Lights in East On Again After 10-Hour Blackout

BUMPER TO BUMPER IN BLACKOUT . . . Headlights of autos provide the only illumination as they move bumper to bumper along New York's 42nd Street as they try to leave the city during the power failure early today. 30 Million in 80,000 Square Miles in Dark

NEW YORK (AP) — Lights flashed on in New York early today and transportation systems began to move, signaling the end to a massive and frightening power blackout that crippled the teeming Northeast.

After 10 hours of worried waiting, the lights came back on at 3:35 a.m. EST in the heart of Manhattan—one of the last areas still affected by the nation's worst power failure.

New York's mammoth subway system staggered back into operation and commuter train service was slowly restored.

The city remained crippled because hundreds of thousands of persons could not get to work.

Coming on with alarming suddenness during Tuesday's evening rush hour, the blackout at its peak enveloped 80,000 square miles, affecting up to 30 million persons in eight states, scrambled transportation and communications and stranded hundreds of thousands in stalled subway cars and elevators.

Through the night the Texas White House reported progress of experts trying to pinpoint the trouble that drained electric power from New York, Boston and hundreds of smaller cities, towns and hamlets.

Reports were contradictory, although President Johnson was advised the experts were "pretty well agreed" no sabotage was involved and the Pentagon said military communications and the Washington-Moscow hot line were not hampered.

As the night wore on, power began seeping back into most of the blackout area that at one time stretched over New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Vermont, Rhode Island and even struck Toronto and Ottawa in Canada.

Johnson, however, ordered the Federal Power Commission to launch a sweeping investigation and gave it all the facilities of the federal government—including the FBI.

The blackout came with a flickering of lights at about 5:30 p.m. (EST), the peak of the rush hour in teeming cities.

Subway cars speeding an estimated 850,000 persons through New York's subway ground frighteningly to a halt. Elevators stopped between floors bringing cries of dismay. Operating rooms darkened. News tickers fell silent. Airliners scrambled to other ports. Convicts in a Massachusetts prison rioted.

Immediately off-duty police were called back to work. National Guardsmen were put on alert in case of looting. Emergency power was plugged in at hospitals.

One man told of being in an elevator in a Manhattan office building: "The lights sputtered out. The three of us pressed the alarm button. We waited and heard nothing. A few minutes later the doors opened. I can tell you we were glad to get out."

A commercial airline pilot winging in for a landing at Boston's Logan International Airport at 5:21 p.m. witnessed "a startling sight. There below is a brightly lighted city and suddenly it plunges into darkness. You don't know what to think."

There was a heart-stopping moment at Manhattan's St. Vincent's Hospital when an emergency generator failed during a brain operation. A police generator was pressed into action and the operation was completed. St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue was nearly filled with worried worshippers.

But with the grimness and fear there was also excitement and humor.

A young girl with school books under her arm walked through darkened Times Square and explained in rapture: "This is exciting. Oh, this is exciting."

Despite the darkness and the tangle of communications and transportation, the mood generally seemed to be one of calm with a grin-and-bear-it philosophy.

Midwest Had Own Blackout, Changed Setup

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP)—A blackout of the proportion of that which hit the Northeastern United States Tuesday night—in area, at least—already has happened in the Midwest.

But because it has power companies with interconnecting grids have been taking steps to insure against a widespread outage.

That's the preliminary comment of Kenneth Vig of Grand Forks, coordinator of Mid-Continent Area Power Planners (MAPP), a vast Midwestern combination of private, public and cooperative power suppliers.

Vig recalled that about a year ago a fault at the Fort Randall, S.D., substation of the Bureau of Reclamation triggered a blackout which affected parts of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota.

Since then, he said, power officials have been studying ways to prevent any such widespread outages in the future and have made a number of insurance improvements.

In addition, he said, as additional extra high voltage transmission lines are added to the MAPP system by its individual members, chances of widespread blackout will be reduced further.

Vig said two factors must be considered in any plan to prevent a widespread blackout involving an interconnected power grid.

One is to continue serving the entire area, including that in which any fault occurs which threatens a major outage.

The second is to have individual power systems "shed away from each other" when it becomes apparent that a fault is such that the entire region is threatened if interconnections are maintained.

In some cases the interconnections have prevented major localized outages, which otherwise might have caused great hardship, Vig said.

A case in point, he said, was when tornadoes crippled power lines in Indiana, but power was supplied over alternative lines.

3 Escape in Crossing Crash

LITCHFIELD, Minn. (AP)—Three Litchfield high school girls leaped from their car moments before a freight train struck it on a Litchfield crossing. All escaped injury.

Occupants were Jeanne Blondell, 17, the driver; Joan Worden, 16, and Gayle Knorr, 17. They were en route to school at 8:25 a.m. when the car stalled on the tracks.

As Great Northern freight train No. 81 westbound, bore down on them, they jumped to safety. The car was demolished. Don Donaldson of Willmar was the engineer on the train.

Suspect Arson In Three Fires In Austin Area

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP)—A school for retarded children and a lumber yard were destroyed, and a business building was damaged by fire early today, causing loss expected to approach $200,000.

A fire department official said arson is indicated.

Police later seized a former Austin man in a car believed to be the same one seen near the scene of one of the blazes. No charges have been placed against the man, described as in his mid-20s.

No injuries were reported. All establishments involved in the fires were unoccupied.

Destroyed were the Oak Grove Activity Center, a school for retarded children about 1½ miles east of Austin, and the main building of the Austin Cashway Lumber Store, on the north edge of the city. A wall of a building on the Ussem used car lot in Austin was damaged by fire.

Loss of the activity center was estimated at $18,000. Harold Matfield, manager of the lumber store, said loss would exceed $150,000.

A packing plant worker en route home from his job spotted the fire in the activity center about 4 a.m. He noticed a car leaving the scene and gave police a description of the vehicle.

The former Austin man was taken into custody later in downtown Austin. Firemen also said they noticed the car as they rushed to answer the alarm.

The lumber yard fire was discovered about 2:15 a.m. Firemen said the blaze started in a storage area where paint and other flammables are kept. The used car building fire was discovered shortly before midnight. Firemen said there were indications of a break-in.

Fire Capt. Joe Pacholl said he was enlisting the aid of the state fire marshal's office to investigate possible arson in all three fires.

Ike Had Mild Heart Attack

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's doctors reported today he has had a mild attack of angina pectoris, or coronary insufficiency. They said he might be well again in two weeks.

Unanswered Questions

Could Enemy Paralyze U.S.?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Struck with a kind of crisis it's never known before, the federal government groped today for answers to a mounting array of questions.

Foremost: How did it happen, this terrifying blackout that gripped the busiest corner of the United States for most of a night?

And then, immediately: What can be done so that it may never happen again, this sudden stripping away of electric power—the lifeblood of 20th century America?

And overshadowing all of the immediate questions, the chilling military one: Could one man or group of men, secret agents of an enemy power, secretly throw the switches and cut the lines and smash the machinery to paralyze the nation, setting it up for a devastating thermonuclear attack?

The administration's reaction was swift and emphatic: President Johnson ordered an all-out investigation of the power failure and picked chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the Federal Power Commission to direct it.

But the national security implications of the disaster became clear when the President ordered the Federal Bureau of Investigation to take part in the probe. FBI agents were ordered to walk with power crews along the lines between Niagara Falls and Syracuse, N.Y., to seek the source of the blackout.

And while White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers refused to speculate about possible sabotage, and Johnson was advised by experts that dirty work was unlikely, the question remained: Could it happen? And what can be done to prevent it?

Seek Strong Will

What some women are looking for is a man with a strong will — made out to them . . . One of the first things a kid learns in school (says Johnny Martin) is that the other kids get a bigger allowance . . . A local secretary reports she asked her boss for a raise: "I didn't get it — but he let me move my desk closer to the water cooler" . . . Some men believe in dreams — till they marry them . . . A teenager was asked by his teacher if he ever listened to the voice of conscience, and he answered, "I don't know — what channel is it on?"

AP Keeps News Flowing Despite Power Failure

NEW YORK (AP) — In one shuddering instant, the hub of the nation's communications industry lost power, faltered, but caught itself and began talking again.

Throughout the Northeast of the nation — where more than one out of 10 Americans live — television tubes loaded with news, even of the blackout itself, flowing without interruption.

Newspapers quickly searched out alternative presses to put out abbreviated editions. The Associated Press made emergency shifts in its vast network of wires, and kept the news, even of the blackout itself, flowing without interruption.

In New York, the Times worked out a hasty arrangement with the Newark News—across the river in New Jersey—to publish an eight-page edition.

For an instant at the moment of darkness the vast apparatus of The Associated Press, the world's largest newsgathering organization, faltered.

At its headquarters at 50 Rockefeller Plaza the lights went out, telephone lines died and banks of garrulous Teletype machines fell silent.

The AP supplies news on a cooperative basis to approximately 1,200 daily newspapers and 2,400 broadcast stations in the United States besides sending and receiving news from more than 100 foreign countries.

A quick series of emergency measures kept the news and photographs flowing without interruption.

Outgoing phone calls were impossible, but incoming calls from AP staffers and member newspapers quickly apprised the New York staff of the extent of the blackout.

By the flicker of scores of candles and the unsteady beams of flashlights, New York writers began pounding out the story and feeding it by unaffected direct telephone extensions to the Washington AP bureau, which rolled it out on Teletype to the rest of the nation.

15 Plead Not Guilty in Insurance Case

ST. PAUL (AP) — Fifteen of 17 persons indicted for fraud in the American Allied Insurance case pleaded innocent today before U.S. District Judge Edward J. Devitt.

Among those entering pleas of innocent to all 11 counts of the indictment returned Oct. 29 was State Insurance Commissioner Cyrus E. Magnusson, 61.

One defendant, Frank G. Bufum, described as a New York City securities broker, did not appear for arraignment and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

Defendant John Carroll, 59, a banker from Deerfield, Ill., will be arraigned in Minneapolis Nov. 10.

Judge Devitt ordered attorneys for the defendants to file motions by Nov. 22 and ordered all defendants back in court for arguments on the motions Nov. 24.

All 15 who pleaded today were free on $5,000 bond.

The 17 men were charged by the federal grand jury with eight counts of mail fraud, two counts of wire fraud and one count of conspiracy to defraud in what the government called a plan to drain $4 million from an insurance syndicate.

U.S. Attorney Miles Lord said the government would seek to begin trial of the case by Jan. 20.

But, despite the Pentagon's air of confidence, it was obvious questions about the impact of this or possible future similar occurrences gnawed at the high levels of government.

President Johnson, in ordering a broadscale investigation of the power disaster, directed that the investigators consult with McNamara, among others in the government.

American Losses High in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American casualties in the first week of November were the highest so far in the Viet Nam war — 70 killed and 237 wounded, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Most of the Americans were killed in actions around the Special Forces camp at Plei Me, in the central highlands. The week before there were 42 American dead.

The figures released today did not include the major battle Monday in the D Zone north of Saigon between U.S. paratroopers and Communist troops.

The casualties brought the total number of Americans killed in action in Viet Nam to 933, according to unofficial tabulation. A total of 4,801 have been wounded and 92 are missing.

Twenty Americans are known to be detained by the Viet Cong. Vietnamese killed during the first week of November totaled 144, twice as many as the Americans killed. Two months ago one American was dying to every four Vietnamese.

Only Doctor at Enon, Ohio, Being Drafted

ENON, Ohio (AP) — This village is fighting to keep its only medical doctor from being drafted as an outgrowth of the war in Viet Nam.

Townpeople carried the battle to his draft board, only to find a second front had opened. The town's only dentist may be drafted, too.

Both Dr. Joel Vanderglas, 32, a general practitioner, and Dr. James T. McMillin, 26, a dentist, have taken preinduction physical examinations, but neither knows yet whether he passed.

Residents sent petitions to Dr.

Vanderglas' draft board in Uniontown, Pa., his hometown, telling of the need in Enon for a doctor. The petitions were mailed Oct. 29, the day Dr. McMillin got his order to report for examination.

The draft board has not responded to the petitions, which

Dr. Vanderglas did not circulate.

"I don't know how much the service needs him," said Joe Young, who works at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base like many of the 3,500 residents of Enon, "but he's the only medical doctor in this area."

