North Viet Nam Regulars Renew Attacks at Ida Drang

B52 Bombers Blast Reds in Nearby Hills

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—North Vietnamese regulars pressed attacks on regrouped U.S. cavalrymen in the Ida Drang River Valley today while B52 jet bombers ripped at Communist entrenchments in nearby hills.

Near the coast, a Viet Cong battalion overran a government district headquarters and its 150-man garrison at Hiep Duc, 28 miles south of Da Nang. U.S. military sources said every building there was reported destroyed. An aerial survey showed no signs of life. The Viet Cong were reported to have left several of their victims impaled on stakes.

Four U.S. planes — three Marine and one Navy — were lost on a bombing strike against a bridge on the railway line linking Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital, with its port of Haiphong.

Of the four pilots, a spokesman said two were rescued, one was killed and another is missing.

The battle of the Ia Drang Valley, which newsmen were told already had cost the Communists 890 dead and the greatest American losses in any single engagement of the war, shifted to a new field north of the river.

It was three miles from the helicopter landings site in a jungle clearing 220 miles north-east of Saigon that two battalions of the U.S. 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Division had defended for three days against repeated North Vietnamese attacks.

The Americans pulled out early today. One battalion shifted back by helicopter to the encampment of supporting artillery, about three miles southeast of the helicopter site. The other hiked out, heading north across the river.

Peter Arnett, an Associated Press writer who was on the scene, said the cavalrymen were maneuvering in an attempt to wrest the initiative from the Red forces in the heights.

A U.S. spokesman in Saigon said the cavalrymen had "adjusted their position" to avoid being hit by the tons of bombs dropped by the B52s.

At any rate the battalion afoot was still on the move when the North Vietnamese opened up on it at noon. They fired mortar shells, automatic weapons and small arms.

The cavalrymen laid down a solid base of return fire and radioed for reinforcements. The other battalion responded, moving in on a forced march from the artillery position. They were reunited at nightfall.

"There was continual contact with the enemy forces, who appeared determined not to let the Americans get out of their reach," Arnett said.

"Thirteen North Vietnamese bodies were counted and one prisoner was taken. U.S. casualties were very light and no soldiers had been killed."

American casualties in the three-day battle were officially termed moderate. But U.S. officials in Saigon announced that in the week ending last Saturday 86 Americans were killed in action in South Viet Nam and 230 were wounded.

New Civil Rights Battle

Johnson Wants Law to Break All-White Juries

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has announced a new priority for the 1966 session of Congress: passage of a civil rights bill "to prevent injustice to Negroes at the hands of all-white juries."

The President, in his most sweeping civil rights speech since June, also told a meeting of 200 civil rights leaders Tuesday night he has alerted all federal agencies that racial justice must be sought actively as "a positive purpose rather than a distant goal."

To this effect, Johnson said, he will ask the Civil Rights Commission today to make a broad study of the problems of race and education in the nation in hopes of aiding local governments to "build a school system that is color blind."

"We must do more. We will do more," the President said.

The rights leaders begin a two-day planning session today with government officials to lay the groundwork for next spring's White House Conference on Civil Rights.

The President told them, "The tide of change is running with the Negro American on this mid-November evening. Neither the ignorant violence of the Klan nor the despairing of Watts can reverse it."

The President's jury proposal received almost immediate endorsement from Rep. Emanuel Celler, head of the House Judiciary Committee which handles civil rights legislation.

"It's a drastic step," the New York Democrat said, "however, it's become essential. I think President Johnson is on the right track."

But Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers of Alabama described the President's proposal as "somewhat of a disappointment."

"Every lawyer recognizes that legislation that would affect the jury system is indeed an extreme measure," Flowers said in a statement, "and strikes at the very foundation of our judicial processes."

James Farmer, head of Congress of Racial Equality, urged the government to go even further and make it "a federal crime to commit violence against a person for exercising federally guaranteed rights."

The President's address spelled out a list of specific steps he said the government must take to translate the laws on statute books "into better lives for all Americans — this year and next year and for as many years as it takes to get that job done."

State to Get Public Defender

ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota's first state public defender is expected to be named Friday by the State Judicial Council.

To a person who never has to go to court, this may not mean much. To an innocent person charged with a crime, it could mean everything.

The public defender system — which has been used in Hennepin and Ramsey counties for 40 years — was extended statewide by the 1965 Legislature.

The Minnesota plan has drawn nationwide attention among lawyers and judges. The state got a Ford Foundation grant of $121,000 to put the plan into operation.

The defender system is an outgrowth of two turbulent years in the nation's courts, during which the U. S. Supreme Court has issued at least two dozen decisions spelling out the right of any person to have a lawyer in all proceedings in which he is charged with a major crime.

What is a public defender? He is a trial lawyer, paid with public funds to protect the rights of any person charged with a felony or gross misdemeanor who does not have enough money to hire his own attorney.

Chief Justice Oscar R. Knutson of the Minnesota Supreme Court says there are a number of applicants for the post of state public defender. The job pays $16,500 a year, and the appointment is for four years.

His job, in essence, will be to see to it that no person goes into court without counsel, or is barred from making an appeal because he has no attorney.

The right to have a lawyer was spelled out by the U. S. Supreme Court in two landmark cases in 1963—Gideon vs. Wainwright and Douglas vs. California.

The California case said that an individual is denied his liberty without due process of law unless the state provides him with an attorney for an appeal plus an adequate record of the trial.

Hunter Death Toll in State Mounts to 24

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty-four persons have died in the first four days of the 1965 Minnesota deer hunting season. Ten were gunshot victims, eight succumbed to heart attacks and six were asphyxiated.

The bodies of three asphyxiation victims were found Monday in a homemade camper on a pickup truck 18 miles south-west of Grand Rapids. They were Bernard Striefel, 36, Minneapolis, and Glenn Shierts, 27, and John Gillis, 26, both of Monticello, Minn.

Sheriff John Muhar of Itasca County found the men in the trailer after the victims' families reported they had not returned home from their weekend hunting trip.

Authorities said the camper was heated by a bottle gas unit which was unvented. Apparently the heater had consumed all the oxygen in the camper.

Muhar said the three may have died Friday night. There was no sign of activity around the parked camper.

Worst Rains In 80 Years In California

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The worst rains in 80 years — now in their fourth straight day — continued to drench a 200-mile-long California coastal area today.

Many Southern Californians were stranded by floods as heavy rain swept from Santa Barbara to San Diego. Low areas were flooded and mud and rock slides fell across mountain highways.

The downpour — which began Saturday night as a gentle rain — soaked the Los Angeles area with 3.83 inches. This morning, Burbank, a Los Angeles suburb, measured 1.32 inches in six hours and Edwards Air Force Base in the Mojave Desert recorded one-half inch.

A half-hour cloudburst in the San Fernando Valley north of Los Angeles sent creeks out of their banks and water filled many main intersections. Many streets were closed for a time, sealing off hundreds of residents, but there were no reports of major evacuations.

To the East, gales over the Great Lakes moved toward the Atlantic seaboard and gale warnings were up from New England to the Carolinas. Winds up to 52 miles an hour buffeted the Syracuse, N.Y., area.

Predawn readings slipped to around the zero mark across the Northern Plains. Roseau, in northwestern Minnesota, recorded 10 below zero this morning and Havre, Mont., registered 2 below. Bemidji, Minn., posted 1 above. At the same time Floridians in Key West basked in 65-degree weather.

All highways in the Minnesota snow area were open today as only a little snow fell overnight in the northwestern and extreme northern sections.

Tuesday's deep snow in the northern Midwest was accompanied by strong winds and bitter cold weather.

Snow and hazardous - driving warnings were posted for Upper Michigan, where 2 to 6 inches of additional snow along with high winds were expected.

Temperatures fell to near zero, or below, from Montana to Minnesota early today. Readings in the teens were reported as far south as Nebraska. Overnight lows included 2 below zero at Havre, Mont.; 1 above at Bemidji, Minn.; 7 at Bismarck, N.D., and 17 at Omaha.

International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border, had 10 inches of snow Tuesday, with 4 inches falling in 6 hours. Four inches of new snow fell in Houghton, Mich., giving the area an accumulation of 9 inches.

Gale warnings were up for Lakes Superior and Michigan, where winds of 55 to 72 miles per hour were expected. Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario were posted for winds up to 54 m.p.h.

Foreign Ministers Meet at Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) —

Nineteen foreign ministers of American republics assembled today for a basic, wide-ranging review aimed at updating the inter-American system to cope better with the hemisphere's changing political and economic problems.

The first day's program of the special inter-American conference of foreign ministers included a welcome by President Humberto Castello Branco of Brazil, get-acquainted meetings and the formal opening session tonight with Castello Branco giving the keynote speech.

Thursday the conference — the first such in 11 years — begins to get on with its business. The parley, expected to run into early December, will consider proposals for revamping the charter of the Organization of American States. These could be taken up at a charter revision conference next spring.

Cuba and Venezuela were absent. Cuba is barred from the OAS because of its Communist government, and Venezuela does not recognize the military government of Brazil, the host country.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, arriving Tuesday night from a brief side trip to Argentina and Uruguay, predicted that "a broad consensus will develop" from the conference. He declined to go into details but spoke of steps toward a "golden age" which he said the Americas have already taken under the Alliance for Progress program of economic and social betterment.

CONCEPCION, Chile (AP) — Spitting South Americans gave a rude reception Tuesday night to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy at the University of Concepcion, where Dean Rusk is in Uruguay.

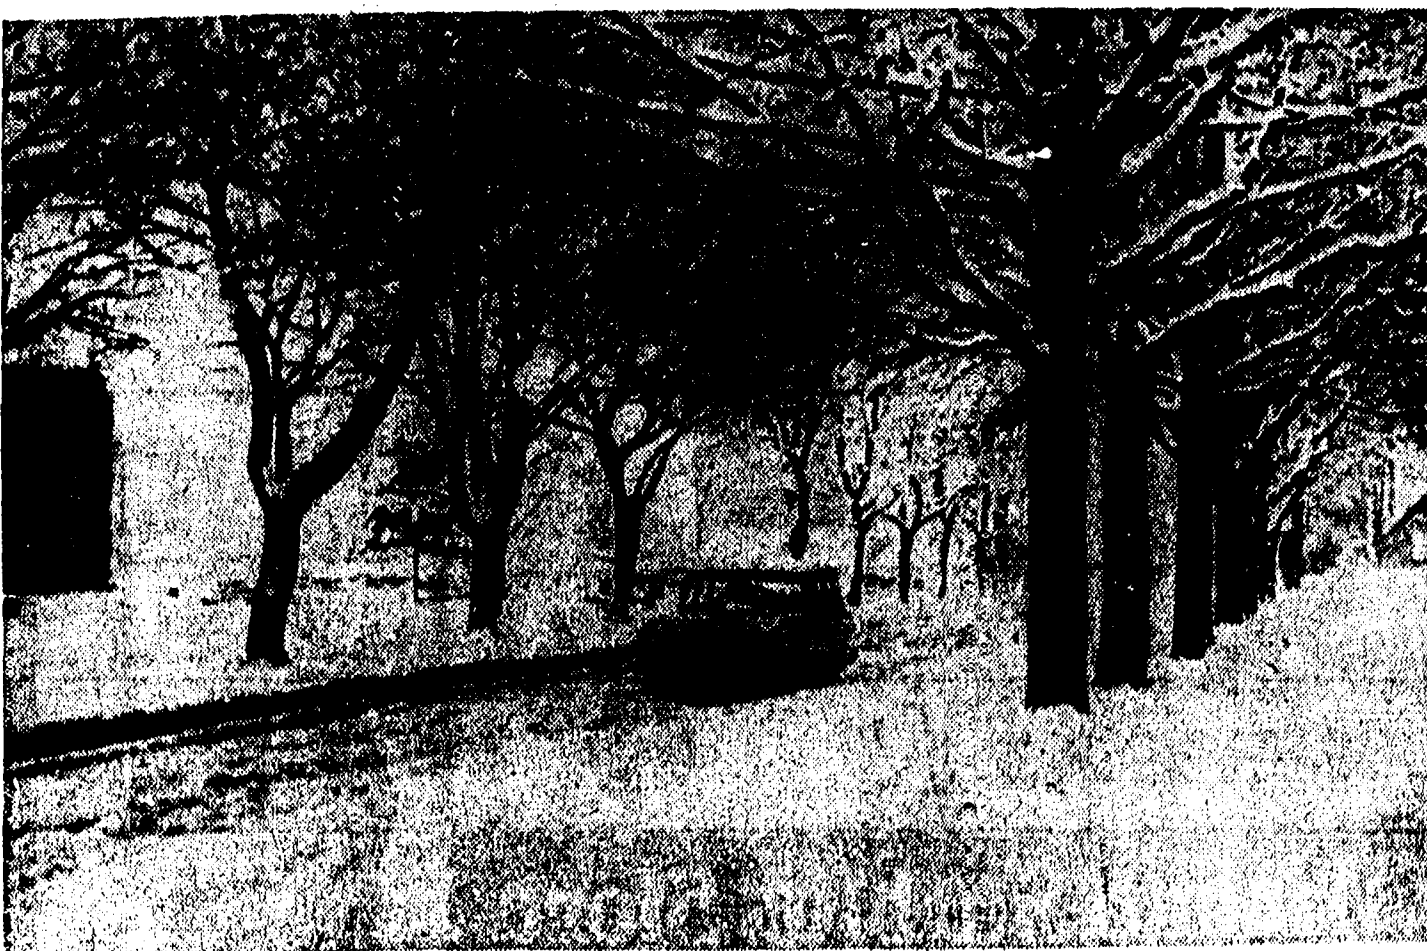

About 100 pro-Communist students spat on Kennedy at the University of Concepcion, threw eggs, rocks and money at him and drowned him out when he tried to speak to a student crowd of several thousand. It was the only unpleasant note to an otherwise enthusiastic reception in an area where Chilean Communists and Marxist Socialists have their greatest strength.

The eggs and stones missed the New York senator, but spittle fell on his forehead and clothes.

Rusk was the target of a 25-year-old man who slipped up and spat at him in Montevideo just after the secretary had placed a wreath at the monument to Gen. Jose Artigas, Uruguay's national hero. State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips, accompanying Rusk, said the secretary was not hit. The man shouted "This is the name of my people" as he spat. Police seized him and took him away. In his pockets were leaflets with the words "Fuera Rusk (Rusk get out)."

Rusk was making a side trip to Argentina and Uruguay before the opening today of the inter-American foreign ministers' conference in Rio de Janeiro.

DEAR ABBY:

This Situation Can Be Awkward

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our eldest daughter has just married a rather crude man of whom we are ashamed, but rather than hurt her we've accepted him as gracefully as possible. Our middle daughter, who is away at college, has written to tell us she'd like to bring two of her college chums home for Thanksgiving, but if her brother-in-law is going to be there she'll not bring them as she doesn't want her friends to get a bad impression of her entire family. We've already invited our eldest daughter and her husband for Thanksgiving dinner and hate to revoke the invitation. But isn't it unfair to deprive our middle daughter of having guests because of this awkward situation? WEST HARTFORD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your college daughter that if she wants to bring her friends, to bring them. Her brother-in-law can disgrace only himself, and his crudeness will reflect on the sister who chose him, and no one else. In my opinion, maintaining good family relations with your married daughter makes more sense than locking the skeleton in the closet in order to present a more pleasing family portrait for your younger daughter's chums.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and I am going into my fourth month, but nobody knows it. I already have my wedding dress, which fits me when I bought it two months ago when I wasn't sure of my condition. If I tell my mother, it will upset all our plans, which I don't want to do. Would it be bad for the baby if I wore a tight corset? Thank you. SKIP MY NAME

DEAR SKIP: ASK YOUR DOCTOR! But I warn you, it will be like trying to smuggle down past a rooster.

DEAR ABBY: After reading your column about the lady who had so many baking failures and then she found out her one-cup measuring cup was one-fourth of a cup too large, I went and measured the new one-cup I recently bought at my supermarket. And to MY amazement, MINE was also a fourth of a cup off! So I want to say thanks for printing that letter. MRS. K. S. IN ELKHART

DEAR ABBY: Those measuring cups that are not accurate could be "off" because they were manufactured in Japan or somewhere in the world where OUR standard of measuring is not the same as theirs. In Canada and England, they use the "imperial" gallon, which is not the same as four quarts in the USA. If I am not mistaken, the imperial gallon has five "quarts," but they call them "quarts," hence, the "fifth" of liquor which looks like our "quart," but isn't. "A CANADIAN CLUBBER"

Hodge-Podge Left and Right

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analysis
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's more than just a wild and woolly time. It's a hodge-podge, left and right.

"Real squares. Old ladies up in the Bronx."

That's what some young radicals today call members of the American Communist party. The weekly newspaper, the National Observer, which quoted them, said they are equally contemptuous of liberals and labor unions.

But Monday the party thought it got a shot in the arm and talked of running candidates for office. But George Lincoln Rockwell, commander of the American Nazi party, has already said he will run for president in 1972.

The Ku Klux Klan is in business. The ultraconservative Minutemen talk of their secret "underground army."

Robert Welch, founder of the right-wing John Birch Society, says of the United States: "It's one vast insane asylum" where "they've let out the worst patients to run the place."

The Communist party has splinter groups. Student groups have splinter groups. Even the Republican party has splinters.

But long after thousands of today's young radicals sag into middle age, raising families and buying homes between trips to the bank, the Communist party will probably be still here.

At least it has an ideology, although it changes with the wind, while many and probably most of the young radicals have only upset emotions and incoherence.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover considers the Communist party a "Moscow-controlled" menace and part of an international Communist conspiracy. He called Gus Hall, the party's chief spokesman, "Moscow-trained."

It was Hall who Monday, after a Supreme Court decision, got the idea that now the party could run candidates, although its claimed membership has dropped from perhaps 100,000 in the 1930s to 10,000 now.

The court held unconstitutional a provision requiring a party member to register as such with the federal government.

This was the reasoning: For failure to register he could be prosecuted and jailed. But if he did register, he could be prosecuted under another law which makes it a crime to belong to a group that advocates overthrowing the government.

Thus, if he registered, he would be risking incriminating himself under the other law. The court pointed out that under the Constitution's Fifth Amendment a man can't be compelled to incriminate himself.

