how the motor car has come to dominate American life. In the BLS index auto expenditures are 13 percent of all family costs, an increase from 11½ percent in 1950. In the Cities, 73 percent of all families list expenditures for the motor car in one form or another; in rural non-farm areas it is 82 percent.

THE CURRENT sleight of hand is also an illustration of how much more sophisticated the industry has become. The antimonopoly investigation into administered auto prices developed that in 1956 Ford announced an average increase of 2.9 percent for 1957 models. Two weeks later GM came along and announced Chevrolet prices were up 8.1 percent. A sardonic witness at the hearings was Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers Union, who said:

"Now Ford was supposed to have established their prices based on cost figures. But what happened? As soon as General Motors announced higher prices Ford revised their prices upward in line with GM. This is the first time in the history of a free enterprise economy where a company raised the price of their products in order to be competitive."

REUTHER ARGUES that the Big Three with 90 percent of the business could reduce prices particularly in the light of swiftly rising profits — GM profits were up 12 percent for the first half of this year — and thereby benefit the whole economy. This gets down to concentration. GM has had in recent years roughly half of total production. It seems to be widely agreed that GM could reduce prices and still make big profits. But this would be likely to squeeze out American Motors with 5 percent of production and it could hit both Chrysler and Ford, resulting therefore in greater concentration.

In an earlier and simpler day the antitrust laws were considered a remedy. Not long ago the antitrust division in the Department of

Oct. 24 a letter appeared in this column citing the threats the right and left pose to democracy by their responses to the war in Viet Nam. I certainly agree that right wing efforts to suppress the freedom to protest are dangerous.

I would disagree with his analysis of the threat from the left, however. Mr. Brown says that protesters have the right to protest but never to break the law and that "the only objective standard of what is just is the law itself."

The logical extension of such an argument reveals its absurdity. According to the argument we must admire Adolf Eichmann, a model and law-abiding citizen who accepted law as "the only objective standard of what is just." According to the argument a man must abdicate his conscience to law.

Bill Gilliam

Justice had what was half jokingly called a GM section. Today three GM cases — on buses, which are a small part of GM's business, diesels, and earth-moving equipment — are in the courts.

THE PRESENT head of antitrust, Donald F. Turner out of the Harvard Law School, takes a broad, philosophic view of enforcement untainted by the populist view that the law could be used to break up bigness and give small business a chance. He believes that the vast empire of General Motors, for example, is so intertwined in its operation that it would be impossible to break up, even if it were desirable, as in the crusading days of antitrust the Standard Oil empire was dismantled.

Contrary to the findings of a rapidly growing concentration of all assets in the hundred largest corporations, as developed before the antimonopoly subcommittee, Turner wrote last May that "no threat, not even a mild one" exists to small business. He argues that the number of small businesses has risen steadily and substantially.

For the average American entranced by the sleek, shiny new models the price tag is beyond his ken. The industry is so big, so remote in its operations, so clever that if price competition has been all but removed he is hardly aware of it.

Wilson Believes

Rhodesian Crisis

Can Be Settled

LONDON (AP) — British

Prime Minister Harold Wilson

says he believes a Rhodesian settlement is possible. But the colony's two leading Africans have rejected plans for a royal commission to work out a settlement.

Wilson returned Sunday night from talks in Rhodesia to report to Parliament on the agreement
he reached with Rhodesian
Prime Minister Ian Smith to set up a three-man royal commission that will seek a formula for conditions under which the central African colony could be granted independence.

The British leader said the agreement has provided time for careful thought.

"We can, given the time, get a settlement," he added.

British newspaper commentators agreed that Wilson's mission had bought time for more negotiations. But they generally did not consider as bright the prospects for an acceptable settlement.

Wilson went to Rhodesia after the colony's ruling white minority threatened to declare independence without yielding to British demands for guarantees promising eventual rule to the colony's 4 million Africans. The white population numbers about 255,000.

The leader of one of Rhodesia's two African nationalist parties, Joshua Nkomo, said in a statement that Britain was evading its responsibilities in proposing the royal commission.
He termed it "a time wasting device."

The leader of the other nationalist party, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, issued a statement "unreservedly rejecting the idea of a commission."

Both the rival nationalist leaders agreed to Wilson's proposal that the Rhodesian people as a whole should be asked if they want independence based on the existing 1961 constitution.
In separate statements they insisted this be done by a one-man
one-vote referendum.

Wilson and Smith have not yet agreed on the ground rules for the commission nor on ways to change the 1961 constitution to make it acceptable to both sides.

French Provincial Combines Old, New

FRENCH CHARM . . . The delightful appearance of this three-bedroom French Provincial can be traced back to the early 17th century, when architect Francois Mansart designed a two-slope roof that would permit flat, high-ceilinged rooms on the second floor.

First floor plan

Second floor plan

FLOOR PLANS . . . Spaciousness is the keynote of this room layout; especially note the long living room, the length of the combined kitchen-family room, the giant upstairs bath and the features of the master bedroom suite.

By ANDY LANG

The newest House of the Week, an elegant French Provincial, has a roof design originally created to avoid the payment of high taxes!

But the roof's practical advantage of permitting larger, higher-ceilinged second-floor rooms has kept it popular through the centuries, with many variations making their appearance in this country.

BACK IN THE 1600s, in France, two-story houses were taxed at a high rate. In order to get a lower rate for their clients, French architects built many one and a half story houses, with resultant cramped upstairs rooms of the garret type.

One architect, Francois Mansart, found a loophole in the regulations that enabled his customers to avoid the high tax rate and yet have spacious quarters on the second floor. By keeping the roof eaves just above the first-floor windows, as specified by law, he was able to have his houses classified as one and a half stories. But by redesigning the roof with two slopes, the lower one very steep, he was able to offer much more living space on the upper floor.

This type of roof is now known as a mansard, the "M" at the end of the French architect's name having been changed to a "d" somewhere along the line.

BESIDES the mansard roof, many other exterior details of our house this week are authentic French, among them stonework, eyebrow dormers, full-length shutters with panels below the windows, casement sash, chimney pots and plant urns at the front entrance.

By locating the garage doors at the side, the garage appears from the front as an additional living area.

On the inside, architect Rudolph A. Matern has intermingled additional French touches with all the modern conveniences American families have come to expect.