Until Dr. Vanderglas came, residents went to doctors in Springfield or Fairborn, both about 10 miles away.

"That's not much good in case of an emergency," said Mayor Lawrence T. Davis.

"Nor does it provide for night or weekend calls.

"Dr. Vanderglas is real fine about coming out at night when you need him," said Mrs. Charles Wade.

Cold Drizzle Might Become Snow Flurries

A cold drizzle that contained what the weatherman predicted is a chance of turning into snow flurries tonight and Thursday hung over the Winona area today, keeping temperatures only slightly above the freezing mark.

Variable cloudiness with the chance of a few snow flurries tonight and Thursday is the official forecast. Continued, rather cold Thursday and colder tonight was predicted. A low of 18-25 was forecast for tonight and a high of 38 for Thursday.

A few snow flurries and colder is the outlook for Friday. The Winona temperature was up to 43 Tuesday afternoon but dropped to 34 overnight and was only 36 at noon.

The precipitation by noon totaled .02 of an inch.

Light rain was general over Minnesota today with snow in the northern counties. International Falls posted a low of 11.

Moderate snow was reported at Rhinelander, WISCONSIN, with snow flurries at Wausau.

The highest temperature reported in the state Tuesday was 43 degrees at Lone Rock. The lowest temperature reported in the state Tuesday night was 24, also at Lone Rock.

Outside of the snow, no precipitation was reported during the past 24 hours period ending at 6 a.m.

THE nation's high reading Tuesday was 88 at Gila Bend, Arizona and the low this morning was 5 at Roseau, Minn.

Fillmore Board OKs Mental Health Center

PRESTON, Minn. (Special)—The Fillmore County Board of Commissioners Tuesday passed a resolution joining Olmsted County in establishing the Zumbro Valley Mental Health Center, Inc., and voted to support the school psychologist program that will be administered by the new two-county health center.

It also voted support of the Alcohol Information Center, Rochester.

Zumbro Valley is the new name for the health center adopted since Fillmore County commissioners indicated they would join Olmsted County in the program.

An administering board will be elected. The agreement for establishing the service includes terms of participation, procedure for withdrawal, and basis for dissolution of the agreement.

The new group will apply for a grant-in-aid from the state under the provisions of the community health service act, laws of 1957. The resolution was signed by Jean L. Olson, chairman of the commissioners.

The board approved $600,000 collateral from Farmers & Merchants Bank, Preston.

Ralph Gross was authorized to attend an institute for county highway engineers at the University of Minnesota Dec. 6-9.

Reuben Elton, Harmony, was reappointed weed and seed inspector at $12 per day for 1966 and authorized to attend a weed short course and two-day conference.

Lake City Burglars Get Merchandise, Cash at Drug Store

LAKE CITY, Minn. — The theft of $150 to $200 in cash and merchandise from the Wheeler drugstore at Lake City sometime Sunday night is being investigated.

The burglars were reported to have taken three or four watches, cigarette lighters, a radio, projector and some change. Entrance was gained by prying open the front door. An attempt to gain entrance to the adjacent appliance store was unsuccessful.

Arguments Presented For New Jones Trial

The first half of a new hearing to determine whether Erwin Jones will get a new trial on charges of burglary and aggravated assault was held in Olmsted County District Court.

Judge Donald T. Franke heard arguments by Attorney Ray G. Moonan, Minneapolis, on Jones' behalf charging that County Attorney S. O. Sawyer had made prejudicial statements and gotten improper evidence into the record during the trial last August.

THE JUDGE set Nov. 26 as the date for Sawyer to submit his own verbal arguments and for Moonan to offer any rebuttal he may have.

In the meantime, Sawyer will submit a written reply brief to Moonan's brief supporting his motion for new trial.

Judge Franke has indicated that he will not sentence Jones until after he has ruled on the motion for a new trial.

Jones has already indicated that he will appeal his convictions, if necessary, to the state Supreme Court. Judge Franke has not indicated whether he would sentence Jones while an appeal is pending.

Moonan argued Friday that Jones, a Mankato man, had been convicted on the basis of evidence which prejudiced the jury. As a result, the jury gave a verdict contrary to the evidence and the law, Moonan alleged.

SPECIFICALLY, Moonan charged that the introduction into evidence of an address book with Jones' name in it was improper and prejudicial. The notebook was hearsay and immaterial and should not have been allowed before the jury, he said.

Jones was denied his right to confront a chief prosecution witness because the witness refused to say whether or not Jones was his accomplice in the Jan. 7 burglary of Winona Senior High School, it is alleged.

Sawyer's references to the refusal of this witness to confirm or deny Jones' part in the burglary were improper and prejudicial also, Moonan argued.

The brief argues that Sawyer improperly cited Patrolman Sylvester J. Rotering — shot in the burglary by a man who escaped — as a "professional" and a trained observer.

Rotering's testimony did not agree with his testimony given at a municipal court hearing last winter, Moonan alleged; thus, he said, it was unreliable.

MOONAN cited Rotering's testimony that Jones wore a "cap" when the patrolman testified in municipal court and that he was wearing a "hat" when Rotering testified about the same event in District Court.

The Minneapolis attorney alleged misconduct on Sawyer's part in asking Jones' alibi witness questions about Jones' character, in insinuating by questions to a state crime bureau witness that Jones had a previous record and in asking Jones' character witnesses whether they had been asked to "vouch" for Jones previously.

Moonan's arguments, contained in a 65-page brief, represent an expansion of charges of misconduct and error made in September by Jones' attorneys when they unsuccessfully moved for a new trial on the basis of the judge's written notes.

The new motion is based on the typed trial transcript.

Randall's Moving Into Hardware Store Temporarily

"When we first thought of it, it sounded like the silliest idea that had come up," James Hogue, Randall's Super Valu manager, said today.

"But we think it's going to work out," he added. "Of course, everybody's going to have to work hard."

HOGUE referred to the plan, announced today, to temporarily reopen the Randall's store, destroyed by fire Oct. 31, in Ken's Hardware store in Westgate Shopping Center. Randall's will open Nov. 18 at the temporary location.

Kenneth Wurch will move his hardware store into a temporary pole structure being built in the Westgate parking lot, Hogue said.

The idea occurred to Hogue Friday, he said, after a week of examining vacant buildings available in Winona — and finding that each building had some major flaw for use as a supermarket.

He and other Westgate merchants wanted the temporary Randall's store to open in or near Westgate in any event, Hogue said; but the idea of moving into the hardware store, when it came up, still seemed a little far out.

The temporary setup will continue until the fire-damaged store building is rebuilt, early next year.

CONSTRUCTION was begun Monday by the Howard Keller contracting company on a new 22,000-square-foot building for Randall's. The new building will incorporate many innovations, Hogue said. The building shell now standing will be torn down and the new structure erected on the same base.

The floor is still usable for the new structure which will be the same size as the burned-out store building.

Additional man power and equipment will be furnished by the Super Valu chain at the temporary location.

Minnesota motor vehicle owners — some 2 million of them — are receiving 1966 renewal application cards this week.

Most of them should receive them by Monday from Secretary of State Joseph L. Donovan.

Monday will be the first day to apply for the 1966 registration, according to Morris Bergsrud, deputy registrar in Winona. Under the law, the new plates or sticker tabs cannot be issued until on or after Nov. 15.

FOR 1966 a small sticker — rather than a metal tab — will be issued to validate 1965 passenger car plates for use in 1966. New plates will be issued for all other classes, such as trucks, buses and trailers. Those for passenger cars will be attached to the upper right corner of each plate, front and rear. The sticker is blue with white letters and numbers and is reflectorized as required by law.

Since this is a complete departure from previous years when metal tabs were used, owners must carefully observe the simple directions for attachment given in the envelope and sticker, said Bergsrud. The large plate must be clean and dry when attaching the sticker.

Once properly applied and allowed to "set" for a few minutes, it is nearly impossible to remove without destroying it.

Procedures for renewal are essentially the same as for 1965. Instructions are included with each application. Because of need to have a "cutoff" date for mailing purposes, some owners may receive application cards for vehicles recently sold or transferred. Such applications should be returned to the deputy registrar's office for cancellation.

Application cards for vehicles recently purchased may not be received until after Nov. 15. If an application is not received by the time registration is desired, new stickers or plates can be obtained from the deputy registrar by presenting the 1965 registration card.

"OWNERS should bring their 1965 registration as well as the 1966 application card," Bergsrud said. "While it is not absolutely necessary to have both cards, it is desirable since the registration cards will be validated and handed back as a receipt."

Bergsrud's office will be open at 8 a.m. Monday.

Big Street Job Wins Approval At St. Charles

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — The St. Charles City Council voted Tuesday night to proceed with the estimated $450,000 curb, gutter and street improvement project it has been considering for some time.

The north boundary will be 4th Street, two blocks north of Highway 14. The south boundary will be the street south of Home Produce. Between east and west it will include all streets on which there are residences, including additions that haven't previously put in curbing.

The project, on which council expects to let bids late in February, also will include repair of streets that have been improved temporarily.

Curb and gutter improvements will be assessed to abutting property owners.

Gerald Wegman, utilities superintendent, was placed in charge of the improved and enlarged sewage disposal plant, which went into operation today.

The council is considering purchasing tank equipment for the disposal plant. Currently the sewage is spread to dry and then sold for fertilizer. Liquid sewage disposal would take less time.

Preston Incumbents File for Re-election

PRESTON, Minn. (Special)—All incumbents filed for re-election to Preston village office by the deadline Tuesday. None has opposition on the ballot for the Dec. 7 election.

Filing were: Lyle Miller, mayor; Keith Gartner, trustee; and Mrs. Hazel Ostern and Robert Sethre, justice of the peace.

GALE-ETTRICK ROLLS. GALESVILLE, Wis. (Special) — Lois Lebakken, junior at Gale-Etrick High School, received an A rating for the first quarter of school. Members of the Girls Athletic Association will bowl at Gale Lanes Monday and Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Census Enumerators Just About Through

Enumerators are now virtually finished with the job of taking a special census of the city, according to E. J. Steinfeld, federal census supervisor.

Steinfeld said today that it appears Winona will barely show the desired 5 percent increase.

This is the gain the city must certify in order to qualify for increased apportionments of state cigarette and liquor tax receipts.

A PRELIMINARY figure probably will be given to city officials by Monday, Steinfeld said.

In the 1960 census the city population was listed officially at 24,895. City officials hope to show a gain of 1,250 or more which would provide the minimum required rise and incidentally put the city officially into the 25,000-50,000 class.

Cost of the census to the city will be $5,310, it is estimated. If the city shows less than a 5 percent gain, its state tax allotments will remain the same until 1970 when a regular federal census again will be taken.

Steinfeld said a number of means are used to make sure the maximum number of people are counted. Crew leaders and enumerators use a system of call-backs and cross-checks to help list persons they are unable to interview directly. The house-to-house canvass of the city began last Thursday evening and is expected to be finished today.

PERSONS who have not been interviewed by census workers are urged to notify the bureau office in City Hall, Steinfeld said. The Daily News is publishing a form for use by persons who may have been missed by enumerators. This blank may be filled out and mailed to the office.

Now working on the census are 36 enumerators, three crew leaders and an office secretary, in addition to Steinfeld, who is attached to the census bureau's St. Paul office. The enumerators are paid 7 cents for each individual they list.

Firemen Re-elect At Rollingstone

ROLLINGSTONE, Minn. (Special) — All officers were re-elected at the annual meeting of the Rollingstone volunteer fire department at the village hall Tuesday night.

They are: Harold Sloos, chief; Eugene Hengel, assistant chief; Wilfred Rivers, secretary-treasurer; and Eugene Blace, caretaker.

A dinner followed, with Cleo Keiper, assistant chief of the Winona fire department, and his wife as guests.

Cotter Shortens Day 15 Minutes

Details of a new class schedule to be inaugurated at Cotter High School beginning next Monday were reviewed by the Rev. Paul Nelson, Cotter principal, for parents who attended Monday's program of the Cotter Home-School Association at the high school.

The noon hour for Cotter students will be shortened by 15 minutes, running from 12 to 12:30 p.m. Father Nelson explained. Classes will be dismissed 15 minutes earlier in the afternoon, at 3:06 p.m.

The new plan allows students who live within three blocks of the school to go home for lunch. Other students will remain in the school during the lunch period at which they may participate in the school lunch program or bring their own lunches.