In the 1930s — although the Communist party's part in it was very small — the great domestic crusade was to organize workers into unions. They joined in the millions.

Earlier this month, in a special story on the radical left among the young, the New York Times, picking out the Students for a Democratic Society as the "largest single radical student group on or around campuses," said that the SDS had "pretty much given up the working class as lost, having fallen prey to the union and the Democratic party." The Times says SDS claims 3,000 members, with 90 chapters around the country.

The National Observer, not limiting itself to student groups, said the new left places less emphasis on economic problems, more on "human freedom," and only a few splinter groups try to "out-Mao Mao Te-tung."

Yet, the newspaper went on, "even a tiny splinter group possesses the capacity for mischief if it also possesses dynamite." Some groups are on a crusade against poverty and war in Viet Nam.

FBI's Hoover says "the Communist party is today expending tremendous energy attempting to increase its influence among college students."

Nuclear Weapons Recommended for West Germany

NEW YORK (AP) — An American official has suggested equipping West Germany with nuclear weapons capable of reaching Soviet nuclear sites in western Russia, the New York Times reported today.

In a dispatch from Washing-

Universities With 50,000 Students Seen

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — When students at the University of California in Berkeley rioted a year ago, paralyzed the campus and triggered student revolts across the nation the "experts" had an easy answer:

"California has 27,500 students — it's too big to be manageable."

"Not at all," say university presidents gathered here in convention.

"Within 10 years we'll be talking about universities with 50,000 enrollment," President Fred Harrington of the University of Wisconsin said today.

"In the Big Ten, we already have six institutions with more than California's 27,500 students, and we haven't had any trouble."

Dr. Howard R. Neville, provost of Michigan State University, told a news conference Monday:

"We are concerned about 'bigness,' but we are not afraid of it."

Michigan State has an enrollment of 35,500.

Chancellor R. W. Fleming of the University of Wisconsin, with 28,400 students on its Madison campus, said there has been a relative lack of unrest there because the university has a policy "which permits students a high degree of freedom both in governing themselves and in participating in extra-curricular activities."

Fleming said, "Size, in our view, is not a handicap if the university administration insists on treating students as individuals."

President O. Meredith Wilson of the University of Minnesota — with about 37,000 full-time students — said:

"Our college of pharmacy has about 225 students — we'd be better off if that college were bigger. The college of dentistry has about 500 students — perhaps it should be bigger."

"We are under constant pressure to increase the size of the college of medicine — by the very people who say we already are too big."

More than 1,000 college presidents and administrators are here for the annual convention of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities.

Britain Suffers Power Shortage

LONDON (AP) — Relief came to power-hungry Britain today in the form of warmer weather. Factories idled by gas and electricity shortages began calling workers back. But the unseasonable cold wave persisted in the rest of Europe.

With daytime temperatures hovering around freezing Tuesday, power supplies in Britain were too low to handle the demands for heating. Today, the mid-day temperature edged toward 40 degrees and power ran normally. Gas pressure remained slightly reduced in some areas.

The wave of power cuts brought widespread complaints against the state-owned British power system for failing to foresee demand.

An Associated Press survey showed Britain was the only country in Western Europe to suffer power and gas cuts during the cold snap. European public utilities, also government-owned, functioned normally. All of Western Europe except Britain is linked up in an international power grid.

Construction Case Nearing Jury Decision

Testimony wound up at noon today in District Court in a $1,600 damage suit involving construction of a concrete block building for which the contractor claims he has not been fully paid.

Attorney William A. Lindquist, representing plaintiff Donald D. Walchak, 1741 W. Wabasha St., called an expert witness in rebuttal of expert testimony given Tuesday afternoon for the defendants, Jerome J. and Jerome D. Borzyskowski, both of 827 E. 4th St.

STANLEY A. Hammer, 358 W. 4th St., a general contractor, testified that the masonry work done by Walchak on the Borzyskowski job struck him as "good average construction."

He told defendants' attorney Roger P. Brosnahan, however, "That's a tough one to answer," when Brosnahan asked whether the work was the kind Hammer would give his employees a pat on the back for.

Brosnahan agreed that the question was a tough one. Hammer did not answer it.

Hammer told the court that the minimum temperature for doing masonry work is 32 degrees and rising. He said that the mortar in the work done by Walchak is hard, as it ought to be.

HOWEVER, he noted that the mortar in some glass block windows laid by George J. Karsten after Walchak had been taken off the job was soft and could be scraped out with a key or knife.

This mortar was the consistency of mortar which might have been laid in too cold weather, Hammer testified.

(Karsten told the court Tuesday that the glass block windows were laid in January, 1965.)

Hammer agreed with Brosnahan that it is customary to put in door frames before laying concrete block walls so as to ensure that the door spaces will come out right. The doors in the Borzyskowski building were lower than standard, Hammer said.

JEROME J. Borzyskowski was the final defendant's witness, leading off testimony this morning.

He said that he showed Walchak iron survey markers from which to lay out the building lines. There was no "guesswork" about this, contrary to what Walchak had earlier testified, according to Borzyskowski.

Walchak, Borzyskowski testified, first assured them that they would be in the building by Thanksgiving, then he revised this to promise completion by Christmas or New Years. The Borzyskowskis agreed to both of these completion proposals, but neither was fulfilled, he said.

Cost of completion of the building after Walchak was taken off the job was $2,000 to $2,100, Borzyskowski told the court.

BORZYSKOWSKI said he had read the construction contract after Walchak and his son signed it, and he noticed that the contract stated "no time limit" for completion.

In answer to questions by Lindquist, Borzyskowski repeatedly stated that his reason for deciding to get another contractor to finish the job was that Walchak was working too slowly.

He testified that, as a plumbing contractor, he works on more than one job at a time.

If a customer would demand that he work only on his job until it was finished, Borzyskowski said, he would tell him, "I am sorry ma'am, (or mister). You will have to wait until I have the available time."

Walchak never told him it was too cold to finish in December, Borzyskowski said. He admitted telling Walchak that he didn't mind the contractor working on other jobs when it was too cold to work on the Borzyskowski building, however.

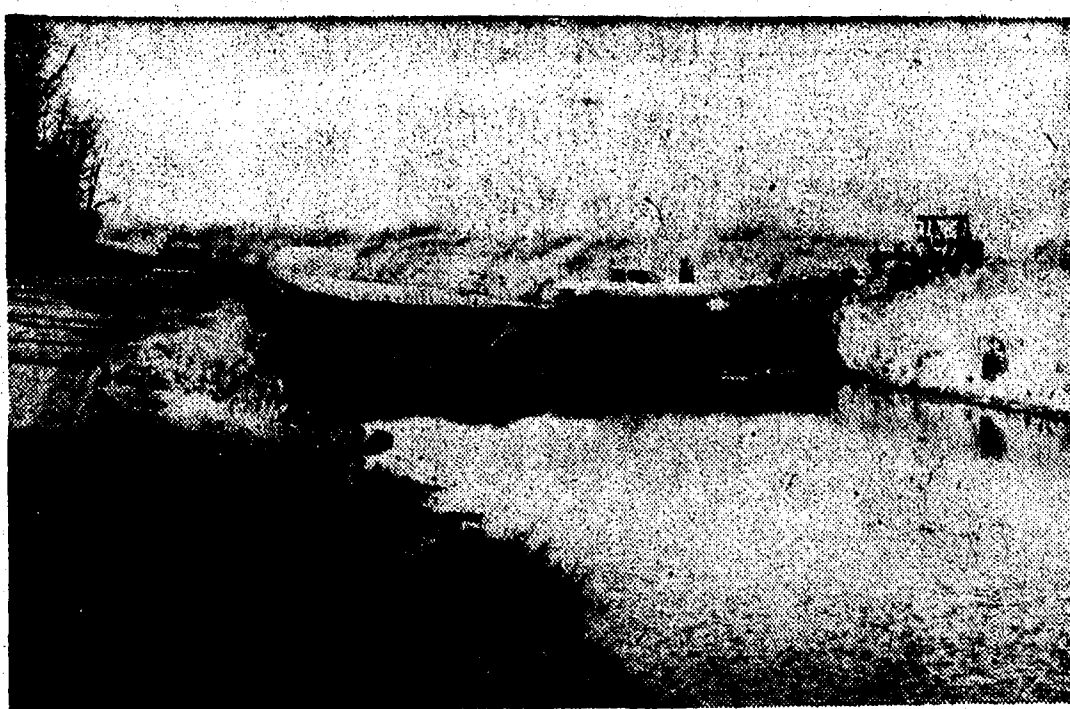

"A substantial part of the building was completed (by Walchak)," Borzyskowski told Lindquist, "but not in the time that it should have been completed."

LINDQUIST called Walchak back to the stand for rebuttal testimony. Walchak said that the younger Borzyskowski had several times told him, "You do good work, but you don't do enough of it."

The Borzyskowskis never asked him to do anything over again, Walchak said; and the younger man's complaint about slow progress was made in a friendly way, he added.

On cross-examination by Brosnahan, Walchak denied ever telling the Borzyskowskis that he was going to "shut down" the job. He told them, on the contrary, that he would "pick away" at the job all winter.

REVISIONS BEING MADE

School Site Rejection Delays Renewal Plan

By FRANK UHLIG
Daily News Staff Writer

A final report on the renewal plan for downtown, due this month, will be delayed at least a month, the Housing and Redevelopment Authority of Winona learned at its meeting Tuesday night.

Decisions by the City Council and Board of Education to bypass downtown as a vocational-technical school site have forced a revision of possible project sequences. The downtown school site, proposed by W. W. Chapman, planner for the authority, was to be the No. 1 renewal project.

ACCORDING to his operating schedule, Chapman would have presented his final report and finished plan at the meeting. More working sessions now will be needed to adjust figures and estimates and to reconstruct a table-sized model of the downtown planning area, Chapman said. Boundaries of the several project areas also may be altered as a result of these conferences.

Board members, who had been enthusiastic about the downtown school site, were both disappointed and philosophical about Council action in vetoing the suggestion. Said Dr. W. O. Finklenburg, chairman:

"This doesn't mean that our whole plan has been rejected by the community. It did not turn on whether the vocational school is downtown or elsewhere; that was only one element of the complete downtown plan."

"The plan being produced should be of and for the whole community. It was the board's feeling that the school site was the best use for the area involved. However, there were widespread objections to the idea, so we have to consider this as a sort of trial proposal to which we have had a definite answer."

"It simply was not an acceptable portion of the plan, as far as a majority was concerned, regardless of our own opinions. So now we will have to move on to other things."

CHAPMAN commented that the authority is "helping the community draft a plan. Monday a determination was made about a part of that plan. We began with the assumption that some downtown changes were needed and that someone felt the need enough to start planning. We will define some sort of plan. If the basic assumption was right, the plan will outline the method by which the community makes the needed changes."

Some doubts about the overall enthusiasm for rebuilding among downtown businesses were voiced by J. E. Krier, board member.

Many were cool to the downtown school site, Dr. Finklenburg said, but this does not necessarily mean a general opposition to renewal. Some saw no relationship between the school question and that of renewal, Dr. Finklenburg suggested, and are interested in improvement of other types.

ONE RESULT of the site decision will be to put the four-block area well down the line in the proposed project list, Chapman said. The district is bounded by Franklin, 3rd, Walnut and 5th streets.

An alternate use for the area could be as a mixture of prime residential and commercial sites, Chapman said, or a pattern similar to the existing one. Some structures are deteriorated and others are serviceable, he noted. New uses for upgraded portions might include apartments or perhaps a publicly financed elderly housing apartment building.

It is also possible for fraternal or church organizations to build such housing facilities for older citizens, Chapman pointed out. This is another alternative to public financing of such dwellings, he said.

Many people are disturbed by the question of relocating families who might be displaced by renewal, said Dr. Finklenburg.

"WHAT happens when these people are affected?" he asked. "Suppose some homes are purchased for clearance. Can these people rebuild for the money they get out of their houses? If they can't afford to replace their homes, we are required to furnish safe, sanitary and decent housing for them. They don't have to take it but we must make it available. How do we do it?"

It is important to schedule redevelopment so that changes come gradually, not all at once, Chapman replied. When this is done, the affected persons are absorbed into other facilities, either private or public, with minimum disturbance.

When a project area is designated, planners are responsible for making a 100 percent survey of all persons therein and helping with any relocation problems, noted James Kleinschmidt, urban renewal director for the authority.

THE SURVEY includes information on individuals, ages, families, incomes and preferences in living quarters, he added. Some will find other housing themselves, some must be helped and some may move to public housing. Preliminary studies have shown that a number of persons would be eligible for residence in homes for elderly, Chapman said.

Attitudes of people toward redevelopment might be more favorable if a service or fraternal group were to offer to build such facilities in a renewed area, said Steve Morgan, board member. If the assurance were had of such development before the plan went into effect there would likely be better public acceptance, he observed.

The problem for private developers may be that land and construction costs might force rents up too high for persons on limited incomes, said Dr. Finklenburg. A suggestion by Krier that the board secure options on land for addition to the authority's elderly housing was not acted upon. However, it was noted that preliminary neighborhood planning has included possible sites for a downtown high-rise elderly housing unit financed by federal and other public funds.

NEXT STEP for planners is to set up the new order of proposed projects, said Chapman. When the final plan is made it

2 Slightly Hurt In Collisions; Damage $1,975

Three two-car collisions Tuesday on Winona streets caused $1,975 damage and two minor injuries, police reported today.

Both injuries occurred in a collision at Main Street and Broadway at 12:27 p.m. The drivers complained of pain but were not hospitalized.

Mrs. Donald V. Gray, 67 E. Howard St., was driving south on Main Street and crossing Broadway with the green light when the collision occurred with a car driven west on Broadway by Michael J. Lee, 18, 273 W. Howard St.

Lee forfeited $25 today in municipal court on a charge of going through a red light (causing an accident). Patrolman Willis H. Wogan investigated. Damage was $450 to the left front and rear of the Gray car and $425 to the front and right rear of the Lee vehicle.

A collision at West Mark and Wilson streets at 11:55 a.m. resulted in $550 in damage to the vehicles involved.

Francis A. Losinski, 1111 Gilmore Ave., was driving south on Wilson Street; James S. Soll, 22, 118 W. Sanborn St., was driving east on Mark.

Damage was $200 to the right front of the Losinski vehicle and $350 to the front of the Soll car. Patrolman Wogan investigated.

Jill M. Wessin, 20, 507 Sioux St., was driving east on 4th Street at 12:55 p.m. James A. O'Brien, 24, Wabasha, Minn., was driving south on Kansas. Damage was $400 to the right side of the O'Brien car and $150 to the front of the Wessin vehicle. Patrolman Herbert R. Kanthack investigated.

400 Cheerleaders Expected at Osseo For Clinic Saturday

OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — Osseo cheerleaders and the Girls Athletic Association, directed by Mrs. Delores Colby will sponsor the North Central Cheerleaders Clinic Saturday.

Registration will be from 8:45 to 9:45 a.m. More than 400 students from 35 area high schools are expected.

Mrs. Mary Ann Davis will instruct in pom-pom routines, new cheerleading techniques and cheerleading skills. Mrs. Davis has trained thousands of college and high school cheerleaders throughout the Midwest. She is writing a cheerleading book, "Cheerleading Teaches New Heights." She is consultant of a high school cheerleading magazine, "The Pepperette."

is reviewed by officials of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. This is the agency which supplied the $77,600 grant which is financing the planning activity.

After this review, said Chapman, it comes back for local approval. This must be given by the authority, by the City Planning Commission and the City Council before any project can be started, he said.

Chapman said he would prepare a pamphlet explaining the final plan and report and that copies would be available to the public.

Rep. Quie Lists 3 Differences Between Parties

There are major differences between the two major parties, despite a common belief to the contrary, Cong. Albert H. Quie said here Tuesday:

The differences, he said, break down into three major categories. Republicans differ from Democrats, he said, in: Usually wanting more responsibility at the local level, rather than turning to Washington for decision-making; Republicans feel the federal role should be one of cooperation in which it assists in implementing programs that originate at the state and local levels, rather than by-passing state and even local governments as has occurred in some federal programs, and Republicans favor a pay-as-you-go fiscal policy, except in times of war or recession.

"Republicans take this view of financing federal programs—which is often misinterpreted—simply because we realize that the problems of tomorrow are going to be even bigger and more complex and certainly more expensive than those of today," he told the St. Mary's College Young Republican Club.

Speaking on the "role of a Republican today," the congressman said that the major responsibility of an opposition party is to oppose unwise legislation.

"But we must also recommend alternatives in order to solve problems of our times," he said. The Republican organization in the House of Representatives completely reorganized last January, he said. The backbone of the reorganization is a group of 14 task forces, each assigned to study and report on a specific legislative area. Cong. Quie is chairman of the House Republican task force on education and a member of the NATO unity and Economic Opportunity task forces.

Alma Club Hosts New Warden, Plans Activities

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — A guest at the meeting of the Alma Rod & Gun Club at the Burlington Hotel Monday night was James Everson, new Buffalo County conservation warden appointed to succeed Stanley Apel, retired.

Apel was present and introduced Everson. Everson moved from Sauk City to a residence he purchased in Buffalo City, where he, his wife and year-old son, Timmy, are settled. A graduate of Platteville State University, he taught school before becoming a full-time employee of the Conservation Department in 1957.

PLANS FOR the annual Christmas dinner at the Alma Hotel in December and the fifth annual Rieck's Park Festival next June were discussed briefly.

Top attraction at Rieck's Lake Park, north of Alma, a Rod & Gun Club project, is the large flock of mallards and other ducks that make their home on the lake and at the park. Members said about 100 birds are there. John Wilbur is in charge of encouraging the ducks to remain over winter. The club will try to add some geese to the flock.

Ed Godel, county forester, called attention to the appointment by the county board of a park and recreation committee. He said it was possible the club may be able to obtain appropriations toward such park improvements. Godel was appointed chairman of a committee to seek assistance. Charles Michaels and Robert Hanson are other members of the committee.

Club President Clem Breen called on committee chairman

Barrel Explodes; Man, 75, Critical

A 75-year-old Winona man, Samuel Kohal, 520 Mankato Ave., is in critical condition after suffering second and third degree burns over most of his body in an explosion and fire among empty barrels at the Shive Road refuse pit shortly before 9 a.m. today.

