North Korea Says U.S. May Have Survived

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon today played down the shooting down of a U.S. reconnaissance plane over North Korea and said there was "no compelling evidence" the plane violated that country's airspace.

Nixon also said the U.S. government was "not aware" of reports that two of the three U.S. pilots who were reported killed in the incident were actually captured.

The president's comments came as the U.S. government prepared to send a high-level delegation to North Korea to try to secure the release of the captured pilots.

The U.S. government has been under increasing pressure to respond to North Korea's claims that the U.S. plane was shot down in its airspace.

North Korea has said that the plane violated its airspace and that the three crew members were captured.

In response, the U.S. government has said that the plane was shot down by North Korean forces and that the crew members were killed.

The incident has raised questions about the U.S. government's ability to respond effectively to North Korean aggression.

The U.S. government has been under increasing pressure to respond more forcefully to North Korea's provocations.

The U.S. government has said that it is considering a range of options, including military action.

However, the president has emphasized the importance of diplomatic engagement and has called for a "calm and measured" response.

New Courthouse Building Estimated at $1.5 Million

The new courthouse for Winona County will not be an estimated $1 million, according to preliminary estimates presented to the county building committee by County Auditor Dolores Hauge and County Treasurer John Olson.

The committee's meeting was held at the courthouse in Winona.

The committee decided to go with the 1993-1994 Smith/Walton architectural firm, which designed the original courthouse building.

Winona County Sheriff Lyle Allen said the new courthouse would cost about $1.5 million.

The committee also discussed the possibility of using the old courthouse building as a temporary courthouse while the new one is being built.

The old courthouse was built in 1911 and has served the county well, but it is no longer able to handle the growing population and increasing number of cases.

Allen said the new courthouse would be able to handle up to 10,000 cases per year, compared to the current courthouse's capacity of 5,000.

The new building would also include a larger courtroom, more space for offices, and more modern facilities for law enforcement.

The new courthouse is expected to be completed in 2023, with construction beginning in early 2022.

Wabasha Watches River Go Down

WINONA, Minn. -- The level of the lake at the mouth of the river has gone down, but it is still too early to tell if the river will return to normal.

The Mississippi River fell below its flood stage on Sunday, marking the start of the river's normal flow.

The river has been at flood stage since early March, and the level has remained above normal for several weeks.

The river is expected to continue to fall over the next few days, but it is still too early to say when the river will return to normal.

The river is currently at 630.5 feet above sea level, which is 14.5 feet below flood stage.

The river is expected to reach flood stage by early next week, but it is still too early to say when the river will return to normal.

New Tensions in Vietnam

by DOUGLAS K. ZWEITZ

INCREASED Tensions in Vietnam are the result of more than a simple international incident involving the United States, the Soviet Union and the Viet Cong. What has been called a "black issue" has been brought to the fore by a military operation that has implications for the entire region. The operation, which involved the destruction of a Viet Cong supply base in the central highlands of Vietnam, has been followed by a number of incidents that have raised questions about the stability of the region.

The operation, code-named "Operation Black Bird," was launched in late 1970 with the objective of disrupting the Viet Cong's supply lines and disrupting their military operations. It involved the deployment of U.S. and Vietnamese forces against a Viet Cong-held area known as the "Black Triangle." The operation was carried out with the support of the South Vietnamese government and was part of a broader strategy to contain the Viet Cong's growing capabilities.

The operation was controversial from the outset, with some in the United States questioning the wisdom of engaging in such a military operation in a region where the fighting was already intense.

The operation's immediate success was evident in the destruction of the Viet Cong supply base. However, the operation's long-term impact remains uncertain, with some fearing that it could lead to a further escalation of the conflict.

The "black issue" has been the subject of much debate and analysis, with some arguing that it could lead to a wider conflict in the region and others arguing that it is a localized operation with limited implications.

AN EDITOR'S OUTLOOK

A Matter of Relevance

by JIMMIE LLOYD JONES

The term "black" is often used to refer to a particular ethnic group, but its meaning and implications vary widely. The use of the term "black" has been a source of controversy and conflict, with some arguing that it is a positive term that celebrates African-American culture and others arguing that it is a negative term that reflects racial oppression.

The term "black" has been used in a variety of contexts, from describing a particular skin color to referring to a particular cultural identity. In each case, the term has been subject to interpretation and context.

In recent years, there has been a growing awareness of the importance of language and terminology in shaping social and political relations. This has led to a greater emphasis on the use of inclusive and respectful language, and a greater concern with avoiding terms that reflect negative stereotypes.

In conclusion, the term "black" is a complex and multifaceted term that has been subject to interpretation and context. It is important to be mindful of the implications of the term and to use it in a way that is respectful and inclusive.