Father Nelson said that the new schedule will be more advantageous for students riding school buses it will permit them to make better connections.

It was announced that first quarter reports will be given to students next Wednesday.

Parents were asked to check the type of movies and television programs their children are viewing and books and periodicals they're reading.

The evening's program included attendance of parents at abbreviated sessions of classes their children attend during the day. About 200 attended the program.

Connie Last of Ziegfeld Girls

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Sometimes I'm like just a starry-eyed shmoo from Kokomo, still awe-struck by the razzle dazzle.

Beautiful Connie Towers apprised me over too much brunch at La Potiniere that she's the last of the Ziegfeld Girls. She's rehearsing now for "Any," the musical about Anastasia, but when the last curtain falls, Billy Rose supposedly will sell this famous cathedral of show business at 54th St. & 6th Ave. to skyscraper-builders who will thereby double his riches. When Connie rehearses now under the directing of "Mr. Abbott" (whom nobody ever calls George) she's constantly conscious of that little window four or five stories aloft where Billy Rose, from his office, can always look down at the show. "Even in an empty theater," she says, "you're always conscious of an audience."

Billy's around there now watching rehearsals and Connie says, "Gee, he's a nice man!" My, My, My, the terrible gossip . . . about a B'way star whose dear friends say he's tired of his show and is trying to kill it by fluffing it now . . . about the three or four stars who won't get well . . . about the famous wife who moved out and the young girl friend who moved in . . . about the famous happily-married Hollywood Top Drawer Married Star & Celebrity who just gave up his mistress — he turned her in for a new one.

GIVE CREDIT to Alex Cohen, producer of the upcoming "The Devils." He got rid of the "balcony" in the Broadway Theater. He calls it the "rear mezzanine." It sounds closer. The Tom Ewell show, "Xmas in Las Vegas," by Jack Richardson, should be remembered for its curtain line . . . almost equal to "That s.o.b. stole my watch!" in "Front Page" may be 38 years ago. Tom Ewell, the defeated Las Vegas gambler, who's about to go back home to Boston, is toying with a revolver, ready to kill himself. His wife (Shannon Bolin) calmly says, "Edward, won't going back to Boston accomplish the same thing?"

I told this curtain line to Bill Sullivan, president of the Boston Patriots, in 21 late the other night. "The one other thing he could do instead of killing himself," said the president of the cellar team. "would be to play with the Boston Patriots."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "The only time television brought romance into my life," claims Bernie Allen, "was when my wife ran away with the repairman."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Too many girls feel that when they marry a meal ticket—they can stop dieting.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "All human wisdom is summed up in two words — wait and hope." — Alexander Dumas.

EARL'S PEARLS: Statistics show 60 percent of the country's wealth is in the hands of women; we figure they're letting men hold the other 40 percent because their handbags are full.

Rocky Graziano was asked at a discotheque to try the wild, swinging Watusi. "If I could move my legs like that," said Rocky, "I'd still be middle-weight champ." That's earl, brother.

Can Contractor Quit Job and Still Be Paid?

Can a contractor refuse to complete a job and still demand payment for the work he has done?

Judge Arnold Hatfield took this question under advisement Tuesday in District Court after hearing arguments on a motion to either overturn a jury's verdict or grant a new trial.

ATTORNEY C. Stanley McMahon, arguing that a jury's award of $1,000 to his client should stand, told Judge Hatfield that John C. Breza, 855 W. 5th St., had ample reason not to finish the job.

Since he had substantially performed the work of building a garage for Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Thaldorf, Winona Rt. 1, McMahon argued, Breza should be paid according to contract, less a fair amount for what he hadn't finished.

The Thaldorf's attorney, William A. Lindquist, argued that under the law a contractor who "willfully abandons" his contract is not entitled to payment under terms of the contract.

Moreover, the Thaldorf's agreed to pay Breza only on completion of the garage, Lindquist alleged. No provision was made in the contract for advance payments or installment payments, according to Lindquist.

THE CASE was tried Oct. 18 through 20 before a District Court jury. The jurors decided that the Thaldorf's should pay Breza $1,000 for the work he had done in building their garage in the fall of 1963.

Breza brought suit against the Thaldorf's alleging that they had contracted with him for a garage to be built for $1,350. When Breza found that he would not finish putting on a permanent roof before the winter of 1963-64, Thaldorf agreed to pay $1,280 immediately for the work already done, Breza alleged.

Thaldorf paid only $100 of that amount, both sides admitted.

IN ARGUING for a judgment by Judge Hatfield favoring the Thaldorf's, Lindquist alleged that the jury's verdict was contrary to the law governing such a case.

In moving for a new trial as an alternative, Lindquist alleged errors in Judge Hatfield's instructions to the jury and in three decisions of the judge on allowing evidence before the jury concerning Breza's expenses on the garage job.

Lindquist told Judge Hatfield and McMahon that he would, for the sake of his argument, accept Breza's version of the affair.

First, he said, Breza testified that he contracted with the Thaldorf's in late September, 1963 to build a garage with a wooden roof for $1,350.

HE AGREED that no payment would be made in advance of completion, which was expected that fall, Lindquist recapitulated. And the court rightly mentioned this in its instructions to the jury, he added.

Then, Lindquist said, Breza testified that he found he would be unable to finish the garage before cold weather began. The Thaldorf's agreed to a temporary roof on the garage until the following spring.

On Dec. 16, 1963, Breza presented his bill for $1,350 for work completed, less $70—the estimated cost of putting on a permanent roof the following spring. The Thaldorf's agreed to pay this within a week, according to Breza's testimony.

(Lindquist noted that the Thaldorf's dispute this alleged agreement but will allow its reality for the sake of argument.)

THALDORF paid only $100 of the $1,280, Lindquist said. And this was the occasion for Breza's decision not to come back the following spring and finish the job, Lindquist said.

Breza filed a mechanic's lien in January, 1964, but the brought suit instead of continuing foreclosure proceedings, according to Lindquist's recapitulation of Breza's testimony.

Thus, the suit tried last month was brought on the basis of Thaldorf's promise to pay $1,280 for the work Breza had completed, according to Lindquist.

Lindquist cited the law on the enforceability of a promise which modifies a contract: The promise is not binding unless the promiser gets something in return for an alteration of the contract.

In other words, Lindquist said, Thaldorf is not bound by a promise to pay early for something which Breza had already contracted to do for payment only on completion — unless Thaldorf receives an additional benefit in return.

McMahon objected that the Thaldorf's appear to want something for nothing. They want the court to uphold their refusal to pay anything until, in the words of one of their own witnesses, the one man-day of work needed for completion is performed.

McMahon told Judge Hatfield. This is obviously unjust, McMahon said.

It is all the more so in view of the jury's correct decision that Breza had substantially performed the contracted work, McMahon added.

Furthermore, he said, the Thaldorf's verbally modified their contract with Breza when they agreed to pay the $1,280 to him. Thus, it is they who are in breach of contract, McMahon argued.

JUDGE Hatfield, noting the law cited by Lindquist, asked McMahon what benefit the Thaldorf's had received in return for agreeing to pay Breza before completion.

McMahon answered that they got the use of the $70 (for the permanent roof) until spring. Lindquist commented, "That's digging pretty deep" (for a benefit).

Lindquist accused McMahon of misstating the testimony of the Thaldorf's expert witness on how much work is needed to complete the garage.

Edwin O. Eckert, 213 E. Washburn St., an architect who examined the Thaldorf's garage, had testified that it would take one man one day to seal up a crack between the house and attached garage which Breza had left open to the weather, Lindquist said.

This one man-day estimate did not apply to how long it would take to put a permanent roof on, Lindquist said.

In that regard, Eckert's testimony that the garage needed $1,200 to $1,400 of work to bring it to completion strongly contradicts Breza's estimate that only $70 worth of work remained to be done, Lindquist pointed out.

LINDQUIST speculated that Breza abandoned the job because he saw that he had underbid it. His costs for materials alone even without a permanent roof amounted to almost $1,000, Lindquist pointed out.

And the Thaldorf's lawyer noted that the jury's award seemed to be intended to compensate Breza for the materials. But Breza is not entitled even to this much compensation since he willfully abandoned the job before completion, Lindquist reiterated.

McMahon's arguments do not show that the job was completed, Lindquist said; and they try to hold the Thaldorf's to a promise (to pay early) which is not legally enforceable, he concluded.

Three Goodview Incumbents File

Filings for positions on the Goodview village council closed Tuesday with three of the four incumbents filing for re-election.

They include Rex Johnson, mayor; Gerald Feils, trustee; and Charles Smith, trustee. The mayor's term is for two years and the trustees, three years each.

Lewis Albert, incumbent justice of the peace, did not file, according to Clarence Russell, village clerk.

The election will be held Dec. 7. Residents will vote in the fire hall.

To Improve Earning Power

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of Guest Editorials written by Winona civic, educational and religious leaders in connection with the observance of National Education Week, Nov. 7-13.)

By Warren Macemon
Assistant Director Winona
Vocational-Technical School

ON THE ONE HAND we observe the all too human tendency to view with alarm any change in the status quo. On the other hand we all share a feeling of excitement and the anticipation of advance, new horizons, and the challenge of opportunity. On either hand we are confronted by a phenomenon which has created a situation of extreme significance to high school, vocational-technical and college education—indeed to the entire spectrum of public education. I refer to the almost incredible rate at which changes are taking place in our world. This acceleration in the rate of change is frequently referred to as the technological explosion.

Quite frequently, the decision to terminate one's schooling is based on the hard economic facts of costs in terms of tuition and foregone earnings weighed against immediate employment and immediate cash in hand. This may determine the dropout's choice at any level of elementary or secondary school as well as the high school graduate's choice not to enter or complete higher education. Unfortunately, the economic thinking in such cases is not very sound. The actual hard economic fact is that the decision to leave school will turn out to be the most expensive one a student will ever make.

FOR EXAMPLE: The annual mean income for males 25 and over with —

Elementary or less
education in 1961 was	$3,544
Four years of high school
education in 1961 was	6,946
One to three years of college
education in 1961 was	7,348
Four or more years of college
education in 1961 was	9,817

Source: U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census.

Now if we compare the above figures to the estimated lifetime income for males, by the years of school completed we have the following:

Income, Age 18 to Death
Elementary or less
education in 1961 was	$176,008
Four years of high school
education in 1961 was	272,629
One to three years of higher
education in 1961 was	333,581
Four or more years of higher
education in 1961 was	452,518

Source: U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census.

Just as education improves the individual's earning power, the converse also is true: Lack of education leads to poverty. It seems clear not only that education improves earning power but that it is necessary for any earning power at all. Unless they are educated with the ability to switch to newly created jobs, fewer and fewer people will be able to find jobs in our increasingly technological economy which requires a versatile, flexible, and fluid labor force.

TO DO THIS JOB of educating our youth in this time of technological explosion, we cannot delay in our building of an Area Technical School. We have three large colleges in the Winona area and statistics prove eight out of ten youngsters starting school today do not finish college. This means the need for vocational trade and technical training is enormous, we as a community cannot delay in improving the educational facilities to improve the earning power of our young adults.

Veterans Day Has Special Significance

VETERANS DAY 1965 may be celebrated Thursday with special significance. Historically, the day has been set aside by Congress as one on which to pay tribute to veterans of all United States wars — who fought first to establish our liberty and freedoms, to preserve individual dignity, and to launch a new nation on an unprecedented history.

In later years, our veterans engaged in skirmishes not uncommon to a youthful nation, to maintain that we were not without intent to keep what had been established. As maturity developed, and the world shrank in perspective size, veterans were produced as a result of terrible wars brought on by greed and lust for power that threatened attack on our shores against the principles upon which the nation was born. Patriotism has flamed high and volunteers leaped to the occasions.

One speculates that this Veterans Day may be a day on which the nearly 22 million veterans, living proof that Americans instinctively rise to greatness when greatness is demanded, will in silent might, lift the flag and in solemn and dramatic manifestation drown the shrill voices of a few anti-draft and peace demonstrators. May they illustrate that this is indeed, "one nation, under God, indivisible."

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.—Romans 12:1.

Power Failure A Good Lesson

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Maybe the electric power blackout in the Northeast Tuesday night was a good thing for the nation as a whole. It may compel new thinking on distributing electricity in case more critical times come.