Typically traditional is the large center foyer, with the living room on one side and the dining room on the other, as well as an entrance vestibule with closet. The foyer ceiling is pierced by a small, round, railed opening through which drops a light fixture from the second-floor ceiling.

A log-burning fireplace is the focal point of the large living room, which has French doors at the rear leading to an enclosed porch. Housewives will appreciate the unusually large amount of living room wall space for effective furniture placement.

family room is an open 20 feet of space, with the demarcation of the rooms being left to a light-and-plant trough and turned poles. Features of the area are the larder, small desk with a post light, and the laundry tucked into the corner.

The laundry location allows the homemaker to be "part of the family" while these chores are being done. Cabinets above, and at the side of the washer and dryer provide plenty of space to keep all clothes out of sight. Folding partitions hide the entire laundry when not in use.

Just outside the kitchen and close to a rear entrance is a sizable bathroom, including a shower. Another bathroom is on the upper bedroom floor. This one is unusually large, is two steps down, has a tub of mosaic tile and can be entered from the general bedroom area, the rear porch or the master bedroom, with special door arrangements for privacy.

A GLANCE at the floor plan of Design G-8 discloses a truly spacious master bedroom suite. The room itself is 22 feet long,

In an effort to build a new market, many misleading and exaggerated statements have been made in an attempt to get blind and hurried conversion to gas. Haste makes waste.

LET'S SET THE RECORD STRAIGHT

FACT . . . OIL IS ECONOMICAL

At the present published prices, the annual cost of heating the average home is less with fuel oil than with natural gas. Oil will continue to be the most economical automatic home heating fuel. Price trends show that gas will soon be pricing itself out of the market. Ask your local fuel oil dealer for proof.

FACT . . . OIL IS EFFICIENT

Modern oil furnaces will operate more efficiently than ANY gas fired furnace. Even the inexpensive oil furnace will burn with efficiencies equal or better than new gas fired furnaces.

FACT . . . OIL IS SAFE

Unusual safety claims for gas are being made and no recognition is given to the fact that a true explosion from oil is virtually unknown. There are no toxic fumes which can penetrate your home, causing sickness or death to plants, pets or your family. (In contrast, a recent gas explosion in Wisconsin resulted in injuries to 13 and property damage estimated as high as $500,000.)

FACT . . . OIL IS CLEAN

There is less burning residue from a properly operating oil fired furnace than with any other type of furnace. Laboratory tests prove that oily film on windows and walls consist of 95% cooking fats and 3% cigarette smoke.

G-8 Statistics

Design G-8 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, bath, foyer, rear porch and two-car garage on the first floor; three bedrooms, an unusually large bathroom, dressing room and porch on the second floor.

There are 1,090 square feet of living area on the first floor, excluding the garage and porches. The second floor has 981 square feet of habitable area, excluding the porches and storage rooms. Overall dimensions including the garage, are 58 feet 10 inches by 37 feet 7 inches.

COLOR MIRACLES

Real color miracles can be worked by merely changing the tone of walls and woodwork, floor and ceiling, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

ENAMEL IS BEST

High gloss enamel is best for painting areas that require frequent washing, advises the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. Enamel dries to a smooth finish and can be washed often without losing its brilliant gloss and color.

Rhythmasters Maintain Friendly, Rocking Mood in WSC Jazz Concert

By EARL A. SCHREIBER

Jazz and what some refer to as "swing band" or "combo" music should be accepted as art forms, each unique in conveying some special aspect of musical message especially well. Several paths and facets of this sometimes spontaneous creating were explored Sunday evening when Winona State College presented its Colleg Jazz Concert in Somsen Auditorium.

The program, under the direction of Fred Heyer of the college music department and a master in stimulating audience contact and expectation, opened with an original called, "Cleft Dwellers," (punny only to musicians), creating a friendly, rocking mood where everyone could anticipate a good time — both audience and performers. To set such an atmosphere and then sustain it throughout a show is difficult for a professional group. Mr. Heyer and his musicians accomplished this.

BESIDES the 17-piece swing band, also appearing were a seven-man combo featuring Bob Schuh and Gene Steffes as soloists, and a septet developing a cool, full sound under the direction of trombonist Orrin Hager, and the Dave Heyer Trio. Each group presented its own specialty. These sounds ranged from subtle sensitivity to vigorously creative exploitation.

Not all the heat generated Sunday in Winona came from the tragic Westgate fire or the above groups. Contributing more than their share to the rise in temperature were drummers Dave Heyer and Jay Epstein who collaborated in what they called a "Drum Duo," but which developed into a primitive emotional "conversation" which ran the gamut of feelings: humor, tragedy, sex, sarcasm, glamor, suspense, to name a few, all of which must have impressed even the gargoyle who seemed suspiciously to continue their grasp upon the ceiling of Somsen Auditorium.

Continuing a family tradition, 13-year-old Linda Heyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heyer, again showed the flair for showmanship displayed by both her father and older brother-drummer, Dave. Linda sang, "Bill Bailey," and, "Everybody Loves A Lover."

THE SWING band used smooth, creamy sound effectively contrasting it with an almost violent cacophony to create the musical tension desired. They are one of the few large units capable of playing from pianissimo to fortissimo, all in one selection. Ensemble phrases were firm and solid. Intonation created little problem until the last few numbers.

Maybe the subjective opportunity to interpret mood, feeling, and expression the way each one wanted was what made the performance of the Dave Heyer Combo intriguing but challenging to this listener who compared it to a folksong, spiritual, or Latin American caprice as analogous to the composition of a Mondrian painting or the Cubism of Picasso.

To sum up the Jazz Concert with a well-worn but useful cliché: "A good time was had by all."

Capacity House Hails 'Roses' At Saint Teresa

By WARREN C. MAGNUSON

Saturday evening about 700 Winona citizens were treated to one of the most honest and touching plays written in recent years. Frank Gilroy's "The Subject Was Roses" played to a capacity house at the College of Saint Teresa Theater.

This is a play in which not much happens. Simply, it is three people facing what they are. What makes it great is that the vehicle is written and staged with an economy of effect, a directness of tongue, and simplicity of gesture that makes it nearly a "happening."