Most Members Of Rollingstone Council Quit

ROLLINGSTONE, Minn. — Mayor Reinhard Kohner and Harold Stoos and My les Vaughn, trustees, resigned at a special meeting of the Rollingstone Village Council Friday night. The resignations leave only Al Hivers on the council, apparently without power to act on anything because a quorum of three out of the four council members — which includes the Mayor — is required to take action.

Mayor Kohner was appointed about three weeks ago to fill the unexpired term of Herbert Speltz Sr., who resigned. He announced his resignation first because of disputes over a trail er court ordinance and other differences among residents of the village. Stoos and Vaughn resigned after Jerry Speltz, who was in the audience, read a letter from the Winona County attorney, which he had sought, stating that officers of the fire department cannot serve on the council. Stoos is chief and Vaughn secretary.

Then Lambert Bronk, who had said he would take the appointment of clerk to replace Cyrus Speltz, who had resigned April 11, said he would decline because he is a member of the fire department. Bronk was to have been sworn in Friday night.

How to Clean a Wet Basement

Among the spring housecleaning chores will be caused by the return of warm weather, which means that your wet basement or crawl space needs attention. Here are some tips for handling these problems to be faced by many people in this area this season.

1. Preparation:
   - Safety first: Before starting any cleaning, make sure the area is safe. Turn off electricity and gas in the affected area if necessary. Wear protective gear such as gloves and eyewear.
   - Determine the extent: Assess the extent of damage and decide what needs to be done.

2. Equipment and Materials:
   - A bucket or large container
   - Broom and dustpan
   - Scrub brush
   - Squeegees or sponges
   - Plastic sheeting or tarps
   - Drying equipment (e.g., dehumidifiers)

3. Cleaning the Area:
   - Clear debris: Remove any debris or damaged materials from the area.
   - Dry the floor: Use sponges to soak up as much water as possible. Avoid using vacuum cleaners in wet areas.
   - Scrub walls and floors: Scrub walls and floors with soap and water to remove dirt and grime. Rinse thoroughly.

4. Drying:
   - Use dehumidifiers: Place dehumidifiers in the area to help dry the space.
   - Air out: Open windows and doors to allow air circulation.
   - Monitor humidity: Use a hygrometer to monitor humidity levels, and continue drying until the area is dry.

5. Preventing Future Issues:
   - Install waterproofing: Consider installing waterproofing systems to prevent future water intrusion.
   - Check for leaks: Regularly check the area for leaks or cracks in the foundation.

6. Final Thoughts:
   - Check with professionals: If the problem is severe, consider consulting with a professional cleaner or contractor.
   - Regular maintenance: Keep up with regular maintenance to prevent future issues.

Hope Sirhan’s Composite W2W2C3U1T Will Pay Dividends

LAUS ANGELES (AP) — The Sirhan ok panel, which is to meet Monday to hear the prosecution for the 15-year-old Sirhan through the 15-year-old Sirhan trial, talked with Sirhan through the 15-year-old Sirhan, before the verdict.

McConnell said he was disappointed, "They have a tough decision to make. We'll give them all the facts."

Sirhan is accused of assassinating President John F. Kennedy in 1963. The jury will determine whether he is guilty of murder and whether he should be sentenced to life in prison or to death.

Sirhan’s defense team is seeking to have the trial moved to a different location because of the publicity surrounding the case.

Sirhan has been in prison since 1964 and has been on death row ever since. He was found guilty by a jury in 1967 and sentenced to death. His case has been appealed several times.

The trial has been closely watched by the public and has drawn international attention.

Sirhan has maintained his innocence throughout the trial and has consistently maintained that he was not the assassin.

Sirhan’s family has repeatedly called for his release and has sought to have the case overturned.

The case has been characterized by intense public interest and has been a subject of media attention.

Sirhan has spent most of his life in prison and has been denied parole multiple times.

The trial has been marked by numerous legal challenges, including claims of jury misconduct and violations of Sirhan’s rights.

The case has been widely viewed as a symbol of political violence and has raised questions about the nature of political assassination.

The case has also been the subject of numerous books and films, including the 1964 documentary film "The Assassination of Camelot."
College Students Show More Religious Interest

By George Counsell

NEW YORK City—The religious life of today's college students is more varied and complex than in the past. Students are exploring different religious traditions and evaluating their own beliefs. Many are seeking spiritual guidance and support in their search for meaning in life.

One of the reasons for this increased religious interest among college students is the changing cultural and social environment of the late 20th century. Other factors include the influence of mass media, the availability of alternative lifestyles, and the increased emphasis on personal growth and self-discovery.