Kohal, who is self employed, was burning out metal barrels for salvage sale when one exploded, engulfing him in flames, according to Patrolman Paul Kapustik. The barrel apparently contained alcoholic fumes, Kapustik said.

The injured man was discovered unconscious and lying on the ground outside the trench shortly after 9 by Frank Budnik, 1012 E. King St., who was making a routine check of the area.

Kohal apparently had walked out of the trench with his clothing in flames and rolled on the ground, attempting to put out the fire, Officer Kapustik reported. Only one glove, a jacket and part of a belt was unburned.

Budnik removed Kohal's unburned clothing and covered the burned man with rugs before calling an ambulance and police.

Kohal was rushed to Community Memorial Hospital, then transferred to Rochester.

Kapustik drove Kohal's car home and notified the injured man's wife, Emma, and then returned to the accident scene, which is east of Mankato Avenue and near the eastern city limits.

Soldier Wounded With 1st Cavalry

A Winona soldier was seriously wounded in Viet Nam Monday.

Mrs. Phillip Kram, 656 E. Howard St., was advised by the Army Tuesday that her son, Sgt. Walter A. Niemeyer, 23, had been wounded in the left and right legs by fragments from a grenade. Amputation at the right knee was expected.

"Prognosis is good," the mother was advised. Niemeyer is in the 8th Field Hospital.

Only last Saturday, said his mother, the sergeant had written that it was "tough going" and that he was planning to end his Army career at the end of his present enlistment period, which has about a year to go. He has been in Viet Nam with the 1st Cavalry Division since last July.

He is married to a Kansas girl and his wife and eight daughter live near Ft. Benning, Ga., where Walter was stationed before departing overseas. Since enlisting in 1956 Walter has served in Korea, Alaska, Germany, the States and now Viet Nam.

Mrs. Kram has had another son in Viet Nam. S. Sgt. Melvin returned only recently from a tour of duty there with the Air Force. He now is at Phoenix, Ariz., and Mr. and Mrs. Kram plan to visit Melvin and his wife at Christmas.

Melvin's twin, Marvin, has completed Air Force service and is living in Winona.

Buffalo Co. Judge Denies Trial Delay

ALMA, Wis. — Buffalo County Judge Gary Schlosstein denied Tuesday a defense request for a six-month postponement and set Nov. 29 as the tentative trial date for Dr. A. F. Ottow, 72, Beloit, charged with criminal abortion. The defense had asked the trial delay on grounds that Dr. Ottow suffered heart trouble.

Judge Schlosstein was assigned to the case by the state board of circuit judges a month ago. The trial will be in Beloit.

for reports. The club has been sponsoring a firearm safety class for youths. Godel said 20 young people, 11 to 16, were enrolled. Another class is planned.

CHRISTIAN Schultz reported that his committee released 180 pheasants from club pens, and hunters had a good harvest as a result. Other members reported a fairly large number of wild turkeys, evidently the result of release of turkeys by the club in recent seasons.

A total of 35 bird houses built by high school students and placed in the area as a club promotion to increase the bluebird population succeeded in its purpose. The club asked that 50 more be built.

Lanesboro School Group to Study Federal Program

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special) — Lanesboro school board has decided to organize a committee of interested people, school administrators and board members to study the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to recommend initiating projects that might be of use to the school.

Tentative approval was given to bills for seven items under the National Defense Education Act. The federal government will reimburse the district up to 55 percent of cost, Supt. E. A. Johnson said.

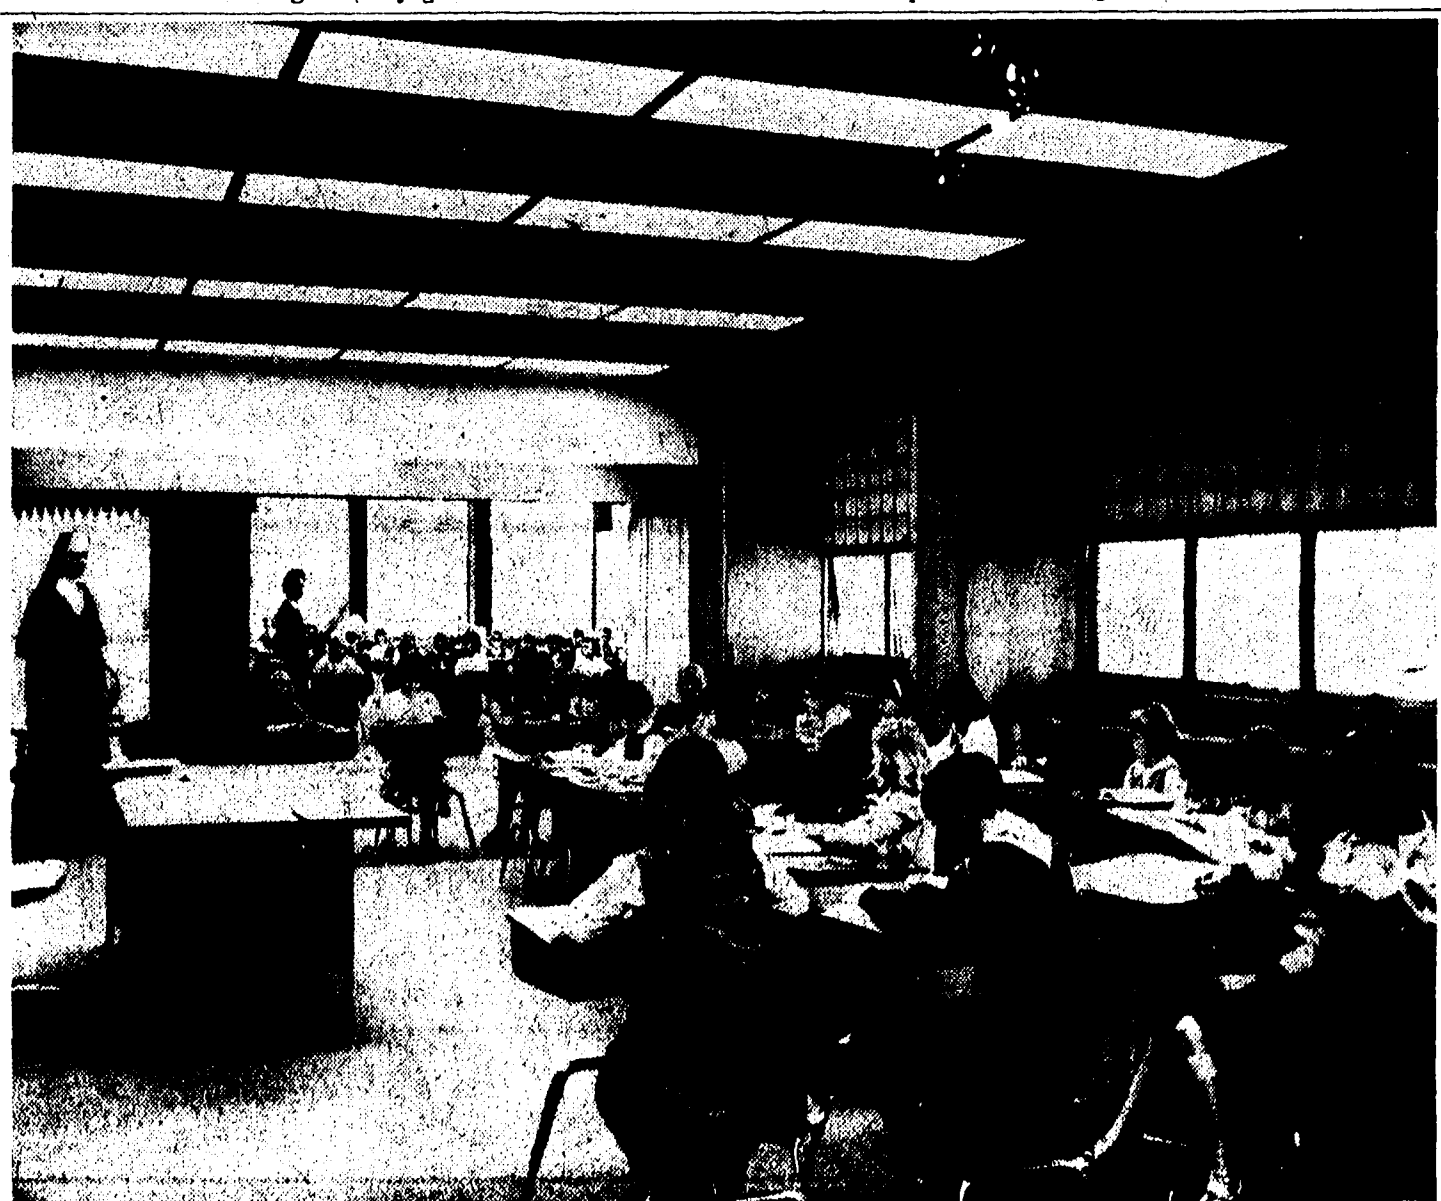

Disposal of the Grubtown School property, District 497, is subject to inspection by the board, Johnson said.

Mrs. Walter Wead was hired as assistant cook at $155 per month.

The board voted to pay Mrs. Joseph Soffa, fifth grade teacher, an additional $50 for supervisory duties at the elementary school during the eight-week absence of the elementary principal, Mrs. Lloyd Sorum.

Phyllis Diller 'Unglamor Girl'

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — The addicts of Phyllis Diller will be elated — and perhaps startled — to discover that Lima, Ohio's gift to glamor, is now destined to become a star of the silver screen ... sort of an unglamor girl.

Bob Hope's promoting her elevation to stardom. Only Bob would have the sense of humor to want a cafe comedienne, noted for a monologue about how messy she can make the kitchen, to be cast as a housemaid. On reading the script of "Did I Get a Wrong Number?" in which he stars, Bob urged that Phyllis play his maid — and he would switch the script around so that she would resemble a maid named Eileen Taylor who works in his Palm Springs home.

"She's a character ... she's a critic," Hope told me on the United Artists set, where Marjorie Lord plays his wife and Elke Sommer plays a movie star who says she doesn't want to do any nude scenes any more — and walks out on the highway nude. "I say to her in the morning, 'This coffee isn't fresh,' and she says, 'It's fresher than the jokes you used on your show last night,'" Hope said.

"And," Hope related, "if I complain about the toast, she's likely to say, 'Why don't you do something with your hair?' I wish I could," he added.

DEBBIE REYNOLDS was rehearsing a dance scene for "The Singing Nun" at MGM and Joe Pasternak walked me over there to show me Debbie's Rolls-Royce convertible which she drives to work ... When Harry Karl will let her have it ... "This car comes from little shoes," Pasternak said, referring of course to Karl's stores ... "No," said Debbie, "it comes from little shoes and little shoes."

Smog, smog, that's all they talk about here. "Smog," said Barty Lytton, the financier, "is only in the eye of the beholder." True, and then it gets in his nose.

ED WYNN WAS celebrating his 79th birthday at Dave Chasen's and told his son Keenan, "If God doesn't need me for another year, I'll make it to 80." They took Carroll Baker's picture down from the wall at Paramount. But Carroll's going on Bob Hope's Viet Nam Christmas tour ... Shirley MacLaine, whose admirers are numerous, gained another one in Lord Snowdon, and Shirley will probably be invited to several of Princess Margaret's continuing parties.

Corn Drying, But Slowly

ST. PAUL (AP) — Another week of good drying weather helped materially as farmers tried to salvage their wet corn, the Minnesota Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

However, only 55 per cent of the corn crop had been picked by last weekend. The moisture content is still running high and much of the corn now being harvested requires artificial drying, the weekly crop report said.

Tractor Runs Over Gilmanton Co-op Worker

GILMANTON, Minn. (Special) — An employee of Gilmanton Co-operative Creamery received a cracked collarbone and cracked pelvis when he was run over by one wheel of a tractor Tuesday about 4 p.m.

While standing in front of the left front wheel, Elmer Myers, about 34, leaned forward to turn on the ignition. The tractor started forward and the wheel rolled over his entire body. He managed to pull his head out of the way of the large wheel. He was taken by ambulance to Buffalo Memorial Hospital, Mondovi.

A patron had come to the co-op to have his car winterized. Myers was using a tractor loader to raise the car up to drain the old anti-freeze. He got the car part way up and decided it should be higher. The ignition was off so he turned to turn it on again.

Body of Slain Girl Sought in Arizona Desert

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — In a stretch of desert just outside southern Arizona's biggest city, a search goes on for the body of pretty Alleen Rowe.

The 15-year-old girl's mother, Mrs. Norma Rowe, identified two metal hair curlers uncovered at the spot Tuesday as those of her daughter's. Alleen was wearing the curlers when she disappeared May 31, 1964.

Two young people charged with murdering Alleen helped officers in the search, but their attorneys said they would not allow John Saunders, 19, and Mary Rae French, 18, to go back today.

Alleen reportedly was wearing two rings, and Sheriff Waldon Burr said he would use a metal detector today to hunt for her shallow grave. Officers said the grave may be deeper now because of an unusual amount of rain that fell in Tucson last year. Rains could have moved a large amount of sand from higher areas to where the grave was dug.

The possibility that the girl's body could have been moved by one of her attackers also was being considered, officers said.

Although the girl's mother said her daughter had told her of a teen-aged sex club which she refused to join, police discounted this.

"There is nothing to substantiate her belief at this time," Police Chief Bernard Garmire said.

An informer told police that Alleen was killed by Saunders, Miss French and Charles Schmid, 23, Garmire said. All three were charged with murdering her and were jailed without bond.

Humphrey on GTA Program Thursday Night

ST. PAUL (AP) — A parade of political figures begins today at the big convention of the Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association.

About 5,000 farmer - delegates, from Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana, are attending convention sessions in the St. Paul Auditorium.

Following addresses by various GTA officials and divisional managers, the convention will present two afternoon talks today by United States senators both Democrats. Quentin N. Burdick of North Dakota and George McGovern of South Dakota will speak.

On the program Thursday will be Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.; Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota; Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn. An 8 p.m. address by Vice-President Hubert Humphrey is being broadcast by 28 radio stations.

Dwayne Andreas, a GTA official who has had a close association with Humphrey, spoke Tuesday. Andreas was critical of the United States Department of Agriculture and lambasted its "ignoble goals" of continued cutbacks in farm production.

Humphrey has pushed for expansion of U. S. food production to meet world hunger.

Andreas assailed the "hysteria about surpluses" which, he said, had motivated the USDA to order massive cutbacks in production. He said the USDA has been "seized by a crop-cutting orgy" and has become "a government of the farmer, by the statisticians and for the statisticians who would substitute lead-penciled calculations for the judgment of farmers and the needs of humanity."

He described it as a "sordid chapter in American history."

There are better days ahead, Andreas said, because, "under the leadership of President Johnson, this cutback binge is coming to an end." He indicated the time is near when "men of little vision, dedicated to crop-cutting," will be overruled.

The GTA general manager, M. W. Thatcher, appeared only briefly on the program because of a heavy cold. In his statement printed in the GTA annual report, Thatcher agreed with Andreas that "agriculture's great downside has been stopped."

"From here on, we are moving up and ahead," said Thatcher. "You can look ahead with confidence and new hope that was not possible a few years ago."

Apathy, Not Revolts, Big U of M Problem

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —It's "the students who don't care enough to be revolting" who pose the big problem to universities, not the demonstrating minorities, says Edmund G. Williamson, dean of students at the University of Minnesota.

"Apathy is a much more serious problem than the violence of the minority splinter groups," Williamson said last night.

"On every campus the largest percentage of students are those who couldn't care less; who put their quarter in the vending machine, get their hot dog and go home; who never join the university."

Williamson spoke at a panel session during the annual convention of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges. The three-day convention ends today.

"The great unsolved problem is that people don't care enough to be involved in controversy," Williamson said.

The dean said there is really nothing new about student unrest but the current generation has added three new variables to the picture:

—News coverage of demonstrations has made student unrest seem universal, although this isn't necessarily true.

—Students on different campuses are imitating each other.

—Students have picked up pressure techniques, such as sit-ins, not common in the past.

Williamson said the most important right the students are demanding is the right to be taken seriously.

Another panel speaker, Dean of Women Miriam A. Sheldon of the University of Illinois, said college administrators should invite students to take a direct hand in helping run the institutions.

Dean Sheldon said all committees within the university should be opened to student participation, including those studying such topics as grading systems, evaluation of teaching, the use of new technology, and student academic freedom.

Also, she said, "I would capitalize on student idealism to meet the great societal needs of our time. Where we would be cautious, let them be bold. (We should) encourage daring student idealism and support their reforms, even if their actions are not our ways and their beliefs are not ours."

Dr. Harry H. Ransom, chancellor of the University of Texas, said today a new day has arrived for the teaching profession.

In a talk prepared for the association's meeting, Ransom linked a surge of interest in college instruction to highly vocal student complaints.

— Student outcry, which once had been spontaneous expression of the undergraduate's inalienable right to complain, "he said.

— Students put their case in forceful terms: They objected less to what and how they were being taught (an ancient complaint) than to the fact that some were sure they were being completely ignored (a new and serious charge.)"

Princess Goes to Party

Gay Night For Meg

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imagine having Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon turn up in your neighborhood for a party and you'll get the idea of how it was on Highland Place.

Especially, if the host and hostess — the nation's attorney general and his wife — are trying to keep everything a secret.

It was like a block party with kids and dogs and grownups watching the show. Four boys climbed on a roof to get a better view. Older folks brought their drinks along and launched party-watcher parties.

Suddenly, that sleek, black Rolls-Royce rolled up. The princess, in a white satin gown and white mink wrap, stopped briefly outside the house. Flashbulbs flared.

A crowd pressed tightly against the white fence to watch the excitement at the home of Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Nicholas Katzenbach, the social lions of Washington Tuesday night.

Applause and a loud, appreciative wolf whistle greeted the princess. She waved and smiled. It was 11 p.m. and the candlelight party with five-man combo was on — an affair for young, gay, talented types, hostess Lydia Katzenbach said the royal couple might not otherwise have met.

As they checked in, past a cordon of reporters and photographers, the secret guests — about 60 — turned out to include the wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara;

(Nels Laasko, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Diedrich, 467 E. 3rd St., is a member of the Peter Duchin orchestra which will play at the White House this evening when President and Mrs. L. B. Johnson entertain Princess Margaret of Great Britain and her husband Lord Snowdon.)

