Four Thrown Clear of Wreck Live

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A jet airliner within landing sight of the runway crashed and exploded during a lightning-laced thunderstorm Monday night, killing 58 of the 62 persons aboard.

Five persons were thrown clear of the exploding wreckage. One died in a hospital. Four lived, but one was in very critical condition.

The American Airlines three-engine Boeing 727 jet smashed near the top of a 300-foot wooded hillside a mile and a half from the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

"About 75 feet more and he would have made it," said William Wilkerson, operations director at the airport in Kentucky 13 miles from downtown Cincinnati.

The wreckage flashed flames into the murky night sky for hours. Workers, certain no one lived in the melted metal, waited for fires to subside before beginning the gruesome search for bodies early today.

Ten Civil Aeronautics Board investigators flew to Cincinnati to begin probing the wreckage to learn why the plane had plunged fatally, just moments from a safe landing after a flight from New York City.

The plane was barely visible in a downpour, with sparks of lightning, said Mrs. Ralph Sprague, who lives nearby.

"We know where the end of that runway is just over the top of the hill," she said, "and the plane banked like it was heading for it, but it was very low and dropping fast."

"I knew it was going into that hill, and I started screaming before it hit."

It crashed "like a clap of thunder," said Mrs. Gilbert Dolwick. "In a minute we could hear people calling for help."

J. P. Dolwick, who owns the farm where the plane crashed, raced to the wreckage to find a man and woman, both wearing airline uniforms, on the ground. "We just didn't make it, we didn't see the hill," Dolwick said the man had mumbled before passing out.

One of the survivors was Elmer Weekley of Saratoga, Calif., an American flight officer riding the plane but not as a member of the crew.

Another was Toni Ketchell, 25, a stewardess from West Monroe, La., who was in critical condition.

Other survivors were Israel Horowitz, 49, Closter, N.J., director of classical records for Decca Record Co., and Norman Spector, Valley Stream, N.Y., an electrical engineer with Bechtel Associates.

All but Miss Ketchell seemed in fair condition.

"It is a miracle, isn't it," said

Mrs. Anderson Going to Guam

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.S. delegation spokesman announced Monday that Mrs. Eugene M. Anderson, of Red Wing, Minn., U.S. ambassador to the U.N. Trusteeship Council, will visit Guam and the Pacific Islands trust territory soon with the House Committee on Insular and Territorial affairs.

He told reporters: "This is the first time any U.S. mission member or delegation member has been invited by the congressional committee to make this trip with them."

Mrs. Anderson's husband, John E. Anderson, will go along.

Aluminum Price Dispute Raging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The aluminum controversy is generating new steam on four fronts. The dispute swirls around the industry's announced price increases and the government's decision to reduce its aluminum stockpile by 200,000 surplus tons. Much of it would be transferred to government contractors.

As charges and countercharges ricocheted through the capital, these were the developments:

Government — While President Johnson maintained an official silence, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler warned of disturbing signals in the nation's price picture. Industry — The president of Reynolds Metals Co., J. H. McConnell, declared the price increases are noninflationary. The president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Robert P. Gerholz, charged the administration's action was an "unwarranted attack on the free market economy."

Republicans — Tom R. Van Sickle, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, accused Johnson of "blatantly blackmailing" the aluminum companies in an effort to control prices. Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah said the Johnson administration's "overaction" was an unjustified, angry gesture.

Democrats — Many senators and House members spoke up in favor of the administration's action. Sen. Stuart Symington, chairman of the Senate stockpile subcommittee, flew back to the capital from his Missouri home to support the administration's strategy. He declared the government's action could not be considered antibusiness.

Couple Faces Operations for Same Condition

CHICAGO (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dru'yor are carrying out a similar heart condition. The open-heart surgery will be performed by Dr. M. S. Mazel, a pioneer in the technique.

"They're going to flip a coin to see which of us goes first," Alvin Dru'yor, 62, said Monday night in a telephone interview from his bed at Edgewater Hospital. He is in the publishing business.

Dru'yor said he has had a heart condition for about seven years. His wife, Inez, 60, accompanied him to Chicago two weeks ago for Dru'yor's physical examination.

"She never had a physical herself so we decided it was a good time for her to have one," he said. "They discovered she had the same condition I had only her's was worse."

"What was strange was that she'd had no problems," he said. "I was always the complainer."

The operation, called a cardiomy, is to unblock arteries leading to the heart. Dr. Mazel has performed 250 open heart operations. These will be the first on a husband and wife.

The Dru'yors, who entered the hospital Sunday, are sharing the same room.

"That seems to scare everybody," said Dru'yor. "The nurses look in and you can tell they're thinking, 'Has this hospital gone modern or something, putting a man and woman in the same room?'"

Cedar Bank, Near Anoka, Held Up by 2

ANOKA, Minn. (AP) — Two bandits held up the Farmers State Bank of Cedar, Minn., today and fled with an undetermined amount of loot.

The bandits entered the bank shortly before 9:30 a.m. One pointed a long-barrel pistol and gave orders to bank employees to turn over the money.

A witness said the men fled in a maroon colored car, possibly a Pontiac. The Anoka sheriff's office was given a license number.

Cedar is in Anoka County, about 10 miles north of Anoka. Sheriff Ralph Talbot said the bandit, pointing the gun held in his left hand, spoke in distinct tones as he demanded money. He was described as about 5-foot-8, 160 pounds, about 35 years, square jawed, broad build, medium build and clean shaven. Both men wore dark clothing and neither was masked.

17-Year-Old Gls Won't Go To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ordered today that 17-year-old servicemen be banned from duty in South Viet Nam.

The new policy, effective immediately, will not affect men on sea duty in waters off Viet Nam. Nor will it end overseas duty for 17-year-olds elsewhere in the world.

The minimum age for service in South Viet Nam will be 18, the Pentagon announcement said.

Youth Sets Fire to Self Before U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said a 22-year-old man set fire to himself in front of the United Nations Building today and was critically burned.

Police identified him as Roger A. La Porte, 22, of New York City.

La Porte was taken to Bellevue Hospital where he was reported in critical condition with burns over his entire body.

Police said La Porte told them he tried burning himself because, "I'm anti-war, all wars." He identified himself as a member of the Catholic Workers, a group of pacifists who work with alcoholics and the poor.

The incident came one week after Norman R. Morrison, a Baltimore Quaker, burned himself to death outside the Pentagon to protest U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Plans Legal Fight for Job

ST. PAUL (AP) — Insurance Commissioner Cyrus Magnusson, fighting his ouster by Gov. Karl Rolvaag, was not in his office Monday and presumably huddled with his lawyers to prepare a legal fight for his job.

Rolvaag suspended Magnusson last Friday, pending removal proceedings the governor has instigated against the commissioner he reappointed to office earlier this year.

Magnusson was among 17 persons recently indicted by a federal grand jury investigating the American Allied Insurance Co.

In ordering the suspension, Rolvaag listed 11 misconduct charges against Magnusson. The commissioner, however, indicated he would seek a court order allowing him to continue on the job.

Eisenhower in Hospital, Heart Specialist Called

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL . . . Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was rushed today and a heart specialist was summoned. (AP Photofax)

Midnight Trip To Ft. Gordon Army Hospital

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 75, was hospitalized today with a possible mild heart attack and placed in an oxygen tent after suffering chest pains.

Dr. Thomas Mattingly, a heart specialist who treated the five-star general for a heart attack in 1955, said it would take up to 36 hours before it would be known whether Eisenhower had suffered another bout with his heart.

Mattingly said if the illness was a heart attack, "By all symptoms and characteristics, it certainly was a mild one." The former president was placed in an oxygen tent for several hours after he entered the Ft. Gordon Army Hospital during the night. At midday Mattingly said he still was under oxygen periodically.

This, the physician said, is "a matter of precaution used with any patient with chest pains."

He described Eisenhower's condition as "very satisfactory at this time" and said the general remained in bed "at our recommendation, not because he doesn't feel like getting up."

"We think this is simple, good, common sense."

After sleeping several hours,

Johnson Sends 'Get Well' Note

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson learned early this morning of the illness of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and also sent a "get well" message.

The Texas White House said Johnson had his physician, Dr. George G. Burkley, call Eisenhower's physician, Dr. Thomas Mattingly, at Augusta, Ga. The President also instructed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to put anything necessary — planes, doctors — at the disposal of his predecessor.

Eisenhower awoke and chatted with his wife, who was with him along with their son.

Mattingly, summoned to Eisenhower's bedside early today, spent hours in consultation with other physicians.

As he started to fly from Washington before dawn, the physician had said he didn't know the nature of Eisenhower's illness.

Mattingly said chest pains don't necessarily indicate a heart attack, but added: "Obviously that's the first thing you think of when a man has suffered an attack in the past, but it doesn't have to be."

Pearson Will Stay in Office

Liberals 5 Short Of Canadian Lead

TORONTO (AP) — It was an election hardly anybody wanted, and it solved nothing.

That was the net result today of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's unsuccessful effort to win a majority in the House of Commons and a clearcut mandate to carry on his programs.

Pearson thought he had such a victory within his grasp. He thought that Canadian voters, with "Liberal prosperity" swelling their pay checks, were bound to come to the aid of his party.

So he called Monday's election. It cost Canada $10 million. It cost Pearson a measure of prestige and left his Liberals still in power but with only 128 seats, 5 short of a majority in the 265-seat House. That was just one seat more than the Liberals had when Pearson called the election.

The surprise to many was the strength shown by John G. Diefenbaker's Conservative party. It won 99 seats, 7 more than it had, and refurbished Diefenbaker's vote-getting prestige. The result looked like a reward for the hard-hitting campaign the Tory leader had fought.

A third party, the New Democrats, also increased its standing, from 17 to 21 seats. These and the Conservatives' gains were largely at the expense of the small Social Credit and Creditist parties.

One possibility out of all this is that Pearson will call another election. This seems unlikely because Canadians are tired of voting — they have had five elections in eight years.

The strongest prospect seems to be that Pearson will go on governing as he has been doing for the last 2½ years — with the cooperation of opposition parties. Little of his legislative program has fallen by the wayside under these conditions. He even changed the Canadian flag with opposition help.

At one point Monday night, Pearson's foreign secretary, Paul Martin, spoke of the possibility of forming a Liberal-New Democrat coalition. The New Democrats' leader, T. C. Douglas, shot this down. He said his party would support legislation it approved, but would remain in opposition.

Diefenbaker declined to say whether he would offer a motion of no-confidence in Pearson's government when Parliament reconvenes. This conceivably could bring the government down.

The election result confounded forecasters, most of whom had discounted Diefenbaker's strength and predicted a majority for Pearson.

Even so, it was likely Diefenbaker's last election. He is 70, and had told associates he was ready to step down if the Tories lost again.

It could also be Pearson's final effort as leader to win a majority for his party. He is 68, and some Liberals say he lacks the spark of an outstanding campaigner.

Monday night, after expressing disappointment at the result, he would say only: "At the moment I am still prime minister and leader of the government and we'll leave it at that."

U.S. Goes to High Court In 2 Slayings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government asked the Supreme Court today to reinstate felony indictments in two civil rights slayings.

In a broader sense, it is asking the court to rule that federal law — in this instance an 1870 statute — constitutionally can be used to mete out some punishment in such crimes.

If the court rules that the government improperly used the 95-year-old law, the Justice Department will be stripped of its only available federal weapon for civil rights murder prosecutions in the South.

Two federal judges already have ruled against the government in the two cases at hand.

The slaying of civil rights workers Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney near Philadelphia, Miss., in June 1964; the shotgun murder of Lemuel Penn on a Georgia highway the following month.

Now the government, in the person of Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall, a Negro who was once chief counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is appealing the rulings to the high court.

Schwerner and Goodman, both of New York, were white. Chaney was a Negro from Meridian, Miss., and Penn a Negro educator from Washington, D.C.

Murder, unless committed on federal territory, is a state offense.

DEAR ABBY:

Worried Father Wants Assistance

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife died leaving me with a small daughter to raise. She is now 16 and wants to spend nights and week-ends with her girl friend. I have never met the girl friend's parents, nor have they ever called and asked my permission to allow my daughter to stay with them. As a matter of fact, I have never even met the girl friend. On the basis of these facts I have refused to allow my daughter to spend the night with her friend. I do not wish to restrict the child unfairly, but I feel that staying out all night is a serious step, and I am fearful. My daughter says that I am much too strict. Please give me a woman's viewpoint.