The rise of religious interest among college students has also been fueled by the booming student movement, which has encouraged a broader exploration of spirituality. Students are becoming more interested in spirituality and are actively seeking out new religious experiences.

Gourmet Is Good Eating

By Mary Krieger, Sunday News Women's Writer

"We enjoy food. Food is what pertains our families, what we need and love, the companionship we share. And, when you're the hostess of a family gathering, the menu becomes your calling card."

The idea of a gourmet cooking club is now being adopted by more and more families living in Winona. The gourmet cooking club is an organization that invites guests to their luncheon. At a recent luncheon at the Meyer home, Mrs. Meyer, left, serves soup.

Killebrew's Hit Lets Twins Tie For First Place

MINNEAPOLIS — Harmon Killebrew added another home run to his substantial collection and the Minnesota Twins tied the American League West lead.

The Twins went on to win 6-4 in 10 innings.

The Twins scored the tying run after a one-out single by Chico Carrasquel, who was intentional walked by Pittsburgh pitcher Jim Odom. After Dave Cash grounded out, Killebrew smacked a two-run drive.

Killebrew's 13th home run of the season gave the Twins a 5-4 lead. But the Pirates came back to win, 6-5 in 10 innings.

Baseball Fans Oppose Moves Changing Game

By LOUIS HARRIS

Baseball fans oppose the move to lower the pitcher's mound, which, it is said, will not only put batters on a higher plane, but also make the game more exciting. Many believe that this change will lead to more home runs. The year-round players to look forward to has risen by about 10 percent, but the fans feel that the game will lose its charm if it becomes too easy to hit home runs.

Washington, D.C. — The Negro Leagues are again high on the list of candidates for elimination. Of all the Negro League teams, the one that has been around the longest is the Brooklyn Dodgers. However, even the Dodgers' franchise has not been immune to financial problems. As a result, the team's owner has decided to discontinue operations. The players will be released or traded as the team's financial situation continues to worsen.

When asked directly to "speed up" baseball, Al Black, a former Negro League player, responded, "I don't think we need to make any changes in the game. This one new rule allowing a team to use a designated hitter every game will not have an easy task ahead of it. The players are used to hitting, and they will adjust as necessary."

On the question of whether the Negro Leagues should be disbanded, Black stated, "I think it's a good idea to discontinue operations. The league has been around for a long time, and it's time for a change."

There is no indication that the Negro Leagues are planning to make any changes to their current rulebook. However, they are keeping an eye on the major leagues and the changes they are making. The Negro Leagues believe that they have the best players in the world, and they want to keep them as long as possible. They are determined to compete against the major leagues and prove that they can win.

HARRIS ANALYSIS

The Negro Leagues are in a difficult position. They have a rich history and a dedicated fan base, but they are facing financial problems. The league is considering the option of disbanding, which would mean the end of an era. However, the players and fans are not ready to give up just yet. They believe that the Negro Leagues can still compete and be successful.

Fishermen Looking Forward to Trout Opening

Streams of Area Already Being Stocked

By LEFTY HYMES
Outdoor News

A pair of fishermen waited all winter to fish the streams of the state, and when they finally arrived at the opening, they found the trout still swimming in the water. The Wisconsin trout season opened on May 3, the same day as the Minnesota season, and fishermen in both states have been waiting for hours to get to the opening day.

According to the Wisconsin Conservation Department, the trout season in Wisconsin is mainly in streams that were planted in the fall. The following list, supplied by the department, covers all the streams that will be planted in the state:

A Symphony and Charity Too

The Winona Orchestra, which will appear in Winona April 29 under the patronage of the Winona Kiwanians Club, is an organization of some 8 symphonies in the United States. Founded in 1917 as the Winona Symphony, the orchestra gives 20 or more concerts a season. The orchestra is well known as the "symphonic voice of southern Minnesota."

The Winona Symphony is a member of the Minnesota Orchestra, which is the official orchestra of the state. The orchestra is composed of members from all parts of southern Minnesota, including Winona, Mankato, Red Wing, Albert Lea,slice, and Rochester. The orchestra is also a member of the American Symphony Orchestra League, which is the largest organization of symphony orchestras in the United States.

The orchestra is currently being sponsored by the Winona Kiwanians Club and the American Association of University Women. The orchestra is conducted by Robert Johnson, who is also the director of music at Winona State College.

Concertmaster — Robert Johnson, conductor of the Winona Orchestra, and will appear with the group April 29 at the Winona State College Auditorium at 8 p.m. The orchestra will be sponsored by the Winona Kiwanians Club.