THE TERM "happening" is perhaps to some, a profanation when it is appended to this play. It is in the second act that the word may be just right. In Act II three sounds make a silence. The sons spits a single word at his father, the father slaps the boy hard, and the mother is heard opening the hallway door. In the sequence one could feel the audience straining to hear what the scene doesn't say.

The high level sequence is not solitary however, there is much in this play that makes for the theatrical miracles. In Act I as the trio returns from an untimely "night on the town," the boy, in the living room of the split set, remembers how much he loved vaudeville. Meanwhile, the parents, in the kitchen, discover that they can remember the tune, and just a few lines of "Pretty Baby." It is the crossbreed of the moods that rises to theatrical magic.

What matters in this play is the turbulence that evolves from a lifetime of loveless living. It comes in up stuck waffles, made with the last egg in the house on Saturday and weak coffee on Sunday, or an implication of unlimited funds at one moment and a quick argument regarding $5 at another.

THE THREE characters are not colorful people and they are not what one would consider "interesting." They are however, most real, most believable, most human. They run the gamut of emotion, but they never belabor a point or a mood.

Dennis O'Keefe as the father, was a study in masterful timing. He is alternately a slow slump, hot-tempered Irishman, halting commentator, and a quick-witted humorist. All without faltering at anytime.

The son, played by Peter Duryea, showed Duryea's growing greatness in a play in which his father couldn't see himself. Duryea grew magnificently throughout the show. He grew, not only as the son, who learns much about wrestling life's problems, but also as an actor who builds throughout.

THE MOTHER was played

MR. AND MRS. JOHN F. KRAGE, 762 W. Mark St., will observe their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at an open house at Evangelical United Brethren Church, where they were married Nov. 4, 1915. Hours will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Their children will be hosts. No invitations have been sent.

Mr. and Mrs. John Volkman (Dunley Studios)

Volkman-Nowicki Vows Exchanged At St. Martin's

St. Martin's Lutheran Church was the scene of the Oct. 16 wedding of Miss Barbara Nowicki, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Anderson, 520 E. Sanborn St., and John Volkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Volkman, 515 Center St.

The Rev. Armin Deye received their vows. Roy Burmeister was soloist.

Miss Bonnie Risser was maid of honor and Miss Sherry Nako and Miss Betty Volkman, sister of the groom, bridesmaids.

John Creeley was best man and Alanson Hamernik and John Englerth, groomsmen. The latter is of West Salem, Wis. Dale Kaufman and John Anderson ushered. The latter is of Sparta, Wis.

THE BRIDE wore a floor-length gown of lace over tulle with a fitted bodice and bateau neckline that shaped into a square back. It had long tapered sleeves and was accented by a chapel train. She wore a silk illusion veil held by a crown of seed pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Her attendants wore floor-length gowns of pink satin accented by empire waists. Their headpieces were pink crowns and they carried bouquets of pink carnations and white pompons.

A reception was held in Redmen's Hall.

The newlyweds are at home at 616 W. 5th St.

Both are graduates of Winona Senior High School. The bride was formerly employed at Ted Maier Drug Co. Her husband is employed at Winona Tool and Manufacturing Co., Inc., and Dale's Standard Service.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower at the home of Mrs. Byron Hock by the Misses Bonnie Risser, Sherry Nako and Betty Ramer and Mrs. Marlow Kram.

by Miss Sheila Conan, a standby for Betty Field who, it was announced had been ill for two weeks prior to Saturday night. Miss Conan built, perhaps too intensely, the feeling of pity for a badgered wife in the opening scenes, but she held the audience spellbound in her quiet reminiscence in scene three of Act II.

The set and props were obviously travel tired, though they were not at all shabby. The stove leg had a ten degree list and a cornice of the apartment had a part missing. However, these faults may well have fit into the middle-class, walk-up flat presented.

One miscue of lights was obvious, but if there were other technical errors, they weren't noticeable.

The College of Saint Teresa is certainly to be congratulated for bringing Winonans the opportunity to see a great vehicle, well done.

'Dnipro' Chorus Program Here Varied, Colorful

By ELIZABETH L. HOLLWAY

The Twin Cities "Dnipro" Chorus sang a varied and colorful program of Ukrainian choral music at St. Mary's College Sunday evening. Under the direction of Nicolas Bryn, the concert was given in a section of the college gymnasium and heard by a sympathetic audience which substantially filled the tiers of bleacher seats. The acoustics, which might have been poor, were reasonably good.

A CAPPELLA, which was sung during the first part of the program, met the challenge of the opening numbers with some nice results in intonation and interpretation. Good control and effect were achieved in, particularly, the "Cherubimic Hymn," by D. Bortniansky and the "Three Compositions Based On 'Folk Tunes,'" by M. Leontowycz.

THE MIDDLE section of the program was given over to solos by Madame Oksana Bryn, soprano. Her arias from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino" and Puccini's "Sister Angelica" demanded a projection of pathos and appeal and Madame Bryn was vocally and dramatically capable in both arias and she sang them with sensitivity and restraint. Her English in the Puccini was poor and the coloratura in the fourth solo was not well-executed. Richard Zgodava accompanied the soprano solos and the remaining choral numbers with skill and authority.

The chorus sang the final third of the program in costume. Generally speaking, the numbers at the end of the program presented less musical interest than those heard earlier and the performance was less precise.

Roll call is "a fashion trend you would like to see come back."

MR. AND MRS. REUBEN SCHROEDER will be at home Monday at Caledonia, Minn., following a wedding trip and their Oct. 23 wedding at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Caledonia. The Rev. Robert Kant officiated. The bride is the former Miss Katherine Kilmer, Caledonia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kilmer, Lewiston, Minn. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schroeder, Caledonia. A complete wedding story appeared in the Wednesday issue of the Winona Daily News. (Camera Art photo)

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Mary Lou Haeuser to Marvin G. Hundt, son of Wilfred Hundt, Stockton, Minn., and the late Mrs. Wilfred Hundt, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stiehl, 461 E. 2nd St. An early spring wedding is planned. Packers' Need: Down-to-Earth Running Game

CHICAGO (AP) — The wonder-working Green Bay Packers, whose pockets brimmed with miracles during a fortune-filled six-game winning streak, faced the future today with an obvious need for a down-to-earth running attack.