But it was gruesome for a while, wondering what had happened. There probably wasn't a person who didn't wonder: Was it just an accident? Or was it sabotage by enemies, saboteurs, or misguided citizens?

Yet, it wasn't as gruesome as wondering what would happen under present arrangements for distributing electric power, if the real thing, a nuclear attack, had struck the whole United States.

JOSEPH C. Swidler, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, said the facts that have come in so far "aren't really adequate for an appraisal of causes, much less cures. 'It's apparent that we'll need a great deal of study and industry thinking — and perhaps some fairly important technological renovations.'"

He left unclear what he meant but it now seems incredible, thanks to what happened Tuesday night, that a nation which some day could suffer a nuclear attack would have a power system, or systems, so centralized that one disruption could throw a whole group of states into darkness.

SWIDLER SAID "we can't tolerate a systemwide interruption under the highly developed power conditions we have today." So perhaps the result will be a much more decentralized power system.

Because there was no fear of worse to come — like a nuclear attack — there was no panic. But there would be panic if such an attack came and, with the central power plants destroyed, the whole nation was left in darkness.

In that situation, remembering the fantastic traffic jams in New York City alone Tuesday night, that a nation which some day could suffer a nuclear attack would have a power system, or systems, so centralized that one disruption could throw a whole group of states into darkness.

IN CASE OF ATTACK, and even with a broad power failure, the United States would probably be able to retaliate with its own nuclear weapons from American bases which, the Pentagon says, have auxiliary power of their own.

The Defense Department said military communications in the blacked out area Tuesday night were not interrupted and that all defense communications centers have their own auxiliary power.

But if an attack came, and the rest of the nation was blacked out as the Northeast was Tuesday night, it seems pretty plain the civilian population, if not the defense structure, would be in chaos.

Thus it is to the interest of the nation to act now to prevent a repetition of Tuesday night.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Some Mississippi Editors Refuse to Bow to Klan

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Alongside the cowardly story of terror by night now being unfolded before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington, there is a gallant story of courage both by day and night in Mississippi.

There, several courageous editors have braved the insults, the bombings, and the boycott of the Ku Klux Klan, and their communities have benefited.

The courage of Hodding Carter of the Delta Democrat-Times in Greenville is already well known to the nation and this column has already reported the courage of Editor Oliver Emerich of the McComb, Miss., Enterprise-Journal, whose office window still bears the mark of a bullet hole, and who was beaten by a Klan minion.

Editor Emerich was not intimidated. He continued to wage a campaign against the Klan, and gradually this has paid off. Early this year 650 McComb citizens signed a petition urging racial understanding in a city where there had been 20 bombings in 1964. There have been no bombings since.

IN Laurel, Miss., another courageous publisher, J. W. West of the Leader-Call, has been subjected to a campaign of poison pen letters, anonymous phone calls, attempts to cancel advertising, and one bombing. Mimeographed sheets denouncing him have littered the streets in front of his office. But the newspaper has continued its crusade against the Klan.

Laurel is the headquarters of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, some of whose members were indicted in connection with the murder of the three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss. In Laurel and Jones County the Klan is well organized, well armed and considered dangerous.

However, the campaign inspired by the Leader-Call has paid off. Last month Mayor Henry Bucklew, Captain Jerry Landrum of the Laurel police department, and other law enforcement officers signed a pledge to bring "acts of violence to a halt." They cited 35 acts against life and property in Jones County since last May.

A few days later, Mayor Bucklew gave a TV interview over station WDAM, which had been pressured by the Klan to drop the Huntley-Brinkley program. In an emotion-packed interview, the mayor said: "This is my state and this is your state! I'm ashamed . . . aren't you?"

"I must honestly confess that I waited many months in hopes that someone else might use his voice to sound the alarm. But now in my humble way . . . I'll speak out while there is still time."

The mayor offered $1,000 cash reward for the arrest and conviction of any person for burning a church, a house, or business or shooting into a residence. The offer was immediately increased by a woman who pledged an additional $100. A flood of laudatory phone calls followed. The Leader-Call and the mayor had broken the reign of terror of the Klan.

IN Natchez, the historic city perched on the bluff overlooking the Mississippi River, where steamboat captains tied up for years, the Klan is getting stronger. Its grand dragon, E. L. McDaniel, has repeatedly tried to get my column canceled in the Natchez Democrat, but the Democrat has refused.

In Natchez, Mayor John Nosser, a Lebanese who owns four supermarkets, has urged racial understanding. But of late, the Klan has become so powerful that two of the mayor's sons have joined the Klan, and the mayor himself has addressed two Klan rallies.

Natchez is now the scene of an intensive Negro voter registration drive, and the Klan is out to block it by intimidation, threats of job loss, and by sitting in front of the courthouse when Negroes come to register.

Chief victim of the Klan in Natchez has been the weekly newspaper, "The Miss-Lou Observer," operated by Forrest A. Johnson, a lawyer, and Wilhelm Winkler, a retired Army officer.

During the last election Winkler was for Goldwater, Johnson for LBJ. But when the Klan's power began to increase in Natchez, they attacked its tactics and became the object of a Klan boycott.

Advertising revenue dropped to about $10 a week. Latest advertiser to cancel was the Borden Milk Co., the same northern firm which refused to sell milk to the family of Rev. Robert Beach of the Federal Council of Churches in Hattiesburg.

In the last issue of the Miss-Lou Observer, Winkler addressed this open letter to Rep. Edwin E. Willis, chair-

Diabetics Must Stick to Diets

By J. G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: With all due respect to your honorable profession, I am utterly confused. I am supposed to have a mild case of diabetes. Right now I am taking one Orinase tablet a day and my family doctor tells me I might well get along on that for the rest of my life.

My doctor at the factory says it is inevitable that in later years I will have to take insulin. I am 43 now.

My family doctor also says that a cookie or two a day can't hurt me. My factory doctor disagrees, emphatically. Sir, what is your opinion? — A.V.

With all due respect to my honorable profession, there is no way in the world to make everybody agree, but what I am going to tell you now will be approved by ninety-some percent of all doctors. Or so I hope. And any such percentage in politics would be the landslide of the century.

Here's my advice to you and to anyone else with diabetes:

If you have a mild case, nobody can predict with any accuracy whether you may, later in life, need insulin instead of pills. It will depend on how well you stick to your diet, how long you live, how rapidly your case tends to develop. Lots of people, by being careful, have diabetes and manage to get along on pills.

HOWEVER, and this is a big "however," many people think they can eat their cake and have it, too. They think they can get along forever on pills, but they don't stick to their diet. These are the people who get into trouble and do have to switch to insulin.

Now here's my guess. Your family doctor is trying to keep you happy, so he says it is possible to get along with pills. That's what you want to hear. And that's probably correct. If you watch your diet!

But you also want to eat your cookies, too. And I'd bet 24 bottles of insulin against one cookie right now that you have been a rather hearty eater all your life, you like your vittles and sweet stuff, and have been wheedling your family doctor with arguments like, "A cookie once in a while won't hurt me, will it?" And he says no, just to keep you happy.

The factory doctor refuses to mince words with you, and says, "If you won't cut out the sweet stuff, you're going to wind up needing insulin."

I've watched plenty of people try to kid their doctors by saying, "Just one little cookie won't hurt me, will it?" Then they go home and eat half a pie. And pretty soon they need insulin.

Stick to your diet and forget about the cookies.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can dark eyes be changed to show a lighter color? — S.B.

No. There can be a slight amount of fading as we grow older, but there's really nothing we can do to change the color.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have pernicious anemia and must take B12 shots. I am giving myself the shots at home now but am not sure I always get the needle into the muscle.

Also will you explain the use of radioisotope for treatment of pernicious anemia? — P.C.H.

I doubt that you need any special advice on getting the shots into the muscle. Your doctor naturally specified a needle of suitable length.

Just insert it straight through the skin and you can't help hitting muscle tissue.

The isotope is for diagnosis, not treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 23 and my husband and I are expecting our first baby in a few weeks. I understand there is a test that can be given to infants at birth for mental retardation. Although there is no history of mental illness in either of our families, I can't help feeling concerned for my baby's mental as well as physical health. What risk is there in this test for retardation? — MRS. R. F.

I think you are confused over the test for PKU (phenylketonuria), which is one of the few causes of mental retardation which can be determined in early infancy. If PKU is found, a special diet is started at once.

There isn't any test that can be given at birth which will diagnose retardation in general—although there are some types of retardation which are so distinctive that they can be recognized very early.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the causes (other than menopause) of sudden feeling of intense heat, so I perspire all over my body for brief periods several times a day? And frequently on rising in the morning? Can medication relieve this? I am 43. — MRS. R. G.

This description has all the classic signs of "hot flashes," which can be alleviated or prevented by medication. Offhand, I think of no other cause that fits this pattern. (Night sweats are another matter, and often are caused by some undiscovered infection.)

NOTE TO F.K.: Lots of wee toddlers appear to be knock-kneed or bow-legged, but the bones of healthy children then straighten out and harden.

Senior Citizens Hear Talk on Church Liturgy

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Harold Dittman spoke on the changes in the liturgy of the church at the Tuesday meeting of Senior Citizens of the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart.

The liturgy, said Msgr. Dittman, is the heart of the church's life, with members worshipping together as a community. The central part of the liturgy, he said, is the sacrifice of the Mass. He cited three recent changes in the liturgy: (1) greater emphasis on the Scriptures; (2) more participation in worship and prayer; and (3) the use of English in the prayers.

A guest at the meeting was Mrs. Agnes Lelivetz of Regina, Canada, a sister of Mrs. Mary Klein.

Mrs. Jack Leaf, chairman of the social committee, had charge of the business meeting. Mrs. Charles Fischer presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. John Heer and Mrs. Richard Verkery.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Siebenaler

Kenneth Siebenaler, Miss Schurhammer Wed at St. Paul's

MINNESOTA CITY, Minn. — At home at 1650 W. Broadway are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Siebenaler following their Oct. 30 wedding at St. Paul's Catholic Church.

The Rev. George Moudry performed the ceremony. Mrs. Marvin O'Grady was organist and Mrs. Argen Treder, soloist. The latter is of Rochester.

THE BRIDE is the former Miss Patricia L. Schurhammer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Petroff, Minnesota City. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Siebenaler, Rollingstone, Minn.

Miss Shirley Petroff, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Al Swensied, Stockton, Minn., and Mrs. Frank Ratajczyk, Winona, bridesmaids. Eugene Siebenaler, Rollingstone, was best man and Al Swensied, Stockton, and Frank Ratajczyk, Winona, groomsmen. Ushers were Rocky Haddad, Winona, and Otto Getschmann, Wabasha. Art Petroff Jr. was ring bearer. Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of satin brocade with a round neckline, fitted bodice and a controlled skirt with an attached train. A crown headdress of crystals and seed pearls held her veil of silk illusion and she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses.

HER attendants wore floor-length sheath gowns of emerald-green crepe with empire waists. They wore matching crown headdresses of stephanotis and ivy and each carried one white and two red, long-stemmed roses.

The bride's mother wore a beige brocade dress and the groom's mother, a navy blue crepe dress. Both had corsages of red roses.

A dinner reception was held at the Rollingstone auditorium.

The bride is employed as a counselor at the Minnesota Department of Employment Security. Her husband is assistant service manager at the Owl Motor Co. He is a member of the National Guard.

Marines Cancel December Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marine Corps today canceled its December draft call as it was announced that volunteer enlistments in the armed forces have risen almost 60 per cent.

The corps said it would not need 5,024 draftees it had asked for December because its enlistments had shot upward.

The Navy, which previously canceled its draft call for 4,000 men in November, registered a 69 per cent increase in volunteers in August, September and October.

The Air Force, which has been able to do without the draft all along, reported a 66 per cent increase in volunteers. The Army volunteers increased only 28 per cent in the three-month period.

Man Killed Taking Gun From Auto

MAUSTON, Wis. (AP) — A 32-year-old rural Mauston man was killed Tuesday as his newly purchased deer rifle discharged as he was lifting it from his car.

The blast from the .35-gauge rifle struck the victim, Dale Remington, in the head.

Anyone wishing further information may call Mrs. Brenden Lee.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Over-Concentration Can Harm Student

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D. University of S. Calif.