Larger dogs enrolled in the obedience training class at Fountain City, Wis., remain in a "down-stay" position in a circle around their masters during one of the 12 one-hour training sessions. Obedience Training Sessions Near End

Graduation Ahead for Dog Classes

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday Editor

SCHOOL will be ending and graduation night — complete with diplomas and the introduction of honor students but a minimum of speeches — coming up in a couple of weeks for two "special education" classes in Winona and Fountain City, Wis.

The graduates will be some 50 dogs enrolled for the past 10 weeks in obedience training classes conducted an hour each week at Winona Senior High School's east concourse and at the Fountain City auditorium.

The primary purpose of the 2½ months of class instruction is to teach dogs who, with one exception, have never been exposed to a formal routine of obedience training — a number of those enrolled had never worn a collar before attending the first class — to respond correctly to certain basic commands.

Organized principally for the benefit of area 4-H Club members engaged in dog training projects and opened on a limited basis to the general public to fill the classes, the courses of instruction have been directed by two qualified professional dog trainers and handlers: Mrs. Milton Stuber who, with her husband operates the Stuber Farm and Kennels at Fountain City, and Junior Larson, Cochrane, Wis., who served as a dog obedience instructor in the Army.

HELLO DERE! . . "Students" in the dog obedience training classes at Fountain City and Winona are of varied size, color and lineage and range from animals weighing more than 100 pounds to miniatures that are little more than a handful. A St. Bernard owned by Joyce Johnson, 1763 Wincrest Dr., gets acquainted with a Pomeranian owned by Judy Stuber, Fountain City, Wis. Judy's mother, Mrs. Milton Stuber, is one of two instructors for the courses and assists at the training sessions. At 15 she's a junior 4-H Club dog project leader and has brought two dogs to companion dog ratings. Her sister, Janice, has trained three dogs through the basic course and a brother, Steve, is training his second dog.

Goals set for the dogs when they began their novice training in mid-February were the development of basic obedience skills to the point where the dog will:

- Heel — remain at heel on the handler’s left side — without exerting pressure on the leash.
- Assume a sitting position automatically when the handler stops and also to sit on command.
- Remain on command in the sit, down or standing position.
- Lie down or stand when told.
- Come when called and sit in front of the handler, then assume the heel position when instructed.
- Sit, lie or stand beside another dog without paying attention to it.
- Allow a stranger to walk up behind the dog and turn a hand over his back without the dog shying away or becoming aggressive.

The only equipment required for successful training of a dog, Mrs. Stuber and Larson assert, are a nylon or chain slip collar, a 6-foot leather or nylon leash and an owner who will devote at least a half hour a day to the training of his dog.

The four essentials in dog training, they emphasize, are the "Four P’s" — Patience, persistence, prompt correction and praise and more praise.

"A trained dog," says Mrs. Stuber, "is a happy dog and so is his owner. Obedience training is valuable because it adds to the pleasure and satisfaction of the dog’s owner, contributes to the dog’s happiness, well being and safety and makes the dog a better member of the community, one who will not be an annoyance to friends and neighbors and will not be upset by the presence of other dogs and people."

Larson observed that one farmer noted that obedience training began to pay off early in the instructional period when he found that his dog after a few lessons was working better with farm animals and not simply running at will around the farm.

The dogs apparently enjoy going to school, too.

"I was talking to one woman who has her dog enrolled in the class," Mrs. Larson relates, "and she said that all she has to do is (Continued Next Page)
Large Measures of Love, Patience, Persistence

mention that they're going to the class and the dog starts jumping around really happy."

The extent to which the members of the two classes have learned their lessons will be seen at the graduation night programs May 6 and 8 at the two training centers when diplomas will be presented to those who have successfully mastered the basic elements of the course and trophies for the highest-ranking dog handled by an adult and a youth.

An adjunct to the completion of the training period will be a Fun Match May 11 at Farmer's Community Park open to Winona County 4-H members, participants in the training classes at Winona and Fountain City and for 4-H members of the tri-state region. Competition will be in three classes for 4-H and youth handlers and in four classes for members of kennel clubs in La Crosse, Sparta and Rochester.

Mrs. Stuber and Larson, incidentally, are interested in organization of an obedience club in Winona and ask that anyone interested in participating in such an activity contact them.

During the obedience class sessions in Winona and Fountain City, Mrs. Stuber, generally, worked one ring of smaller dogs and Larson supervised training in a ring of large dogs, with all of the class members working together for certain periods. Those enrolling in the course were told at the outset of the importance of continuing training between class sessions.

"At least 30 minutes a day should be spent in working with the dog, reinforcing the training given at the class meeting," Mrs. Stuber explains. "Equally important, however, is never to overwork your dog, to try to teach him everything all at once."

"It's essential," Larson adds, "that the dog be made to carry out the command over and over until he makes the desired response with no delay. Whenever the dog successfully executes a command, reward him with all the praise possible since this is the only way of his knowing he's done right."