Some screeches of laughter were heard outside when Lord Snowdon donned an ungainly sweater adorned with black ties. Mrs. Katzenbach made it after hearing he once complained he never knew when he went home whether he'd be required to wear blue jeans or black tie.

It looked like a long, gay night. But the princess, after a day of sight seeing, a British Embassy reception, a tea party and a dinner with high military officers, decided to leave at 1:20 a.m.

The party broke up after her departure.

'Sizing Up' of New Legislation a Good Idea

WE AGREE WITH Cong. Al Quie when he says that the next session of Congress should be spent in "sizing up, sorting out and sifting through" the hastily-passed legislation of the last session.

"The vast 2-1 Democratic majority rushed through an average of one major administration bill every two congressional working days," Cong. Quie said. "The bills contain authorization for spending $119 billion. It is expected that in two years the federal expenditures will reach $150 billion — half again as much as this year's attempted budget — and yet Congress just went on passing administration demands."

"This has been a Congress in which the President demands, Congress bows to commands," he said, "and yet sometimes Congress spent even more than the President asked, as in the case of the military and civil service pay raises. This has been a Congress of runaway spending."

IF JUST SEVEN major Great Society programs — representing only about 11 percent of the total federal budget — are projected on a per capita basis to determine a cost to Mower County, Minn., of which Austin is the county seat, it is found they would cost the county $3,270,027 this year alone, Cong. Quie said. This compares to a county budget of only $1,896,400 this year.

"If these seven programs continue at their current estimated cost for five years, the Mower County cost share would be nearly $18 million — and we know they are going to expand," Cong. Quie said.

The cost of the seven individual programs to Mower County, projected on a per capita basis for this year only, are: Social Security-Medicare, $1,703,901; Urban Development and Housing, $419,337; Poverty, $395,289; Aid to Elementary-Secondary Schools, $342,684; Aid to Higher Education, $222,945; Aid to Appalachia, $96,192 and Area Development, $89,679. Similar figures, of course, are applicable to Winona County and every other county.

IN A SERIES of speeches in the district last week, Cong. Quie had some other comments, a few of which are summarized here:

- Even though no funds were appropriated this year to establish the administration's National Teachers Corps, the revolutionary program is probably only delayed and not dead.

The act proposes to create a corps of 6,000 teachers to fill classrooms in schools where there are concentrations of low-income families. The federal government would pay all training and placement costs and reimburse the local school district 100 percent for wages or expenses.

- The administration's wage and price guidelines will have little long-range effect in controlling inflation unless something is done about runaway federal spending.

- The decision of the aluminum industry to raise its prices a cent a pound — since revoked — is an indication that serious inflationary forces are at work in the economy.

- The fantastic cost of the "Great Society" and its potential inflationary effect can best be measured by breaking the total figures down to a comprehensible comparison.

- If the majority in Congress were reversed and the Republicans held a 2-1 advantage as Democrats do today, federal aid to education would not be reduced. Once a program is begun, it is here to stay.

This is the reason it is so important to work out sound programs and to prevent inequities before they can happen, because once a local community begins depending on federal funds, it would be very difficult for them to raise an equal amount of revenue through local taxes.

The Impacted Areas Aid program which funds schools "impacted" by a sudden influx of federal personnel is a good example.

The man I consider the most conservative member of Congress votes for this bill every year, because his district receives $3 million in aid. His vote might be justified for his district, but it is certainly not justified in Montgomery County, Md., as an example. Montgomery is the richest county in the United States, yet it receives $5 million in impacted areas aid.

There are more people in Montgomery County with doctor's degrees than anywhere else in the country, so there should be proper motivation. The bill should be amended to eliminate the Montgomery Counties from the list of aid recipients, but it hasn't been done.

TODAY IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Writer Honors Senator Byrd

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Harry F. Byrd of Virginia is gone from the Senate of the United States, but the lesson which his career teaches has an enduring significance. For he has manifested courage and integrity amid the hypocrisies of political life today.

There are all sorts of definitions of "conservatism" being publicized nowadays, but most of them do not fit Harry Byrd. Nor can he be described by many of the other "isms" and phrases which are being currently used to describe persons who do not believe in misappropriating other people's money to gain even temporarily the support of selfish groups. Simply stated, the outgoing senator has been unequivocally the champion of common honesty in government and of a public servant's obligation to spend taxpayers' money and borrowed funds with the same frugality as if it were his own private income.

Harry Byrd was known countrywide as a "progressive" when he became governor of Virginia in 1926. He put through the state legislature the nation's first anti-lynching law, and there hasn't been a lynching since in Virginia. He undertook a major highway-building program and put it on a pay-as-you-go basis. He reorganized the state government by consolidating about 100 agencies into 12 departments.

GOV. BYRD came to the United States Senate on March 4, 1933 — the dismal day when all the banks throughout the country were ordered closed indefinitely. He had supported Franklin D. Roosevelt because of the pledge in the Democratic party's 1932 platform that federal expenses would be cut at least 25 percent. It was over this issue that he later had differences with the administration, but he always felt he was one of the original "new dealers" and that it was not he but others who had strayed from the party platform.

But why was Sen. Byrd so absorbed in the subject of sound fiscal policy? The fact is he was frustrated as a young man due to the financial difficulties of his parents and he couldn't afford to go to college. He took over, at the age of 15, the weekly newspaper established by his family which had been plunged into bankruptcy. As he gradually met with success, he bought a tract of land and has since become one of the largest growers of apples in the world.

What Harry Byrd learned in trying to make ends meet produced an indelible impression on his mind, as so often happens with self-made men. It unquestionably had a lasting effect on the way he dealt with issues in his public career in later years.

ABOVE ALL, Harry Byrd followed the commands of an ever-present conscience, irrespective of the temptations of politics. He never voted on any bill that could affect his own property. He didn't accept a cent of federal money for his farming operations and once had a technical amendment inserted in a law that would disqualify him from benefiting from a measure affecting certain types of securities he held. He regarded public office as a sacred responsibility — a trusteeship which required an unswerving fidelity to the cause of fiscal as well as social responsibility.

Many of the theorists of today have never known what it means to borrow money from a bank or accept capital from investors to start and carry on a business and then to meet these obligations. Sen. Byrd thought of public funds in the same way, because he never forgot that individual citizens struggling for a livelihood paid out their hard-earned money in taxes every year with a blind faith that the governmental authorities would deal honestly with the citizens' earnings.

HARRY BYRD was brought up in the school of practical experience — not just theory. He has always had the ideals of a progressive but the common sense of a conservative who knows that, however honestly a man may operate his business, he is no less a bankrupt if he fails to pay back what he owes. The same concept was applied by Sen. Byrd to the fundamentals of government finance.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Rio Conference Has Strong Anti-U.S. Tinge

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Rio De Janeiro foreign ministers conference, opening today, finds most of the democratic leaders of the Western Hemisphere lined up against the United States, the military dictatorships behind us.

It also finds American policies — in Latin America more on the spot than at any time since the 1920's when we landed marines in Nicaragua, on top of earlier marine landings in Haiti and Santo Domingo.

Much of the anti-American sentiment which will be voiced in the Rio conference results from the personality and policies of Tom Mann, the President's Texas friend whom he made assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin American affairs, and later promoted to be deputy under secretary of state.

ON ONE occasion, President Johnson called in a group of Latin American ambassadors and, in an informal chat supposed to be strictly confidential, tried to sell them on Tom Mann. He described Mann as a brilliant, dedicated, but misunderstood individual.

The Latin ambassadors went away still "misunderstanding" Mann. The President made no impression on them whatsoever. They regard Mann as too military-minded, much too quick on the draw, and too quick on the tongue around a Texas-born President also inclined to shoot from the hip.

The two chief issues to be debated at the Rio conference will be:

1. The removal of the OAS headquarters from Washington so it won't be under the domination of the United States. This will probably fail.

2. Blocking any future Pan American police force. This will probably succeed.

FOR THE first time in history a Pan American police force is operating in the Dominican Republic, and, although it was hurriedly thrown together in order to take the curse off the American military occupation of that country, it could become an important precedent for Pan American stability and for use in revolt-torn countries.

If, for instance, Cuba should kick out Castro and a government vacuum exist there, the United States would like to have a Pan American police force which could be thrown in to restore order.

Such nations as Mexico, Chile and Uruguay, however, are gravely suspicious of any Pan American army. They regard it as a concealed arm of U.S. militarism. The debate over it will be hot and heavy at Rio De Janeiro.

The appearance of two new missiles in the Soviet anniversary parade doesn't alarm American observers. One is a mobile ICBM launcher; the other could fire a nuclear warhead from orbit.

U.S. observers suspect that neither is more than a prototype, probably intended to mislead the West. They recall how the Red army fooled them 15 years ago by showing off new bomber models while secretly producing intercontinental missiles. The Pentagon took the bait and diverted most of its money into bombers instead of missiles. As a result, Russia got the jump on the United States in the missile race.

AMERICAN experts claim the two new Soviet missiles aren't as effective as weapons already in the American arsenal. This time, the Pentagon won't divert money from its present programs to build orbital and mobile launchers. The Russians themselves aren't expected to build more than a few showcase models as they did with those new bombers 15 years ago.

Gifts to GI's — The Defense Department is stuck with a staggering accumulation of gifts for GI's. Tens of thousands of tons of books, games, cookies have piled up in cities across the country, apparently triggered by demonstrations against the war in Viet Nam. Americans have been contributing gifts for GI's as a way of showing the home front is behind them — eight pounds of gifts for every GI in Viet Nam. The accumulation is so tremendous the Defense Department has no way of delivering it without impairing vital military shipments.

THE WIZARD OF ID

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Canker Causes May Vary

By J. G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please advise the cause of canker sores in my husband's mouth. He says skim milk will be beneficial while I say he should take pure peroxide and hold it in his mouth for a minute or so. Perhaps both the skim milk — he drinks a quart a day — plus the peroxide wash? — MRS. A. F.

If he has been drinking that much milk, I should think he might suspect by now that it isn't the right answer. His idea may have come from the fact that one form of treatment consists of holding tablets containing lactobacillus in the mouth. (This doesn't always work, either.)

The fact is that the cause of canker sores is not known, common as they are, and there is every reason to think that the cause varies in different cases.

Allergy to some food or other has been blamed in many cases, and not infrequently that seems to be the right answer. It takes some care, watching to see if you can find such a relationship.

SENSITIVITY to a dentifrice or mouth wash is a possibility.

At least take the trouble to note whether irritation from a sharp place on a tooth or dental prosthesis may be causing it. It happens. Then see your dentist.

In still other cases some recurring bacterial infection, in the gums or other mouth membranes, can be involved — which is another reason for having the dentist check over his teeth if it hasn't been done lately.

So, if in this particular case, it should turn out to be allergy the use of peroxide won't help. If it is resulting from chronic infection, then probably some more vigorous treatment is needed.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is Vitamin K? And what about the advantages or disadvantages of taking a small dose a day for blood clotting? — MRS. S. R.

Vitamin K has been called the coagulation vitamin. It is helpful in making the blood clot, and thus stop bleeding, in certain cases, and not effective in others. For example, it is not effective if basically the bleeding is due to cirrhosis of the liver. On the other hand, if anticoagulants have been given, or for some other reason the blood does not have enough platelets (special clotting particles) to control bleeding, then Vitamin K is very good indeed.

Thus it is a rather complicated problem to know when Vitamin K should be used and when it shouldn't. A small dose (one a day, for example) can be very valuable if the patient is otherwise subject to bleeding because of special drugs, or some deficiency in the blood.

Let your doctor decide whether you need Vitamin K, and how much.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a blotch in my eye which moves, and when I read it is very annoying. An eye specialist did not give any explanation but just said that I would have to live with it and that it is common in people over 45. I am 67. I would like to know more about it. — MRS. F. W.

It is true that such a spot or blotches are common from the 40s on. It is wise to have an examination because occasionally they may be an indication of some serious eye affliction.

Usually, however, yours is what we call a floater, due to chemical changes in the fluid in the eyeball. Ordinary floaters don't do any harm and don't signify trouble. They are just annoying. Since there isn't anything that can be done about them, we just have to get used to them.

I take it for granted that, since you were examined, a floater is what you have.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a boy 15 and interested in contact lenses, but my parents are against the idea. Can you give me some pros and cons? Can they damage the eyes? Are they a good risk? — L. N.

Arguments for contacts: They do a good job. They won't damage the eyes, unless they cause undue irritation, in which case you would stop wearing them.

They are especially good for special purposes — for actors, some athletes, models who don't want to wear glasses, and so on.

Arguments against: The cost — and if you are going to have contacts, you want an expert job of fitting. Some individuals find they cannot wear contacts for more than a relatively short period at a time. If a lens is lost, it can be difficult to find and expensive to replace if not found. Discuss the situation thoroughly with your eye doctor before going ahead.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, now 17, had all three Sabin polio vaccine doses in a mass immunization program in 1962. Does she need any boosters now? Doctors in our locality are not in agreement about this.—W.C.R.

She should have a fourth dose, and preferably should have had it one year after the third. Then, one booster every five years.

Dear Dr. Molner: My boy, 3½, has hemorrhoids. I can't say he complains too much, but they protrude after a bowel movement. Is this uncommon for his age, and is surgery necessary? — MRS. C.J.M.

Hemorrhoids are not common in children but they do occur occasionally. Faulty bowel habits and constipation usually precede the trouble.

As a rule they are not treated by an operation unless they are bleeding and very painful. The treatment instead generally consists of a gradual process of training the child to have more regular movements and a soft stool. This involves patience on your part, greater intake of water or other fluids, on his part, more bulk in the diet such as from fruits and vegetables, and perhaps stool softeners as may be prescribed by your doctor.

NOTE TO H.G.B.: From your description, I'd agree with your guess that it may be seborrheic dermatitis of the scalp, but in view of the location, keeping your scalp and your husband clean may not really do anything. Suppose (and this is possible to something, dye, sible) that your skin is senile or whatever in the hat-band? Why not go without a hat, or try hats that don't have such bands, for a time and see if it helps. If so, you have a precious cure.

Mabel, Canton School Survey Contract Ready

MABEL, Wis. — A contract with the University of Minnesota bureau of field studies for a survey of Mabel and Canton high school districts is ready for board signatures, superintendents of both schools said Tuesday.

Canton school, whose enrollment is decreasing, will remain open next year and close by the opening of the 1967 term, according to present plans.

MEETINGS WITH other boards, including Harmony, as well as Mabel, have been held from time to time to discuss merging because Canton is threatened with reduced state aids.

Following recent meetings with Mabel, the two schools invited Dr. Otto Domian, director of the 16-year-old bureau, to a joint meeting, followed by the decision to engage the services of his team.

Dr. Domian expects the survey will be completed by March 15, when he will meet with the combined boards, with the separate boards and the residents of their districts, and then with both groups. He will present findings and recommendations.

The survey will cost not in excess of $3,500. Canton will pay 35 percent and Mabel, 65 percent of the cost.

THE COMBINED districts have an enrollment of 760.

Canton's enrollment is 138 in elementary and 127 in high school for a total of 265.

Mabel's enrollment is 199 in grades 1-6 and 295 in high school.

Canton lost 15 students to the new North Winneshiek High School in Iowa this year and Mabel lost 16. All were from grades 10-12. Previously, Canton had lost others from junior high school.

Woman Arrested In Death of Minneapolis Man

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minneapolis police have arrested a 30-year-old woman, said to be a known narcotics user, in connection with the shooting death of a Minneapolis man outside a Friday night spot.

The body of Troy Anderson, 27, was found slumped over the wheel of his car in a parking lot Oct. 31.

Fridley police said a man had offered earlier to give them, for a price, the name of a woman who had been sought. However, the man later changed his mind. A Minneapolis patrolman spotted the reluctant informer in the loop area talking to a woman who fit the description of the one wanted for questioning. The woman was arrested early today and was turned over to Fridley authorities.

A bar patrolman at Red's Club in Fridley identified the woman as one who had been in the tavern before Anderson was shot to death.

Woman Needn't Pay Theater Pledge, Ruling

ST. PAUL (AP) — A federal district court jury Tuesday returned a verdict clearing Mrs. Joseph Gales Ramsay III of obligation in a $40,000 pledge to the Rochester Civic Theater.

The theater group sued Mrs. Ramsay on a pledge made during a building campaign. It said the amount was counted on as it proceeded with plans for a new theater and sought to have Mrs. Ramsay pay $8,000 and a similar sum for each year of a five-year period.

Mrs. Ramsay, wife of a wealthy Reno, Nev., financier, lived at Rochester while being treated at Mayo Clinic. She now lives in Minneapolis.

The case had gone to the jury late Monday afternoon and the jurors recessed at 6 p.m. before resuming Tuesday morning at 9 a.m.

Mrs. Ramsay had said she felt the theater sponsors had cultivated her friendship merely to get the pledge.

She has been the benefactress of many children with serious illnesses, brought to this country for treatment at Rochester or Minneapolis.

East Hopes for Plenty Snow to Fill Reservoirs

NEW YORK (AP) — The approach of winter with its expected snows and icy temperatures almost surely will affect the drought in the Northeast. That effect could be either for the good or the bad. Plenty of snow would allow moisture to seep down to replenish underground sources.

Then, in the spring thaw, the runoff would raise reservoir levels. But a deep frost could seal off the water table and prevent any moisture from reaching the table. "If there is a deep freeze-up, without snow first, there could be a water shortage again before spring," said a spokesman for the Massachusetts Agriculture Department.

James M. Weigle, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey in New Hampshire, said that a light snow also could mean dry wells before spring. Autumn rains have brought some relief to the parched areas.

One of the hardest-hit areas has been New York City, where water conservation has become a way of life. Asked if some restrictions would be lifted for the winter, Water Commissioner Armand D'Angelo replied, "Definitely not."

Water restrictions are being continued in many cities, but some communities in New Hampshire are relaxing the restrictions. The water shortage in New Hampshire is not considered critical, said George M. McGee, chairman of the State Water Resources Board.

The outlook is not as bright in New Jersey. The state's two largest water systems, which supply the heavily populated northern sections, are in "serious condition," said Robert A. Roe, state commissioner of conservation and economic development.