WORRIED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: A woman's viewpoint is no different from a man's. The common concern is for the child's welfare. Do not permit your daughter to spend a night away from home unless you not only have MET the girl and her parents, but are reasonably certain your daughter will have the security and supervision she has at home. P.S. And I am not being unduly protective because the child is a girl. I would require the same of a boy.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is in his 40's, is getting bald. I would like him to get a hair piece but he won't even consider it. I don't like to say much about it because I wouldn't want him to think I don't love him the way he is. I do, but I could love him just that much more if he had more hair. I think he'd look so much nicer, and younger, too. I also think it would help him in his work as he is in sales.

I don't know why men balk at the idea of a hair piece, Abby. We women do so much to help our appearances along. To me it's no different than buying false teeth if your own fall out. Please say something in favor of hair pieces. He reads your column.

ARNIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I'm in favor of promoting love, so tell your man that hair is definitely "in" and to try a hair piece just to please you. Go with him and make sure he gets a good one. But don't blame me if he looks so young and attractive that YOU have trouble holding him.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps the woman, who complained that her "unclean" husband got the pillow cases so dirty she had to tear them up for rags, would like to trade hers for my "immaculate" specimen. My husband spends an hour in the shower, and 15 minutes scrubbing his fingernails. You would think he was a surgeon preparing for major surgery. BUT, I wish there was some way to scrub his mind! This man has the filthiest, most vulgar mouth of anyone I have ever known — even in front of his children. (His rotten jokes have been their sex education.) He twists everything that is said to give it a dirty meaning. Four-letter words are a part of his everyday conversation. He doesn't take criticism very well so I've given up trying to change him. Perhaps I am the one who is odd. Am I?

DEAR ODD BALL: People who are preoccupied with sex, and make a dirty joke of it, have some serious, deep-rooted problems, invariably related to sex. Your husband is a classic example of a four-letter word — "S-I-C-K."

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.W.: Don't feel guilty. There are really no "good losers." Just good actors.

Orbiting Nuclear Missile Idea Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities considered — and rejected — the idea of building orbiting nuclear missiles, sources said today.

They rate it a clumsy, inaccurate method of waging atomic war — far less effective than land-based and submarine-launched weapons.

The experts calculate that a warhead launched from orbit wouldn't come within perhaps 50 miles of its target on earth.

Compared to this, they said, U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine-launched Polaris missiles have an accuracy within one mile of target.

By and large, the U.S. experts regard an orbiting nuclear missile as more a psychological weapon than one with real military value.

These views, which have been prevalent in the Pentagon for quite some time, were underscored by U.S. authorities after the Soviets paraded in Moscow a 115-foot missile which they claimed can orbit the earth with a nuclear warhead.

American sources said the technique of putting an atomic weapon in orbit is no more difficult than orbiting any space vehicle — and this technique was long ago mastered by the United States.

Such a weapon would be fired by radio command from the earth's surface — another technique that is well within "the state of the art."

The problem of intercepting a missile fired on a trajectory from several thousand miles away is much more difficult than intercepting a vehicle in orbit.

Sergeant Explains Viet Stand

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—"We are here to help, not to hurt. We are here to build up, not to knock down." Thus said the letter from Viet Nam.

"We could easily win... but to win we would gain nothing, unless we won their hearts."

The letter was a thank-you note from Sgt. I.C. Richard V. Huband of Richmond to Mrs. Robert M. Blanton of Richmond, who had written him to say she was proud of his service.

Huband, a medical corpsman, who flies to South Vietnamese hamlets to treat the ill and wounded when the Viet Cong cut off the land routes, wrote: "I believe that everything I do just for myself while I am on this earth will die with me."

"It is all the little things that I am able to do for someone else that will live long in the hearts of others after I am gone."

Judge Reviews Records in Sentencing 2

Scrapes with the law while they were awaiting sentence apparently cost two defendants possible leniency when they were sentenced today in District Court.

Judge Arnold Hatfield questioned sharply both Leonard Dienger, 18, 455 Grand St., and LeRoy E. Ledebeur, 24, Houston, Minn., concerning the offenses both had pleaded guilty to while awaiting sentencing in District Court.

DIENGER was sentenced to up to five years with the Youth Conservation Commission (YCC) on the charge of burglary against him. However, Judge Hatfield noted that release at any time within that period is discretionary with the commissioner of corrections.

Ledebeur was given a straight 90-day jail sentence under terms of the Huber Act when he changed his plea to guilty of drunken driving last summer.

Dienger was accused of taking a case of beer from the Hamm's warehouse, 5245 6th St., Goodview, the night of Sept. 12. He pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 27.

While free on his own recognizance awaiting sentencing, Dienger pleaded guilty to charges of driving after revocation of his driver's license, being a minor with beer in possession and disorderly conduct by fighting.

HIS ATTORNEY, Dennis A. Challen, noted that Dienger had exercised poor judgment in the traffic case but that there were extenuating circumstances.

Dienger, Challen said, had taken over driving of a car from a friend who had become "high" after taking some pills, apparently a medicine. He did not know about the beer in the car when he was arrested by a Minnesota Highway Patrolman.

In the second case, Challen said, Dienger walked out of a Winona restaurant one night to find two youths fighting. One had opened a gas can in the youth's head, and Dienger grabbed the first youth in order to prevent further harm to the gashed boy, according to Challen.

Dienger later pleaded guilty to the disorderly conduct charge on the advice of a policeman who told him that further publicity would have a bad effect on the charge pending in District Court, according to Challen.

ASSISTANT County Attorney Richard H. Darby interposed at this point to say that no police officer had advised Dienger to plead guilty on any ground. He asked Dienger to confirm this, and the youth did.

Dienger explained that a policeman had told him before his arraignment in municipal court that the charge would do him no good in District Court, and he added that the municipal judge told him after he pleaded guilty that it was probably the wisest course he could have taken.

Challen told Judge Hatfield, "I stand corrected."

Judge Hatfield then denied Challen's plea for a stay of execution of sentence. He told Dienger that if he could behave no better than he had while under threat of sentence he could not be expected to behave very well if shown leniency.

However, the judge noted that Dienger would be examined by YCC doctors who might be able to find out what was wrong with him. In any event, Dienger would not likely be held long by the YCC, the judge said.

LEDEBEUR, who had appealed three guilty pleas in municipal court to the District Court, changed his plea to guilty of driving after revocation and of drunken driving. City Prosecutor James W. Soderberg moved for dismissal of a leaving the scene of an accident charge.

The three charges grew out of a series of events last July 17. Ledebeur had been free on $275 bond following his appeal July 27 of the guilty pleas in municipal court.

Judge Hatfield noted that Ledebeur had been jailed about 10 days ago on a new charge of driving after revocation. His attorney, Dennis A. Challen, explained that Ledebeur lives in Houston but works in Winona.

When he can't get a ride, he must drive himself to work, Challen said.

Judge Hatfield asked Ledebeur whether he had to go through stop signs on the way to work or whether he had to drive while drunk in order to get to work? Ledebeur admitted that there was no excuse for these offenses.

The judge referred to Ledebeur's traffic record, supplied by Soderberg, in asking the questions.

JUDGE Hatfield ordered Ledebeur to serve a 90-day sentence on the drunken driving

New Federal Programs Given Preliminary OK

A resolution authorizing application for approval of projects that might be undertaken under provisions of a new federal law providing financial aids to school districts, and to request funds to finance such projects as may be found necessary, was approved Monday night by the Board of Education.

The effect of the resolution would be to place Winona in a position to initiate educational projects in areas where need is established when, and to the extent that, funds become available.

NO SPECIFIC projects are in the works right now and Monday's action represented a necessary preliminary for participation in the federal program.

Legislation under which projects might be undertaken has been designated as Public Law 89-10, consisting of five sections, three of which could be applicable to the Winona school district.

The first, and the one which potentially could have the greatest financial impact, is Title I, providing funds for educational programs to assist educationally and economically deprived children.

The superintendent told directors Monday that an educationally deprived child is defined as one who has not achieved to his grade level while an economically deprived child is one who comes from a family which, on the basis of the 1960 census, had an income of $2,000 or less or a child whose parent is receiving aid to dependent children.

A SURVEY has indicated that in Winona County some 945 children would meet the provisions of the act, 298 of them in or served by the Winona district. On the basis of a $275-per-pupil aid formula, the Winona district apparently would be eligible for about $125,000 in aid for projects it might determine were advisable for these children.

Title II provides aid for public school improvement of library facilities and reference facilities and the superintendent estimated that perhaps between $7,000 and $8,000 might be available under this section.

Title III provides for supplementary aid for educational centers. Although nothing definite has been drafted here, the superintendent said, one possibility might be the establishment of an area psychoeducational clinic, perhaps on the Winona State College campus.

Here would be made available to schools without such facilities diagnostic assistance in such areas as speech therapy, remedial reading and others. At such a center diagnosis by qualified personnel would be made available for children with difficulties and treatment recommended.

Nelson explained that such a center has been in operation on the University of Minnesota campus for a number of years and that establishment of area centers would bring the services closer to the children who require them.

NELSON SAID that while no definite steps have been taken in any project area, the resolution proposed Monday was necessary to establish future eligibility for participation in the aid program.

He explained that any individual project would be submitted to the board for approval, adding, "We don't intend to create projects just to spend available money but it would seem to be a wonderful opportunity for doing things that we ordinarily would not be able to do."

When the Winona County Diabetes Association met Tuesday evening at the YMCA, Dr. S. O. Hughes discussed research to enable diabetics to control their disease.

Mondovi Protests Its Exclusion As School Site

MONDOVI, Wis. — Mondovi is protesting its apparent rejection as a site for the $5.2 million state boys' school.

None of the Western Wisconsin counties, which applied for the school at a hearing before the State Department of Public Welfare at Eau Claire, are being inspected for location, according to a letter received by Joe Peterson, Mondovi city clerk, from Wilbur Schmidt, head of the department.

Schmidt said the committee has inspected locations in seven eastern counties heard at the hearing in Wausau, and that the building would be located in that area if a suitable site can be secured, he said.

Letters are being sent by Mondovi and Buffalo County officials protesting that the eastern area is nearer Kettle Moraine, a new boys school near Plymouth. It is just south of the line from La Crosse easterly to Manitowish, to the north of which the western counties feel they are unfairly being left out of consideration.

Downtown businesses generally will be open for the regular hours.

Buffalo County Board Filings Open Nov. 26

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — The Buffalo County Board of Supervisors was told Monday by County Clerk Gale Hoch that persons wishing to run for county board next year may begin filing nomination papers Nov. 26. Deadline is Jan. 25.

Nominations must include from 1-3 percent of the names of electors in their districts. Filing will be with the county clerk. Board members will be elected at the spring election April 5.

AFTER NEXT April the board will be half the present size, cut from 28 to 14 members under new redistricting of all counties of the state.

There will be two representatives from the city of Mondovi; one each from the cities of Fountain City and Alma; one from the Town of Nelson, and one each from the following combinations: Village of Cochran and Buffalo City, and towns of Maxville and Modena; Canton and Mondovi; Naples and Dover; Gilmanston and Alma; Belvidere and Lincoln; Montana and Glencoe; Waumandee and Cross, and Milton and Buffalo.

THE ANNUAL budget hearing was held. Proposed for 1966 is a budget of $1,123,736 and tax levy of $587.393. A budget will be adopted later in the session.

Twenty-five members were present for the Monday session. Lloyd Bond, Fountain City, was a substitute for Oscar Florin. Board members were guests at Teachers College today, at dinner at the Buffalo County.

Shoplifter Caught At Miracle Mall

Apprehension of a juvenile shoplifter at the Tempo store in Miracle Mall and theft of $50 in clothing from a Winona woman were reported Monday to Winona police.

Chief James W. McCabe said that a 15-year-old boy was apprehended Monday at the Tempo store with a dog collar he was attempting to filch. The youth has been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Mrs. Lila Stoneburg, 761 W. Mark St., reported that two boxes of clothing were stolen from her garage sometime between Thursday and Sunday. One box contained women's summer clothing, and one box, women's winter clothing, she told police. She placed the value of the clothes at $50.

Spring Grove Widow Loses Home in Fire

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — A Spring Grove widow lost her home and all its contents in a fire Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Rozelia Hefte is employed at Control Data, Spring Grove, and was at work when she reached there at 3:30 p.m., everything was gone. She said this morning she had only a little insurance.

THE TWO-story home was on an 87-acre farm five miles southeast of Spring Grove. She and her son, Richard, operate it in conjunction with her other employment.