The two trainers agree on the importance during the training period of only one person handling the dog and of never instructing the dog to do something the handler knows the animal is incapable of or insufficiently skilled to do.

"The command should always be given," Larson emphasizes, with the same word or words — never use long sentences to give a command — and the same tone of voice. A dog can't understand words, only sounds. Never punish or correct the dog unless you're sure that he understands what you want him to do.

"He must learn that reward will follow promptly for every action done properly and, likewise, that punishment — a jerk on the choke chain — will follow every act of disobedience. To correct or punish a dog at any time other than immediately after a wrong act is cruel and not training."

Larson's advice to every dog owner is, "Have patience with your dog; he's probably more of a success as a dog than you are as a trainer. He wants to do right but your job is to get him to know in his language what you want him to do."
Will Help Develop a Happier, Well-Trained Dog

THIS IS HOW . . . Mrs. Don Abrams, whose German shepherd is enrolled in the Winona class, is told by instructor Junior Larson how to train her dog to assume the down position. In a sequence of commands by the owner the dog is told first to stop at a standing position, then sit and finally assume the down position.

LESSON LEARNED . . . His German shepherd remains beside owner Robert Klagge, 4550 8th St., Goodview, in a down position at the head of a lineup of large dogs in the high school concourse. Klagge's son sits in the background at the right watching the performance of the family pet.

EARLY PHASE . . . One of the first commands the dog is taught to obey at the obedience training school is to sit. This photograph taken at one of the early sessions in the 12-week course shows a group of small dogs lined up after being instructed to sit in position at the owners' left heels. The instructors, Mrs. Stuber and Larson, now are interested in organizing a dog obedience club in Winona and prospective members may obtain additional information by contacting them.

Setting the Fashion Record Straight

I realize that with the exception of people in the garment industry, and those devoted to the following of fashion trends, most of you do not read Women's Wear Daily. But you know the daily fashion newspaper I speak of. It is concerned with reporting what Jacqueline Onassis is wearing, how the Duke and Duchess of Windsor look, and in between the lines it also reports the news of the fashion industry.

DEAR ABBY:

Expensive Lesson Passed on Free

By ARIBAL D VAR BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and in a pack of trouble. I was arrested for burglary and other charges. This was not my first time, so I am locked up here in Cambridge, Maine, awaiting trial. I would like to express some of the things I have learned in the 121 days I have been here.

One is that you should listen to your parents as they will never steer you wrong. I never got along too good with my dad. Every time he tried to talk to me we got into a heated argument, but now I realize if I had listened to him, I wouldn't be here.

I would also like to tell kids, don't quit school to go out and make money. I did, and look where I ended up.

Also, there are no short cuts. A guy needs all the education he can get. And another thing. Don't make your mistakes on other people. My friends showed me how to break the law, but I am the one who now must take full responsibility for my actions. I will probably get sent up to St. Cloud, but thanks, Abby, for letting me say this. Also, I want to thank Sheriff Erickson. He is a swell guy. He let me use his typewriter to write to you.

Sincerely,

THE CAMBRIDGE PRISON

DEAR ABBY: You are right, of course. So be to all you mothers out there: If you want to keep the lines of communication open between you and your children, never — but NEVER betray a confidence.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a formal wedding. Immediately following the ceremony, the photographer (a professional, hired for the occasion) said, "All right, I want a picture of the wedding party.

The pianist and soloist started to join the group. The photographer said, "Sorry, but you too are not in the wedding party." The pianist appeared somewhat miffed, but sat down. The soloist ignored the photographer and got into the picture anyway.

My question: Are the musicians part of the wedding party?

NOSY

DEAR NOSY: Not in my book (Or Amy's either.).

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ACTOR-AT LIBERTY": Pride goeth before a fall. A small role is better than a long lead.

Reflections In a Fashion Mirror

THE PROM DRESS CIRCA 1969.

Prom Night fashion finally sheds the net and tulle and satin and bows.

THE PROM NIGHT HAIRDO

I am bothering to tell you all this, because recently a particular item in a Woman's Wear Daily column called "Eye" caught my attention. It dealt with what the prep school students are wearing. That's right! The item was actually concerned with what Johnny and Susie are wearing away at school.

Now, I am passing this on to you with a purpose. I want to put certain things in perspective that have gone ignored and undefined for much too long. And that is, that although things long do put their special dent in fashion in the upper reaches of haute couture age does not dictate the next designer look.

Hence, I thought you might enjoy the way that famous old fashion rag, WWD, brushed off the Prep Look circa.