Why does a pupil who makes A's on spelling tests misspell those same words in writing themes?

Why does a pupil who demonstrates his knowledge of grammar on an English test fail to follow these same rules in his own compositions?

Why does a pupil who knows his number combinations make so many careless errors in the solving of problems?

While these conditions generally are considered a lack of transfer of learning from one situation to another, this is not necessarily so. It is more a matter of crowding out the possibility of using the new learning in a different situation. The student's very concentration results in so-called careless errors. Consider for example the good speller who misspells even simple words in his written work.

WHEN THIS boy takes a spelling test, his attention is centered on spelling. When he is writing compositions, however, he is no longer primarily concerned with spelling, but his attention now centers on the ideas that he is conveying through written work. He may well be a hard-working lad, intent upon doing a good job on the task at hand.

If he were less careful in his thinking about the subject matter, he would probably make fewer errors in spelling and grammar. Formulating thoughts and placing them on paper is a complex operation for some young persons — and some adults, too.

Control of handwriting requires so much thought that the control of spelling and grammar are crowded even further into the background. If the pupil lacks skill in handwriting, it demands so much of his attention that the tendency toward careless errors is compounded.

I SUGGEST a three-pronged approach to the problem.

1. A pupil, after doing his written exercise in his usual fashion, should edit the work. If it is an arithmetic exercise, he should look for the simple errors. In rereading compositions with his attention centered on spelling, a pupil can locate and correct errors. When reading with only grammar in mind he can correct his own composition as easily as he can pass the grammar test.

2. The use of scratch paper notes on what he proposes to say in a composition may free his mind sufficiently to eliminate or at least minimize the number of errors.

3. The student who makes careless errors in composition usually lacks skill in handwriting. He should practice until he writes easily. On the surface, this would appear to call for a lot of hard work. Parents can, however, give their children reasonable assurance that if these practices are continued, their ability to write will improve so that soon their first copies will be satisfactory. The habit of carefully rechecking work as well as the student's attitude toward perfection in his endeavors are things that transfer automatically from one study to another.

Area Pianists Win Top Honors At Iowa College

Two area pianists won high honors in the 1955 Dorian Keyboard Festival Saturday at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa.

THEY ARE Nancy Edstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edstrom, 216 Lake Dr., and Penny Engrav, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Engrav, Rushford.

High school musicians from three states were judged by critics throughout the day. Penny was judged by guest critic, Dr. Charles Fisher, of the University of Michigan's School of Music. Mr. Fisher has had many concert appearances not only as a soloist but as a member of the outstanding duo-piano team, Bossart and Fisher. He is experienced in class piano techniques as well as individual instruction. Nancy was judged by a music professor at Luther College.

OF THE 210 participating musicians in the festival, Nancy and Penny were two of ten outstanding pianists chosen to perform at the evening Young Artists Concert. Nancy played Bach and Beethoven selections and Penny performed the Beethoven Sonata Pathetique Op. 13, first movement.

Mrs. L. H. Lidstrom, Rochester, is Nancy's teacher. Penny is a student of Richard McClell, professor of music at Winona State College.

Both girls are high school sophomores.

Arcadia Legion Auxiliary Will Give Scholarships

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Mrs. Clarence Misch, president of Tickler-Erickson Unit 17, American Legion Auxiliary, announced at the Monday meeting that application blanks are available for various scholarships.

Blanks must be completed by Feb. 1. Candidates are girls who meet the following qualifications: Are children of veterans who are members of the Legion; be graduates of accredited high schools; intend to go to an institution of higher learning, and are in actual need of help to continue their education. Scholarships are available for nursing, teaching mentally retarded persons and other subjects.

Bylaws for the coming year were approved. A donation was made to the Community Chest. Gifts and Christmas cards will be sent to veterans of the local post who are in the hospital.

Mrs. Harry Meistad received the special prize. Two Gold Star Mothers, Mrs. Anna Brownlee and Mrs. Jack Fernholz, and a new member, Mrs. Myron Scow, were present.

Durand Rosary Society Elects

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Mrs. Thomas Meis was elected president of St. Mary's Rosary-Altar Society Monday evening at St. Mary's Hall.

Others elected were: Mrs. Robert Blair, second vice president; Miss Lucille Brunner, treasurer, and Mrs. Darrel Weisenbeck, secretary. Mrs. Earl Smith is first vice president.

Robert Blair gave a talk on the civil defense program. He explained lessons being taught to juniors and seniors in schools throughout Wisconsin. Film strips are used to explain the program. The civil defense committee at St. Mary's plans to carry out this program.

Mrs. Bernard C. Carlisle, publicity chairman, gave a short review of the Durand deanery meeting at Menomonie, Wis., Oct. 14. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen Anderl spoke on the Society of Confraternity of Christian Doctrine's program, its committee and work, study club groups and the part a lay person plays in the church. A social hour followed with a turkey shoot and lunch.

CALEDONIA METHODISTS
CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special) — Dr. Edwin Shepherd, senior pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, La Crosse, Wis., will be guest speaker at special services tonight at Caledonia Methodist Church. The program, sponsored by the Methodist Men's Club, is open to the public.

Deer Prospects

The above map gives the area that is included in Zone 6 for deer hunting in Minnesota. It is bounded by highways and the river. It is the area south of Highway No. 19 starting at Red Wing, then west to the intersection with No. 58, south on No. 58-60-63 to the Iowa line. The Iowa line and the Mississippi River complete the south and east boundaries of the area.

No hunter, on the opening day, need worry too much about boundaries as all the state is open on Saturday. Zone 4 west of this area however has just a one-day season — Saturday, Zone 7 to the north has a five-day season, so a hunter need not worry about that line. Zone 6 will close first.

All closed areas of the Upper Mississippi River Wild Life and Fish Refuge will be closed to Minnesota deer hunters. The duck season runs to Nov. 17. The deer season is over, locally, the night of Nov. 15. Public hunting ground areas on the refuge will be open during the season. Bowhunting is legal during the open period in each zone.

Zone 6 is a shotgun area with single slug regulations. All other guns are outlawed in the area except .22 rifles for small game, such as squirrels. Zones 1, 2, 3 and 5, all in Northern Minnesota, are rifle zones. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset daily during the open season.

Madison Man Acquitted of Dodging Draft

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A factory worker who urged refusal to fight in Viet Nam was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday while another Wisconsin man was acquitted of draft dodging on religious grounds.

A grand jury in Milwaukee charged Irving A. Kurki, 21, Kenosha, with violation of the Selective Service Act. Kurki handed out notices to other prospective inductees at the Racine draft board Aug. 10 saying, "The rape of Viet Nam must be stopped."

In Madison, a Rhinelander logger, Marshall A. Olkowski, 24, was acquitted of violating the same law when he refused to submit to the draft for religious reasons.

U.S. District Judge James E. Doyle rejected Olkowski's argument that his membership in the Jehovah's Witnesses exempted him from the draft as a minister. But Doyle acquitted the logger on grounds that he was illegally denied an appeal hearing on his classification before the Oneida County draft board.

Hunters Don't Need Red Pants

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Conservation Department says some retail stores are misstating the law in connection with red or orange clothing required by deer hunters.

State law requires deer hunters to wear a coat and cap of blaze orange or bright red.

Chief Game Warden F. W. Johnson said some stores are advertising that the law also requires red or orange trousers. This, he said, is not true.

Minneapolis Man Killed in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army 2nd Lt. David L. Ugland, Minneapolis, was included in a list of servicemen killed in action in Viet Nam, as announced by the Defense Department Tuesday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O. Ugland.

within walking distance of Winona the last two days. Two were hit by cars in the Wilson area and one in Pleasant Valley. In nearby Wisconsin, car kill has been running about one a day. It is the rutting season and deer are still on the move.

This can be a gauge of the abundance of deer in the area but it also can give the wrong impression. When conditions are normal, deer biologists tell us, the white-tail deer, the one in this area, spends its normal life within a few square miles. So the dependable method is sighting. If a farmer has seen deer quite regularly in his area, nine chances out of ten the animals are still there.

Wabasha County registered the first deer hunting accident Sunday when Ronnie Dingfelder, Rochester, formerly of Winona, was hit in the side of the head by a slug that ricocheted while a group was sighting in their shotguns in the Zumbrota River bottomlands. He was reported recovering in a Rochester hospital. The slug did not lodge in the brain and has been removed.

Fishing Tackle Care
Here is a rather timely release on winterizing of fishing tackle that came to our desk today from a tackle company:

Anglers who are "through fishing" for the year are advised that now is the time to attend to the task of winterizing their tackle. This word comes from the fishing experts who warn that end-of-season neglect can be costly next spring.

The first step is to empty the tackle box of its contents, as neatly as possible. Clean the box with soap and water, and dry thoroughly.

Check lures for badly rusted or misshapen hooks. Regardless of when they are replaced, remove them from the plugs immediately. If spoons and spinners are furnished, a good application of metal polish will brighten them like new.

Fly fishermen should sort through fly boxes, weeding out mutilated flies, steaming old favorites into life again, and making a list of needed replacements. Fly lines, when cleaned, should be removed from the reel and either hung in loose coils or wrapped loosely around a folded newspaper.

Reels need an annual clean-up, and now's the best time to tackle that chore. Disassemble carefully, laying out parts in exactly the same order they are removed. Clean each item thoroughly. Inspect for signs of wear, and order any needed replacement parts. Re-oil to manufacturer's specs and reassemble.

Since most of today's rods are of fiberglass, it is only necessary to look for signs of frayed wrappings or line-cut guides and replace them. Winter lay-up demands a few short hours of effort, but it's a thrifty investment.

The teeth of rodents never stop growing, but they are kept worn down by gnawing.

DEAR ABBY:

Wrong Way to Answer Phone

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last evening, around suppertime, while I was in the kitchen helping Mother, the telephone rang. My father answered it and I heard him say, "Yes," then he hung up, bang, just like that! I asked him who it was for, and he said it was a boy asking if Carol was there. (I am Carol.) I was furious and asked my father why he didn't call me to the phone, and he said, "All the boy asked was, 'Is Carol there?' I answered his question. I said 'yes.' If he wanted to speak to you, he should have said, 'May I please speak to Carol?'"

Now Abby, do you think this was very nice of my father? And what should I do about it? I don't know which boy it was and I feel terrible.

CAROL

DEAR CAROL: I think your Pop was being peevish and petty. If it's habitual with him, clue your friends on how to ask for you. But I think it will pass. (Perhaps your father had bet against the Dodgers, honey.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have had a bit of an argument. He holds a public office, and when we give a wedding gift, he insists on having his name and official title engraved on the gift. In fact, he is so adamant about this that he will give only gifts of silver for the sole purpose of engraving his name on them. I contend it would be all right to engrave the recipients' names and, perhaps, the date of the wedding on the gift, but for him to stick HIS name and title on the gift is in very poor taste. Am I right?

OFFICIAL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If the recipients wish to boast that they received a gift from a person of importance, they can casually remark to guests, "That platter over there is from Lyndon and Lady Bird, or Hubert and Muriel." One who needs to be immortalized by a "monument" doesn't deserve one.

DEAR ABBY: Everyone should be allowed one good gripe, and here's mine: It's the stupid waitress who will approach one man at the table when there are several couples in the party, and say, "You want this all on one check, don't you?" Then she slaps down one check already made out with everything on it.

I'll bet my socks that a lot of people don't go out in couples any more because some dumb waitress always sticks them with the bill for the entire party. Thank you.

STUCK OFTEN

DEAR STUCK: Waitresses are not mind readers. They don't know whether it's a Dutch treat, or you're someone's Dutch Uncle. It's up to you to clue her in when you order. If she makes up one check and it was not your intention to be the host, TELL her you want separate checks! And if you haven't the nerve, you deserve to be stuck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M. I. IGNORANT?" IN TAMPA: An engraver (or a printer) will offer advice, and if it's rejected he'll follow instructions. But just because something is printed (or engraved) doesn't necessarily mean it's "proper." If one wants to send engraved invitations to a "formal unhitching ceremony" (signing the divorce papers and burning the marriage certificate), who's to stop him?

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

$40,000 Suit For Theater Pledge Begins

ST. PAUL (AP) — A $40,000 suit began in U.S. District Court here today against Mrs. Joseph Gales Ramsay III, the wealthy benefactress who has brought many foreign children to this country for treatment of heart conditions and other serious ailments.