Richard was in Waukon, Iowa, Monday to enlist in the U.S. Army Reserve. Mrs. Hefte's daughter, Mrs. Sonia Lord, and two children, who have been living at home since last summer, had left at 1:30 p.m. to attend a parent-teacher conference at Dorchester, Iowa.

It was shortly after 2 p.m. when Clifford Homewood, living about 1 1/2 miles from the Hefte farm but working in the field, saw the smoke. Just about simultaneously, he, Larry Meyer and Clarence Schulte, other neighbors, called the Spring Grove fire department.

Firemen still were at the scene when Mrs. Hefte left at 8 p.m. to stay with her brother, Alvin Mohwinkel, who lives two or three miles away.

Mrs. Hefte said firemen believe the blaze started from an explosion, probably in the water heater.

IT WAS a six-room house on two floors. Fire spread to the summer kitchen and burned off the roof, but other buildings were saved. Nothing was saved from inside the house. Some of her daughter's effects were stored elsewhere.

A cat was missing after the fire but may have run and hid somewhere.

Mrs. Hefte, widowed since 1959, was back at work at Control Data this morning.

Corn Picked For Farmer

ST. CHARLES, Minn. — More than 40 friends, neighbors and businessmen of the St. Charles area picked 60 acres of corn at the Severn Norvet farm, seven miles southeast of here, Saturday.

Norvet, whose son, Sylvan, was killed in a farm accident this summer, has been in ill health and was unable to do all the farm work himself.

The men, armed with 13 corn pickers, 32 tractors, 30 wagons and four elevators, completed the job in five hours. Fuel, food and beverages were furnished.

Wives of the men served dinner and an afternoon lunch for the work crew. Robert Decker, a neighbor, assisted by Larry Stock, William Watts, Wayne Decker and Leonard Prigge, started the project.

Buffalo Co. Drive

ALMA, Wis.—Funds gathered in the Buffalo County campaign for the Wisconsin Association for Retarded will help in research on phenylketonuria, known as PKU, which causes extreme mental retardation in one of every 10,000 children born each year. The Rev. Jerry Kuehn, Alma, is county chairman of the drive, which opened Sunday.

Charter Commission Maps Study Plans

The city charter commission, moving cautiously at its second meeting Monday night, voted to give members two weeks to study a proposed plan of procedure.

The commission also set up an agenda for its next meeting, Nov. 22, and voted to encourage comment and questions from the public at its meetings.

A SCHEDULED review of legal responsibilities by the city attorney, George A. Robertson Jr., was laid over for two weeks because Robertson was ill and did not attend. Members will hear from Orville Peterson, League of Minnesota Municipalities executive secretary, Dec. 13.

Only one meeting will be held in December. Members voted to skip the Dec. 27 meeting. Aside from this exception, the schedule calls for meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

The tentative program of commission action was submitted by Norman Indall, president. Indall said he was unwilling to try to impose arbitrary schedules and invited members to criticize it freely. He said he has no target date for completion in mind at this point.

As proposed by Indall, the commission's work would progress through six stages:

● Orientation—General study of all forms of city government, aided by reference material from libraries and other sources. Aspects of charter construction and reform would be explored with the help of outside authorities, including Peterson.

● Concentrated study of Winona city government — Function

tions of mayor and council in areas of lawmaking, finance, appointments, planning and policy. The makeup and functions of boards and commissions, their powers and the extent to which they make or influence policy would be examined. Discussions with mayor, aldermen, department heads and members of boards would follow.

● Study of representative city governments — Using field trips or visiting speakers, the commission would study working examples of several types of city government elsewhere in the state.

● Citizen, professional and organizational participation — Invitations to meet with the commission would go to the public, to local political science specialists and to civic groups. Professional consultants also might be employed for this phase.

● Evaluation — Comparisons of various forms of government would be made, previous charter commission reports would be studied and strong and weak points of Winona's government would be determined.

● Final report — To judges of the District Court, to the City Council and to the public. If the commission recommends that a new charter be adopted, a citywide election will be held. A 55 percent majority must be tallied in order for the change to become law.

DISCUSSING target dates, Roy Wildgrube, former city recorder, advised colleagues not to be hasty. Much time will be required for trips, interviews with officials of other cities and to set dates for visiting speakers, he warned. Wildgrube noted that some charter commissions work for as long as eight years. Present commissioners are appointed for four years.

Some sort of standard is needed by which to evaluate or determine the commission's main objectives, observed Duane Peterson. This implies a need for authoritative information and advice on the major forms from which the commission might eventually choose, he said. In his own opinion, said Peterson, the two essential elements of a governmental system are responsiveness to the public will and efficiency.

Indall explained his suggested sequence of program studies. The general study of several styles of government should come before all else in order to furnish all members with the broadest possible background, he said.

IF THE commission were to begin with a review of the Winona government, he cautioned, the group might find itself being merely critical instead of analytical. Efforts should be made to avoid fault-finding and to encourage sound evaluation, he said.

On a motion by William P. Theurer, the commission voted to delay settling on a concrete program until the next meeting. In the meantime, members will formulate their own criticisms of the proposed agenda. A further consensus was that setting of target dates and appointment of committees might be done more easily after the program is adopted.

SINCE THE commission is a public body, suggested Martin Beatty, a part of each meeting should be given over to comments and questions by the general public. He followed with a motion to this effect.

Emphasizing the point that he did not object to public participation, Theurer said the commission should avoid random discussions of aspects that have not been studied. It would be well to set public hearings on various sections of the study as they are completed, he suggested.

Public hearings are desirable, Beatty agreed, but other participation should be encouraged "unless it becomes cumbersome or disorderly."

Because individuals might raise questions for which the commission is unprepared, suggested Peterson, the question period should be devoted to the matter studied at each program. He offered an amendment to Beatty's motion which would put the open forum period at or near the end of each session, with comments or questions to be relevant to the material. Beatty said he would accept the amendment and the motion, as amended, was adopted unanimously.

Indall said later that questions about topics not yet studied would probably be deferred and resubmitted for answers when information had been fully developed.

Members present were: Indall, Wildgrube, Peterson, Theurer, Beatty, Mrs. Virginia Torgerson, Mrs. John F. Woodworth, Harold Streeter, Dan Trainor Jr., Dr. W. O. Finkelnburg, James Bambenek and James Foster.

Elementary Classes To Be Dismissed At Noon on Thursday

Classes in Winona's public elementary schools will be dismissed at noon Thursday to allow for parent-teacher conferences in the buildings in the afternoon.

Dr. Carroll Hopf, director of elementary education, explained that the afternoon closing applies only to the elementary schools and not high school classes.

In Washington - Kosciusko and Jefferson schools, where both elementary and junior high school classes are housed, the junior high school classes will observe regular afternoon schedules.

New Mayor Urged To Oust the Girls

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK —I hope Mayor-elect Lindsay in changing New York's image will clear midtown streets of the 11 p.m.-to-dawn streetwalkers who are as numerous as prostitutes used to be in London before the bobbies drove them indoors. At 4 or 5 a.m. it is not uncommon to see six girls soliciting in one Broadway doorway. They are said to be working for a syndicate which sends cars to take them back to their homes at sunrise.

The two 7-story buildings at 3 & 5 E. 53rd St. that made up the world-famous Stork Club will be demolished soon, and Robert Johnson Builders will erect a new building. A big sign on the 2nd-story fire escape bearing the words, "World House Wrecking Corporation, 415 Lexington Avenue," tells the latest chapter in the said story of Sherman Billingsley.

Abbe Lane, now Mrs. Perry Left and very, very happily married for almost a year, opened quite brilliantly at the Plaza Persian Room where she couldn't resist twitting her ex-husband, Xavier Cugat. Before singing in Spanish, she said she'd studied it "but I must have been a bad student because it took me 12 years to learn to say 'Adios'."

EVEN THOUGH she hasn't much of a figure and isn't sexy or busty when she slithers around the floor in her sequin negligee, Abbe's become a great entertainer who doesn't need those four boy ballet guys that lift most girls onto the floor now. Abbe cagily and cozily swapped them for four string musicians who added tone to her tone.

New Ridgeway School Still Not Completed

Students of the new Ridgeway school district will continue attending classes in three separate schools for two more weeks, according to Alton Blumentritt, chairman of Independent School District 859 at Ridgeway.

Only minor finishing remains to be completed on the structure originally slated for completion Oct. 1. Blumentritt says a few light and bath fixtures and tile must be installed before the building can be occupied. He expects the contractors, WMC, Inc., Winona, to have the work completed within two weeks. The school board has not set a date for using the new school.

STRUM READING PLAN

STRUM, Wis. — The Science Research Associates reading program has been introduced at Central High School this year to help students increase their reading rate and understand what they have read. Two classes, one junior and one senior, are working on power and rate building selections. There are materials at seven reading levels.

Durand High Debaters Win Tourney First

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — The Durand High School varsity debate team captured its first major trophy of the year by winning the St. Croix Valley invitational tourney at Stillwater, Minn., Saturday.

A total of 38 teams representing 24 high schools participated, with Durand the only school from Wisconsin.

At the end of three rounds of debate Durand was awarded the trophy for a perfect 6-0 record. The affirmative team of Barbara Morey and Gary Weckin defeated teams from Little Falls, Stillwater and White Bear Lake. The negative team of Mary Shafer and John Hess won over De La Salle, St. Paul Johnson and Hastings.

Third place in the tournament also went to Durand, with an all-sophomore unit capturing the honors. It was composed of James Forster and Mary Spindler, affirmative, and Kathy Forslund and Nancy Morey, negative. The team won five and lost one. The affirmative team defeated Cooper, Sibley and Rochester. The negative pair lost to Mahomet and won over Highland Park and Brooklyn Center.

The Durand squad was led by John Hess with 40 speaker points, followed by Mary Shafer and Mary Spindler with 38, Kathy Forslund, 37, and Forster, 36.

Next event on the debate calendar is the Eau Claire Memorial invitational tournament Saturday.

Dorothy Kilgallen Dies at 52

NEW YORK (AP) — Dorothy Kilgallen, dead at 52, started her rise to fame as a columnist and television personality by circling the globe in a breath-taking 24 days.

The year was 1963, and by dirigible and by China clipper she worked her way across land and sea. Her daily reports made her a celebrity.

Death came to Miss Kilgallen Monday as she slept after appearing as a regular panelist on the Sunday night "What's My Line?" television show and writing her "Voice of Broadway" syndicated column.

An autopsy Monday night failed to reveal the cause of death. Dr. James Luke, examiner, said further tests will be made.

Miss Kilgallen was born in Chicago into a newspaper family. Her father, James L. Kilgallen, was with the now defunct International News Service for many years and is now with the Hearst Headline Service.

Her father was transferred to New York and she grew up in Brooklyn. As a summer cub reporter in 1931 she got her first by-line and never returned to college.

Her race around the world in 1936 catapulted her into fame. She and her husband, Broadway producer Dick Kollmar, 54, lived in a five-story Manhattan town house. They had three children, Richard Kollmar Jr., Mrs. Larry Grossman and Kerry Kollmar.

U.S. Wheat Sold to Italy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Friday announced the sale of 2,020,884 bushels of wheat to Italy, primarily for use in that country's school lunch program for needy children. The cost to Italy, $2.3 million, works out at $1.13 per bushel, which is below export prices and well under the $1.33 per bushel average received by American farmers during the last marketing quarter. The U.S. government pays the difference.

Another Sharp Shooter Probably it is not the superior skill of the Winona bowhunters that has made the Black River bottomland areas so productive this fall, more than 20 deer by club members, but rather the abundance of deer. One of the original members of the club, who has not gotten his deer this year, just told us that he saw 18 deer Saturday afternoon. He got two shots but missed and put his arrow into tree trunks.

Anyway, Ray Mertes, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mertes, 1731 W. 5th St., added his name to the successful bowhunters' list Saturday when he returned with the big doe with which he is pictured. There were 22 Winona hunters in the bottomlands near Black River Falls, Wis., Saturday, and Ray was the only one that came home with a deer.

Predicted Snow The long range weather forecast, predicting a general snowstorm, up to eight inches over Northern Minnesota for the weekend, is big news to the quarter million state deer hunters who will be afield Saturday in the regular nine-day rifle zone. Locally there is a possibility of sufficient snow to make tracking possible.

The Minnesota season this year is a week later than it was in 1964 when it opened Nov. 7. It opens state-wide this year on Nov. 13. The zones vary in open periods from one day to nine. Locally, there is a three-day, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, open season.