Even though the sweet young things seem to have a new outfit for every occasion, and are supposedly sophisticated and always "with it" — there's more. There are the fabulous designer creations, the dramatic coordinates, the super-chic looks that demand the elegance and dimension which years add to a woman's image — to say nothing of her income. And that's all in favor of the over-thirty set.

So take advantage, All American Woman, and stop looking around in teen-age boutiques.

Half the reason why the haute couture is dying is because the women it has created for have lost their sense of self. The other half, of course, is that haute couture has also lost its sense of destiny and is kidding itself as well.

Instead of squeezing into your daughter's bellbottoms and minis, wear your own thing, Mom. Because only YOU can wear a Chanel suit, a simple knit, the custom-made coat and dress.

There is so much you can lay claim to, why settle for less?

Don't lose sight of your horizons just because the atmosphere is cluttered with youthquake fashions. It may, perhaps, make headlines every pant leg wide, the hemline drops, and all of us fashion heroes may be guilty of camp following, but that doesn't mean we've lost sight of what a woman in her prime looks like. After all, she's what's on our minds when we dream up a look to last.

THE SHERIFF... Jean Hackett and James Garner share starring honors in SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF, now at the State.

‘Fisherman’ Opens Wednesday

‘Charly’ Ending at Cinema

Cliff Robertson appears in the role which won him an Academy Award as “Best Actor” in CHARLY, completing its extended run Tuesday at the Cinema. Robertson is seen as a mentally retarded young man who is changed by experimental brain surgery into a brilliant person and then experiences some unforeseen consequences of the operation.

Opening Wednesday at the Cinema is THE SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN, starring Anthony Quinn. Quinn is cast as a Pepe of a future era who makes a monumental decision in a world threatened by nuclear war and returns the Church to its original meaning.

‘Illustrated Man’ Booked For Winona

The Rod Steiger starring vehicle THE ILLUSTRATED MAN, is booked for showing beginning Wednesday at the Winona Theatre.

Playing through Tuesday at the Winona is ANGEL IN MY POCKET.

Earthen Serve Apes As Slaves

The science-fiction story of a space expedition that lands on a planet controlled by apes who take the Earth people as slaves is told in PLANET OF THE APES, showing as a part of a double-feature attraction through Tuesday at the Sky Vu Theatre. Susan Hayward stars as the Old West comedy, SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF, featured through Tuesday at the State.

Garner plays a man who rides into a Western town where gold has been discovered and suddenly finds himself named sheriff.

James Garner is starred in the Old West comedy, SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF, featuring through Tuesday at the State.

As Slaves

The story traces Miss Lawrence’s career from 1906 to 1940. A solemn child and the daughter of struggling hoofer, she moves up the theatrical ladder from singing jobs in cheap pubs and dancer halls to chorus girl and, eventually, to Charlton reviews and Noel Coward plays.

Show Encompasses Smith Career

Sculpture, Painting Linked

The linkage between painting and sculpture which was achieved by the late David Smith is demonstrated amply in a retrospective exhibition of his works at the Guggenheim Museum in New York City. Smith, who was born in 1906 and was killed in an automobile accident in 1965, started his career as a painter, but soon became a self-taught sculptor specializing in welded metal. In his later years especially, his chief affinity was with the abstract expressionist painters of the New York school. He has been termed by some of their critics the best sculptor of his generation, as of the century, ranking as an artist with such painters as Pollock.

MEW YORK (AP) — The career of David Smith is encompassed in this show, which was organized by the museum's associate director, Mr. A. F. Fry, who also prepared the catalog. There are many forms of expression to choose from: examples of Smith's works.

After it leaves the Guggenheim on May 19, it will go to the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. There are three periods that span Smith's development — in his relationship with such European developments as cubism, surrealism, and Constructivism: in the 1940s a symbolic and expressive style, and after that a series of large, monumental works that used new materials and the employment of color in a more abstract form, as a well, a herald that the present trend toward minimal art.

Fry notes that "Smith's beginning as a painter is his life's work as a sculptor: without this element of the painter, he would never have been capable of expanding and evolving the medium of sculpture as he did in his mature years.

"THIS FIRST works," says Fry, "are in his greatest work. Subsequent works of the 1940s reveal Smith's attempts to combine his own techniques as a metalworker and welder with the cubic sculptural style of Picasso and Gonzalez, the surrealist movement of Giacometti and the tenets of constructivism."

In his early and middle periods Smith created standing figures of human size and faintly human shape, but he changed his style to a larger scale. Through it all he retained a relationship with the two-dimensional plane of painting by putting through three-dimensional figure into it a "space frame."

Referring to Smith's later years, Fry notes, "His work was that of the dreamer. He was the dreamer's pupil."