Chicago's resurgent Bears picked Green Bay clean of marvels Sunday, hammering out a 31-10 victory with a ground offensive that smacked of the style that made Vince Lombardi famous. The defeat left the Packers in a first-place tie with Baltimore in the National Football League's Western Conference. The Colts tangle with the Bears next Sunday while the Packers face Detroit at Green Bay.

"We're still on top of the league," said Packers Coach Lombardi. He was pleased with the running of Jimmy Taylor, for the past six seasons the mainstay of the Green Bay ground attack. "This was Taylor's best game of the season," Lombardi said.

But Taylor, who has been hampered by an ankle injury, was only effective in the first half, gaining 49 of his 50 yards in the first two quarters.

The entire Packer team gained only 58 yards in the second half with 24 of them on the ground.

It was the second straight Sunday the Packers have been unable to score more than one touchdown. They defeated Dallas 13-3 a week ago despite being held to 63 yards in total offense. They managed 227 Sunday with 121 on the ground.

"The Bears blocked, passed and ran better than we did," said Lombardi. "This club is greatly improved since we last met them. In fact, they're a lot better than the 1963 Bears who won the championship."

The Bears had what the Packers needed Sunday, backs with breakaway speed and inside power and linemen to open the holes for them.

The Packers' defense that has been compensating most of the season for a balky offense was unable to stop rookie sensation Gayle Sayers and sophomore find Andy Livingston and didn't have much luck against veterans Jon Arnett and Ronnie Bull.

Rejuvenated Rudy Bukich, the quarterback who has led the Bears back into contention in the NFL race with four straight wins, passed only to augment the running threat, completing five of 11 tosses for 53 yards.

The Bears picked up 202 yards rushing with 73 of them supplied by Arnett and 66 by Sayers.

Sayers helped break the game wide open with a 62-yard punt return in the third period to set up a two-yard touchdown run by Arnett and give the Bears a 24-10 lead.

But it was Livingston who pushed the Bears into the lead in the first place. The massive fullback spearheaded a 17-point burst by the Bears in the second period that gave them a 17-10 halftime edge. He carried the ball only four times but picked up 40 yards.

Two interceptions helped the rally along. The steals, by Doug Atkins and Bennie McRae, both led to touchdowns. Former Wisconsin star Jimmy Jones scored the first, badly beating Doug Hart to take a 13-yard strike from Bukich. Sayers scored the second, going to the outside on a 10-yard run after finding the middle closed.

Roger LeClerc kicked a 24-yard field goal for the Bears' first score.

Green Bay drew first blood, marching 70 yards in 13 plays after the opening kickoff for a touchdown. Taylor scored it, barely getting over from the 1.

The Packers weren't to score again until the final play of the first half when Don Chandler kicked a 43-yard field goal.

Bart Starr had another poor day. Although he completed 10 of 20 passes for 103 yards, three of his passes were picked off. Only two Starr passes had been intercepted in the first six games.

"These things happen," said Lombardi. When asked if Starr might be rested next Sunday, the coach replied: "Starr's going to be my quarterback next week."

Starr, who was held to minus 10 yards passing by Dallas, suffered bruises to his ribs and shoulders. Linebacker Ray Nitschke and tackle Henry Jordan were also banged up. Tight end Mary Fleming didn't play because of a leg injury.

Lombardi, though impressed with the Bears, didn't go overboard. "Before the Chicago fans get too excited," he said, "they should remember the Bears have to play Baltimore twice."

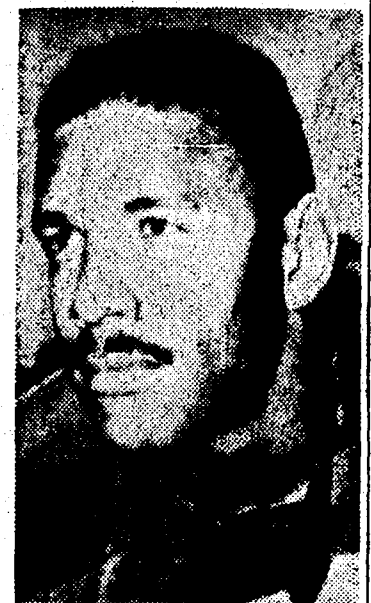

BUT THE OFFENSE GETS A-

A+ for Vike Defense

CLEVELAND (AP) — Give the Minnesota Vikings' an A plus if you're keeping a defensive report card.

They get an A minus offensively, by their own grading.

"It was our best defensive game by far," said Vikings Coach Norm Van Brocklin, who marks grades on both counts.

"The Browns held us under our scoring average," said quarterback Fran Tarkenton. The Vikings had averaged over 33 points a game until they beat Cleveland 27-17 Sunday. They also had given up more points than any other team in the National Football League.

A crowd of 83,505 saw the Vikings boost their Western Conference record to 4-3. Despite the loss, the Browns still lead the Eastern Division with a 5-2 mark.

"I think we went out there with the idea we were going to hit," said defensive tackle Paul Dickson, who was awarded a game ball along with defensive end Jim Marshall.

Both played key roles in keeping Jim Brown, the NFL's top ground gainer, to 39 yards — his low for the season.

"We tried to stop Brown's dangerous play — the wide sweep where he has a man blocking in front of him," said Van Brocklin. "That guy is 70 per cent of their offense."

Across the hall, Browns' Coach Blanton Collier said, "They carried it right to us. They seemed to be a step-ahead of us. We seemed to be hitting their strength."

Collier said quarterback Frank Ryan has been bothered by a sore elbow, but added "Frank's had this trouble off and on before. I don't believe that was the problem."

Jim Ninowski played the final quarter and moved the Browns for a touchdown in 13 plays. But it was Tarkenton, Minnesota's escape artist, and the Vikings' stingy defense who settled the issue.

The Browns were aware that Tarkenton liked to throw to halfback Tommy Mason and fullback Bill Brown and he did — for a touchdown apiece.

The Vikings like to get a running back into a one-on-one situation against a linebacker and it worked against Browns' captain Galen Fiss, playing his first game since he was injured in the season's opener against the Washington Redskins.

"Mason said he could beat the guy on the weak side," Van Brocklin said. "I told Francis to call the play as soon as he went in."