Iowa Pheasants With a growing number of Winona area hunters going to Iowa annually for pheasants, chudard and quail, the following data on changes in the pheasant regulations is timely. The season opens Saturday:

Shooting hours for pheasants are from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Bag limit of two cock birds and a possession limit of six. The entire state, with the exception of an area south of State Highway 92 from Muscatine to Knoxville and east of State Highway 60 from Knoxville to the Missouri line is open to pheasant hunting. It is illegal to shoot reeves pheasants that have been released in the vicinity of Stephens State Forest in Lucas and Monroe counties.

These regulations vary from previous years in two places. The first is the reduction of the hunting day from 5 p.m. to 4 p.m. The second is a reduction in bag limit from three per day to two per day and from nine in possession to six in possession.

In addition, the season is one week shorter than last year when it opened the weekend prior to Veteran's Day. A Conservation Commission spokesman indicated that the opening date reflected the commission's concern over field harvesting delays that were predictable at the time the season was set last spring.

Farmer Indicted In Double Slaying

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (AP) — A Morrison County grand jury indicted Anton E. Olson on charges of first degree murder Monday in the shooting deaths of Sheriff John E. Stack and his chief deputy, Andrew P. Herlitz.

The officers were wounded fatally by shotgun blasts on the Olson farm, near Sobieski, the night of Oct. 15. Authorities said Stack, 45, and Herlitz, 55, were shot from behind in the farmyard.

The victims reportedly had gone to the farm to talk to Olson about the location of some farm machinery on land abutting that of Olson and a neighbor. Investigators said Olson and neighbors had gotten into a hassle over the matter. Olson is being held in the county jail here in lieu of $200,000 bond.

An official of the Long Prairie, Minn., State Bank said an auction Saturday of livestock and farm machinery belonging to Olson brought about $51,000. About 300 people attended the sale.

Pope May Visit Poland In Spring

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The possibility is still alive that Pope Paul VI will visit Poland next spring.

Both the Vatican and the Polish government have denied Roman press reports of arrangements for the Pope to come to the May 3, 1966, celebration of 1,000 years of Christianity in Poland.

The feeling here is that the denials were prompted by premature publicity for a project that could take shape in the coming winter.

Some Italian reporters who accompanied President Giuseppe Saragat to Poland last month wrote about a papal visit as if it were already decided.

Prof. Aleksander Skarzynski, director of the Polish government's Office of Religious Affairs, told The Associated Press there was no truth to their stories. But he did not rule out the possibility of a journey here by the Pope.

Numerous matters would have to be settled first, the director said.

Many Polish Communists as well as Catholics are interested in having the pontiff come here because of the prestige this would mean for their country.

Communist regime officials are also pondering possible disadvantages. There would be the danger that the visit might disrupt public order, something dreaded by any regime in power.

Polish Catholics are so fervently religious that more than 100,000 will spend days walking to reach appearances of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland. The Pope could draw millions. Handling such a crowd would require the kind of church-state cooperation that does not now exist. Despite this, one Warsaw diplomat has predicted to his government that there is a 60-40 chance that the Pope will come here.

Other Sites Suggested for Tech School

A location for Winona's Area Vocational - Technical School building was touched on briefly at two points during Monday evening's meeting of the Board of Education but no action was taken by school directors who are continuing their deliberations on site selection.

Nine visitors were in attendance at the meeting, presumably interested in what might develop on the site issue following two sessions — one a public hearing — at which site selection had come up for extended discussion.

School Board
BOARD President Lawrence Santelman explained, however, that the board still was engaged in study of proposed sites and because of this the matter had not been placed on the agenda for action at Monday's meeting.

Most frequently mentioned as a possible site for the school have been a tract in the vicinity of Siebrecht's greenhouse between old and new Highway 61 near the east edge of the city and, more recently, a four-block area on the east fringe of the downtown business district should property become available through an urban renewal program. The latter site has been under fire by persons including property owners and businessmen in the area.

The vocational-technical school site first was mentioned Monday night when Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson read a letter received from Dr. J. H. Foegen, 323 Elm St., a member of the Winona State College business faculty who said he felt that "neither of the two most talked-about sites have too much to offer. Or, to put it differently, there are convincing arguments against both of them."

Dr. Foegen had three possible alternative sites in mind and suggested that if they haven't been considered by the board they might merit study.

THESE INCLUDED:
• "Existing square blocks of park land in the central city. Since precedent has already been set, in the construction of the post office and in the Central Park block, there should not be too much commotion on this score. What with Lake Park and others, these central parks, are, in my opinion, obsolete. In horse and buggy days, or when people had to walk in parks, they served a purpose. With today's mobility, who wants to use them? Also, by using one of these blocks, no property would be removed from tax rolls and you would still have the advantages of a relatively central location."
• "The North Western depot site. I don't know if this would be large enough but few would argue that it is now badly in need of 'renewal.' Central location, urban renewal and no real displacement of already established business would be factors here."

• "And what about any number of possible locations in Goodview? Since it is to be an area and not a city vocational school, there should be no need to locate it in Winona proper. Since it would be non-taxable, anyway, no loss of taxes would be involved."

The letter was placed on file with no comment from the board.

LATER IN THE EVENING, Supt. Nelson said that as a consequence of suggestions made at previous meetings attended by the public, the Wincrest area had been visited during the past week for inspection of possible school sites.

He said that W. Wayne Smith of the architectural firm preparing plans and specifications for the new building, and school officials had been taken to Wincrest by the developers for a look at areas that might be suitable.

Nelson said that there was one "fairly good area of several blocks" that had been seen. It was within a few blocks of existing water and sewer service, he said, but one drawback as a site might be the uneven terrain.

The superintendent said that the study had not been extended as yet to such a point to where any recommendation might be made.

To Enhance Personal Fulfillment

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of Guest Editorials written by Winona civic, educational and religious leaders in connection with the observance of National Education Week, Nov. 7-13.)

By S. J. Kryzako
President, Winona National and Savings Bank

LIVING EFFECTIVELY today demands more of us than coping with the encircling limitations which often flow from environment. These demands make it necessary that we develop those qualities necessary for formulating and reaching worthy goals. Such development is almost impossible in the modern world without education. This is what makes education today a special sort of an investment — an investment whose benefits pay the substantial dividends of personal growth and fulfillment.

When we speak of personal fulfillment in this sense we understand that in a complete individual it is inevitably the sum of many phases in the acquisition of knowledge and a natural result of education.

We all know that most investments, as we understand them, require that the capital be put away, untouched, until the investment matures—but not so with education. This peculiar type of investment yields returns immediately — in personal maturity and enrichment and, too, because the investment was honestly and diligently made.

A CHILD AWAKENS to the world around him and discovers an immediate pleasure and awareness in his newly found understanding. This happens at the very beginning of his education.

Important to remember is that an education investment continues to yield priceless dividends throughout life. Once our basic formal education is complete, we cannot help building upon it with each new experience, thus enriching our character at every stage of our lives. We could say that life has no real adventure unless we have continuing curiosity and education to expand our horizons.

Most of us believe in one way or another that education should not cease when we leave school. The finest product of formal schooling is the desire to learn from life itself and to make the conditions of life such that we all learn to give and take in the process of living.

Conditions change so rapidly in our world that we soon learn we must continue to build upon our basic education to enrich our lives. An indication that education must continue throughout life is the relatively recent growth and development of adult education programs. We see evidence of this in the fine and varied adult programs offered in Winona.

THE DIRECT BENEFITS of education are not necessarily its most important assets. Fringe benefits are themselves great. The word "education" actually summarizes something that is good in itself. For many it represents not only the key to knowledge and to the good things in life, but it also brings with it a sense of purpose and the increased awareness which is an invaluable and gratifying aspect of a fulfilling life.

In all his endeavors the educated person can find greater fulfillment because education creates the ability to control results and to direct them toward achievement of purpose. It develops ability to choose, to challenge, to change, and to think.

An educated person can make intelligent choices; an uneducated person is more likely to have either only a vague notion of his goals or none at all. An educated person is able to make the distinctions necessary in choosing the worthy and practical action over the unworthy or impractical; in this sense he is his own master; he is free.

Not too long ago, an ordinary man's adult life was spent working at his trade or craft from morning to night, deriving self-fulfillment from the completion of his product or the support he earned for his family. The complexity of modern life may make involvement much more difficult today. It may require far greater investment in education. Locally the opportunity for infinite kinds of involvement and enrichment is here and active acceptance of the challenge brings to us rewards that are surely worth the effort.

ACTIVE SUPPORT of our fine schools and colleges is a type of involvement which is particularly satisfying because the results can be seen in community growth and development and in a resultant personal enrichment in the lives of countless people as they pass this way through life.

Ample opportunity for individuals seeking an extension of personal self-fulfillment is available through many fine educational outlets in our city. Among them are the adult evening classes at the Winona Senior High School during each school year, the expanded facilities soon to be available to those who wish to develop special talents through vocational training and the liberal arts programs of our local colleges.

Our three fine colleges present us with an opportunity within our reach to enroll on a part time basis for day or evening classes in a rich variety of courses for study. This will help us continue to expand our horizons. It will help us continue to invest in learning to enhance our personal fulfillment.

THROUGH THE wonderful media of books, newspapers, radio and television — along with the facilities for more formal post school days training — education need never become static. It should continue, develop and become the forward moving keystone of our daily lives.

Government Acts To Control Prices

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration has taken a fateful step that may change America's economic course in the near future. For the White House has endeavored to interfere with the law of supply and demand by proclaiming that it will dump on the market within the next year 200,000 tons of aluminum in an unprecedented effort to break down an already announced price increase of half a cent a pound.

No such pressure was exerted a few months ago when the labor unions forced an increase in wage scales amounting to $20 a week or more for employees and other benefits, the high cost of which is still difficult for the industry to calculate.

JUST LAST week the aluminum companies increased their prices to cover their wage costs. The new prices are still below what they were in 1961. The federal government today has no legal right to fix either wages or prices. Such laws are usually passed only in wartime. The existence of a stockpile of 1,400,000 tons of surplus aluminum held by the government for many years now has been used as a club over the aluminum industry. Of this amount, 500,000 tons can be sold without specific authorization by Congress. So the question is one of motive — whether the objective is to get rid of 200,000 tons of aluminum in the next year or just to break down the price and put the companies in a hole.

When a price increase was announced by some aluminum companies last week, the administration let it be known that it was thinking of selling some of the metal it held. But it was denied that this had any connection with the price changes. Then a few days later it was officially admitted that there was a relationship. Executives of several aluminum companies were called to Washington to discuss projects for the disposal of some of the accumulated aluminum. They offered plan after plan to buy 200,000 tons as a part of an agreement to cover purchases of 500,000 tons in the next 14 years. They thought at first that this proposal would be accepted but their offers were abruptly rejected.

THE NEGOTIATIONS were carried on with the secretary of defense but, as the story goes he had to make a telephone call to President Johnson in Texas after each meeting. The net result was an announcement at a press conference in Washington on Saturday that the price increases were above the so-called "guideposts." The chairman of the President's economic advisory board finally said that the price rise had violated the "guideposts" laid down by the administration, whereby price changes would not be regarded as justified unless they came within certain limits of productivity.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Congressmen Start Trips Before Congress Closes

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Like school boys on the last day of school, congressmen scattered to the four winds, whooping joyfully, as Congress closed. Many didn't stop until they got on the other side of the globe.

President Johnson's stern admonition to his fellow citizens to see America first and spend their money at home went unheeded. At least a fifth of Congress headed for overseas vacation spots.

The fact that they are spending the taxpayers' money, not their own, is a technicality unlikely to win the President's approval.

Even before the final gavel fell in Congress, the great exodus had begun. Two of the old curmudgeons of Congress, Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, and Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., lamented what was happening.

"WITH ALL the junketeers that are taking of these days," snorted Gross, "I note about 70 absentees this morning, and I know that some of them are off and running to foreign countries. I just wondered whether there is going to be enough funds to take care of all the trips. There have been meetings all over the place the last ten days on who is to go where and how."

Gross asked whether the United States had enough local currency on hand in Italy to take care of all the junketing congressmen.

"I understand," said Smith, "we have a bundle of them over there."

Smith added that his House Rules Committee had been "very niggardly about granting" authorization for overseas travel.

"I have been hearing criticism," observed the congressman from Iowa, "that the government is not providing big enough and fast enough jets to get the junketeers over to Ouagadougou or wherever they are headed. They are also complaining that they have to take smaller planes to get to certain countries which planes, they say, are not comfortable enough."

