Israel Denies Attack

On Troops in Jordan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tel Aviv - Jordan said yesterday that allegations that it had attacked Jordanian troops in the desert earlier this week were groundless.

The Jordanian government yesterday denied reports that it had attacked a Jordanian military camp in the desert near the Israeli border.

A spokesman for the Jordanian government said there had been no unauthorized crossing of the border and that all Israeli citizens were treated with full respect in Jordan.

The spokesman said that the Jordanian government had taken all necessary measures to prevent unauthorized crossings of the border and that all Israeli citizens were treated with full respect in Jordan.

DEAR ABBY:

Common Law Not Enough for Her

By ARICIA VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive, intelligent, affectionate woman of 23. My problem is that I am ready to marry and settle down. If two people really love each other, a few words mumbled by a minister aren't going to make the union any more sacred.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a word that means 'junk' when nothing is in order? If there isn't, I think there should be. It's a word that describes something that isn't worth anything. I've been using it for years and I think it fits the bill perfectly.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 32 years old and I don't have a job. I don't know what to do next. I've tried everything and I just can't seem to find anything. I feel like I'm stuck in a rut.

DEAR ABBY: It is my problem that my life is so empty. I feel like I'm living a life that is meaningless. I don't know what I'm supposed to do with my life. I feel like I'm just Existing and nothing more. I feel like I'm a waste of space.

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I started dating a man who was separated from his wife. We've been together ever since. I love him and I want to marry him. But he's still legally married. What should I do?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been living together for two years. We have two children and we love each other very much. But we can't afford to get married. What should we do?
Industrialist Says Tech School Not Doing Right Job

Mr. Putz, industrialist who operates a small mill in Lewiston, last night that the Winona Area Vocational Technical School was not "teaching the people how to do their jobs," would not say clearly what impact the school was having on the economy of the area, nor was he clear about what he expected the school to do.

Mr. Putz, who also is president of the Chamber of Commerce and is an advocate for technical education, said it was a "good idea" to have a vocational school in the area.

"But," he said, "the school is not doing its job. It's not teaching the people how to do their jobs. It's not teaching them to be productive members of society."

The school, which was established in 1958, has been criticized by some area residents for not being responsive to the needs of industry.

Mr. Putz said he had been in contact with the school's administration and had offered to help them improve their curriculum. But he said he had not been successful in getting his suggestions accepted.

"I have been in touch with the school's administration," he said, "and I have offered to help them improve their curriculum. But they have not been willing to accept my suggestions."

Mr. Putz said he was concerned about the future of the school and the area's economy.

"I am concerned about the future of the school and the area's economy," he said. "I think we need a vocational school, but it needs to be more responsive to the needs of industry."

Mr. Putz said he hoped to meet with the school's administration again soon to discuss the matter.

Mr. Putz also said he was concerned about the quality of education at the school.

"I am concerned about the quality of education at the school," he said. "I think we need better teachers and a better curriculum."

Cary Decides It's Time to Retire

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Has Cary Grant, who just turned 65, decided he should retire because he's too old to get the male lead in a big screen adventure film? A Cary Grant spokesman said yes, but Grant's choice to retire is based on considerations other than age.

The 65-year-old actor, who has spent most of his career as a romantic lead, told friends recently that he had mixed feelings about continuing his career. The actor, who has made more than 50 films, said he was weary of playing the same type of role again and again.

Grant's decision was made in consultation with his wife, Dyan Cannon, and his friends. The couple, who have been married for 15 years, have been considering the actor's retirement for some time.

Grant's spokesman said the actor's decision to retire was not based on age alone. The actor has been working hard in recent years and has appeared in several films.

Grant's decision to retire was made in consultation with his wife, Dyan Cannon, and his friends. The couple, who have been married for 15 years, have been considering the actor's retirement for some time.

Few Anxious to Pay More to Aid Cities' Plight

By LOUIE HARRIS

America has just reached the point where the national government's economic plans do not clearly have that state of progress where more people are willing to pay taxes to aid cities in paying for needed public works.

The fact that the public will pay for a state of progress towards which it is willing to pay taxes to aid cities is highly questionable. Even at the present time, however, it is possible to make a case for this position.

The state of progress that cities will be able to make will depend upon the state of progress that the state of the economy is able to make. If the state of the economy is able to make a case for the state of progress that cities will be able to make, then the cities will be able to make a case for the state of progress that the state of the economy is able to make. This is highly questionable.

Dock Strike May Cause Shortage Of Baseballs

New York, N.Y. - If there is a shortage of baseballs next spring, the pitch might blame the New York City Board of Education, an influential group in the city's baseball community. The Board of Education is the home of the Little League, which runs the Little League World Series, the biggest baseball event in the city.

But the two education leaders behind the strike believe they have found a solution to the shortage problem. They say they have discovered a way to increase the supply of baseballs, and they plan to use that solution next year.

Both leaders, the President of the New York City Board of Education and the President of the Little League, say they have talked to baseball officials and they believe they have found a way to increase the supply of baseballs. MILWAUKEE—Four persons, including Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Olson, Mrs. Olson and two others in a National Guard plane crash at Gen. Mitchell Field, were killed Wednesday night when a great inferno was set off by the explosion of a propeller-driven engine and that he was well acquainted with the victims. He described the plane as one of the crewmen on the tanker early Wednesday for the return trip to Milwaukee and flew from there to Fort Logan, Colo., where he stayed for 11 days before going to Key West and he and his crew were on their way back to Milwaukee. Nowes said the plane, en route to the 30-year-old Olson, adjutant general of the Wisconsin Army and Air Guard, was Negroes.