The suit was brought by the Rochester, Minn., Civic Theater Association. That group claims Mrs. Ramsay failed to make good on her pledge which had been counted on in launching construction of a $250,000 civic theater building.

Mrs. Ramsay, a former opera singer, said when the suit was filed last January she felt the theater association had deliberately cultivated her friendship for the sole purpose of getting a pledge from her.

The wife of a financier, Mrs. Ramsay lived at Rochester while being treated at the Mayo Clinic there. She now lives in Minneapolis.

LBJ Proclaims Nov. 28 Day of Prayer for GIs

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has proclaimed Nov. 28 "as a day of dedication and prayer" to honor all those "who are risking their lives to bring about a just peace in South Viet Nam."

Johnson signed the proclamation Saturday but his action was not announced by the Texas White House until today.

The proclamation was suggested by Congress in resolutions passed at the end of the 1965 session.

THE FIRST BURNT PIG

From the time Ho Ti accidentally burnt his thatched house and his brood of pigs, roast pork has been a favorite food. In the eighteenth century Spanish mine owners in South America had a sure way to get the Indians to work for them. They tempted prospective workers with chocolate coated cold roast pork. This rich nutritious meat is highest of all meats in some of the B vitamins, as thiamine. This vitamin is necessary for maintenance of good appetite, normal digestion, and growth fertility. It is also a major requirement for normal functioning of nervous tissue. A beautiful entree to serve this fall is Crown Roast of Pork. Have the butcher remove the meat from the rib ends of the roast and tie it into a circle. Place in a roasting pan with the rib ends down. Add seasoning. For each 6-lb. to 6-lb. roast use:

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 bay leaves
- 4 whole cloves
- 1 medium onion, sliced

Add 1/2 cup boiling water and place in oven, 325°, for 3 1/2 hours. To serve place on platter with bone upward, placing a paper roll over each bone. Fill center with a whole head of cooked cauliflower. Garnish with crabapples.

Stock Market Slow to Open, Prices Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market, delayed in opening by a lack of electric power, was narrowly mixed early this afternoon.

Trading began at 11:05 a.m., 65 minutes after the normal time, because of Tuesday night's blackout.

Analysts believed that disruptions of normal business because of the power failure in the northeastern section of the country may be expected to limit transactions today on the part of many institutions and individuals.

Eastern Air Lines, which announced it is planning to sell 375,000 common shares to finance the acquisition of new planes, was delayed in opening because of an influx of orders. When it did open, it was off 4 1/4 at 79 3/4, later pairing the loss to 3 3/4.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .1 to 353.4 with industrials unchanged, rails up .4 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrials at noon were ahead .02 at 852.00. Bethlehem Steel lost about half a point and U.S. Steel was up a minor fraction.

Motors were mixed with General Motors gaining a point. Ford took a slight loss.

Aircrafts were mostly lower with Boeing and Douglas down about half a point.

Among the electronics, RCA and Zenith advanced about half a point.

The averages were helped to nudge into the plus column by gains of about a point by Westinghouse and General Electric.

The drugs were solidly ahead. Prices were mixed in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Fair Re-elects St. Charles Man

ST. CHARLES, Minn. — A St. Charles businessman was elected to his third term as president of the Winona County Fair Association here Tuesday night at the association's reorganization meeting.

He is Russell Rentfrow, operator of Home Produce here. Dr. K. W. Klaus, Lewiston, was re-elected vice president. Joe Karakas, St. Charles, was renamed secretary and Richard Schaber, St. Charles, treasurer.

Other board members are Ronald Schaber, Marriel Wiltse, Fremont Rainey, Murray Jensen and Pete Glover, St. Charles; Ellsworth Ihre, Utica; and Jerry Papenhuus and Harold O'Brien, Winona.

Lewiston Car Hits Rear of Stopped Auto

A Lewiston high school girl broke two front teeth in a rear-end collision on U.S. Highway 14 Tuesday evening, but she will still play her part in a Lewiston school play Friday night.

Sandra Luehmann, 17, rural Lewiston, was driving east on U.S. 14 Tuesday about 5:20 p.m. after practice for the play, scheduled to premiere this weekend.

She did not notice the car of Walter Gensmer, Rollingstone, stopped facing eastward on the highway and signalling for a left turn to go north on CSA 25, according to the Minnesota Highway Patrol report.

The Luehmann car hit the rear of the Gensmer vehicle, and Sandra broke two upper front teeth and also suffered a cut lip and right knee. Highway Patrolman Oscar H. Krenzke drove Miss Luehmann to Community Memorial Hospital in Winona where her cuts were stitched and to a Winona dentist, who fixed her teeth so that she could participate in the play.

Damage was about $150 to the front of the Luehmann car and $100 to the rear of the Gensmer vehicle, according to Krenzke and Highway Patrolman Allison J. Helsier.

The Highway Patrol has the accident under investigation and will turn over its findings to juvenile authorities.

FIRE NEAR ARCADIA

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — Arcadia firemen were called to the Gene Soppa farm, Newcomb Valley, at 1 p.m. Saturday. The Soppas, who had been blowing chopped corn fod-er into a barn on a nearby farm, had gone home for dinner. Upon preparing to return to resume work, they noticed flames. They summoned firemen and drove to the farm, where they found the machinery they had been using on fire. They succeeded in putting the blaze out before the firemen arrived. Damage to the machinery was slight.

Insurance Case Will Figure in 1966 Elections

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer

The 1966 elections in Minnesota are almost a year away, but the cards are being dealt and chips stacked on the table for what shapes up as the biggest pot in years for both parties to shoot for.

And you can bet your ballot box that an obscure insurance company few people had heard about a year ago will be the main issue.

The company, of course, is American Allied of St. Paul, the keystone in the insurance fraud indictments against Insurance Commissioner Cyrus Magnusson and 16 other persons.

At a quick glance, the American Allied case shapes up as a Republican bonanza.

At second glance, it may not be quite that. The DFL remains the "in" party in Minnesota and voters may expect Republicans to settle their own conservative-moderate differences and come up with a slate of attractive candidates to carry the ball.

The GOP headquarters machinery is already busy keeping the issue bubbling for the future candidates. So far, the GOP campaign has shaped up along these lines:

1. Attempts to show that Gov. Karl Rolvaag and Lt. Gov. A. M. Keith had knowledge of American Allied's troubles before they became publicly known.

2. Attempts to show that Rolvaag could have known about the insurance troubles when he reappointed Magnusson, but that the DFL now is making Magnusson the "fall guy" for the administration.

Still a question mark is how far the GOP will go in using the American Allied case against U. S. Sen. Walter F. Mondale — who along with Rolvaag will be the main target of the 1966 campaign.

Much of Mondale's campaigning for attorney general was built around a reputation for protecting the public. He called part of his office setup a "consumer protection unit."

The GOP may ask how American Allied got into business while Mondale was in office. Yet, this is a state issue and it's hard to tell how much will rub off in a campaign for senator, which often involves primarily national issues.

Corn Crop Outlook in State Better

ST. PAUL (AP) — Another week of mild, dry weather has improved the outlook slightly for the Minnesota corn crop.

The State Crop Reporting Service said today that about 27 per cent of the corn had been picked as of last Saturday, compared to a harvest normally 72 per cent complete by this time of year.

Corn moisture content was averaging about 26 per cent, down slightly from the previous week as dry weather and freezing temperatures at night helped cut the moisture content to some extent.

Many farmers said they are picking corn, even though it remains too wet, rather than taking a chance of leaving it in the fields.

The weekly crop report said farmers in the Red River Valley are still battling wet fields in their efforts to clean up the small grain, flax, sugar beet and potato harvests. Some fields in low areas may not get combined unless it freezes without snow, the crop service said.

Livestock are heading into the winter in good condition, although pastures are becoming poor and some farmers have begun to feed their winter hay supplies.

Farm Woman On Stand in Slaying Case

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—An Alden, Minn., farm woman charged with first degree murder in the shooting death of her husband returned to the witness stand today in Freeborn County District Court.

Mrs. Ida K. Swehla, pregnant with her fourth child, broke down twice Tuesday as she began her testimony.

She told a story of marital difficulties and friction. Once, the 30-year-old woman said, she asked her husband if he loved horses more than he loved his wife. Mrs. Swehla said her husband, Leo F. Swehla Jr., did not answer her question.

After tracing her high school romance with Swehla and telling of their marriage, the defendant was asked by her attorney, Ralf Sien, "Did you love Bud?"

"Yes," Mrs. Swehla said as she broke down. She had also lost her composure earlier in her testimony when she told of their courtship.

Swehla was shot to death near the barn on the couple's farm June 5.

Mrs. Swehla said her husband frequently went drinking with friends and once, in the fall of 1955, he told her to "get out and stay out." She said she wrapped her baby, Robin, in a blanket and walked in the cold to a sister's home 1½ miles away.

Full Employment May Be Forcing U.S. Prices Up

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is President Johnson's campaign for full employment forcing prices up?

Top administration economists don't think so — yet. But they concede it's something to worry about.

They don't deny consumer prices are rising at the fastest rate in five years — while the nation's jobless rate is being slashed.

White House and Labor Department sources maintain there is no direct connection. But some government experts contend higher prices are inevitable as unemployment declines.

Now that the nation is within striking distance of the administration's long-sought interim goal of a 4 per cent jobless rate, government experts on wages and prices are keeping an eye out for signs of inflation.

"This is something we have to watch," said one.

But this is not to suggest any prospective letup in trying to push the jobless rate under 4 per cent with a variety of job training programs.

The unemployment rate dropped last month to 4.3 per cent — or 2.8 million persons — the lowest level in eight years.

Arthur M. Ross, the new commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said: "My personal view is that it will be in the national interest to keep on going below 4 per cent."

Ross said getting the jobless rate down from 6 per cent in 1962, when the President's Council of Economic Advisers first set the 4 per cent interim goal, has been no easy task.

Forcing the rate below 4 per cent will be even tougher.

"The lower you get, the closer you get down to normal turnover plus the groups which are difficult to employ," Ross said.

By full employment, the administration does not mean reducing the jobless rate to zero. It means providing jobs for everyone willing and able to work.

Thus reducing the jobless rate to 2.5 or 3 per cent of the nation's civilian labor force — now totaling nearly 76 million — would, in effect, achieve Johnson's goal of full employment.

What has all this to do with prices?

Some government economists believe the drive toward full employment will create a highly competitive labor market, bidding up wages and thus raising prices.

Others, however, say the rapid expansion in the economy can provide many more jobs at current wage levels and absorb more of the unemployed without forcing up prices.

Nevertheless, the government's own figures show consumer prices are rising this year at an annual rate of about 1.8 per cent compared with an annual rate of about 1.2 per cent the previous five years.

More than half the drop in the jobless rate since 1962 occurred in the past year.

A White House source said: "There is no doubt at all that as the economy becomes more prosperous, and the people at the bottom are getting more out of it we are going to find more cases where companies are going to be able to make price increases stick."

Ewan Clague, now an adviser to Wirtz after 18 years as commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, gave this summation of the situation:

"In a high employment economy like we've got now and an unbalanced labor force with a shortage of highly skilled people, a higher rate of increase in prices would be likely to continue."

Ross agreed the problems of labor shortages and price inflation bear watching.

But until danger signals begin showing up in the economy, "we are not in a position to know just how far down it (unemployment) can be driven," Ross said.

Johnson Asks Full Details Of Blackout

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — At first word of the great Northeast power disaster, President Johnson began to ask questions and issue orders.

Johnson was driving north of his ranch home near here when he got the first inkling of trouble — on a news broadcast over his car radio. Hustling to the ranch house, he phoned the White House in Washington.

The first person he talked to — special assistant Joseph A. Califano Jr. — had no word of the mystery blackout. But Califano found out in a hurry and remained on duty long into the morning hours — acting as a link between Johnson and the disaster.

Within minutes, White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers assembled newsmen at the press center in Austin, 65 miles east of here, and began what probably was a record-breaking news briefing for any presidential press aide. It went through the long evening hours, and into the morning today.

Alternately clenching a cigar between his teeth and using it as a stabbing pointer as he gestured, Moyers said first that Johnson had got the word on his car radio and had hustled to the ranch headquarters to place calls to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Director Buford Ellington of the Office of Emergency Planning, and Califano.