IT IS TRUE that congressional junkets aren't what they used to be in the good days of free overseas spending. No longer are congressmen permitted to drop by at American embassies and stuff their pockets full of local currencies and they are now obliged to limit themselves to the same amount that any other government official is permitted to spend in a day. This varies in each country but averages about $18 a day.

This fall a few members of Congress, wary of bad publicity, are paying their own way overseas. Three arranged trips at their own expense to the Far East, including stops in South Vietnam: Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and Rep. John Tunney, D-Calif.

Others have worked up a semblance of justification for their trips. Rep. Jimmy Morrison, who represents the strawberry section of Louisiana and ranks high on the Post Office Committee, has organized a tour to inspect European post offices. He assured this column that there is much to learn about the mails in London, Paris, Berlin, Bern and The Hague.

HIS CONGRESSIONAL charges, all members of the House Post Office Committee, are eager to visit the Dollis Hill postal lab outside London, he said. Jimmy promised that they would see some modern letter-sorting machines that would astound them.

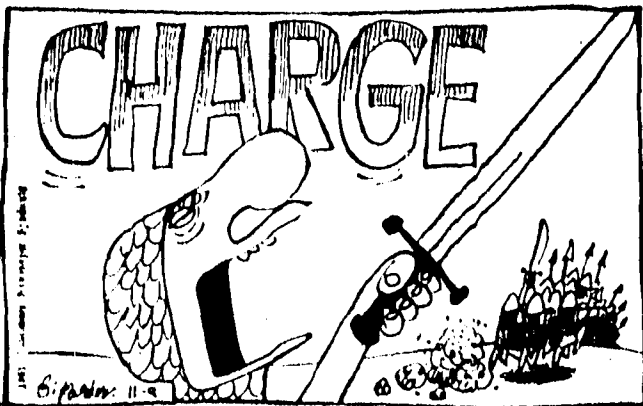

Those listed for this trip are Congressmen Corbett, R-Pa., Daniels, D-N.J., Derwinski, R-Ill., Dulski, D-N.Y., Green, D-Pa., Hanley, D-N.Y., Johnson, R-Pa., and Olsen, D-Mont.

Party Labels Very Confusing

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes you can't even tell the players with a scoreboard. Things get mixed up.

John V. Lindsay, the Republican who just got elected mayor of New York City on a "fusion" ticket and played down his Republicanism, says it wasn't a Republican victory.

He was talking Sunday on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation." But New York's Republican governor, Nelson A. Rockefeller, said it was a GOP victory. He was talking on another Sunday radio-television program, ABC's "Issues and Answers."

After last week's election returns, Rockefeller said New York City is now a "Republican town." But Lindsay said under him New York would be "non-partisan."

Lindsay, whose relations with Rockefeller seem less than hearty, said that while he would endorse the governor for another term he would not campaign for him.

Last week Ray C. Bliss, GOP national chairman, while denouncing "leftist-oriented" groups in the Democratic party, urged all Republicans to "reject membership in any radical organization which attempts to use the Republican party for its own ends."

He specifically berated Robert Welch, founder and president of the John Birch Society, calling him an "irresponsible radical."

Meanwhile, Welch, also over the weekend, once again said the government was under Communist influence.

Welch, who calls democracy "mob rule," considers the income tax destructive, accused former President Dwight D. Eisenhower of treason and put the Communist tag on the late John Foster Dulles, considers the United States "one vast insane asylum."

Not long ago, a Republican senator, Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, who attacked the Birch Society before, said there is no reason for it in the Republican party.

"As a partisan Republican," he said, "I am concerned by the fact that the John Birch Society has picked my party as the vehicle to promulgate its monolithic philosophy. In so doing, this group seems more dedicated to the defeat of Republicans than Democrats."

He also added this: That Birchites of the left have a stronger hold on the Democrats than any "extremists" ever had on our party.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican Senate leader, while agreeing with Morton that the Republican party has no place for Birchites, said they have never been a part of the GOP and never will be.

But Sen. George Murphy, California Republican, saw the danger from Birchites a little differently from Morton. He said 60 percent of them are Democrats.

Over the weekend Barry Goldwater declared America faces a new breed of extremists who, he said, are associated with the Democratic party.

The 1964 presidential candidate was referring to draft-card burners, attempts to block movement of troops to Viet Nam and "leftist groups planning to send supplies to the Viet Cong." He called them radicals who "for the most part consistently vote the Democratic ticket."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who last week refrained from calling Lindsay's victory a Republican victory, said over the weekend Republicans are stronger because they have healed their ideological split of 1964 and repudiated the radical right extremists.

But not long ago Bliss had said Goldwater's new Free Society Association will hurt the GOP's long-range interests. Goldwater insisted his outfit should help the party.

To Your Good Health

Reducing Method Is Safe

By J. G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you discuss fasting to reduce weight? I have heard of talking only water and vitamins for 20 to 30 days, without hunger, and with beneficial results. Is this method really safe? Must it be supervised by a doctor? Is there an age limit? — H.K.E.

I would say that there is some difference of opinion on this method of reducing. So far as I know, it is safe enough when properly supervised—but this means much closer supervision that you suppose: Either in a hospital, or under complete daily supervision of a doctor who understands this method thoroughly.

It is NOT safe to attempt any such regimen and see your doctor once a week, or to call him and say you still feel good. Rather, a battery of laboratory tests must be employed repeatedly. For just a couple of examples, the mineral balance in the body is important. If it begins to get out of balance, it should be corrected promptly. Or, under such a rigid fast, gout may occur due to uric acid accumulation. This must be corrected at once.

OBVIOUSLY it is possible to lose weight rapidly and in large amounts by this method, and after the first few days people report that they stop feeling hungry. However, as you can understand, it is neither a simple nor inexpensive method because of the amount of testing and supervision required.

I don't know of any age limit, but a person should be in robust health before starting such a program.

Possibly the most basic objection is this — the method doesn't teach the patient new eating habits. He got fat before! If he goes back to his former habits, he can get fat again. For this reason alone there is a great deal to be said for the slow, simple way of reducing — learning to eat a little less of everything, and especially to eat less of the more fattening foods.

THAT, IN FACT, is the strongest argument against all special methods of reducing. If they don't establish a new eating habit, the patient may have gotten slimmer, temporarily, but he won't stay that way.

Why, some people, under special "crash" reducing programs have lost 100 pounds and more, according to scientific reports, and then in a matter of months gained it all back. What's the profit in that?

Reporter Finds 'Happiest Children'

rugs. Raymond Ames and John Holzworth, standing in the center, are sanding a piece of furniture. Jean Yarolimek is holding a scour stick made of colorful nylon net. By VI BENICKE

Daily News Staff Writer
Some of the happiest children in Winona can be found in Room 102, Central Elementary School, from 9 to 11 a.m. each school day.

Eight mentally retarded children are being taught in the Winona Day Activity Center there by Mrs. James Cole. They are learning how to communicate with others, courtesy and health, and skills in handicraft and recreation. They take trips and tour various places in Winona and area towns.

AN OPEN house is being conducted at the center this week. Final hours are from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Wednesday.

The children are bubbling over with enthusiasm. All are helpful and smiling.

"Are you happy?" one of the students asked Mrs. Cole. One girl student took a guest by the hand and escorted her around the room to show and explain their handiwork to her.

"Can I hang your coat up for you?" a student asked this reporter.

A girl student affectionately hugged the mother of one of the boy students. One of the children rang a bell to call a meeting of the students. They recited the pledge of allegiance to the flag. "Thank you God for watching over me," was added at the end of the pledge.

STUDENTS took turns showing and telling of things they had brought from home. One showed pictures from the magazine section of the Winona Sunday News of the upcoming play, "The Wizard of Oz," at Winona Senior High School. This special class of students plans to enact the play, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Last year they presented "Cinderella." Another student showed a photo album he had purchased.

Each student will bring one for pictures of his classmates and their projects. Various colored pictures from magazines were shown by a girl student of things she especially likes such as furniture, foods, etc. All joined in singing "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

Listening time was enjoyed. A student produced one of his favorite records, "Beer Barrel Polka." He contributed a dance solo while the others sang and clapped their hands. With his hands on his hips, he kept time to the music, alternately kicking his legs high into the air and stomping his feet. Another boy student did the "twist" and the "swim." A boy twirled a girl around and around while another student remarked, "Hey, that's cute!"

HANDIWORK displayed included: Wall plaques, door weights made out of catalogs, book marks, hot dish pads, book ends decorated with colorful pieces of glass, wooden salt and pepper shakers covered with tile and loom-woven rugs. "One of the most dominating characteristics of these children is their capacity to give and receive love," said Mrs. Cole. "They are over affectionate."

"Many parents who have mentally retarded children don't realize their children can lead such a full life. So many of these children are shy, seldom speak, can't read and won't play games. They are withdrawn. In this special class they have a feeling of belonging and a pride in accomplishment. They also have fun. "Many people have a feeling of dread when they think of visiting a classroom of this type. They think they will go away feeling depressed but it is just the opposite. Their spirits are uplifted when they see the happiness the children are experiencing."

"Each child is an individual and each one adds something to the group," said Mrs. Cole, who is pleasant, patient, understanding and loved by all of the children.

SOME OF the remarks made by visitors at the open house Monday were:

"I'm glad I came."
"We enjoyed it."
"This is just wonderful."
"It's a good project."
"I know now that there is hope for my child."

Masons to Receive Hospital Award At La Crescent

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — Clyde E. Hegman, president of the Masonic Memorial Hospital Fund, Inc., Minneapolis, will present an award of merit to Morning Star Lodge 29, Nov. 16.

The local lodge placed third highest in the state with 83 percent of its members contributing to the fund for the cancer hospital. The hospital was built at a cost of $1,000,000 and was opened to patients in October 1958.

These patients, with an average stay of 23 days, have helped make the hospital a teaching and research center.

Masons in 1963 pledged $1,100,000 to build two additional floors. The new third floor will consist of rooms for the care of 40 patients, including five children, increasing the hospital's capacity from 80 to 120 beds. The fourth floor will house specialized research laborator-

Today let's pay tribute to the housewife, whose activity makes going home a welcome thought. Join me as we survey in a few minutes what it takes a woman of pride a heap of doing to accomplish.

You'll not catch me getting involved in a wordy discussion on who has the tougher job — the housewife or the breadwinner. I'll settle for bread-winning any day. It takes a certain touch to make a house seem like home.

Recently my wife and I were in a home where things appeared in such a way as to indicate that this home was lived in. It wasn't immaculate, but sufficiently neat. The wife was a happy person that indulged in conversation with her company freely, and without any apparent concern for the house itself. We enjoyed her home, as it was lived in.

A HOUSEWIFE that works at the task is a most interesting being. She whips up meals on schedule with an ease that I find amazing. What's more, those meals have variety. In this sense, she needs not only to be just a cook, but a creative cook, with ideas about what to feed the family. She often is a humorist as she points out in her own way, a chuckle or two. One housewife used to cut cartoons from the paper or magazines and with magnetic weights attach them to the side of the refrigerator where the whole family could muse on the funnies.

I know a very successful business man. His house is a beauty in an exclusive neighborhood. That house could easily appear in one of the homebuilders magazines as a dreamhouse for Mr. Ritz. Yet, when that man speaks of home, he talks of the woman who shares it with him, praising her for her part in this climb from nothing, to a man of means. I've only met his wife once. I wouldn't know her if I met her on the street, but I know this — she has a happy, appreciative man, indicating that as a housewife, she has excelled at the task and that beautiful dream house is mostly a fine arrangement of brick, mortar, wood, and glass — the soul of that home is in the presence of his wife.

MANY A SMALL child will break out into a dead run when he leaves school, anticipating the joy of seeing Mother and sharing with her the activities of the day. And home takes on meaning when, in reply to his "Mother, I'm home," she answers, "In the kitchen, dear." Here, once again she fills a special place.

Housewives are a group of specialists who appear to be "Jacks of many trades" and masters of most. I say, hats off to these women that do much to put meaning and purpose to life. Fellows, don't take them for granted.

And now a final reminder, fellows — some men think that marriage entitles women to the protection of strong men to hold stepladders for them while they paint the kitchen ceiling.

Princess Hit By Laryngitis And Fatigue

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fighting fatigue and laryngitis, Britain's Princess Margaret showed royal stamina by sticking right through to the end of a dazzling charity ball that broke up in the wee hours today.

One small incident marred the evening's gaiety, but only briefly.

Saying little and dancing not at all, the petite princess reigned smilingly from a dais over the World Adoption International Fund dinner-dance at the Hollywood Palladium.

Usually celebrity-satiated Hollywood stars twirled by, stealing glances or outright gawking in her direction.