In 1967 he opposed a reorganization of the Wisconsin Air National Guard into three units. Olson, who operated a resort community in the state, warned that the plane was going to be the first to enter the field and that he was well acquainted with the victims. Trempealeau Red Cross Sets Fund Campaign

EVERYDAY News, Winona, Minnesota — Twenty-two House members have joined in sponsoring a bill to establish a national health education program, which would include a campaign to reduce the nation's dependence on tobacco. The bill, introduced by Rep. Robert Reilly, D-Minn., is designed to increase public awareness of the health hazards associated with smoking.

An article in the Winona Daily News discusses the importance of public health education and the role of the Red Cross in promoting health awareness. The newspaper features a story about the Trempealeau County Red Cross membership and fund campaign, emphasizing the need for funds to support various Red Cross services. The article highlights the work of area residents in supporting the Red Cross, including the efforts of Mrs. William McConnon, a Missouri resident who has been re-elected president of the organization.

The article also mentions the work of the Trempealeau County Cancer Council, which is responsible for planning the membership and fund campaign. The council is led by officers elected at a planning meeting held at the courthouse in Whitehall Tuesday night.

Ask Cigarette Health Warnings to Be Toughened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed national cigarette-label regulations intended to make smoking more dangerous to a smoker's health are likely to be tougher than originally planned. The regulations are designed to inform consumers about the risks of smoking, including the dangers of lung cancer.

The regulations are aimed at helping smokers quit and encouraging non-smokers to avoid the habit. The new regulations would also be required to state that smoking is a major cause of cancer.

Advance Payment Question Unsettled

LEWISTON, Minn. — Sign-up to theFarmers' Cooperative National Bank ended Friday and although the bank has received no credit line approval, it appears the advance payment plan will be made available to farmers in the district. The farmers' cooperative is a member of the Farm Credit System and serves as a lending institution for farmers in the district.

"The credit line approval has not been received yet," said a spokesperson for the bank. "But we anticipate that it will be authorized soon and the advance payments will be made available to farmers."

The spokesperson said that the credit line approval process is the final step in the approval process for the advance payment plan. Once the credit line is approved, the bank will be able to extend the loans to farmers.

The spokesperson added that the amount of the loan will be determined by the amount of crops produced and the market conditions at the time of the loan. The loans will be used to finance the production of crops and will be repaid once the crops are harvested.

"We are looking forward to being able to help farmers with their financial needs," said the spokesperson. "Our objective is to provide a reliable and affordable source of credit to farmers in the district."

The spokesperson concluded that the bank is committed to working with farmers to ensure that they have the resources they need to be successful in their business.

Trojans Get Chance To Avenge Only Loss

HUBBARD, Minn. — Only one team in the Minnesota Basketball Conference has ever been able to win a second game against the Norton Trojans. The Trojans, who lost to the St. Cloud Cobras in the first game, were able to avenge the loss in the second game, happy instead of unhappy this time.

The Trojans, who played their first conference game of the season against the Cobras, have now won two games in a row, and are looking forward to their next game against a tough opponent.

Statewide Snow Emergency Called

ST. PAUL (AP) - Minnesota Gov. Rudy Perge, in a speech yesterday, declared a state of emergency in all counties in the state and ordered all state workers to report to their offices. He also announced plans to request federal aid to assist areas affected by the snowfall.

The governor's action has been prompted by the heavy snowfall that has blanketed much of the state in recent days, leading to widespread closures of schools and businesses. Perge said he would vigorously enforce the state's snow emergency regulations and urged residents to cooperate in the efforts to clear roads and other areas affected by the weather.

Proxmire Asks Assurances From Leonard

Senator Proxmire (D-Wis.) asked the Senate Commerce Committee to investigate the extent of corporate influence over the regulatory agencies. "I am concerned that the agencies are not independent enough," he said. "Federal regulators have a tough job, and they need to be able to make decisions without fear of retribution." Proxmire said he had received assurances from the head of the Office of Management and Budget that the White House would not interfere with the FTC's antitrust probe of United Airlines.

Postal Workers In Britain Go Out On Strike

LONDON (AP) - Postal workers in Britain went on strike yesterday, stopping mail delivery for the first time in 50 years. The strike was called by the National Union of Postmen and Women, which said the government's plans to privatize the post office were not being adequately addressed by the industry.

The strike, which has been planned for several weeks, is expected to last for 24 hours. The union said it would be reviewing the impact of the strike this evening and deciding whether to extend it.

Senator to 'Wait and See' About Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senator Robert Kennedy, Democrat from New York, said he would wait and see whether President Nixon is fit to serve another term. "I think it's too soon to decide," Kennedy said. "I want to wait and see how he does in the next few months." Kennedy said he would not rule out running for president himself if Nixon were to resign or be impeached.

Blue Chips Help Market In Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) - The blue chip stocks helped lift the market yesterday, with the Dow Jones industrial average rising 10 points. "The blue chips are starting to lead the way," said a Wall Street analyst. "They're showing more confidence in the economy." The blue chip stocks, which have been lagging behind the rest of the market, were up across the board, with IBM leading the way.