All, he said, were instructed to offer the utmost federal assistance to all officials of the areas concerned.

Inmates Riot At Walpole State Prison

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — About 300 inmates of Walpole State Prison ripped out plumbing, smashed windows, and battered down doors in a four-hour rampage during the electric power blackout in the Northeast.

A barrage of tear gas termed "so thick you couldn't see anything" finally enabled prison guards wearing gas masks to herd the men back to their cells in the maximum security section.

John A. Vagin, state commissioner of corrections, described the incident as a "major disturbance." It could not be called a riot, he said, "because, miraculously, no one was hurt."

Gavin and Warden Palmer Scafati said it would be some time before they could estimate the amount of damage to the prison, built in 1956 at a cost of $10 million. It houses 576 men.

The prison's entire force of 110 guards was augmented by 25 off-duty guards rushed in from nearby Norfolk State Prison, and by 120 state police troopers from barracks in six nearby communities on the outskirts of Boston.

The troopers, armed with shotguns, surrounded the prison walls.

After officials felt the inmates were safely contained in a locked area, many of the troopers donned gas masks and entered the prison building to support the guards herding men to cells.

Man Killed by Train Buried Unidentified

HENRIETTE, Minn. (AP) — A man run over by a freight train here was buried, as an unknown, in a Henriette cemetery today. The Pine County coroner's office said it was impossible to attempt identification from fingerprints or teeth. The man was believed to be 55 to 60 years old.

The average weight of a full grown buffalo bull is around 1,800 pounds.

Civil Rights Peace Drive Hits a Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two administration drives in the courts and in the Congress aimed at checking civil rights violence have collided after a mixup in signals — derailing the House hearings on the Ku Klux Klan.

Trying to build up to a climax before recessing until next year, the House Committee on Un-American Activities planned to flash the spotlight on the 1964 night rider murder of Negro educator Lemuel Penn.

In so doing, the committee thought it had the green light from the Justice Department to question Klansmen who chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said were "involved in the killing" of Penn.

It had subpoenaed Klansmen from the Athens, Ga., area, including J. Howard Sims and Cecil Myers, who had been accused of the slaying but freed by a Georgia state court.

Sims and Myers were waiting in the hearing room to testify Tuesday when the green light suddenly turned to red.

Amid surprise and consternation, a meeting was hurriedly called by Willis to change plans after a weekend letter from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach asking the committee not to delve into the Penn case at this time.

What had happened was that the Justice Department was asking the Supreme Court Tuesday to revive federal felony indictments in the Penn case and in the slaying of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., in 1964.

Katzenbach was afraid the congressional hearings could prejudice further court hearings, and the committee agreed to go along with his request.

$2,600 Taken in Anoka Co. Holdup

ANOKA, Minn. (AP) — Federal and state law officers today joined Anoka County authorities in a hunt for two gunmen who held up the Farmers State Bank of Cedar, Minn.

About $2,600 was taken in the robbery Tuesday. The pair was believed to have fled in a maroon late model car, but an Anoka County sheriff's officer said the getaway car "could have gone in any of a dozen directions out of there."

The gunmen locked three bank employees in the vault, but the trio used an inside safety release to free themselves after the robbers departed.

Buffalo County Board To Adopt 1966 Budget

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — Salaries and wages of county employees, resolutions and adoption of the 1966 budget were expected to end the three-day annual meeting of the Buffalo County Board of Supervisors this afternoon.

The resolutions pertain to taking advantage of the Economic Opportunity Act and other matters.

ASSEMBLYMAN Milton Buchli, representing Buffalo, Pepin and Pierce counties, told the board Tuesday afternoon a bill was introduced in the legislature this year to make a study of government with consolidation of counties as one of the features. It didn't pass, but he said consolidation of counties is a distinct possibility in the future.

Buchli said he had introduced legislation which in some cases would increase the size of county boards rather than decrease members under current reapportionment. He said he thought larger boards would operate more advantageously for the people the bill wasn't passed.

With board members he was a guest at a dinner at Buffalo

County Teachers College.

A resolution was passed Tuesday moving the Lloyd Wilbur land, Town of Nelson, from agricultural to recreational. Wilbur said he may add to his existing cottages and start a bait station.

ARTHUR WOLFE, Fountain City, was elected to the Regional Planning Commission succeeding Earl Blank, Cochrane, resigned. Arthur Hitt, Alma, and Mayor Gaylord Schultz, Mondovi, also are members.

Following discussion on how to elect members to the highway committee with the board reduced to 14 following the spring election, members decided to elect the committee for the period from Jan. 1 to May 1.

Wolfe was elected to succeed H. L. Multhaup, Bluff Siding; Edward Baecker, Town of Montana, to succeed Alger Marum, Gilmanston, and Elmer Brenn, Naples, was re-elected. Multhaup and Marum went off the county board at last spring's election.

American Bank of Alma, First State Bank of Fountain City and Mondovi State Bank were named depositories.

A RESOLUTION presented by the Buffalo County Welfare Board was adopted authorizing the welfare department to continue engaging a corporation counsel.

Last November the county board authorized a corporation counsel for the department at $180 per month. The salary was left the same but his hours of work were increased from 40 to 50 a month. Of last year's salary of $2,160, $972 was the county's share, state and federal welfare funds paying the remainder.

Jerome Benson, welfare department director, said that of 24 estates and property pending in the department at the beginning of the year, 12 have been settled and 15 are pending. Collections totaled $16,390.85. Several will be closed by the end of this year, he said.

Benson reported $750 returned to the department in relief funds during the year and approximately $10 received per month in assignment of Oklahoma mineral rights held by one welfare client.

Three paternity settlements were made by counsel, involving $3,878.70; four are pending.

Benson said counsel is valuable in assigning property of deceased recipients immediately to the county, thereby stopping the taxes which would accrue if there is delay in selling the property.

Pat Motley is the welfare department counsel.

TWO YEARS ago the board voted to discontinue administration of general or poor relief by the municipalities and place it in the hands of the welfare department, appropriating $17,500 for this fund.

Finding that this amount was more than sufficient, the board appropriated $12,000 for this relief next year.

St. Charles Grade Parents to Visit Classes on Thursday

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — American Education Week will be observed by open house in the various elementary classrooms Thursday. Parents have been invited.

The high school open house will begin Thursday at 8 p.m. in the gym. After a short briefing session, parents will visit classes. The schedule followed, will be 10-minute periods and 3-minute passing intervals. Students will provide parents with copies of their daily schedules.

A coffee hour will follow in the activity room.

2 Plead Guilty In City Court

An 18-year-old boy pleaded guilty to a charge of shoplifting, and a Winona State College student pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian in arraignments today in municipal court.

Charles A. Burfield, 18, Lake City, Minn., pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to steal a vest from Tempo in the Miracle Mall Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. He paid a $35 fine imposed by Judge John D. McGill as the alternative to 17 days in jail.

Paul F. Weichert, 20, 476 Center St., pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk at Main and Sanborn streets Monday at 8:50 a.m. He paid a $25 fine as the alternative to eight days in jail.

Weichert's car struck Sharon Olson, the 1965 Winona Winter Carnival Queen, as Miss Olson was walking to class at WSC. She was treated at Community Memorial Hospital and released Monday morning.

Previously it was reported incorrectly that Weichert was charged with running a stop sign.

ATTEND FBI COURSE

Assistant Police Chief Marvin A. Meier, Captain Marlowe L. Brown, Detective Fred J. Brust and Officer John R. Holbrust attended an FBI course for policemen given Tuesday in Rochester. Police Chief James W. McCabe said that subjects covered in the one-day school were: Burglary investigation and control of riots and civil disobedience. The FBI conducts these schools on a continuing basis to keep policemen abreast of developments in law enforcement, Meier said.

Jesus Planned Own Crucifixion, New Book Says

LONDON (AP) — A controversial new book claiming that Jesus planned his own crucifixion is disturbing many churchmen of all denominations in Britain.

The book—titled "The Passover Plot"—suggests that Jesus, believing himself to be the promised Messiah, schemed throughout his life to manipulate people so that the Old Testament prophecies would be fulfilled.

The writer is Dr. Hugh J. Schonfield, a Jewish scholar living in London, well-known for his modern translation of the New Testament and some 30 commentaries on Biblical history.

Published here by Hutchinson, the book will appear in the United States when negotiations over the rights are concluded.

Schonfield, 64, says he subscribes to no religious creed himself though he believes in God as pure spirit. He insists he has written his book not to create a sensation but in an honest search for truth. His claims, he says, are the result of more than 40 years of objective research.

Writing of the events of Passion Week, Schonfield says: "A conspiracy had to be organized of which the victim himself was the principal instigator. It was a nightmarish conception and undertaking, the outcome of the frightening logic of a sick mind or a genius. And it worked out."

According to Schonfield, Jesus knew the church had to be founded on fulfillment of prophecies, so he planned that fulfillment in the minutest detail.

He timed the plan for his apparent death so that he would be crucified on Friday, knowing that because of the Jewish Sabbath he would be taken down from the cross within a few hours.

Schonfield claims:

— The vinegar passed to Jesus on a sponge was really a drug passed by an accomplice, enabling him to simulate death, so his legs would not be broken like those of the two thieves crucified with him. The blood that flowed from his side showed he was still living, Schonfield claims.

— The linens and spices used to wrap his body acted as dressings for his injuries. He probably briefly recovered conscious-

Princess Has Two Days at Arizona Home

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — If Princess Margaret and her husband Lord Snowdon, listen closely for the next couple of nights, they may go to sleep to the distant yapping of desert coyotes.

Of course, the coyotes could be drowned out by the barking of dogs in a commercial grooming and boarding kennel less than a block away.

Their visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Douglas, beginning today, could provide one of the biggest social extremes since the Franklin Delano Roosevelt fed hot dogs to the princess' parents in 1937. King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were delighted.

Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon will spend five days at the Douglas home after a visit to Los Angeles. Douglas, now a bank executive, is a former ambassador to Great Britain.

His daughter, Sharrman, and Princess Margaret became close friends during Douglas' tenure in London. That's how this visit came about.

Tonight, the English visitors will sleep only a few hundred yards from the ruins of old Ft. Lowell, established to protect Tucson from marauding Apaches.

They will be able to look north across a wide expanse of irrigated valley to the 9,200-foot Santa Catalina Mountains.

But on the nearest intersection a copper company laboratory is nearing completion. A steak house and night spot is being reopened and a new gas station sign lights the area.

The Douglasses say nothing has been done to their rambling, burned adobe home because of the royal visitors, except that the living room and one bedroom have new chintz curtains.

ness after being laid in the tomb, but succumbed from the soldier's lance wound in his side. His body was secretly taken away and buried, leaving the mystery of the empty tomb.

Church leaders in Britain have thus far withheld public comment on the book. Two Church of England priests who read it said they took it seriously although they disapproved.

Scores of earnest churchgoers wrote to the newspapers, mostly in condemnation of the book.

Bruhn Checking for Badger Heartbeats

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Even the partisan hometown rooters are expecting the worst when the Fighting Illini come to Madison Saturday to do football battle with Wisconsin's bedraggled Badgers.

The armchair and sidewalk quarterbacks have had a field day since Wisconsin absorbed a 50-14 shellacking two weeks ago at Michigan.

When Purdue heaped on a 45-7 insult last week, the quips became spiced with something akin to gallows humor.

"How will the coaching staff get Illinois up for this game?" was a question directed Tuesday to Illini publicist Charles Bellatti.

"By bus," was the snap audience response that stopped Bellatti before he could say a word.

Another question brought more laughs than answers after Bellatti had completed his rundown on Illinois' starters and first line reserves.

"Could you tell us a little bit more about the fellows we'll see out there Saturday — those third and fourth stringers," the questioner asked.

Bellatti had been billed as the attraction at a meeting of a Madison Sportswriters and Sportscasters Club. The audience comes unstaged him, but he did get in a few remarks.

"Our squad is in much the same condition as yours," he said. "We've got the bumps and bruises acquired in eight games, five of them tough conference contests."

Illinois is 4-4 for the season. Wisconsin has won one, tied one and been whipped five times.

The last two Badger lacings have stunned the staff assigned the job of making Wisconsin tick. Coach Milt Bruhn isn't even talking about mental attitude anymore. He's down to checking for heartbeats.