For what the dreamer discovers, Fry declares, that "Smith's sculpture with its factitious shapes, becomes the language of the dreamer's world, conveying in a symbolically brilliant way the truth of his ideal world."

AMERICAN STORY: Memoirs and Reflections, Bruce Gould and Beatrice Blackman Gould. The story of a young couple from Iowa moves to New York in the 1920s, when the city is being remade by the Roaring Twenties. This is a nostalgic and romantic tale of love and adventure, with a rich and varied cast of characters, including famous writers, artists, and celebrities. The book is filled with anecdotes and stories of the day-to-day life of the characters.

THE AMERICAN CITY: A Source Book of Urban Imagery, edited by A. B. Straus. This book provides a fascinating and informative look at the history and culture of American cities, with insights into their development and evolution. The book is divided into several sections, each focusing on a different aspect of urban life.

THE JUST WAR: Force and Political Responsibility, Paul Ramsey. In this collection of essays, Ramsey discusses the morality of the use of force in political situations. He calls for a more just and humane approach to the use of military force, one that is guided by ethical principles.

THE SPLENDID PAUPER, Allen Andrews. "The Leisenhaupt Family" is the story of the Americans, после the circle of the Civil War, the story of the family's financial struggles and their eventual success.

THE CULTURE VULTURES OR WHATEVER BECOMES OF THE CLOPPERS? Three Ways to New Clothes? Ania Levy. Here is a refreshing investigation of the world of fashion, with insights into the latest trends and the history of clothing.

THE 900 DAYS, Salisbury. The story of the Cuban Missile Crisis, with a focus on the negotiations that led to the resolution of the crisis.

THE MONEY GAME, Smith. The story of a group of people who are forced to live on the edge of poverty, and their struggle to survive.

THE ARM'S OF CRUMP, Manchester. The story of a group of people who are involved in a political scandal, and their efforts to clear their names.

MISS CRAIG'S 21-DAY SHAPE-UP PROGRAM FOR MEN AND WOMEN, Craig. A guide to fitness and health, with exercises and diet plans for men and women.

THIRTEEN DAYS, Kennedy. The story of the Cuban Missile Crisis, with a focus on the negotiations that led to the resolution of the crisis.

"Drop Out Dream" by Brian Wilson, Putnam, $6.95. At 46, novelist Wilson was fascinated, a heavy drinker, and pretty well fed up with his friends. What was worse, he was getting hung up in his writing, right at a time when he was having tax troubles. But that was a couple of years ago. Wilson made the break out of this mad, mad world and did what he always wanted to do, live aboard a boat — not just for a cruise, but as a regular home.

FIRST HE LET the lease expire on the Manhattan apartment he was living in and began looking for a boat, anything to think about other than the taxes. He found a small, diesel-powered, 46-foot yacht. Wilson had to gain experience in handling the yacht as he sailed the Bahama islands of the Bahamas. But first he was living, and began to find his way around with a light hearted evening when you get tired of watching old movies.

NEXT WEEK: A more personal and exciting article on the Mafia.

NEXT WEEK: A more personal and exciting article on the Mafia.
The high water emergency of the past week in the Winona area didn't stem the flood of Prizewords mail which again reached near-record proportions. Among the thousands of entries not one perfect one could be found.

That means, of course, that the $500 reward offered for a winner each week stays in the jackpot which bulges even higher today with the $10 that's added each week there isn't a winner.

THE ENTIRE $800 will be picked up by the one player who comes up with a perfect entry in this week's word game.

If there are two or more winners the prize money will be divided equally.

To be eligible for a prize an entry must be mailed in an envelope bearing 6 cents postage and a postmark of not later than midday Tuesday.

Be a Beauty Shaper!

By REBA and BONNIE CHURCHILL

With over 40 million women participating in swimming and water sports, the beauty challenge (and competition) demands action. After all, most of those bikini figures don't just happen! They're the result of special effort which includes a plan-ahead program of torso bends, leg lifts and body twists. A favorite routine, illustrated by actress Deanna Lund, utilizes a yardstick as an exercise aid. Place ruler on floor, then stand behind it with feet 22 inches apart. Raise right arm overhead, as you bend to the left. Slide left arm down left leg. To increase lateral stretch, really reach with right arm. Alternate sides; rehearse 10 times.

ANOTHER slim-down, skin-up workout begins by kneeling. Lean forward and place hands on yardstick, spacing them about 14 inches apart. Now that you're on "all fours," bring left knee forward and try to touch it to chin. Hold for the count of four, then push it to the rear, straightening and lifting as high as possible. Tilt head upward, so that chin, chest, abdomen, hips and limbs receive equal attention. Maintain position for a count of two before returning to original pose. Alternate limbs and try three more times.