The Weather Bureau forecasts less than the normal four inches of rain this month. Rainfall so far in November has been only .20 inch. The situation in Philadelphia is a little worse than last year but no trouble is seen unless the severe drought still lingers in many sections. year, said Joseph W. Radziul, chief of research and development for the water department. Nelson Kauffman, climatologist for the U.S. Weather Bureau in Harrisburg, said rainfall is two to three inches below normal in Pennsylvania, but the "worst part of the drought is over."

Economy Strong As '65 Is Ending

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy is picking up new strength at the halfway mark in the final quarter of the year.

And the hullabaloo over aluminum prices — even the temporary breakdown of electric power in the industrial Northeast — is likely to add to the tempo on the final weeks of the year — if for no other reason than the rush to catch up after the disruption and uncertainty of the first two weeks of November.

The statistics of the economy seem sure to be fatter at year-end — both in dollar volume — influenced by rising prices — and in unit volume.

Copper prices are going up as supplies tighten. Part of the push behind prices in this metal is from political uproar in production centers in South America and central Africa, forcing world prices higher. Much of the rise in the United States is due to increasing demand for metal.

Steel production is taking a tentative step upward again. It had been lagging since a labor settlement early in September ended fear of a strike. This sent customers to living off of stockpiles built up as a precaution.

Auto production is booming, and so are sales of the new models. Most people see this as assurance that public confidence in good times ahead is strong — and that consumer spending still is free wheeling.

This should assure record retail sales in the weeks just ahead. It's the season of greatest activity for most merchants.

And personal income totals continue to rise. High employment and higher wage scales are helping. There's also a boost from such sidelines as stock dividends. Payments are at a record so far this year. And the first year-end extras signal a record outflow of cash from corporate coffers to shareholders.

Rising prices here and there will give a misleading glow to some of the statistics reckoned in dollars. This inflation, so far mild, colors the reports of the economy in general. But the big boost still is in the actual unit

Gemini 6, 7 May Be Only Inches Apart

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 will travel inches apart on their rendezvous next month if the goal of Manned Spacecraft Center engineers is achieved.

An official who asked not to be named told newsmen Tuesday that the engineers hope the spacecraft will maneuver to one to two feet apart and then fly in formation.

The closest previous figure used by spokesmen for the center was 10 feet.

Gemini 7, a 14-day mission, is scheduled for launch Dec. 4. Nine days later, on Dec. 13, Gemini 6 will be launched into the same orbit.

Gemini 6, a two-day mission, was postponed Oct. 25 when a rendezvous pod failed to orbit.

Farmer Dead in Corn Picker Mishap

NASON ON EDUCATION

Start Early Giving Children Direction

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of S. Calif.

Teen-agers need more guidance from parents and teachers. But many of them seem unwilling to accept it. Their major interests are with cars, sports and social activities. Often school is neglected, much to the consternation of their elders.

Here are some reasons why teen-agers drift away from parents and turn to their companions for guidance:

Teen-agers often feel incapable of living up to their parents' expectations of them, and lose interest.

Vocational goals are hard to set. The complexity and changing patterns of the work world make the choice of a vocation difficult. Fathers are often of little help to their sons in this regard since they are unfamiliar with the true nature of the hundreds of specific jobs other than their own.

Fewer boys follow the vocation of their fathers. In fact, many teens have only a vague idea of how their parents earn a livelihood.

Consequently, as parents have less influence in specific social and vocational guidance, the teen-agers lean on each other to fill the void.

This can be avoided if parents start early. Younger children like direction. They like to know that something is expected of them. They find joy in work that results in accomplishments that please their parents.

When parents take a greater part in an elementary school child's affairs, he will reach his teens better able to accept guidance from adults.

Although moral and ethical standards are set by the parents, usually during the elementary grades, schools through teachers and student groups influence the attitudes of the child toward society.

Schools make the first step in producing good citizens when they insist upon proper dress and behavior. In an atmosphere of proper social behavior and with satisfactory attitudes practically demanded, discussions of attitudes toward society as a whole become effective.

Parents and schools can cooperate in influencing group behavior once they have a general consensus as to what constitutes proper behavior at various age levels.

For example, the Downey,

Calif. Council of PTA working with parents, students, teachers and even the Downey police department — assembled a set of recommendations by grade levels, starting with the 5th and 6th and moving up grade by grade to the 11th and 12th. It gives the parent some answers to a son or daughter's demanded privilege on the plea that "everyone else does it."

Christmas Goodies For Men in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam are going to get more than their usual quota of Christmas goodies.

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., says the Defense Department will start airlifting candy, cookies and cake this week.

Schweiker says the gifts are being prepared as an expression of support for the military, and "in Pennsylvania alone, more than 75 tons of baked goods are being produced and wrapped by high school students."

Honeywell Gets Big Jet Engine Contract

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A $2.7 million contract for advanced development of a jet engine control system has been awarded to Honeywell Inc. The contract reportedly is the largest ever let in fluid controls technology. Work will be done by Honeywell's Aeronautical Division here.

Scientist Hints Diamonds May Be Found on Moon

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — A scientist says the moon, generally believed to be a dry and barren chunk of rock, may have water and diamonds in its crust. Nobel Prize-winning chemist Harold C. Urey told science writers Tuesday that the heat and pressure he believes created the moon from space gas and dust also would have formed diamonds on or near its surface.

The same theory of the moon's origin leads to the possibility that water, condensed from gases, may lie beneath the moon's surface.

Upward seepage of this water, Dr. Urey said, may explain the broad flat plains on the moon which resemble dried-up ocean beds.

Ancient astronomers thought the plains were large bodies of water and called them maria, the Latin word for seas.

Dr. Urey won the 1934 Nobel Prize for discovering deuterium, an element of the hydrogen bomb.

He said some of the craters on the moon's surface may not be volcanoes, but the openings of tubes through which water has

Fire in Church At St. Nicholas

ST. NICHOLAS, Minn. (AP) — Fire destroyed the altar and tabernacle of St. Nicholas Catholic Church here Tuesday. Heavy damage was done to the nave. Nine fire departments fought the blaze and brought it under control in 2½ hours. Their efforts were made more difficult by a 25 to 30-mile-per-hour wind. The cause of the fire was not determined. Officials said, however, it apparently began in the sacristy, which is located over a boiler room.

Greg Ertl, chief of the Watkins Fire Department, said most of the sacred articles used in church sacraments were recovered.

Republicans of 25 States Will Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans from 25 states will meet in Kansas City, Mo., Friday for a national research conference.

GOP Chairman Ray C. Bliss said today the three-day affair will be devoted to discussing ways and means of conducting political research.

gushed to the surface.

Urey had no estimate of the quantity or value of any diamonds that might be found by Apollo astronauts scheduled to land on the moon before 1970.

Holiday Market and Christmas Tea Dec. 3-4 Will Be Festive Party

Mrs. Rudolph W. Miller, general chairman, has issued many special invitations to the gala Holiday Market and Christmas tea at Community Memorial Hospital Dec. 3 and 4. The annual event is sponsored by the hospital auxiliary and is open to the public. It is a benefit for the auxiliary's many philanthropies to the hospital.

The Holiday Market will take place in the hospital Solarium, where guests will walk down an aisle of trees into the yule-tide atmosphere where Christmas gifts and decorations will be on sale. Many of these are hand-crafted, originally designed items, being made now by com-

Little Warmer Air Seen for Thursday

Although temperatures failed to drop anywhere near the zero readings reported from northern Minnesota, where up to 10 inches of snow fell Tuesday, Winona and vicinity got a touch of winter when bitter northwest winds whipped across the area.

Increasing cloudiness and a little warmer is the forecast for the area tonight when the thermometer may drop to between the 15-24 mark. Overnight the low reading for Winona was 19.

On Sunday the thermometer had dropped to 15.

CONSIDERABLE cloudiness and a little warmer can be expected Thursday, said the weatherman, with some chance of a little rain of snow. The afternoon high temperature is expected to be 35.

Little change in temperature and scattered light rain or snow is the outlook for Friday.

The cold weather may be here for a while, too, the five-day Weather Bureau forecast indicates. Average temperatures through Monday will be 5 to 10 degrees below normal, the prediction said, with no important day-to-day change. Normal highs for this time of the year are 34-40 in the afternoon and 17 to 24 at night.

But if the weather is to be cold, Winona and vicinity, at least may escape any large amount of snow, the forecast indicates, predicting less than one-tenth of an inch (melted) probably a little Thursday night and Friday and again late in the weekend.

THE temperature was up to 40 Tuesday but dropped rapidly before northwest winds and a few flakes of snow in the afternoon. At noon today the temperature was 28.

This contrasts with a high of 41 a year ago today and a low of 28. All-time high for Nov. 17 was 70 in 1953 and the low for the day 1 in 1880. Mean for the past 24 hours was 29. Normal for the day is 33.

The cold weather and heavy snow was concentrated in northern Minnesota where the temperature dropped to 1 above at Bemidji, 5 at International Falls and 8 at Hibbing. It was 9 at Brainerd and Duluth.

Rochester posted a morning low of 18 after a Tuesday high of 41 and La Crosse had figures of 19 and 42 for the same times. A minus figure appeared on the northwest weather map with the temperature dropping to -3 at Regina, Canada.

In North Dakota, Minot had a morning reading of 5 and Fargo 7.

Wintry weather also swept into Wisconsin Tuesday, tumbling temperatures to sub-freezing levels and leaving snow in the far northern areas.

The heaviest snowfall was along the Wisconsin-Michigan border but the Weather Bureau had no official measurements from those areas. Superior and Park Falls each recorded one inch of new snow. Park Falls now has three inches on the ground.

The winds averaged about 25 miles per hour in most of the state but frequently reached gusts of 35 to 40 miles per hour. Winds slowly subsided after midnight.

Coldest place in Wisconsin early today was Superior with 9 above zero. Park Falls and Eau Claire had 18, Madison and Wausau 21, Lone Rock and Racine 22, Green Bay 23, Milwaukee 25 and Beloit 27.

Peak temperature Tuesday before the cold front passed through was 53 at Burlington. Racine and Beloit had 52, Milwaukee 50 and Madison 48. Superior's high was 33.

HAVRE, Mont., had the lowest reading in the nation early today - 2 below zero. Kingsville, Tex., set the high of 89 Tuesday.

U.S. Spikes Red China's U.N. Chances

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States appeared today to have killed Red China's chances for a U.N. seat this year with a maneuver that set off angry protests from Peking's supporters.

To make sure the door remained closed to Communist China, the United States and 10 other nations called on the General Assembly to stand by its 1961 decision that the seating question required a two-thirds majority.

U.S. representatives have insisted that Peking won't get even a simple majority. They said they called for reaffirmation of the two-thirds rule only to speed up a decision.

Informal polls have indicated, however, that Peking might have enough votes to get in if only a simple majority was required.

The United States has asked to speak just before the vote, apparently in a last effort to bolster its case. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, who has been ill with a virus, planned to make the final argument.

U.S. delegate Charles W. Yost went before the assembly Tuesday night with the plea that the China representation issue is a vital one which should not be decided by a simple majority. He declared that peace in Asia is involved in the decision and the two-thirds rule is therefore mandatory.

Yost rejected claims by Peking's supporters that Red China might be more receptive to unconditional negotiations to end the Viet Nam war if it belonged to the world forum.

"It is the absence of will, not absence from the United Nations, which has caused Peking not to cooperate in solving the Southeast Asia crisis," Yost said.

Nations backing Red China accused the United States of resorting to a procedural maneuver because it lacked the votes to block Peking on a simple majority.

ter until it was finished. Walchak said.

Judge Arnold Hatfield dismissed the jury until 2 p.m. when the opposing attorneys gave their arguments and the judge instructed jurors in the law relating to this case.

TUESDAY afternoon's testimony concluded when Brosnahan asked a "hypothetical" question of his expert witness clearly aimed at Walchak. George J. Karsten, a general contractor, was asked whether he would hesitate to fire a man who wouldn't come to work, who made expensive errors of judgment and who didn't plan ahead.

Over Lindquist's objections, Karsten answered that he would not hesitate to fire such a man.

Testimony by Karsten and one of the defendants in the case, Jerome D. Borzyskowski, had painted a picture of Walchak designed to coincide with the hypothetical man in the question.

Borzyskowski testified that Walchak had poured his footings in two parts, taking two weeks for the job. Karsten later told the court that the job should have taken no more than three days.

KARSTEN spoke of eight-hour days, while Borzyskowski testified that Walchak had "averaged" five hours a day.

The defendant said that he had called Walchak to come to the job site and do the final masonry work on Dec. 21. Walchak had previously testified that he was driving past and found Borzyskowski preparing to do the work himself, about Dec. 27.

Borzyskowski said that Walchak indicated to him that he would have to "shut down" the job until "warmer weather." Borzyskowski said that he feared a delay until spring and decided that Walchak should be fired.

On cross-examination by Lindquist, Borzyskowski admitted that he knew Walchak would have to satisfy customers on other jobs at the same time he worked on the Borzyskowski's building.

BUT Borzyskowski said that he was dissatisfied with Walchak's progress even before Nov. 27, when he made a final partial payment to the contractor. He had complained, Borzyskowski said, but he admitted that he had done so in a "friendly" manner.

Walchak told him it could not be below freezing when he did masonry work, Borzyskowski told Lindquist. Lindquist began to read temperatures for December from a Weather Bureau booklet.

"Try Dec. 16," Borzyskowski suggested. Lindquist read for that date a high of 32 and a low of 4 above. Was this the day Borzyskowski wanted Walchak to do the final masonry work? Lindquist asked. Borzyskowski said it was.

The defendant admitted that this was the day of the final break between him and Walchak. When Walchak asked after the work was done whether there was going to be trouble between them, Borzyskowski answered, "I'll let you know," he told the court.

HE CONTACTED Karsten within a few days of Dec. 17, Borzyskowski said. And he told Walchak he was fired within a few days after that, the defendant added. Walchak said that he had again found out only by accident that he was off the job, two weeks after he did the final masonry work.

(The conflict between Borzyskowski's testimony on the date Walchak's final work was done—Dec. 16 and Dec. 21—was both mentioned by him— and Walchak's testimony on the date—Dec. 27—was never mentioned or cleared up Tuesday.)

Borzyskowski testified that he still owed Walchak $2,815 on the original contract but that when he had paid all the bills for materials this debt was wiped out.

He admitted that he was dissatisfied with the way Walchak had not used any of the $1,700 paid him to pay for materials. This was the principal reason he fired Walchak, Borzyskowski told Lindquist.

BORZYSKOWSKI said that bills should be paid every 10th of the month, not at completion of the job as Walchak had maintained.

Although there was no time limit for completion in their contract, Borzyskowski said that he had set a Jan. 1 deadline. Lindquist reminded the defendant that he had fired Walchak prior to Jan. 1; but Borzyskowski reminded Lindquist that Walchak had already indicated his decision to "shut down."

Karsten was called by Brosnahan as an expert witness. (He is also the contractor the Borzyskowskis hired to finish their building.)

The contractor testified that the 40- by 40-foot concrete building could have been finished in 17 working days by two men. On cross-examination, he admitted that this did not allow time for delays due to weather, to ordering materials, to satisfying demands of other customers or to recalculating the job when changes were requested by the owner.

HOWEVER, Karsten told Lindquist that it would take no more than 15 minutes to recalculate how to put in one overhead door opening instead of three or to calculate for other changes requested by the Borzyskowskis.

Karsten testified that the footings for the building did not need to be three feet thick, as Walchak had made them. One foot of thickness would have been sufficient, he told the court; but Walchak had erred in not digging the trench for footings 34 feet deep instead of only three, he added.

The contractor testified that he had finished the roof on the building in 49 working hours between Dec. 29 and Jan. 4. Glass block windows were laid and doors were hung sometime later in January, Karsten said. He was not sure when.

BORZYSKOWSKI had previously told Lindquist that he moved into the building in April or May of this year.

Karsten admitted that, if he has a choice, he doesn't do masonry work in freezing weather. He also admitted that the block windows might have been laid earlier in January than they had been, and he said that he had had a good reason for delaying.

Finally, he told Lindquist that perfection is not expected of contractors any more than of other men and that some tradesmen are better than others but that all can find work. With this, Brosnahan had his opportunity to ask the "hypothetical" question which ended testimony Tuesday.

He had paid all the bills for materials this debt was wiped out.

He admitted that he was dissatisfied with the way Walchak had not used any of the $1,700 paid him to pay for materials. This was the principal reason he fired Walchak, Borzyskowski told Lindquist.

BORZYSKOWSKI said that bills should be paid every 10th of the month, not at completion of the job as Walchak had maintained.

Although there was no time limit for completion in their contract, Borzyskowski said that he had set a Jan. 1 deadline. Lindquist reminded the defendant that he had fired Walchak prior to Jan. 1; but Borzyskowski reminded Lindquist that Walchak had already indicated his decision to "shut down."

Karsten was called by Brosnahan as an expert witness. (He is also the contractor the Borzyskowskis hired to finish their building.)

The contractor testified that the 40- by 40-foot concrete building could have been finished in 17 working days by two men. On cross-examination, he admitted that this did not allow time for delays due to weather, to ordering materials, to satisfying demands of other customers or to recalculating the job when changes were requested by the owner.

Wisconsin Deer
The lid goes off deer hunting in Wisconsin at 6:30 a.m. Saturday. Although the above map shows four different zones, actually there are only three. Zone I, the Apostle Islands, is a small special area, where there is more than a month of hunting, opening early.

Zone II, as the map shows, covers ten Mississippi River zone counties and has two hunting periods. The first two days it is a deer of either sex. After these two days it is one buck with antlers not less than three inches in length. This late period ends Nov. 28.

As the "S" indicates on the map, it is shotgun only the first two days. Where it is "S plus R" rifles may be used Nov. 22

Virginia Ask

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — Two students have been named by the St. Charles Chapter, American Field Service, to represent St. Charles High School in competition for an opportunity to stay in homes abroad for about two months next summer.

Named were Virginia Ask, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wally Ask, and Judy Bergh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Bergh. Both juniors, they are honor students and participate in extracurricular activities. Their records and applications have been forwarded to the New York office where they will be examined for the Americans Abroad program.