The princess, in a diamond crown, a necklace with marbled diamonds and a cornflower-blue gown that matched her eyes, managed a few soft words with her dinner partner, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, at the head table.

Her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, chatted affably throughout the dinner with any and all about him, including comedian Bob Hope.

The princess appeared momentarily upset, witnesses said, by one incident, an unidentified man in a brown business suit, a drink in one hand, made his way to within 10 feet of where the princess sat at the head table when security officers stopped him.

The man, described by witnesses as "obnoxiously drunk," began shouting unintelligibly and officers hustled him out of the ballroom.

Moments later, as the princess made her way out to the royal couple's special retiring room, she saw the man being questioned, appeared confused for an instant, then returned instead to the ballroom.

Police did not arrest the man because, they said, the incident had occurred on private property. Palladium security guards also released him and he ran off down the street and disappeared in the crowd.

Three Schools Involved In Principal Changes

Appointments for three elementary school administrative assignments were approved Monday night by the Winona Board of Education.

Upon the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools A. L.

Nelson, Verdi F. Elles, who has been serving as principal of Madison and Central Elementary schools, was appointed full-time principal at Madison.

DAVID MAHLKE, who has been a teaching principal at Lincoln, was relieved of teaching duties and named principal of Central Elementary and Lincoln.

Under the new administrative organization Mahlke will be at each school on a half-day basis with an assistant in each of the buildings to be available when he's absent.

The appointments will become effective January 3.

The new organization had been discussed a month ago after school directors had been advised by the administration that school enrollments at Madison, Lincoln and Central Elementary had grown to the point where a change had become necessary.

Board members noted Monday that Madison's enrollment has now reached close to 500, there are more than 300 at Central and nearly 300 at Lincoln.

THE STATE Department of Education recommends that any elementary school with an enrollment of 400 or more should have a full-time principal and those with from 200 to 400 enrollment require at least a half-time principal.

The current enrollment at Madison includes 56 students who ordinarily would be enrolled at St. Stanislaus School but are attending public school classes awaiting completion of the new St. Stanislaus building.

Originally it had been anticipated that these students would return to St. Stanislaus late this fall.

Fourth Ward Director Daniel Sadowski asked Nelson Monday whether there had been any new developments in the parochial school building situation.

The superintendent said that he understood that the completion schedule for the new St. Stanislaus building had been revised to a Jan. 1 date but that now school officials feel that perhaps occupancy may not be possible until perhaps in February.

IN A matter related to the administrative reorganization for the three elementary schools a new instructor was hired for Lincoln School to fill the vacancy created when Mahlke assumes his full-time principal duties in the two buildings.

Hired as an elementary teacher at Lincoln was Charles Earp, Mabel, Minn., who'll be gradu-

HARRIS SURVEY

Vigor Won For Lindsay, Pollster Says

By LOUIS HARRIS

In-depth polls taken during the recent New York mayoralty campaign reveal much about the underlying political appeal of John V. Lindsay.

The public profile of Mayor-elect Lindsay in the minds of New York voters emerged when they were asked what they thought of him. He was most frequently described as full of youthful vigor and new ideas, a dramatic, handsome and attractive man, extremely articulate, bright and intelligent and outspoken liberal who was interested in the less privileged.

BUT LINDSAY was criticized by New Yorkers for being too ambitious to succeed in politics, too young to take on so much responsibility, too rich and too much from a privileged background, too glib a talker and not enough of a doer.

If this seems to have a somewhat familiar overtone it is perhaps best summed up in the fact that without any prompting 25 percent of New York's electorate volunteered that "Lindsay reminds me of John F. Kennedy."

Both Kennedy and Lindsay stood out for their vigor and campaigning energies, were dramatic in impact as personalities, tended to be intellectual in politics came down on the liberal side. But both were also criticized for being too young, too ambitious, too easy talkers, too rich and too privileged.

OF COURSE, Kennedy had a religious handicap to overcome, since he was the first Catholic to be elected President. Lindsay is a Protestant, a minority in New York City, although a majority everywhere else in the United States.

The Lindsay vote in New York sets whole new perspectives for the Republican Party and its potential in the big cities. The following table compares the Goldwater 1964 big city vote among five key groups with the Lindsay showing last week:

GOP BIG CITY VOTE
	Gold-	Lind-	Net
	water	say	Difference
	Per Cent	Per Cent	Per Cent
Negro voters	5	42	Plus 37
Jewish voters	13	42	Plus 29
Italian voters	26	40	Plus 14
Irish voters	33	41	Plus 8
White Protestant voters	54	61	Plus 7

Lindsay demonstrated a capacity, even against an active conservative opponent, to hold the relatively more conservative Republican white Protestant and Irish voters, while cutting mainly into dominant Democratic big city groups such as Negroes, Jews and Italians. If there is a road back to a Republican majority, then the Lindsay pattern in a usually Democratic stronghold points to one possible path.

Yet the "cross" that Lindsay bore in the campaign in New York City was his Republicanism. For New York voters are registered 3 to 1 Democratic and 43% of the city's voters held Lindsay suspect because he seemed "too close to the Republican Party." Thus Lindsay had to hew out his winning from the remaining 57% of the electorate, much as Kennedy had to give away better than 30% of the vote on religious grounds in 1960.

Just before the election, voters were given a series of statements about Lindsay — pro and con — and were asked: "Do you tend to agree or disagree with these statements about John Lindsay?"

ATTITUDES ABOUT LINDSAY

	Agree	Disagree
	Per Cent	Per Cent
Showed real courage in opposing Goldwater in '64	76	24
Has youth, vigor, new ideas	58	42
Will rid New York of boss rule	55	45
Runs too much on his personality	44	56
Is too close to the Republican Party	43	57
Doesn't care about working people	16	84
Is too liberal	15	85

Obviously, the positives about Lindsay carried the day. Yet at the very top of this list was his outspoken opposition to Barry Goldwater in 1964. New Yorkers obviously considered that an act of political courage. A Queens subway employee put it this way: "He had a lot of plain guts and courage to do what he did on Goldwater." A lawyer in the Bronx said, "Lindsay puts conscience over party. That means everything to me."

This final attribute of courage, running against big odds, in the end was what made Kennedy appealing to millions of voters in America. By all odds, it was probably the biggest single key to John Lindsay's victory as mayor of New York City last week.

British Labor Majority Down To Single Vote

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government entered a new and stormy session of Parliament today with its majority down to a single vote and with revolt threatening in Rhodesia.

But the 49-year-old Labor leader and his ministers were blandly proclaiming confidence they would ride out the tests and shocks of the legislative year ahead and emerge in front of their Conservative challengers.

Death and one election defeat have cut the government's margin over its Conservative and Liberal opponents from five votes to one in the 630-member House of Commons.

Special elections are due shortly to fill two vacancies previously held by Labor men. The Laborites are sure of winning one but face a tough fight in the other district.

Wilson nevertheless has projected among his followers a sense of certainty that they will win out against any acts of God or moves that Edward Heath's Conservatives might make.

Knowles Vetoes Driver's Bill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles vetoed Monday a bill that would have allowed mothers to sign as the sponsoring authority for children under 18 seeking a driver's permit.

The governor said an amendment changed the legislation's original intent. Knowles said the amendment would require all mothers signing as sponsors to furnish proof of financial responsibility.

"If this bill were signed into law these mothers would be required to furnish proof of financial responsibility while fathers and guardians in legal custody of children would not be required to furnish such proof," the governor said.

Why does the head chef at the Waldorf cook with gas?

He cooks with gas because he needs the kind of control only gas can give you. You get the exact cooking temperature you want because you have hundreds of heats to choose from on a gas range, not just five or six. And you get that exact temperature right then and there. Turn a burner on a gas range up, down, on or off and it goes up, down, on or off. Instantly. This kind of perfect control is why the great chefs appreciate gas ranges. And why you'll feel the same way. Live modern for less... with gas.

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has cleared his desk of all 1965 legislation, including one bill that could lead to insurance for millions who now cannot buy protection against floods or hurricane-driven waters.

Johnson, the Texas White House announced Monday night, signed all pending legislation well in advance of a midnight deadline — and without allowing any measure to die by pocket veto.

After a bill reaches the President, he has 10 days in which to sign or veto it or, after Congress has adjourned, to let it die by inaction. Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson now has acted on all measures Congress passed before adjournment.

One of the final bills to get Johnson's signature provides special federal aid for many victims of Hurricane Betsy in Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida. If they qualify for disaster loans from the Small Business Administration or Agriculture Department, up to $1,800 of principal repayments and interest will be written off the books.

The special aid is intended for hurricane victims who suffered losses for which no commercial insurance was available, such as damage from flood, high water or wind-driven water.

In the long run, the new law may have greater significance because it authorizes an immediate study by the new Department of Housing and Urban Development to devise a permanent plan for protection against insurmountable disasters.

"Such a basic study is long overdue," Johnson said in a statement.

Among the other new laws he signed were ones expanding the federal vocational rehabilitation program, setting sugar quotas, increasing by $120 million the authorized revolving loan fund of the Small Business Administration and another calling Congress back to work at noon on next Jan. 10.

Big Turnout Set For Veterans Day

By HAL COOPER
(Associated Press Writer)
Veterans Day observances Thursday will point up a massive national backlash against draft card burners and other critics of U.S. policy in Vietnam, reports from across America showed today.

In addition to the traditional turnout of war veterans, parades in many cities are expected to attract thousands of ordinary citizens who want to march to demonstrate support for their country's cause.

The national headquarters of the American Legion touched off "Operation Show Your Colors" involving the distribution of 10 million metal lapel pin flags. With each pin comes a card saying "Americans are serving the cause of freedom in Vietnam. I wear my country's flag to show that I support their efforts."

Frank Brockhoven, chairman of the Veterans Day parade in Boston, said, "Everybody wants to get in it — everybody's calling me." He estimated that more than 12,000 would march, led by servicemen home from the war in Vietnam.

Damage High In Crash at Minnesota City

A Winona woman received face cuts and $800 to $1,000 damage to her car when she was forced off U.S. 61 at the south limits of Minnesota City Sunday morning, according to the Minnesota Highway Patrol.

Mrs. C. Robert Stephenson, 410 W. Broadway, was treated for a cut cheek and lip and released from Community Memorial Hospital after the accident at 7:45 a.m.

She told Highway Patrolman Nathaniel H. Miller that she was driving north on the highway when a southbound car at least partly in her lane of traffic appeared not to be going to stop.

Mrs. Stephenson said that she swerved to the right and braked hard. Her car smashed into a telephone pole, snapping it off. Mrs. Stephenson was wearing a seatbelt.

The pole fell across the top of the Stephenson car lengthwise, making a deep crease. Additional damage was to the front and right side of the car.

A telephone cable was lying across the highway for some time after the mishap. Telephone company crews made temporary repairs Sunday and replaced the pole Monday, along with a length of cable.

Mrs. Stephenson was taken to Winona police headquarters by a passing motorist. Police took her to the hospital.

Texas Changes Plea to Guilty

Freddie R. Mullins changed his plea to guilty of armed robbery Monday afternoon in District Court, and the Texas youth was sentenced to up to 20 years with the Youth Conservation Commission (YCC).

Mullins, 17, Dallas, Tex., was scheduled to stand trial on the charge beginning Monday after he pleaded not guilty to it late last month.

The youth and his court-appointed attorney, William A. Lindquist, had contested the state's charge that Mullins held up Elmer G. Wadewitz, Stockton, with a "loaded" pistol.

It later became apparent that there is no difference in the charge of armed robbery whether a weapon was loaded or not. County Attorney S. A. Sawyer agreed to the deletion from the complaint of any reference to the pistol being loaded, however.

Judge Hatfield ordered a full post-sentence psychiatric examination for the youth, who will be transported to the Lino Lakes receiving center of the YCC for the examination.

The robbery took place Aug. 22. Mullins confronted Wadewitz with a pistol in the parking lot of Hotel Winona, 3rd and Johnson streets.

He forced the Stockton man to drive nearly to St. Charles before relieving Wadewitz of his car and about $65 in cash.

GENERAL GREETED

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — When Pvt. James Keyser stepped from the bus at Ft. Knox, he began wondering what he had done.

Waiting to greet him was the commanding general, who presented the Chicago soldier with a cake and a fancy picture album.

Keyser was the 500,000th soldier to pass through the reception center since its activation in October 1956.

EISENHOWER

to newsmen on a bulletin board here, giving a dialogue between Eisenhower and his wife after he awoke:

Mrs. Eisenhower: "Now, general, don't you worry. I'm going to stay right here with you at your bedside or in the next room."