It worked for a 72-yard touchdown, with both Tarkenton and Mason thinking they had beat Jim Houston, who was sidelined earlier with an injury.

"No linebacker in the league can keep up with Mason," said Tarkenton.

The 35 mile-an-hour wind seemed to bother the crowd more than it did the quarterbacks. "I kept throwing grass up to see which way it was blowing and I couldn't find out," said Tarkenton, who completed 17 of 27 passes for 234 yards. "It was a big thrill to beat them," said Tarkenton. "They're the champs."

EVERYONE HAPPY

Defense Did A Great Job

CLEVELAND (AP) — It was a day of exonerated for the Minnesota Vikings' defensive platoon.

Bombed for 201 points in six games this season, the Viking defenders had drawn the ire of Coach Norm Van Brocklin, who once even called his secondary "stupid."

Sunday, after the Vikings had beaten the defending National Football League champion Cleveland Browns 27-17, Van Brocklin beamed with pride over the defensive showing.

"It was our best defensive game by far," Van Brocklin said. "Cleveland earned only one touchdown. Holding Jimmy Brown to 39 yards is a great tribute to our defensive players."

When the Vikings trooped into the dressing room it was the defensive team that drew the plaudits.

Game balls were presented to defensive linemen Jim Marshall and Paul Dickson. But Gary Larsen, Carl Eller, Rip Hawkins and Lonnie Warwick all came in for praise, too.

"We had the pursuit," Dickson said. "That's how we stopped Brown."

"Our defense worked together better today," Marshall said. "Everything seemed to fall into place — the way it should for a good defensive team."

The Viking's defense now has allowed opponents only 28 points in the last six quarters of NFL combat — an average of less than four points a quarter. Up to halftime of the San Francisco game the week before, they had permitted nearly nine points a quarter.

The offense matched the defense Sunday in what Van Brocklin called "our best balanced effort of the season."

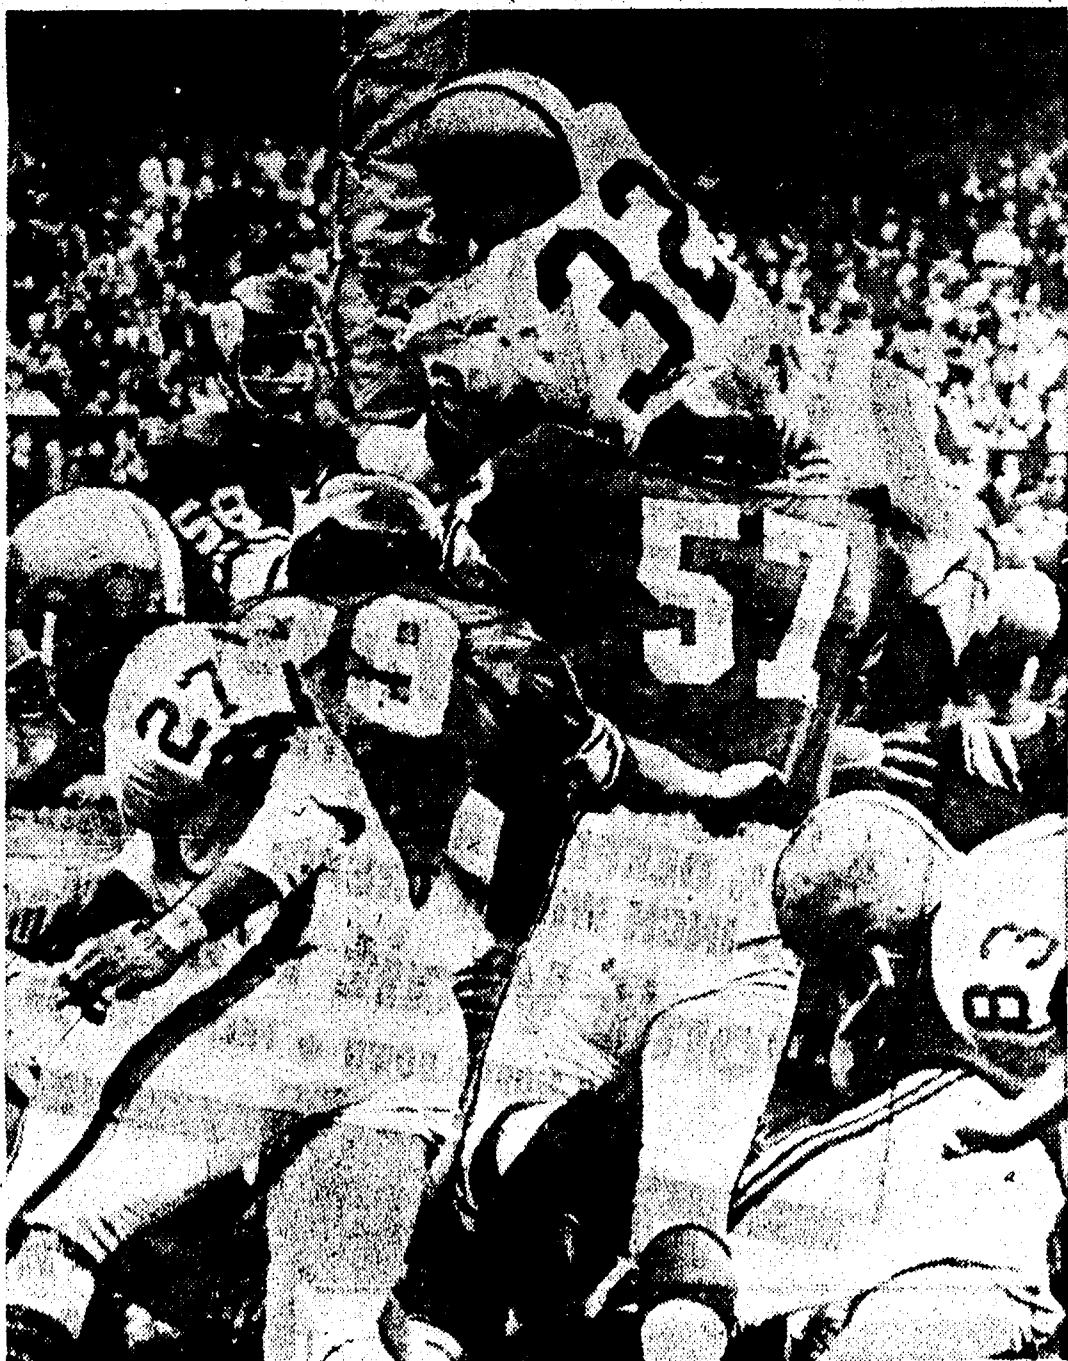

Fran Tarkenton passed for 234 yards and two touchdowns on 17 completions in 27 attempts. Bill Brown rushed for 138 yards on 24 carries and scored two touchdowns. Tommy Mason added 66 yards on 12 carries and caught a 72-yard touchdown pass from Tarkenton. Paul Flatley had six receptions for 65 yards and Brown five for 46.