Mrs. Orrin Zimmerman, coordinator for the program with the St. Charles chapter, was in charge of the selection committee this year. St. Charles has sent six students on the summer program since the community became associated with the AFS in 1955.

through Nov. 28 for bucks only. This is the same as a year ago. It will be noted the last six days it is still shotgun only in Pierce, Dunn, Pepin and Buffalo counties during the buck season.

Wisconsin is one of the states that has set hours for deer hunting. Hunting opens at 6:30 a.m. during the entire season and closes at 4:30 p.m. It does not change with the sun.

The apparently successful variable quota system, under which four hunters band together and get a permit for an extra or camp deer, does not apply in Zone II or the river counties. It is for hunters going into the north country or Zone IV.

The same registration system in effect for a number of years applies again this year. Every hunter is required to register the deer killed in the game unit in which it was killed not later than one day after the close of the season.

As in the past there will be ample places to register the deer. The state has established 383 such places. Those in the nearby river counties are as follows:

Buffalo County
Mendovi, Co-op Equity Service Station, Highway 10 Store; Maxville, Gifford's Store; Alma, Gordy's DX Station; Fountain City, Glenn's Mobil Service Station and W.C.D. Merrick State Park, and Waumandee, Zeller and Persick - IGA Store.

Jackson County

Legion Dinner At Alma Post Attracts 150

ALMA, Wis. (Special) — Guest speaker at the annual Veterans Day turkey dinner served to 150 at the American Legion clubrooms here was Lou Chicquette, Bay City, commander of the 10th District.

Walter Kalmes, Post 224, commander, was master of ceremonies. Richard Fahrner was honored for 10 years of service as adjutant.

A GIFT of 13 framed pictures of battle scenes of the Revolution to World War II were hung in the clubrooms in honor of the late Judge G. L. Pattison. Mrs. Pattison and son William were present to accept the Legion's thanks.

The post has established an Americanism committee. The Legion will advocate the study of county government schools in the spring. A banquet will follow this program.

Commander Chicquette, district Americanism chairman for 10 years, reported that seven posts are over the top in his nine-county area, with 58 percent membership at present. He is an Air Force veteran of World War II.

He urged members to remember the needy and shut-ins with Christmas baskets. He announced that "The Constitution and Bill of Rights" will be the subject of the oratorical contest this year for high school students. Judging will be on local, county, district, state and national levels.

Of the current conflict he said, "Our country is at war in Viet Nam. Americans are serving there and in many areas of the world where freedom is under attack. As veterans and loyal citizens we have an obligation to support our government in a positive way."

"All American Legion posts are urged to make known to their communities their support of the war effort in Viet Nam. I urge that each post pass a suitable resolution supporting the U.S. policy in Viet Nam and that the resolution be given to news media for publication."

Commander Kalmes introduced Archie Brovold, Buffalo County commander. Herbert Stohr, county baseball chairman, was cited for his promotion.

MRS. Ray Salisbury, Auxiliary president, thanked the Legion for the meal. Chefs for the Sunday dinner were James Breivick, Clarence Roloff, Harley Hager and Sidney Moham.

Auxiliary officers present included Mrs. Clarence Clark, bi-county president and treasurer of Alma unit; Mrs. Sidney Moham, second vice president, 10th District, and past president here, and Mrs. James Breivick, Mrs. Tollef Jensen, first and second vice president, respectively.

Commentator Says North Viet Nam Asked Talks
PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — News commentator David Schoenbrun says he was informed by a ranking French government official that the North Vietnamese offered to begin unconditional peace talks with the United States during last spring's six-day moratorium on bombing in North Viet Nam.

The offer, Schoenbrun quoted the official as saying, was contained in a message sent to the French government in Paris on the fourth day of the letup in bombing. It directed the French to tell the United States that North Viet Nam was ready to talk about a cease-fire and a peace settlement in South Viet Nam, he said.

Schoenbrun said the United States ignored the overture and resumed bombing raids on strategic points in North Viet Nam. The U.S. moratorium went into effect May 12 for the avowed purpose of opening the door to possible peace talks. Bombing was resumed on May 18.

Schoenbrun, former Columbia Broadcasting System chief European correspondent based in Paris and London, made his remarks before a conference of bankers Tuesday night.

Reached afterward, Schoenbrun said he understood the offer was one of three advanced by Hanoi since last November. The first one, he said, came three weeks before the presidential election and the second two weeks afterward.

John Buckley and John R. Dillon, both of Chicago.

Spencer said the Milwaukee paintings were found in Buckley's home and the stocks were found in Dillon's home.

The Foster child in the school will be discussed by Milton Varos, chief psychological services for the division of children and youth, state Department of Public Welfare; Mrs. Corrine Roy, school social worker at Wausau, and Kenneth Curran, superintendent of the Tomah school.

Mayor of Alma Appointed to 2-State Group
ALMA, Wis. (Special) — Alma's mayor, Allan Kirchner, was appointed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles Tuesday afternoon as one of five Wisconsin members of the Minnesota-Wisconsin Boundary area Commission.

Authority to enter into a compact and form a commission to protect and develop the Mississippi and St. Croix river boundaries was granted by the legislature of each state during the 1965 sessions.

Also appointed from Wisconsin were John Bosshard, La Crosse; Harry J. Blakeman, Hudson; Walter Jensen, Grantsburg, and Ralph Most, Prescott. East state will have five members on the commission.

The compact idea was first suggested by Gov. Knowles early this year in a letter to Gov. Karl A. Rolvaag, Minnesota.

Decision Embarrassed Van Brocklin

'Never Was A Quitter'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Peace was restored Tuesday in the Minnesota Vikings' family after a tempestuous 24 hours during which stormin' Norman Van Brocklin, the head coach, quit, reconsidered and humbly returned.

The question today became what effect the tornadic episode will have on the Vikings, who return to the National Football League wars Sunday against the Green Bay Packers, rumormongers to Baltimore in the Western Conference.

Has the insecurity of Monday, when Van Brocklin quit in a fit of depression over four defeats this season, hurt team morale and delayed preparations for the Packers game?

Or will the Vikings' players, relieved and happy to have back the only coach the team has ever had in 4½ seasons, rise to the heights and go after the Packers like a pack of northern wolves?

Everybody connected with the Vikings — players, coaches and front office alike — insist the stormy 24 hours will either have no effect on Sunday's game or will, indeed, inspire the Vikings.

Green Bay publicist Tom Miller, present Tuesday noon at a Viking Fan Club meeting at which news of Van Brocklin's return drew a loud cheer, said: "I've heard of theatrics to get a team up for a game, but this is ridiculous."

Whatever the effect, Van Brocklin was a relieved man Tuesday after, he said, he "came to his senses."

"There is no explanation," the volatile, 39-year-old Dutchman said of his original decision to quit.

"I just became depressed, but I later realized I didn't want to quit. I've lived a life of not being a quitter."

"I just wasn't being rational. I couldn't think straight. I was feeling so sorry for myself that I made this great mistake. I apologize to everyone. I'm very sorry that I embarrassed myself, my family, and my friends. I'm grateful to be back."

Van Brocklin confided that Sunday's 41-21 loss to Baltimore, which virtually eliminated the Vikings as NFL Western Conference contenders, was what caused him to lapse into such depression.

"I finally came to my senses," he said, "and quit feeling sorry for myself. That's why I'm called the Dutchman, I guess. I have to learn the hard way." Van Brocklin announced to three reporters Monday morning that he was quitting because, "I've taken this team as far as I can. I can't take them over the hump."

He then went into seclusion for nearly 12 hours during which time he spoke very briefly only to General Manager Jim Finks and President Max Winter on the telephone. But he wouldn't meet with them. He did, however, consult with many friends, he said, including University of Minnesota Coach Murray Warmath.

Then, about 9:30 p.m., Monday, Van Brocklin telephoned Finks and said he wanted to talk to him.

"It sounded like he had changed his mind," Finks said. "Then, when I got to his home (in suburban Medicine Lake), he told me he wanted to go back to work Tuesday morning. That was a great relief to me. I didn't even ask him why."

Assistant coach Tom McCormick said Van Brocklin "just had the flu, the loser's flu." And another assistant, Walt Yowarsky, who had been named by Van Brocklin as his preference for a successor, added: "I'm just glad he did come back. I appreciate the fact that he thought enough of me to recommend me, but the situation turned out as it should."

Neillsville had four members in the double figure bracket. Steve Mavie tallied 14, Larry Marshall scored 12, Ken Short and Bill Knoff 11 each.

High scorer for Independence was Bob Edmundson with 19. Gary Smeija tallied 10 points. For Gale-Etrick Ken Johnson tossed in 16, Steve Daffinson 10 and Duane Boyum 10.

For Luther Don Larson tossed in 19 points, Ken Stratman 11 and Dave Wilder 14. For Holmen Ron Anderson connected for 16 points and 6-5½ transfer Owen Unks picked up 14.

Van Claims 5-Year Plan Wasn't His

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, who returned to his post as Minnesota Vikings head coach Tuesday only 24 hours after he quit, denied a statement often attributed to him that he felt the Vikings should win a championship within five years.

"Yes," he said, "I've often read and heard somebody quoting me about a five-year plan, but it's not a quote from me."

"You can't put a timetable on a championship. What I have said is that the team that entered the league before us and Dallas, the Baltimore Colts, won it in six years."

"But I'm still not putting any timetable on our plans here. Pittsburgh has been in the league something like 46 years, and it has never won the championship. We hope to do better than that, of course, but there are too many factors involved to predict it."

Van Brocklin, however, said he thought the Vikings had a good chance to win the National Football League title this year. "Some people thought I was crazy and maybe I am," he said. "But you've got to have confidence you can do it."

"The thing that will hurt us," Van Brocklin said, "is the expansion. It will hurt us and Dallas the most because we can least afford to lose anybody."

Burns Gets Hawkeye Ax, Evy Next Up?

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The University of Iowa was in the market for a new football coach today, and there was speculation that the new master might be Athletic Director Forest Evashevski, who would combine coaching with his present job.

Jerry Burns was fired as the Hawkeyes' coach Tuesday night by the university's board in control of athletics at its regular monthly meeting.

Both Burns and Evashevski were unavailable for comment. The board also released Burns' six assistants. They are Whitey Pro, Archie Kodors, Wayne Robinson, Pin Ryan, Ray Jauch and Gary Fletcher.

Burns' dismissal was not unexpected. The Hawkeyes suffered seven straight Big Ten defeats this fall, their worst league record ever.

Since taking over in 1961 from Evashevski, the most successful coach in the school's history, Burns has managed only eight Big Ten victories in 31 games. There was one tie.

The Hawkeyes have lost 12 straight league games since early in the 1964 campaign. Their only victory this season was a 27-7 conquest of Oregon State in the second game.

Reeve Writes About Dealings With Dutchman

(Editor's Note: Ralph Reeve, Winona Daily News sports editor from July of 1953 to September of 1956, recently was assigned to cover the Minnesota Vikings for the St. Paul Pioneer Press. He was one of three reporters summoned by Viking Coach Norm Van Brocklin Monday and stunned by the report that he was resigning. This story appeared in Tuesday's Pioneer Press and tells of Reeve's associations with and respect for the Dutchman.)

There's a shadow on the football field.
The blue has left the sky...
The evening breezes whisper
With his message of goodbye.

The gold of former glories
Has turned to cloudy gray
With the Dutchman's resignation.

On this season's longest day,
"Beware of Van Brocklin."

When I left the St. Paul high school beat to cover the Vikings two months ago I received a great amount of well-meaning advice for those who feared for my safety.

Part of my job was to be a daily confrontation with Stormin' Norman Van Brocklin, the man who could wither a wiseguy with a glance; who could make a giant cringe with a stinging remark from a whiplash tongue.

Van Brocklin broke me in the first week with a mild cussing-out over a minor item and I felt like I'd earned a battle ribbon. I had made a mistake, learned a lesson and felt there was no cause to worry as long as the mistake wasn't duplicated.

He demanded ability and sought perfection from his players. His fellow coaches, from the newspapermen who covered his team. He made you proud of your profession and gave you a pride in your product.

During the World Series I went to Vikings practice and one of the coaches asked me how come I wasn't at the baseball game.

Norm answered for me: "You think Ralph would go out and watch the World Series when we've got practice? He sticks with the Vikings."

He had vast patience with a beginner striving and stumbling to learn the intricacies of pro football. He had a word for the other guy; he knew how to soften the blow.

After the Detroit game, in which the Vikings got beat on a last-second pass, 31-29, he asked softly, with a wry smile, during a dressing room interview: "How does this compare with St. Paul high school football, Ralph?"

Youngsters everywhere had a monopoly on the wellsprings of his heart.

I met a young Viking fan during the Los Angeles trip named Rick Van Blair, 19, who told me the Vikings had been his team for five years.

Why did Rick Van Blair follow the Vikings, subscribe to the Twin Cities newspapers and visit the practice field at Burbank just to watch the play-

Has Gophers' Brown Been Drafted in Secret Session?

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Was Aaron Brown, the Minnesota Gophers All-America end candidate, drafted by the Kansas City Chiefs in secret operation of the American Football League?

As the Gophers sharpened their running attack Tuesday for Saturday's season finale against the Wisconsin Badgers, the Atlanta Journal and the Dallas Times Herald reported that Brown had been drafted by the Chiefs in a secret session early this month.

Brown said he had not been contacted — by the AFL or by the Chiefs. And AFL commissioner Joe Foss said that his league would hold its draft Nov. 27 at the same time as the rival National Football League. Marsh Ryman, Minnesota athletic director, noted that anti-trust laws would enter into the picture and he thought the AFL would be very careful about talking with Brown.

Another source in the Minnesota athletic department said he didn't have any knowledge of Brown being contacted, but added that both the AFL and NFL have had scouts looking at Brown all season.

Foss denied that the AFL had conducted any secret draft. All of which left Brown pondering his fate in the Nov. 27 proceedings, but immediately concerned with the Gopher game Saturday.

The Gophers and Wisconsin

look like even teams on paper. Both have generated successful passing attacks. Minnesota has completed 106 of 203 passes this year for 1,368 yards. Wisconsin has tried 249 passes and connected on 124 for 1,286 yards.

And both teams have lacked a consistent running attack. A Minnesota has averaged just over three yards a carry rushing this season. The Gophers netted a minus 17 yards rushing in last Saturday's 35-0 loss to Purdue.

Wisconsin has a 1.6 yard rushing average this season. The Badgers have been held for minus rushing yardage in losing their last two games to Illinois and Purdue.

The teams are also alike in another department. Both fumble frequently. Wisconsin has lost the ball 18 times on fumbles this year; Minnesota 13.

The Gophers worked until dark Tuesday trying to prepare a running attack for the Badger game.

They also did some passing, with quarterback John Hankinson doing most of the throwing. One lineup change was made. Bell Bevan moved to regular safety in place of Gordon Condo.

Still doubtful for the Wisconsin game were three injured players — Offensive End Kent Kramer, Defensive Guard Brian Callahan and Defensive Halfback Tom Sakal.

Chamberlain Eyes Another NBA Milestone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wilt Chamberlain, the $100,000 star of the Philadelphia 76ers, can reach another milestone in his fabulous pro basketball career at Cincinnati tonight.

The 7-foot-1 Big Dipper, as he prefers to be called, needs to score 33 points against the Royals to become the second-highest scorer in National Basketball Association history.

John Havlicek's 20-foot jump shot in the last 15 seconds gave the Boston Celtics a come-from-behind 108-105 victory over the San Francisco Warriors on the Pacific Coast in the other NBA game scheduled Tuesday. At one point, San Francisco led by 16 points.

RICKEY UNCHANGED
COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The coma into which Branch Rickey lapsed when he had a heart attack is in its fourth day.

Last night found the Wisconsin High School basketball season opening up with non-conference games.

Onalaska Luther knocked off Holmen 58-46. Last season Holmen suffered only one defeat all season — but, of course, the Vikings are missing the seven-foot star Eino Hendrickson that they had last season.

Gale-Etrick skinned by Independence 50-48 in a ball game that was close all the way. Melrose-Mindoro picked up its first win over Cashton in a 60-46 victory. The winners led all of the way.

It's Time To Select Bowl Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Conference championship showdowns Saturday in the Southwest and Far West will fill vacancies in at least two — and probably three — of college football's major bowl games.

The bowl picture, which began to take shape with commitments by third-ranked Nebraska (Orange), No. 8 Missouri (Sugar) and Georgia Tech (Gator) last weekend and top-ranked Michigan State's formal Big Ten send-off to the Rose Bowl Tuesday, could be virtually completed after this week's games.

The host berths in the Cotton and Rose classics will be on the line when second-ranked Arkansas takes on No. 9 Texas Tech at Little Rock for the SWC title and Southern California, No. 6, tackles UCLA, No. 7, at Los Angeles for the Pacific Athletic Conference championship.

The SWC runner-up is assured of a Gator Bowl invitation, with Texas Tech having already made a conditional acceptance.

The only remaining openings are single spots in the Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowls — and fifth-ranked Alabama appears to have a lock on the Orange berth opposite Nebraska. Southeastern Conference stalwarts Tennessee, Kentucky, Auburn, LSU and Florida all are possibilities for the Cotton and Sugar bowls and Syracuse also has been mentioned.

OPENING GAMES NEARING

City Cagers Begin Polishing

By GARY EVANS
Daily News Sports Editor

Basketball on the city level has reached the polishing stages for the most part — Winona State, Winona High and St. Mary's all readying for opening bouts.

At Cotter, John Nett has had but three full days of practice with his complete varsity. Football players answered the call to drills Monday. The non-footballers, however, have been working for over a week.

John Kenney will be the first to put a team on display as the Hawks are scheduled to meet Harmony in their opener Friday at the High School auditorium.

State is second on the agenda, playing at home Tuesday against Stevens Point, Wis., State University.

Kenney this week has been concentrating on running and pressing games although he as yet has given no notice that he will be using those tactics against Tom Meulemans' Cardinals Friday.

The coach reported his team on schedule in the conditioning department, with the exception of Loren Benz who is hobbled by a knee injury and not expected to be ready until Jan. 1.

"Gary (Addington) seems fully recovered," said Kenney of the returning letterman who suffered a shoulder dislocation in the final football game.

Addington now is playing at a forward opposite Larry Larson.

This gives the Hawks a front line made up of junior center Paul Plachecki (6-6½), Addington (6-1) and Larson (6-5). Don Hazellon (5-9) and John Ahrens (5-11) are the guards. John Walski is operating as the sixth man. He plays either forward or guard.