Eisenhower: "Well, what will you do if they take me home?"

Mrs. Eisenhower: "Well, I'll follow you."

The conversation came after the former president had several hours sleep.

Eisenhower's son, John, was near by. He had flown in from Pennsylvania after receiving word of his father's illness.

Eisenhower, the nation's 34th president, complained of chest pains about midnight and a heart specialist, Dr. Louis Batey of Augusta, was summoned to the Eisenhower vacation residence at the Augusta National Golf Club. Hospitalization followed.

Col. William W. Cox, the senior medical officer at Ft. Gordon, said Eisenhower was given narcotics to relieve the chest pains, allowing the former president to rest easily.

Cox said Eisenhower played golf on a par-three course Monday.

A par-three golf course is a smaller layout than a regular course and each hole is a par three. Because of the shorter distances, there is little need for wood shots, and the course demands accuracy more than strength.

The former president's son was whisked through a side door at the hospital. He did not talk with newsmen.

The former president is confined to a special suite always kept in readiness while he is visiting the area.

The suite is in one of the hospital wings. Military policemen guarded the entrances. Secret Service men stood by.

Eisenhower has been a frequent visitor to the golf club. He and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived about 12 days ago. They were staying at "Mamie's Cottage," a house built for the former president and named for his wife. This was his "Little White House."

The cottage overlooks a fairway at the famous golf course where the Masters Golf Tournament is played every year. It was one of Eisenhower's favorite retreats while he was president.

Farm Outlook In N.W. Area Of State Grim

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The farm situation in crop-damaged area of northwestern Minnesota is "rather grim," Gov. Karl Rolvaag said after a ground and aerial tour of the area Monday.

The governor said it may be necessary to establish a source of feed for farmers to carry their foundation herds through the winter. It may also be in order, he said, to establish a new base of credit to aid in carrying through the herds in cases where farmers are faces with the loss of cash crop income.

On his return to the Twin Cities Monday night, Rolvaag spoke in Hopkins to a conservation awards dinner. He announced there he would call a conference next year of governors of all states bordering on the Mississippi River to consider flood control and other problems concerning the river.

Rolvaag proposed, in his Hopkins talk, a four-step water conservation program. He specified a proclamation outlining the needs for a water conservation program and proposals for action, appointment of a bipartisan committee to prepare recommendations to the 1967 Legislature, a statewide Minnesota water conservation conference and the conference of Mississippi River governors.

While touring the northwestern portion of the state, Rolvaag observed 1965 was a dismal year for many area farmers. High water last spring prevented them from getting into the fields. This was followed by a rather dry summer, heavy rains during the harvest season and finally an early killing frost.

been mild and Eisenhower had been playing golf frequently. Mattingly said he has been checking Eisenhower periodically and that he considers him in excellent condition.

Eisenhower was in a Denver hospital for seven weeks following his heart attack in 1955. He spent many additional weeks convalescing before deciding that he was fit to make the race for a second term in 1960.

Dissertation on John Ruskin Heard by Ruskin Study Club

Ruskin Study Club members learned about the man for whom their organization is named Monday afternoon when Mrs. Herbert Bierce gave a paper on the life of John Ruskin, famous British art critic of the 19th century.

THE NOVEMBER meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Boughton, Homer Road, with 16 members present.

At the business meeting preceding the program, copies of the constitution were distributed by Mrs. S. A. Boyd, president, and attention was directed to several items of general interest. The resignation of Mrs. Robert Collins, secretary, was accepted and the nominating committee was directed to present a successor's name.

Mrs. McKendree Petty, program chairman, announced that Miss Dorothy Magnus, professor of speech and drama director at Winona State College, will be the guest speaker at the Christmas meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs.

Richard Callender. Mrs. Petty presented the speaker of the day.

MRS. BIERCE gave a scholarly report on the life and career of Ruskin, who was born in 1819, the son of a wealthy Scottish wine merchant and a stern mother, who directed his affairs well into his manhood, even to accompanying him to Oxford University when he was enrolled.

"Ruskin was best known in his time both as a great teacher of art and as a severe art critic," Mrs. Bierce said.

"He believed deeply that art was a necessary possession of all people and not only a luxurious toy for the few. In his criticisms of the artists of his time he could be cruel on occasion and was outspoken of both the artist and his work. People were so influenced by his evaluations that they flocked to buy those things he praised and ignored those he didn't." Mrs. Bierce said Ruskin always preached truthfulness in art and wrote, "If it is possible for art to give all the truths of nature, it ought to do it." During his lifetime, Ruskin wrote more than 50 books, in the early years about art and later, on social and moral problems. Even though he had plenty of means, he was always concerned about the working class and its problems, Mrs. Bierce pointed out.

SHE concluded, "It would be difficult indeed to truly evaluate John Ruskin and the influence he had, for to the men of his own generation he stood pre-eminently as a great teacher of art, to our generation he stands as a great teacher or prophet of righteousness, or as he himself would have called it, 'justice.'"

Mrs. Boughton and her assistant hostess, Mrs. George Kelley, served tea and fruit cake with sweets and salted nuts after the program. Mrs. Leo F. Murphy Sr. poured at the tea table, which was centered by an arrangement of white mums, flanked by red tapers in hobnail crystal holders.

The pilot and his first officer were veteran fliers. Capt. Daniel Teelin, 46, had 20 years of service with the line and was a superintendent of flying at New York's La Guardia Airport, where the flight originated.

His first officer, Capt. William J. O'Neill, 39, had been with American 14 years after flying with another airline.

Weekley, also a veteran pilot, was not in the crew cabin. "He was in the compartment with the passengers," his wife said after talking to him by telephone. "It's amazing he survived," she said.

"Upon impact, the whole front of the plane seemed to break away," Weekley told officials at the hospital where he was taken in nearby Covington, Ky.

It was American's first fatal crash since March 1, 1962, when 95 persons died after a Boeing 707 Astrojet dived into the water shortly after taking off from New York.

It was the second crash of a 727, a fairly new Boeing airplane designed for medium-range jet service and capable of carrying 100 passengers. It went into service in February 1964. The first 727 to crash plunged into Lake Michigan near Chicago Aug. 16, taking 30 lives. That was a United Air Lines plane.

The Chicago crash occurred in clear weather. Monday night's came during a thunderstorm, with what the Weather Bureau termed moderate showers spiced by lightning. The Weather Bureau said the airport had a 1,500-foot ceiling at the time.

The pilot was making a visual approach, said Clarence Wilson, supervisor of the Federal Aviation Agency at Cincinnati, meaning he had the field in sight.

He also was being tracked on radar. The plane disappeared from the radar at 7:02 p.m., 22 minutes after its scheduled landing time.

Yes, Winona Legion Won

Whether the participants know it or not, a conversation by Winona Daily and Sunday News Executive Editor Gordon R. Clossway and Len Dorsch set off a statewide search for information, recently.

Dorsch had mentioned to Clossway that even though most people didn't remember or believe it, Winona had won the state American Legion baseball championship in 1931. Not only that, but he had a newspaper clipping to prove it. The paragraphs stated that the club, coached by the late Andy Lipinski, went to the finals of the regional meet at Park River, N.D., before losing a tough 4-3 decision to Milwaukee, Wis. County Post.

Ethnically speaking, it was a select final. All but one Milwaukee player was Polish as were most Winonans.

Familiar Names

No doubt, you remember most of the Winona players. They were the late Mark Klonowski, Mose Bambenek, Henry Kluzik, Dorsch, Irv Gappa, Ches Wiczorek, Lambert Kowalewski, Joseph Janikowski, Dan Glubka, George Lipinski, Leonard Speck, Harold Happel, Joe Cierzan and Dan Michalowski.

And the group had many chuckles over the fact that pitcher Klonowski threw to a catcher who was his nephew, Dorsch did the receiving — and he was older than his uncle.

Well, we took all this into consideration and then, because Winona had hosted the 1965 state Legion meet, we checked state records because we couldn't recall a city championship.

No Record

Sure enough, Minneapolis North Side was listed officially as champion. That team had beaten Winona 14-13 for the title.

We talked it over with Maurice Godsey and he searched the Winona records. All he found was a brief mention in 1931 post minutes that a protest had been filed and Winona won the state.

So Godsey wrote to state secretary Frank Momen. Late last week he received this answer:

"We are replying in a separate letter to you concerning the dispute which arose following the close of the 1931 American Legion state baseball tournament. I have searched the baseball file and the Winona Post file and the Americanism file, and can't find any correspondence whatsoever on this situation.

However, after a very careful search of the 1931 issues of The Minnesota Legionnaire, I have come up with this:

"The State Tournament was held at Stillwater that year, and Minneapolis-North Side Post was at that time in the Tenth District, and beat Winona, 14-13, for the championship.

A Protest Lodged

"... Somewhere along the line, a protest must have been lodged, because we find that A. B. Kapplin, department commander, called a meeting in St. Paul, involving the principals, on Aug. 8, and it was determined that North Side had played with one ineligible player. A replay on Aug. 10 was ordered.

"... Apparently this became rather involved, and Winona had to replay Marble, and won, 12-5. Apparently Hinckley was elevated to represent the Tenth District in its bracket and was beaten by the St. Paul Juniors, 13-3. In Minneapolis, Preston-Crichton team then defeated St. Paul, 3-2, and in the finals, Winona defeated Minneapolis-Preston-Crichton Post 8-5, and was declared the department winner, and to represent the department in the regional tournament.

"... The regional tournament was held at Park River, N.D., Aug. 14-15. Winona won the first game over Cooperstown, N.D., Aug. 14, and lost to Milwaukee, 4-3, on the 15th.

"... To the best of our ability, we have tried to list the names of the players in the box score.

"... Seems that they had a little different system of scoring and I was not able to get the exact positions these boys played, but here is the list of players:

LIPINSKI	KOWALEWSKI
GAPPA	HAPPEL
WICZOREK	KLUIK
KLONOWSKI	GLUBKA
BAMBENK	DORICH

"... and there is one we can't find for sure, but in the box score, it is written as ... HMRSKI.

"Actually I am very happy that you brought this to our attention so that we can set up our permanent records correctly. Apparently in setting up the permanent records someone found only the final score of the original tournament at Stillwater, and did not pursue it further. I have now made this correction in our book. I haven't the least idea who launched the protest or what in the world it might have been.

New Regulations

"Incidentally, in going through the files in the basement, it is obvious that some protest came up somewhere, because the athletic committee came up with recommendations very closely governing the method and the limits in protesting games for future tournaments. This would indicate that the protest was launched sometime after the tournament, which would have been held July 26-27-28."

So you see, Winona did win a Legion state baseball championship. And it's a good thing Len Dorsch remembered it or Leon J. Wetzel Post No. 9 would have had the honor go unrecorded.

Funny what those quick conversations will turn up sometimes, isn't it?

Spartans First for Third Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan State, Arkansas, Nebraska and Notre Dame, gorging themselves on touchdowns as if trying to outstrip each other, continued to pace the national rankings today in The Associated Press college football poll.

The Michigan State Spartans, who crushed Iowa 35-0 for their eighth straight victory, extended their No. 1 position to the third week by polling 32 of the 51 votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Arkansas, with 14 firsts, remained the No. 2 team after a 31-0 rout of Rice while Nebraska, with four No. 1 votes, clung to third on a 42-6 triumph over Kansas.

Notre Dame had the biggest field day of the leaders, trouncing Pittsburgh 69-13, and mustered a challenge to Nebraska for the No. 3 position. The Irish collected the other first-place vote.

The standings are arrived at on the basis of points, figured on a formula of 10 for a first-place selection, nine for second and on down the line.

Michigan State's point total was 482, compared with 459 for Arkansas, 406 for Nebraska and 381 for Notre Dame.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points:

1. MICH. STATE (32)	8-0	482
2. ARKANSAS (14)	8-0	459
3. NEBRASKA (4)	8-0	406
4. NOTRE DAME (1)	6-1	381
5. ALABAMA	6-1-1	288
6. SO. CALIF.	5-1-1	240
7. UCLA	5-1-1	170
8. TENNESSEE	4-0-2	96
9. MISSOURI	5-2-1	94
10. KENTUCKY	6-2	73

Chargers Running Off With Statistical Gems

NEW YORK (AP) — As the American Football League season heads into the home stretch, the San Diego Chargers appear certain to run off with most of the team statistical honors, if not the league championship.