Fred Cox booted field goals of 30 and 18 yards in the fourth quarter to ice it.

"We wanted to control the ball and we did," Tarkenton said. "Against a good offensive team like Cleveland, you just can't let them have the ball a lot of the time."

The Vikings ran 68 plays to the Browns' 51.

"We just beat them man-for-man, right down the line," Van Brocklin said.

JIMMY RIDES AGAIN . . . Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown scores in the fourth quarter against the Minnesota Vikings — with the aid of the goal post. The ball was put into play only four inches from the goal post. Brown hurdled the line — and for added insurance pulled himself over by hanging onto the posts. Vikings in the action are Rip Hawkins (66), Karl Kassulke (26) and Bill Jobko (67). Browns are Walter Roberts (27) and John Brewer (83). (AP Photofax)

Blanda, Gino Make Great Changes in AFL Alignment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There have been some startling changes made in the American Football League due to the efforts of Gino Cappelletti, whose family tree has been traced back to Romeo and Juliet, and George Blanda, who goes back that far almost by himself.

Cappelletti caught two touchdowns and kicked two field goals and two extra points, personally accounting for 20 points as the Boston Patriots won their first game Sunday by upsetting previously unbeaten San Diego 22-6.

Blanda kicked four field goals and passed for one touchdown, personally accounting for 18 points as the Houston Oilers moved up on Buffalo in the Eastern Division race by upsetting the Bills 19-17.

In other games, Kansas City defeated Oakland 14-7 and New York walloped Denver 45-10. Cappelletti, whose family has traced his lineage back to the Capulet family of Juliet — Shakespeare is supposed to have changed the name for rhyme purposes — has not been in the spotlight this season despite his Most Valuable Player crown.

But against the Chargers he was most of the offensive show, grabbing 29 and 46-yard touchdowns from Babe Parilli, kicking 30 and 33-yard field goals and adding the two extra points while the Patriots de-

Ill Wind Tumbled Gophers from 1st, Wildcats Up Next

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An ill wind probably shot Minnesota out of the Big Ten football championship race Saturday.

The strong crosswind in Ohio State's massive stadium caught Deryl Ramey's field goal attempt, from close range with only 14 seconds remaining, and blew it a few feet to the left of the goal posts, giving the Buckeyes an 11-10 victory over the Gophers.

"The wind blew the ball at least six feet to the left," said Gopher quarterback John Hankinson, who was holding the placement. "I'm sure if the wind hadn't caught the ball it would have been good."

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, beating his long-time friend Murray Warmath in the first meeting between the two coaches, agreed and said gratefully:

"The wind definitely took it. Thank God for that."

The Buckeyes' hefty Bob Funk had booted an 18-yard field goal with 1:17 left in the game to put OSU in front by a point.

But Minnesota, with Hankinson threading the needle on sideline passes, stormed back to move 56 yards in 60 seconds. Hankinson's pass to Aaron Brown took the ball to the Buckeye 8-yard line with 17 seconds left.

The Gophers, all their timeouts used up, rushed Ramey into the game for the do-or-die field goal try.

Ramey protested briefly to the officials that the ball had curved to the left after going through the uprights, but his complaint fell on deaf ears.

Warmath made no beef. He said he couldn't see from his angle, but felt the officials made the correct call.

"It was an exciting, close game," the Gopher coach said. "The difference was that Ohio State was bigger and stronger physically than we were. They were able to push us around. We stopped their running game in the second half, but they were versatile enough to go to the air."

Warmath also said that loss of halfback Dave Colburn, out for the season with a broken collarbone, hurt Minnesota's attack.

The outcome left the Buckeyes and Gophers tied for second place in the Big Ten with 3-1 record, both trailing unbeaten Michigan State. The Gophers have conference games with Northwestern, Purdue and Wisconsin remaining.

The hard-hitting struggle witnessed by 84,359 fans — the fifth largest crowd in OSU history — was described by Hayes as "a real squeaker."

So awestruck was Hayes by the play of Aaron Brown, the giant Gopher end playing with his broken jaw wired, that he sprinted across field after the game to offer congratulations.

"It was one of the greatest performances I ever saw," Hayes said. "I don't know when I've seen a more effective football player than Brown. He got them out of trouble at least seven times."

"I know, because I counted them. That's all I could do."

Betty Englerth Slaps 617 Pin Series

Betty Englerth Saturday night broke Helen Nelson's stranglehold on top ten departments in city women's bowling circles.

Competing during a makeup night at Westgate Bowl, Mrs. Englerth smashed a 617 errorless series that now controls the series category.

Shooting in the Pin Topplers circuit, she ripped games of 302, 224 and 191 in taking the No. 1 spot ahead of Mrs. Nelson — who owns second, third and fourth with 610, 607 and 595.

Included in the series were 17 strikes, 13 spares and two splits. Mrs. Englerth competes for Main Tavern.

The 617 also brought her quintet good things as it used her performance for 911 and 2,681.

Watkins Mary King also totaled 911.

Irlene Trimmer clouted 212-566, Esther Pozanc 542, Vivian H. Brown 206-526, Irene Bronk 507, Doris Bay 505 and Isabelle Rozek 503.

Leading the men over the weekend was 205-222-182-609 by Vern Bucholz in the Westgate Jacks and Queens League.

Coupled with 178-479 from Jan Wiczorek, that gave his 4 Aces team 780-2,258.

HAL-ROD LANES: High School Boys — John Walski clouted 203-202-190-595 for Good Players. Bruce Biltgen led Clydes to 767 with 212-578 and Trojans ripped 2,178. Dave Brom laced 544 and Pat Hopf 519.