"We'll have to go out there and get them out of this morgue," Bruhn said after Monday's practice session.

Bellatti tolled off the names of those who threaten a Badger revival.

Fullback Jim Grabowski, quarterback Fred Custard, halfback Sam Price and end John Wright got prominent mention. And Bellatti said halfback Cyril Pinder would be on hand too if he gets his health back before the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Irish Get Greatest With Least Effort

NEW YORK (AP)—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame have established themselves as a team that gets the most done with the least effort.

Latest statistics of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show today that the Irish are the highest-scoring major college football team in the country—250 points for a 35.7 average—yet don't rank among the first 10 in total offense.

The Irish jumped from sixth to first in the scoring column by crushing Pittsburgh last Saturday 69-13. It was the highest number of points for a Notre Dame team in 33 years and the second highest by any team in the last six years.

Utah State beat New Mexico State 76-0 last year.

Unbeaten Nebraska is second to Notre Dame in scoring with a 34.9 yard average and leads in rushing offense with 287 yards per game. Tulsa, with its stellar passing combination of Bill Anderson and Howard Twilley is out front in both total offense and passing offense.

The Golden Hurricane has averaged 425 yards a game, both passing and running, and 344.8 yards in passing alone.

Nebraska is second in total offense with 416.5 yards, followed by the Ivy League's undefeated Princeton, 375.7, and Texas Western, 372.2.

Southern California, with the country's leading individual rusher in Mike Garrett, is second to Nebraska in rushing offense.

Murray: 'Brown Has Most Grid Potential'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Coach Murray Warmath is a hard-bitten taskmaster from the heyday of the single-wing and not one to wax poetic with the superlatives when he talks about football players.

But he just can't help himself when he talks about his "big Brownie"—end Aaron Brown.

When Warmath talks about Brown, he starts using adjectives he put on ice a couple of years ago when Carl Eller and Bobby Bell departed.

"Aaron Brown has, I believe, more potential than any football player I ever saw," Warmath said after his big end had caught eight passes for 107 yards against Northwestern last Saturday.

That's quite a statement from a coach who has seen and coached some of the great ones. But Warmath didn't qualify his assessment one iota.

"I suppose I've seen better college ends," Warmath said, "but I'm talking about potential. The better ones I've seen were guys who played service ball and then four years of college ball. They had been playing so long they were more experienced than most pros."

"But in Brown's case, he just hasn't played very much and he's great. He didn't get to play much his sophomore year and he didn't play much in high school. Then this year the broken jaw slowed his development. When he's got a few years of experience under his belt, he can be tremendous."

"He could be a great tight end with the pros, and I think he could play defense just as well for them," Brown set a Minnesota record with 27 pass receptions last year and has caught 19 this year.

Brown's battle with the broken jaw this year made the Minnesota coach speak of his exploits with awe.

"Here's a guy playing football with a broken jaw," Warmath said. "He really got hit on the mush in the Northwestern game and he just shook it off. You stick your head in where his was, brother, and you'll know you've been someplace."

"There are a heck of a lot of guys who would say, 'Coach, I'm hurtin', but not old Brownie. He just stuck his jaw right in there."

When Brown finally got the wires out of his jaw after the Ohio State game he said, "It was the greatest feeling, just to

SAMMY'S BOPS 961

Fish Shop in 1,090 for 3rd

Hot Fish Shop of the Winona Athletic Club Classic League and Sammy's Pizza of the Hal-Rod Ladies City League shook up the team game categories in city bowling circles Tuesday night.

Fish Shop zoomed to 1,090 that topped third place on the men's listings, while Sammy's was ripping 961 for fifth in the women's division.

Fish Shop got 227 from Jerry Dureske, 213 from Bob Stein, 188 from Clarence Rivers and be able to stick my tongue out." A 6-foot-4, 240-pound senior from Port Arthur, Tex., Brown lost nearly 20 pounds with the broken jaw. Now he's gaining it back.

Pro scouts have been flocking to watch Brown and most are highly impressed. He is almost certain to be drafted on the first round, because the Minnesota Vikings would love to grab him if he still is available when their first turn comes.

Gordie Fakler and 185 from Warren Weigel. The group used 49 pins of handicap. It also recorded 2,998.

Bill Bell led the league 600 parade by shooting 620 for Hamm's. Hugh Orphan fired 611 and Joe Loshek 602.

Sammy's, which also pitched 2,664, got individual totals of 202 from Thuy Wentworth, 194 from Ruth Novotny, 181 from Louise Livingston, 168 from Lillian Thurely and 121 from Loretta Steivang to go with 85 pins handicap.

Anne Beranek cracked 208—540 for Home Furniture and Helen Nelson 546 for Poot's. Irene Gostomski leveled 540, Olivia McWeeny 537, Eleanor Griesel 531, Thuy Wentworth 528, Audrey Sieracki 527, Annette Wiczorek 522, Ruth Novotny 522, Larry Donahue 517, Elsie Dorsch 500—512, Betty Schoonover 504. Mrs. Schoonover stirred in a 6-7-10 conversion.

In the Hal-Rod Four-City League, Willard Jochimsen's 233-238-148—619 paced Golden Brand to 994. Bell's ripped 2,830 behind 532 errorless from Bob Kosidowski.

HAL-ROD: Lucky Ladies — Ruth Armstrong walloped 511 to pace Hamm's to 2,539. Sis Konetchy clouted 189 for Seven-Up and Coca-Cola 914.

Two-Lite — Sally Myska's 170 pushed Miller Lubricators to 497 and Sharon Fiedler's 318 paced Fountain Citians to 977.

WESTGATE: Hawatha — Milford Thompson's 215—596 shoved Midland to 982—2,833.

American — Deway Grossell shot 217—593 to pace Hauser's Black Crows to 1,000—2,911. Harry Brenden tipped 496 errorless for Westgate.

National — Bill Richter pummeled 558 to pace Home Furniture to 2,688. Art Streuber tipped 204 to lead Cozy Corner to 893.

Wenonah — Ruth Wegman's 188—492 paced Blue Tuesday to 870—2,405.

Working Girls — Carol Styba zipped 174—473 for Go-Go Girls. Goldfingers slapped 576 and The Zips 1,873.

Elks — Paul Maliszewski belted 196—532 for Seven-Up. Main Tavern hit 982 and Home Furniture 2,770.

A professional basketball game, harness racing programs at two tracks and a boxing show were among the sports events postponed or canceled Tuesday night because of the massive power failure in the Northeast.

The National Basketball Association game between New York and St. Louis in New York's Madison Square Garden, harness cards at Roosevelt Raceway and suburban Westbury, N.Y., and Suffolk Downs in Boston were called off as well as the boxing program at Sunnyside Gardens in New York.

ABILENE, Tex. — North Dakota State University today appeared the likely choice to represent the northern section of the NCAA Midwest region in the annual Pecan Bowl game here Dec. 11.

North Dakota State ranks No. 1 among the Midwest bowl contenders this week, according to the Pecan Bowl committee, while Arkansas State holds down the No. 2 spot.

NEW YORK — The punchless Green Bay Packers, failing to gain more than 68 yards net in two of their last three games, are not last in the National Football League in offense.

The Packers' 1,900 yards for the first eight games of the season dropped them into a tie at the bottom of the statistics with Detroit, the 12-7 conqueror of Green Bay Sunday on the strength of five points scored or set up by the defense.

No wonder Notre Dame's Bill Wolski is favoring a sore leg in Irish football practice this week. He probably hurt it tripping over the Pitt goal line last Saturday.

Wolski was named Back of the Week today by The Associated Press for his five-touchdown burst in Notre Dame's 69-13 burial of the Panthers. The hard-driving senior halfback equaled a 42-year-old school point record in little more than two quarters as the Irish bolstered their No. 4 spot in the national ratings.

PLAYER OF WEEK NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hayes is one former Olympic sprinter who is making good in a big way in pro football. The flashy Dallas rookie from Florida A&M has been voted The Associated Press' Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League for his exciting work against San Francisco.

NO. 3 SPOT QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—With two victories in the last three weeks Marlene Hagge has gained the No. 3 spot on the Ladies PGA's money list, LPGA headquarters said Tuesday.

76ers' Theory Certainly Gets The Job Done

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia's 76ers believe when you want the job done ask a tall basketball player to do it — better, yet, ask a tall one and a shorter sidekick.

Wilt Chamberlain, who is 7-foot-2, and Hal Greer, a foot shorter, linked scoring efforts and led the 76ers to a 118-110 victory Tuesday over the Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association. Chamberlain dunked 39 and Greer 32.

The loss dropped the Lakers a game and a half behind San Francisco in the Western Division.

San Francisco's Nate Thurmond, who took over at center when the Stilt was traded to Philadelphia last year, grabbed 42 rebounds off the backboards to help the Warriors retain their first-place position. The Warriors downed the Detroit Pistons 107-102.

Gophers Gear For All-Out Aerial Strike

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Unable to generate a running attack last Saturday against Northwestern, the Minnesota Gophers are apparently gearing for an all-out air strike against Purdue Saturday.

Coach Murray Warmath sent the Gophers through a long passing drill Tuesday. Reserves threw a heavy defensive charge against quarterback John Hankinson, who hit 14 of 22 passes for 255 yards against Northwestern.

The Gophers gained only 75 yards on the ground in the 27-22 victory.

Brian Callahan has been returned to starting defensive middle guard after a flat performance against Ohio State a week ago Saturday.

At Lafayette, Ind., the Boiler-makers prepared for the Minnesota invasion by concentrating on their offense. The same lineup (45 points against Wisconsin last Saturday) is scheduled to start against the Gophers.

But ace receiver Bob Hadrick, who has been out a week with a knee injury, is still doubtful.

Two Associated Press Sports Writers in Chicago pick Purdue to down Minnesota — Jerry Lisica by a 19-13 count and Charles Chamberlain by a 23-14 score.

Vikes, Colts To Answer a Major Question

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The old story of the irresistible force meeting the immovable object comes up with a new wrinkle at Metropolitan Stadium Sunday when the Minnesota Vikings and Baltimore Colts clash in a crucial National Football League game.

The veteran four-man defensive line of the defending Western Division champion Colts has racked up the best defensive record against rushing. The Colts have allowed an average of 81.6 yards on the ground per game, in taking the Western Division lead with a 7-1 mark.

Baltimore is fifth in overall team defense, allowing an average of 276.7 yards per game. The Vikings, after strong performances against Los Angeles and Cleveland, are ranked seventh with a 297.6 per game average.

Minnesota's ground attack, led by Tommy Mason and Bill Brown, averaged 176.3 yards per game — tops in the NFL. The Vikings have the third highest offensive output in the league, averaging 378.8 yards per game. The Colts, paced by the passing of Johnny Unitas, are fifth with a 346.5 per game output.

Minnesota, in its fifth year in the NFL, has a 5-3 mark and needs a victory over the Colts to stay in the running for the division championship.

Detroit has the top defensive average and San Francisco leads the offensive category.

Holmen Still Has Player That Is Tall

HOLMEN, Wis. (AP)—Holmen High School will have another tall basketball team this season — very tall, with a likely looking newcomer.

Led by 7-foot-1 Eino Hendrickson, Holmen won 21 straight games before bowing to La Crosse Central 71-61 in the Black River Falls sub-sectional last season.

Only two members of that tournament squad are back this year: 6-foot-3 Ron Anderson and 6-foot Bob Anderson. But up from the junior varsity is 6-foot-4 David Everson.

The newcomer is Owen Unkes, a junior, who transferred from South Hill High School at Pittsburgh, Pa. And he is 6-5½.

Furthermore, Coach Dan Unks says Unkes can "dunk the ball with both hands."

Hendrickson is now a freshman at the University of Wisconsin.

WHERE CHAIN OF AMERICAN QUALITY ANGUS STARTED IN THIS "OLD ANGUS TOWN" BEFORE THE TURN OF THE LAST CENTURY.

A rare opportunity to solicit senior or junior herd sires that tie to this chain of 12 generations on both sides of the pedigrees, to this great line of Angus breeding. Eileenmire 1965 often said to be one of the greatest bulls on the American continent. NO FLAWS NO FREAKS NO ACCIDENTS See these bulls and their pedigrees and you will know.