A cinch to compliment those nipped-in swimsuit styles is this twist 'n' turn tune-up. Kneel on left leg, with right one extended, so foot rests flat on floor. Now, grasp ruler and swing it from side-to-side. Deanna, who co-stars in the 20th TV series, "Land of the Giants," repeated exercise 10 times. For maximum benefit, keep shoulders erect, yardstick high, head level, and knees stationary. Practice expanding the arc of your reach, so that mid-section receives the streamlining action.

Jean Redig

Jean Redig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Redig, Winona Rt. 1, and a senior at Cotter High School, was a participant in an economics seminar at Lincoln, Neb. During her sophomore year she was on the B honor roll and considers participation in chorus concerts among her most valuable experiences in high school.

She has been a member of the chorus two years and the Library Club one year and her favorite subject is Spanish.

She enjoys travel, her favorite author is Ernest Hemingway, her hobbies include sewing, training animals and playing the guitar and she likes folk music. Jean is a member of Immaculate Conception Church at Winson and its Young People's Club and a member of the 4-H Club. She has one brother and five sisters.

After graduation from high school Jean plans to attend the Winona Area Vocational Technical School.

LOFQUIST'S MIRACLE MAIL
excellent performers who were in the smash hit "The Great White Hope," a favorite to walk off with Best Actor honors (a scene from the play is scheduled for the telecast). Jones' main competition comes from two Englishmen, Alec McCowen as the man who imagines himself promoted from a Jewish businessman who is ar-nned in London by Israeli agents and accused of being an Eich- mann-type mass murderer in "The Man in the Glass Booth." We were completely overwhelmed by all three actors and find a choice quite difficult. Considerably, all four plays represented in the Best Actor category are also nominated for Best Play which only adds to our confusion. We finally gave the nod to Pleasence for "Glass Booth" because we thought the character written by author Robert Shaw did not come off on paper and could not have made it on stage without the theatrically-exciting combination of Pleasence and di-tector Harold Pinter, who also got out vote as "Best Director." For Best Play we went for "Hadren VII" by a footlight over "Great White Hope" because we found the latter too dependent on over-theatrical staging in many sequences.

A final ironic note on the "Best Play" and "Best Actor" category: If you are coming to New York and can only see one show, choose the one of the three leaders which we did not vote for, "The Great White Hope," because we sincerely think you'll enjoy it more than the other two. Naturally you'll be better off if you see all three.

We are not discussing musical categories here because the opinion of a tone deaf theatregoer is hardly worth considering let alone voting on. We did not vote for "1776" because it was not worth considering let alone voting on. But one of them did chuckle, albeit with MILITARY AUSTERITY, when the lieutenant told them he expected 176 ears of corn in due season . . .

Light Source Direction
Aids or Hamper's Vision

PROBLEM: Glare.

NEEDED: Cardboard, a knife, a light bulb.

DO THIS: Cut a hole in the card slightly smaller than the bulb. Hold the cardboard around the hole, and hold the card over the end of the bulb as shown. The words may be seen clearly when the lamp is not burning, but are seen indistinctly or not at all when the light is shining through the hole.

HERE'S WHY: The eyes adjust themselves to let in the right amount of light for painless vision. Here they adjust to the bright light shining through the hole, and so do not allow enough reflected light from the card to reach the eyes.

This explains why light for reading should not come from in front of the eyes, but from over the shoulder. It explains why it is difficult to see the road when automobile headlights shine in your eyes. It explains why we do not see stars in the daytime.

In any event, try and be on hand tonight for the Tony Award telecast on NBC. Even if you don't know a Donald Pleasence from an Alec McCowen, you'll see a lively and exciting ninety minutes of entertainment.
From Old World Charm to Dramatic Modern

Set the Mood You Want With New Furnishings

Today's home furnishing offerings provide the ingredients for a room setting adapted to any taste and all living habits. Here we find furniture setting two different living room moods, conveying the warmth in the room above of the Old World and its charm and dramatizing below the modern era. The Spanish setting above is underscored by the deep tones of the sofa and chair antiqued oak trim which is continued in the bunching tables in the foreground and in the end table. The sofa features button tufting and reversible cushions for extra wear. The chair seat cushion and back are drawstring tufted for extra beauty. Both are treated to resist stains and soil, have solid oak frames and steel springs.

A smooth, soft, pillow-like sofa is the perfect choice to complete a contemporary setting. One of 30 pieces in a new collection, this sofa features rounded back pillows and smooth lines on the arms. Coverings are in a variety of natural colors, woven floral patterns, plaids and tweeds... and all are stain and soil treated for longer wear. Of solid oak construction with steel springs, the sofa has reversible back and seat cushions.