High School Girls — Cheryl Biltgen dumped 167-441 for Scramblers and Bev Biltgen 187 for Alley Gators. Tigerettes tipped 737-2,153.

Park-Rec Jr. Boys — Unknowns belted 699-1,217 behind 197-288 from Kraig Lang.

WESTGATE: Guys and Dolls 741.

Colbenson - Armstrong tagged 795-2,196 behind 549 from Bill Armstrong and 483 from Ruth Armstrong. Quentin Schmitz tipped 206 for Schmitz-Lica and Joan Loer 179.

Kings and Queens — Dave Schewe, subbing, ripped 235-582 for C and K's. Bette Kram tipped 187-465 for Cherry Pickers. Fabulous Four tipped 772 and Double O's 2,208.

Junior Girls — Susan Cada led Strikettes to 2,015 with her 145-358. Ash Trays dumped 741.

More Than Just This Bout Riding

TORONTO (AP) — When towering Ernie Terrell and rugged George Chuvalo meet tonight in 15 rounds or less they undoubtedly will be thinking of more than Terrell's World Boxing Association heavyweight title, which will be at stake.

They will be thinking of being not just WBA champion but of being champion of all the world.

There is an excellent possibility that the winner of tonight's fight will meet the victor of the Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson bout Nov. 22 at Los Vegas, Nev.

Clay is recognized by almost everyone as champion except the WBA, which stripped him of his crown for signing a return bout clause with Sonny Liston before their first meeting last year.

This will be Terrell's first defense of the championship he won in his hometown of Chicago with a decision over Eddie Machen earlier this year.

In Chuvalo, Terrell, a 6-foot-6 counter puncher, will be meeting an aggressive fighter who can absorb a lot of punishment. This was seen in his losing effort against Patterson in New York last winter. The Toronto battler's game effort in that fight put him into the heavy-weight picture.

Despite Terrell's five-inch advantage in height and reach, Chuvalo has said he doesn't plan to alter in slam-bang, boring-in style.

Football Season Nearly History

By GARY EVANS
Daily News Sports Editor

City football gasps its dying breath for another season this weekend.

Winona State, of course, concluded its season with a most convincing 48-12 victory over Elmhurst Saturday. But Cotter and Winona High both have one game remaining.

Bob Welch's Ramblers, who have been plagued throughout the season by open dates in the schedule, will come back from a two-week layoff to host Minneapolis De La Salle at Jefferson Field Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mary Gunderson's Hawks, the victim of a 13-6 upset at the hands of Fairbault

Friday, will try to reassemble the pieces for a Friday run at second place in the Big Nine Conference.

The Hawks must travel to Austin (a narrow 6-0 victim of Rochester's Friday) for their season finale. A Winona victory, plus a Rochester win over Albert Lea, plus an Owatonna loss at Mankato, would give the Hawks a 5-3 league record and a tie for second place.

Welch saw De La Salle in a 13-6 defeat at the hands of St. Thomas Saturday.

St. Thomas, of course, is the team that tied Rochester Lourdes 14-14 earlier in the season.

One thing Saturday's game did was convince Welch that a week of work on the passing game was necessary.

"Oh are they big," said Welch of the Islanders. He illustrated his point with a game program that showed nine De La Salle players over 200 pounds — five of those over 210 — and seven more over 190.

"I know one thing," he said. "You can't go through them — you have to go over them."

St. Thomas proved that to Welch by striking for two touchdowns on identical over-the-middle pass plays.

"Yes, we'll be working on the passing game," smiled Welch.

Should both Winona High and Cotter win, the city schools would show a combined box score of 13-8-1. Winona State finished with a 6-2 record, Winona High presently is 4-3-1 and Cotter 3-3.

Alma Takes Loop Title, Tips Indians

WABASHA, Minn. — Alma, Wis., High School owns its first football title today after a 19-0 victory over Wabasha High here Saturday night.

Lynn Iverson's Rivermen concluded the '65 season with a perfect 9-0 record (6-0 in the Centennial Conference) and ran their victory string to 17 straight spanning two seasons.

Wabasha, which could have tied for the crown with a win, fell to a 4-2 record and a second-place tie with Randolph and Goodhue. All Centennial teams are from Minnesota with the exception of Alma.

Alma scored first in the second period on a two-yard plunge by Don Ristow. Brian Kreibich followed in the fourth with a five-yard run.

Alma racked up ten first downs to three for Wabasha. The Rivermen outgained the Indians 260-72 in yardage.

Defensive standouts for Alma were Carlos Kreibich, Larry Fluekiger, Larry Krause and Bob Gross.

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 football team, should be able to fill the first bowl slot of the season, needing only a victory over Iowa Saturday.

The mighty Spartans humbled Northwestern 49-7 Saturday to reach the doorstep of their greatest season since joining the Big Ten competitively in 1953.

That year Michigan State tied for the Conference title with Illinois and went on to the Rose Bowl. Two years later Michigan State finished second to Ohio State but again made the trip to the Bowl.

This year the Spartans not only figure to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl but also can carve their first undisputed conference title and might even go on to the mythical national championship.

Neither Iowa this Saturday nor Indiana the following week should give Michigan State any trouble. The Spartans then finish their regular schedule at Notre Dame and victory at South Bend could give Duffy Daugherty's charges the mythical national championship.

Ordinarily it is suicidal to assume victories in the Big Ten but Michigan State's performance against Northwestern leaves little doubt that the Spartans should have easy sailing against Iowa and Indiana.

Both Iowa and Indiana were handled rather easily by Northwestern, which proved to be no match for the Spartans.

Halas Says Victory Tonic for Everyone

CHICAGO — George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, called his crushing 31-10 victory over the previously undefeated Green Bay Packers a tonic for everyone.

The septuagenarian who pioneered professional football said, "This game is a tonic to everyone, the coaches, the players and the rest of the league. We proved Green Bay can be beaten and I hope my coaching colleagues pay attention."

Halas' Bears opened the season by losing their first three games. They made an about face and have now won their last four and trail Green Bay and Baltimore by two games in the Western Division of the National Football League.

The Bears have two meetings with Baltimore, the first of which will be in Chicago next Sunday, but they have concluded business with the Packers.