Others on the squad are 6-0 guard Steve Moen, 5-11 guard George Hubbard, 6-1½ forward-center Pat Hopf and 5-11½ forward Scott Hanson.

At State it is a question of trying to smooth offensive wrinkles and pick up some added pressure from the defense.

Bob Campbell's Warriors were scheduled to run against Ken Wilgten's St. Mary's team this afternoon.

Dave Meisner, out of practice because of bronchitis, now has rejoined the team and is rounding back into shape.

Eight men currently are in the running for starting spots, with Campbell especially pleased with 6-7 Charlie Neal of St. Paul. Grades, however, could be a problem in Neal's case.

Wilgten as yet has put together no starting combination. The Redmen meet Lake-land in their opener at Terrace Heights Dec. 1. And the coach feels it might take that long to evaluate his prospects.

"We need a game badly," he said. "Not that we're ready; but after you're run against your own boys for a while you need something different."

Wilgten expects to know more after today's scrimmage. His early combination has had George Hoder and captain Rog Pytlewski at forwards, Jim Murphy in the middle and Jim Buffo and Jerry Sauser at guards.

This is changeable, however, with Ward Hertsted and Jim Keenan pressing for starting spots. Hertsted hurt his arm in a scrimmage at State Saturday, though, and has seen no practice action since.

And, of course, 6-10 Gary Addis will be ready after the first four games.

STARTER DOUBTFUL . . . Michigan State barefoot kicker Dick Kenny, left, who has accounted for 53 points this season and could be a factor in the outcome of the game with Notre Dame Saturday, chats with fullback Bob Apisa before the start of an indoor practice session. Apisa, 215-pound sophomore fullback, has a knee injury and its doubtful he can operate at full steam. Coach Duffy Daugherty feels he needs Apisa's explosive running qualities to counteract Notre Dame's tremendous ground attack. (AP Photofax)

Packer Chorus Line — One, Two, Three — Kick

GREEN BAY, Wis. (U-P) — Packer immortal Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg sighed, "Thirty-six points in four games. This is horrible. Why it's not even 10 points a game."

But it's all the Green Bay Packers have scored while mired in the worst offensive slump since Vince Lombardi took over as coach in 1959.

"It's kind of frustrating," said halfback Paul Hornung. "All during the week in practice, we feel that we do things right and then comes Sunday and it's one-two-three kick football."

The Packers have scored only three touchdowns in their last four games. Yet they have managed to win two of the four outings, beating Los Angeles 6-3 last Sunday without a touchdown at all.

Blame for the offensive blackout has fallen mostly on the offensive line for failing to protect quarterback Bart Starr.

There have also been hints that old age is creeping up on the Packers, who rely on Jim Taylor, 30, and Hornung, 29, to carry their once crunching ground game.

The old ground game has not been what it used to be and visiting players have made no secret of the light regard in which they hold it. The opposition says the secret to whipping Green Bay is whipping Starr, before the 31-year-old passer can throw.

Hornung said he saw no evidence that Taylor was slowing after years of pounding at National Football League lines and added "I feel I'm as quick as ever hitting the hole."

The halfback, who has gained 231 yards in 66 carries this season, said, "I don't think I've slowed up. I know I would have heard about it by now if I did."

Hornung blamed the slump on a variety of things. "There's not that much missing," he said.

"It's a case of four or five guys making the right move at the right time and one guy falling down. No one is getting panicky about it. A good football team goes on to win even when you play badly."

The Packers are 7-2, second to Baltimore in the Western Conference race.

Tackle Henry Jordan, one of the main props of the defense that has carried the Packers through the slump, was certain the slump would soon end.

BLASTS 970-2,727

Poot's Adjusts Team Groups

Bowlers in the Hal-Rod City League Tuesday night went on a spree that changed three top ten departments. That, except for a minor alignment that was produced in the Westgate American League, was the news.

Led by Hope Dennis, Poot's claimed third place in team game with a 970 and then copped fifth in series with a 2,727.

AT THE SAME time, Mary Jo Grulkowski was hammering 233 for Buck's Camera Shop. That tied fourth place. Her team shot 557 for a ninth-place tie.

Poot's got the following totals from its members during the 970 and the 2,727: Hope Dennis 209-579, Helen Nelson 221-568, Larry Donahue 167-536, Lucille Weaver 170-471 and Irene Janikowski 167-465. The quintet used 36 pins of handicap during the 970 and 108 for the series.

After shooting the 233, Mary Jo Grulkowski finished with 568. Other action was Betty Schoonover shot 554, Dorothy Losinski 520, Alice Lynch 518, Esther Pozanc 200-516, Leona Lubinski 210-504, Elsie Dorsch 225-521, Pat Ellinghuysen 536, Eleanor Griesel 201-534, Larry Donahue 204 and Annette Wiczorek 171-176-143—490 errorless. Both Betty Schoonover and Ruth Novotny converted 4-10 splits.

KRAMER & TOYE tied for ninth place in men's team series with 3,000 in the Westgate American. Hauser's Black Crows shot 1,055 behind a whopping 258 from Bob Dennis. Dave Blanchard scored 544 for Cortland Jewelers and Bob Bundy 578 errorless for H. Choate & Co.

In the Lucky Ladies League at Hal-Rod, Ila Waseka came up with 191-541 for Standard Lumber. Fountain City picked off 896-2,496.

HAL-ROD: Four City — Dick Galewski pitched 226 for Burmeister Oil and Ken Donahue 586 for Central Motors. Lang's and Girtler's split team honors of 1,009 and 2,857.

WESTGATE: Hiawatha — Jerry Henze led Norm's Electric to 1,009-2,906 with his 224-573.

WENONAH — Shirley Bronk's 178 led Blue Tuesday to 882-2,450. Marge McNally of Flintstones totaled 481.

WORKING GIRLS — Rosanna Kubicke paced Miss Fitts to 590-1,627 with her 429. Go-Go Girls tipped 1,625 and Sandy Davis 162 for Kis Gals.

WINONA AC: Classic — Hot Fish Shop came up with 1,007-2,863. Ray Pozanc leveled 236 for Ed Buck's and Paul Plait Jr. 575 for Emil's Menswear.

ABILENE, Tex. — Undeclared North Dakota State University, the nation's No. 1 small college football team, was named Tuesday to play in the Pecan Bowl here Dec. 11.

North Dakota's opponent is expected to be named next week, said Garvin Beauchamp of Abilene Christian College, chairman of the NCAA Midwest Selection Committee.

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Quarterback Steve Judy of Michigan State was named the Associated Press Back of the Week. He didn't deserve it, he said.

Not so said his coach, Duffy Daugherty.

He certainly deserved it, said Daugherty.

NEW YORK — There has to be some explanation for Green Bay's 7-2 won-loss record with an offense that is last in the National Football League. Lionel Aldridge, 245-pound defensive end, is one of the reasons.

Aldridge, a third-year pro from Utah State who was drafted No. 4 by the Packers, led Green Bay's defensive unit Sunday in an effort that gave him The Associated Press' selection as the Defensive Player of the Week in the NFL.

Usually it's the defensive linemen, who make most of the tackles, who snare the linemen honors in college football. It's different today with Franchis Peay, 216-pound offensive tackle at Missouri, being named Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

Peay, a 21-year-old senior from Pittsburgh, Pa., gained the nod for his outstanding blocking for backs Charlie Brown and Gary Lane in Missouri's 30-0 victory over Oklahoma.

AUGUSTA, TREMPLEAU ALSO

Alma, Eleva-Strum Triumph

A pair of Western Wisconsin small school basketball giants pushed aside initial challenges as the season opened with non-conference games Tuesday night.

Gleg Green's Alma Rivermen, winners of 23 consecutive games before a sectional tournament loss to Eau Claire Memorial a year ago, stopped past Cochran-Fountain City 91-65, pushing live players into double figures in the process.

Dairyland favorite Eleva-

Strum had little trouble in battling Durand 68-56. In the final analysis it was the play of football stars Rog Tollefson and Tim Bue, who led the way. The pair evidently remembered a 140 football victory Durand had handed the Cards. It was Eleva-Strum's only grid defeat.

In other games, Trempealeau used a fourth-period comeback to nip Whitehall, coached by former Bear cager Ken Siel-pflug, 47-45, and Augusta squeezed past Fall Creek 53-52 in the lone area overtime game.

ALMA 91
C-F 65

Alma had little trouble in scoring its first victory of the young season, racing past Cochran-Fountain City 91-65 Tuesday night.

The Rivermen swept five players into double figures in building up quarter leads of 27-14, 52-24 and 78-39.

Leading the parade was Mike Moham with 21 points. Reserve Curt Youngbauer was next in line with 19, John Stohr tallied 16, Larry Flueckiger 14 and Dick Ebersold 10.

For C-F, Hal Chedester and Dennis Auer shared honors with 10 points each.

Bob Wemette's Alma "B" squad, unbeaten a year ago, scored a 45-32 win.

TREMPLEAU 47
WHITEHALL 45

Trempealeau came back in the fourth quarter of the season opener to gain a non-conference win over Whitehall, 47-45. At halftime the hosts led the Bears 24-19. The score stood 35-34 at the end of the third period in favor of Whitehall.

High point man for Whitehall was Bruce Asderau who dumped in 15 points.

For Trempealeau, it was Steve Johnson with 12 points and Tom Johnson with 10.

ELEVA-STRUM 88
DURAND 56

Dairyland favorite Eleva-Strum snatched a first-quarter lead over Durand and walked away with the ball game, 68-56.

The Cards led 16-8 at the end of the first period. At halftime it was 31-20. The third quarter found the big margin of 54-33.

Nabbing high point honors for Eleva-Strum was Tim Bue with 22 points. Close behind was Roger Tollefson with 18.

For Durand, Dale Harschlip was high with 19 points.

AUGUSTA 53
FALL CREEK 52 (OT)

Augusta downed Fall Creek 53-52 in a game that was decided in an overtime — the only extra session in the area. Fall Creek made a come from behind effort in the fourth quarter to tie the score 50-50. It was down 40-31 at the end of the third period.

Memorial Is 101-68 King In Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eau Claire Memorial, runner-up for the state public high school basketball crown, unveiled a high-scoring and seasoned crew Tuesday night in Wisconsin's first wholesale assault on the backboards this year.

Memorial crushed Merrill 101-68 in its opener with Bob Hall pouring in 33 points. Third-place Cumberland and Alma, both unbeaten until tournament time last year, renewed victory streaks but Holmen tumbled early.

The Old Abes of Memorial, with three starters back from the crew that lost in the last minute to Monroe in the state tourney finale, had little trouble in drubbing Merrill. The 5-foot-10 Hall was backed by an 18-point production by Phil Hagen, the quarterback who spurred Memorial to the No. 4 football ranking in the state this fall.

Monroe, which won the crown unbeaten last year, will open at home against Kimberly Friday night. Two of seven other teams that roared through their regular schedules without defeat last year started with victories again Tuesday night.

Cumberland, unbeaten until it lost to Memorial in a semi-final game last year, shellacked Shell Lake 83-53 with 15 players seeing action. Cumberland lost All-Stater John Schell through graduation, but his younger brother, Carroll, a junior, was among three players hitting in double figures in this year's debut.

BLAIR SEAL CAMPAIGN

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — James R. Davis again will head the Christmas Seal campaign for the city of Blair and box-holders on Blair mail routes. The high school office practice class prepared the materials for mailing and the seals were placed in the mail this week. Proceeds from the sales are urged to fight tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

Sometime, Norm, I'd like to tell them . . . I'd like to tell you, too, that the past two months of our association were my finest hours.

Is it really over? I can't believe that it's so. I wish that it wasn't; that you'd soften the blow.

Post-Graduate Econ Course to Begin Nov. 27?

NEW YORK (AP) — The wheeling and dealing has started but it looks like this year's crop of college football stars will have to wait at least until Nov. 27 to begin their post-graduate courses in economics.

Or will they?

Strongly criticized by college coaches and officials across the country and faced with the possibility of a boycott by some college conferences, the American Football League backtracked Tuesday night and rescheduled its player draft for Nov. 27, the same day the National League will hold its draft.

The AFL had planned to draft on Nov. 20 and get a week's jump on buttonholing its prospects and protecting them from the NFL's so-called "baby-sitting tactics," which the younger league claimed had kept its clubs from reaching and signing draft choices.

But there were recurring reports that the AFL had jumped the gun on its original Nov. 20 date and already held a secret draft.

The Dallas Times Herald, Atlanta Journal and New York Daily News all reported that the AFL clubs had met and divided up the college stars and one AFL executive, Gerald H. Phipps, president of the Denver Broncos, disclosed that the owners had gathered in New York two weeks ago, "not for any secret draft, but to learn as much as we could about the draft prospects."

Wayne Valley, co-owner of the Oakland Raiders, also said that the AFL owners had met informally two weeks ago and added:

"I know the NFL is meeting today (Tuesday) in Pittsburgh. I don't know what they're doing, but I imagine they're discussing the probability and acceptability of various players with the various teams in their league. This is what we did a couple of weeks ago."

There was no immediate comment from any NFL source to Valley's comment.

Commissioner Joe Foss, who announced the AFL decision to delay its draft one week, emphatically denied the reports of a premature draft and implied the story was planted by the rival NFL.

"It's an annual affair for them to break such a story, and it always comes out of National League cities."

"There has never been anything to the story in the past and there is nothing to it again this time. It's entirely false, without a word of truth," Foss said.

Winona Student Tells Of Blackout in N.Y.

Medicine by candlelight and climbing 11 flights with one candle.

That's what it was like in New York City for a Winona nursing student during the blackout last week.

She's Ruth G. Watkins, daughter of Mrs. R. H. Watkins, 123 E. Wabasha St., who is taking her third year of nursing at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital Medical Center.

She wrote her mother: "YOU JUST won't believe the chaos in New York City last night. While I was working in the hospital on my new little job which really is kind of fun, I was suddenly startled by dimming lights all over the hospital."

I could hardly begin to think of what might happen if suddenly they were extinguished, but soon I was confronted with just that. I was out in the corridor when all the lights on the floor began dimming and then started flickering and then blackened.

"By this time I was in a patient's room feeding her so I went into the nurses station and got out the flashlights. Soon some emergency lights went on—really, I guess the only ones we had were the patient's over-the-bed lights which we plugged into the emergency socket in the wall, one to a ward on the floor."

"I was fortunate that no patient had to rely on electricity to stay alive, no one was in a respirator, etc. We soon got two lights going on the ward and began to try to function as before. The lights went out at 5:28 p.m. It was amazing that the patients did not become really excited or alarmed as I had expected.

Instead it was I who became frightened inside because at first I thought it was only the hospital that was affected—then I looked out the window down the island and could not see the Empire State Building and Midtown as it was completely black. Soon I learned by the radio, all the boroughs and other parts of New York and Connecticut, etc., up to Boston and Canada had become disaster areas.

"With an area so great, I began to think and imagine many things. I just couldn't understand why such a huge power failure could occur. It seemed impossible so I thought of sabotage and then expected trouble any minute. Bombs—anything!!!! I guess I was really scared."

"SOON medical students and nursing students were notified to help in the hospital. Actually there were so many people trying to help that it nearly became a problem. But things functioned rather smoothly, nevertheless. At 7 a.m. Babs and I were off work and took time out to grab a bite to eat. We walked down the nine flights in the one lighted stairway in the hospital. On the main floor were many, many people. Some pictures were even being taken. The dining room was serving 'tons of people,' eating by candlelight—actually it was kind of 'cool.'"

"When we finished we met the dean of nursing in the hall who told us we were not needed in the hospital—actually we told her of the boards of students roaming the hospital looking for jobs. It really was of no good for us to stay."

"We left and walked out across the street—we didn't feel like walking through the tunnel, from the hospital to our dormitory as it was lighted but very dimly. It was extremely wry out but we were in good hands as the protective department was outside of Harkness Memorial Hall and many people were in Maxwell Hall, both are dormitories but Maxwell is mine. When we arrived at the door, candlelight and folksing greeted us in the lobby. Many of the student nurses were gathered there since we had no lights at all in the dormitory."

"Some students signed up for night duty as they didn't expect staff members to be able to reach the hospital at 12 midnight. I refrained however, as I had already been working 13 hours and they didn't need too many students."

"So about six of us began the climb up the 11 flights to our rooms with one candle. We got to the top exhausted and when I finally got to my room, I remembered one candle I had stashed away. Luckily I could find it in the dark."

"EVERYONE was listening to radios and heard such things as 150,000 people were stranded in the subway and the police force went in after several hours and rescued them all. All the hotels downtown were full to capacity and people with reservations couldn't get rooms. At our hospital, the students were stationed in the tunnel to hold flashlights—others were at the doors turning people away because the hospital was getting too full of people. The police force set up flood lights outside of Vanderbilt Clinic."

"We kept getting reports that soon the lights would be turned on, first at 8 p.m., then 10 p.m., then 3 a.m. It wasn't until about 2:30 to 3 a.m. that they were really on. I spent the time in bed sleeping, waking every few hours to see the success of Commonwealth Edison's predictions."

"Finally at about 2:30 a.m. I was awakened and saw the light on in the elevator parked on our floor. Within minutes the lights were on in the new medical school—we have a fifty million dollar program going on here. Shortly thereafter I was again awakened to the bright light left on in my room. It was at last over! It hardly seemed possible!"

"AT WORK in the morning (the night before seemed like a nightmare)—people were still unable to get to work. Visitors spent the night in the hospital. Then at 9 a.m. the public address system blasted saying "all lights must be turned out until further notice." They were anticipating another blackout but it hasn't come yet. Precautions were taken though as lights were turned off everywhere to save power.

"Tonight the George Washington bridge has only one-half its lights on, I hope it is over. "It was quite an experience but I am safe and sound and was lucky not to have been in any subways, etc. One girl's father got stranded under the Hudson River and didn't get out (he was in one of the tubes) until after 12 midnight."

50 Million Rodents In Research Annually

CHICAGO (AP) — A veterinarian estimates that 50 million rodents are used annually in research and laboratory work in the United States.

Dr. Steele F. Mattingly said thousands of dogs, cats, chickens, hogs, sheep and horses also are used in scientific studies aimed at improving human health. He calculated the cost of such animals in 1961 exceeded $3 million.