The Chargers have averaged 356.4 yards per game for nine outings as compared to second-place Houston's 307.1-yard average for eight games. The margin is not as decisive in the defensive figures, which show San Diego has given up 224.8 yards per game. Kansas City is next with an average of 237.6 yards.

THAT'S HANKINSON

Gophers' Great Yardage Gainer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — John Hankinson, who for the second straight season is re-writing the Minnesota Gophers' passing records, now is a virtual certainty to write his name in the school's books as the greatest yardage gainer in history.

With two games to go, Hankinson has gained 1,310 yards rushing and passing. The Minnesota record, set by Paul Giel in 1951, is 1,473.

That means that Hankinson needs only 163 yards in his final two games — against Purdue and Wisconsin — to wipe out the All-America Giel's record.

Hankinson, drafted last year as a future by the Minnesota Vikings, has averaged 164 yards per game so far, and needs to average only half that in each of the Gophers' last two games to break Giel's mark.

Hankinson already has broken the school passing yardage record for one season with 1,175. He broke his own mark of 1,084 set last year.

Gopher statistics after eight games show Hankinson with 89 completions (another school record) in 173 attempts for the 1,175 yards and seven touchdowns. He has had 12 aerials intercepted.

Flanker Ken Last has taken over the Gopher pass reception lead with 20 catches for 295 yards. Aaron Brown — who caught 8 in the 27-22 victory over Northwestern Saturday — has 19 receptions for 274 yards while Kent Kramer has caught 18 for 223.

HE MAY BE VIKINGS' STARTER

Opportunity Open to Osborn

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP)—Rookie Dave Osborn of Cando, N.D., and the University of North Dakota may get the biggest opportunity of his football life next Sunday.

He may be the Minnesota Vikings' starting halfback against the Baltimore Colts, leaders of the National Football League's Western Division.

Regular halfback Tommy Mason tore some ligaments in his right knee in the Vikings' 27-22 victory over the Los Angeles Rams here Sunday and his status for the Colts game is cloudy. He hurt the knee making a sharp turn on a wide sweep.

Coach Norm Van Brocklin hopes Mason will be available, but he admitted Monday that nothing will be known until late in the week. Mason is almost sure to be slowed, at any rate.

After Mason went out of the Rams game early in the third quarter, Osborn came on to gain 48 yards in nine carries, including a 21-yard touchdown sprint. That gave him 100 yards in 18 rushes for the season, a 5.6 average.

"He's a great competitor," Viking Coach Norm Van Brocklin said of Osborn, "and I'm sure we're going to see a lot of him in the future. He doesn't have the greatest hands in the world for catching the ball, but he fights you."

Once in Sunday's game, Osborn was the ball carrier on a wide play. He tried to run around some defenders and got smeared for a loss. Van Brocklin thought Osborn should have cut sharply to the inside behind his blockers, and let the young halfback know it.

Osborn was unruffled. "He thought I should have cut, but I decided to go outside," Osborn said. "We'll know when we see the movies what I should have done."

Osborn is just gutsy enough to impress Van Brocklin without bringing the wrath of the Dutchman down on his head.

While Mason's injury is worrying the Vikings, the Colts have something to fret about, too. Quarterback Johnny Unitas sprained his back in Sunday's game at Chicago and a Baltimore spokesman said Monday the injury is bothering Unitas more than he will let on.

And Colt linebacker Don Shinnick is out of the game with a broken arm.

Looking to the Yankee future, Webb predicted that New York second baseman Bobby Richardson will not be around next year.

"We offered him $60,000 to play this year. And there's a funny thing about that," Webb related. "Richardson, who wants to be a preacher, and his wife thought over the $60,000 a few days.

"He came to us and said he wasn't worth that much. Maybe $40,000 or $45,000. He said he didn't want to appear to be dictating terms, but maybe we could give the $15,000 or $20,000 to some worthy cause and keep him in mind for a scouting job or something later on."

Webb pointed out what has been said all year about the Yankees — Mickey Mantle has bad legs and an injured shoulder, Whitey Ford can't go on forever, Roger Maris has injuries, Richardson will probably retire.

"But they have the organization to come back. They'll just have to work at it," Webb concluded.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The World Series should be played without the interruption of a day off for travel. During the season, pitchers should pitch every fourth day and should not be rested to point for a particular game. The New York Yankees may be in dire trouble, but they have the organization to return to power.

Such are the candid opinions of Del E. Webb, former co-owner of the Yankees and a man who, in the process of amassing a personal fortune of millions, has been active in baseball for 40 years or more.

Webb, whose construction and hotel empire spans the country, was talking with friends in Las Vegas, Nev., at the recent $100,000 Sahara Golf Tournament, one of his diversions.

"If a World Series goes seven games, it should be played in seven days," Webb declared. "This business of stretching it to nine or 10 days is obsolete, something that goes back to the years when teams had to travel by railroad.

Webb Claims Yanks' Return to Power

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The World Series should be played without the interruption of a day off for travel. During the season, pitchers should pitch every fourth day and should not be rested to point for a particular game. The New York Yankees may be in dire trouble, but they have the organization to return to power.

Such are the candid opinions of Del E. Webb, former co-owner of the Yankees and a man who, in the process of amassing a personal fortune of millions, has been active in baseball for 40 years or more.

Webb, whose construction and hotel empire spans the country, was talking with friends in Las Vegas, Nev., at the recent $100,000 Sahara Golf Tournament, one of his diversions.

Vince Says Season Up To Players Right Now

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers, their offense hitting with all the punch of a soggy straw scarecrow, can only keep leading with their chins, says Coach Vince Lombardi.

No changes in chins are planned yet, he adds. "We've had breakdowns before and have come out of it," Lombardi said Monday. "All we can do is keep our chin in there and work this thing out."

The Packers, slipping to second in the National Football League's Western Conference after two straight losses, have scored only one touchdown in each of their last three games. Lombardi said, "It is a combination of many things. It's not a complete breakdown, but rather individual things."

He suggested injuries, mental fatigue and tenseness as possible causes.

"You don't make changes just for the sake of changing," Lombardi added, "but if this thing continues we have no alternative."

Ticking off factors of the offensive collapse, Lombardi said:

"We're not getting that hard running from our backs. Jimmy Taylor was running real well before his injury in the last preseason game but he has not regained his old form."

"We seem to be calling the wrong play against the right defense. And as a result, many things we do backfire."

"Mental fatigue could be part of our problem. This could be bothering Bart Starr."

"We're not a relaxed defensive team. We're much too tense."

Center Ken Bowman said after the 12-7 loss to Detroit Sunday, "You think you're ready, you believe you can handle those guys. And this happens. It was humiliating."

The Packers meet Los Angeles in Milwaukee Sunday and then are on the road for four of the last five games, including an invasion of Western Conference leader Baltimore.

"Our whole season now is wrapped up in the next six weeks," said Lombardi, "It's up to the players what they want to make out of it."

MILWAUKEE — Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick and National League President Warren C. Giles will undergo pretrial questioning this month in the federal antitrust suit against the Atlanta-bound Milwaukee Braves.

Frick will appear for an oral examination by attorneys for Milwaukee County at 10 a.m. Friday in the offices of a New York firm. Giles' deposition will be taken in New York Nov. 22.

Oral examinations are being conducted by both county and attorneys in preparation for hearing of the suit in U.S. District Court here. The suit asks either the Braves be ordered to remain in Milwaukee or the National League be instructed to grant Milwaukee a replacement franchise.

NEW YORK — The National Football League and the American Football League are playing it cute about the date of their annual player drafts of college talent. Nobody wants to announce the date but it undoubtedly will be Saturday, Nov. 27, the day of the Army-Navy game.

Once again the two leagues are expected to operate from New York headquarters with club field representatives in contact with their home office by direct wire. Last year the NFL draft lasted all day Saturday and into the afternoon hours of Sunday.

MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee Braves third baseman Eddie Mathews was named Monday as recipient of the 1965 Pal Joey award.

The award honors Mathews for "distinguished service in national sports and as an outstanding example to youth in America."

LAUREL, Md. — Super Sam, a rags to riches colt, carries the hopes of England in Thursday's $150,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel with his youthful trainer not too confident his horse can handle the seven other thoroughbreds invited to compete in the 1 1/2-mile grass course classic.

"He has beaten the best of the 4-year-olds at home," said 23-year-old Bill Watts as he watched the son of Above Suspicion — Samaria cool out in the walking ring beneath the trees in International Village.

"But then the 4-year-olds aren't much in England this year. He has never met the class he'll be coming up against this time."

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Coach Don Shula tapped reserve quarterback Gary Cuozzo Monday for special work this week in case Johnny Unitas is unable to play Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings.

Unitas aggravated a back injury last Sunday in the Chicago Bears game, which the Colts won 26-21. The victory boosted them to first place in the Western Conference of the National Football League.

Cuozzo took over for Unitas in the third period and steered the Colts to their final touchdown. Trainer Ed Block said Unitas' injury is a day-to-day proposition.

"We can't honestly say at this time whether he can play or not," Shula also said. Ted Davis would take over as right line-backer for Don Shinnick, who suffered a fractured arm and will be out indefinitely.

Charley Hennigan has caught 272 passes in his first five seasons with the Houston Oilers.

Boyajian in Badger Quarterbacking Job

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Sophomore John Boyajian has won the starting quarterback job for Wisconsin in the Badgers' final 1965 home game against Illinois Saturday.

Coach Milt Bruhn picked the Hammond, Ind., passer to replace fellow sophomore Chuck Burt who set a season record for Wisconsin with 19 passes intercepted for the first eight games. Boyajian took over from Burt late in the 45-7 loss to Purdue Saturday and completed eight straight passes in guiding the Badgers to their only touchdown.

The 5-foot-10, 190-pound scrambling sophomore was named Monday as recipient of the weekly Bucky Award for outstanding offensive play.

Until this week quarterback was the only position in the starting backfield that had not been involved in repeated shuffling of players in an effort to construct an effective offensive attack.

Bruhn moved Dick Schumitsch back to left halfback Monday. Tom Jankowski remains starting fullback while Gary Bandorf is at the other halfback post.

The weekly Savage Award for defensive play went to cornerback Tom Brigham, who made 11 unassisted tackles against Purdue. Bruhn sent the Badgers through a brief workout Monday before the team examined a scouting report on Illinois.

Guard Dick LaCroix and defensive tackle Don Bliss emerged from the Purdue game with minor injuries. Illinois had three players — center Kay Anderson, halfback Cyril Pinder and defensive end Mick Smith — on its injured list, but all were considered prospects to play Saturday.

Van Hoof Wins; Will Fight on Rochester Card

Winona's Tom Van Hoof, who will fight on the semi-windup of a major Golden Gloves Card in Rochester Wednesday, began his busy week by winning a unanimous decision in the Twin Cities Monday night.

Van Hoof staggered Jerry Krebs in the first round of their light heavyweight bout and then went on to the unanimous win.

Another Winona fighter, Pete LaVelle, lost a split decision to Dan Geng of the Twin Cities.

Van Hoof Wednesday is scheduled to meet Tom Quady in the card that gets underway at the Mayo Auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

The main event pits Krebs against Rochester's light heavyweight upper-midwest runnerup Rusty Clark.

Several other Winona fighters are also set for action. They are Larry Marchionda, LaVelle, former regional champion Mike Rivers and Bill Meyer.

Sugar Ray Eyes Chance at Title; To Meet Archer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, who was middleweight champion five times, and Joey Archer, a young man hungry for the same title, square off in a 10-round bout in Pittsburgh's Civic Arena Wednesday night.

The winner could be in line for a shot at the middleweight title now held by Dick Tiger, whom Archer has beaten. Archer, 27, who has won 44 fights and lost one, is a heavy favorite.

Robinson, 45, the grand old man of professional boxing who has been urged to quit for the good of boxing and his own health, says he wants the title "just one more time."

"Look, I've never been a failure yet," he said. "Four times I've been right, coming back said 'why doesn't he quit?'"

"Archer is the top contender," added the man who has boxed for a living for a quarter of a century. "I know I can beat him."

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special) — Ernie Diederich, Austin, state commander, was a guest at the annual membership dinner of Plainview Post 179 Sunday night at the American Legion community building. About 150 attended.

He urged them to stand firm in discussions with those opposed to the U.S. keeping forces there. Diederich complimented the post on its new building.

Donald Pille, commander of Plainview post, called the program to order and turned it over to Donavon Timm, 1st District vice commander. Timm introduced Charles Gavin, La Crescent, state vice commander, his wife, and Mrs. Gert Hermes, Winona, past 1st District president. Dinner was prepared by women of Immanuel Lutheran Church.