Halas, who always has an eye toward the title, knows he's going to need help from other teams in the league against Green Bay if his rejuvenated Bears are to have a chance at the championship.

Once again it was rookie Gayle Sayers who lifted the Bears to victory. Sayers scored one touchdown and set up another when he returned a punt 62 yards to the Green Bay 15. The Bears needed only three plays to score after that and pull into a commanding 24-10 lead.

Sayers, Andy Livingston, rookie linebacker Dick Butkus and veteran quarterback Rudy Bukich have been the cogs in the Bear revival.

"Those guys are not only doing the job for the Bears," moaned Packer Coach Vince Lombardi after the Packers suffered their first loss of the season, "but they've got the other guys playing great ball. Look at the season Ron Bull and Jon Arnett are having. It's given everyone on the team a lift."

"The Bears are greatly improved," continued Lombardi. "In fact, I know this is a better team than the Bear team which won the championship in 1963. They have weaknesses but we didn't exploit them."

"The Bears are back but we're still on top of the league. And before the Chicago fans get too excited they should remember the Bears have to play Baltimore twice," concluded Lombardi.

GIANTS SURPRISE CARDINALS

Frosh, Newcomers Form Cohesive Unit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Resurgent. Rebounding. Rebuilt.

Those are the three Rs for the Chicago Bears, Minnesota Vikings and New York Giants — who sprang the surprises Sunday that turned the National Football League's division races into hectic scrambles.

The Bears, who have surged back steadily after losing their first three games, marched to their fourth straight victory by toppling Green Bay's previously unbeaten Packers 31-10.

The Vikings, whose defense had been bounced around handily in earlier games, did some defensive bouncing of their own and knocked over the Cleveland Browns 27-17.

The Giants, showing a remarkable spirited cohesion for a team packed with rookies and other newcomers, upended the St. Louis Cardinals 14-10.

In the Western Division, Green Bay now is tied for first at 6-1 with the Baltimore Colts, who topped the San Francisco 49ers 34-28 as Johnny Unitas threw for four touchdowns.

Deadlocked at 4-3 are Chicago, Minnesota and the Detroit Lions, 31-7 winners over the Los Angeles Rams. San Francisco is 3-4. Los Angeles is 1-6.

Cleveland held onto the Eastern lead with a 5-2 record, while the Giants climbed into a tie for second with St. Louis at 4-3. The Washington Redskins nipped the Philadelphia Eagles 23-21 and the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Dallas Cowboys 22-13, leaving those four clubs bunched at 2-5.

one touchdown this season, hit on three — all in the second quarter.

Spartans Closing on Big Ten Grid Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two months ago optimist Duffy Daugherty planned to surprise a couple of teams on Michigan State's rugged football schedule. Today the Spartans are closing in on their first undisputed Big Ten title...but Daugherty has set his sights on bigger game.

Unbeaten MSU also is within reach of the brass ring — the national championship — and the Spartans have only three more hurdles to clear. The first two — Big Ten have-nots Iowa and Indiana — may come easy. The third is Notre Dame.

Michigan State is 7-0 and on N. 1 in the country but the fourth-ranked Fighting Irish, on the march since an early-season loss to Purdue, are hoping to turn their Nov. 20 South Bend duel with the Spartans into a winner-take-all showdown.

Second-ranked Arkansas and No. 3 Nebraska, unbeaten in seven games apiece, have other ideas but neither can expect to overtake Michigan State unless the Spartans stumble along the way. And Notre Dame, which was knocked out of the No. 1 spot by Southern California in last season's finale, conceivably could go over the top this year by knocking off the leaders.

Daugherty, who has likened playing in the Big Ten to "trying to swim up a waterfall," watched his Spartans wallop Northwestern 49-7 last Saturday for a 5-0 conference mark while two challengers, Minnesota and Purdue, went under.

The Gophers, previously unbeaten in league play, bowed to Ohio State 11-10 and Illinois dropped the Boilermakers out of contention 21-0.

Mississippi State 10-7 and remained in the thick of a wide-open Southeastern Conference race. Mississippi dashed Louisiana State's title hopes by belting the fifth-ranked Tigers 23-0 and Auburn, beaten by three nonconference foes, moved into the SEC lead by stunning seventh-ranked Florida 28-17.

Purdue, No. 6 last week, and Texas, No. 9, were the other upset victims, with the Longhorns' 31-14 loss to Southern Methodist making the loudest thud. Texas has lost three straight and most likely will fall to land a bowl bid for the first time in seven years.

fense held San Diego scoreless until the fourth quarter.

The Oilers are on their way too, bringing their record to 4-3 while the Bills' mark dropped to 6-2. And Blanda, who came off the bench in the second half last week against Kansas City and passed for five touchdowns, was the key again — this time with his foot.

The 37-year-old veteran of 16 pro seasons, benched last week when Houston fans called for sophomore Don Trull, got the job done against Buffalo with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Ode Burrell and field goals of 31, 30, 13 and 9 yards.

The Chiefs' victory moved them into a tie with the Raiders for second place in the West at 4-3-1 to San Diego's 5-1-2. Len Dawson passed 19 yards to Chris Burford for the first Kansas City touchdown, then capped an 80-yard fourth quarter drive with a one-yard touchdown plunge.

The Jets won their first game by turning three interceptions — by Ralph Baker, Larry Grantham and Ray Abruzzese — and Matt Snell's touchdown run into 24 points in the fourth quarter. Cookie Gilchrist of the Broncos was limited to 37 yards rushing in 11 attempts.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For awhile it looked like Boston was going to lose its fourth straight National Basketball Association game, then the Celtics started playing like the defending champions they are.
Trailing 53-43 at halftime after scoring only 13 points in the second quarter, the Celtics roared back with 62 points after the intermission for a 105-100 victory over Baltimore Sunday night.
In the only other games, the Cincinnati Royals beat the Detroit Pistons 113-107 and the New York Knicks snapped San Francisco's four-game winning streak, 104-103.
Bill Russell blocked seven shots, grabbed 20 rebounds and scored 17 points, including the basket which put the Celtics in front to stay. Sam Jones scored 30 points and Willie Naulls 24 for Boston. Don Ohl led the Bullets with 33.