Some Communities Have Sales Tax

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Tax Department says it has distributed $6,852,117 to cities, counties and other governmental units that levy a local sales or use tax.

The state collects the tax for them along with its own 2 percent levy and turns back the local share. The latest payment represents collections for October.

Liquor License Tangle Studied

ST. PAUL (AP) — The attorney general's office, trying to clear up legal muddles involving repeal of some old liquor laws, reversed itself Monday and said the City of Madison, Minn., has the right to vote on issuance of liquor licenses.

The 1965 Legislature repealed an old law saying counties could vote wet or dry, and put the whole question up to local units of government.

But in an earlier opinion, the attorney general had held that Madison voted against liquor back in 1915 and was now left high and dry without legal machinery for another vote.

Taking another look, the state lawyers said Madison voters may decide the question under the initiative and referendum powers of the city charter.

"With an area so great, I began to think and imagine many things. I just couldn't understand why such a huge power failure could occur. It seemed impossible so I thought of sabotage and then expected trouble any minute. Bombs—anything!!!! I guess I was really scared."

"SOON medical students and nursing students were notified to help in the hospital. Actually there were so many people trying to help that it nearly became a problem. But things functioned rather smoothly, nevertheless. At 7 a.m. Babs and I were off work and took time out to grab a bite to eat. We walked down the nine flights in the one lighted stairway in the hospital. On the main floor were many, many people. Some pictures were even being taken. The dining room was serving 'tons of people,' eating by candlelight—actually it was kind of 'cool.'"

"When we finished we met the dean of nursing in the hall who told us we were not needed in the hospital—actually we told her of the boards of students roaming the hospital looking for jobs. It really was of no good for us to stay."

"We left and walked out across the street—we didn't feel like walking through the tunnel, from the hospital to our dormitory as it was lighted but very dimly. It was extremely wry out but we were in good hands as the protective depart-

"EVERYONE was listening to radios and heard such things as 150,000 people were stranded in the subway and the police force went in after several hours and rescued them all. All the hotels downtown were full to capacity and people with reservations couldn't get rooms. At our hospital, the students were stationed in the tunnel to hold flashlights—others were at the doors turning people away because the hospital was getting too full of people. The police force set up flood lights outside of Vanderbilt Clinic."

"We kept getting reports that soon the lights would be turned on, first at 8 p.m., then 10 p.m., then 3 a.m. It wasn't until about 2:30 to 3 a.m. that they were really on. I spent the time in bed sleeping, waking every few hours to see the success of Commonwealth Edison's predictions."

"Finally at about 2:30 a.m. I was awakened and saw the light on in the elevator parked on our floor. Within minutes the lights were on in the new medical school—we have a fifty million dollar program going on here. Shortly thereafter I was again awakened to the bright light left on in my room. It was at last over! It hardly seemed possible!"

"AT WORK in the morning (the night before seemed like a nightmare)—people were still

APRICOTS AND STUFF

Thanksgiving is the day we set aside to give thanks for all our many blessings. It is a time of feasting on the abundance of food. Every homemaker wants the Thanksgiving dinner to be as magnificent as the mind can imagine.

At our house we stick close to the traditional Thanksgiving menu but try to vary the recipes to make this year even better than last.

Thanksgiving means turkey. Today it is possible to buy turkey roasts or turkey breasts or rolled boned turkey in various sizes to meet any family's needs.

Although there are many different recipes for turkey each yielding a product with a little different taste, I prefer to add interest to the entrée by varying the stuffing recipe. This year the Crowley family will have apricot stuffing with their Thanksgiving turkey.

- | | |
|----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 cup dried apricots | 2 tablespoons butter |
| 1 cup water | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 2 tablespoons shortening | 1/2 teaspoon chopped parsley |
| 1 tablespoon chopped onion | 1/4 teaspoon pepper |
| 1/2 cup chopped celery | 3 to 4 tablespoons apricot juice |
| 4 cups dry bread cubes | |

Simmer apricots in water 5 minutes. Cool. Then drain, saving the juice. Cut apricots into smaller pieces with a scissor. Melt shortening. Add onion and celery and sauté until golden. Add remaining ingredients including apricots. Makes 2 cups.

Field Crop Yields Near Record High

By C. YATES MCDANIEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — American farmers scored a record high production of field crops this year, the government said last week.

Despite a 1 per cent drop in earlier estimates, corn production hit a new high of more than 4,126,000,000 bushels and there was no change in expectations for the largest wheat crop in many years.

The government said total output for all field crops increased 7 per cent above last year and is 4 per cent above the previous high in 1963.

The over-all boost in crop production was attributed largely to a 6 per cent rise in yields per acre above the previous record also achieved in 1963.

Total production of feed grains is now expected to reach 159 million tons, two million less than was estimated last month but still 2 per cent more than the previous high in 1963.

The output of soybeans, although down 1 per cent from last month's estimate, was put at 853 million bushels, which is 22 per cent above the record crop in 1964.

Fall potato production is estimated to be 25 per cent higher than last year and 13 per cent above average.

The government predicted a 1 per cent decline in the output of sugar beets as cool summer weather and early fall frosts indicated lower than expected yields in some states.

Of importance to cattle prospects was the report that pasture conditions at the beginning of this month were 83 per cent of normal compared with 65 per cent a year earlier and the best condition since 1959.

No change was made in the wheat estimate which a month ago was 1,353,000,000 bushels compared with 1,350,000,000 last year and 1,189,700,000 for the five-year average. This year's production included 1,043,137,000 bushels of winter wheat, 65,345,000 for durum wheat and 256,386,000 bushels of spring wheat other than durum.

New estimates this month were made for only about half the crops. In other words the October estimates were retained for those not reported this month.

The indicated production this month of crops compared with last month's forecast, last year's production and the production for the five-year average, respectively, included:

Sorghum grain 650,529,000 bushels; 654,555,000; 490,253,000 and 550,481,000.
Soybeans 853,704,000 bushels; 861,848,000; 699,862,000 and 637,269,000.

Fall crop potatoes 215,472,000 hundredweight; 215,908,000; 172,180,000 and 190,617,000.

All potatoes 290,408,000; 290,919,000; 239,403,000 and 267,062,000.

Sugar beets 21,463,000 tons; 21,750,000; 23,368,000 and 18,544,000.

The condition of pastures on Nov. 1 was reported at 63 per cent of normal compared with 65 last year and 77 for the five-year average.

Milk production in October totaled 9,473,000,000 pounds compared with 9,443,000,000 in September, 9,700,000,000 in October last year and 9,536,000,000 for the five-year October average.

Egg production in October totaled 5,390,000,000 compared with 5,067,000,000 in September, 5,261,000,000 in October last year and 4,961,000,000 for the five-year October average.

The average yield per acre of important crops compared with last year and the five-year average, respectively, included:

Corn for grain 72.1 bushels this year; 62.1 last year and 60.3 for the average.

Sorghum grains 48.2 bushels; 41.1 and 41.4; soybeans 24.6 bushels; 22.3 and 24.2; fall potatoes 212 hundredweight; 185 and 196; and sugar beets 17.0 tons; 16.8 and 17.6.

The indicated yield per acre and production, respectively, of important crops by major-producing states included:

Corn for grain
Iowa 80 bushels per acre and production 807,840,000 bushels; Minnesota 53 and 251,750,000; South Dakota 35 and 83,520,000.

Soybeans
Minnesota 17.5 and 85,895,000; Iowa 26 and 126,128,000.

Fall potatoes
Minnesota 120 and 11,820,000; North Dakota 145 and 14,836,000.

Sorghum grain
South Dakota 23 and 12,639,000.

Sugar beets
Minnesota 11 and 1,320,000; North Dakota 12 and 792,000; South Dakota no estimate.

Air Academy Honor Code Is Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced Monday it has changed the honor code at the Air Force Academy and adopted most recommendations of a committee that studied the academy's practices after widespread cheating was disclosed.

Measures also have been taken which apparently would lead to lessening of emphasis on football.

The special committee headed by Gen. Thomas D. White, retired former Air Force chief of staff, turned in a report last May after 109 cadets resigned in the cheating incident.

The five-man committee was set up to determine the basic causes of honor code violations and propose remedial action.

The Air Force accepted most of the committee's 27 recommendations with few modifications.

The advisory panel recommended improvements in administration of the honor code, including indoctrination of the cadets on its meaning.

Increased emphasis is placed on the honor code as part of a broader ethical structure, the Air Force said.

Far greater emphasis is being placed on a better understanding of the honor code by prospective candidates, all staff members, cadets and liaison officers.

The Air Force listed a number of changes in carrying out the code, among them a provision that an accused cadet or witness shall be told that his statements are voluntary but may be used against him in any board hearing or court martial.

The advisory committee found that cheating was eight times more prevalent among football players than other cadets who were not athletes.

The committee demanded that "misplaced notions of loyalty" be eliminated from the athletic program.

The Air Force said that football players and other athletes now are being evenly distributed among the cadet squadrons and that athletes will meet together only during their sport seasons and practice periods.

HARRIS SURVEY

Folly Behind The Wheel

By LOUIS HARRIS

A widespread pattern of folly behind the wheel is revealed by a survey of a cross section of adult Americans who drive cars which help show why there were 37,700 deaths on highways in 1964 and why the 1965 death rate is even higher.

One of every five drivers admits that he isn't very good at driving on the road. And 4 of every 10 rate most other motorists as only fair or poor drivers.

In addition, 1 of every 6 adults says at least one member of his family drives too slowly because he is frightened behind the wheel; 1 of every 3 thinks there are a great many drivers who lose their heads during emergencies or take out personal frustrations behind the wheel; and more than half of the drivers say that many motorists often exceed speed limits, follow other cars too closely and cut in and out of traffic.

Part of the problem undoubtedly is that most Americans, in spite of admitting to some personal shortcomings, rate themselves as superior drivers. The cross section of the public was asked:

"How would you rate most other drivers on the road—excellent, good, only fair or poor?"

and

"How would you rate yourself as a driver—excellent, good, only fair or poor?"

Drivers Rate Themselves And Other Drivers

Rate Themselves % Rate Others %
Good-excellent 78 60
Only fair-poor 22 40

The gap between the 78 percent positive rating that drivers give themselves and the 60 percent accorded to others can only mean that nearly 1 in every 5 drivers has more confidence than others do—or perhaps he should have—in his driving capability. By the same token, the 22 percent who express less than full confidence in their own abilities will be viewed by some as hazards of another kind.

DRIVERS THEMSELVES are highly vocal and articulate about the problems.

A 64-year-old widow in Ithaca said, "People are careless. I feel that accidents can't happen to them. I myself don't use the safety belt, except on long trips. But, of course, the statistics show accidents occur close to home." A 30-year-old warehouse clerk in Everett, Mass., said, "Older people, my old man, to tell you the truth, have poor vision and hearing and go 20 miles per hour. After 55, there should be yearly exams to renew a license."

But in Eaton Rapids, Mich., the 29-year-old wife of a skilled laborer pointed blame at the other end of the age spectrum: "It's the kids—they have no idea what speed can do. They think the car's a toy." And in Blue Springs, Neb., a 56-year-old housewife said, "People speed and don't even know it in these comfortable new cars. I also wonder if people don't take these no-dope pills too much and get pepped up at the wheel."

IN ELTON, La., a 46-year-old garage mechanic had another reason for the excess speed: "People have other things on their minds while driving. They live too fast and drive too fast—and they're careless." A 32-year-old salesman in Dayton, Ohio, described a familiar experience: "Everybody's rushing. When traffic conditions don't go right, people cut in and out so as not to lose time."

When asked directly about 11 key driving infractions, drivers complained most about others for not using seat belts, exceeding speed limits, tailgating and cutting in and out while passing.

The cross section was asked: "I want to read you a number of things that have been said about different types of drivers. For each, tell me if you feel there are a great many like this."

Drivers Assess Other Drivers

Great many drivers who:
Won't use safety belts 81
Often exceed speed limit 74
Tail-gate too much 60
Cut in and out in passing 52
Forget to signal properly 48
Lose head in emergency 35
Take out personal frustrations in driving 33
Change personality at wheel 32
Often get in wrong lane for turning 30
Poor eyesight or poor hearing 21
So scared, go too slow 17

It is one thing, of course, for people to believe other drivers commit all kinds of infractions behind the wheel. But it is something else again to get drivers to admit their own shortcomings. In order to see just how much people would admit to bad driving habits, for each of the 11 items, people were asked:

"Is there anyone close to you like that?"

Admit to Bad Driving Habits

Someone close to me:
Won't use safety belts 51
Often exceeds speed limits 32
Tail-gates too much 21
Often forgets to signal properly 17
So scared, goes too slow 16
Changes personality at wheel 13
Cuts in and out in passing 12
Takes out personal frustration on highway 11

Poor eyesight or poor hearing 11
Loses head in emergencies 10
Often gets in wrong lane for turning 10

Definite patterns emerge when these answers are analyzed by age. People between 21 and 35 years of age report that persons "close to them" are guilty of nearly all the dangerous driving practices, particularly of excessive speeding and changing personality at the wheel.

When analyzed by education, college graduates tend to admit to being worse drivers than the rest, including refusal to wear seat belts and tailgating too much.

Fifty percent of all drivers report they have been stopped by a policeman, given a ticket or actually arrested for a driving violation. Uniformly, these people also admit a much higher personal incidence of bad driving practices.

The inevitable conclusion is that either the punishment for bad driving don't deter dangerous practices or that some drivers—a substantial minority—perhaps don't belong behind the wheel in the first place.

Minneapolis Union Office Is Robbed

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 949 was shorted by burglars. Some $5,000 worth of office equipment stolen from the union's headquarters included three electric typewriters, a tabulator and two adding machines.

Landing Experts 'Talk' Younger Navy Fliers Down

By BOB POOS

ABOARD AIRCRAFT CARRIER MIDWAY (AP) — The time was when landing signal officers aboard aircraft carriers were a colorful looking bunch. They were the brightly attired guys armed with paddles who coaxed pilots down onto the deck.

The bright suits and paddles are no more. A large bank of electrically synchronized red and green lights now tells pilots whether they are too high or too low.

The landing signal officers are still at their posts, however, almost on the carrier's stern at the port side. And the job is no less important.

An officer on the Midway noted: "Often they just talk to the new pilots—young ones who get nervous—and give them confidence."

Talking on two telephones, one to the approaching airplane and one to other signal personnel perched high up in a glassed-in enclosure on the ship's superstructure, the LSO's advise pilots that:

"The deck's foul. Now it's clear."

"She's pitching a little and rolling some."

"You're doing fine. Bring her on in."

Occasionally, a plane hits the very end of the flight deck, the

Harmony Student Wins With Eulogy

Miss Judy Stenbeck, Harmony, a junior, won the first place trophy in the extemporaneous speaking contest at Winona State College.

Her original eulogy was composed in memory of Dr. Albert Schweizer. Second place went to Karen Jackson, Minneapolis; third to Diane Ruprecht, White Bear Lake, and fourth to Bonita Feuling, Arcadia, Wis.

Judge was Jack Starr, speech department, Wisconsin State College, La Crosse. Student chairman was Katherine Lauer, Winona.

This was the first of the 1965-1966 round table contests to be held this term under the chairmanship of Dr. Lyman Judson. Next contests will be Thursday. These will be extemporaneous contests to inform. Separate contests will be held for both men and women at 7 and 8 p.m. respectively in Pasture Auditorium. Trophies and medals will again be awarded.

The public is invited to attend.

them in. One reason they have is that all the LSO's are pilots themselves. The job is rotated through the various squadrons on the ship.

"It's the second best job aboard," Clark said. "Flying's the best, of course."

Gifts for Troops Abroad Snowball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Playing Santa Claus to American troops in Viet Nam is drawing more and more college students, just plain folks and now the Air National Guard.

Thousands of persons are collecting gifts and goodies and messages of encouragement to send to servicemen in Viet Nam.

A doctor and his wife have collected an estimated 150,000 messages in Philadelphia. Students at Pepperdine College and other Southern California schools are packing 1,500 boxes of Thanksgiving goodies. The Tennessee Air National Guard is preparing to fly mail and Christmas gifts to GI's in the war zone.

Richard P. Ornstein of suburban Gladwyne, near Philadelphia, started "Mail Call Viet Nam." It wasn't long before they needed the services of hundreds of volunteers to help screen and package the greetings.

The messages, packed in 290 cartons, are expected to arrive in Saigon Friday morning.

Ornstein said he decided to send the mail by commercial airlines today because of delays in getting space aboard military transportation.

"The Defense Department has many other priorities and we couldn't take a chance of letting the men down," Ornstein said. "We want them to be assured of the pride and respect of their countrymen."

The U.S. Marine Corps has promised to transport the treats collected by the Pepperdine students. And the students are negotiating — right up to President Johnson — for some of them to go along to present the gifts personally.

The students have keyed the project to Thanksgiving and call it "Operation Thanks." Codirectors Dave Balsiger and Mike Maier said they got the idea when they heard of draft-card burnings and anti-Viet Nam demonstrations.

About 1,600 Pepperdine students signed a 45-foot-long letter to Lt. Gen. V. H. Krulak in Hawaii, commander of the Marines in Viet Nam. Each signer contributed money to buy treats.

Krulak replied: "If you can get your packages to the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif., we will do the rest. The spirit that motivates your generous act will mean quite as much to the Marines as the gifts themselves."

To date they have collected

720 cans of fruit, 180 pounds of candy, 3,000 packs of chewing gum, 240 bags of pretzels, 2,000 packs of mustard, 3,000 bouillon cubes, 240 cans of beans, 1,600 cans of tomato juice, 1,500 cans of tuna, 1,600 stainless-steel razor blades, 1,200 writing tablets, 1,200 packs of envelopes and 3,000 flavored toothpicks.

The shipment also will include clothing collected for a South Viet Nam village adopted by a Southern California Marine, Pfc. Terry L. Mayrhofer, 21, Garden Grove.

The Tennessee Air National Guard is looking for Pentagon approval of its "Operation Christmas Star" flights to Viet Nam.

Maj. Jack Dealy, Tennessee ANG information services officer, said the state units will join those from 20 other Air Guard transportation groups in 75 scheduled missions. He said Gov. Frank G. Clement was awaiting official confirmation from Washington before announcing the project.
